

Ruled Destiny!

CHAPTER XX.
RULED BY DESTINY.
 "Ah! but mademoiselle has not traveled alone. Ah, no!" said Josine. "The gentleman met her at the station, yes."
 "The gentleman, you idiot!—what gentleman?" demanded Lady Betty, all eyes.
 "Milord Clifforde, miladi!" replied Josine, demurely.
 Lady Betty gazed at her open-mouthed, then turned deep crimson. "You wicked, lying girl!" she gasped.
 "Miladi!" exclaimed Josine, facing round and drawing herself to her full height.
 "You wicked girl!" repeated poor Lady Betty. "How dare you stand there and tell me such dreadful lies! Miss Carlisle gone off with Lord Clifforde!"
 "Oh, pardon, miladi!" said Josine, sweetly. "It was not I who said this, it was miladi. I only said mademoiselle met milord at the station—not that she had gone off with him."
 Lady Betty could have bitten her tongue off.
 "You wicked girl! I don't believe a word of what you say! I don't believe that Lord Clifforde was there at all!"
 Josine tried to flush, and managed to look fiercely indignant again.
 "But yes, miladi, he was!" she insisted. "I myself saw him. He traveled in the same car with mademoiselle! Ah, you do not believe me! Then ask the porter—the guard, who knows him! Inquire for yourself, miladi! Why should I tell miladi a lie? Miss Carlisle will write directly and tell miladi what I now tell her, that she went from Ballyfoe with Milord Clifforde!"
 Poor Lady Betty sat transfixed.
 Was the girl lying? It seemed impossible that she should be speaking the truth. And yet, why should she lie? What avail would lying be to her? What profit, seeing that, as she said, the truth would be known in a few hours?
 Josine held up the dinner-dress calmly.
 "Shall I assist miladi?"
 "Don't speak to me—yet! Tell me more, Josine! I—I am sorry if—if I called you names that don't belong to you; but—are you sure that it was Lord Clifforde?"
 "Ah, but certain, miladi!" said Josine, with a smile. "I know milord well. Besides, I spoke with him! But, and!—with a sudden look of compunction—"perhaps I ought not to tell! I have betrayed mademoiselle's confidence."
 Lady Betty flushed.
 "Nonsense! There is no confidence in the matter!"

"I am glad of that!" said Josine, with an air of relief; "for Miss Carlisle did offer me a large sum of money, and though I did not take it, I should not like to betray her confidence."
 Lady Betty turned pale.
 Floris fled suddenly, without a word of warning or explanation, and in the company of Bertie—Bertie, who had been her most passionate lover—and Floris had offered a large sum of money as a bribe to Josine!
 Great Heaven, what did it mean, if it did not mean that Floris had eloped with Bertie!
 From whom could the telegram have been, if not from him? As to their meeting at such an out-of-the-way place as Ballyfoe, and both going by the same train by mere coincidence, the idea was too absurd. money, and though I did not take it, I Floris had—was guilty of such dreadful treachery, what would become of Bruce? Who was to tell him? And he and his journey from Ballyfoe.
 With her head in a whirl, poor Lady Betty allowed herself to be dressed, trembling so with agitation that Josine could scarcely fasten the bracelets around her wrists.
 "Look here, Josine," she said at last, after a silence, during which the whole thing had jarred and traveled through her brain; "I don't know why Miss Floris has gone off so suddenly, but—but—there is, of course, good reason for it. Now, you don't want to chatter about it—"
 Josine interrupted with a smile.
 "Miladi, I never chatter about anything."
 "You—you are a good girl," said poor Lady Betty; "and you may have that yellow satin dress you admire so much—"
 "Oh, miladi!" gratefully.
 "Yes—and—and for goodness' sake don't let Lady Blanche pump you!" exclaimed poor Lady Betty.
 "Certainly not!" responded Josine, with a twinkle in her black eyes.
 "And now I'll go down—and what I'm to say, the goodness only knows!" groaned Lady Betty. "Oh, how I wish Bruce was at home, and yet—no, I don't!" she added, with a shudder.
 She went down to dinner and was at once assailed by inquiries after Miss Carlisle's health; and one or two waited anxiously to hear the answer, for the news had floated up from the servants' hall that Miss Carlisle had left Ballyfoe.
 Lady Betty, surrounded by very curious eyes, put the best face she could on the matter.
 "I am sorry to say," she said, "that Miss Carlisle will write directly and tell miladi what I now tell her, that she went from Ballyfoe with Milord Clifforde!"
 There were general expressions of regret and sorrow, Floris had made herself very popular, and several of the young men looked inconsolable.
 Just then Lady Blanche glided into the room.
 She was magnificently dressed, and a hectic flush burned in her usually pale cheek.
 Her eyes glittered in the candle-light as brilliantly as the diamond tiara in her hair, and about her was a feverish air of excitement which attracted attention.
 "Is not this dreadful about Miss Carlisle, Lady Seymour?" said one of the young men, with a doleful countenance.
 "What has happened?" she inquired, looking from one to the other. "An accident?"
 "No, no," said Lady Betty, hastily. "Floris has been sent for from home; that is all."
 "Oh," said Lady Blanche, sympathetically; "I am very sorry! And she has gone? What a dreadful journey to take alone!"
 Lady Betty looked up at her quickly, but the lovely face was placid and innocent-looking as a child's, and the next moment dinner was announced.
 After dinner Floris's sudden departure was discussed from many points. The ladies, who had gathered something from their maids, were inclined to be—well—slightly suspicious; the gentlemen all deplored the absence of the universal favorite and were disconsolate.
 Lady Blanche sang and played, with the usual group of courtiers around her; but after a time, when the room grew hot, she took up her fan and strolled out on to the terrace through one of the windows.
 It was a lovely night—poor Floris was rushing through the air at fifty miles an hour, and Bruce, still at the not at him but at the path, her fan moving slowly to and fro, for though the night was chilly, a fire seemed burning within her that made her hot and feverish.

 "Yes, our plot has worked admirably," he said. "The two unconscious puppets have been set dancing to our tune, and all we had in view is accomplished. I have had my revenge, or I shall have it in full when Lord Norman returns to-morrow; and you have had—your amusement!"
 He laughed the low, sardonic laugh which was so hateful to Lady Blanche. "And now what remains, Lady Seymour? Only this—my poor reward!"
 Lady Blanche inclined her head. The faint light of the young moon fell on his face.
 It could not be other than handsome, being so like Bruce's; but there was a deviltry, a sardonic cast in it that made it hateful to her.
 The dark eyes looking up into hers seemed alight with the fire of mockery and mastery.
 "I am quite prepared to acknowledge your talents, and reward them," she said, coldly. "But is this a fitting time to discuss the matter? We may be interrupted at any moment."
 He laughed.
 "It is a time that suits me, Lady Seymour. The fact is, it is the only time I have; to-morrow I leave England forever, I hope—"
 A faint gleam of relief and satisfaction shone in her eyes, and he noticed it, and smiled.
 "Forever, I hope!" he repeated. "My career here has been a failure. On other shores I may blossom out into a great man, but my future prospects have little interest for you, Lady Blanche."
 "None!" dropped from her lips like an icicle. He laughed, as if her coldness pleased him.
 "I can quite believe that. And now, to speak of more important things. Miss Carlisle has left Lord Norman forever; there can be little doubt of that, I think. Poor young lady, I am sorry for her!"
 Lady Blanche made a slight gesture of assent.
 "Ah, yes! I should not know her if I saw her again. Well, that is a consoling thing to know, for beauty has always a good market value, and can command its own price. But what we have to speak of is my price—to put it vulgarly, Lady Blanche. I think you will admit—taking off his hat, and running his white hand through his hair—"that I have used the situation to its best advantage, and that I have played the part in the comedy of my own invention pretty fairly. At any rate, if Lord Norman does not suffer from the heartache, I shall be very much surprised."
 Lady Blanche waved the fan to and fro languidly, but with a certain air of suspense.
 "Therefore," he went on, "you will not deem me exorbitant if I ask that you give me a check for twenty thousand pounds!"
 Lady Blanche started, and closed the fan sharply.
 She was rich—immensely rich—but even immensely rich people do not think little of twenty thousand pounds!

CHAPTER XXI. THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH.

"TWENTY thousand pounds!" repeated Lady Blanche, with very haughty surprise.
 He looked at her and smiled.
 "It is a large sum," he said. "With the two thousand I have promised, on your behalf, to Josine, it is a fortune—that is to most persons—but what is it to your ladyship? A mere bagatelle! You are immensely rich; so rich that if it pleased you, you could walk into Howell & James' and purchase a set of diamonds costing twice this sum, and no questions would be asked. I think, if you consider the matter, Lady Blanche, you will admit that you may gain greater pleasure from this day's work than any diamonds, however rare, could afford you."
 Lady Blanche leaned against the stone balustrade, with a deep frown on her white brow.
 The sum demanded was enormous. And yet what could she do? When the separation of Bruce and Floris had seemed impossible, she had promised this man anything he liked to ask for if he would bring it about; and he had brought it about. She might have guessed that his price would be exorbitant, she might have been prepared for it.

French Stage Set for Venice Release Sending Men Coblens and there

WAR SUMMARY.
 Continuing their aggressive drive in the face of the impending German offensive along the west front, the French have once more attacked enemy southwest of Soissons, leading their blow from the east side of the Retz forest north of Longny. The French have advanced over front of approximately two miles, including Chavigny farm and the north and south of it. Several hundred prisoners were captured by French in their sudden attack. The assault may be linked up closely with the recent offensive operations of the Pierre Aigle, and gives the French new front line from Longny to as far as the southern limits of the Aisne, a distance of almost 8 miles. Australian troops holding position astride the Somme River east of Lens and south of Amiens have driven the Germans back on a front over a mile, and straightened out awkward angle held by the Germans since the Australians and Americans carried their lines forward in the spirited attack on July 5th. The report from Austrian headquarters in the Clus sector which is held by the Americans and between the Marne and Rheims Italian forces operating on the extreme left of the Allied line in Albania have struck hard at the Austro positions along the Volvussa, which flows into the Adriatic, about 20 miles north of the town of Avlona, one of the most important places in Southern Albania. Vienna admits the Austro-advanced positions have been drawn to their main positions. The report from Austrian headquarters probably refers to the action mentioned in the French official statement Sunday night. It was said by the office at Paris that French and Italian forces had seized the heights of Western Albania and held against counter attacks. Although movement is as yet not fully developed, it may be that a serious offensive operation has been initiated. Italian naval ships would be able to co-operate with the land forces, if the line is pushed back a very distance, a re-location of the line running over the mountains of Macedonia might be necessary. Fighting north of Avlona has been going on for at least three days, which indicates that it may be more than mere local action. Events are marked with rapidly in Russia. Since the assassination of Count Von Mirbach, the German Ambassador at Moscow, rumors of a counter revolution at Moscow come from various sources. Other despatches say that the uprising has been crushed, and several hundreds of the revolutionists arrested. Germany seems on the eve of relegating the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty to the scrap paper category, for there are indications that German troops may be sent to Moscow in the near future. There are indications of a threat of a German offensive against Italy, this time carried through by large Austrian forces led by German shock units sent that sector of the line. Large bodies of German troops are said to be concentrating preparatory to launching the blow of revenge or the utter defeat of the Austrians to enter Venetian plains.

WAR SUMMARY.

Continuing their aggressive defence in the face of the impending German offensive along the west front, the French have once more attacked the enemy south-west of Soissons, launching their blow from the east side of the Retz forest north of Longpont, the French have advanced over a front of approximately two miles, taking Chavigny farm and the slopes north and south of it. Several hundred prisoners were captured by the French in their sudden attack. This assault may be linked up closely with the recent offensive operations at St. Pierre Aigle, and gives the French a new front line from Longpont north as far as the southern limits of Ambley, a distance of almost 8 miles. Australian troops holding positions astride the Somme River east of Amiens and south of Amiens have driven the Germans back on a front of over a mile, and straightened out an awkward angle held by the Germans since the Australians and Americans carried their lines forward in their spirited attack on July 5th. Berlin mentions local attacks in the Clignon sector which is held by the Americans and between the Marne and Rheims. Italian forces operating on the extreme left of the Allied line in Albania have struck hard at the Austrian positions along the Voltrusa, which flows into the Adriatic, about 20 miles south of the town of Avlona, one of the most important places in Southern Albania. Vienna admits the Austrians advanced positions have been withdrawn to their main positions. This report from Austrian headquarters probably refers to the action mentioned in the French official statement on Sunday night. German seems on the eve of relegating the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty to the scrap paper category, for there are indications that German troops may be sent to Moscow in the near future. There are large Teutonic forces within 300 miles of Moscow, and it is reported that they are being heavily reinforced. Despatches say that Emperor William has forbidden the German Foreign Office to negotiate in any way with the Russian emissaries, and the stage seems to be set for a new act in the drama that is being played on what was formerly the eastern theatre of the war. There is a threat of a new offensive against Italy, this time directed from the Trentino front and carried through by large Austrian forces led by German shock units sent to that sector of the line. Large bodies of German troops are said to be concentrating preparatory to launching the blow of revenge or the utter defeat of the Austrians to enter the Venetian plains.

BELGIAN AVIATOR.

BELGIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS July 8.—Jas. Ollislaegers who was the leading Belgian aviator seven or eight years ago and who established various records in those days of the development of the airplane, has just been credited with downing his 50th German airplane. Since the war he has been the leader of the Belgian army air fighters. Before taking up aviation, he was a racing motor cyclist, creating many world's records on the continent.

SELLING GERMAN PROPERTY.

WASHINGTON, July 8. Alien owned property valued at a billion dollars is soon to be put on the market at a series of public sales, now being arranged by officials in the office of the alien property custodian. The first sale will be that of the property of the Orenstein-Arthur Keppel Co., at Keppel, Pa., on August 15.

DESERTING THEIR COUNTRY.

COPENHAGEN, July 8. Three more German airmen, deserting their country, have landed in a giant seaplane at Masnedo, on the island of Mazode off the south coast of Solund, Denmark, according to the Verdinberg correspondent of the Politiken.

TRIAL OPENS.

LONDON, July 8. The trial by courtmartial opened here to-day of Corporal Jos. Dowling, who landed on the Irish coast in a German collapsible boat two months ago, and who since has been a prisoner in the Tower of London. Corporal Dowling, in civilian clothes, was brought to the court in an ambulance, handcuffed to a British soldier and accompanied by a non-commissioned officer, armed with a revolver. Lord Cheylesmore presided over the court. Corporal Dowling, who is slight in build, of medium height, and of a wide-awake appearance, pleaded not guilty to the formal charges, which are under three heads. First, that while he was a prisoner of war in Germany he joined a hostile force; second, that he endeavored to induce others to join; third, that he participated in an attempt to land a hostile force in Ireland. The story told by Prosecutor Bodkin of the arrival of Corporal Dowling in Ireland follows: On April 17th, fishermen going out from a harbor on the Clare coast saw a man waving a handkerchief on an island half a mile from the shore. He said he had been washed ashore from the torpedoed ship Mississippi during the night. He paid the fishermen five shillings to land him at Ballynane pier, where he gave his name as Jas. O'Brien, and described the torpedoing of the Mississippi with great detail, stating that the ship came from Baltimore. Later in the day his collapsible boat of unaltered German manufacture, was washed ashore. Dowling had seventy pounds of English money. He said he had come from the United States to see Irish friends before joining the American Army. Prosecutor Bodkin, in his address described the German method of dealing with Irish prisoners. Those who joined the Irish Brigade were allowed distinctive uniforms, special rations and side arms, and mingled freely with the German officers and men. Those who stuck to their oaths of allegiance were treated shamefully, their rations were reduced, and every effort was made to punish them for their conduct, yet 53 was the total number of recruits the Germans secured after a long campaign among the Irish prisoners.

THEY GRIND SLOWLY.

LONDON, July 8. The murder of Count Von Mirbach has caused great excitement in Germany. The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen reports all the German papers use violent expressions in commenting upon the event, but at the same time are in agreement that the Bolshevik Government wasn't connected with the assassination. A Wolff Bureau despatch adds, the social revolutionists admit they were concerned in the plot to assassinate the Ambassador.

WHY HE WAS KILLED.

AMSTERDAM, July 8. According to a Moscow telegram from the Frankfurter Zeitung the two assassins of Count Von Mirbach fled after committing the crime, to a building occupied by the social revolutionists where they were being defended by machine guns. It is declared in the advices, the assassination of the Ambassador was to have been a signal for a big revolt under the leadership of the social revolutionists, but that this failed to materialise on the scale planned. But it seems from his account that fighting between the Bolshevik and social revolutionists is reported to be taking place in Moscow and it is mentioned that such fighting was taking place in various parts of the city when the despatch was filed, but no details were given.

SERIOUS REVOLUTION IN MOSCOW.

LONDON, July 8. A serious counter revolution has broken out in Moscow according to a semi-official Wolff Bureau telegram dated on Sunday from Moscow and transmitted to London by the Exchange Telegraph Co.'s correspondent at Copenhagen. Fighting of great severity is taking place in the streets between the Bolshevik troops and social revolutionists. A message received in London to-day from the Russian wireless service dated Sunday evening at Moscow, says that a counter revolution was started in the Russian capital but that it has been suppressed. Several hundred Russians including the social revolutionary leader Alexandrovitch have been arrested at Moscow.

GERMANY AIDS AUSTRIA.

PARIS, July 8. Germany will send three army corps to the aid of Austria, according to a Rome despatch to the Temps.

POLES FIGHTING AGAINST GERMANY.

LONDON, July 8. Polish forces are fighting the Germans in co-operation with the Czechs-Slovaks, according to the Mail's correspondent at Copenhagen. He quotes Polish newspapers as saying that the first Polish corps is engaged against the Germans and that the second corps had crossed the Dnieper and joined the Czechs-Slovaks. This latter force was surprised at night by the Germans and a four days' fight followed, the Poles capturing three thousand prisoners. The date when this battle began is not given.

ITALIANS ADVANCE.

ROME, July 8. (Official.) Italian troops yesterday advanced their front line in the region of Col-la-Pribite, the Italian war office announced to-day. In the Monte Grappa region the Italians gained further ground northward of Misskon Sunday and eight enemy airplanes were destroyed yesterday in air battles.

NO INFANTRY ACTIONS.

PARIS, July 8. There was some activity last night by the artillery on the western side of the Marne canal between the forest of Villers-Cotterets and the River Marne to-day's official statement shows. No infantry engagements took place. The night was marked by artillery contacts between the forest of Villers-Cotterets and the Marne. There were no infantry actions.

POSITION SERIOUS.

AMSTERDAM, July 8. The position of the Czechs and Slovak forces operating in Siberia has become more serious for them, according to a Vienna despatch to the Berlin Tagblatt. They already have suffered several severe defeats the message adds. Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war in Siberia are taking a prominent part in the fighting against the Czechs-Slovaks the Tagblatt adds.

Deserters Shot.

The penalty for desertion in the Army is death. Keep that in mind for a moment, while you read the following extract from a recent speech by President Wilson:—

"No one who is not blind can fail to see that the battle-line for Democracy stretches to-day from the fields of Flanders to every house and workshop, where tolling, upward-striving men and women are guarding the treasures of right and liberty which are being threatened by our present enemies."

In a word, this statement means that in the present struggle against German domination, everyone is a soldier, fighting with whatever means may be at hand to wipe out tyranny and oppression. All are on the fighting line, although everyone may not be privileged to be on the actual firing line. If a soldier deserts, he is shot. Has it occurred to you to ask yourself as to how you would stand under military regulations? Are you doing your full duty in the present crisis, or are you deserting your post? Have you become War weary and despondent? President Wilson classes you in the great army of democracy, as opposed to the hosts of tyranny, and in that army you must not shirk your duty. Your duty is to assist the Cause by every means in your power, by all forms of patriotic work, and by lending your money to your country in order that there may be no slackening in our efforts. Do not be a slacker or deserter. Invest in Victory Bonds and seal the Kaiser's doom.

Talking About Money.

Viewed purely as a business investment, Victory Bonds are the best ever. They do not need to be advertised in order to be sold. Canadians bought up four million dollars of our Loan within a few days. They know a good thing when they see it and they didn't let any grass grow under their feet in hustling to invest their money in our securities. Surely we are not going to be outdone by outsiders. Up to the present time people outside the Colony have reaped the advantages of our Loans. Even now we are paying hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in interest on money invested in our securities by people who were never in Newfoundland in their lives. They also know a good thing when they saw it and it isn't long before in mind that the interest rate they receive is only three, three and a half, four, four and a half and five per cent. This present Victory Loan pays an interest rate of SIX AND A HALF PER CENT. No wonder the Canadians were so eager to obtain the largest amount that could be allocated to them. Now this opportunity is open to YOU. It is a chance such as you may never have again as long as you live. If you do not take advantage of it, somebody else will. That is one side of the story. The other side is the patriotic aspect of the Loan. Besides making money on your investment you will be helping to shorten the War. Every Bond you buy brings the end nearer, the end which we desire so much to attain, but which can only be attained through YOUR efforts and YOUR co-operation. And if there is any lingering doubt in your mind as to the advisability of getting in on this War Loan, just ask yourself "What would my money be worth to me if Germany won?" There is only one answer. Nothing. The possession of money would make you a shining mark for the pillaging German soldiery. It is up to you, therefore, to keep the Germans out of Newfoundland. You can do this only by getting into the fight yourself and making your dollars fight for you. Do this to-day. The Loan will be closed on the 27th, so there is very little time left. Remember—

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, The saddest are these: "It might have been."

Albany, N.Y., June 29.—No alcoholic beverages will be allowed to be sold in New York City after 8 p.m. unless they are drunk on the premises where sold, according to an order just issued by Governor Whitman. The fact that soldiers and sailors, in some instances, have been able to obtain liquor, although they were not personally served where it was purchased, led the Governor to take this action.

Archbishop Roche

ADMINISTERS CONFIRMATION IN PARISH OF ST. BRIDE'S. Special to Evening Telegram. BRANCH, Last Evening.

On Saturday afternoon His Grace the Archbishop, accompanied by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. McDermott, and Very Rev. J. J. McGrath arrived at Patrick's Cove, where they were met by the Pastor, Rev. F. J. Ryan. His Grace administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to a large number of candidates. Shortly afterwards the Episcopal Party proceeded to St. Bride's, where an enthusiastic reception was tendered them by the people. The picturesque feature of the reception was the large number of motor boats which came out to meet His Grace and Party. This morning at 10 o'clock in the Parish Church of St. Bride's Solemn High Mass was sung by Rt. Rev. Mgr. McDermott with Very Revs. J. J. McGrath and F. J. D. Ryan, as Deacon and Sub-Deacon respectively. After Mass an Address of Welcome on behalf of the people was read, to which His Grace replied at some length expressing the pleasure it gave him to be amongst the people of St. Bride's, and his gratification at the evidences of faith and loyalty which he witnessed on all sides. After Mass the Sacrament of Confirmation was administered; Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was imparted by the Archbishop, and the morning devotions brought to a close. In the afternoon the Episcopal Party left for Branch, where they arrived at four o'clock. Again they were tendered a reception by the people of this thriving settlement who escorted them from the landing place to the Church where an Address of Welcome was read. The Sacrament of Confirmation was administered to over one hundred. His Grace again addressed the people expressing his pleasure at the signs of progress witnessed and the lovely Church in the course of completion, and he expressed the hope that he would be able to be present to dedicate and open the Church when finished. Embarking and accompanied party of the way by a flotilla of forty motor boats, the Archbishop and Party at 7 o'clock left for St. Joseph's.

French Red Cross Day.

The committees representing the Men's and Women's Patriotic Associations are now taking steps to organize a day for the French Red Cross. Last year such a day was observed, and this year the need for one is much greater. We feel sure that the people of St. John's will generously respond to any appeal which may be made, and will do all in their power to help on the French people, our allies in the war.

Household notes.

Four boiling water over the new potatoes and they will scrape easily. Baked salmon in green pepper cases is an excellent summer luncheon dish. Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than soap and water. Loose chambray gloves are excellent to wear when gardening or doing any dirty work. Plunge tomatoes into boiling water for a few minutes if you would have them peel easily. In making bread pudding, the breadcrumbs should be beaten smooth with the custard. A good meat salad is made with chopped cold meat, cold bottled potatoes, onion and parsley. A good spring dessert is made of ordinary gelatine with strawberries scattered through it. When you want Roast Beef, Roast Veal, Roast Mutton, Roast Pork, try ELLIS.

that the children should be allowed a liberal allowance of it. Rice with grated cheese over it makes a good luncheon dish. Lime in various forms is the best disinfectant for the household. An occasional dose of strained root-water is good for pot plants. New potatoes boiled until tender with new peas added and creamed, are delicious. If you skin the rhubarb before stewing it, the flavor will not be so good.

The Poetry of Homely Nations.

By EITH CAMERON.

EITH CAMERON

Don't you love fitness and order and rhythm in the acts of those? You have heard of the music of the spheres, the poetry of the orders, the rhythmic movement of the stars in their courses. Are not the orderly, rhythmic movements of a man who is perfectly master of his task, an echo of that far-off poetry?

Your Boys and Girls.

I always make my own sherbet and lemonade powders, not so much for the sake of economy—though I certainly think it is much cheaper to make them myself—but because I like to know just what is in them. One has to be careful with the "refreshers" one gives to children.

For lemon sherbet I take four ounces of tartaric acid and six ounces of carbonic of soda. I mix these with a pound and three quarters of preserving sugar and pass the whole through a sieve two or three times. Then I sprinkle ten drops of essence of lemon over it, mix it well, and spread it on sheets of paper to dry in a warm place. When thoroughly dry I pass through a sieve once more and then bottle. A teaspoonful of this powder to a glassful of water makes a most refreshing drink.

Homemade lemon syrup: I peel three lemons and put the peel in a bowl with one pound of lump sugar; then pour over it three gills of boiling water. I squeeze the juice from the lemons, and when the liquid becomes cool add the juice to it with one ounce of tartaric acid. Allow to stand twelve hours, then pass through a sieve and bottle. When required mix a teaspoonful with a glass of water.

Raisin water is excellent for children as both the raisins and rice are good for them. Take two ounces of raisins, one-fourth of a pound of rice and one quart of water. Cut the raisins in halves and put them in the VICTORY OR RANK!

Tell me, private and brigadier, What is your chief concern, Shoulder straps and gold-trimmed caps?

What do you fight to earn? Does it matter to you who gets the praise? Who wears eagles, these troubled days? Tell me, private and captain, too, Leaf and bar or golden star—Tokens of plumed tin? What is it now that you strive to get A higher rank on your epaulet?

Self should fade when the cannons roar, Private and brigadier! Purpose whole, you should seek the goal! Envy should disappear. And it matters not what the rank may be.

This is the struggle for Victory!
Milady's Boudoir.
FOR THE OCTOBER BRIDE.
The excited little bride-to-be often presents the appearance of a tired and pale and irritable woman on the day of her wedding. It is a common occurrence for the bride to hurry about and work so hard before the great day, that she quite loses her freshness and youthfulness.

More important than all of these is the rest which the bride must surely take if she would look her best on the happy day when she is to be joined to the man of her choice. She may declare "I cannot sleep," she may be forgiven a natural wide-awake condition, which almost precludes the possibility of a cozy nap.

George V. Democrat.

If Thackeray were alive, his pen would trace with that simplicity which was the highest art the story of the Fifth George eating buckwheat cakes with his Queen in the American canteen in the capital. How brief and tactful the notice of their coming: "The King and Queen desire to call at the Eagle Hut, and will be there in a few minutes." Unannounced they drive up, little George in his fatig uniform and carrying his faithful stick, almost a measure of himself; Mary, a size larger, motherly, plain, wholesome, unfashionable in her dress, simple in her manner, looking like any other decent English woman who had four well-brought-up boys and a girl a copy of herself.

They climb the steps into a hall where the soldiers and sailors, British, Canadian, American, are playing games, writing letters, singing camp songs, eating with the sauce of hunger, feeling at home in a sympathetic atmosphere—a free-and-easy place of many sounds and laughter, of liberty and equality. George and Mary are ordinary victors, come to disturb no one, to mingle with all, to be friendly. No distinction for them; and, above all, no ceremony. They want to eat an American dish and sit down with the boys at one of the big tables covered with oilcloth. "Buckwheat cakes is the best thing we have," says the host, a little flustered by the visit. And buckwheat cakes it was, with New England (Canadian?) maple syrup. George and Mary clear their plates with gusto, vote the unfamiliar griddle cakes delicious, and then go the rounds of kitchens and dormitories, departing like people who had had a good time.

It was the most natural thing for George, every inch a democrat, to do. On the fourth of July (did George III. turn in his grave?) the King "pitched out" the first baseball in a game between American teams. Arlie Latham, one of our most unashamed Diamond heroes, had been coaching George in the right delivery, and probably the King was a bit nervous about his performance. He was certainly more concerned than Arlie Latham, a king, a baseball connoisseur and always a complete stranger to embarrassment.

"We kings must stick together," said Charlie of Austria to a royal pal in the same boat the other day. George of England has another version:—"We democrats must stick together," and he means what he says. His days are spent in doing his bit like one of his subjects, which should really read fellow-citizens. A busy

King is George. He is seen everywhere and at all times of day and night; in camps and hospitals, "over there" as well as in England; sometimes in munition factories; at reviews, at receptions to soldiers of the Allies, at any function where his presence and a kindly word may count. He loves a "hero" as much as any one; likes to talk to Tommy Atkins and has a great desire to be hospitable to the fighting men from overseas. Heart and soul he is in the war all day long. He does not want to be reminded of his German forbears. John Bull is George's ideal of a human man. Perhaps he has a slight preference for the navy, in which he was brought up, over the army; but he would never show it. In the navy George was taught equality and how to be a man, and he has never felt like a traditional King since he assumed the crown. Pat O'Brien, of Momenca, Ill., the aviator who escaped from German captivity, says that George, to whom he told the story of his adventures by request, is one of the most democratic men he ever met; which must be true, for Pat talked to George without a hitch for an hour and a quarter and was never more at his ease in his life.

UNDERSTANDING U.S.

They held the theory every where—a theory uninviting—that gold is all for which we care, for which we'd do our fighting. "They're money grabbers, one and all," the nations cried, in a gust; "we have our backs against the wall, and still in sloth they languish. Still, they chase the buck and bone, to the stricken peoples' groan, and gather in more booty." But now they see our legions rush across the rolling breakers, and not to gather in some cash or annex foreign acres. They see our men go forth to fight where demolition rages, to plant the standard of the right where it may stand for ages. Across the mined and ambushed sea, a thousand leagues of water, we go that nations may be free, that tyranny may totter. The wealth for which we planned and toiled in times of peace, is helping to see the war lord's program spoiled, and set his cohorts yelping. And now they see us as we are; we're slow to wrath, but, thunder! When roused we rip things all avar and tear—the map still they see us standing up for right without a thought of profit; they'll see us carry on the fight until there's ice in Tophat.

If you are mending a hasty torn piece of embroidery, do as much as possible of the mending at the back. Sprinkle house plants with a whisk-broom, or, better still, spray them with a bath spray in the bathroom. Cold rice mixed with tomato sauce, minced onion, butter and seasoning, and baked a half hour, makes a good dish. The seeds of perennial asters should be sown early in the spring and the plants allowed to remain undisturbed.

An Important Advertisement.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement in our advertising columns in connection with the Victory Loan. Ads. of a similar nature have been running in our pages occasionally during the past two or three weeks. The present one, however, is of importance in that it brings home to every householder throughout the island the danger to himself personally of the present War, and the position in which he stands with regard to it.

We read daily of the outrages and depredations of the Germans committed on the defenceless inhabitants of the countries which have been unfortunate enough to fall into the hands of these modern Huns, but because these occurrences take place in a different part of the world we may be inclined to regard them as too far distant to ruffle the tranquillity of our own lives. But we must not forget that the danger which threatens Europe is also a terrible menace to ourselves. If the Germans break through on the Western Front, and win a decision in the present War, we will be entirely at their mercy, and it is impossible to expect that we will receive any more gentle treatment at their hands than they have meted out to the unfortunate inhabitants of Belgium and the other countries which have fallen under their yoke. The realization of this factor is most important, and must be kept continually in mind. This is not a European War, it is a World War, and its consequences menace us to as great a degree as they do to those who are living almost within the theatre of the struggle. This being so it is absolutely imperative that we should guarantee our own safety. Every level-headed business man safeguards his property, by investing in a policy of insurance. We must now do the same in order to secure the safety of our homes. Our homes are in the path of the Hun. Our security at present consists of the navies and armies of the Allies. Unless we maintain these they must fall, and we, too, will fall with them. Insure your safety at once by investing in VICTORY BONDS. Back up our men at the front, and encourage them by your aid. Make your money fight for you, your loved ones, your home and your country, and do it now. Tomorrow it may be too late.

New Diving Record.

A new world's record for high diving was made at Sydney, Australia, late in March during a water carnival for the purpose of raising war relief funds. A Solomon Islander, named Alick Wickham, dove 205 feet, which easily surpasses any existing figures for such a feat.

Wickham, a swimmer and diver of note, who is employed by the Sydney trolley service, was persuaded to attempt the dive as part of a lengthy programme of aquatic events held at the Deep Rock swimming pool. A high platform was erected near the top of the cliff-like side of the pool, and at the announced hour for the dive there were thousands of spectators present to witness the perilous feat.

The Solomon Islander admitted that when he reached the top of the tower and looked down at the pool more than 200 feet below, he was badly rattled and desired to quit, but the fear of being accused of coward-

THIS EVENING'S GAME.

A lively contest is expected this evening. The Wanderers and B.I.S. will compete and the following is the probable lineup:

THE WANDERERS.

They may not win the pennant, but think of where they've been. If "Punky" only had the wing, he had in "Nineteen-one-three."

NO! SIRREE.

Having glimpsed the recent game between the Cubs and B. I. S., we refuse to be started any more. It wouldn't cause us the slightest surprise if Uruguay rose up and beat the world.

FIGHT HARD, MY BOY!

Fight hard, my boy, and never heed the breaks, When they're against you then the harder try, The sun must gleam some day through darkest sky, And victory is hollow till it wakes. Within the soul a sense of ne'er-say-die!

The Cubs, my boy, had plumbed the depths; yet see, When in their hearts of hearts they'd ne'er-say-die But fought each day with heads erect and high, They turned defeat to dazzling victory; The sun burst through a saturnine, dark sky.

TIMOTHY V. HARTNETT.

Take seven parts of hurricane and eight of dynamite, Add fourteen parts of flame and flash, and twenty parts of fight Toss in another twelve for speed and raw nerve and for vim, And if it breaks the ball game up, you'll know the answer's TIM.

YOU SAID IT.

Notice that "pugnacious" jaw of Manager McGrath these days.

POSSIBLE, BUT—

"Timmy" is quite confident of victory to-night. All he wants to win is air-tight pitching, air-tight fielding and a few sluggers.

All we want to make up a dollar is ninety-seven cents.

ice forced him to go through with the performance. He leaped off and was able to retain both equilibrium and consciousness for the first 150 feet, after which all became blank. Wickham struck the water in a semi-prone position with such force that he was completely knocked out for more than ten minutes. When taken from the water he was bleeding from a dozen places about the body and his swimming suit was split on one side from neck to knees.

Sun Burned Skin

You want a healthy summer tan. But sometimes you get it too quickly and then there is a few days of suffering.

The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment takes out the stinging and burning and leaves the skin delightfully soft and smooth.

Because it is equally effective in relieving stings of insects and ivy poisoning as well as chafing and skin irritations it is invaluable in the summer camp.

The Pilot Brothers.

Pte. Pilot, a Newfoundland, mentioned among those on board the torpedoed hospital ship Llandovory Castle, is probably Pte. William Pilot, a son of the late Edward Pilot of the Colonial Secretary's Office, and of Mrs. Maurice Cullen, Montreal, and grandson of the late Rev. Canon Pilot. One of his brothers, Pte. John Cecil Pilot, made the supreme sacrifice on June 27th, 1917. Two other brothers, Edward and Robert, are at present fighting in France.

His Excellency the Governor and Miss Armored Harris, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Knox-Niven, P.S., left by private car yesterday on a visit to places in Trinity Bay. His Excellency will visit Trinity, Catalina, Heart's Content, Port Union and other places before returning.

Found Dead.

The following message was received by Mr. P. J. Summers, Deputy Minister of Justice from Bonavista yesterday afternoon: "The man Chant, who was missing on Saturday, was found dead in brook yesterday. Holding enquiry."

JOSEPH ROPER, Magistrate.

Oporto Letter.

The accompanying letter was received yesterday by the Board of Trade from Lind and Couto of Oporto. "Owing to the railway strikes there is less demand just at present, but the market is good and prices are well maintained. Stocks are low and further supplies are needed. The rate of exchange is 31½."

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

Last night the installation of Officers of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, I.O.O.F. took place, the installing officer being D.D.G.M. Bro. F. G. Bradley, assisted by D.D.G.W. Bro. Chas. Udle, D.D.G.S. Bro. Simon Butler, D.D.G.T. Bro. Geo. F. Grimes, D.D.G.M. Bro. Wm. T. Quick. The new officers are as follows: N.G. Bro. Geo. Parsons; V.G. Bro. Hilary Carey; R.S. Bro. Walter Garf; F.S. Bro. Geo. Barnes; Treas. Bro. Chas. Hammond; Warden, Bro. Edwin Ebsary; Conductor, Bro. H. Chaplin; O.G. Bro. Thos. Smith; I.C. Bro. James Butler; R.S.N.G., Bro. A. Alcock; L.S.N.G., Bro. S. Butler; R.S.V.G., Bro. Thos. Garland; L.S.V.G., Bro. Augustus Lester; Chaplain, Bro. Wm. Quick; R.S.S., Bro. Max. Colton; L.S.S., Bro. S. James; Organist, Bro. A. Walker; Visiting Committee, Bro. Thos. Garland, Wm. White, Edwin Ebsary, Max. Colton, Geo. Barnes.

After the usual congratulations, a very pleasing event took place when Bro. Gordon Bradley, retiring N.G. and Bro. Arthur Tilley, retiring Warden, were each presented with handsome souvenirs for faithful services rendered the past few years. The past term of Atlantic Lodge under Bro. Bradley's leadership, has been a record which any retiring officer may well feel proud of. Some thirty-nine favorable applications have been received which show a great tribute to the loyalty, interest and activity taken by each individual member. During his past term two of our brothers have passed to the Great Beyond, viz. Bro. C. H. Miller and Louis Chollett, the former losing his life on the s.s. Florizel, the latter passing away suddenly after being but three weeks a member of our lodge. Ten of our brothers have donned the King's uniform and have gone forth to do battle for the right and democracy of the world.

During the past winter successful entertainments have been run off aided by a newly-formed orchestra, which proved beneficial to each individual member. During the recent visit of our Grand Representatives, Messrs. Craig and Bouzanssen, new clubs were opened which we claim are second to none in the city. Let us hope by the opening of the club-rooms it will show a new era in the social and fraternal fellowship of our order. In closing, I append the following quotation from Kipling. While it refers to the war the sentiment might be well illustrated in our Lodge work also:—

"It ain't the guns or armament nor funds that they can pay, But the close co-operation that makes them win the day. It ain't the individual, nor the army as a whole, But the everlasting team work of every bloomin' soul." W. G.

Cannon Wood Hall Concert.

Last evening's entertainment at Cannon Wood Hall was undoubtedly an interesting one, and the crowded audience was delighted with the various artists. The programme consisted of songs by Miss Marguerite Mitchell, Capt. Campbell, A.D.C. and Mr. Arthur Williams; a recitation by Master J. Bradshaw, and dances by Misses Orr and J. Rendell. Following an interval during which ice cream was sold, the playlet "The Weaver of Dreams" was staged, the characters being admirably taken by Mrs. Colville, Miss Flora Clift and Capt. Campbell. The proceeds, which were up to exp. will be devoted to church purposes. The evening closed with singing of National Anthem.

Greeting From England.

These verses appeared in the London Chronicle, April 22, 1898, the day after the United States had declared war against Spain, following the "Maine" tragedy.

American! dear brother land! While yet the spotted guns are mute, Accept a brotherly salute, A hearty grip of England's hand.

To-morrow, when the sulphurous glow Of war shall dim the stars above, Be sure the star of England's love Is over you, come weal or woe.

Go forth in hope! Go forth in might! To all your nobler self be true, That coming times may see in you The vanguard of the hosts of light.

Though wrathful justice load and train Your guns, be every breach they make A gateway pierced for mercy's sake, That peace may enter in and reign.

Then, should the hosts of darkness band Against you, lowering thunderous the sea, And England at your side stand.

Exulting! For, though dark the night, And sinister with scud and rack, The hour that brings us 'back to back But harbingers the larger light.

A German Exhibition.

Carrying out a project suggested some time ago in Germany, the German Government has opened an exhibition in Munich calculated to prove to King Ludwig's subjects that the wartime cartoons of enemy artists are violent and bitter, while those made in Germany are merely amusing and caustic. Side by side with samples of the most extreme anti-German cartoons are placed some of the most moderate German sketches.

According to a copy of the Munich Neue Nachrichten recently received in London, most of the enemy productions are of the poorest quality and produce only a feeling of disgust. Some, indeed, such as the cartoons of Raemaekers, "combine with the sense of disgust a bitter feeling of pain at this unparalleled degradation of art."

A German Exhibition.

Carrying out a project suggested some time ago in Germany, the Bavarian Government has opened an exhibition in Munich calculated to prove to King Ludwig's subjects that the wartime cartoons of enemy artists are violent and bitter, while those made in Germany are merely amusing and caustic. Side by side with samples of the most extreme anti-German cartoons are placed some of the more moderate German sketches. According to a copy of the Munchner Neueste Nachrichten recently received in London, most of the enemy productions are of the poorest quality, and produce 'only a feeling of disgust.' Some, indeed, such as the cartoons of Raemaekers, 'combine with the sense of disgust a bitter feeling of pain at this unparalleled degradation of art.'

The exhibition, which is called 'Our Enemies' Sowing of Lies,' was opened by the Police President of Munich. He said that there were a certain number of Germans who thought it necessary to ask themselves whether they could have conceivably provoked the hatred of their enemies by their own 'past or present behavior.' Such persons inquire whether, when the war is over, Germany will not be ruined economically by the insuperable dislike of the whole world—unless, indeed, by 'good military and political behaviour' in the last stages of the war and at the conclusion of peace. The Germans can obtain a good mark from 'the supreme judge of the world, Herr Woodrow Wilson.'

The Police President admitted that the exhibition did not include everything, chiefly because some of the enemy pictures 'are so shameless that, according to German ideas, they simply cannot be exhibited.' He said he hoped that the public would go away satisfied that they were not really boches, Huns, and barbarians, but merely the victims of 'a campaign of lying and calumny which is backed up by gigantic financial resources.'

"Stella Maris."

Lying at Bissett's upper wharf is the explosion-wrecked steamer Stella Maris, which was purchased by Burns Kelker from S. M. Brookfield, Limited. The hull of the former wrecking steamer appears to be intact, floating like a cork, and in view of the fact that the craft on the morning of the disaster was closer to the Mont Blanc than any other ship in the harbour is testimony that the Stella Maris was a strongly built craft and in spite of her age came out of the destruction wrought that day in a surprisingly good state. The hull is built of teak and copper fastened. Not much outlay will be necessary in putting the boilers and machinery in working condition. Burns and Kelker intend rebuilding the boat for a freighter and the work of carrying this out will be started at once.—Halifax Mail, July 2nd.

Huns Policy of Sea Crime.

London. (via Reuters' Limited).—That the sinking of hospital ships is a deliberate policy on the part of the Germans now is placed beyond all doubt by the torpedoing of the Canadian hospital ship Llandovery Castle, the newspapers say in their editorial comment today. In the presence of such unseemable infamy deliberately repeated, says the Daily Chronicle, 'it is a waste of breath to reiterate the abhorrence which everybody with a spark of civilized sense must feel. But we would invite the German people to ask themselves what is the use of their statements appealing, like Foreign Secretary Von Kuchlmann, to be credited with 'probity and honor,' while crimes so odious, dishonorable and unashamed continue to be carried out by the orders of their Government.'

The excuse for the attack on the Llandovery Castle, says the Daily Mail, was a lie, and the German officer who told it did not believe it himself when he said to the captain: 'You are carrying eight American fight officers.'

If there had been a particle of truth in the charge, the newspaper adds, the submarine commander had only to stop the Llandovery Castle, seize the eight officers and take them to Germany as proof of Allied guilt in using hospital ships for transports. To reduce the cost of living, experts say to eat more fish and less meat.

Market Notes.

COFFEE. The balance on hand in stocks here last week was roughly 45,000 quintals, and it is expected that this quantity will have been exported by the end of present month, consequently the new spring catch will come on the market in August with clean stores and under otherwise favorable conditions. The basis for opening prices will likely be $10 to $10.50 a quintal. Markets on both sides of the Atlantic are holding good. Oporto stocks are down to 9,000 quintals. COD OIL. The prices of both common and refined have eased off, $280 per ton being offered for the former and $250 to $275 per gallon for the latter. These figures may advance later, especially if the war continues into another year. Other contingencies render it impossible to say whether oil prices will go up as high as those of 1917.

HERRING. Spliffs have been purchased at $7.50 per barrel, which is the ruling price. A splendid demand for this pack exists in the West Indies now. The Green Bay Scotch pack is fast being cleared to New York markets, direct, sales being made at $14.15 per barrel. Big losses have been incurred through a sacrifice in prices owing to lack of cold storage.

LOBSTERS. Maritime Province packers are becoming alarmed over prospects of this fishery's future and are seeking for legislation to save the industry from gradual extinction. A meeting of those interested is to be held at Halifax the second week in August. A representative from Newfoundland should attend this meeting and we trust that arrangements will be made to have one sent. This is a matter which affects us very closely.

PROVISIONS. The price of Pork still keeps easing down. Wholesale dealers quote Ham Butt $47. Very few sales are being made, at this season. The imports are some 7,800 barrels behind last year. Beef figures hold firm. Local prices for the best brands, wholesale are $41: Packet and Boneless $40; Cuttings, $29.50. The Canadian Food Control Board advises that no more Flour will be sold for export until September, when the new crop is milled. This will be a serious development for Newfoundland, as our white flour stocks are practically exhausted. We have now come to the time when it is incumbent upon us to buy 'Government Standard' brand which is selling at $13.80. Superior grades are $14.75. American granulated sugar is acutely scarce and importers are only able to partially fill orders. The tonnage situation is responsible for this though there may be relief in a few weeks. Local quotations stand at $10 per hundred pounds. Barbados sugar is offering at 9 1/2 cents per pounds, Light Straw, Crystal and Muscovado, 8 1/2 cents, with fair supplies in stock. The loss of a cargo of molasses a few days ago will accentuate the shortage in prospect. For advanced information the past week from $2 to 9 1/2 cents per gallon. A parcel of 1,000 puncheons destined for this dominion has been sold to dealers in the Maritime Provinces, a goodly portion of which will go to Halifax.

Submarine Bases.

The United States Navy Department has offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the discovery of enemy submarine bases 'on this side' of the Atlantic. The New York Times regards this offer as a counsel of caution. Apparently it does not signify official belief in the existence of a single German base anywhere from the broken coast of Maine to the Florida Keys and the lagoons of Louisiana. Yet there seems to be a lurking suspicion that the enemy may have agents, somewhere along the coast or elsewhere, engaged in furnishing him with supplies. It was at the suggestion of 'some of the Admirals' that Secretary Daniels was moved to offer the reward; to civilians only, of course. It might be said that the Secretary is 'taking no chances.' Consider this statement by him: 'We have no information that there is any submarine base on this side maintained by the enemy, but if such a base does exist, we are anxious to obtain the information. Nor do we have any reason to believe that there is a secret base on our shores. Still, we think it well worth while to make this offer in the hope that it will result in an even keener lookout on the part of the civilians and others along shore.' Evidently the offer is open to the Hindenburg, the Idolized Beast.

(From the Syracuse Post-Standard.) The Countess Laura Turczynowicz was the most effective speaker of War Chest week, for she brought her own personal testimony of the havoc of war. She has lived through the horrors of German warfare in a country which has suffered German brutality and atrocity, without the relief which America has been able to extend to Belgium. She has lived in a war area in which the most ruthless and heartless of all German commanders made the reputation for inhumanity which commended him for promotion to the head of all the German armies. The country was compelled, as part of her Calvary, to act as hostess to General Hindenburg, to see him lock men and women in a church for two weeks without food or water, to hear him tell distracted fathers that they could not have their own daughters back, as they 'belonged' to the soldiers; 'Thus she described Hindenburg: 'You have seen his pictures. That's just the way he looks, only more so. He is purple and red. I don't think it is apoplexy. It is temper and alcohol. He is the cruellest creature that ever drew breath. This beast is the idol of Germany, his ugly statue adorning the public squares of her cities, his power throughout the empire second only to that of the emperor himself. What hope is there for the world with the Hindenburg monster in command of Germany's armies—and her soul? A scratch on polished furniture may be almost obliterated by rubbing vigorously with linseed oil. Cream cheese and butter worked together and seasoned with cayenne makes a delicious sandwich. A good salad is made of fresh asparagus and beets served on lettuce leaves with French dressing. In making casserole combinations, do not forget to put the lighter vegetables with the lighter meats. When screws and nails are difficult to remove, try inserting benzene oil into the wood around them.

West Indies, Mexico, and the Spanish Main, as well as to the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. The Times says the distinction in the Secretary's statement between 'on this side' and 'on our shores' should be noted. Probably the Navy Department has its mental eye on Mexico. At all events, the American offer should serve to keep the people along the Nova Scotia (and Newfoundland) coast on the alert. This is the season when the utmost vigilance should be observed.—Halifax Morning Chronicle.

Pacifists.

There are no more stubborn fighters than the pacifists. Everyone knows the story of the conscientious objector who, having satisfied a tribunal that his principles forbade him to fight for his country, later defended his pacific views so vigorously that he found himself hated before a magistrate charged with assault and battery. The Pacifists are all like that. They do not apparently object to see their country beaten, but they refuse to own defeat themselves, be the odds against them ever so overwhelming. The affair of the Emperor's letter has given a fresh fillip to their activities. The 'Peace' of Bres-Litovsk gave them pause for a time; the 'Peace' of Bukarest frankly staggered them; but here was a most joyful way out. An amiable Austrian prince writes to his amiable brother-in-law an amiable letter proposing peace; why was the offer rejected by the ruthlessly militaristic Governments of France and Great Britain? 'We might have had peace in 1917,' they cried, and devoted their considerable powers of invective to the agreeable task of attacking the two or three statesmen immediately concerned for not having initiated and carried on secret negotiations on the basis of the Emperor's proposals—a curious move, by the way, on the part of a group which for months and years has been denouncing 'secret diplomacy.' The Pacifists in our midst are small in numbers and vociferous out of all proportion to their weight, but their campaign of misrepresentation and insinuation contains germs of danger to the common cause, and we are very glad that on the debate on the adjournment for the Whitsun recess Mr. Balfour seized the opportunity to blow their whole edifice sky-high.—Review of Reviews.

Paper Men Are Real Producers.

(From Toronto Saturday Night.) Publishers of Canada, those who use newspaper, have freely handled the visible weapon of their publicity, and have more energetically employed their concealed club of gentlemanly intimidation, to have the price of newspaper sliced down to suit their own platform in these war times. When it gets down to bedrock, and we try to think like economists and talk as bankers are supposed to talk, by the uninitiated, who is the greatest national producer just now, the publisher or the pulp and paper man? A little card that comes floating through the mails tells us that Canada's pulp and paper industry turns out about $80,000,000 worth per annum, and $60,000,000 worth of this product is exported to the United States. The pulp people by keeping their plants going strong, can cancel $60,000,000 out of an adverse trade balance to Canada. These manufacturers can also expand and hasten up a business employing the natural resources of Canada, and with a market just across the border eager for the stuff, they can sell in time a quarter of a billion dollars worth, instead of $80,000,000 worth. They can produce large surplus profits for all Canada from a foreign source, which means a net gain to the country to enable us to pay off our war bills. This the publisher cannot do. The publisher deals in brains, white paper and ink, but he does not produce much else than sensations. The Dominion Government appointed Commissioner Pringle to set the price of newspaper, and after his finding, which set the price too low, according to the pulp and paper men, the publishers joined hands and called the Commissioner names. The pulp men wanted an increase of fifty per cent. over the old price. The Commissioner set the price for newspaper at $2.85 per hundred papers, this figure to terminate in May. Almost as a unit the pulp and paper men contended that the figure so set was not far from the level of cost of production, and some maintained they would have to sell to Canadian publishers at a loss in meeting the figure. However, the price was set, and then the publishers made demand that this figure should not terminate in May, but remain in force until June, and apparently so until that figure becomes established in concrete. They also asked that thirty-five cents of this price be withheld from the paper men, to be refunded in case the price finally fixed is under that set. Public opinion might very well step in here, and decide whether or not the pulp and paper men are entitled to a fair price for their products. A full month's interest for nothing—Buy Victory Bonds.

Pershing's Words to Men of Allied Fleet.

London, July 2.—The Right Rev. Charles Henry Brent, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Philippines, during a recent visit to the Grand Fleet, delivered the following message from General Pershing to the men of the British and American ships: 'The bond which joins together all the men of our blood has been mightily strengthened and deepened by the rough hand of war. Those of us who are privileged to serve in the Army and Navy are to one another as brothers. 'The spaces of land and sea are nothing where common purposes bind. We are so dependent on one another that the honor, fame and exploits of the one are the honor, fame and exploits of the other. 'Should the enemy dare leave his safe harbor and set his ships in battle array, no cheers would be more ringing as you and the Allied fleets move to his defeat than those of the American forces in France. We have unshaken confidence in you, and are assured that when we stand on the threshold of peace your record will be one worthy of your traditions.'

Dastardly Enemy Acts.

Pity for the ignorant enemy soldiers who are said to be the unhappy tools of their masters is pleaded for day by day, month by month, and year by year as the war continues, by those amongst us who seem unable to visualize the iniquities and facts as they are. Can one imagine any Britisher carrying out the order to torpedo the Lusitania or to shoot Nurse Cavell, or to bomb and come down deliberately to fly at low altitude in order to rake the hospital tents and attendants' quarters with machine-gun fire, thus leaving no loophole for pretext that they were not aware of their objective? This latest dastardly act is on a par with the rest of the abominations carried out by the servants of the Kaiser. The multitude of these abominations makes it impossible to believe that they are done under protest, and puts the perpetrators on a level with the instigators. There can be no soft-heartedness towards a ruthless enemy; the spirit which inspires such acts as these, must be utterly vanquished.—Review of Reviews.
