BRITAIN'S KING AND QUEEN TO VISIT AMERICA BY ROYALTY OF GERMAN YACHT

Upon Their Arrival in Berlin This Morning King Edward and Queen Alexandra Were Given an Enthusiastic Reception—King and Kaiser Exchanged Kisses and Rode in Same Carriage—Meanwhile an Agreement is Announced Which Settles Long Standing Differences of France and Germany.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—King Edward, accompanied by Queen Alexandra, arrived in Berlin this morning and was given a warm welcome by Emperor Wilhelm and the German authorities. The city was gaily decorated in honor of the visitors and large crowds gathered in the beflagged streets to witness the procession to the palace.

The German and British colors played a conspicuous part in the decoration. After their welcome here the royal procession moved slowly up Unter Den Linden to the palace. The broad street was thronged with people, who displayed a great degree of enthusiasm. Many persons cheered and waved their hats and handkerchiefs. The windows of all the buildings were crowded with people.

CRUSHED HIS FOOT

Amherst, N. S., Feb. 9.—(Special)—A distressing accident occurred at the Victoria street crossing of the I. C. R. last night, which will probably result in the loss of one foot by Frank Carroll, a young man, 20 years of age, employed in D. D. Bell's barber shop. Carroll, with a number of others, accompanied the Moncton hockey team to the midnight train, and was chatting with friends as the train started. When nearing a crossing he jumped off, and the pavement being icy, he slipped, his foot passing under the wheels, and being terribly crushed. He was removed to Highland View Hospital, and it is feared today that his foot may have to be amputated. The injured young man belongs near Charlottetown, P. E. I., where his mother resides.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

"Is St. John a better city because you are living in it?" This pointed, personal question, put to a crowded audience at the Every Day Club recently by the Rev. A. B. Cohen, receives added significance in view of certain movements in the direction of social reform that are now commanding attention in this city.

The Methodist ministers yesterday set on foot an agitation to promote the formation of a society for the prevention of cruelty to women and children; the Women's Council have renewed their appeal for a police station and a patrol wagon; the school board has decided, in response to the appeal of the Women's Council, to ask for legislation empowering it to take over the management of supervised playgrounds; there is to be a mass meeting next week to organize an Anti-Tuberculosis Association; there is a growing movement in favor of the organization of men's clubs for social improvement; the question of temperance reform is receiving more attention than for a generation past.

These are healthy symptoms. But there are still men in the gutter, and small boys falling into evil ways. There are mothers and little children suffering through lack of sufficient clothing and nourishment. There are men resting in idleness or eating the bread of charity because they cannot find work or are too indolent to seek for it. There are women doing day's work to support drunken and lazy men.

Meanwhile society alternates its lavish expenditures for pleasure with paltry doles for an ill-advised charity, that carries with it nothing of the giver, or of permanent benefit for the recipient. There are boundless opportunities for the sincere friend of social reform to become a factor in solving the problem of social betterment. There is at this moment an awakening in the city of St. John to the fact that there are evils to be overcome and wrongs to be righted. It is a time for every citizen to take to heart this question:— "Is St. John a better city because you are living in it?"

REFERRED TO THE HAGUE

The following statement concerning the controversy between Newfoundland and the United States with regard to fishing rights, and the terms of the arbitration treaty gives a fair statement of the case from the United States standpoint. It is from the New York Journal of Commerce: "There is a prospect that the long controversy over the Treaty of 1818 granting to the United States certain fishing privileges off the shores of Newfoundland will be settled at last by reference of the disputed questions to the Hague tribunal. The treaty for that purpose was signed by Ambassador Bryce and Secretary Root before the latter left the office of Secretary of State, and has been assented to by the government of Newfoundland. It now only awaits the sanction of the British Foreign Office, which is certain to receive, before being submitted to the Senate for ratification.

"The terms of the treaty have not been made public, but it is understood that all the questions in dispute as to the interpretation and application of the old agreement will be passed upon. This country had the opportunity in 1904 to settle matters on an amicable basis with Newfoundland by a reciprocity agreement, but as this involved certain tariff questions it was rejected by the Senate, mainly on account of the opposition of Senator Lodge in behalf of the Gloucester fishermen, who objected to having fish caught by Newfoundland fishermen admitted duty free into the American market. They were accustomed to buy the fish and get them admitted free at the port of Boston on the pretense that they were their own catch, and they desired to keep up the evasion of the tariff and allow the Newfoundlanders no share in the trade.

"The rejection of this treaty caused much ill-feeling in the island colony and resulted in local legislation adverse to the rights claimed by our government in behalf of American fishermen. Among other things fishing on Sunday or with purse seines was forbidden within the jurisdiction of Newfoundland, and the hiring of citizens of the island by the American fishermen to man their boats was prohibited. The right to fish in certain bays and inlets on the west coast was also denied. As these provisions were regarded as violating the treaty rights of our people there was danger of conflict, and negotiations were begun with the British government for the settlement of the dispute. As two governments were unable to agree it was proposed to refer the matter to arbitration by The Hague tribunal and a modus vivendi was adopted for the fishing season of 1906, then in prospect.

"This was distasteful to Newfoundland and was especially objected to by the premier of the colonial government, Sir Robert Bond, who had been incensed by the rejection of the reciprocity agreement, but it needed no consent of the colony, and the British government insisted on its observance. With some difficulty it has been renewed for two seasons while the negotiations between the United States and Great Britain have been deferred or delayed. Mr. Bryce, since he became the British Ambassador at Washington, has devoted himself zealously to an effort to bring about an amicable settlement of all pending disputes between this country and his government affecting Canada and Newfoundland.

"The negotiations between the C. P. R. and the government in regard to running rights on the Intercolonial terminated because the railway company wanted too much. It is the duty of the government to see to it that no arrangement is made which would enable the company to profit at the expense of the country. The C. P. R. has received enough at the hands of the people of Canada. The country is proud of the achievements of this great railway, and of the wisdom with which its affairs have been conducted, but all future relations must be on a strictly business basis. The same rule should apply in the present negotiations between the company and the city of St. John.

"The eyes of the world are turned upon England, over which a wave of militarism is spreading, largely due to popular feeling with regard to Germany; and upon the German capital, where the King and Queen of England, with a brilliant suite, will be formally welcomed tomorrow. Edward the peacemaker may impress upon German people, but his own people will not be content until the country is put in a better state of defence. The Asquith government is confronted by problems which are not easily solved, and an appeal to the people is not far distant. Obviously, much of the present warlike agitation is political, and aimed not so much at Germany as at the Asquith government.

"Regarding the enormous issue of new securities since the beginning of the year the New York Journal of Commerce says: "New financing on a large scale has characterized the first month of 1909. The actual issues by railroads and industrial corporations of new securities have totalled $157,655,000, which is practically the same as for January, 1908; but there have been remarkably free offerings by investment houses of bonds previously issued but not actually subscribed by individuals. So much refunding has to be done during 1909, that the flotation of new capital during the early part of the current year when money rates are likely to remain low cannot fail to be heavy."

"Pending that happy time when the tunnel will be constructed, the P. E. Island members want a new winter route adopted, which would bring the Island into closer touch with Halifax. The announcement is made that a new ice-breaker for the Island service will be in commission next season.

"The school board is greatly to be commended in its action looking toward the conduct of supervised playgrounds under its auspices. The Women's Council will in that event be able to direct their energies to the task of equipping a great general playground for the larger boys and girls of the city, which is greatly needed.

"The attitude of Halifax, in the matter of I. C. R. running rights, is that of a city which seeks a benefit for itself. The general interests involved must not be overlooked.

"The Conservatives of Comox-Atlin offered no opposition to the return of Hon. Mr. Templeman. The British Columbia Conservatives are not, apparently, in fighting trim.

"The Canadian curriers are having a series of triumphs in Scotland. Yesterday they won the Stothons-cup. Incidentally they are giving Canada a good advertisement in Scotland.

AN ASPIRATION. Though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit.—Col. 2:5. "Oh, turn me, mould me, mellow me for use. Permeate my being with Thy vital force: That this also unexpressive life of mine May become eloquent and full of power, Impregnated with life and strength divine. For the bright touch of heaven into my hand. That I may carry it aloft. And with the eye of weary wanderers here To guide their feet into the paths of peace."

IN LIGHTER VEIN. He—They say the Empire gown is going out. She—Mine is, and right now. That is what it came in for. HORRIBLE REVELATION. Professor's Wife—"You haven't kissed me for a week." He—"No, I haven't. I'm a little out of spirits. I've been kissing."

HE WAS TEMPERATE, TOO! Curate at Sunday school—Now, children, we'll close with prayer. "Little drops of water." Now do put a little more spirit into it. TERRIBLY SHOCKED. "Ever get shocked by talking over a telephone?" "Only once. I called my wife up while she was out, and she said she'd be home in a few minutes. I was so shocked by her tone of voice that I didn't know what to say."

HER POSITION. "Her husband was run over." "Now that he is gone, I presume that she realizes his full value." "Yes, indeed. She does. And she won't compromise for a cent less."—London Courier-Journal. THANKLESS TASK. "I think I shall marry him to reform him," said the romantic girl. "I have tried to do so," rejoined Miss Cayenne. "Well, I won't say the men were reformers. But they always seemed more or less repentant and dissatisfied."

SLIGHTLY UNREASONABLE. "My husband is so very unreasonable." "Most husbands are. What did you do?" "I tried to reason with him." "You're right," rejoined Miss Cayenne. "Well, I won't say the men were reformers. But they always seemed more or less repentant and dissatisfied."

PAT'S WIT. A Glasgow lawyer, somewhat disgusted at a couple of friends named in a recent issue of a building in which he had his office, wrote to a couple of blockheads asking if they would do him a favor. "What do you want?" "I want you to be my witness at a church wedding." "Well, I won't say the men were reformers. But they always seemed more or less repentant and dissatisfied."

NOSE STUFFED UP. If Bothered With Catarrh, Bad Breath, Hawking, Cold in the Head, Use Cattarhoxone—Guaranteed to Cure or Money Refunded. Cattarhoxone is nature's way of curing Cattarrh troubles. Its healing vapor spreads through the nostrils, throat and air passages. It stops mucous discharges, relieves pain and "stuffed-up" feeling, sweetens the breath and prevents drooping of the throat.

CHURCH ACCOMMODATION. The Editor of Evening Times: Sir—In your issue of Feb. 2 you give the result of the canvass on religious census for St. John. We notice that the Church of England stands the highest, numerically. The question now suggested by returns is this: Is there sufficient accommodation in the English churches for the 7,917 given as belonging to that body. If not, what is going to be done, and who is responsible?

GAVE POP AWAY. New Preacher—Well, Tommy, we had a fine dinner; it must have cost you a great deal. Tommy—I guess it did. I heard him tell me that he'd have to eat free lunch for two weeks to catch up even.

Full Set $4.00. We have a scientific formula which renders the extraction of teeth absolutely without pain. We fit teeth without plates, and, if you desire, we can, by a new method, do this work without resorting to the use of gold crowns or unsightly gold bands about the necks of the teeth.

The King Dental Parlors. We have just opened our New Restaurant at 86 Germain Street, opposite Church Street. New Chef, New Waitresses and best of satisfaction. Open day and night. Give us a try. SCAMMELL'S Phone 1118.

Rev. Father Morrissey. "Father Morrissey's No. 10" Cures Coughs, Colds and Lung Troubles. The very same remedies, with all their healing virtues, are now being prepared from the late priest's prescriptions. The "Lung Tonic," commonly known as "Father Morrissey's No. 10," is one of the best remedies ever put up for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and lung troubles of all kinds.

HISTORY OF WIRELESS. 1842—Professor Morse sent signals across the Massachusetts River without wires. 1850—Senator James Lindsay, of Dundee, suggested the possibility of sending wireless messages from Britain to America. 1864—December 8, Clerk Maxwell demonstrated the possibility of wireless telegraphy.

NO MORE ON THAT HEAD. Skanlan—I've heard that you had before, so please cut it short. Barber—All right, I'll change the subject. Next! TOO MUCH. Kitty—It's hard to believe that she's as intelligent a woman as they say she is. She's going to marry a Jew, you know. Peggy—Well, love is blind, they say. Kitty—Yes, but there's no excuse for its being colorblind.

THE KIDS KNEW. Swipery—Is Jimmie's old man really so bald-headed? Mickey—Sure! Why, he has the piece of string around his head to tell how far up to his hat his face.

WHEN SHRUBB DID HIS GREATEST WORK

Some of the Races in Which the English Runner Did Some Wonderful Running and Won His Fame.

When Alf Shrubb made his ten-mile record he ran every mile of the first five minutes with an average of 5.94 for each mile. In this race which took place at Ibrox park, Glasgow, November 3, 1903, Shrubb was wearing the finish of the ten miles and springing for the finish when the official informed him of his change to the 11-mile record. He immediately eased off a bit and then went on for the record, which he found was well within his powers, doing 58.23-5 and then sent him on for the hour record, which he negotiated by covering 11 miles 1.17 yards.

THE AFTERMATH OF THE SHRUBB-LONGBOAT RACE

What the New York Papers and Tom Finagan Have to Say About "the Greatest Marathon Race Ever Run"—Shrubb Might Have Won if He Had Been Properly Advised.

he was beaten at twenty miles as I calculated. He could not go any farther and retired after beating absolutely incapable of going another foot over Tom Finagan was the special commissioner of the Evening Telegram of Toronto at the Longboat-Shrubb race in New York on Friday night last. He sends the following in his paper concerning it:

Shrubb said: "The distance was too far, and the pace I set in the beginning too fast. Longboat is certainly a great runner at that distance." Longboat expressed his satisfaction, and said he knew his equal. "I think myself that Shrubb was worried and that he would surely beat him, but he was badly advised to set such a pace."

THE DOCTOR SAID "I CAN'T HELP YOU"

Suffered 10 Months with Kidney Complaint. Gln Pills Cured.

I am perfectly cured of kidney complaints after using Gln Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

Dr. Wm. L. Lewis, M.D., writes: "I suffered ten months with the Physicist attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until provisionally I learned of your most excellent remedy, I am recommending Gln Pills."
