CRAPSEY APPEALS AGAINST DECISION

Rochester Clergyman Convicted of Heresy Denounces the Ecclesiastical Court--Says it Was Unfair and That its Findings Were Full of Error.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 7--Rev. Algon S. Crapsey today through his counsel, James Beck Perkins, filed an appeal to the Court of Review of the Second Department of the Protestant Episcopal Church from the findings of the ecclesiastical court that found him guilty on May 9 of heresy. After rehearsing the charges and the findings, Crapsey says: "The grounds of this appeal are: "1--That the said court was illegally and unfairly organized in that while said presentment against me, to be tried by said court, was made by the standing committee of the Diocese of Western New York and was approved by the bishop of the said diocese all the members of the said court joining in the said judgment were selected by the standing committee or by the said bishop. "2--That the said court erred in refusing to allow me a reasonable and proper time for the preparation of my defense. "3--That the said court erred in refusing to adjourn the trial of the cause until after the 15th of May, 1906, when the convention of the diocese of Western New York was to meet. "4--That the said court erred in fact--which convention would choose a standing committee in lieu of the said standing committee which had made the said presentment, and the members of the court in lieu of the members then sitting in the said court, so that the court would not consist of members appointed by the prosecution except or unless as said convention should so decide. "5--That the said court in and by its said decision, undertook to determine questions of doctrine, faith, and worship. "6--That it was the duty of the said court to determine whether or not I was guilty of the charges set forth in the presentment, and I was not a wealthy man. "7--That the said decision upon the said decision upon the said presentment was erroneous, indefinite, uncertain, and void in that it prescribes or proposes as a punishment that I be suspended from exercising the functions of a minister of this church until such time as I shall satisfy the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese that my belief and teaching conform to the doctrines of the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed as this church has received the same."

CANADIAN DEFAULTER ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 8.--The Herald this morning says: "David Hobbs of Montreal, for whom the police of two counties have been looking since last October, was arrested in New York and locked up at police headquarters last night. Hobbs is charged with doing the same to the Canadian Pacific R. Co. out of a large sum, estimated by the Montreal police to amount to $200,000. He held an important place with the Canadian Pacific R. R. and was regarded as one of the influential and wealthy men of Montreal. He was taken to headquarters last night by a secret service detective, who gave the name of Rufus G. Chamberlain. Mr. Percy Surawald, chief of the dominion police, caused the arrest, it is said. At headquarters very little information was given, but the simple statement being made that Hobbs had been arrested on the charge of forgery and will be held till the necessary extradition papers can be obtained. "Hobbs lived in fine style in Montreal and it was generally accepted that he was a man of large income. Last October, when he suddenly left, it was charged that he had robbed the customs department and the railway company and notices were sent to the police of nearly every city in the world offering a reward for his capture. He was born in Montreal, Scotland. After leaving college he was engaged by a ship broker in Dundee and soon established a business of his own. For several years his prosperity was marked and he was styled a wealthy man. "When in the service of the Canadian Pacific his duties entailed the passing of entries for goods consigned to the company."

KING HAAGON'S CORONATION

CHRISTIANIA, June 8--The programme of ceremonies attending the coronation of King Haakon VIII, and Queen Maud here has been completed. The royal couple will arrive at Trondheim the evening of June 19 and wait there at 11 o'clock the morning of June 22. The coronation will take place at the Cathedral and will be followed by 300 guests. The rest of the week will be taken up with celebrations including musical festivals, popular entertainments and processions in which children will participate. June 25 King Haakon will receive deputations and give a soirée at the palace. Yesterday, the first anniversary of the dissolution with Sweden was celebrated as a general holiday throughout Norway. In the cities flags were flying and the streets were crowded with merry-makers. Rev. A. J. Prosser returned home today.

LONGSHOREMAN FALLS DEAD ON S.S. ST. CROIX

A very sudden death occurred on board the steamer St. Croix a little before eight o'clock this morning. George Pope, a Longshoreman, while helping to load the steamer was noticed by his fellow workmen to fall and when they went to him they found him dead. He had been working all night, but his death is said to have been the result of a heart attack. Mr. Pope was a very industrious man and was at one time a quartermaster on one of the Eastern Steamship Company's steamers. Overseer Berryman was notified and Fletcher George Chamberlain was sent for. He took the body to his place of business to prepare it for burial, after which it will be taken to Mr. Pope's residence on Monte Street. The St. Croix soon after left for Boston with her cargo, a half hour out of respect for the dead man with whom the captain was well acquainted. Deceased was forty-five years of age and was born in Prince Edward Island--the son of Thomas Pope, ship carpenter--

WORKMEN IN MOSCOW SECRETLY PREPARING FOR ARMED UPRISING

MOSCOW, June 8.--There is a noticeable increase in revolutionary activity here and it is evident that the leaders are preparing to take advantage of the first opportunity to start an armed uprising. The workmen of the factories and mills are being systematically armed with Mauser rifles and knifed under the supervision of army reserve soldiers. In spite of the repressive measures adopted by the authorities, revolutionary meetings are held nightly in the industrial sections. The leaders appear to be confident that the morale of the troops of the garrison is undermined, as they have received from some regiments promises of support in the event of a conflict. Revolutionary emissaries have been sent out in all directions to the country to incite the land hungry peasants to appropriate land and strike on the big estates. The plan evidently is to secure unity of action in the country and inaugurate a conflict with a general strike. The leaders evidently hope for a complete rupture between the government and parliament, which would furnish the necessary opportunity for an uprising. The situation has greatly alarmed the business men of Moscow and the big landholders of the country.

May Retire Goremynkin

ST. PETERSBURG, June 8--According to reliable reports from Peterhof, Emperor Nicholas has about decided to retire Premier Goremynkin. From the first it was apparent to outsiders that M. Goremynkin did not possess the force or skill necessary to steer the ship of state in the present crisis, and his mastery, who is extremely dissatisfied with the premier's sorry failure to make any headway toward a rapprochement with the lower house of parliament, is now ready to sacrifice him, but the emperor seems to be torn by conflicting counsels. A few of his advisers are urging him to make a frank surrender and accede to parliament's demand for a ministry from the opposition majority. These influences are hardly likely to prevail against the party led by General Trepoft, which believes that no further concessions should be made. The cabinet itself is in open rebellion and with the support they are receiving from the court the rebels are confident of being able to unseat M. Goremynkin.

CLOSING OF NORMAL SCHOOL

FREDERICTON, June 8--(Special)--The public closing exercises of the provincial normal school took place this morning in the school gymnasium, so that the school would be closed and passed off very successfully. Principal Crockett presided and Chief Superintendent of Education, Chas. H. Crockett, presided. The exercises consisted of choruses by the students and recitations by the teachers. During the term, Miss Helen Squires gave the lesson in grammar, Miss Betty, a lesson in arithmetic. Dr. Creed examined the students in English literature and Miss Clark in the study of the normal school. Short speeches were made by Dr. Inch, Principal Crockett and Chas. H. Crockett. The chief superintendent of education took occasion to impress upon the students the obligations they owed to the province and he hoped they would remain in the teaching profession for at least three years. Miss Helena Wark, daughter of the late Senator Wark, has offered the trustees of St. Paul's Industrial school at Silver Falls, a bequest of $100 to the Mater Misericordiae Home. With the exception of the $100 bequest, the residue of the estate goes to Henry Gallagher, brother of the deceased. Clarence H. Ferguson, proctor.

POLICE COURT

Usual Variety of Minor Cases Disposed of This Morning

This morning, in the police court, Robert Eagles, Joseph Laskey, Samuel Scribner and George Howard, four boys, were charged by Acting-Sergeant Marshall with lurking and loitering about Wall street. They were also charged with insulting ladies. Eagles was fined $8 or two months in jail and the other three were allowed to go. Officer Silas Perry told of the complaints that had been made about the conduct of boys in that locality and Acting-Sergeant Marshall said he would be engaged by a ship broker in Dundee and soon established a business of his own. For several years his prosperity was marked and he was styled a wealthy man.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON MILK QUESTION

McGill Bacteriologist Finds No Typhoid Germs in Bloomfield Milk

There is a difference of expert opinion in regard to the milk from two Bloomfield farms which is charged with having caused typhoid fever. Although no more of that milk is handled in the city, D. M. Lawson, who had been handling it, sent a sample to the bacteriological department of McGill University, Montreal, and has a reply to the effect that it contained no typhoid or typhoid-like organisms. The sample of milk was taken from the same can as that analyzed by Dr. A. B. Addy, and was sealed in the presence of the latter and sent to McGill. Following is the reply received: McGill University, Montreal, June 6, 1906. D. M. Lawson, 197 Britain St., Dear Mr. Lawson--The examination of the sample of milk which you sent us has been completed. A diligent search has been made by cultural and other methods for the bacillus of typhoid fever--none were found. I would point out how difficult it is to isolate the B. Typhi from suspected or even contaminated milk, particularly when the milk contains a large amount of cream, as in the case of the milk you sent us. The organisms present, including the B. Coli, B. Aerogenes and B. Acid-Lactici. The origin of these latter organisms may be in the mode of collection of the milk, or in contamination of the milk after being placed in the bottle, but their presence is of little significance, as to the quality of the product, unless they are present in undue numbers. A bacterial count of the number of germs present in one cubic centimetre, was not made, as such counts are valueless when the milk is received at the laboratory so long after its collection. No typhoid or typhoid-like organisms were found in our analysis. Yours very truly, OSKAR KLOTZ.

BEQUESTS TO CHARITY

Michael Gallagher Remembered Several Worthy Institutions in His Will

The last will and testament of the late Michael Gallagher was admitted to probate today and letters testamentary were granted to Henry Gallagher and Michael Ryan, the executors named in the will. The estate values at $2,600 real property and $11,400 personal. The will provides for an annual sum of $250 per year to St. Vincent's Orphanage, a bequest of $100 to St. Patrick's Industrial school at Silver Falls, a bequest of $100 to the Mater Misericordiae Home. With the exception of the $100 bequest, the residue of the estate goes to Henry Gallagher, brother of the deceased. Clarence H. Ferguson, proctor.

MAY HAVE ROLLER RINK

Roller skating may boom in the city this summer, and much will depend upon the action taken by the St. Andrew's curling club at a special meeting, which is called for this evening at eight o'clock. An offer has been made for the use of the rink for this season in order to promote the old-time sport and the club will consider the offer this evening at the meeting. At one time roller-skating was a great pastime in this city, and such flyers as "Billy" Merritt and Ned Dalton were to be seen on the steel blades in the winter and on the rollers in the summer season.

JUDGE RITCHIE SPOILING TO GET AT TROUBLE MAKERS

Martin Warn was reported for committing a breach of the peace by assaulting Robert Garnett on Brussels street on Tuesday night last, and as a result of the hearing of the case in the police court this morning both Garnett and Warn were fined. As soon as the case was called, Garnett stepped forward and said it was simply a talking match, but that statement was not disputed by the judge. "Officer Finley called Robert Lawson as his first witness and Lawson did not care to go on the stand. He and Finley started to argue and Judge Ritchie threatened to send them both to jail. Robert Lawson after going on the stand said that Galbraith, Warn, Garnett and himself were together on Tuesday night between seven and nine o'clock and they all had a few drinks together in Sheehan's bar-room. On coming out of the bar-room Warn shoved Galbraith and said: "What did you come out so soon for?" The witness separated them and then everything went well until they got on Brussels street. Here Garnett said to Warn: "What do you mean?" and Warn replied: "What do you mean?" Garnett made a lunge at Warn, but got the worst of it. They repaired to Garnett's yard, where very little hitting was indulged in. Lawson said that the contestants were equally guilty. He admitted telling Garnett not to give Officer Finley any information. William Galbraith told the same story as the previous witness, with the exception that he did not see the scrap in the yard. "Officer Finley said that about 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday night he saw a crowd around Garnett's yard and Garnett came up with his face covered with blood. The witness asked him what was the matter, and just then Lawson came along and told Garnett to keep his tongue quiet and not to tell what happened. As that closed the case for the prosecution, Robert Garnett, one of the defendants, took the stand. He said that all four repaired to Sheehan's bar-room and after reaching Brussels street Warn said to him: 'I have kicked you once and I can do it again.' Garnett then said that Warn hit him a punch in the nose and knocked his hat off. The witness ran down his yard, but Warn pursued him, Garnett defended himself there. The judge asked him if Warn did not tell him he would thrash him. "Well, I don't know," replied Garnett. "I got a punch on the bugle, I know." Garnett was told that the next time he started fighting he had better not bump up against fellows like Warn for fear he gets a face laceration and perhaps he can fight. Judge Ritchie said that Garnett, according to the evidence, caused the trouble, and he fined both Garnett and Warn $25 each or two months in jail with hard labor. Warn is a big chap, and said he could pay $10. That was accepted by the court, and Warn agreed not to drink again for a year. Garnett made a great plea for freedom, saying that he had no money now. Judge--"Old chaps like you on the turf for so long a time trying to get young fellows into trouble are the kind that I'm spoiling to get a chance at." A suitable arrangement was made for the payment of Garnett's fine. Fred Barnhill and wife left today on a seven weeks' visit to Boston. Harold Robinson returned today from Fredericton by this morning's train.

EIGHT MEN DEAD IN THE HORROR

White Damp Followed Fire in Montana Mine and Claimed Eight Victims --- Rescuing Party Did Heroic Work in Face of Almost Certain Death.

ANACONDA, Mont., June 8--One of the most serious accidents in the history of coal mining in Montana has occurred in the mine of the Northern Pacific at Rocky Fork, near Red Lodge, Carbon County. Eight men are dead, all victims of the white damp that filled the corridors of the mine after the fire which started Wednesday. Their bodies have been recovered, but the story of the work of rescue parties is a tale of unexcelled bravery and heroic self-sacrifice. Of the dead, two were members of one of the parties that entered the mine in the effort to reach the men supposed to be there. The dead--Torrance Fleming, Wm. Bailey, Mike Gabaigi, Thomas Skelley, A. L. McFate, Matt R. Reikka, Roy Carey, Joe Bracey, Carey and Bracey were the rescue party. The gas of their bodies was found all beyond hope of restoration to life. Several of the second rescue party among them pit poor Hagerty, were overcome during the day, but were restored, and Hagerty returned to the work of rescue. It is believed that all bodies have been saved from the mine. The work of fighting the fire is now being pushed. The Sea Coal Mine inspector and local officers of the company are on the ground and characterize the work of the rescuers as brave to the point of foolhardiness.

PLAYGROUND FUND NOW AMOUNTS TO OVER $430.

The fund for supervised playgrounds continues to appreciate daily coming in with more subscriptions. The meeting of the Women's Council tomorrow will give a great impulse to the movement. A plan of the Centennial school grounds will be presented at the meeting. The grounds adjoining the Virginia Male Orphan Asylum are mentioned as very suitable for a boys' playground. The more the citizens learn of the needs of the work projected the more hearty is the general support. The following despatch from Pasadena, California, will be of interest: "The agitation to provide playgrounds for Pasadena school children is moving with the approval of many prominent residents. The general idea seems to be that the sites should be secured before pieces of land are advanced. Many citizens in the community are lending their support to the scheme." (Charlottesville Guardian). An interesting movement is in progress in St. John to produce "supervised playgrounds" for the boys and girls of that city. The Women's Council have for some time urged the need of recreation grounds that would be at the same time sufficiently spacious, convenient of access, properly equipped and under such control as would secure order and decorum. In such fashion playgrounds become educative and elevating as well as health-giving. The St. John Telegraph and the Times of the same city have opened a subscription list and headed it with generous contributions toward this worthy object. Advocacy of a good measure thus backed up by substantial aid is doubly effective and there are good evidences that the action of the Telegraph and the Times in this matter is heartily appreciated by the best citizenship of St. John. THE HELMET OF NAVARRE BY BERTHA RUNKLE. GROSSET & DUNLAP Publishers: New York.

(Continued.) XXI. A change encounter. The street before us was as orderly as the aisle of Notre Dame. Few wayfarers passed us; those there were talked to together as placidly as if love-tyrants and meless existed not, and tuncles and com-tresses were but the smoke of a dream. It was a street of shops, all shuttered, while above, the burghers' helmets went irrespectably to bed.

"Oh," said M. Etienne, with increasing solemnity, "perhaps monsieur had a hand in a certain decree of the 28th June?" The little man began to look uneasy. "There was, as monsieur says, a measure passed that day," he stammered. "A rebellious and contemptuous decree," M. Etienne rejoined, "most offensive to the general duke." Whereupon he lingered his finger on the duke's name. "Monsieur," the little deputy cried, "we meant no offence to his Grace, or to any true Frenchman. We desire peace after all these years of blood. We were informed that his Grace was angry; yet we believed that even he will come to see the matter in a different light."

happened to be faring forth from his dwelling at this unhappy hour? "I am not faring forth; I am faring home. I—was had a little con—that is, not to say a conference, but merely a polite discussion on matters of no importance." "I have the pleasure," interrupted M. Etienne, sternly, "of knowing where M. Marceau lives. M. Marceau's errand in this direction is not accounted for." "But I was going home—on my sacred honor I swear. Ask Jacques, else. But as we went down the Rue de l'Éveque we saw two men in front of us. As they reached the wall by M. de Mirabeau's garden a gang of footpads fell on them. The two drew blades and defended themselves, but the ruffians were a dozen—a score. We ran for our lives."

"That stab-like pain in the small of the back comes from the kidneys and can be cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. It is not the back that is aching, but the kidneys which are situated beneath the small of the back. Therefore, dull pain in the back, or sharp, quick twinges, are warnings of sick kidneys—warnings of kidney trouble. Plasters and liniments will not cure a bad back, for they cannot reach the kidneys which cause it. Doan's Kidney Pills reach the kidneys. That is what they are for and that only. So, if you would be free from backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, frequent or suppressed urines, painful sensation when urinating, specks floating before the eyes, frequent thirst, brick-dust deposit in the urine, or anything wrong with the urinary organs or bladder, you must keep your kidneys well. Help them to work freely, and help them to flush out all the body's waste and impurities. Doan's Kidney Pills are made from the purest roots and herbs, and have a remarkable healing and toning effect on the kidneys. Mrs. Barling, 26 Locomotive Street, Hamilton, Ont., writes: 'I had been troubled considerably with my kidneys, using many remedies, but finding no relief, I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to act directly on the kidneys, and making them strong again.' Price 50 cents per box, three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

AN APPEAL TO MOTHERS

The plea for supervised playgrounds is one that should appeal especially to the mothers of St. John. Those who are able to provide their children with means of healthful amusement, or take them to the country, have only to ask themselves what their experience would be if they were hard-working women in poor circumstances, with little ones around them clamoring for attention which could not be given.

CAPT. PRATT BACK HOME

With A. B. Copp He Arrived Last Night on Government Steamer Lansdowne.

Capt. John H. Pratt, who was recently suspended from the dominion government cruiser Curlew, pending the investigation of charges made against him by First Officer Robinson and A. B. Copp, M. P. P., of Digby, commissioner appointed by the government to hold the enquiry into these charges, arrived last night from St. Andrews, on the government steamer Lansdowne, Capt. Bisset.

Mr. Copp said he had not received a copy of formal charges from the marine department and was not in a position to make any definite statement. He said also that he understood that there had been friction between First Officer Robinson and Captain Pratt for some time past, and it was at Yarmouth that he received notice of his suspension, instructions being to retire from command at St. Andrews.

FOR THE CHILDREN

(Penelope in Boston Herald). There's a beautiful sand pile down across the lawn. It ain't my sand pile, but it belongs to my little neighbor. I know it is a beautiful one, because I have his work for it. He didn't tell me, that's the joke. I was in the circle of lilacs, hidden so that nobody could see me unless I wanted to be seen, and I heard my neighbor say to his mother: "This is a beautiful sand pile, isn't it? I guess it's the nicest sand pile any little boy has got. I'm not going to tell Miss Penelope about it; I'm just going to let her find it out all herself. I think she will find it out, don't you, mother?" And I did. Isn't it funny?

And, by the way, what a blessing sand is to children as a plaything. Whenever first discovered it should be immortalized. One thing is certain, he would-or was it that—receive the united thanks of thousands of mothers, who have found sand piles, and sand gardens the greatest relief from hours of care of little ones, who are growing strong and keeping happy in this out-of-door play in the clean, sweet sand, washed white and pure by the sea, and brought in big loads to make the children of the big cities and the inland towns content and well.

In the senate yesterday afternoon, Senator Berman called attention to the reported sale of one of the largest Winnipeg building houses to an American corporation. He thought that if the Americans were going into the packing business in Canada a rigid inspection of methods should be made.

Sir Richard Cartwright assured Senator Berman that the government was prepared to deal with the question of meat inspection.

With the birth of June the attention of the fashionable world is turned toward social events, several of which will doubtless be of unusual interest, notably the St. John people, but throughout the maritime provinces.

Owing to the fact that so many city people are bestowing themselves to their suburban homes, social functions have been by no means so numerous as during the past few weeks.

At a recent meeting of the club, for the transaction of business connected with the recent bridge party, it was found that the event was very successful from the financial viewpoint, and those who were privileged to attend were unanimous in viewing it as a most delightful social function. The recent auction of the effects of the late Dr. Charles Holden proved interesting to a number of ladies who are collecting curios and antiques.

Alexander Pattison, James Pullen and family, and Oliver Thomas are at their summer homes near Riverside.

Rothsey is beginning to assume the progressive appearance in harmony with summer days, although the recent wet weather has to a very large extent prevented social functions of any kind.

At Ottawa, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught will visit Canada in the autumn. Miss Kitty Power, who has been the guest of Mrs. Lenoire, has left for her home in Halifax.

Senator Power of Halifax was among the guests at the reception held by Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin, after the marriage of their daughter, Miss Inez Goodwin, to Senator the Hon. Henry J. Cloran last week.

The Ottawa Free Press of June 5 says: "A large and very pretty wedding was celebrated this morning at 11 o'clock in St. Joseph's church, when Miss Mary Inez Goodwin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodwin, was married to Hon. H. Joseph Cloran, of Montreal. Among the guests were Mrs. R. L. Borden, Mrs. Norman Galt, Senator Power, Mr. Guthrie and Hon. John Coates.

ROSELLE KNOTT SCORED BIG SUCCESS LAST NIGHT

"Carry this answer to the King: That I will see him and the whole kingdom sunk in hell before I will marry Louis of France."

This one sentence contains the keynote of the character of Mary Tudor—a princess of England—the character of Roselle Knott in the production of "When Knighthood was in Flower," which she offered for the approval of a St. John audience for the first time last night.

It was Miss Knott's first introduction to St. John, but it was a fitting one. Yesterday she was known here by reputation; today her name is spoken on the street corners.

Mary has conquered. Again we bow the knee to genius. When Knighthood was in Flower is an exciting play, but it also has its compensations to the producing artist. If the dramatist has made a heavy draft upon Miss Knott's talents he has also provided opportunity for more triumphs than are usually accorded to an artist.

Every act last evening met a certain call and every curtain call was quadrupled, and the pleasing feature was that not until the audience demanded it did the fair star appear alone. She made fair division of her honors with her supporting company.

There are few but are familiar with the story of "Knighthood" either in its book or play form. Sixteenth century France is its historical setting and the court of Henry VIII. its location. The noble Henry, he of the many wives and the epicurean predilections, has a sister, mad, cap, willful, delightful Mary, and he is bent upon uniting her in wedlock to Louis of France. Lady Mary, however, has other ideas. Charles Brandon, a captain in the King's guard, has found much favor in her eyes and she rebels against the union with the aged Louis. When the play opens she is seen in the garden of Windsor Park—a scene which, by the way, she has already been playing since the Duke of Buckingham and Sir Adam Judson interrupt the merry making and Judson finds a letter referring to return to it to his lawful owner brings on a quarrel in which the swash-buckling Brandon, who is in the King's employ as the King's emissary, urges upon Mary her marriage with Louis, France, and in answer to his pleadings she almost withers him by the words quoted in the first paragraph.

In the second act the Princess is discovered in one of her "trappings." King Henry, attended by a noble retinue, enters the apartment to sign the marriage proposition. Mary prepares for his coming by going to bed and when he enters she pretends to arise, her noble brother retires in confusion, followed by his train, and, incidentally, by a bombardment of pipes, which sets in motion the feminine apparatus contributed by the willful maiden herself.

She then dons male attire and elopes with Brandon, their destination being New Spain. They succeed in reaching Bristol, where they intend to take ship, when they are discovered by the King and his guard. Brandon is condemned to the block and to save him Mary agrees to the alliance with the King of France. He holds her then three months later installed in a corrupt French court, as Queen, while King Louis himself is dying. The Dauphin, heir to the throne, persecutes her with an illicit love, and as soon as he becomes King tries to make her a prisoner. Brandon rescues her and both return to England, where she marries the man of her choice, cleverly securing her royal brother's sanction to the match and at the same time her husband's elevation to the peerage as the Duke of Suffolk.

Of Miss Knott's conception of Mary Tudor, too much cannot be said. She is in every the delightful playing of inculcate the author pictured and one would think Charles Major's willful heroine had stepped direct from the printed page into the view of the audience. She has her own interpretation of the part and in her skillful hands it retains all the symmetry, beauty of color, and charm which air thought gives to it. To analyse Mary Tudor as Major presents her requires time and thought. Miss Knott has set us an example by brushing away the difficulties and presenting instead a living model of the maid of many moods. Each phase of her many sided disposition is brought home to the audience with precision in a series of splendid pictures. There is nothing mechanical about her work, every movement is natural—she lives the part and aptly conveys you of it by her words, her gestures, her expression and even by company, yet that company is a splendid one and renders first class support. Ernest Hastings, as Charles Brandon, is tender in his love scenes, natural in repose and forcibly convincing in his heavier lines.

Agnes Stevens presents a good character comedy conception of Henry VIII and if at times he descends to buffoonery, the part allows much latitude.

The parts of Caskoden and Buckingham are well taken and although Gertrude Hastings has little to do as the Queen, her beauty is of a class to make a feature of any company.

In fact, where there is so much to say in eulogy of the whole production much must be left unsaid.

The piece is splendidly mounted, the company carrying a complete scenic equipment, even to the drop curtain.

Last night's audience, while good, was by no means so large as the production merited. Unfortunately this is too often the case in St. John.

MUNDAY KNIGHT. A NATIVE OF NEW BRUNSWICK

A. Bonar Law, Who is a Rising Member of the British Parliament.

The following sketch of A. Bonar Law, M. P., a native of New Brunswick who is a rising member of the British parliament, is taken from Canada, the new illustrated weekly published in London, from its issue of May 25th.

Last week we were able to briefly state that A. Bonar Law, the Unionist candidate for the Dalnair Division of London, had been returned as a member of the house of commons by a majority of 1,279, a handsome increase compared with the majority of 332 obtained by Mr. Rutherford Harris, the Conservative candidate in the same division at the general election.

"Bonar Law is one of the most prominent of those sons of the Dominion who are now sitting in the Imperial House, and, like Sir Gilbert Parker, is among the most stalwart of the supporters of Mr. Chamberlain's preferential policy for closer union of the Colonies and the Mother Country. For lucid statements of facts, backed up by clear demonstrations of figures, in support of his contentions, Mr. Law has been invaluable in the cause of which Mr. Chamberlain is the chief advocate. No matter whether the audience is friendly or otherwise, Mr. Law is always given an attentive hearing, and in the house much weight is always carried by his remarks. Mr. Law is young as legislators go, being well under fifty, and a brilliant future for him is assured.

"Bonar Law was born on September 29th of the year 1838 in New Brunswick, his father, the Rev. James Law, being a Presbyterian minister. At the age of twelve young Bonar Law went to Glasgow, and it has since been a constant source of regret that he has never had her very silence, often more eloquent than all. In her lighter mood, notably in the earlier moments of the play, she is the frivolous girl, light as a shuttle down, dancing like a summer sunbeam through the story and spreading gaiety and joyousness in her part. But when the first touch of her lover's finger tips awakens her nature and quickens it into being, she matures and melts into the woman of more serious thoughts and soberer mien. Then, as her love for Brandon manifests itself more distinctly, come moments of dramatic force and intensity until, as the play proceeds, she is at times almost tragic.

It is difficult to say in which mood she is most charming. A natural comedienne by inclination and temperament, she scores her comedy points with telling precision and delightful effect. But her versatility is never lost. She plays up her audience as a skilful harpist on his loved instrument. Succeeding notes may be of different tone but all are melodious and true. So with Miss Knott's delineation of Princess Mary. She shades her part and molds it to the requirement of the moment and each phase brings its own delight.

While the star stands out with cameo clearness above the other members of her an opportunity of again visiting his native province. Quite recently he took a trip to Canada and the United States, but time did not permit of his reaching the maritime province. He has not, however, lost interest in the Dominion, and his concerns are always in matters of his most ardent consideration.

"Bonar Law finished his education at the celebrated High School of Glasgow, and on leaving immediately devoted his attention to the iron trade, eventually becoming a partner in two firms, those of Messrs William Kiddie & Sons, and Messrs William Jacks & Co. But through out his career the young man's mind had been fired with an ambition to become a political force, and before he reached his twentieth year he made a vow that sooner or later he would enter the Mother of Parliaments. It was not till 1899, however, that the opportunity offered itself, but upon its appearance, Mr. Bonar Law actively imposed on an ambitious and energetic debutant in parliament, but at length his chance came. The house was wearily wading through a tedious and technical discussion on the Sugar Duty. Several members had in vain attempted to impart some interest to the debate, but were undoubtedly at sea as to their technical knowledge. Then somewhere from the back Conservative benches Bonar Law arose to address the house for the first time. Already getting weary, the house was ill-disposed to give an attentive ear to a maiden speech on an essentially technical subject. But as the new member proceeded, members on both sides of the house began to wake up to the fact that it was no ordinary debater who was addressing them, for Bonar Law proceeded to argue with lucidity, conviction and skill. This speech assured the New Brunswicker a brilliant political career, and the government were not long in showing their appreciation of his talents, for in 1902 he was appointed Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade. His many friends on both sides of the house are glad to see him back in his place."

BASE BALL
The game of baseball on the Victoria grounds last evening was well attended. The St. Peter's team played all around the F. M. A. nine. It now looks like a cinch for the North Enders. The following summarized summary tells the story.

Table with columns for team names (St. Peter's, F. M. A., etc.) and statistics (Runs, Hits, Errors, etc.).

Wentworth has wintered well. He is still absolutely sound and it will not be long before he will be back in the saddle.

THE RING
Mike Sullivan has left Boston for Denver, Col., where he is matched to engage in a ten-round battle with Babe Smith, the Denver pugilist, within ten days.

THE CHURCH LEAGUE
The game on the Shamrock grounds last evening was a large crowd and the worst specimen of ball playing given in the series.

THE TURF
Discarded as a "has been," fit only for a milk route or to pull a butcher's wagon, about the streets such was Wentworth, the outcasted trotter, whose name had been erased from the lists of the bookmakers.

CONSTIPATION: A sure, safe and effective cure, DR. SCOTT'S CATHARTIC AND LIVER PILLS, purely vegetable. Price 25c. Put up by the DR. SCOTT'S WHITE LINIMENT CO., LTD.

McCarry of Philadelphia took Wentworth, after he had been handed up and down the line for 10 years and then discarded as an impotent tool and transformed him so that at the close of the trotting season of 1905 he was considered champion and had a record of 2,044.

There is no Remedy Known to Man That is Better for Sweaty Feet Than "Foot Elm"

HERE'S A KICK
To the Editor of the Times: Sir,—I may interest you to know that though the residents of Summersville Whitehead, White's Mills, Hollerlyville, Lani's Pond, Milkish and Baywater are supposed to have a daily mail from June 1 to October 1, the hard worked postmaster at St. John is oblivious of the fact, or else the carrier forgets to go to Millville for it.

GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS
An Ottawa despatch announces the following appointments: Porter J. Wilcox, Sydney, C. B., to be sub-collector of customs at Lunenburg, N. S., under the name of Murray Bay.

THE RING
The New Glasgow Chronicle says: The Lunenburg people, Messrs. Backman and Dr. Polley, on their recent visit to the States after a trotting bred stallion bought two. They bid on the Dreamer, 2:14 1/2, as far as their limit went, but dropped out, and the horse was purchased by Mr. Janvier, of New York, for $2,025.

THE RING
On Friday last, Achilles, 2:15 1/4, arrived from Boston under the charge of Charles Sweet, of Amherst. Achilles looks fine and is certainly one of the handsomest and best bred trotting stallions on the continent.

THE RING
Tommy Burns has just received an offer from a club at Seattle, Wash., to fight Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in a 20-round bout on the night of July 4. Burns says that if this bout with Fitzsimmons is not allowed to take place he will take on the Munroe match.

THE RING
Jack Munroe, the miser, who fought Jim Jeffries, and who was in the apostle with Al. Lemrick at the Criterion Club, will probably meet Jack Johnson in a big bout at the Lincoln Club, Chelsea, in a few weeks.

THE RING
Big Al. Kaufman, the California heavyweight, is in Philadelphia at present. He went to the Quaker City for the purpose of trying to get on a bout with some of the big fellows either before the Washington Sporting Club or the National A.C. of the city in a six-round bout. Kaufman will probably have no trouble in getting on a match at either club, as he has great battle against Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in San Francisco showed him to be a great fighter.

THE RING
ATTELL AND NEILL MATCHED. LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Manager Tom McCarry of the Pacific Athletic Club has renewed the match between Abe Attell and Frankie Neill, and the battle for the featherweight championship of America, originally scheduled for April 20, will be pulled off on the afternoon of July 4.

THE RING
NEIL WHO HAD TRAINED AT HIS HOME IN SAN FRANCISCO, was prevented by the earthquake on April 18 from keeping his appointment in Los Angeles on the 20th. He has now recovered from the shock, and will leave New York this morning for Los Angeles to begin training. The boys will fight at 122 pounds ring-side.

THE RING
The council of the Provincial Rifle Association met last night at the 62nd Fusiliers' headquarters. Captain S. B. Anderson, of Moncton, presided.

THE RING
The first matter that came up was the question of the Ross rifle and it was agreed that the rifle should be permitted in all matches at the next annual meet. The matches of the association were fixed for August 14th, and the programme for those matches was referred to a special committee to arrange.

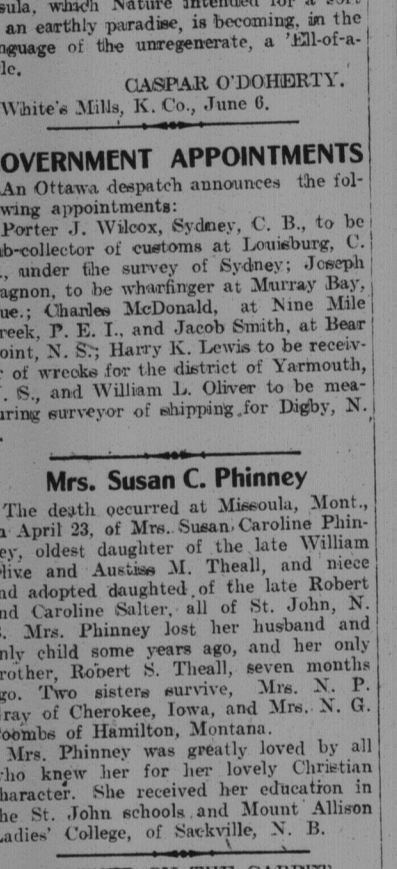

THE RING
The association was offered and accepted a special prize from the ladies of New Brunswick through Mrs. Arnold Perley. The premium is a handsome silver trophy and it is to be known as the Ladies' of

MAP SHOWING ROUTE OF NEW WATER SERVICE

The accompanying plan of the water extension and the properties adjacent to the pipe line is taken from the latest map in the records of the water and sewerage department by courtesy of Dr. professor Murdoch. Since the map was completed by the contractor, B. of about 222 feet above datum and runs for about a mile and a quarter until it reaches Lake Letimer.

It extends beneath the waters of the lake for about 400 feet. This is known as section 3 and both sections have now been completed by the contractor, B.

Mooney & Sons, who it is understood, expect to discharge their men today.

From the western end of the lake a similar conduit, 96 inches in diameter, extends so far as the contour of the land will permit, which is a distance of 1.3 miles and is then connected with the 28-inch wood stave pipe. The point at which this juncture occurs is in the property marked O'Connell on the plan and it is here that the fall which gives the greatly increased head in the new system begins.

Between this point and the section owned by J. E. Arthur there is a descent of about 120 feet and the line then proceeds by an easy grade to connect with the present mains beyond Lake Letimer reservoir, which are about 10 feet above sea level.

The total cost of the water extension to be made, including the purchase of the property for $115,000, is $204,177.11.

As previously stated, Messrs. Mooney & Sons have finished their work on sections 3 and 4, and Messrs. Munro & McVay, who are now working at the intake at Lake Letimer on section 2 are likely to complete their portion of the contract in about a month's time.

New Brunswick cup. It is to be the property of the man winning it in two consecutive years.

The annual maritime match of the three provinces will be shot at Bedford, near Halifax, on Thursday next.

The following is the New Brunswick team—Major O. W. Wetmore, Captain W. E. Forbes, Major J. H. McRobbie, Major J. T. Hart, Capt. R. H. Arnold, Captain James Manning, Capt. H. Perley, and Captain B. Anderson. Major McRobbie is the captain.

H. A. Farris, of White's Cove, is in the city today on his way home from McGill. Mrs. F. C. Wesley, and Miss Florence Wesley, of Toronto, are visiting in Woodstock.

HERE'S A KICK
To the Editor of the Times: Sir,—I may interest you to know that though the residents of Summersville Whitehead, White's Mills, Hollerlyville, Lani's Pond, Milkish and Baywater are supposed to have a daily mail from June 1 to October 1, the hard worked postmaster at St. John is oblivious of the fact, or else the carrier forgets to go to Millville for it.

GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS
An Ottawa despatch announces the following appointments: Porter J. Wilcox, Sydney, C. B., to be sub-collector of customs at Lunenburg, N. S., under the name of Murray Bay.

THE RING
The New Glasgow Chronicle says: The Lunenburg people, Messrs. Backman and Dr. Polley, on their recent visit to the States after a trotting bred stallion bought two. They bid on the Dreamer, 2:14 1/2, as far as their limit went, but dropped out, and the horse was purchased by Mr. Janvier, of New York, for $2,025.

THE RING
On Friday last, Achilles, 2:15 1/4, arrived from Boston under the charge of Charles Sweet, of Amherst. Achilles looks fine and is certainly one of the handsomest and best bred trotting stallions on the continent.

THE RING
Tommy Burns has just received an offer from a club at Seattle, Wash., to fight Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in a 20-round bout on the night of July 4. Burns says that if this bout with Fitzsimmons is not allowed to take place he will take on the Munroe match.

THE RING
Jack Munroe, the miser, who fought Jim Jeffries, and who was in the apostle with Al. Lemrick at the Criterion Club, will probably meet Jack Johnson in a big bout at the Lincoln Club, Chelsea, in a few weeks.

THE RING
Big Al. Kaufman, the California heavyweight, is in Philadelphia at present. He went to the Quaker City for the purpose of trying to get on a bout with some of the big fellows either before the Washington Sporting Club or the National A.C. of the city in a six-round bout. Kaufman will probably have no trouble in getting on a match at either club, as he has great battle against Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in San Francisco showed him to be a great fighter.

THE RING
ATTELL AND NEILL MATCHED. LOS ANGELES, June 5.—Manager Tom McCarry of the Pacific Athletic Club has renewed the match between Abe Attell and Frankie Neill, and the battle for the featherweight championship of America, originally scheduled for April 20, will be pulled off on the afternoon of July 4.

THE RING
NEIL WHO HAD TRAINED AT HIS HOME IN SAN FRANCISCO, was prevented by the earthquake on April 18 from keeping his appointment in Los Angeles on the 20th. He has now recovered from the shock, and will leave New York this morning for Los Angeles to begin training. The boys will fight at 122 pounds ring-side.

THE RING
The council of the Provincial Rifle Association met last night at the 62nd Fusiliers' headquarters. Captain S. B. Anderson, of Moncton, presided.

THE RING
The first matter that came up was the question of the Ross rifle and it was agreed that the rifle should be permitted in all matches at the next annual meet. The matches of the association were fixed for August 14th, and the programme for those matches was referred to a special committee to arrange.

THE RING
The association was offered and accepted a special prize from the ladies of New Brunswick through Mrs. Arnold Perley. The premium is a handsome silver trophy and it is to be known as the Ladies' of Mooney & Sons, who it is understood, expect to discharge their men today.

From the western end of the lake a similar conduit, 96 inches in diameter, extends so far as the contour of the land will permit, which is a distance of 1.3 miles and is then connected with the 28-inch wood stave pipe. The point at which this juncture occurs is in the property marked O'Connell on the plan and it is here that the fall which gives the greatly increased head in the new system begins.

Between this point and the section owned by J. E. Arthur there is a descent of about 120 feet and the line then proceeds by an easy grade to connect with the present mains beyond Lake Letimer reservoir, which are about 10 feet above sea level.

The total cost of the water extension to be made, including the purchase of the property for $115,000, is $204,177.11.

As previously stated, Messrs. Mooney & Sons have finished their work on sections 3 and 4, and Messrs. Munro & McVay, who are now working at the intake at Lake Letimer on section 2 are likely to complete their portion of the contract in about a month's time.

New Brunswick cup. It is to be the property of the man winning it in two consecutive years.

The annual maritime match of the three provinces will be shot at Bedford, near Halifax, on Thursday next.

The following is the New Brunswick team—Major O. W. Wetmore, Captain W. E. Forbes, Major J. H. McRobbie, Major J. T. Hart, Capt. R. H. Arnold, Captain James Manning, Capt. H. Perley, and Captain B. Anderson. Major McRobbie is the captain.

H. A. Farris, of White's Cove, is in the city today on his way home from McGill. Mrs. F. C. Wesley, and Miss Florence Wesley, of Toronto, are visiting in Woodstock.

The Awful Freaks of That Impish Monk

SENATE WILL NOT GRANT DIVORCE TO CAPT. SPAIN

(New York Globe.) Counsel for Lieut. Reginald Salmon, former Canadian wreck commissioner, and Mrs. Mary Beatrice Spain, wife of Capt. Osprey G. V. Spain, commander in the Canadian Marine service, were greatly surprised when they learned from Ottawa that the two cannot be married because the authorities of Canada will refuse to grant a divorce to the Spains.

HE WROTE HIS NAME IN WATER

Lessons From the Life of an American Politician Who Was Not Respected.

(New York Evening Post.) The death of Arthur Poe Gorman removed one of the ablest members of the United States senate. To his contemporaries he was not merely the representative of the upper house of Washington and the leader of the Democratic forces in that body, but the type of a politician common in all ranks, from board of aldermen to senate.

His career turned out to be a series of failures. He was a candidate for the presidency in a convention dominated by politicians. But he himself was shrewd enough to know that a campaign under his name would be foredoomed to failure; that his deserved reputation as a skillful manipulator of men and marshals of the forces of corruption had created deep popular distrust.

It is charged that the evidence of collusion consists chiefly in an agreement which is said to have been signed in the Hotel Marlborough in this city. St. Charles B. Johnson, a lawyer, persuaded Mrs. Spain to sign a statement in which she consented to improper conduct with Salmon, but as the first paragraph declares that it "is the marital desire of the parties to obtain a divorce, one from the other," the committee holds that there was collusion. One of the committee, James McLaughlin, says in his report that though he believes there was collusion, he is also satisfied that Capt. Spain had sufficient grounds for divorce.

Exmouth S.S. Meeting

The annual meeting of Exmouth street Methodist church Sunday school managing committee was held last night. There was a large attendance of members. The reports for the year were of a satisfactory nature. The total enrollment was reported as 616, and the average attendance 400.

ROYAL ADULTATION

If any one wants to find real politeness he had better go to a country where these majesties are good for 60 days, according to the Springfield Republican. In Italy one of the papers recently said that the eruption of Vesuvius had the honor of being witnessed by the king. In Germany one of the papers stated that a royal prince had been pleased to be born in a very obscure, and king of Spain recently asked the time of one of his aids.

COTTON OUTLOOK

The government figures on the cotton crop, showing a condition estimate of 77.2 per cent. on the corresponding date last year, 83 per cent. in 1904, and 74.1 in 1905 are encouraging. While the estimates may not be as high as have been looked for in certain speculative quarters, as was shown by the cotton market's prompt response of a twenty-five point advance, they ought to be highly satisfactory to those who have counted upon a large cotton crop as having no little to do with a continuance of prosperity the country is now enjoying. Today's figures place the acreage at 28,680,000, which is 335,000 acres above the figure estimate of last year, and ought to give us an abundant harvest. With a continuance of good export rates for cotton, and even partial fulfillment of the highly encouraging promises held out by today's report, which is largely dependent upon the prevalence of good weather, the outward movement of the staple this year should have special influence upon the market for foreign exchange.

POETRY OF WINDOW-PANE

To the pleasure-loving and the literary public alike the sale of the Red Lion at Hestley today is an event of uncommon interest. The former delight in the old history because of the excellent view which it affords of the fish of the regatta course; the latter by reason of the "warmest welcome" lines which Sheraton is said to have scratched on one of its windows. Poetry on panes, however, is not so rare as some of the writers about today's auction seem to suggest. Less than ten years ago Messrs. Sotheby sold a pane of glass taken from Curjel's lodges in Edinburgh, on which the young philosopher had scratched the following stanza:

AN EXPERT ROYAL FENCER

The young king of Spain is an expert in the use of the sword. When a child he practiced with wooden swords with the young nobles of his court. His marvelous ability was even then noticeable, and he is now considered one of the best expert of the royal fencers of Europe.

SKILLED WITH AN AXE

The Russian carpenter is a peculiar genius whose principal tool is the axe. Although his skill is confined mostly to this one implement, he is famous for his skill with it. As far back as the Philadelphia Exposition the carpenters from the land of the Czar created a sensation among other craftsmen when they reported that the site where the Russian building was to be constructed with no tools other than axes. To the surprise of the onlookers they not only constructed the house in first-class style, but made beautiful decorations which were almost like their fineness. Yet skilled carpenters in Russia earn only 75 cents a day.

THE NEW NEGRO POET LAUREATE. IS HE JOHN FRANCIS LEE?

The poet's home in Norfolk

The Rev. John Francis Lee.

Is the Rev. John Francis Lee the coming negro poet of America? Will he take up the minstrel harp that was dropped by the late Paul Laurence Dunbar?

Throughout the South, especially, many admirers of Lee are convinced that in time the laureate crown of his race will be accorded him.

Of purest African blood, Lee's mind responds in music to those subtle wiferies of imagination that appeal so strongly to many of his people.

Only 34 years of age, his career as a poet has been, as yet, comparatively brief. He sings his songs as the Muses inspired; sometimes twice a week, and again a year or two apart. Often inspiration comes as a result of his faithful work as pastor of the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, of Norfolk, Va.

Beginning life under the great disadvantages that confront the poor negro boy, John Francis Lee has persistently and untiringly carved his own destiny.

His is the familiar story—the family sequel of fighting his way steadily, steadily upward; working in the wheatfields, in brickyards, in barber shops, wherever he could; earning money here and there with which to pay his way through school.

Poetic whispings came to the little negro boy years ago as he played about the banks of the Potomac River at Alexandria, Va. Through all his writings run a love of nature—and nature is serene and attractive and serene about broad stretches of water that sweeps downward from that quaint old Southern city to the shaded lawn that holds the tomb of Washington.

There it was that he first felt the arm of the vernal season that, when he could express himself in fitting language, was woven into his "Ode to Spring."

She is bounteous and more modest than the conqueror who retreats; Myriads hasten to her altars, Lush trophies at her feet.

Sunshine, first born of her bosom, Peeping high on hill and glade, Sweetly smiles on rustic lovers, Strutting on "meath umbrous shade."

Even if poetry shaped itself in the brain of the boy at an early age, it was long before he could express his thoughts in metre.

His father was a slave on the plantation of a brother of General Robert E. Lee. Securing his release from bondage several years before the Civil War, however, the father had the advantage of the common schools of the South before the Civil War, when masters and servants were so often on familiar and confidential terms.

This poet pastor acknowledges that much of his inspiration has come from his wife. A native of Salisbury, N. C., she received her early education in the common schools of that town, enjoyed a normal school course in Livingstone College, and for some years taught in the public schools.

The couple were married in 1896, and Mrs. Lee has faithfully aided her husband in all his work from the small country districts to the charge of his present large congregation in Norfolk.

Their home in Norfolk is an old-fashioned house in the once fashionable quarter. Long since, however, the section was abandoned by white people, and is now populated by respectable negro families.

Early last year Lee published his first volume of poems. It was a modest little book of fifty-four pages, bound in yellow leatherette, taking its name from the first production, entitled, "What You Gwine to Do Wid Ham."

This is a study of the negro problem, and begins:

De white foks pow'ful restless now About de colored man; Day say he'd better pack his duds and leave dis blessed land. Yes, 'tis a mentous question, sah; It puzzles Uncle Sam, Politicians, all de lan'— What you gwine to do wid Ham?

Later he managed to attend the public schools of Philadelphia, and afterward the Institute for Colored Youth there, then followed courses at the Princess Anne, Md., Academy, Bennett College, N.C.; Anneville College, Tenn., and, finally, a theological course at Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C., the denominational school of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

From the last-named school Lee was graduated in 1890 with the degree of A. B. The degree of A. M. was conferred upon him by the same institution last year.

The struggle for an education was not easy. Frequently, Lee's daily allowance of food was a loaf of bread and half a pint of syrup. One winter he walked eight miles each day to receive instruction in grammar, for which he paid twenty-five cents an hour, did a day's work in addition, and studied far into the night.

It was while working as a porter for a Philadelphia firm that he wrote his first poem. It dealt with slavery in which his ancestors had toiled, and concluded with a hopeful outlook toward the future:

Let each man do his duty Toward our Master's will, That great will be our future, For we are human still.

Lee has written poetry since 1888. Sometimes two years elapsed between his productions; at other times, under the spur of inspiration, he has written verses twice a week.

He is more than six feet tall and weighs 210 pounds. Physically he is as strong and robust as he is active mentally. All the facial characteristics of the African race are his. In demeanor he is modest and unassuming, having inherited that courtesy which marked the servants of the royal South before the Civil War, when masters and servants were so often on familiar and confidential terms.

This poet pastor acknowledges that much of his inspiration has come from his wife. A native of Salisbury, N. C., she received her early education in the common schools of that town, enjoyed a normal school course in Livingstone College, and for some years taught in the public schools.

Miss Agnes Irwin, Recently made an L.L.D.

Fully able to shine by the light of her own intellect and accomplishments is Miss Agnes Irwin, dean of Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass.

Although a great-great-granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, she has no need to depend upon the herminosity of her distinguished ancestor to bring honors to herself.

This fact was emphasized by Andrew Carnegie, when, representing St. Andrew's College, of Scotland, at the recent Franklin celebration in Philadelphia, he conferred upon her the degree of L.L.D.

It was a rare honor, too; only three women had ever received it. Mr. Carnegie made it plain that the honor was never given except in recognition of personal achievement.

Miss Irwin might have descended from plain William Brown, although she is justly proud of holding in her veins the blood of America's great printer-philosopher-statesman. She has won her own way to the front rank of modern educators.

Since its organization in 1863 Miss Irwin has been dean of Radcliffe College. Previous to her service there she had distinguished herself in educational work in Philadelphia.

That the good sense and ponderous mental force of Benjamin Franklin are alive to-day in another brain is evident from a study of his descendants.

A kindly, retiring woman, 65 years of age, Miss Irwin in features strongly resembles her distinguished ancestor. But it is her remarkable memory and philosophical trend of mind that most forcibly associate her with Benjamin Franklin.

Naturally, one looks for some transcendent mark of genius in the residence of an honor which the great seat of learning in Scotland, jealous of its favors, has never been offered to any American. No such mark does Miss Irwin bear on the surface.

Placed as a woodland poet is her large head face, her expression, however, being constantly enlivened by darts from sharp, bright eyes, as some might glimpse through foliage on a brook.

Her hair, once black, now partly gray, is parted in the middle and brushed plainly back. She wears a plain black dress, with no jewelry, save a little gold watch, indispensable to a teacher, and nose glasses, which she shifts frequently in conversation.

When seen recently at the home of her sister, Miss Sophie Irwin, 2027 De Lancey Place, she had just returned from a call, and, although she had removed her hat, was holding her gloves absent-mindedly in her hands.

"There is very little interest in the school," she said. "I have done nothing but teach and give advice to students. Such a life, you understand, must be prosaic, no matter how valuable it may be."

She sat and toyed with her gloves, and the ridge between her eyes showed how hard she was trying to think of some incident in her career which would interest the public.

"How St. Andrew's camp to the conclusion that my knowledge of literature and education was sufficient to entitle me to a degree I do not know. Although I had received the degree of doctor of laws from the University of Pennsylvania, this honor quite overcame me, and I trembled like a girl graduate when Mr. Carnegie, at the recent bicentennial of Franklin's birth, handed me the red hood of St. Andrew's."

Miss Irwin was born in Washington, D. C., in 1841, when her father was a member of Congress from Pennsylvania, residing at Pittsburgh. The following year her father was appointed by President Polk as United States Minister to Denmark.

It is on her mother's side, however, that she is able to lay claim to the most significant lineage. Benjamin Franklin married Deborah Reed, and their only daughter, Sarah, became the wife of Richard Baché. To Mr. and Mrs. Baché were born several children, of whom Richard Baché, 2d, married Sophia Richard Baché, 2d, became Mrs. W. W. Irwin, and was the mother of Agnes Irwin. Thus Miss Irwin is the great-great-granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin.

Great-uncles of Miss Irwin were Commodore Dallas, of the navy, and George Mifflin Dallas, who was Minister to England under President Tyler, and again Vice-President of the United States.

Other members of the Baché family which scintillated in professions, giving clear evidence of the good sense which was evidently inherited from Franklin.

Agnes Irwin's half-brother, John

Irwin, became a rear-admiral in the United States Navy; another brother, Robert, for a long time served the Japanese Government in a mission to the Sandwich Islands; and her eldest brother, the late Colonel Richard Biddle Irwin, of the editorial staff of the New York Tribune, was author of a valuable army book.

Association from early youth with men of mark, combined with her inherited mental power, had much to do with the formation of Miss Irwin's character and the drift of her studies.

Returning with her family from Copenhagen in early girlhood, she grew up in Washington in a political and educational atmosphere.

She knew the principal actors in the Civil War. Those trying times so wrought upon the nerves of her mother and the rest of the family that, deprived of male protection, they thought it advisable to remove from Washington to New York.

As a teacher in Miss Hoffman's school in New York, the young descendant of Franklin acquired practical training, to which she added by omnivorous reading in the Astor Library. She grew into a thoughtful, earnest woman. Her memory was mentioned as being marvelous.

The death of Mrs. Mitchell in Philadelphia, in 1869, left a prominent day school for girls without a principal, and Miss Irwin succeeded to the position.

During some of her holidays she traveled extensively in Europe, familiarizing herself with educational methods and meeting prominent people.

After twenty-five years spent in Philadelphia, all in the same position, Miss Irwin was elected, in May, 1894, the first dean of Radcliffe College, a section of Harvard at that time but recently incorporated, and she was admitted to the privilege of giving a degree, counter-signed by the president and faculty of Harvard.

Her sister, Miss S. D. Irwin, has carried on the Philadelphia school ever since.

The lectures at Radcliffe are delivered by the professors of Harvard, so that Miss Irwin's mission there has been, not to teach, but to influence and guide young women in their choice of studies; to be to them an example of rare scholarship, compacted with worldly charm.

The degree of L.L.D. was conferred upon Miss Irwin in Witherspoon Hall, Philadelphia, on the night of April 17 last, at a meeting of the American Philosophical Society, held to celebrate the Franklin bicentennial.

In 1759 the same college conferred the same degree upon Benjamin Franklin. At that time Franklin was in British subject, so that, strictly speaking, the degree given to Miss Irwin is the first that St. Andrew's has awarded an American.

SOME PECULIARITIES OF THE WORLD AND ITS PEOPLE

The Sultan of Turkey's income is enormous. Besides deriving $2,000,000 from the State taxes, he is said to draw two or three times as much from crown property. He owns a very large number of palaces on the Bosphorus, and many of the best villas on his northern banks, which he grants during his pleasure to Ministers and favorites, or to persons who have married members of his family.

It is said that 3000 persons are invited to dinner to a still larger number.

The smallest woman on earth is said to be Mlle Paulina, of Holland, 18 years old, and twenty inches high. She weighs less than nine pounds.

There is a well-known actress in Paris who last year received $8400 for giving a single recitation of the "Marseillaise," which lasted exactly ten minutes. The actress is Mlle Dudley.

There has existed in Japan for many years a curious law to the effect that whenever the Emperor or Empress appeared in public no other person should seem to occupy a higher place than this member of the royal family; therefore, on such occasions, the shutters of all upper stories were drawn, and the upper parts of the houses past which the royal party moved were seemingly deserted. This law is still in effect.

Mercedes Lopez, a Mexican woman, is said to possess the longest hair of any person in the world. Her height is five feet, and when she stands erect her hair trails on the ground four feet eight inches. The hair is so thick that she can completely hide herself in it. She has it cut very frequently, as it grows quickly, enabling her to sell large tresses to hair dealers every month.

The Rev. Sir J. Erasmus Phillips, the aged Prebendary of Salisbury, is a Liberal parson, who has three Liberal sons in the new English Parliament. Colonel Ivor Phillips headed the poll at Southampton, Mr. Owen Phillips converted a Conservative majority of twelve into a Liberal majority of 1049 in the Pembroke boroughs, and Mr. Wynford Phillips was returned to Pembrokehire by a majority of 3280. The three brothers will probably be the tallest trio in the House. Mr. Owen Phillips is 6 feet 7 inches high, Colonel Ivor Phillips 6 feet 4 inches, and Mr. Wynford Phillips, 6 feet 3 inches, a total of 19 feet 5 inches.

In Great Britain, it is said, cats in thirteen weeks all the 73,000,000 bushels of wheat which it grows.

The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves 2 feet or three feet long while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls, 4 feet or five feet in length, and, in many cases, even 6 feet.

The first place of worship in Western Australia was unique in two respects—the materials of which it was built and also the several purposes to which it was devoted. This remarkable building was made at Perth by soldiers, shortly after arrival in 1829, and was composed almost entirely of birchbushes. In addition to its use on Sundays for divine worship, it occasionally served as an amateur theatre during the week and during the whole time as a barracks.

A FEW ROBINSONS AROUND. Kansas is all right as a State—none better," said the Chicago drummer, "but there are certain neighborhoods one has to get acquainted with before things can run along smoothly. For instance, on my last trip I struck a town called Robinsonville. A street car drawn by a mule ran from the depot to the town. The fare was seven cents. I kicked, and had a row with the conductor. When I got uptown the land-lord of the only hotel refused to receive me as a guest."

"What's the row?" I asked. "You sassed the conductor of the street car."

"Well, what of it?" "We are both named Robinson and related."

"I went out to the restaurant, but that was run by a Robinson, and I could get nothing to eat. There were three merchants in the town, and they wanted my goods, but they were carry my grip. Too much Robinson. The conductor refused to let me on the car. Same old Robinson. I was making for the train and carrying my luggage when I met a smiling man, and stopped to say to him: "You don't look like a Robinson."

"Well, no, I'm not," he replied. "Then I want you to listen while I tell the whole caboodle of it. I never saw such a blamed town in my life. Why, air—"

"Please don't," he interrupted. "Because I'm Jones—the only Jones in town—and if the Robinsons heard that I was agit' em they'd put the price of kerosene up to thirty cents and butter to fifty, and the only Jones would have to eat dry bread and sit in darkness. I'm or fifteen years hence, when the Joneses got a foothold—"

"And he smiled and bowed and waved his hand and passed on."

PROFESSIONAL DINERS OUT. An advertisement in the London Times recently quite frankly places before the public an avocation followed by aristocratic persons of limited means, but which, heretofore, has not been blazoned to the notice of the world. This particular avocation is stated:

"Man, K. C. M. P., well known professionally and called a good companion, over 61, desires to be received as sociable guest. His wishes to be accepted generally by those who would not receive him entirely for gain, and possibly a small contributor to expenses."

The only difference between this man and many others who follow the same trail is that he appears willing to contribute his mite toward defraying the expenses of the good times he has in view.

There are in London, and elsewhere, perhaps, many professional diners-out who help make successful the social affairs of parvenus and others who seek aid from all sources in their efforts to break into the social field.
