Probably no man in public life had been identified with more of the history of the United States than had Senator Harris. He had almost completed his 79th year. He was three nes in succession, before the war, elected governor of his state, and was serving in that capacity when the war broke out. He took a pronounced stand for the Southern confederacy, and was known as one of the southern war governors. He had been in the Senate Pitcher McCann's three-bagger, with two men on bases, and singles by McDonald, Dean and Phillips gave Hamilton enough to tie the score in the sixth, and McDonald's and Phillips' hits gave Hamilton a lead in the eighth.

London looked like a winner in the minth. Hickey, the first batsman up, hit for three bases. Sippi's single tied the score again with none out, and McDonald dropped Gunther's fly Keenan hit to McAndrews, and a tripl play resulted. Hamilton won out in the ninth through Sippi's error and McAndrew's two base hit. Score:

Best Thing to Do in Case of Accident.

Immediate Treatment of Fractures, Cuts and Sprains-Removal of a Fish-Hook-Care of the Injured.

The summer tourist has begun his wanderings, and, coupled with this fact, is the additional truth that he must face the possibility of a certain class of accidents which are peculiar to those of his ilk. Former Londoner Charged With Slandering a Torontonian.

No Escape for Him-Mr. Barker Must Either Prove His Charge or Stand Guilty.

The following lively correspondence appears in the Hamilton Times: Sir,-Noticing in today's Globe, in an account of Mr. Whitney's meeting at Dundas, an attack made on me by Mr. S. Barker, I have written him for an explanation of the outrageous statement, of which the inclosed is a copy. As the meeting took place, and the statement is said to have been uttered in the district of Hamilton, I will thank you to give publicity to my challenge to Mr. Barker, and who, eing the offender, must not complain if I nail his ears to the gates of your city, as is usually done with foolish or malicious creatures who venture where angels fear to tread. Yours,

PETER RYAN.
Toronto, July 7, 1897.

Toronto, July 7, 1897. Samuel Barker, Esq., Hamilton, Ont.: Dear Sir,—In today's Globe you are reported to have said at Mr. Whit-ney's Dundas meeting, "that in 1895 Mr. Peter Ryan, whom the speaker characterized as a government pet, had, when employed to auction off certain timber limits, bought one portion in for $115,000. He had done this, although at the time he was not only the government auctioneer for such occasions, but also registrar for the

and no small measure of gratification. You must either apologize for the statement, or I will very promptly take steps to afford you every opportunity to justify in the courts. Perhaps you thought you were safe in making the statement, and that it would help to tone up a somewhat stupid speech, and excite horror in the hearts of the "patriots," but, however much you may relish this cowardly warfare, I must in selfdefense pull you into the open, where you shall not lack for opportunity to prove your charge of my unjust stew-

However much I may have offended in your eyes as a party man in the past, and however marked my defects as an auctioneer may be, dishonesty as such is certainly not one of them, and while in your reckless charge you give amount and date, I will confine you to neither, but say that if you can prove that I ever personally or by any member of my family or any person on our behalf were financially interested in any timber berth that was sold by auction when I was aucioneer, save and except my ordinary mmission, I will admit your justifi-You are not the first to make such a statement in public, but I have never failed to follow up the slanderers, just as I am determined receive the slightest injury. to follow you unless you do me the justice of saying that you were not warranted in saying what the Globe reports as the spice of your address. In waiting your reply, and which I reserve the right to use publicly, I have further to say that there is a much worse element in this country than even the dishonest auctioneers and that is the rather numerous class who "bear false witness against and who vainly imagine that party warfare justifies of yesterday.

At the Dundas meeting I commented upon the financial position and the dealings of the Ontario Government with the timber of the province, and I particularly mentioned their taking Mr. Peter Ryan from his fine, fat registry office in Toronto, and from his public duties, to receive, no doubt, further big fees as auctioneer of timber limits. I mentioned this as a matter which had received the condemnation of the Conservative party. I also alluded to a law report in the Globe of June 25 last, wherein it appeared that a Mr. Peter Ryan—presumably this same auction sition to contract for the purchase from a Mr. Fraser of one timber limit for he meeting, which report I have not seen, you are at liberty to do so; and if you prefer to test in the courts my ghts at a public meeting to state such ts as these, go ahead. Yours faith-ly, SAMUEL BARKER.

counties in this state. To the naked eye the twigs are incrusted in a fine white scale impervious to water, which may be removed only in the winter time by a strong solution of lye. The scale is the product of a minute in-sect which fastens itself upon the tree and penetrates the wood with its long feelers or borers.

The inspector to be appointed will have authority to prosecute persons who neglect to destroy the pests, to inspect nurseries and to destroy trees which are afflicted with the borers.

Doubtful Point An old deacon in a New England town is possessed of such an inquiring mind that no subject is without its doubtful points for him, and they must be made clear before he is satisfied. It is customary for the older members of the congregation to gather in pine grove behind the church after the morning service in pleasant sumner weather, to eat dinner and to have an informal talk from the minister. One Sunday the subject under discussion, in a series of talks on the Old Testament, was "The Jews: Their Ceremonies and Observances." MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 8.—The exports of live stock from this port since July 1 to date have been 5,141 cattle and 4,011 sheep. The cable advices received this week have been of a very discouraging nature to shippers, as they reported the markets weak and fully ½c per pound lower on account of heavy sup es and hot weather. In spite of all this, shippers continue to send forward large numbers, as the above figures show. The ocean freight market is weak, with Liverpool space offering at 42s 6d to 45s, and London at 30s to 35s. The local market today was quiet, owing to the continued intense heat, and the fact that loca buyers filled their wants pretty wel on Monday. In an export way little was done also. At the abattoir the receipts were 500 cattle, 400 sheep, 300 lambs, 500 calves, and 100 lean hogs and young pigs. The supply of cattle was in excess of requirements, but owing to the continued scarcity of choice l-fed stocks, prices for such were maintained, but values for lower grades on July 4, reached here today in to were a little lower, and holders did not make a clearance even at the reetion. Trade, on the whole, was w. Choice, stall-fed cattle, suitable pers for sheep, and values were steady at 3½c to 3¾c for choice stock, while for lower grades butchers paid 3c to 3%c per lb., live weight. Lambs were plentiful, and sold at from $1.50 to Calves met with a fair sale, at rices ranging from $1 to $5 each, as to quality. Lean hogs sold at from $2 to $7 each,

OUTLOOK FOR WHEAT. Macy & Pendleton, Wall street, New York, write to The Advertiser: Wheat appears persistently strong, consider ing the extraordinary reports of crop yields where harvest has been commenced or completed. Foreign mar-kets claim to be drifting, and little business is done, yet prices are remarkably firm. Chicago market not only maintains its position, but Chicago market works higher. The hot weather is helping prices of corn, and speculation is taking hold of it with the effect of with the effect of lifting which might easily advance to over 3 cents without seriously impairing either shipping or export trade. Beer bohm reports the visible wheat (which included the stock in Russian ports) as 43.144.000 bushels, against 49.776.00 bushels a month ago. Practically the world's supply in available position is not much over 60,000,000 bushels, though the scattering stocks aggregate over 50 per cent more. Were it not for the crop in the fields, this would warrant a dollar a bushel for wheat. New wheat for December was at a premium of %c over old wheat. Ohio crop re port indicates wheat condition 86, cor cation point to a shortage pared with last year. Minnesota cro are getting more rain than desired "Orange Judd Farmer" estimates corn acreage 83,011,000 acres with heaviest increase in Texas, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska and decrease In Ohio and Iowa. Average condit 88.4, season one to three weeks late Winter wheat condition 85.9 against 79.7 last year; indicated total of 315, 000,000 bushels. Spring wheat 93.2 in dicating exceptional yield, estimated 260,000,000 bushels. Total both, 575,000,-000 bushels.

doubled on itself so completely that they were within a few rods of the From the Iron Age. The wheelbarrow affords one of the chief means of travel and transport in China, especially in the northern part of the empire and throughout the Great Plain. The Chinese form is a decided improvement on the types used in western countries, for it is so con-structed that the load, which sometimes is very great in bulk and weight, is carried over the wheel, and not be tween it and the man who propels it. The high cost of timber and the bad roads throughout the country necessitate the wheelbarrows being rude and strong, with axles and wheels able to bear the strains which they experience. The wheelbarrow is generally constructed of oak, at a cost of about 16 shillings. Its weight is 120 pounds; extreme length, 6 feet 6 inchses (including shafts); extreme breadth, 3 feet 2 inches; and height, 3 feet 6 inches. The wheel is 3 feet in diamfrom prussic acid poisoning, although it is believed to be the policy of the defense to show that she died of heart failure. Boxes, bales of goods, or whatever the loads may consist of, are secured to the wheelbarrow by ropes. The charge for carrying an average load is about 1 shilling and 5 pence per mile, but varies according to the load and the state of the road to be traveled over. The wheelbarrow has seating accommodation for four people, two on each side and the fare for four people is 21/2 pence per mile. Passenger fares are lower than those for merchandise, on account of the avoidance of labor in loading and unloading. A cushioned seat is provided for the passenger, who generally sits with one leg resting on the front of the barrow, and the other hanging over the side in a rope loop, which serves as a foot rest. Thus a native is wheeled for miles over the rough roads of the country, with severe jolting, accompanied by a peculiar squeak of the axle in the case of most barrows. Immediately behind the wheelbarrow, between the shafts, there is a long, oblong-shaped basket, in wheelbarrows are occasionally with a sail set, when a fair great help to the trundling of the barrow over a level way. Since the institution of cotton mills at Shanghai (foreign settlements), the wheelbarrow has been extensively as a passenger vehicle especially for carrying workmen to and from mills. One man can wheel six womiles, morning and evening, the charge being 1 shilling and 5 pence per month. The average earnings of a wheelbarrow man are about 81/2 penc per day. About 4,000 licenses are is sued monthly to the same number nicipal regulations, they are, perhaps the best in China. The fee for a license is 111/2 pence a month, and wheelbarrow is allowed, according the regulations, to carry more than 61/2 chests of tea, or 8½ boxes of kero-sene oil, or 20½ boxes of soap (30 pounds each), or ten boxes of soap (52 pounds each), or two bales of Ame piece goods. The width of the packages must not exceed four feet-that is, two feet on each side of the barrow-and no wheelbarrow is allowed under any circumstances to carry more than 600 pounds of dead weight gulations are, however, not strictly adhered to. Sometimes in the streets of the foreign settlements at Shanghai about 50 wheelbarrows may traveling one behind the other, each carrying two barrels of English Portland cement, and pushed by one man. Very frequently, however, a load is car ried on one side of the barrow on so that the edge of the 11/4-inch ti cuts into the macadam roadway like a knife. The bales sometimes project three feet on one side, the man pus ing the barrow being almost invisil are chiefly of macadam, and the dam age they sustain from this traffic is very great. It has been found, after repeated experiments, that granite broken to pass through a %-inch ring and rolled in the usual manner is the only kind of macadam roadway that will stand this severe traffic. It is extraordinary to see a Chinaman skill fully balancing and propelling a heavy load on one side of a barrow, and, con sets and accidents are remarkably few.

A COMICAL RAILROAD.

Woman Missionary Describes He Journey by the New Steam Route to the Congo.

When Mrs. P. Frederickson made her trip on the Congo Railroad it was completed only to Tumba, 118 miles from its starting point at Matadi. Today the trains are running to the Inkissi River, 171 miles, and the lin slowly pushing on to Stanley Pool, its terminus, which will be reached next year. Mrs. Frederickson, who was a missionary returning from he foreign home to a station on the Congo, gives a good idea of rather primitive railroading in a new country.

They do things leisurly in tropic Africa. The schedule time for the train to start is 6:30 a.m., but it was 7:07 o'clock when the train pulled out of Matadi. There was no platform or therbone is the only article on the market that can be sewn in by machine. stood along the track until the train

The passenger coach seems to have been very much like a Coney Island run from Levis to Montreal, covering the distance of 172 miles in 4 hours window in the car, and window in the car, and the passen-gers had plenty of fresh air. Mrs Frederickson writes: "It was a ladies car, because there were ladies in it It was also a smoking car, because the gentlemen smoked.

The train did not have such a luxury as a conductor. When the pas-sengers arrived at Tumba they gave up their tickets to a missionary who is stationed there. The train seemed to be in charge of the engineer and a black porter, whose place was in the passenger car. Slung over his shoulder he carried a big bugle, and its purpose was soon demonstrated. The passengers were suddenly treated to a mighty blast from the bugle. It was a signal to the engineer to stop the train. When the train came to a standstill the porter trotted back for quite a distance along the track and picked up a folding chair which he had dropped from the freight car.

The engine was the first that had been put on the road, and it was in a wheezy and decrepit condition. It broke down twice, and the repairs required about an hour each time. Meanwhile, the passengers had an opportunity to stretch their legs by walking along the track. In one section where they stopped there were many curves, and the pedestrians, after walking awhile, found that the track had train which they had left. There were no eating houses along the road, and all the passengers carried lunches with them. The gentlemen also had beverages which did not meet the approval of the missionary describes the trip. In the afternoon there was a heavy rain, and the pas-sengers on one side of the open car had to huddle on the other side, while some of the luggage on the flat car was wet through. There is room for improvement in the Congo railroad service, and it is coming in good time Mrs. Frederickson had twice been over the caravan route, but she says the train went so fast that she could recognize nothing along the way except the stations and the rivers. Those wooden seats became very hard after two or three hours, but what a luxury it all seemed to those who had for-merly been compelled painfully to tramp along that caravan path! Eight days had been required on each of the occasions when this lady had gone over the route with carriers, and now she

Edith ran to the brook for water, and brought it in a china cup that had rolled out of the basket. She bathed the sick woman's face and chafed her icy cold hands. The faded, refined old face and long gray curls seemed in some way familiar, and suddenly it flashed upon her memory that she had seen it that very morning in the cottage garden among the Irish tenements. She was the same tall, thin old dame with long curls she had seen out in the garden watering the flowers. "I am so glad you have come," whis-

She seemed wasted by fasting or sickness, perhaps both. Edith must try to get her out of the thicket to the top of the lane, where she could call for aid. She dashed more water from the brook in the poor creature's face, but it did no good. She chafed her hands, but her teeth were chicagon, and her whole form was quite stiff and rigid. "Our Guests," coupled with the names of Lord Balfour of Burleigh, secretary for Ireland; Mr. Reid, prime minister of New South Wales and Sir Gordon Sprigg, prime minister of the Cape. I rejoice that on this occasion the very names of those who are to spand amply indicate the special fea-ture of this Dominion Day dinner, namely, that wonderful growth of goodwill and patriotism, of mutual atachment and the sentiment of kinship between the great colonies and the plessed fruit of enlarged liberties, freer institutions and local self-government and which has proved to demonstration that every galling cord relaxed, every local liberty conferred has been, by a beneficent, but most obvious alchemy, transmuted into a link of tachment, impalpable indeed and colonies in different quarters of the globe; but they stand for more tonight. through him we drink "To the men of a million acres, To the sons of the Golden South." Sir Gordon Sprigg stands, not for the Cape only, but for British South Africa; and we drink through him "To the last and largest empire, With its map but half-unrolled."

God grant we may, so far as in us lies, keep that map unstained! I am Fanny Ashley, and this is my brother Harold. As our acquaintance has begun so romantically, I am sure it ought to continue. I do hope you quote again: "I charge you, charge your glasses; I charge you, drink with me

The Lubrication Test.

[Philadelphia Record.] Very few of the millions of people who carry watches realize to what a wonrful extent lubrication is developed, and what an extraordinary number of turns the balance wheel makes with one oiling. A Chestnut street watchmaker, whose knowledge of these wonderful pieces of mechanism is not exceeded by any man in this city, has made up an interesting table of comparison to show the perfection of lubrication in a watch.

A watch will run on one oiling from a year to a year and a half. Every minute the balance wheel turns on its axis 450 times and 27,000 times an hour. Accepting a year as the time the ordinary watch will run with one oiling, he finds that if the driver of a local motive was as well oiled as the balance wheel of a watch, it ought to run 60 miles an hour day and night for 648 days, or well on to two years, with one oiling, In that time it would traverse a distance equal to nearly 40 times the circumference of the earth. In view of the fact that in reality few locomotives will run one day with-out reoiling, he maintained that the watchmaker has developed his art to a far greater degree then the

Conditions Under Which They

Tenders for Bridge Abutments Opened -Band Concerts in Victoria Park - Objection to Ward Foremen.

The Wellington street grade difficulty was settled at the board of works last night, when a deputation of objecting ratepayers offered vigorous opposition to the proposed cutting.

Mr. T. H. Purdom spoke for the petitioners, and said it was not necessary to change the grade of the street for the purposes of the traffic. Anything done to it would be money thrown away. The ratepayers living higher up on the street paid more money for their property than did those lower down, and the latter were the only persons desiring the cut. should the property, for which more was paid, be injured for the benefit of those who paid less?

Ald. Johnston asked that the tenders for the completion of the grad-ing, according to the city engineer's plans, be opened and the work pro-ceeded with. He asked the engineer if he could prepare a plan more in the interest of the citizens at large than the one he had prepared.

Mr. Graydon replied that he could prepare a plan that would injure the Ald. Johnston said there was a grade of 7 feet in 180 feet, which was certainly an impediment to traffic

Engineer Graydon said this hill was no impediment to traffic. There were worse hills coming into the city. Ald. Johnston said that was the plan ordered by the committee, and that it had been referred to Ald. Carrother favored the completion of the work He did not own any property on the Ald. Carrothers was opposed to the Londoner), mining engineer, of Johan-proposed cutting. He was not aware of the amount of the grade until the question was brought up.

Ald. O'Meara asked if the ratepayers lower down were prepared to indemnify the city against damage, which might be collected by the owners of property injured. He moved to send the matter back to the engineer for proper eleva-tions of the floors of the residences and stores likely to be concerned, and other

The ratepayers, with Mr. Purdom and the engineer, retired for consultation, after which they would agree to the street being graded on the following conditions: (1) There shall be no deeper cut than fifteen inches, either in the center or any other part; (2) that the present levels of the sidewalks be not altered; (3) no gravel shall be placed on the boulevards; (4) any alteration to be made in the sod in front of Christ Church to be made at the expense of the corporation; (5) the driveways shall be changed where necessary and main-

This was satisfactory and the committee referred the matter, with power to Ald. Parnell, Johnston, Carrothers and the engineer. It was decided to engage the Seventh Battalion Band and the Musical Society Band for one n and to grant each band $30 a night

Ald. O'Meara knew of a couple of valuable dogs that had obtained poison there, and he believed it a very dangerous thing to put poison where children would be creeping around. The children would be just as liable to get at the poison as the dogs would. Mr.

Grant said that although the dogs annoyed him very much, he had never poisoned any.

An old man appealed to the committee for work on the corporation, and was referred to the engineer. Ald. O'Meara said there was something wrong when men were rejected by the ward foreman because they were old. It had not been the case in the past, and should not be now. Those old men had their faults, no doubt, as all men have, but they should not go hungry. Ald. O'Meara charged that the foreman of the stone crusher had

"Since last year I have had serious heart trouble caused by malaria. Shortness of breath, smothering spells on retiring, violent palipitation, etc., often made me gasp for breath. On pro-curing Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills the front wheel of his machine had found to my surprise and delight that hey gave me almost instant relief. I other riders lined up alongside of the got health, restful sleep, my heart trou-oles disappeared, and I now feel very well and strong indeed." Mr. Hugh statement for the public good.
