WORLD'S COLUMBIAN

How to see Chicago .-- How to reach the Fair Grounds. Hotels & Restaurants. Amusements.

A Water-trip through the Grounds.—An Evening Trip.—Odds & Ends.

The Advance's readers are, doubtless, much interested in the great World's Fair, which was opened on Monday of Can one see the World's fair in one day?
Well, he can see a great deal of it, much more than one would think. In truth, a very good general view can be taken in a day, including the evening, though of course there are many buildings the details of each of which would occupy many days.
Here is the itinerary for one day:
First, it is to be a bright and pleasantly warm May day, and so the first visit should by all means be made by water. We will start at the Van Buren street dock. The World's Fair Steamship company, which owns the dock, has four big boats running between Van Buren street and the World's

What to do and which way to turn first on landing in Chicago will be the puzzler to the majority of visitors.

There are four ways of reaching the exposition grounds in Jackson park from down town Chicago. The distance is seven miles from city hall, which is within a few squares of the depots of the leading railways. The clevated road gives the quick est transit, and its lines circumvent the park. The fare is 5 cents. The down town terminus is at Congress street, 12 to 15 minterminus is at Congress street, 12 to 15 min-utes' walk from city hall. comes the company operates enough smaller craft to double this capacity, not to mention the number of people the independent lines the number of people the independent lines will carry.

We are taking the best possible method of seeing the buildings of the "White City." Not only can t's very best view of the fair in its entirety be had from the water—that is, from out here on the lake—but every one of the most important buildings is to be seen to best advantage either from the lake or from the canals and ponds inside minutes.

The Illinois Central railroad will carry passengers to the grounds for 25 cents the round trip. The depot is on Michigan avelake or from the canals and ponds inside the grounds. From the water, too, every one of the larger and more important build-round trip. The depot is on Arichigan avernue.

The Lake Michigan boats will carry passengers to the exposition pier for 25 cents the round trip. Their landing in Chicago is 10 minutes' walk from city hall, just adjoining the Illinois Central depot. The Cottage Grove avenue cable cars run to the southern entrance to the park, Fare, 5 cents. They leave the heart of the city via Wabash avenue and turn on a loop through Lake and State streets.
Chicago is divided into three geographical divisions known in local parlance as the "West Side," "North Side" and "South Side." The South Side, with its Michigan, Calumet and Prairie avenues given up to the homes of the millionaire element, harbors Chicago's aristocracy of wealth. The exposition is in the South Side district; so are the Auditorium, the courthouse, postoffice, the principal clubs and the Art institute. The great thoroughfares of the South tute. The great thoroughfares of the South Side in the central section of the city are Wabash and Michigan avenues.

Wabash and Michigan avenues.

The West Side comprises many fine parks and avenues, and originally contained one-half of Chicago's population. Madison street is the central thoroughfare of the West Side. The North Side includes Linthe plans have been magnificently carried out. That's why we are going by water to get our first view of the exposition.

Many will debark at the North pier, but let us go down to the farther pier and be-West Side. The North Side includes Lincoln park, the homes of many millionaires, a long stretch of the Lake Shore drive, the archiepiscopal palace, the Fannell obelish, the monolith of Long John Wentworth and the Northwestern university, the highest seat of learning in the state of Illinois. The central thoroughfare is Clark street.

A system of parks and gardens engirdles the city. The parks cover 1,879 acres; the boulevards extend 30 miles. Each of the city divisions above noted has its own system of street cars. The City Railway comcity divisions above noted has its own sys-tem of street cars. The City Railway com-pany operates the South Side system, con-sisting of cable and horse roads. The question of an expense budget is now the all important one for fair visitors. How much will be required for necessaries, extense and emergencies depends on the tasks.

tras and emergencies depends on the tastes and habits of the individual. Three New Yorkers who are planning a trip to Chicago recently compared their estimates of expenses. One of them has had much expe rience as a sightseer and was at the cen-

The hotel accommodations of Chicago and those suburbs easy of access include about 2,000 houses of all grades. Nearly 800 of these have been built specially for World's fair patrons and are in the vicinity of the grounds. They have cost nearly $4,000,000 for construction, and with few exceptions are of brick, stone and iron. Heretofore the regular prices in the Chicago hotels have ranged from $9 down to $2 a day. Thousands of private houses in all parts of the city are advertising lodgings and meals for exposition patronage.

People who wish to economize will doubtless prefer to save time and money by lodging in the district around Fair park. The accommodations there now foot up 5,000 rooms. The rates will fluctuate with the demand, but the competition will be great. The hotels in the district include the Hotel Endeavor, with 620 rooms for Christian Endeavor societies; the Woman's Dormitory, with 800 single rooms, and the Hotel Vetern with 700 rooms and hereaft here is an anchorage also for visiting yachts and the like up at Van Buren street pier. We will get a business to do the town, will not feel a lack of attractions peculiar to the metropolis of the west. The year 1893 opened with 30 theaters giving daily performances, and to these will be added many temporary palaces of amusement. At least a dozen of the celebrated tall buildings of Chicago will repay inspection. The first of these is the Auditorium, which is reported to have the largest theater in the world and a sight-seeing tower 20 stories high. The special congresses of the religious denominations and the strictly scientific associations will be of peculiar interest.

Both the general congresses, planned for the people, and the special congresses, planned for the advancement of great special interests, may thus be made highly successful. As the material exposition at Jackson park is designed chiefly for the pleasure and benefit of the people of all countries and subordinately for the entertainment and advantage of the specialists in the different departments, so also is the intellectual and moral exposition to be made in the world's congresses primarily intended for the benefit of the people who will hear or read the proceedings.

Now we will walk over to the Casino, get some luncheon and then inspect that splendid peristyle I have talked so much about. the "White City" at the fair grounds in all their beauty. As we glide along the city front we note in turn the Auditorium, the great clock tower, the immense and brilliantly lighted hotels and then the grounds. There are thousands of electric lights in and around the buildings and about the grounds. Every light has been placed so it will shed its light to the best advantage despite the prodigality of distribution. Hear the bands. There are a number of Hear the bands. There are a number of them, not to mention Mr. Thomas' great orchestra. Now the singers take a hand. Several parties of them are sent out in gondolas every night to furnish music. All first class talent too. Take a glance or two at the scene on the water. Isn't it cheerful? How many boats? I haven't an idea—hundreds of 'em anyway.

All right. We'll go in and paddle round awhile in a gondola, hear the bands play and so on. Then we'll come out into the lake in a launch and study this scene again. You could look at it for hours? I should think so. Tomorrow we'll go down by rail and take a jaunt around the grounds and through the buildings afoot. Iowa..... Rhode Island.

Charities and Correction. Charities and correction.

Charities and correction is one of the departments of the fair to which thinking men will instinctively turn. There will not be much in it to attract the popular eye, but it will be a mine of information for the guardians of the poor and the governors of the criminal classes in this and other countries. The student of the social problems of the day will find collected and easy of access facts and figures invaluable to him, which he might otherwise have labored for years to discover. The department will occupy a space of 15,000 Nearly every state and territory in the Union, as well as every foreign government, will be represented at the World's fair by special buildings, in which will be special exhibits from those states, such department will occupy a space of 15,000 square feet in the southwest corner of the

When the ladies had withdrawn Mr. Butfield seemed more cheerful than might have been expected of a tradesman who had just learned of so severe a loss. He despatched a note to Captaiu Heaton, informing him of the event of the afternoon, and concluding with the statement that in his opinion now was the time to put the screw on. Mr. Butterfield did a rather extensive and peculiar business. He had already twice disposed of the jewellery he had sold to Harry Wynne, and having in each case parted with it to a wealthy and inexperienced young gentleman, and in each case repurchased it from the Delilah to whom the wealthy and inexperienced young gen When the ladies had withdrawn Mr. But lightened, and if he had seen fit he could at that moment have hit the nail on the head at the first blow. But he was a bit of a diplomatist in his way, and preferred to nurse his conclusion as a secret. He remembered Harry's visit, and his urgent request for a loan. The stones had been made away with, and the young man would not confess it. But since Providence had put in the family hands such an excellent means of separating him from Inthia as the surface story of the purchase afforded, he felt that it would be actually sinful not to use it.

"Very well," her ladyship responded, rising and drawing her furs about her.

"You understand, Mr. Wynne, that Inthia is my ward. I shall permit you to hold no further intercourse with her, and I desire that in future you will not address me or claim acquaintanceship in any way."

"Be good enough," interjected his lord.
