STEWART'S

Home Made Bread,

THE BREAD MY BADDY LIKES.

Daddy is evidently not one of those back number lords of creation who believes that woman's place is in the home—and only there. His taste in a wife is an up-to-date woman who will prove herself a real companion. He knows that if she is a slave to her kitchen she can't enjoy the poise or have the interest in world affairs that a little extra leisure would make possible; and so he is pleased to eat MRS. STEWART'S HOME MADE BREAD—the loaf with the home made flavor.
The smiling, well-nourished kiddie doesn't look as though suffering because mother is progressive enough to buy good bread made by a bread specialist, instead of wearing out her life in the kitchen.

CHAPTER XX.
DECEIVED.

Jeanne does not cry for long, the very violence of her grief forbids that, and almost as suddenly as she threw herself on her knees, calling on "Hal," she is upright again and facing her position. With a little tremor of shyness and alarm; she looks at the strange richness of her surroundings, upon the decorations of the dainty little rooms, the rare hangings and exquisite furniture, the costly appointments—where is she?

As she goes to the table, her hands fall on a magnificent dressing-case, and her gaze rests on the coronet and initials emblazoned on each of the brushes, upon the golden tops of the scent-bottles.

And here Jeanne remembers that she is the Marchioness of Ferndale; it is not all a strange and fevered dream. The man from whom she has fled, whose hard, cruel words ring in her burning ears is her lover, is the great marquis, and she—is his wife.

Jeanne hides her face in her hands, and thinks—thinks as she never thought before, staring at the sweet, pale face which stares back at her in the glass.

Every word of that bitter accusation she calls up, sparing herself not one. She has deceived him—yes; no matter with what motive. It is true that she has deceived him! How could she tell him of the doubts and fears which kept her silent on all concerning that hateful visit of the Lady Lucelle. She had deceived him, and lost his love—shall see how she can play the part which he has set her."

And as this resolve is made, Jeanne is a girl no longer, but a woman—proud, contented, and injured!

If he could see her now, surely it would recall to him the lithe, upright figure, standing so so often he has seen it stand on the beach, with the clear eyes looking out to the sea; and he would take back the bitter words and angry looks that have built up the barrier between them.

If he could see her now, her white little forehead puckered in her endeavor to solve the problem of her future course, he would himself solve it there and then. But while she fights for courage, struggles against the dull anguish that beats at her heart, he is moodily, remorsefully wasting the precious moments of reconciliation in the night air; and thus wasted they vanish, to return, who shall say when?

CHAPTER XXI.
UNDER A VENEER OF COURTESY.

"Oh, yes, 'tis now September, the harvest has begun. The golden-headed barley is ripening in the sun."

So hums a gentleman, who, leaning on his gun, stops to wipe the perspiration from his face. Tramping by his side in a companionable sportsman. Both of them we know, for the man who is singing is that Lord Charles Nugent, who, nine months ago, said farewell to a certain Vernon Vane on the platform of Marly Station.

There is the same careless, happy-go-lucky expression on his face, and as he whistles and hums the old English air and quaint words, he looks more like a schoolboy than a man whose name is famous votaries. His companion is no other than our old friend Clarence, Viscount Lane. Now, Lady Lucelle had said in her letter that Clarence Fitzjames was very much changed since he had become Lord Lane, and she had only spoken the truth.

He had spent the last three months in travel and in losing that languid, lackadaisical air, upon which, as Clarence Fitzjames, he prided himself pretty considerably, but which as Lord Lane he felt ought to be abandoned. He had cast off the self-affectedness, and, as no one can travel and move about in the world without acquiring a little information and increment of knowledge, he was rather more sensible than of yore.

As a finishing touch I should like to be able to add that his morals had improved, but—well, that is said on that part of the subject the better, perhaps. A man's manner may be improved by his becoming a viscount, but his morals, as a rule, remain what they were, or grow more luxurious with increased opportunity.

But certainly Clarence was improved, was less conceited, less self, and if not less selfish, had learned the art of concealing his selfishness, and passing for a "real good fellow."

Upon the hill up which the two men were climbing stood a gray old pile, Nugent Abbey, Charlie's ugly but substantial country seat.

"Jolly hot," says Nugent, "more like July than September, no wonder the birds seemed half-asleep."

"And we've been getting along so," remarks Clarence, wiping the perspiration from his face and shifting his game-bag to the other shoulder.

"Can't help it," rejoins Charlie. "I'm afraid Ferndale and his wife will be there now before I get home, and I'm anxious to see him when he arrives—not that I need stand on ceremony with him; but there's his wife, whom I haven't seen yet. You don't know her, do you?"

"No," replies Clarence, with a yawn that shows his double row of excellent teeth, "nor him neither. We have never met, although I've heard of his going to the same house as myself; but something kept either him or me away, and we never met. Awful big pot, isn't it?"

"What, old Vane?" laughs Charlie. "There isn't a jollier fellow going—when you know him. A little stiff at first, perhaps, and a little what-do-you-call-it—eccentric; but as easy going as a windmill. Awfully glad he's coming! We haven't seen each other for nine months. The funniest start he went on that ever you heard of!"

"Sh-sh!" breaks in Clarence, suddenly, "there goes a brace!" and, raising his gun, he brings them down.

"And his wife—what's she like?" asks Clarence, trudging back with the newly-slaughtered victims in his hand.

"Usual kind of them, I suppose—all and serene, in black satin—it's black velvet if it's a duchess, satin for a marchioness, and I suppose all the rest of 'em have to go in silk."

Nugent laughs.

"Getting quite a cynic in your old age, Lane. No, the marchioness isn't anything of that kind. Why, man, didn't you hear them talking about her at dinner last night?"

"There was a great deal of cackle about some one, but I didn't pay much attention," says Clarence, with a little sigh.

Charlie laughs, and claps him on the back.

"Thinking of past times and lost loves, eh, old man? Oh, I've heard you were awfully hard hit last year—somewhere down in the country, wasn't it?"

Clarence nods, and sighs as he lights a well-worn briarwood pipe.

"You're right, I was; and what's more, I haven't got over it yet, for all your chaffing."

The Improved Tasteless Preparation of an Extract of Cod Liver Oil

A Splendid Tonic for Delicate Women and Children

Prepared by DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., Manufacturing Chemists, Montreal

"Lucky beggars, most of you are," says Lord Charles, with light envy. "Never was hit in my life; don't know what a grand passion is. Seen plenty of pretty women, too, in my time. Suppose my day will arrive perhaps when I'm old, and have the family gun? One generally gets knocked over by a schoolgirl, doesn't one? and acquires a past fondness for bread and butter, and marmalade."

"Chaff away," says Clarence. "If you don't know what it means, you are the lucky one. But about the marchioness?"

"Eh? Oh, I was going to observe that everybody says she is to be the new beauty. Two or three of the fellows in the smoking-room last night had been staying at Ferndale, and they swear she's the most beautiful young creature they've ever seen, and as charming as she is beautiful. Rather wonderful that, isn't it? For my part, most of the lovely women are confounded bores. It's the same with horses; if ever you see anything on four legs as pretty as paint, you may lay your life there's something wrong—deuce of a temper, splint thrown, or something. But, of course, the marchioness is the exception that proves the rule, and Ferndale's a happy man!"

By this time the two men had made their way into the grounds, and were crossing the lawn.

"Well, I'll go and make myself fit," said Clarence; and Lord Charles, throwing his gun and bag to a servant, inquired if any visitors had arrived.

"Lord and Lady Ferndale, my lord," said the man. "The marquis is in his dressing-room."

Charlie sprang up the stairs two at a time, and knocked at the door of one of the dressing-rooms attached to the suite set apart for the marquis and his newly-married wife.

"Come in," said Vane's voice, and the next moment the two friends were hand in hand.

"Well, old man!" exclaimed Charlie, cheerily, "awfully glad to see you—awfully! How are you? Let's have a look at you." And with a laugh he took Vane by the elbows and turned him around to the light.

Vane laughed, but with an undertone of uneasiness that the other noticed instantly.

"Hem!" said Charlie, dropping his hold and flinging himself into a chair. "I've seen you look chipper, old man."

"I'm well enough," said Vane, catching up the hairbrushes and brushing away like mad; "in fact, I'm quite well."

"And the marchioness?" asked Charlie. "I ought to have asked after her first; always forgetting my manners. Awfully good of you to come to us so soon. And now, old man, I'll congratulate you. Jove! I was a prophet when I prophesied mischief would come of that hermit business at Newton Regis."

"Mischief?" said Vane, with a slight smile.

Charlie laughed.

"According to all accounts, you're the luckiest of lucky men, Vane. We've had no end of reports of her beauty and popularity. Not always were fortunate, old fellow!"

"Yes," says Vane, and he turned to tell Willis, the valet, who had entered, that he might go again; "yes," he said. "So they say she is very beautiful, do they?"

Bolsheviks Attack Persian British Outposts.

Turkish Leader Will Not Attend London Conference--Barcelona Has Labor Crisis--France Will Not Yield on Reparations Demand--Gloucester Must Observe Schooner Race Regulations.

BOLSHEVISTS ATTACK BRITISH.

KEMEL GIVES TROUBLE.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 2. Mustafa Kemal has sent a wireless dispatch to the Allied representatives at Constantinople declining to attend the conference in London which discusses the Turkish and Greek situation and contesting the right of Greek Pasha's cabinet to represent Turkey.

BAVARIAN IMPUDENCE.
LONDON, Feb. 2. Resolutions protesting against the "arbitrary decisions" reached at the Conference of the Supreme Council in Paris have been adopted by the Bavarian Diet, says a Times despatch.

COAL RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.
LONDON, Feb. 2. The Department of Mines announces that controlled prices on the distribution of inland coal will be removed March 1st. Restriction will remain on export coal, where there will probably be a deficiency for some supply.

THE BASIS NOT THE DECISION.
BERLIN, Feb. 2. Germany does not consider the terms of reparation decided upon by the Supreme Council of the Allies as being a final settlement of the indemnity question, but as a basis of further negotiations, it was indicated by Dr. Walter Simons, Foreign Minister, in his address before the Reichstag yesterday.

U. S. and PREPAREDNESS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. A warning against pacifists and unpreparedness was given to the House Naval Committee to-day by General Pershing, who appeared to discuss world disarmament. While expressing approval of the proposal for a world disarmament conference, he said the United States should go ahead with its present navy and army programme until a definite agreement had been reached by at least five great world nations. We should steer clear of drifting into a pacifist state of mind simply because we are discussing this subject. General Pershing asserted. None of us wants war, but we do not want to be caught unprepared if war comes.

FISHING SCHOONER RACE.
GLOUCESTER, Feb. 2. Eligibility of the schooner Mayflower, which was to have been built in Boston, as a contender for the privilege of representing the United States in this year's International Fishing Schooner Races, has been challenged by the Canadian Race Committee at Halifax, on the ground that she will not be ready for sea till June and will not be able to do the season's fishing, required under rule five of the races. At least three vessel owners here have declared their intention of entering craft in the elimination races for the honor of defending the cup next fall.

FRANCE REMAINS FIRM.
PARIS, Feb. 2. Official information regarding the German attitude towards the reparations' terms formulated by the Supreme Council of the Allies last week, had not come into the possession of the French Government this afternoon, but it was said in official circles that if Foreign Minister Simons had in reality announced refusal of the terms as the basis for negotiations, it would not change the attitude of the Allies, who consider the terms merely details in the execution of the treaty of Versailles.

MRS. HACHEY IS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

She Was Weak, Nervous and Run Down Before She Started to Use the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Chissum, via Shipigan, N.B., Feb. 2nd.—(Special).—"I can tell you in all sincerity that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best in the world. I have used them and I am always praising them." These enthusiastic eulogies of Dodd's come from Mrs. S. Hachey, well-known and highly respected here.

"I think I inherited my trouble from my parents," Mrs. Hachey continues. "I was troubled with sciatica, I had cramps in my muscles and backache. My appetite was uncertain. I was easily fatigued and sleeplessness helped to make me more wretched. My nerves were also bad."

It will be seen from the above that Mrs. Hachey was in a very badly run-down condition. The benefit she got from the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills is shown by the praise she gives them.

Weak, run-down women all over Canada will hear with pleasure the statement Mrs. Hachey makes. Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills is not the remedy they are looking for.

Harbor Grace Notes.
Mr. J. Savage of Messrs. Harvey & Co., Ltd., St. John's, arrived in town on Friday last, on a brief business visit. As this was the place of his home, during his boyhood days, he was much pleased to review the acquaintance and receive the hearty handshake of a number of his old friends of long ago, some of them having attended the long to be remembered Grammar School of "ye olden times" with him. He says he can see many changes here since he left to make his home in the city, and only a few of the old stock remain. Mr. Savage went back to St. John's again on Saturday.

The Charity Concert, which took place at St. Paul's Hall on Thursday night last, was indeed a good success; every bit of available space being taken up, in order to seat the large number, who were anxious to make the proceeds as high as possible, it being for such a worthy cause. Every item on the programme was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Mr. W. H. Kennedy at the closing of the night's performance, on behalf of the promoter, Mr. T. G. Ford, and the other members of the committee, which was formed to look after the distribution of the money to those in need, thanked all who had in any way, helped to raise the fine sum of $140.00, which was the proceeds for the night. Mr. Kennedy informed us, that something of this nature and for the same cause, would be put before the public, each month, from now on, until things begin to brighten up. As he remarked, it is not only those of our town, who are always regarded as poor, that at this time are in distressing circumstances; but many of the respectable class, who just because of the stress of the hard time and shortage of labor, etc., have no means of livelihood; but at the same time, do not care to make their— we will not say poverty—but state of affairs known to the public. However, with the assistance of the clergymen of the different denominations and through the medium of this newly formed Relief Committee, every effort will be made to help deserving cases. There is no doubt but Harbor Grace will look out for its own; it has never shirked its duty in the past, and in the future, it will certainly continue to hold up its good name to the biggest standard.

The Fancy Dress Carnival which took place at the Rink on Harvey St. last night was very well attended. Two prizes were awarded for the two best costumes; which were won by Miss L. M. Joy, who represented "Checkers" and Mr. F. R. Ward, as "Scripts." There were many other very fine costumes also.

Mr. F. J. Sullivan was a passenger by Monday morning's train for the city, on a short holiday.—COR.

Edward the VIII. And Queen---

Will The Prince of Wales Marry Princess Margaret of Denmark?

Rumour has been strong for some time that an announcement will be expected any moment of the marriage of the Prince of Wales to Princess Margaret of Denmark.

The Princess is spending a brief holiday in London with her great-aunt, Queen Alexandra, at Marlborough House. Some time ago she came with her father and mother to pay a State visit to King George and Queen Mary—the first since the war. Her parents then proceeded to Italy, but the Princess was left behind.

In well-informed circles it is now being hinted at openly that it was no matter of chance but by design that the Princess stayed on in her aunt's charge. There is even the suggestion of a pre-arranged plot on the Queen Mother's part. And when the parents return to London on their way home to Denmark—a significant fact in itself—it will be in the fond hope that the time will be ripe to bestow the parental blessing upon the happy young couple.

Queen-Mother as Matchmaker.
No one more fitted to undertake this delicate task than Queen Alexandra could have been chosen. The Prince of Wales is the apple of her eye. He has no greater admirer throughout the Empire than his grandmother, and the bond of friendship which exists between these two is something far deeper and more intimate than is usually the case in such a relationship.

Whenever "Young David," as his grandmother calls him in their own family circle, goes abroad on one of his various missions of Empire, every morning he will find a letter from his grandmother awaiting him, on the breakfast table; never a day goes by but she writes to him. The moment he comes home again one of the first things the Prince does is to call at Marlborough House to tell his grandmother all about it. In the usual way he is the most persistent caller, lunching or dining with her once or twice in every week.

Royal Confidante.
The Princess, curiously enough, is an equal favourite with her grandmother. The charm and sympathy of understanding which the Queen-Mother possesses to an unusual degree endears her to all the young people in the royal circle. They feel they can confide in her; and there must be many a secret that breaks loose in Marlborough House which, spoken in the prim surroundings of the Palace, would cause the elevation of several pairs of august eyebrows.

Something of this feeling must have crept into the pages of those hundreds of letters which have passed between the Queen and the young Danish Princess. How much has Margaret told her great-aunt?

It may be even that, as gossip would have it, it was the Queen-Mother's own wish that the two young people should thus be brought together beneath her roof. Even queens are not above that truly feminine weakness of match-making. By the most curious coincidence, she may have invited her Danish relations to Marlborough House at the time when the Prince of Wales was due to return from his triumphant world tour. One may be sure that no romantically-minded young girl would seize upon any chance to renew acquaintance with our up-to-date Prince Charming.

A Happy Memory.
Perhaps it is something of the memory of her own triumph that has prompted Queen Alexandra to this daring adventure in romance. It is over fifty years now since, an unknown Danish Princess, she took London by storm with her beauty and charm, as the affianced wife of Edward Prince of Wales, to take her place as leader of English society. Has she visions of Princess Margaret repeating that triumph?

Will history repeat itself? That is what the Queen-Mother must fondly hope it will do. That is the problem which to-day is tantalizing some of the shrewdest brains in England.

As for the Princess herself, a young man might go far and choose a less charming partner. Margaret of Denmark is the princess of the fairy tale—a slip of a girl, with unflinching blue eyes, masses of golden hair, and beautiful as the day is long. Of course, gossip would not leave

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE YOUNG BACK AND THE OLD FACE.

"Did you see that woman?" said the Authorman, with a very heavy accent on the "did."

I looked behind and saw retreating the back of an expensively dressed woman. She had on a handsome wrap of the latest shade of green, a henna hat, white kid boots above which two inches of white silk leg showed before her skirt began.

A Gay Combination.
"Well," said I, "what of her? That's quite a gay combination but I've seen plenty of others just as gay."

"On women of that age?" said the Authorman.

"Of what age?" I asked.

"Well, 60 at least," said the Authorman, "and she might have been 70."

I gave another hasty glance behind, before the figure turned a corner. I could not see the face and I absolutely could not make my imagination call up a nelderly face to fit that highly colored, youthfully dressed back.

And yet I know it must have been there (whatever his faults, the Authorman is truthful).

How can they do it?

Older by Contrast.
How can any woman fancy that she makes herself look younger when she dresses years behind her age? She simply supplies in her dress a constant contrast to her face which emphasizes its lack of youth.

And then I never can understand how they can want to do it when the things that belong to middle age and old age are so lovely. It is far less strange to me that youth wants to borrow old age's black and lavender and gray, than that age wants to borrow youth's henna and green.

I have spoken of white as a color which is lovely on elderly people but I have seen reason to qualify that. There are whites and whites, you know. And there are elderly people and elderly people. A few evenings ago I saw a middle aged woman with indeterminate gray hair and a sallow face with absolutely no color, appear on a lecture platform in white satin! They talk about black or some vivid shade of green or cerise being hard to wear. I don't believe any of those are as hard as white satin. If there is anything in the world which belongs essentially to youth, it is certainly dead white satin. A creamy satin is another story. I can imagine a certain white haired old lady I know looking supremely lovely in an ivory satin softened by a lace collar.

Tins of 4 and 10 cubes

A CUBE TO A CUP

As Lovely as Their Granddaughters.
There is no reason why middle aged women should not study themselves just as much as younger women do, and should not make themselves just as attractive in their way of remembering that fitness is one of the chief requisites of charm.

I love middle aged women in dark blue relieved by just enough white, and dark gray also is often becoming. And as I have said before I know of no more charming picture than a woman with white or gray hair in lavender, black, light gray, or the particular shade of white which belongs in the picture. A soft touch of delicate pink contrasting with some of these diller colors is also wonderfully becoming to some women.

I think one's eye finds just as much gratification when it rests on a sweet faced, white haired woman dressed thus with becomingness and dignity as it does in looking at her granddaughter—sometimes more, considering some of the styles grand-daughter pursues.

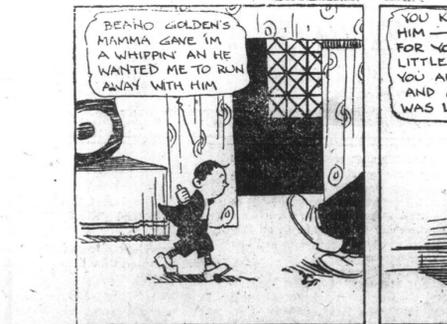

Reared in Incubator.
Miss Armour, who has inherited £12,000,000, whose engagement has been announced, weighed only two pounds at birth, and her life was preserved in an incubator, says the Liverpool Daily Post. An operation was performed when she was three years old, and for five months the child's body was in a plaster cast. She later was taken to Vienna, where she was treated by Dr. Adolf Lortz, a famous bloodless surgeon. Now she is a healthy normal girl of 25 and took a most active part in war work, part of the time as a nurse. Her fiancé, who is the son of another Chicago millionaire, was a student at Yale when the war began, and enlisted in the naval aviation corps. He never went abroad, however, for while flying at Key West, Florida, his machine came into collision with another, and both crashed to the ground. The officer in the other plane was killed, and for months young Mitchell's life was in danger.

For if you would walk with your brother erect. And go through this life with your self-respect. In all that is offered of joy and cheer. As the days go by, by you must do your self-respect. In all that is offered of joy and cheer. As the days go by, you must do your share.

You must earn the things that you wish to own. You must win your goal by your strength alone. Don't ask for favors and cringe and whine. Meet your life to its own design. Meet your dangers as best you can. Others will help you if you're down. But don't be one who sits down and begs. So long as you've strength in your arms and legs.

Be it little or much that you wish on earth. Let it have the stamp of your own good worth. Be able to say of each treasure that I have worked for this and the thing is mine. Be willing to toil and be willing to give. And honor shall follow you while you live. For there's none so mean on the globe as he Who looks to another to pay his debt.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 PER CENT. AIR. Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (cool-bill). The inventor, T. W. Johnson, 58 Craig St., West, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can set the burner, and without experience of money make $250 to $500 per month.

THE FIRST
play became quite a little combined work both forward lines. A little combination of the scoring by a fast Power, three minutes. The St. Bon's then beat and after one of the goals of combined play, the rink, Ottawa, added it behind. The game was then other in rapid succession. Frequent penalties were deducted from the play. For the first time shifted from one end to the other. Then, from the virtue of Cod Liver Oil without the nauseous grease. Try a bottle and convince yourself. Price $1.20 bottles Postage 20c. extra.

THE THIRD
proved towards the end one. Both goals were done until when and when Cahill beat St. Bon's fourth goal.

Felidians Defeat St. Bon's.

AN THRILLING HOCKEY GAME. The Felidians defeated St. Bon's by a score of 5 to 1, in one of the fastest and most exciting games seen in the city since the start of the season. The game was a real test of skill and speed, and the Felidians were victorious by a narrow margin.

The following was the line-up:
Felidians Goal. St. Bon's Goal.
"Nix" Hunt. "Doc" Higgin.

Hubert Rendell. Hubert Rendell.

Felidians—Bugden, J. A. Alderice and Harold Rendell. St. Bon's—Gibbs, Murphy and Power.

Referee—C. C. Robertson. Timekeepers—J. DeMers, W. J. Martin. Penalties—G. Hunt, J. McLellan. Goal Judges—E. Churchill, H. A. Thomas.

The game undoubtedly came up to expectations and should have satisfied the most critical fan.

The combination of the St. Bon's forward line was very good at times. Eagan is certainly a fine stickhandler and he can also combine well.

Tait played a good all round game for the Felidians.

A lot of dissatisfaction was expressed as a consequence of the difficulty of entering the rink last night. At such an early hour as 8:30 p.m. the crowd extended from the door to the door and the utmost confusion reigned.

Might we suggest that in future if seats are to be reserved, that first of all the doors be opened very much earlier, and secondly, if possible, that another door be opened for the use of ticket holders.

The game was well controlled by the referee.

The second match between these two teams should prove even more exciting, and it will be impatiently awaited by the fans.

"The Prince of Pilsen."

ROYALLY RECEIVED AND ACCLAIMED.

"Was you ever in Zinzstadt?" Well if not don't forget to make an appointment with the "Prince of Pilsen" at the Casino Theatre, either to-night, to-morrow night or Saturday, matinee and regular performances, for you are sure to receive an invitation to visit that famous city. Despite other attractions last night seating accommodation in the spacious Casino was at a premium when the curtain rose on that sparkling musical comedy "The Prince of Pilsen," following the arrival of His Excellency the Governor and suite, and of Rt. Rev. Mgr. MacDermott, who represented His Grace the Archbishop. During the past few years several splendid productions have been put on by local artists, but the "Prince of Pilsen" undoubtedly excels them all in every respect.

But this was only to be expected when such well known musical directors as Messrs. F. J. King and Charles Hutton collaborate. The acting was excellent, the staging was also splendid and the music was such as to delight the entire audience. The opera is in two acts. The scene of the first act being the Hotel International at Nice, where a party of Vassar girls, with a Cook's Courier, have just disembarked to see the sights. The city is an fête to celebrate the arrival of the Prince of Pilsen (Mr. Cabot Fitzgerald), who is on tour with his student companion, Arthur St. John Wilberforce, Lord Somerset (Mr. Percie Jardine), a world-wide celebrity (in his own estimation), is staying at the hotel, and has formed a deep infatuation for Mrs. Crocker (Mrs. E. J. Ring), an attractive American widow. All is excitement: pending the arrival of the noted "Prince of Pilsen," when through a slight mistake the royal greeting is extended to Hans Wagner (Dr. Chas. Howlett), a brewer and alderman of the city of Cincinnati. The worthy brewer accepts the role with the greatest sang froid, and the acme of his exuberance is reached when he is told that all costs will be borne by the hotel proprietor. The American widow shows him considerable attention, and all goes along merrily until Tragedy enters in the person of the real Prince of Pilsen, who sizes up the situation and plays his part accordingly. The Prince falls in love with Wagner's daughter, Nellie Wagner (Miss E. Herder), and Hans and Artie are rivals for the widow's favour, and Tom Wagner (Mr. Karl Trappell)—an American naval officer—is in love with Edith Adams (Miss Mary Eagan), a Vassar girl. A duel ensues between Tom and the Prince and the curtain falls as the gendarmes lead them off to jail.

The second act opens on a party of hotel guests just ready for a fox hunt. Mr. Cabot Fitzgerald was excellent in the role of the Prince of Pilsen, whilst Mr. P. H. Jardine as Artie was also very good. Dr. C. J. Howlett as Hans Wagner, the worthy brewer from Cincinnati, excelled himself and kept the audience in a perpetual state of laughter. Mrs. E. J. Ring and Miss Elsie Herder also deserve great credit for the able manner in which they played their parts. The full cast was as follows:—

The Prince of Pilsen, Mr. Cabot Fitzgerald; Hans Wagner, a Cincinnati brewer, travelling abroad, Dr. Chas. Howlett; Lieut. Tom Wagner, U.S. Cruiser "Annapolis," Mr. Karl Trappell; Arthur St. John Wilberforce—Lord Somerset, Mr. Percie Jardine; Francois, Concierge Hotel International, Mr. William Wallace; Cook's Courier—Vassar Girls' Plot, Mr. Thomas Ryan; Sergeant Briss, of the Gendarmes, Mr. Augustus Neary; Jimmy, a bell boy, Mr. Philip Ryan; Mrs. Madison Crocker, from New York, Mrs. E. J. Ring; Edith Adams, a Vassar Girl, Miss Mary Eagan; Nellie Wagner, Hans Wagner's daughter, Miss Elsie Herder; Sidonie, Mrs. Crocker's French Maid, Miss Madeline Kavanagh; Varsity Boys—Alphons, Mr. W. Herder; Antoine, Mr. W. Carson; Paul, Mr. J. Darcy; Gaston, Mr. A. Lawrence; Louis, Mr. J. Wornell; Jean, Mr. P. Bradshaw; George, Mr. E. Fox; Marcel, Mr. D. Herschell; American Girls—Frankie Friskie, San Francisco, Miss Elleen Cook; Dollie Dixie, New Orleans, Miss Rose Brophy; Pansy Penn Philadelphia, Miss Amy McEvoy; Priscilla Plymouth, Boston, Miss Francis Ryan, Martha Patrie, Annie Stello Shea; Goldie Dome, Washington, Miss Francis Ryan; Virginia Waters, St. John's, Miss Mary Ryan. Sopranos—Misses Amy McEvoy, Elleen Cook, Clara Armstrong, Florence Ferguson, Murphy, Mary Evans, Francis Ryan, Martha Patrie, Annie Stello Shea; Goldie Dome, Washington, Miss Francis Ryan; Virginia Waters, St. John's, Miss Mary Ryan.

Contraltos—Misses Annie Lawlor, Rose Brophy, Estelle Shea, Hilda Kelly, Kathleen O'Connell, Elleen Mahoney, Olive Major, Lillian Scott, Gertrude Sutherland, Lydia Miller, Joyce Dunfield, Monnie Mansfield; Mesdames P. Grace, C. J. Cahill. Tenors—Messrs. Jas. Darcy, W. H. Herder, E. J. Walsh, A. Lawrence, A. Ross, K. Kelly, L. Kelly, T. Seymour, W. Carson. Basses—Messrs. C. Udle, E. Fox, L. Burke, M. Martin, D. Herschell, G. Wallace, E. Molloy, J. J. Henley, R. Bogan, F. J. Wornell, F. Bradshaw, V. Summers. Chorus of Sea Shell Girls, Bathing Girls, American Tourists, Gendarmes, Flower Girls, Naval Cadets, Fox Hounds, French Maids, Waiters, etc., etc. The dances arranged and staged in the first act, were under the direction of Mrs. J. Cleary, and the girls were from her own dancing classes. The scenery was splendid, the painting being done by Mr. D. Carroll. The stage effects, etc., were under the direction of Mr. H. Anderson and Mrs. N. H. Alderice. The orchestra was composed of the following:—

1st Violins—Mrs. (Dr.) Murphy, Mr. Frank Bradshaw, Mr. D. Swedlin. 2nd Violins—Mrs. P. C. Mars, Miss M. Devine, Mr. F. Burley, Mr. Leslie Marshall. French Horn—Mr. Arthur Bulley. 1st Cornet—Mr. Joseph Skinner, Mr. H. Noseworthy. 2nd Cornet—Mr. P. Fitzgerald, Mr. A. Wiseman. 1st Clarionets—Mr. E. Adams, Mr. English. 2nd Clarionets—Mr. T. Fennessey, Mr. H. Grant. Trombone—Mr. T. Bennett. Cello—Mrs. C. J. Howlett. Drums and Effects—Mr. J. Cronin, Mr. F. J. King at the piano. All lovers of good music should make an effort to see this excellent performance, which they would be able to refrain from appreciating.

KEEP IT DARK.—There are many things we would like to keep dark. Ladies like to keep their hair dark, for instance. Phil Ryan and Miss Madeline Kavanagh have a secret they are keeping dark in the Prince of Pilsen. But they are willing to tell you all about it at the Casino.—Feb. 31.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris wish to thank Mrs. Cowperthwaite and Keegan's Sisters and Nurses of the General Hospital and all kind friends who helped in any way to lighten the sufferings of Mrs. Harris while at that institution.—adv.

St. Andrew's Church.

Induction of New Pastor Monday Next.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—The enclosed is a copy of a resolution reported at the congregational meeting of the Avenue Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto, from which church the Rev. R. J. Power, M.A. was called to St. Andrew's, St. John's. As Mr. Power's induction is arranged to take place on Monday next, we feel sure that many of your readers would be interested and we trust that you will be able to find space to publish it. Yours truly,

R. A. TEMPLETON, Clerk of Session. Feb. 2, 1921. COPY OF RESOLUTION. Whereas a call has been extended to the Rev. R. J. Power, M.A., Minister of Avenue Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto, by St. Andrew's Church, St. John's, Nfld. And Whereas Mr. Power has intimated to this congregation and to the Presbytery his intention of accepting the call from Newfoundland and will shortly leave his present charge. The members and adherents of Avenue Church, meeting together this 19th day of January, 1921, in Annual Congregational Meeting, take this opportunity of placing on record their warm appreciation of the great work for the Master accomplished by Mr. Power during the four years he has been minister of this church. The results are shown in all departments of church, which closes the year with all accounts paid and a substantial balance with which to start the new year—in the raising during the year in cash and pledges of some $16,000, as the church's contribution to the Forward Movement of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, 25 per cent. in excess of the Presbytery's allocation for this church—in the growth and work of the various organizations of the church, to wit, the Women's Missionary Society, the Willing Workers, the Sunday School, the Men's Association, the Young Ladies' Guild and other activities—the beautiful new church edifice—so far as interior is concerned, which we now worship, made possible by the gift of $20,000, from Miss McCormick—but more important than these—gratifying to this success has been—in the deepening of the spiritual life of the church, the church, the creating of a spiritual atmosphere, without which the advances in material things would not have been possible. Rather more than four years ago—his call was extended to Mr. Power to become minister of the church, the dominant influence that made the call unanimous was the known strong evangelistic preaching and spirit of Mr. Power, added to an attractive personality and a genial, frank and approachable disposition that has made him the friend of all young and old. It is with deep regret the members and adherents of Avenue Road Church say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Power—who has proven so capable a helpmate in all the minister's church work—but this sorrow mingles with joy in the knowledge that the gifts have made him a power in Avenue Road Church and Christian work in Toronto will make for like and doubtless greater things in his new field of labor.

KING CONDUCTS PRINCE.—During his stay in the city the Prince of Pilsen will be conducted by Prof. F. J. King who will keep him strictly to time. Prof. Hutton will see that the Prince and his attendants behave properly on the stage. Hugh Anderson's job is to see that they've a good stage to behave properly on. Each one has his cross to bear.—Feb. 31.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris wish to thank Mrs. Cowperthwaite and Keegan's Sisters and Nurses of the General Hospital and all kind friends who helped in any way to lighten the sufferings of Mrs. Harris while at that institution.—adv.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. David Murrin and family desire to express their sincere thanks to the many kind friends for kindness and sympathy tendered to them in their recent bereavement by the sudden death of a dear wife and loving mother; especially Mr. R. G. Rendell, Mrs. Norman Alderice, Miss Mary Rendell, Miss Cecely Rendell, Miss Joan Walsh, Mrs. Wm. Barnes, Mrs. Patrick Mealey, Mrs. O'Connell, Mr. Robert Walsh; also the following notes of sympathy: Mrs. C. F. Muir, Mr. Gordon Muir, Mr. and Mrs. P. Wall, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wall (Pouch Core), Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hodder.—adv.

COULDN'T GET SCRIPT.—The only script Percy Jardine has seen for the past month has been the "manuscript" of his part in the Prince of Pilsen. This will explain his clear enunciation.—Feb. 31.

Promoting Increased Fisheries.

France, Spain and Portugal, in addition to other European countries, and customers of ours, have been busily engaged since the cessation of the war in building up, promoting and developing their sea fisheries. The former country has more than doubled her pre-war operations in the waters washing her coast line, while at the same time increasing and encouraging the extension of the North Atlantic Fisheries, carried on from the headquarters of France in North America, the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon. Great preparations have been going on in these nearby French possessions. Fishing premises have been rebuilt and enlarged and more accommodation has been found for an additional complement of men from France, who will prosecute the shore fishery in motor dories. Beside these pier and dock space has been provided for a large fleet of steam trawlers which will operate on the Banks, and their catches—or a portion of them each trip—will be brought in under ice and transferred to the capacious cold storage plant recently erected in St. Pierre. Wherever possible fish will be taken from boats fresh, and placed in the refrigerating rooms, to be subsequently shipped to France in a frozen state by steamers specially equipped with cold storage chambers. All kinds of edible fish will be treated and sent across the Atlantic for domestic consumption. The curing of cod by drying will not be interfered with in any way, but an increased production will be aimed at and encouraged. This year a greater fleet than ever of steam, sail and motor craft will engage in the North Atlantic fisheries out of St. Pierre.

The Spanish and Portuguese Governments have already been making themselves interested in the scientific exploitation of their coast fisheries and, following instructions, fleets of small vessels are engaging in the catch, at short distances from shore, their takes being brought in daily and disposed of fresh whenever possible. Even Algeria has taken up the development of inshore and off-shore fisheries in the Mediterranean, and in addition to the quantity used for home consumption, exported, to France principally, the figures are for the first six months of 1920—589 metric tons of fresh fish; 1695 metric tons of dried, smoked and salted fish and 544 metric tons of preserved fish and sardines, the whole being valued at one million, six hundred and thirty thousand dollars. Not a great deal some one might say, but consider what it means when the fisheries of Algeria are further developed and operated, and every country whose salt waters contain edible fish is getting right into the production line. On this side the Atlantic, there is no diminution in the bank and coast fishing fleets of the United States and Canada. These countries both on their Atlantic and Pacific sides, are taking up the fisheries with more preparation than ever. The Gulf of St. Lawrence and the St. Lawrence River itself, will have a fleet of Canadian trawlers operating therein the coming season. One Montreal company is said to have purchased twenty-four extra steam trawlers built by the Canadian Government for patrol purposes during the war, which are to be used in fishing and transportation purposes in the waters of the Gulf and River, between points where larger vessels cannot work to advantage. Newfoundland cannot well afford to be behind in the race for increased fish production, and with the facilities we possess of prosecuting the voyage and an improved cure of our staple there should be no fear of any competitor getting ahead of us in the markets to which our fish products go. The world wants more fish. Newfoundland is in the running to supply a big portion of the demand.

The Portuguese Situation.

The Fish Exporters held another meeting yesterday in the Board of Trade Rooms to consider, so we learn, some other cables received from Mr. Coaker, who is now in Oporto trying to dispose of some fish cargoes. So far as can be gleaned the messages are full of probabilities. However, negotiations are still in progress and it is likely that in view of Lent being next Wednesday some sales will be effected. A message has been received to-day from a large Portuguese fish buyer intimating that because of the impending arrangement, whereby only one concern is to handle all the Newfoundland fish, they are unwilling to take delivery of cargoes already contracted for.

B. I. S. Flourishing.

The B. I. S. Dramatic Company are working hard on a play which will be staged in coproduction with St. Patrick's Day celebration. The affair promises to be a big success. On next Sunday the B. I. Society are holding a special meeting when 104 applicants will be admitted to membership. This is the largest number since the Society's inception and shows that the Society is flourishing under the presidency of Mr. W. J. Higgins.

After being on the Oporto Bar nearly four months, the Frances Moulton is now reported as discharging. The vessel was loaded at Burgeo in September, and arrived at Oporto in October, where she has been ever since waiting. The following vessels are also at Oporto, waiting orders:—Generalis Maude, Albeny, Plumer and President, J. H. Fort Union, Lila D. Young, Ria.

C. C. C. "At Home."

The C.C.C. annual "At Home" takes place in the C.C.C. Hall on Monday night next, and great preparations are being made to insure the success of the affair. It is under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and His Grace the Archbishop. By permission of the O.C., the full band will take part, and some of our best known ladies and gentlemen will assist on the concert programme.

Llewellyn Club.

A smoker and concert will be held at to-night's meeting of the Llewellyn Club, beginning at 8 o'clock. A most interesting programme, consisting of songs, recitations, a dialogue and a brief minstrel show will be given, followed by a cup of coffee. Members are asked to invite their friends to share with them a pleasant evening. No charge of any kind.

WHO HEARD MRS. RING? Miss Elsie Herder. And both will be heard to great advantage in the Prince of Pilsen. Ringing soprano and rich contralto, each voice a feast of music in itself.—Feb. 3.

Police Court.

On Suspended Sentence.—A man was charged with assaulting and ill-treating his wife. Mr. T. P. Halley appeared for the complainant and Mr. G. W. P. Ayre for the defendant. Mr. Ayre said that the defendant was already under bonds of $500 for his good behaviour. He was a victim of Shrieff's Vanilla, and after he had taken it he became a raving maniac. His whole home life had been broken up by this stuff. He (Mr. Ayre) had advised his client to plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court as he had promised to reform. Counsel asked that a penalty be imposed and sentence suspended. Mr. Halley consented to this and His Honor imposed a fine of $200 or 30 days and permitted the defendant to go on suspended sentence.

C. M. B. C. Annual Entertainment.

Last night the annual tea and entertainment to the Cathedral Men's Bible Class took place in the Synod Hall. The spacious auditorium was filled to red the members, the following ladies presiding at the tables:—Lady Harwood, Mrs. Jeeves, Mrs. Brinton, Misses Ewing, Miss Miller, Miss Edgar, Mrs. Stuck, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Crossman, Mrs. W. Ewing, Mrs. N. Grow, Mrs. L. Outerbridge, Mrs. H. Outerbridge, Miss May Gardner, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. W. Pope, Mrs. R. B. Job, Supper was followed by a concert. Rev. Canon Jeeves, presiding, took occasion to congratulate the class on the splendid missionary work in the harbor during 1920. The Harbor Mission during the year affiliated with the "Missions of Seamen," an English institution, and in the association's 120th branch under English jurisdiction. Last year the harbor work began the first Sunday in May and continued until the second Sunday in December. During the labors of the class 3544 vessels were visited and 17000 tracts distributed. Canon Jeeves in commenting on the H. work paid a splendid tribute to the volunteers who manned the Mission boat each Sunday at great personal sacrifice and accomplished so much. After the Canon's remarks the concert programme was taken up as follows:—March, C.L.B. Band; Solo, Miss Hutchings; Selection, C.L.B. Band; Quartette, March, C.L.B. Band; Solo, Mr. W. L. Woods; Overture, C.L.B. Band; Recitation, Mr. L. Colley; Quartette; Selection, C.L.B. Band; Song, Mrs. H. Small; March, C.L.B. Band; God Save the King. Among the visitors during the evening were the Lord Bishop, Rev. Dr. Fahey, Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rev. Canon Bolt, Rev. Canon Field, Rev. J. Brinton.

Will Scripts Advance Too?

The Controller's Department has given notice that on Monday next the price of ale, stout, whisky and brandy would be advanced. No indication is given as to the cause of the rise in price, but we are assured it is not as a result of higher water rates. The advance on whisky amounts to 15% and on brandy 10% or nearly fifty cents per bottle. Rum is not included, and it is presumed that the margin on it is sufficient at least, as long as the supply of Windsor Lake maintains its average.

Death of Mr. John Steer.

As we go to press we learn of the death of Mr. John Steer of the firm of Steer Brothers who passed away at the General Hospital. An extended obituary will appear in to-morrow's edition.

Registers Complaint.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Is it possible for us to have some order in our midst? I refer now to the disgraceful sight witnessed by thousands trying to gain admittance to the Prince's Rink last night. I might say "the age of chivalry has passed." It seemed mighty like it last night. Women and young girls were treated with contempt, nothing more nor less, by the surging mass of people. All through lack of discipline. The sight was a disgrace to the management of the rink and to the people themselves.

When are we going to have that queue there is so much talk about? Never until someone in authority is competent to enforce it. Then again, the management of the rink. They reserve seats, and then contrast that with what margin is paid out to those ticket holders last night. How many of them did not get to their seats? The game started about 7.20 p.m. whilst hundreds were outside, and when it commenced it didn't pacify the crowd any to know that through lack of system on the part of the management they who were so anxious to see the game should be so ignored. Truly something should be done, but I suppose all the public can do is to patiently wait. Thanking you, yours truly, of Billie Cullen, who was drowned from the schooner Laberge, February 3rd, 1920, aged 18 years.

IN SAD BUT LOVING MEMORY

"Thou art gone but not forgotten, Never shall your memory fade; With a breaking heart, I'm forever thinking Of my Billie's watery grave.
In the ocean softly sleeping With no flowers to mark his grave, Lies the one I loved so dearly. The one I loved but could not save—My Billie."
—Inserted by Auntie Bride.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of our dear son and brother R. H. Collins, who was wireless operator on the s.s. Beverley, lost on or after 21st January, 1918.
"We pictured his safe returning, We longed to clasp his hand, But God has postponed the meeting 'Till we meet in the Better Land."
—Inserted by his mother, brothers and sisters.

War Veterans' Dance.

PROVES GREAT SUCCESS.

The C.C.C. Hall was last night the scene of the annual G.W.V.A. dance, which this year proved as big a success as any of those of past years, in spite of the fact that there were so many other attractions. The C. C. C. Band was in attendance and played the latest dance successes in their usual excellent manner. Dancing did not start until 9.30, so that those who had attended the hockey match might be given an opportunity to reach the hall in time for the opening dance. Beyond the interval for supper, dancing was kept up uninterruptedly until an early hour this morning and was enjoyed by all to the full. During the interval supper was served by the Ladies' Association, under the able supervision of Mrs. McKee and Miss May Furlong, and was well up to the usual high standard. His Excellency the Governor, attended by Capt. Baird and Saltmarsh, was present for part of the evening. He was received on entering by Lt.-Col. Carry, President Higgins of the G.W.V.A. and Major Butler, D.S.O., M.C. Sir Charles expressed himself as being pleased with the affair and extended his congratulations to the Committee on their success. He afterwards had supper with the Executive of the Association. During the evening Miss Mary Keegan recited the poem "Then," a very clever composition, of which Mr. Hugh Anderson is the author. As an encore Miss Keegan gave a local hit "Our Telephone trouble." Mrs. C. Garland sang, her items being very much appreciated by the audience. The affair was a great success in every way and great credit devolves on the energetic committee, to whose efforts this success is due.

George St. A. B. C.

CONCERT AND SOCIABLE.

Under the auspices of the George's Street Adult Bible Class a very enjoyable concert and sociable was held last night in the basement of the Church. Following an excellent programme of music, tea was served by the ladies of George's Street Women's Missionary Society. The details of the programme are as follows:—

Solo—Mrs. H. G. Christian.
Recitation—Mr. P. Halley.
Solo—Mr. H. Courtney.
Duet—Misses Vincent and Bowden.
Solo—Mrs. C. F. Garland.
Recitation—Mr. P. Taylor.
Solo—Mr. W. A. Tucker.
Solo—Miss S. E. Soper.
Recitation—Mr. R. Hearder.
Solo—Mr. A. R. Stansfield.
Solo—Mrs. H. H. Small.
Instrumental—Mr. H. G. Christian.

At the close a vote of thanks to those who helped to make the affair a success was tendered by Rev. D. B. Hemmeon.

Hansen's Junket Powders are the best form for milk as a food for Children, as well as for Desserts and Ice Cream.—Jan 31, 21.

Time and Talents.

The Executive Committee of Time and Talents for the ensuing year, 1921 is:—

Pres.—Miss D. C. White.
Vice Pres.—Miss Caroline Furlong.
Hon. Sec. and Treas.—Miss Marguerite Mitchell, Miss Dorothy Ayre.
Two new members have joined up to date. A small balance of funds left over from last year after sending two babies to hospital for short treatment, has been handed to Miss Caroline Furlong to be used by her for the relief of two families recommended by Rev. Dr. Kitchin. There is an account of the Newfoundland Branch of Time and Talents in the January number of "The Road."

Funeral of Late Mrs. Jardine.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Jardine, which took place from her home Bay Roberts, on Sunday last, was largely attended by citizens of that town and adjacent places. The burial service in the Church and Cemetery was conducted by Rev. J. O. Britnell, Rector. Miss Fraser presided at the organ and was supported by the choir. The chief mourners were Mr. Geo. W. Jardine, Rev. A. B. Stirling, Dr. C. Cron, Mr. R. J. Bemister, Mr. James Wilson, Mr. D. Nicolson, Mr. M. Piccott and Sgt. R. Wells. The late Mrs. Jardine (nee Miss D. Wells) had been a patient sufferer for some eight years. Her husband predeceased her two and a half years ago. She leaves to mourn one son, George of Bay Roberts, and four daughters, Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. Adams residing in England, Mrs. (Rev.) A. B. Stirling, St. John's, Mrs. (Dr.) Cron of Harbor Grace and Mrs. R. J. Bemister of Bay Roberts, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

Hansen's Junket Powder is a ready-made Junket, so to speak, containing all the ingredients for an exquisite milk dessert and is preferred by many housekeepers on account of the ease of making.—Jan 31, 21.

The Origin of the Life Guards.

The resignation of Protector Richard Cromwell in 1659 was followed by a year of unrest. The Parliament had been restored by the army, but now quarrelled with it. Haasrliz, one of the famous "Five Members," leading the former, and Lambert, one of Cromwell's major-generals, the latter, the Royalists took advantage of these differences to revive their schemes, and risings took place in various parts of England, which Lambert put down; he also expelled the Parliament. Monk, who was in Scotland, marched into England, intending to restore the Parliament, but when he reached York in December the riots in London had led to the restoration of Parliament. At York, Monk was joined by Fairfax, who made no secret of his Royalist leanings, so on February 3, 1660, Monk entered London at the head of 5,000 men. The people waited with trembling anxiety to know his resolve, and great was their joy when he declared for a free Parliament. The Presbyterian members, who had been expelled by Colonel Pride in 1648, returned to their seats in the Long Parliament, and that famous body, after deciding on a new Parliament, dissolved itself. Monk, being "General of the Forces," proposed and accomplished the restoration of Charles II., who was proclaimed King at the gate of Westminster Hall at the beginning of May. Later on, Monk was rewarded with the title of Duke of Albemarle, and so great was the public joy at the Restoration that no care was taken to prevent Charles from seizing absolute power. His first Parliament granted him, for life taxes amounting to £1,200,000 a year; and a part of this money he devoted to the support of some regiments, then called "Gentlemen of the Guard," but now termed "Life Guards." These formed the nucleus of the standing army which has ever since been maintained.

Crude Arrangement.

Dear Sir—Whereas the Prince's Rink Management make a specialty of any Hockey game, for the benefit of the Rink alone, and issue reserved seat (gallery) tickets at double the cost of general admission, it should be their primary object to give that freedom of entrance to ticket holders to which their advance purchases naturally and legitimately entitle them. That ticket holders last night were not treated any differently from those who sought general admission is evidenced by the crude arrangements of the management, who having accepted in advance an enhanced fee for reserved seats, left it to those who made—and paid for—reservations to be tossed to and fro amongst the crowd in a vain effort to gain admission, which in numerous cases was not secured, and in a number of instances was only obtained to find that their seats had been preempted by others. It does not speak well for the management that they should have omitted to look after ticket purchasers, by having another door opened for their convenience, but left them to force and jostle their way through the queue in order to obtain the privileges for which they had paid (doubly) in advance. It is hoped that should such again occur that some better arrangements will be made, otherwise the public will not look with satisfaction or confidence upon any attempt to raise the price without giving adequate returns. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Yours truly,
TICKET HOLDER.

Obituary.

ELIZABETH O'DRISCOLL.
On yesterday morning, Elizabeth O'Driscoll, widow of the late Captain John O'Driscoll, passed peacefully away at her residence, Hamilton Street, at the advanced age of 85 years. Deceased was born in County Kilkenny, Ireland, and came to St. John's when very young, and her passing removes one of the very few remaining of the Irish who came out here in the early Victorian days. Mrs. O'Driscoll led a very exemplary life, was a devoted Catholic, generous and sympathetic, and her death will be deeply regretted by a large circle of friends. Left to mourn is one daughter, her husband having predeceased her several years ago. Interment takes place at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow, Friday, from 17 Hamilton Street.

Portia's Passengers.

S.S. Portia, Capt. Parsons, arrived from the Westward yesterday afternoon after a fairly quick round trip. The Portia was at North Sydney and took bunker coal. She met very stormy weather both going and coming and during the last few days the frost was intense. The following passengers arrived by her—Messrs. Young, Murdoch, Wheatley, J. B. Patten, A. Foote, R. Dunford, C. Lake, Harding, D. O'Neil, Capt. Couch, R. Hensbury, E. Brennan; Misses Forsey, Tibbo, McGrath, Bradley and three in steerage.

Hockey Notes.

The final game of the first round of the season's series will be played tomorrow night, the Terra Nova vs. St. Bon's being the contest of the day. A spirited exhibition is expected.

So far as is known at present, the line-up of both teams will not be changed from the last play.

It has been suggested that as a solution to the problem of congestion outside the rink door, when the teams are reserved, provided that the management cannot see its way to open another door, that two gates should be formed, one of ticket holders and one of those who must wait at the ticket window. Two policemen could easily control these queues, and a great deal of unnecessary congestion would then be avoided.

The colleges held their final practices this morning. On Saturday morning the first game takes place between St. Bon's and Methodists being the opposing teams. A good game is expected.

Budd Fisher and Mutt and Jeff.

(By Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, Creator of O'Bill.)

"Fed artists, I feel sure, have spent more time scrutinizing the works of others than I have. It is a lasting pleasure to me to see how good other work is, and to enjoy and praise its merit.

Naturally this complaint of mine has led me to an earnest consideration of the work of Budd Fisher and his Mutt and Jeff.

I have never met Fisher, and know nothing about his personality or mode of work, so that all I have to talk about are his results on paper. Mutt and Jeff! I'm mighty fond of those dear old rogues! Now, why? I do not look to the technical side of the drawing of those two, to find where Fisher comes in. I look to the basic idea that lies behind. Mutt and Jeff are full of a lovable "human note." They are such a pair of human child-like rogues, and yet have not an ounce of real roguery in them.

It's their delightful romping midst a complex and somewhat serious world that cheers one.

Fisher must be, really, a great big boy at heart, for sympathy and fun are all over his paper. To my mind Mutt and Jeff have a parallel in the humorous good-natured rogues of Mark Twain, the "King" and the "Duke" in Huckleberry Finn.

So much for Mutt and Jeff and their daily deeds, and now for Fisher's art, the means by which he must needs purvey these antics to the world.

There are many better line artists than Fisher, and I feel to the best he would say so, too, but there are few more capable of linking their drawing with the literary side of the idea than he.

If Mutt is saying something, he is saying it with an expression and posture, which is absolutely the right one for the purpose.

If Mutt is thinking, he is thinking in the only position which spells thinking to the audience.

The humanity is great, and that is what Fisher can do.

His hieroglyphics or expression, his exuberant humor, his power of comic line, plus the clean humanity of his two immortals, that is what makes Budd Fisher.

STEER BROTHERS.

London Boxing Fiasco.

From the Westminster Gazette.)

Boxing is more competent than our promoters may deal with the merits of boxing contest at the Albert Hall recently. What amazes us is the business of the boxing crowd, high prices had been paid to the promoters. One did not place. That was not the fault of the promoters, but the result of a bad contest. The result of the contest was advertised as for a heavyweight championship of the world, and the winner was not to get himself down to the usual weight, so that there was a weighty fight. Finally the promoters for the cinema had been so disappointed that many of the audience had not come. The promoters had no money was returned, and the spectators were content with a most ineffective protest. A more fiasco of this kind and the promoters should go back once more to the drawing boards. It is for the men of the future of boxing to be a sport, rather than a spectacle, in time the inevitable consequences of such happenings as those of London. While we are on this subject we would add that the promoters of the cinema into the boxing ring is a grave danger to the sport. The promoters of the cinema give an interest in the cinema and the cinema producers desire a long fight. A battle that is a few minutes does not serve the purpose. There have already been cases in the United States in which the promoters have been fined for a fight that was plainly inferior, in order to get a good length of film might be made. Whether the temptation is to make a profit or it is always the same. The public that pays for

What Women Think About Prize Ring Bouts.

Discussing the recent Leonard-Mitchell battle in New York, the Times editorially makes the following comment regarding the presence of so many society women at the bout: "Having arranged the match between Leonard and Mitchell for the benefit of the devastated parts of France it was perhaps natural that some of the worthy women behind the charity should go to Madison Square Garden to see the fight. They saw it. As a philanthropic event it was a success to the tune of $100,000. As a prizefight it was a success for Benny Leonard, who pocketed $40,000, kept the lightweight championship and showed his science and strength at the bout.

"But was it a success as a spectacle for women? Each woman who saw has decided that question herself. We assume that none of them ever saw a prizefight before, and we wonder whether any of them will care to see a prizefight again. For this was no sparring match between two trained young gladiators. And when the jealous holder of the title is defending it, can a challenger a boxing contest is no taffy pull.

"From the man's viewpoint there was nothing offensive about the battle. But since war began there has been a double standard in all matters pertaining to fighting. This fight was not brutal. The men were trained and no foul blows were struck. In the fierce course of a struggle like this, pain is a negligible, almost innumerable quantity. But it must have looked ferocious to the women. There was not as much agony for Mitchell as is borne by a lad at Annapolis who is forced to stand at attention for an hour while a Secretary of the Navy reads a speech. But there was thuds, knockdowns and blood. The surface was brutal.

"The women who saw Friday night's boxing are now qualified to judge whether or not the prizefight when it conforms to the stern requirements of the warrior, man, is a fit sight for the eyes of his more sensitively organized mate. And we think we know, and hope we know what the women's decision is."

The Public hears a lot about Price Reductions to-day. But it is of no interest to the working-man to hear the price of the Rolls Royce Car is dropping. But the laborer, the milkman, the lumberman, takes heart when he hears that he can now get a Twenty Dollar Mackinaw or Overcoat for only Ten Dollars. The prices of Men's Mackinaws and Overcoats are cut in two for Ten Days only, at BLAIR'S.—Feb. 1, 11

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES DISTRESS.

Trawler's Adventure in White Sea.

Grimsby, Jan. 20.—A startling experience of the Grimsby trawler Equitable in the White Sea was related when the vessel arrived home to-day. Skipper Petersen stated that when fishing in the White Sea a hungry-looking lot of armed Bolsheviks from a mysterious vessel came aboard, searching the galley and eating up all the provisions.

The skipper and pilot were taken ashore at Murmansk, closely questioned, and allowed to go. They were brought back to the trawler by armed men, who also raided the galley. Skipper Petersen said all the raiders seemed to be in a starving condition. Evidently they believed the trawler, which is the first to enter the White Sea since the war, to be carrying munitions.

Advertising Pays.

Quite recently a large drapery House in the West End of London, England, placed an advertising order with a prominent newspaper the contract amounting to £30,000, and another similar establishment has arranged for £14,000 worth. Such figures are convincing proof that advertisers recognize the value of newspapers as the best link between themselves and the great army of purchasers. Speaking of the points to be noted in the returns from advertising, the Daily Mirror, London, says: "Every advertisement in this paper is what is known as a 'position' advertisement—that is to say it either faces or stands alongside pictures or reading matter. It can't be missed. Every reader must see it. No one can help seeing it.

The size of the Daily Mirror page is the best possible for effective display of an advertisement. No advertisement is lost in a wilderness of print, or buried in a typographical cemetery. Every advertisement is alive and shouting."

"The above needs no comment. Advertising as a means to increased sales must be carried on through the

Gov't Railways Will Show 60 Millions Deficit.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—(Canadian Press)—Figures are now being prepared showing the result of last year's operations on the Government railways and will probably be made public within a few days.

It is expected that they will show a deficit of about sixty million dollars, including the Grand Trunk Pacific. This is in comparison with a deficit of forty-seven million dollars in the previous year. In both cases, fixed charges are comprised in the deficit.

The increased deficit is ascribed chiefly to higher wages and deferred maintenance. During the war years, the roads could not be maintained at their usual standard. New improvements have to be made at considerable enhanced cost.

The increases granted in passenger and freight rates have, it is stated, been more than taken up by increased charges for labor.

PLAYTIME.

If one is wise and thrifty throughout his youth and prime, he may retire at fifty, and have a bully time. Out here where I'm abiding the old boys come to play; I see them gayly riding along the pike all day. I see their autos trundle, and cheer them as they pass; each old boy has his bundle, and can afford the gas. I count them by the dozen, these old boys come to play, whose gorgeous coats go buzzin' along the asphalt way. They toiled and wrought like thunder in days of old lang syne; they gathered in the plunder and put it down in brine; they pressed against their collars in busy days of yore, and earned the useful dollars, and called them to the floor. And when their locks were graying, they had their store of wheels; they said, "It's time for playing and kicking up our heels. For years we have been thrifty; no more we'll put up ice; declining years seem nifty, when old boys have the price." My blessings will pursue them as they go past my door, but other old boys view them with spirits sad and sore; old boys who still are slaving, to earn the meagre kale, because they side-stepped saving when they were young and hale.

Continues Fast to Save Husband.

At the end of her forty-first day of self-inflicted starvation in an effort to convert her husband, to her creed of Christianity, Mrs. Sadie Harrington, of Danville, Ill., was still steadfast in her determination to refuse all food until she had achieved her purpose. Her husband, Ernest Harrington, grocer, produce and poultry man, was likewise steadfast. He has secured a nurse to remain constantly at her bedside. Three meals a day are offered her. He has engaged a physician to attend her, has telegraphed for her minister, and has engaged a lawyer to defend any attempt which might be made to incriminate him in the case of her death. "She can starve if she wants to," he said. "I am not going to do anything further—and I most certainly am not going to give up my poultry business here, to become a preacher; that's final."

Hon. Walter Baine Grieve, O.B.E.

A PROMINENT MERCHANT AND CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY PASSED AWAY.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

Newfoundland has been bereft, during the past four or five years, of not a few of her most prominent men—men noted for their eminence in the profession or in commercial and industrial fields, as well as their outstanding citizenship.

One such passed away at noon today, at the age of 70 years. Hon. Walter B. Grieve was one of the best known and most popular merchants in Newfoundland, and one who always took the deepest interest in the affairs of the country, as well as in all matters connected with the Anglican Church of which he was one of the most prominent members, his loss being difficult to fill. As a business man he was second to none in this country, having been practically the head of the extensive and time-honoured firm of Baine Johnston & Co. for a period of half a century. He was indeed a captain of industry, and his entire business life was conspicuous for his industry, ability and integrity. The fishermen, coopers, laborers, etc., recognized him as one of the kindest and most sympathetic men—generous, spirited and warm-hearted, and one who never turned a deaf ear to the cry of distress. It is only the poor and needy themselves who knew the extent of his charities, and with his numerous old employees he was always more of a friend than a master.

During the Great War no man took greater interest in the contest than W. B. Grieve, being identified with all the Patriotic Associations, which, during the years of the Titanic struggle were formed, and which contributed so much to the comfort of our Royal Newfoundland Regiment, both at home and on the field of battle. Never was it known that he failed to respond to any call in the interest of our country or the Empire. The good he has done will live after him, and his patriotic efforts were recognized by His Majesty King George, by his being invested with the Order of the British Empire; and no man amongst us more truly deserved that distinction. In every day life he was modest and unassuming, but when once any important subject came before a meeting for discussion, it was then that the great natural ability, keen judgement, and when necessary, cutting sarcasm came into play, and it was quickly visible that after he had ended his oration, he was master of the situation. In everyday social life, he was entertaining, possessing a fund of ready wit, brilliant repartee, and as a conversationalist he was most interesting and instructive. A fluent speaker, keen debater, a refined and cultured gentleman, he was always listened to with interest and respect both by his friends and opponents, either on the floor of the House of Assembly, Legislative Council, or at public or committee meetings. His virtue and pleasing personality, as well as his scholarly attainments and vast business experience easily placed him in the front rank at all public or social gatherings.

Hon. Walter Baine Grieve, manager of the great and long established firm of Baine Johnston & Co. was born in St. John's, August 19th, 1850. He was educated at Abbey Park, St. Andrew's, and Glasgow University, Scotland, after which he entered the office of Baine and Johnston, Greenock, until 1870, when he came to St. John's, and in 1872 assumed control of the firm here. The establishment is one of the largest and most reputable in the Colony, none being better known or more universally esteemed for integrity and business capacity. Besides the general trade of the country, Baine Johnston & Co. own several fine and well equipped vessels in the foreign trade, and are extensively engaged in prosecuting the seal fishery. Mr. Grieve was deservedly respected and popular with his dealers, having possessed all those qualities of head and heart which made him a favorite with all who had business or social relations with him. He was genial and witty, yet withal a keen man of business. The firm has also branch establishments at Battle Harbor, Labrador. Apart from his own immediate commercial interests, he always found time for large-hearted and intelligent participation in the affairs of the Episcopal Church, of which he was an active member. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the Synod, and was for years one of the Cathedral Church wardens. Politically Mr. Grieve was a prominent and successful figure for several years. In 1882 he was elected to represent the district of Bonaville, heading the poll. In 1885 he was returned for Trinity district unopposed, and represented its interests faithfully for four years. At the general election in 1893 he was joint leader of the "Grieve-Monroe" party, but was unsuccessful in his candidature, and was afterwards appointed to the Legislature Council. His wife, who was a niece of the Rev. Canon Curling, Bay of Islands, predeceased him some years ago.

As I wrote about the great firm of Baine Johnston & Co., as well as the late enterprising manager, some three years ago—"There is one firm with us to-day Baine Johnston & Co. that dates back probably one hundred and forty years. In the two great fires of 1846 and 1882, the firm lost almost every old record, but the traditions are handed down faithfully and well may the survivors of the old firm be proud of their illustrious ancestors. Greenock has always been the headquarters for them. We find the firm under the name of Lang, Baine & Co., at Port de Grave in 1780. The business was removed to St. John's about 1800. Mr. Lang was the senior partner, and after his death, Mr. Johnston of Moffat, Dumfriesshire, was appointed to his place."

"Mr. Baine was at one time member of Parliament for Greenock, and he owned the premises where the firm still carry on business, besides other properties in St. John's. About the year 1835, Mr. Johnston Grieve, a nephew of Mr. Johnston, was admitted a partner in the firm, and later Mr. Walter Grieve, Mr. Charles Philip Hunter and Mr. Robert Grieve. In 1871, Mr. Walter Baine Grieve—in 1875 his brother became partners. The latter has been an invalid, and the management has always depended on Mr. Walter Grieve."

"When we consider what worry, torment and anxiety he has passed through in the past, nearly a half a century in the upheavals and vicissitudes of carrying on the very extensive fish trade that this firm has always done, we may well understand the grit and determination of the Scotch character. In no other trade will you find such exercises of faith in a prospective chance of catching fish, and then again the good will and faith in the men employed. The fish business of Newfoundland can be said to be born of Hope, but resulting only too often in heart-breaking disappointment. It is impossible to go through so many troubles without treading upon some person's toes, but when we meet the principal of that firm to-day (W. B. Grieve), with his hearty, cheerful, kindly word and smile, we may well trace back his history to find where his optimistic spirit finds its inspiration. There is rarely a public gathering but you will find him taking part. His bon mots and words of wisdom are the thoughts that you carry away after all have had their say. On more than once he was President of the Board of Trade."

"Mr. Grieve has served the Colony in both branches of our Legislature with honor and credit to himself and benefit to the country. His father, Mr. J. J. Grieve, was one of Her Majesty Queen Victoria's advisers in this colony before the days of Responsible Government, and served her faithfully. I might go on to enumerate many things and any of us would be proud to have our names connected with them, but I can only glance over these items in the history of this firm which dates back to the very commencement of the Scotch firms in this country, and has outlived them all."

"Mr. Grieve has served the Colony in both branches of our Legislature with honor and credit to himself and benefit to the country. His father, Mr. J. J. Grieve, was one of Her Majesty Queen Victoria's advisers in this Colony before the days of Responsible Government, and served her faithfully. I might go on to enumerate many things and any of us would be proud to have our names connected with them, but I can only glance over these items in the history of this firm which dates back to the very commencement of the Scotch firms in this country, and has outlived them all."

"From the earliest development in Newfoundland trade the firm took the lead. The S.S. Bloodhound was a pioneer at the seal fishery. The S. S. Panther, in conjunction with Capt. Abraham Bartlett, the father of many Arctic explorers, of Brigus, followed shortly after. The first paddle tug steamer Blue Jacket was sent out to this country by Baine Johnston & Co. in 1862, and employed in the trade there. The attempt of the S.S. Euphrates to develop drift-net herding fishing in Placentia and Fortune Bays, also at Bay of Islands and Labrador, without one cent of assistance from Government subsidies, is one of the instances where the firm has tried to benefit the Trade of the Colony. They recognized the immense value of the herring fishery to old Scotland, and would like to see it carried on in the same way here. Mr. Grieve has had for over forty years an able and trusted assistant in Mr. John C. Hepburn."

Hon. Mr. Grieve was always a robust health until a comparatively short time ago. The death of his only son, the late Mr. Robert Grieve, of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, in which he was idolized by the officers and men, was a severe blow to the departed gentleman, and doubtless accelerated the complaint which carried his passing from amongst us. It is an illustration of the goodness of heart and charitable disposition of the late Hon. W. B. Grieve, I need but mention one circumstance. In a conversation with him shortly after the death of his son, he said to me—"If it were not for the sake of the poor people whose ancestors and themselves have been in the employ, generation after generation to the present time, I would retire from business immediately. But I cannot do so for their sake, and I suppose I shall have to keep at it till the end." These words were characteristic of the man. He thought more of the poor and needy than he did of himself. What better epitaph can be written! By his demise, we have lost the last of the old merchants—the Nestor of them all. Requiescat in pace.

For cold in the head, and catarrh affections generally, you will find V-E-M most effective. The preparation is one of the familiar Compound Eucalyptus type of jellies much in use for affections of the kind, but it is the mode of application which enables V-E-M to do such good service. By means of a simple but ingenious little appliance the ointment is applied directly to the place where it is capable of doing the most good, and a few applications are usually sufficient to make a considerable improvement, while one tube generally effects a cure. Price 70c. a tube.

Train Notes.

To-day's outgoing express was cancelled owing to the Kyle having gone to Louisburg.

A local express taking passengers between Port aux Basques and St. John's is due here early to-morrow morning.

The "Express" train, which had been delayed at Stag Head by snow, is making slow progress. The line will probably be cleared to-day.

The next incoming express with foreign mails and passengers does not leave Port aux Basques until to-morrow morning.

This Week or Never!

50 for You 50 for Kearney Finishes Saturday Night

KEARNEY has listed below the various odd numbers and odd sizes left over from his very successful 50-50 Sale—successful from YOUR standpoint.—Kearney doesn't know yet just how he's coming out of it—thinks he'll have to manage on one meal a day for the next six months—but he doesn't care so long as the public have been well satisfied with his 50-50 SALE.

Now, Boys, take this thing seriously. Saturday night coming, when Kearney pulls down the blinds at close-up time, this 50-50 stunt is FINISHED.—No good coming in the following week and saying, "you wish you had," "your forgot," "it slipped your memory"—No good trying to pull any bluff of this kind—so get it now, or you won't get it at all. Here's the final list—read it carefully, then—go right to it.

S. S. Glencoe Arrives.

S.S. Glencoe arrived from Port aux Basques, direct, yesterday morning and will go into the dry dock during the week for a general overhauling. Going up the coast the last two trips the Glencoe experienced very stormy weather with the temperature hovering at zero and ports of call had frequently to be made during howling snow storms. During the season closed the steamer carried an equal number of passengers to those of 1919, but freight carrying fell far short. While undergoing her annual overhauling, the Placentia-Port aux Basques service will be maintained by the S. S. Sagana.

Women Who Love Superstition.

Would it be going too far to say that all women are superstitious? Well, it depends in the first place on what we mean by superstition. Women are generally supposed to be more superstitious than men; and we notice many things which go far towards proving that the supposition is correct. With some women superstition is a fetish, and even enters into their household duties. In olden days people were much more superstitious than at the present time. St. Valentine's Day and All-Hallows' Eve were held in great regard. Our grandmothers were absolute martyrs to superstition. All-Hallows' Eve was a time when superstition ran riot; but few women now go to the length of eating an apple before the looking-glass at midnight, whilst brushing their hair; neither do they go to the church-porch at that time in the hope of seeing their future husbands. Such practices are relics of the past.

Intuitive Apprehension.
There is another side to the question. Women, being specially psychic, often have intuitions which are perfectly true, but which are often called superstitions by those who have no belief in them. This is one of the chief reasons why women are called superstitious. Who has not heard during the war of mothers who have known at the moment when their sons have been wounded or killed, and so on? And how often will a woman feel depressed when some trouble is near, or think of a friend when a letter from him or her is on its way by post? Incidents of this kind are numberless, and we have all heard of them.

But there are numerous women who are superstitious in real earnest, and that with neither rhyme nor reason. They belong mainly to two classes—those who are rather glad of an opportunity to have little eccentricities, and those who are on the way to being neurotic—and the two classes are rather close together. Accessions are notably superstitious. Certain lucky days, lucky months, lucky names, and so on, make a kind of calendar, and lucky mascots and various charms are all-important to many of them. From what one gathers, French actresses are specially prone to be superstitious; but superstition is rather a Latin failing!

Surely, you say, our women are altogether too sensible and "British" to indulge in such follies? Not that! It has been said that there is not a woman who is not over-riden by one favourite superstition, even if she is ashamed to own it. You may scorn such an accusation, but think! Is there nothing of a superstitious nature in your mind? Are you sure that you would be quite pleased to be married on a Friday? Sure that you would bring hawthorn blossoms into the house, that you do not look out for trouble when a picture falls; that you would not be rather pleased to welcome an unexpected guest when you are about to sit down thirteen to dinner? If you are not sure, you need not be despirited, for certainly you are not alone in your foliole, even in this enlightened twentieth century.

Royalty and Superstition.

Nor are you in plebeian company, for many royal ladies have their superstitions. One of the princesses of our own Royal Family had a favourite superstition regarding pins. She could not see one lying on the ground without picking it up, and so fearful was she of losing one from her dressing-table that she had a special pin-cushion decorated with a special pattern of pins so that, if one should be removed, she would know and search for it till it could be replaced. Most of the superstitions which are not due to ignorance are harmless or meaningless. Who would grudge the school-girl the monkey or Teddy-bear mascot which brightens her cycle, or her at the little black cat which hangs on so many women's neckchains?

There are, however, superstitions which are caused by a neurotic mind. We have all heard of Dr. Samuel Johnson's superstition that he must touch with his stick every lamp-post he passed. Many women have like superstitions—such as always treading on a certain paving-stone, and so on. It is not wise to let such an attitude grow on you. Indeed, it is a vast mistake, and should be resolutely discouraged. To some women life is made a burden by their allowing such ideas to take a hold upon their minds. So if you find that any superstition you may hold is getting the better of you, promptly get the better of it at once and for all, by denying it, and then there forgetting it.—Glasgow Weekly Herald.

Household Notes.

No dishes are well washed unless they have been rinsed in boiling water. Some people who will not eat carrots alone will eat carrots mixed with peas. Hardened paint brushes may be cleaned very quickly in boiling vinegar. Vinegar and salt will often remove the most stubborn tarnish on brass.
