London, Aug. 14.—The Chronicle prints a Constantinople dispatch saying that fresh troubles are reported in Marsovan involving two American missionaries, one of whom is named Briggs. It is not clear whether the missionaries are killed or wounded.

CHINA'S ABORTIVE GOVERNMENT London, Aug. 14,—The Times prints a dispatch from Tien Tsin saying that the Chinese Government is in a state of helpless confusion and incapable of any decisive action or of exercising effective authority. The result, the correspondent adds, will probably be serious, unless the powers take precautions.

ANOTHER OF THE FAMILY FIXED. London, Aug. 13.—The morning Post tomorrowwill announce that it has been definitely arranged to appoint J. W. Lowther chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Commons. This office is coupled with that of deputy-speakership of the House When the House is in committee the speaker vacates the chair and the chairman of the Ways and Means is called on to preside. Mr. Lowther is the huscess Beatrice went abroad on the eve of Emperor William's arrival in order to prevent a repetition of the unpleasantness that occurred in 1894. The Emperor always manifests disapproval of what he regards as the morganatic alliances of some of his English relatives with characteristic bluntness. During his stay in 1894 he would only address Prince Henry as the Governor of the Isle of Wight.

CHINESE SPITE TOWARDS JAPAN. Pekin, Aug. 14.—Chinese officials in Tekin are unable to resist the temptation to show their spite towards Japan, and a disagreeable part of the new Japanese envoy's duties is to call them to account when they become offensive. The Tsung Li Yamen has twice been obliged to apologize in Mr. Hayashi for the publication of an objectionable "Wojen," in the official gazette, and once for the circulation of a memorial to the Emperor, in which the Japanese people were spoken of as insular barbarians.

THE FRANCO-RUSSIAN ENTENTE Paris, Aug. 13.-In recognition of the diplomatic jubilee of Baron de Mohrenheim, Russian ambassador to France, the Czar has conferred upon the baron the decoration of the firstclass of the Order of St. Vladimir. This honor was accompanied by a letter from the Czar, in which he said: "Your present activity, directed toward the maintenance of friendly relations between Russia and France, contributes to the accomplishment of a task dear to my heart, namely, the strengthening of general peace."

THE IRISH FEUDS.

London, Aug. 14.-The Anti-Parnellite meeting was chiefly occupied in discussing a motion presented by Mr. Arthur O'Connor in favor of abolishing the consultative committee.

The Times says the motion was submitted to the meeting in behalf of the Healyite faction, the committee having become a Dillonite body, and that it was defeated by a wote of 34 to 26. The Times says that after the Queen's speech has been heard by Parlament the Federationists will hold a meeting to determine whether to move an amendment to the speech.

THE FRENCH HAVE NO EASY TASK.

London, Aug. 14.—Col. Charles R. Shervinton, formerly commander-inchief of the Malagasy army, with the rank of lieutenant-general, and for ten years past military secretary of the Queen of Madagascar, has just returned to London, having resigned his position with the other British officers owing to disagreements with the Government as to the methods to be taken in resisting the advance of the French. In an interview today Col. Shervinton said: "The French have before them the greatest physical obstacles they have yet encountered, including the fever. TO INVESTIGATE THE MASSACRE. London, Aug. 14.-A dispatch from Shanghai says that the commission appointed to inquire into the massacre of Christians will leave Foo Chow at once for Ku Cheng. The commission is composed of Mr. Mansfield, the acting British consul at Foo Chow; J. C. Hixson, United States consul at that place; E. L. B. Allen, British vice-consul at Pagoda Island; Rev. Messrs. Bannister, Gregory and Starr; a lieutenant from the United States warship Detroit, and a number of Chinese officials of high rank. The escort will consist of 100 Chinese braves, the Viceroy having refused to allow a foreign escort to accompany the commission.

WAS SHE A JURY BRIBER? A Sensation in the Durant Case-Bribery or Blackmail?

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.-Anther sensation has developed in the Durant case. Whether it is a case of ury-bribing or a bold attempt blackmail the police and others who have investigated the matter are unwilling and probably unable to state with positiveness. The fact remains that Mrs. Durrant, mother of the young man who is accused of murdering Minnie Williams and Blanche Lamont, was approached recently by a mysterious woman, whose desire was to sell something of extreme importance to the safety of Theodore Durant. It was intimated that at least three of the jurors already accepted could be influenced to vote for acquittal, but cin would be required to get these votes. Mrs. Durant not only spurned the offer but informed the attorneys for her son, and also notified the police of the nature of the offer made to her. The woman is Mrs. Sarah Groger. While she denies having offered any jurors for sale, she admits having visited Mrs. Durant, and offering for coin to bring about the accomplishment of semething which would be invaluable to the defense of Theodore Durant. Mrs. Groger says she only acted as the agent of a third party, and did so innocently.

A BULLET IN HIS BRAIN.

Fred Walker's Body Found in the Lake Near Amherstburg.

He Belonged in Guelph and Had Been Following the Races.

Windsor, Aug. 14.-What may be a suspicious case was brought to light yesterday by Capt. Murphy, who has charge of the dredges working on Lake Erie below Amherstburg. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he found the tody of a well-dressed man floating in the lake, and it was taken on board a tug and brought to Amherstburg. A careful eramination of the body disclosed the fact that there was a bullet hole in the left temple, and it was at once suspected that the man was a victim of foul play. In one of the coat to Fred Walker, and was from his mother, Mrs. E. Walker, of Guelph, Ont. It was dated July 2, and among other things Mrs. Walker counseled her son not to get dicouraged. There was also a telegram found which was sent from Milwaukee on July 5 to Cincinnati. It was signed "C. S. Bush," and read: "If you are here Monday, can put you on block." Though very well dressed, no watch nor money was found the only other exticle bains. found, the only other article being a pool ticket on the Windsor races issued by Wilson & Co.

The man was about 40 years of age and the body was in good condition, showing that it had not been in the water long. The fact that the man had no money and that his mother cautioned him not to get discouraged might indicate that he had committed sulcide, which would account for the bullet hole in his head. Beyond this it is hard to account for the body being found in the lake, and this gives rise to the supposition that the man may have been shot and his body thrown into the water. An inquest will be held and the case thoroughly investi-gated. Mrs. Walker was also notified of the case. C. S. Bush is a well-known racing man of the firm of Bush & Johnson, who gave the recent running meeting at Milwaukee. He had the pool privileges also, and the telegram shows that he intended to take Walker into his employ.

The president read her annual address, which stated that seven new lodges were formed during the year, making a total of 37 in Ontario. The degree is at present open to membership by "any white woman over the age of 18 who believes in the Supreme Being and is of good moral character. This, the president thought, was rather too broad, and that the qualification should be less wide in its limits. She also recommended that Ontario be divided into three districts.

The secretary's report stated that the membership is 2,514, an increase of 448 for the year. During the past six months the receipts were $1,955 21; the assets are $4,272 38; paid out for relief, $40 65.

THE BRITISHER WINS. A Decisive Race Between an English and

whole-sail westerly breeze at 10 o'clock this morning, Mr. R. S. Palmer's crack American schooner-cruiser, Yampa, and Mr. Frederick Wills' English cruising schooner Amphitrite started for a prize of £100 over the en's course. The contest grew out of Mr. Wills' protest against the Lord Iveagh 200 guineas cup being awarded to Yampa, on the ground that the latter carried nine men in her crew in excess of the number allowed by the rules governing the contest. The affair finally resulted in an arrangement being made under the auspices of the Royal Yacht Squadron sailing committee that the question of superiority between the American and English schooners should be decided in a race today, both yachts being allowed to carry all the men they pleased. Consequently, great interest was taken in the event, especially as a rumor is in circulation here that should Defender fail to retain the America's cup on the other side of the Atlantic, an American schooner will be sent after it next year. Yachtsmen, generally agree that Americans are far ahead of Englishmen in building and handling schooners, but it is asserted that the Englishmen are better handlers of single-stickers, although this point is universally conceded to America. The course was 50 miles long, and the boats being sent away to westward they headed first for Lymington Spit buoy. Yampa allowed Amphitrite 7 minutes and 41 seconds. The schooners rounded Lymington Spit as follows: Amphitrite, 11:47:10; Yampa, 12:00:00. Yampa pulled up considerably, and passing West Cowes had reduced the gap to a couple of minutes, but from that point Amphitrite pulled away again in grand style, and the two passed Ryde Pier as follows: Amphitrite, 12:48,05; Yampa, 1:01:33. This, with the time allowance, put Amphitrite in advance 21 minutes and 9 seconds, a rather hopeless lead for Yampa. But the American schooner bowled along after her leader in gallant style, scudding along before the wind with all sails pulling beautifully. Later.-Amphitrite won easily with-

Offered this Year by the Western Fair.

Wild East Show and Ajax, the Diver.

Shot From a Cannon 3,000 Feet Above the Earth-Sampson, the Strong Man-Minor Attractions and Ring Events.

The great and only Western Fair will be held this year from Sept. 12 to 21. Never before have the officers and directors placed such a "drawing" programme before the public as they have on this occasion. The prize lists have been re-arranged, and in some cases the value of the prizes materially increased. Buildings are being put in first-class repair, and the main building is being entirely re-shingled. This will obviate any dampness in case of min. The special attractions are by far the best that the Fair Board have yet produced.

Probably the most in evidence will be the Wild East show, or Arabia transported to London. It includes an entire troup of Moorish Bedouin Arabs, Sheiks, Turks and Syrians-50 artists, with ten horses, two camels and donkeys. This is the most expensive special feature ever offered.

The ordinary parachute drop from a balloon is so common now that it arouses very little excitement. "Alvini," who will appear at the Fair, goes up in a cannon attached to the balloon, and is automatically shot forth, parachute and all, at a high altitude. The act is hazardous and daring, and will be seen every afternoon.

The Partellos will appear in their acrobatic performance, "Celestial pas-times in a laundry." They are clever pantomimists and tricksters.

The Albion acrobats-William Albion, Charles Herbert and Abe Oronsonwill perform during six days of the They are also clever and accomplished comedians.

Ajax, the clebrated diver, one of the greatest attractions with Barnum & Bailey, will dive twice daily from a tower 75 feet high into 36 inches of water. His performance is nervethrilling. Martella gives a marvelous exhibition on an invisible swinging wire. C. A. Sampson, one of the world's greatest strong men, will lift a Ferris chest and hold it suspended while it revolves. A number of famous bands have been engaged to give daily concerts, and on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings Prof. Hand & Co. will give grand pyrotechnic displays. The trials of speed will commence Monday, Sept. 16, with the following events: Trotting stake, 3-minute class, $200; mile heats, best three in five. Running-Open to all; weights for age; 1-2 mile heats; best two in three. First, $50; second, $30; third, $20. Tuesday: Pacing stake, 3-minute class, $200; mile heats, best three in

Three Suspicious Looking Men Arrested on the Market

With a Lot of Harness, a Light Wagon, a And the Child Will be Taken to the New Pair of Nags and a Loaded Revolver.

This morning about 9:30 o'clock, Detective Thomas Nickle, in making his usual rounds on the Market Square, came across three seedy - looking strangers, a hungry-looking team of horses, a light wagon and two sets of single harness. The men were endeavoring to raise the wind by selling the harness, but as they could not give a satisfactory account of how they came into possession of it they were placed under arrest by Nickle and P. C. Gilson. At the station they registered as Joseph Clark, Wm. Lacound and David Vanslitt, the former claiming no place of abode, and his companions claiming to belong to Towern. Vanslitt, who is a tall man of a copper-colored complexion, had a loaded revolver in his pecket. He says he is a step-father of Lacound.

One set of harness is silver-mounted, in good repair. The back band is trimmed with red and white leather, green glass ornaments, in which are shown horses' heads, decorate the sides of the bridle. The collar is of the Dutch pattern. The second set has a Dutch collar, padded under-band, blind bridle, with brass ornaments, and brow band trimmed with brass. A new red neck yoke, an old halter, and a bag marked "E. Newcomb, Harwich, Ont.," were also found in the rig.

The police believe the harness has been stolen, and while the prisoners are held on suspicion, the horses will be fattened.

VERY DEPRAVED.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shea to Go to the Reformatory.

Timothy Sullivan Has a Narrow Escape -His Unenviable Record-Other Police Court Jottings.

Magistrate Parke gave an audience at the police court this morning to twelve "interested" persons, and a great many who had no interest whatever in the proceedings. Of the twelve only three were prisoners-Mrs. Elizabeth Shea, the York street woman of fil-repute; Tim Sullivan, her friend; and Thomas Brown. Mrs. Shea was in court on Monday, and by lots of tongue and a heavy flow of tears managed to impress the magistrate and secure her release, on condition that she would leave town in 24 hours. Her sister, Mary Ann Carey, played the same game, but was in limbo inside of twelve bours, and now awaits transportation to the Mercer. The Shea woman never had any intention of leaving the city, and yesterday got hilariously drunk in her dirty hovel. Sullivan was her companion, but was sober.

"I would have gone away yesterday at noon," was the way she began a story to the court. "I sold my furni-ture," but could not get the money until 6 o'clock in the evening, and I intended to leave today. "You need not talk any more," said the magistrate, as the woman had just started a 200-word-a-minute streak. "Six months in the Mercer." Sullivan was next on the carpet, and he began to give a long lingo about what he wanted to do and would, if allowed his freedom. Tim is only 23 years old, but his police record dates back to Dec. 1, 1884, when he was first arrested for drumkenness-and only 12 years old. Since then he has been up 23 times, and the charges have been drunk, disorderly, larceny, vagrancy, assault, and the fines ranged from $2 to $10. He has been in the Central, too. Sullivan pleaded hard for liberty, promising to get out of the city in five minutes. Suspended sentence rassed on condition that Sullivan cleaded guilty to vagrancy and dug cut. "But mind you." said the court. as he shook a finger at Sullivan, "if you ever come back here you will go to the Central for six months."

Thomas Brown, when he was called, gained his feet only with the assistance of the iron bars. He is 75 years of age. much the worse for wear, and very He was arrested for vagdecrepit. rancy and drunkenness. He told the magistrate something about County Down, a first cousin, a daughter near Belleville, and a place called Northumberland, and wound up by tendering his sincerest regrets for being arrested. The magistrate took pity, and the old man toddled out of the room, all the time acknowledging thanks. The charge of fraud laid by Mrs.

Lockhart against Fred Gooch withdrawn, a settlement having been made. Harry Green, Charles Kingsnorth and Robert Stilson will appear in a week on a charge of driving a bus without a license. Two draymen who were summoned for fighting gave $100 sureties to keep the peace for a year. Wm. Kipp, of St. James street, tied his cow on the street and left it there vhile he was attending a sick wife and child. Complaint was made to the police, and a summons was issued. Kipp's child died, and he had only returned from the funeral when he served with the papers by a policeman. 31.

Wm. Evans, a drayman, was given a severe dressing down for allowing his horse to remain on the street unattended. "You cannot afford to waste your time in the saloon. Let them look after themselves," said the court, as he pronounced suspended sentence.

The Dog That Bit Baby Evans Dies in Great Distress.

York Pasteur Institute for Treatment.

The dog that bit the little 4-year-old Evans girl, as mentioned in Tuesday's "Advertiser," died during the night, of what is claimed to be a genuine case of hydrophobia.

After the animal bit the little girl, it was locked up in the barn. Yesterday afternoon it developed the usual symptoms of frothing at the mouth and convulsions, and during the night the dog died in the midst of a more than usually severe attack.

On the advice of the family physician, Dr. Macarthur, the child will be taken this evening to New York, where she will undergo the Pasteur treatment at the New York Pasteur Institute. The parents are naturally apprehensive, especially as rables developed so soon after the dog bit the girl.

Who owned the animal has not been learned. It was tagless, and in this respect justifies the existence of the dog catcher. Proper drinking places have not yet been supplied for either man or beast, and the present hot weather may be counted on to be more than usually severe on dogs.

Davis, C.E., has left Woodstock for the Nipissing district Mr. Davis is accompanied by James McKay, J. Mullen, of Norwich, and Mr. McLean, of Elora. Indians and axemen will be secured and the party, numbering about fourteen in all, will embark in canoes and proceed up the Sturgeon River about 40 miles.

Kewacodoqua, of Walpole Island, who had attained 100 years of age died a few days ago. She was born in the latter part of the last century and was a grown-up young woman of 18 years of age in the war of 1813. She was a woman with a large family, There was a very large funeral, attended by the inhabitants of Walpole and Squirrel Islands, at St. Ann's. Miss Dunn, of North Oxford, while driving home alone from Ingersoll or Saturday, was run into by a strange man. He stopped to repair her rig, and suddenly tried to seizing her whip she dealt her horse a stinging blow. The animal made a sudden bound and she speeded towards home on the dead run, while the thwarted villain called to her to stop. The police have been notified. Rev. W. S. McTavish, of St. George Presbyterian, will remove to Deseronto. The Sarnia Observer chronicles the arrest of a boy thief in Plympton township. He broke into the house of Wm. Ferguson and stole a small sum. A night of two previously he entered the house of James Bird, of Mandaumin, and stole a gold watch, chain and locket, and sold the chain in Sarnia for 30 cents. The boy gives his name as Albert Kavel, of Copetown, aged 13, and says he has no home. He has been committed for trial. The 50th anniversary of the Rev. Dr. Wardrope's ordination to the Presbyterian ministry was celebrated on Tuesday in Chalmers' Church, Guelph, when he was presented with addresses from the Presbytery of Guelph, St. Paul's Church, Ottawa, and the session of Knox Church, Ottawa. An oil portrait was unveiled at the evening meeting and presented to Chalmers' Church, to be kept suspended in the session room. Dr. Wardrope has had only two charges in balf 4 century,

Mr. Harris had attained a great age. having been born in Nova Scotia in 1814. where in his earlier years he was a shipbuilder. For the last 40 years he lived in Western Ontario, at Iona, then at London, and during the last fifteen years at Ailsa Craig, where he followed the occupation of painter. He lived a very regular, active and industrious life, and worked up to about a month before his death, when he went to live with his son. His death was due to the breaking up of his system, consequent upon his advanced age. Mr. Harris had been twice married, and lest four children by his first wife. His second wife died some five years ago. Mr. Harris is survived by E. W. Harris, of Stratford, and Wm. Harris, of Allsa Craig, sons by his second wife, and by Mrs. Thos. The following story was told by a photographer, who read it in an English magazine, it impressed 'him so vividly that he remembers the story almost word for word, as he read it: "I am a professional photographer. A short time ago I was called in to take a photograph of a young girl of about 20, who had died a few days

"The corpse was laid on the bed with the delicate and beautiful hands clasped over the breast. Death had come very gently to her, and, except for the stillness, she lay there as if asleep. Some flowers had been strewn over the body, and, on the floor, by the side of the bed, and standing out in black relief against it was the

"I adjusted my lense and took the photograph. During the ten minutes needed for the exposure, I paced up and down in the long corridor outside the room where the dead girl lay.

"When I returned, I saw that on the lid of the coffin was a flower, which was not there before. How did that flower get there? No one had entered the room; the windows were closed, and there was not a breath of air stirring. Why was the flower now lying on the coffin, when a few minutes before it was on the bed, between the hands of the corpse? I hesitated, but could hear no sound except the beating of my heart.

"In a few minutes, however, I determined to dismiss the question from my mind, and busted myself with packing up the instrument. Then I paused-possibly the falling flower had left a trace on the negative, or as the day was gloomy, the photograph might not be successful. I would try again. A second photograph was taken.

"That night I developed the two negatives. The position of the corpse was not the same. I strained my eyes, half disbelieving the evidence of my own senses, but there were the two negatives before me, telling in their silent, unmistakable, truthfulness that between the taking of the two photo-

"The mystery of the flowers on the coffin was solved, but it was succeeded by a mystery more terrible still."

"But I have to keep him warm,

"For what reason?" "The doctor told me to." "Then the poor little thing is ail-

"Just a little ailing, ma'am-just a little. He's got measles with the mumps atop of it, but the doctor says ke's growing-

No one heard the rest of the words. There were four or five mothers and six or seven children in the car, and there was a stampede which took them all out and everybody else as well. When the car rolled on again the wo-man with the baby looked at the conductor inquiringly and asked:

"Has anything broke down or blown up or run off the track to scare 'em

"Now, what do you want?" asked the sharp-nosed woman. "I called to see if I couldn't sell you some baking rowder," said the seedy gentleman with the straggling whiskers. "Well, you can't sell no bakin' powder here, and I ain't got no time to waste on peddlers any way." "Come to think of it. ma'am," said the seedy gentleman as he fastened his valise, "I wouldn't care to sell you no powder. Across the water comes the news that silks will be more expensive this coming season, and, as usual, the whole thing is blamed on the women. Even when buyers leave our shores and sail for foreign lands, they must write home and say, "The women did it. We can't buy silks at the old prices, becaues the women have worn so much during the past year. It's all their fault." And the old story of Eve is repeated, the men forgetting that their ties and underware, and the lining of their garments, take some silk, too.

But what if we do wear silks? What of that? Are not the shops offering them for a mere song;

Nothing makes a prettier gown, and nothing is more serviceable in the end. A silk gown endures, and may be made over several times, always to put on a new appearance.

Silk crepes, in oriental designs, make very pretty waists for evening wear. A quaint designs in old reds and greens, was made up over an apple-green foundation, and tried with velvet ribbons of the same shade.

Crinkled taffeta is an innovation in silks for evening waists. Regular stripes of white, and some delicate shade are the usual combinations. This silk makes up prettily for a thin person, but one given to embonpoint should shun it.

Large plaids still continue in favor, and when the entire costume is not made of silk, are worn with orepon skirts. The gown in the illustration is made entirely of silk, the ground color being brown, plaided with blue, and a narrow yellow line. The costume is made in quaint, continental fashion, with plaits of lace opening each sid of a white lawn vest. Large pearl buttons and a brown velvet belt finish the bodies in front, while around the back the jacket is slashed beneath the waist-line and turned under in loops.

Care of Shoes.

I have before me a pair of shoes; one, save for the shape of the foot having destroyed the stiff outlines of newness, look ing as if it might have just left the store, the other shoe looks as if even a tramp might pass it by with contempt. Yet they are mates.

One has been cleaned, the other has not. is all the difference; yet neither have ever been blacked; the shoes have never been worn with rubbers, yet when cleaned the leather is soft and pliable as one could wish; yet with all the spick and spanness, they are half worn out. How is it done? Have three small clean cloths, a basin of water, a bottle of cosmoline, vaseline, petroleum jeby, or whatever name you like to call it, it is all the same, and a clean shoe polishing or cloth brush.

The shoes should be wiped as free of mud as possible before drying, and should be hung in a warm current of air say two or three feet above a register or stovepipe, not underneath the kitchen range where they will be scorched on top and wet underneath.

When they are perfectly dry, wipe the mud stains off with a damp cloth; be sure and get them all off; then rub hard with a dry cloth, then polish with the brush, being careful about the stitching and around the sole. It is best to do only a part at a time, say, first the vamp, one side then the other, not forgetting the

Unless your shoes have been badly scuffed and rotted by bad shoe dressing, they will look almost like new. Now rub cosmoline over them with a clean cloth and rub it well in; use it liberally, for too little will only destroy the polish, while plenty of cosmoline improves it. The whole shoe should be carefully done, even among the buttons and button holes, and presto! your shoes are soft, pliable, black and just polished enough to look well; will not stain your underclothes or fingers when putting them on, and a little water will do them no harm.

Try it once, and you will never want to do it any other way.

Very Pretty Handkerchiefs. Girls who are so fortunate as to have plenty of time on their hands, and no better way of occupying it, are busy this summer making some exquisite handker chiefs for use in next winter's campaign. They buy at the shop three-eighths of a yard of the very finest and sheerest linen made. This will make three handkerchiefs. Then with fine needles and finer thread, they hemstitch the airy square with narrow hem, and edge it with real lace-either Valenciennes or Duchesse-in narrow widths. The handkerchiefs thus made far surpass in daintiness and beauty anything that can be bought at a reasonable price, and, besides, have that quality so much desired in summer needle work of looking pretty and "feminine" in the

NEXT WEEK'S ELECTION.

Next week, a Dominion bye-election will be fought in Westmoreland, New Brunswick, consequent upon the appointment of Mr. Wood, Conservative M. P. for the county, to a seat in the Senate. The Conservative majority, at the general election in 1891, was 2,148, and despite this enormous advantage the managers of that party have been so fearful of results that for many months they have refused to open the constituency, permitting Mr. Wood to sit and vote in the House of Commons with his commission in his pocket. They even approached the Liberals with a proposition to permit the Liberas to take the seat in the Legislature, rendered vacant by the nomination of Mr. Powell, M.P.P., as Conservative candidate, provided the Liberals permitted Mr. Powell to be returned without a contest. With commendable good sense, however, the Liberals, in convention assembled, yesterday resolved to put a candidate in the field, and to force the fight for right principles of government which their opponents are so anxious to avoid. The Liberal norninee is Mr. Killam, M.P.P., a man of tried ability; and though the election ate at a few days' notice, it has been resolved to make a strong effort to secure victory. The educational effects of a campaign so entered on will be of incalculable benefit to the community.

MINISTERIAL RESPONSIBILITY. When a Minister at Ottawa turns out a failure in one department, he is moved to another, to continue his bungling, or he retires on the ground of illhealth, and is given an office.

This is what has happened twice in the last year or two in connection with the Militia Department. When Sir Adolphe Caron gave up the control of the militia, and many shortcomings were pointed out, his successor (Mr. Patterson) acknowledged that the department was in a far from efficient condition, and he only got the estimates through on the promise of radical improvement. Mr. Patterson held office for a time, and as is well known did not improve matters. He got out of the department and out of Parliament, on a health-seeking trip, in time to shirk responsibility for the blunder-

So it has been when misgovernment has been discovered in other departments. The blundering in the Fisheries Department is the latest example. For a very long time the fishermen of Canada were, by the Dominion Government regulations, harrassed and put at much disadvantage when compared with the United States fishermen. The Government refused to put them on a fair footing with the fishermen of the States, working opposite them. Though the strongest and clearest representations were made by the western members of Parliament, in the House and out of it, the men in power refused to do the fishermen justice.

But a general election was approaching, and it was necessary to try and win the votes of the fishermen. What the Government would not give these men as a matter of right, it is now argued by Conservative journals, it was prepared to give them by the intercession of a Conservative candidate for Parliament! Are the fishermen slaves or hirelings that it should be thought possible they would vote for men who only give

The excuse now is that the wicked Times-Herald,

Sir Charles Tupper (still a member of | THE GREAT CANADIAN LEADER. the Government) was the Minister of Marine all those long years when the interests of the fishermen were assailed, and they were robbed of thousands of dollars by the interference of the Ottawa authorities, and because, at the eleventh hour, Mr. Costigan, fearful of the general election, changed the regulations, the fishermen and their friends in the west are asked to believe him to be a master statesman! Again, by a Cabinet shuffle, Ministerial responsibility is attempted to be evaded, as if a mere change of officers should enable the Government to escape punishment for its long years of wrong doing.

Next to a match that won't light is a friend who won't stand up for you in an emergency. There are lots of friends for every one of us who are always ready to say a good word for us when we don't need it, but when the time comes to test them they fly away like birds at the approach of a cat. I humbly hope that in the next world, if not in this, we shall have a better chance to find out what true, unalterable, unscarable and perfect loyalty is. I should like to spend my first few centuries in heaven in the enjoyment of such friendship as I have dreamed of here. A friendship that cares not one straw whether you are poor and illyclothed or rich and arrayed in purple vestments. A friendship that, so long as your soul is clean and true, don't care a fig how much money you make or how successful you are, but casts its lot with yours whether you munch crusts or feed on pheasants. A friendship that will keep alongside whether you walk on cobble stones or ride in a carriage over the king's highway. Mr. Mourasse spoke of the noble talent, the superb eloquence, the broad views and the frank character of the eminent statesman whom they were so troud of as a compatriot. It is something in days such as these which Can-ada has fallen upon, when evasion, tergiversation and downright falsehood characterizes the utterances and conduct of politicians in power, to know that Canada has a great party leader whose integrity has never been assailed and whose frankness and beautiful courtesy are winning a way for him, as the mayor expressed it, into all hearts. If Canadians can be taught to value honesty and frankness in political life, to look for economy and purity and carefulness in the management of public affairs, a great change for the better will be wrought in the character of the nation. Mr. Laurier stands for all this in the minds many people, and his figure is growing larger every day in the eyes of his countrymen. WHICH IS THE LORD'S DAY? Magistrates Assume to Settle the Question-Farmers in Trouble Over the Matter. Ridgetown, Ont., Aug. 14.—A few miles out of town a band of Seventh Day Adventists have pitched their tents and have by their teaching won over a number of the farmers in the neighborhood of Selton, Prominent among these is Robert Watts, who not long since was charged with violating the Lord's Day Act by following his usual occupation. The case was tried before Squire Earhon in Chatham, and it was decided that a farmer was not amenable. Today J. Matthews, a farm laborer in Watts' employ, was brought up on a harge of having worked on the 7th of July and 4th of August. Matthews pleaded not guilty when the information was read over to him, but in evidence he admitted working on the days mentioned, but contended it was not the Lord's Day and that he was exempt as a farmer.

Messrs, Watson and McKinlay, before whom the case was tried, held that the defendant was guilty of violating the act and fined him $5 and costs or 30

Walter Mills conducted the case for the prosecution; Mr. Watts and Rev, Mr. Burrill conducted the case for the defendant, and they threaten to appeal from the magistrates' finding.

THE WHEEL. The Meteor Bicycle Club held their monthly meeting last night, and a good deal of important business was transacted. It was decided to buy a first-class pool table for the club house, and to hire a trainer for the racing men of the club. A number of applications for membership were accepted, and a resolution to present Mr. W. H. Abbott with a testimonial in appreciation of his efforts in connection with the evening meets held by the club, was received with great enthusiasm and carried unanimously.

BLOOMERS IN AN ENGLISH · COURT. The conservatism of English courts is proverbial. It is the kind of conservatism that is first cousin to Bourbonism. But an English magistrate has decided that a woman who rides a wheel has a right to wear whatever costume she prefers. It is true that this tribunal was not one of high degree, being merely a local magistrate but his competency to hear and determine this case was not questioned, and the decision is accepted as a finality.

The case brought before his Honor of the Highgate bench was com-plicated, involving not only the matter of costume, but a fracture of the peace. It appears that a "lady" mounted on a bicycle and apparelled in bloomers, was coursing along one of the streets of London in the full en-toyment of all the inalienable rights of mankind, when another "lady," moved thereto by envy, malice and uncharitableness, made "aggravating remarks" concerning her figure and the garments with which it was bedecked. The report of the case is deficient in details, for it does not set forth the words used by the envious maligner but merely asserts that they were "aggravating." We have no doubt that they were, likewise, exasperating, for no sooner had they fallen on the ears of the dress reforming bicycler than she turned the course of her vehicle, put on all the power available, and rushed upon the enemy, hurling her prostrate in the mud, seized the insulter by the hair, and dragged her out of the doorway. But, complicated as the case was. the British magistrate before whom it | practice.

was brought was equal to the exacting situation. He had no idea of inflicting imprisonment, fine, or even censure, for wearing bloomers. The British female, he declared, may dress as she pleases, so long as she does not go out undressed, but she must not collide with or pull the hair of those who see fit to make audible criticisms -Washington Post.

LONDON DEFEATS CHICAGO. The beautiful athletic ground of the London Asylum yesterday was the scene of a large and stylish gathering of people from the city. The Wanderers, of Chicago, played the second game in their Canadian series with a picked eleven of the London Cricket Club, and were defeated somewhat easily. The cricket was very favorable to the bowlers, as the score plainly shows. The visitors went first to bat, and their wickets were moved down by Ross and Grew, the side being retired for the unsually small score of 35. Not a man obtained a double figure. London went in and made the respectable score of 102, of which Hyman and Walker furnished 23 each by splendid cricket. Becher also made a pretty 19. The redoubtable Terry was caught by Davies for four runs. The bowling of Henderson in particular was very ef-

In the second the Chicagos did better, making 78. Grew's bowling was very destructive, and none could hit fective. him except Jaffray. The Londons had only 12 runs to win, when they commenced their second, and this they secured for three wickets. Walker's 28 was the top score of the day. The bat-ters complained that the shadows at the west end interfered with their sight and prevented sharp work.

During the game the Asylum band, under Dr. Sippi, rendered music, and everything was made as pleasant as possible for the visitors. They were entertained at the London Club by Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., in the evening, and this morning left for Parts. The score:

HAYHURST AT HOME.

Twenty Thousand People Greet the Hero of Bisley

At Hamilton-Addresses, Fireworks and a Procession.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 14.—With the ringing of bells, the music of bands, the cheers of thousands of citizens and the explosion of fireworks, Hayhurst and the other Thirteenth Battalion crack shots were welcomed home from the victories at Bisley last evening.

The Modjeska, with the party on board, was saluted at Hamilton Beach with a display of fireworks, and as the boat steamed through the piers cheers were given for Hayhurst and his comrades. An escort of a dozen steam yachts all beautifully decorated accompanied the Modjeska up the bay, and when the steamer arrived at the James street slip, the noise from the many bands, the ringing of the city bells, and the blowing of steam whistles and explosion of fireworks were nearly deaf-

At the dock a procession was formed, headed by bicyclists from the four city clubs and unattached riders, nearly all of whom had decorated wheels. Then came the carriages containing the aldermen and members of the Board of Trade, the Canadian Club and representative bodies; Hamilton Field Battery, Thirteenth Battalion and Thirteenth Battalion Band, army and navy veterans, Veterans' Association, S. O. E. Band, fife and drum bands and citizens on foot. The procession marched through the principal streets and then to Dundurn Park. The principal business houses on James and King streets were decorated in honor of the occasion.

At Dundurn Park the Bisley riflemen were presented to the citizens by Lieut.-Col. Gibson, and short addresses were made by Acting Mayor Ald. Col-quhoun and others. The civic illuminated address was replied to by the three Thirteenth representatives on the Bis-ley team, after which there was a band concert and pyrotechnic display of fireworks. There were 20,000 people in the

THE ORCHESTRAL ATTACHMENT Novel and Decidedly New Invention in Connection With Pianos.

For some months past there has been a great amount of competition and rivalry among the various piano manufacturers of this country as to who should become the happy possessor of the Canadian right to use a new and important invention in connection with piano manufacturing, which is known as the "Orchestral Attachment," the Canadian, American, and in fact we understand, all the patents for which are owned by Mr. George P. Bent, of Chicago. Mr. Bent recently made a visit to Guelph and other Canadian cities in order to give the piano people a chance to see for themselves exactly what he had, and then, apparently feeling confident that he had duly impressed them with the importance of his invention and the advisability and desirability of becoming possessed of it, he coolly returned to his native country and let the Canadian makers go to him and bid against each other for the exclusive Canadian right to use it. We have been informed that the bidding was very spirited and high indeed, and that many thousands of dollars are involved in the final purchase which has been made by the Bell Organ and Piano Company, Ltd., of Guelph. The invention consists of a series of leather thongs or tongues, with metal insides which hang between the hammers and strings of the piano and which, when operated by the four different pedals, with which each instrument is provided, produce at will exact representations of the harp, the mandoline, banjo, guitar and the zither.

The effect is truly marvelous and defies description, and is undoubtedly an entirely new departure in the art of piano manufacturing. There is in addition, another improvement introduced known as the 'Practice Clavier," which saves the wear and tear of the action and does away with the annoyance of the disagreeable noise made by beginners; and others while practicing and yet in no way affects the touch of the instrument. These improvements are additional to the regular piano which can at all times be played in the ordinary way if and when desired. Mr. Bent has met with wonderful success with his invention in the domains of Uncle Sam, and his large factories have been quite unable to cope with the constantly increasing demand for his goods since he introduced it, and he is, we are informed, adding extensively to his plant. The Bell Organ and Piano Company are to be congratulated on their enterprise and courage in going to such a large outlay to secure this much coveted invention, and doubtless their extensive factories, which are not working full time, will be taxed to their utmost (and it is to be hoped beyond it) to keep pace with the anticipated increase in trade which this new improvement will and should bring to them.

We wish them every success in their new undertaking.

The Woodstock Preacher Replies to the M. P.

Another Attack on the Western Statesman

Because He and the Liberal Party Will Not Put Prohibition Above All Other Issues.

Dr. McKay Denies the Correctness of Recent Reported Address by Him.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": Hon. David Mills has supplied you with more than two columns of reply to some remarks of mine at a Patron-Prohibition meeting on the 27th ult., in this town, and also to a letter of mine that lately appeared in the Globe. Most of Mr. Mills' communication has since been reproduced in the Globe, with editorial comments, indersing, although only in a faint way, the statements of the Liberal politi-cian. I am glad of this reply. It shows that we have at least some politicians who are not yet past feeling, especially when an election is nigh. I regret, however, that the tone and matter of Hon. Mr. Mills' reply are not such as the country might expect from one occupying so high a position in his party. The communication is full of bitterness, misrepresentation, evasion and abuse. But I do not in the least complain. In being subjected to this no strange thing has happened to me, nothing more than any one may expect who will do his own thinking and fearlessly expose the corruption and cowardice that at present characterize both the political parties at Ottawa, in dealing with moral questions. Hon, Mr. Mills calls his communication a "reply." But to what does he reply? Certainly not to anything I have said or written. The sum total of my charge against the present Do-minion Reform party was, and is, that that party is no longer worthy the support of prohibitionists. In proof of this I gave from Hansard, the author-ized parliamentary report, the attitude of the leading members of that party, a few weeks ago when the prohibition question was beefore the House. Does Mr. Mills deny the correctness of my reading of Hansard? He does not, he admits it. An effective reply from Mr. Mills must at least attempt to show that the Reform party, and especially Mr. Mills himself, is in sympathy with prohibition, and therefore entitled to the votes of prohibition-But the reader will search in vain Mr. Mills' communication for one sentence or word or syllable expressing sympathy with prohibition. On the contrary, his whole communication breathes an animus of contempt for the reform. Speaking of a prohibition caucus at Ottawa, he says, "Nor do I know that I would have attended it if I had known." He repeats at great length, and with evident relish, the old, stale and exploded objection of liquor men to prohibition, that we cannot by law change the hearts of men, as if any sensible man ever thought or said we could. I want no stronger proof than Mr. Mills' own communication of the correctness of my contention, that it is utter folly to expect prohibition from the present Reform party. A simple declaration from Mr. Mills that he will work and vote, irrespective of party shackles, in the House and out of it, for prohibition, would be a more effective reply to me than columns of vituperation. But that simple declaration he will not make. It would alienate liquor votes and money. And yet he will expect temperance people, like so many sheep,

Mr. Mills claims credit for having, seventeen years ago, voted for local option. All the worse for his present position. Once he voted with Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, now he votes with Brewer John Carling. Once he voted for prohibition, now he votes to give prohibition what the Globe calls the "polite hoist." This is just my charge, that the party today is not what it once was. He justifies his present attitude towards prohibition by telling us that, when the Reform party gave the country the Scott Act, the Conservative prohibitionists did not join the Reform party. Here Mr. Mills unintentionally gives us an insight into the utter lack of moral principle that characterizes our politics at the present time. It is not right our politicians are seeking, but votes for the party. To the poor time-serving policy of Mr. Mills I oppose the following noble words uttered the other day by John Morley, the great British statesman, "Our bill (local option) is a bill by which, stand or fall, we abide. I do not believe in Governments and I do not believe in men who bring in bills dealing with great social questions, and then say 'we will drop the bill if you don't like it.' What I say is this, we stand by that bill whether constituencies like it or not. If they beat us we are beaten. There are worse things in this world than being beaten. If you are beaten in what you know to be a righteous cause, which will uplift the condition of the people of the country to which you belong, never mind whether you are beaten or not." The man who utters such a sentiment is an honor to his country. But the man who sacrifices meral principle for party gain is neither patriot nor statesman, though he may be a very clever Canadian pelitician.

Hon. Mr. Mills teells us that I stated that he was present at a prohibition caucus in Ottawa and said certin things there. He then declares my statement "not true" and repeatedly reiterates his declaration that he was not at that meeting-had not in fact even heard of it. All this is said to trove my statement untrue and myself unworthy of confidence, Now what will the reader think when I tell him that I never made such a statement. Everyone at the town hall meeting knows what I said. I spoke of Coatsworth and Charlton being at that meeting, and then I quoted from Hansard what Mr. Mills said, not at a prohibition caucus, but in his place in Parliament. He does not and cannot deny the correctness of my quota-tion, but he declared he did not say anything at the meeting because he was not there. But all the same he made the declaration in his place in Parliament, and all the fume and fuss about not being at the prohibition meeting does not alter the fact. Such misrepresentation only shows the straits to which politicians are driven who vote against prohibition and yet pose as deserving the support of temperance men. For voting against prohibition he real made and still makes the plea that the authority of the Dominion House was a matter of doubt, and was a question at present before the Privy Council of England. This plea I characterized in strong language, but not too strong. No one knows better than Mr. Mills that there is no doubt, and never has beeen a doubt, as to the authority of the Dominion Parliament to prohibit. The doubt has been as to the authority of the Provinces, and therefore Mr. Mills' plea was a false and hypocritical one. The independent press of our land has without ex-ception so declared it. Take the Montreal Witness, a Reform journal, but a paper loyal to temperance and prohibition. This is how it speaks of Mr. Mills on that occassion. It says: "The other excuse was that the limits of jurisdiction as between the Provinces and the National Government were now at issue before the courts. This was a hypocritical excuse, as the fact that Parliament possesses the power of prohibition was established long years ago by the Privy Council, and nobody has ever questioned it since." so much for the "hypocritical plea."

Hon. Mr. Mills asks why do I "confine my attack to Liberals?" My answer is that I have not done so, and Mr. Mills knows it. For in the same letter of mine from which he quotes, 1 say "The Conservatives are hopeless. As a party they do not even profess sympathy with prohibition legisla-tion." Mr. Mills' charge is therefore incorrect and is knowingly made for the purpose of creating party prejudice against me. Such tactics are unworthy of a high-minded statesman. He tells us that Hon. Mr. Foster is as bad as any of the Reform members on the prohibition question. I agree with him, but the pot being black does not make the kettle white. Hon. Mr. Mills is very angry because I apply the name "Grit" to his party. He says this is a "party nick-name." Well, this is news to me. Once it was a term of honor. George Brown gloried in being a "Clear Grit. the name is disowned as "detestible." how did it become so? Who has wrought the degeneration? It is a bad sign when a party has to disown a once honorable name. Is there no "Grit" in our politicians today, or are they as well as their political opponents, as "Don" in the Saturday Night says, "a spineless aggregation of time-servers without principle, courage or honor." Mr. Mills is not even fond of the name "Reform," he much pre-fers the designation "Liberal." It gives greater liberty. You can be so liberal as to have no controversy with

Mr. Mills had better keep away from Scripture quotations until he can quote it with some degree of correctness. When he tells us that Peter was "severely censured for fishing," he says what will set the good little boy in the Sabbath school laughing. We are reminded of a story. A certain politician made a bet with another that the other could not repeat the Lord's Prayer. The other began thus, "Now "Stop," said the first, "I did not think you knew it. You have won the bet."

"abstract marriage." Both are

Mr. Mills fears that the late vote against prohibition in Parliament has driven me "distracted," His fears are groundless. That vote did not surgroundless. That vote did not surprise me in the least. I foresaw it and at several places in the Province where I spoke last winter I told the people just how the prohibition resolution would be choked off. And now I tell the temperance people of the land again, that it will always be so, until the electors leave at home men who the electors leave at home men who have neither conviction nor courage, and send to Parliament men who will but country above party, and true statesmanship above expediency. Hon. Mr. Mills speaks of the temperwhere you deal. Maybe you do ance deputation to Ottawa as "two not know, but you needn't be de-pendent. No end to bargains here. sumptuous" in daring to confer with Not only in one department but in him and others on a matter of "naevery department throughout the with a vengance. It reminds us of a store, and we want the people at roester that boasted that the sun rose only to hear him crow. I thought it was the privilege of every British subject to approach the throne itself. But now temperance men must beware how they approach Mills & Co. Allow me, however to tell the reader that the deputation was not "two or three men," as Hon. Mr. Mills says, but two or three hundred men, representing as delegates every temperance society in the Dominion. These societies in Ontario alone represent a majority of 82,-000 of the electors demanding prohitition. But these delegates were presumptuous in approaching Mills & Co. Well, for one, I hope I shall never have to do so again. Hon. Mr. Mills lays down a most 8c White Cotton for 5½c extraordinary doctrine when he tells us that "Sir Richard Cartwright, being in opposition, and one of the mincrity in Parliament, is not respon-8c Flanelette for 57-8c sible for the conduct of public af-60 inch Table Lines for 25c fairs." I ask in all sincerity, what then is he in Parliament for? And why does 12½c Hose for 6c he speak on other questions, the tar-Sc Canton Flannel for 53/4c iff, for instance? Sir Richard and Mr. Mills must bear their proper share of has not a word to say in favor of pro-$1 Parasols for 50c libition, intelligent electors who are 50c Summer Corsets for 39c not enslaved to party will want to

Hon. Mr. Mas repeats the objection I have heard a score of times from the advocates of liquor. He says, "I do not expect to see men by the authority of Caesar made meet for the king-dom of heaven." Neither do I. But law has its proper place, all the same. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, a statesman far greater than the Hon. Mr. Mills, says, "It is the province of law to make it as easy as possible to do right and as difficult as possible to do wrong." Today we have a law on our statute books legalizing sin and dragging men down to perdition. When we ask for the removal of that law we are met with abuse, and told that law cannot bring men to heaven. One thing is sure it sends a good many men to hell. We cannot force men by law to reverence the Sabbath, but all honor to Mr. Charlton for his persevering efforts from year to year to obtain better Sabbath laws for our country. When Mr. Mills has proved that Christians are not under law he has not proved that Christians are lawless. The great head of the church taught the necessity of regeneration, but he also preached the Sermon on the Mount.

When Hon. Mr. Mills charges me

with deserting the Gospel because I am seeking in a legitimate way to remove or lessen the evil of intemperance, he does me injustice. I assure Mr. Mills that in the uplifting of humanity I know no power but the power of the cross, no name but the name of Jesus. But I see on every side of me this cursed liquor traffic sametioned and sustained by our laws. hindering the progress of the Gospel and bringing in thousands of instances the name of my Saviour into contempt. Mr. Mills knows that there is not a church in our land but has declared our legalized liquor traffic one of the great hindrances to the progress of the Gospel. And yet when I, in a humble way urge the removal or the lessening of this hindrance, I am charged with deserting the Gospel and cccupying a level lower than the infidel Ingersoll, or the heathen Brahmin. If this were a mere matter of tariff reform no word of mine would be writen or spoken. It was not for such work I enlisted in the army of the crucified. But I see this black and blighting curse, not only robbing men of money, but it is robbing Jesus of the souls he loves. It is desolating our churches, demoralizing our homes and destroying the health and happiness of so many of our once promising youth. No, I cannot hold back. Un-scrupulous politicians and a servile press may proclaim me a fanatic or a fool. Be it so. These things do not move me. I would rather be a fanatic or a fool before men than be unfaithful before my God. Sincerly yours, W. A. MACKAY.

Woodstock, Aug. 10. P.S.—Allow me here to say that since the publication of my letter in the Globe, Mr. Charlton has published his reason for being absent from Parliament when the prohibition vote was taken. To me his reason is perfectly

A FRIENDLY TIP

"Stop," said the first, "I did not think you knew it. You have won the bet."

Mr. Mills is great on Moses. He speaks of "abstract divorce." I don't think Moses knew anything about "abstract divorce" any more than about "be convinced that none can beat it. Drop in and see our 1896 road wheel at the agency, 212 bundas STREET.

Sheep—Receipts, 12,000. Inferior to choice, $2 to $3 75; lambs, $3 to $4 50.

TORONTO. Toronto, Aug. 13.—There was a better demand at the Toronto cattle market today. Receipts were 88 cars, including 2,500 sheep and lambs, 700 hogs and 85 calves. Export cattle were wanted, but no really good stock was effered. Best offered sold at 4 1-2c. They averaged 1,250 lbs each. Others brought 41-4c, and some as low as 3 1-2c, but they were poor stock. There was some demand for bulls, at 3c @ Butchers' cattle were on de-3 1-2c.

mand, but these offering were poor. Choice were quoted at 4c, and most of the best offerings sold at 3 3-4c per Ib; poor cattle went at 2 1-4c @ 2 3-4c Four cars were taken for Montreal. Hogs were in fair demand, and steady at $4 40 @ $4 60 for best; stores are not wanted, but a few sold at $4 20 @ $4 40. Stags and rough hogs sold at 2c @ 2 1-4c per lb, and sows for breeding purposes at 4c. Sheep and lambs were firmer, owing to better demand. Lambs sold at 4c per lb, or about $3 25 each. Export sheep sold at 3c per 1b for bucks and 8 1-2 @ 4c per 1b for ewes and wethers. Calves were in demand, and sold at $2 @ $6 each. Stockers and feeders were steady at 2 1-2c per Ib. Milch cows and springers were in better demand and firmer, at $25 @ $35 each. EAST BUFFALO.

East Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 14.-Cattle -Receipts, 6 loads. The market was not red hot for any kind and particularly slow for cow stuff and green cattle of only the fair kind.

Hogs-Receipts, 12 cars. The market was generally lower for all good corn-fed packers' grades. Good to choice Yorkers, $5 05 @ $5 10; medium good, $3 75 @ $4 10; stags, $3 @ $3 65; pigs, good to choice, $5 05 @ $5 15. Sheep and Lambs-Receipts, but 8 loads held over from former arrivals. The market was extremely dull and draggy for all kinds. CHICAGO.

Chicago, Aug. 14.-The cables were not as strong as expected, and the wheat market opened about 1-2c off, but quickly rallied 3-4c. The rest of the day it has been steadily hammered by professionals for lack of outside support. About 100,000 bushels were worked here today for Lake Erie ports to supply millers. More would have been taken if vessel room could be had. Three weeks' receipts have sold in three days for shipment. deducting the wheat received by primary markets from Chicago and Duluth, the receipts at all points today have been but $20,000. World's visible decreased 1,360,900, against an increase last year of 1,600,000. Beerbohm estimates the world's crop at 324,000,000 less than last year. The situation is gradually working stronger and markets weaker. Corn and Oats-Shippers are bidding 1 1-4c to 1 1-2c premium over Septem ber for cash stuff and will take all they can get to arrive during August at 1 1-c over September.

Provisions weak. Very little busines and considerable pressure to sell.
Receipts of hogs are light, but packers do not seem to want them, and the market tends downward. Chicago, Aug. 14.—Receipts: Wheat. 470,000; corn, 524,000; shipments: wheat, 493.000; corn, 239,000.

World's visible decreased 1,300,000 oats, increase 316,000. East Rockies decrease 520,000. Pacific coast not reported. Europe and affoat decreased 760,000. Corn, increase 203,-

Outside wheat markets strong, Corn strong. Light frosts predicted in Dakotas and Nebraska tonight.

Iowa very hot and dry. Corn suffered by material damage by hot weather in parts. Present conditions do not promise more than an average

About 5,000 bushels wheat worked here today. No cash business heard of. Out of 74 cars new wheat received at Minneapolis yesterday 23 were No. 1 northern, 2 No. 2, 3 No. 3, and 21 rejected. This hardly bears out the claim that the Northwestern wheat is of fine quality this year.

Charles Ballard, who is now being cared for by the county jail officials, is a very unsafe man to be at large, if all the charges west bound. It has now transpired that he was in Ingersoll the day before his arrest and was doing the town, selling a composition called silver polish. Before he left the residence of Mr. Charles Wilkinson was robbed of two coats, $9 in money and some other articles. NEGLIGE SHIRTS, The burglary was committed at night, and clues discovered show the theft to have been very cunning. Entrance was effected by raising the bath room window down stairs, which was very easy, as it was unlocked. Once in the intruder put on a pair of ladies' rubbers and began his ransacking. In the hall was a purse with $7 or $5, several coats, hats, etc. The money, purse and two coats were taken, a departure made and the rubbers left on the outside edge of the veranda. None of the family were awakened. The case was reported to Chief Skirving, who on hearing of Ballard's arrest here, sent Mr. Wilkinson up.

The coats were positively identified, and a charge of robbery laid against the Six months ago Mr. Simon brought it to London, and it was also treated here. Almost thinking the case incurable, Mr. Simon sold the horse to J. H. Tennant, veterinary. Three weeks ago Mr. Tennant operated on the animal and seven inches below the surface he found a piece of wood four inches long by half an inch in diameter. The wound has now healed, and the horse feels none the worse for carrying the chip for eighteen months. The position of the wound made the operation extremely dangerous or ng to the presence of muscles and arterles.

The Secret Out.

The inspector looked at the doctor edmiringly. "I almost believe you," aid he, "and I only wish you might have the opportunity for making the trial. But it does not look as if you could have at present. There is a fact Which I must communicate to you, Dr. Cameron. Julius Molesworth is not to be found. He has disappeared."

"Disappeared?" . It has been kept out of the papers, but it is none the less true. is not in his home nor has he been seen at the hospital for days. Whether is dead, or simply fled, we do not say. We only know that he vanished one night when the eye of the police was off him, and that with all our efforts we have not been able to gain amy trace of his whereabouts."

'Gone? Julius Molesworth! then his reasons for perjuring himself must have been stronger than we thought. He must have guilt on his soul, positive guilt. "In the shape of murder, do you

The dry tone restored his good sense to the doctor. He knew that this theory was untenable and was ashamed of advancing it. Even if the evidence could be shaken that Mildred Farley was dead before r. Molesworth entered Mrs. Gretorex's house, there was still no motive, absolutely no motive to be found for the cold and indifferent lover of Genevieve Gretorex desiring or even abetting in the death of the girl whose only fault was that she stood in the way of that lady's return to her proper character and position. No; to attribute crime to him in the light of these late revelations was folly. And yet his sudden flight-for he would not admit the possibility of death-could have but one interpretation and that of fear. Fear of what? That was the enigma he now felt himself called upon to solve. Inspector," cried he, "Julius Molesworth holds the key to this tragedy. If he did not, he would not be missing a time when every business interest hat he has links him to this spot. I am determined to have that key. Tell me then some of the particulars of his disappearance, for I may see a clew in them which might escape the eyes of any but a fellow-practitioner." are few and very simple went out one night in his phaeton as usual. Drove to a tenement house where he had a patient, went in, and did not come out. There was a rear exit, you see, and he must have made mediate use of it, for the woman he in the habit of visiting there declares he did not come near her nor was he seen on the stairs by any of the swarms of beings who infest the house."

"And the phaeton?"

"Stood there till one of our policemen found it and drove it into the Very good proof of his extreme anxiety to escape.'

'Very." "And the boy who usually accompanies him? 'Was not with him on this night. This, together with the fact that he carried a small satchel, and had taken all of his money out of the bank, makes it next to certain that it was a premeditated flight." "Oh it is flight; there is no doubt about that. He became alarmed at the surveillance he was under and took this very simple way of eluding it. But I believe that if you will give me leave, I can find him. Though no detective, my wits have been sharpened by the fearful straits into which I have been lately betrayed and I should like the opportunity of testing them." Well, I see no good reason why I should refuse to grant it to you. want the man and will be glad of any means that will secure him for us. But he has been gone days, and may be undreds of miles from here. Do you feel as if you could leave your wife?" "I must. Don't you see that it would take more than a man's courage to watch at her side with these terrific doubts unsolved? I must be active, I must be working for her if I am to hold my reason till she is restored again to her natural self. Besides, I shall not be long. Something tells me I shall find him soon.'

'Go, then, but-" The inspector did not finish. His compassion made him dread the discoveries which still lay in wait for this heavily afflicted man.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Dr. Cameron went from this interview immediately to Mrs. Olney's house. Not that he expected to learn anything there to guide him in his search, but that he felt that he would be better qualified for his undertaking if he subjected his impressions of Julius Molesworth to the judgment of the woman had boarded him so long, and who might be presumed to have formed a uster estimate of his character than his own prejudice would allow. He found her at home, and to his great astonishment perceived that she no sooner heard his name than she advanced eagerly to meet him. They were soon talking, and he was still further surprised to discover that either from some favorable impression he had made upon her or from a mere love of talking natural to some women, she was likely to reveal much which her loyalty to the doctor ad kept her from imparting to the detectives. As for instance she told him that the doctor must have expected to stay away a long time, as he had taken with him his mother's photograph; a circumstance all the more marked that in order to do this he had been obliged to take it out of its accustomed frame.

left besides some loose change in one of his drawers, which would be just enough to satisfy the washerwoman and his boy who took care of the horse. But his clothing and small effects generally had been left behind, and had it not been for the carrying away of that picture, she would fear he had gone to his death, so melancholy had he been since that dreadful occurrence which had robbed him of his bride.

The doctor smiled bitterly at this, but did not interrupt her. If she, as well as all the world, believed that the woman who died had been the one whom Julius Molesworth had courted and expected to marry, it was not for him to enlighten her. But what a mockery her words seemed.

The good woman went on. As for Dr. Molesworth himself, he was everything that was kind and honorable. She both liked and admired him; but she did think him a little hard. It was this hardness which had killed Mildred Farley. "Yes," she persisted, as she noticed for the first time that look on her visitor's face which involuntarily assumed when one hears another utter in their innocence statements which he through his superior knowledge knows to be absolutely false, "Mildred was a brave girl and a bright girl, but she had a woman's longing for sympathy and affection which I do not think he was fully calculated to meet. Even her mother's love did not always satisfy her. I have seen it and I have felt sorry about it for I know that such natures are always bound to suffer. But I never dreamed how much she would have to go through, or that her disappointment and grief would drive her to frenzy and suicide. If I had—"

But here the doctor with that impatience which we always feel when we are listening to phrases founded upon a complete misunderstanding of the true causes for sympathy, made haste to divert her attention from the girl she was discussing to the man concerning whose whereabouts he was so vitally interested. She immediately followed his lead and for half an hour talked freely about her mysterious boarder, his habits, and his friends, without affording the dector one ray of light to help him in his search; till suddenly she diverted him from the train of thought in which he had been indulging, by the remark, uttered gra-fultously and without evident connec-

"And he was so attached to you, sir." It was like a bomb-shell. Why, Dr. Cameron could not himself have told without a moment's retrospection. "Attached to me?" he somewhat helplessly

"Why, yes, sir, you are his dearest friend, are you not?" The blood which mounted to the doctor's brow was his only reply. She at once became strangely confused. "I-I thought you were. I-I was sure you held the dearest place in his heart;

Your name is Cameron, is it not?" He bowed, but did not speak. He could not. Such a rush of sudden doubt and harrowing suspicion rushed upon him with her words.

"Then I am sure," persisted the widw, "that he thinks a great deal of you, sir; if I had not been, I should have been more careful what I said to you. For I promised Mr. Gryce-a detective, sir, and a very smart man—that I would say nothing more than I could help about Dr. Molesworth and his unaccountable absence. And I am sure I have kept my word, for not a hint of it has got into the papers so far. you, sir, have superior claims, as I happen to know, and-" "May I ask you to explain yourself," the doctor broke in. "I was not aware that Dr. Molesworth cherished for me any particular regard. But if he did—" "Oh, I know he did. Shall I tell you how I know it? I may have to blush a little, but that won't matter. You have lived long enough to know that a woman has some weaknesses and amongst them curiosity. I do not pre-tend to be better than others of my sex, though it is not often I stoop to read other persons' letters.'

and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a half-bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

AN ENEMY OF PEACHES.

New Disease Discovered in Many Orchards.

Casco, Mich., Aug. 14.-In the peach orchards of this vicinity growers have discovered a new malady of the peach which, it is feared, will rival the devastating "yellows" in virulence. The trou-ble exists in many orchards, and is not confined to the trees of the thriftless grower, but attacks even the most carefully cultivated orchards. Isolated cases have been noticed for several seasons, but its prevalence is much more general this year, and its increase is thought by the growers to plainly mark the disease as contagious. A number of interested peach growers sent for Prof. Taft, the noted horticulturist, who made an inspection of some infected trees, but without satisfactory results. One of the first indications that a tree is affected is the turning of the color of the foliage to yellow and red, mainly the former color. So pronounced is this that the infected orchards or pants may be distinguished at as great a distance as they can be The leaves are small and clustered to some extent, though not as in rosette, which disease is not known to exist in Michigan. When the young peaches reach the size of plums they stop growing; and when they ripen are watery and tasteless, like fruit affected with the "yellows," or even more so. The fruit ripens later than that of the same variety on healthy trees.

Prof. Taft examined the foliage, bark, wood, fruit and roots, but discovered nothing in the way of insects, and was entirely at a loss as to the cause of the disease. Last year was a good one for the growth of the peach, and so this disease is not believed to be the result of drought. There are already enough of the infected trees in this region to cause not a little alarm among the orchardists, and they contemplate sending for Prof. Erwin Smith, of the Department of Agriculture, or some other expert in such matters. As the disease appears to be either contagious or epidemic, many of the growers are of the opinion that it is of bacterial origin rather than being due to climatic conditions.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

Young William E. Yerex Killed on the 'C. P. R.

While Stealing a Ride to Detroit-Second London Youth to Meet Such a Fate Within a Short Time.

The funeral of William Edward Yerex, the 19-year-old London boy who was killed on the C. P. R. on Monday night, took place this afternoon from his father's residence, 234 Dundas street. The details of the accident are very meager, but circumstances make pear that deceased, with some other companions from the city, were stealing a rade on one of the west bound C. P. R. trains on Monday night. Whether he fell asleep or lost his hold, he fell off when between Chatham and Windsor and was killed. His parents did not even know that he had left the city until informed by telegraph of the dreadful affair yesterday. Young Yerex had his tea as usual on Monday and went out shortly afterwards with three or our companions.

They talked about taking a holiday, and took the means of having one that led to the death of Yerex. · His parents were not alarmed that he did not return on Monday night, but retired to bed, as it was not unusual for deceased to be out late in summer time. They were terribly surprised to receive a telegram informing them that the boy was dead, and that the body would be shirned home by the root would be shipped home by the next train. This is the second London boy to meet his death in a similar manner in a couple of months. The moral is plain.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief, and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mrs. Foster, of Kent street, has just recovered from a serious attack of La Grippe, This is the second siege she has had of the influenza, the first of which attacked Mrs. Foster about three years ago, and left her with a very troublesome cough accompanied with chronic bronchitis, and a comdication of other diseases, which made it almost impossible for her to attend church without disturbing the congregation by coughing, and, indeed, Mrs. Foster assures us that so bad were the spasms that she often feared she would burst a blood vessel during one of these severe attacks. It was very natural that under such circumstances numerous friends would recommend as many different "cure alls." She tried Cherry Pectoral, Tar, Linseed and other preparations, but was growing generally worse when a friend who had been benefited by Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam advised her to try that, and in a few days she was out of bed, and the best feature is that she is now entirely freed from all simptoms of the Bronchitis, of which she never hoped to be cured. The fire in Ludwig's cider and vinegar works, on Blackfriars street, London West, recently, has already led up to the arrest of three young men living in the village. They are George Denahy, Wm. Meehan and Bert Corbin, and they are accused of stealing a keg of wine from the building shortly after the fire. Denahy was up before Squire J. B. Smyth yesterday and on the charge of larceny he was remanded for a week. He was tried for assaulting Edward Ryerson and convicted. Ryerson was put in charge of the factory after the fire to prevent any stealing, when Denahy and a couple of pals entered. Denahy wanted ne wine, and when refused he followed Ryerson into the yard, struck him over the eye with his fist, kicked him on the hip and tore his clothing. Squire Smyth considered Denahy's picnic was a big one (to Denahy). and taxed him $5 and costs, in all $9 10. In default he is serving twenty days in jail.

When I got there, I do declare, I thought it was a show; London is not like what it was Forty-five years ago. No street cars then, no railroad men,

No engines great or small; The very town looks different— It's not the same at all. No binders bound our harvests then, No steamboats then did sait; No threshers threshed the golden grain; 'Twas all done by the flail.

No telegraphs, no telephones, And no one then did dream London would grow to what it is— In fact it grew by steam.

BABY HORSE THIEVES. Rockport, Ind., Aug. 14.—William Melia, aged 7, and Jesse Melia, aged 3, were today found guilty in Judge Stewart's court of horse stealing. They will be sent to the reform school at Plain-

When Should a Man Swear? Man is not only a reasoning but a swearing animal. Sometimes his feelings are expressed audibly, and at others they are so deep down in his nature that nothing less than a volcano would thrust them to the surface. If man should swear at all, when should that time be? The church is silent on this important matter, and the law gives no sanction to cuss words. Stovepipes are provocative of feeling, but corns are far worse. Wives should see that their husbands' corns are kept down. This may be done quite easily, painlessly, and with absolute certainty by Putnam's Corn Extractor. Beware of fiesh-eating substitutes offered for Putnam's Corn Extractor.
