CHAPTER XIII.
 EDNA COMES HOME.

So she strove to console herself, calling a woman's wounded pride to her aid, but it was of no avail; the handsome face still forced itself through her clasped fingers, and looked reproachfully at her.

"Oh, why—why—did we ever meet? Why did I ever see him, or he me? Why should all this misery come upon us, for he looked miserable as well as me that afternoon—miserable and wretched? Ah, perhaps he was deceiving me then! What did that woman say—that he could act like truth, that he was false—utterly false? Perhaps, while I am here torturing myself, he is amusing himself by deceiving some other poor, simple, trusting fool!"

At the bare thought, the crimson rushed to her pale face, and she sprang up, all aglow with indignation and maidenly pride.

"No! I did right. That was my name I wrote, for he gave it back to me; he took back his own. I am not his wife; he—he is not my husband! I am Edna Weston still! Perhaps, and she trembled and hid her face, "it was all a deceit; perhaps I was never, even for an hour, any other. Oh, why are men so cruel and so wicked?" and murmuring this once again, she burst into a flood of tears.

It is to be hoped that not everyone who comes into an unexpected fortune is so wretched on the day they learn the news as Edna Weston.

When Aunt Martha came to the door, knocking nervously, Edna was composed again, but very pale. Would she come down to dinner? Oh, yes. And she came down, but ate very little of the nicely arranged meal that was served in the best private room.

On that evening the two sat talking over the sudden stroke of fortune, and Aunt Martha, growing more courageous as the surprise lessened, glowed eloquently before the delight of riches, and with Edna, pale and thoughtful, beside her, promised great things.

"But it is all like a dream, my dear—a strange dream, and I feel as if I should wake and find I had got the toothache—I always have it after dreaming. Where did you put the notes, my dear?"

Edna started—she had only been half listening—and held out her purse.

"Will you take them, aunt?"

"No, my dear," replied Aunt Martha, emphatically. "You must get used to carrying large sums of money, and had better begin at once. What did Mr. Burdon say—a most charming man, Edna—that five hundred pounds were of no more consequence than pence! Oh, dear! oh, dear! Edna, I must go to bed; I must, indeed; I feel as if the room was whirling round!" and as Edna got up and kissed her, she added, "How can you take it so quietly. Perhaps you feel dazed by it, dear!" and she looked curiously, almost pathetically, at the sweet young face so pale and distraught.

"Yes, perhaps that is it," replied Edna, with a faint little smile.

They parted at the doors of their respective bedrooms, which adjoined each other, and Aunt Martha made haste to dream in real earnest. As she was going off into her first troubled sleep, she fancied she heard something like low, stifled sobbing in the next room, and murmured drowsily:

"Poor child! It has been a trying day for her. I've read of people being killed by a too-sudden joy."

Was it the too-sudden joy, or an overwhelming sense of loneliness that opened the floodgates of Edna's tears?

When she woke in the morning from a broken, dreamful slumber, it was with a confused sense of mingled pleasure and pain that was not dispelled when she remembered the events of yesterday. The sleep, short as it had been, had been of service, however, and she came down to breakfast still a little pale, but with a firmer light in her expressive eyes. While they were finishing the meal, a very elaborate one—could the landlord have got an inkling of the new importance of his guests?—Mr. Burdon was announced, and came in full of apologies for his early intrusion.

"But I felt that you had a busy day before you, and that you would perhaps like to see me before you commenced on it," he concluded.

Edna smiled and put her hand upon a coffee cup.

"May I give you a cup?" she asked, and so sweetly that the lawyer who had breakfasted two hours ago, felt that he could not have refused if she had offered him belladonna. To him she looked more beautiful this morning than yesterday, and while he sipped his coffee and chatted, he could not help gazing inwardly at the insanity of poor Sir Cyril.

"A picture in herself!" he declared to himself over and over again, as he watched her sweet, pensive face, and listened to the soft music of her voice, which gave to her words the slight clipping foreign accent which renders our English so subtly enticing.

"And now," said Mr. Burdon, "let me trouble you with a little business," and he produced a formidable black bag, and proceeded to explain what the French would call "the situation." He did it very well, and very clearly, and in half an hour he had given the young heiress some idea of her possessions. Edna sat speechless, with downcast eyes, Mr. Burdon enjoying, in a quiet way, her amazement.

"The extent of the fortune it is impossible to calculate, but you see it is immense," he concluded, rustling his papers.

"And all this, you say, is mine?" said Edna.

Mr. Burdon nodded.

"And would have been Sir Cyril More's"—she colored faintly at the name—"if it—"

"He had fulfilled the conditions—that is to say, half of it would have been his."

"The whole of it would have been his if I had refused to comply with the conditions," said Edna, raising her eyes and looking him straight in the face.

Mr. Burdon nodded. He did not quite see the use of going over all the ground again after the exhaustive explanation of yesterday.

There was a moment's silence, then Edna looked up with the same steadfast expression in her eyes.

"Mr. Burdon," she said in a low voice, "I feel that I have no right to all this money; it is not that I undervalue it or that I am careless and indifferent to my uncle's wishes, but because I feel that I am robbing—yes, robbing," she repeated emphatically, "—another person."

"My dear young lady," began Mr. Burdon, but Edna stopped him by going on a little more hurriedly:

"You know Sir Cyril More, he is a friend of yours; will you—I want you, Mr. Burdon—I want him to have half this money. I want you to offer it to him—to make sure that he takes it!"

In her earnestness her eyes filled with eager tears, the dainty, budlike lips trembled. Mr. Burdon stared aghast.

"My dear Miss Weston," he said, at last; "you said quite right that I know Sir Cyril, you do not, or you would not suggest such a thing as this. I am afraid you have heard nothing but ill of him"—Edna looked down—"or have judged his character from the few words let slip by Mr. Edward More, who, who—well, who is no friend to his brother. But take it from me, that Sir Cyril More would rather starve—if such a ridiculous misfortune could happen to a British baronet—than take a penny of this money from your hand after declining to comply with the conditions. Yes, I know Sir Cyril More."

Edna's voice trembled.

"Is he so proud?"

"Proud!" repeated Mr. Burdon; "well, yes, all the Mores are and were, but Sir Cyril is something—he is simply indifferent to money—actual money, and he is quixotic in his way of looking at some things—such circumstances as these for instance. The fortune is yours, my dear young lady, and you must keep it, difficult as it may be;" and Mr. Burdon smiled.

Edna looked at him reproachfully.

"I see," she said in a low voice, "you think I am silly—one more question. Suppose"—and her voice trembled—"that there had been something which would have prevented me and made it impossible?"

Mr. Burdon was rather staggered for a moment; Aunt Martha had gone out of the room for something or other. Was this innocent, childlike girl going to make a confession—a confidence? His face grew pale.

"Had there been any such obstacle on your side, and Sir Cyril had professed himself willing to conform to the conditions, then the estate would have been his instead of yours."

Edna's hands clasped and unclasped themselves as they lay white and soft looking in her lap. Something, some revelation seemed trembling on her lip; but the impulse to speak passed away, and she leaned back with the air of languid weariness that follows an inner struggle, and Mr. Burdon went on, emphasizing each word:

"But the choice rested with Sir Cyril, and he distinctly and decisively refused to comply with the conditions on his part; therefore, such a question as you have now put is quite beside the issue. The estate is yours."

Edna smiled.

"You will not refuse to convey my offer to Sir Cyril," she said, almost imploringly. "I would do it myself—if I had courage—but you would do it so much better. Tell him—tell him anything, so that he will consent to accept it."

Mr. Burdon smiled.

"Very good. I receive this as your first instruction. I've been a lawyer all my life and been accustomed to do with people who were only too eager to get other people's money; now, here is the novel experience of two persons who seem obstinately bent upon refusing to accept their own. Plan of the estate in Berkshire," he went on, as if anxious to dispose of the subject. "It occurred to me that you would, of course, like a country seat, and might prefer one of your own—I mean already yours—there are several."

Edna put her hand to her head.

"Of course, they have been let during your minority. The lease of one has just expired—last Christmas—and if you fancied the place you could not do better—if I may advise—than keep it as your own residence. It is a beautiful place—might say a magnificent one if it were not so thoroughly English, situated in the prettiest part of Berkshire. I can show it you on your own map," and he spread out a plan, upon a table, of the Weston estates in that county.

Edna leaned forward and regarded the map with something approaching a smile.

"What is all that red part?" she said.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss ELLA KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

For men who have served overseas, and were discharged prior to November 11th, 1918, without having been in actual theatre of war, and for men who have served in Newfoundland only, the Gratuity is graded as follows:—

- For three years' service or over—92 days' pay and allowances.
- For two years' service and under three years—61 days' pay and allowances.
- For one year's service and under two years—31 days' pay and allowances.

In the case of an Officer or man without dependents whose pay and allowances, as above described, are less than $70.00 for a 31 day period, a consolidated rate of $70.00 will be paid in lieu of every 31 or 30 days' pay and allowances to which he is entitled.

In the case of an Officer or man, with dependents who are entitled or who, before his retirement or discharge, were entitled to Separation Allowances, whose pay and allowances, including Separation Allowance, is less than $100.00 for a 31-day period, a consolidated rate of $100.00 will be laid in lieu of every 31 or 30 days' pay and allowances to which he is entitled.

If part of, or all the gratuity under Post Discharge Pay Regulations has been paid to an officer or man, the amount so paid will be deducted from the Gratuity provided for by "War Service Gratuity" Regulations.

3. Separation Allowance to wives of members of the Regiment and to other dependents entitled thereto, shall be retroactive, making it effective from date of enlistment, or from the date when entitled to receive same under authorized Regulations.

The foregoing will necessitate a large amount of accounting and additional work, and it will not be possible for the Department of Militia to make payments before the 1st of March.

 Minister of Militia

EVACUATE VILNA.

BASEL, Feb. 9. The Russian Government has received here from Kovno that as a result of the success of Lithuanian troops and advance of Estonian troops, the Lithuanians have evacuated Vilna.

CHINA OBJECTS.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 8. Chinese press to-day prints an attack upon the policy of Japan in China, as revealed by a statement made by Yukiaki Obata, Japanese minister at Peking. A Peking correspondent under Wednesday's date, speaking of Chinese sources, says that attempts were being made by the Japanese to induce the Chinese Government to disavow the action of its delegates at the Peace Conference for the reason that they were seriously embarrassing Japan.

WARSHEVSK STRENGTH DECLINING.

STRUCK OIL.

LONDON, Feb. 8. American drillers working for the Government have struck oil in a well near Brimington, Derbyshire. No announcement is made as to the extent of the flow. Six wells are being put down in Derbyshire testing what is believed to be an extensive oil field.

FIGHTING SOUTH OF KADISH.

ARCHANGEL, Feb. 7. British and Russian troops, supported by American machine gun and trench mortar units, began an attack at ten o'clock this morning against the Bolshevik on the Petrograd road.

THE STRIKE.

LONDON, Feb. 8. An official statement issued tonight says the President of the Board of Trade and the Home Secretary today informed a deputation of the Licensed Vehicle Workers' Union that until the dispute between the Underground Railway Companies and their employees was settled, it was impossible to say whether military lorries would continue to be used to convey the public on Monday or not.

PLAGUE IN WARSAW.

WARSAW, Feb. 5. The plague is raging in Kiev and Kovel and is also prevalent among the Ruthenian soldiers.

ABSOLUTE CONTROL NECESSARY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. Opposition to the proposals for investment in any nation of a mere mandatory control of the Pacific Islands by the Peace Conference was expressed in a cablegram from Premier Hughes of Australia, read before a meeting of the League of Free Nations here to-night. Absolute control of the islands is necessary, said the message, because mandatory control would not induce the expenditure of money on uncertain possessions.

TO FLY ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. Navy aviation experts are planning a flight across the Atlantic. Commander John H. Towers was ordered to-day to take charge of the development of plans and assembly of material and personnel for the proposed trans-Atlantic flight.

A BUSY SESSION.

PARIS, Feb. 7. Many important matters were before the Supreme War Council, comprising the Council of the Great Powers and the military commanders, on all French fronts, when it met to-day to consider primarily the extension of the armistice with Germany which expires on February 17. Although the final decisions were over until tomorrow the session was interesting from the number of subjects demanding attention that were represented by the naval and military chiefs. Reports were made to the council by the military high commands on the subject of demobilization and the relative forces of the powers to be maintained in the occupied regions. The Versailles military council also submitted a report as to the military forces available for the disturbed regions of Turkey. The naval branch of the council presented recommendations formulated as the result of consultations among the British, French, Italian and American naval commanders bearing mainly on the turning over of the German submarines, blockade restrictions and the surrender of the German commercial fleet. This fleet, it is said, is ready to be turned over but the Allies thus far have not agreed upon the allotment of the steamers among the various Allied nations, nor upon the compensation for the use of the vessels. The commission on blockade also presented a report favoring the lightening of the blockade recommendations in the Mediterranean and the Adriatic. A tendency was manifested in some military quarters to impose further drastic terms on Germany when the armistice was extended. No decision was received to-day as to what measures might be taken. After hearing these views of the military representatives, the Council of the Great Powers decided to continue the discussion to-morrow when the decisions will be made without the presence of these representatives. This last move was regarded in some quarters as significant of the gradual change from war conditions to those of normal peace times.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

LONDON, Feb. 8. (Reuter's).—Dr. Addison, President of the Local Government Board, has obtained sanction from the War Cabinet for his proposals for housing the working classes. He will take an early opportunity of laying them before the House of Commons. A circular on this subject has already been issued to the local governing bodies, and yesterday the President made a further explanatory statement. The present measures are to be confined to England and Wales, but similar plans relating to Scotland will be proceeded with. Hitherto because new housing was a crying need the Government had not promised any financial assistance dealing with slum areas, now, however, exactly the same assistance will be given for any losses incurred by local authorities in new schemes for clearance and improvement of sanitary areas where the local government board is satisfied that requirements cannot be met simply by the provision of new houses on a new site. The necessity for housing is urgent. The Government wants the authorities to move at once, therefore there is a time limit to the assistance. It will be given only for schemes submitted to the Local Government Board within the next two years unless circumstances are quite exceptional. The Government is helping in other ways. Housing commissioners have been appointed while special steps are being taken to make sure the bricks and building material are available. The local government has also arranged the standardising of fittings, but this does not mean that the houses will be built on one pattern.

The Government is anxious to avoid such a calamity. The settlement of the question of prices to be paid is a difficulty that it is hoped will be overcome by authorizing valuers from the Board of Inland Revenue to advise local authorities as to the worth of any land selected for the erection of houses. The bill implementing the Government's Housing Scheme will be pressed forward promptly, but there is no need for local authorities or public utility societies to wait for legislation, as the existing powers are sufficient for immediate action. Dr. Addison declared that owing to the stoppage of building operations by the war, it would be necessary to erect at least three hundred thousand dwellings for the working classes throughout the country.

The Evangelists.

The Campaign Closed With Two Crowded Services.

(C. C. M.)
With yesterday's meetings the Evangelistic campaign which has been on for the last five weeks closed, and it is gratifying to know that great success has attended it, and that much good has been accomplished.

We attended the afternoon meeting and learned a few things about the Evangelists which we were desirous of knowing so that we might pass them on to our readers before we lay aside our pen—or rather our pencil. Mr. Demarest is a gentleman about thirty-four years of age, and was born and raised in Louisville, Kentucky, U. S. A. His father was a minister of the Presbyterian Church of that place. When Mr. Demarest was ten years of age his father died, and nine years afterward his mother died also. His mother intended her son to follow in the steps of his father, and take up the same high calling, but he did not feel called in that direction.

From his mother he inherited the taste for music, and having received a good training in this art he found plenty to do as organist and choir-master. In business life he was interested in large insurance concerns, and only gave up that work for the purpose of accompanying his wife in her evangelistic tours around the world; and, being a good singer, and having given himself up fully to evangelism, he has thus found the right sphere in which to exercise his talents.

Our readers are already aware of who Mrs. Demarest is, hence it is not necessary to say anything further, but we might add that she is a lady of about twenty-eight years of age, and was married some two or three years ago.

Among the various things that were mentioned yesterday afternoon that which impressed us as being of the most importance was the reference to the practice of family worship. The Evangelist spoke briefly upon this towards the close of the meeting, and then read a card upon which was printed a pledge enjoining the daily observance of this Christian duty. We did not find out how many cards were signed, but we wondered what percentage of the families there represented was neglecting family prayer. True it is that some families neglect this duty, but surely there cannot be a great many. The great Roman Catholic Church teaches, enforces and practices the duty of family worship. The great Episcopal Church also does the same, and our knowledge of the non-sectarian churches assures us that family worship is expected from its membership.

Of all the movements which make the family circle a heaven, none surpass those moments devoted to family prayer. A home without family prayer is not at its best, nor can it be. The reading of the family Bible, or the hymn book, or the prayer book, or the breviary, or the Psalter, in the home with the children and loved ones around, has had a lot to do with developing a strong national Christian character, hence it is to be hoped that the duty is not being neglected, nor its benefits forgotten. Who that has led his children in the Lord's Prayer is not the better of it? Who that has led them in the Apostle's Creed is not the better of it? Who that reads daily in his home the Scriptures, and is not the stronger of having done so? These are some of the things that make family life dear, and the more they are observed the deeper will our devotions become.

From the morning paper we learn that the evening service was a good one, and that the same deep feeling of concern and conviction which has been manifested throughout all the campaign was upon the people. The discourse was one of the best of the series, and until the last minute the people were absorbed in the appeal of the Evangelist.

Before delivering the address the details of the work of the campaign were given, and from these we learn that over one thousand persons have been directly influenced by the labors of the Evangelists. This is a good showing, but we take a wider view than this, and say, that thousands in the city and outside of it, have felt the influences of these meetings, and that long after the campaign is over they will continue to bring forth good fruit.

To-night an organ recital will be given by Mr. Demarest at Cochrane Street Church from 8 o'clock to 9, and afterwards both Mr. and Mrs. Demarest will give a reception to all who wish to call upon them. We feel sure that a large number of friends of all classes of people will avail of this opportunity of shaking hands with the Evangelists and of wishing them good-bye.

Induction of Rev. D. B. Ashford.

Rev. Dudley B. Ashford was inducted as pastor of the Queen's Road Congregational Church yesterday morning by Revs. Dr. Cowperthwaite, T. B. Darby and J. Wilson. A large congregation assembled at the evening worship when the pulpit was occupied by the new pastor, who preached the sermon, taking as his text, "Son, remember," dealing for a short time with the return of the boys throughout the length of his interesting sermon the entire congregation listened with closest attention and all were sorry when it was eventually brought to a close. The new pastor is undoubtedly popular with the congregation and that he will continue to enjoy this is the Telegram's wish.

Hockey League Annual.

The annual meeting of the Hockey League was held Saturday night at the office of the President, Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C. Members of the different teams were present. The financial report was adopted, and the election of officers then took place. Messrs. W. J. Higgins and J. M. Tobin, as President and Secretary, respectively, were re-elected. It was decided that six men teams be the rule of the season, unless after the first round, the majority of members vote against it. It is hoped to play the opening game in a few weeks. The first round will be:
Victorias vs. Felidians.
Terra Novas vs. Victorias.
Felidians vs. Terra Novas.
The following amendments were also decided on—
I. Unanimously decided as follows that no men penalized during a game may be replaced for any portion of their penalty period.
II. That players must not be changed whilst play is in progress.
III. That the game consist of three periods of twenty minutes each, with five minutes interval between periods.
Fifty dollars were voted to the Ricketts Educational Fund.

Express Passengers.

S. S. Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 7.30 yesterday morning, with the following passengers:—J. B. Nathan, M. Blanche, J. M. Avery, G. and Mrs. Davis, H. Carter, J. Willis, F. F. Ford, J. A. Kennedy, A. Mason, Dr. C. McDonald, A. Shears, P. and Mrs. Farrell, J. Ross, Mrs. Alderice, F. Taylor.

Be Comforted.

The joy bells from the towers rang
Out o'er the harbours gladdened wave;
From every hill sweet echoes sang
A welcome to our soldiers brave.

Far out upon the deep is borne
Their joyous burst of melody—
The night breeze, ever and anon
Brings back the answer of the sea.
O'er many a mothers yearning heart
The full tide of exquisite joy
Floods at the sound—for soon she'll Clasp
Unto her breast her hero boy.

But oh! there's many a mother sad,
Whose tears are falling, as the 'one
Swells on the breeze, whose bosom heaves,
Who weeps in silence, weeps alone!

Oh, martyred hearts of motherhood!
The bells that ring of victory
Loud round a rescued world, would
Be mute and dumb if not for ye.

Your sons have stayed the onward march
Of tyranny across the earth,
God's own triumphant Knights are they,
Rejoice that you have given them birth.

The hero of the battle field
Shall be acclaimed with honor due
Mothers heretofore! no less a share
Of love, the love extends to you.

At St. Thomas's.

Last night, at Thomas's Rev. Dr. Jones preached a very eloquent and impressive sermon on labor and capitalism. The question of labor is as old as the human race, said the speaker, men have forever been wrestling with the labor problem. The exodus of Israel from the land of Egypt was a revolution against injustice, and ill-treatment, and Moses was their leader towards a better social condition.

All through the ages, injustice and tyranny have been the causes of the labor problem.

The Israelites cried to God and he heard them, and Pharaoh's lack of sympathy resulted in their escape. The Christian religion threw a little light on the matter, but the question has never been fully settled, and social conditions to-day are very much in need of adjustment. During the passing of the years there have been two crises, which have affected largely the labor question. First there was the French revolution, which was in reality an industrial upheaval, and helped to show up the importance of the laborer's problem, and the need of betterment in the social conditions of the people. In truth labor was not considered as a fact of life, until the French Revolution. The second crisis was the introduction of machinery into manufacturing. The utilization of machinery increased output, but it showed the difference between the employer and the employee, as people began to this the employer often worked with the laborers. After this the employer had his office, and became more aloof while the laborers consorted together more, and thus began to confer, and labor unions resulted. But still the problem remained, and the chief reason, then as now is the unfair proportion of profits received by laborers and capitalists.

Even as there were two crises in the labor movement there, were also two attempts by the laborers to solve the problem. Among the first would-be-reformers were such men as Adam Smith, and Ricardo. These men were from the wealthy classes, and could be known as the closet type of reformers, as they did not mix with the people. These men, preached the doctrine of the political economy or individualism, but their maxims, such as "free, untrammelled competition," "personal liberty," and "every man for himself," are now discarded. Then there was, and is, the working-men reformers. Sometimes these reformers are liked, but at other times hated, when they talk of seizing property by force, and killing the capitalist, then the reformer is justly condemned, but when the reformer says that the ideal of service, is to serve the community—and the community not to destroy initiative,—then we agree with him, and undoubtedly such socialism is spreading. The preacher said he was convinced that there was something wrong with the point of view of the bulk of the people of to-day. This is instanced in the one who thinks his business is his own and forgets that the men employed by him and the families of these men, are socially dependent upon him. Or again the capitalist who believes in untrammelled competition, and thinks that time, alone will solve the labor problem is wrong, for History shows us, that where the law of competition has been recognized as the law of nature, revolution has resulted. On the other hand, the laborer who thinks "he's all" is also wrong in his point of view, for he forgets the brains, the experience, the insight, and foresight of the capitalist, and thinks only of the money side of the question.

The preacher was also convinced that there was to much misery in the world, and too, in St. John's, and this misery, this needless worry, privation, and discomfort was due to our present economical and social conditions, and so long as these conditions prevail there will be duplication of discontent and murmurings.

MARLEY-DEVON.

To effect a remedy the state should provide for the worn out individual, and thus obliterate part of the misery.

Religion (said the preacher) will never be better until social conditions are better, for to-day Paganism is more prevalent than Christianity; because the spread of religion has an economic root.

But he continued, there is a danger in riches, and this is exemplified when we see a rich man snugly ensconced in his luxurious home, too well to do, to save his soul, while the poor man is so discontented that he has no time to think about it. Religious apathy is due to economic conditions. There is talk, said the preacher of a conciliation Board between the laborer and capitalist, but unless the gospel of good-will is preached, the Board cannot grapple with the difficulty successfully, for good-will is the silent-partner. The Church in the past has been recreant, and has done little ethically to help towards a settlement, but the change is coming, and when Jesus has been taken in, then will the tangle come right. The solution of the trouble lies in the observance of the golden rule, and our duty towards our neighbor. We must use the words of the text, the prayer of Peter "Lord not my feet only; but my hands and my head."

The hands of society, i.e., the laborers and the Head of society, i.e., the employers. Both want to be washed to take away the blindness, selfishness and indifference. The silent partner has been asleep for 19 centuries but is now awake, therefore he should be taken into account, and his voice heard, even as it will be heard at the Judgment seat, at the cleavage of the sheep from the goats.

The s.s. Trojan, which put in here Friday, while on her way to Heart's Content with a cargo of coal, will now land it at the Reid Nid. Co.'s premises and then haul up to the dock pier.

The s.s. Alconda arrived off the Narrows yesterday from Heart's Content to take on board an outward English mail, which was taken out in the tug John Green. Subsequently, however, the Alconda, owing to ice along the shore was obliged to return to St. John's, having been unable to get beyond Bay Bulls.

Sad Home Coming.

Pte. James J. Gladney, of "Ours," arrived by the Corsican. The young soldier is nothing the worse for his war experience, having come through without a scratch. Previous to enlisting Pte. Gladney was in the employ of T. J. Edens, and when the call for men came was one of the first to offer. The homecoming of the young hero was a very sad one, intelligence of his mother's death, having been handed him on arrival, and also that of his aunt, Mrs. J. Lamperth, formerly of this city, but at the time of decease living in Canada. Much sympathy is expressed for Pte. Gladney, in which the Telegram joins.

A WALKING

There is in a certain little town I sometimes visit a tribute to the way in which the little town in this war has been conducted.

It is not a written tribute or a printed tribute; it is a living, breathing tribute that works in the little town store and walks the streets.

Wasn't in the Least a Sissy. In the way of it. There was a little town, when the war broke out, a certain young man who was so sweet, so innocent, so good that visitors to the town sometimes spoke the words, "Galahad" in their comments on the young man had been brought from childhood by an old aunt who loved him very delicate and kept him at home, and would not let him go with other boys. This young man might have been a sissy, but the right sort of training in this boy and it made him Galahad.

Wondered What Camp Life Would Do To Sir Galahad.

When the war broke out he was in his late teens, and as the medical examiners did not agree with his aunt regarding him as delicate, he was sent to camp. To those who know what his life had been up to, it seemed almost inconceivable that he should be so completely cut away from home, and that he had had to be a week away from his home in the little village should go at once to so masculine unsheltered a life as the life of a training camp. "I can hardly believe what it will make of him," and yet I dread it, too."

When I was back in the little town and I found L. there still wore his uniform, but he had been "posted" in the county and as he waited on me in his sapper's cap, and this I found. There were signs in him, a little less shyness, more poise and surety, a better sense of the body and a look of strength about the face. But the thing we loved in that Scapa Flow.

WHERE THE HUN NAVY IS INTERNED.
I have my revenge at last. For four long winters I have been based on Scapa Flow, a harbour in the Orkney Islands large enough to hold the fleets of the world, and now the German High Seas Fleet, which has kept me at Scapa during what should have been the best four years of my life, is to be interned there itself.

Scapa is known by the Navy as "the last place on earth"—but it is really only in the midst of winter that this title is deserved. Then there are only about seven hours of daylight, and, owing to the rough sea, communication with the shore more or less ceases.

When the better weather arrives, parties are landed from the ships for recreation on the various islands. On the island of Flotta, the officers and men of the Grand Fleet have made a first-rate golf course of eighteen holes, and this is the chief attraction at Scapa. This island also had several football and hockey grounds.

Several ships have cultivated plots of land on the island of Farn, and have quite useful vegetable gardens. Unfortunately, however, the ship sometimes leaves for another port just when its best produce is waiting to be gathered, and on its return is perhaps nicely ready for next year's seed.

In the early days of the war men were much inconvenienced by having nowhere to shop, but in 1915 the S.S. Borodino was chartered by the Junior Army and Navy Stores, who started a floating branch of their establishment at Scapa. This ship had set came as a blessing to the Fleet, for she contained a laundry and a hairdressing saloon, and in the shop were to be purchased all manner of articles and luxuries which help to comfort those who "go down to the sea in ships."

The after-hold of the S.S. Gourko, a provision-ship and sister of the Borodino, was early in 1916 turned into a theatre, so that while in the daytime the Gourko carried on provisioning the Fleet, at night she was able to lay alongside any warship requiring accommodation for a concert. Our surgeon will always have a good word for Scapa; for its air is most bracing, and with the climate slightly warmed by the Gulf Stream, it might be called a health resort.

The Week's Opera.

A very interesting and enjoyable evening is in store for the spectators of "Princess Ju Ju" to be staged in the Casino on Wednesday and Thursday nights by the pupils of the Conservatory of Mercy. Some ex-pupils will also take part, and nothing has been overlooked in trying to make the play a success, and the dances, costumes and all else in connection have been most carefully arranged and rehearsed, while the orchestra as advertised is proof positive that the musical arrangements will be everything desirable.

Men skimp and save until the grave has got them in its keeping; they plant and sow in toll and woe for heirs' and lawyers' reaping. "I can't afford to step aboard a ship and visit Parry," says a y. s. Farmer Jones, who has more bones than any man could carry. "I'd like to see the world," says he, "I'd like full well to travel; but saving dimes for wintry times just keeps me scratching gravel." Some day he dies, worn out he lies, by hard work beaten under; and lawyers stand on every hand and look around for plunder. He's left his wad and gone abroad across the silent waters; and every bone he had is blown by spendthrift sons and daughters: For bonds and stocks and dust and rocks a dead man has no vision; no passing soul can take a roll into the fields Elysian. We live but once and he's a dunce who gets no fun from living, who always saves and never lives the joy of spending, giving. The wise man salts in fireproof vaults a portion of his treasure, then takes the rest and goes a-guest for eighteen kinds of pleasure. He puts a plunk in his tin trunk, then takes another dollar and paints the town a reddish brown and makes the peelers holler.

Our American Letter.

Charleston, South Carolina, Jan. 30.—It seems strange that mere guess work about this country's war activities should have been accepted as truth before the official statements were given out. We have now the announcement of the War Department showing that the United States had the second largest army in France up to the signing of the armistice, being larger than that of Great Britain by several hundred thousand men. We are also told officially that American ships carried overseas 48 per cent. of the American troops and that 90 per cent. of them were conveyed by American warships.

These statements should forever set rest the wild delusions entertained by many persons that the United States was practically helpless as regards moving her troops. It may also surprise many that a considerable number of the finest ships under the British flag have for years been owned by New York interests. One of these great lines is now about to be transferred to the American flag.

The sentiment against the Prohibition law is gathering force. Many people contend that such legislation is unconstitutional. The people themselves did not vote on the question, the legislatures of the various States ratifying the measure without recourse to a referendum. While the death of strong drink is certainly a blessing to the nation, there is a vast amount of cant and hypocrisy indulged in. The millionaire of Fifth Avenue whose collars are filled with the finest brands of Cognac and Scotch, sufficient to last him the remainder of his life, rails against the poor laborer who indulges in a glass of two per cent. beer in a Tenth Ave. saloon.

If any fairminded man can see the justice in allowing the rich prohibition advocate to fill his cellars with liquor before the law goes into effect while denying forever to the poor workman his favourite beverage, he must be a remarkable person indeed. When such men as Cardinal Gibbons, and such influential newspapers as the New York World, denounce the measure as a blow at personal liberty, even the rabid advocates of prohibition must realize that the question has two sides.

The King of Hedjas is a new boy in the school of diplomacy. He is admitted as a delegate to the Peace Congress while Newfoundland is shut out. There are several countries which were non-combatants in the war which are allowed representation. Hayti is one of these, but as that country is to all intents and purposes a possession of the United States, its vote will probably count on the side of America. There are several other little nations which have only been nominally at war with Germany that should not take precedence over Newfoundland, a Dominion that has given its full measure of blood and treasure to the great cause. Newfoundland is ever the Cinderella of the British Dominions. She can now sympathise with Ireland which has also been refused admission to the holy of holies at Versailles. The effect of this ruling will not be to raise the standing of poor old Terra Nova amongst her sister Dominions. If Newfoundland attaches any value to a seat at the momentous Council, she should make her protest heard by those in authority.

(Our correspondent is guilty of a technical error. Newfoundland is represented at the Peace Conference by her Prime Minister.—Editor.)

I read the letter from a Frenchman in regard to the transfer to Newfoundland of St. Pierre and Miquelon and I feel that he has disposed of the question for all time. The annexation could not take place without declaring the Monroe Doctrine a dead letter. And I am sure most Newfoundlanders sympathise with the gallant Islanders in their desire to remain under the flag of chivalrous France. It is the last remnant of a once great empire in that part of the world and sentiment and love for France, if nothing else, should be against the transfer.

The great trade war has begun. This time it is friendly rivalry, not a struggle, born of hate and ambition, upon the blood-stained field. Both Great Britain and the United States are out for supremacy in the world's markets. The ever-growing American merchant marine will soon play a wonderful part in the industrial life of the nation.

One great difficulty America has to contend with is the high rate of wages paid on American ships. This must be overcome by a subsidy or some other means, else the more cheaply paid sailors of other nations will win the race. There will be another great struggle for trade in the Pacific, where Japan is intent on holding first place. Ships manned by coolie sailors receiving a few cents a day in wages will have the advantage for a time, but whether they will effect a permanent stranglehold on Eastern commerce remains to be seen.

It is hoped that an international standard of wages will be adopted at the Peace Congress so that the race for trade supremacy may be started without the present handicap which faces both Great Britain and America. The old trade saying "A fair field for all" should be the watchword.

Can Germany come back? That is a question which is causing some concern in many quarters. It is taken for granted that Germany feels far from repentant and that her present form of government is pure camouflage designed to pull the wool over the eyes of the Allies. Her soldiers are being received everywhere with the plaudits that are only given to victorious troops.

Germany possesses enormous industrial resources and with her genius for concentration and intensive labor, she may again be in a position to threaten the world unless the nations are on their guard. Some of her great plants are already running full blast with machinery stolen from France and Belgium. Will the Allies allow Germany to keep this machinery while the nations from which it was stolen must wait, for years perhaps, before they will be in a position to compete with the conscienceless despoilers.

George Bernard Shaw, the celebrated British writer, continues his accusations against the British Government for having started the world war. If we are to believe Shaw, all our sympathy for France and Belgium has been wasted and our execrations should be hurled at Great Britain instead of poor misguided Germany. Shaw is in his element when he assumes a position of this sort. He is either mentally unbalanced or gifted with a power of divination at present unknown to mortals. Shaw is erratic, whether purposely or otherwise is not known, but erratic just the same. Lady Randolph Churchill at one time sent him an invitation to a house party and received the following telegram: "What have I done that I should depart from my well known habits?" Lady Churchill wired Shaw in reply: "Know nothing about your habits. Hope they are not as bad as your manners."

It is said that 20,000 Americans in the Canadian Army gave up their lives in the war. With the nearly 70,000 American soldiers under Pershing who "went west" for Liberty makes a large death list. W. M. DOOLEY.

Star Annual at Holyrood

The Star of the Sea Association of Holyrood held its annual meeting on Sunday last, 2nd inst. Owing to the prohibition of public gatherings by the Health Authorities on account of the prevalence of the "flu" the meeting was postponed to this date. A good attendance was present, and two new members were admitted. The reports of the year's proceedings and business which were submitted to the meeting by Secretary Dwyer and Treasurer Maloney, showed the Society to be in a sound financial condition, and passed with but little discussion. During the summer months the Hall was painted exteriorly and interiorly in first class style by Mr. M. P. Williams, city, and L. Barron, and necessitated an expenditure of over $300.00, yet there was a substantial balance to the credit of the Reserve Fund at Bank. The painting was made possible by the proceeds of St. Patrick's Night concert conducted by the Organist, Miss Flynn, and a contribution of $100.00 from Rev. Fr. Finn, to whom grateful thanks were acknowledged and tendered.

The election gave the following officers to the S. S. A. for 1919:—President, Wm. Veltch, elected by acclamation; Vice-President, J. J. Carroll, elected; 1st Asst., V. F. Constable Grouchey, elected; 2nd Asst., Y. P. Richard Harding, elected; Treasurer, J. J. Maloney, re-elected; Asst. Treasurer, Daniel Walsh, re-elected; Secretary, J. A. Hannon, elected; Grand Marshal, David Boland, elected; Deputy Marshal, Bernard Walsh, elected; Amusement Committee—Messrs. P. J. Lewis, J. J. Carroll, Constable Grouchey, J. J. Maloney, M. C. Dunphy, Bernard Barrett and Bernard Walsh; Custodian, David Boland.

The Chairman of the election, Mr. J. A. Hannon, was tendered a vote of thanks for the able manner in which he conducted the election of officers, and the new officers having been installed, nicely thanked the meeting in brief speeches for their election and promised to do their best to advance the interests of the Association. And a chorus of thanks was tendered to the retiring Secretary, Mr. R. Dwyer, for his efficient and experienced services to the Association since its foundation, and was thankfully recognized by him.

The Reading Room has made good progress within the year and is in good standing financially. A comfortable and commodious room in connection with the Star Hall is now finished, and open free, to all the young men of the community, for healthful and helpful amusement and recreation.

The St. Patrick's Night Concert has justified itself as the pillar and buttress fund of the Association and the valued and helpful services of Miss Flynn will again be solicited to keep on the good work of paramount importance to the Association financially and to the intellectual training and refinement of the youth.

Expressions of sympathy were conveyed to the Rev. Father Finn on the destruction of his parish church. The Hall was placed at the disposal of a temporary place of worship and these were celebrated public appeal for the building of the new church.

One brother member of the year, Mr. Wm. Moore, died of sympathy together with benefit of $40.00 was sent to his widow, Mrs. Mary Moore, Stella Maris.—Com. Holyrood, Feb. 7, 1919.

HUGE DOCK FOR LONDON.
LONDON, Feb. 9. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The great work of the extension of the Royal Albert Dock is near completion, and it is expected that the new portion will be brought into use before next autumn. Work was begun in August, 1912. The existing Albert dock has a water area of rather more than 73 acres. The approximate water area of the new dock is 84 acres, with a depth of 38 feet. The entrance lock which is 890 feet wide, with a depth of 41 feet eight inches below high water of tides, will be divided into two compartments, respectively 550 and 350 feet in length, by three pairs of steel gates worked by hydraulic machinery. The lock is being so designed as to be capable of extension, by means of a floating caisson, to 910 feet. This would allow the docking of a ship as large as the Aquitania, that is to say 868 and a half feet between perpendiculars, and 97 feet beam. Both lock and passage communication with the Albert Dock are practically finished, with the exception of the lock gates, opening bridges and machinery, work on which the Government would not allow to proceed until six months ago, when special facilities were secured. Operations are now being pressed forward with all possible speed. The dry dock is situated at the western end of the wet dock, and has a length of 750 feet with a width of 100 feet, and a depth of 35 feet over the keel blocks. It will accommodate a vessel of twenty-five thousand tons, and is being equipped for lifting loads up to twenty tons from the centre of the dock. At its full equipment, the new dock will offer berthing accommodation for 15 large ships. It will possess a transit shed as well as the most modern appliances for rapid handling of cargo.

BEGINNING TO LEARN.
PARIS, Feb. 9. The Supreme War Council is reported to have reached a decision at yesterday's meeting that it was necessary to impose more severe conditions upon Germany for the removal of the armistice, because of Germany's attitude towards the fulfillment of her obligations. Decisions are also said to have been reached for the control of German demobilization, and of the production of plants formerly engaged in producing war material. It is expected that the means for securing the execution of the conditions laid down, will be reached at Monday's session of the Council.

PLACATING THE SOLDIERS.
LONDON, Feb. 9. A War Office statement, explaining the disorders among soldiers, says there was an accumulation of 11,000 men in London, owing to a one day delay in the Channel crossing, through bad weather. Nine thousand men were dispatched early to-day. Of these, about 230 made a demonstration, and nine of the ringleaders were arrested for incitement, while the others were sent to France for duty. General Sir William R. Robertson, Commander of the forces in Great Britain, has been instructed to arrange so that all men, detained through weather or strikes hereafter, shall be provided with food and quarters and furnished with five shillings a day, additional compensation. The statement calls attention to the rule providing that men guilty of disorders, through impatience, shall be placed at the bottom of the lists for demobilization.

DISCUSSING LABOR TROUBLES.
LONDON, Feb. 9. Premier Lloyd George, who returned from Paris last night, was engaged early this morning in discussing the labor troubles in the Kingdom with the Cabinet Ministers and Board of Trade officials. Many meetings of railway workers were in progress during the day, for the discussion of labor questions, from the national standpoint. Immediately upon the return of Arthur Henderson from the continent, a joint meeting will be held of the Labor Party and Trades Union Parliamentary Committee and other interested bodies to discuss the situation.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS AT HALIFAX.
HALIFAX, Feb. 9. Among the soldiers who returned by the Carnarvon yesterday to this district, were two Newfoundland men, P. W. Morgan, of Manuels, and P. F. Noble, of Little Bay Mines.

LONDON, Feb. 9. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Prince Arthur of Connaught, in opening the Conference of the Imperial Union of Teachers, convened by the League of Empire for Overseas Teacher-Teachers, and held in the Marble Hall of the India Office at which 600 attended, said he hoped that before their returned home they would see FAVOR CANADIAN NAVAL POLICY.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 8. The Dominion Convention of the Navy League of Canada, at their meeting this morning, went on record that the Navy League of Canada is in favor of a naval policy for Canada, which will have regard to the needs of the entire British Empire, and is decided upon such a policy. Political exigencies should be disregarded, and the opinion of the most eminent naval strategists alone considered.

SPARTACANS ACTIVE IN HAMBURG.
HAMBURG, Feb. 8. There has been a fresh outbreak of Spartacan activity in Hamburg, where after a distribution of arms, the Spartacans carried the Town Hall by storm on Thursday, according to a despatch from Berlin, quoting the Frankfort Gazette.

ALSO IN BERLIN.
ZURICH, Switzerland, Feb. 10. Grave Spartacan disorders broke out in Berlin on Saturday evening, and, according to advices received here, soldiers and sailors, commanded by former Chief of Police Eichenorn, are reported to have occupied Alexanderplatz and Government troops opened fire upon them, eight persons being killed and forty wounded. It is said the German censorship is withholding details of the trouble.

LABOR PROGRAMME.
DUBLIN, Feb. 10. The all-Ireland Labor Conference, held here on Saturday, adopted a programme calling for a forty-four hour week, and an increase of 150 per cent. in wages over pre-war rates, with an absolute minimum of fifty shillings per week. All the results of the Conference have been passed on to the various Labor Unions for decision, it being stipulated that the Unions' action on the programme should be submitted to the National Executive Committee by March 1. The Conference passed a resolution pledging support to the Belfast strikers.

TRADE AND LABOR MEETING.
LONDON, Feb. 9. Representatives of many London manufacturers met in conference to-day delegates representing over 20 Trades' Unions, in an effort to define the obstacles to more cordial relations. After a long discussion, in which Baron Balfour, of Burtleigh, and W. A. Appleton, Secretary of the General Federation of Trades Unions, were the chief speakers, joint committees were elected with a view to arriving at an agreement or a programme. Large meetings of workers were held to-day in most of the big towns in the country, and there were discussions of labor grievances, especially the question of working hours.

“SELLING OFF” BOARD.
LONDON, Feb. 9. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The Minister of Munitions has appointed a central authority to deal with the disposal of surplus Government property. Keeping Their Jobs Open.

When the boys went away to the war; when we cheered them and wished them "good luck;" one of the things we made to them was that they should not want for a job when they came back. In fact, we promised ourselves that they should have the best jobs we had, and—then prices kept going up, we got so busy hustling round making profits on the one hand or trying to make both ends meet, if we were not in the way of making big profits on the other, that we temporarily forgot about the jobs we had promised them as Newfoundlanders.

Well, now the boys are back, or getting back, and how about the jobs? The outport business man has not a great deal to offer in the way of jobs, and we do not think any of the boys who went to the war would find it difficult to get their old places again if they wanted it. From what we can hear of St. John's business men, they too, have been ready to take on the boys again.

There remains the Civil Service—the Government job. Not always too much salary, it is true, but generally not too much work at any rate. We certainly believed that the Returned Soldier should have the first offer in any Government job that he was fitted for. We believe the people of the country felt like this as a whole, and everyone thought the government would carry into effect this placing of returned soldiers in vacancies in the civil service.

But alas, for the wiles of politicians, and the importunities of party heeler. The Returned Soldier is NOT going into the Government job, and the Heeler is!

A most glaring case has recently been brought to the notice of the Government by the War Veterans' Association in St. John's. A position as Customs Officer at Stephenville Crossing, a railway settlement at the head of St. George's Bay, has been filled by a man who was previously earning good wages as a lumber surveyor, and several disabled soldiers at Stephenville Crossing were ignored.

The War Veterans go on to point out that two vacancies in the civil service now exist in St. John's caused by the death of Mr. Bill Whiteway, who was responsible for meeting patients for the General Hospital, and Mr. Cantwell at the Cabot Tower who had charge of firing the noon gun, and that both positions could be filled, and should be filled by returned soldiers. —Twillingate Sun.

Ebert to the Germans Back From War.

"You can return with heads erect!" So Ebert, to the German hosts, Well beaten! Aye! your banners necked With guileless blood, with swarming hosts Walling about your cars, your name Foul in all nostrils, greedy Night's Deep may full-glutted with the shame Of all you fed her with, new blights Of your devising, torturing flesh, Your own and alien, cross-bedecked— You can return with heads erect!"

Though Michael, with the fall of thunder, thrash The dead harvest of the Late you sowed, And winnow with the hurricane to find The sharpest gibe, the perfect, bitter curse, He shall not garner worse Than this, from one of your own kind: "You can return with heads erect!"

Just God! the German intellect! Until the Day when battle-mold Shall flower with slain; until forgot, ten pits In field and town no more with-hold Their words; until, to Him that sits As Judge above, shall rise the German name; None shall more venomously hiss Upon that name than Ebert—German name Shall bear no darker smirch than this: "You can return with heads erect!" —William Laird, in New York Times.

Whiskey and Politics in Ireland.

In Ireland the Sinn Feiners think they have discovered a new method of annoying the British Government. The intention is to refuse to pay taxes of any description. In order to carry this out effectively, it is necessary to stop drinking whiskey, and accordingly there is an enthusiastic temperance movement spreading throughout the island.

Every drink of whiskey consumed, benefits the revenue to the extent of approximately three half-pence. If the consumption can be completely stopped, the imperial exchequer will be poorer by about five million pounds annually.

Feminism in Japan.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 25.—There is a feminist party in Japan. Japanese women resent the characterization that they are "cute and sweet." They want to be known as useful and progressive. And they are working and studying to win that recognition.

One of the leaders in this movement to throw off the shackles of the Orient is Madam Hirooka of Osaka. Madam Hirooka is said to be the richest woman in Japan, and furthermore, after her husband's death, she managed the great estate which fell to her. Banking interests, coal mines and an insurance company of which she was one of the organizers are among her business interests.

Some Hen.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A remarkable hen that laid 308 eggs in a year was a feature of the National Poultry Show, which opened recently at the stock yards. The hen is the property of John W. Welch, of Omaha, Neb. What is said to be the tallest gamecock on record, a bird 36 inches high, was another notable entry.

When you want Roast Beef, Roast Veal, Roast Mutton, Roast Pork, try ELLIS'.

Escaped Convict.

Fought in France; Now Re-arrested. Denver, Colo., Jan. 25.—Sergeant Walter R. Reel, alias Walter Rifenberg, recently discharged from the Canadian army, with which he served in France, where he was wounded three times, was arrested here last night as an escaped prisoner from the Lancaster, Neb., penitentiary. Reel, who, the police say, admits his identity, was sentenced to prison 10 years ago on a murder charge, and escaped after serving five years.

EDITOR HONOURED.

Charles R. Miller, Editor-in-Chief of The Times, was 70 years old yesterday. Members of the editorial staff celebrated the event by surprising him with a silver loving cup.

At the regular editorial council, which assembled daily at 2 p.m., short addresses were made by members of the staff. Mr. Miller's service on The Times, extending over forty-five years was highly praised.—N.Y. Times.

MOTOR CARS

A First Prize of $500.00 was recently awarded a Buick Motor Car owner in an extensive advertised long distance mileage contest conducted by a Roller Bearing manufacturer.

The Buick Car, winning this prize, had traveled 262,000 miles in all kinds of weather on all kinds of roads. The car was manufactured in 1909 and had been in almost continuous service ever since.

In its travels 15,000 gallons of petrol consumed, 200 tires were used and the car covered a distance equal to 9½ times around the world.

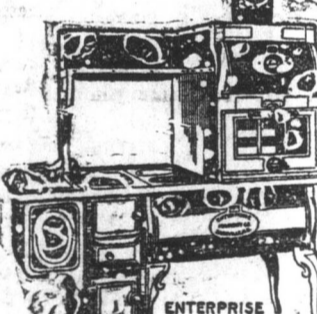

The same quality material and workmanship which made this record possible is being used in the construction of the Buick Car to-day. This is why the growth in production has never been able to keep pace with the increase in demand.

When Better Cars Are Built Buick Will Build Them.
