

BUSINESS IS SATISFACTORY LOCAL MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC THE FUTURE APPEARS BRIGHT

Railways, Factories, Bankers Interviewed by The Advertiser—All Have the Same Story of Returning Prosperity—Some Shops in London Are Working Overtime Now.

London manufacturers and business-men are most optimistic regarding the outlook at the present time, and are pleased with the increase in business that they enjoyed during the summer.

It is safe to say that in all manufacturing lines things are going on well, and many factories are working overtime in order to keep up with trade. Railroad men are particularly optimistic. One of them, pointing to a string of old cars, en route to the car shops to be repaired, remarked:

Repairing Cars.
"When you see us using cars like that you can just bet that we don't know what to do for them. Those cars haven't been out of country sidings for over a year, and we are going to fix them up a little and press them into service."

Passenger traffic men state that their returns for the year will establish an entirely new record, and expect them to be anywhere from 10 to 15 per cent ahead of anything in the past. They say the outlook for 1910 is even better.

Bankers Satisfied.
Bankers say that conditions are good in every way. All paper is being met promptly, and there is a good circulation all over the country.

The customer returns have been climbing steadily ever since February, and every month shows a substantial increase over the same time last year.

LEGISLATURE TENDERS.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Tenders for the steel work, new roof and other requirements for the reconstruction of the burned wing of the Provincial Parliament buildings, were opened by the sub-committee of the cabinet in charge of the work today.

The committee met in the offices of Hon. Frank Cochrane, and there were present Hon. Col. Hendrie, the chairman, Hon. Messrs. Cochrane and Reame, and Mr. A. W. Campbell, deputy minister of public works.

The figures were subsequently submitted to the full meeting of the cabinet, but no decision was reached, pending conference with the architect, Hon. Col. Hendrie, the chairman, said the Government expected to award contracts immediately and push the work to completion.

WRIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES AGAINST LONDON STREET RY.

Father of Boy Maimed in East London Seeks Recompense for Injuries to the Lad—A Case of Alimony Entered for the Assizes—Parties Live in Lobo Township.

Another case has been entered for the non-jury sitting of the coming assizes. It is that of Louisa McIntyre, who is taking action against her husband, James Cameron McIntyre, a farmer living in the township of Lobo, to obtain alimony.

According to the statement of claim they were married in 1886, and lived together till April, 1908. During that time it is claimed the conduct of the defendant toward the plaintiff has been so violent and over-bearing that the plaintiff is in fear of her bodily safety and even life. Three times it is claimed the defendant assaulted the plaintiff, and twice he appeared before a magistrate. The plaintiff claims that having no means of support, and having been compelled to incur debt for her support and medical attendance, and as the defendant has property valued at $5,000, that she is entitled to alimony. She also claims interim alimony dating from the issue of the writ for $9 a month.

Mr. J. M. McDevoy acts for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Macpherson & Perrin for the defendant.

$10,000 Damages.
A writ for $10,000 damages has been issued by Mr. Angelo Famularo on behalf of his infant son, Vincent Famularo, against the London Street Railway Company, for injuries received to be tried at the jury session of the coming assizes.

It is claimed that the car at the time was running at a high rate of speed. The motorman, too, it is claimed, was an inexperienced man, and was not paying proper attention to his car. Had he been exercising proper care it is claimed he could have dropped the fender and saved the child.

On account of the increased cost of bringing up the child, and the expenses incident to the accident, as well as for the permanent injury to the child, the claim for $10,000 and costs of the action has been entered. Messrs. Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons, for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Vevey & Dromgole for the defendants.

METERS FOR PRIVATE HOUSES A NEW MOVE IS DECIDED UPON

Water Commissioners Will Put a Gauge in Places Where Closets Are Used—Ten Per Cent of Services To Be Metered by End of the Year.

Approximately 10 per cent of the city will be metered at the end of the year if the plan adopted by the water commissioners at their meeting yesterday afternoon is carried out.

Engineer Moore recommended that all services where closets are used be metered. The board accepted the suggestion, and the money appropriated for that purpose last year will be spent.

It will be remembered that $12,000 was set aside in the accounts for this year for meters and hydrants. Of this amount $2,000 was expended on the hydrants and practically $4,000 on meters.

There remain $6,000 still to be expended, and this sum will be utilized for that purpose at once.

Meters in Use.
At the present time, all the large consumers, motor users and the like, are metered. Few private residences have been metered and it is now the intention of the board to meter them. To be exact there are at the present time 593 meters in use. Of these 216 were installed this year. The money still in hand will equip about 53 meters for houses, making the total number about 1,143 in use, or at most 10 per cent. There are now 12,170 services in the city.

A Rapid Growth.
This is a rapid growth, and shows the trend of public opinion. In the past, meters have been in use in London but a few years.

"I have not worked out a plan for installing them," said Engineer Moore, "but I think perhaps do a ward at a time, or at least go over as much of a ward as we can. The system will be gradually metered I think, and it should result in a large saving of the water supply."

MILK PRICES ARE TO AVIATE

Scarcity of Fodder Is Likely to Result in a Boost in Price.

SEVEN CENTS A QUART

Present Price Is Six Cents—The Situation To Date as Sized Up by the Milkmen.

There is quite a strong possibility that within a month or so the price of milk will be increased in London. "We will not make any increase for the winter months, unless we are compelled to do so by the higher prices we have to pay ourselves."

The majority of the city dairymen buy their milk on contract from the farmers, and the summer contract holds till the first of November, and consequently there will be no change till that contract runs out. There has been a good deal of talk among the farmers of increasing their contract price during the winter. This move is due to the very great shortage in the crops.

Some of the farmers report that they have had to half till their fields while they were waiting for the milk as low as it is has been during the summer. It is not likely that it will go higher than 7c a quart, the present price being six cents.

This move seems to be fairly wide spread. Toronto milk dealers met on Monday afternoon to consider the situation and some of the move in favor of an immediate increase. The decision on the matter was, however, held over for two weeks to permit of careful inquiries being made into the conditions governing the milk supply.

DRIVEN ASHORE

Pensacola, Florida, Also Receives a Visit From Hurricane.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 22.—The storm attained its greatest velocity at 2 a. m. when it reached 64 miles an hour from the southeast. Two small schooners were driven ashore on the west beach. At the navy yard the coal wharf was damaged and five large coal barges beached. At Fort Barrancas a launch was sunk and the wharf damaged.

Two men are reported drowned in attempting to cross the big lagoon, eight miles west of the city, while endeavoring to reach Fort McRae in a small boat.

REPENTANT YOUTH ALLOWED TO GO

Took a Valise, But Became Sorry at and Once Gave Himself Up.

Peter Brown, a young man who some days ago appropriated a valise at the Grand Trunk station, and a short time afterward came to the police station and gave himself up, appeared before Magistrate Love this morning and was allowed to go.

"I don't think you are a thief," said the court. "You have every appearance of being respectable, and the fact that you did not open the grip or take anything out before giving yourself up, leads me to think that you must have been suffering from some temporary aberration at the time. You may go."

A case of non-payment of wages between Louis Penol and Eddie Dallas was settled out of court.

W. H. Ford, charged by W. W. Goodall with keeping a vicious dog, was able to prove to the satisfaction of the court that the animal had never bitten anyone, and the case was dismissed.

Three first-timers were allowed to go.

ADDED SEWERS CAUSE TROUBLE

Willis Chipman Wires That He Will Be Unable to Come to London This Week.

THE PRESENT SITUATION

Engineer Graydon Says That Despite His Reports Sewers Have Not Been Properly Cared For.

According to information gleaned at the city hall today, Mr. Willis Chipman, the consulting engineer of Toronto, will not be able to come to London this week to make a report on the sewer system, but he will come next week. It depends altogether on his report as to whether or not another engineer will be called in to give independent advice on the conditions now prevailing.

It will be remembered that Mr. Chipman built the big sewer system, and at the time of its construction he declared it to be adequate for many years to come.

Additional Sewers.
Since that time, however, a large number of additional trunk sewers have been constructed, and in the opinion of many about the city hall the outlet is too small for the quantity of sewage now being carried to the river.

As pointed out yesterday, the chief difficulty is in South London, where the complaints have been too numerous to mention. Complaint has been confined to that section, however, as the East End sewers have been giving great trouble, and the Queen's Wharf sewer has also been a source of worry.

Changes Necessary.
City Engineer Graydon is of the opinion that the sewer system, with a few changes of minor importance, is sufficient to carry off the natural sewage, but that the storm water and the street flushing added to it taxes the sewer beyond its capacity.

He also states that contrary to his advice the sewers have not been looked after as they should have been to prevent backing up.

This spring he advocated the employment of a gang of men, two and a foreman, who should devote their whole time to flushing sewers and keeping them in order. That was not done, and the fact gave rise to much trouble.

Break in a Pipe.
The chief reason for the present serious state of affairs being brought to the attention of the council was due to a break in a pipe carrying the excess from the synchro station at Evergreen avenue. About 25 feet of this pipe was broken not long since, and instead of the sewage being carried to the river, it was deposited on the bank, and near the edge of the river. As a result, conditions far from healthful prevail in that neighborhood, and incidentally the amount of sewage dumped into the river has been discovered. This led to the conclusion that the pipe was not adequate for the needs of the city.

Afraid of Litigation.
The aldermen were afraid that the effect of many of the side drains and smaller sewers are badly constructed, and it has been shown by recent investigations that this is the case. To what extent the trouble can be traced to that is not known, as the investigations are not thorough enough.

Mayor Stevely Speaks.
Mayor Stevely declared that the council has a perfect right to hold a star chamber session to discuss the situation.

"We thought the matter of sufficient importance to hold a secret session," said his worship. "I do not see why the press should be admitted to every gathering of that nature. We have had few such meetings this year, but we consider this to be of sufficient importance to hold a secret session if you like to call it such."

"We held a secret session because we did not desire any alarmist stories to be circulated," said Ald. Ferguson. "The whole sewer situation needs thoroughly going over, and a report made upon it. We did not care to frighten the people, but the fact is that we must deal with this problem."

ARTESIAN WELLS ARE HELD UP OVER A LEASE OF THE LAND

London Street Railway and Ald. Ferguson Cannot Get Together on the Proposition—B. V. Hole Serves Notice That He Cannot Proceed.

Contractor B. V. Hole has notified Hon. Adam Beck that it is impossible for him to go ahead with his contract on the combined power and water station, owing to the fact that he cannot obtain possession of the land recently purchased from the London street railway, and upon which the pump-house is to be erected.

The property is leased by Ald. Donald Ferguson, and is used for a lumber yard, having possession until May 1, 1910. To give possession of the land it will be necessary for him to move all his lumber and seek quarters elsewhere. To do so he asks to be reimbursed in the sum of $200.

The London Street Railway Company refuse, it is stated, to pay that amount of money, and Mr. Beck does not consider that he is called upon to pay it. As a result construction work has ceased.

A Business Proposition.
"It is simply a business proposition," said Ald. Ferguson. "I leased the property and my lease does not expire until next spring. I have a large quantity of lumber on the premises which will have to be moved. I think that $200 is a very small sum—the least it can be done for. I asked that amount. Surely the city or any person would not blame me for seeking to be reimbursed for my trouble. I have no desire to hold up the building operations but in all fairness I should be paid for my trouble and expense in getting my lumber away."

Manager King Speaks.
"I understood the matter was settled," said Manager King of the London Street Railway. "I thought there must be some mistake about the matter when I heard of it. We sold the land, and we thought the transaction was satisfactory to all concerned."

"I have been notified that work has ceased," said Hon. Adam Beck. "We cannot get possession of the land, so we are at a standstill."

To Remit Rent.
The offer to remit the rent was made to Ald. Ferguson, amounting to about $50, but this was not satisfactory to him, and the deal falls through. Ald. Ferguson stated that he had been put to considerable expense and inconvenience owing to a trip from Owen Sound and return, owing to the mix-up, and that he intends to stick to his offer, $200, or remain where he is until his lease expires.

STREET CLEANING BY DAY LABOR NEXT YEAR

Engineer Graydon Is in Favor of a Change in the Present System.

Street cleaning will be done by day labor next year.

That was the statement made by City Engineer Graydon this afternoon. "I think it would be much better that the city should have the street cleaning done by day labor," said the engineer. "The contract work has not been satisfactory, and I think we can save the city a very great deal of money by doing it as I suggest."

We have the proper appliances, and we can do the work much better than it is being done at the present time. A number of the aldermen are in favor of the suggestion, and it is quite probable that it will be accepted.

SAUNBY EXPROPRIATION NOT CONSIDERED

Apparently, However, the Commissioners Are Favorable to That View.

The expropriation of the Saunby property did not come up at the meeting of the water commissioners yesterday afternoon as anticipated.

Chairman Jones was not in good health, and asked that as much business as possible be laid over for a subsequent meeting to be held when the other members desired.

Commissioner Darch intended bringing the matter up, but he was unable to suggest that the property be purchased.

"We will discuss the question at our next meeting," said Commissioner Darch. "We intended dealing with it yesterday, but we put it over until the next meeting, when it will come up."

From what can be learned the majority of those interested in the matter are in favor of expropriating the property, and the council has been asked to suggest that a dredge be placed on the river.

A YOUNG PRISONER ESCAPED FROM MIMICO

Was Captured on a Farm on the Governor's Road and Will Be Sent Back.

A young boy of about 15 years of age, who escaped from the Mimico Industrial School, where he has been confined on a charge of theft, was arrested on a farm on the Governor's road yesterday afternoon, and appeared before Squire Chittick, who remanded him to jail pending the arrival of the officer from the institution to take him back.

Balliff Salter, who came this morning to take the lad, says that the boy and his brother, who is also in the institution, have a very bad record, both of them having been confined several times, and on each occasion of their release have celebrated by several new thefts. The little fellow who was arrested here, comes from Camlington. He was working on a farm there at the time of his escape, it being the custom to permit some of the boys to earn money by working for nearby farmers. Very few of them, said the balliff, were granted this privilege, ever attempt to escape. The boy in question, however, accompanied by another boy of about the same age, did make the attempt and have succeeded in eluding the police for some weeks. The latter was also working in this locality for a while, but has since been seen in Toronto, where the detectives are on the lookout for him.

Will Visit Dorchester.
Right Wor. Bro. W. Wallace, D.D. G.M., will visit Merriw Lodge, No. 244, A. F. and A. M., at Dorchester on Thursday evening. A large number of the local brethren will go with him.

WATER COMS. WANT TO HOLD SURPLUS

Pass a Resolution to Make Commission Independent of the City Council

SAY SYSTEM IS WRONG

Commissioner Darch Gives His View on the Subject—Other Matters at Tuesday's Meeting.

The water commissioners desire that the waterworks business should stand on its own foundation, and at the meeting held yesterday afternoon a resolution was passed asking the council to have the London bill so changed that the department will be independent of the council.

At the present time the city council pays the debenture charges out of its revenue, and all the commission's surplus is turned over to the council. The commissioners were of the opinion that the department should attend to its own affairs, independent of the council.

The Resolution.

The resolution, as moved by Commissioner Darch yesterday, was as follows:

"That the city council be requested to secure from the Legislature such changes in the London waterworks act as will empower the water commissioners to hold its own funds, so that after providing for the city water rates and the interest and sinking fund on its outstanding waterworks debentures, any balance may be held over from year to year to be used in extension work."

Says System Is Wrong.
"I have favored this for a long time," said Commissioner Darch. "I am convinced that the present system is wrong, and does not give the citizens an adequate idea of the waterworks department."

"My idea is that the waterworks should be kept entirely separate from the city council, and put on a surplus into a fund to pay off the debentures, and provide money for main extension. As we gradually paid off our indebtedness, we would have in demand for water, and consequent increase in revenue, would give us large sums of money to discharge the indebtedness, we would be able to reduce the price of water."

Much Confusion.
"There is a great deal of confusion regarding this matter at the present time. The council makes a big showing each year with the surplus from the waterworks, and I think we should control it."

Chairman Jones heartily concurred in Mr. Darch's position, and maintained that the two accounts should be kept separate. The resolution passed without opposition, and will be sent to the council.

Other Matters.

Mr. J. O'Brien, of the Wharfside road, West London, asked for water extension on his street. Engineer Moore will report.

A communication was received from the city council stating that $30,000 had been placed to their account for the new pumping plant. A check for $11,000, for work done by Hon. Adam Beck this spring, was made out in his favor.

Thomas Robins, Cathcart street, between Tecumseh avenue and Briscoe street, asked for water service. Engineer Moore will report.

Those present were Mr. William Jones, chairman; Commissioner Darch, Mayor Stevely, Engineer Moore and Secretary Elwood.

Mrs. Jane Smale Dead.

Mrs. Jane Smale, wife of Mr. Fred Smale, of 28 Forward avenue, died in Victoria Hospital this morning after an illness extending over several weeks. Mrs. Smale was 44 years old, and besides her husband, is survived by six small children. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

TWO GIRLS BADLY HURT WHEN HORSE BOLTED

An Unfortunate Accident During the Speed Trials at New Hamburg Fair.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Stratford, Sept. 21.—As soon as the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board gives the word of authority, a new $7,000 steel straight-girder bridge will be built across the narrows of Victoria Lake at Waterloo street. The board of health asked for a $5,000 grant for three brick isolation cottages in connection with the General Hospital.

Jeffrey & Abraham, commercial printers, have dissolved partnership, and Mr. Alex. Abraham has assumed full charge of the business. The dissolution papers were drawn up yesterday.

During the speed trials at the new Hamburg Fair Friday, one of the saddle horses bolted for the grandstand, knocking down two girls, Miss Ruby Lennox and Miss Tillie Kurlie. Miss Lennox had her collarbone broken and her feet injured, while her companion received more serious internal injuries, rendering her unconscious until Saturday evening.

On Oct. 2 the local Y. M. C. A. intend holding an open athletic meet, consisting of ten events including walks, runs and weight-throwing. Mr. Gus Campbell, a local junior shot-putter will break the Canadian record on this occasion, having done so a number of times already in practice meets.

HALL APPEARS ON PERJURY CHARGE

Case Adjourned Until Tuesday and Bail Allowed in $2,000.

Alfred Hall, of Port Stanley, appeared before Magistrate Glenn, in St. Thomas last night to answer to a charge of perjury. The case was adjourned until Tuesday next and Hall was allowed out on $2,000 bail, $1,000 of which was furnished by himself, $500 by Mrs. Hall, and $500 by Mr. Earl, of this city. Hall was arrested in connection with a recent case which was heard before the county magistrate.

PEARY DECLINES ALL RECEPTIONS

Until Controversy With Cook Over North Pole Is Settled.

EELIRIUM AT BROOKLYN

Fellow Citizens' Welcome to Pole Discoverer Partook of Nature of Riot.

New York, Sept. 22.—Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic Club, who accompanied Mrs. Peary northward to join her husband, said last night, when informed of Commander Peary's refusal to appear at any public function until the polar controversy shall have been settled: "I expected this dispatch and Commander Peary's action will meet the approval of his friends. Only tentative plans for his reception have been made and even these were held in abeyance because it was believed he would prefer his friends should await word from him before they committed him. This announcement will therefore cause no inconvenience."

There is disappointment in the city at large, however, and particularly in the Hudson-Fulton committee, which had placed Peary's name on the naval parade committee before he sailed north and had eagerly hoped for his return in time to add glory to the celebration.

Sydney, C. B., Sept. 21.—The steamship Sheeha, with Mrs. Peary and her children, Col. H. D. Borup, the father of George Borup, a member of the Peary expedition, among others on board, went out again this morning to meet the incoming Roosevelt. At nine o'clock the expected ship was sighted off Low Point, and immediately all the carefully rehearsed plans for Peary's reception began to be put into execution.

At 7 o'clock, so Mr. Ross said, the Roosevelt had been sighted by his skipper, bearing down from St. Paul's Island, who had run out to meet the polar ship. Here a surprise lay in store for Commander Peary. As the Sheeha drew alongside, Bobby Peary, in his immaculate sailor blue, stood on the bridge, waving his big silk American flag and shouting "Welcome, Peary!" in a loud, clear voice. The ship was in his cabin, and Captain Bob Bartlett, on the Roosevelt's bridge, spotted the boy and his mother on the yacht. Bartlett had a message down to the commander in a hurry, and Peary came running out of his cabin. The Sheeha lowered a boat with the explorer and his wife exchanged long-distance greetings.

Then Mrs. Peary, Miss Peary, Robert, Jun., and Col. Borup were rowed over to the Roosevelt's ladder. Mr. Ross said that Commander Peary did not wait at the rail to greet his wife, where all the crews of both vessels could see, but that he went to his cabin, and there Mrs. Peary and her children went to find the man they had waited for alone. It was nearly 1 o'clock when the spindling masts of the Roosevelt showed above the tops of trees that crown the headland beyond town.

Hanging from the lanyards out at the tip of the mizen spar were the words "Thank you" in whirling code bunting, a permanent courtesy which the Roosevelt sported all the way down the harbor. But above the string of flags was the one which set the lips ashore to buzzing. It was a dentail, for there surely would have been some serious strife ensuing. A woman had her ankle badly twisted and had to be helped off to a lounge inside, but beyond that there were no long American flag, with a broad white strip sewed to it from the top-most star of the union, diagonal down to the outer tip of the lower strip. Across the white slash, in letters of black, were the words "North Pole."

Slowly the Roosevelt nosed in against the Cape Breton Electric Company's wharf, at the foot of the heights, where stood the Sydney folks, and lines were made up and hoisted. The gangway was thrown down from the forward deck of the polar craft, the silk-hatted committee, headed by Mayor Richardson, stepped forward to present the freedom of Cape Breton and all the neighbors to the commander. After official functions were gone through with, something happened about which the inner circles of Sydney had been agog for a week. Miss Naomi Louise Kehl, the 14-year-old daughter of the American consul, stepped forward and handed to the commander a bouquet of asters, which was formed in the shape of a globe with an American flag, its staff picturing the round mass of blossoms, fluttering from the North Pole of the bouquet.

It was not the bouquet that was interesting, as the fact that precedence had been established by a tour de force. Bitter had been the acrimony over tencups in the matter of whether the daughter of the American consul or the daughter of the Canadian mayor should be the one to present the hero from the north with the floral compliments of Sydney. Finally, by common consent, it had been decided that each daughter should present a bouquet, and the question of who should do it first was left open to circumstances, and the ingenuity of the papas. Hence Sydney's momentary thrill when Miss Naomi beat Miss Gladys Myrtle Richardson to Peary's side.

DIES IN PRISON.

Toronto, Sept. 20.—Wm. Seay, the negro, who was sentenced by Chief Justice Falconbridge to 20 years' imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary for attempted murder of his white wife, died yesterday in the prison.

The attempted murder took place on Booth avenue, in Riverdale, and the man fired two shots at his wife, but did not inflict any dangerous wound. The case was a peculiar one, as Mrs. Seay was the daughter of a rich man in the Southern States, and she was apparently well educated and refined. Seay worked as a coachman for her father, and she married him. The attempted murder was the result of the man's jealous temper.

VISION BY PHONE.

Mexico City, Sept. 22.—Alberto Sanchez, an electrical engineer, at claims to have invented an apparatus whereby vision as well as voice may be transmitted over an ordinary telephone wire. He calls his invention teleradiation and the prison officials admit that successful tests have been made with models. It is stated the contrivance resembles short opera glasses attached to a battery.

Guilty of Assassination. A man, razor in hand, was caught by his wife assassinating not an enemy, but a corn—what he needed was Putnam's Corn Extractor. It's safe, painless and sure. Try "Putnam's"—nothing sells so good.

steps of the official carriage and driven to the hotel in company with Mayor Richardson and Consul Kehl. Mrs. Peary, her two children, and Captain Bob occupied a second carriage.

Peary's Speech. As the carriages moved through the crowd to the hotel the crowd cheered. Arriving at the hotel Mayor Richardson alighted, ascended the steps and read a hearty and official welcome to Peary, who remained in the carriage, on behalf of the Government and people of the town. That done, Miss Richardson handed up the second bouquet. Then Commander Peary rose and in a neat speech expressed the pleasure that he felt in the eloquent and friendly words of the mayor, and said that because of his frequent visits to Sydney, he had begun to look on its people as friends.

"Once," he added, "I brought back with me the record of farthest north, and once the largest meteorite in the world. Today, thank God, I've brought back the pole."

Here hearty cheers interrupted the commander.

"If there is anything in this work of mine," he continued, "it is this, that if a man devotes himself to the accomplishment of one thing and sticks at it long enough, makes it the object of his whole life, he is bound to win."

Just as the commander finished this last word there was a cracking of timbers, and a section of the front porch of the hotel upon which a packed mass of people was standing, sunk three feet. That it did not go further, seemed at the time more than providential, and the incident was soon forgotten.

Mayor Richardson proposed three cheers for Peary, and they were given. Then he set going three more for Bartlett, the Newfoundlanders. These were also given with a will. Captain Bartlett is one of kin with these Cape Breton people, and the idol of every fisherman. They yelled for speech, and Bob grew pink, then scarlet. Finally he delivered himself thuswise:

"Some seven or eight years ago," said he, "I made up my mind that if I could command a ship for Commander Peary I would want nothing better, and here I am. When we returned to Sydney from the last trip north I was sure that we would win out next time, and we have, praise God."

"Citizens, I wish you could see that man there," (pointing at Commander Peary). "I wish you could see the man who has gone ahead all the way to the pole and breaking trail, then you'd know why it is I'm proud to say that Peary nailed the Star and Stripes to the North Pole."

After that an impromptu levee was held at the carriage steps. People stood in line to pass before Peary's carriage and shake his hands. At the conclusion of the levee Commander Peary went into the hotel, and spent the rest of the afternoon, receiving friends who had come to Sydney from distant cities. The night he spent alone with his family. He will leave on the 7 o'clock train for the States tomorrow. He would go straight to Eagle Island, he said, and he could not tell how long he would remain at his summer home there.

New York, Sept. 21.—From 5 o'clock this morning the explorer intermittently paced the saloon deck of his steamer, placing his marine glasses to his eyes, and watching every tug or vessel which approached the Oscar II.

At last the clock, a little ill at ease, looked at the little tug at the stern of the companionway, was down the ladder before the tug was alongside. He leaped across the intervening stretch of water to the tug and dashed up to the hurricane deck, where his wife was waiting for him, waving the Stars and Stripes as he approached. She looked pale, doubtless from excitement, as her husband folded her in his arms, and embraced her without a single word passing between them. Their hearts seemed too full for utterance.

For the moment, he even missed the children, who stood a few feet away, until his wife silently led him to them. Then, as he lifted his youngest daughter to his shoulder, the silent, watching crowd that lined the rails of the Oscar II, broke into a storm of cheers.

It had been arranged that the excursion steamer, Grand Republic, carrying Dr. Cook's friends and club mates from Brooklyn and New York, and John R. Bradley, his backer, should keep far enough in the background to give him a few minutes of first privacy with his family. But soon there followed a second transfer from the tug to the Grand Republic. As Dr. Cook set foot aboard, Miss Ida Leckie, of an old Brooklyn friend, threw a wreath of roses about his neck, and proclaimed him a "Gentlemen of Bushwick." Bushwick is the name of Dr. Cook's home section of Brooklyn.

Dr. Cook looked it. Positive, patient, taciturn, he endures the business of being a hero with courtesy, but no enthusiasm. As he stood beside Bradley, his backer, the contrast was apparent. Bradley looked the typical man-about-town. Cook, a little ill at ease, smiled continually in an honest sort of way, as a man wholly sure of himself, but not so certain of the impression he was making. It was a good impression, for the crowd liked the simplicity, which seemed to carry conviction.

On shore, the really formidable part of the day for Dr. Cook still awaited him. After the first rush of welcome aboard the Grand Republic, he had been able to find comparative seclusion in the pilot house. From that vantage point, he could see the streets of Brooklyn, black with thousands, long files of automobiles ready. As he stepped ashore it was noticeable that no representative of the nation, the state or the city was there to greet him. Bird S. Coler, president of the Borough of Brooklyn, had welcomed him on the Grand Republic for that borough, but the city of New York sent no official representatives.

Brooklyn's reception of Dr. Cook had all the elements of a riot except the violence. From the moment the explorer fought his way into an automobile until he left the Bushwick Club tonight for the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, the surging crowds taxed the capacity of the police, and more than once got out of control. Along the five miles of avenues through which the explorer passed to the club, the mounted police were continually fighting a way for Dr. Cook's automobile.

As the car drew up to the club, a group of Cook's friends, headed by John R. Bradley, surrounded the machine, and the children stepped out, while the crowd whooped, cheered and whistled. Dr. Cook bowed and went into the house.

After an hour's rest, during which Dr. and Mrs. Cook were entertained at luncheon by a woman's committee, the clubhouse doors were thrown open, and a public reception began. Dr. Cook bowed pleasantly to everyone, occasionally breaking the rule, and grasping the hand of some old friend. By the time Dr. Cook had been standing there three hours, it was decided not to tax him further, although not a quarter of those waiting outside had been admitted. The crowd disposed of, there remained the newspapermen. Dr. Cook granted them just three minutes.

Morrison's "Faust" on Saturday.

Morrison's version of Goethe's sublime dramatic poem will be seen here at the Grand Saturday, matinee and night, with the most magnificent scenery ever accorded anything of its kind. The addition of magic to the beauty of the poem and the scenic artist's work, has made a truly beautiful whole. The reserve seat sale opens at the box office tomorrow morning.

Hopper's Plan Opens Tomorrow.

In the new song comedy, "A Matinee Idol," in which De Wolf Hopper will appear on Monday next, Sept. 27, at the Grand, the distinguished comedian plays the part of an unlucky actor of talent, and there is said to be more fun and good music in the piece than in anything that the popular actor has appeared in in years. Silvio Hain has contributed some of the tuneful music that has placed him among the foremost of American composers, and the book by Armand and Bernard, is not only a play in itself, but one that has been highly praised for its wit and good English. The reserved seat sale opens at the box office tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. No doubt Mr. Hopper will be greeted by a large audience. A large number of mail orders have been filled from nearly every place within a radius of 30 miles of London.

STANDARD FIRE ESCAPES.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—The fire department of the Province is conducting a series of experiments on fire escapes, with a view to secure one that can be standardized for the Province. The committee are assisting in this, which is part of the new policy of the department to bring up the efficiency of all licensed hotels to serve the needs of the travelling public. This afternoon the Davey automatic device, which won the prize at the late exhibition, was tested at the east wing of the buildings. The department has donated a prize of $50, and the travellers a similar sum.

HAMILTON WATER RATES.

Hamilton, Sept. 20.—The water rates revision committee this afternoon decided that although the meter system was the most equitable, yet the cost of introducing it was so great as to make it impracticable just now. City Engineer MacCallum estimated that it would cost $350,000 to install meters in all the buildings of the city, and the aldermen thought this cost put the proposal out of question. What they proposed now is to reduce the charges to the ordinary household by a certain percentage, greatly while cent. The exact amount was not decided upon. The charge for baths is $2 and for closets $3. It is proposed to reduce or wipe out these charges.

"GOLD" DISCOVERY EXCITES SANDWICH

Detroit, Sept. 22.—Sandwich is again aglow with excitement over the discovery of what the town sages say is gold. Yesterday afternoon, while engaged in putting down water pipes on the Prince road, just on the outskirts of the town, Richard McKee, a plumbing contractor, resident member of the council, and acting in the capacity as advisor to a number of town residents, dug up a considerable quantity of shiny, blinding particles, which have all the appearance of gold.

As nothing of this kind has ever been unearthed in this part of the country, a great amount of speculation has been caused by the discovery. The news spread like wildfire, and within the short space of a few moments McKee was besieged with callers. Three paths of the glistening material was gathered up by McKee and taken to his residence, and his home on Sandwich street now is the central figure of attraction. A number of townspeople stated last night that this morning they would secure a digging outfit and attempt to duplicate McKee's feat. McKee has not yet made any preparations to enter the mining business, but he will have his discovery of yesterday afternoon sent to an assay office without delay. A number of those who have called at the McKee residence are of the firm belief that the collection contains a large percentage of gold.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22.

THE PORT STANLEY RAILWAY LEASE.

It is said the Pere Marquette intends to press at once for the renewal of its lease of the London and Port Stanley Railway. The lease does not expire until January 1, 1914, but the Pere Marquette people contend that they will not be justified in going ahead with projected improvements and the development of traffic if they are not assured of a longer tenure. The argument from their standpoint is a plausible one.

The Pere Marquette has been a satisfactory lessee within the limits of the existing agreement. It has much improved the passenger service in the past few years, and the increase of the freight business between London and Port Stanley shows that it has tried to promote the growth of lake traffic, a most important consideration. But the city is in the position of a property-owner, interested in getting the best return from an investment. Competition for the lease should be invited and encouraged. At the same time it must be kept in mind that the main value of the London and Port Stanley Railway to the city is its relation to the lake and harbor. A higher rental would not compensate for the deliberate discouragement of freight traffic. Such a contingency must be guarded against. The L. and P. S. R. is a leverage upon freight rates and should greatly strengthen the city's position as a manufacturing and distributing centre, by giving it the competition of the lake route. Port Stanley has been made at last a good harbor, and London should reap all the benefits of owning a railway connected with it.

RESPONSIBILITY OF DIRECTORS UNDER THE NEW LIFE ASSURANCE BILL.

The life assurance bill, which passed the House of Commons at its last session, and which was held over by the Senate until next session, brings this question very prominently forward. The principal clause still left for discussion is that which deals with the appointment or election of directors. It is probably the most important clause in the bill. It provides that in stock companies, two-fifths shall be elected by the policyholders, and three-fifths by the shareholders, and that the number of directors shall not be more than sixteen or less than nine. Every policyholder shall have a vote for each thousand dollars of insurance carried, and every policyholder who is insured for four thousand dollars may be a director; a policyholder cannot be a shareholder's director and a shareholder cannot be a policyholder's director.

All legislation that invites and provokes evasion of the law is vicious. This legislation does so. It is not difficult to imagine many instances in which such a law would produce injurious results. A company has been chartered by act of Parliament and worked successfully for many years, every one connected with it being satisfied. It may have twelve or more shareholders' directors. The law says three of them must retire, and they must be elected even by the policyholders. They may be very desirable, but one-fourth must stand aside. The lot of a director is one of legal responsibility, let him have the power. The management necessarily comes into direct contact with the policyholders. It alone knows them. If a vacancy occurs in the management, and the directors select the man they consider best qualified to fill the position and he proves a failure, they should have power to change. If the proposed bill becomes law, he is master of the directors, not they of him. This is wrong. The power to elect the directors must be selected by the policyholders. The power to elect these would clearly be with the management. All experiences prove this. He would be a poor manager indeed and likely to have never been appointed, if with this start he could not influence sufficient of the balance to give him a majority. What power have they against his power?

The proposal is a violation of the terms upon which the charters were granted and the capital invested. The acts of incorporation in several, if not in all, are in this respect optional. If representation by policyholders is desirable, it can be given, and if not desirable, it need not be. The shareholders invested their money under these charters, and carried out their contracts. They stood between the policyholder and loss. For years, in all probability, they received no dividends. The policyholders each make an agreement with the company, and if not carried out, the shareholders must lose all before the policyholders lose anything. Many policies have a clause guaranteeing a loan to the extent of the reserve. What interest should such a policyholder have in the management? He can walk in any day and secure a loan equal to his interest in the company. If this power is left optional, no one is hurt, because any policyholder considering his vote of any value can select a company in which some of the directors are elected by the policyholders.

All experience shows that policyholders do not take any part in the management of a company. The recent investigation proved conclusively that except where sought by the management, the policyholders took no part whatever. In companies where provision for voting was made, it was never taken advantage of. No policyholder ever appeared at a meeting. The policyholder does not need to do so because he has the company's contract. He has the security of the capital and the reserve and the oversight of the department of insurance to protect him.

Modern practice tends towards great combinations. This is not desirable. The act gives men who took no part in the organization, incurred no risk, a power that would exceed the combined power of the shareholders. Various opinions are held as to the number of directors it is desirable to have. Some favor a small board of well-selected, competent men, who take a real part in the management of a company and meet frequently. Some favor a large board representing a large district with many prominent names, many of whom never attend a meeting. Others favor a moderate-sized board with an inside executive, the executive in such case being the actual board, and the larger body meeting occasionally to revise and confirm what the executive has done. The board may be constructed of any number. The law places the responsibility on them. The power to know and do right should not be paralyzed by this clause in the bill. A manager has necessarily all the power he ought to have. His energies should be spent in attending to the insurance business. It has been claimed in defence of this clause, that the insurance managers accepted it when the bill was before the House. This is far from being so, but even if so it only emphasizes the danger and points out with force exactly the harm; a manager might not see the wrong in power given to himself.

If an honest difference of opinion may exist on this question, then each view should be free to act. Each is entitled to work out the way he believes to be right. The policyholder is protected by his contract and by the law. The reasons given are conclusive that the clause and all relating to it should be struck out, and it should be left optional with every stock company to give representation to policyholders or not. From what unseen, but interested, source the request has come, it is difficult to determine. The injustice that might result is plain. The shareholder takes the risk. The director takes the responsibility. The policyholder never took an interest in any company, and never sought the change. It looks like "the seeming truth which cunning times put on to entrap the stock companies, the day will come when the error will be seen and rectified; but it is a wrong that should not be placed in the way of these companies, a menace and a danger to their safety, which once fastened on them may be difficult to loosen and be the cause of serious loss. It will make sound management more difficult and expensive. It is unsound in principle and utterly wrong, and should be agitated against until removed.

If it be true that "Men at some time are masters of their fate," it is more apparently true that wise legislation can favorably affect the fate of life insurance, and that those who frame the laws should be the masters of the fate of this important subject. They should adhere to sound principles as strictly as judges try to do in their decisions. If they do, this clause will not become law. The directors will be left with authority over the manager, and not to act only subject to his wishes.

The act also contemplates the abolition of medical directors. This, too, should be optional. Many questions arise where such a director is very useful. The medical director, from his position, knows more than an ordinary director. Surely in a bill, and throughout the whole bill, a greater freedom should be given. The English policy is freedom; the American, restriction. The greatest danger today in legislation comes from the limitation of American methods. It is not so long since Canada secured responsible government; but apparently, long enough for a generation to have arisen who frame laws looking towards the government of the people by the executive and its departments; thus making a political football of every business in any way subject to legislative control. The danger from political interference is more to be feared than any irregularities likely to result from freedom of management.

ONTARIO'S NORTHERN HERITAGE.

Mr. D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, says the surveyors of that line confirm the claim that there are sixteen million acres of good farming land in the Northern Ontario clay belt, Ho-points out that old Ontario and Quebec together have 20,000,000 acres under cultivation, which means that the agricultural development of the two old provinces may be very nearly duplicated in New Ontario. The railway magnate predicts that this latter region will some day hold the balance of power between the east and the west.

The faith of former governments in New Ontario is being rapidly justified. Those who professed to regard the cry "Build Up New Ontario," as party clap-trap, are now converted, and are doing their share toward fulfilling the policies set on foot by their predecessors in office.

A remarkable development is in progress in the Temiskaming country, but it is only the beginning. The completion of the National Transcontinental Railway and of the Temiskaming Railway which has been pushed northward to meet it, will greatly stimulate settlement and make the new region a competitor with the prairies for the land-seekers of this province at least. Its one disadvantage is the necessity of clearing the land, but there is a ready sale for the timber. The nearness of the district to the older portion of the province—less than a day's journey—will count for much with prospective settlers from Eastern Canada. There will not be the severance of old ties involved in the removal to the west. It will be a land of diversified industry—forest, field and mine—and its market will be at its doors. Great is New Ontario and great will be its future.

CHAMBERLAIN'S CAREER.

Many esteemed contemporaries are quite sure that Lord Rosebery has ruined his career and his political future because he has broken with his party. This is what many said of Chamberlain when he broke with Gladstone; and yet the most useful part of Chamberlain's career followed that break—Hamilton Herald.

The most useful part of Chamberlain's career was the first part—his work as a municipal reformer. He wiped out miles of slums, recovered valuable franchises for the citizens of Birmingham, and gave them an administration which was a model for all the cities of the United Kingdom. The latter part of his career, following his break with Gladstone, has been an anti-climax. His alliance with the Unionist party was an unnatural one. At 50 years of age he turned his back upon the principles of a lifetime. Old age pensions, land reform, and other progressive policies which he had made his own, were anathema to his new political bed-fellows. The sober-sided Radical blossomed into the glittering Imperialist, a second Disraeli, playing Disraeli's game of a "spirited foreign policy" in order to divert attention from domestic problems.

Mr. Chamberlain's two achievements in the past 25 years have been the authorship of the Boer war and of the "tariff reform" movement. The people of the empire, the great majority of them, were dead to the causes of the war, and do not reflect upon it with pride, excepting in so far as it proved the valor of British soldiers. As to Mr. Chamberlain's tariff policy, it has yet to be worked out and tested. There are many who say it would set the different nations of the empire by the ears instead of being a bond of unity. Time alone will tell.

In "the last phase" of his career the great ex-Radical is allied with a party which is fighting for his old enemies, the land monopolists, and fighting against a budget which contains the very principles he used to champion.

The water commissioners have decided to install meters in all houses with bathrooms. It is a move which this journal has advocated for years. Australia has entered upon a scheme of compulsory military and naval training. The yellow peril in Australia, the German peril in Great Britain, Canada is happily not so obsessed.

It is said that Corey, the steel king, is about to divorce his new actress-wife for whom he discarded the wife of his poorer days. Simultaneous polygamy is a crime, but society tolerates consecutive polygamists of wealth and fashion.

The official returns show that one person in 37 in Great Britain is on the pauper list. There is more wealth in the country than ever before yet the dukes are squeaking because a humane Government is trying to bring about a more equal distribution of it.

The Dominion Trades Congress has declared against militarism. Any movement to be effective must be international. The workings of the leading countries could put an end to the colossal expenditure upon armaments, of which they pay the largest share, if they would co-operate. It looks as though the time is not far distant when they will.

Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, who died yesterday from the effects of an operation, was the only man in the Democratic party who challenged Bryan's ascendancy. Undoubtedly he would have been the next Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Even his untimely death recalls Burke's saying on a similar occasion: "What shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue!"

AND HE PASSED.

[Cassell's Saturday Journal.]
"Good night," said Statelate. "I've enjoyed myself immensely. Now, next Sunday night I expect to pass your house and—"
"That will be nice. Good night!" and she shut the door.

"You bet she is. Never corrects her parents, publicly, no matter what the exigencies of the case may be."

THEN HE SHUT UP.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"A camel can work a week without drinking, but who wants to be a camel?"
"Yes, and you can drink a week without working, but who wants to be you?"

MR. TAFT'S TRIP.

[New York Times.]
The long tour of the United States upon which President Taft starts today is no mere junketing trip. He will experience the harsh extremes of climate, the strain of fifty dined and the vicissitudes of 12,500 miles travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the northernmost to the southernmost borders of the United States. He travels as President and as leader of a party, not now united, that elected him President. For the first time in American history a President of the United States is to set foot in foreign territory during the period of his incumbency. He will accept of this precedent cheerfully and with impunity. The immediate effect of his accepting President Diaz's hospitality in Mexico City, will be to strengthen our friendly relations with the Mexican Republic. Its remote effects can be by no stretch of imagination be considered harmful. In this departure, and in the more important purposes of his journey, we wish the President Godspeed.

SKETEERS BRACE UP AND BEAT THE BISON.

Nailed Two Buffalo Men at the Plate and Whitewashed the Herd by Score of 1 to 0.

Jersey City, Sept. 21.—The Skeeters took a brace today and put life into their game. They nailed two of the Bisons at the plate and shut them out. The Skeeters squeezed in one run. It was served by O'Hara, who made his debut and favorably impressed. He was found at Atlantic City where he had been playing short in good style.

MONTREAL COPPED TWO GAMES FROM BALTIMORE

Orleans Went to Pieces in the Fifth Round of the First Game, the Winners Scoring Seven Runs.

Baltimore, Sept. 21.—The Baltimoreans lost both games to the Royals this afternoon. The first game was close until the fifth inning, when the whole Baltimore team went to pieces. A dumb play at the plate, followed by two errors by Hall, sent Adkins in the air, and the visitors slammed the ball to all four corners of the lot, scoring seven runs. In the second game the Birds could do little or nothing with Bob Wicker, while the Canucks bunched hits with the locals' errors. O'Neill made six hits out of eight times at bat. Score:

LABOR MINISTER AT THE CONGRESS

Hon. Mackenzie King Pleases
the Delegates Assembled at Quebec.

PLENDID NEW LIBRARY

Dealing With Labor Questions in the New Building at Ottawa.

Quebec, Sept. 21.—Among the several important addresses delivered by prominent men at the first day's session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada yesterday the deliverance of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, minister of labor, was considered the most important from the standpoint of the delegates. The minister referred to the first convention he had attended in Ottawa ten years ago, and said the gathering in Quebec was of a most thoroughly representative character.

"Among your delegates I see a fellow-member of the Dominion House of Commons, a member of the Ontario Legislature, and a member of the British House of Commons," he said. "There are no less than half a dozen men who take part in the deliberations of the legislative bodies of our country. You meet together upon this occasion, having a minister of the Government to watch the interests of labor in the country. It should give us reason to look forward to the future with great hope."

"In a few days the department of labor at Ottawa will move out of their present quarters because we have outgrown them, and will occupy a new building, to be known as the department of labor of Canada. We hope to make it something more than a mere place to store books. We propose to make it a place where one of the best labor libraries in the world, where men interested in the labor question may obtain information on every phase of the problem. Upon the walls will hang charts illustrating the growth of the trades union movement, the advance or decline of wages, the loss of life through industrial accidents, the number of strikes and lockouts."

Free From the Others.

"We have never had the opportunity to carry on our work independent of other departments of the Government before," the young minister continued, "but in the future we will. The labor Gazette was first published ten years ago, where there was not a single publication that kept a record of labor conditions in Canada. There has no agency to collect information respecting labor. Today we have a agency, and in addition we intend to have a library containing special reports dealing with special subjects affecting the labor question. When the department was organized we had only one fair-wage officer, today we have two."

In further references to the work of the fair-wage officers, Mr. King paid glowing tribute to the efforts of the late D. J. O'Donoghue, and said his name would stand out as one of the others of the labor movement in Canada.

"Through the fair-wage officers, between 1,500 and 2,000 wage schedules of public contract have been drafted, and you see that they have been of considerable service in improving the conditions of the workers. We can say that all cases of violation of the fair-wage clauses that have been brought to our attention have been adjusted. We have made it obligatory for contractors to show their books to the fair-wage officers."

"The minister then turned his attention to strikes, and stated that there was nothing more disastrous than industrial warfare."

"I don't believe in war of any kind," he said. "There can't be one of peace for one set of conditions that cannot be applied to another set of conditions. It is the duty of the government to see that all strikes and lockouts should be eliminated. We will then be able to give an example of what a nation that stands for peace can do. There is no one more conscious than I am of the fact that it is impossible to enact legislation without affecting someone's liberties, but it is the greatest good for the greatest number that we must consider. All legislation is based upon compromise. Through our industrial disputes and investigation bill we compel men to get together and discuss their differences, and where they are disagreeing."

regularly nourished by proper food will have incentive and power for successful work.

Grape-Nuts is a true brain and nerve food. Made of whole wheat and barley, it contains the elements of vital energy—quickly absorbed by the system—which nourish and rebuild the grey matter of the brain and nerve centres.

posed to evade the truth we can compel them to show their books." Referring to the reports that Asiatic labor would be introduced in the construction of the G. T. P., Mr. King said the Government had not been asked either by individuals or corporations for permission to bring in Asiatics to do the work.

"When such a request is made," he added, "the Government will give all men an opportunity to express views upon it. Immigration from the Orient should be restricted. I learned while visiting the Orient that there were officials who recognized that the standard of living was not the same for the Chinese as the citizens of Canada. I was surprised to find how foreign produce had entered the city of Peking. There was one department store, filled with products from Germany. Why, then, we get a market for Canadian goods there? At present the Chinese are kept out by a head tax. Can we hope to get this trade with such a tax on the Chinese? We should have a regulation that would be just as effective and perhaps more effective, but not as objectionable to China. There is a means of preventing the influx, and at the same time getting the trade."

"We should secure the enforcement of law dealing with our large corporations," Mr. King continued. "We should keep in check the greed and avarice of these corporations. We want the enforcement of laws generally, no matter who is affected. If the law is not administered, the workers suffer the most because of the power of those controlling the situation."

"When a law is placed upon the statutes we would like to have a pronouncement from congress upon it."

"No man is more deserving of honor than the man who earns his livelihood by the sweat of his brow. What a struggle it has been for labor to get recognition. It is due in a measure to the church and reformers, but mostly to the efforts of the workers themselves. I believe with Ruskin that we will never be right until we see the equal of any man in the man who toils. (Applause.)"

"The newspaper seems to have an attraction for all ex-ministers. They begin as journalists, and to journalism they return. There are Gabriel Hanotaux, ex-minister of foreign affairs; MM. Lockroy and Camille Pelletan, both ex-ministers of the navy, and all regular contributors to the Paris daily press."

Whatever other profession the ex-premier may follow, he has decided to take up his old work of journalism, and will write for Le Temps. It appears his hand has lost none of its cunning since the time he wrote the powerful article every day for eighteen months on the tragic Dreyfus case.

Mr. Dupuy, a former prime minister, and now minister of commerce, conducts his own paper, Le Petit Parisien, when out of office. And the venerable Rochefort himself, who has written a little every day for the past forty years, held a portfolio in the first ministry of the young republic. Rochefort predicts that this old enemy, Clemenceau, will go back to his former work of smashing ministers, and that he will not even spare the Briand administration, which he himself has made.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 21.—Adolph O. Eberhart was sworn in as governor of the State of Minnesota today by Chief Justice Start, of the supreme court. According to the constitution, the lieutenant-governor becomes governor immediately following the death of Governor Johnson. Adolph O. Eberhart was born in Sweden 38 years ago, but came to Minnesota in 1881. He first studied for the ministry, but afterwards took up the study of law, and soon built up a large practice.

John Albert Johnson was born near St. Peter, Minn., in 1861, of Swedish parentage, his father being a blacksmith by trade. Alcoholic dementia crowned a dissipated life on the part of Johnson, Senior, and young John, who was the second son, left school when his parent died in the county poorhouse, and went to work in a grocery store. Two years later he switched to a drug store, went to a general store at an advance in salary at the age of 20, and in time became a great reader of books.

Timekeeper for the railroad construction gang was his next position, and at 25 Johnson became editor of the St. Peter Herald, in which work he showed much ability.

His first nomination to public office was in 1894, when the Democrats named him for the state senate. He was not elected, however, till four years later. Availing himself of a peculiar political situation in 1904, Johnson yielded to the wishes of his friends and ran for governor, winning by 7,800 votes.

John Johnson's administration saw great changes of sort verging upon radicalism. He signed a bill providing for a maximum railroad fare of two cents a mile, and was the first to urge it. Freight-carrying charges furthermore were reduced some ten per cent, and the railroads were prohibited by threats of severe penalties from testing the validity of the law, a provision which the United States circuit court denounced as vicious.

Governor Johnson was instrumental in increasing taxation of property owned by corporations. The assessed value of the United States Steel Corporation's holdings in Minnesota increased from $22,000,000 to $197,000,000, and the state recovered from the same corporation large ore fields.

One Instance of Giving Intoxicants to Children in London.

London, Sept. 22.—An instance of the results which follow the giving of intoxicants to children—one of the forms of ill-treatment which the children's act is designed to prevent—is given in the Child's Guardian, the organ of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

"Quite recently," the journal states, "a little girl three and a half years of age, had been grossly neglected by her parents. It was necessary to remove her from their charge, and her custody was undertaken by the society. One of the society's helpers was sent to conduct her from the infirmary to her future home."

"On the way to the railway station the child, on passing a large public house, made a strong request to her escort to take her in and give her a drink of beer. At being denied her disappointment was acute. 'I want beer, I want beer, give me beer,' was her constant cry."

"At the station refreshment room milk was offered, but the child refused it."

"Not milk, give me beer," she wailed.

"At a tea time her request was repeated."

CLEMENCEAU TO BE JOURNALIST AGAIN

Expected He Will Follow Other Ex-Ministers Returned to Profession.

Paris, Sept. 21.—There is much speculation and discussion about ex-Premier Clemenceau's future. And Henry Rochefort is making merry over the first minister's fall. Rochefort never liked Clemenceau, especially since the ex-first minister voted his transportation beyond the seas.

Clemenceau, it appears, is now following the regime at Carlsbad; he then goes to Mount Dore; later he will try to build up his health by a trip to Egypt. Rochefort grins remarks that a man who has to take so many cures must be very sick indeed.

Whatever other profession the ex-premier may follow, he has decided to take up his old work of journalism, and will write for Le Temps. It appears his hand has lost none of its cunning since the time he wrote the powerful article every day for eighteen months on the tragic Dreyfus case.

"No doubt the natural tendency toward a concentration of interest in the railway and industrial life of the land will continue to exert itself, but it will proceed less in a manner calculated to excite public hostility than before. This is one conviction that was behind last week's great strength in the stock market. A second was the prospect that an era of dividend increases is now about to be entered upon."

"The statement, which may seem heartless and cold-blooded, but which has to be made nevertheless in discussing Harriman from a financial point of view, is that with him a breeder of panics has gone."

"There is now a unity of purpose among the larger financial interests in the United States that has not existed in the memory of the present generation in Wall street. We are not hearing now and do not seem likely to hear for a long time to come of the encroaching of one great railroad upon the territory of another."

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 21.—There was an attempt to start a revolution in Monterey, Mexico, on the evening of Sept. 15, according to mail advices received today. The rioters became panic-stricken, however, after firing a few volleys in the direction of the residence of General Geronimo Trevino, military commander of the district, when the general had all the lights in the city cut off and threw it into darkness.

General Trevino had been expecting trouble and had the troops under arms and waiting at the barracks for action at a moment's notice. Just at 11 o'clock, while General Bernardino Reyes, the governor, was addressing the crowd at the plaza in front of the State House, volley firing broke out. A hundred shots were fired before the city could be thrown into darkness by cutting off the switches at the power plant. As soon as the lights were turned off the regular troops were sent out in all directions, bands playing and the soldiers firing at random into the air to strike terror into the disturbers.

The darkness and the general din caused by the soldiers had its effect. The rioters began to flee for cover and in less than an hour the city was as quiet as a graveyard, but at least 500 shots had been fired. The soldiers continued to patrol the streets all night, and a number of arrests were made, especially in instances where the troops could find freshly discharged firearms in the homes of men in the vicinity of where the rioting occurred.

BROWNS DEFEAT
ATHLETICS 2 TO 1

Score in Opening Contest 3 to
1: Washington Blanks Tigers
2 to 0 in the Last

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Washington, Sept. 21.—Two games that were fully as hotly contested as any pair that marked the series with the Athletics, and that were filled with as good baseball as any two that might be picked from any of the four played in Philadelphia, today resulted in an even break on the parts of the Tigers and Nationals.

Detroit won the opener, 3 to 1, while left opposing Dolly Gray, the left-hander who has been so troublesome to the Tigers.

A ninth inning rally, after eight rounds that made it look like the victory for the team that should first break a tie that existed from the fourth on, decided this.

How the Thing Stands.

The Tigers can lose two more than the Athletics and still be tied with them at the end of the year. Each team lost a game. Those defeats balance each other. But, in addition, Detroit won one. That game is in its pocket. The Athletics have still to win their corresponding contest. If they lose it, they will have gone back a full game, counting the half game ground lost today.

Detroit is the better placed at the end of the afternoon because it never loses the points that the first game represents, while the Athletics may do so, and can recover nothing that they did not have this morning if they win out.

No Reason to Kick.

There are no regrets to offer for the outcome of the clashes. Detroit had the break of the luck in the opener, and it went Washington's way in the second game. Willett allowed but two hits, on one of which the man making it should have been thrown out. But he kept the Detroit hitters on the anxious seat all through the game, because of his wildness.

He issued five passes, and three of these were given to the first batter of an inning. One cashed for the only run Washington made. This would not have counted save for two errors, these plays costing the Kansas a shut-out.

Credit to Bush and Cobb.

All of the Tigers played brilliant ball in the opener, but credit for the victory, and for the small number of hits made by Willett, can be given to two men. Bush played a marvellous game at short and cut off three balls that should have been safe hits. Cobb made the feature play of the day, and undoubtedly saved Detroit from defeat.

It came up in the sixth inning. There were two men on, and two out, when Leftell smacked a liner into right field. The Georgian came in on the run, dove for the ball, took it as it was about to hit the earth, and came up with it after doing a half-somersault. It was a wonderful catch, and cut off a triple and two certain scores.

First Game.

The El is up against the greatest race of his career Thursday at Columbus, when he meets all the free-for-alls, including Hedgewood Boy, Lady Maud C, Allen Wilson, The Beau Ideal, Copa de Ora, and the rest. This bunch will step mighty close to two minutes every time they face the starter, and the Grey Ghost from Canada will have the time of his life in being them. Not that he can crack a 50-foot rope on the necks of any single pacer in the bunch, but the whole outfit will go after him, and he will have a rough journey. If McEwan has an even break in racing luck, The El should hang up a few records for the gang to shoot at.

Ty Cobb's series of accidents is getting on the young man's nerves, and yesterday he failed to get a hit. He will get along all right in a short time and then watch out. The loss of Barry will cripple the Athletics seriously in the coming struggle, and they are liable to fall down badly.

The Pirates put a spike in the penant yesterday, and won a pair.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—St. Louis today defeated Philadelphia by 2 to 1. St. Louis was made up of three young outlanders, with two of its regular outfielders in infield positions, but put up a splendid game. Bailey held Philadelphia down to three hits, one of which was a scratch home run by Olden in the fourth inning, when Crompton felt trying to stop a long drive.

St. Louis tied the score in the seventh inning, on an error by Collins, a wild pitch by Morgan and Wallace's single.

Squeeze Play Failed.

In the eighth inning Philadelphia had the bases filled, with one out, but Morgan was caught trying to score on an attempted squeeze play, Collins, the batsman missing the ball.

Hartzell scored the winning run in the ninth inning on his single. Griggs' sacrifice, Devoy's out and Wallace's single.

Baker doubled in Philadelphia's final turn at bat and took third on Davis' out, but the force was doubled up at the plate when Murphy sent a fly to Crompton.

AN INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

May include Detroit, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Buffalo, Cleveland.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—Men who are interested in hockey are considering the formation of a giant hockey league which will include in its circuit several Canadian cities and several in the United States. The promoters plan to include Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Detroit and Cleveland in the circuit.

The idea is to build a chain of arenas of hockey rinks, which may be used for amusement purposes in summer as well as in winter. The first step toward this is being made in Toronto, where the project for the erection of a big hockey rink remains in abeyance, pending a decision by the property committee of the board of education as to whether the proposed site shall be sold.

6,000 PEOPLE AT INGERSOLL FAIR

Big Crowd Tremendously Pleased With the Exhibits and Races.

Partial List of Successful Exhibitors—Names of Those Who Won the Races.

[By Our Own Man.] Ingersoll, Sept. 21.—Ideal weather, splendid exhibits, and one of the biggest crowds on record, will make the annual exhibition at Ingersoll, North and West Oxford Agricultural Society held here one of the greatest in its history.

"We couldn't have had better weather," Secretary Scott told The London Advertiser. "That is something new for Ingersoll, as it has almost invariably rained one out of our two days in the past. Everything, however, went off splendidly, and we are more than satisfied. There were more than 6,000 people on the ground and the body was well pleased with what they saw."

A Centre of Attraction. As on the opening day, one of the great centres of attraction was the handsome new main building, and all day long it was filled to overflowing with people who had come to Ingersoll for miles around the country. All through the day long crowds continued to arrive, and the hotel yards were soon filled to their capacity with buggies. In the afternoon a line of flags fully a quarter of a mile long extended along the road in front of the fair grounds.

Everybody Pleased. Everyone spoke in the highest terms of the fair, and was particularly pleased with the care shown in arranging the exhibits. Outside in the grounds there was great lot of booths and stands of all kinds, and their proprietors did a big business. Throughout the day the Citizens' Band of Ingersoll was in attendance and rendered a splendid programme of music.

The feature of the afternoon was the races. The track was in splendid condition, and the finishes were neck and neck to the great delight of the spectators.

The Results.

The winners were as follows:
2:18 Pace or 2:16 Trot—
Wilhelmina, F. Horn, London... 1 1 1

2:50 pace—
Dr. Mac, Dr. McLaughlin, Belmont... 1 1 1
Dan Patch, Tom Jones, Stratford... 2 2 2
Time—2:55, 2:56, 2:57.
Farmers' race, half-mile heats—
Sallor Bruno, D. Charlton, Springfield... 2 1 1
Fred S. L. Tolhurst, Tilsonburg... 1 2 2
Belle D. Brahm, Plattville... 3 3 3
Time—1:15, 1:14, 1:10.
The race won in charge of D. B. McCarty, Thamesford; John Mero, Tilsonburg; R. A. Mitchell and J. G. Currie, Ingersoll.

Cattle and Poultry.

Great interest was shown in the cattle and poultry exhibits, and a special prize offered by the Merchants Bank for the best herd of five dairy cows, was won by Isaac Edwards. John Smith, of Beechville, showed some splendid sheep, and with his animals practically swept the prize list. In Cotswolds, Norman Pack, of Essex, Oxford, was a heavy winner, and showed some very fine stock.

Choats Brothers, of Ingersoll, swept the prizes offered for South Downs.

HUDSON-FULTON FETE

Mighty Armada of Warships Assembling for the Occasion.

New York, Sept. 21.—A two-mile string of steel-clad United States warships today dropped anchor off outside New York harbor shortly after sunset. With the flagship Connecticut in the lead, the men-of-war will steam through the Ambrose Channel and the Narrows tomorrow morning, to the thunderous applause of the great forts, as the official representatives of the national Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Inside the harbor they will join the vanguard of foreign ships, already gathered there, as the nucleus of the mighty armada which will be anchored in the Hudson next Saturday. Tomorrow there will be a tumult of cannonading, and powder enough to blow up a city will be burnt, as greetings are exchanged between the American and French squadrons, the Mexican, Argentine and Dutch cruisers.

Tomorrow the British fleet, led by the mighty armored cruiser Inflexible, flying the flag of Sir Edward H. Seymour, and including the armored cruiser Drake, Duke of Edinburgh and Argyle, will arrive. The German and Italian warships also are expected tomorrow.

Broadway, Fifth avenue and all the squares and streets are blossoming into brilliant color schemes of Hudson-Fulton hue. Today most of the big office buildings, public structures, and even churches broke out in the celebration colors.

CANADIAN GIRL MISSING HEIRESS

Sharbot Lake Lady Has Bequest of $100,000 Awaiting Her.

Windsor, Sept. 22.—For some time the police of Saginaw, Mich., have been conducting an unsuccessful search for Miss Frankie Joyner, to notify her that she has fallen heir to a substantial fortune left her by her father at Sharbot Lake, Ont. No trace of the young woman's whereabouts for the last six years was discovered until today when information from Toledo was secured to the effect that Miss Joyner was known to be working in Chicago as late as 1907.

The race won in charge of D. B. McCarty, Thamesford; John Mero, Tilsonburg; R. A. Mitchell and J. G. Currie, Ingersoll.

TRAMP SENTENCED.

Brookville, Sept. 20.—At the assizes here today, Chief Justice Talbot presiding, John Fitzgerald, a tramp, was found guilty on a charge of assault upon an 8-year-old girl named Mabel Spafford, daughter of a respectable farmer residing in Leeds Township. Fitzgerald was sentenced to seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

A true bill was found against Miss Grace Henderson, of Gananoque, on indictment charging her with the theft of $2,500 from the Thousand Islands Railway at Gananoque, and no bill against H. C. Barker, charged with kidnapping a child, Michael Bero, to absent himself from a liquor trial.

$100,000 to Winnipeg.

The last Farm Laborers' Excursion will leave London Friday, Sept. 24, at 7:45 a.m., by the Canadian Pacific. Going rate $10. For an additional $18 ticket for return trip can be secured, leaving Nov. 30. All conditions must be complied with, same as on previous excursions. Call for tickets and full information at C. P. R. city office, corner Dundas and Richmond, London.

The Best Family Newspaper.

An ideal newspaper for the American home must be habitually clean and high-minded, it must offer something of interest to every member of the family, and it must present daily news of the whole world in authentic and readable form. A large contract, you will say. Well, the newspaper that comes nearest to filling it in the world is The Chicago Record-Herald. Its moral tone is always high, its news service is unsurpassed, and probably no other paper in the United States has so brilliant an array of special features suited to the tastes and needs of the family.

Business and professional men have long regarded the Record-Herald as the best paper for their own reading because of its unequalled facility for getting all the news of the world and putting it into the briefest possible form for the busy man. They also esteem it for the reliability of its financial, agricultural and market reports. Young men perhaps find its greatest attraction in the excellent sporting department, which fills four entire pages of Sunday and a page or more on other days. Wives and mothers emphatically prefer The Record-Herald on account of its well-conducted feminine department, its daily fashion news and hints for home dressmaking. Mm. Qui Vive's pungent and sensible beauty talks, Margaret Hand's famous page and the rest of the good things that make up the handsome woman's section in the Sunday paper. Children enjoy the Little Nipper and other comic sections, with the bright stories for boys and girls every Sunday. And all the family together can enjoy the interesting travels and special articles of William E. Curtis, Mr. Kiser's humor and verse, the serial stories and many similar features outside the news columns.

The Chicago Record-Herald has every right to call itself the best all-around family newspaper in the west.

A MUSEUM FOR CITY OF LONDON

Will Be Considered at the Next Meeting of the Public Library Board

A MEETING LAST NIGHT

At Which the Scheme Was Discussed—Committees Appointed to Look Further Into the Matter.

As a result of a meeting held last night in the office of Librarian Carson, the matter of establishing a public museum in the hall above the reading rooms and the library will be definitely dealt with by the finance committee of the library board on Oct. 7. At last night's meeting the library board, who some time ago met the committee who are looking after the museum project, heard their report, and three other committees were appointed to look further into the matter, and all the information they can secure will be presented at the next meeting of the library board.

Principal McCutcheon, of the College, acted as chairman, and after the meeting had been called to gather data for the consideration of the finance committee, a definite proposition might be made to the library board.

Miss Jean R. Laidlaw stated that the committee had decided that the collection of Mr. Tume, of this city, would form a splendid nucleus for the proposed museum.

Mr. J. W. Westervelt said the Tume collection is one of the finest of its kind in the country, and although the specimens are principally of natural history, there were a number of other things of value. People are negotiating for its purchase, as they thought the city should get it, and he thought it cheaper to purchase one else. Dr. Banks, the Assyrian lecturer, he stated, had seen the collection, and thought it was the best he had ever seen in Canada or the United States.

A Subscription List. Inspector Edwards suggested that committees be appointed to open a subscription list, negotiate with the library board for the necessary space, and to ascertain the best figure at which the Tume collection can be purchased.

Vice-Principal Dearness, of the Normal School, stated that the Tume collection appeared to have been purchased for a point of view of a curio collection. It was not a scientific collection, and from an educational standpoint, as far as school use was concerned, it was not particularly valuable, although it might appeal to the general public. The collection, if rearranged, could be of value. Professor Dearness mentioned the collection of Dr. Woolverton which he said was largely geological, and had been made and arranged scientifically.

Improving the Room.

Librarian Carson said that if the room above the library is used as a new ceiling, costing at least $150, would have to be put up, and that would cost $200 more to place the collection in the room. An attendant might be required. The present heating arrangements would have to be changed considerably, and he thought that if the library continues to grow as it has in the past, the space will be required for library use in a comparatively short time. The room was not a strip about four feet wide around the entire room, a distance altogether of about 200 feet. The room was not a strip about four feet wide around the entire room, a distance altogether of about 200 feet.

It was decided to appoint three committees to look after the matter, and make a further report, and Principal McCutcheon, Vice-Principal Dearness and Messrs. McKelvey and Macdonald were appointed to see the private collections and find out the best price for which they can be obtained. Inspector Edwards and Messrs. McKelvey and Macdonald were appointed to negotiate with the library board, and also to see if there is any other suitable place in the city for placing the collection. Messrs. McKelvey, McCutcheon, Westervelt, Edwards, Albert, Granger and Miss Jean R. Laidlaw were appointed a ways and means committee.

COOK MAKING HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES

Explorer Will Not Wait for the Decision as to His "Proofs."

New York, Sept. 22.—"Home will not mean rest for Dr. Frederick A. Cook for weeks to come. The man who says he was first at the North Pole this morning began a day of hard work. Piled in the sitting-room of his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria were nearly 1,000 letters and telegrams from all parts of the world, which the explorer must examine, and to many of which he must give immediate answers. So today he shut himself up with the young English secretary, whom United States Minister Egan had sent with him from Copenhagen, and set to work.

Dr. Cook will stay in his rooms practically all the time until his next public appearance, which will be at the banquet tendered by the Arctic Club tomorrow night at the Waldorf-Astoria. He has put all but the finishing touches to the first book narrative of his polar experiences, but it is probable that he will write a series of magazine articles also. His first labor, however, will be the preparation of the record of his discoveries, upon which he depends to convince the scientific world, and through them, the world at large, that his claims are well founded. He has decided that his record should be made up as soon as possible, and he will be ready to publish it at once.

Peary's latest decision to remain in comparative retirement until the question of polar supremacy has been settled is believed that being launched on a career of publicity. Dr. Cook will not follow the naval officer's example. "Why should he?" said one of his friends today. "Cook says he found the North Pole. Dr. Cook is the forey, the little Nipper and other comic sections, with the bright stories for boys and girls every Sunday. And all the family together can enjoy the interesting travels and special articles of William E. Curtis, Mr. Kiser's humor and verse, the serial stories and many similar features outside the news columns."

The Chicago Record-Herald has every right to call itself the best all-around family newspaper in the west.

CRUST OF THE EARTH TO PEEL OFF SATURDAY

Members of a New England Religious Sect Gathering for the Event.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 22.—True to their belief that a great upheaval is about to occur, whereby the top crust of the earth will peel off, carrying the wicked to destruction, and leaving the righteous in undisputed possession of the world, several thousand families belonging to the sect known as the Latter Reign of the Apostolic Church, have gone to Duxbury, Mass., an appointed place, to wait for the time. The time set for the triumph is Saturday next at 10 a.m. Leaders of the sect from Rhode Island, Maine, and elsewhere, are now at Duxbury, and it is said that many of them have disposed of all their worldly goods and have abandoned their various occupations. The prediction that the earth would be rended asunder on Sept. 24 is said to have been first made by Frank N. Doughty, an East Providence member of the Apostolic Church of this city, last spring.

EGYPTIANS LIKE TO LIVE IN JAIL

Natives Prefer Free Board To Working Hard To Pay Fines.

Cairo, Sept. 22.—Egyptian authorities are confronted with the difficulty that all over the country the prisoners are overcrowded, and it is now a matter of incarcinating the persons who are daily being convicted. Advantage was taken of the occasions of the departure of the khedive last May to issue an edict pardoning 1,700 prisoners, and it was expected that the pressure would thus be relieved. But their places have all been filled, and the state of affairs is worse than ever.

The framers of the native code did not allow for a peculiar trait in the Egyptian character. In other countries imprisonment acts as a deterrent, and where it is inflicted with the option of a fine the offenders nearly always elect to pay. Not so in the fellaheen and herein lies the reason why the present difficulty has arisen.

Imprisonment is no ignominy to him, but is looked upon as a punishment. The means of obtaining a respite from his labors in comfortable quarters with good food—and all at no cost to him—put in his mind, and he is not inclined to look after his land.

It is now proposed to supplement the penalty of imprisonment by fines in every case, and to make the cost of the prison in Egypt can be obtained from the facts that there were 84,600 admissions last year, and 2,700 in the previous year; that the average prison population is nearly 13,000 as compared to 11,500 during the same period, and that the cost of the prison since 1895, had to be doubled (irrespective of building grants); it now stands at $550,000.

The prison admissions represent 8 per cent of the native population.

NEW TRIBE FOUND IN THE FOR NORTH

San Francisco, Sept. 21.—On board the whaler Jeannette, which arrived in this port yesterday, heavily laden with furs, blubber and tales of the frozen north, was W. J. Bowser, an Arctic explorer, who reports the discovery of a new tribe of people never before seen by the eyes of a white man.

The new tribe of Eskimos, according to Bowser, live on a point of Prince Albert Island.

The newly-discovered natives, who call themselves Nunavoots, are tall and look like the North American Indians. The explorer was cordially welcomed by the strange tribesmen, and he procured many rich furs from them.

On this trip Bowser lost one eye through the bite of a spider.

TRIAL OF WARREN WOMAN

The Jury Found Her Guilty of Killing a Child.

Sudbury, Ont., Sept. 22.—After six hours' deliberation the jury on the case of Mrs. Robinson found the prima facie evidence of the murder of the infant of her daughter, who died in March, 1908. No other verdict seemed possible, although the jury was told that the accused was laboring under a great mental strain when committing the deed and recommended that she be shown the mercy of a life in prison.

The defence was one of temporary insanity, it being claimed that the facts surrounding the crime were such as to justify the contention that Mrs. Robinson could not have realized what she was doing.

The Transcontinental. The steel has been put down for 40 miles west of Cochrane on the Transcontinental Railway and will be extended twenty miles further within the next thirty days.

Two temporary bridges had to be built, the permanent steel structure will be in place during the winter. The grade is practically completed for 100 miles west of Cochrane.

East of Cochrane contractors have had some trouble with a koffer dam at the Abitibi where the high bridge is to be built.

Because there is no temporary structure the contractors, Foley, Welsh & Stuart, are now engaged cutting out a tote-road sixty-five miles long through the forest north of Cochrane. The track is being built over this new made trail they will carry supplies during the winter. These supplies will be cached at intervals of five miles, and when the spring opens again. About thirty miles of the first 100 miles of grade has been completed. The steel is now being laid, and the bridge is being built for the first eight miles of Cochrane to the Abitibi River.

Only Through Car Service to New York Over Double Track Line. Is via Grand Trunk and Lehigh Valley, the picturesque route. Round trip rate from London, Sept. 23 to Oct. 10, $17.50, including breakfast, celebration. Return limit, Oct. 10, 1909. Trains leave London, 12:14 a.m.; 8:43 a.m.; and 4:25 p.m., daily, and 2:05 a.m. daily, on Sunday. Full information, tickets, reservations, etc., from Mr. E. de la Hooke, C. P. and T. A., or R. E. DON AND TRIBESMEN IN FURIOUS CONFLICT

Spanish Valor and Strategy Too Much for the Fanatical Moors.

Madrid, Sept. 22.—The Spanish forces in Morocco according to the latest dispatches received here, were eminently successful Sept. 20 and Sept. 21 in attaining their offensive object, the turning of Mount Gurgun and the surrounding country into the hands of the Beni-Sicar tribesmen. The Government is today publishing broadcast accounts of many thrilling and gallant episodes of the fighting, and the war fever is at a high pitch. All the reports agree that the Moors showed fanatical courage, but they were met with a fine display of Spanish valor and strategy.

Near Taxdir four battalions of Spanish troops were deployed over a front six miles long. They were charged suddenly by 200 Arab horsemen, General Tovar, perceiving that the enemy threatened to break the line, sent a detachment of cavalrymen and infantry to check them, and with a terrific shock. At first the Moors broke, but they returned to the attack several times, leaving many dead on the field. The Spanish infantry then feigned a retreat and the Moors, reinforced, swept down upon them. The Spanish line then broke and the Moors, pressing forward, prompting them to flight. Dispatches report that the Moors left a hundred dead men on the field.

SCORES MEET DEATH IN GREAT TIDAL WAVE

Deleneless Denizens of the Gulf Coast Were Swept Away.

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—Scores of lives are reported to have been lost as a result of a tidal wave which swept a considerable portion of the Louisiana coast, during its restless volume on the defenseless denizens of the coast. Water has swept away perhaps a hundred people. Reports indicate that the families were the most numerous along the Gulf bordering the shores of Terrebonne parish. News of the disaster was brought into Houma, the parish seat of Terrebonne, by half-clad men and women, who managed to save some kind of a craft by which they succeeded in reaching shelter. They related stories of great havoc.

Relief expeditions were last night sent out of Houma to the stricken coast.

M. J. C. Smith, of Newbury, Ala., who was making a fishing party at the mouth of Bayou Terrebonne, is known to have been drowned.

LEOPARD ATTACKED CHILD. St. Paul, Sept. 22.—A crowd of three hundred persons were thrown to a panic today when a leopard which was being exhibited here, broke from its cage and attacked a young child, four years old, tore the boy's right arm almost from its socket and clawed off one of his ears.

Charles Heuston, a blacksmith, rushed from his shop near by and killed the leopard with one blow of an axe.

AN ODD ACCIDENT. Ottawa, Sept. 22.—The steamer Bella Ritchie, lying in the dock of the Rideau Canal, suffered an odd accident today. Two horses fell into the canal and one kicked a hole in her side. The valuable pair of bays were rescued, and the steamer had to be repaired.

ing up what little pasturage there is this year, and with the shortage in the hay crop facing them, this has come to be a very serious aspect.

If rain does not come and come in more than homeopathic doses, the situation will be more serious. Some few farmers have been very hard hit, lately, and saving their pasturage, and these are in a better shape than the others, but even these experts are only temporary, and the only remedy that can come near solving the problem is rain, and rain in quantities.

A Big Lizard.

The fossil head of a large lizard, which when alive was probably eight to twelve feet long, has been added by Dr. Woolverton to his already extensive geological collection. The head itself is about 18 inches long, and the eyes and ears are plainly visible. The head is very long and flat, and the fossil was found by a farmer living near Ingersoll, and for a long time around in his barn. Mr. Taylor, of this city, saw it, and soon afterwards it was added to Dr. Woolverton's collection.

DEATH OF MRS. R. C. BROWN

A Daughter of Color-Sergt. John Joell of the Royal Canadian Rifles.

Mrs. Catherine C. Brown, wife of R. C. Brown, died at the family residence, on Maple street, Sept. 19, and was buried in St. Peter's Cemetery on Wednesday morning, Sept. 22.

The funeral mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father O'Neill. Mrs. Brown was a native of Toronto, born June 3, 1850, a daughter of John and Catherine (Deigan) Joell, natives of Ireland. Her father was a non-commissioned officer in the Royal Canadian Rifles, and came to London with his regiment in July, 1861. He retired from the service in April, 1862, and died March 31, 1868.

His widow survived him nearly three years, dying Feb. 10, 1871. Mrs. Brown was reared in London, and for several years was one of the well-known singers of the city, and a member of St. Peter's choir. As Miss Kitty Joell she will be best remembered by the older citizens, whose memories go back to the musical events of 40 years ago, when she took part in most of the local public concerts of that period.

On Nov. 26, 1872, Miss Joell was married in St. Peter's Cathedral to Richard C. Brown, a native of this city, and a son of John and Catherine (Irwin) Brown, natives of Ireland, who settled in London in 1847, where Mr. Brown was born the following year. In the spring of 1873 she removed with her husband to St. Louis, Mo., and lived in different States of the Union for 25 years. In April, 1898, Mr. Brown and family returned to London, where previously he had become financially interested in the boot and shoe business, and here she resided up to the date of her death.

Her husband and son, Richard Joell Brown, she is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. John Clarke, of London, and Mrs. David A. Smith, of Chicago.

Mrs. Brown was a kind, affectionate and charitable woman, and was loved most by those intimate friends who knew her best. A devoted wife, a fond mother, and a steadfast friend, the golden links of affection and love of home and family were the main springs of her daily life. Possessing wonderful determination and tenacity of purpose, she bore her long and painful illness with Christian patience, and seldom spoke of her great sufferings. A sincere and faithful Catholic, she remained firm and practical in her faith up to the close of her life, and died strengthened and soled by the last sacraments of the church. Her death is an irreparable loss to her family and friends, for throughout her life she was always

A mother to her loved ones, kind and fond,

WESTERN ALUMNI

WILL HOLD MEETING

An Important Session Will Take Place on Friday Night of This Week.

DR. BILLINGS IS COMING

Famous Chicago Physician and Lecturer Will Hold a Clinic-Medical College Has Existed 28 Years.

The opening of the medical department of the Western University this week recalls the fact that for 28 years the college has been in existence. The college has grown from a very small beginning to a freshman class this year numbering already 40 students. The student body this year will number at least 125 in the four years. With this number of students coming from various parts of the province and the association of in almost every graduating class every year going out to practice in the surrounding towns and country, the Medical College is one of the greatest factors in advertising London as the centre of Western Ontario.

To Keep in Touch.

Each year as they have graduated from the college, they have expressed the wish that means be devised whereby the graduates could keep in touch with their classmates and the Alma Mater. To meet this long-felt need an Alumni association was formed last year with the following officers:

Dr. J. D. Balfour, president; Dr. Hadley Williams, vice-president; Dr. N. H. Beal, secretary-treasurer.

The Organization.
During the year the work of organization has gone on and every graduate of the college has been notified of the association and its objects. Every instance enrolled as a member and invited to attend the rally, which will be held on Friday, Sept. 24.

This rally will consist of: A business meeting at the college at 11 a.m. The officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the policy to be followed by the association during the coming year be determined.

A meeting at 3 p.m. in the Auditorium at which Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago will conduct a course of lectures on the progress of medicine. As to Dr. Billings little need be said of this gentleman of world-wide reputation, whose work is familiar to every medical man. He is a Chicago physician who enjoys the reputation of being dean of the medical profession in America. He is one of that small group of men given to each generation, whose inspiration lies behind the progress of scientific medicine, and his original contributions in the field of internal medicine have been among the most important works of the present generation.

The social side of the rally will take the form of a banquet at the Tecumseh House at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Several prominent speakers will be present and an enjoyable social time is assured.

The graduates now numbering over 400 are ever given in this progressive district, speaking world, and not a few have been following their chosen calling in such distant lands as China, India and Africa. Every graduate of the college in those remote countries, have been invited, and many from a distance have expressed their intention of being in London on Friday.

All members of the profession are invited to the meeting as the association feel that the medical men of Western Ontario will be anxious to hear so eminent a man as Dr. Billings.

BURT COMPANY SECURITIES

Subscriptions Exceeded the Amount Offered When Books Were Closed.

A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, state that subscriptions were received up to the close of books at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, for 7,847 shares preference stock of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, as against the 5,000 shares offered. They hope to arrange with two or three of the largest subscribers so that allotment may be made in full up to 100 shares on each subscription. Allotment notices will be mailed on Thursday.

In all, 285 subscriptions were received, principally from Ontario, Quebec, the Maritime Provinces and New York State. Subscriptions were received for not exceeding 25 shares each from 228 subscribers.

As all shares of the Burt Company are of the par value of $100 each, a full common share is available only as against each 5 shares of preference stock. The firm will buy or sell common stock to adjust the few odd lots at $50 a share.

It is understood that in connection with this as with all previous flotations, A. E. Ames & Co. have not had to go back to an underwriter for a dollar, the public having always fully absorbed their offerings.

CITY RUGBY LEAGUE

MAY NOW BE FORMED

Y. M. C. A. and St. John's A. C. May Start Teams—O.R.F.U. Practice Last Night.

There was a fine turnout at the rugby practice last night. A number of new men were out and made a good showing. Some heavy practices were gone through, and the boys showed up well.

From present appearances, there will be another practice tonight, and everyone should be on hand promptly at 7.30.

There is some talk about the Y. M. C. A. of starting a rugby team, and it is rumored that the St. John's Athletic Club are also considering the same move. This would give the nucleus of a city league, and train players for the other teams to draw from. It is the aim to make rugby a success in London.

A WOODBANK PARTY

Mr. J. Sharman Entertained a Large Party.

Woodbank, Sept. 21.—One of the largest and most successful parties ever given in this progressive district, took place at the home of J. Sharman on Tuesday evening. The grounds were beautifully illuminated with fairy lanterns, and the dark foliage of the trees behind completed the effect. A large bonfire in the garden lit up the sky for a great distance, and the sparks driven with the wind made a magic pyrotechnic display.

The tables were laid on the lawn, and the good things thereon were sufficient to satisfy the palate of the most fastidious epicure present. A great variety of music was furnished after the supper, and a good enjoyable all-round time was spent.

Those Present.

CITY RUGBY LEAGUE

MAY NOW BE FORMED

Y. M. C. A. and St. John's A. C. May Start Teams—O.R.F.U. Practice Last Night.

There was a fine turnout at the rugby practice last night. A number of new men were out and made a good showing. Some heavy practices were gone through, and the boys showed up well.

From present appearances, there will be another practice tonight, and everyone should be on hand promptly at 7.30.

There is some talk about the Y. M. C. A. of starting a rugby team, and it is rumored that the St. John's Athletic Club are also considering the same move. This would give the nucleus of a city league, and train players for the other teams to draw from. It is the aim to make rugby a success in London.

ENGLISH CHINTZES AND CRETONNES

The growth in popular favor of these handsome and serviceable fabrics has called particular attention to our department.

FOR BEDSPREADS—Many most attractive designs can be made with panel and cut-out treatments on white dimity with cretonnes and taffetas. Samples showing the different styles of work are on display in our department.

FOR WINDOW VALANCES—Damasks, Dimities, Cretonnes and Chintzes make most serviceable window curtains, and are very attractive if properly used, and we can show you how to use them. Yard, 25c to 50c For Dresser Covers, Chair Covers and Draperies—The uses of these fabrics are most extensive and the effect is very pleasing.

Bedrooms with Wall Papers, Rugs and Draperies to match are very popular. We have many different treatments to show.

HODGETTS' BUSY FIGHTING THE FEVER

Cobalt Rapidly Being Put Into a Sanitary Condition.

Cobalt, Sept. 20.—Stern methods are being pursued by Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, secretary of the provincial board of health, in cleaning up Cobalt. Cottages are being removed, particularly from Argenteuil and Silver streets. Dozens of tenants of other properties have been ordered to vacate till proper conveniences are provided. All roomers in Hunter Block, the biggest in town, must vacate in three days. In all 550 notices have been served. Fruit dealers will no longer be able to pollute the streets with decayed fruits. Temporary hospitals are being erected to meet the typhoid epidemic
