Harry Heathcote of Gangoli.

BY ANTHONY TROLLOPE.

He was thinking always of his wife during his solitary rides, and of her face and deep anxiety. It was for her sake and the children that he was so care-worn, not for his own. Had he been alone in the world he would not have fretted himself in this fashion because of the malice of any man.

But how would it be with her should he be forced to move her from Gangoli? And yet, with all his love, they had parted almost in anger. Surely she would understand the tenderness of the message he had just sent her.

Of a sudden, as he was riding, he stopped his horse and listened attentively. From a great distance there fell upon his accustomed ear a sound which he recognized, though he was aware that the place from whence it came was at least two miles distant. It was the tinkling of an axe against a tree.

He listened still, and was sure that it was so, and turned at once toward the sound, though in doing so he left his horse at a right angle. He had been going directly away from the river, with his back to the wood-shed; but now he changed his course, riding in the direction of the spot at which Jacko had nearly fallen in jumping over the fence. As he continued on, the sound became plainer, till at last, reining in his horse, he could see the form of the woodman, who was still at work ringing the trees. This was a job which the man did by contract, receiving so much an acre for the depopulation of the timber. It was now bright moonlight, almost as clear as day—a very different night, indeed, from that on which the rain had come—and Harry could see at a glance that it was the man called Boscobel still at work.

Now there were, as he thought, very good reasons why Boscobel at the present moment should not be so employed. Boscobel was receiving wages for work of another kind.

'Bos,' said the squatter, riding up, and addressing the man by the customary abbreviation of his nickname, 'I thought you were watching at Brownie's boundary? Boscobel lowered his axe, and stood for a while contemplating the proposition made to him. 'You are drawing three shillings a night for watching; isn't that so?'

'Yes, that's so. Anyways, I shall draw it.'

'Then why ain't you watching? There's nothing to watch that I know on—not just now.'

'Then why should I pay you for it. I'm to pay you for ringing these trees ain't I?'

'Certainly, Mr. Heathcote.'

'Then you're to make double use of your time, and sell it twice over, are you? Don't try to look like a fool, as though you didn't understand. You know that what you're doing isn't honest.'

'Nobody ever said as I wasn't honest before.'

'I tell you so now. You're robbing me of the time you've sold to me, and for which I'm to pay you.'

'There ain't nothing to watch while the wind's as it is now, and that chap ain't any where about to-night.'

'What chap?'

'Oh I know. I'm all right. What's the use of dawdling about up there in the broad moonlight, and the wind like this?'

'That's for me to judge. If you engage to do my work and take money, you're swindling me when you go about another job as you are now. You needn't scratch your head. You understand it all as well as I do.'

'I never was told I swindled before and I ain't a going to put up with it. You may ring your own trees, and watch your own fences, and the whole place may be turned for me. I ain't a going to do another turn in Gangoli, Swindle indeed!'

So Boscobel shouldered his axe, and marched off through the forest, visible in the moonlight till the trees hid him.

There was another enemy made. He had never felt quite sure of himself, but had been so since he had heard about the place.

efficient in his own way, only during the day he had agreed to be a watchman, leaving much additional work to be done at night.

He would be paid for his watchman's duty, and would be paid for his additional work.

well understood by all the hands employed; first, that of preventing incendiary fire by the mere presence of the watchmen; and secondly, that of being at hand to extinguish fire in time of need. Now a man ringing trees five or six miles away from the beat on which he was stationed could not serve either of these purposes. Boscobel therefore had been fraudulently at work for his own dishonest purposes, and knew well that his employment was of that nature. All this was quite clear to Heathcote; and it was clear to him, also, that when he detected fraud he was bound to expose it. Had the man acknowledged his fault and been submissive, there would have been an end of the matter. Heathcote would have said no word about it to any one, and would not have stopped a farthing from the week's unearned wages. That he had to encounter a certain amount of ill usage from the rough men about him, and to forgive it, he could understand; but it could not be his duty, either as a man or a master, to pass over dishonesty without noticing it. No; that he could not do, though Gangoli should burn from end to end. He did not much mind being robbed. He knew that to a certain extent he must endure to be cheated. He would endure it. But he would never teach his men to think that he passed over such matters because he was afraid of them, or that dishonesty on their part was indifferent to him.

But now he had made another enemy—an enemy of a man who had declared to him that he knew the movements of "that chap," meaning Nokes! How hard the world was! It seemed that all around were trouble to him. He turned his back, and made again for the spot which was his original destination. As he cantered on among the trees, twisting here and there, and regulating his way by the stars, he asked himself whether it would not be better for him to go home and lay himself down by his wife and sleep, and await the worst these men could do to him. This idea was so strong upon him that at one spot he made his horse stop till he had thought it all out. No one encouraged him in his work. Every one about the place, friend or foe, Bates, his wife, Medico, and this Boscobel, spoke to him as though he was fussy and fidgety in his anxiety.

If fires must come, they will come, and if they are not to come you are simply losing your labor.' This was the upshot of all they said to him. Why should he be wiser than they? If the ruin came, let it come. O Bates had been ruined, but still he was enough to eat and drink, and close to wear, and did not work hard as his employer. He thought that if he could only find some person who would sympathize with him and support him, he would persevere.

As the night wore on he reached the German's hut, and found it empty, as he expected, from the outside fence of his run.

reached this he got off his horse, and taking a key out of his pocket, unlocked it loudly.

'There's the German's hut,' he said, 'There's the German's hut.'

'Not a word more of that,' said Karl, 'He likes muttons, Mr. 'Eathcote.'

'I suppose they do take a sheep or two now and then. They do worse than that would I suppose. Noting too 'ot for 'em; no, 'eavy,' said Karl, smoking his pipe.

'The vind, vat there is, comes just here, Mr. 'Eathcote.' And the man lifted up his arm, and pointed across in the direction of Brownie's run.

'And you see that's the direction of Brownie's run.'

Karl Bender.

'He was always—' said Harry, 'and has had a hard work, and earned good wages. A man will be a fool to fight with Karl again, shook his head.'

Karl Bender, Harry was sure of his man, but not on that point. He was quite sure of the man's opinion.

Thence he went on to the other Lieutenant, O'Donoghue, having completed his errand, he was way home, reaching his sun-he asked—'

'Yes, Harry, was so glad you were here, agree with you in every way.'

CHAPTER II.

Old Brownie, as he was called, was a squatter, the son of a class very different to which Heathcote belonged. He began his life in the world under a cloud, having been from home after the death of some of his family.

THE GOVERNMENT MAJORITY.

The elections have resulted in securing for the new Ministry a splendid majority in the new Parliament, but we are inclined to the belief that the majority has been largely magnified in the ministerial organs by writers who, in the effulgence of hope, are prone to give almost every Independent the title of Ministerialist. For or against the Mackenzie administration we shall say nothing until we see in what way will be employed the force of the elections have returned in favor. As far as New Brunswick is concerned there have been no important changes, none which we believe that the ex-connected with the Parliament had caused the great many near-sighted and badly anticipated.

pre-eminently qualified for the office, and ought to be selected, as by his long experience and energy he will mould the body into a combination whose influence will be felt in the Dominion. He has stood by New Brunswick in worse times for it than this, and no man need humble himself in recognizing him as a leader. But be the leader who he may, the party is about to be re-organized, and in its re-organized state will labor for New Brunswick. The elections have not thwarted this design of restoration. The majority of representatives just returned by the several constituencies are men who have always ranked themselves under the banner of Liberalism so long and so ably defended by Mr. Tilley, and however much the Grits may rejoice over their return as a matter favorable to their retention of power, it will not be long before they see the deception they have practised upon themselves. The elections have shown that New Brunswick is still Liberal, not Grit.

The Legislature.

Will commence its annual session tomorrow. By some it is thought the session will be exceedingly short, in order that the House may be dissolved early, and an appeal made to the electors for their acceptance or rejection of the present School Law. We see no reason for undue haste, and do not believe that there are any grounds for the statement made by the Freeman, (that bitter opponent of an excellent system of education) "that the Government are not sure of maintaining themselves in power were the session."

Other reckless men, it is made to the public mind against the Government. If the public of the County is to be transferred to a state of confusion, bringing upon the country—the matters of importance which require the attention of the representatives, and if our proceedings of the day are to be made down into the proceedings of some of the country, it is made to the public mind against the Government.

It is made to the public mind against the Government. It is made to the public mind against the Government. It is made to the public mind against the Government.

Declaration Day.

On Saturday last the Court House was again thrown open to the electors for the purpose of bringing the late election to a close. At noon the candidate elect was announced, and the result of the polling given as follows:—

	Mitchell.	Snowball.
Upper Newcastle	247	71
Lower Newcastle	34	35
Derry	41	34
Upper Nelson (Kirk's)	33	38
Lower Nelson	34	39
Upper Anvik	20	23
Chatham	71	136
Chatham	242	206
Red Bank	66	81
Hutchinson's Boom	65	10
Richville	30	37
Blissfield	79	10
Ludlow	45	50
Glenora	107	90
Hardwicke	46	51
Total	1318	830

After the Presiding Officer had concluded the duties devolving upon him, Mr. MITCHELL rose to thank the electors. He said he was both proud and grateful, not so much for the position itself, but because it proved that after twenty years of public service he had the honor and esteem of his constituents. With regard to stories circulated during the election he agreed to forget them all, and after he left the Court House to know no man but as a friend who had voted against him. The magnanimous support he had received was sufficient to create within his breast none but kindly feelings, and he was sincere when he stated that he wished to forget all the detrimental stories which had been circulated to injure him, and to remember only the large amount of fair play he had received at the hands of all classes. With regard to the conduct of the Presiding Officer, it was only due to Mr. Shirreff to say that it had been fair, just and upright and highly creditable to that gentleman, the more so when it was known that the best of feeling had not existed between them for some time. In conclusion, Mr. Mitchell said that the people, by their action, had endorsed his public career, and again placed him in a position to work for their interests, and he could only say that in the future, as in the past, he would be faithful to the trust reposed in him. (Cheers.)

MR. SNOWBALL.

Thanked the electors warmly for the noble support they had given him. He was proud of his position. Though defeated he was not conquered, and if ever the people of the County wanted his services they would know where to find him. He acknowledged that his political experience was but small when compared with that of Mr. Mitchell, who had been in the political arena for twenty-two years. He had offered at a late hour, and had to contend with the influence of the press in this country. The paper published in Chatham had carried its opposition so far as even to refuse the publication of communications friendly to him, but he did thank the gentlemen who conducted the Advocate for fair and honorable treatment, for he believed that they did publish all the communications that were sent to them in his behalf. If the person who conducted the Chatham paper was so narrow minded as to believe the course pursued was the true one, then he supposed he must thank him too, although he certainly did not admire that gentleman's ideas of independence. He also had the opposition of three of the local members for the County, and had to contend with a power mightier than all. (What that power was Mr. Mitchell did not state.) After all he was not surprised at the result, realizing the influences with which he had to contend. When he came out many of the electors had already pledged themselves to support his opponent, and he could not expect them to withdraw that support, it would not have been honest to do so, and in the face of the handsome testimonial many of them had presented to Mr. M., he could not expect their support, and was only surprised that he had polled so large a vote. He did not entertain a particle of hard feeling against the electors who had opposed him. They had no doubt voted against him conscientiously, and he respected the men who could act fearlessly and independently. He thanked the electors for the support they had given him on his first appearance before them as a candidate, and hoped that when he was again called out that they would do their duty to tender him a better support. (Cheers.)

Mr. Gough and Mr. Adams then made short speeches.

The Presiding Officer then rose to thank Mr. Mitchell for the compliment he had paid him for the part he had taken in the election. He said that when the electors had been called to act as Re-organizers, he had been called to act as Re-organizers, and he had been called to act as Re-organizers.

A special telegram from Bathurst to the Halifax Chronicle, after speaking of Mr. Anglin's return, says "Mr. Anglin's success is a great disappointment to his friends who were counting on his return to the office of Re-organizer." The telegram also says that Mr. Anglin had been called to act as Re-organizer, and he had been called to act as Re-organizer.

At his residence, Indiantown, Northumberland, on the 10th January, James M. HARRIS, in the 58th year of his age.

Mr. Robitaille has been elected for Bonaventure by a majority of 800.

At Carleton Place, Ontario, N. B., on Monday, the 5th inst., after a short illness, JOHN M. HARRIS, Esq., aged 71 years. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss, and a large number of acquaintances. Deceased was a native of Port Augustus, Invernessshire, and came to this County in 1821.

At Redbank, on the 3rd inst., MARY WHITE, widow of the late Michael M. White, aged 74 years. Deceased was a native of Co. Down, Ireland, came to this County in 1821.

These double ballots were destroyed when taken from the boxes, which accounted for the slight difference in the returns and the actual vote polled.

Some slight reference having been made to the returning officer for Chatham, Mr. Mitchell rose and said that Mr. Gough's conduct as officer of polling day was everything that any impartial man could desire. Ringing cheers were then given for Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Snowball, the Returning Officer, and the Queen. Thus ended Declaration Day, the harmony of which was a fitting sequel to the most honorably conducted election ever contested in this County, which was alike creditable to the electors, the Candidates, and the gentlemen under whose direction it came off. We cannot conclude our remarks without making the statement that Mr. Snowball's action in accepting his defeat so gracefully and in so gentlemanly a manner, drew forth from the electors assembled the heartiest cheers given for him during the whole contest.

Northumberland County Court.

The January Term was held before Judge Williams, on the 7th inst. at the Court House. No criminal business came before the Court, and three civil cases were entered for trial.

1. Thos. Sutherland vs. Alex. McDonald. Davidson, for Pl. Adams for Def. Record withdrawn.

2. Edward Sinclair vs. James Kelly. Adams for Pl. Davidson for Def. Record withdrawn.

3. Wm. E. Smallwood vs. the Trustees of School District No. 11, Parish of Northesk, County of Northumberland. This was an action of assumpsit, common counts for work and labor. Plea general issue with notice of set off. This action was brought to recover an amount alleged to be due the Pl. for the balance of work performed by him in the erection of a school house and outbuildings in the district. The Ds. were a corporate body established under the Common School Law of 1871. The boundaries of the district were established under the Act, and proved the appointment of the Trustees, then having taken the declaration of office and acting after the appointment; the proceedings of the rate payers at several meetings were proved by the record book kept by the Secretary; a resolution that a School House should be built in the district, and money on several occasions voted to pay for the buildings, and the teacher's salary was also proved. The Pl. was called to prove the work done and materials found, and the amounts he had received on account. In his evidence it appeared that the work had been done under a special agreement made by the Corporation with the Pl. and the same was produced, and it appearing that the same was made and delivered under the seal of the parties. Mr. Davidson on the agreement being produced took an exception, contending that the action being assumpsit, that the Pl. had misconceived his action, that his action should have been debt or covenant, and the Judge being of that opinion, the Pl. was not-suited.

4. A special telegram from Bathurst to the Halifax Chronicle, after speaking of Mr. Anglin's return, says "Mr. Anglin's success is a great disappointment to his friends who were counting on his return to the office of Re-organizer." The telegram also says that Mr. Anglin had been called to act as Re-organizer, and he had been called to act as Re-organizer.

Election in Kent.

The election in the above county has resulted in favor of Mr. M'Leod. There has been considerable talk concerning the large number of votes polled at Harcourt over and above the number of electors in that parish, and it was true that the ballot box had been "stuffed," Sheriff Raymond would deserve a severe reprimand or instant dismissal from office to allow such things to be done under his supervision. A correspondent however informs us that a large number of lumberers who had votes, and who were working in the woods, were transferred to Harcourt, as the most convenient place for them at which to poll their votes. Hence the large vote. If this account is correct, and we have no reason to doubt it, as it comes from a reliable source, there has been a great amount of uncalculated "righteous indignation" against the Harcourt polling. The returns are as follows:—

Found Dead.

On Tuesday, the 3rd inst., William M'Gilvery, a workman in the Bartibogue Quarry, was found lying dead between the quarry and the Contractor's store on section 10, about a mile from the latter. An inquest was held before Coroner Davidson on the 3rd inst., which was adjourned until Friday last, in order to obtain additional information. It appears from the evidence that the unfortunate man left the store the previous evening with the apparent purpose of proceeding to the quarry, but being under the influence of liquor (as proved by the evidence) he wandered from the track lost his hat and mule, while floundering about in the snow, and finally lay down to die from sheer exhaustion.

When found at an early hour in the morning the body was somewhat warm, the hands alone being frozen. It having been shown by evidence that deceased had purchased the liquor, which was the apparent cause of his death, from George Ryan, who keeps a liquor shanty on section 10, the illegal vendor of rum was arrested by the captain of Police on three warrants issued by Justice J. Nevin, on three complaints lodged against him for selling liquor without license. Ryan was brought to the Police Office on Friday, when he pleaded guilty to the charges preferred against him and was subjected to the following fines:

For the first offence $10 and costs or 30 days in gaol;
For the second, $20 and costs or 40 days in gaol; and for the third, $40 and costs or 2 months in gaol.

The two first fines were paid, and one month was given the defendant to pay the third. He was informed that for every subsequent offence committed by him a fine of sixty dollars would be imposed, or 3 months in gaol.

We hope that this will be a warning to all who illegally deal in the liquor business.

The Freeman says that "one of the causes which led to Mr. Snowball's defeat was that he was known to have the support of Mr. Kelly's friends, although Mr. Kelly himself kept out of the way, and that many feared that his election would in some way strengthen Mr. Kelly's position in the county, although Mr. Snowball is so open and consistent an opponent of the present school system." This statement is untrue, and is made to attempt to prove that Mr. Snowball was supported by the School party, or in other words, "Mr. Kelly's friends." As Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Snowball are both opposed to the school law, or at least some of its provisions the election did not hinge upon that question at all. Many of Mr. Kelly's friends worked manfully for Mr. Mitchell, and Mr. Snowball was defeated, not because of any stand he may have taken upon the school question, or because he was not possessed of talent or influence, but simply because he was an untitled man and the people preferred to elect a man to the man who had been tried and found faithful. Mr. Kelly remained neutral throughout, and in doing so he only followed the advice of many of his warmest supporters. To get up side issues to injure the school party will be the daily toll of the Freeman for some time to come, but that its reckless statements will influence the public mind to any great extent we cannot for one moment imagine.

They had an old fashioned snow storm in the Southern part of this Province on Tuesday and Wednesday last week. Lines of travel were blocked up, trains delayed, mails behind time, and pedestrianism almost completely checked for some hours. The mails due here on Thursday and Friday from St. John did not come to hand until Saturday morning. The storm in this direction was not nearly so severe.

M'ALPINE'S DIRECTORY.

We have received a copy of a Business Classified Directory published by Mr. David M'Alpine, Montreal and Halifax. The work contains a very large amount of information which will make it a valuable addition to the counting room of every business man. Of course, in a work taking up so much ground, embracing the whole Dominion, occasional inaccuracies will be sure to creep in, in the classification, but these do not materially affect its value as a reference. The book, which is compact in form and neatly printed, contains considerable local information which still further enhances its value, relating to the various societies to be found everywhere, education, the Church, Government offices, banking institutions, railways, steamers, &c., &c. Mr. H. B. Allison, Agent, is at present delivering copies of the book to subscribers and advertisers in this locality.

THE ASHANTEE WAR is probably ended. It appears that the King of Ashantee has surrendered to General Wolsley, accepting the British Commander's terms for the cessation of hostilities. What these terms are is not yet known, but they include a money indemnity of £200,000. Sir Garnet Wolsley sends the following to London:—

"All the white prisoners held by the Ashantees have been delivered to me. The King accepts my terms for cessation of hostilities which he asked, and agreed to pay an indemnity of £200,000. We halt for a few days thirty miles from Coomassie."

HOME ENTERPRISE.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Miramichi Ship Building Company. We hope the enterprise will meet with a warm and generous support from our people. Such enterprises tend to make our country prosperous—they give employment to our workmen, and generally speaking, they yield fair returns for money invested. Yarmouth in Nova Scotia is an example of what local enterprise can accomplish in the course of a few years, it being one of the greatest ship owning ports in the Dominion.

Considerable talk has resulted from the publication of the letter of His Lordship Bishop Rogers, contradicting the statement made by Mr. Tremblay in the interests of Mr. Snowball during the late election. Papers in the pay of the Government have been pleased to call it an electioneering document, but all who love honest dealing in matters political as well as social, do not view it in any such light. They regard it simply as an act of justice to counteract the influence of a man who was using for electioneering purposes, among his own countrymen, the name of a respected clergyman, in a most disreputable manner. We do not agree with the Globe, however, in the statement, that it was the means of gaining for Mr. Mitchell such a large majority, for the simple reason that in Anvik, where the gentleman resided to whom the letter was addressed, and which is principally inhabited by French, Mr. Snowball received a large majority.

If the letter referred to was an electioneering document, and written for the purpose of assisting Mr. Mitchell, it certainly failed in its object in the very district where its influence should have been felt, had Bishop Rogers exerted an undue influence, as some persons would like the world at large to believe. We can assure the Globe that the matter referred to by its Lordship was real, and not imaginary.

MUSIC.—Messrs. Laundry & M'Carthy, Music Dealers, King Street, St. John, have sent us two pieces of instrumental music, which are excellent compositions, and will have many admirers. They are called "The Lady Opposition Galop," and "The Lady Dufferin Quadrille." The pieces contain admirable lithographs of Sir John A. Macdonald and Lady Dufferin, to whom they are respectfully dedicated.

We are pleased to learn that the Dominion Government have forwarded to the Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, a gold watch for presentation to Capt. John C. Wilson, who gallantly rescued the crew of the schooner Sordfish, of Miramichi, N. B.

ASA COY, Esq., for so long a time connected with the office of Public Works, Fredericton, died a few days ago and was buried on the 5th instant. He was a faithful public servant, and was much esteemed for his many excellent qualities.

Halifax has returned Messrs. Jones and Power, Ministerialists, with large majorities.

P. E. Island has returned six Ministerialists.

Dalhousie, 5th Feb., '74.

To the Editor of the Union Advocate.

In the "Gleaner" of the 31st ult., there appeared a communication, signed "A Looker on," resembling very much in style the lucubrations of the peripatetic "Realigouche" who a short time ago perambulated the County, with his smile "So childlike and bland," arousing the ire of an "Ed River Man," besides amusing the public with engineering suggestions as to the future of Ed River bar, and bringing before us, with a flourish of trumpets and drumming the names of his candidates for the Local Legislature, Messrs. D—y and C—y, and the entire communication, purporting to give a truthful account of our school meeting is only remarkable for its Jesuitical perversion of the facts.

"A looker on" states that Mr. Moffat, "fearing for election" gave boards, &c. The fact is, Mr. Editor that not all the efforts of Mr. "Looker on" and his friends, to induce any one to contest the election with Mr. M., whose gift of boards to the new school house is only one of many such gifts to Churches, Churches and other public buildings in the County, and many of these gifts have been made without any reference to political bias.

Shortly after the disastrous fire of July, 1873, one of our most enterprising citizens, being desirous of immediately erecting a barn to replace one destroyed at that time, borrowed from the school trustees a few pieces of frame stoff to be replaced when wanted or paid for. This transaction was alluded to in the annual report of the Trustees, and not one expression of dissatisfaction has ever been heard, as the gentlemen referred to is politically opposed to Mr. M., and is able to "pay his way." It is hard to see all that "corruption" mentioned by "a looker on" comes in. It evidently exists in the brain of the correspondent of the "Gleaner."

The people of Realigouche must however thank "a looker on" for conveying to them an amount of information with regard to the extent of Mr. Cunard Barberie's erudition, which will be of great future value. It must be flattering to that gentlemanly opponent of free schools, as it certainly is amusing to his fellow citizens—the "impressiveness of the oratory of that Demosthenes of Realigouche is however already sufficiently well known."

A Roman Catholic Trustee to replace the retiring trustee (also a member of that communion) was nominated by an anti school man, and elected unanimously, for the simple reason that the right of our Roman Catholic brethren to have a representative at the Board, has been admitted from the very first. If any "trick" was intended by this choice it certainly must have been by the friends of "a looker on." As for the Auditor, the office was never considered of such importance as to make it an object which party claimed its valuable services.

Mr. Kenney is also trotted out, as exposing Mr. Ritchie's assertion that there was no opposition, and also as putting a pistol shot through a metaphorical gas bag. As Mr. Ritchie explained at the time, his statement that there was no opposition referred to certain matters about the new school house, not school law. The pistol shot must have been fired from a weapon of exceedingly small calibre for it hurt no one, perhaps like the old woman's chastisement of her husband, it pleased Mr. Kenney.

In fact, Mr. Editor, judging from the misstatements contained in the communication of "a looker on," it seems evident that he did not get down to the meeting, and drew upon his imagination for the facts.

Terrible Scene.

A MURDERER DEFEATED BY THE HANGMAN'S ROPE.

The San Francisco Chronicle contains a full account of the execution of the murderer Martin, for complicity in the murder of Valentine Eschler, in November. We quote that portion of the account after Martin had left the jail to proceed to the scene of the execution:

IN SIGHT OF THE GALLOWS.

He displayed not the slightest tremor or nervousness, but walked up the steps with very little assistance. Martin was placed in a chair while the Sheriff read the concluding portion of the death warrant. Dr. Herlet then offered up a fervent prayer, and at its conclusion Martin was requested to stand on the trap. As he did so, he said:

GENTLEMEN: I want you all to understand that I am here to die; but I am an innocent man. I don't deserve this. The woman that caused me to do this deserves a thousand times more than I do. That is all I have to say.

Straps were then securely adjusted about the limbs, the cap drawn over the head, the fatal noose fixed about his neck—the whole not occupying half a minute. An instant more the arm of the Sheriff went up, a man in the rear cut the rope which held the lever in place, the trap gave way, and the body came down with terrible force.

A HORRIBLE SPECTACLE.

The scene which followed almost beggars description. The body shot straight downward. The rope stretched with a sudden, elastic-like spring, the black cap flew into the air at least eight feet, and spattering the blood in great spots over the rope, the white-washed walls, the trap, the chain in which the doomed man sat and the Sheriff's boots, it rolled away in one corner of the enclosure. The body of the poor man fell to the ground with a great thud, and red, geyser-like jets sprang up from the neck and fell down on the ground in torrents. A closer look, and then the horror-stricken faces of the spectators showed that the neck of the man had been burst upon the wire of the gallows. The old man's head had actually been jerked from his body, and was even then lying in the black cap where it had rolled in the corner. The headless trunk lay writhing in the blood which poured from the neck. Not a word was spoken. After the first thrill of horror strong men turned away, sickened at the spectacle. The faces on the platform were blanched and ghastly. The Sheriff was as white as chalk, but he was cool and collected, and did much to inspire those around him.

THE SEVERED HEAD.

Dr. Holbrook, who was present, first stepped the black cap and its sickening contents, and placed the cap at the top, and the head rolled over the ground like a cannon ball. The rope had severed the neck as cleanly as though it had been done with a knife. The vertebra had actually been pulled away from what the doctor called the atlas. The larynx, the arteries, tendons were all torn apart, the latter only showing struggling ends. Death, it is hardly necessary to state, was instantaneous. At the time the headless trunk struck the ground there was not even a quiver of the little finger. The body lay like a lump of lead. The horrible remains were at once placed in a coffin and hidden from sight.

THE CAUSE OF THE TERRIBLE MISHAP. No blame is attributable to Sheriff Ivory for this terrible mishap. The rope was adjusted for a full of six feet, and it was said that this was no more than is usually given. Dr. Holbrook, who made a critical examination of the remains, testified before the Coroner's jury, later in the day, that, taking into consideration the physical condition of the man—his age, debility by and the weak condition of his muscular system—it was not at all singular that his neck should give way.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—C. J. Brydges is appointed Chairman of the Intercolonial Railway Board.

Ministerial papers are publishing a memoir of the Red River rebellion, written by Riel, in which he justifies every act of the rebellion, especially the murder of Scott. He claims that the late Ministry and Lord Lisgar promised him an amnesty. The publication of the memoir is intended to pave the way for Mackenzie to secure an amnesty for Riel, as the Quebec members repeat the statement that Mackenzie is pledged to do so. He will do so under pretence that a pledge was given by the previous Government, and he cannot break it. No such pledge could have been given, as only the British Government has the power to give it.—Tribune.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam has been placed, by the common consent of mankind, at the head of all remedies for disorders of the Throat and Lungs, so prevalent in this ever-changing climate. It has saved thousands from falling a sacrifice to a neglected cough and into an early grave, a fact attested to by myriads who have used it. It never fails to relieve the sufferer from a distressing cough, and in all cases to effect a complete cure. Persons who have only taken a slight cold, and who are unable to procure their natural rest from a hacking cough, will, by this Balsam enjoy a refreshing sleep through the means of this invaluable and life-sustaining preparation.

In the spring of the year, Catarrh or Hoarse-All is very prevalent. In order to cure it quickly, take the throat with Dr. Dow's Sturgeon Oil Liniment. It will cause a free discharge at the nostrils, and by its use the animal will rapidly recover. It should be kept by every owner of a horse as it embraces every attribute required in a Liniment, and is the best known eradicant of all painful swellings.

Dr. Wilson's Family Anti-Bilious and purifying Pills are celebrated as a safe and speedy remedy for diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, etc., etc. By their salutary action on Bile Acidity of the Stomach they promote and purify the secretions of the Kidneys, and establish for life the healthy action of those parts.

Horses are liable to indigestion as a man, and if he is overworked needs care and medicine. How many times we see a horse broken down by excessive work. Each particular hair stands on end, and with head drooping down he drags his weary limbs along. The functions of his body are more or less obstructed—in other words he is out of condition. What shall we do? Give Clark's Derby Condition Powders, the universally approved English Remedy, and we have no hesitation in saying his feebleness will soon disappear before a course of these admirable powders.

LUMBERERS, ATTENTION! I AM SOLE AGENT FOR THE

WOODBRIDGE SAW MILL, which with the late improvements, stands unrivalled.

This Machine requires no expensive puffing, as it has by its own merits become a leading Saw Mill of Canada.

It is so geared that the Saw makes two revolutions to one stroke of the piston, thus avoiding the shaking caused by direct action.

C. W. MITCHELL, Jan. 28 6w pd St. John, N. B.

Diseases of the Skin. Diseases of the skin, although they are as a rule but little dangerous, yet add much to the sum of human misery. How quickly the feeling of pity in our breast stirred by those few words in Scripture history—"The dogs came and licked his sores." What more deplorable condition can a human being be in than this, and yet we may judge from the rest of the narrative "it came to pass that Lazarus died;" that it was in process of time and not directly from his sores that Lazarus died.

Skin diseases, for their name is legion, all spring from impurity of the blood. The skin is the safety valve, through which these impurities pass out, when the natural emunctories are so clogged, as not to perform their office properly of eliminating the "materia morbi" from the blood.

By recognizing this fact, we see how it is that WILSON'S TONIC SARSAPARILLIN ELIXIR prevents these diseases from forming or cures them when formed.

By cleansing out the internal emunctories, stimulating the healthy process, by which they drain these impurities from the blood, the Elixir prevents these diseases because it leaves NO POISON IN THE BLOOD for the skin to throw off, and where the disease is already formed it cures by cutting off the internal supplies.

For the Spring Trade. WHITE COTTONS, WET WOVE COTTONS, and SCOURED COTTONS.

The latter gives great Satisfaction for Durability. MANCHESTER, ROBERTSON & ALLISON, St. John.

THE ESTEY COTTAGE ORGANS.

THESE beautiful instruments are rapidly becoming the favorites on this Continent, and the great success, and the reputation which they have obtained for superiority in the legitimate record of high attainment and untiring industry on the part of the manufacturers during a period extending over a century of a century. These instruments are noted for their sweetness of tone, power, general workmanship and excellence of design, and the different styles are adapted for

The Home, The Church, and The Public Hall.

Among the many improvements patented by the manufacturers are the following:—Patent Vox Jubilate, Patent Knee Swell, Patent Vox Humana Tremolo, Patent Reed Board, Patent Organ Bellows, Patent Vox Jubilate, Patent Knee Swell.

Parents, Pastors, Temperance Societies or other organizations wishing to purchase an Organ, will do well to consult the subscriber, either personally or by letter.

These Organs range in price from $20 to $200. Sample instruments can be seen at the Agents' residence.

kitchen, in which certain processes or carried on—such as salting, mutton and boiling huge masses of meat, when such work was needed. But the cookery was generally done in the big room. And here also two or three of the sons slept on beds made upon stretchers along the wall. They were not provided very particular as to which occupied each bed, enjoying a fraternal communism in that respect. At the end of this chamber the old man had a room of his own. Boobong was certainly a miserable place; and yet, such as it was, it was frequented by many guests. The vagabondism of the colonies is proverbial. Vagabonds are taken in almost everywhere throughout the bush. But the welcome given to them varies. Sometimes they are made to work before they are fed—to their infinite disgust. But no such was exercised at Boobong.

There was a very paradise for the old man. There was always flour to be had, generally tobacco, sometimes the luxury of the nobles. Brownies were wise enough to have learned that it was their very existence that depended on the land. The father and Jerry were out in the verandah, and the other two were asleep.

The Army and Navy Journal declares that the whole British iron-clad fleet could sail into New York harbor notwithstanding the bar.

A Cincinnati editor, says that another editor is a liar—or rather, that "he is prone to impart an unhealthy swelling to truth."

The Argentine Republic has accepted the proposal of a company of English contractors to construct a railroad from Buenos Ayres across to Andes Chilli.

An expert thief in Cincinnati, a few days since, stole 18 swine from a public stockyard and coolly drove them through the very heart of the city.

Starvation is still a fact in New York. A large number of families in the city are living on a dollar a week, and even that small pittance is wanting in numerous households.
