

TWO ITALIAN WAR VESSELS SUNK BY TURK BATTERIES

Italian Naval Attack on the Dardanelles Meets With Sharp Repulse—Sultan's Cabinet Decides at Council of War to Close the Straits.

[Canadian Press.]

Constantinople, July 19.—Eight Italian torpedo boats attacked the entrance of the Dardanelles at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The Turkish forts replied vigorously, sinking two of the Italian war vessels and damaging the other six.

The cannonade lasted forty-five minutes.

TO CLOSE DARDANELLES.

Constantinople, July 19.—The cabinet ministers were hurriedly called to the palace where, at a council of war, it was decided to close the Dardanelles. Taffik Pasha, the Turkish ambassador at London, who, on July 17 was appointed grand vizier, has undertaken to form a new cabinet.

Today's bombardment of the entrance to the Dardanelles by Italian warships, is the second attack on the strait connecting the Aegean Sea and the Sea of Marmora, since the outbreak of the Turco-Italian war.

Twenty-seven Italian warships on April 18 last bombarded the forts, Kilit-Bahar and Sedd-ul-Bahr, defending the gateway to Constantinople, for three and a half hours. The Italians fired 180 shells, but the forts were only slightly damaged. The land batteries returned the fire, and one of the Italian warships was reported damaged by a shell. After three and a half hours' fighting the Italians withdrew.

The Dardanelles, which are about 45 miles in length, and from 1 1/4 to 4 miles in width, have been heavily mined, owing to the activity of Italian ships in Turkish waters.

All the foreign governments have been notified by Turkey that it was necessary for vessels passing through the strait to employ local pilots. As the result of the closing of the Dardanelles early in the year 500 steamships and sailing vessels were held in the Sea of Marmora for several weeks.

THERE WILL LIKELY BE A FIGHT BEFORE WIRES GO UNDERGROUND

London Is Watching the Lead of Ottawa and Hamilton—Documents Forwarded.

The city of London will follow the lead of Ottawa and other cities in compelling telegraph and telephone companies to place their wires underground. The Dominion Telegraph Commission is seeking more information on the subject, and today twelve detail drawings were forwarded from this city to the commission, explaining the conduit system here, and the location, etc., of the overhead wires.

RUBBER HORROR BEFORE COMMONS

British Government Says United States Will See Reforms Instituted.

BRING PERU TO BOOK

Peruvians May Be Dispossessed of District Where Industry Thrives.

[Canadian Press.] London, July 19.—The atrocities committed in the Putumayo rubber district of Peru, which universally have been characterized here as surpassing in horror anything charged to the rubber collectors of the Congo, will apparently be kept in the limelight until something is done to punish the perpetrators and to bring about the assurance that there will be no repetition of the outrages.

A sheaf of questions was launched at the British foreign office in the House of Commons this afternoon, and from the replies given it was apparent that the foreign office expects to let the state department at Washington bring Peru to book.

"It is clear, I think," said Francis D. Acland, parliamentary secretary for foreign affairs, "that the United States has a better opportunity of getting things done than any other government."

Mr. Acland also referred to the question raised by the United States Government as to whether Peru is a suitable state to have control of the district like the Putumayo, or whether that Government should not be forcibly dispossessed of it, and he promised that "his majesty's Government will do anything it possibly can to help any action the United States may take up."

One of the objects, the under-secretary added, of the British foreign office in publishing the blue book on the subject, was to influence public opinion in the United States, and he thought it would not doubt have that effect. On being asked what steps the Government intended to take against the directors of the rubber company the speaker said: "This is a horrible company."

Mr. Acland stated that the company was now in liquidation, but that the Government would be delighted if any of its directors could be made amenable to English law. The Government intended to investigate how far they were liable, and to bring them to justice, if possible. The speaker added that none of the perpetrators of the outrages was an Englishman.

NAVAL BATTLE SENDS GRAIN PRICES SOARING

Excited Trading at Chicago Follows News From the Dardanelles

[Canadian Press.]

Chicago, July 19.—Excited trading in wheat and corn resulted here from the news of the sinking of the Italian war vessels in the Dardanelles, and the closing of the passage. Shutting off grain from the Black Sea ports of Russia and other countries meant the stoppage of one of the chief sources of European supply, and coming wholly without warning, set the speculators wild.

Wheat prices jumped as much as 2 3/8 cents and corn 2 cents. After the rush to buy was ended, however, fully half the advance was lost.

RUNAWAY DASHED INTO STREET LIGHTING POLE

Shock Knocked Off Three of the Globes—Wagon Smashed.

A runaway, which might have resulted very seriously had it happened but a minute or so previously, occurred on Dundas street about 1 o'clock this afternoon, when a horse attached to the wagon of O. B. Graves, a dealer, ran out of the lane next to that firm's premises and dashed west on Dundas street.

The horse was feeding in the yard at the back of the store when an automobile came into the yard from the lane on Clarence street and frightened the horse. John Twitche, who is driver for Graves, tried to stop the horse, but was unsuccessful, and had his hand and arm badly wrenched.

The runaway tried to make a quick turn west on Dundas street, with the result that the wagon was swung against one of the hydro-electric poles, and the shock broke three of the large bulbs. Further west the wagon turned completely over, and the horse was caught by a bystander. The horse was not hurt, but the wagon was damaged to a considerable extent.

MUTINOUS SPIRIT IN MEX. REBEL CAMP

Six Killed and Several Injured in Battle Started By a Woman.

[Canadian Press.]

Madera, State of Chihuahua, Mexico, July 19.—Six rebels were killed, another fatally injured, and a half dozen others more or less seriously wounded in a battle that almost provoked a mutiny yesterday among the insurgent troops here.

Two men fought over a woman, and one was killed. Gen. Rojas had ordered the murderer executed, when friends of the condemned man intervened. Bullets flew for a few minutes until the arrival of Gen. Louis Fernandez, who suppressed the trouble.

The incident served to reveal, however, the temper of the 1,500 rebel troops quartered here. The heavy rains have made camp life uncomfortable, rations are short, and the contemplated invasion of Sonora means many hardships over bad trails with few horses, all of which has created a mutinous spirit.

PLENTY OF AMMUNITION BUT NO SYMPATHY

Why the Portuguese Royalists Have Failed to Overtake Republican Government.

[Canadian Press.]

London, July 19.—A correspondent of the Times, telegraphing from Verin, Spain, says: "The royalist raid in Portugal seems already to have spent itself. The invaders were in sufficient strength to strip a very severe blow and if a sympathy had been forthcoming in Portugal itself their attempt to restore the monarchy might have been successful."

"The royalists planned to cross the frontier at Valencia and Chaves, and after seizing these positions, to await a sympathetic rising from within. Both attempts were carried out. The royalists have plenty of ammunition made in Toledo, and their cartridges bear the Toledo mark. The guns are from the Spanish Government works at Oviedo. Indeed, the arms traffic which has been going through Spanish ports lately has assumed serious proportions. Last Sunday a barge was run ashore near Coruna, and fifteen motor cars which were waiting were loaded with cartridges. No fewer than 40,000 rounds were left behind in the boat. These cartridges were bought in Toledo by Paraguayans for export to South America. They were escorted to the coast by a Spanish artillery officer. "The royalists have also plenty of funds. Twenty thousand pesetas are lying at the railway station at Guilaery, near Valencia."

STOCKINGS FROM REAL GOLD THREAD

With Gorgeous Designs and Shorter Skirts to Show Them Off.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 19.—According to a fashion paper, women's stockings made from real gold thread and silk are to be the proper thing abroad this autumn. They come from Vienna and cost $25 a pair.

Another novelty will be black or white silk stockings, which, above the ankles, will be worked in elaborate designs, such as a peacock with its tail outstretched, in gorgeous colors. To enable these embellishments to be visible, shorter skirts and chain, with a photo in the locket, which was found in Victoria Park, and which is waiting an owner.

AGED HUSBAND LOST ON TITANIC WIFE BURIED HERE SATURDAY

Pathetic Story of Woman of 86, Whose Husband Was Visiting in Ireland and Who Is Supposed to Have Perished On the Gigantic White Star Liner.

A pathetic feature connected with the sinking of the great White Star liner Titanic on April 15 last has been brought to light in this city through inquiries made of the authorities here by the secretary of the Titanic relief fund in New York city, concerning Mrs. Samuel McCoy, who gave her address as 7 Deane street, London, in making application to the committee for assistance, claiming that her husband had perished in the foundering of the world's greatest vessel.

Subsequently his wife, who was in poor circumstances in this city, wrote from the home of her nephew to the secretary of the relief committee organized in New York for the purpose of assisting those distressed by the appalling marine tragedy.

Mr. McCoy Not on Lists. Hundreds of similar applications were, of course, received, but because of the fact that the name McCoy did not appear on the passenger lists, action was deferred until investigation was made here. In the meantime Mrs. McCoy returned to relatives in Port Huron, where she formerly resided, and in her advanced age was unable to withstand an attack of illness. Her death occurred on Wednesday in Port Huron, and on Saturday the remains were interred at Woodland Cemetery here.

The New York relief committee will now be notified that the matter need not be carried further.

Many months ago her husband left to visit relatives at his old home in County Tyrone, Ireland, and at about the 1st of April wrote to his wife, who was then staying with her nephew, Robert McCoy, of 7 Deane street, telling her that he was about to return, and that he had reserved passage on the Titanic. Nothing has since been heard of him, and while the death lists did not contain the name of any person named McCoy, all hope that he had failed to make connections with the ill-fated vessel in accordance with his plans, have vanished.

COUNCIL MAY PASS A BYLAW TO COMPEL CUTTING OF GRASS

A Move to Improve the Boulevards of the City of London.

The city parks commissioners are having a bylaw prepared to compel citizens to have their boulevards kept in proper condition within the city limits.

For many years there have been many complaints that one lazy or shiftless man in a block can spoil the appearance of a street by refusing to cut his grass or in any way improve the frontage of his residence.

It is not clear as yet what powers the city possesses in the matter, but the city council will be asked to have a bylaw passed to compel all residents to keep the street in front of their premises in proper condition.

A bylaw will also be asked for prohibiting the use of wooden or iron boulevards, and making it imperative that hedges not more than 30 inches high of evergreens be used by those who desire to inclose any part of the boulevard.

The commissioners are also writing the department of agriculture for advice as to a bylaw to compel citizens to take such precautions as may be deemed necessary to save trees on boulevards and on their premises from the inroads of tree pests, and the propagation of such pests.

ASSASSINS ARE BUSY IN NEW YORK STREETS

Two Men Attacked By an East Side Gang and Fatally Injured.

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 19.—As two men passed the corner of One Hundred and Sixteenth street and First Avenue early this morning, several men leaped at them from a doorway. Ten shots were fired and one of the passers-by fell. His companion ran.

When policemen came the shooters had scattered. The injured man, Vincent Galdi, was taken to the Harlem Hospital. Hardly had he reached the operating room when Joseph Russ, his friend and neighbor, staggered into the building. He had a bullet wound in his abdomen. The same gang who shot Galdi had come upon Russ a block or two away and fired upon him also. Both of the injured men will die.

700 CADETS WILL BE IN CAMP ON CARLING'S HEIGHTS NEXT WEEK

Between 50 and 60 Will Be From London—Remainder Will Be Made Up of Corps From Points in Western Ontario —Y. M. C. A. Work Will Be Prominent.

Final arrangements are now under way in preparation for the cadet camp, which is being held at Wolseley Barracks next week. Tents are being pitched on the campus, and every other aid for comfort will be provided for the lads who are to sleep under canvas.

When the boys arrive at the station next Monday, the cadets will immediately step on street cars at the depot, which will be ready in waiting, and will be conveyed to the scene of their future manoeuvres. Of the 700 cadets which are to encamp, between 50 and 60 will come from London, and these are to report Monday afternoon. The following gives a detailed list where the cadets come from, and the number from each place: Goderich 25, Clinton 30, Stratford 90, Seaford 30, Bothwell 35, Glencoe 10, Woodstock and Ingersoll 62, Leamington 50, St. Thomas 50, Essex 35, Mount Forest 25, Guelph 60, Chesley 15, Listowel 20, Kingsville 20, Harriston 12, Sarnia 2, Petrolia 30.

Outside of the hours for drill, the cadets will be cared for by the Y. M. C. A. A large tent has been erected for recreation purposes, such as reading and writing rooms, moving pictures, etc. An athletic programme is to be held every afternoon and evening, when boxing, wrestling, racing, outdoor and indoor baseball, and track events will comprise an interesting day's sports.

TEACHERS ON THE HEIGHTS ARE MAKING MARKED PROGRESS

Older Men Appear to Advance Very Quickly—Swimming Is Popular.

"Left, left, left, right, left!" The familiar march strains are much in the limelight at the teachers' instruction camp at Wolseley Barracks. The men who are educational leaders from September to June are rapidly cultivating the military march and step and some are even imitating the soldier's accent. Progress is being made, and there is a vast difference already noticeable in the physical appearance of the men.

Lieut. Alexander, when interviewed by The Advertiser, this morning, expressed his pleasure at the progress the 95 teachers are making.

"The men are keen and quickly take hold of the work. More than that, they are anxious to learn, and they are not too trivial to ask questions about if they do not understand the exercise thoroughly. The older men as a rule are advancing quicker than the young chaps, seemingly because they more highly value the course. The men find the progressive Swedish drill the most tiresome and exacting, but in the end they will find it to be the best one of all."

Physical Director Taylor, of the Y. M. C. A., has fifteen of the teachers under his instructions receiving swimming lessons this week. He reports that they are making excellent progress, and eight of these are now competent for life-saving work. They will assist him next week at the sulphur baths, where he is to give swimming lessons to the cadets who are coming to train at the barracks.

BLOODY MASSACRE OF REBELS BY THE YAQUI INDIAN BAND

Three Hundred Wiped Out When Trapped in Mountain Canyon.

[Canadian Press.] Juarez, Mexico, July 19.—Passengers arriving over the Mexican Northwest from Madera today brought stories of a bloody massacre of rebels in Dolores Mountain range southwest of Juarez, the entrance to the State of Sonora.

They declared that the vanguard of the column commanded by Gen. Antonino Rojas was caught in a canyon at Dolores by one thousand Yaqui Indians, and that of 500 rebels less than 200 returned to Madera in safety. That a force of government volunteers was operating behind Dolores to prevent an entrance of the rebels from Sonora was generally known here, but it was not believed any Yaqui Indians were enlisted in the cause of the Government except the six hundred fighting for Gen. Sanjines at Colonia Oaxaca in Northern Sonora. Federal officials in El Paso preferred to await more definite advice before commenting on the report.

LONDON LADY TELLS OF WORK AFTER THE CYCLONE AT REGINA

Miss Isabelle Armstrong, of the Leader, Is Visiting at Her Home.

Miss Isabelle Armstrong, a London lady who for the past couple of years has been engaged in newspaper work in the city of Regina on the staff of the Daily Leader, and who was in that place on the day of the cyclone, told The Advertiser, citizens were warned not to light fires, and to do all possible to avoid serious conflagrations. The work of rescue proceeded with the greatest expedition, the mayor, and city commissioners, whose residences were demolished, assisting.

Housing the Homeless. Arrangements were made for the housing of the stricken people, and those who had not suffered readily volunteered when canvassed to look after the needs of all. Emergency hospitals were prepared, and nurses and many coming from Moose Jaw and other places. In fact so much help was available that headquarters were established in the Black Rock, where help was always available.

Despite the serious losses of the people, absolute order prevailed, and there was not the slightest noticeable confusion after the first shock. The mounted police proved their efficiency, and a regiment of militiamen who were in camp were recalled to their homes and placed on duty.

Hundreds were left destitute, but the stores were reopened on Sunday evening and supplies and provisions of all kinds were distributed. The city hall, a fine big building with an auditorium having a seating capacity of 400, was thrown open.

NOT DISCIPLINED FOR DESERTION

Privates Mitchell and O'Connor Only Wore Wrong Dress on the Street.

A mistake appeared in The Advertiser columns the other day when it was announced that two men, Privates Mitchell and O'Connor, deserted their regiment at Wolseley Barracks. They did not desert, but have been given ten days' barracks' confinement for going about the city in khaki and not in red coats. One man did desert, but his name was not Mitchell or O'Connor.

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 19.

MR. BORDEN IN ENGLAND.

It is to the credit of Mr. Borden that so far he has not made a partisan speech in England. Not so Mr. Foster, who has tried to tickle the ears of tariff "reformers," unmindful of the courtesy he owes the British Government. If Mr. Borden is not to fall into the same indignity, he will have to be on his guard against the wiles and blandishments of "society" and the "swell" clubs of Pall Mall and Piccadilly. They will make a cat's paw of him if he can. Thus far he has remembered in his public addresses that he is in England as the representative of all the Canadian people, not as the head of a party. The majority of the British people regard the tariff question as purely a matter of domestic politics, and would regard any advice from Mr. Borden as an impertinence.

On the naval question, Mr. Borden is under a powerful temptation to say more than he means or promise more than he can fulfil. He has been acclaimed by the panic-mongers of the Maritime League, who are not satisfied with the colossal naval budget of the Asquith Government, as one who intended to go much further than Laurier in the expenditure of money for naval purposes. This they no doubt inferred from his opposition to the Laurier naval law, ignoring the fact that he had no alternative policy and that he had steered his course by the Nationalist compass. While Mr. Borden has committed himself to nothing definite, the tone of his English speeches has raised the expectations of British jingoists, and he will be a rank impostor in their estimation unless these expectations are met. To that extent Mr. Borden has compromised himself. He is compromised with the British jingoists, compromised with the Canadian Nationalists. If he is wise he will even at the cost of inconsistency, disregard both, and return to the position he took in 1909. At that time he was eager to lift the issue above party strife. There it would have remained if he had not permitted himself to be hustled into opposition to the Laurier project. Let him readopt and continue Laurier's policy and he will be on safe footing.

NEW YORK'S CAMORRA.

It is still true, as James Bryce said 25 years ago, that municipal government is the weakness and reproach of American democracy. It is still on a low level, in spite of the growing stream of purity flowing through national and state politics. The murder of the gambler Rosenthal has brought vividly before the minds of the citizens of New York their enslavement to what the newspapers describe as the "System." It has been nurtured by Tammany and has grown more powerful than Tammany itself. In brief, it is the corrupt alliance between the police force and the criminal element. Rosenthal had filed affidavits laying bare the coalition between the police and the gambling organization which ramifies the whole city. He was murdered by agents of the "System," who hoped to cover up their tracks, or terrify other Rosenthals.

If we are to believe the New York World, the "System" has become too strong for the regular city government. The Mayor and the Commissioner of Police are incorruptible and faithful officials, who have done their best to clean up the police, but are completely helpless. The average New York policeman also is honest, brave and efficient, but, says the World, "the higher ranks of the department are honeycombed with corruption and crime. Captains and inspectors retire in the possession of comfortable fortunes. No dishonest member of a legislature ever made so much money from the sale of legislation as certain police officials have made from the sale of immunity from law."

Apparently, citizens are helpless to apply a remedy through the machinery of municipal government. There is a call to the state for help. The state enacts the laws which the police of New York city are supposed to enforce; it might go further and take over the control of the police. This would be a humiliating confession of impotence on the part of the greatest community in the United States, but the disease is desperate. It seems to be purely an American malady; in no other country, except despot Russia, are the police under the same cloud. In old London, where the problems are as great as in New York, the police force is a shining example of integrity.

MR. ASQUITH IN IRELAND.

Mr. Asquith was given an uproarious welcome on his visit to Dublin. The statement in his speech that no prime minister before him since the act of union (1801), had visited Ireland, sounds almost incredible. Could anything be more sadly suggestive of the relations between England and Ireland than that no premier in over 100 years set foot on the Irish shore? It is a proof of the gratitude and warm-heartedness of the Irish people and a good omen for the future relations of Celt and Saxon under the British crown that this first pastoral visitation should be so enthusiastically welcomed. There could be no one less Celtic in nature than Mr. Asquith, not even Mr. Redmond himself. Men like Asquith and O'Brien stand at opposite poles in temperament. But Mr. Asquith is British enough to love the "square deal." It is in pure love of justice, not in any romantic sentiment or political ambition that Mr. Asquith has determined to grant Ireland the right to manage her own household business. The Irish people recognize this. Nothing could more clearly demonstrate that the Irish at any rate do not suppose Mr. Asquith to be acting merely under Mr. Redmond's club than this wild welcome. Such ovations are not tendered to tools, but to men of high honor, justice and courage. This shouting Dublin could think of nothing siller than the Unionist view of the home rule measure as dictated to the Premier by his Nationalist allies. The very coolness, reserve and rock-bound independence of Mr. Asquith's character, the conclusion of his speech, the imperturbable resolution of his whole career impress a more vivacious people and make him their idol when he comes simply to render justice and to give to Ireland rest.

The new Archbishop of Toronto is an accomplished astronomer—an appropriate avocation for a sky pilot. Having tasted the "enormous relief" provided by the cut in the cement duties, the Oliver Twists of the west will probably ask the Ottawa Government for more.

Documents have been found which show that it cost Columbus $7,000 to discover America. It wasn't very much but Columbus made it go farther than any man before his time so far as history knows.

Lord Edward Beauchamp Seymour has purchased an Ontario farm, and will go into market gardening and fruit farming. This is a much more sensible course for a peer than staying at home and growling at the Government.

With the aid of wealthy Americans, Dr. Parkin, organizing representative of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, hopes to duplicate in the United States the scheme of the South African millionaire, so that English students may be sent to American universities. Dr. Parkin is not afraid of a reciprocity of ideas. It is only reciprocity in hogs and hay that may undermine national sentiment.

WON'T POWER.

"Are you going to let that mule do as he please?" asked Uncle Ephraim's wife. "What you will power?" "My will power's all right," he answered. "You jest want to come out here an' measure this mule's won't power."

THE SOCIAL "SYSTEM."

"Why do you go barefoot, my boy?" "I have no boots." "What is your father?" "A bootmaker." "Why does he not make you some boots?"

"He is out of work." "Why is he out of work?" "Because there are too many boots."

THE PRINCE'S TEMPERAMENT.

Much curiosity is being shown at the moment as to the real temperament of the Prince of Wales. A remark which he made recently after one of the great ceremonies bears out the general impression that people have got from his modest bearing is the right one. It was made to one of the household. "Tina not the right boy," he said, "for these great shows. It's a pity Mary is not in my place. She's a regular little queen."

FAVORITE FICTION.

"How I Do Hate the Bother of Preparing for a Trip to Europe." "Yes, John and I have got to go and Dress for Mrs. Leeder's Party, and It's Awfully Tiresome." "I Wanted to Give that Head Water a Generous Tip, but He Looked So Swell I Didn't Dare to Offer It." "Yes, I Think That's My Umbrella. Thank You Ever So Much, Mrs. Chucksley, for Returning It." "Your Sermon Was Perfectly Lovely, Dr. Baxter, but I Thought It Was a Little Too Short."

"At Your Age, My Son, I Realized the Importance of an Education Much More Than You Do."

BLISSFUL IGNORANCE.

Freddie—"What's an optimist, dad?" Cobwiger—"He's the fellow who doesn't know what's coming to him."

MORGAN'S IVY BOWER.

When J. P. Morgan returns he will find that the English ivy which he personally planted about his residence at Madison Avenue and Thirty-Sixth Street some 20 years ago has reached the roof of his house and completely enveloped the south and east sides. It has long been Mr. Morgan's wish to make his home, which is beautifully surrounded by lawns, a bower of leaves, but it has not been until this summer that his gardeners could train the vines so that they reached the eaves.

LIFE ON THE FARM.

Conditions on the farm are more agreeable for the younger generation than they were ten years ago. The telephone has brought people into contact with one another. In some sections motor cars are not unusual. It has been the "trend" of the young people to the cities which has brought about the falling off in the rural population. Farmers' wives and daughters would rather secure positions as stenographers, bankers and operators than remain on the old farm. We know of farms which have remained in one family for two or even three generations but now have passed into the hands of strangers.

CHECKED.

[Puck.] Little Clarence (who has an inquiring mind)—Papa, the Forty Thieves

Mr. Callipers—Now my son, you are too young to talk politics.

A LUCKY AUDIENCE.

[London Times.] Charming is the story of a concert given somewhere in Hungary by Brahms and Joachim, at which there was only one person in the audience. Joachim was inclined to return the man his money, but Brahms insisted on going through the whole programme, and afterwards playing for the happy man whatever he chose to ask for.

MRS. PANKHURST'S BIRTHDAY.

[Springfield Republican.] It is being pointed out by English suffragists that Mrs. Pankhurst's birthday, July 14, is also the anniversary of the fall of the Bastille, and to celebrate both events a demonstration will be held in Paris, at which every woman will wear a red liberty cap on a pole, "Ca ira, ca ira, ca ira!" It is not certain whether Mrs. Pankhurst's health will permit her to attend.

SATISFIED.

[Boston Transcript.] "I tell you, advertising pays." "Well, what is your ad?" "Some time ago I advertised for a lost $5 bill, and a stranger who had picked one up on the street restored it to me. This morning while looking through an old suit I found the $5 I thought I'd lost."

TELEPHONE SWEARING.

[Montreal Star.] A telephone girl in Vancouver is reported to have committed suicide because one of the subscribers to the service cursed her over the wire. The public would give its approval if the company concerned should withdraw its instrument from the culprit. The man who swears in the course of his business has something weak in his mental make-up. The man who swears at a woman over a telephone wire is a coward and a ruffian.

THE POLITICAL UNDERTAKER.

[Toronto Globe.] The Hon. Robert Rogers, political funeral director, special terms for Conservative Provincial leaders.

FINISHED WITHOUT HELP.

[Montreal Star.] The Hot Springs, Kansas, News, relates of a heat victim: "Collapsed and died without medical aid."

TERRIFIED HIM.

[Boston Transcript.] Wife (starting on a trip)—I'll write to you every day while I'm gone. Hub—Heavens! You are not going to want money that often?

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY.

[Catholic Standard and Times.] "Why am I gloomy?" demanded the undesirable suitor whom she had heartlessly ignored. "Isn't it enough to make a man gloomy to be cut by the one he loves best?" "The idea!" exclaimed the heartless girl; "I didn't even know that you shaved yourself."

FOLLOWING THE LEADER.

[Le Canada.] Decidedly, it is the destiny of the Borden Government to resume the projects of the Laurier Government, one by one, and to carry them out after having vigorously denounced them when in opposition. We should, however, consider ourselves lucky that the Government is wise enough to see what is the right course for it to take.

OBEYING ORDERS.

[Life.] Employer—"You're late again?" New Clerk—"Well, you said you didn't want a man who watched the clock."

IN MEMORY OF JOHN HOWARD

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The citizen of the British Empire is keenly alive to the fact that the motherland is grappling with great schemes of social salvation. Compare such a country as Italy or Spain with England, and we understand in a moment what a gulf is fixed between the south and the north. In all the countries of modern Europe there is a tremendous contrast between the upper and lower strata; in England, it is pronounced and black enough, but in Italy it is both pronounced and hopeless. There may be unjust social conditions in Great Britain, but heroic efforts have been made during the last sixty years to ameliorate destitution, and to bring some cheer and hope into the lives of the poverty-stricken. During the last decade the efforts of the nation have been greatly quickened and a wave of humanitarianism has passed over the whole land. The old age pensions act and the insurance bill remind us that we are living in a day when the wealthy classes are moved with the distresses of their less fortunate fellows. It was the fashion in the eighteenth century to deride the efforts of the humanitarian, but that old, cruel Dives age has passed away, and Lazarus today is not quite left to the mercy of the dogs at the gate.

Outstanding evidences of the honor that is paid to the memory of the lovers of humanity are the statues that are everywhere raised to their memory in England. Perhaps one of the most conspicuous and certainly one of the most beautiful is the splendid monument of bronze and granite by Gilbert erected in Bedford to John Howard. He is the ancestor of all Shaftesburys and Lloyd Georges. Dickens carried on the good work of urging reform in the management of prisons and workhouses which Howard began late in the eighteenth century, and in the success which attended the writings of the great novelist Howard's philanthropy found

DETROIT GETS ITS ASPHALT CHEAPEST

Pavement Cost Is Low Since City Owns Its Own Plant.

Detroit News: According to the statistics compiled by Clayton F. Smith, of the Chicago board of local improvements, Detroit gets its asphalt pavements cheaper than any other city where the pavement is used extensively. Detroit happens to be the only city which owns its own plant for constructing asphalt pavements, and the report shows conclusively that its costs are far less than those of cities where the work is done by private contractors.

The asphalt pavement, including the concrete foundation, costs this city $1.58 per square yard. In compiling the statistics, it was found that the city which stands nearest to Detroit, in requirements as to material, etc., being considered, is Louisville, Ky. There the cost is $1.65. Cincinnati gets its pavements cheaper, but the asphalt is not as good as Detroit's.

The Detroit plants not only build new pavements, but it also repairs and resurfaces at a low cost. The plant is in charge of C. A. Proctor.

Following are some of the comparative figures which the table prepared by Mr. Smith show:

	Labor, Teams, Price, per sq. yd.	per hr. sq. yd.
New York	25	$0 12
Pittsburgh	17½	55 20
Cleveland	17½	60 25
Buffalo	20	60 20
Chicago	27½	60 18
Toledo	20	75 10
Racine	20	60 18
Memphis	15	45 15
Baltimore	16	60 10
Indianapolis	20	45 18
Kansas City	25	60 15
Louisville	17½	40 15
Cincinnati	20	80 15
Detroit	25	55 18

Following are the hours per day work required of the laborers on city contracts in the various cities: Detroit, New York, Buffalo and Kansas City, 8; Chicago, Toledo and Louisville, 9; Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Racine, Memphis, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Cincinnati, 10.

FITZPATRICK HAS SIGNED WITH LONDON

President Stevely Received the Pitcher's Contract Today.

President Stevely, of the London baseball club, received the signed contract of Pitcher Fitzpatrick this morning. Fitzpatrick has been on probation for the past two weeks and was not on contract. It is thought by the local directors that the Buffalo lad, with a little teaching, will develop into a good twirler and will be a good addition to the local pitching department. This morning President Stevely asked him to sign a contract. Frankie Fox and Pitcher Ward also signed contracts this morning. Both these men are good ones and they will be given regular berths with the team. Fox has been playing a nice game at third base and his hitting has also been good. Ward looks like a good twirler, and ex-manager Bowerman told the directors before he left that the boy would make good.

A HANDSOME BIBLE FOR PASTOR'S SON

Rev. W. L. Steeves Surprised by Baraca Class.

A pleasant surprise was given to the Rev. W. L. Steeves, of the Egerton Street Baptist Church on Thursday evening, when about 30 members of the Baraca class assembled in his home to show their esteem for the pastor and to spend a social evening together. With them was the church orchestra, which rendered fine musical selections at intervals. The guests did not forget that hunger frequently appears with pleasure, and from a mysterious source produced such delicacies as ice cream, fruit and sandwiches. Those were drunk to the health of the ladies and babies present, the toastmaster being Mr. H. W. Ashley.

A pleasant feature was the presentation from the class of a handsome Bible to the pastor's son, Phillips.

OTTAWA'S WATER

Provincial Authorities Reject City's Plans for Sand Filtration.

[Canadian Press.] Toronto, July 19.—Ottawa's plans for sand filtration of the city's water supply has been emphatically rejected by the provincial health authorities. "Tell the people of Ottawa that they will never get any sand filtration scheme through here," said Dr. McCullough to William Storrie, of the Ottawa waterworks department. "It is just up to them whether they like to have mechanical filtration or take the McGregor Lake system."

"And further you can tell the people of Ottawa," said Dr. McCullough, "that if they don't get it at it and do something about good water right away, we will apply the clause of the health act putting a fine of $100 per day for neglecting to care for the public health."

Mr. Storrie, who prepared the rejected plans, held another conference with Dr. McCullough this afternoon. Dr. McCullough was a member of the special commission that reported recently upon Ottawa's water supply. The source of supply in the Ottawa River was condemned. Some members of the deputation were averse to filtration of the water.

AN ECHO OF CASSIE. Cleveland, July 19.—An echo of the famous operations of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick is sounded in the report of the insolvency court by Receiver Frank H. Ginn, showing that the Euclid Trust and Savings Company, which was wrecked through loans made by Mrs. Chadwick, would, after ten years of waiting, be able to pay depositors dollar for dollar, with interest at six per cent.

After paying depositors there will be a balance of $43,730, besides two notes for $31,188 signed by Mrs. Chadwick.

BLAZING OIL.

New Straitsville, Ohio, July 19.—Hundreds of men battled last night to raise a dam against thousands of gallons of blazing oil which were rushing down a hillside and threatening to engulf many homes and business places. Three tanks of crude oil situated on a hill above this city were struck by lightning, and their flaming contents launched directly at the business centre.

Every able-bodied man who could use a pick or shovel at once volunteered, and by rapid work raised a dam, which controlled the oil and diverted it to a creek. Many of the men were overcome by heat and the rapid work necessitated by making the dam.

Paris Fashion Letter No. 2

Maybelle Mortimer Finds a Novelty for the Woman Who Quickly Feels the Chill of Autumn Air.

[By Maybelle Mortimer.]

French women are great lovers of furs; to them it is the height of luxury. A wealthy French woman considers her furs as she does her jewels and she wears them often all summer. She does not come out in her long fur coats, of course, but you very often see a neckpiece worn very late in spring or very early in this fall. The French furrier manipulates fur as he does fabric and he has worked an entire change in the last few years in our ideas, for he at last has made American women see the beauty of fine pelts when used for ornament as well as warmth.

The new neckpiece is made of a combination of black and white fox fur and black and white pleated net. The bit of color which crowns the conceit is a scarlet rose made of satin ribbon. A neckpiece of this kind can be made by the clever girl out of some fur that is too old for anything else, and it can be worn on any cool evening during the late summer and early fall.

Fascination of Outing Togs

There is a peculiar fascination about the informality of outing togs. They are so picturesque and so comfortable that one feels as though a good time were beginning the instant they are donned. Nobody goes camping in old clothes any more—even in the depths of the forests primeval, where there is no one to criticize except one's own party and guides. Special togs for the out-of-door life are so cleverly and practically designed and cost so little in proportion to their satisfactory qualities that it is a joy to wear them.

Khaki for Camping Wear. Never try to wear a petticoat in the woods—especially a lingerie petticoat, trimmed with frills or embroidery or lace.

Have a moderately short skirt of khaki or galatea with pongee, satin or sateen bloomers, or knickers beneath, and when starting out for a tramp through woods with underbrush, strap leather puttees over the shoes to protect the limbs from brambles and poison foliage.

A duck middie blouse or a loose flannel outing shirt should accompany the camping skirt, and in either case have the neck loose and open, a knotted or handkerchiefed slit giving grace and charm to the costume.

Somewhat or other, out at the end of a sailboat dock on a breezy summer day no costume is so effective and pleasing against the background of blue sky and sea as crisp, immaculate white. There may be a dash of blue on the yachting suit, but its main suggestion should be white.

One notes that all the pretty young girls who have blossomed out this summer in gay striped blazer coats are wearing hat scarfs of silk to match the color in their coats. For instance, a blue and white blazer will be accompanied by a navy blue silk hat scarf, a green and white blazer by a green scarf, and so on.

Green Popular Color. Green is the summer color, and every shade, from peacock to apple, will be foisted upon you unless you are careful. The particular shade of green grass upon which fashion has smiled.

This same green appears in the hunting green coats which accompany smart outing skirts. There are also hunting coats in the warm, pure scarlet which is so effective against a summer background; but the green coats are the prettiest and the most universally becoming.

New outing hats are so light that one does not remember that a hat has been donned, and so soft and tucked into they may be folded up and tucked into a week-end suit case without injury. The peanut straw vies with Panamas in popularity. They are far cheaper and have quite as much style. The most simple trimming is used, often only a band of ribbon.

THE CHILD WHO IS BEAUTIFUL

[By Margaret H. Ayer.]

[Copyright, 1912.]

At school, when all other topics of conversation are worn out, girls always know they can start something by asking the old familiar question: "Would you rather be beautiful or clever?"

Up to a certain age girls all answer "I'd rather be beautiful," and it's only after hope has vanished that they choose the other alternative.

Generally speaking, the family that produces one perfect beauty has to pay very dearly for their distinction, and the bill is usually settled by the beauty's less attractive sisters. There is a certain type of girl who is beautiful in her cradle, adorable in the toddling stage, fascinating even during her second tooth period, and altogether bewitching from the time she starts her teens.

Path of Triumph. Her path is one of triumph, and this lovely creature knows she is beautiful, and is conscious of the fact from the day she is two until she is eighty. She can't help knowing it, for it's the first thing she hears as a baby, and the chant of praise accompanies her through her school days, the choruses being swelled by her teachers and elders, who say, before her: "Isn't Mabel a beautiful child?" exacting if Mabel were deaf, dumb and blind to the fact of her own charms.

If Mabel grows up into a half-way possible creature she really deserves credit, for suchattery as she receives from her parents, her schoolmates, her teachers and others who should know better would turn a much more solid little brain than the one that is hidden under Mabel's curls.

Conscious of Beauty. Too often Mabel grows into a conscious beauty, thoroughly imbued with the fact that the universe was made as a sort of background for her own delightful person, and that her gift of beauty is something for which she deserves great credit and praise and the eternal devotion of the family's unselfish devotion.

I have often wondered why it is that the prettiest clothes, the best looking hats, all the little extra fineries, naturally gravitate toward the prettiest girl in the family, who really does not need them, while her less attractive sisters are graciously permitted to wear out Mabel's old dresses and things, it is for them that the artist of the dressmaker and milliner should be especially recommended.

Marries Early. Generally, Mabel marries early, for marriage is her aim and end, and if she is still beautiful after the age of 30 it is because brain and work have been added to her natural attractiveness, for the Mabel type doesn't stay beautiful long, and nothing much is heard of her after her brief reign as a belle, though she never recovers from the consciousness of her own importance.

The ugly duckling, especially if she has pretty sisters or relatives, begins life with a dreadful handicap, and just as Mabel is told how sweet she is, the poor little ugly duckling is informed with brutal frankness by her nurse, and often by her mother, that she is certainly no beauty.

If you are an ugly duckling, find out what good points you have, for even a body has one, at least. Cultivate the one point, if it is your hair or your hands, the way you walk, or the quality of your voice; make the most of that.

Watch Appearance. Don't think that you can let yourself go in any way, either in your dress or manners, because you are not as good looking as the other girls.

When you have exhausted your outward resources of beauty, remember that there is a great field, an undiscovered country of the mind and lovely disposition which has attractions greater than a pretty face, for many men and women, and that is a field in which you can own just as much as you are capable of developing.

Beauty up to 25 is mostly physical. After that it is more and more a question of disposition, character and mentality, with enough vanity to care for outward appearances.

HEIRESS TO FORTUNE. Peterboro, July 18. — Mrs. Hill, the wife of W. H. Hill, water commissioner, is a granddaughter of Dr. Taylor, who, according to a Montreal dispatch, leaves an estate of twenty-five millions to be divided among his heirs, count of their good qualities.

Cynthia Grey's Many Answers

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

Who is to Blame?

Dear Miss Grey: I have been keeping company with a girl for the past three years, and recently we had a quarrel, in which she was in truth the one at fault. As she told me when I last spoke to her that she did not want to trouble me any more, I have not noticed her since, but lately I learned through a friend she is sorry for acting so toward me. I love the girl very much. J. J. L.

A.—If she is right or wrong, go to her and take the blame on your own shoulders. Your generosity will make an impression on her she will never forget. Love is worth every sacrifice it costs, and you will not be sorry for making this one.

How to Wrap a Gift.

Dear Miss Grey: Please tell me if it is proper to leave a book in the same wrapper in which it is put at the store, when presenting it to a lady friend, or should it be done up in nicer paper?

YOUNG MAN.

A.—When you buy the book tell the salesman you wish to send it away. Ask him to have it put in a box and wrapped nicely. Remember to have the sales check or price mark taken out. If you want to send the book direct, without taking it home, write a card and inclose it.

Mother Objects.

Dear Miss Grey: A gentleman friend of mine, whom I have seen three times, but during that time we seemed to understand one another very well, asked me for my ring, and in exchange gave me his. My mother is very much against it, but I claim it is only a fad, as we have merely loaned to one another, and will return them at some future date. I am very much distressed, as mother wants me to return the ring the next time I see him. I am afraid of embarrassing him, and would not care to lose his friendship.

R. L. G.

A.—You do not want to hurt his feelings. Do you consider your mother's? You are putting him paranoiac, and I am sorry. My dear girl, your mother is right. It is silly to exchange rings with a man who is almost a stranger, and no plea that it is a fad will excuse it.

Return his ring and get back your own. It offends him, let the incident end your acquaintance.

Should They Speak.

Dear Miss Grey: Every morning, while on my way to business, I and my friend meet several young men. We always bid each other the time of day. Do you think it would be proper for us to speak to them?

ALVIDA.

A.—Do you not speak to them in bidding them good morning? That is more than you should do, considering you have never been introduced.

I would suggest that you let your acquaintance end there. It is not for your best good it should extend any further.

She is Engaged.

Dear Miss Grey: I am a young girl, but I am engaged (putting it plain). I have just received a letter from a young gentleman with whom I used to keep company at my country home.

Not knowing of my friend in the city, he asked me to come back. I would be very much obliged if you would tell me how to tell him "No" without hurting his feelings in any way, as I wish to always be friends with him.

Please tell me how to wash white silk gloves.

Thanking you in advance, I am, your ANXIOUS.

A.—I should fancy that your only course is to write him a reply stating, as kindly as possible, the fact of your engagement. If he is the right kind of a fellow he will take the news in good part.

Buy a pint of gasoline, pour in a basin and wash the gloves as you would with water. Be sure to do the cleaning away from the fire, as the gasoline is very inflammable.

Suffers With Hives.

Dear Miss Grey: Being a constant reader of your helpful column, I venture to ask you a very urgent question. What remedy would you suggest for the cure of hives, and answer as soon as possible, as I am suffering untold misery.

A READER.

A.—An old remedy is to apply castor oil to the hives, with the tips of the fingers, or a common baking soda dissolved in warm water will also give relief. For internal treatment, mix one cupful molasses, one tablespoon of sulphur, one teaspoon cream of tartar; take one teaspoon each morning before breakfast.

MAKES NECK BEAUTIFUL.

The collarless blouse is approved by physicians and beauty specialists. The freedom of the neck from any hand or collar permits an uninterrupted circulation of the blood. The result is that beautiful lines, perfectly modeled necks are more frequent now than in the time when the rigid collars with wire supports were in vogue.

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Some journey or change is indicated which will bring you good fortune and you will make the acquaintance of those who will influence your life. If you would win these people for friends refrain from talking too much of yourself.

Those born today will be rather thoughtful of the impression they make, but will have the good sense to restrain themselves and will later be successful and loved by many on account of their good qualities.

A Draped Evening Wrap

The draping of this garment is characteristic of the newest effect in evening wear, the full drapery tapering toward the feet.

The material is black voile, with a gold border draped over a gold-colored silk lining. The dark edge seen in black velvet ribbon and the ornamental gold fastening is made of the gold-colored satin.

A Kerchief Blouse

A novel use for handkerchiefs with colored borders has been found in the case of a frock of striped blue cotton voile, the bodice was trimmed with three blue patterned handkerchiefs. Each of these was edged with a narrow border of blue lawn. Two of the handkerchiefs formed a kind of epaulette collar over the shoulders, the whole of each being used, with the exception of the border on one side, which formed a neat turn-over collar. Two corners of the remaining handkerchief were employed in the making of a V-shaped vest, which filled in the back and front, the two other corners being introduced on the elbow sleeves as cuffs.

This Pretty Tub Frock for $1.50, If You Make it Yourself

About this time of the summer one's wash dresses begin to look a little faded. With the long days of July and August in mind one is very apt to wish for a new tub frock.

Any clever girl can have a gown like the one pictured without much trouble at very little expense. It can be of plain white, or dainty pink, or blue lawn. The skirt is of two wide gores front and back, fast line and then making rather a wide spring from the hips down. It should be two yards and a quarter about the bottom. Just at the knees gather it in, as pictured, with a puff of the goods or a band of embroidery.

The waist is cut exactly as you would cut a shirt waist and then, after fitting to the waist, must form a wide "V." This is corded on each side with material of a different color. The sleeves are coat sleeves with turn back cuffs corded with the material. A little round collar of the material of the trimming is overlaid with a collar of embroidery. In the "V"-shaped opening is placed a piece of cotton net.

This little gown can be had for a dollar and a half if one is clever enough to make it oneself. Seven yards of yard-wide lawn at 10 cents a yard will make it, and the 80-cent surplus can be used for the net, the embroidery for the collar, the extra half yard of material for binding, the thread and buttons. If you use embroidery it will cost 60 cents more.

In Currant Time

Currant Shortcakes.

Mash a quart of ripe red currants and stir into them 2 cups of granulated sugar. Cover and set aside for half an hour.

Make a dough as for quick biscuit, only using a tablespoonful more butter than usual. Roll into a large round biscuit about 10 inches in diameter. Bake and as soon as done split open, spread with butter and then with half the sweetened currants. Replace the top of the biscuit and pour the remainder of the currants and juice over and around the shortcake. Serve at once.

"Banbury Tarts"

Make a rich puff paste and cut it into pieces 6 inches square. In the centre of each square put a great spoonful of currant, raspberry, strawberry or gooseberry jam. Pinch the four corners of the square together that the fruit may not ooze out. Drop the tarts carefully into a kettle of deep boiling fat and fry quickly to a delicate brown. Drain in a colander lined with tissue paper.

These are the celebrated "Banbury tarts" of English folk-lore.

Currant Ice and Sherbet.

To each quart of juice allow a pound of sugar. Let gently heat till sugar is melted. Then cool and freeze. Serve with stemmed currants sprinkled over the ice in sherbet glasses. Sweet raspberry syrup will lessen the tartness and give variation of flavor. For sherbet add the usual whipped whites of eggs (one or two as desired).

Currant Jelly.

Wash the fruit, put it over the fire in an agate-lined kettle. Let it heat very slowly. When the fruit is hot and broken, remove fire and freeze through a jelly bag. Measure the juice, and to each pint allow a pound of sugar. Put the sugar in pans and set in the oven to heat, but not to melt. Stir it from time to time to prevent scorching. Return the juice to the fire. When the juice has boiled 20 minutes skim it; add the heated sugar, stir until this has dissolved, bring to the boiling point and take from the fire. Fill your jelly glasses while they stand in a pan of hot water.

Currant Catsup.

To four pounds of washed, stemmed currants add two pounds brown sugar, add one pint of vinegar. Simmer till sufficiently thick, when add juice (one teaspoon each clove, pepper and cinnamon). Boil five minutes longer, strain and bottle.

Utilizing Fireplaces

In many an old house that has been modernized by the installation of up-to-date heating apparatus, there is often a superfluous fireplace in a bedroom or in the living room. Such a fireplace is rarely ornamental and uses up good wall space. One method of elimination is to have a small alcove substituted for the fireplace. The mantelpiece should be completely taken away and the wall above hollowed out and arched at the top. The recess should then be boarded over or plastered, and painted to match the other decorations.

In the niche thus formed a statuette may stand on a pedestal, surrounded by ferns or flowering plants—or an electric light may be advantageously disposed.

A simpler way of filling the hollow space is to have it plainly covered in with boards and canvas, which can be papered like the rest of the room and filled in with shelves if desired.

Another idea is to leave the mantelpiece and simply board up the front of the fireplace. Then affix sidepieces

LONDON CLUB SIGNS A NEW MANAGER

FOX DRIVES OUT A HOME RUN AND HELPS LONDON TO VICTORY

Three Men Were On the Bases When London Third Baseman Wallops Pill in First Inning For Four Bases—Beard Also Drives Out a Home Run.

[BY JINX.]

Mr. Frankie Fox, the gent that gathers all the stray material in the region of third base in the interest of Mr. Bierbauer's buccannery, was the cute little party in yesterday's affair with Mr. Rowan's weak spots. This Fox person injected a four-fly drive into the frolic in the first inning, with the sacks densely populated, and four markers resulted in the general scramble that followed. As Mr. Gilhooley had completed the circuit a moment before, this made a total of five counters in the opening stanza, and enabled the Indians to wrest a victory from the Rowan crowd by the score of 7 to 5.

ANOTHER HOME-RUN.

Mr. Beard, the stout individual and general handy man on Mr. Rowan's side, who short-stops at rare intervals, also had his name placed in the home-run column, his circuit clout coming in the fifth inning, when a lone Pete roosted on a sack. The ball was driven into the scenery behind the advertising section of right field, Mr. Brant misjudging his flight.

Despite the efforts of the home folks to make a runaway of it in the initial spasm, the game was a good one all the way through, and was immensely enjoyed by the handful of fans present. It was a real bad day for pastime, and in the fourth inning a halt was called, while old J. Pluvius took a turn at bat, and sprinkled a small quantity of dampness over the lot. The siesta lasted for about twenty minutes, and then the eager athletes during the remaining sessions the moisture threatened again, but the contest was played out.

Powell Was Missing.

A slight change occurred in the London batting order. Owing to the absence of Mr. Earle Powell, it was necessary to put Mr. Brant in right field, while Mr. Bierbauer cavorted round theinial sack. Fitzpatrick started for the locals, and pitched a good game. In the fifth inning he became a trifle wild, and also allowed Mr. Beard to connect for a home-run, and Mr. Byrne to single. Three runs came in, and Mr. Bierbauer decided to hang on to the game by sending in Reitzman in the sixth. The southpaw held the Petes scoreless during the remaining stanzas, and Mr. Fitzpatrick is credited with the win. Fitz allowed the tailenders four hits, two coming in the second inning and two in the fifth. He would have won his game, no doubt, had he been left in, but Bierbauer was taking no chances.

The Lefty Mr. Osborne.

Heaving in behalf of the White Caps was an extension ladder gentleman named Osborne, whose total altitude must make Mr. Walter Brookins' record for high flying look like a high jump. We fancy Mr. Osborne could bring a fancy figure lifting aviators from a disabled aeroplane, while the machine was yet in the air. This lofty individual dished up

OUTSIDERS SWEEP CARD AT WINDSOR

Favorites Were Bowled Over With Sickening Regularity Yesterday.

A WELL-BALANCED CARD

Miss Edith Won the Stake Race, Beating Lysander Out in a Driving Finish.

Windsor, Ont., July 18.—Outsiders swept card at Windsor this afternoon, and as a result the layers recouped their losses of the first few days of the meeting. Some of the winners came from most unexpected quarters and favorites were bowled over with a regularity that made form players sick. A tremendous crowd was in attendance, and forty-five layers were in line in the ring. This was a record number for Windsor, and speculation was probably heavier than on any day of the meet. Light showers fell during the afternoon, but not enough to hurt the going to any noticeable extent.

The club provided a well-balanced card. Besides the Detroit Stakes there was provided an additional attraction, the Metropolitan Handicap, a dash for a mile and seventy yards, and a race for Canadian breds. Frank Weir furnished the winner of the stake in Miss Edith, who beat Lysander out in a driving finish. This pair raced in cisce order all the way, with the filly showing in front from the rise of the barrier. Monocacy, who opened favorite, but receded to 3 to 1, made a sorry showing. He was never a serious factor at any stage, and has been doubt over-rated by his people. Leochares managed to land in third place after a strenuous trip, in which he was hard ridden most of the way.

The summary:

First race, purse $500, Canadian-breds, 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs—Havrock, 107 (Koerner), 18 to 5, won; Tropaeum, 108 (Wolf), 5 to 1, second; Steamboat, 98 (Turner), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:15. Ondramon, Rustling, Breastplate, Commoia and Joe Gaiety also ran.

Second race, purse $500, maiden 3-year-olds and 4-year-olds, 1 mile—Regatta, 107 (Steele), 5 to 1, won; Carlton Club, 101 (Estep), 12 to 1, second; Magneto, 110 (Turner), even, third. Time, 1:42. Pons, Astorom, Sam Jackson, Master Jim, Doormat, and Cyronette also ran.

Third race, purse $1,000, Metropole Handicap, one mile and 70 yards—Furlong, 104 (Musgrave), 7 to 1, won; Granite, 116 (Koerner), 7 to 5, second; Buckhorn, 101 (Steele), 4 to 1, third. Time: 1:45 1-5. Cliff Edge, Lawton Wiggins, Guy Fisher, Superstition, Impression, Injury also ran.

Fourth race, purse $1,200, Detroit Stake, selling, 2-year-olds, 5 1/2 furlongs—Miss Edith, 97 (Callahan), 6 to 1, won; Lysander, 101 (McCahey), 10 to 1, second; Leochares, 108 (Mooney), 5 to 1, third. Time: 1:07 1-5. Monocacy, Bennet, Little Hugh and Barnegat also ran.

Fifth race, purse $500, 3-year-olds and up, selling, 5 1/2 furlongs—Carrillon, 104 (McCahey), 13 to 5, won; Detroit, 109 (Koerner), 8 to 1, second; Stray, 109 (Musgrave), 8 to 1, third. Time: 1:08 1-5. Sealed Orders, Delect, Salali, Sanctim, Roland Pardee, Senator Sparks also ran.

Sixth race, 4-year-olds and up, selling, 6 furlongs—Chapultepec, 108 (McCahey), 4 to 1, won; Sea Cliff, 109 (Koerner), 3 to 1, second; J. H. Hough, 116 (Musgrave), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:14 3-5. Sherry, Billy Vandevier, Mandinette, Winning Widow and Veeland also ran.

DIRECTORS RELEASE BOWERMAN

ALBERT BARRETT IS NEW MANAGER

Physical Instructor and Professor of Greek and Latin at Niagara University Will Control London Team—Will Take Charge on Monday.

They're off again. The London baseball team has a new manager. At a meeting of the directors in the Tecumseh House on Thursday night, Frank Bowerman, the ex-Giant, was released, he having failed to put in an appearance since Saturday night.

The team will be put into the very best shape, and an endeavor will now be made to snatch the top rung from Mr. Louis Cook's Senators. The locals have been playing good ball lately, and appear to have recovered from their slump. With the pitching staff fast rounding into shape, the team looks a hundred per cent better than it did a week ago, and the knockers will have little to complain about when Manager Barrett appears and takes hold of the club.

The local directors are bound to give this city a pennant-winning organization, and they believe they have the material in hand now.

First Baseball Earle Powell will be back in the game today. He was sick yesterday afternoon, and was unable to notify the directors before the game. He is feeling better today and should put up his usual good game this afternoon.

Manager Barrett has been in charge of the Ocean Grove Life Saving Corps since the term at Niagara University ended, but he has now resigned this position and is making preparations to arrive in London on Saturday.

McKenna Much Shaken

London, July 18.—Another minister, the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, secretary for home affairs, was the victim of unpleasant suffragette attentions at a public ceremony at Caerleon, Monmouthshire, today. A woman burst through the spectators and seized Mr. McKenna by the shoulders and shook him vigorously before the onlookers realized what had happened. The woman was then roughly ejected.

Only last month the home secretary was attacked by a suffragette in the presence of the King and Queen, at Llandaff, South Wales.

DETECTIVE BURNS CALLED IN ON ROSENTHAL MURDER CASE

Police Department Head Now Admits That Some Officers Were Mixed Up in Killing of Gambler—Bald Jack Rose Tells the Authorities of Death Ride.

New York, July 18.—The hunt for the men who put Herman Rosenthal where he could tell no tales against gamblers or crooked policemen quickened today, because Bald Jack Rose, Lieut. Becker's friend, surrendered, and William Shapiro, part owner of the car Rose hired for Rosenthal's killers, admitted that he had been told when the car was engaged, that policemen had knowledge of what his passengers were going to do and that nobody was in any danger.

Bald Jack told a tale to the district attorney of the busiest night he ever spent in his life—last Monday night—when he worked up evidence for his friend Becker against Rosenthal, and then went on the auto ride that had for its purpose the death of Rosenthal. The most important part of his revelations was the name of a gambler and gang fighter who rode in the Libby-Shapiro car with him, and Itzke and Shapiro. This man's name is Schaps and half the police force were sweeping the town for him tonight.

Police in It. Shapiro's story, offered to the district attorney as evidence, that the man in his fear and hired of the police is willing to become a state's witness if the district attorney will let him, emphasized Mr. Whitman's belief that the killing of Rosenthal did not spring from the enmity of a clique of gamblers who hated a trouble-maker and a squealer. Mr. Whitman did not question Shapiro today. But he will collect the details of Shapiro's information and estimate their value. And in line with Shapiro's hints comes information from an official of the police department to the district attorney: "That it looks after all, as if policemen had been mixed up in the Rosenthal case."

Burns on the Case. This factor in the situation has produced two new features. Mayor Gaynor, not satisfied with the explanation that Rosenthal was slain in a gambler's feud, has about in a game plan to determine what policemen might have had an interest in Rosenthal's murder. And with the district attorney, who will confer tomorrow, will have men at work on this feature of the case immediately.

The surrender of Rose, who had been in hiding since Rosenthal stumbled over the threshold of the Metropole early last Tuesday morning with four bullets in his head, looking for the detectives who had been looking for him, and professing his inability to lay hands on him. No man seemed to be more surprised than Lieut. Charles Becker, who had not been home all night, and who appeared to be unwilling to explain what kept him from his bed.

"Bald Jack" was interviewed at length by Inspector Hughes and Deputy Commissioner Dougherty. Inspector Hughes thus summarized the results of the talk.

"Rose came here because we had sent to him Bridge Webber and Sam Paul, with the information that if he were a wise man he would walk down to a police headquarters. He says that he did hire the grey car owned by Libby & Shapiro, and used by Rosenthal's murderers, but he denies positively that he was in the car when it went to the Metropole. He admits that he was an enemy of Rosenthal's, although once Rosenthal's closest friend."

"He tells us that after visiting several places, including a saloon far up town, he left the automobile near Jack's restaurant. He says he doesn't know what the passengers of the car did after that, because he went to see a friend."

"Now, we look at the case this way: Suppose a man had hired an automobile to be used in a murder raid, but that he did not want to be seen near the murder, wouldn't he have a curiosity to know how the job panned out? Wouldn't it be likely that he would tarry somewhere in the neighborhood?"

Witness Fled to Canada. New York, July 18.—An extraordinary light was thrown upon the Rosenthal murder by Assemblyman Aaron Levy, counsel for Libby & Shapiro, in telling of the experience of one of his clients, a well-known gambler, called "Dollar John," whose real name is Langer. When Rosenthal's place was seized by the police, and has never turned up. "Dollar Jack" threatened to raise "high jinks" if the money was not forthcoming. "Dollar Jack" suddenly disappeared, and this is the message he left:

"I'm going right off to Canada (and sure enough he did so about noon). I don't think it's good for my health to stay around here. In fact, I know it isn't. This is the situation: "After I left the courtroom Monday, you know I talked about that $5,000. Well, somebody came along and said that they'd heard I might be going to help Rosenthal in his case with the district attorney. I knew Rosenthal didn't want me, but I hadn't told him I would. Now, this person who spoke about it remarked that if I knew what was best for myself I'd take a nice long walk before growing much older. "I laughed, but saw there was something serious behind it. Still, I didn't think much about it till I heard of Rosenthal's murder early this morning. I have concluded to take a perfectly good piece of advice and go on that long walk before anything further is fixed up."

McNamara in Dungeon

San Quentin, Cal., July 18.—After a week in solitary confinement, J. B. McNamara, one of the convicted dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times building, stubbornly refused to conform to prison discipline, and Warden Hoyle said today that he would be kept in the dungeon indefinitely.

McNamara was placed in solitary confinement a week ago when he refused to obey an order given by a guard in the jute mill. He had been punished before for insubordination, and Warden Hoyle ordered that he be locked in the dark cell.

McNamara's punishment was for repeated acts of insubordination, said Warden Hoyle. "He had been a persistent violator of prison rules and there was nothing for us to do but take extreme measures."

The funeral was held this afternoon at North Embury Cemetery.

Mr. Oliver Smith, who had his hand badly smashed while handling a milk can, had to have a finger amputated.

Mrs. Andrew Shaw, of London, is visiting Mrs. James McMurray.

GLAUBITZ LIKES HORSE, BUT DILGER DOESN'T

Parks Commission's Anxious to Secure a Cheap Runabout.

General Manager Glaubitz, of the water and light department, is looking around for a horse for Parks Commissioner Dilger, and Mr. Dilger doesn't want a horse.

The parks man is anxious to get from one place to another as quickly as possible, and he finds street cars too slow.

Hiring a man at $2,000 per annum to drive a horse three miles an hour also appears poor business. Mr. Dilger says he would be satisfied with a small, cheap second hand for less than $500 if the city is willing.

As a horse, buggy and harness will cost about $400, and as hay is selling most of the year at from $15 to $20 per ton, Mr. Dilger thinks a gasoline machine for running about would be far cheaper.

In looking around for a team of horses for the use of the water commissioners, Mr. Glaubitz was asked all the way from $500 to $600 by the farmers of the district.

PILGRIMS' SPECIAL CRASHES INTO ENGINE

Miraculous Escape of Party Returning From the Shrine of St. Anne.

[Canadian Press.]
Riga, Que., July 19.—A trainload of pilgrims coming from St. Anne de Beaupre had a miraculous escape last night when their train crashed into the locomotive of a local, which was just backing up on the switch to let them pass. Engineer Martin, of the through train jumped, and as it turned out, was the only person badly injured. He was cared for by Dr. Mallette, and his injuries are not fatal, consisting of three broken ribs, internal injuries and minor abrasions.

The pilgrims were all women, and were under the guidance of Abbe Beauchamp, of Temiskaming. Many were prostrated by the shock, but no serious consequences were reported. The injured included Mrs. and Miss Alma Morel, of Cache Bay; Mrs. James Smith, Hearst, Ont.; Mrs. Patrick Collins, and Mrs. Alex. Laporte, Haliburton.

The regular train from Ottawa passed soon after the collision, and when the track was cleared the passengers were conveyed on it to the capital.

EIGHT SUFFRAGETTES PLACED UNDER ARREST

Militant Mrs. Leigh Leader of Sensational Demonstration at Dublin.

[Canadian Press.]
Dublin, Ireland, July 19.—Eight English women have been taken into custody by the police in connection with outrages perpetrated here last night on the arrival of Mr. Asquith by suffragettes, who have been constantly dogging the footsteps of the British premier since he left England.

The women are charged with complicity in the attempt made to burn down the Dublin theatre where Mr. Asquith is scheduled to speak today. A blazing chair was thrown into the orchestra from a box occupied by two women who then set fire to the curtains. The act caused a panic among the audience. One of the women was arrested last night. She gave the name of Gladys Evans, and said she came from England.

The eight women also are charged with complicity in the attempt to injure Mr. Asquith by throwing a hatchet at the premier's carriage as he left the party was proceeding from the wharf to a hotel.

Mrs. Mary Leigh, one of the suffragettes under arrest, was identified this morning as the thrower of the hatchet. The woman, it is alleged, intended to brain Mr. Asquith. Mrs. Leigh has long been a leader of the militant suffragettes. As far back as July, 1908, she was arrested for breaking windows in a suffragette demonstration in London. At that time she was sentenced to two months' imprisonment at hard labor, and on release brought damages against the Government for forcible feeding while in prison. The woman is described by the police as "the most troublesome suffragette" they have had to deal with.

A year later Mrs. Leigh was again sentenced to two months' hard labor at Birmingham, and on release released damages against the Government for forcible feeding while in prison. The woman is described by the police as "the most troublesome suffragette" they have had to deal with.

Mrs. Leigh was convicted for the eighth time in London last November for smashing windows, and sentenced to two months' imprisonment with the option of a fine. The magistrate warned Mrs. Leigh that if she were again convicted she would be sent to jail for a term at hard labor.

ENGLISH CREWS IN EIGHT-OAR FINALS

Leander Easily Defeats Berlin in the Olympic Semi-Finals.

[Canadian Press.]
Stockholm, July 19.—Two British boats were left to fight out the final heat of the outrigger eight-oared shells race today. They were the Leander and Berlin. The Leander won by a very easy victory over the eight representing the Berlin Rowing Club, in the semi-final this morning, and New College, Oxford, which rowed over the course.

Leander and Berlin in their semi-final heat were on even terms for the first quarter of the distance. At the half the Britishers assumed the lead, which they held until the finish. The Englishmen easily held the Berlin eight's plucky start and padded home, winning by half a length in 6 minutes 16 1/2 seconds.

SUMMER SCHOOL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Fine Addresses Are Being Given By Speakers From All Over District.

The fifth annual summer school for the study of the Bible and missions is in full progress in Alma College, St. Thomas. The enrollment up to date is 126, the largest that the school has ever had.

The first afternoon was spent in registration and assigning the students their rooms, and the evening session was spent in getting acquainted and listening to bright addresses of welcome by Revs. Dr. Warner and David Rogers. On Tuesday morning Rev. D. N. McCamus gave the first of his series of addresses on the general subject, "The Spiritual Interpretation of Christ," and on the definite subject, "Christ Revealed." These talks are proving a great spiritual uplift to the young people of the school, and are followed each day by a Bible study on "The Sermon on the Mount," by Rev. C. P. Wells, of Comber.

The school breaks up into five classes when the missionary text books are taught: "Our Neighbor," by All Peoples' Rev. J. S. Woodworth, of All Peoples' Mission, Winnipeg; "Our Share in China," by Rev. S. P. Westaway, of China; "The Decisive Hour in Christian Missions," by Miss German, of London; "Sunrise in the Sunrise Kingdom," by Rev. W. W. Proham, of Durham, late of China, and "The Moslem World," by Miss Cora Vinton, of Toronto. Then followed a very instructive address on the educational work of the West China Mission, by Rev. C. R. Caracallan, of China.

At 7:15 the school assembled on the lawn for a vesper service, and were addressed in an able manner on "The Life Worth While," by Rev. W. L. Hiles, B.D., of Delaware. The school then assembled in the chapel for their opening meeting, and listened to an address by Miss Caroline Wellwood, of China, on "Chinese Women," showing the customs that enslaved them. She made an effective appeal to the young women of the school, that none of them might be a victim of the "Chinese problem." In which he said that the Canada we live in is not the Canada we lived in ten years ago, and the Canada of today is not the Canada of ten years ago. We had 350,374 new settlers last year, 10 per cent of whom were from Southeastern Europe. If we can so Christianize these "alien peoples" that fifty different nationalities can live at peace together in Canada, we will give the world her greatest lesson on international peace.

The Church of Canada is only merely touching the work among the foreigners as yet, for the Methodist Church has only one English-speaking worker, who has thoroughly mastered the Chinese language and is thus able to work efficiently among these people. Many immigrants in our land are far from what they ought to be regarding the condition of their homes, their persons and social relations. But who is to blame? Not the immigrant, but the respectable Canadian, who is getting rich out of the labor of the foreigner, who for his family in not get enough to keep his family in honesty and decency. Speculation in land values is forcing the foreigner to pay such rentals on these inflated values as to keep him in poverty.

ITALY AND TURKEY CLOSER TO PEACE

Growing Impression at Italian Capital That End of War Is in Sight.

[Canadian Press.]
Rome, July 19.—There is a growing impression in governmental, parliamentary and diplomatic circles that peace is in sight. The people are still enthusiastic about the war, but the successes having further stimulated national ardor, but it is evident that concerted efforts are being made to bring about a cessation of hostilities. From all sides Italy is being advised to treat directly with the Porte.

The press reports that pourparlers have already begun in Constantinople. The Government denial of this is not generally believed. It is stated upon good authority that while no peace negotiations have been actually opened, efforts to outline a basis for negotiations are being made. The appointments of Tewfik Pasha as grand vizier increases the chances of their success.

DISPUTE MAY GO BEFORE THE VATICAN

Supreme Church Court to Settle Differences Between Prelates and Priests.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, July 18.—Several eminent members of the Montreal bar have interested themselves in the dispute between the priests of St. Marie de Monroir College and the Archbishop of Montreal and the Bishop of St. Hyacinthe. The priests to take their case to the Vatican, or the supreme court of the Roman Catholic Church, which sits in Rome to hear.

Members of the organization, and get a ruling as to which mandate must be obeyed—that of the courts of Quebec, forbidding the priests to move the college from the beach and heights of St. John's. An old St. Marie man and a judge said today that the difference between the college and the diocesan authorities was over 60 years old, the college having through these years been the object of criticism at their hands.

In the meantime old students of the college are rallying to its support, and attempts are being made to hold a mass meeting tomorrow night.

RECORD CROWDS AT PORT STANLEY

The Aviator Was Big Attraction at the Lakeside Yesterday.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Port Stanley, July 18.—Several large parties, along with the girls which came to see the aviation, today formed the largest crowd of any Thursday this year. Early in the forenoon the people began to come and were soon on the beach and heights around the airfield. Over two thousand came from Ingersoll, several hundreds from the Thorndale district, and many more from the Yarmouth Sunday School Association picnic.

Long before 3 o'clock a great crowd was gathering in eager anticipation around the hydro-aeroplane, to witness the aviation. Minutes dragged into half-hours, and a greatly disappointed mass of people gradually broke up as Mr. Brookings failed to appear. Again at 5 o'clock the crowd gathered, but the weather was getting heavier and there was no chance of any flight that day. Especially were the Ingersoll people disappointed, because this is the second time they have gathered to see the aeroplane in action and the crowd in their own town the flight trains left scarcely half an hour before Mr. Brookings decided to attempt a flight.

Made a Flight.

By 7:45 the showers had ceased and the stifling gusts died down to a smart land breeze; then the first flight of the day was made. The machine raced out toward mid-lake, resting rather heavily on the pontoons, and had to be steered around angling to the shore again before the head wind raised it from the waves. It was a difficult flight Mr. Brookings was performing, and on account of the uncertain gusts, and a heavy down-rain more than fifty feet above the water land breeze he was unable to describe the graceful circles which were the feature of yesterday's entertainment. Three short flights were made on account of the unsatisfactory weather conditions no passengers were taken.

However the picnickers had a very pleasant outing in spite of disappointments, and few grumbled of lack of enjoyment. "Bigger and grander than ever" was the slogan of the day. The Yarmouth Sunday school picnic, which ran its sixth annual excursion and two long trains were required to accommodate its excursionists.

Many from Yarmouth, representative of the district surrounding Dexter, Union and Sparta, was also largely attended. Interest among the followers centred about the baseball game between Dexter and Union. The game was fast and exciting, and though Dexter won by a wide margin because of their fortune in running runs rather than a decided superiority over their opponents. Parker outpitched his rival.

OVER ENTRANCE EXAMS

Only 71 Per Cent Passed There

Against 90 Per Cent in

This City.

The Hamilton Herald says: A Hamilton public school official reported to have expressed himself as being satisfied with the proportionate number of pupils who passed the entrance examinations in this city. If he fails to be correctly reported, we think he is too easily satisfied.

Of the 579 Hamilton pupils who wrote on the examination papers, 415 were successful. Less than 71 per cent of the candidates succeeded. In London 90 per cent of the candidates passed. The papers were the same and

Hamilton and London are not far apart in intelligence of Hamilton boys and girls. What, then, is the explanation of the wide difference between the

London and Hamilton results? Is it unreasonable to assume that the London children have been better taught than the Hamilton children have been? We do not think it is an unfair assumption.

A Question.

It would be interesting to know how many of the Hamilton pupils were handicapped by having had two years of school work crowded into one year. That a considerable number of them labored under this disadvantage is certain. The parents of such pupils have good ground for complaint. It is grossly unfair to a child —particularly if the child is of a genuinely disposition and not robust health—to compel him or her to undertake to get through in one year as much work as other children do in two. It is unfair, because a delicate child's health is endangered by the strain, and also because the educa-

MR. T. G. TURNBULL IS RETIRING AT KOMOKA

Has Been in Shipping Business There For Eighteen Years.

Mr. T. G. Turnbull, who for the past eighteen years has been in the shipping business, is retiring shortly. Since Mr. Turnbull started at Komoka the amount of business has increased until the trade there is second only to Chatham on the line between London and Windsor. The agent formerly at Melrose was transferred to Komoka, as the bulk of the traffic centred there. Mr. Turnbull has shipped as high as 250 cars of grain and other produce in a year, while receiving 100 carloads of coal, flour, feed, shingles cement, and other materials. Large numbers of cattle and hogs are also shipped from this point. Mr. Turnbull some years ago put in a large scale, and he never charged for weighing cattle.

Mr. Leslie Leckie, who succeeds in the business, is a stranger here, having come from Guelph. Mr. Turnbull still intends to live at Komoka. Being relieved of the elevator business, he intends to devote more time to the welfare of the general public. During his busiest years he has shown a live interest in this respect, having been councillor of Lobo Township for several years, reeve for two years, and has been county hospital trustee for three years, and still holds that office. He once had the nomination to run for M. P. in North Middlesex. But he was gerrymandered out of the riding before election. He is an earnest worker in the temperance cause and in other moral reforms. He was also instrumental in starting the public library at Komoka.

FALLING MACHINERY STRUCK LIVE WIRE

Two Workmen Meet Death at Meaford, Ont., by Peculiar Accident.

Meaford, July 18.—A fatal accident, causing two deaths and marked by extraordinary features, occurred here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when a pilerdriver used in the construction of the new Sykes street bridge over the Big Head River overbalanced and started to fall upon a group of workmen beneath. A metal bolt at the very top of the pilerdriver caught in a wire which supplies electricity to the town from the plant of the Georgian Bay Milling Company, preventing the big machine from falling, but this circumstance, which meant the salvation of the workmen below, brought death to two others, for the electrical current was diverted to the frame of the pilerdriver. William Cherry, of Meaford, operating the engine 50 feet away, received the charge through the steel cable of the pilerdriver, and fell dead. A man named Johnson, whose home is at Owen Sound, was working half-way up the pilerdriver. He involuntarily seized the cable as the frame tipped, and was also killed, his body falling into the river. The water was so heavily charged with electricity that George Randle, of Meaford, who grasped Johnson's hand to draw out the body, was rendered unconscious. Miss L. Matheson is spending this week with her sister in Norwich.

M'LAREN---BUTCHER

Witchell Girl Becomes Wife of St. Marys Citizen.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Mitchell, July 18.—A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLaren, when their daughter Viola was united in marriage to Mr. R. Butcher, of St. Marys, Rev. Dr. McRae, performed the ceremony. The bride was daintily attired in a dress of white duchess satin with over-dress of white tulle, trimmed with crystals and pearls. FINED $30

Hotelman Found Guilty of Selling Illegally at Chatham.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, July 18.—The father of a young man named Frank Johnson, of Wallaceburg, laid a complaint against Mahoney, one of the proprietors of the Tecumseh Hotel of that town, charging him with doing his son bodily harm by hitting him on the head with an ice pick on the 12th of July. There was a celebration in Wallaceburg that day, and the incident was the result of a row in the hotel. The magistrate held that all parties were to blame, and dismissed the case.

The charges against the Tecumseh House for selling liquor illegally on that date had to be postponed, because the witnesses did not appear. Thomas J. C. Green, proprietor of a restaurant in the east end, was fined $30.75 for allowing liquor to be consumed on his premises. He pleaded guilty.

A LAST RESORT

ARE MODERN WOMEN LOVELY AS OF YORE

Scientist Says No More Beautiful Only the Lovable and Charming.

Vienna, July 16.—Are modern women as lovely as those of yore? This is the question all Austria has been debating since Dr. Reoul Auerheimer, author of "Poses Out of Reach," "The Great Passion" and numerous other romances and plays, began discussing it, along with the further question: What is the distinctive type of beauty today?

Dr. Auerheimer has come to the conclusion that there are no more beautiful women, but only adorably pretty and charming women. The historically beautiful Venus de Milo, he says, is dead. She is supplanted by the attractive, coquettish, ravishing Venus de Medicis. This tremendous change has taken place in a mere couple of generations.

A dispute has arisen as to whether it is possible for a national type to change in a couple of generations. The objectors say that the apparent change is due to a different fashion of doing the hair, to different hats and dresses. Herr Rasch, a competent authority of Buda-Pesth, retorts that the physical type of a locality may change quickly. He quotes a traveller's observations of a village near Pesth, in 1825. "The natives," he said, the traveller, "were dark and rather small." Today this village is noted for the high stature of its population, and for their remarkably fair skins.

Beauty Has Changed.
Dr. Auerheimer holds that beauty has changed, not only in Austria-Hungary, but all over the world. To some extent it is a change of ideals. When a particular beauty type becomes fashionable, women of that type are pushed into the foreground; they become prominent on the stage and are chosen as models by artists and photographers. The type which they have dispossessed in public favor continues to exist, but nobody notices it. Today, says Auerheimer, there live undomesticated women, who in the middle-nineteenth century, would have been acclaimed as miracles of beauty. The modern world is busy admiring, painting and singing the praises of women whom fifty years ago, no one would have noticed.

Auerheimer finds that the beauty idea changes in a series of wave-like movements. The strictly beautiful woman dominated the eighteenth century, and attained her height toward the end of the first French Empire. By the 30s of the nineteenth century the type was extinct. In art this was due to the rise of modern bourgeois ideals. "Every age," says Auerheimer, "has the woman it deserves." Of late there has been a slight revival of beauty. Vienna today has more lovely women than it has had at any time since the generation of the painter Hans Makart.

But this new Viennese beauty would not have been considered very beautiful in the old days. It would have been considered merely charming. Charm is the characteristic of the modern beauty. The old beauty was somber, imposing and almost demonic. The charm of the new beauty lies in its brightness, childlike and tenderness. The old beauty tended to be red-blond, whereas the new is chestnut. The modern beauty is lovely, lovely women, "inclines to keep a small pet dog, and to wear on its face the exclamation, 'it does not bite.'"

Has No Profile.
Another characteristic of modern beauty is that it has no profile. That is why it is usually painted full face or three-quarters face. Such a frequent feature of modern beauty is dangerous. The day of the "femme fatale," with pale cheeks and vampire eyes is dead forever. The modern beauty may seal a man's heart on fire, but she does so in a spirit of levity. The conflagration does not worry her. She leaves it to be extinguished by the nearest fire brigade.

This theory of beauty is accepted by most of the Austrians who have written on the subject; but they hold that it touches only the surface. It neglects to explain why the modern beauty is charming and the old beauty is repulsive. The reason, says the artist Rheinlander, is that woman in the early twentieth century exists only in relation to men.

Woman today more than ever needs men, because the difference between poverty and wealth is greater than ever, and the modern beauty seeks the man who will provide her with all she needs. Here the heroic beauty of the past type cannot compete. She is too cold, too austere. "The woman who attracts man must be coquettish, graceful and adorable."

LEGAL TANGLE OVER MIDDLESEX PROTEST

Government Has Not Yet Decided What To Do in the Case.

Toronto, July 18.—Legal complications appear to have arisen over the issuance of a writ for a by-election in East Middlesex, caused by the recent death of Mr. Robert Sutherland. After the election last December a protest was filed against Mr. Sutherland's election, which still stands. It is stated that the Government has not yet decided what effect this will have, while it remains upon the issue of the writ.

DOUBLE TRACKING LACHINE BRIDGE

Gigantic Work Being Accomplished by Canadian Pacific With St. Lawrence River Bridge.

One of the many gigantic works which the Canadian Pacific Railway is carrying out at the present moment is that connected with the double-tracking of the bridge which crosses the St. Lawrence River at Lachine, Que. Today the work is going forward with all speed, and it is expected that in the course of a week or two the double-tracking will be completed on both the down-stream side and the up-stream side to the point where the longest spans are to be placed, which will replace the present cantilever pattern spans. The Canadian Pacific Railway, in carrying out this great work, is continuing its policy of double-tracking throughout its entire system, and it is anticipated that before many years have passed away, the country will boast of a double-track along the C. P. R. from St. John to Vancouver. Owing to the great difficulty in securing the requisite number of men in various parts of the country, the company is somewhat handicapped in pushing forward the huge work of double-tracking. It was prior to July, 1910, when the C. P. R. came to the conclusion that the time had arrived to carry out the work of double-tracking the Lachine Bridge, and the important approach to Montreal from the United States and its New York connections, largely owing to the enormous increase in traffic, and the contracts were let to the Foundation Bridge Company, Limited, and the Dominion Bridge Company, whose works are practically on the spot, to carry out the change. The cost of the improvement will absorb three millions of dollars, and the work was straightway commenced.

It was on July 12, 1910, that the first operation was made on the enlargement of the old piers to carry the new girders before any of the new steel had been swung. This in itself was a huge job, and the work was completed by November 8, 1911, leaving only pier 13 on the up-stream side to be finished when the cantilever is taken out, but this will not be started probably until next year, as until the last two stages are completed, which is part of the work now under way, this cannot be done, owing to the cantilever tracks of the bridge being in use. The work in the vicinity of the Lachine Bridge is of a very extensive character, and not only includes the enlargement or double-tracking of the structure across the St. Lawrence, but the three other bridges are to be double-tracked, approaching the main bridge, while the bridge across the Lachine Canal will in the near future have to undergo the same fate. "This is a heavy swing bridge, but it is understood that the appropriation has not yet been made, and several matters are to be settled before the work can be started. Still with the complete double-tracking of the approach from Montreal main line to the Lachine Bridge across the St. Lawrence River, the double-tracking of the canal bridge must inevitably follow, at least at some future time. New spans have been inserted in the new bridge that crosses the Grand Trunk Railway at Rockfield, and the work is being rushed forward with all speed, and the filling up of the sidings for the double tracks approaching the bridge is being completed. At the Highlands extensive works are also being carried out, but the principal improvement and the most costly is that relative to the St. Lawrence River Bridge. The work on the superstructure of this great undertaking was commenced on March 15, 1911, when the placing of the two eighty deck plates was first undertaken, and ever since the work has been hurried forward with all speed. The bridge, when completed, will contain steel spans as follows: six 80 feet long, sixteen 120 feet long, four 270 feet long, two 122 feet, eight 240 feet, four 270 feet, and four 480 feet, making the total length of the bridge in spans 3,138 feet. The bridge was "cut down" so to speak from four 240's to eight 480's at pier 7. The piers on which the girders are resting consist of open casement to pier 7, counting from the island side, and from 8 to 15 inclusive, the pneumatic casing was used. Eleven spans were erected from the main line on the down-stream track out to pier 7, and then a cross-over enabled the traffic to reach the new steel and the work of bridging was continued without interruption, beyond that caution was used by the trains in crossing the bridge, every train travelling at a slow rate of speed.

The changing or reducing of the spans to smaller ones, and the device used for putting them into place, resulted in the saving of thousands of dollars. The introduction of the smaller spans had no tendency to reduce the strength of the bridge, but on the other hand it greatly increased it, as the weight was being carried by more spans on shorter lengths. During the carrying out of the work only two cross-overs were necessary to complete it to the eleventh pier, from which point the huge three spans or channel spans, which are 408 feet long, commenced. The placing of the spans has reached such a point that no further cross-overs will be required, and the traffic will cross on the steel on the west side of the bridge until the east side is totally completed, which it is expected will be by this fall, provided everything goes on swimmingly. The whole of the bridge as far as the eleventh pier or the swinging of the huge channel spans are concerned, is finishing with the exception of a small length of new steel to replace the old, and the progress has been well maintained throughout with a gang of nearly 100 men.

The work has now commenced in connection with the placing of the two 408-foot spans, which will complete fully the west side of the bridge. The huge spans are at present being erected at the yards of the Dominion Bridge Company, which are in close proximity to the bridge, and when they are finished, the bridge will be re-erected on the finished steel plate portion of the bridge on the east side of the stream, where space sufficient in length has been left for the purpose. This done, one end will be attached to a huge derrick which has been specially erected for the purpose of steadying and assisting in putting the end into place, while the other end will be floated on a huge scow in the river below, and in this way the spans will be floated into position. It is expected that the work which has to be done before the bridge is finally completed for double track service, will occupy at least another twelve months. The work of floating in the four huge spans will almost certainly be done before the rest of the bridge has done. These through channel spans are not of the cantilever type, but the strength of the bridge will be below and when the work is finished, the bridge will constitute one of the finest pieces of engineering work on the continent. The two flanking spans on the north side are practically completed, so that everything is in readiness for going ahead, with the work and this will be done within the next week or two, as soon as the bridge is discharged from the workshop. It is interesting to note that in the new bridge there are no less than 8,072,252 pounds of steel. The 8-foot lengths run 110,000 pounds, the 120's 324,138, and the 408's 2,600,000 pounds. Starting from the island side, the bridge widens out at the seventh pier, from sixteen feet from centre to centre of trusses to twenty feet at the eleventh pier, and continues from that point to the end.

PETROLEA PICNIC WAS HELD TO SARNIA PARK

Five Hundred People Attended Outing of Presbyterian and English Churches.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 18.—Nearly five hundred people arrived here today on an excursion from Petrolia, consisting of the Presbyterian and English Churches of that town. Six street cars were on hand to take the crowd to Lake Huron Park, where they spent the day. A cool north wind and a drizzling rain in the afternoon rather marred the outing.

Paul Blundy, one of Sarnia's well-known citizens, died here last night. He was 55 years old, and is survived by three grownup children. The funeral will be held from the family residence, on Mary street, on Saturday, and interment will be made in the Catholic Cemetery. Mr. Blundy was in the employ of the Grand Trunk for quite a number of years.

United States Consul F. C. Slater and wife, of Sarnia, have left on a trip for Montreal and Quebec.

The Ferry Trouble. Two United States inspectors of hulls and boilers again inspected the ferry-boats Grace Dorman and James Beard as a result of the trouble between the town of Sarnia and the ferry company. It has been rumored in certain quarters that the boats are unsafe, but this is absolutely untrue, both vessels having been passed by the Canadian and American inspectors. The authorities at Washington heard vague reports of the squabble here, and decided that another examination of the ferries would do no harm.

The ferry company will carry the people from Port Huron and Sarnia to Stag Island tomorrow evening, to attend the dance, which will be held at the pavilion in Lake Huron Park the same night.

Two men engaged in a fist fight near the Hotel Chapman last night. Before many rounds were fought, the police appeared on the scene and separated the combatants. The men appeared before the police magistrate today, and were fined one dollar and costs, and two dollars and costs, respectively.

STEFFENS A WITNESS

Noted Magazine Writer Will Tell What He Knows of McNamara's.

[Canadian Press.] Los Angeles, Cal., July 18.—But for the fact that it would preclude him from participating in the arguments to the jury, District Attorney Fredericks would take the stand on rebuttal in the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow, and tell of his part in the negotiations which preceded the abrupt termination of the McNamara trial.

That reason only would bar him from testifying, said Fredericks, if it should prove that the testimony of Lincoln Steffens, magazine writer, concerning the negotiations, did not coincide with what he knew to be the facts in the matter. With a searching cross-examination before him, Steffens resumed the stand today for a continuation of his direct examination, which was halted yesterday by request of the defence for further time in which to prepare additional questions.

In lieu of taking the stand himself, the district attorney stated that he might call as rebuttal witnesses, Meyer Lyssner, a prominent Republican politician; Harry Chandler, general manager of the Times and others, to show that hope had been abandoned of bringing about a settlement of the McNamara case until the bribery expose.

STORM BRINGS DEATH TO MINING CAMPS

Water Sweeps Down Nevada Canyon and Overturns Hotel.

[Canadian Press.] Reno, Nev., July 18.—Ten bodies have been recovered, and from five to ten more are believed dead as the result of a cloudburst 30 miles from Lovelock yesterday, which destroyed the mining camp of Mazuma, and partially destroyed the nearby camp of Seven Troughs.

In Mazuma, which suffered most, it was at first believed that nearly 100 persons were missing, but later the estimates placed the loss of life at not more than twenty.

The known dead are: John Trenchard, merchant, of Mazuma, formerly of Victor, Cal.; Mrs. John Trenchard, his wife; Col. Mrs. Leach, Mazuma; Mrs. Reese, Mazuma; Mike Qualen, miner, Mazuma; son of Superintendent Gillespie, Mazuma; four boys of the Keogh family.

The Seven Troughs is isolated, and away up in the mountainside, with Mazuma at the base, in a canyon three miles away.

The wall of water swept down the canyon, carrying buildings before it, and overturning the Mazuma hotel. Those in the streets were carried down the gulch, and many were cast to safety along the sides of the canyon.

Word was received from Vernon by telephone, and doctors, nurses and automobiles with provisions have gone from Lovelock.

The body of John Trenchard was found three miles from his home. No loss of life, but much loss of property is reported in Seven Troughs.

NEW VERSION OF AN OLD SWINDLE

Renewal of the Famous Confidence Game of "The Cuban Prisoner."

DOZENS ARE FLEECE

American Consul-General at Valencia Reports on the Affair.

Washington, July 18.—Dispatches to the state department from various places in Spain, particularly from Valencia, indicate a renewal of one of the oldest and best-known swindles ever put over on unsuspecting Americans—"the confidence game of the Cuban prisoner."

The truth of the old Barnum adage about the desire of Americans to be humbugged was perhaps never so well illustrated as in the numerous complaints which reached American diplomatic officials relative to this swindle. Every year it is estimated that fifty or more persons "fall for" the snare despite the publicity which has been given the scheme in the past. In fact, Consul Robert Frazer, jun., at Valencia, reports that he has received complaints from a dozen fleeced Americans within the past fortnight—an indication that the workers of the "Cuban prisoner game" are still in the ring. The swindle is usually conducted as follows:

Outlines of Swindle.
The affair opens with a touching letter to the proposed American dupe, a dying prisoner, ex-secretary of the last Marshal Martinez Campos, cruelly persecuted by powerful political enemies and immured in a military fortress in Spain from which he is able to communicate with the outside world only through the friendly intervention of a kind-hearted military chaplain. The dying man claims relationship, through his deceased wife, with the American to whom the letter is addressed and an added interest is imparted to the situation by the introduction of a young, beautiful and only daughter, soon to become an unprotected orphan if the American fails to come to the rescue. The father's effects have been seized by the Spanish military court to pay the expenses of the prosecution. Among them is a cunningly devised valise, in which the prisoner has secreted Bank of England notes for £25,000 (or some like sum) accumulated in Cuba and deposited for safety in London on his way home. This sum, the existence of which is fortunately unknown to his enemies, he intends settling on his daughter and the American relative.

Closing the Net.
If the dupe replies encouragingly the father conveniently dies and the bogus chaplain takes up the correspondence conveying the sad news and enclosing a legalized copy of the deceased's last will and testament, drawn up on official paper in the archaic language peculiar to such documents and attested by the notarial signatures and seals, all perfectly counterfeited. The American is hereby appointed sole executor, and guardian of the orphan, who incloses her photograph with a few lines of ungrammatical English invoking tender memories of her dead American mother.

The climax is now reached by the "chaplain" forwarding a forged certificate of the military tribunal specifying the exact sum (always from £800 to $1,200) required immediately to liberate the dead man's effects with the hidden vouchers and send the ward to her expectant relatives in America.

While to most experienced people the probability of the foregoing being a swindle would be evident, it must be said, in justice to the victims, that the letters are so convincingly written and the legal documents and seals so impressive and cleverly counterfeited, that their deception is perfectly comprehensible. In most cases an American accomplice of the gang looks up family history and obtains the name of some relative, probably of an older generation, which the prisoner in Valencia states was related to his beloved wife.

Variations in Scheme.
During the past month what is apparently much the same scheme in two new disguises has again broken out. The two imitations are very much like the original in principle, though different in detail. The first of these, the weakest, concerns a Russian banker who absconded with 5,000,000 roubles and afterwards shot a comrade while in hiding in New York. His letter, from a Spanish prison, incloses a newspaper clipping in English giving his history and the story of his arrest, and his letter tells about the portmanteau with the secret pocket containing the vouchers for $480,000, of which he offers a third as a reward to his American rescuer. He also, as in the other schemes, instructs his victim not to write, but to cable in case he is interested and is willing to assist the prisoner. From here on the swindle is the same as in the case of the "Cuban prisoner." The third scheme, that of the "Paris banker," is by far the most clever and at the same time the most dangerous. This opens like the incident of the Russian absconder, but more guardedly, and without the mention of a crime. The victim is requested to cable. Upon receipt of his reply he is asked to bring $2,400 in gold with him in order to pay the costs and free the prisoner's effects, being assured that he will have nothing to pay until, through the agency of a friendly prison guard, he has actually seen the hidden draft and telegraphed to New York to inquire if it is good and would be paid to the bearer. This, apart from the convincing tone of the whole letter and the perfectly counterfeited documents, seals, newspaper clippings, etc., accompanying it, is a most plausible factor connected with the scheme.

Danger of Foul Play.
The element of danger lies in the arrangement with the prison guard to meet the American at Zaragoza on his way to Valencia. The excuse for this meeting is that he and the guard have been discussing the banker's daughter ("young, beautiful and of a loving disposition") from the asylum in that city, where the authorities have placed her. The American is to wear a handkerchief around his wrist on descending from the train at Zaragoza and is told to go to a certain hotel there. Consul Frazer, in speaking of this scheme, says: "No swindle of this sort has as yet, to my knowledge, been carried out. But it seems not unlikely that apart from the pecuniary loss this dupe would suffer foul play. In the old scheme the rescuer was never asked to come in person, but merely to bring the money, and only about $1,000 was asked for. In the year 1907 alone, to my knowledge, credulous Americans were swindled out of about $30,000 without counting the large number who must have preferred taking their losses in silence rather than allow their gullibility to become known. The syndicates were so well organized, had so many years of experience in working their game and had it so well arranged through the chain of different people that it was (and is) a matter of extreme difficulty to bring any of the ringleaders to justice."

SURVEYORS AT GUELPH

Party Are at Work on Canadian Northern Route.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Guelph, July 18.—There are at present here six surveyors in the employ of the Canadian Northern Railway. They have been in Guelph since the first of the week, and are engaged, so far as can be learned, in making an extensive survey west of Guelph as far as Stratford, and are also making some northern surveys. It is quite apparent from the presence of these surveyors that the C. N. R. realizes that a line north through Elora and Fergus to Arthur will be beneficial.

They have done very little surveying in the city limits on this trip so far, although, it is said, they may do so before they leave. Two of the surveyors went to Stratford this morning.

NEWSPAPERS BIND THREE BIG NATIONS

French Premier, Poincare, Declares Journalism Can Develop Harmony Abroad.

Paris, July 18.—Raymond Poincare, the French premier, delivered a notable address at the annual dinner of the Anglo-American Press Association, which includes the American and British newspaper correspondents in Paris.

Reflecting the words of the toastmaster of the evening, the premier declared that journalists could do much to develop the harmony and friendship which exists between France, the United States and Great Britain.

"You know France at first hand," you see her at work," declared M. Poincare. "You know that if France wishes to be powerful, she wishes at the same time to place her power toward the development of peace and civilization throughout the world. France is a nation of noble ideas and generous sentiments. Say it, repeat it; endeavor to be between our three countries the interpreters of minds and hearts."

In closing, the premier proposed a toast to the solid friendship between France, England, and the United States. Among those present were Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador; Capt. Frank H. Mason, the United States consul-general, and R. J. Shoninger, president of the American Chamber of Commerce at Paris.

Wireless Wonder.

A curious wireless telegraph phenomenon has been discovered at the railroad station of Clichy-Levallois, near the gates of Paris. Electricians who touched the wires of a large collection of telegraph conduits which had not been connected with any system, received severe electrical shocks. An investigation by the state railway engineers revealed that the shocks were due to Hertzian waves sent out from the powerful wireless station at the top of the Eiffel Tower. A receiving station was established by way of a test, and a telegraph sapper was able to intercept wireless messages dispatched from the Eiffel Tower and other stations.

By pure chance the collection of telegraph wires at Clichy-Levallois railway station fills all the necessary conditions of height, distance and position to receive the Eiffel Tower communications. The incident has caused great interest in scientific circles, as a wireless post especially erected on the top of a schoolhouse in Paris has never been able to intercept messages from the tower.

A good idea of the great expense in the nationalization of railroads, so far as it has proceeded in France, is obtainable from an official report just distributed in the Chamber of Deputies. According to this estimate the deficit on the state-owned Western Railroad for the current year is over $16,000,000.

M. Henri Cheron, the author of the report, attributes this deficit to the cost of maintaining the line, the increase in the number of employees and the augmentation of wages. The report points to deplorable, that the service, hitherto improved, before the Western Railroad was taken over by the state, the deficit amounted to about $5,000,000. Since the nationalization of the line in 1911 the French Government has expended in improvements about $47,000,000.

HOW M. DESCHANEL RULES IN DEBATES

One of the Most-Talked Of Men in France Who Is in Line For President.

Paris, July 18.—Paul Deschanel at 56 is president of the Chamber of Deputies for the fifth time, and is one of the most-talked-of men in France. The President of the Chamber of Deputies holds the same position as the speaker of the British House of Commons or of the House of Representatives of the United States.

Far from being a czar he quietly holds in check one of the most unruly houses of representatives in the whole world. So far the calm spirit of the Academician has communicated itself to the most noisy Socialist and to the most blatant royalist.

His immediate predecessor, the late Henri Brisson, used to break the bell at least once a week in his efforts to keep order. Paul Deschanel rarely uses the famous bell. He generally holds a paper knife high in the air when he wishes to impose silence. Dressed with a taste as impeccable as that of Count Boni de Castellane, when President Deschanel lifts his paper knife even Jules Coutant, the most noisy member of the Chamber, holds his tongue. And Colley, whose voice goes on to concert pitch, when denouncing the "infamies of capital," becomes as gentle as a cooling dove when the President affably requests him not to violate the decorum of the House. In a word, the Chamber of Deputies is delighted with its President.

May Be in Line For President.

It would surprise very few if Paul Deschanel were selected by the Senate and Chamber to succeed President Faillieres next February at the Elysee. The men to whom France looks for presidential timber are the presiding spirits of the Chamber of Deputies and of the Senate. When President Loubet was elected, Paul Deschanel was a candidate. Two facts militated against him. He was very young and he was very much of a dandy. Furthermore, he was not then married, and the French like to have a married man at the Elysee.

These drawbacks have now disappeared. Paul Deschanel is no longer a youth; his dandified air has developed into such elegance as to recall the courteous days of President Felix Faure. And he is married to one of the most accomplished young matrons in France, who would grace the presidential receptions even as the Empress Eugenie added lustre to the routs at the Tuilleries. Before she married Deputy Deschanel she was Mademoiselle Brice, daughter of a well-known senator.

Paul Deschanel interests the Republicans. He was born in exile, his father having been one of the many victims of Napoleon the Little's tyranny. The day of his birth his father, who was eating in Brussels, the bitter bread of exile, ran across the street to inform two other illustrious exiles of the happy event. They were Victor Hugo and Edgar Quinet.

"He is the first born of the prophecy," said Victor Hugo. "Let us be his god-parents, Quinet," said Victor Hugo. So these two revered prophets of democracy were his sponsors.

His Public Career.
His public career began in 1885, when he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies for the district of the Eure-et-Loire. There he has sat ever since. In the chamber Gambetta was his idol. During these 27 years of a fine parliamentary career he has been noted for fidelity to principle and finished speaking. His sentences are clear and his phrases are cadenced. Paul Deschanel is a pacemaker. He makes the most warring factions fraternize or at least respect each other's opinion.

WILL LAY CORNER-STONE.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Midway, July 19.—Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton, assisted by many priests from the district, will lay the corner-stone of the new Catholic Church here on July 23. The day has been proclaimed a civic holiday.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. FLORA BENNETT

Funeral Will Be Held on Saturday to Woodland.

The funeral of Mrs. Flora Bennett, widow of Charles E. Bennett, who died suddenly at her home, 358 Elias street, Wednesday afternoon, is to be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. to Woodland Cemetery, when the services will be conducted by Rev. Mr. McIntosh, of King Street Presbyterian Church.

Thomas Moore, an employee of the C. E. R., who performs night duty, arose at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and discovered his mother lying in bed. When unable to awaken her he summoned a physician, who found that life had been extinct for some time. Coroner Dr. MacLaren was later notified, but decided that death was due to either heart weakness or acute indigestion, and an inquest was therefore unnecessary. Mrs. Bennett had been in ill health for some time and had been under the care of a physician. She is survived by three sons—Harry, of this city, and James and Thomas at home.

POOLS FOR BOYS IN THE RIVER

Board of Works Will Go Ahead With Two Swimming Places at Once.

PAVING STANLEY STREET

People Object, and So Do the Street Railway—Meeting of the Board of Works.

At the meeting of the board of works on Thursday night Engineer Wright was instructed to prepare plans for two swimming pools in the river for the boys of the city. The pools, it is expected, will be situated in the north and south branches, and will be roped off and a competent supervisor will be put in charge of each.

The committee thought that the grant of $500, sanctioned by the council, would fully cover the cost of erecting a shelter of the knock-down type; the salaries of the supervisors, which will be about $12 per week for eight weeks, and the cost of the ropes. Everything will be constructed so that it can be stored away during the winter, and erected quickly each spring.

A letter was read from Mr. Geo. S. Gibbons, president of the London Playgrounds and Recreative Association, in which he heartily concurred with the decision of the committee that the swimming baths should be under the supervision of the municipal authorities.

Paving Stanley Street.

The committee referred the question of paving Stanley street back to the council. A petition signed by a large number of the ratepayers was received asking that the pavement be not laid, as the street was not a main thoroughfare, and would be made such by the laying of a pavement. Manager C. B. King, of the street railway, stated that the company was not prepared for the installation of new rails, which would be necessitated if a pavement was laid.

A complaint was received through Messrs. Jarvis & Vining from certain citizens of Trafalgar street, stating that the McClary Manufacturing Company, by extending a railroad siding, had encroached upon the street. Legal action was threatened if the street was not immediately put in proper condition. The matter was referred to City Solicitor Meredith.

P. E. Osborne asked that the city further consider his claim for damages amounting to $255, caused by him running into a sewer on Richmond
