ST. JOHN, N. B., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1922

CANADA'S NATURAL RESOURCES.

It seems that one of the matters that will in all probability come up for discussion at the Geneva Conference is that of international control of the raw materials of the world. In view of the fact that Canada possesses a vast supply of several of the most important natural resources, the decision of this question and its execution that may be made, is a matter of most vital consequence to her. The matter was tentatively under consideration at the Geneva Conference in 1920, when Mr. Howell, the Canadian delegate, served notice, in categorical terms, that his country would never consent to outside interference with any of her natural resources. His stand was backed by the representatives of other British dominions. If the discussion is resumed at Geneva it is certain that Canada's voice will be heard again in opposition.

The underlying idea seems to be that no country possessing rich deposits of natural products, needed by the industries of the world, ought to be allowed to control them, but rather that these materials ought to be divided among the nations of the earth through a central distributing organization, so as to reach an equitable division of the products needed for the economic life of all countries, attributing a proper share to the countries producing little or no raw materials. This, it is argued, would enable these countries to produce what their people need on less onerous terms than should they be obliged to pay tribute to the countries that monopolize their natural resources.

This would be a great scheme from the standpoint of those countries that have nothing to offer the world, but it is rather too communistic to appeal to most nations—it certainly will not appeal to Canada. Apart from her immense pulp and paper resources, Canada owns four-fifths of the entire world supply of nickel, as well as vast quantities of asbestos, and other valuable mineral deposits. It is bad enough for us to know that through the unfortunate lack of foresight exhibited by Ontario Governments in the past, the control of much of the nickel supply has passed into the hands of foreign capitalists. Canada cannot afford to allow the control of any other of her raw materials to pass out of her own hands, no matter how advantageous such a course might be for the world at large. "What we have, well hold," is as good a principle to apply in this country as in any other. There is no reason why we should ever adopt a dog-in-the-manger attitude towards any other nations who would be beneficially served by being able to have recourse to our raw materials, but we should be able to make our own terms of sale.

FALLING BACK ON THE LEAGUE

After having refused to recognize in any way the League of Nations, even though it was the offspring of ex-President Wilson, the United States now finds itself compelled to fall back on guarantees provided by the League for the security of some American possessions in the Pacific. Article 19 of the five-power naval treaty negotiated at the Washington Conference provides that Great Britain, Japan and the United States shall not fortify any further certain of their insular possessions in the Pacific. This is the "status quo" feature adopted to satisfy Japan; it prevents the construction or development of naval bases that could be used in a trans-Pacific naval offensive.

Japan's insular possessions placed under the status quo ban in the treaty do not include certain large archipelagos that are so located that they might seriously menace America's position in the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, if suitably fortified, supplied and equipped. These are the former German islands which Japan received under a League of Nations mandate.

The United States delegation did not demand the inclusion of these islands by name in the status quo clauses of the five-power treaty. The treaty does not mention them. No reference is made to Japan's mandated islands. How, then, can Japan be prevented from fortifying them in a question that is now agitating the minds of American statesmen. The explanation given is that the covenant of the League of Nations prohibits the fortification of islands held under a mandate and this explanation has been accepted as sufficient.

Not much is being said about it, but there America is—out in the mid-Pacific—utilizing while not formally recognizing the League of Nations in its business. The status quo article of the five-power treaty is mostly based on the League of Nations as a nation ally.

going concern; yet Mr. Lodge, who signed this naval treaty on behalf of the United States and who regards it as a remarkable achievement for peace, still insists that, so far as America is concerned, the League is non-existent.

THE PROGRESSIVES.

Already it seems the Progressive group at Ottawa are beginning to show their selfish characteristics. While refusing to become the official Opposition party—it is difficult to see just how they could, in view of the assertion of Mr. Crerar, their leader, that they will give the Government independent support—they want to occupy the usual Opposition seats in the House and have all the privileges attaching to the Opposition. This is thoroughly characteristic of the party. A few days ago, one of the Progressive M. P.'s, Mr. J. L. Brown, President of the United Farmers of Manitoba, called upon the Progressive party to show that "we are big enough on occasion to put national interests before those of class or section."

The trouble with these Progressives is that they never can get far enough away from that narrow class spirit which first inspired their agitation, and which continues as strong as ever today. What Canada needs is a political leadership which will at all times and not only "on occasion," think of national interests first.

"Our ideal," Mr. Brown is reported to have said, "is a richer and better rural life." Well, this is a worthy enough ideal, so far as it goes. But if the pursuit of that ideal involves merciless disregard of the elementary rights of urban communities as it has in the past, the people of Canada will not be fooled into accepting the Progressives as worthy of general support. Not all the clothing of purity and piety with which Progressives may drape themselves for the purpose of attracting amiable people will ever cover up the essential Progressive narrowness and intolerance which Dr. Michael Clark so fully condemned.

These never ending Progressive platitudes and poses constitute the most disgusting feature of national life in this generation. But the truth will out; for as the Toronto Telegram remarked the other day, "no movement founded on the sands of sectionalism can stand the test of time." One of Canada's duties in the period of reconstruction is to throw off the incubus before it can work irreparable mischief to the country and Empire.

Those who were privileged to listen to Dr. Robert Norwood last night experienced a literary and intellectual treat such as is unfortunately only too rare in this city. Dr. Norwood is of course well known in these Provinces and his fame gives rise to great expectations when he is announced to entertain; it is needless to say that last night at any rate, he "made good." The Maritime Provinces have not produced any great number of really able men from a literary standpoint, but such as they have produced stand high in the world of letters. No man is better known or more widely read as a poet in Canada, or indeed on the American continent, than Bliss Carman, a New Brunswicker who has done much to make his native province known. Robert Norwood seems destined to do for his native province of Nova Scotia what Bliss Carman and the Roberts family have done for this province. He can rest assured of a genuine and appreciative welcome whenever he cares to repeat his visit to St. John.

Citizens of St. John, without distinction of creed, will keenly regret the passing of Father Meahan. He was one of that rare type of men whom to know is to respect and appreciate; a man who made friends wherever he went, and of whom a disparaging word was never said. Had he not chosen a sacred calling, it is more than likely that he would have risen to the highest plane in secular affairs, for he possessed in full measure all those gifts which are usually regarded as essential to success. We extend to all those whom he has left behind to mourn his own sympathy in their loss.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

A Scattered Tribune

The Wall Street Journal pays a merited tribute to the stability of Canadian trade and finance. In common with all other countries, Canada descended into the valley, but not so far down as other peoples. Our foreign trade, measured in money terms, has been reduced about 40 per cent, while the contraction in the United States has been 50 per cent, and not less in Great Britain. We have unemployment. So have all countries, and none proportionately less than Canada. Our foreign credit improves. A year ago the Canadian dollar was at a discount of 15 per cent, compared with the American dollar, while today the discount is less than 5 per cent. That is a substantial and important gain brought about in part by a closer approximation of exports to imports, and in part by the investment of American money in Canadian securities. The national situation in Canada is made up by the Wall Street Journal in these words:

"In one aspect her position is unique. Canada has no war currency to deflate. Her war circulation never was large enough to become even a theoretical problem. In the three primary factors of trade, currency and budget, the three great prerequisites to sound international credit have been forthcoming."

The material point is that Canada has no war currency to deflate. As a result Canadian currency expanded with the rise in prices and extension of industry during the war and the two years following, but this expansion was in no manner forced. It responded to trade requirements and to no enlarged these requirements. The admirable banking system we possess saved the situation from undue inflation. As a result circulation responded to larger business in the period of expansion, so has this circulation complied in amount with reduced commodity movement and value. On December 31st, 1920, the total circulation of Canada was $228,768,000, and at the end of last year it was $184,602,000. The decrease was approximately 22 per cent, and the point is that happened in the period of expansion, with the need of trade. There is no inflation of currency as in many European countries, nor any artificial impulse to rise in prices by inflation of currency. Trade in Canada has reacted. Farmers in particular feel the pinch of deflation, but at bottom conditions are sound and ere long the rebound will come.

THE LAUGH LINE

Quite Capable.
"I must have lost it," he explained, after making a thorough search of his pockets.
"But you couldn't have lost your ticket," protested the inspector. "It must be in your pockets somewhere."
"You don't know me?" replied the Irishman. "I lost a brass drum once."

First Come, First Served.
"I didn't see you at our annual banquet last night."
"No, I discovered that the moths had been holding their annual banquet on my dress suit, so I had to stay at home."

Suspicious.
"Are you the proprietor of this restaurant?" said the man who had waited for his order until he became sleepy.
"Yes, sir. What can I do for you?"
"You can give me some information. I want to know whether you have told the waiter to stay away so that you can bring in a bill for lodging against me."

Some Speed.
A dandy was on the witness stand testifying as to a shooting scrape. Graphically, he told how the prisoner drew a revolver, shooting one George Henry and himself, and of how they ran to save themselves.
"How fast did you run?" he was asked.
"Fast as I could, sah!"

The Usual Way.
"Hello, Fred! How did you get on in Scotland?"
"Oh, fine, Jack! We had grand weather all the time. By the by, do you know, I heard a funny thing when I was there."
"Indeed!" said Jack. "What was it?"
"Well, they told me that they didn't

Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

My sister Gladie was up in her room reading and eating chocolate caramels out of a bag and I kept on asking her to give me one and she kept on saying she only had a few and couldn't spare any, being a book of a license, and after I asked her about 10 times without any good result I set all the rest of my stingy test for that I'm never going to speak to you again.

Great news, I'm glad to hear it, said Gladie.
All right, you see, I set. And after a while Nora rang the dinner bell for supper and we all went down and I talked to everybody but Gladie, and pritty soon I wanted some butter and it was in the front of Gladie and I reached all the way across the table so I wouldn't have to ask her for it, and pop sed, "Heer heer, wat are you doing, eating supper or giving a acrobatic performance?" How many times have I told you to ask like a gentleman and not reach like a octopus?

And we kept on eating and pritty soon I wanted another hunk of bread and the bread tray was in front of Gladie, me thinking, G, I cant eat without bread, and I aint going to ask her to pass it, heck. Wich jest then I had a good idee, saying, Was that the deer bell? And I jumped up, and ma sed, I didnt heer anything.

Neither did anybody else, sitt down, sed pop. Meaning me, and I sed, O well, now im up I mite as well get a pece of bread. Wich I started to reach in front of Gladie to do and Gladie quick grabbed up the bread tray, saying, is there anything you'd like to have?
No, I yelled mad as anything. And I gave the bottom of the bread tray a slam and the bread went in 4 different directions, on account of each side going a different direction and one being 4 slices on the tray, and one of them hit pop rite on the nose, being the worst direction of all, and I had to leave the room without finishing my supper and pop gave me a ferece alap somearas on the ways out.

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.

You have weak and dizzy spells, blinking sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

We know of no remedy that will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy normal condition as will

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes: "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip-hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near."

A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first box was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although I am 68th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart-thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. At times of course I weighed 120 lbs, now I weigh 110."

JOHN HAY'S WIDER OPEN DOOR POLICY AT LAST

America's Old Time Attitude Is Exemplified in Chinese Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The Nine-Power Treaty which was reported to the conference today on plenary session in the open door which has been also John Hay's time the American policy with regard to China, put into the form of a covenant. Nine Powers sign it, including China herself, and all other Powers whose governments are recognized will be united to accept it. Thus it promises to be a world-wide policy with respect to China.

The principle underlying it is the non-exclusive exploitation of China. Spheres of influence, monopolies, exclusive rights and discriminations are in the future to be frowned upon. China herself agreed not to grant them, the other Powers agree not to seek them or to support their nationals in obtaining them.

Upon agreement of mutual forbearance and self-restraint, a self-denying ordinance under which all the nine Powers promise to give up the practice of the part under which China has been reduced by outside pressure or by bribery to grant exclusion favors and rights to stronger nations or promoters supported by those nations to yield up value exclusive privileges or opportunities to exploit exclusively certain regions.

It will make for the peace of the world as the jealousies arising from the abuse of the old system were sure in the end to lead to conflict. It is assumed that the great economic development of the future is to be in China thus this nine Power treaty ranks second only to naval pact as a document which will secure the nations of the earth against war.

When Hay announced our adhesion to the open door the other Powers with interests in Asia at once signified their acceptance of it. But their acceptance was not without conditions. The old process of seeking monopolies and spheres of influence went on and during the war when the rest of the world had its hands full elsewhere, Japan went so far in impairing the sovereignty of China that her absorption seemed likely.

Behind the open door there was no force. The military possibilities of the United States were not realized on the other side of the water when Japan presented her 21 demands to China during the great war. Frank Polk, then controller of the State Department, said shrugging his shoulders: "Well, what can we do about it?"

"It has been rising of the United States to first place among the nations of the earth that has made it possible to obtain from the other Powers the self-denying ordinance today reported in plenary session.

"At one time during this conference it was thought that the boys would not realize their power and would report the question of Mr. Polk when Japan insisted upon maintaining its attitude towards China.

"But since the naval agreement became assured the American delegates put on new pressure. The Shantung settlement was effected and the way paved and the charter of Chinese rights from outside aggression became possible. His professions as he has been cynically observed are the old professions. Regarding China some one said: "There has not been a treaty for generations regarding China which did not contain the words sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity."

New Significance To It. They have a new significance in this document. Mr. Hughes' emphatic words of Friday regarding Manchuria and Mongolia indicated that the United States is firm in its intentions to see that China's rights are respected. There will never be any question of a return to repeat the impotent question: "Well, what are we going to do about it?" If this country maintains in the future the attitude she has maintained in the last days of the conference, China is as completely safeguarded from outside aggression as any Power as weak and unstable in its government can be.

The Nine-Power Treaty adds to the favorable impression of the work of the conference with regard to the Far East. The success has been almost as great as it has been in limiting naval armament.

POLICE COURT CASES. In the police court yesterday morning John Arthur pleaded guilty and Fred McLeod and J. H. Sherwood pleaded not guilty to charges of selling produce in the city without paying market fees. Policemen Sanders testified he saw McLeod take eight bags of potatoes and Sherwood three tubs of butter to the store of W. L. Walsh, Haymarket square. Later, Sherwood, he said, asked him not to cause any trouble, and offered to fix it up with witness if he wouldn't report him or Mr. Walsh. John Stevenson and Samuel Withers, clerks in the city market, said they had received no fees from either of the defendants.

For the defence W. L. Walsh said these men had been bringing him stuff for years. In the morning they let it in his store along with an order for goods they wanted, and he got them the goods. He didn't buy any of the things from them, he said. The defendants were warned they were liable to fines of $20 each.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old remedy is the only one that is easily and cheaply prepared. You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try Pinex. It's the only cough remedy anyone who has coughed all day and all night will say that the immediate relief given is like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really cures in 10 minutes. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps you healthy, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the others slip and then disappear altogether. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Tendency Towards Higher Prices On Montreal Exchange

Montreal Power Formed Centre of Interest, and Prices Made Gain.

Montreal, Feb. 7.—An improved tone was observable on the local stock exchange today, with increased volume of business, most of which was due to active buying in Montreal Power. There was also a tendency towards higher prices although some heavy declines were recorded.

Following publication of a story from Quebec of a possible power merger, Montreal Power formed the centre of interest and the price made a net gain for the day of 1/4 to 3/4, which was not taken as positive market acceptance of the report. Montreal Tramways, also affected by the merger, was still less interested, only ten shares coming out and the price remaining unchanged at 146. Shawinigan was also inactive, 29 shares being sold unchanged at 165. No definite reports on Detroit United's annual meeting came through before the close of the market, and while the stock was a little firmer, selling 1/4 up at 67 1/2, it showed no result of any important decision reached. Abitibi was again firm, selling up another 1/4 to 28 1/2. Bromont held unchanged at 18 1/2. Riondon sold up a point at 8 1/2.

Some buying appeared for Toronto Railway, most of which is said to have come from that city. The price moved up two points to 43.

Optimistic Declines

The most important change of the day was a five point decline in Ogilvie to 150. St. Lawrence Flour, however, only sold a point down at 46. Dominion Canners was 2 1/2 lower at 23 1/2, and one point loss was recorded in Bell Telephone at 107. The only steel to come into the market was Steel of Canada, which sold down 1 1/2 to 9 1/2.

In the bank shares, Molson's 5000 two points lower at 145 and Montreal a point down at 213.

Business in bonds showed some improvement and prices were steady with a few small losses and gains about evenly distributed. Total sales, listed 3,847; bonds $328,750.

Liberal Offerings of Call Money At 5 p.c. Stimulated Prices

Trading Comprised Greater Variety of Issues Than Any Period for Weeks.

New York, Feb. 7.—Expansion of bullish activities, involving further forward settlement of short contracts, marked another active day on the stock exchange. Many issues rose above best prices of 1921, but these were cancelled, in whole or part, in the profit taking of the final hour. Factors, which stimulated the advance, aside from technical considerations, included liberal offerings of call money at 5 per cent in the open market, and a 2 1/2 per cent in private transactions, the easier trend of time money and more pronounced strength in the principal foreign exchanges.

Trading comprised a greater variety of issues than at any period of the current movement. The more substantial advances again were made, however, by closely held stocks and specialties apparently controlled by pools. Among these were the low paid equipments, popular motors and related specialties, textiles and miscellaneous issues, which, at their best, were higher by 2 to 5 points.

Eric issues were responsive to the company's good annual report, and other junior rails, notably New Haven and Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and St. Louis Southwestern, preferred, strengthened on what was considered good buying. Sales amounted to 800,000 shares.

On the additional rise of sterling exchange, demand bills on London sold at 4 1/2 to 4 3/4. French, Italian and Belgian remittances rose 4 to 10 points and all other European quotations, German and Danish rates excepted, made similar advances.

Liberty bonds reflected less uneasiness in connection with possible new offerings and convertible railway bonds moved forward in sympathy with description. Irish and other foreign bonds kept pace with the higher quotations for foreign exchange. Total sales, (par value) aggregated 114,875,000.

SCARCITY OF BANKING RESOURCES AT AN END IN UNITED STATES

Reduced Qualities of Merchandise Awaiting Buyers — Strong Combination Seen by Evans.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—It is about time to recall the word scarcity, the meaning of which can be found in any well regulated dictionary by merchants and manufacturers who have these years been troubled by superabundance, also a dictionary word, and one which has too much meaning in it to the vendor class. Doubtless many a producer is rooting around among the commodities in which he is especially interested to find out how much competition he is to meet in the market, but it is not in time to begin rooting. Known shortages there is and unknown can be made known.

This will furnish the dealer and also the statistician with a better basis than we now have for opinion as to the future. Production in all lines has been at a low pace for months running indeed to the year measurement of time. There is a point at which a scarcity meets the need of the consumer and then comes may action. Certainly that change is coming soon in the case of many commodities, indeed, it is already here.

P. S. Goodman, in the course of some investigations not yet completed finds that the quantity of wheat and oats in the hands of the farmers is small, but that there is a large supply of corn. The critic of the farmer would ask why not then feed corn to hogs on a great scale, and that is a fair question, but it appears that the supply of hogs is about six per cent below that of a year ago.

Yet there is something for the farmer here worth having. With corn at 25 cents in the country and 55 in Chicago, there is a profit of 50 per cent for the farmer in selling hogs at 100. Prices after allowances for the lapse of time and the loss of interest on his capital fattening the animals to be fit for the market. The price of the corn sold in the form of hogs would be about 76 cents. Then wheat is treating the producer better; than heretofore with a little lift today on top of a previous rise, which may be attributed to the small supply yet to come forward. As to competition from other sources in the world's market, the authorities are much at let them fight it out.

You can pass along to other articles and find many cases of similar supply.

Raw Sugar Futures Firmer, Easing Off Under Selling

New York, Feb. 7.—There were no sales in raw sugar early today, but the underdone was 2 1/2 to 3 cents for Cuban cost and freight, equal to 2 1/2 for centrifugal.

Raw sugar futures opened firmer but eased off under trade selling and at midday showed declines of 1 to 2 points.

The market for refined was quiet and unchanged at 5.09 to 5.10 for fine granulated.

There were no transactions in refined sugars.

Further Strength Developed in Wheat Transactions Tues.

May and July Opening Higher Continued to Advance, Closing With Gain.

Winnipeg, Feb. 7.—Further strength was shown in the wheat market today. After opening one to two cents higher for May and July respectively, the future market continued to advance, may reaching a high for the day at $1.25 1/4. At this point the market turned weak and slumped away rapidly to below yesterday's close, but on the final trading a rally set in, the closing prices showing a gain of half cent. During the early trading sales were heavy, but the speculative side of the market absorbing all offerings, but later buying power diminished.

The cash market was quiet, millers and shippers not following the bulge in the futures, resulting in a poor demand and a light volume of trade. The future course grain markets were acting in sympathy with wheat, being strong and fractionally higher. The cash coarse grains market was dull with the exception of a fair demand for oats. All spreads reported unchanged.

Russian Outlook More Gloomy Today Than Ever Before

Prediction That Trade Would Revive Under Private Enterprise, Proves False.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—Russia is falling short of predictions as the land of promise for foreign trade under the supposedly stimulating influence of the re-establishment of private initiative in commerce and industry. Official statistics for December, republished by the official Soviet organ here, show that falling off in exports and imports, which has been noticeable since October, continued to a marked degree.

Imports for December were 94,000 tons, compared with 118,000 in November and 160,000 in October. Exports, barely 23,000 tons, compared with 25,000 in November and 84,000 in October.

The statistics contain little encouragement for American business men except with regard to foodstuffs and relief supplies, which constituted about 70 per cent of the total imports, a considerable part coming from the United States. This cannot, however, be regarded as forming a basis for permanent trade, particularly since the policy of American charity. The only other considerable items in Russian imports were coal, locomotives, rails, agricultural machinery, and, significantly, paper for propaganda. Official December's detailed statistics by categories have not been received, but in November coal constituted 40 per cent of imports; locomotives, rails and agricultural machinery, 7 per cent and paper four per cent.

Exports were limited almost exclusively to flax, hemp, wood, gasoline and oil, 160,000 in October. Exports, 1,500 tons of flax and hemp, 5,000 of gasoline and 14,900 of wood. It is noticeable that Germany which supplied most of the locomotives, rails and agricultural machinery imported, received almost none of the products exported in exchange. England got the lion's share in exports and imports.

Rev. Dr. A. W. Meahan Died Yesterday

Much Beloved Rector of St. John's Baptist Church Was Clergyman of Marked Ability.

A pall of gloom spread over the Roman Catholic community of this city last night, and expressions of heartfelt regret were voiced when it became known that death had claimed the Rev. Dr. A. W. Meahan, pastor of St. John's Baptist church, lower Cove, who passed peacefully away at his residence, Broad street, at 7.15 o'clock, after a lingering illness extending over a period of years.

The Rev. Dr. Meahan was born in Shediac, N. B., on June 1, 1874, and was the son of John Meahan and Margaret Anne Sullivan who subsequently removed to this city. Father Meahan received his early education in the public schools of St. John, and afterwards attended the University of St. Joseph's College, where he took a classical and philosophical course to fit him for entering on his studies at the priesthood. He later took a theological course at the Grand Seminary, Quebec, graduating in the year 1897.

Prior to reading the first of his poems at the evening, Dr. Norwood remarked that he was quite prepared to see the men in the audience, and sums a bored air, for the only time a man liked poetry was when he was young and in love. He then related a most humorous anecdote illustrating his point, which put the audience into a state of high good humor, and then began his recital.

Commenting on the death of Father Meahan, a well known professional man of the city said: "Father Meahan was a man of high character and high faith to whom he ministered, or even only his acquaintance, and by many not of his faith.
