WINDSOR MERCHANTS PROTEST TO GOVERNMENT AGAINST UNFAIRNESS IN CLAUSES OF NEW TAX SCHEME

Amendments Are Urged, So That Tax Should Be Payable Only On Amount of Excess Selling Price—Hundreds of Articles Are Exempt From Any Tax, While Levy Made On Other Articles of Merchandise.

Windsor, May 26.—Protesting against the new taxation scheme as proposed in the recent budget, the Border Cities Retail Merchants' Association executive, in special session here, sent telegrams to Ottawa. Many amendments to the act are suggested, the most important being that the tax be collected only on the excess selling price, i. e., the amount over and above the amount exempted. It was pointed out that the act as it stands is unfair to the consumer, inasmuch as he is obliged to pay tax on the whole amount when his purchase exceeds the exempted amount by only a few cents.

Facts were brought forward to show that hundreds of articles are exempt from any form of tax, and the burden is placed entirely on other articles of merchandise. This was declared unfair, and the Government is being asked to remedy the matter by applying impartial taxation all around.

MALES SURPASS FEMALES IN EYES OF LONDON'S LANDLADIES

"Girls Use Tubs For Their Laundry, Keep Food in Their Rooms and Attract Mice," Says Boarding-House Survey Report.

Secretary Gordon Philip of the local Chamber of Commerce has received a report on a survey of room and boarding accommodation for girls as conducted in this city under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, London Y. W. C. A., and Dominion Y. W. C. A., between March 25 and April 21 last. The survey was conducted by Margaret B. Nairn, national secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and Ethel Lovell, national assistant city secretary of the Y. W. C. A. The report is a lengthy one.

The city was divided by them into nine districts, and every seventh house on streets running north and south was visited, while other streets included in the survey were Piccadilly, Tecumseh avenue, Cavendish, Simcoe, Dufferin avenue, and Walnut. By this survey, the committee reports that 9 per cent of local dwelling houses were visited. All houses available for girls were listed with details for future use on the registry. Of 1,044 houses visited, 139 were listed.

Every Type.

It was disclosed by the survey that every type of householder in London kept boarders. The reasons for this were given as increased rents, rising cost of living, and the housing shortage. In the latter case the sympathies of the householder were aroused for girls experiencing difficulty in obtaining rooms. Many young married women who had recently experienced similar difficulties were making sacrifices to accommodate girls in London.

Thirteen per cent of local householders are taking roomers or boarders. Of these 25 per cent, or 3 per cent of the city are for men only. This is because the men pay better than girls who "use tubs for their laundry, keep food in their rooms and attract mice, spend more time in their room, and are harder on it, and according to cost should pay more, but pay less. Girls are considered a moral responsibility, and in staying out late, or standing out in front at night get a bad name for the house." In addition there is general trouble, men being less distasteful to family circles, and in families of young sons, girl boarders are not wanted.

There were 175 single and 375 double rooms vacant at the time the survey was made in the city, and in the fall 100 more single and 60 additional double rooms will be available. Of the landladies locally 56 per cent have husbands supporting them. All rooms have good air space, and there are remarkably few attic or hall rooms. "Houses, both outside and inside, on the whole, are well kept up, and the landladies with a few exceptions were found to be kind and motherly. They are anxious to extend a great many privileges to girls worthy of such treatment," says the report.

Hard to Find.

It was very difficult to find boarding-houses here, only one-third of the houses listed giving board. However, the city, according to the report, is to be congratulated on the number and type of houses available. No houses of the tenement type or houses with basement rooms were seen with lodgers. "Because of the great value of the home life it will be a loss to London if a tendency toward doubling up and taking lodgers, due partly to lack of housing, and partly to increasing rents and cost of living is allowed to continue."

"Another outstanding feature," concludes the report, "is the good type of most of the girls in London. One notices the absence of the flashy and hard-faced girl of other cities. The goal for the discontented girl seems to be Windsor and Detroit."

NEW YORK'S NEWSPAPERS PRAISE BUDGET PROPOSALS

Big Problems Must Be Faced Courageously, Declare American Editors.

New York, May 26.—Under the heading, "Sound Taxing in Canada," the Sun and New York Herald this morning discusses the new Ottawa budget, declaring that the Canadian Government's "courageous and determined measures to make the 1920-21 budget balance merit commendation by all and emulation by other governments which have far less excuse for swollen expenditures which have to be met by higher taxes."

"Canada," continues the newspaper, has problems of development, transportation and distribution that are even more difficult than our own. Except for a small section northwest of Winnipeg and south of the Saskatchewan, and along a strip of territory about 100 miles wide paralleling the border, the population of Canada is less than one person to the square mile. Only in a small section in the east does it exceed 16 to the square mile. Such a sparse population spread over so vast an expanse of territory spells hardship and privation for those engaged in the development of the country.

"One would think it difficult enough to endure the privations of pioneer life without being called upon to assume tax burdens to pay for a war fought thousands of miles away. Yet the Canadian really shares his bread with the Government. So we see the Government slashing expenditures as much as possible and then imposing additional taxes.

SEA CAPTAIN WHO FOUGHT LATE KING DEAD IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, B. C., May 26.—By Canadian Press.—Captain John Johncox, who is dead here, was a principal in fistic encounters in which the late King Edward of England, then Prince of Wales, was engaged. It was in 1880, during the regatta at Cowes, Johncox had an encounter with Prince Edward. Leaving his yacht after dark, the captain was walking along Yachtsmen's Green, when someone sitting on a bench in the shadow, thrust forth a foot and tripped him. He started after the tripper with both fists working in a seamanlike manner. Before any real damage was done he learned that he was attacking the Prince of Wales, and then the battle was over.

MANION, M.P., Fort William, Liberal Unionist, who made a definite statement of his position in the House re the tariff, and showed that the farmers demanding free trade, were in many parts showing a discrimination against Canadian industrial production. LOSES AN EYE; GIVEN $15,000

Sofia Borzin Gains Heavy Verdict for Injuries Inflicted in 1919.

Detroit, May 27.—Large as have been the verdicts of the juries in circuit court damage suits during the present term, that given to Sofia Borzin yesterday before Judge Jesse H. Root, of Monroe, exceeded all others. The jury awarded her $15,000, the full amount she had sued for in her case against Mike Constantino and his brother, Draga, neither of whom appeared in court.

The plaintiff alleges that on July 4, 1919, when she was in Mike Constantino's yard, a quarrel arose and that Mike told Draga to hit her with a box. Draga followed instructions, according to Sofia, and also obeyed orders when Mike told Draga to strike her with a stick of wood. She claimed that she was injured about the head and lost an eye as a result of the encounter.

After Sofia had testified Tuesday, and with neither of the defendants nor their attorneys in court, the jury returned the verdict for $15,000. The suit was started on a capias.

SINN FEINERS FORCE FARMER TO GIVE UP LAND HE PURCHASED

Committee Takes Action and Compels Compliance With Order.

Dublin, May 26.—Control of Irish land by the Sinn Fein is very effective, as is instanced by an occurrence at Carrick-on-Shannon, which was reported here yesterday. A farmer named Morrison was summoned before the Sinn Fein land committee to show why he had attempted to buy land over the heads of young men of the district who did not own property. He had just purchased a grazing farm for £3,500, and told the committee he had bought it for his two brothers in the United States. The committee warned him to surrender it immediately, which he agreed to do with reluctance.

Unknown persons have seized and sunk Lord Kingston's yacht, the Meelah, at Carrick-on-Shannon, apparently because Lord Kingston entered a claim for £2,000 for the destruction of a police barracks on his property. The claim was subsequently withdrawn, but no public announcement of this step has been made.

BERNSTORFF CLAIMS COLONEL HOUSE WAS USEFUL TO GERMANY

Former Ambassador to Washington Relates Dealings With U. S. Representative.

STATEMENTS DISCLOSED

Wilson's Special Emissary Is Given Much Attention in Letters Made Public.

Berlin, May 26.—Letters from Count von Bernstorff and other German diplomatic officials have just been made public here in connection with the investigation of President Wilson's peace proposals during the war by a parliamentary committee. They contain much ancient history regarding various diplomatic moves, but here and there give an interesting sidelight on the events of the war from the diplomatic standpoint.

Colonel House, known as "President Wilson's personal representative," came in for a good deal of attention in reports forwarded to Berlin by von Bernstorff, who thoroughly approved of Mr. Wilson's unofficial adviser. In fact, von Bernstorff "recommended" him to the German foreign office when Col. House made his second trip to Europe early in 1916 to represent the United States here.

Count von Bernstorff declared in the same letter that Americans were at that time chiefly interested in "the restoration of peace and the abolition of militarism and navalism." He added that Germany would be "able to compel England to recognize the freedom of the seas only if supported by the United States, and if Germany consented to end militarism."

Col. House Was Useful.

"If I receive no reply on this point from your excellency," he concluded, "I will continue to treat Col. House in a dilatory manner. Up to now he has been very useful to me."

A letter from Dr. Solf, minister of colonies, to Dr. Von Jagow, reported the former's conversation with Col. House at the American embassy in Berlin late in January, 1916. In it Col. House was credited with statements relative to the past situation in England.

President Wilson's emissary was quoted as describing Viscount Grey, then British secretary of state for foreign affairs, as "the most tractable English statesman." It was said he declared Viscount Grey was "eminently suited and also ready to negotiate, and his imminent retirement from the British cabinet would not only be undesirable, but liable to prove fatal to Germany."

Col. House was alleged to have told Dr. Solf there was a strong anti-American feeling in England at that time, and "that Germany was not aware of the extent to which unfriendly notes were being exchanged between Washington and London."

Kastel Surrenders But Not Wanted

"Missing Witness" Gives Himself Up in New York.

Kastel also referred to as the "man of mystery," is said to have disappeared several weeks ago, after testifying before Federal Commissioner Gilchrist. He said he had been in Chicago.

GAS BILL WITHDRAWN BY MILLS; WILL TRY SOME OTHER SCHEME

Objections On Part of Municipalities Lead To Move.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, May 26.—Hon. Harry Mills, minister of mines, this morning withdrew the bill giving power to the gas commissioner to regulate rates. He said that it was withdrawn because of the strenuous opposition from municipalities. On July 1 he understood that gas sales in Brantford, Ingersoll and Galt were to be increased. He hoped to get gas companies and municipalities together some other way.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS PAASCHE'S MURDER

The Former Commander Was Killed Upon Leaving Lake.

Berlin, May 26.—By Associated Press.—The strange story of the shooting of Captain Hans Paasche, a former commander of a mine layer, and the only son of the former vice-president of the Reichstag, Dr. Hermann S. Paasche, on his estate near Kreuz, Pomerania, is exciting great interest. According to the Tageblatt's Kreuz correspondent, Captain Paasche had been denounced in Berlin for hiding arms and ammunition on his estate, whereupon a Reichswehr detachment was sent to Kreuz and surrounded his house. Paasche was found bathing in the lake, and subsequently was shot while still wearing his bathing suit. The stories are in conflict with regard to the irregular circumstances. According to one version, Paasche was shot without warning, while according to another, he was trying to escape at the time. No arms were found on the premises, except sporting guns.

The indignation in Kreuz says the Tageblatt, is very great, as no search warrant was produced. The officers gave no names, and hence it is not known what detachments were involved in the shooting.

It is said that Captain Paasche was strongly inclined toward communism, and inclined to be a pacifist dreamer, and on that account had become estranged from his father.

Veterans Plan To Offset Jingoism

Winnipeg G. W. V. A. Opens Campaign To Increase U. S. Friendship.

Winnipeg, May 26.—With a view to offsetting jingoism on both sides of the international boundary line, the executive council of the central branch, Great War Veterans' Association, last night went on record as warmly in favor of opening negotiations by correspondence with various units of the American legion, and Grand Army of the Republic in nearby states. It is felt also that owing to the great improved friendliness created between the people on both sides of the line resultin gfrom the co-operation in the effort to defeat Germany in the recent war, there is a great deal to be gained by furthering the same friendliness.

THOUSANDS OF POUNDS OF SUGAR READY FOR SHIPMENT OVERSEAS AS HIGHER PRICES ANNOUNCED

Halifax, May 26.—An interesting commentary upon the announcement that sugar is due for another advance is to be found in the fact that great quantities of sugar are being piled up here, presumably for exportation abroad. It is stated that several hundreds of thousands of bags of sugar are at present awaiting shipment at one pier, and that the quantity is daily increasing. At another pier upwards of a quarter million bags of flour are awaiting shipment abroad.

ADVOCATES ECONOMY AS MEANS TO COMBAT INDUSTRIAL UNREST

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—Yesterday afternoon's session of the I. O. D. E. was featured by an address by the president, Mrs. John Bruce, the burden of which was an appeal for thrift, and for the encouragement of the Canadian spirit in an effort to combat the growth of Bolshevism, "so long as the mad race for money and the wild spending of it continues," she said. "We cannot hope for the lessening of the social unrest and its consequent bitterness. If a great body of 50,000 women like the I. O. D. E. would practice such economy their influence would soon be felt."

She urged members to bear in mind the resolution of the order to buy goods of Canada, or some other part of the empire. She deplored the resignation from the national executive of Mrs. Gooderham, Mrs. Nesbitt, Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. McGillivray, and hoped that they would soon find it possible to return.

CLEMENCEAU SAYS INDEMNITY CLAUSE FULLY DISCUSSED

Former French Premier Says Allies Demand Lump Sum.

Paris, May 26.—Light is thrown on the financial side of the Versailles treaty with Germany by an interview with Georges Clemenceau, former French premier, secured by Alfred Capus, editor of the Gaulois, and published in that newspaper today.

"Several persons know," said the former premier, "that in the peace conference, discussion of a fixed indemnity lasted for three weeks. We should not forget that a fixed sum for indemnity was the Anglo-American idea from the very beginning, and that our allies never abandoned this viewpoint. They even made a most careful valuation of the sum Germany could pay, which was exactly 75,000,000,000 marks in all.

"Out of our share we would have to pay for the reconstruction of devastated regions, and I need not tell you we could not agree to such a solution. Discussions was long and ardent, because the Anglo-American idea as to Germany's powers of paying was firmly rooted, but finally an agreement was effected, and the solution was embodied in the treaty of Versailles."

FRENCH PRESIDENT MAY TAKE A REST OF SEVERAL WEEKS

Deschanel Is Recovering From Injuries.

Paris, May 26.—President Deschanel is recovering from the injuries he received on Monday morning when he fell from a train near Montargis, but must take a complete rest, which may extend until late in the summer, according to a statement by his private secretary this morning. The president, according to the Echo de Paris, will not go to Rambouillet, as was announced on the date of his accident, but to the estate of his father-in-law, Rene Brice, member of the Chamber of Deputies, near Rennes.

AUSTRIAN GENERAL DIES OF APOPLEXY

Field-Marshal Boroevic Expires in Vienna.

Vienna, May 26.—Field Marshal Szetozar Boroevic, commander of the Austrian forces on the Italian front from late in 1915 until October, 1918, is dead, his death being caused by a stroke of apoplexy.

Field Marshal Boroevic, at the beginning of the war between Italy and the Central Empires, was sent to the Italian front, where he was in command of a portion of the army. Later he became commander-in-chief of all the Austrian forces fighting against Italy. He became field marshal late in 1917, following the Italian defeat at Caporetto. He was one of the enemy generals whose extradition on charges of violation of the laws of war was demanded by the Allies last February.

J. DE L. TACHE WILL BE NEW LIBRARIAN

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, May 26.—It is stated today that J. De L. Tache, King's Printer, will succeed Dr. A. D. Decelles to the position of French librarian of parliament, while Dr. Decelles will retire on superannuation. It is believed that Fred Cook, at present assistant King's Printer, will step up to the place to be vacated by Mr. Tache. Among other aspirants for the position of French librarian have been Hon. Albert Sévigny, a former minister in the Borden cabinet, but who was defeated at the last election.

INCREASED FARES ON STREET RAILWAY MAY BE EFFECTIVE BEFORE END OF THE MONTH

A. B. Ingram of Railway Board Indorses Action Taken At Last Night's Meeting of City Council — New Agreement Can Be Signed Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Increased fares may be effective before the end of the month. Preparation of a new street railway agreement will be commenced today, it is expected. As soon as this is accepted by the street railway company higher fares and higher wages will result.

Manager C. B. King could not state today whether the council proposal would be accepted by the company, as the matter has not been laid before the directors officially. It is not expected that there will be a hitch at this point, however, as in the discussion of the matter in the council it was generally intimated that the company would accept.

The railway board will remain in charge of the road until May 29, A. B. Ingram, the acting manager, stated to The Advertiser. The men will not resume operation under the company unless there is a signed agreement on the wage question, he added.

Mr. Ingram indorsed the action taken by the council last night. "They took the proper action to settle the matter, and everything should be cleared up by the time the railway board turns the property back to the street railway company. There is no reason why a new agreement cannot be ready within twenty-four hours. There is no bad feeling between any of the parties concerned, and it should not be a difficult matter to get this work done."

Mayor Confident.

Mayor Little is also confident that there will be no further trouble, although he does not think an agreement will be signed immediately.

"I think that as long as the men are assured they will receive their wage increase they will continue to operate the road after the railway board has left, whether the agreement between the company and the city is signed or not. We will be able to take our time about the agreement, and see that it is properly drawn up in every detail," he said.

The new agreement will be valid only until a vote of the people is taken. Considerable interest centres on whether such a vote can be taken before January. Mayor Little points out that this year's estimates were carefully reduced and have already met several unexpected demands, leaving no money available for a special vote.

On the other hand, Ald. C. G. Moorhead stated today that there was every possibility of a vote being taken within the near future.

"We found money to take a vote of the municipal coal yard bylaw two

CARRANZA'S DEATH IS BEING INVESTIGATED

Formal Inquiry Made To Clear Up Mystery.

Mexico City, May 26.—(By the Associated Press).—Formal investigation for the purpose of clarifying the part taken in the death of President Carranza, both by Col. Rodolfo Herrera and members of the Carranza party, is recommended by the commission of four named by Gens. Obregon and Gonzales to inquire into the tragedy at Tlaxcotongo. A mission submitted its report last night and cited ten points which the members agreed had been proven from stories of witnesses. It was added that in a number of points many other stories purporting to tell the actual circumstances could not be confirmed and were unworthy of credence.

The commission's report is the first authoritative story of the death of Carranza. It recommends that a formal investigation be ordered to clear up the other points of the incident, which relate to the part taken by Herrera's men and members of the president's party.

VILLAGE BLACKSMITH SHOP IS DYING OUT

Growing Popularity of Automobile Given As One Reason.

"The village blacksmith shop" stands in imminent danger of passing out of existence in the towns and villages of Ontario, speakers at the ninth annual convention of the Master Horseshoers' Association are reported as declaring in Toronto Monday.

Difficulty in securing labor and the growing popularity of the automobile are two reasons for the poor state of the blacksmithing business, it was stated. Few young men are interested in serving as blacksmiths' apprentices when they can get quicker advances by becoming automobile mechanics. It was decided at the convention to take in woodworkers, carriage builders and other trades and to change the name of the organization to the Master Horseshoers' and Carriage Workers' Association.

Local blacksmiths state that the opinions announced at the convention are conclusions which blacksmiths everywhere have reached. Both in town and country many blacksmiths are turning their shops into repair garages.

ANOTHER DEVELOPMENT IN PLUMBING SITUATION

Provincial Housing Commission Not In Favor of "Simplified Plumbing."

As the result of a visit from a provincial housing commission inspector here, an interesting development in the plumbing situation has arisen. The special committee which a short time ago investigated the plumbing bylaw eliminated most of the venting requirements and went on record as favoring "simplified plumbing." A bylaw on these lines is at present in course of preparation, and plumbing work in general is being done on this principle.

Apparently the provincial housing commission is not in favor of "simplified plumbing." The inspector examined the houses being built by the local commission on Garfield avenue, and found that vents had been almost entirely eliminated. He declared that this was contrary to the rules of the provincial commission, and gave instructions that in the future vents were to be installed for all but the uppermost fixtures in the houses. He is said to have stated that eliminating vents only reduced the total cost of the contract about $35.

During the discussion on the plumbing bylaw it was claimed that the reduction in cost to be effected by elimination of venting would be much greater than this.

THE POET BILL HANDLES BEES

The Poet Bill has been having some exciting experiences "up the cowpath," more commonly known as the L., H. and B. Chief among them is the episode of the bees, which occurred on Saturday last, and which he recounted most volubly to The Advertiser staff this morning.

"Say, I had to beehive myself. There was no question at all about that. As far as I could make out, the bees were coming from Simcoe, five hives of them, and were to be put off at some little place up the cowpath. Say, wasn't I scared! At first they kept in their hives, and I thought everything was going to be all right. But just as soon as we got up into Huron, they must have thought they had reached the land flowing with milk and honey. It was z-z-z-z by this ear and z-z-z-z by the other ear, z-z-z-z into the back of your neck, and z-z-z-z down your cuffs. They were at it with a hum and a drum-drum-drum until I was almost distracted. People say that a bee-sting is good for rheumatism. Believe me, I think I'd rather have the rheumatism. Let me tell you something. If you leave bees alone they'll probably be all right, but if you kill one or two of them! Suffering wildcats! You just have to get out, that's all there is to it!

"Finally, I thought of my window-boxes. By this time there were about 75 or 100 of the beggars loose. So I worked my way over towards the windows, and, as luck was with me, they deserted me for the flowers. My next fear was that they would discover two little calves which were in crates at the other end of the car. If they had ever got hold of these poor little unfortunates it would have been 'Good-night.' But once they had found them, they remained stuck to the flowers.

"At one station a newsboy hopped on to ride with me for a while, as was his custom. But all I had to say was, 's-s-s-st—bees!' and he got out quicker than he got in. If the bees had ever scented his box of bonbons his best girl would have seen his face disfigured for Sunday.

"Everything went well until it was time to put the bees off. The top hives lifted off very easily, but, holy light-foot, when it came to those underneath. There was such a swarming of bees, which had been hiding between the boxes, that I surely wished I had worn mittens to the job. May be I wasn't scared! But I got through all right, as luck would have it. I don't know what happened to the beggars after that, but I tell you I was pretty glad to get rid of them."

Morganatic Wife Still Holds Love of Greece Ruler

Wedding Reported To Be Culmination of Boyhood Romance.

Paris, May 25.—King Alexander of Greece is reported here to have been married morganatically to Mademoiselle Manos, daughter of a former aide de camp to his father, King Constantine. The Greek legation in Paris has refused to confirm or deny this report.

King Alexander's marriage is said to have been the culmination of a boyhood friendship, and occurred before he was in a direct line to the throne and while his chances for succeeding his father appeared most remote.

The king and his wife are living at the same hotel here, and yesterday went to Versailles, where they lunched together and visited the gardens.

Reports here impute the king's visit to Paris to a desire on the part of Premier Venizelos of Greece for a separation of the king from his reputed morganatic wife, so that he may marry a princess of royal blood. The king is said to have left Athens quite in accord with his premier's point of view, but is declared to have undergone a change of mind since his arrival here.

The marriage ceremony, it is asserted, was performed by a priest of the Greek Church, but was not recorded with the metropolitan of Athens, the supreme ecclesiactic authority in Greece. This is the explanation for the fact that no record of the ceremony is available.

PLEADED GUILTY, BUT DISMISSED

Alfred Rubine Has Unique Experience in Police Court.

Although he pleaded guilty, Alfred Rubine was dismissed on a charge of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling which he faced in police court this morning. His pal, John Petherbridge, was fined $200, after being convicted of the offence.

Sergt. William McCullough, P. C. James Singleton and P. C. McNeill heard a noise in room 10, the Richmond Hotel, at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

In addition to the prisoners, four bottles of whiskey were taken to the station.

Petherbridge had purchased two of the bottles at $6 each from a bootlegger, but could not explain the presence of the other two. Rubine pleaded guilty because he had taken some drinks from the bottle. This was not thought sufficient to warrant a conviction.

Matthew Demas, who was convicted a week ago of stealing 15 pounds of tea from the Metropole Cafe, was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

GOVERNMENT IN SYMPATHY CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

Inspector W. E. Kelly Home From Toronto Convention.

That all children for adoption in the Province of Ontario should be placed through and as wards of the Children's Aid Society was the gist of a resolution carried at the two-day convention of officers of the Children's Aid societies in Toronto last week, and which was attended by Inspector W. E. Kelly of the London society.

The claim of the convention in passing the resolution, according to Mr. Kelly, was that frequently children are placed independently by one or both parents in undesirable foster-homes. Sometimes all trace of the children is lost so far as the provincial or other authorities are concerned. Frequently the foster-parents do not know the names or the ages of the children they adopt, and sometimes the foster-homes constitute a very bad environment both from moral and health standpoints.

Some discussion was directed against placing the stigma of illegitimacy upon children of parents not legally married. Instead of saying "illegitimate children," one ought to say "children of illegitimate parents," contended one speaker.

Advocacy of juvenile courts for all municipalities was strongly supported, and amendment of laws to place more responsibility upon the fathers of illegitimate children was urged. Redrafting of the children's protection act was discussed at length.

The convention was addressed by Premier Drury and Provincial Secretary Nixon, both of whom declared the U. F. O. Government to be in full sympathy with the work of the Children's Aid Society. G. W. McLaughlin of the McLaughlin Motor Company, Oshawa, was re-elected president of the provincial association.

RIDOUT ST. BRIDGE

Alderman Moorhead Is Opposed to Closing It.

Closing the Ridout street bridge will be strenuously opposed by Ald. C. G. Moorhead. He expects that at the next meeting of the council a motion will be introduced to close the bridge, and he is preparing to combat this.

"It is not wise to put the people to that inconvenience simply because the council did not succeed in having a debenture issue approved for a new bridge," he said.

Although the city engineer has stated repeatedly that the bridge cannot be repaired, Ald. Moorhead holds the opposite opinion, and thinks that other engineers should be consulted as well. He claims that there is still an appropriation of about $2,000 available for the repairs, and that the motion authorizing the work has never been rescinded.

Referring to this point on a previous occasion, City Engineer Brazier stated that this appropriation was for replanking the bridge, which would not strengthen it in any way.

DEPUTY MINISTER SAYS THAT HE STRONGLY URGED GREATER PUBLICITY

405 Square Miles Sold Without an Investigation.

Toronto, May 26.—Albert Grigg, deputy minister of the Ontario department of land, forests and mines, was the principal witness at the timber probe this morning. He stated that on several occasions he had urged upon Hon. G. H. Ferguson the necessity of greater publicity in regard to the sale of timber limits, but in vain.

"As a Canadian, what do you think of that method?" asked Mr. Justice Riddell.

"If I were minister I would not do things that way," replied Mr. Grigg.

This morning it was revealed that 405 square miles of timber limits were sold to the Greaves Bigwood Lumber Company on October 4, 1919, just prior to the elections, without any investigation or report from an official of the department of lands, forests and mines.

Then the balance of the resolution, which affected questions of policy in many of its clauses, was turned over to a subcommittee. R. F. Green, chairman of the sub-committee, submitted recommendations which will bring most of the important clauses back before the whole committee.

TO DISCUSS PROTECTION AT LEVEL CROSSINGS

Special Committee of City Council to Meet Tonight.

Important developments in plans to afford greater protection at level crossings, with the ultimate aim of eliminating them, may result from a meeting of the special level crossing committee of the city council tonight.

It is expected that the report of the Dominion railway board on the level crossing situation in London will be discussed. A basis for paying for the protection may also be suggested.

One such suggestion is that the railroads concerned pay 60 per cent of the cost and the municipalities 40 per cent.

IS A BONUS A SALARY?

Is a bonus a salary? This is a small point, admitting of some debate, which the board of education will have to settle at its regular meeting next Tuesday or immediately following regular meetings.

The new teachers' salary schedule adopted at a special meeting of the board Tuesday provides for yearly increases of $100 to all teachers, commencing next year. This year the teachers have already been granted a bonus of $100. To illustrate the point in question, take the instance of a teacher drawing $1,200 this year. He or she is entitled to $1,300 next year, leaving the bonus out of the question. But this year the salary of $1,200 and the $100 bonus will make $1,300.

Secretary McElheran raised the point whether the bonus should be viewed as a part of the regular salary for this year. If it is so viewed, the $1,200 teacher will get $100 on top of the total emolument received this year, making $1,400 next year. If the bonus is not viewed as salary, the $100 will be added to $1,200, making only $1,300 next year, or the same amount received this year, including the bonus. Actually then the teacher would not get any increase next year.

Mrs. Ronald Harris favored counting the bonus just as a bonus, and if the cost of living is just as high, or still higher next year, another bonus could be considered then. Other trustees suggested adding in the bonus as a part of this year's salary.

Secretary McElheran explained that to do this a notice of motion would have to be given at a regular meeting of the board. Someone of the trustees will probably give the notice of motion therefor next Tuesday.

GOVERNMENT COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING HYDRO WORKERS' COMPLAINTS

Crane Engineer Declares His Work Is Dangerous.

Niagara Falls, Many 26.—The government committee investigating the dispute between the hydro and its workers on the Chippewa development scheme, held its first public session here today. John A. Flett, representing the American Federation of Labor, speaking for the Niagara Trades Federation, asked if something could not be done to have the men work under the same conditions as prevailed before May 1, until a settlement was reached. Chairman Watson, of the committee, said that they might make suggestions, but that nothing could be promised.

Sworn evidence of the workers was then taken. The first ti give evidence was Jack Cavanagh, who operates a wrecking crane along the canal. He had been three years as a locomotive crane engineer, and it was dangerous work, he said. He said that he wanted an eight-hour day.

M. M. MacBride—What do you mean by saying that your work is dangerous?

Witness replied that he had to cross unsafe bridges and take the cranes along the banks, whch were liable to cave in.

Questioned further by Mayor MacBride, Cavanagh said he would rather get $7 a day with an eight-hour day, than $8 for the ten-hour day.

Suiva Marie for China, where they will engage as missionaries. Prior to his departure from this city, Rev. Walter Steven will preach next Sunday morning at the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, and in the evening at the Wortley Road Baptist Church.

On arriving in China, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Steven will spend the first hot season in the mountains, and will then go to the Union Language School at Nanking for a year's study in Chinese. They will then proceed to Changsha, the capital of Hunan Province, where Rev. Mr. Steven will become assistant superintendent of the Hunan Bible School, under Dr. Frank Kellar, at whose invitation they go out to China.

There are about sixty student evangelists in the school. In addition to the school there are eight house boats on the rivers and lakes of tre province. These each contain six senior and six junior student evangelists under the care of a leader. Part of their time is spent in Bible study and the remainder in going through the towns and villages along the river introducing the gospel.

Rev. Mr. Steven studied at Colborne street school and the collegiate institute of this city, the Theological College in Ohio, and at McMaster University. He was overseas during the war, and was attached to the army of occupation at Bonn on the Rhine. Since Mr. Steven accepted the call to China he has been honored by receiving a call to a lectureship at the International College in China.

It is only a little over two years ago since his sister, Miss Winifred Steven, went to China as a missionary. Since then she married George K. Harris, also a missionary. Another sister, Miss Marion Steven, who has just graduated from Victoria Hospital, intends to go as a missionary to China.

Mrs. (Rev.) Walter Steven, who was Miss Constance Langman, is also a daughter of missionary parents. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Steven, now living in the city, were missionaries in China for a great many years before making their home here.

That friends may meet Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. Steven before they leave for China a brief address and prayer meeting will be held on Friday at their home, 598 Princess avenue.

OFF THE RAILS

BEING REBALLASTED.

From 30 to 40 miles of roadbed on the G. T. R. between London and Sarnia are being reballasted, according to C. F. Forrester, of the local division. The gravel for this work is being taken from the company's pits at Komoka.

FREIGHT SITUATION.

Freight is still badly congested at Detroit as the result of the switchmen's strike, and because of this few cars are crossing the border at Windsor on either the C. P. R. or the Grand Trunk, according to the local officials, nearly all the freight routed by way of Port Huron, except that for certain points, is moving freely. The Niagara frontier is practically free.

Little coal is coming into Canada by way of Niagara and Black Rock, however, as the result of the prepayment of freight of goods coming to Canada. Local officials of the G. T. R. reported this morning that practically no coal is being turned over to them by the American roads.

ALL PAINTED UP.

Engines operated by the Canadian Government, which have previously born the words, "Canadian Government Railroads," painted in gold on the tenders, are all gradually being repainted, and the wording changed to "Canadian National," in white lettering. As the result of this change, three differently painted types of engines pass through this city over the G. T. R. Nearly all the heavy freights on that road are hauled by the huge Government engines.

SOME ADVERTISING.

A brakeman, who has been long in the employ of the company, delated the following, which he said happened but recently during one of this runs on the rocky Owen Sound branch. A colored gentleman, a stranger from the south, started a conversation with the brakeman. "Do you know, sir," he said, "I never heard of the Grand Trunk in all my life until I read of it in a story of a wreck."

"That's easy," said the brokeman. "The only time the Grand Trunk ever advertises itself is when it has a wreck."

With that the brokeman walked on. A little later, however, a tap came to his shoulder, and turning, he saw the colored man swaying in the aisle. "Brokeman," he said, "you don't suppose by any chance the Grand Trunk will advertise itself tonight, do you?"

THAT WAGE SCALE.

Once again a decision on the wage scale which is being arbitrated by representatives of the me nand officials of the Graad Trunk has been postponed. The company has asked for longer time to take some questions relating to the wages demand to the government for further information, according to a member of the committee representing the men, who is visiting in the city. It is no wthought that the officials of the company will meet the representatives of the men on Monday next.

The complaint is laid by the purchaser, J. Gale of Eastview.

SUPERANNUATION BILL EXPLAINED TO FARMERS

J. G. Lethbridge, M.P.P., Called a Special Meeting of His Constituents.

Glencoe, May 25.—J. G. Lethbridge, M.P.P. for West Middlesex, called a public meeting of the U. F. O. members of Mosa and Ekfrid on Saturday evening in the village of Glencoe, to explain the superannuation bill now before the legislature.

The meeting was well attended, considering the hurried way in which it was called, manifesting the deep interest taken in the proposed legislation.

It was pointed out by the speaker that the purpose of the legislation was to make it possible to recognize the whole civil service system along the lines of efficiency and economy.

There are now 110 men employed in the civil service over 70 years of age, the oldest being 87.

Agreement Made.

Why not dismiss these men without superannuation? some ask, said the speaker. Because an agreement was made by the Mowat government in 1880 that men on retirement should receive a retiring allowance, not to exceed one month's pay for each year of his service. Under this agreement an employee now retiring would receive much more than the sum proposed to be given by the superannuation bill, and the employee contribute nothing to the fund. It was shown from the estimates of the present year that the sum of $36,500 is brought down as gratuities to widows of civil servants whose husbands had contributed nothing to the fund, and these were largely for the year 1919.

A number of those present gave expressions of satisfaction with the bill under present conditions.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Lethbridge for calling the meeting to explain the working out of the bill, expressing confidence in him and leaving him free to use his own judgment when the bill comes up for its third reading next week.

BISHOP IN CHARGE TO ANGLICAN SYNOD OPPOSES DIVORCE

Toronto Dignitary Refers To Proposed Legislation On Question.

Toronto, May 25.—Strong opposition to any relaxation in the laws governing divorce was voiced by Bishop Sweeney in his charge at the opening of the 68th annual meeting of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Toronto today. His lordship referred to proposed divorce legislation, and declared that the Church of England was opposed to divorce "save for the one cause allowed by her divine head." The bishop quoted from legislation adopted by the church in 1905: "No clergyman within the jurisdiction of the Church of England in Canada shall solemnize a marriage between persons either of whom shall have been divorced from one who is living at the time." He concluded by saying: "We must oppose by every legitimate means any legislation which seeks to enlarge the causes for which divorce is to be granted."

The divorce question will be debated by the synod, as notice of motion was given today that the synod should go on record as opposed to divorce for any other cause than the one recognized by the canons of the church.

ZIMMERMAN TRIAL CONTINUES.

Springfield, May 26.—Two witnesses for the prosecution in the trial of Miss Jennie C. Zimmerman, charged with the murder of her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman, testified that Dr. Zimmerman was in Boston the day following Thanksgiving in 1915, the date or thereabout upon which Miss Zimmerman had testified that the criminal assault was committed upon her by the doctor in his office.

Miss Zimmerman had sworn that the assault took place either before or after Thanksgiving.

It is expected that arguments in the case will begin Thursday.

CYRIL HOLT IS DROWNED WHILE IN SWIMMING

Eight-Year-Old Lad Loses Life As Result of a Dare.

BODY FOUND TODAY

Companions Failed To Call Help For Quarter of An Hour.

Cyril Holt, 8-year-old son of George Holt, 178 Richmond street, was drowned while swimming in the Thames River below Hunt's dam at 6:20 last evening. The body was found at 2 o'clock near the dam. Coroner Robert Ferguson was called, but it is not thought that an inquest will be necessary. It was the first drowning of the year in the city.

The lad, accompanied by Teddy Eldridge, 246 Hill street, and Stanley Keating, 115 Wellington street, boys about his own age, went fishing after school. Tiring after an hour of fruitless fishing, Holt, according to Teddy Eldridge, suggested swimming as a diversion. He followed his suggestion by stripping off his clothing.

Dared His Chums.

He then dared the other two boys to swim out to what he called a whirlpool, a place in the centre of the river where the water ran swiftest as it rushed from the dam. Setting an example which the other boys did not follow, Cyril waded and swam along the base of the dam where the water was generally two to four feet deep, but with occasional treacherous holes, until he reached the spot he had indicated.

A few minutes later, said Teddy Eldridge, in telling of the accident, Holt's face became very red. The boys though he was becoming cold, as the water was chilly. Later he suddenly disappeared from sight, but reappeared twice after, and once he cried out.

Lost Valuable Time.

Both Eldridge and Keating were dazed, and did not realize that the boy was drowning. They thought he would reappear again, and started to look for him lower down in the stream. Not until some fifteen minutes after did they tell anyone what had happened.

When Jack Marr of Grey street came along, the boys told him that Holt had disappeared. Thinking the boys were joking he paid little attention to them until he found a little pile of clothing near the abutment of the dam. He immediately notified the police.

Search For Body.

Three firemen from the central hall arrived on the scene, and aided by three or four boys with two canoes, the river bed was dragged with grappling hooks. In spite of the thorough hunt, and despite the fact that Fred Stilson, a fireman, plunged heroically in the icy water and swam and dived for 20 minutes or more, the body was not discovered.

The work of the searchers was hampered by the fact that a rowboat could not be found anywhere in the city, and the men had to depend on uncertain, leaky canoes. Later a punt was brought down from some distance above the dam. As it darkened several volunteer boy searchers donned bathing suits and joined in the search.

The half-moon did not give enough light to continue the hunt, so a searchlight was mounted on the north side of the dam. A rope with many hooks attached was strung across the river to prevent the strong current from carrying the body into deeper water further down stream.

Many Deep Holes.

The search was rendered extremely difficult by the uncertainty under which the men worked. There were many places where the body might have lodged. The river bed immediately below the dam has several deep holes and there is an undercurrent which has a tendency to draw things under the dam, while it is also thought that the swift waters might have carried the body down stream. As the body was nude the hooks could find it only with the greatest difficulty.

Although the news of the accident spread rapidly and it was not long before the bank on either side was crowded with spectators, the parents did not know that it was their boy who had met death until after 7 o'clock. They live only a stone's throw from the north side of the river.

Did Not Suspect.

Mr. Holt, who is an employee of the London and Petrolea Barrel Works, was eating his supper when the news that there had been a drowning was brought to the house. Although Cyril had not been seen since school time, the family did not suspect that he was the victim. Later two girls told Mrs. Holt that her son had been drowned, but as such wild stories had been told them before, the family paid little attention to it.

When supper was finished, as the boy was still absent, Mr. Holt began to think that it might be his son. So, after a few words of comfort to his wife, he left the house and joined the crowds.

Then mute evidence of the small pile of clothes convinced him that it was his boy.

Cyril was the second oldest of the family of four children. He was a fair-haired little chap with ruddy cheeks, and was popular with his playfellows in the Simcoe street school.

Besides his mother and father he is survived by an older brother, Leonard, a little brother, Robert, and a baby sister, Lillian.

MAY AVERT STRIKE ON STREET RAILWAY

Hamilton, May 25.—The threatened strike of the street railway employees here may be averted. In any case there will be no strike until after tomorrow, when an international officer of the street railway employees' union and local officials of the union will wait on the Hamilton Street Railway Company and endeavor to secure a larger wage scale than that recently awarded by a board of arbitration, which award was refused acceptance by the men. President James McIlwraith of the union stated tonight that he was hopeful for a settlement of the dispute between the men and the company without resort to a strike.

FOUR MORE CASES FOR JUNE SESSIONS

Sophie Stonefish Suing Man For $500.

Four more cases have been entered for the June sessions in the county buildings here. Through her solicitor, A. G. Chisholm, Sophia Stonefish is suing Allan McQueen, manager for A. L. McCredie, flax miller, of St. Marys, for $500 and costs. Plaintiff alleges that McQueen had her arrested on December 4 last, charged with threatening and abusive language, and that he falsely swore information against her on this charge that he might extort from her $15, which he claimed was paid to her as advance money for work.

Defendant admits swearing out a warrant against plaintiff before W. R. Butcher, magistrate of St. Marys, and alleges that she was guilty of the charge, and that her freedom was due to proceedings of court, maintaining that he did not falsely endanger her liberty, as charged. J. W. Graham of St. Marys is acting for defendant, and the case is entered for the jury.

Suing Pawnbroker.

Ethel Leff, widow of I. Leff of this city, is suing Julius Siskind, a local pawnbroker, for $747.16, claimed by her husband prior to his death, as his share of money on dissolving partnership with defendant. She claims that $1,500 was to be Israel Leff's share, and that Siskind agreed to give a chattel mortgage on the business for same. On partnership being dissolved J. C. Stiles, an auditor, awarded Leff $747.16 as his share, which his widow claims, with costs.

Defendant denies that the auditor's finding was an award, and has issued a counter-claim for $2,097.42 and costs, maintaining that this amount is his partner's share of liabilities against the partnership before dissolving. Meredith & Meredith are acting for plaintiff, and Murphy & Gunn for Siskind. This is a non-jury case.

A second non-jury case is that of Lillie McGougan of this city against Archibald Angus and Malfom McGougan, executors of the late Hugh McGougan of Thamesford, for $400 and interest, totaling $520, the first amount loaned to deceased by plaintiff. Defendants deny that the $400 was advanced to deceased on June 11, 1913, and if advanced at any time was returned by him prior to his death. They further claim that the $400 referred to in the suit was his own money.

James McFarlane is suing John E. McVicar, a farmer of North Dorchester, for $135, the price of a bull sold on January 9 last, and delivered to him on February 13. In addition $20 costs are claimed. Defendant states that his name is John D. McVicar, and that said bull was delivered to him without an attendant, and that he received it via the Grand Trunk, with a hip knocked in, rendering it useless for purposes purchased. He counter-claims for $135 and expenses of keeping the bull. G. H. Tennent will conduct the defence.

HEARS FROM SISTER FOR FIRST TIME IN FIVE YEARS

Ex-Ald. Max Lerner Receives Interesting Communication.

For the first time in five years, ex-Ald. Max Lerner has heard from his sister and other relatives in Bessarabia, a province of Russia, now under Rumanian rule. A letter which Mr. Lerner received a few days ago from his sister, tells that the populace of the province are actually dying from starvation. The letter did not refer directly to the sufferings endured during the long years of war, but implied that they had been severe.

Now without food and money, the condition of a large part of the population is very unhappy indeed. On account of unsettled financial and other conditions the plight of the inhabitants of Bessarabia is added to by the difficulty which friends and relatives experience in sending money to them. Banks and other forwarding agencies will not guarantee delivery on account of financial disorganization and generally unsettled condition in this province which was hard hit by the war.

COUNCIL GRANTS STREET RAILWAY INCREASED FARES

Case Will Be Carried To Supreme Court by Citizen.

COMPANY WILL FIGHT

Vote of the People Likely To Be Taken in January.

Following a three-hour debate the city council last night decided to grant an increase in street railway fares to five cents with seven limited tickets for 25 cents, pending a vote of the people to be taken as soon as possible.

This will increase the income of the road by $146,000. According to the railway board this will only be sufficient to grant the employees an increase of seven cents an hour, but it is intended to give them an eight-cent increase, obtaining the remainder of the necessary money from the expected yearly increase in the earnings of the road.

The possibility of a vote before January seems slight.

No Funds Available.

"I tell you frankly that a vote is not possible unless you pay for it out of your own pockets," said Mayor Little. "The city has no funds available for the purpose."

Ald. F. R. Watkinson was the only member of the council voting against the proposal. Ald. John Ashton voted in favor of it, but his vote was ruled out on the grounds that he was an interested party, being a member of the union executive. This left the count nine to one.

To Supreme Court.

Notice was received from C. H. Joyes that he would carry the higher fares case to the supreme court, appealing against the recent decision of the appellate court which gave the city council authority to increase street railway fares without a vote of the people. Mayor Little said that as the city had taken no action on the appeal it was not likely that it would be affected by this development.

Manager C. B. King said the street railway company would fight the case in the supreme court.

The case originally came before the courts last fall, when C. H. Joyes secured an injunction from the late Chief Justice Falconbridge, preventing the collection of higher fares.

This decision was reversed by the appellate division, although one of the five members dissented.

Ald. Cameron Wilson opened the lengthy debate on the problem by declaring that he could not move the adoption of the report of the special committee of which he was chairman. The committee report was to the effect that the street railway employees had agreed to accept an increase of eight cents an hour, to be obtained by increasing fares to five cents cash and six limited tickets for a quarter. For the purpose of bringing the matter before the council, Ald. Bridge, another member of the committee, moved the adoption of the report.

A hot debate followed. Nearly all the members of the council had come prepared with sheafs of notes and voluminous financial reports. Oratory soared to heights seldom reached in the humble council chamber, and "my eloquent friend," "my esteemed colleague," "the distinguished member to my right" were mentioned so frequently that parliament was almost surpassed.

Ald. Cameron Wilson opposed the adoption of the report on three grounds: Moral, financial and legal. He said: "The city has a contract with the street railway, and it is our duty to see that it is lived up to. The council is in reality a board of directors for the shareholders, who are the people, and our shareholders have said distinctively that no higher fares shall be granted.

Only Answered Questions.

"The report of the Railway Board, which we thought dealt with the financial standing of the company, we find to be the answers of professional auditors to eight questions. They answered merely these and nothing else. Part of their report is based on the first three months of this year. Three worse months could not have been taken in which to consider earnings. There are the stormy months in which operating costs are higher and earnings less."

Continuing he declared that the decision of the appellate division had been granted without consideration of the fact that the people had voted against higher fares since the case was entered in the courts. This aspect would be considered when the appeal was made to the supreme court, he said.

Used For Improvements.

Following Ald. Wilson's address Ald. Cunningham moved that the council go into committee of the whole. He then replied to Ald. Wilson's arguments. He declared that the surplus earning of the road were not in cash, but that the auditors pointed out they had been put back in the road as improvements. No depreciation was written off. If this had been done there would have been no surplus. Even admitting the amount as a cash surplus this amount spread over a term of years in addition to the rate of interest paid on stock would not total more than 7 per cent. which was a fair return for a business investment.

He produced a complete copy of the decision given by the appellate court and quoted a section to the effect that bylaw 916 was not a part of the statutes of Ontario and that the council was therefore within its rights in amending it. As bylaw 916 was still in force when the higher fare bylaw was passed last year there was no necessity to submit it to a vote of the people.

Suggests Special Fund.

One solution suggested by Ald. Cunningham was to have the company create a special fund of all money obtained through an increase in fares. From this fund would be paid wages, debt or depreciation and paving. In that way the city would have complete control of the money obtained through the increase.

He asserted that a solution must be found tonight.

"Is it absolutely necessary that we settle it tonight?" asked Ald. Watkinson.

"Unless we want another strike tomorrow," replied Ald. Cunningham. "The railway board will pull out unless we increase fares and the men will strike again."

Referring to charges of inflation of the value of the road, Ald Cunningham said that Sir Adam Beck, the Free Press, and ex-Ald. Ashpiant all differed in their estimates of this inflation. He declared, however, that in spite of these claims the company was willing to sell the road for the cash invested in it, plus the bonded debt, or approximately $1,200,000.

The price which Sir Adam Beck had named as a fair value for the road was $1,350,000.

Another basis of settlement would be service at cost, paying the company a fair interest on its investment.

Ald. Cameron Wilson said the road had not depreciated, it had appreciated. He declared that the hydro-electric report showed that an eight-cent increase in wages could be granted by five and seven tickets for a quarter, instead of five and six.

Threatens Trouble.

Ald. Ashton said: "The people don't care what you do, so long as there is not another strike. I want to tell you right here that unless you do something tonight Mr. A. E. Ingram will pull out in the morning, and if he does the street railway men will pull out at night."

Ald. Watkinson objected to this statement, declaring that the possibility of a strike was being used as a weapon against the council.

Mayor Little said the council was in a position to bind the company, as it was not bound under its franchise.

"The company will have very little to say in the new agreement, because we have the whip-hand," he stated. "We can arrange it so that all revenue resulting from the increase in fares in addition to the wages will accrue to the city. If the council can't make up an agreement under those conditions which will protect the people then it is time to quit.

Go Into Finances.

"I don't think the city is in a condition to discuss the purchase of the road. We must go into our finances and what the road will cost to prepare it for proper operation. It is true that the purchase will not affect our borrowing powers, but our bonded debt is very large and we want no further increase in it unless they are revenue producing. We don't want to have to issue additional debentures each year. I believe the city, and not the hydro-electric power commission, should take over the road, otherwise it would be in the same position as the public utilities commission. The council should dictate the fares and additional capital expenditures, and should have absolute control of surpluses, so that no commission can reinvest them in the road."

LABOR ORGANIZER IS POSTED "MISSING"

Asks For Hearing, Fails To Appear—Cold Feet?

Once again P. J. Flannery, an international organizer, has developed a seemingly serious attack ot that well-known ailment, "cold feet," according to the allegations of the members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

On his request a meeting of the Canadians was called to hear his views on labor questions. Hyman Hall was secured for the oration. One by one the Dominion union men took their seats, but when the roll was called Flannery was conspicuous by his abscence.

However, M. Macpherson, Canadian organizer of the C. B. of R. E., was on hand and replaced the missing speaker.

W. Henry, an official of the Canadian organization, stated that the organizer of the Brotherhood of Freight Handlers and Office Employes was to have spoken to the men on one other occasion. It is alleged that at that time the awaited one did not arrive.

"Just as we want Canadian-made goods, we want a Canadian-made organization."

Flannery, the men stated, said that the organization which he represented was the only recognized one in Canada. The men declared that this was false as the Canadian one has been duly recognized.

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.)

The Golden-winged Warbler is one of our rarer warblers. So local is it that the only woods where it nests near London is distinguished by the name of "The Golden-wing Woods." On the morning of May 24, a party of our club members were walking through these woods looking for new additions to their Victoria Day bird list. There had been a shower the night before, and each of the broad leaves of the Mandrake contained a small pool of rain water. A Golden-winged Warbler was flitting about in the low bushes, and as we watched him he dropped to a Mandrake leaf and proceeded to take a bath in the pool of rain water. After splashing the drops about, until he was quite wet, and the little fellow flew away into the bushes again to dry and dress his feathers.

Far different was the bird bath the writer saw several years ago. It was last February in New England. A thaw had caused the ice on a small mountain stream to break up. On one of the drifting cakes of ice was a Chickadee, and as he floated down the swift current he splashed and spattered in the water, which could not have been far from the freezing point.

All birds seem to require baths now and then. Birds that spend their life on the water are no exception to this rule. The Loons which winter on the sea coast will thoroughly wash themselves, becoming so absorbed in the process that the waves will carry them close inshore near the observer. This spring members of our Bird Club watched a Scaup Duck taking its bath on a pond near London.

HYDE PARK

HYDE PARK, May 25.—The people of Hyde Park and surrounding district had an agreeable surprise early Sunday morning, when two aeroplanes, flying very low over the village, were seen to drop suddenly on John Hall's farm, just east of the town. The flyers were on their way to Indiana, and were forced to land, owing to some engine trouble, and made their landing in a large pasture field.

After the repairs were completed they found it impossible to resume their journey, owing to high wind. The flyers were royally entertained at Mr. John Armitt's until Monday noon, when they took the wings of the morning and flew away.

During their stay hundreds of people motored or walked and viewed with interest and pleasure the acrobatic air performers which the aeroplanists treated the people to.

Grape-Nuts

is rich in the solid meaty values of wheat and malted barley, and has a substantial amount of sugar.

This sugar is not added in making but is developed from these grains by processing and long baking.

This decreases your sugar requirements, for the average cereal needs sugar for greatest palatability. Grape-Nuts needs none.

Bear this in mind when you order your cereal and ask for Grape-Nuts.

NO DANGER OF SUGAR FAMINE

Local Dealers State No Undue Cause for Excitement.

While it's quite probable that sugar will go higher in price, London wholesalers are rather inclined to deprecate much publicity in the matter, claiming that on all such occasions housewives with plenty of cash or credit pester their grocers under pain of losing their custom to supply them with a whole bag of sugar. A local scarcity thereupon results, and real hardship follows for the poor with very little money and less credit.

Announcement from a special board of inquiry at Ottawa into the sugar situation is to the effect that an advance of two cents a pound is likely. The present retail rate is about 22 cents a pound. It is said that under the sugar control board, refiners in Canada are allowed a net profit of 40 cents per hundred pounds, but that many of them have not raised their prices to the full limit they were entitled to. Many refiners had old stocks on hand, which they were satisfied to sell at a fair profit.

Speculation in sugar, particularly in New York, is doing much to raise the prices, say the wholesalers, giving instances of sugar held last winter in Halifax by New York interests, and which changed hands nine times before it was released to the trade. Reports of sugar shortage boost speculation, the dealers say. While prices may be increased slightly there is no prospect of an actual sugar famine, nor undue cause for excitement, they claim.

MRS. JOHN GEMMELL AGAIN PRESIDENT OF UNION MOTHERS' CLUB

Deputation Named To Report On Question of Raising Funds.

The annual meeting of the Union Mothers' Club held last night in the Lord Roberts School saw Mrs. John Gemmell again made president for the year 1920-21. All the other officers of last year were likewise returned for another term of office. After the presentation of the yearly reports by the various clubs throughout the city, the question of the right of raising funds for any purpose whatever by the mothers' clubs came before the meeting. A great many of the members thought that by constitution, the mothers' clubs should not devote their energies to raising money.

Another difficulty which presented itself was the fact that the board of education was objecting to the holding of concerts in the schools, admission to which was made by tickets sold.

Appoint Deputation.

The club members, in an effort to find out just what was the opinion of the board on this matter, appointed a deputation to wait on that body at their next meeting, to seek the desired information. The deputation includes Mrs. Winnett, Mrs. Eberhard and Mrs. Alex. Calder.

The general feeling of the meeting seemed to be that the mothers' clubs should make the raising of money a very secondary concern and that the chief stress should be laid by the clubs on education and the bringing into closer contact, the home and the school.

Treasurer's Report.

The treasurer's report, read by Mrs. Dickson, showed total receipts of $159.01, with disbursements of $153.56. Six hundred dollars was reported for the Sick Children's Hospital, which amount is to be held over until the fall meeting, when further contributions will have been made by other mothers' clubs in the city. The secretary's report tendered by Mrs. Smith told of the organization of a new club, at the St. Lawrence School; action being taken toward the setting of a juvenile court established in the city; the nomination of Mrs. W. A. Tanner as school trustee; the assistance of Miss Bertha Smith in the child welfare work in the city; protest against the curb system of garbage collection, and a request to the Social Service Council to get stricter censorship of vaudeville.

Provincial Federation.

Mrs. W. J. Carson gave a most interesting account of her attendance at the Provincial Federation of the Home and School Leagues in Toronto, of which the London Mothers' Clubs are a part.

Mrs. A. E. Tutt presented the report of the nominating committee re-electing last year's officers to the Union Club as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. W. J. Carson; past president, Mrs. A. E. Tutt; president, Mrs. John Gemmell; vice-presidents, Mrs. L. Atkinson, Mrs. H. B. White and Mrs. B. F. Brighton; recording secretary, Mrs. Colon J. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. W. Hughes; treasurer, Mrs. F. Dickson; press reporter, Mrs. T. C. Benson, and music committee, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Smith.

MORMONS MAKING NO HEADWAY HERE

No Person To Argue With, Everyone Saved, Says Elder.

London is a city of "saved" souls. According to Elder Kitchen, this is the reason why the Mormon evangelization of London is proceeding very slowly. Four Mormon missionaries came to London some months ago, one member of the faith, baptized in England, being already located here. To date only one new convert has been gained, and he has been refused baptism on the ground that he does not yet sufficiently well understand the principles of the Mormon doctrines.

Very little opposition has been encountered by the missionaries here. "That's the trouble," said Elder Kitchen; "we can't get anybody to argue with. Everybody professes to be saved already."

In Toronto, Mormonism has a flock of about 40 members. The Mormon missionary organization plans to keep workers here for four or five years, whether any converts are obtained or not. The Morman idea, according to the missionaries, is not to make converts, but to preach the gospel and let the people heed it or not, as they will. Unfortunately for Mormonism, it hasn't got any fire and brimstone threats to hurl at the heedless. To be sure, there are special rewards for the faithful, but the unfaithful are left to worry along one way or another.

One noticeable fact about Mormon propaganda and the Mormon gospel is that it is offered freely and without price. Tracts and books are being distributed free to every house in the city, and no collections are taken at the meetings. In striking contrast to the increasing cost of temporal needs of life, Mormonism hasn't advanced its rates, because it hasn't any rates. According to the missionaries here, they all pay their own expenses out of their private resources or funds supplied by relatives or friends.

PLAYGROUNDS DISCUSSED.

The playgrounds committee of the public utilities commission under the chairmanship of Jared Vining held an inaugural meeting in the public utilities building Tuesday evening. The general situation and playgrounds needs of London were discussed, but no definite program planned. Another meeting will be called at an early date.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

Delegates From Huron Diocese Gather At Cronyn Hall.

Delegates from all over the Huron Diocese are gathering at Cronyn Hall today for the thirty-third annual meeting of the Huron Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary. The first general business session opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the president's address, delivered by Mrs. Sage. The morning began with a meeting of the board of management at 10 o'clock, at which the convening circular for the meeting was read, this latter containing many interesting appeals from the Dominion board and the foreign field. At 11 o'clock a communion service was held in St. Paul's Cathedral, the Bishop of Huron preaching. Committee meetings followed immediately upon luncheon, which was served at 12:30.

Tonight there will be a public missionary meeting, at which addresses will be delivered by Rev. W. H. Fry of Herschel Island, and Rev. W. E. Taylor, M.A., Ph.D.

Y. W. C. A. IS MAKING EXCELLENT PROGRESS

Reports Presented At Annual Meeting Were Most Satisfactory.

The annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held at the King street residence last night demonstrated that the association has just passed through a most successful year. The financial report showed a balance of about $3,000, part of which, however, will be spent in the carrying out of plans already made, such as the girls' camp at Port Bruce and similar undertakings.

Eight new members were appointed to the board as follows: Mrs. Chas. Glass, Miss Houghton, Miss Gibbons, Miss S. J. Moore, Mrs. Angus Graham, Mrs. Donald McLean, Mrs. Holding and Mrs. Gerald Pearson.

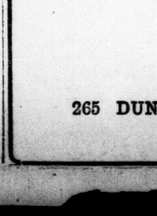

Mrs. C. B. King, president of the association, occupied the chair, and during the evening reports from the various departments of work were presented as follows: "Summerholm" report, presented by Mrs. W. N. Manning, membership committee by Mrs. Udy, room registry by Miss Maitland, travelers' aid by Miss Anderson, Wellington street residence by Mrs. A. E. Miller, "Lenmore" by Mrs. Taylor, educational by Mrs. Westland, industrial by Mrs. John Crawford, girls' work by Miss McCamus, and general secretary's report by Mrs. Alexander Henderson. A. G. McCullough was present at the meeting, and spoke briefly on the subject of social service.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WALK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her to Health.

Perth Amboy, N.J. — "For three years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, and tried it. Now I am better, feel strong, have no pains, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look, and I tell them to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable [Compound — that is what makes me feel well and look well. I recommended it to my sister and she is using it now. You can use this letter if you wish, for it is certainly a grand remedy for a woman's ills." — Mrs. MARTHA STANISLAWSKI, 524 Penn St., Perth Amboy, N.J.

For forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

CLANDEBOYE FISHERMEN HAVE NOT MADE REPORT

CLANDEBOYE, May 25.—The holiday was fully observed according to all the traditions of the country. Judging from the number of people seen going riverward with fishing poles, there would be about three well-baited hooks for each fish to choose from, besides the tempting, twirling spoons and the more or less natural-looking man-made flies. Reports of success are not in yet, but it is safe to say that the kid-boy with antiquated outfit got the biggest fish that the others lost—as usual.

Picnic and Party.

Probably the most enjoyable outing of the day, from the point of view of the children concerned, was the cleverly combined picnic and party given by Mrs. Henry to the members of her class in St. James' Sabbath school. A jolly fishing picnic was followed by refreshments and music and a little impromptu entertainment which children enjoy so much, and talk of for long afterwards. Listening to the enthusiastic comments of the children, one can easily tell that Mrs. Henry has the "happy knack" of gaining both their respect and affection.

"Spud" is Important.

The corn crop is nearly all planted under as favorable conditions as the most exacting farmer or silo-owner could wish for, and this week and next will doubtless see all the main crop of potatoes in. Everyone is hoping for a good season, since seed is dear. The homely "spud" is important, nowadays, beyond the wildest dreams of our grandfathers, in whose time a new variety of potato was divided with the neighbors "for luck."

How About Sugar.

Everything that can blossom, from strawberries to apple trees, is full of bloom, and there is a prospect of abundance of fruit, but housekeepers are asking: What about sugar?"

Already the older women are telling about how fruit, even to wild grapes and red plums, was dried by the pioneer families, for winter use, but they had plenty of maple syrup and maple sugar to use with the dried fruit when it was needed, and the finding of a "bee-tree" nearly always provided the whole settlement with honey. Will people again have to plan for a winter's supply of applebutter and pumpkin-sauce? Doubless that would suit those people who are always bemoaning the passing of the "good, old times."

W. R. YENDALL AGAIN PRESIDENT OF "Y"

Three Members Added to the Board of Directors.

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors last night three men were elected to the board of twenty-one members needed to look after the work of the boys. It is not known definitely whether they will become members of the board, and until that time the names will not be announced.

W. R. Yendall was re-elected president; E. R. Reid, vice-president; W. D. Beamer, secretary, and Nathaniel Mills, treasurer. The motion that three men be added to the board was passed at the annual meeting a week ago.

The Starr Phonograph

Perfect Achievement of Master Phonograph Builders

Because of the silver-grain spruce in its "singing throat" the Starr reproduces the tones of the voice, the violin, the band, so perfectly it is almost impossible to distinguish between the real and the reproduction.

But the makers of the Starr did not stop when they found the perfect music wood.

They sought a high-grade, scientifically-constructed reproducing diaphragm or sound box and found it. They sought a tone arm to carry with fewest number of turns, the vibrations from the reproducing diaphragm, thereby eliminating all possibilities of echoing; one that would play perfectly any disc record as it was originally intended to play, and found it.

They sought beauty of construction from master cabinet-makers, and found it. Then, when they had reached perfection in every phase of manufacture, they started to sell Starr Phonographs.

IMMEDIATE RISE IN SUGAR PRICE, REFINERS STATE

Predict Increase At Commerce Board Inquiry Into Problem.

SHORTAGE IN FUTURE

Price Expected To Go Up Two Cents Now and Two Cents Later.

OTTAWA, May 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Immediate increase in the price of sugar at Canadian refineries was indicated in the statements made by refiners at an informal inquiry held by the board of commerce today into the sugar problem in Canada.

Parties well posed on the situation afterwards expressed the opinion that this increase will amount to about 2 cents a pound, will go into effect this week, and will be followed by a similar increase within a couple of months. Wholesalers' and retailers' profits on handling sugar are a percentage of the price, so that the increase to the consumer will be proportionately more than 2 cents a pound.

The present retail price is about 22 cents a pound.

Present sugar prices in Canada are based on advantageous purchase by refiners when raw sugar was less than half the price as at present. It is without doubt that retail sugar prices are considerably higher in the United States than in Canada, and that the Canadian refiners have not taken the 40 cents per cwt. allowed them under the present sugar control. It was said that the present retail prices in Canada does not come within several cents of the cost of production in Canada's refineries on account of the greatly increased cost of raw sugar in Cuba.

Were Not Represented.

Neither retailers nor consumers were represented at the hearing. That Canadians are obtaining sugar at a reasonable cost, was the keynote of a statement made by W. F. O'Connor, K.C., sugar commissioner for the board of commerce, at the beginning of the inquary. Mr. O'Connor stated that the board had kept in closest touch with conditions in Canada, was in possession of all the facts of the sugar market, but wished to give the public an opportunity of hearing the facts. The object of the inquiry is to obtain information which will enable the board to decide whether it would be in the public interest that sugar control, which was abandoned some time ago, should be resumed.

Representatives of the Canada, Dominion, St. Lawrence and Acadia refineries are attending the hearing. Wholesalers are represented by A. C. Pyke, secretary of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Association.

Are Selling Lower.

The opening argument of the refiners is that, compelled to buy raw material in a common market in Cuba, and faced with higher cost of transportation and refining, Canadian refiners are selling at lower rates of profit than the United States refiners. Shortage of raw sugar threatens the continuity of the supply on the continent and indicates a probable further rise in the cost of raw sugar.

Some mention of sugar stringency brought from Mr. O'Connor a remark that there has been no sign of a sugar shortage so far. Two refineries had been closed for some time, and no effect was visible on the existing stocks. It was months ahead that must be thought of, when a real shortage threatened. Why should not refiners ration their output and conserve the supply?

A. H. Thompson of the Canada Refinery said that he did not know how this could be done. There seemed to be no way of avoiding a substantial increase in sugar prices before the end of the year.

SAYS UNITED STATES MAY BE DEPENDENT ON OVERSEAS FOOD

Hoover Fears Decrease in Agricultural Production.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Decrease in agricultural production may result in the United States becoming dependent on overseas food supplies, Herbert Hoover today declared in a letter to Representative Riddick, Republican, Montana, setting forth the former food administrator's views as "to practical measures to insure returns to the farmer for his labor and investment."

Asserting that present high prices of commodities sooner or later will decrease, Mr. Hoover said: "This deflation must not begin on the farmer."

Shortage in production outside the United States, wild extravagance and misuse of extended credits, speculation and profiteering and non-essential production were contributing factors in the present inflated prices, he wrote. When the collapse occurred, he predicted, intermediate dealers would be able to pass the greatest portion to the back of the farmer, no matter how carefully handled, he added.

CANADA TO DISCUSS AFTER-WAR QUESTIONS WITH COALITION GOVT.

LONDON, May 25.—In view of the approaching conference at Spa it has been decided to revive the British Empire delegation. The four dominions, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have been asked to nominate a representative who will discuss with the imperial cabinet the various questions arising out of the war.

U. S. GOVERNMENT CHARGES HOARDING OF SUGAR SUPPLY

BOSTON, May 25.—The Federal Government today took action against sugar refiners here for alleged profiteering and hoarding.

The Revere Sugar Refinery and Henry E. Worcester, its vice-president, were charged with exacting excessive prices and withholding sugar from the market, and the American Sugar Refining Company and W. K. Green, its general manager, were charged with selling sugar at excessive prices. The complaints asserted that the companies had made millions of dollars by hoarding and regulating the price.

REPORTS GROWING TENDENCY TO THRIFT

CHICAGO, May 25.—A growing tendency toward thrift, a general revision downward of prices of all commodities, except food, and improvement in the labor situation, are three encouraging factors noted in the report of the seventh federal reserve district issued today.

WANTS STRIKE TRUCE TO REDUCE PRICES

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., May 25.—A truce on strikes was pronounced the only way to bring down the cost of living, in a statement on the causes of high prices and inflated commercial values indorsed by the savings banks association of the state of New York at its annual convention here today.

"Let everybody go to work and produce more," the statement reads.

IRISH RAILMEN WILL NOT CARRY WAR MATERIALS

Refuse To Transport Guns or Explosives To West Ireland.

CAVALRY IN W. MEATH

Flying Columns Used—Court-House Burned Down in Tobbercurry, Sligo.

DUBLIN, May 25.—A serious extension of the railway trouble here occurred this morning, when the railwaymen refused to transport war materials which had been landed from a steamer and loaded into a train by soldiers after the dockers declined to work.

The supplies were destined for the West of Ireland, and when the soldiers tried to move the train the signalmen struck, and all work was stopped. The men employed in the station supplying power to the giant cranes at Dublin wharves were also withdrawn, and the cranes are at a standstill.

Some steamers from Ireland to England were held up, owing to the men on the docks refusing to load luggage.

CAVALRY RUSHES IN.

DUBLIN, May 25.—A flying column of cavalry has arrived in the district of West Meath to protect the farms in the region from raiders. Several cattle drives have occurred there during the week. It is stated on what seemingly is good authority that the Sinn Feiners will take action in view of the arrival of the military.

Raiders have attacked and burned the Brandon coast guard station in West Kerry. Six members of the coast guard, aided by their wives and families, desperately resisted the raiders, but were overcome.

Ballyconnel courthouse in County Cavan, which recently was burned and had just been rebuilt, was again burned today.

COURTHOUSE BURNED.

TOBBERCURRY, Sligo, Ireland, May 25.—Judge Wakely was unable to open the quarter sessions here today, because the courthouse was burned down early Monday morning. One hundred armed men participated in the destruction of the building. They picketed all the roads in the vicinity and held up traffic, while the courthouse was saturated with petrol and the torch applied.

Two explosions occurred, when the fire started, and the building was demolished by them. All the books and papers inside were destroyed.

DIDN'T BOTHER WITH BIBLE IN SWEARING LUMBER EMPLOYEES

Witness Admits He Took Affidavits Without Use of Bible.

TORONTO, May 25.—(By Canadian Press).—Testifying before the Crown Lands investigation this morning, Theodore Ellis, bookkeeer in the Massey poffice of the Spanish River Lumber Company, said that in taking affidavits from camp clerks and cullers he never required them to swear on a Bible. Two years prior to being employed by the Spanish River Lumber Company he had been a commissioner and had conducted a conveyancing business. He had then always given the oath to persons requiring to make an affidavit. He understood how to swear a man, but did not do it for the Spanish River Company.

J. Parker Reid said that as a culler he signed his report "J. Parker Reid." As camp clerk he signed the clerks' report "John Reid."

"Weren't you trying to fool the department?" asked R. T. Harding.

"I was not trying to fool anybody," replied the witness.

"You quite appreciate that anyone in the department reading your returns would think that John Reid and J. Parker Reid were two different people?" asked Mr. Justice Latchford.

"Did anyone ask you to sign returns that way?"

"No, I just did it myself," replied Reid.

"I guess I have the right to sign my own name if I like," said the witness later.

Curl Hair This Way and Keep It Healthy

It has been found that the use of a harmless fluid which druggists know as "silmerine," will keep the straightest hair in curl for the longest time, giving it the appearance of true naturalness, besides keeping the hair softer and glossier than possible with the heated iron. The liquid should be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair, drawing the brush through the hair from crown to tip.

The hair will be beautifully wavy and curling, and will lie easily and loosely on the head, as it should, considering its welfare from a hygienic standpoint. A few ounces of liquid silmerine will last for months and as it is really beneficial to the hair, it should be generally adopted by the fair sex. It will not spot or discolor scalp or hair, nor leave any sediment, grease or stickiness.

Women of All Ages and Times

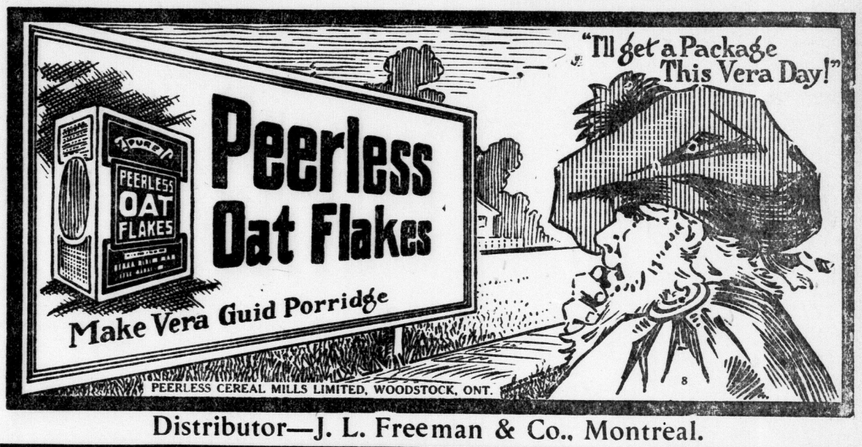

Ask your mother, aunt, grandmother, they will tell you of folks they have known who were cured of the many distressing, painful diseases which occur in most women's lives, by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablet form. What women say:

Tillsonburg, Ont.—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription an excellent medicine for the ailments of women. I had become very weak and nervous. I was just miserable when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and it proved most beneficial. It so completely restored me to health that I have never had any return of this ailment."—MRS. GEO. WALKER, P. O. Box 490.

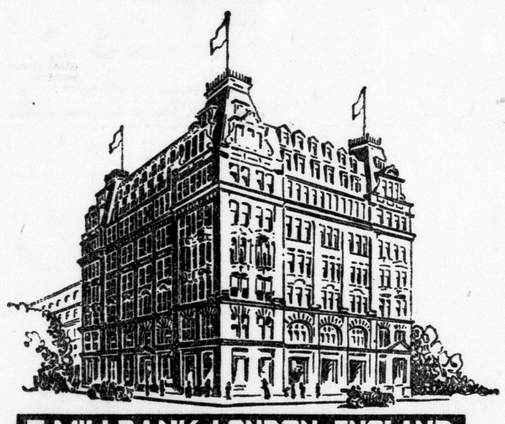

London, Ont.—"In my early married life I was very frail and delicate. I was feeling exceedingly weak and miserable when a friend advised me to take a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. From the very start I felt new strength and vitality. I feel certain that had I not taken this wonderful woman's tonic and builder just when I did I would never have been the happy mother that I am."—MRS. JOHN DANBY, 139 Ann Street.

Brampton, Ont.—"About five years ago I began suffering with woman's trouble. I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I was so completely down and out that I could not do anything, could scarcely dress myself. I had the doctor and took other medicine but without getting better until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery. It was only necessary for me to take about three bottles when I was completely restored to health and strength."

KITCHENER AND FRENCH.

Advance notes on Sir George Arthur's "Life of Lord Kitchener" indicate that it throws a flood of new light on the veil surrounding the first few weeks' operations of the British army in France, and corrects some of the things that Lord French has related in his book on the 1914 fighting. By August 29th the worst of the retreat from Mons was over, and though hard hit the British army was still in fighting mood. Not as much can be said of its commander, however, for it was on the 29th or 30th that Lord Kitchener learned that General French had decided "to make a definite and prolonged retreat due south, passing by Paris to the east or west." A message sent to French received an answer confirming the worst fears, and was followed by a letter of August 30th, in which General French wrote:

"I cannot say that I am happy in the outlook as to the further progress of the campaign in France. . . My confidence in the ability of the leaders of the French army to carry this campaign to a successful conclusion is fast waning, and this is my real reason for the decision I have taken to move the British forces so far back. . . I have been pressed very hard to remain, even in my shattered condition, in the fighting line but I have absolutely refused to do so, and I hope you will approve of the course I have taken."

Kitchener perceived that for French and his army to desert the French forces, their allies, "might mean nothing less than the loss of the war," and a wire was sent to the British commander imploring him to stand fast. But an even more disquieting reply came back from the front, and Kitchener's reply to this was to embark on a destroyer post haste for France. At the British embassy in Paris on September 1st, there took place the famous interview of which Sir John French gives a rather curious account in his book. The result was that Kitchener telegraphed back to London that French and his men would stay in the fighting line, conforming to the movements of his allies, and then handed a copy of this telegram to General French, with a note requesting him to "consider it as an instruction." The records show that from this moment when Kitchener sustained the fighting courage of the commander in France things began to improve, and in the following weeks Sir John French did his best work in the war. French's military reputation stands lower today probably than ever before, and it must be confessed that his own writings furnish adequate proof of his unfitness for the great responsibility that was thrust upon him.

Arthur, Fortescue and other qualified British military writers have shown that General French is quite unreliable in his account of what took place in the early days of the war, and in Sir George Arthur's biography of Lord Kitchener we probably have the true account of the danger that for a few days hung over British arms in France.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

The great interscholastic contest is a significant departure for the educational life of Western Ontario. Mr. Mel Brock, who is a rare combination of athlete and scholar, is doing an important work in developing the part of physical education in the high school course.

The well-known danger of competitive athletics is that boys may give themselves up disproportionally to play. The rule of American colleges may well be applied to high school sports; no student behind in his studies is allowed to participate in contests. Thus, the athletics serve as a stimulus not a hindrance to studies. But the main point is that physical education should be an integral part of the school work, as carefully regulated and directed as any other subject. Such men as Mr. Brock are aiming at this end.

Western University has for some time been emphasizing the athletic training of its students, both men and women. Now it gives the lead to the secondary schools. The time is gone by for mere book study in school and college. It is important for boys and girls to learn to run, swim, jump and play games, not only for the physical development, but for the training of judgment and character. Lobsided specialties might well be discouraged, honors and prizes (if any) being given rather for general athletic proficiency than for this or that particular event.

The fact is, amateur athletics among the youth have been in late years going down hill rather than ahead, from all appearances. The pursuit of the dollar has somewhat stifled the old healthy spirit of sport for pure fun. Boys should be encouraged to keep alive and foster the good old games and track events, and there is nowhere so rare an opportunity for developing the real amateur spirit as in the schools and colleges.

Western University is fortunate in having a director of athletics like Mr. Brock, who sees what is wanted in school life and goes after it with all his might. He performs the highest function of the university teacher in giving a hearty lead to the people. It will not be his fault if mind and muscle are not proportionally trained in Western Ontario. And this Greek idea of physical education is not Western University's only contribution to 20th century advance in pedagogy. Look at its new calendar for 1920-21 and note, for example, the modern character of the course planned in the ancient classics. Figure out the up-to-date courses in Canadian economic history, and in United States history. A rather unique course also is that in recent and contemporary English poetry and prose given to all general course students in the fourth year. Other universities are scarcely aware of anything subsequent to Rossetti or 50 years ago, and some have, it would seem, almost religious scruples against a course in the history of the neighboring republic. Western University is showing in various ways a lead to older institutions than itself, and particularly points the way in a rational education of body, mind and character in even proportion.

BLOSSOM-TIME.

A shower of apple-blossoms blew
Across my path one day—
And I can ne'er forget, it seems,
That spring-time way.

A trip out of town just now puts one in intimate touch with the loveliness of spring, and without question a journey by train has distinct advantages. In a brief time we have wandered with our eyes through many different woods, down flower-carpeted hillsides, into ravines, and beside the winding ways of narrow little streams, and the glories we have looked on and loved are too many for recording. The memory is persistent on each bit of beauty, and the privilege of brief worship has been most sacred.

Where the fields are rolling and broken with hill hollows the dandelions sprinkle the low places like so much dust of gold, and great clumps of these gorgeous, long-stemmed, common blooms start one wondering why they are not sought for winter culture and popularized in days when we have forgotten their brilliance. Along the railroad embankments the wild strawberry flowers gleam like millions of white stars low-set, and here and there a dell of blue violets coquettishly peeps at the passing world, secure in shy beauty beyond reach. Pink trilliums and white wave gay greeting, and someone who loves old-fashioned names exclaims, "Oh, see the white lilies!" Great gatherings of May-apple foliage, umbrellalike, form low cathedrals here and there, and buttercups follow the courses of little creeks like trails of bright gold, guiding to shady nooks where ferns are uncurling their fronds for the summer.

The leaf miracle is at its wonder-time. Elms as yet have fine new leaves of slender unfolding, the benediction of which they share with the earth beneath as their branches drape downward. The emerald green of glistening young poplars is fittingly set in slender silver trunks and boughs, and full-leafed hawthorns tell bird secrets to the lush grass at their feet. The bronze of newly-leafed maples shines like great rubies in the woods-places of varying tints, and the beeches are a shimmer of golden green.

There are occasional peeps into home gardens, where the zeal for production is emphasized by the shoots of familiar vegetables, which appear in the heretofore sacredly reserved spots for flowers. Every available bit of land is doing its part in the growth of food. Busy men and horses, in beautifully prepared fields, with grain bags emptied and others full and waiting along the fences, speak of further wise provision for the days to come, and even the faithful farm collie has his part to play in his constant attending interest up and down the field.

But the great springtime wonder is the blossoms. "The cherry trees are seas of bloom, and sweet perfume, and soft perfume," and the plum and pear and peach trees are laden with blossoms. Perhaps most beautifully displayed are the apple-blooms, with buds of deep rose, unfolding slowly into larger buds of shell-pink, and finally into blossoms almost white, and shaped like those of the wild rose, studded profusely along the irregular lovely old tree boughs of the pine-guarded orchards. Close to comfortable-looking old farm houses the bloom-showered trees gleam like enfolding white mists, "keeping evil from the dear abodes," and close at hand are the fields of luxuriant wheat of varying shades of green, wind-swept and sun-mottled. Everything speaks of a splendid harvest of fruit and grain, and of all beauty seen from a train window there is none to surpass that surrounding the heart of London.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Board of Commerce seems to have gone overboard.

An American newspaper sneers at the League of Nations, asking why it has not stopped the fighting from the Black Sea to the Baltic. The truth is that, thanks to American politicians, who, for party ends, refused to take their share of the burden and responsibility, the league has been terribly hampered and handicapped before it could even begin to operate.

France is keeping her word to Germany to withdraw from Frankfort and the other Rhine cities the moment Germany showed that she would try to carry out her treaty obligations. But it is too much to hope that the lesson will not be wasted on the Germans. The splendid example of honesty and decency is the sort of thing Germans have laughed at for years. Although it brought them to their present humiliating position, the scrap of paper attitude will be that of the German for a long time to come.

MORE HOPEFUL NEWS.

[Montreal Gazette.]

A bulletin received by the Dominion bureau of statistics from its correspondents in Saskatchewan seems to justify a somewhat more hopeful outlook with regard to seeding than was possible ten days ago. Seventy-five per cent of the seeding in the great wheat-growing province has been already done and the work will be completed by the end of the week. Conditions as to moisture, etc., are good, and the planted grain is germinating rapidly. Previous reports from other sources indicated a still higher percentage of seeding in Manitoba, with the same quick showing of the wheat above ground. Reports appear to agree in estimating a decreased acreage of 10 per cent throughout the West, with possibly a little higher percentage in Saskatchewan. Despite the fact that less ground has been seeded, there is a much more optimistic tone noticeable in the reports received, due to the favorable coditions which prevail, and the consequent expectation of a substantial yield per acre. The lateness of the season in the West has been an occasion for concern, and there is bound to be a smaller acreage under crop this year than last, but good weather conditions may go far toward compensating for this loss. To attempt to forecast the result from a crop not yet all sown is an idle and useless business, but so much depends upon this year's crop that all reliable news of it is of value, and the fact that reports received latterly have been somewhat more cheerful in tone is a matter of no small consequence. Canada will need this year the greatest wheat crop that the West can produce.

From Here and There

RHUBARB PLANT AND SUGAR PRICE.

[Toronto Telegram.]

Rhubarb is almost the one food product that grew in stature faster than it grew in price.

Name of rhubarb was always coupled on Canada's bill of fare with the name of sugar.

Increase in the price of sugar has almost numbered stewed rhubarb with boiled potatoes and other delicacies of the season, that growth has almost made Canada's favorite pie plant the subject of a luxury tax.

PARENTAL CAUTION NECESSARY.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

In these days of rapid transportation parents cannot caution their children too frequently on the danger of running heedlessly from the sidewalk on to the roadway. Nobody has any sympathy for the reckless automobilist, but the most careful driver finds it difficult at times to avoid accidents owing tothe unexpected and careless actions of juveniles.

JUST LIKE A MOVIE.

[Saskatoon Phoenix.]

Sir James Lougheed says that the Union Government has a platform, and it will be announced in a few days. What's the matter with the 1917 platform? Wouldn't it be better for the Union Government to get through with one platform before adopting another?

A FALSE ALARM.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

An interesting little story comes from London, Ont., the other day about a toad which was supposed to have been ensconced in cement and endured a hunger strike for seventeen years, dying shortly after its release. It now transpires that the workmen who made the discovery were mistaken, for a post-mortem examination of the stomach of the batrachian reptile convinces a scientist that it had enjoyed a meal shortly before its death. And prohibition is in force in London, too.

TARIFFS IN AUSTRALASIA.

[Auckland (New Zealand) News.]

The Commonwealth proposes reciprocal agreements with the Dominions, under which any of them may secure, wholly or in part, the preferential treatment accorded to Britain. There is still an important distinction between the Australian and the New Zealand policies. New Zealand gives to Australian goods more favorable treatment than those of foreign manufacture; Australia still places New Zealand in the same position as foreign countries, and presumably would not grant any advantage unless further concessions are also made by the Dominion to Australian products.

THE ISSUE.

[Lethbridge Herald.]

The New York Evening Post appears to have correctly gauged the outlook of the next election in Canada when it says that one of the most hotly concerned issues will be the tariff issue. The people of Canada have come to realize that the tariff plays no small part in the rise of the price of commodities, and that behind it shelters many a profiteer.

THE KING'S CELLARS.

[Pearson's Weekly.]

Major Edne Thomas Kingscote has lately been appointed to be Gentleman of the Royal Cellars in place of Mr. Thomas Kingscote, who has resigned.

The King's cellars are under St. James's Palace, and it is from these that all the various royal residences, including Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, are supplied. Wines are purchased in the wood and laid down. They are then bottled in the cellars and stored until required.

In Queen Victoria's time these cellars, which cover a quarter of an acre, contained an immense amount of fine old sherry, but when King Edward came to the throne most of this was sold.

There is, however, still some left, and when King Alfonso visits England he vows that he gets better sherry at Windsor than he does in Madrid.

King Edward's wine was champagne, and he was one of the best judges of champagne in the kingdom. He was also a good judge of clarets, of which there is a fine stock at St. James.

The preference of King George and Queen Mary is for light wines, and large purchases have been made of Australian vintages.

There is also in the cellars some wonderful old Tokay, originally purchased by the Prince Consort. When seen on the royal table it is used only as a liqueur. It is a wonderful nerve restorative.

The wine required for immmediate use is requisitioned by the chief butler, an official whose salary is £600 a year.

EDUCATION.

[Brantford Expositor.]

The statistics show that those who remain in school until they are thoroughly equipped for the work of life, always overtake in earning power those who start out so early that they are inefficient. Nothing is more heartbreaking to a boy or girl at some time than to find the path of promotion and reward blocked by insufficient education. The moral is that it is better to go slowly and get thoroughly equipped.

HANDSOME BUILDINGS.

[Kingston Whig.]

Owing to the fact that the town of the new Parliament Buildings has not yet been constructed, the temporary main entrance to the House of Commons is at the western end of the building. The walls are lined with Tyndall limestone, which was quarried in Manitoba and brought from there to Ottawa in huge blocks. The surface has been tooled or "crandalled," giving it a very effective appearance; the stone is grey, with a slightly creamish tint, thus taking away the coldness of a stone interior. Intricate patterns made of thousands of fossils are traced, and in some cases a perfect section of a shell can be seen, presenting the curves of an Ionic capital or part of the vertebrae of some prehistoric animal. Because the building was commenced during the war (1916) it was impossible to obtain the well-known Belgian black marble, but a satisfactory substitute was found in the Province of Quebec, where, before the war, very little of this marble had been quarried. The marble stairway in the foreground leads up to the House of Commons lobby or rotunda. The supporting arches to the floor above form a cloister, while the ceiling is pierced and opened to the daylight. Where the arches spring from the piers they are decorated with carved bosses, which take the form of caricatures of statesmen of the past and present. There was at one time considerable unfavorable and rather uncalled-for criticism of these "gargoyles." On the arch facing the main door to the Commons chamber is a carved head of Sir Robert Borden, and facing him is the "gargoyle" of Laurier. The doors opening into the various rooms from here are oak, ornamented with linen fold paneling.

ELIMINATING DIALECTS.

[New York Sun and Herald.]

That the use of the telephone is bringing about greater similarity of accent in different parts of the country, and is tending so to change the voices of the nation that Northerner and Southerner, Easterner and Westerner, are gradually losing their characteristic intonation, is the belief of scientists who are familiar with the matter.

Furthermore, the president of a southern telephone company observes that the Southern accent, too, is rapidly disappearing. There are many causes, he points out—the Southerner travels more; he uses the language of commerce today, where thirty years ago it was the language of literature. But, above all, looms the fact that the long-distance telephone is used so much more generally and so frequently. The use of the telephone, little as the casual onlooker may think of it, is bringing all normal voices to a sameness of pitch and engrafting a similarity in enunciation. In fact, the telephone is gradually changing the voices of all of us.

It is thought by some that all this is due more to the feeling of the telephone user that the person he is talking to is some distance away than to any necessity caused by the instrument itself. People generally are apt to raise their voices when using the telephone much higher than there is any need. Of course, when using the long distance telephone there is greater necessity for speaking louder and more distinctly than when speaking over a local line. On the other hand, the damping effect on electric waves is much greater with voices of higher pitch than the lower ones. The bass voice should carry further than the treble.

It is interesting to recall at this time a statement made some time ago and upon which there was much comment at the time, that French is a better telephone language than English. If it be the case that English, with its harsh and sibilant sounds, is poorly adapted to the telephone, the frequent use which we make of this intrument may gradually bring about changes in speech. So, too, long distance conversations by causing the talker to put a conscious effort in speaking, may unconsciously affect an ordinary enunciation.

Poetry and Jest

CRAB APPLE.

[Punch]

I dreamed the faries wanted me
To spend my birth-night with them all;
And I said, "Oh, but you're so wee,
And I am so tremendous tall,
What could we do?"
"Crab-apple stem!"
Said they, and I was just like them.

And then, when we were all the same,
The party and the fun began;
They said they'd teach me a new game
Of "dew-ponds." "I don't think I can Play that," I said.
"Crab-apple blue!"
Said they, and I could play it, too.

And then when we had played and played,
The fairies said that we would dance;
And I said, "Oh, but I'm afraid
That I've no shoes." I never gave a glance
At my bare toes.
"Crab-apple sweet!"
Said they, and shoes were on my feet.

And then we danced away, away,
Until my birth-night was all done,
And I said, "I'll go home today;
And thank you for my lovely fun.
I'll come again."
"Crab-apple red!"
Said they, and I woke up in bed!

THE THIN ONE HAD GONE.

The prim and proper young woman sailed into "Makem & Wearem's."

"Will you kindly show me," she shrilled, "the thinnest thing you have in a blouse?"

"I'm sorry, madam, "answered the assistant, who was leaving at the end of the week, "but she's just gone out to lunch."

THEY SOFTLY WALK.

[Hugh Robert Orr, in the British Weekly.]

They are not gone who pass
Beyond the clasp of hand,
Out fram the strong embrace;
They are but come so close
We need not grope with hands,
Nor look to see, nor try
To catch the sound of feet,
They have put off their shoes
To softly walk by day
Within our thought, to tread
At night our dream-led paths
Of sleep.

They are not lost who find
The sunset gate, the goal
Of all the weary years,
Nor lost are they who reach
The summit of their climb,
The peak above the clouds
And storms. They are not lost
Who find the light of sun
And stars and God.

They are not dead who live
In hearts they leave behind;
In those whem they have blessed
They live a life again,
And shall live through the years
Eternal life, and grow
Each day more beautiful,
As time declares their good,
Forgets the rest, and proves
Their immortality.

APPROPRIATE.

"Why do you wear that costume? It looks like half mourning."

"Well, every evening when you come home from the office you complain of being half dead."

AN OLD GARDENER.

[David Morton.]

He has always a wise and knowing air;
For him there is no mystery in the mold,
Where seeds put on the shimmering things they wear,
And come to birth in yellow, green and gold.
His quizzical, grey eyes can somehow mark
The silver shaft of sunlight where it goes,
Still radiant and undarkened in the dark,
To find the seed-room of the hidden rose.

For him the secret alchemies are plain;
He tells most surely how these things befall
In words grown intimate with roots and rain;
And yet he is so tender of it all,
So wise and kind in ways of leaf and sod,
Sometimes I think him very like to God.

SUSCEPTIBLE MALE.

[Helen Rowland.]

Long after a man has forgotten a sweetheart's parting words he can remember the foolish little thing she said at their first meeting—about his eyes, his cravats or his resemblance to Napoleon.

VOICES.

[Louis Untermeyer.]

All day, with anxious heart and wondering ear,
I listened to the city; heard the ground
Echo with human thunder, and the sound
Go reeling down the streets and disappear.
The headlong hours, in their wild career,
Shouted and sang until the world was drowned
With babel voices, each one more profound—
All day it surged, but nothing could I hear.

That night the country never seemed so still;
The trees and grasses spoke without a word
To stars that brushed them with their silver wings.
Together with the moon I climbed the hill,
And in the heart of Silence heard
The speech and music of immortal things.

KEEP ON.

A politician tells of an occasion when one very rainy night in the northwest he was addressing an audience which, without taxing the capacity of the hall, might have been larger. Naturally, he was willing to curtail his speech, and having reached what he considered the proper point, said:

"I am afraid I have kept you too long."

Whereupon there came to him a voice from the audience:

"Go on, please, it's still raining."

YES, NEXT?

[St. Joseph Gazette.]

Doesn't the average family worry more about the price of gasoline than its does about the price of bread?

THE MAN WHO WINS.

[Selected.]

The man who wins is an average man;
Not built on any particular plan,
Not blessed with any peculiar luck;
Just steady and earnest and full of pluck.

When asked a question he does not "guess"
He knows, and answers "No" or "Yes";
When set a task that the rest can't do,
He buckles down till he's put it through.

Three things he learned—that the man who tries
Finds favor in his employer's eyes;
That it pays to know more than one thing well;
That it doesn't pay all he knows to tell.

So he works and waits, till one fine day
There's a better job with bigger pay,
And the men who shirked whenever they could
Are bossed by the man whose work made good.

For the man who wins is the man who works,
Who neither labor nor trouble shirks,
Who uses his hands, his head, his eyes;
The man who wins is the man who tries.

LIVER TROUBLE AND HEARTBURN

All liver diseases of whatever character are diseases of the highest importance and demand close attention.

The liver is the largest and one of the most important organs of the body. Its duty is to prepare and secrete bile, and serves as one of the filters of the body, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons. Therefore when the liver gets out of order it is the starting of trouble in nearly every part of the body.

Keep the liver active by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and you will have no heartburn, constipation, biliousness, sick or bilious headaches, dull, yellow eyes, brown blotches, sallow complexion, coated tongue, jaundice, catarrh of the stomach, or the painful protruding internal or bleeding piles.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N. B. writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

762 PERSONS CALL AT THE W. C. T. U. DURING THE YEAR

Mrs. Harrison Presents Annual Report At Union Meeting.

The annual report of the social service department of the W. C. T. U. presented at yesterday's meeting of the union at the Park avenue rooms, contained such interesting facts as the following: 524 visits were made to homes in the city, and during the year 762 visits were made by people coming to the W. C. T. U. rooms for information and help; three families of children were kept in shoes and stockings, and two families in fuel, as well as many others supplied with clothing from time to time. This report also gave an excellent idea of the work being done by Mrs. Harrison in connection with the W. C. T. U. Girls Clubs and Mothers' Clubs, some of the mothers having been attending these club meetings for seven years, since their institution. The W. C. T. U. cupboard, whose shelves seem to be boundless, formed another interesting topic of this report. This cupboard, kept filled by W. C. T. U. friends, enables the members to hand out clothing to those in need, the greater part of this clothing being sold at a very small charge, rather than being wholly given away.

A second report submitted at yesterday's meeting by Mrs. Jones, was of the W. C. T. U. pledge work in the Sunday schools. It was felt by the meeting that this branch of the work should be stressed even more than it is being stressed at the present time.

LORD ROBERTS CONCERT

A great deal of interest is being displayed in the approaching concert to be held in the Lord Roberts school on Tuesday evening next, June 1, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Lord Roberts Mothers' Club, and in aid of the Sick Children's Hospital. The program will include some very fine numbers by Ed. Webster, Miss Viola Stevens, the Misses McLennan, Miss Jean Walker, Mrs. Victor Blackwell, Miss Madeline Simson, Mrs. Brighton, Miss Geraldine Regan and Mr. Christiana, as well as children's choruses and folk dances and games by the children of the kindergarten.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Georgia.

Facts about your name, its history, its meaning, whence it was derived, its significance, your lucky day and lucky jewel.

Georgia has a deeply religious origin among the Marinite Christians, who have a tradition that Georgos was a Christian sentinel at Damascus, who connived at the escape of St. Paul when he was let down in the basket, and was therefore put to death. The next Georgos was a Cappadocian saint and martyr, in whose honor the Emperor Constantine erected a church at Byzantium. Through all early church history Georgius appears as saint, martyr or hero until finally the famous St. George of the Dragon legend became renowned in England.

Curiously enough, though, George penetrated every country of the west, being adopted by England, France, Hungary and Germany, the feminine is quite a modernism. it was not until comparatively recent years that Anne of Denmark was instrumental in having a goodchild of hers christened Georgia Anna. She was the first English Georgia, though the name is said to have existed previously on the continent. It is possible that this same Georgia Anna coupled her two names for the sake of euphony, and is responsible for the Georgiana, which is now so popular in all English-speaking countries.

The French adopted Georgia, but quickly changed her to Georgine and Georgette. Germany liked Georgine and took her over, making her one of her most popular feminine names. England has a form Georgina and Portugal is responsible for Georgeta. In America alone does the original Georgia seem to flourish.

Georgia, a talismanic gem is the bloodstone, which has strong therapeutic powers, and not only preserves its wearer from danger and disease, but it is said to be a curative in hemorrhages and other disturbances of the blood. Tuesday is her lucky day and four her lucky number. The violet, signifying modesty, is her flower.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

TELL IT TO THE SOCIETY EDITOR.

Miss Marjorie Younie of Galt was a visitor in London over the week-end.

Mr. C. W. Hall of the local postal staff, is holidaying in Windsor and Detroit.

Mr. W. C. Giles, New York, spent the holiday with his sister, Mrs. R. H. Sanders, 870 Hamilton road.

The second year arts students of Western University held a year-end farewell picnic at Springbank on Saturday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Burrows and Mr. Harvey Burrows of Seaforth were guests with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harvey over the holiday.

On Wednesday evening last a shower was tendered Miss Irene Cripp in honor of her approaching marriage. The affair was held at the home of her uncle, Mr. N. Cripp, 748 Dundas street, the bride-elect receiving many lovely and practical gifts. The evening was largely spent in games and dancing.

The graduating class in arts at the Western University have been having a round of gayety since the final examination was written off on Friday last. Several private parties have been the order of the day, the charming hostesses including Miss Gertrude Cole and Miss Winnifred Pearson. A motor picnic to Kilworth marked the 24th. The graduating dance held at the Western gym last night, the big banquet at the Tecumseh House for the graduates and undergraduates of all faculties tonight and the theatre parties to view the Western University play at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, bring to a close a week of festivities, the very last of which is "Convocation" itself on Friday.

The Western U. gymnasium was the scene of one of the gayest of college functions last night, when the annual convocation dance was held in honor of the graduating class. This was a very special occasion, for invitations were issued to the mothers of graduating students as well as to the students themselves, giving the dance that delightful old-fashioned dignity which is so rarely maintained in these times. The arrangements for the dance, which was an undoubted success, were largely in the hands of the second year students, under the convenership of Miss Blanche Tancock.

The "gym" presented a veritable fairyland from the point of view of decorative effect. The whole ceiling had been lowered by countless streamers of purple and white, while the lower part of the stage was banked with apple blossoms and surmounted with a latticework of purple and white, concealing the orchestra behind. Great clusters of apple blossoms were also used effectively above the doors leading into the gymnasium, while on the walls were the crests of the graduating years, both in arts and medicine.

A shower of toy balloons and serpentine confetti during one of the dances made the scene even gayer than ever.

The banquet tendered by the Western University to the collegiate boys from all over Ontario, who were in the city on Monday attending the interscholastic athletic meet, proved an overwhelming success. The Western University "gym" had been fittingly decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting. The long white tables, at which sat nearly three hundred boys, were marked at intervals with the letters "W. U." formed in purple bunting, while Western "U." shields had been placed about the walls. A profusion of apple blossoms and tulips on the tables completed the decorative scheme, which had been skilfully worked out by Mrs. Clarence Foreman, Mrs. Louis Wood and Miss Irene Wood.

The general convener of the banquet was Mrs. E. H. Young, who was assisted by other members of the Faculty Club, including Mrs. Tamblyn, Mrs. W. S. Fox, Mrs. Derryl, Mrs. Slack, Mrs. Neville, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Shanks and Miss Marjorie Ross, Miss Dona Waller and Miss Margaret McIntosh.

At the close of the banquet the prizes and trophies won during the day were presented.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson, Summerville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice M., to Mr. Clarence B. Singer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Singer, Summerville, the marriage to take place early in June.

NAGLE—CEDER.

The marriage took place at Spokane, Wash., on Wednesday, May 19, of Mr. Leslie Maurice Nagle of the First State Bank, formerly of Broughdale, London, to Miss Lydia M. Ceder of Spokane.

ROSS—PULLEN.

A pretty wedding took place at the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, on May 19, when Miss N. Pullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pullen of Wiltshire, England, became the bride of Mr. John E. Ross of East Williams, the bride wearing a pretty suit of grey with a corsage of roses. After the ceremony, a reception was given at the home of Mrs. House, a friend of the bride. Later the happy couple left for Niagara Falls and Buffalo to spend their honeymoon.

JAMISON—WESTLAND.

Miss Juanita Westland, formerly of this city, was recently united in marriage to Mr. Reginald E. Jamison of Chicago, Illinois, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. M. Westland, Toronto. Both the bride and groom formerly lived in London, and were well known here. Only the immediate relatives were present at the ceremony. The bride was in the conventional white wedding gown, and carried pink and white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Jamison left for eastern cities before taking up their abode in Chicago.

BURDON—WALKER.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, May 12, at the Presbyterian manse, Bothwell, the Rev. A. E. Waghorne officiating, when Miss Rheta Margarite Walker, eldest daughter of Mr. Elijah Walker of Euphemia, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederic Campbell Burdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Burdon. The gifts were numerous, showing the high esteem in which the couple were held. Amid showers of confetti the happy couple left via C. P. R. for London and other points east. On their return they will reside in Euphemia.

MATTHEWS—CRIPPS.

St. Matthew's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, May 22, when Irene Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cripps, became the bride of Wilfrid Victor Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Matthews, 970 Adelaide street. The Rev. H. B. Ashby performed the ceremony, the bride wearing a smart traveling suit of navy blue with hat to match and a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. She was attended by Miss Mabel Squire of Wyoming, who wore a navy blue suit with a corsage of Russel roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Horace Matthews, while the bride was given in marriage by her father.

During the signing of the register Mrs. M. E. Cook, aunt of the bride, sang "The Crown." The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls, to the bridesmaid a cameo ring, to the groomsman an ivory shaving set and to the soloist a jeweled hairpin. The bride was the recipient of many other gifts, among them a substantial check from the firm of John McNee & Sons, where she was employed.

After a reception the happy couple left for Toronto and points east. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will be at home after July 1 at 780½ Dundas street.

ILLMAN—HERITAGE.

One of the prettiest of May weddings was solemnized on Monday at high noon, when Edith Alberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Heritage, became the bride of Norman Frederick Illman. Rev. Dr. C. Deacon, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. E. Proscott.

The bride entered the drawing-room leaning on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohegrin's wedding march, played by Miss Ada Flowers of Montreal. The bride wore a lovely frock of white net with satin ribbons and pearl trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and bridal roses. She wore her veil in Juliet fashion, caught with a bandeau of seed pearls. Her bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Flowers of Montreal, who wore a frock of robin-egg blue with puffed sleeves and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Mr. Frank Illman, brother of the groom, was groomsman. The ceremony was performed under an arch of apple blossoms, palms and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the large dining-hall made pretty with spring blossoms and ferns. The bride's mother received the guests, assisted by Miss Edith Brooks of Port Arthur, who wore a gown of black satin with a corsage bouquet of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Illman left later for Toronto and other points. The groom served for three years with the Fourth Regiment Mounted Rifles, and was severely wounded. A happy incident following the marriage was the christening of a niece of the bride, Frances A. Davies, and a nephew of the groom, Everett Illman.

COOK—GRAVES.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized in this city at high noon on Saturday, May 22, 1920, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Roupe, 214 Askin street, when their sister, Miss Viola Allen Graves, youngest daughter of Mr. B. C. Graves of St. Thomas, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Carlton Cook of the office staff of the McClary Manufacturing Company, and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cook of Lambeth. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. T. Cosby Morris, B. A., B. D., pastor of Askin Street Methodist Church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Ella Cook, while the groom's brother, Mr. Wilbert Cook, officiated as groomsman.

Mr. Claude L. Graves of this city is a brother of the bride, and both parties are prominent in musical circles, being associated with the Musical Art Society. The bride is also an active member of the Y. W. C. A., and was the recipient of a beautiful novelty shower from that organization. The groom is very popular in fraternal organizations, and is at the present time the district deputy grand master-elect of the Oddfellows in London district, who presented him on Wednesday evening last with a magnificent Chesterfield chair.

Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were in attendance, but the many and beautiful gifts received testified to the popularity of the contracting parties. After partaking of a dainty wedding luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Cook left on the 4 o'clock G. T. R. express for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends in this city. On their return they will reside in South London.

Teething.

The two chief dangers for a baby surrounded by the gossips of the neighborhood are teething and colic. No matter what ails him, nor whether anything ails him, it is "teething," as any old woman will assure any mother so careless or gullible as to listen. But if, perchance, it proves not to be "teething" after all, as it invariably does prove if the baby does not succumb to the old woman's treatment, then there is no doubt in the world it is "colic," and worse yet, "wind colic"—though what other varieties of colic there may be in a fishwife's lexicon I cannot tell you, nor can my dad. "Why," the old women declare, "it's as plain as the nose on your face"—and honest, now, isn't everything else on the face plainer than the nose?—"just as plain as the nose on your face the poor critter has the wind colic, for can't you see him drawing up his legs? That shows his stomach hurts him!" We babies do draw up our legs whenever we cry vigorously, and lots of times when we don't cry. It is one of the few ways we have to get a little exercise. Don't know why, but most mothers and most doctors, too, seem to think a baby needs no exercise at all, and they dress us accordingly. "If I was in your place, ma'am, I'd send right over to the store and get some colic, teething and worm cure for that baby, so I would."

Thus it happens that many a poor little tike is started in on the morphine or opium habit right early.

Educated folks nowadays know that "teething" is a natural, normal, physiological incident and never the cause of any illness. Yet here recently a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, or something like that, published a suggestion "to all writers of 'How To Keep Well,'" in which he cited Professor Garner's claim that gorillas have a language of their own and expatiated on the knowledge man might acquire from the apes. "What, for example, does the gorilla mother do when her baby has the stomach ache? How does she ease the pain of a teething child."

The gorilla baby probably never has the stomach ache, because his mother knows how to feed him. And a gorilla mother would probably tell you to quit monkeying if you tried to make her believe it hurts a baby to grow teeth. Whether gorillas have their own language we may well leave for Professor Garner to establish. Meanwhile, why not credit the simians at least with the wisdom of natural instinct?

The notion that "cutting teeth" accounts for a baby's illness is wickedly false and leads to deplorable neglect and maltreatment when babies really are ill.

The use of so-called teething rings of any kind is harmful, first, because these things cannot be kept clean and are sure to carry infection from floor or surroundings into the mouth of the baby; second, because teething rings, or other objects used to rub the gums (especially fingers) make the gums sore and in no wise hasten the eruption of teeth.

"Teething" as an explanation of sickness in infancy is just as nonsensical as would be the color of the baby's hair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Fishskin.

Please reprint a formula for rough, scaly "fish scale" on the arms. I used a formula you gave some time ago and it was unexcelled. (Miss C. R.)

ANSWER—Salicylic acid, 10 grains; glycerin, 1 dram; lanolin, 2 drams; benzoinated lard, enough to make an ounce.

A very small quantity of this is to be rubbed upon the affected area of skin once a day.

Look Who's Karelling.

How I wish I had had the opportunity of reading your health articles when I was raising my family. I feel that I could have done a much better job than I did. You write many things, however, that are good for grandmothers to know. I am taking the Karell treatment and have reduced 25 pounds. Thank you. (Mrs. W. R. T.)

ANSWER—Some grandmothers are younger than they pretend to be. Some young women are regular old grannies. For instance, some young women are afraid to Karell lest they become weak or ill from insufficient nourishment.

Cistern Water.

I am inclosing a bloom from the catalpa, commonly known as the cottonwood. Please tell me whether it contains typhoid germs. Also please tell me which are the proper months to catch cistern water. (Mrs. T. H. F., Alabama.)

ANSWER—No, the catalpa blooms contain no typhoid germs. Typhoid germs come only from the kidney or bowel excrement of a person who has or who has had (a carrier) typhoid fever, and are conveyed in water or food, which happens to be polluted by drainage from such source or contaminated by being handled or prepared by a carrier. Cistern water may be caught in any month. See that your cistern is properly screened against mosquito breeding.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

I know not why my path should be at times
So straightly hedged, so strangely barred before;
I only know God could keep wide the door;
And so I trust.

Addresses Wanted.

The following names and addresses are wanted in the Mail-Box: Genevieve, Mrs. G. H., Hunter and Fisherman, Just Boy, I. O. U., Betty Brown, Rose Rambler, Only an Orphan, Lonely Lad. There is mail that has been waiting for these addresses for some time. Also there are inquiries for these names and addresses to be forwarded to different Boxites. Please send this information to the Mail-Box as soon as convenient.—Cynthia Grey.

Requests.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wonder if any of the readers could sell or lend me the Ladies' Home Journal for February and April of this year? If anyone sends them in I will pay postage.

MRS. R. J. S.

Dear Miss Grey,—Just another one coming for help. A few days ago I made some hard soap from Gillett's lye. It doesn't seem to harden; it cuts in bars just fine, but it keeps soft, like thick jelly. I would be pleased if any of the Boxites could tell me what is wrong with it, as it never happened that way with me before. Please tell me what day September 24, 1903, fell on. I will close for this time, hoping I may call again, and be of some use.

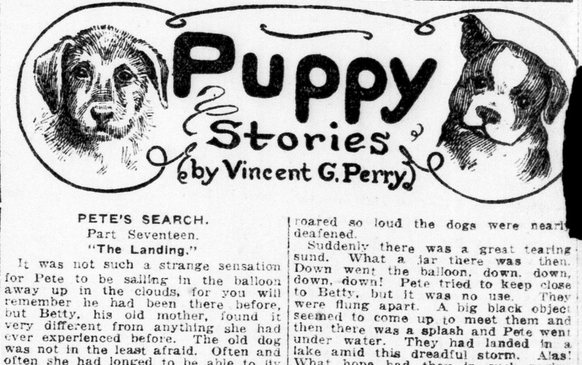

CLAUDIA.

Ans.—I hope someone can advise you about the soap, Claudia. The date you inquire about was on a Thursday.

Flowers for the Sick.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am coming to the Mail-Box with a suggestion, which I intend to put into practice myself. It is this: That those who live within reach of wild flowers (and so many of us do), gather them for the sick in the hospitals. There are so many sick ones in hospitals who seldom receive flowers, and even those who are well remembered with hothouse blooms, miss the woods flowers if they chance to be tucked away in a hospital in the spring. Think of the joy of seeing buttercups, and wild phlox, when you are lying helpless in a little white cot. Another idea I have carried out, is to take up ferns, roots and a bit of surrounding soil, and place these in cans which can be covered with plain paper. Fill the cans three-quarters full of water and keep this amount of water on the roots continually and the ferns will thrive beautifully. These would be splendid offerings for the sick rooms and hospital wards. It is just a question of a little time and trouble for those of us who are within reach of the city hospitals. Have I taken a long time to tell you all I wanted to say? No, not all I wanted to say, for I intend to write again." I like your Mail-Box, and will be proud if this letter includes me with the great number of contributing readers. GIPSY.

Ans.—This suggestion of yours, Gipsy, is a beautiful one, and I am sure we shall all be glad to join the woods-flowers committee to bring a bit of the wildwood to the sick of the hospitals. I am so glad you told us about your idea. I hope you will bring others as splendid when you come again.

PETE'S SEARCH.

Part Seventeen.

"The Landing."

It was not such a strange sensation for Pete to be sailing in the balloon away up in the clouds, for you will remember he had been there before, but Betty, his old mother, found it very different from anything she had ever experienced before. The old dog was not in the least afraid. Often and often she had longed to be able to fly like a bird so that she could go out in search of the puppy that had been driven from her, and now that she was sailing through the air and Pete with her, her joy seemed complete.

"How are we going to land?" Betty asked.

"Just like we landed when you saw us," answered Pete. "It is easy enough. But it was not so easy as Pete thought. Suddenly the balloon began to rock and sway. The balloon man pulled at ropes and did everything he could to stop it, but it was no use. They were in the midst of a terrible storm. Down poured the rain on them and the lightning flashed all about them and the thunder roared so loud the dogs were nearly deafened.

Suddenly there was a great tearing sund. What a jar there was then. Down went the balloon, down, down, down! Pete tried to keep close to Betty, but it was no use. They were flung apart. A big black object seemed to come up to meet them and then there was a splash and Pete went under water. They had landed in a lake amid this dreadful storm. Alas! What hope had they in such raging water?

Doughnuts that melt in your mouth!

The EASIFIRST way

What is the secret? Well, the cook and the recipe both count, but the big factor is really the frying fat you use. You see, EASIFIRST will stand a high temperature—you can make it 100 degrees hotter than lard and 200 degrees hotter than butter before it smokes or burns. This means that when the doughnut is dropped into the hot EASIFIRST a protecting crust is instantly formed around it—no grease soaks in to make the doughnut heavy or soggy.

A DOUGHNUT RECIPE that means Success

1 heaping teaspoonful EASIFIRST
2 eggs.
1 cup white sugar.
½ teaspoonful salt.
1 cup sweet milk.
3 level teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
3 cups flour.

Mix sugar and EASIFIRST together. Add well beaten eggs, milk and nutmeg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt twice. Mix with above ingredients. Roll out, cut with doughnut cutter and fry in hot EASIFIRST.

The EASIFIRST that's left over may be used again without carrying any flavors.

Be sure you get EASIFIRST—your dealer will supply you. In cartons and tins. Costs less and goes farther than butter or lard.

BAY CITY HAD THE HAUSER ON THE MEN OF WETZEL YESTERDAY.

Tecs Couldn't Turn Hits and Walks Into Runs; Wolves Win

Weinike Allowed But Quartet of Hits and Walked One Less Than Hauser, But Runs Weren't Just Coming.

Yesterday Wetzel's battered athletes went out to show the fans that everything else being about equal and with three safe blows to the good, that a ball game could be lost. The answer was 3 to 1 for the Wolves. Shay was added to the sick list today, and as Calbert is still off, the old line was somewhat twisted. Buzz himself was at the danger sack with Pittenger moved over to short, and the shift didn't have any effect on the game either. It was just that four distributed biffs the Wolves collected off the delivery of Weinike were opportunely opportune, while the seven which the Cockneys leaned on and their six free passes to first didn't happen at the right time. It was a tough game to lose.

Weinike got off to a poor start. He walked two, the bases were filled on Kuhn's error, and a counter came in on a fielder's choice. In the second again he got himself into a hole. With two out on some nice cross-fire pitching, he filled the sacks again. Newman, who had an awful day at the plate yesterday, was the victim this time, and he whiffed the third out. After that Weinike settled down and pitched nice ball, only walking one more man.

The Only One.

London gathered its only run in the second. Kuhn walked, and, with Crichlow gone, Briger singled to left. Big Joe went down to second, while Hauser was deciding what to do for Neitzke, in a cloud of dust and using the Australian crawl for the last six feet of the distance. Neitzke decided what to do himself by banging out a three-bagger, scoring Briger. Dowling's hot one through the pitcher's box ended the spasm.

In the fifth the Wolves snarled again. Brock singled to centre, White sacrificed, Freeman bunted, and Whaley's sacrifice brought in White. Bryne hit a hot one to Weitzel, which he went down on his knees to hold, but which rolled past, and Fisse ended the suspense by flying out to right field. They repeated in the sixth. Reik, who lost yesterday's second game, leaned on a straight one of Weinlike for a three-sacker. Matty Matteson came right through with a hot grounder out to Pittinger. The next two grounded out.

After this stage London threatened in every inning. In the seventh it wasn't dangerous, but in the eighth things looked brighter. Pitt walked, Wetzel was out on a hit and run attempt, and Kennedy walked. With the two runs needed to tie on the cushions, Kuhn and Crichlow could get nothing better than grounders, laid down and relayed right back to first.

Again in the ninth two runners were on the bases, with Briger at second and Witry at first on a free ticket, and two gone. Pittinger lifted a long one, but right at Reik—and finis.

Shag Used Four Pitchers, But His Help Mussed Everything

HAMILTON, May 25.—Hamilton's pennant chasers looked like a poor ball club today. They made nine errors and practically handed the Aces the second game of the series. The visitors grabbde a three-run lead in the first inning on three successive errors and were never in trouble after that. The Aces piled up the lead as they went along, and even the injection of four pitchers by Manager Shaughnessy failed to stop them.

Schriver pitched finely for Saginaw. For seven innings he allowed only four hits, two of them scratchy, but in the eighth he eased up. Saginaw played errorless ball. Currie, the pitcher sent here by the Toronto club, was given a chance in the ninth inning. He walked three men in a row and made three wild pitches, then was sent on his way. He was released tonight.

Beavers Break Losing Streak; Beat Aces 10--6 in Twilight

KITCHENER, May 25.—After losing eight straight games the Beavers broke the jinx this evening in the first twilight game by coming from behind and winning from Battle Creek by a score of 10 to 6. The Custers appeared to be making a runaway race of it in the early stages of the game while Ernie Sharp was on the mound for the Beavers. He was wild, passing four Custers and allowed four hits. With erratic support the visitors netted four runs when "Lefty" Rose was sent in during the fourth inning to save the situation.

Grace's wild throw to the plate allowed two more runs, but this was the Custers' finish. Rose held them hitless during the remainder of the game.

In Kitchener's half of the fourth the Custers fell to pieces, four hits, one pass and four errors enabling the Beavers to score seven runs, overcoming the lead, and they added three more on hits and errors by the Custers. Winters pitched good ball despite discouraging support.

Kauf looks as if he were reaching here. The scrappy little Giant and grasshopper of the Fed. days is said to be slowing down. At any rate, they have been sending in utility men against left handers for the erstwhile star—and awhile yet.

Manufacturers' Meet On July 10th Is a Certainty

Free Press Road Race To Be Held in Conjunction As Formerly—New Enthusiasm Seems Apparent in Reorganization.

The second meeting of the Manufacturers' Amateur Athletic Association was held last night in the Y. M. C. A. It was decided to change the meet to July 10 this year, and an announcement was made to the effect that the Free Press road race would be run in conjunction with the sports, as in former years.

Jimmy Dellow, who won the last road race, was second on Monday at the Martin road race, showing that the St. Marys runner which this competition helped develop is still going strong.

A great enthusiasm is apparent among the industrial men in the reorganization of the association and a new realization of the value of sport in industrial life would seem to have come about. At any rate, the industries concerned in the new body have each big plans for the promotion of sports of all kinds among their employees, and especially along the lines of track sports.

The officers were elected at last night's meeting. These are:

Past President—J. F. White.
President—H. B. Ashplant.
First Vice-President—T. M. Eyman.
Second Vice-President—F. Waud.
Secretary—David Allan.
Treasurer—F. H. Westbury.
Printing and Advertising—G. Clarke.
Grounds Equipment—F. J. Delaney.
Sports—David Allan.

A meeting will be held on Tuesday night at 9 o'clock for the purpose of completing the program of sports.

All the committees will be in charge of the drawing up of the program.

Smiling Ralph Mulford "Topsy" of Speedway Back This Year

Has Finished Five Out of Seven Times, and Is Real Veteran of Big Sweepstakes at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 25.—"Smiling Ralph" Mulford, one of the select few drivers who has faced the starter in every 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway has entered a Mulford Special in the Eighth International Sweepstakes to be held at the speedway, Monday, May 31.

And incidentally, Ralph has finished five times out of his seven starts.

Mulford is the "Topsy" of the racing game. He just naturally knew what was wrong with a gasoline engine when it did not behave and to his ability as a boy to tinker marine engines into running order, he owes his prowess as a racing driver. Lozier built boats before cars, and when Mulford nursed a particularly balky engine into good health, in his home town, the factory hired him.

The first race in which he got a chance, he won, although he was forced to share with Harry Michner, for whom he was driving relief. This was back in 1907 in a 24-hour race on the Points Breeze track in Philadelphia. "Twice-around-the-clock" events became his favorites and he still holds the non-stock and stock records made at Brighton Beach nine and ten years ago, respectively. For many years he was star of the Lozier team, winning the first Elgin roadrace in 1910, when it was still a stock car contest.

"Smiling Ralph" is a real veteran of the Indianapolis track. In the first race in 1911 he was second in a Lozier, the year following he was tenth in a Knox, in 1912 he drove a Mercedes to seventh place, while the next race found him in eleventh place with the same make car. The 1915 race was the first he did not finish. He was driving a Duesenberg, but was forced out. His best position was third in a Peugeot in 1916. Last year, driving a Frontenac, he dropped out in the 37th lap with a broken drive-shaft.

Mack's Hurlers in 1919 Played Havoc With Tris Speaker's Batting

Nap Leader Couldn't Hit At Shibe Park — Only Averaged .108 in Nine Games—Better This Year So Far.

(By Ernest J. Lanigan.)

What made Tris Speaker forfeit his membership in the Society of the Three Hundred last season was his poor work with the stick at Shibe Park. There, in 1919, Speke, playing in nine games, got only four blows in 37 trips to the plate—a resultant average of .108. Seven of the eleven pitchers Mack then used against the Texan kept him from hitting safely. Tris hit .500 against Roberts, .200 against Perry and Kinney, .167 against Johnson, and nothing at all against Seibold, Rogers, Hasty, Naylor, Boone and Pierson.

In the three games played by the tribe in Philadelphia last week, their boss got three more hits than he did all last season there, his 1920 batting average in Mackville being .500.

FRENCH WEIGHT-THROWER BREAKS OWN RECORD

Strasbourg, Alsace-Lorraine, May 26.—No records were broken at the Olympic games elimination trials just concluded here. Seven hundred and fifty-three young men and women participated. From these 200 have been chosen, and will compete at the Joinville school, near Paris, next June for the honor of representing Paris at the Antwerp Olympic games.

Paoli, champion weight-thrower of France, broke his own record with a throw of 14 metres, 50 decimetres, only to have the judges decide after the games were over that the record should not stand, as the weight was 300 grammes short of the regulation 16 pounds. Guillemot, the French-British-Belgian cross-country champion, in whom France is pinning her fondest hopes for the Antwerp games, literally walked away with the 1,500-metre race, winning in 4 minutes 12 seconds, with 50 metres between him and the second man. Kahn won the 100-metre event, and Nandrin broke the tape first in the 300 metres, his time being 38 1-5 seconds.

A lacrosse practice will be held at Tecumseh Park tonight. All interested in lacrosse are welcomed.

Neis, Ex-Saskatoon Player, Is One of Best Finds in Majors

Quakers Sure Grabbed One S weet Ball Tosser in This Boy —Is an All-Round Athlete and Only 23 Years Old at Present Time.

BROOKLYN, N. Y. May 25.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The Saskatoon club of the Western Canada League furnished the Brooklyn fans with a first-class ball player when it parted with Outfielder Bernard Edmund Neis last fall, if the general consensus of sporting opinion is of any account. His performances so far this season have confirmed the excellent reports received last year by Manager Wilbert Robinson from Western Canada to the effect that Neis was a goood all-round man, and worthy of higher "diamond" society.

When Neis reported to the Dodgers' training camp this spring, Manager Robinson was much impressed by the hitting of this young Western Canadian leaguer. His first step towards enhancing Bernard's playing value was to teach him to bat left-handed. Last summer he used to hit the sphere from the right side of the plate. His proficiency of a left-hand hitter was established—at least, the fans thought so—when, on April 18, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, against the delivery of "Bald Dick" Rudolph of the Boston Braves, Neis knocked the ball out of the grounds and made a circuitous tour of the sacks.

Neis is at present 23 years of age, and will celebrate his 24th birthday anniversary on September 26 next. He is 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighs 160 pounds. Born in Blooomington, Ill., he started his professional career in 1919 with the Peoria, Ill., club, which was then in the Three-Eye League. Neis was not in good health then, and his career with the Distillers was brief. He played twelve games before the Three-Eye season prematurely closed on July 8, his batting average being .133.

Peoria then went into the Central League, but Neis did not go along. He went back to his home in Chicago, worked in a munitions factory there, and later began playing ball again with the Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Canada League.

The playing record of Neis while with the Quakers prompted a big league scout to transmit eulogistic reports to Manager Robinson, which were favorably considered, and the deal was completed. Neis played in 101 games with Saskatoon, hit .297, stole 56 bases, and played third base in about one-third of these games.

Brooklyn fans are anxious to see Neis display his sprinting prowess. When he was in grammar school he held the records for the 50 and 100 yard dashes, said records being 5 4-5 and 10 1-5 seconds. He also captained the championship baseball and basketball teams.

After Neis left school he played on a state championship-winning basketball team for three years, and also ran for Bessemer Park, in Chicago. On this track team he won many medals and cups. Then he ran at picnics for cash prizes, winning what was for him a lot of money.

Last winter Neis started to compete for the Illinois Athletic Club, but after participating in one meet it was discovered that he was a professional. He won the 50-yard dash in 5 2-5 seconds in that meet.

In Western Canada last summer the Saskatoon club held three field days. According to reports he won the 100-yard dash in baseball togs in 10 seconds flat on all three occasions, went to first base in 3 1-5 seconds, and went around the bases in 14 seconds.

If his present hitting and fielding form continues, it is expected Neis will figure in the Brooklyn lineup for the remainder of the season.

WILDE AND WALLACE OFFERED $45,000 FOR 20-ROUND GO

Toronto Fans Wild To See the Pair Together Again—Wilde Has Passage Engaged.

Toronto, May 26.—An effort will be made to match Jimmy Wilde and Patsy Wallace again. For a twenty-round bout, Wilde has been offered $20,000 and Wallace $15,000, and it is thought these extra inducements will bring these great little men together again. If it is only ten rounds, similar terms to those offered the last bout will stand.

The flag incident due to Referee Lou Marsh handing the small British flag to Wallace by mistake, and the American fighter's refusal to give it up caused a lot of the crowd to think that Wallace had been awarded the decision, and they became hostile. However, things smoothed themselves out.

Wilde's victory was well received. His plucky spirit in the face of defeat in the final rounds of the bout caused him to be applauded enthusiastically. Wallace, did not begin his severe pugilistic tactics until the seventh round. It was in this spasm that Wallace uncorked a world of speed and had Wilde dizzy with his successive punches. One of his heavy blows had the effect of making Wilde's nose and mouth bleed. Wallace realized that he had struck the vital spot, and concentrated his punches on the weak member with the consequence that Wilde was bleeding profusely at the conclusion of the round. Just as the bell rang for time, Wilde was taking considerable punishment.

In the eighth round the champion resorted to covering methods and thus Wallace found a chance to do further leading. Wilde showed apparent signs of weakness during the round and tried hard to land on Wallace with little success. Despite the handicap of a bleeding nose and mouth, Wilde recovered himself in the ninth round for the first half and looked as if he might prove sterner opposition than was anticipated. Wallace, however, touched Wilde on the injured member, and the "human atom" began to bleed afresh. There was little to choose in this round. In the final round, Wallace tried hard to land a decisive blow at Wilde, but his methods took the form of telegraphic delivery, and the world's champion, ever alert to the final result of these blows, if landed, promptly ducked on these occasions. Wallace succeeded in landing several face blows on Wilde, but their force was weakened by Wilde's head movement.

AMHERSTBURG WINS FROM BELLE RIVER IN 1ST GAME

Amherstburg, May 25.—The Amherstburg team defeated the Belle River team here yesterday in the opening game of the Essex County League ball by the score of 17 to 1. John Mullen pitched the first ball, and S. R. Hazard, son of the president of the Solwat Process Company of Syracuse received the ball at the plate. Amherstburg is out to win the pennant again this year, and by the looks of them they certainly will. About 4,000 people were at the park.

Lacrosse Squad To Get Out Tonight In Hard Workout

Group With Sarnia Is Handy Arrangement — Junior Squad On Increase.

The lacrosse club will be out to practice tonight. Coach Donahue expects a large turnout, and now that the holiday mix is over, and London has a definite place in the O. A. L. A. with Sarnia, the players in the city have something to work for.

Ingersoll apparently found that they could not go with the game this year. The three team group would have made things better, but as it is, it gives two new clubs an inexpensive district, and a schedule that will permit them to get lots of games and on good dates.

Sarnia has a lot of material, according to reports, and should be able to make the district interesting.

Some more junior material is in sight for London, and it is possible that a junior entry may be made in the O. A. L. A.

Woodworths Protest Action of Referee in Sending Them Off Field Here On May 24

WOODSTOCK, May 25.—The Woodworth Rover Soccer Football Club of St. Thomas has notified Secretary Johnson of the Western Football Association that it has protested the game played with London, in the Forest City on May 24. The protest is based on a decision of the referee in the last minute of play, when he allowed London a penalty kick without cause, the St. Thomas club claims.

BOUT IS STOPPED.

St. Louis, May 26.—The scheduled eight-round no-decision bout between Jack Lawlor of Omaha, and Benny Valger of New York, here last night, was stopped in the last round by the referee, who declared Valger refused to fight and held continuously. Lawlor carried the fight to Valger throughout, according to newspaper writers. The men fought at 128 pounds.

VICTIM OF BURGLARY THREATENS ACTION AGAINST THE POLICE

Sarnia Store Entered and Goods and Cash Stolen.

SARNIA, May 25.—Claiming that his store was entered and that persons who saw men removing goods from his premises were unable to get in touch with him or the police via the telephone despite many "S.O.S." calls, A. Heller of the firm of Heller & Heller, stated tonight that in all probability he would take action against the local authorities. He alleges that the authorities were not attending to their duties while his store was robbed of considerable merchandise and a sum of money left in the safe, which he says, was unlocked at the time of the robbery.

No statement was issued by the authorities beyond the fact that the police were conducting an investigation.

WINDSOR FACED BY WALK-OUT OF POSTIES AND POSTAL CLERKS

Long Delay in Receipt of Back Pay Cause of Trouble.

WINDSOR, May 25.—Windsor is faced with a general walkout of postal clerks and postmen within the next 48 hours, as the result of delay on the part of the Dominion Government in forwarding back pay, which represents the difference between wages prevailing under the old and new classification systems.

Already seriously handicapped through lack of a sufficient number of employees to accomplish the local work, Postmaster Wigle has added girls to his staff, being unable to secure men. The lead in leaving was taken today when two members of the outside staff turned in their resignations, and Postmaster Wigle fears others will follow, whether a general strike is declared or not. In case the men decide on a walkout, the clerks will stand shoulder to shoulder with the postles, members of the latter's union claimed tonight. The outcome of the local situation will, however, depend largely upon word expected from Toronto within the next two days.

Three other applications for the post were considered by the city council. They were filed by W. H. Chamberlain, Wheatley; W. A. Wykesmith, postoffice staff; David Mullen, recommended by Major Rev. J. C. Tolmie, M. L. A. Col. W. J. Douglass, secretary of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, and formerly of Orillia, who had applied for the position, withdrew his application. Miss Dickenson will be Canada's first woman to hold this office.

VOTE FOR BUDGET IS A VOTE TO RAISE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Former Unionist Member From Red Deer Declares Govt. Taxes Will Decrease Business, Striking At Worker in Factory and Veteran of War, Leaving Wealthy Untouched—Clarke in Anger Quits House.

OTTAWA, May 25.—From the slough of the back benches the budget debate swung today to a battle, keen and aggressive, of the first order. On the one hand was Dr. Clark of Red Deer, elected as Unionist, now one of the chief spokesmen of the National Progressives, long the protagonist of free trade; on the other hand stood Hon. Arthur Meighen, minister of the interior, militant to the last degree, meeting Dr. Clark on his favorite economic ground, keenly arguing in favor of protection. The two occupied the greater portion of the sitting—Mr. Meighen alone spoke altogether nearly three hours; but from beginning to end they closely held the attention of a crowded house and galleries.

Dr. Clark championed the free trade of Cobden and Bright. Mr. Meighen declared that free trade had depopulated rural England, scattered the manhood of Great Britain through the fields and workshops of the United States, repressed the national industry of Ireland and had taken away the supreme hold which Britain held for centuries in the industrial life of the world.

Meighen Makes Attack.

Mr. Meighen later strongly attacked the tariff platforms, both of the Liberals and the National Progressives. Why had the Farmers' platform not been placed in such a position that it would have to vote yea or nay? Has it not a game of political poker? The free trade vote was sought in one part of the country; the protectionist vote in another. Thus, the way was being paved for a great betrayal should the time ever come.

As he proceeded Mr. Meighen made statement after statement in the interrogative, and his questions led to a curious incident. Was it not better Mr. Meighen had asked, to support a Government which did things rather than a party which merely professed to do them?

"I'll answer that question," interjected Dr. Clark, rising from his seat. The Speaker broke in. "The honorable member from Red Deer has already spoken," he observed.

"Well, then," replied Dr. Clark, "let me suggest to the minister that he should not put his speech in the form of questions."

"The minister is at liberty to ask any questions he sees fit," the Speaker rejoined.

Clark Walks Out.

On this, Dr. Clark rose from his seat, walked slowly to the bar, turned, bowed low to the Speaker, then left the House. He did not return while Mr. Meighen was speaking.

In his previous speech Dr. Clark was equally critical of both the budget and the Fielding amendment. The luxury taxes were a bad imitation of taxes which died two centuries ago in the old country. They were not excise, but an internal tariff, a new species in the zoological garden. Like an external tariff, they would operate to decrease business. The most damning thing about the new taxes was that they struck at the man who had served overseas, at the worker in the factory; but they left the millionaire and the war profiteer practically untouched. A vote for the budget was a vote in favor of increasing the cost of living. As for the Fielding amendment, it was a "temporizing, shilly-shallying opportunist piece of print," containing too little milk and too much water.

During the evening Joseph Demers (St. Johns-Iberville), E. K. Spinney (Yarmouth), F. A. Pard (L'Islet), and Dr. Fontaine (Hull) also contributed to the debate. The House adjourned at 11 p.m.

Clark Wants Reduction.

Referring to the Fielding (Liberal) tariff amendment, Dr. Clark, in his speech, noted that it called for a downward revision of the tariff. In one place, it called for a considerable reduction of the tariff. At least it had that virtue. He did not quite sympathize with the preamble of the amendment. It was true that last year, Sir Thomas White promised a revision of the tariff following an inquiry. But Sir Thomas White was no longer a member of the Government, and everyone admitted that with the fall session there were insuperable obstacles in the way of a thorough tariff inquiry and revision. The amendment called for a revision from a Government which, in its budget speech, was promising that very thing. The situation was most peculiar from the parliamentary point of view.

To Do Opposite Things.

Sir Thomas White had said that he favored a tariff for revenue, said the speaerk. Apparently he expected the tariff to do two things, which were in absolute opposition to each other. If the purpose of the tariff was to build up our industries, its object must be to keep goods out of the country. On the other hand, if its purpose was to produce revenue, it must bring goods in. Authorities agreed that if Canada was to pay her external liabilities, she must increase her commerce. It had been stated that in the years immediately before us, we should export $200,000,000 worth of goods every year. Of necessity, Canada must depend largely upon her agricultural products for this export. Dr. Clark quoted figures of Canadian trade to illustrate the large factor which agricultural products had in it. During the year 1916 the total exports of Canada were $741,000,000, and of this $352,000,000 were farm products. He gave round numbers only. Other years were similar.

In other words, much more than half the exports were agricultural, and these figures came from a period of inflated prices. There would be a decrease in prices in the future, and they will still have $2000,000,000 interest to pay. Surely there should be nothing done to hinder agricultural interests in the way of taxing implements and placing obstacles in the way of foreign trade through a tariff wall, and a high tariff wall at that.

It would mean the ships ultimately would sail to the Argentine, where the tariff was only a nominal one. As to the argument about protection in England, that country could produce all the food she required for herself, but she preferred to have Canadian wheat and spend a part of her energy on producing manufactured goods, which she sent to Canada. That was the only way to expand trade.

Cessation of Borrowing.

The removal of the 7½ per cent customs war duty was all right as far as it went. Cessation of borrowing was absolutely necessary for the good of the state. Economy, which the finance minister promised to practice, was all important. They were not yet in the position where they could contemplate a sinking fund for the extinction of their debt. To spend less was a far more salutary idea than the raising of more income. They needed a determined effort to bring the daily expenditure within the limit of the daily revenue. There was plenty of room for the Government to make large strides in this direction of public economy.

Dr. Clark referred to the charges made by J. H. Sinclair (Antigonish and Guysboro) in the House a few days ago, in which it was stated that accounts totalling $119,000,000 were unaccounted for, and a number of individuals were paid from $100 to $220 in cash without any voucher being given. A further statement was that since the armistice was signed civil servants had been hired at the rate of fifty per day. It needed some execution and reminded him of the old saying that the nearer autocracy gets to its doom, the more autocratic it becomes.

Shipping subsidies were next criticized by Dr. Clark, who quoted an article in support of subsidies, but which said that while wages were only half as high in Great Britain as in Canada, yet Great Britain produced 15 per cent more tonnage, "and in face of this, we have an element in this country which is in favor of embarking upon a large shipbuilding program."

"I am dumbfounded," said Dr. Clark. The new taxes should be rechristened. They were called excise duties, but they were not excise duties at all. And, if they were defensible, they should have been imposed at the beginning of the war, six years ago.

Dr. Clark compared the returned soldier buying a $50 suit of clothes, paying a $5 tax, with the millionaire buying a $150 suit and paying $15 tax. "There is," he said, "neither equality nor decency in a tax of that kind."

What was the new tax? What was its fiscal operation? It was a new species in the zoological garden.

It was an internal tariff, and would have on commerce the same effect as an external tariff. It meant practically an enormous increase in the tariff, which the Government in the same breath, was promising a revision downwards.

Should Be Changed.

Dr. Clark thought, too, that some of the individual taxes should be changed. If taxed, candy should be subject to 30 per cent, instead of 10 per cent. Dr. Clark said that the new luxury tax would operate, and was operating to decrease business. People all over Ottawa were cancelling orders as a result of the tax. Eventually, owing to this decreased business, stores would begin to discharge employees. The next step would be the discharge of factory workers and finally stagnation. A feature of the new luxury tax was that farmers were practically exempt under it. The farmer could wear cheap clothes, grow his own food and live free from operation of the tax. It was one of the faults of this present Government that it had not taxed the farmers enough during the war. The damning argument against the new tax was that it struck at the men who fought overseas, the workers in the factories, and it left the millionaires and war profiteers practically untouched.

A Sorry Increase.

Turning to the income tax, Dr. Clark referred to the new proposal as "a sorry increase." Canada had gone through the war years of 1914-15-16 without an income tax, and it was only in 1917, just previous to an election, that the Government had seen fit to impose one. It was said that we must not increase the income tax, because we must keep step with the United States. The United States had free boots and shoes and agricultural implements. If we imitated them in the income tax, why not in their tariff? During last March duty amounting to $24,000,000, or $3 a head for every Canadian, had been collected in Canada. During the previous months (March figures were not available) the duty per head collected in the United States was 24 cents.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS ONLY

Dewart Secures Amendment Until Tried Out For One Year.

ASSESSMENT ACT UP

Legal Committee Would Put Onus of Street Railway Trouble On Council.

TORONTO, May 25.—As a result of argument by H. H. Dewart, Liberal leader, that the minimum wage act should not include a clause relating to domestic servants or farm laborers, but should be limited to industrial workers for a year, until the Government sees how it works out, the act passed the committee stage in the Legislature this afternoon without this clause. The only other change made in the bill was the date upon which it is to become effective, which was shifted from July 1 to October 1, 1920.

With reference to the penality of a fine, ranging from $50 to $300, for the employer who refused to abide by the decisions of th wage board, or who controverts it in any way, Mr. Dewart contended there should also be a penality imposed upon the worker who refused to work after the minimum wage board has fixed a schedule. He believed that the workers, having applied to the board for a hearing of their case, should be obliged to abide by the wage fixed or pay a fine.

May Dismiss Workers.

Mr. Drury pointed out that if the employer does not like the scale of wages fixed he has the alternative of dismissing the workers. Accordingly, the workers should have the option of quitting work if they are not satisfied, he added.

The House recognized the increased cost of production by indorsing a resolution moved by Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, to the effect that the Methodist Book Room should be allowed an additional 35 per cent on their price for printing.

Premier Drury's bill amending the assessment act was considered by the House in committee of the whole this evening, but was not finally passed by the committee. The premier announced that he might add a clause to his bill to the effect that the bylaws allowing municipalities to wipe out gradually the tax on improvements could not be submitted except through orders-in-council by the Government.

Being Done Illegally.

In reply to a criticism from Mr. Dewart that the demand for the proposed amendment had not come from a sufficiently large part of the communit to justify the measure, and a statement from the Liberal leader that Ottawa had voted the measure down, Premier Drury said that neither Toronto or Ottawa constituted the whole province. He declared that the act was simply making legal what was being done illegally at the present time.

W. E. H. Sinclair's bill to amend the Ontario companies act, so that a $25,000 stockholder in a telephone company at Dunnville may have a vote with his stock was sent back to the legal committee of the House, as strong opposition to it developed. Thomas Marshall, member for Lincoln, had been mentioned in circular leters to members of the Legislature in opposition to the bill as the person to be benefited by the bill, but Mr. Marshall declared himself unaffected by the measure.

Mothers' Pension Act.

The third and final reading was given to the mothers' pension act. The act is to be administered by a commission of five members, two of whom will be women.

The bill introduced by Charles McCrea of Sudbury to give the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board authority to sanction an increase in street railway fares where it was considered that the fares were insufficient was considerably altered by the legal committee of the House tonight and will come before the Legislature tomorrow in its changed form. The bill now practically throws the entire responsibility on the city if a street railway strike occurs.

That is, the railway board need take no action unless asked by the city council to look into the question of the increased wages being paid by the company out of the operating revenue. If the board finds the revenue insufficient the council may sanction the increased rate of fares or take the alternative of a tie-up.

DYSPEPTICS QUIT STOMACH DRUGGING

A physician says that in most cases of stomach trouble there is really no disease of the stomach at all, but just too much acid. Excessive acid prevents natural digestion, causes sour stomach, fermentation of food, and this upsets the liver and intestines and causes nervousness, weakness, sleeplessness, and "blues."

Quit stomach drugs and artificial digestents. Simply take a teaspoonful or four tablets of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia in a glass of hot water after meals to neutralize the excessive acidity and you will be all right.

It works fine. You can eat what you want and sleep all night—no more walking the floor at three and four o'clock in the morning and suffering from extreme weakness and nervousness all the next day. Bisurated Magnesia is for sale by all druggists in powder or tablet form. Try this plan for three weeks.—Advt.

Indian Commissioners Stigmatize Amritsar Shooting as Inhuman

British Members of Commission Issue Separate Report, But Make General Dyer "the Goat" For Firing On Civilians, Says London Summary.

LONDON, May 25.—The findings of the commission appointed by the British Government to find the causes of the unrest in India with the attendant disorders were made public today. The incidents investigated included the Amritsar affair, in April, 1919, in which a slaughter occurred, when a crowd of natives in the Jallianwala Bagh inclosure at Amritsar was fired upon by troops controlled by General Dyer, then in command in India.

The commission, under the chairmanship of Lord Hunter, submitted two reports, a majority report by the five English members and a minority report by the three Indian members. An official summary of the two reports given out by the British Government said in part:

"With the exception of the Jallianwala Bagh and certain minor incidents, both the Indian and English members generally agree in justifying the firing by the police and the military. They agree in pronouncing unfavorably upon General Dyer's handling of the Jallianwala Bagh meeting, and upon certain of the orders passed in the course of the administration of martial law. They further agree in exonerating the Government of India from all blame.

Developed After Firing.

"Regarding Amritsar, the English members hold that the outbreak was anti-Government at every stage, hostility to Governmetn quickly merging into antipathy for Europeans as such and culminating upon April 10 in the brutal murder of five inoffensive persons and savage assaults on others. The Indian members think that the anti-European sentiment developed subsequent to the firing on April 10, but do not dissent from the view that the firing was necessary.

"The English members approve the action of the authorities prior to April 13, considering it impossible that de facto martial law could fail to result from the happening of April 10. But while admitting the difficulties of the situation, they consider that General Dyer's conduct at the Jallianwale Bagh is open to criticism in two respects; first, in that he fired without warning, and, second, in that he continued firing too long. They do not believe that the mob would have dispersed if warned, and considered that firing would have been necessary in any case. They consider that General Dyer, through a belief that continued firing would be justified by the effect produced in other places, committed a grave error in firing too long. They find no grounds for believing that this action saved the situation and averted a second mutiny. But they do not think that General Dyer can be blamed for not attending to the wounded, as they are not convinced anyone was exposed to unnecessary suffering for want of medical attention.

Conduct Was Inhuman.

"This opinion is not shared by the Indian members, who, while agreeing in condemnation of General Dyer's action, take a graver view of the whole incident, stigmatizing his conduct as inhuman and un-British."

The official summary points out that the English and the Indian members differ as to the precise nature of the disorders and as to the justification for the policy pursued by the Punjab Government. The English members emphatically state that "open rebellion" was the only suitable description of the disturbances, while the Indian members declare that such a term implies a rising for the purpose of turning out the British Government, which was not the intention of the rioters. The English members assert that "the declaration of martial law was justified," while the Indian members censure the Punjab Government, says the official summary, "for persuading itself rather easily that martial law was necessary." They declare martial law was proclaimed when the situation offered no justification for it.

Moves Were Reasonable.

"Both Indian and English members," continues the official summary, "are in complete agreement respecting events in Delhi and Bombay, holding that the measures taken by the authorities were reasonable."

The official summary notes that the English members regret that the administration of martial law should have assumed such an intensive form and they condemn certain of the orders issued as injudicious. They object, for instance, to General Dyer's orders that anyone desiring to traverse the street where Miss Sherwood, a British woman, was brutally assaulted, should crawl. The orders passed in Lahore against students are condemned as unnecessarily severe.

"On all these matters," adds the official summary, "the Indian members take a more serious view considering these orders, and some others unjustifiable, calculated to humiliate Indians, to punish alike innocent and guilty and to foment racial bitterness."

Undermining Instincts.

The summary states that both reports agree as to the outstanding causes and principal events leading up to the disturbances, expressing the belief that the Satyagraha—or civil disobedience—movement of the Indian leader Gandhi was responsible for undermining the law-abiding instincts of the population at a time of economic distress, war-weariness, anxiety as to the political future of India, apprehension as to the Turkish peace terms and agitation against the policy of the Government in pressing and passing the Rowlatt act.

The Indian members also refer to the belief that the administration in the Punjab was unsympathetic in its attitude towards the awakening aspirations of India.

BILIOUSNESS
How To Prevent and Cure

Among the earliest symptoms are furred tongue and dull headache.

Then come dizzy spells, bad taste, quick pulse, fever and cold sweats.

Finally, sleeplessness and vomiting make the condition of the sufferer almost intolerable.

The root of biliousness is with the liver which is clogged and can't keep bile from getting into the blood.

Nothing works with the certainty of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they act directly on the liver, restore the bile to its proper course and prevent it from contaminating the vital fluid.

Of course, the bowels are ordered and relaxed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the kidneys receive new tonic, the blood is renovated, and the result is a renewal of good health.

No need for delay, the sooner you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the sooner you'll feel the brisk, keen satisfaction of a healthy, well-regulated system. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c.

WOOD SAYS U-BOAT STORY IS CANARD

Calls Yarn of Attack On New York by Germans False.

CHICAGOO, May 25.—Captain Franz von Papen, military attache at Washington, prior to American entry into the war, was recently being "joshed" for telling Major General Leonard Wood then commander of the eastern department of the army at New York, of an alleged plot to attack New York from U-boats.

"A canard," was General Wood's cryptic characterization today of von Papen's story, as told in Associated Press dispatches from Berlin last night, that he had been called to Governor's Island to be told about the "discovery" of his plot.

"I never called any attache to Governor's Island and had no authority to do so," General Wood told the Associated Press today. "All the attaches when in New York were extremely punctilious about calling to pay their respects. On such occasions we never talked war. I don't remember the incident von Papen refers to, though it is possible that he may have been "joshed" about the numerous spy plot stories that were circulating at that time."

HOUSE TO HOUSE CANVASS

Galt Citizens Determine To Reach Objective For Salvation Army.

GALT, May 25.—In order to raise the balance of $700 required to make the objective of $4,000 for the Salvation Army jubilee self-denial fund, a house-to-house canvass of the city was started this afternoon.

The Galt housewives received another surprise today, when the bakeman on his daily call announced that the price of the staff of life had gone up one cent a small loaf over the week-end to 14 cents. The advance being attributed to the recent increase in the price of flour.

Rev. George R. Welsh of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, Vancouver, has been extended a call by the First Baptist Church of this city to become its pastor.

AMERICANS WOULD TRANSFER ENTENTE DEBTS TO GERMANY

Would Facilitate Allied Budget Plans and Clear Up Bad Situation.

PARIS, May 26.—In connection with the discussion of the realization of immediate credits from Germany's war debts to the Allies, and France in particular, American bankers in Paris make this suggestion: "It would be worth considering the transfer of the allies' obligations to the United States to Germany, thus relieving England, France and Italy of their $10,000,000,000 debt. From the allied viewpoint, this would settle the question hanging over their budget arrangements. From the American viewpoint it would clear up the present very embarrassing situation in which any pressure for collection of European debts to the United States would be ill-received in Europe. Indeed, it has been suggested by many, including Keynes, that America give Allied Europe receipted bills for the whole amount. If we transferred the loan to Germany and, for a certain period, say, ten years, waived interest or made it nominal, charging full interest thereafter, it would greatly ease their situation and enable Germany to fulfill her obligations to Belgium and France, and look forward to re-establishing her trade and working out of the difficulties which might seem otherwise insurmountable. With such arrangements, Germany would no longer be able to plead that the payment of indemnities would so enslave her and destroy her hope of recovery that her population cannot be rallied to resumption of national commercial effort. American sentiment might favor a big undertaking like this especially with the promise of settling at a stroke the present disturbed conditions and putting Europe back to work in good earnest."

Many politicians look upon Nitti's retirement as temporary, and believe that no other Italian statesman is capable of leading Italy to an industrial recovery. It was surprising that he kept his government afloat for nearly a year with such slender parliamentary backing. Nitti is the nearest combination, in Europe, of economic ability in association with political skill and cunning. Besides, he has an extraordinary good temper in all circumstances and deep confidence in Italy's potential ability to work out of her troubles by industrial processes. It is not believed here that any other Italian politician can carry on for any considerable time and that Nitti's recall is only a matter of a few weeks or months. If the Flume folly could be got rid of and Nitti could appeal to the country on that clear issue of industrial development, it is not improbable that he could come back with a true majority in the chamber of deputies, which would enable him to carry out his convictions with a boldness impossible in the circumstances in which he has held the premiership.

According to the American opinion here, it is hardly imaginable that the president means to support a mandate for Armenia only, as reported by the European press. While General Harboard's report carefully refrained from direct recommendations, close reading of it shows that the only mandate seriously entertained by him and his associates was one spanning over all the Turkish speaking people from Constantinople to the Transcaucasian republics. In Constantinople alone, one hundred and thirty thousand Armenians and diffusion of races would, according to these opinions, make a separate Armenian mandate unworkable. It is believed that if Constantinople could have been included, and General Harboard's idea adopted in its entirety, with the backing of American opinion, monumental work could have been done by Americans in Asia Minor.

PLUGGED QUARTER WINS GAMBLER A SMALL FORTUNE

Comes Back Again and Loses When Dice Go Against Him.

Chicago, May 25.—"Shorty" Lester, whose sinuous wrist technique is admired and respected by those dice-men of the town who are wise in the Iscariot ways of the agitated dominoes, has had his crowded hour.

He has done what is the ambition and prayer of all those who read them and weep. He took a plugged and questionable quarter—a symbol spurned and spat upon in the average game—and multiplied it by the hectic temperature of the ivories and the flamboyant twist of his wrist into 15 grand; that is to say, 150 yards, or $15,000.

Gunga Din Profits.

He gave large largess to his faithful Gunga Din—"Cocky" Doris, his eager waterboy, who fetched him glass after glass as the crazed "Shorty" made pass after pass.

"Shorty's" occupation is that of box man of a profitable and popupar dice game. The box man of a crap game is the dignitary whose duty it is to rake in the nickels for the house, which is the only sure profit there is in the game.

Even boxmen have their days off. On one of "Shorty's" days off recently he visited the game and noticed that the ivories were extremely warm.

Near "Dope" Helped Him.

He felt in his pocket. He had obtained a prescription at a certain drug store and all he had left was a quarter. It was damaged goods, but when put down carefully it could get by.

Someone said "two to one" on a four pass that had been thrown, and "Shorty" took the bet and won.

By degrees he ran that bad quarter into a good $25.

Then he rolled up his sleeves and started the "shoot" that made him famous, and will live in local crap history.

"Shoots the Works."

He shot his $25 all in a lump. He had taken the prescription purchased at the certain drug store, and the caution of years was dulled by the strength of his medicine.

He won. He shot the $50. He won. He shot the $100. They began to plead with him to "pull in."

"Shorty" knew no caution.

"Water!" he gasped to Gunga Din Doris. Doris came back with a glass, the contents of which "Shorty" swallowed in a gulp.

He shot the $200. He won. He shot the $400. He won. One spectator fainted with the excitement. Doris was bringing water now in a pitcher. "Shorty" trembled so much his wrist motion looked like the ague.

Heart Skips Some Beats.

He shot the $800. He won, and his heart missed a dozen beats.

He could no longer speak. He weakly made a motion which signified he wanted to "shoot the works." He was faded and won. By this time he had the habit.

The dice were so warm they perspired. All thoughts of restraint were gone. "Shorty" saw himself as the Monte Cristo of dicemen. He visualized a Rolls-Royce, residence at the Blackstone, and many other things.

How it happened nobody can tell coherently. But ten minutes later "Shorty," his stomach bloated with water, walked out of the place with $15,000. He took a handful of money—several hundred dollars and tossed it to Gunga Din.

He journeyed to a certain drug store and filled several prescriptions.

When he came to, 48 hours later, he went back to the game. The dice had gone down in temperature. They were below zero.

Five hours later "Shorty" walked out again. In his pocket he had a quarter.

GRAIN.

Chicago, May 26.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 66¼; September, $1 55.

Oats—July, 90c; September, 75⅜c.

Chicago, May 26.—Although prices for May delivery of corn showed a downward trend today, strength continued to develop in the more active options, July and September. Weakness of May was due to a trade ruling that because of the breakdown of railroad transportation no penalty would be exacted from defaulters on May contracts here. Persistent meagreness of receipts formed the chief bullish factor as to the market otherwise. Initial quotations, which ranged from ⅛c decline to 1⅛c advance, with July at $1 65@1 66¼, and September at $1 54¼@1 55, were followed by a moderate setback for May and a decided gain for later months.

Commission house buying made oats firm. After opening unchanged to ⅜c to ½c lower, the market scored a general upturn.

WALL STREET.

New York, May 26—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Trading was active, with a stronger tone, at the opening of today's stock market, many of the leading issues adding materially to yesterday's gains. Oils, motors, steels, shippings and textiles rose 1 to 3 points. The prominent features were Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum, Studebaker, Chandler, Crucible, United Fruit, American International, Consolidated Textile and National Paper. Among rails, coalers were especiallly strong. Reading gained a large fraction, and Baltimore and Ohio 1⅝. Dealers in foreign exchange reported further extensive buying of remittances to Central Europe.

Noon.—Dealings during the morning were the most diversified of any similar period in several weeks. United States Steel resumed its former leadership in point of activity, but made only a nominal advance. Independent steels, notably Vanadium, Lackawanna, Bethlehem and Republic, rose 1 to 2½ points. American Locomotive kept pace with related equipments, gaining 2¾, and the motor specialties were featured by Stromberg, which rose almost 5 points. Secondary oils were irregular, Sinclair strengthening, while Middle States was weak. Among the active low-priced rails at moderate advances were Nickel Plate and Pittsburg and West Virginia. Call money was unchanged at 6 per cent. Prices of Liberty bonds today were: 3½'s, 91.50; first 4's, unquoted; second 4's, 85.00; first 4¼'s, 85.86; second 4¼'s, 85.00; third 4¼'s, 89.50; fourth 4¼'s, 85.80; Victory 3¾'s, 96.20; Victory 4¾'s, 96.34.

1:30 p.m.—Profit-taking and pressure from the short interest caused numerous reactions at midday. Several of the popular motor, shipping and sugar shares fell 2 to almost 5 points, but reversals among steels, equipmeats, rails and oils were confined to comparatively narrow limits.

AILSA CRAIG

AILSA CRAIG, May 25.—Word has been received here of the sudden death of Mrs. Ada Sutton of Georgetown, who died in Toronto hospital after two weeks' illness. Deceased was a resident of this place for a year, coming out from England after her husband was killed in the recent war, on a visit to her sister, Mrs. H. Pritchett and bringing with her two small children. Mr. and Mrs. Pritchett left here for Georgetown last fall, and deceased went to make her home with them there.

Victoria Day passed off here very quietly with no sports of any kinds. The baseball team went to Strathroy, where they played two friendly games, but were defeated by scores of 6—0 and 6—2. They, however, played good games, despite the fact that two of their best players were away, not expecting a game.

BURGESSVILLE

BURGESSVILLE, May 25.—The following is the report of the Burgessville Women's Institute for the year ending May 31, 1920: Total receipts, $95.81; total expenditures, $91.82.

A quantity of goods of various kinds were sent during the year to the following the Children's Shelter, Woodstock; the Soldiers' Comforts Department, Toronto; The Military Hospital, Toronto, and the Woman's College Hospital, Toronto.

HOUSING SCHEME IS UNBUSINESSLIKE, SAYS ALD. URQUHART

Detailed, Signed Statement of Particulars of Plan Wanted.

BREAD PRICES UP

Windsor City Council Orders An Investigation Into the Cause.

WINDSOR, May 25.—Declaring the entire housing scheme of the Provincial Government, by which loans are given through the guaranteeing of bonds by municipalities, to be based on unbusinesslike methods in that operations were conducted on a certain basis with no profits to offset possible losses, Ald. George Urquhart at tonight's meeting of the Windsor City Council asked for a detailed, signed statement by the Windsor Housing Commission to be published in all newspapers with a local circulation, completely outlining the particulars of the plan.

His request was granted by a resolution of the council. Ald Urquhart wanted an entire statement as to the method of sale of debentures, what they would sell for, what interest would be involved, etc.

To Investigate Bread.

Investigation of the operations of Windsor bakeries was ordered by the city council tonight as a result of the further increase of 1 cent a loaf on the staff of life, which went into effect today, and of the report from the Dominion Board of Commerce which indicated that bread was selling in Toronto at 13 cents a loaf, and in smaller Ontario centres at 11 and 12 cents a loaf.

Ald. Strong declared that bread manufactured in Windsor was sold in villages as far away as 20 miles, 2 cents cheaper for the same brand that local consumers are forced to pay more for.

Ald. Howell declared the Windsor Hydro Commission was just as guilty of profiteering as any retail merchant in the prices it charged for electrical appliances, and that a set price the same as that charged by retail dealers was in effect.

Mayor Winter defended the commission, saying it made but 6 per cent on its business of this nature last year. Ald. Howell questioned the mayor's authority for the statement.

An inquiry will be conducted by the special "bread" investigation committee, headed by Ald. Urquhart, into the prevailing cost of milk here also.

FIRES AT CHILDREN'S SHELTER AND RECTORY

Rocket Responsible For One Fire; Other, Cause Unknown.

CHATHAM, May 25.—Prompt action on the part of the two platoons of the local fire department saved considerable property loss, when fires occurred at the Children's Shelter and the residence of the Rev. R. J. M. Perkins within a few minutes of each other late Monday night.

A rocket is believed to have caused the blaze on the veranda at the Children's Shelter, which, spreading to the eaves of a nearby house, for a time threatened a bad fire.

The cause of the fire at the Christ Church rectory is unknown. Flames were noticed in the basement by a neighbor, who notified the department. The blaze melted a lead gas pipe, and the burning gas hampered the efforts of the firmen for a time. The floor of the drawing-room was burned and some damage was done to the walls. Mr. Perkins and family had retired for the night. His son, Russell, was almost overcome with smoke, which had found a way into his bedroom.

MRS. A. L. WILDRICK of Los Angeles, Cal., who says she had to spend half her time in bed and could not get relief until she took Tanlac. Declares she now feels as well as she ever felt in her life and that she has gained fifteen pounds in weight.

The following remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. A. L. Wildrick, a well-known and highly respected resident of Los Angeles, Cal., living at No. 222 North Alvarado street. Mrs. Wildrick is 69 years of age, and is the mother of seven children. Her photograph appears here.

"For the past year or more," said Mrs. Wildrick, "I have been in very poor health. I suffered principally from chronic indigestion and my condition was so bad I had to spend half of my time in bed from sheer weakness. In spite of all the medicine I took I could not possibly get any relief and I became so nervous and unstrung that at times I could hardly realize what I was doing. I just had no appetite at all and suffered terribly nearly all the time with indigestion and was really in a very bad way physically. If I did eat a little something I would always have a miserable, distressed feeling afterward and I tell you I was going down hill pretty fast.

"Well, I just can't find words to tell you how really bad off I was and also to tell you what Tanlac has done for me, for I feel as well now as I ever felt in my life. Why, after taking only three and a half bottles of this medicine I have actually gained 15 pounds in weight and everyone tells me I am looking better than in years!

"Since I have been taking Tanlac I have found out that several of my intimate friends are also taking it and everyone of them are delighted with it. I am surely glad to recommend Tanlac and help spread the goodness of this medicine. Yes, I want you to use my photograph, too, so that all my friends may see how well I am looking. Anyone who could see me now after seeing me only a few weeks ago would be convinced that Tanlac must be a really wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

POLICE RAID CHINESE TEA HOUSE AT CHATHAM

Proprietors Fined $75 and Costs For Keeping Disorderly House.

CHATHAM, May 25.—What is known in police court circles as the Chinese Tea House, 36 Fifth street, was again raided by the police on Monday, and as a sequel eight Chinamen appeared before Magistrate Arnold today. Lee Quang was fined $75 and costs for keeping a "disorderly house," and seven of his fellow countrymen each had to pay a nominal fine of $1 and costs for being frequenters. The police found one of the rooms reeking with the sickly fumes of opium, and a pipe, which the chief said "was warm when picked up."

TRIO OF JAIL BREAKERS ARE STILL AT LIBERTY

Alleged To Be Armed and Prepared To Resist Arrest.

WOODSTOCK, May 25.—Thorough and exhaustive search of the swamps and district surrounding the Parkes' Home in South Norwich have failed so far to reveal to the police the whereabout of George and John Parkes, and Frederick P. Austin, the three men who escaped from the jail here last week. Constable Hill is still busy on the job. It is said that the fugitives have armed themselves and are ready for resistance.

Plumbing Firm Claims Contract For Work Was Given Them.

ST. THOMAS, May 25.—The refusal of the park committee to revive the contract with Hamilton & Stott for the supply of materials and work to be done on the proposed lavatories at Pinafore Park will move the firm to bring an action against the corporation, Mr. Hamilton states. The firm claims that their tender for the material and work was accepted last fall, and the city engineer then gave them the contract. At the last meeting of No. 4 committee the alleged agreement entered into by the city and firm was ordered revoked and fresh tenders asked for by the engineer.

JAMES KELLY ASSAULTED.

A difference of opinion as to how material should be laid in the dry kiln of the St. Thomas Cabinet Works started a row between Robert Kay and James Kelly, and the former was charged before the magistrate this morning with assaulting Mr. Kelly. Mr. Kelly's face was marked, his eye colored and a cut was showing behind his ear, which Mr. Kelly states were placed there by Mr. Kay. The hearing was postponed until Monday next.

BOARD IS APPOINTED TO MERGE RAILWAYS FOR THE GOVERNMENT SYSTEM OF ROADS

Howard G. Kelley Will Be the Chairman of the Committee.

MONTREAL, May 25.—Announcement was made from Montreal Saturday that the committee of management for the co-ordination of the Grand Trunk Railway with the Canadian National System had been appointed, consisting of Messrs. C. A. Hayes and S. J. Rutherford, representing the Government, and Messrs. Frank Scott and W. D. Robb, representing the Grand Trunk.

The four gentlemen above named appointed Mr. Howard G. Kelley, president of the Grand Trunk, as the fifth member of the committee, and chairman.

Mr. W. N. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto, was present on behalf of the Canadian Government.

All members of the new committee are well-known railwaymen. Mr. Howard G. Kelley has for some years past been president of the Grand Trunk Railway System; Mr. C. H. Hayes is at present vice-president of the Canadian National Railways in charge of traffic; Mr. S. J. Hungerford is assistant to the vice-president of the Canadian National Railways; Mr. W. D. Robb is vice-president of the Grand Trunk in charge of transportation, construction and maintenance; Mr. Frank Scott is vice-president and treasurer of the Grand Trunk.

MR. HOWARD KELLEY.

Mr. Howard Kelley, who has been president of the Grand Trunk System since 1917, has in addition to splendid scientific and practical training the qualities of mind that make for the successful handling of big tasks. He is a man, his associates say, who inspires the loyalty and affection that lead to efficiency and accomplishment. His capacity for work, in a business where hard and exacting labors are demanded of all, is widely recognized. Work, it is said, is his only hobby. He finds in the daily crop of problems relative to railway administration all the exhilaration that he needs. His first railway battles were fought and won in the wilderness. As a young engineer fresh from the university he took part, from 1881 to 1884, in the location and construction of western railways, glept in the open and knew the hardships of the pioneer railway builder's life. Mining lured him away from railway construction, but did not hold him long, and his engineering ability led to his holding positions of steadily increasing responsibility with the railroads. In 1907 Mr. Kelley was appointed chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway System. Four years later he was promoted to the position of vice-president in charge of operation, maintenance and construction, an office which he held to the date of his appointment as president of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways.

The presidency of the Grand Trunk has been considered one of the most arduous positions in the railway world. His jurisdiction extended over lines which stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific in Canada, dipped down through five states in the middle west and traversed practically the whole of New England. Scores of subsidiary enterprises associated with the railroad—steamships, car ferries, elevators, hotels, etc.—demanded attention. Mr. Kelley, in the opinion of those best fitted to judge, is one of the ablest men who have been associated with our Canadian railways. He is a Canadian citizen.

MR. FRANK SCOTT.

Mr. Frank Scott, vice-president and treasurer of the Grand Trunk System, enjoys a somewhat unique honor, in that during his 41 years of service with the Grand Trunk Railway Company he has risen from a junior clerkship to a vice-presidency through the one department. He is a son of the late W. E. Scott, M.D., for many years professor of anatomy at McGill University. Entering the Grand Trunk service in 1879 he began work in the audit department, but was very soon transferred to that of the treasurer. He became secretary of the board of audit and purchasing committee in 1891 and was appointed assistant treasurer in 1893. In 1901 he was appointed treasurer of the company. In 1906 he became treasurer also of the Grand Trunk Pacific and many of its subsidiary companies, and in 1914 was appointed to a vice-presidency of the Grand Trunk System. A keen student of financial problems, Mr. Scott has had unusual opportunities for acquiring experience on a vast railway system that has gone through the evolutionary process that the Grand Trunk has during the past 35 years. In September, 1910, the Society of Railway Financial Officers of America elected Mr. Scott to the presidency of the society.

MR. W. D. ROBB.

Mr. W. D. Robb has risen from an apprentice in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway to that of vice-president in charge of operation, construction, maintenance and equipment. He is regarded as one of the most practical railroad chiefs in the Dominion. His father was a railroad man before him and came to Canada from Scotland to join the Grand Trunk in its earliest days. Mr. Robb was born at Longueil, Que., and received his early education at Sherbrooke Academy and St. Francis College, Richmond, Que. Entering the service of the Grand Trunk Railway System as an apprentice at Hadlow Cove in 1871, he went to Montreal to finish his apprenticeship as a machinist in 1873. He was appointed night foreman at Point St. Charles shops in 1883, and was promoted to the position of foreman at Belleville in charge of motive power and car departments in the same year. In 1897 he was appointed master mechanic of the middle division with headquarters at London, Ont., and in 1901 was made acting superintendent of motive power at Montreal. Mr. Robb was promoted to the office of superintendent of motive power in the following year, a position which he occupied until his appointment as vice-president in charge of motive power, car department and machinery in 1917. His jurisdiction was increased in 1918 to take in the operating, maintenance and construction departments of the system. He is a man of great energy, who holds the confidence of the whole of the large organization of which he is the head.

At The Theaters

AT LOEW'S.

Robbed of everything you have and forced to wander around a lonely, barren desert in a pair of silk pyjamas is enough even to feaze even the hardy film star, who is supposed to be hardened to most anything. This is the experience of Wally Reid in "Double Speed" at Loew's. It all happened when Wally was enjoying a "joy ride" in an auto from New York to Los Angeles. Pitching his tent for the night in the western "Bad Lands," he is frisked of everything he owned, and in the morning finds himself without clothes, money or auto. A friendly traveler in a Ford picks him up and lands him into the most amusing set of adventures imaginable. Needless to say, there is a "girl," and the story all ends happily.

A snappy bill of classy vaudeville, every act a feature, a rip-roaring, sizzling comic entitled "Pals and Pugs," the Loew Pictorial and a popular program of music by the Loew Concert Orchestra completes a bill that is playing to capacity audiences daily—better come early tonight. b

ONE PICTURE YOU'LL REMEMBER A LIFETIME.

One picture you will certainly remember a lifetime is "The River's End," which is packing the Allen this week; a smashing new story of the Canadian Northwest, of love and wild adventure, written in the wholesome, clean and blood-stirring style which James Oliver Curwood knows so well. "You win or lose the minute the chief sets eyes on you." The thought was pounding through John Keith's brain, for he meant to tramp back to civilization, and face the chief of the Royal Mounted Police in the character of the officer who had died on his trail in the far northern snow wastes. His figure, his face, everything was exactly as Conniston looked when he had lived, and his intention was to impersonate this officer of the Royal Mounted Police.

But Conniston in relating his past history had failed to mention his sister Mary and the Chinaman Shan Tung, who had known Conniston and who never forgot a face.

James Oliver Curwood has written a tale of such fire, such romance and vigor and charm, that those who see this masterpiece of the screen will long remember it as one of the brilliant achievements in photodramatic literature.

Among the special attractions on this exceptional program is a comedy by Christie, which caused roars of laughter yesterday, pictures of George Carpentier's visit to Toronto, and the overture of William Tell presented by the big Allen concert orchestra, under the direction of Maurice Poure.

AT THE GRAND LAST TIME TODAY

Two photoplays of the highest quality are shown on the double feature program at the Grand the last time today. Blanche Sweet will be seen in "The Deadlier Sex," the story of which revolves about a modern girl who kidnaps her money-grabbing business enemy and takes him to the Maine woods where the hundred thousand dollars he has in cash won't even buy mosquito netting. "Alias Jimmy Valentine," the picture starring Bert Lytell, is the tremendous drama of a convict who reforms through the love of a good woman. In addition to the two big features other attractions that contribute to the enjoyment of the bill are: Emmet and McClarn, in singing and musical novelty; a Snub Pollard comedy entitled "Drink Hearty"; the Pathe News and Review, Topics of the Day, and a beautiful scenic film showing Niagara in winter.

WESTERN UNIVERSITY PLAY AT THE GRAND TOMORROW.

Cities having universities are specially mentioned and favored for having such an institution for the edification and benefit of their citizens, and being a university centre means more than being purely a commercial centre. London is rapidly becoming important for its commercial achievements and every new factory or industry is the cause of rejoicing. Much more important than an additional factory or industry is the Western University, which is turning out citizens of greater usefulness in various walks of life and many of whose graduates are the best advertisement the city has. One has but to think for one moment to recall the names of prominent physicians and others to verify this statement. One of the important social organizations in connection with Western is the Literary Society, which is helpful to the many students who avail themselves of its privileges and aids in creating an esprit de corps which continues after students graduate and go to various parts of the continent to pursue their chosen professions. The Literary Society of the university appeals to Londoners once a year for support by presenting an annual play, the proceeds of which have in the past been sufficient to maintain its activities. The students present this year the very entertaining and brilliant play, "An Ideal Husband," upon which they have been concentrating their energies for the past four or five months, and hope to give to their patrons the best entertainment they have yet offered. They have spared neither money nor themselves in making the production as finished as possible for amateurs. Encourage the students in their work by turning out to their support this Thursday, May 27. A limited number of seats still available for the evening, good seats for the matinee. Seats at box office.

TOM MIX IN "THE DAREDEVIL" AT THE PATRICIA.

Tom Mix, the author and director is on a par with Tom Mix the actor. In "The Daredevil" he has a role that fits him like a glove. No one else could fill it. And Mix has surrounded himself with a cast that is as excellent as the star himself. All of his supporting company know the west, which the author-director-star pictures. They are all products of that country, trained by their environment to give faithful and true interpretations of their parts. They, like Mix, do not know the meaning of fear. "The Daredevil," with Tom Mix in the leading role, will be presented at the Patricia for the last time today. In addition, a news feature and two comedies will be shown.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday the feature will be beautiful Mary McLaren in "The Road to Divorce," ranked among the twenty best screen productions of the year.

With very little discussion the board of education at its special meeting Tuesday afternoon passed the new schedule of teachers' salaries recommended by No. 1 committee. Special recognition is to be made in the case of second-class teachers who take special courses which make their work more satisfactory.

Manual training teachers rank as first-class men assistants.

Questions of increased insurance rates likely to be asked by the fire underwriters, being raised, the board decided not to grant the request of the Victoria School Mothers' Club for permission to hold a rummage sale in that school. Trustee Edwin Smith recommended granting the desired permission, but Trustee Eggett withdrew his seconding motion after the discussion made it clear that the underwriters might fairly raise objections in case of fire. The necessity of taking a vote was therefore avoided.

Lord Roberts Mothers' Club was granted permission to hold a concert in Lord Roberts school next Tuesday evening on condition that only a collection be taken and no tickets of admission sold.

No. 2 committee was authorized to purchase a site 223 by 300 feet on Quebec street near Oxford for a new school, at an approximate price of $2,500, with a recommendation that two additional lots be obtained to cost not more than $1,000 extra.
