Sir John French Tells How British Fought Like Wildcats In Retreat

TERRIBLE DIFFICULTIES AND DANGERS OF BRITISH RETREAT TOLD BY GEN. FRENCH

Order To Fall Back Came As Surprise To British Commander, and Only Magnificent Work of Officers and Men Made It Possible.

INDIVIDUAL OFFICERS PRAISED

(Canadian Press.) London, Sept. 10.—The text of the report of Field Marshal Sir John French, in command of the British forces in France, covering the British operations since they landed in France, was made public today.

The report is addressed to Earl Kitchener, the secretary for war, and its publication indicates that the Government is responding to the public demand for fuller information on the progress of operations; so far as the British forces are concerned, in France.

The report is published in the London Gazette, the official organ. It follows: "The transportation of the troops by rail and sea was effected in the best order and without a check. Concentration was practically completed on the evening of Friday, August 21, and I was able to make dispositions to move the force during Saturday to positions I considered most favorable from which to commence the operations which General Joffre requested me to undertake. The line extended along the line of the canal from Combe on the west, through Mons and Binche on the east.

Soon at Work. "During August 22 and 23 the advance squadron of some excellent work, some of them penetrating as far as Soignies (a town of Belgium ten miles northeast of Mons) and several encounters took place in which our troops showed to great advantage. "On Sunday, the 24th, reports began to come in to the effect that the enemy was commencing an attack on the Mons line, apparently in some strength, and that the right of the position from Mons was being particularly threatened.

Second Day's Work Brings Fund Up To Grand Total of $97,013

Council's Grant of $10,000 Helped To Boost Good Results Obtained By Campaigners.

With only half the time at their disposal, the workers for the war fund have brought the total collected to $97,000. Today's collections, announced at luncheon at the Treasury House, amounted to $24,912. Not included in that amount is $10,000 voted by the city council, $347.50 subscribed by the Greeks of the city, and $100 voted by the Motor League. Everybody is giving freely according to the reports of members of the collecting teams. In one case a team captain reported that a lady, 90 years of age, had given $50; two poor Russians gave $1 each, all that they could afford, while a newsboy contributed two cents out of his slender store. One dentist who was approached declared that he could not afford to make a cash contribution, but tendered a credit note for $200, which he promised to work off in professional services to those in need.

Council Gives $10,000. Mayor Graham reported that the city council, by a standing vote, voted $10,000 to the fund last night. That might not seem a very large amount, his worship said, but it must be remembered that the council had been subscribed to a relief fund in the money it was voting was money belonging to the people of the city, for which they were responsible to the people.

The mayor referred to the fact that the people of Great Britain had provided accommodation for 1,000,000 destitute Belgians in their homes, and for the transportation of these people from Belgium to England. "It is England's bigness in things of this kind," he said, "which has earned for her the respect of all the civilized world, and it is the reason that every country which appreciated bigness took off its hat to England."

Italians Are Generous. Col. Gartschke reported that an independent subscription of $551.51 had been raised for the fund among the members of the Italian colony in the city, and that they had promised that more would be forthcoming.

He announced, amid cheers, that a telegram from Hamilton stated that $100,000 had been subscribed to a relief fund in the Ambitious City in one day.

Spirit of Britons. The speaker at today's luncheon was Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae. He congratulated the team workers on the splendid results they had achieved. Adding that they all were the richer for the time

FINE SHOOTING AT VALCARTIER CAMP

Colonel Hughes Says Force Is One of Best in World.

WINNIPEG LEADING ALL

Uniforms Only Lack, and They Are Being Manufactured Quickly.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—"One of the best shooting forces in the world is now located at Valcartier," declared Col. Hughes, who returned to Ottawa this morning after a week's absence. He is full of enthusiasm over the deadly accuracy with which the volunteers have been finding the centre of the target. Yesterday, he says, that 25,000 men fired upon the ranges there, and almost every one of them put on a good score.

"Yesterday one company of almost a hundred men lay down and fired ten shots in one minute and fifteen seconds, and they averaged magpies," said Col. Hughes. "You could not have better average shooting than that." He added that while all the regiments were doing good work, the Ninetieth, of Winnipeg, seemed to be having the greatest success upon the ranges. Col. Hughes declared that the force was rounding into shape nicely. The only thing now lacking was enough uniforms for the whole force, but they were being made as fast as cloth could be manufactured, and they would soon be all dressed in regulation regimentals.

AUSTRIA TO SUE FOR PEACE IN TWO WEEKS

Diplomatic Circles Believe Empire Will Otherwise Break Up—Emperor Well.

[Canadian Press.] London, Sept. 10.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Petrograd says: "In Russian and foreign diplomatic circles it is believed that Austria will sue for peace within a fortnight, as the only means of avoiding a complete break-up of the Empire, owing to rapidly growing internal troubles."

Emperor's Health Good. Rome, Sept. 9.—Via Paris, Sept. 10, 2:50 a. m.—Official reports received here say the health of Emperor Francis Joseph is good considering his advanced age and worry over the work necessitated by the war. Every day he grants several audiences, receives detailed reports of the situation and gives general directions which he desires followed.

Disastrous Attempts. [Canadian Press.] London, Sept. 10.—3:30 a. m.—A Rome dispatch to Reuters' Telegram Company says: "According to Galician advices the Austrians have made several attempts to resume the defense against the Russians with disastrous results. There were further great Austrian losses."

BRITAIN TO HAVE OVER ONE MILLION MEN UNDER ARMS

Asquith Asks Parliament to Add Half Million to the Regular Army, Making Total of All Ranks Record Figure of 1,186,400.

(Canadian Press.) London, Sept. 10.—12:30 p. m.—Premier Asquith asked Parliament to add another half million men of all ranks to the regular army.

The supplementary estimates, issued in the form of a white paper, asking Parliament to vote this increase, say it represents the probable excess beyond the similar increase voted August 5, which will be required for the army service.

This will bring the total of all ranks in the army to the unprecedented figure for Great Britain of 1,186,400 men.

33,290 Recruits in a Day. Premier Asquith said that 425,000 men, exclusive of the territorials, had joined the army since the declaration of war. On one day, he said, 33,290 men had enlisted. The average enlistment in the army in an ordinary year was 25,000 men.

Not Time To Relax. In moving a resolution authorizing the raising of an additional half-million men, the Premier said, that the time had not come to relax efforts to obtain

ALLIES DRIVE ENEMY BACK SAYS FRENCH

First British Corps Takes Dozen Maxim Guns and Some Prisoners.

SECOND GETS A BATTERY

German Troops Said To Be in a Very Exhausted Condition.

BRITAIN FEELS CHEERED

Wearing Down Proceedings of Her Soldiers Are Successful.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 10.—2:50 p. m.—The official press bureau has given out the following statement: "The battle continued yesterday. The enemy has been driven back all along the line. Sir John French reports that our first corps has buried 200 German dead and taken 12 Maxim guns. Some prisoners also were taken. "Our second army corps has captured 332 prisoners and a battery. The Germans suffered heavily. Their men are stated to be very exhausted. "British troops have crossed the River Marne in a northerly direction." (Continued on Page Three.)

ALLIES TO DRIVE GERMANS BACK UPON SUPPLY COLUMN

Seems Probable After Cutting of Communication Line in East—Paris District Being Cleared—Luneville Reported Evacuated.

[Canadian Press.] London, Sept. 10.—2:10 a. m.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in France, describing the turn of the tide in favor of the allied forces, says: "From trustworthy sources it is reported that we have already cut part of the German line of communication in the east, and it seems highly probable that we shall soon be able to drive them back upon their ammunition and supply column."

Tribute to Enemy. "At the same time one cannot withhold a tribute of admiration to the extraordinary and efficient way in which the German cavalry played their part. It now seems certain that the German advance, which so scared us last week, was the throwing forward of a screen of cavalry to mask the enemy's flanking movement eastward, and that they had no present intention of investing Paris."

Artillery Main Factor. "The two chief factors in this war are artillery and exhaustion. It is undoubtedly a contest of guns."

"While the great battle is raging to the eastward of Paris, the western region of France is gradually being relieved of Germans. They have been seen as far west and south as Glons, 19 miles southwest of Bauvais, but they are now 80 miles from Glons, and how they have been driven to evacuate this region so rapidly is one of the mysteries of the great campaign which is being partly revealed by the official dispatches."

EVACUATE LUNEVILLE. [Canadian Press.] Paris, Sept. 10.—Via London, 5:55 a. m.—The Temps publishes a dispatch from Nancy, stating that it is rumored there that the Germans evacuated Luneville, 15 miles east-southeast of Nancy, on September 6.

Commenting on this dispatch, the Temps says that what seems certain is that the Germans had to abandon the heights surrounding Luneville.

BRITISH ARE THRILLED BY STORY OF FORCES' BULLDOG FIGHTING

Public In Old Land Awed By Frank Confession of How Hard-Pressed Army Has Been Struggling To Survive Against Great Odds.

(Canadian Press.) London, Sept. 10.—Many English breakfasts went untasted this morning while the people read the graphic account by Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, of the heroic fight made by the British, expeditionary force to keep from being annihilated. Like a wildcat, pursued by hounds, the British force backed stubbornly towards the River Oise, constantly showing its teeth, but realizing that it must attain the river or perish.

LIKE A BOMBSHELL. General French's frank confession has fallen like a bombshell on the English public, who up to the present time has not been permitted to know how hard-pressed their army has been.

Great comfort is, however, derived by the British public from this report, particularly from the indications that throughout these trials their troops never lost their morale. The feeling of optimism which has prevailed in England during the last twenty-four hours has had only one check; this was the report of the wreck of the steamer Oceanic.

THE DIARY OF MARS

The silence of Berlin and Bordeaux up to early afternoon emphasizes the decisive character of the battle being fought east of Paris and along a line of a hundred miles or more.

There are indications that the Germans are reinforcing their centre, which is bearing the brunt of the British-French onslaught, and are making a tremendous effort to regain the ground lost to the allies—estimated by the latter to be 25 miles. There are evidences also that the allies are strengthening their left wing.

The Russian advance is described at Petrograd as now occupying almost a straight line from Koenigsberg on the Baltic, in East Prussia, to Cracow. The Russians are said to be driving the Germans before them on the west bank of the Vistula. It is believed that a stout stand of the Germans and Austrians will be at Cracow.

TRIP-HAMMER OF BRITAIN EFFECTIVE

[Canadian Press.] Paris, Sept. 10.—6:45 a. m.—The left end of the curved battle line which on Sept. 7 extended in the segment of a slight circle from Meaux to Vailly-le-Francois, about 100 miles to the east of Paris, was hit by the British trip-hammer yesterday and forced to withdraw for a distance of approximately 25 miles. This outcome of the fighting has aroused a great degree of satisfaction in Paris. It is argued here that it probably has resulted in an equal degree of anxiety for the German general staff concerning its line of communications.

In spite of the contained sobriety of the French, the official communications on the progress of these engagements, it is evident that the actions of yesterday and the day before constituted one of the most hotly-fought battles of the war.

Defeat at Rawa Means Their Annihilation, and It Is Near.

THEN THROUGH GERMANY

Russians Driving Back Enemy to Sweep Kaiser's Great Empire.

[Canadian Press.]
London, Sept. 10.—A dispatch from Petrograd, the Morning Post correspondent says:

"The Russian armies are moving forward, driving the Germans before them on the western bank of the Vistula River. The retreating Germans have crossed behind them on which to rally. 'Craow' is on about the same meridian as Koenigsberg, and the Russian forces are almost levelled up to this meridian with armies in East Prussia, two miles from the point where the Austrians are now fighting their last fight."

Then For Germany.
"When Austria is disposed of, Russia will immediately begin a westward march on a front 200 miles long, but will sweep like a tidal wave across the German Empire."

"The key to the whole tactical situation is at Rawa, where the Austrians are making a desperate struggle. It is the last stand of an outmanoeuvred army, and defeat means annihilation. The Russians also are attacking Grodek, 16 miles west of Lemberg, the fall of which will bring the Russians on the Austrian rear at Rawa."

Country Aids Russia.
"The country is admirably suited to Russian tactics. It is fairly level, but broken up by a number of inconsiderable hills, and is well watered by numerous small streams and fringed with woodland. The population is scant, and it is a sheep country, and the sheepherds are now away with their flocks in the lower spurs of the Carpathian Mountains."

"At the approach to the Carpathians are extensive marshes. Upon this natural death trap it is the objects of the Russians to drive the enemy's entire force."

THE NEW BATTLE.
London, Sept. 10.—6 a. m.—A dispatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Vienna dated Wednesday and reaching London by way of Amsterdam says:

"It is officially announced in Vienna that a new battle began around Lemberg today."

Contributions are being made in many ways to be used for the relief of general distress in the city and county. Arrangements have been made for the March Club Band, the Land of the Seventh Frontiers and the London Highland Pipe Band to parade the streets tonight. [Canadian Press.]
London, Sept. 10.—10:25 a. m.—Exultant messages from Petrograd and admissions of disasters from Vienna indicate that the long series of military misfortunes marking the history of the dual monarchy are about to be capped with an unparalleled debacle, which may not only open the road to Berlin, but bring Austria to sue for peace.

The armies in the west seem as if pausing to watch the fateful drama in Galicia, the outcome of which may have a tremendous effect on the plans of the invaders in the western theatre of war, as well as upon the allies themselves in that region.

The news from Belgium indicates that the Germans are preparing for eventualities by rushing reinforcements southward. The first definite indication of this movement is given in a dispatch from Belgium, which relates that the German force that has been waiting outside Ghent for the levy of provisions demanded from that city has left hurriedly in a southeasterly direction.

Even Experts Surprised.
British experts have looked hopefully for the Russian "steam roller" to get under way, but the impetus which the Russian army in the eastern theatre of war already has acquired has fairly taken away the breath of even the military experts. The movement of the Russian advance has been so speedy that the German divisions advancing on the Vistula are hardly likely to arrive in time to assist their sorely-pressed ally in Galicia.

Has Straight Line.
The Russian advance line occupies almost a straight line from Koenigsberg. If Austria is disposed of, a tremendous battle line, from 200 to 300 miles long, may sweep into the German Empire."

[Canadian Press.]
London, Sept. 10.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Czecho describes a battle in a thunderstorm, during which the Germans were forced back from the Marne valley. A combined rush of French and British cavalry, says the dispatch, had smashed into a patrol of German cavalry and had utterly demolished them on the outskirts of a forest. A battery of royal horse artillery, with half their men and horses gone, did splendid work behind a screen made by a few forest trees they had felled. A hundred yards ahead a small stream flowed, beyond which the German artillery was posted, when a thunderstorm came up, and in the gloom of it the artillery duel went on.

Aeroplane Assisted.
The British new thirteen-pounders participated in the duel, the gunners being directed by an aeroplane circling high above the Germans, but out of range. The British guns appeared to work to better advantage than the Germans, because there was no recoil, and therefore no need to recover the range once it was found. Many prisoners were captured by the British and French, and these admitted that they had not the courage to face the British cavalry charges.

Enjoyed a Bath.
The storm that followed the battle was welcomed by the French and British soldiers, who stripped naked and enjoyed their first bath in many days.

London, Sept. 10.—3:30 p. m.—That German prisoners be pressed into the service in the highly hazardous work of sweeping the North Sea of mines, was a suggestion made in the House of Commons today.

Great Britain now has many small boats engaged in this task, and German prisoners crews under British officers would handle such craft if the plan outlined were adopted. Speaking on the general question of mines, Thomas J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, said: "This important question of mine sweeping is more than it would not be advisable to say now."

GERMANS RUSH TO AID

[Canadian Press.]
London, Sept. 10.—3:30 p. m.—That German prisoners be pressed into the service in the highly hazardous work of sweeping the North Sea of mines, was a suggestion made in the House of Commons today.

Great Britain now has many small boats engaged in this task, and German prisoners crews under British officers would handle such craft if the plan outlined were adopted. Speaking on the general question of mines, Thomas J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, said: "This important question of mine sweeping is more than it would not be advisable to say now."

LONDON, THURSDAY, SEPT. 10.

SPLENDID.

DRAW a line around the globe in almost any direction, and there would be few countries touched which would not be represented in the first day's contribution to the Patriotic Fund in this city. Greeks, Italians, Assyrians, Chinese, Russians, Macedonians, Hollanders, English, Irish, Scotch, Americans, French, Swiss, and Canadians were among the contributors. The nationalities form a correct index of that part of the world which is favorable to the cause of justice. More than $52,000 was rolled up, and the probability is that the amount aimed at will be greatly exceeded.

Money came from thin air as well as fat purses, and it came joyfully. One of the "whispering" workers told us last night that he had not met with a refusal, and that in several instances he knew that men were denying themselves when they divided their small stores of coin with the cause.

The men who are doing this work are giving more than money. Most of the businessmen are devoting a week's work to the welfare of dependents of volunteers, and besides this they are giving of their funds and are striving to keep every man at work. The city as a whole owes them a debt of gratitude that will never be repaid.

"CROOKED" ALL THROUGH.

NOT even the Kaiser can demonstrate that trickery, intrigue, deceit and misrepresentation will get a man anywhere in this world. His war, born of charlatanism, its first act the violation of a solemn compact, has proceeded with studied disregard of all the laws of God and man, written or unwritten. Not satisfied with a reeking atmosphere in the trail of his soldiers, he is compelling his consuls and other foreign representatives to misrepresent conditions in the war zone, with a view to enlisting the aid of other countries. His men are endeavoring to mislead Sweden, Italy and Turkey, to sow seeds of discord in Egypt, South Africa and India, and are daring to carry their propaganda even into enlightened America. Untruthful reports are circulated in newspapers, points favorable to Germany are greatly exaggerated, unfavorable points are suppressed; the Kaiser is trying to treat the rest of the world as he treats his own soldiers, as blind and ignorant fools. He even attempted, it is reported, to influence the columns of an English paper.

The Kaiser will never succeed. The weight of guns and men may kill and kill and kill, but the whole Christian world will always be in revolution against such methods as his. Beside him Jack Johnston, negro pugilist, is a gentleman. The sneak and the liar nowadays are on a par with the murderer and the thief in the eyes of humanity.

THE SOCIALISTS OF ITALY.

THERE appears to be no room for doubt on which side Italy will be forced into the war. If Italy can keep out no one will be disposed to blame her. Every effort is being made by Germany to draw her in. Even the German Socialists, who were supposed to be opposed to the war, are using their influence to induce the Italian Socialists to join, but their answer is an emphatic refusal, coupled with the hope that if hostilities do not cease that the "infamous war will crush those who provoked it."

IN MID-AIR.

WHILE the various stories about mysterious aeroplanes floating around and over Western Ontario are largely the outcome of perverted imaginations, and need not be taken too seriously, the fact remains that at the seat of war the armies in the field can draw great assistance from the forces in mid air. Apart from the atrocity of dropping bombs into the cities beneath, something that is directly contrary to all the rules of modern warfare, aeroplanes render much service by spying out conditions, and guiding the movements of the armies.

AN ERIE COASTAL SERVICE

IF the steamer State of Ohio is taken off the Port Stanley-Cleveland run, as is threatened, it might suggest to London capitalists the advantage of installing a Made-in-Canada and Owned-in-Canada boat. This is a question which could very well be taken up by the London Board of Trade, the Publicity Bureau and the London and Port Stanley Railway Commission. Port Stanley needs a steamer of some capacity for the entertainment of its summer guests, but London needs it more for the benefit of summer trade, not across the lake, but along the north shore.

HER FAMILY ALL RIGHT.

[Boston Transcript.]

Judge (to woman asking separation)—How long have your relations been unpleasant?

Woman—Your honor, my relations have always been pleasant. It's his relations that are the old grouches.

Stay Thou the Sword

God of all nations hear,
As humbly we draw near
In this dark hour,
From war the world set free,
On every land and sea
Let peace triumphant be—
Stay evil's power

O God, all nations guide,
Curb envy, inflame pride,
Revenge stay thou,
Bid all contentions cease;
From anger send release;
Let Love her reign increase—
O hear us now.

God save from sorrow's night;
For darkness send us light—
Illumine our way,
The freedom free from fear;
Stay thou the falling fear;
Let peace again bring cheer
Where reigns dismay.

Preserve our own fair land,
Help us to safely stand,
From dangers free,
Lead us—be thou our might,
Give us the power of right
On land and sea.

So far there have been no serious battles in the air. Dirigibles and aeroplanes have been very busy, and quite a few have been wrecked and some captured. But the pictures that modern novelists have drawn of aerial fleets ramming each other have not yet materialized. Nor, with the exception of the Antwerp episode, has the bomb dropping been very serious. The fact is, that aerial navigation is still in its experimental stage. More machines have been destroyed and more navigators killed during the last few years in peace than has been done in the present campaign. While the aircraft will be of some service it is not likely to have any decisive effect on the war—unless it should drop a bomb on the Kaiser. The fighting will have to be done on land; fighting in the air will have to be deferred to some future time—that is if there will be any fighting in the future.

MILTON ON BRITISH FREEDOM.

IN HIS Areopagitica, Milton spoke some great words for British liberty. Perhaps the most famous passage is the following, which well suits the present crisis in mankind's and England's long warfare against tyranny:

"Methinks I see in my mind a noble and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks; methinks I see her as an eagle mewing her mighty youth, and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam, purging and unsealing her long-abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance; while the whole noise of timorous and focking birds, with those that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means."

How Milton loved the sunlight! He had not begun to lose his sight when he wrote these words. He loved no less the sun of human freedom, at which Britain's eagle eyes have been kindled. As her freedom had slept for a space under Tudors and Stuarts, so of late she has been caught a little off her guard by the rise of the Prussian menace. But behold her and her whole house, now awake and aroused.

ANOTHER PLEDGE BROKEN

VON BERNSTORFF, the German ambassador to Washington, continues to protest energetically if not convincingly, that the Kaiser's Government is innocent of duplicity in connection with the present war. He is emphatic and eloquent, but it is at the expense of logic and fact.

One of his latest statements is that it would have been better for the Belgians had they permitted the passage of German troops, as it would have preserved their integrity. From this it is natural to infer that Germany intends to annex Belgium. Yet a few hours previous to the declaration of war, the German Government declared in terms that cannot be misunderstood, that even in the event of Belgium and Germany fighting, Germany would not retain any Belgian territory.

Von Bernstorff must have overlooked this point, or is it the Kaiser's way of informing the world that he intends to hold Belgium as a prize of war?

Germany has been so careless of neutrality pacts, and has already cast aside so many of the written and unwritten conventions of war, that this amassing of another pledge does not shock. What is of greater moment just now is that it spells bad news for Holland, which Germany wins, as it is a well-known tenet of Berlin's policy, that if one of the little states is taken the other must go with it.

PRESS COMMENT ON THE WAR

BILL'S BUCCANEERS.
[Brantford Courier.]

Premier Asquith hit a palpable nail on the head when he spoke of the barbarian brutalities of the Kaiser's buccaneers.

PAUL COULD TELL HIM.
[Hamilton Spectator.]

Were Gen Paul Kruger in the flesh, he might be induced to forward a telegram to the Kaiser, telling him what he may expect a little later on.

BRITAIN'S OLD ALLY.
[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Old Neptune has never learned to understand German. His seven seas and his trident are always at the service of Britannia, and the superficial waves she rules stir no envy in his waterlogged bosom.

WORSER THAN NAPOLEON.
[Ottawa Journal.]

The leaders of the German nation are worse and more blood-guilty than Napoleon, because since Napoleon's time where near the fortifications. Yet a reference to the map of Paris shows

Germans Go On Principle That All Is Fair in War

[London Daily News.]

The tricks that are said to have been played by German sympathisers in London, who pretended to welcome the French, but who were all the time signalling to the Germans, are, I suppose, to be accepted as an illustration of the people minding with the French troops under false pretences were really spies, and undoubtedly there is no word with a greater latitude or meaning than the word "spy." It may mean a man who has reached the lowest depth of sneakiness, or it may mean a man who, for the good of his country, is taking his life in his hand as bravely as if he were heading a forlorn hope in the field.

The Matter of Spies.

The old writers on international law, and on the laws of war, have produced learned and ponderous treatises on spies and spying. Four of those writers have had their names immortalized in the well-known verse in the "Anti-Jacobin":

The Consul quoted Wicquefort
And Puffendorf and Grotius,
And prov'd from Vattel
Exceeding well,
Such a deed would be quite atrocious.

Of these worthies I think Grotius has had the most to say on the subject, and he lays this down:

Spies it is without doubt permitted by the laws of nations to employ; and those made use of such, and Joshua himself acted in that capacity.

This may be true in a general way, though I imagine that most people in the present day will not be greatly influenced by what Grotius said about Joshua.

And now for Vattel's opinion, which is thus expressed in regard to the rights of every conductor of military operations:

If those whom he employs make a voluntary tender of their services, or if they are not subject to the enemy, any way connected with the enemy, he may unquestionably take advantage of their exertions without any violation of justice or honor.

That is to say, if one of our men, in order to serve our side, chose to enter a German camp in disguise, or to enter a man who made use of such, and Joshua himself acted in that capacity.

It required a war to acquaint a lot of people with the meaning of "moratorium."

Prince Albert has had his appendix removed. That places him in the classiest class.

You might as well surrender at once, as the Patriotic Fund forces will attack on both flanks.

With Indian and African troops going to the front it seems to be a case of the black man's burden.

One of the fascinating things about journalism is that Tolstol's "Man of Destiny" will come from his ranks.

Admiral Von Tirpitz says inside the Kiel Canal and calls it discretion. "Skull" is less elegant, but it also fits the case.

Phyzenyel is about to be invested by the Russians according to a war dispatch. And all these years we thought it a headache powder.

Kitchener exhorted his army to be sober and clean. This rapid and incessant modern warfare has given the men no time for dissipation.

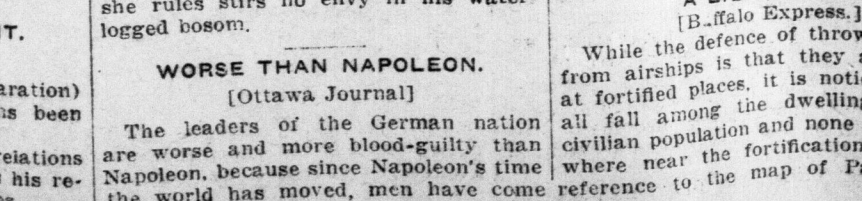

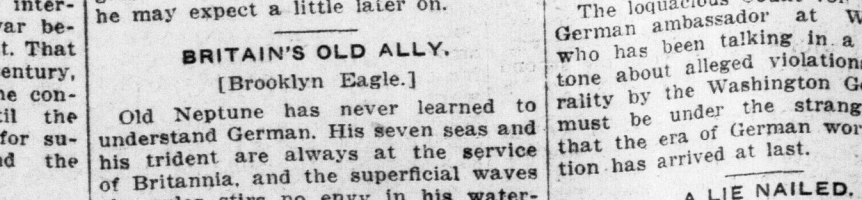

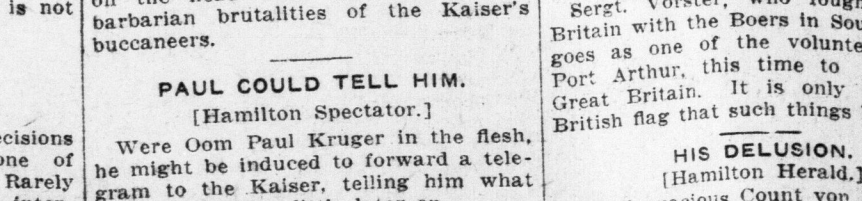

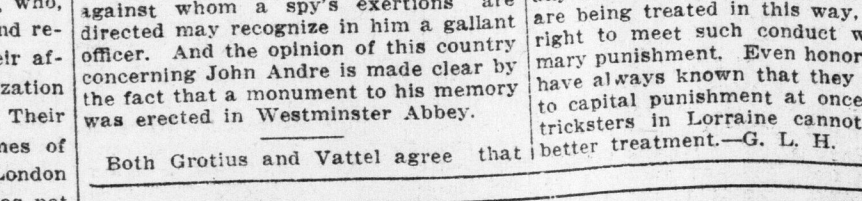

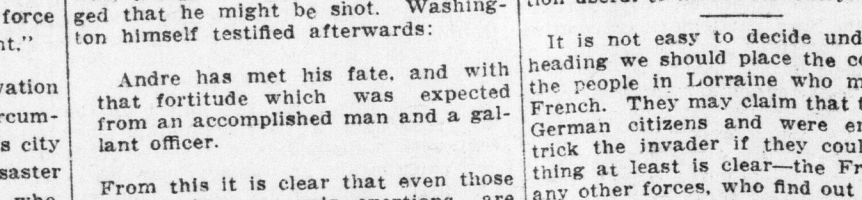

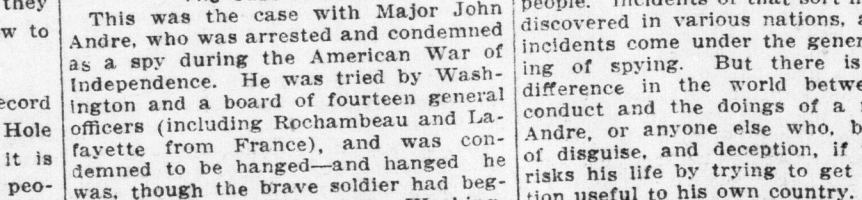

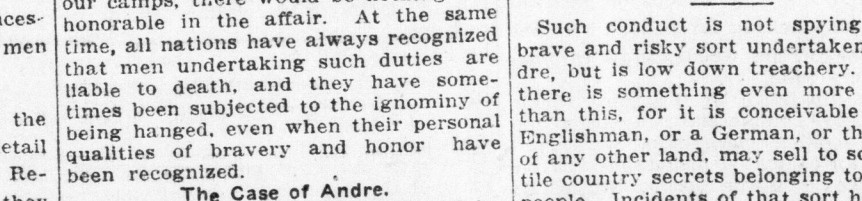

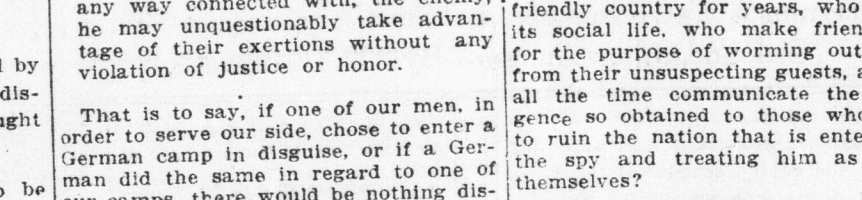

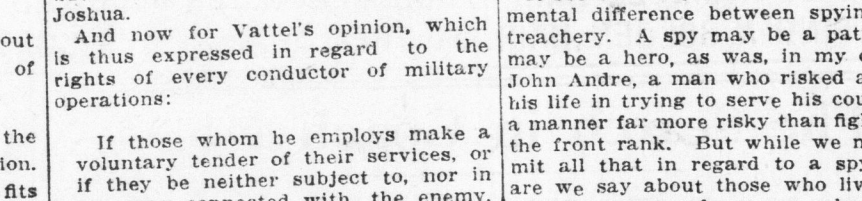

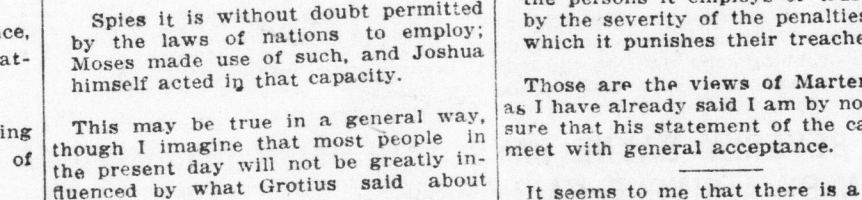

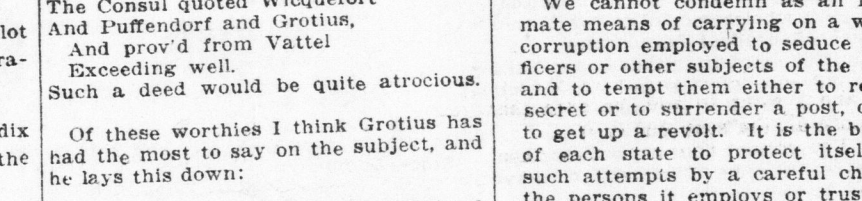

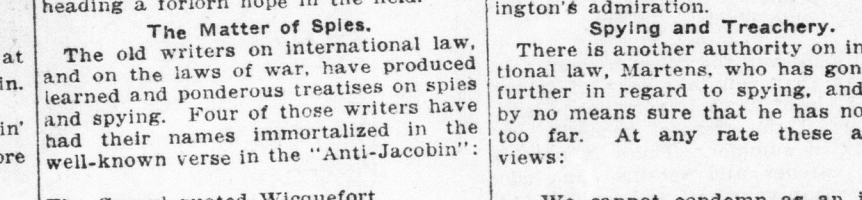

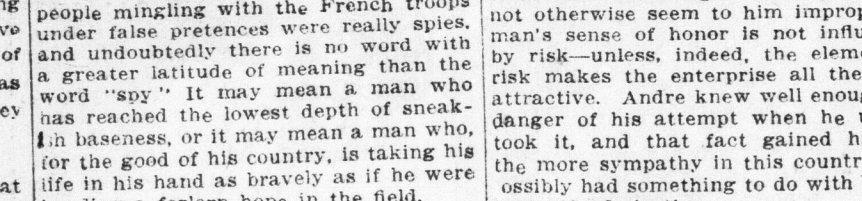

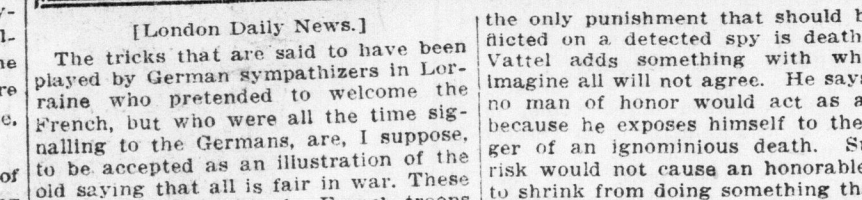

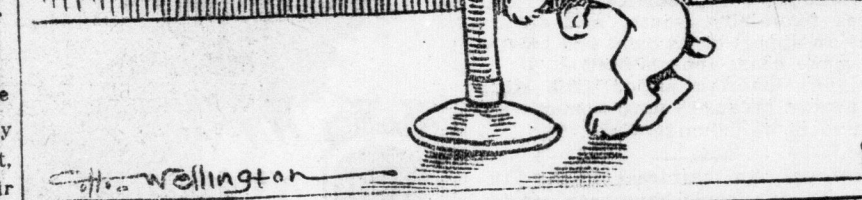

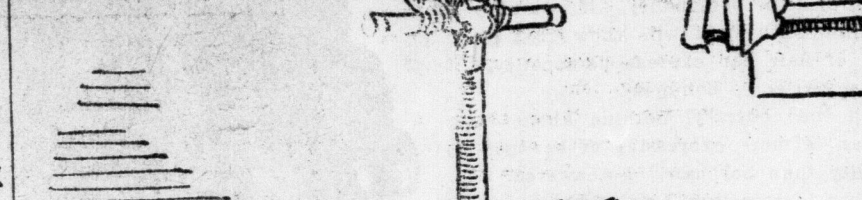

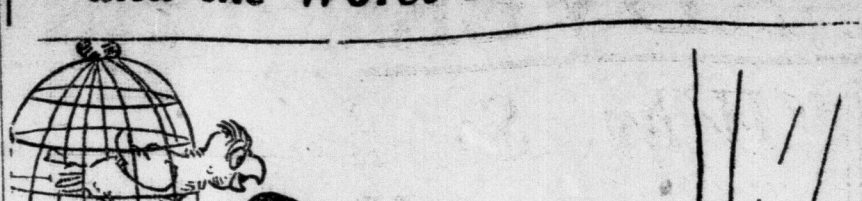

A former German spy says that the German Admiralty knows every detail of every ship in the British navy. Recent history, however, indicates they overlooked the British secret of how to shoot straight.

The Wallaceburg Herald-Record likens the local jail to the Black Hole of Calcutta and says that when it is considered that many "innocent" people may be locked there "the full force of its conditions becomes apparent."

Major Frank Morris, of the Salvation Army, has left London. The circumstances of his recent return to this city after the Empress of Ireland disaster are fresh in the minds of citizens, who, on that occasion, came to know and respect him. At the same time, their respect him. At the same time, their respect him. At the same time, their respect him.

Both Grotius and Vattel agree that

COMPLETING IS EDUCATION.

[Toronto Star.]

No doubt the Kaiser thought that when it came to the pinch he could buy Britain off and keep her neutral in the war, if he but offered her enough money to buy her neutrality. He is political and commercial gain. He is not the first great soldier who has temptingly sized up the British as "a nation of shopkeepers." Napoleon learned a lot about shopkeepers before he was done. And the Kaiser will.

WHY THEY STOOD.

[Montreal Herald-Telegraph.]

In the official German account of the naval fight off Heligoland, it is stated that "retreat was not in accordance with the fighting spirit of the German navy."

"That is the German way of announcing that if the German ships had backed up any further towards home and mother when they saw the British coming they would have hit the German shore."

WHY WAR IS HELL.

About twenty years ago a young German who had invented a valuable process for the manufacture of certain chemicals came to this country to be nearer the chief markets. Business prospered, the money flowed in, and the young German chose a wife from the people of his foster-land.

Last July he took his wife across the ocean on a vacation trip, and chiefly so that their first child might be born in the Fatherland. He expected to be back in America by now with his wife and new baby, but the iron finger of war reached out and tapped him on the shoulder. Within a few days after the child was born, the Government's military emissary stopped at the German's door and notified him that his services were required in the armies of the Kaiser. There was no escape. He had neglected to take out American naturalization papers.

His wife has not heard from her husband since the day she kissed him in a heartbroken farewell. For all she knows he lies six feet deep in the hastily-dug trenches before Liege or stark on the plains of Charleroi. The business which he built up in this country with such cheerful pains is rapidly going to ruin in the hands of an inexperienced and distracted relative.

From a Big Boy.
Dear Miss Grey: Would you mind answering me a few questions?
1. What are the meanings of George, John, Richard, Elizabeth, Peter, Carol, Francis, Stewart, John, Gladys, Muriel?
2. Would you mind telling me what days these dates came on: March 13, 1904; Jan. 24, 1885; Aug. 19, 1886; Aug. 4, 1892; June 28, 1867?
3. I am thirteen years old and weigh 110 lbs. Do you think I weigh too much for my age?
A COUNTRY LAD.
A.—I do not know the meaning of all the names, but give those I can: George, a husbandman; Richard, powerful; Elizabeth, consecrated; Peter, a rock; Francis, free; John, gift of God; Gladys, lame; Muriel, clear-eyed.
2. Wednesday, Saturday, Thursday, Friday, Thursday.
3. Yes, you are a pretty big boy.

Don't Mention It.
Dear Miss Grey: I am very sorry to trouble you so much, but have received so much help from you that I have decided to come again.
1. Will muddy blouses be worn by young girls this winter?
2. What is the meaning of the following: Jeannette, Doris, Lillian, Irene, Marjory and Dorothy?
3. Will you please publish a good recipe for divinity fudge?
Thanking you for your advice, I remain,
A.—1. Yes, muddy blouses are designed in navy and black serge and trimmed with red or white braid.
2. Jeannette, gracious gift of God; Doris, a gazelle; Lillian, lily; Irene, peace; Marjory, a pearl; Dorothy, gift of God.
3. See Foam Fudge (Nut) — Three cupsful of light brown sugar, one cupful of water and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Do not stir after it is once heated. Boil till it will harden when dropped into cold water. Beat stiff the whites of two eggs and when the syrup has stopped bubbling pour it over these and beat well. Flavor with vanilla and add a cupful of chopped nuts.

Apple Jelly Recipe.
Dear Miss Grey:—Please print a recipe for apple jelly, and greatly oblige,
W. W. LACE.
Ans.—Cut the apples in pieces, but do not core unless they are wormy, as the core contains jelly-making properties and the seeds help to impart a fine flavor. Place in a granite kettle barely covering with cold water; cover the kettle and cook slowly until the fruit is soft; stir as little as possible, only enough to keep from burning. Turn all into the pointed jelly bag, and allow it to drip into a granite pot or kettle; this may take some time, and the room should be free from dust.
The secret of making jelly beautifully clear, is not to squeeze the bag or the jelly will become cloudy. Of course, towards the last it may be necessary to squeeze it some, but do not be too anxious to get all the juice.
Measure the juice, place on the stove, and bring to a boil, boil for ten or fifteen minutes, then add the sugar, allowing from three-quarters to one pound sugar to one pint of juice. Do not boil too hard, and skim the jelly frequently. Test when it is done by dropping a little on a cold plate. Five minutes is generally long enough for this second boiling.

Put the jelly in sterilized glasses and allow it to stand over night uncovered. Cover with the paraffine sold for this purpose, or with brown paper, securely tied over the top.
If desired the pulp may be passed through a sieve, sugar added and a delicious jam made.

A Helpful Reader.
Dear Miss Grey: Am enclosing two recipes that may prove helpful to someone.
1. Would like if some reader would send in the words of the songs "Little Darling, Dream of Me" and also "My Boyhood's Happy Home Down on the Farm," if you would be kind enough to have them printed in the Morning Advertiser.
2. Can you tell me why the bottom of the bath-tub and kitchen sink turn brown? I cannot get it off.
COUNTRY HOUSEWIFE.
Dear Marmalade—12 pounds sugar, chopped fine, 3 lbs. sugar, 1 lb. raisins, juice and rind of 3 lemons, 2 oranges, 1 lb. shelled walnuts chopped fine. Cook until quite thick.
To Can Sweet Corn—Cut corn from cob, pour on enough boiling water to nearly cover, add salt enough to make nearly cover, pour water off. Add water above the corn in the jars. When wanted for use, pour water off. This hot water for a few minutes, pour this off and corn is ready to use. Corn put up in this way has never been known to spoil.
A—Your marmalade recipe sounds simply "scrumptious," as little Johnny would say. I think we'll all be wanting to try it. Many thanks.
1. Has any of our readers the words of either song?
2. Have you tried lemon juice and salt? Someone says that to cut a stain in half, dip it into coarse salt and rub the surface of enamel tub or basin, is a good way. Then wash well with hot suds. Are not some of the good scouring soaps effective? Perhaps our housewives can offer some suggestions.

Her First Letter.
Dear Miss Grey:—I have never written to you before, but have always enjoyed reading your column.
Will you please help me to secure the words of an old song, "The Indian Maid," some of the words of which are:
Through the dark woods and forest wild,
My father roamed as nature's child.
The white man to the forest came,
And taught the Indians Jesus's name;
He built the church, the schoolhouse reared,
And holy songs the forest cheered.
Thanking you very much, I remain,
ZENOBIA.
Ans.—Am glad to hear that you enjoy this column, and hope that someone may send us the song you want. I am not familiar with the words.

W. K. Kellogg
The method of preparing WHEAT in Samson's time was primitive—in KELLOGG'S time scientific JOSEPHUS in his story of Samson, the strong man of the Bible, graphically describes the method of grinding wheat in those early days.
When Samson was shorn of his hair, and in consequence his strength, the Philistines compelled him to take the place of the ox in grinding the wheat. The mill was a large stone hollowed out like a saucer. In this the wheat was spread and a huge stone shaped like a wheel was drawn around until the wheat was reduced to a pulp. There is no reference to any appliance for separating the outside or hull of the grain from the inner part as is done to-day in making flour.
Josephus says wheat was their staple food, and was only mixed with cheaper grains in times of famine.

represents the last word in the scientific preparation of wheat.

Only the finest Durum wheat is used and the Kellogg process, preserving all the strength and nourishment of every berry, turns it into a food as delicious as it is wholesome.

Other machines place it in the WAXTITE package which brings it to you pure, fresh, crisp, and ready to eat.

You haven't seen anything like KRUMBLES. One trial will make it a favorite in your home—in WAXTITE packages 13c., 2 for 25c.

Try KRUMBLES entirely at our risk. If you don't like it your grocer will give you back your money—cheerfully, too.

Red Cross Column

A meeting of the executive committee will be held at Hyman Hall Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

The following contributions are gratefully acknowledged: From the Froebel Society, composed of the kindergarten teachers of the city, an offer of their help, collectively or individually. From Mrs. T. A. McMahon, flannelette and wool.

Those who visited the really surprising exhibition on Saturday morning, that our society held before shipping the finished work, will not be surprised that the president received the following letter from headquarters:

"Dear Lady Beck,—I am this morning in receipt of your favor of the 6th inst., enclosing list of articles sent by your branch. On behalf of the central committee, I desire to thank you, and also to congratulate you on the neat way in which your statement is made up. Yours truly,
"NOEL MARSHALL,
"Chairman Executive Committee, Toronto."

With this consignment went the splendid gift of 75 pillows, from the employees at Smallman & Ingram, which has been so much appreciated.

After a few days' well-earned rest, the Red Cross committees are going to work again on somewhat reorganized lines.

There seems to be no doubt that a second contingent must be provided for, and the central committee in Toronto have asked us to duplicate the consignment that went off to them last Monday.

There is not, however, any particular date set as yet for this to be completed, and the work will not need to be finished at quite the same high pressure rate of speed.

The rooms at Hyman Hall will be open every Tuesday and Friday, beginning Tuesday next, September 15, from 12:30 to 6 o'clock, when all those willing to work at the central room will be gladly welcomed. Membership tickets can also be obtained there, and work taken away, or handed in when finished by members and associates.

There is still a very great demand for expert knitters—socks—and yet more socks!

Many requests for these have come from the soldiers themselves, who seem to prize the home-made articles at double the value of the machine-made goods.

Full directions can be obtained from Mrs. Sommerville, at Hyman Hall, any Tuesday or Friday afternoon.

With the large amount of work at present in hand, in all stages, we find ourselves greatly in need of convenient cupboards or bureaus.

Have any members, or their friends, any that they would be willing to donate to the Society?

If so, please telephone Mrs. Bowker, No. 333.

"Why So Many Movie Actresses Wear Curls"

"It Expresses Femininity," Says Beverly Bayne.

[BY IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON.]

"I have never known a girl whose hair disclosed 'so much personality,'" I remarked to a friend in discussing Beverly Bayne.

"You have suddenly gone crazy on the subject of personality. If you stop to think of it, you will know that no head of hair can express personality," was my friend's comment.

"On the contrary, nothing about a woman is more expressive of her personality than her hair," I answered.

"That is especially true of the movie actress," chirped up Beverly Bayne, who was having tea with us. "One must be very careful that one's hair expresses the character one wishes to represent."

"Did you ever notice," she continued, "how many movie actresses wear curls? It is because soft curling hair expresses femininity, youth, and always makes an appeal of its own, and movies must make heart appeals first."

"In the Victorian period girls wore curls always because young women were supposed to be 'clinging vines.'"

The taut, trim hairdress of the athletic girl today would have been considered almost indecent, because it invariably gives the impression of one being prepared for athletic "stunts" that were considered very unladylike by those who followed the lead of good Queen Victoria.

There are many who go so far as to say that one's temperament has something to do with the color of one's hair, or perhaps I had better say it the other way—the color of one's hair has much to do with one's temperament.

I used to know a man who insisted upon having only red-haired women in his office, as he considered them cleverer than brunettes or blondes.

Red-haired women have very keen perception, and their whole personality is vibrant with life. Many prefer women with bright, brown hair, with a coppery tinge to it, for you then get the willingness of the red-haired woman softened by the quietness and poise of the brown.

Blondes are usually selfish, and black-haired women are either very indolent or very "peppery," as their hair is dead black or blue black.

But, whatever the color of your hair, the way that you take care of it and dress it is of more importance. Cleanliness is of the greatest necessity, especially in summer. There is nothing which causes and retains an odor quicker than your hair and nothing that has a more wholesome fragrance than a well-washed head of hair.

"Don't put anything but soap and water on your hair," says Miss Bayne, "and I want to add, be sure that you rinse all the soap out of it."

You cannot pour too much clean, cool water over your head after you have washed it well.

No soap is as good for the hair as castile, but you must make a solution of it, as rubbing soap right on the hair will not do it, and in the case of blonde or white hair, discolor it.

The Search in Coach No. 3
Concerning a Fat Drummer, a Thin Clergyman, a Pretty Girl, and Other Things.—By "The Nomad"

Fast through the September dusk the long cross-country train was speeding. Outside, the golden stubble of the grain fields, and the long sweeps of pleasant farm lands, melting far beyond into the black line of the woods, grew dimmer with every mile.

Across the aisle in the third coach, two breezy, comfortable-looking men, one a spruce-looking clergyman, were concluding an animated discussion relative to the war and the probable results upon the world in general and India in particular.

Behind them, in spite of the fast deepening twilight, a grey-haired woman employed of the time knitting, and one could not but fancy that the sock she was fashioning would help furnish the kit of some soldier lad—perhaps her own.

About half way down the coach a pretty girl settled herself some station back. She was particularly attractive, and from the tip of her small round head to the heels of her dainty boots, bore the marks of refinement and charm.

A lanky farmer, a tiny old lady and one's humble self composed the remaining members of the third coach's burden.

For some reason or other, the clergyman came from one end of the coach, and the farmer from the other, and darkness was settling rapidly. The commercial men were just commenting upon this unusual state of affairs, when suddenly, with a little scream, the fat passenger grasped her scant skirts and scrambled upon the velvet seat.

"What is it?" "What's the matter?" came from one and another, the two drummers jumping quickly to their feet as though ready for any amount of protection, while the thin clergyman reached for his stout cane.

"There! There! Under the seat!" screamed the fat passenger, pointing with one gloved finger.

"Gracious, is it a German?" asked the old lady trembling, and looking as though she would jump out of the window.

"Oh, it's a mouse—I know it is, or a great big crawling snake—there, it's moved," cried the fat passenger, taking a fresh hold upon her skirt, and the stouter of the commercial men, who had failed to "come on" and darkness was settling rapidly.

The stouter of the commercial men, who had failed to "come on" and darkness was settling rapidly, jumped down upon his knees and endeavored to reach under three seats at once in an effort to clutch the awful "thing." The clergyman, not to be outdone by a layman, thumped about vigorously with his stick, while the second traveller searched frantically for a match.

"If it comes here I'll stab it with a baton!" cried the grey-haired woman, arming herself with that weapon, and tucking her feet beneath her. The big countryman joined in the hunt.

"Which way did the pesky thing go, anyhow?" he asked, peering around.

"Look! over there!" yelled the minister. "It just ran beneath this seat." "Quench!" moaned the fat man, who was still on his knees. "You've stepped on my thumb!"

"Never mind that, Bill," snapped the member that good health, cleanliness and care is all that is needed to insure a splendid growth of hair.

EVERYBODY is tired and looking rather sheepishly at his or her neighbor. The clergyman straightened his coat and subsided quickly into a seat.

The fat commercial man drew out his handkerchief, wiped it tenderly around his thumb, while the second drummer brushed the dust from his trousers knee.

"What's all this noise about?" demanded the conductor suddenly, stumbling in just then, and slamming the door so forcibly that the electric lights flashed up as if also questioning the cause of the commotion.

POP GEERS' ETAWAH

Fine Form.

EDITH C. A WINNER

Judges Declared All Bets Off in 2:24 Trot—Race To Be Investigated.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—The 4-year-old Champion Etta was proved the star of the second part of the harness racing here this afternoon, winning the $3,000, the Detroit stake, for 2:24 trotters. The little colt, driven by "Pop" Geers, never was better. The judges took action after the final heat of the 2:24 trot carried over from yesterday. Abdella Watts broke through first turns and Blue Feather won easily. The judges declared all bets off on the heat and race off and will investigate the race further.

The Canadian mare, Edith C., was a straight heat winner of the 2:23 pace, in which she was a heavy favorite.

TERRIBLE DIFFICULTIES AND DANGERS

"In view of the possibility of my being driven from the Mons position, I had previously ordered a position in the rear to be reconnoitered. This position, situated on the fortifications of Maubeuge on the right and extended west to Jehlain, southeast of Valenciennes on the left. The position was reported difficult to hold because of the steepness of the hill and the difficulty of the trenches very difficult and limited the fire in many important localities. It nevertheless afforded a few good artillery positions.

"When the news of the retirement of the French and the heavy German force threatening on my front reached me, I endeavored to continue it by aerone, and as a result of this I determined to effect a retirement to the Maubeuge position at daybreak on the 24th.

"A certain amount of fighting continued along the whole line throughout the night and at daybreak on the 24th, the second division from the neighborhood of Hamel was made a powerful demonstration as it retake Binche.

"Covered Retirement. "This was supported by the artillery of both the first and second division while the first division took up a supporting position, in the neighborhood of Peissant. Under cover of this demonstration the second corps retired on the line of Dour, Quarouble and Frameries. The third division on the right of the corps suffered considerable loss in the operation from the enemy, who had taken Mons.

"The second corps halted on this line where they cut themselves off from the first corps, gradually to withdraw to the new position and this was effected without much further loss, reaching the line of Dour, Quarouble and Frameries on the evening.

"Towards midnight the enemy appeared to be directing his principal effort against our left. I had previously ordered General Allenby with the cavalry, to act vigorously to take my left front and endeavor to take the pressure off.

"About 7:30 in the morning, Gen. Allenby received a message from the Charles, commanding the fifth division, saying he was very hard pressed and in urgent need of support. On receipt of this message, Gen. Allenby drew in his cavalry and endeavored to bring direct support to the fifth division.

"Caught in Trap. "During the course of this operation, Gen. De Lisle, of the Second Cavalry Brigade, thought he saw a good opportunity to paralyze the further advance of the enemy's infantry by making a mounted attack on his flank. He formed up and advanced for this purpose, but was held up by wire about 100 yards from his objective, and the Ninth Lancers and the Eleventh Hussars suffered severely in the retirement of the brigade.

"Suffered Heavy Loss. "The Nineteenth Infantry Brigade, which had been guarding the line of communications, was brought by rail to Valenciennes on the 22nd and 23rd. On the morning of the 24th they were moved out to a position south of Quarouble, to support the left flank of the second corps. With the assistance of the cavalry, Sir Horace Smith Dorrien was enabled to effect his retreat to a new position, although having two thirds of the enemy on his front, and one third on his flank. He suffered great losses in doing so.

"Without Support. "At night a position was occupied by the second corps to the west of Bay, the first corps to the right. The right was protected by the fortifications of Maubeuge, and the Nineteenth Infantry Brigade in position between Jehlain and Bruay, and cavalry on the outer flank. The French were still retiring, and I had no support at such a distance as was afforded by the fortifications of Maubeuge, and determined efforts of the enemy to get around my flank assured me that it was impossible to hold my position against attack and surround me.

"Full of Danger. "I felt that not a moment must be lost in returning to another position. I had every reason to believe that the enemy's forces were somewhat exhausted, and I knew that they had suffered heavy losses. I hoped, therefore, that his pursuit would not be too vigorous to prevent me effecting my object. The operation, however, was one of danger and difficulty, not only owing to the very superior forces in my front, but also to the exhaustion of the troops.

"Retirement Commenced. "The retirement was recommenced in the early morning of the 25th to a position in the neighborhood of Leateau, and the rear guard were ordered to clear of Maubeuge and Bay by 5:30 a.m. Two cavalry brigades, with the divisional cavalry of the second corps, and the commander of the cavalry division with the Nineteenth brigade, were under command of Gen. Allenby, covered the west flank.

"New Arrival. "The fourth division commenced its retirement at Leateau on Sunday, the 23rd, and by the morning of the 25th eleven battalions and a brigade of artillery, with the division staff were available for service. I ordered Gen. Snow to move out to take up a position with his right south of Solesmes, his left resting on the Cambrai-Leateau road south of La Chapelle. In this position the division rendered great help to the effective retirement of the second and first corps to new positions.

"Although the troops had been ordered to occupy the Cambrai-Leateau-Landrecer position and ground had, during the 25th, been partially prepared and entrenched, I had grave doubts, owing to information I had received as to the accumulating strength of the enemy against me, as to the wisdom of standing there to fight.

"Took the Chance. "Having regard to the continued retirement of the French on my right, my exposed left flank, the tendency of the enemy's western corps to envelop me and, more than all, the exhausted condition of the troops, I determined to make a great effort to continue the retreat till I could put some substantial obstacle, such as the Somme or the railway, between the enemy and the army, and afford the former some opportunity for rest and reorganization.

"Orders were, therefore, sent to the corps commanders to continue their retreat as soon as they possibly could towards the general line of Verdun, St. Quentin and Ribemont, and the cavalry, under the command of Gen. Allenby, were ordered to cover the retirement. Throughout the 25th and far into the evening the first corps continued to march on Landrecer, following the course of the railway, and arrived at Landrecer about 10 o'clock. I had intended that the corps should come further west, so as to fill up the gap between Leateau and Landrecer, but the men were exhausted and could not get further in without a rest.

"No Rest Given. "The enemy, however, would not allow them this rest, and about 9:30 that evening the order was received that the Fourth Guards brigade in Landrecer was heavily attacked by troops of the Ninth German Army Corps, who were coming through the forest to the north of the town. This brigade fought most gallantly and caused the enemy to suffer a tremendous loss in losing from the forest into the narrow streets of the town. This loss has been estimated from reliable sources at between 700 and 1,000.

"At the same time information reached me from Sir Douglas Haig that his first division was also heavily engaged south and east of Marillies. I sent urgent messages to the commander of two French reserve divisions, and my right to come up to the assistance of the first corps, which they eventually did.

"Praise For Haig. "Partly owing to this assistance, but mainly to the skilful manner in which Sir Douglas Haig re-organized his corps from an exceptionally difficult position in the darkness of night they were able at dawn to resume their march towards Wassigny and Guise.

"By about 6 in the afternoon the second corps had got into position with the right on Leateau, their left in the neighborhood of Sandouville, the line of defense was continued thence by the fourth division toward Seranville.

"During the fighting on the 24th and 25th the cavalry became a good deal scattered, but by early morning of the 26th Gen. Allenby had succeeded in concentrating two brigades to the south of Cambrai. The fourth division was placed under the command of the general officer commanding the Second Army Corps.

"Could Not Get Help. "On the 24th the French cavalry corps, consisting of three divisions under Gen. Sorbet, had been in Billebe, north of Avesnes. On my way back from Bay, which was my post de commandement during the fighting on the 23rd and 24th, I visited Gen. Sorbet and earnestly requested his co-operation and support. He promised to obtain sanction from his army commander to move his corps to the north, but he was unable to do so before the next day. Although he rendered me valuable assistance later on in the course of the retirement, he was unable for the reasons given to afford me any support on the most critical day of all, namely, the 24th.

"Could Not Retire. "At daybreak on the 25th it appeared that the enemy was throwing the bulk of his strength against the left of the position occupied by the second corps and the fourth division. At this time the guns of four German army corps were in position against them, and Sir Horace Smith Dorrien reported to me that he judged it impossible to do his duty in the face of such an attack.

"I sent him orders to use his utmost endeavor to break off the action and retire at the earliest possible moment, but it was impossible for me to send him support, the first corps being at the moment incapable of moving.

"Spent the Day. "The French cavalry corps, under Gen. Sorbet, was coming up on our left rear early in the morning, and to his utmost effort to support the retirement of my left flank, but owing to the fatigue of his horses, he found himself unable to intervene. He had no time to entrench the position properly, but the troops showed a magnificent front to the enemy. With the assistance of the rifle fire, which continued about at least four to one, made a splendid fight and inflicted heavy losses on their opponents.

"At length it became apparent that, if complete annihilation was to be avoided, retirement must be attempted, and about order was given to commence the retreat. The movement was covered with most devoted intrepidity and determination by the artillery, which had been ordered to follow, and the brave work done by the cavalry, and the further retreat from the position, assisted materially the final completion of this movement. Unfortunately the enemy had himself suffered too heavily to engage in an energetic pursuit.

"High Praise. "I cannot but feel that this glorious stand of the British troops without putting on record my deep appreciation of the valorous services rendered by Sir Horace Smith Dorrien, I dare say without hesitation that the saving of the left wing of the army under my command on the morning of the 26th could never have been accomplished unless a commander of rare and unusual coolness, intrepidity and determination had been present to personally conduct the operations.

"The retreat was continued far into the night of the 26th and through the 27th and 28th, on which date the troops halted on the line from Noyon, Chauny and Leferre, having then thrown off the weight of the enemy's pursuit.

"On the 27th and 28th I was much indebted to Gen. Sorbet, and the French cavalry division which he commands for materially assisting my retirement, and successfully driving back some of the enemy on Cambrai. Gen. D'Amaud, with the 61st and 62nd reserve divisions, moved down from the neighborhood of Arras on the enemy's right flank and took much pressure off the rear of the British forces.

"This closed the period covered by the present history, which commenced at Mons on Sunday afternoon, August 23, and which really constituted a four days' battle. At this point, therefore, I propose to close the present dispatch.

"Deplores Losses. "I deeply deplore the very serious losses which the British force suffered in this great battle, but they were inevitable in view of the fact that the British army—only a few days after concentration by rail—was called upon to withstand the vigorous attack of five German army corps.

"It is impossible for me to speak too highly of the skill evinced by the

ANOTHER CONSUMPTIVE PRAISES NEW TREATMENT

DOUGALD MCINTYRE.

Mr. Dougald McIntyre, while employed in the Walkerville Fire Department, was taken with severe hemorrhages, and his case was pronounced tubercular. The lungs by a prominent Walkerville physician, who stated that his only hope was a change of climate. He tells how Nature's Creation conquered the disease in his case:

In December, 1911, I began to notice that I was gradually getting into a run-down condition. I became weaker and weaker, and began to lose weight, and had a pain across my chest and also night sweats. Receiving no help from my family physician, I had almost given up in despair, when my wife heard of a young man in Windsor who was at that time nearly well from the use of Nature's Creation, so after talking with him I decided to try it.

When I had been taking the medicine for only a few weeks, I noticed an improvement in my condition. Soon the night sweats left me, and my appetite became good. I also began to gain in weight, and now I have no symptoms whatever of tuberculosis. I have gained over 50 pounds in weight, and am working hard every day, and feel like a new man. I cannot say too much in the praise of Nature's Creation, and would be glad to communicate personally with anyone who is suffering from this dread disease. Sincerely yours,

DOUGALD MCINTYRE.

Kilmartin, Ont.

I heartily agree with and endorse all the above statements made by my husband, Dougald McIntyre, and believe that Nature's Creation has certainly saved his life.

MRS. DOUGALD MCINTYRE. The original of the above statement is on file at our office for inspection by any person who is afflicted with tuberculosis, or by any other interested party. We have many other astounding statements telling what Nature's Creation has been able to accomplish for tuberculosis of the lungs, throat, glands, bowels and bones.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." If you are interested call or write for free booklet.

Nature's Creation is NOT a patent medicine, and is NOT sold in drug stores.

INCINERATOR STEAM NOT ENOUGH FOR HOSPITAL

Patients at Victoria Shivered Last Night — Will Remedy Conditions Today, Says Superintendent.

The unlooked-for cool spell of the last few days has found the heating apparatus at the incinerator which supplies steam to Victoria Hospital unprepared, and the result has been that patients at the hospital are suffering from the cold. In conversation with The Advertiser T. H. Heard, superintendent of the hospital, stated that owing to the fact that the incinerator was not operated 24 hours a day, steam could only be obtained up to twelve o'clock at night.

Mr. Heard stated that the difficulty of providing adequate heat for the buildings would be remedied today, when firemen will be placed on the night shift at the incinerator. They will keep up the fires throughout the night, when any quantity of steam will be available, it is said.

DETECTIVE LOANS CAR

Driver of Wrecked Police Patrol Comes to City's Assistance.

Chief of Police Williams received word yesterday from the firm that is overhauling the damaged police patrol car that the machine would be back on the job in the course of a few days.

The police commissioners have received word from the accident insurance company as to what settlement the latter will make on the car.

Detective Harry Down, who was driving the buggy a flanking blow, was summoned. The girl's injuries are not thought to be serious. Only the promptness of the motorman averted a more serious accident.

COUNCIL TO INSURE LONDON SOLDIERS

City Will Protect Dependents of Volunteers Who Make Their Home Here.

AFTER STREET RAILWAY

Property for Sewage Disposal Plant May Now Be Purchased.

The city council will again ask the street railway to put in a switch on Wharncliffe road to help the congested service on Dundas street. The company had been given three months to put in a switch, and this time has elapsed, the company declaring that the switch will have to go over owing to the stringency of the money market. Manager King will probably be asked to appear before the next meeting and explain the company's intentions.

The city will probably purchase property at the foot of Egerton street for a sewage disposal plant, the council having resolved last night on the terms under which 48 acres can be purchased. There are three parcels of land valued as follows: Hill property, 10 acres, $1,250; Finch property, 22 acres, $5,000; and Krause property, 16 acres, $5,000.

To Collect Own Garbage.

Recommendation of the board of control were also approving municipal ownership in the collection of garbage and authorizing the city solicitor to give "consent" to the city council.

Notice to terminate his contract. Negotiations will be entered into for Mr. Ross' equipment used in this week, and it will be bought if the price can be agreed upon by arbitration.

To Insure Soldiers.

Initial steps were also taken to insure some 250 London men who went to Valcartier as volunteers and were accepted. The council voted to insure single men for $1,000, married men with small families for $1,200, and married men with large families for $1,500.

The reinforced concrete floor in the new Wharncliffe road bridge will be installed by the city engineer's department at a cost of $2,500.00, and the department will also try its hand at the front street breakwater.

New Sanitary Sewers.

The board of control was authorized to call for tenders for sanitary sewers on the following streets, Belgrave avenue, Duchess to Grand avenue; Grand avenue, Duchess to Grand avenue; Grand avenue, Duchess to Grand avenue; Grand avenue, Duchess to Grand avenue.

The London west breakwater was put over until next year together with a number of proposed improvements to streets and sidewalks throughout the city.

A resolution was adopted commending Controller W. G. Coles for his excellent work as major over a divisional train at Valcartier camp. Major Coles left last night for the camp to assume his new duties.

Voice of the People

Good Music Spoiled.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:—I am a Canadian-born, and have rendered only in French, or someone to make a real translation. For genuine music, I commend you to the Anglicized words of this really grand piece of music. Vide Campbell, Brindle, et al.

Practical Patriotism.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:—The public have the power in their own hands as to whether our Canadian factories shall run full time or be closed down during the present war. By Canadian-made goods exclusively, our factories will be enabled to run full time and the money kept in circulation instead of being sent out of the country.

Goods made in Canada by Canadians are as good—if not better—than any other goods made anywhere.

They may not be as handsomely gotten up by some instances, or advertised as extensively, but for real merit they are superior in most instances to the imported article.

People of London should be loyal to home manufactures, particularly those that are the product of our own institutions. Such has not always been the case, and the old adage, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country," seems to hold good with some people in respect to home products.

A prominent manufacturer of staple products told me a short time ago that there were less of their goods sold in London in proportion to population than in Toronto or Montreal, and many other Canadian cities. A great many other manufacturers have probably had the same experience. Some dealers, and I am glad to say they are in the minority, seem to hesitate to show and recommend goods made in London.

Now is the time for the public to demand Canadian-made goods. By doing so we will have good times; money will be plentiful instead of tight; our factories will have money to spend; the number of unemployed will be reduced and want will be unknown.

If the case is as presented in its proper light that Canadians and the people of London particularly will rally to their duty and purchase Canadian-made goods to the exclusion of foreign goods, and thus help the prosperity of Canada in this time of stress and trouble.

E. C. MITCHELL, President London Board of Trade, London, September 8.

ANOTHER GOOD FRIEND GONE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:—On the eve of my departure from the city of London to take up my new duties in the field department at my territorial headquarters, Toronto, may I sincerely thank you for your willing and able co-operation in all the efforts of the army in this district. This I have deeply appreciated.

I also wish to send a line of farewell to my many friends whom I shall never forget. I have been honored to have been privileged to have lived in such a fair city as London for the past three years. It is the city of my boyhood, the city where my dear mother died, and the city from which I travelled to the old country last May and to which I returned to receive the touching welcome. So that I can never feel quite the same leaving any appointment as I do this. These precious memories I shall treasure, and shall ever have a very warm spot in my heart for this beautiful spot. I leave at noon today via G. T. R. Farewell.

DR. McCRAE LEADS SERVICE OF PRAYER

Large Crowd Attends Afternoon Meeting at Y. M. C. A. Auditorium.

The prayer service in the afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium yesterday from 4:30 to 5:30 was more largely attended than the noon one, and was in charge of Rev. G. N. Hazen, of the Wellington Street Methodist Church. Rev. George A. McKenzie, of the Christian Workers' Church, offered up an inspirational prayer, after which the audience was addressed by Rev. Dr. McCrae, Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church.

"I desire to impart to you the powers of prayer," said Dr. McCrae. "God does hear and answer our prayers. He never fails to answer them. We should pray now as we never did before, at the family altar, privately and at public worship. Every Christian should stop every day at noon and pray. More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Tremendous Cost of War.

"While the tide is turned God will do it, and it will be given to our prayers," Dr. McCrae referred to the fact that the war was costing fifteen hundred millions of dollars a month, while one million and a quarter dollars was a large sum to be raised for foreign missions. He closed by exhorting his hearers to pray that the struggle would be short, and that the British arms would be victorious. The balance of the hour was spent in silent prayer and prayers from those in the large audience.

TWO FINE PAINTINGS FOR WESTERN FAIR

Valuable Works Entitled "The Storm" and "The Willows" Will Be on Exhibition.

The art committee of the Western Fair has secured two very fine paintings by the noted painter Carl Ahrens, "The Storm" and "The Willows." These paintings have a value of $3,000 each. Col. Mercer, the art connoisseur of Toronto, in a private letter to the chairman of the art committee, E. H. Johnston, says: "His work is wonderful—unexcelled by any living artist." Col. Mercer is at Valcartier in charge of one of the battalions.

BAND CONCERT NETS $32

Salvation Army Musicians Put On Pleading Program.

With a parade of the Seventh Band keeping the crowd down and near winter weather last night, the Salvation Army realized nearly $32 from the band concert held in Victoria Park. The money will go toward the War Relief Fund.

Cold weather kept away citizens, but the amount contributed at the gates of the park was considered good.

The program included several selections by the Orpheus Quartette, which were applauded.

SONS OF ZION WILL HELP

Boys' Club Will Hold Raffle to Aid Patriotic Fund.

Not content to leave all patriotic work to their elders, the members of the boys' club, Sons of Zion, are busily preparing to add to the fund by their own efforts by means of a raffle.

The plan prepared is: The club will purchase a gold watch, the members giving the price out of their own pockets, and the timepiece will then be held out as a lure to draw people to buy tickets at 10 cents, or more, if possible. All money made in the selling of the tickets will be handed over to the patriotic fund, and the boys expect it will reach a large sum, as they intend to canvass every house in the city, wearing a blue and white badge.

The youngsters will try to get permission for the raffle from Chief Williams. The secretary of the organization is Harry Lewis, 174 Hamilton road, and the drawing is to take place at the home of Wallace Wernein, 536 Philip street.

CROWDED COLLEGIATE NEEDS NEW TEACHER

[Special to The Advertiser.] INGEROLL, Sept. 9.—Action has been taken by the board of education to relieve the situation created by the big increase in the attendance in form 1 of the Collegiate Institute. With a total attendance of 45 in this form, it was a problem to know how to handle the pupils.

The matter was referred to the teachers' committee with power to act, and an additional teacher was decided upon, Miss Winifred Williams, of this town, being chosen. She will begin her duties the 1st of October.

RELIEVING PASTOR RETURNS.

INGEROLL, Sept. 9.—Rev. Dr. Parquharson, who had charge of the pastoral work during the vacancy at St. Paul's Church, has returned to Agincourt. He was an earnest worker and his Sabbath messages were inspiring.

HOLMES-STEINACHER. INGEROLL.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Methodist Parsonage by the Rev. L. W. Kill, the contracting parties being Samuel Holmes, of this town, and Miss Pearl Steinacher, of Harrison. They will reside in Harrison.

"The Store that Serves You Best"

167 DUNDAS ST. ANNEX 398 RICHMOND ST.

Call to Arms!

Headquarters of the Campaign Staff

With the departure of our troops for the front, it devolves upon Canadians who remain "in garrison" to take ample measures for the safety, protection and sustenance of the wives and children belonging to the men of the advance guard.

It must be realized that our comrades on the firing line, through the haste of their departure, had neither time nor opportunity for making provision for those dependent upon them.

We hereby issue the call to every man and every woman, without distinction of creed or color, to serve the country and the Empire according as they have the power, by donating to the War Relief Fund.

It is our intention to so entrench the families of our men at the front that the shells of adversity will pass over their heads, harmless; the bullets of poverty and want fail to find a mark. The fund will be used also for general relief. In such a work we count upon the cheerful, willing aid of every true Londoner, and will note with satisfaction every addition to our forces.

The War Relief Fund : Campaign Is On!

You are giving more than money in this cause. Let the hand that's in the pocket help the hand that holds the gun.
