A BLOODTHIRSTY VICEROY. Before the bombardment of Tien Tsin, prominent natives urged the viceroy to put down the Boxers, but the vicercy was in their power, and wired to Li Hung Chang for advice, says a Che Foo special to the Herald. The latter advised crushing them at once, saying that the Boxers had gained too much headway. The viceroy also had instructions from the empress to encourage the Boxers' attacks on the foreigners.

The Boxers have released all the criminals, who have joined them. Proofs have been discovered that the vicero offered and paid a reward for the heads of foreigners. A cage was found in his establishment especially made for foreign prisoners.

Documents found in the viceroy's office at Tien Tsin gave the names of the heads of the Boxers. Their numbers were said to be 20,000. GETTING ALONG SLOWLY. London, Saturday, Aug. 4, 3:55 a.m.-According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, dated Aug. 3, the advancing column of the allies was reported yesterday to have reached a point miles beyond Tien Tsin. Nothing from any other point corroborates this statement. In fact the Standard goes so far as to say that it fears the real advance, apart from preliminary measures, has not yet begun.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Standard, under date of July 27, declares the Americans and Germans have been ordered to move forward without waiting for the British.

A Che Foo special, dated Aug. 1, announces the safety of all the Americans in Pekin and the receipt of a letter from Dr. Chetman, dated Pekin, July 20, saying that on the previous day Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, had agreed to a truce, provided the Chinese came no closer, and adding: "We hope this means relief; but having defeated the Chinese, we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and digging trenches. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Squires, secretary of the United States legation, whose military experience and energy are invaluable.

MASSACRE.

Nearly all the correspondents confirm the reports of a wholesale massacre of Christians outside Pekin. A correspondent of the Daily News gives the number of killed as between 10,000 and 15,000-all defenseless converts. Imperial troops, so it is stated did the ghastly work. According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Times, one of the members of the Tsung Li Yamen, mentioned by United States Consul Goodnow as having been beheaded for pro-foreign tendencies, was Hsu, Ching Cheng, former minister to Russia. The correspondent says the empress dowager ordered his execution on the advice of Li Ping Heng. Li Hung Chang has been in-formed from Pekin that Prince Ching's only prominent supporters in his peace policy are Gen. Yung Lu and Wang Wen Shao, president of the board of revenue, whose influence is small.

Moreover, unless there is at the same time in the room a good deal of moisture, the sulphur exerts a much less powerful disinfecting action, and, at the end of the process, many germs, especially those that were lying quieton the floor or on ledges, have reare more surely attacked and destroy-

CHANGE FRANCE

Peaceful Revolution Is Being Wrought Out in Many Departments of Life.

The automobile has now thoroughly entered into the French mode of life; timorous persons no longer exist: the sight of an automobile running in the streets no longer attracts any attention; and a breakdown alone causes the gathering of a crowd, and that of much smaller size than one that is collected by the falling of a horse. Odors no longer call forth protests, since people have got used to them. Horses have been pleased to put themselves upon a level with man (and for this even shy at mechanical or other street cars that come towards them at fifteen miles an hour, and graze their nose at such speed. This generosity on the part of the government toward the representatives Observe these points: Have clothing of foreign powers in Washington was quite generally abused several years The representatives of some of ago. the petty South American republics were particularly obnoxious because of their flagrant violation of ordinary police regulations. It frequently happened that these young gentlemen, after big dinners, came in violent contact with the police, who, not knowing them, treated them as plain drunks. At the station-house they would present their cards, whereupon they were dismissed with apologies. The next day they would complain to the secretary of state of the gross discourtesy shown them, and the secretary was allegation to which the young roisterers were attached. This grew to be such a nuisance that the police determined to remedy the matter by drastic measures. One or two of the more notorithe police, received a thorough and well-deserved clubbing before the obtuse policeman could be made to understand upon whose cacred body his club was falling. There ensued the usual round of apologies from the policeman, the chief of police, and the secretary of state, but the young attaches soon learned a lesson and behaved themselves .- Washington Correspondence of New York Mail and Express.

> HELPED RAISE THE HOUSE. During the war for the independence of the American colonies a small body of men-soldiers of the army-were busy hoisting a heavy log to the top of the blockhouse that was being repaired after an assault in one of the campaigns. By and by there rode past an officer in plain clothes, who asked a little man standing near why he did not help the others. "Sir," was the pompous reply, "I am a corporal!" "Indeed!" said the other, "I did not know that; I ask your pardon, Mr. Corporal." Dismounting without further ado, the officer lent a willing hand till the job was done. Then, wiping the honest sweat from off his brow, he turned to the little man and remark-ed: "The next time Mr. Corporal, you have a bit of work like that in hand and too few men to do it, send for the

A match was played on the St. John's athletic grounds, London West, yesterday, between Forest and the London Cricket Club. Owing to the visitors having to catch an early train, only one inning apiece was played. The bowling of Kerrigan and Sippi for the L. C. C. was very defective, their averages respectively being 6 wickets for 31 runs and 4 wickets for 5 runs. Mr. Fisher and Dr. Williams and Mr. Macfie batted well for their respective scores, as did also Mr. Van Valkenburg for Forest, who made top score.

In the last nine holes Vardon conceded half a stroke, and as a further handicap played the last hole with his putter, tieing Bogey on the hole.

Witness Was Informed by Gerald That Edgar Morden Was Holding a Whip Over His Head to Blackmail Him-The Elder Sifton's Will and When It Was Drawn Up-Edgar Morden Called a Slippery Scoundrel-Mary McFarlane's Suspicions of Foul

The sensational feature of yesterday's session of the preliminary examination with her husband what he would make of Gerald Sifton and Walter Herbert out of the estate. For a week there of Gerald Sifton and Walter Herbert was the narration by Rev. W. H. Cooper, of Arva, of Gerald's statements to him that Dr. McNeil had demanded and received $1,000 as the price of inaction in the matter of holding an inquest at the time of Joseph Sifton's death. The reverend gentleman's re- could not say how she remembered the cital of the various conversations he had with Gerald Sifton, touching the death of Joseph Sifton, the dealings member or know the dates. with Edgar Morden about the new will, and the conversations with Dr. McNeil, was a lucid and convincing evening Joseph Sitten had made the

and distinct on every point. methods, his hesitative manner of antions and evident mental reservation. So far there has been practically no evidence brought out connecting the prisoner Herbert with the commission of any crime, with the exception of the fact that his stories of the manner in which Joseph Sifton was injured, and his own whereabouts at the time seem to vary slightly in details.

In view of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday being Old Boys' days, the examination was adjourned till Thursday morning. Thursday and Friday, at least, and perhaps Saturday, will be taken up with the examination of the four witnesses who are yet to be called. The cross-examination of Rev. Mr. oper will probably be brief Edgar Morden's cross-examination continued:

Detective Murray told witness to tell Mary McFarlane to leave Gerald Sifton's, so that he (Murray) could get her to make her statement. Witness saw Mary on Saturday night and again the next day at the Sunday school at Johns. On Saturday night Mary told him not to say or do anything till she left Gerald's. Mary said if they knew what she knew she wouldn't eat a bite in the house. Witness did not suggest to her to pick up information at Gerald Sifton's. Mary said she would try and leave Gerald's that Sunday night. Mary said if she could not get to London that night to see witness, she would get to her brother's place on the Proof Line road. Witness did not see Mary McFarlane either at London or at her brother's house. Witness told Mary that the will provided for her so well that she did not need to work. Mary asked if the will was legally drawn, and witness replied that he did not yet know, as the will would have to be tested. Asked as to his all right as long as Dr. McNeil was the coroner, witness replied that Gerald gave him to understand that Dr. McNeil firmly believed it was an accident. Witness never asked legal or other advice as to whether one or two witnesses were required to a will, nor had he ever told anyone that his wife witnessed the will afterward. Joseph Sifton had given no reason why he should leave any property to Gerald. Joseph Sifton said the will could be broken if the names of all the relatives were not given in the will. From the time witness took the will from the seed-drill he carried it in his trousers' pocket till he delivered it to his lawyer. No one but witness saw the will from the time it was drawn till handed to witness' lawyer. The will was drawn up on butter-wrapping paper. Mary told the witness that the old man's death was done for his money, and she did not know what to do. Mary told witness there was no truth in the accident story. Witness said that men have been watching his premises to prevent damage to his property or himself, and witness has also carried a firearm to protect himself. When witness had his conversations with Gerald he had no one concealed to listen to them.

This finished the cross-examination, and Mr. Magee re-examined the witness. To Mr. Magee witness said that when Gerald spoke of burning and rubbing up the new will, Gerald rubbed his hands together. Witness had had two conversations with Herbert since Jos eph Sifton's death. Mrs. Edgar Morden, wife of the preceding witness, was called to the stand at 3:45 p.m. She last saw Joseph Sifton alive about 5 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, June 30. About 10 o'clock the previous evening Gerald Sifton came to witness' house and asked for Edgar. Edgar was out, and Gerald came in. Gerald said he was in a hurry, and he left just as Edgar came in, and the latter went out and called Gerald. Wit-HORSES AND CATTLE have colic ness then went to bed. Later Edgar and cramps. Pain-Killer will cure came with Mary McFarlane. Edgar told witness that Mary and Joe Sifton were there and were going to be married. Mary went into the kitchen, and about half an hour afterward Edgar and old Sifton came in. Witness prepared supper for the party. Edgar said: "Joe, they're after you tonight, and if they don't catch you tonight, they will on the hay-fork track to-morrow." Sifton said they would not catch him. Sifton suggested that Mary go into another room, and Edgar said she had better go and lie down, and she did. Witness returned to the kitchen, where Sifton asked Morden to draw the will, and after demurring Edgar proceeded to do so. Witness did not hear enough of their conversation to have any connected idea of it. She heard the names of Mary and the child and she did. Sifton and Edgar had both signed it first. Mary was in the bedroom at this time. Mary and Sifton went away in their buggy at 5 a.m. or shortly after. Before they left they made plans for the day. Merden warn-ed them not to go near Sifton's house, but to go to town and get other clothes get married and go away. Sifton said he would go to his house, get his clothes, the ring, license, and some mo-ney and valuables there, and get away before anyone got to the house. Ger-ald, he said, would have his chores to do. Mary would go to Gerald's and get her clothes. They would get married at 9 a.m. instead of 5 p.m.

Mr. Hellmuth then began his crossexamination. Witness had used the same pen and same ink as her husband and Sifton had used. No blotting paper was used. Sifton folded up the will and put it in his pocket. The follow-ing week her husband said there might be trouble about the will. Mary Mc-Farlane knew nothing of the making

Mr. Meredith then took the witness. After the will was made Sifton said he felt a good deal easier. Edgar told witness she would have to acknowledge being a witness to the will. He never told her there might be trouble about her signing it. Witness admitted that her husband had told her considerable of what Gerald had said to him, and of other things in connection with the case. Witness objected to telling what was in the will, as she was told a week ago by her husband's lawyer that the will Witness remembered that private. Mary McFarlane's name was mentioned, as well as her child, if she had one; also Joseph Sifton's mother, his brothers John and Allie, and Gerald. Witness did not know the will was in the seed-drill till she heard it in court. Her husband did not tell her the will was private. Witness never discussed were men about the house, for the purpose of protecting the house. Wit-ness supposed it was by reason of the Sifton case that the house was being watched. To Mr. Magee witness gave the days by date when Gerald had called on her husband. To Mr. Hellmuth witness dates when Gerald was there. She had taken no notes of the days, and be-

Rev. W. H. Cooper, of Arva, was then called to the stand. Witness contradicted himself, and showed his looked at his watch on arriving home, memory to be at fault, a result which and it was 12:30 a.m. Just before was further contributed to by his shifty leaving Gerald's house, witness was speaking to Mrs. Gerald on the veranda swering questions, and his equivoca- for two or three minutes. Witness met no one on his way home.

Witness learned of Joseph Sifton's injury from Gerald on Saturday morn-ing. Gerald said: "Father fell from the end of the barn, and is badly hurt." Witness was coming to Dr. McNeil, and heard Gerald say to the doctor "My father is badly hurt; he has falle from the barn and seriously hurt him I want you to come at once. Witness then shouted to Gerald and re ceived the above answer. Late in the day witness met Gerald at his father's place, and Gerald said to him: "Have you been out to the barn and seen the place? It was an awful fall, wasn't it?" In the afternoon Gerald repeated In the afternoon Gerald repeated to witness the same question. Witness saw Walter Herbert that same day, and had a conversation with him at the scene of the accident. Part of the time the two were alone, but later some strangers were present Witness said: "Were you here when it occurred?" Herbert said: "I was." Witness asked where Joseph was at the time of his injury, and Herbert replied that Sifton was up knocking off boards, that he gave one tremendous knock, and he and the board went down together. Witness asked where Herbert was at the time, and saw the occurrence, and he replied that he was twenty feet away on the barn floor, and saw it. His attention was drawn by Gerald shouting: "He's gone! He's fallen!" ness picked up the axe and noticed blood on both sides. He asked Herbert how this was, and received the reply that when Sifton struck his heavy blow the axe hit the rafter, came back and struck Sifton's head, and he went out with the axe and board. Witness thought that Herbert's stories varied statement that Gerald said it would be a little, and warned him to be careful, as he might be questioned later. In describing the accident Herbert pointed to the upper beam-the collar-> beam. Witness noticed that the grass was slightly saturated with blood. Witness saw blood on one of two bricks which he noticed. Witness went to the spot later, and took notice of the axe. It had been handled by others. The had been handled by others. bricks did not appear to be deeply embedded in the ground.

On Sunday witness saw Gerald for a few minutes. Gerald asked that his father's funeral services be conducted at 2 p.m., Monday. On Monday night, between 9 and 10 p.m., witness saw Gerald at the latter's home. Witness asked Gerald if the will had been read before the relatives dispersed, and Gerald answered they hadn't the will in their possession, and he was not sure where it was. He said he did not know whether he would be interested in the will or not, as his father had some months before proposed changing his [Continued on page 8.]

A Story of Prosperous Development.

A recent dispatch from Sydney, Nova facing the collieries of Cape Breton. The coal companies are unable to supply the demands made upon them for coal. The pits are worked to their full-kapt on and still the demand is not sup- imports have increased, why our Govpiled. Scarcity of labor is what ham- | ernment is able to spend money liberpers the production of coal. Men are ally for needed public improvements, not so anxious to work in the pit as to pay for our contingents in South they used to be. Other and more con- Africa, and yet have a handsome surgenial labor can be procured with good plus over to aid in the reduction of remuneration. The construction of the the public debt. steel works at Sydney has absorbed all the surplus labor that could be had and mine managers have been compelled to take men from the pits in order to carry on the work which was necessary at the surface. Never before was prevailed at Cape Nome, the United the Dominion Coal Company compelled to advertise for coal cutters until this year, and even then they cannot get all they want. High wages are offered, but still that does not bring the desired relief. It is expected that for the next year extensive operations will be going on at North Sydney."

This is indeed a cheerful picture for the workers. It demonstrates the tremendous advance that has been made in the mining industry in recent years, and is a tribute to the wisdom of Hon. Mr. Fielding, Dominion Minister of Finance, who, while Premier of Nova Scotia, enlisted the aid of the United States capitalists, whose money it is that has been invested in these industries.

It will be remembered that when the Dominion Coal Company was first formed, the Opposition could scarcely find words strong enough to characterize the conduct of Hon. Mr. Fielding in granting his sanction to the formation of the great organization, whose operations have brought about the good times depicted in the above dispatch. But the Dominion Finance Minister has had his revenge. It was with a proud satisfaction, no doubt, that in the closing days of the late session of Parliament, Mr. Fielding referred to the phenomenal prosperity that had come to he Nova Scotia coal industry as the sult of the legislation passed by the dministration of which he was the ad. Mr. Fielding at that time referd to the bitterness of the opposition the echeme for developing the coal ndustry that came from the Nova Scotia Conservative leaders, in their misosition. The Government was told by this legislation they would kill the coal ndustry, and the Province would be tated that coal would be enormously increased in price, but it has been taken notions of the duties of an Opthese extremists that if they passed nonapolized by the Yankees. They cheaper, in proportion to outside prices, than It was in the previous ten 1894 years. They stated that the mines would be closed up. There are more men employed in the mines in Cape Breton than ever before, and commerce is flourishing there as it never did previous to 1896. They circulated a story to the effect that the Government was to bring in Poles, Scandinavians, and neonle from almost every other nation of the world, to take the bread out of the mouths of Nova Scotlans. Instead of that, the native Canadian mining population have had more work than before, and are being paid good wages. As we have seen, the only complaint of the employers is that the number applying for work is too few. Then these Opposition alarmists told the people that the Yankees would blow up the mines, and that if her Majesty Queen Victoria sent a ship of war to Cape Breton she would not be able to get coal there. Every mean fabrication was conjured up by the agents of Sir Charles Tupper to destroy the Lib- view of the life of the world. Its eceral Government of Nova Scotia; but clesiastical sympathies are with the the legislation thus stormed at by the Church of England, and within that Opposition has proved of the most ben-

Some Sources of Canada's Prosperity.

How former Canadians are flocking back to Canada, and to stay, too! It is announced in one dispatch that New Ontario is everywhere on the boom-a legitimate boom caused by new arrivals-and that from 7,000 to 10,000 persons from various parts of the United States will be among the new comers who will settle this summer in that Promised Land. Then we learn that a Scotia, says that "a serious problem is colony of former Canadians, some 2,700 strong, will soon leave Michigan and take up farms in Alberta, N. W. T. There is room for all in the boundless Northwest of Canada.

A Contrast.

The Independent (New York) thus describes the conditions which have States gold field, during the past win-

"Neither life nor property was safe; homicides and robberies were of daily occurrence, and no law was respected except that of force."

Look, in contrast, at the conditions in Dawson, in Canadian territory.

In that great mining center life and property have been as safe as they have been in this law-abiding city of London.

Crime has been less prevalent than in any similar-sized mining camp that has ever existed in any part of the world. And when wrong-doing has been done, justice has been promptly applied.

This is the testimony of all independent observers, who have visited the country, and it is borne out by the records.

It is true that there have been a few grumblers, but, as Mr. Justice Dugas, one of the judges of the territory, recently pointed out, these are generally chronic irreconcilables, who have been unable to live contented in their previous homes, some even being fugitives from justice. We agree with the judge. The best thing that could happen the Yukon would be that they would become sufficiently dissatisfied to leave the country. Let them go to Nome and see how they like it.

Tobacco Growth in Canada.

One of the newer of Western Ontario's industries is the cultivation and nuracture of native tobacco. It is true that some tobacco was grown prior to the change in the duties by the present Government, but the official returns show how great has been the advance because of the policy adopted. Scott's immortal words are peculiarly applicable to those who left their native city in the old days. Many changes will be noticed, and amongst them not the least is the development of the Modern Department Store. The comparison with the antiquated methods of retailing with the present, can be compared with the wooden warships of the past and the invincible ironclads of today. (Talking about ironclads, do not fail to see the model man-o'-war lit up at night in our window). We shall be glad to see you, London Old Boys, and your friends. There may be something also in our stock that you are in need of, or that you can take home with you as a souvenir of your trip; if not for yourself, then for your wife, your mother, your children or your sweetheart.

In the list below are useful and seasonable articles which we offer at exceptionally low prices, and nothing, surely, would be more acceptable as a present from London to "The Auld Folks at Hame," in memory of the days of "Auld Lang Syne."

THE MARKETS

Local Market.

London, Saturday, Aug. 4. Everything tended to make this morning's market the large one that was. The farmers are now pretty well over the heavy part of their summer work, and can afford to spend the time to come to the city to dispose of their goods. Monday being a holi-day, the grocers were out in force to provide themselves with larger stocks than usual to suit the inevitable demand. The effect of the Old Boys' renion was plainly apparent this morning on the market. Great numbers of asewives were present, all anxious to procure a share of the fresh offerings of staples, because of the thousands of guests that will fill the city. Nearly every spot on the market occupied, and the market clerk had his hands full finding space for all who came in.

Although the demand in all lines was so active, prices held their place re-markably well. Tomatoes sold for as high as 50c per basket. Potatees were sold in large quantities for 40c and 50c per bu. The exceedingly low prices of corn and lettuce attracted many pur-chasers. The former sold for 6c and 8c per dozen, and the latter for 250

American Markets. CHICAGO, Aug. 3.-Wheat was weak early, on heavy primary receipts, but became strong later on heavy cash and export business, and closed at an advance of ½c. The market as a whole was a narrow one. Corn was weak, principally on the small shipping demand, and declined 1/2c to 1/8c. Oats advanced 1/sc. Yellow fever reports scaled provision prices; pork declined 15c, lard 21/2c to 5c, and ribs 5c to 71/2c. September wheat opened at 751/3c to 75%c, compared with yesterday's closing price of 74%c to 74%c, closing at 75%c to 75%c bid. Northwest receipts were 241 cars, against 233 last week and 305 a year ago. Chicago receipts were 214 cars, 34 of contract grade. Total primary receipts were put at 960,000 bu. compared with 641,000 bu a year Atlantic port clearances of wheat and flour amounted to 493,000 bu. Estimated receipts on Saturday: Wheat, 210 cars; corn, 275 cars; oats, 420 cars; hogs, 15,000 head.

Fruit is an almost unquotable article these days. The offerings of peaches and pears are largely of imported stock, of poor variety, and while they are offered at 40c to 60c per basket, there are very few purchasers. There is a very weak demand yet for the red raspberries that are offered for 8c per box. Thimbleberries also are sold for 8c. Black currants were slow, at 90c per basket.

For the past couple of markets the trade in butter has been rather backward because of the prevalent high price and the poor quality that came in. It was expected that today would see a change. Dr. McNeil Characterizes Gerald Sifton's Alleged Statements have been told by Gerald Sifton to Rev. Mr. Cooper as totally false, being entirely without foundation and manufactured by Gerald out of whole cloth. The doctor declared he would take the earliest opportunity on the morning of the investigation, Thursday next, to enter the box and deny the truth of Gerald's alleged statements. He said there are no such notes in existence as were alleged to have been given to the doctor by Gerald, nor did they ever exist. The only reason he (Dr. McNeil) could assign for Gerald's making such statements was that he probably wished to prejudice the minister them from talking together, and confirming any suspicions they already

THE SIFTON WILL

The Interesting Document Which Plays Such a Prominent Part in the Arva Mystery.

The much discussed will, drawn by Edgar Morden for the late Joseph Sifton on the night before the injury and death of the latter, has been filed for probate. TYPICAL CHINESE FEAST. A Chinese dinner of 37 courses, which was recently given in San Francisco, is thus described by a par-ticipator. First came pyramids of ham and carrots in oblong slabs. Then in quick succession followed mutton. boiled pig hide, grilled fish rolled in sugar and boiled fowl dipped in soy had become black. Peeled water chestnuts, the roots of a kind of lotus, cakes of stiff cranberry jelly, sliced boiled carrots and turnips completed the tenth course, and were topped off with olives arranged in pyramids, and held in place by bamboo pins. Green gages and tamarinds soaked in wine and pieces of fried red melon were all arranged in pyramid bamboo style. Small pieces of pastry rolled in brown sagar: sections of oranges, toasted melon pips, and monkey nuts, small pink-topped dumplings filled with sugar and patties, which resembled nothing in the world unless it was mince pies, were served as the fifteenth, six-teenth, seventeenth and eighteenth. Baskets of pastry filled with sandy brown sugar and envelopes of pastry the peculiar and formidable mouth he filled with mince pie meat preceded has. The Chinese executioner's ring of office is made of silver curiously wrought and embossed. Of all the many methods adopted to end the life of a criminal decapitation is considered the most ignominious. If a Celestial be hanged his soul has a chance of journeying over the "Golden Bridge" to heaven; but when he is beheaded he is lost for all eternity, and for him there is no future life. The Chinese executioner is a most important and terrifying personage, and his ring of office is looked upon with an awe which is somewhat akin to loathing by all he comes in contact with. In fact, if he is seen by any of the lower class of Chinese he is shunned as if he were a leper.

A Chinese execution is a most impressive and at the same time grewsome sight. The criminals are made to kneel down with their hands tied behind their backs, and their pigtails are either hald in front of them by one are either held in front of them by one of the assistant executioners or coiled on the top of the head, thus leaving the neck bare for the sword. The sword is a long single-edged blade, slightly curved like a scimitar, and with an enormous long handle which the executioner grips with both hands. The criminals are placed on their knees in a semicircle, and the execu-tioner, starting at one end of the line, with a slight movement of the wrist, somewhat similar to that employed in "putting" in golf, slices their heads off one after the other. There is no swinging the sword, no taking two strokes; all is done neatly and expeditiously, and, to all intents and purposes, painlessly, so far as the criminal is concerned.

WONDERS OF SNAIL'S MOUTH

Animal's Tongue Is a Band Sew With 30,000 Sharp Teeth, About One-Sixth in Use at a Time.

"It is a fortunate thing for man and We were next treated to the rest of the animal kingdom," said sauce. We were next treated to the rest of the animal kingson, shark's fins in pickle and eggs which the naturalist, "that no large wild animal has a mouth constructed with the devouring apparatus built on the plan of the insignificant looking snail's mouth, for that animal could out-de vour anything that lives. The snail itself is such an entirely unpleasant, not to say loathsome, creature to handle that few amateur naturalists care to bother with it, but by neglecting the snail they miss studying one of the most interesting objects that come under their observation.

"Any one who has noticed a snail feeding on a leaf must have wondered how such a soft, flabby, slimy animal can make such a sharp and clean-cut Eight bowls appeared after exceedingly sharp and only a few of analysis and nomenclature. part he brings into service. The roof that hard substance, and, rasping away with his tongue, saws through the toughest leaf with ease, always leaving the edge smooth and straight.

"By use the teeth wear off or be-come dulled. When the snail finds that his tool is becoming blunted he uncoils another section and works that out until he has come to the end of the coil. Then he coils the tongue up again and is ready to start in new, for while he has been using the latter portions of the ribbon the teeth have grown in again in the idle portionsthe saw has been filed and reset, so to speak-and while he is using them the teeth in the back part of the coil are renewed. So I think I am right in saying that if any large beast of prey was fitted with such a devouring apparatus as the snail has it would go hard with the rest of the animal king-

It must be gratifying to Canadians to know the work of a Canadian is so warmly appreciated: 2 Carleton Gardens, May 25, 1900. Dear Col. Ryerson,-Will you allow me to say how much pleasure and sat-isfaction it has caused me and the other members of the central Red Cross committee to learn that you have consented to take up the Red Cross work in South Africa. The experience and learning you will bring to bear upon the work will be the more valuable advance. Personal supervision at the front is essential. I had felt somewhat anxious on this point, and your appointment is a source of much satisfaction to me. Believe me, to remain, yours faithfully, William Lleyd, of Oakville, Cared by Dodd's Kidney Pills, the Favorite Medicino of the Northwest.

Oakville, Man., July 30.-There is no doubt about it; Dodd's Kidney Pills have become the most indispensable medicine of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. The latest case reported is that of William Lloyd, of Oakville. Mr. Lloyd had Diabetes. For three years he tried to cure himself. A doctor in Portage La Prairie tried in vain to cure him. Mr. Lloyd lost thirty pounds in three months, and thirst made his life a burden.

"I am taking Dodd's Kidney Pills regularly," he says, "three times a y and am picking up very fast. My thirst has left me and I do not pass half so much urine. I have taken six boxes and intend to take more. I am years old, but I am confident Dodd's Kidney Pills are curing me."

A SIMPLE RAT DESTROYER. An American farmer recently killed 82 rats by means of whisky-soaked corn. The rats played havoc with his corn, wheat and other grain, and traps, shooting and poison failed to get rid of them. Finally he tried the plan of soaking a large amount of corn in whisky, placing it in a barrel where the rats could get at it. The plan was a success, and 82 of the rodents were killed, owing to their abandonment of temperance principles.

TOTALLY DEAF.—Mr. S. E. Crandell, Port Perry, writes: "I contracted a severe cold last winter, which resulted in my becoming totally deaf in one ear and partially so in the other. After trying various remedies, and consulting several doctors, without ob-taining relief, I was advised to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oll. I warmed the oil and poured a little of it into my ear, and before one-half the bottle was used my hearing was completely restored. I have heard of other cases of deafness being cured by the use of this medicine."

ENGLISH SOLDIERS

Men Brave, but Leaders Poer-Tells Burghers How to Care for Their Horses.

[Allen Sangree in 'Ainslee's.] "Speaking of the conduct of the war, I asked Mr. Kruger if he was discour-

'Discouraged?' he answered. 'No. We have a very difficult job on hand, but Providence has been with us from the start, and therefore we have prevailed. Our numbers are always less. and the casualties ten to one in our favor. " 'How many have you lost thus far?"

"There have been 420 burghers killed in battle and about 4,000 either wounded or captured.' "How many do you think the English have lost?'

'Sixty thousand.' "They claim a much smaller loss,"

"But you cannot believe them,' the president answered. 'At Spion Kop, they put the number of killed at 200.We counted 600.'

" 'How many burghers have you in the field?'

Thirty or forty thousand from both states is the most we have ever had actually under arms. Now the number I make it a rule to have 10 per cent of the army always on leave of absence, because our people are only few, and I must take care of them. " 'Do you consider the English soldier a brave man?' I inquired. "'Yes,' was the reply, but he is only an animal. He does not know what he is fighting for. It is a shame to send those poor fellows out to be killed, and I pity them. They do what their officers tell them, and that is why their officers tell them, and that is why they get killed. Very few of them can shoot straight. They usually aim over our heads. The English soldier does not know how to take care of his horse, either, and without a horse in this country the soldier is nothing.'

"If Kruger insists on any one thing in this campaign it is careful handling of horses. It is certainly an unusual thing to hear the president of the state exhorting his troops about such small details as to caution them against allowing the saddle to rub the horse's But this seemed to be the principal theme of an address which I heard Windsor office for July amounted to Kruger deliver to some raw recruits starting off to the front.

'Watch the burghers,' he said, 'how they hobble their ponies and then do likewise. You must all remember never to give the horse a feed of mealies and then water him afterwards, for he will surely die. No more ride him to waer and then gallop away. " 'I have no idea as to the duration,' was his reply. 'So long as I and my followers live.'

VICEROYS WIELD GREAT POWER

Rulers of Chinese Provinces Have the Right to Kill Without Question.

Much has been said recently about the viceroys, whose authority seems to be so great that they are to a great extent independent of Pekin. They are, in fact, petty kings, but their quoted, Sir James Grant, is to be trust-powers are held altogether at the mercy of imperial authority. Longest Span Bridge.

The honor of possessing the longest span in the world, which was wrested from the Brooklyn bridge by the Forth bridge, is again to return to this continent, although not to the United States. This great span will form part of the new bridge across the St. Law-rence at Quebec, Canada. Says the Scientific American:

"The Brooklyn bridge measures a few feet under 1,600 feet between the towers; the new East River bridge, between the same points of measurement, will be exactly 1,600 feet; the two main spans of the Forth bridge are 1,710 feet in the clear, while the great bridge now to be erected across the St. Lawrence at Quebec is to have a central span of 1,800 feet. The securing of the contract by the Phoenix Iron and Steel Company, of Phoenixville, Pa., is another distinct tribute to bridge builders of this country; for it is certain that the award of a $4,500,000 contract for the erection of a bridge on British territory would not have come to this country if the British bridge builders had been able to offer superior inducements in the way of design and economy.

"It is significant that in spite of the oft-repeated statement that all subsequent bridges of this magnitude would be constructed on the suspension principle, the new Quebec bridge is to be of the cantilever type. The old objec-tion of lack of stability which formerly held against suspension bridges has disappeared. The principles of the suspension type are better understood, or, shall we say, better applied, than they were, and with the improved materials manner.

One word of warning should be added. This is a fertile field for quacks. Let it be remembered that the men of science who are investigating these

As regards the question of economy, the cantilever is by far the more costly type, the difference in cost ce in cost increasing at a multiplying ratio of the increase in length. view of this fact it is probable that the adoption of the cantilever type at Quebec was due to the local condi-tions."

There is the suggestion of almost influence of electricity upon physiologi-"The greatest importance is attached cal cells. Take, for instance, the cells man has become and all that he can is so wonderful a machine made to endure so short a time? Perhaps an answer may be found in the fact that while the individual perishes the race survives and the type improves, but, respects satisfactory. It is the univer-sal desire of mankind to see individual existence prolonged and individual powers increased. The cells of the brain, upon which all intellectual capacity depends, gradually wear out through exercise. the progress of a man's life his brain cells give evidence, says Sir James Grant, of lessening power and activity What one can do easily when on the summit of his years, he can do but lamely, or not at all, after he has passed over to the downward slope of life. His brain no longer responds with its youthful energy. The spring is weakened, the elasticity is diminished, the wonderful cells are weary and lag in their work. Memory, in particular, fails, its images becoming dim, until at last they are completely effaced. Just here-if the authority already quoted, Sir James Grant, is to be trustare informed, demonstrates that the electrical current through the brain roas to produce a most noticeable physof this would seem to be that under parts of the cells that have not become exhausted, and thus the mental

At the same time, if this discovery proves to be well founded, there can be no doubt that it will eventually be pushed much further. In the meantime there is food for reflection, as well as stim-ulus for hope, in the results which have lately been attained in the application of electric influence to the development of plant life.

The Electro-Technical Society St. Petersburg has recently completed a series of experiments along this line whose results are astonishing. attempt to hasten vegetal growth by means of electricity is not altogether new, but these Russian experiments have been made on an unprecedented scale, and in many of their forms they are strikingly original. In general terms, they demonstrate that seeds sown in electrolized soil germinate much more quickly than in ordinary soil, and that the yield of edible roots, grains and fruits unat electric stimulation is vastly increased. The rate of growth in many cases was found to be increased from two to six times. A plate of copper and a plate of zinc connected by a wire and placed in the ground sufficed to electrolize the inclosed soil to such a degree that potatoes and other roots grown within it gave three times the ordinary yield. Extraordinary results were also obtained by placing above the ground a network of wires supported on posts with metallic terminals. Seeds sprouted in the soil beneath and plants grew and developed there in a surprising

Witness asked if Morden had been bothering Gerald again, and Gerald said Edgar told him that Joseph Sifton and Mary McFarlane had stayed Friday night at Edgar's house, and the will was made there. Gerald told witness that Dr. McNeil was then in the library, but the doctor did not want witness to know he was there.

The next day, Thursday, July 12, witness saw Gerald, and advised him to make Edgar Morden put his terms and conditions in black and white, to which Gerald replied, "He's too slippery a scoundrel for that." Witness told Gerald he would like to see Gerald and his wife use Mary well, as she had been more sinned against than sinning, and Gerald said that they would treat her well and keep her with them. On Monday, July 23, Gerald wheeling past witness's premises and wheeled in. Gerald said he had seen Edgar Morden and told him to go and do his worst. Gerald had heard from others that Edgar was going to make trouble. The same night witness heard that Gerald had been arrested, and he went at once to Gerald's house to see if Mrs. Gerald needed advice or assistance. Gerald, however, had not been arrested, but was there, and told witness that Edgar was carrying out his threat of making trouble, as Detective Murray and others had been there that day taking their statements, and

On Wednesday, July 25, the day before Gerald's arrest, witness saw him at noon, and Gerald was going to Dr. McNeil to learn if there was going to be an inquest. Witness saw Gerald later, and Gerald said the doctor said there would be no inquest. Witness said to Gerald that the doctor had told him (witness) that the body would exhumed that afternoon before two o'clock. Gerald then said he was going to town and asked witness to tell Mrs. Gerald where he had gone.

BREEEZE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

A breeze blew up in the House of Dun's Review of Trade in the Dominion Lords yesterday as the outcome of the debate on Friday last regarding the allegation that England was not invulnerable against an attempted invasion. Lord Rosebery resented the remarks of the secretary of state for war, the Marquis of Lansdowne, taking him to task for suggesting that the commander of the forces, Lord Wolseley, ought to come to the house and give his authto the government's military plans. Lord Rosecery said he did not orders for drygoods are satisfactory propose to be snubbed in the discharge of what he considered a public duty. The Marquis of Lansdowne, he said, prices for cheese and butter are must be disabused of the idea that there with a brisk export movement. existed in the country a blind, venerating confidence in the war office. The Marquis of Lansdowne, replying, said the war secretary was reseason at Toronto, and the weat sponsible to parliament, and the commander-in-chief was responsible to the war secretary.

Other peers having spoken, the presurrounded today. Gen. Schoeman, who were reported on the far side of who surrendered and took the oath of it, two companies of the Cornwalls mier, Lord Salisbury, arose and said he understood Lord Rosebery's content to return to his farm is in arms again.

There was much force in what Lord Salisbury had said, but it was of an abstract kind.

The subject was then dropped. THE PLAGUE IN OLD LONDON. The United States marine hospital service has received the following telegram from Past Assistant Surgeon Thomas, announcing the outbreak of the bubonic plague in London: "Surgeon-General, Marine Hospital, Washington: There have been four cases of plague and two deaths from plague in London. Diagnosis confirmed by bacteriological examination. Do not think there will be further spread. (Signed) Thomas. The dispatch from Surgeon Thomas gives no details as to the origin of the cases or whether they were on shipboard or within the city itself. The marine hospital service authorities say the instructions already given to officers, safeguarding United States ports against the disease, are ample, but quarantine officers will now be especially watchful.

BELGIUM'S EXCUSE. Brussels, Aug. 4. — In reply to the note of the British Government, expressing regret that the proceedings against Sipido, the assailant of the Prince of Wales, should have had such an utterly inadequate ending, the Belgian Government says that as a strict observer of the laws, it was unable to violate them, however strong its desire to proceed rigorously against the culprit. According to Belgian law, Sipido had three days to appeal to the court of cassation. Livwith his parents, he had legal domicile, and therefore he could not be arrested for three days. He profited by the delay to take flight. Belgian Government says it regrets the incident, but cannot be held responsible for it.

IN THE UNITED STATES. New York, Aug. 4.—Failures by branches of business in the United States during July, given in detail to day, show a total of 793 commercial concerns, with aggregate liabilities of $9,771,755, and four banking defaults for $201,000. Manufacturing failures numbered 183, with liabilities of $5,177,-682, and trading 550, with $3,824,366 liabilities. The total shows a heavy increase in comparison with the corresponding month last year, which is mainly due to the phenomenally sound condition existing at that time, when the amount of liabilities was the smallest, with one exception, in any month of the 82 covered by these returns. Some raw materials and some manufactured products, one stage removed from the raw, are selling at lower prices than at any time since last year's advance set in; but there is confidence among buyers that the downward swing is nearly over, while sellers are adopting a cautious policy, which until recently characterized the attitude of buyers.

Failures for the week were 228 in the United States, against 182 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 23 last year Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston were 72,348 cases, against 68,308 last week, but a year ago there were 108,045. Leather is weaker, some lines declining a cent, but there is more activity. Packer hides are steady at Chicago, but country hides declined, with calfskins much depressed. The wool market has been more active, but the average of 100 quotations published by Coates Bros., on Aug. 1, was slightly lower at 20.51 cents.

Passenger earnings of railroads increase more in proportion than freight. In three weeks of July all roads reporting gained 6.7 per cent over 1899, and 24.4 over 1898.

BAD BOOKS

The Importance of a Wise Selection.

Dr. Talmage Delivers a Practical Ser-Lion Upon Current Literature.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Dr. Talmage, who has been spending a few days in St. Petersburg, sends the following report of a discourse which will be helpful to those who have an appetite for literature and would like some rules to guide them in the selection of books and newspapers. Text, Acts xix., 19: "Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men; and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of

Paul had been stirring up Ephesus with some lively sermons about the sins of that place. Among the more important results was the fact that the citizens brought out their bad books and in a public place made a bonfire of them. I see the people coming out with their arms full of Ephesian literature, and tossing it into the flames. I hear an economist, who is standing by, saying, "Stop this waste." "No," said the people, "if these books are not good for us, they are not good for anybody else, and we shall stand and watch until the last leaf has burned to ashes. They have done us a world of harm, and they shall never do others harm." Hear the flames crackle and their entire stock of goods. The printing press is the mightiest agency on earth for good and for evil. The minister of the g-spel standing in a pulpit, has a responsible position; but I do not think it is as responsible as an editor or a publisher.

What is to be the issue of all this? I believe the Lord intends the printing press to be the chief means for the orld's rescue and evangelization, and I think that the great last battle of the world will not be fought with swords and guns, but with types and presses -a purified and Gospel literature triumphing over, trampling down, and crushing out forever that which is depraved. The only way to overcome unclean literature is by scattering abroad which is healthful.

I have to tell you that the greatest blessing that ever came to the nations is that of an elevated literature, and the greatest scourge has been that of unclean literature. This last has its victims in all occupations and departments. It has helped to fill insane asylums, and penitentiaries, and almshouses, and dens of shame.

WHAT SHOULD BE READ.

Now it is amid such circumstances that I put a question of overmastering importance to you and your families. What books and newspapers shall we A newspaper is only a book in a swiftmore portable shape, and the same rules which will apply to book reading will apply to newspaper reading. What shall we read?

Standing, as we do, chin-deep in fictitious literature, the question that young people are asking is, "Shall we read novels?" I reply, There are novels that are pure, good, Christian, elevating to the heart and ennobling to the But I have still further to say that I believe that 75 out of the 100 novels in this day are baleful and destructive to the last degree. A pure work of fiction is history and poetry combined. The world can never pay the debt which it owes to such writers of fiction as Hawthorne and McKenzie and Landon and Hunt and Arthur and others, whose names are familiar to all. The follies of high life were never better exposed than by Miss Edgeworth. The memories of the past were never more faithfully embalmed than in the writings of Walter Scott. Cooper's novels are healthfully redolent with the breath of the seaweed and the air of the American forest. Charles Kingsley has smitten the morbidity of the world, and led a great many to appreciate of sound health, strong the poetry muscles, and fresh air. Thackeray did a grand work in caricaturing the pre-tenders to gentility and high blood. Dickens has built his own monument in his books.

Again, I charge you to stand off from all those books which corrupt the imag-ination and inflame the passions. I do not refer now to that kind of book which the villain has under his coat waiting for the school to get out, and then, looking both ways to see that there is no policeman around the block, offers the book to your son on the way home. I do not speak of that kind of literature, but that which evades the law, and omes out in polished style, and with acute plot sounds the toc-sin that rouses up all the baser pas-sions of the soul. Go home today and look through your library, and then, having looked through your library, look on the stand where you keep your pictorials and newspapers, and apply the Christian principles I have laid down this hour. If there is anything in your home that cannot stand the test, do not give it away, or it might spoil an immortal soul; do not sell it, for the money you get would be the price of blood; but rather kindle a fire on your kitchen hearth, or in your back yard, and then drop the poison in it, and the bonfire in your city shall be as consuming as that one in Ephesus.

Officiated at 5,000 Weddings.

For a great many years Jefferson-ville, Ind., has been the Gretna Green for eloping couples from across the Ohio River, and from many other places. The principal duty of the justices of the peace there is to officiate at weddings. Squire Hause has had by far the widest reputation, and has married couples from all parts of the world. During his life as a magistrate Squire Hause has united for better or for worse more than 5,000 persons. These include representatives of every scale of social life, from the humble mountaineer of Kentucky to the sons and daughters of millionalires. Congressmen, senators, governors, ministers and celebrities.

Many of these ceremonies have been performed under unusually romantic circumstances. As an instance, a couread? The magistrate has always been accommodating, and has complied with the requests of his patrons, no matter how absurd they have been.

There have been the usual amusing incidents in regard to the payment of the wedding fee. One that is told with much enjoyment by Squire Hause concerns a couple from Kentucky. The usual preliminaries were gone through, and the ceremony performed. The bridegroom embraced his wife, then, turning to the magistrate, asked if he was through. The justice replied that nothing was lacking, and bridegroom asked if it was not customary for the jpstice to kiss the Nothing loth, this was bride. plied with, and the couple started out the bridegroom failing to say anything about the fee. As the couple were leaving the door, Squire Hause politely called him and asked him if he had not forgotten the fee. With a surprised look on his face, the happy man replied: "Did you not kiss the bride?" Squire Hause admitted that he had with pleasure. "Well," replied the bridegroom, "it seems to me that this should more than recompense you." Accepting the situation as gracefully as possible, the magistrate made haste to apologize, assuring the young man Now, I say, books like these, read at that the fee was perfectly satisfacight times, and read in right proportory. GORDON'S PROPHECY

Forecast Twenty Years Ago of Current Events in China.

There was probably no European more qualified to express an opinion of the Chinese than Col. Gordon, more commonly called Chinese Gordon, whose strange career closed at Khartoum, in January, 1885. His military association with them during the two years from 1863 to 1865, when he commanded the Ever Victorious Army, as into their somewhat complex charac-

With the crudest of material and in spite of the strongest opposition, an opposition that would have been fatal but for the loyal support he received throughout his short term of service under the Emperor of China from Li-Hung-Chang, he organized a force that under European officers of nearly every nationality, including some Americans, suppressed the Taeping rebelof the finest rhetoric, have been lion then threatening the existence of China and the dynasty. One which he gave confidentially to a friend in 1880 when he was just on the point of leaving India, when he accepted the post of Secretary to the Viceroy, Lord Ripon, is just now of particular interest. Speaking of the Taeping rebellion, and of the courage of the Chinese troops, he denied that they were cowards in one sense. He held that they did not fear death, though he had seen them stand up the aristocracy of art. Engravings be-bravely sometimes and then flee like long to the democracy of art. You do sheep afterward. But what Europeans would have to consider was, he said, the awful consequences of a general movement, when least expected, in the vast inert mass of hundreds of millions of men to overwhelm the foreign devils whom they hate like pol-

> The danger of such an outburst, Gordon said, became greater every year on account of the way the Chinese were being continually harassed by the European States with demands for compensations, in some cases just, in others quite frivolous. When they saw that their only means of meeting the aggressions was to organize an army with improved weapons, then they would buy guns and rifles and ships, and with the aid of Europeans, who would always be found ready to drill and organize them, they would create a formidable army.

> Of one thing Gordon felt quite sure. The days when Europeans could march up to Chinese troops in position, or in defense of a position, and sweep them away like flies, would soon be over. There would be no more military promenades by a few hundred British and French troops through the country, driving thousands of Chinese before them.

Speaking of the authorities, Gordon said a mandarin was never to be trusted, and he was only too glad when he left their service. The English, in his opinion, made the mistake of thinking they were welcome wherever they went, but in fifteen or twenty years they would find proof to the contrary. With all their superstitions, their vices, and their ignorance, the Chinese were, in Gordon's estimation, far too good to be ruled by the class that governed them. The governments of France, Russia and England, he emphatically declared, had the 40 years before the time he spoke treated the Chinese most scan-

Current events are proving how accurately Chinese Gordon judged the situation, and the reget is that certain defects of character and temperament should have caused him to abandon a position in which he could have rendered great service to China and civilization. In the light of what is passing in China today, Gordon's words twenty years ago have a prophetic ring .- New York Sun.

GUESTLESS HOTEL

A Drummer's Mystification Over Longheaded Landlord's Device.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.] "I was at the Ponce de Leon directly after it opened, when it had only sixteen guests and 300 servants," said a Chicago drummer; "but that wasn't anything to an experience I had once at a summer resort up in the Northwest. I had wandered into the region looking for a fellow who had beaten out firm out of a big account, and somebody told me about this hotel. A branch road connected it with the main line, 30 miles away, but early in the season the landlord and the railroad president had had a row, and they stopped the train service. That killed business as dead as Caesar, for the place was buried in the heart of the wilderness; but strange to say, the landlord had kept it open, and as I was near by and needed a rest I hired a wagon and went over. It was a big, handsome structure, of the regulation summer resort pattern, gables and porticoes and stained shingles, and as I walked up the fine, shady driveway I could see that every thing was in apple-pie order. When I entered the office a boy in buttons seized my grip, and the clerk got up from behind the counter rubbing his eyes and looking a bit dazed. The register was perfectly blank, and while there was a full office force on duty there was not a guest in sight. 'Business is a little light, eh?' I asked, after writing my name. The clerk grinned. You're the first soul I've seen in six weeks,' he replied. "I thought at first he was joking."

continued the drummer, "but it was the gospel truth. I was the only guest in the house, yet as far as I could see it was being run exactly as if all of its 120 apartments were full of people. It gave me a strange sensation, and, up-on my word, I could actually feel the emptiness as I walked down the big, wide corridor to my room. I supposed of course, that I would find all this really a bluff, and everything pared down to the lowest notch, but it wasn' There was a full corps of the case. help, from kitchen to check room, and the chambermaids used to turn to of mornings and make up a few dozen unoccupied beds just to get exercise. The proprietor kept almost entirely to his private office. He was a very quiet, bald-headed man, and naturally I ententained doubts as to his sanity. That infernal railroad had a contract with me to haul a certain quantity of fresh vegetables every day. They had forgotten all about it, but when they threw me down on it, but when they threw me down on the train service I saw that my cue was to keep open at full blast and sock it to them for damages at the end of the season. My lawyer claimed that the lack of fresh vegetables kept away guests. Of course the jury understood it was just a peg to hang a damage suit on, but any stick is good enough to beat a dog and they gave me a whopping good verdict. I soaked them for enough to pull out $6,000 ahead of the game."

The world has been told through various sources that the Boer legislation and management have clogged the progress of this industry, and it has been pointed out but for English capital the Transvaal wealth would never have been developed. "This is what Mr. Kruger has to say:

" 'My country has been a godsend to promoters like Rhodes and Barnato. Both of them came out here povertystricken and without influence. they talk as though they had put the quartz into the earth, and vaunt about their money developing the Rand. But what did they do? Why, persuaded the public in England and Europe to invest so generously that not only these adventurers, but many others, became wealthy, while those who supplied the funds were frequently victimized. And now I will tell you something. Since this war began my government has worked several of the richest mines, and we find that they have all along been paying a profit of 60 per cent. On this we placed a tax of 5 per -that is, for every sixty pounds they extracted we asked but three pounds. Is this not generous? Do you think that the English government would be equally kind? I say no. If God wills that we shall lose our country, then the stockholders will find that their profits will be greatly decreased, for England will tax them to pay for this penses are very small. No country on earth can maintain a war so cheaply.' " "What has been the cost so far?" ventured.

"Mr. Kruger hesitated at this, but after consulting hurriedly with several advisers, replied: 'About four million pounds.'
"At that rate, then, you can keep

To Replace Rubber.

An Italian residing in Mexico has recently devised a new composition intended as a substitute for caoutchouc in the manufacture of rubber goods. While residing in Mexico he bserved a shrub growing in central Mexico and known to the Indians by a variety of names, of which yule is one. The shrub grows wild on the rolling land, and attains the average height of three feet. An examination of the shrub led him to experiment with the same with reference to ascertaining what use might be made of it, since it grows abundantly, may be easily cultivated, roots readily from cuttings, and may be cut two or three times a year and immediately begins to grow and shoots up again to form new wood.

It does not belong to the plants which yield milky juices, being a comparatively hard wood, and growing as a small, scrubby bush, but there is found within its bark and wood a large amount of gummy matter, and upon cutting it finely, grinding or pounding and macerating it with a hydrocarbon ether of petroleum, oil of turpentine or the like, this gum is softened and extracted from the wood, and when extracted does not harden to crystalliza-tion, but remains as a viscid, sticky mass that fulfills all of the physical conditions of crude rubber.

It may be vulcanized perfectly, and is superior to most india rubber, since it is free from all mechanical impurities, and needs no preliminary crack-ing, grinding or washing, as does the ordinary crude rubber. The botanical name of this shrub is Synatheroeas Mexicanas, and it furnishes in gum the remarkable yield of 40 per cent of its own weight. It is abundant, cheap and may be treated either in a green state or in a dry state so that it may be cut and baled and stored for any length of time, and shipped without affecting its yield of gum.—Scientific

Little 15-Year-Old Johnny Reiff, the New American Wonder on the English Turf-Beats Tod Sloan and Gets $25,000 a Year.

Johnny Reiff is the new American Wonder on the English turf. He is a little fellow of fifteen years who is making $25,000 a year. He weighs out 72 pounds and stands pnly 41/2 feet high.

As light as a flea and he sticks to a horse like a flea" is what they say of him over in turf-loving London.

He is the youngest and lightest weight licensed jockey in the world. He has beaten Tod Sloane, the hitherto jockey champion. He is ten years younger than Sloane and weighs thirty pounts less. He has been presented to the Prince

He has shaken hands with the Duchess of Marlborough. Johnnie Reiff began the season in England this year by winning a race the English horse Poitiers on the 26th of last month. He has kept on adding to his victories ever since Little Johnnie Reiff was just getting used to grand stand applause and being introduced to celebrities when he received a new kind of lionizing. The sight of this mite of a boy riding to victory the wildest and gamest of horses has quite turned the heads of race-loving English women, and they started the custom of kissing the little jockey. The first episode of this sort occurred last year on the Newmarket track.

American midget was mounted on Bishopwood, a gigantic horse with a vicious temper. Just after the start Reiff lost control of his animal, and 'Uncle Mac," his chief opponent, seemed to have the race well in hand. The plucky little Ohio boy fought his mount for an eighth of a mile and up on "Uncle Mac" and won by a full length.

It was truly a grandstand finish, Litback to the judges' stand and was dis-land," he says. "They think more of him than all the rest of us jockeys. Even Tod Sloane isn't in it.' Both the Reiff boys came back to America last December. They went to their home in Cygnet, Ohio, a little village 30 miles south of Toledo. Their father is a tinsmith. The boys bought a new home for their parents out of their season's winnings, and declared that their father should retire from business. The Reiff boys both went back to England in February this year, and began riding with the opening of the season in March at the Lincoln track. Johnnie Reiff has been riding this season in England for Richrd Croker, Tammany's chief.

He also rides the crack mounts of Lord William Beresford at $250 each. He has sometimes ridden four winning races a day. From his earnings thus far horsemen say that $25,000 is a low estimate of what the boy will make this year. He carried home with him last winter $15,000 from his first seasen's earnings abroad last summer.

"I went up with Mr. Huggins to where she was standing. She shook with me and asked me questions about my weight and how many winners I had before I came over to England. She then said:

'Do you like England or America said: 'I like them both.' "She laughed a little and said she was glad I was so successful in answering questions as well as in riding horses. "I had ridden another race and was fust about to mount Knickerbocker when Huggins came to me again and told me the Duchess wanted to see me once more. The Prince of Wales was with her this time. When I went up she said:

"The Prince also asked me my age and some other questions, which I answered. But it was getting time for me to be mounted, and I could not any longer, even for the Prince of Wales, so I had to be off.'

The Vickers-Maxim 7.5-Inch Rifle-Recent Development in Field Guns.

Vicker's Sons & Maxim, Limited, have in their exhibit at the Paris Exposition a 7.5 inch, quick-firing gun which is a new weapon. It is a wire wound gun, firing a 200-pound projectile with a 50-pound charge of cordite taining a muzzle energy of 11.825-foot tons, or 730-foot tons per ton of gun, a splendid result when taken in connection with the rapidity of fire, which is about one round in ten seconds

The new form of breech-block (now adopted for all British service guns) makes three-fourths (instead of onehalf as in the old form) of the surface available to resist pressure, so that the breech end of the gun (the heavier end of course) can be shortened, and this weight saved that added to the muzzle in the form of a longer chase greatly increases the time the powder acts the projectile, consequently a high muzzle velocity results. The gun is on a conter-pivot mount-ing consisting of a steel top carriage resting on a horizontal roller bearing on a steel pivot. The recoil is checked by the usual cylinder, and the gun is returned to the firing position springs in two other cylinders. The roller-bearing admits of balancing the weight of gun and carriage so nicely that the training is very easy, and both elevating and training can be performed by one man. The shot tray (for loading) is arranged to move with the gun, its longer axis being always par-allel to that of the gun, another great advantage. The recent developments in field artillery material have followed a natural course based on the useful effect of the weapon. The latter is the resultant of three factors:

(1). The effect of each separate projectile. (2). The accuracy of fire. (3). The rapidity of fire. The first two factors represent the technical qualities of a gun, the third the tactical.

The first factor involves two separate elements, viz., the power of penetration and the dispersed action of fragments over a certain area. The relative importance attached to these various factors determined three phases, or epochs, in the history of he development of modern field guns: first, the development of the idea of rapid fire; second, the increased importance attached to the action of a projectile, including the subject of curved fire (that of howitzers and mortars); third, the present, which assimilates the first two. First Phase-The origin of the rapid fire guns for field batteries was, strange to say, the machine gun, as designed to attack torpedo boats, developed out of the mitrailleuse. For the attack of torpedo boats the conditions were in the shortest possible time to cover a given area with effective (accurate) Out of this resulted the earliest rapid-fire gun, which, to meet the conditions had to be of small calibre and have a flat trajectory, for only with smaller calibre projectiles could then be obtained the high muzzle velocity necessary to penetrate torpedo boats at the required distance, and the flat trajectory is necessary for great accuracy. Indeed, the largest calibre obtained was 2.2, and the greatest rapidity 35 shots a minute. Still further to in-crease the rapidity of fire, efforts were made at once to diminish-or better, to time lost in moving the piece up again after each shot would be saved. But man yelled out to bring him down to that of the field piece it was to replace, his place. ther to come to New York. Johnnie's first work was at Morris Park.

"The first time I ever saw Theodore Roosevelt was back in the early 80's," said a man who used to live in the "I met him on a sleeping car coming east from Wyoming, where he had been visiting his ranch on the edge of the Bad Lands. At that time he was unknown to the public except as the author of a few magazine articles on western life, but luckily I had read them, and they formed a bridge of conversation. I found him a burly young man with a heavy brown beard, which he had allowed to grow during his trip, with manners that were nervous and abrupt, but nevertheless very engaging. He was just recovering from an attack of snow-blindness and wore large blue glasses, so he was pretty, well disguised. There were eight or ten passengers on the car, representing the usual wide variety of type to be found on the frontiers, and I remember that Rossevelt easily took the lead in conversation. His versatility and the extent of his information were surprising, and there was a vein of quaint humor that ran through his talk and lent a certain sparkle to almost! everything he said. Somebody remarked, for instance, that he had re-cently visited a new mining camp in the Black Hills and had to pay 50 cents for a drink of execrable whisky. 'You can always determine a camp's age and stage of development by the price charged for drinks,' said Roosevelt, chuckling. 'Four-bit whisky means recent occupation, unsettled conditions and the presence of one half-barrel, which some fellow has brought over the trail on a burro. Twobit whisky indicates that the regulation boom is on, that tenderfeet are plenty and that regular communication with the outside world has been established. The next drop to three for a half is not a sign of a slump, but merely shows that the first excitement has passed and the town is get ting down to what they call a "busi-ness basis." Fifteen-cent drinks mean that the business basis is reached, courts have been established, a schoolhouse is being built, claim jumping has become bad form, plug hats are tolerated and faro banks have moved upstairs. Any further decline, however, added Mr. Roosevelt, 'is a danger signal. Two-for-a-quarter whisky is a sure sign of deterioration, and five-cent beer means that a stampede has set in for the next diggings. That's the way to read the alcoholic thermometer

of the woolly west."-New Orleans

Times-Democrat.

Its Shape Indicates Your Character The Noses of Fighters.

Physiognomists go so far as to assert that the nose is the key to the man's character, the index to his brain. And so many people-great employers among them-share the belief that it is almost as lucky for a child to be born with a good nose on its face as with the proverbial silver spoon in its mouth. There are noses and noses, even among the good specimens. There is the artistic nose (literary men and painters have it, or should have it); the "constructive" erary men and paintens have it, nose peculiar to architects and engineers: and not the least important is one labeled by physiognomists "combative and organizing." This might also be called the military nose. It belongs to great commanders on sea and land, and is so prominent that it cannot be mistaken. Wellington had to an abnormal degree. In this, as in other respects, he has never been equalled by any other soldier. Wellington was a great believer in noses. Napoleon also admired a good nose, was personally well endowed in that particular, but nothing like to the same extent as his vanquisher at tions by the size and shape of their noses. In short, Wellington and Napoleon, for professional purposes, practised physiognomy, which was a crime in the days of Elizabeth, when persons fayning to have knowledge of aginations" rendered themselves liable to all manner of perils.

Even in these days we have the fighting nose at the front—where, of-course it should be. The finest specimen is the property of Gen. Kelly-Kenny. It is quite Wellingtonian, and gives points to Napoleon. With such a nose Gen. Kelly-Kenny ought to go far. From his nose the physiognomist would tell you that Gen. French is possessed of determination and perseverance. The same expert would probably describe Gen. Sir Redvers Buller's darkness nose as that of a "plodder," while, according to Aristotle, who, versatile man! professed some knowledge of physiognomy, Lord Kitchener is "in-sensitive." Of all the Boer commandants in the field, Louis Botha is the one whose nose is of the military he has suffered, he is generally credited with being a very able soldier.

Lord Roberts-what of his nose? It must be confessed that it is not of the "fighting" stamp. The "face reader" owner possessed would say that its great artistic instinct. Quite right! Lord Roberts is an artist—an artist in war.-London Mail

This is the same story told me everywhere I go. It is one of the threatening fatal results of what we call 'modern improvement,' in other words, is the refined manner of self-torture, and risk of life and health in order to do something a little faster, and thus make a few more than we otherwise could do. There is a point of speed beyond which as a matter of protection to life, limib health, elevators and all other vehicles of locomotion should not be allowed to The mad rush in this country, of which the frightful speed of the elevator and bicycle 'scorcher' are typical, must stop somewhere. The fatal results of the things are most apparent.'

THE PALACE OF THE DANCE

One of the unique features of the World's Fair at Paris is the Palace of the Dance, which is described and pictured by Jean Schopfer and A. Castaigne in the August Century, in the first of a series of papers on amusements at the Exposition.

It represents a sight which all, without regard to nationality, can enjoy. But as interesting as the idea itself is the manner of carrying it out. We are not given a repetition of the great chorographic spectacles that we can see in London or New York, nor a duplicate, necessarily inferior, of the artistic ballets of the Paris opera house, with their quadrilles of dancers trained to the dance from the age of 12, and their stars of princely income. No; at the Palace of the Dance the rare opportunity offered by the advent of an exposition has been seized upon to put before the public the dances of different countries and epochs.

In the Palace of the Dance the Orient is revived in the bayaderes of India. Here the dances possess only a spectacular merit, and, like most Oriental dances, can be admitted on a European stage only after having been greatly modified. Clothed in wide silken trousers of striped pattern that reach to the ankles, which are encircled by golden bracelets, and with the bodies covered with a mantle of soft and transparent texture that is draped about them with great art, the bayaderes mimic, to the strains of slow and monotonous music, love-scenes, avowals, coquetry, and refusals. The characteristic charm of the Hindu dances lies in the fact that the body alone has part in them, the hand arms, and lower limbs having no share.

England shows her well-known clowns and her adroit, quick jigs, Russia, flat-faced dancers, who leap and pirouette, strike the floor with heels, and, crouching run across the stage, while the rest of the troupe sing, utter screams, and, at times, raise their shoulders in a curious movement. Italy appears with the Tarantella of the happy borders of the Gulf of Naples, and with a rural dance, the Waterloo. Both are said to have Pecoree, wherein figure shepherds chosen their men for important posi- stepping to the sound of rustic pipes, Spain comes and triumphs. The crowd is never tired of gazing at its well-known dances. The Fandango is shown with all its seductive grace; the Bolero is more noble, more reserved; a woman dances a Cachucha on a table; Phisiognomie or like Fantastical Imand there is given a Guaracha, to be seen now only on the stage.

If America has not sent her negro dancers, at least she triumphs in Loie Fuller, with her inimitable Fire Dance. This is the boldest and most marvel lous invention that has ever appeared spectacular dancing in any epoch. The splendor of the "Arabian Nights" pales before the sumptuous magic of this body about which beat innumerable waves of flame, unceasingly renewed. Between the dream-world and the reality, Loie Fuller peoples the with never-to-be-forgotten apparitions.

CHINESE ON THE WARPATH. The Chinese art of war does not include the moving of troops, and 6,000 men will be purposely spread out over a line of march 150 miles long. Even these detachments, when on the march, dribble along the road in a manner that is utterly incredible. There is no column, only a string of stragglers and coolies to be seen, except a body of men carrying flags and a score or two at most of men armed with rifles, whose special duty it is to escort the officer commanding the battalion. The "soldiers" stroll or hurry along according to the taste of the individual The men, singly or in small parties, twos and threes, carry baskets, buckets, bundles, and tents slung on poles, muskets or magazine rifles with impartiality, while tent poles, huge shallow cooking pans, mattresses, spades, picks, teapots, stools, paper lanterns. form part of the baggage, besides umbrellas, of which each man possesses one, if not two. Some stagger under wheelbarrows, some are seated on donkeys, with the peasants carrying the rifles or muskets. Most on foot, of course, many barefooted, some footsore, and the footgear itself includes sandals (straw), shoes and boots-
