How I'd Make Our London A Bigger and Better City

ARTHUR MOULD.

BY HELEN McMILLAN.

THERE is something romantic in the thought that a roofer, who piles his trade fare above the busy streets "in overalls and with dirty hands" should turn his thoughts to a city beautiful far beyond the conception of the average citizen who works below. And yet such a man is Arthur Mould, roofing contractor, who would have London the most beautiful city on the continent.

Lamenting the lack of foresight on the part of London's people and their failure to measure up to the vision of the pioneers who laid out the city in the early days, this little man, who spends his working days upon the rooftops, and thus claims that he has a better opportunity for overlooking the city's affairs than the citizen who keeps to the ground, paints a picture of London as one of the most beautiful and enterprising health resorts of the entire continent.

He suggests a London beautiful, with a pleasure park extending from successful hydrophobic or sanatorium at the foot of Dundas street for five miles down the river to Byron—a park to which tourists would come from all over the world to drink of London's health-giving mineral waters, proclaimed by experts to be outvalued by none but the famous mineral springs of Karlsbad, Germany—a park beautiful for London and rendered economically possible by the expenditure here of alien money.

Lauds Vision of Pioneers.

And in contrast to this vision, which, he says, might well have been the vision of the city pioneers who erected the beautiful county jail building overlooking the Thames River long years ago. Mr. Mould points out the necessity of quickly drying up stream for lack of damming its waters, on whose shores is huddled a heterogeneous mass of ramshackle buildings with here and there a bare new structure which never has been allowed to find its way there.

Mr. Mould is a bit of a philosopher in his way, and can easily be seen after even a short acquaintance with him, that his far-reaching ideas are not the result of working on high places. In his conversation he makes reference constantly to Ruskin, to Carlyle or to Tolstoy, indicating that he spends much of his spare time reading in the rare atmosphere of lofty thinkers, as well as upon the rooftops.

He is of slight stature, with a heavy black mustache drooping at the ends. His eyes are small and twinkling, his speaking a kindly heart and keen perception. In fact, he is just the sort of personality who would have a big vision for London, although his self-acquired philosophy of life is not in the rare atmosphere of lofty thinkers, as well as upon the rooftops.

Many a time have I looked out over the Thames river, and seen there one of the ideal beauty spots of Ontario, but one which has not been enhanced by the enterprise of the city of London.

Mr. Mould got the best results, Springbank Park should start at the court house, the river should be dammed for boating and boulevard right to Byron. All the old property should be cleared off the foot of Dundas street, and in its place a modern hydrophobic erected, which would draw its patrons from all over the continent on the merit of London's sulphur springs, and would thus give an economic solution to the financial problem of beautifying the river and park.

According to experts, London possesses the finest mineral springs outside of the famous springs at Karlsbad, Germany, and far superior to the springs at Buxton, England, where so many Canadian soldiers were sent to convalesce.

England, was made by its sulphur baths, and yet no one in London recognizes the value of the London springs from an industrial point of view.

The old management of the local sulphur baths received letters constantly asking for reservations at the London baths. But there were no reservations to make, because London had not seen the commercial value of these waters, and had failed to provide accommodation for those who were willing to come from great distances to benefit by them.

Mr. Mould points to a change in the hearts of the people of London as the only possible solution.

"Beautiful People" Vital.

"A beautiful city is only the result of a beautiful people," he maintains. "There is no object in trying to beautify the city, unless the people are beautiful. London, looking upon it as it is, are disgusted and want something better. I don't approve of doing things until the people are converted to them. That is true democracy.

"In the olden days, many wonderful buildings, such as the pyramids of Egypt, were produced through the work of slaves. But, now that the day of slaves is past, the workers must be converted to the idea of producing great things before those great things can be produced."

"What is the matter with London?" you ask. London is like most modern cities. Her people lack vision. They are too insular, failing to see the other fellow's viewpoint. They are trying to solve their economic problems without sufficient regard for others. London could be the hub of Western Ontario if she would only consider the spokes of the wheel, extending out into the district round about.

"Why need she worry about industries coming to her doors, when all she has to do is to stretch out into the district round about and get her sustenance there?"

STATES ULSTER REMAINS FIRM

Sir James Craig Declares Northern Ireland Will Not Surrender Rights.

London, Nov. 10.—A statement issued after this morning's meeting of the Ulster cabinet members here concluded as follows: "Sir James Craig (the premier), on behalf of the cabinet of Northern Ireland, wishes it clearly understood that there can be no surrender of Ulster's rights."

The statement promised by Prime Minister Lloyd George, outlining the negotiations with the Sinn Fein representatives had not been received by the representatives of Ulster this forenoon. But Mr. Lloyd George sent word he hoped to be able to supply it during the afternoon.

The secretary of the Ulster party was keeping in touch constantly with Downing street, where the British cabinet met at noon, and it was announced that another meeting of the Northern Ireland cabinet would be called as soon as the detailed statement was received.

Mr. Lloyd George meanwhile suggested that his meeting with the Ulster cabinet go over until Friday.

The Ulster communique, given out after the morning meeting, indicated that in lack of the British premier's statement the Ulster cabinet was unable to make formal reply to the Government. On this point the text of the communique said: "An apology to Sir James Craig was received from Mr. Lloyd George stating his inability owing to pressure of work, to supply a detailed statement of the proposals promised by him yesterday. He hoped, however, it would be possible for him to furnish the document this afternoon. The cabinet with him should be deferred until Friday."

The communique, which concluded with Sir James' statement, was unable to be made formal reply to the Government of those who attended, and mentioned the fact that the meeting lasted from 11 to 1 o'clock.

URGE CANADIANS TO ATTEND BRITISH FAIR

Gordon Philip, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is in receipt of further advice relative to the British Industrial Fair, which is set for February next in Manchester and London. England, during the department of overseas trade, this exhibition is Britain's annual display of manufactures, and every effort is being made to induce Canadians to attend.

formed the procession, and two motor trucks carried the flowers.

A wreath from King Gevane was among them, Lord Cavan acting for the king. It bore the legend: "As dying and behold, we live." The inscription on the wreath from Canada read:

"But that which put the glory of grace into all that he did was that he did it of pure love to his country."

That from Prime Minister Lloyd George said:

"Nameless, yet his name liveth evermore."

From the Grand Army of United Veterans of Canada came a wreath placed by Sgt. Richardson, oldest living wearer of the Victoria Cross, There were flowers from Newfoundland, and from the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada came a memorial woven of poppies that bloom in Flinders fields.

OTTAWA HAS LOWEST DEATH RATE IN HISTORY

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—A report of the medical officer of health for the statistical year, Nov. 1, 1920, to Oct. 31, 1921, shows that the death rate of this city was 14.96. This is the lowest death rate that Ottawa has ever had.

CITY OFFICIAL FINDS OUTLAY UNAVOIDABLE

Baker Compiles Annual Statement of the City's Activities.

WILL MAIL TO VOTERS

Schools Take Greater Proportion of London's Finances.

"If there is a municipal voter who says he does not know what is being done in connection with municipal works, it is because he does not want to know," said City Clerk Baker Thursday, as he completed the compilation of his annual statement of city activities for the year, a copy of which will be mailed to every voter. These will go out immediately after the municipal nominations, and will include the names of those whom the voter is entitled to cast a ballot for, and where to go to vote. All polling booths will, as usual, be located in schools.

Shows Big Increase.

The statement shows first the budget for the year 1921, the figures being based on the estimates, along with a statement of the receipts for 1919 and 1920 for comparative purposes. Expenditures for 1921 are estimated at $2,435,766.19 for the year, as compared with $2,065,594.51 for last year, and $1,957,638.03 for 1919. The largest increase was in uncontrollable expenditures.

"Taxation figures show comparative tables for last year and this, with the amount provided for each department. These figures place the schools in the lead, with 14.8 mills of a total of 28.512 mills.

A concise statement of the general debt, compiled from the auditors' report, shows the position of the city at the end of 1920. The local improvement debt is $1,359,752.72. The total debt issue is $9,395,748.

Outlines Departments' Work.

A report on the activities of each of the committees is followed by an outline of the works of each department. The same plan is used in dealing with the departments. "I do this because I have been said that in other reports I have knocked some of the departments," said the clerk.

"These reports are signed by heads of the department, and are as they were made on the day and date when they were made," he added.

A short, concise statement on the Western University grant, which is to be voted on by the people at the coming election, brings the statement to a conclusion.

THINK MURRELLS NOW IN FLORIDA

The Murrell brothers, who made a sensational escape from the county jail some time ago are now believed by the police to be in Florida. A tip to that effect has been received. It is stated, and circulars have been sent to all the police chiefs of that state.

Since the Murrells sealed the jail wall "clues" have poured in on both county and city police. However, the last bit of information has apparently had some effect on the official mind or circulars would not have been sent on the four winds that sweep Florida.

HIGH WINDS DECREASE CANADIAN FISH CATCH

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Canadian Press.—According to a statement issued from the department of marine and fisheries the total quantity of sea fish landed on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during September was 1,026,553 hundredweights, valued at $2,520,047, while for the corresponding period in the preceding year 1,157,570 hundredweights were landed, with a value of $3,581,567.

On the Atlantic coast the weather conditions were generally responsible for the decreased catch, high winds preventing during the month the part of the month. In here the legend: "As dying and behold, we live." The inscription on the wreath from Canada read:

SANTA FE TRAIN WRECKED

Santa Fe train No. 11, southbound, Kansas City to the Gulf, was wrecked near Mulhall, Okla., 49 miles north of here, this morning, according to meagre reports received here. No one was killed.

EXPECT GRANT WILL VISIT LONDON SCHOOLS

Arriving in London on Thursday next to formally open the new medical school at the Western University, Hon. R. H. Grant, Ontario's minister of education, will not return to Toronto until late Friday or perhaps Saturday.

Officials of the city educational departments anticipate that Mr. Grant will be enabled to visit at least some of the city schools, London Technical and Art School and the new Collegiate now in course of construction.

FAVORS SCHOLARSHIPS FOR BRAZILIAN PUPILS

Montreal, Nov. 10.—At a meeting of the executive of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here yesterday, a letter was read from the registrar of McGill University in connection with the forthcoming international exhibition in Brazil, suggesting that scholarships for Brazilian students be established both by McGill and Toronto universities.

The idea was to create missionaries for Canadian propaganda in Brazil.

FREIGHTER TO BEGIN ROUTE.

Prince Rupert, B. C., Nov. 10.—The newest freighter in the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, the Canadian Britisher, will leave for Vancouver on Saturday. On her trial trip yesterday she proved most satisfactory.

CAUTIONS VOTERS TO APPEAR EARLY

Revising Officer Explains Law Regarding His Hours.

Those who contemplate appealing to J. E. McKillop, a crown attorney, who has been appointed as revising officer for this riding, are cautioned not to defer their appearance at the court house until a late hour.

Sittings for the revision of the list of voters will be held for six days: Tuesday, Nov. 15; Wednesday, Nov. 16; Thursday, Nov. 17; Friday, Nov. 18; Saturday, Nov. 19, and again on Monday, Nov. 21.

The time each day (except Monday) is set for 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Crown Attorney McKillop explains that this does not mean necessarily that he will sit through from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. on the days mentioned. When all appeals are heard, after he opens any one particular sitting and after a reasonable length of time, no other persons present themselves, the revising officer is quite within his rights to adjourn until the next session.

An application to have a name placed on the lists may be submitted in person at these sittings without previous notice by registered mail (prepaid), addressed to the person whose name it is desired to have struck off. Any such notice should state that the application will be made on the day and date selected at the hour fixed for the sitting. The burden of giving "prima facie" evidence to strike off any name is upon the applicant.

WILLARD MAY DECLINE BATTLE WITH DEMPSEY

New York, Nov. 10.—Arrangements for a return world's heavyweight championship bout between Champion Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard, registered as practically completed a few weeks ago, now appear on the verge of dissolution, a raid on the Russian Empire has broken the battle for July 1 next in his arena near Jersey City is exhibiting impatience with Willard's delay in returning a signed contract for the battle.

Reports have been received here that Willard has made a "strike" in one of his oil investments, and his reports are true it is regarded as necessary time to devote for another match with Dempsey.

RAID CONSTANTINOPELE RUSSIAN TRADE MISSION

Constantinople, Nov. 9.—Important documents were seized and millions of Romanoff roubles, together with considerable French and British money, were discovered by inter-Allied police in a raid on the Russian trade mission here today.

The police also hauled down a huge red flag which the Bolshevik representatives had raised over their headquarters in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the Soviet revolution in Russia.

FOUR NEAR DEATH AS CAR GOES INTO RIVER

Prince Rupert, B. C., Nov. 10.—Four men narrowly escaped drowning yesterday, when a closed car in which they were riding plunged over a wharf here and sank in the harbor.

The men were trying out a new car, and the driver threw it into "high" when he meant to apply the brakes. They had to fight their way out of the closed car while under water.

Lions' Club Plans Campaign To Aid Children's Nursery

An important announcement was made at the monthly luncheon of the Lions Club at the Tecumseh House Thursday when the members decided to follow in the footsteps of the other businessmen's clubs of the city in doing some community service.

Cub Walter Keene presented a report of the children's nursery, King street, and the difficulties under which it was operating, and as a result the members decided unanimously to assist in placing the institution on a firm footing.

Hurrying N. Y. Crowds Linger as Chimes Play "Home Sweet Home."

New York, Nov. 10.—Home-ward bound crowds, scurrying and jostling through Madison Square toward the subways in the chill rain late yesterday were arrested by the deep-throated melody of chimes ringing out as the evening benediction, the strains of "Home, Sweet Home."

Most of them gazed up toward the Metropolitan Tower that loomed through the dark, thinking perhaps the familiar quarter-hour bells of the big clock had added to their repertoire.

The more inquisitive finally traced the music to a series of huge megaphone-like devices attached to the side of Madison Square. It was the final test of the telephone amplifying apparatus that is to connect New York with Arlington on Friday when the "unknown soldier" is laid to rest. The chimes that sounded out so pure and true were struck at Arlington.

NOT ALL IN FAVOR OF ONE INSPECTOR

School Trustees Lack Uniformity on Proposed Reduction.

While V. K. Greer, junior inspector of public schools, will in all probability be favorably considered by the board of education at its regular meeting Thursday afternoon, as successor to the late Senior Inspector C. B. Edwards, there is no unanimity among the school trustees relative to the suggestion to have but one inspector in this city in lieu of two as before.

Cities in Ontario larger than London have all more than one inspector. Hamilton has a senior inspector with two juniors. Ottawa has both a senior and junior, while Toronto, of course, has eight or nine.

The appointment of an inspector of high schools as already considered expedient with the completion of the new collegiate and the addition from time to time of branch schools, would entail special legislation. The present fails to invest such power of appointment with the local authorities.

VILLINEUVE OFFERED NOMINATION

Montreal, Nov. 10.—E. W. Villeneuve, former member of the board of control of this city, was offered the nomination as independent candidate in the Laurier-Outremont division at a meeting here last night. He asked to be allowed until Saturday to decide whether he would accept the offer.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED IN LISBON ACCIDENT

Lisbon, Nov. 10.—Seven persons were killed and 24 injured in an accident on the state railway near here. Details have not been received.

PREDICT BETTER WEATHER FRIDAY

Washington, Nov. 10.—The storm which brought winter weather, with rain and snow, to wide sections of the Middle West of the United States yesterday was moving northeastward to the New England States today, with weather bureau predictions of spindly weather there, and in the North Atlantic States generally. The forecast was for clearing weather, however, later today in the North Atlantic section and for fair weather there and elsewhere generally east of the Mississippi River for Friday, Armistice Day. Considerably lower temperatures are expected for the eastern half of the continent.

QUEBEC ANNUAL HONEY YIELD NOW 1,900 TONS

Montreal, Nov. 10.—According to figures given by Hon. J. E. Caron, provincial minister of agriculture at the 13th annual congress of the Beekeepers' Association of the Province of Quebec held here yesterday, there were in the province for the current year, 6,517 hives containing 64,417 colonies of bees.

Last year the honey harvest amounted to 2,651,177 pounds, and that of 1921 would be approximately 2,800,000 pounds.

LOYD GEORGE STILL HOPEFUL IN IRISH CRISIS

Declares at Lord Mayor's Banquet "Partnership" Prospect Best in Year.

ADMITS "CRITICAL STAGE" British Parliament Prorogues With Pledge to Reassemble If Emergency Arises.

London, Nov. 10.—The session of Parliament which opened in February ends today with the prorogation of both Houses, after the brief autumn sitting, which began Oct. 15. This special meeting, which the Government was able to arrange on short notice, due to the fact that Parliament had merely adjourned in August instead of being prorogued, was summoned to deal with the question of unemployment.

While this problem was duly taken care of the interest of the members has been mainly focussed on the Irish peace negotiations.

Several members of Parliament, viewing with some apprehension the uncertain state of the Irish situation at the present time, last night urged the Government to allow another adjournment instead of the definite closing, which a prerogative implies.

Austen Chamberlain, Government leader in the House of Commons, however, declared that nothing stood in the way of prorogating the body, and reminded his anxious inquirers that Prime Minister Lloyd George had repeatedly promised that nothing would be finally settled with regard to Ireland without calling the House together. A new session could be opened, he pointed out, should developments require it.

Fear Ulster's Refusal.

Members separated over night with some feelings of anxiety, mainly due to the belief, which, nevertheless, was not unanimous, that an Irish settlement will be rendered impossible by the attitude of Ulster.

Despite this uneasiness, however, it was recognized that the Ulster cabinet proposals, which indeed have not yet been submitted to them in detail, and the optimists hoped that the Premier Sir James Craig's firm attitude will be upheld by the members of his cabinet at a meeting yesterday, may be modified upon an examination of the full terms.

At any rate, while it cannot be denied that a great deal of gloomy foreboding is present in many quarters, it is not necessarily doomed to a sudden collapse whatever the attitude Ulster may adopt, but that further negotiations would follow any possible change.

Prorogation Statement.

The Ulster representatives have declared that they will take no definite decision until they have received the written statement promised them by Mr. Lloyd George, and the Sinn Fein delegates. The British premier was having this statement prepared last night for submission to the Ulster cabinet members this morning.

The Irish conference is now at the "critical stage," Mr. Lloyd George declared in his address at the lord mayor's banquet in the Guildhall last night. At the same time he said "there is a better prospect of our invitation to the people of Ireland to come into the British Empire as equals being heeded today than at any time for years."

Peace in Ireland was necessary for the welfare of the empire, he said, and the British delegates were not content to any set program on which they would not budge an inch.

WILL PROPOSE BOLD PLAN FOR DISARMAMENT

America Only Nation Known To Have Definite Scheme Worked Out.

KEEPS PROPOSALS SECRET Cessation of Naval Increases For Ten Years, However, Considered Likely.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Proposals to be made by the United States delegation to the conference on limitation of armaments, apparently constitute the only suggestion prepared in advance as to ways and means of curtailing naval expenditures without sacrifice by any power of national security.

Great Britain is not known to have worked out any formula, but is awaiting the United States suggestion; France and Italy are more concerned with land forces than with naval matters.

Two days before the conference opens the United States proposals remain a closely-guarded secret.

This much is known: a definite formula for agreement on limitation of naval forces has been reached by Secretary of State Hughes and his colleagues of the United States delegation. The formula is an entire practical one. It does not attempt to stipulate any general rule for establishing equitable relative of naval forces between the powers.

It does not attempt to fix a common denominator by which all navies could be divided and each power assigned by agreement the number of units it could maintain with world approval.

The "Will Deal With Facts."

The United States delegation will deal with things as they are. It will be a plain proposition of ships, ball, building or authorized; of naval bases; of the vital element of naval power, the merchant marine and of other concrete, existing or planned weapons and auxiliaries of naval warfare.

Also, it is regarded by those who framed the suggestions as a bold stroke for naval reduction, possibly too bold for immediate realization.

Beyond this limited outline of what is going on behind the scenes, nothing has yet been available.

There is a feeling in some well-informed circles that Baron Katonouchi of the Japanese cabinet, who is in London, is bent upon reducing her navy to no more than eight battleships and eight battle cruiser fleet program.

The old British two-power standard, which governed the building program prior to 1906, and the cessation of the German fleet. Britain is not today building any capital ships. Four new battle cruisers have been used in the way of replacements for war losses and to keep up the size of the fleet, but they have not been laid down.

Japanese Status Unknown.

The exact status of Japan's new craft is not known. It is certain, however, that Japan's cabinet started construction on all the super-warships, eight or eight-and-a-half inch guns, eight-and-a-half inch program would require.

The United States program of 1916, reaffirmed by Congress in later years, but deferred during the war and greatly slowed down this year, includes six battleships and six battle cruisers. Keels of all have been laid. Actual work on construction of the battleships, the Massachusetts, has been stationary at about four per cent for several months.

Work on the other five ranged from 15 to 25 per cent. On the battle cruisers, the Massachusetts, is at one at 5.5 per cent, one at 10 per cent, one at 12.6 per cent, one at 16.1 per cent, and the nearest completion at 20 per cent finished. These figures are for work on the ships and do not include material ordered.

Figures May Play Part.

There is a growing belief that these figures may play an important part in the United States reduction proposals. It is suggested that the cessation of naval increases for a period of years, perhaps a decade, may be proposed. If that should prove acceptable, it is said, it might be followed by proposals to cancel ships laid down on a ship-for-ship basis.

It is regarded as probable that Great Britain would accept some such proposition, but her four authorized battle cruisers, and the eight or eight-and-a-half inch program it is not clear how a ship-for-ship cancellation might be viewed by her representatives.

Each ship struck off the list would mean a heavier proportionate reduction for Japan. It is said that for Great Britain or the United States.

BACKS LAW AS GENUINE BASIS OF ALL LIBERTY

Arthur Mould Denies Labor-men Are Wreckers of Society.

SEES NEW ERA DAWNING

Declares Fraternity Not Fighting Will Rule City of Tomorrow.

"As a member of a class that has been sometimes referred to as 'wreckers of society,' I want to say that law is the mother of freedom," Arthur Mould, Labor's federal candidate, declared, addressing a mass meeting in the St. Peter's Parish Hall Wednesday evening. Mr. Mould was supported by A. R. Mosher of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who dwelt at some length upon wage reductions in connection with his organization and the labor movement in general.

"We accept the law," continued the Labor nominee. "What Labor is looking for in the new era is to be back again to that conception of a common brotherhood as laid down by that carpenter of Nazareth, the commonwealth of all nations. It may seem to some as a dream, but we of the Labor movement believe that we have what is necessary to make it come true. We see its dawn already."

In his opening remarks the speaker traced the development of the human race, from the family, the clan, the nation, the state, down to the Christian era.

"Today," he said, "we witness practically full recognition of the labor movement. An employer is out-of-date if he fails to recognize Labor's principles. It is to him, if nothing else, a pure matter of business efficiency.

Lauds Labor Ideals.

"Wherever you find the political labor movement a success you will find also the trades union movement advancing by leaps and bounds, and why? We are endeavoring to get back to the true conception of things. There is no movement, outside of the church that has greater ideals of a sounder basis for the general uplifting of the people.

"The Labor people themselves, however, must recognize the growth of modern science. We are scientific in work and thought. There has been one great mistake. The splendid facts of Darwin's contentions have been misused by a stressing of the point 'survival of the fittest and the weak to the wall.' It has been a case of another misconception. The present system has been built upon the assumption that the fittest are the fittest, who so constructed it are the fittest.

Says War Saw New Era.

"The new era actually dawned, I believe, with the last war. Men were compelled to stop and think. They took stock of conditions and themselves. Men of various countries mingled with each other and learned thereby. They are still thinking. They have a good reason. They say if so much good can be accomplished during a terrible conflict, why not the same or greater in the days of peace? "European civilization did not collapse after the war, but one portion of our civilization reached its crisis—that part which has been wrongly described as 'survival of the fittest.' There has been they who talked 'democracy' while they built up the greatest system of autocracy, which, incidentally, nearly collapsed during the war, and will eventually, because it is not based upon proper principles.

"The biggest menace that confronts society today is an autocracy where more and more things are getting under the control of a few. It must cease, and they themselves realize it. The 'city of tomorrow' will not tolerate such. We believe that it is yet possible to produce more beautiful things than has been in the past, but by the hands of free men. The world cannot move backward, and if only men would be suddenly sane to recognize this and stop getting in the way of progress.

Sees Fighting Doomed.

"The 'city of tomorrow' will banish the 'inequalities of circumstance,' that compelled those who accomplished the big things in the days of peace to fight against uneven odds to hew a way to the top. Rather that we have, I say, everyone of a mediocre type than have a few brilliant ones and the remainder slaves.

"Fraternity and not fighting will characterize the 'city of tomorrow,' and it will be seen that every citizen will have all the ordinary requisites to live an ordinary and healthy life. You know that we have not at this moment. We've entertained the wrong conception that the world can't adequately care for all those who come into it. But the viewpoint is changing today not only in the mind of the worker but with his employer also. Unconsciously the latter is following the path of progress and will treat the workers not so much as commodities but as men.

"Skill and resources also are going to do more in the future city than all the protection that you have. I will say more to the captains of industry. Equalization of labor will do far more to stop unfair competition than all your legislation.

"Our foundations for the city of the future will be built on equity and justice. Are we labor-wreckers when we attempt to reconstruct upon these principles? We talk hard, logical common sense, not protection 'bugaboos.' You can have a city beautiful, but it won't be beautiful unless you make it people beautiful. Never mind the city. They'll make it beautiful. They can't help it.

Predicts Contentment.

"The city we visualize is one where the parks are filled with happy children. There is something radically wrong with a nation where a man cannot produce sufficient for himself and family. We see a city where we'll work in contentment, where we can think, speak and act free—liberty. Is not that as it should be? Is that not what we mean by democracy?"

"I would like to ask those who are urging reduction of wages," declared A. R. Mosher, "to come with me into some of the homes where I have visited during the past six months and see to what degree of misery these people have endured and then come back and tell me then that they are still in favor of a reduction.

"I can't grasp the philosophy of those who now agitate a reduction of wages to stimulate business. I can't realize why business is stagnated and the wheels of industry are stilled with hundreds shivering and hungry tonight, because they lack the bare necessities of life. I fail to grasp the significance of a foreign market when we can't supply our own.

Believed Only Course.

"I am proud tonight that I opposed the wage reduction for the Brotherhood of Railway Employees, the lowest paid class on this continent. The proposed reduction was absolutely and unconditionally opposed. I opposed the same because I was convinced that the men of our union were not receiving enough to live a healthy and decent life. It made no difference to me if all railroaders of America accepted the reduction. My course was the only honorable one to pursue. I have been recently blamed, however, because I did agree to a modified reduction. I did this because I reasoned that such was the only course at the moment.

The speaker also referred to the impression of the general public, which, he said, was to the effect that the railwaymen were all being paid salaries that ranged from $2,000 to $10,000 a year. He explained that certain exceptional cases of engineers and conductors had been quoted by the Government to prove their contention. The speaker also scored the claim that the high wages said to be paid railroad workers resulted in high freight rates and indirectly added materially to the high cost of living.

Both speakers were warmly received. Jos. Corbett presided.

DECLARES GOOD ROADS VITAL TO ONTARIO TODAY

Hon. F. C. Biggs, Highways Minister, Opens Lambeth Road — Addresses Banquet.

URGES BETTER FEELING Offers Help in Settling City-County Suburban Area Issue.

Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of highways and public works in the Ontario Government, spent a busy afternoon and evening in London on Wednesday. In the afternoon he opened officially the Lambeth highway, motorway from London despite adverse weather conditions, and addressing a large audience in the Lambeth town hall, while in the evening he was the guest of honor at a banquet in the Tecumseh Hotel, tendered by the Township of Westminster and the county council. Representatives of the city council, chamber of commerce and London Motor Club were present at the function.

Mr. Biggs devoted considerable time at the Lambeth meeting explaining the good roads policy of this Government. He told of the present types of road construction through the province. When the Drury Government came into power, he said, there were 420 miles of public highway constructed, while now the province totals 7,800.

Mayor Little, W. E. Griev, reeve of Westminster Township, Dr. Routledge of Lambeth, and John Freeborn, M.L.A. for East Middlesex, also spoke at the Lambeth meeting, which was presided over by Warden Alton Ryckman of Middlesex County.

The party which accompanied Mr. Biggs from London numbered 25. It left the city at 5 o'clock and returned at 4:30.

Mayor Little Speaks.

Mayor Little, toastmaster at the banquet, said that the Lambeth highway was one of the best pieces of road work he had ever seen. He spoke of the seven miles of pavement laid in London this year, but said they were of no good to the farmers unless they had a way of getting to them. "The Provincial Government," however, was looking after this angle of the matter. The mayor handled the suburban area issue frankly. There had been considerable misunderstanding on the part of the city in the first place, and when the matter of cost had become a bitter issue he was glad to say that the county had won the suit. He did not think that any citizen would regret the money spent on the Lambeth highway when he remembered the condition of the road a few years ago when it was hard for a horse and rig to "wallow" through the mud.

"I think we should get together more," stated the mayor. "When we do there will be a better feeling and a greater development of the city of London, the county of Middlesex and Western Ontario." (Cheers)

Offer Help in Dispute.

Mr. Biggs, who spoke after a discussion on the suburban area question by County Engineer Charles Talbot, stated that his department would be glad to help the city and county in any way. "If you read the act you will find that lapse of action has already disqualified the suburban area commission," he said. "However, if the city and county will appoint new members we will help you. London is the only one of nineteen cities in the province not functioning under the act, and this should not be. I think the city has changed its attitude. They are roads that serve citizens and farmers alike. The better condition you can get farm products into the city the cheaper they will be.

"Today you have 20 feet of pavement and five feet of safety on each side of it to Lambeth. Everyone does not agree with our ditch, but this will be remedied in the spring with asphalt." (Cheers) continued Mr. Biggs. "This would mean the acquisition of about two acres per mile and would cost more than $300. You would then have room to plant a line of beautiful trees on each side of the highway and have lots of room for hydro poles without having to slash the trees to pieces. I hope that some day a line of native trees will extend from the Quebec border to Windsor. Some 16 miles east of Toronto have been planted to and surely Western Ontario will not go behind.

Tells of Resting Spots.

Mr. Biggs also told of the proposed resting spots which will be constructed about 15 miles apart on the provincial highway. Auto traffic was being doubled as the result of good roads and the time was not far distant when $5,000,000 would be spent each year in auto licenses. He hoped to get things adjusted so that the fellow who wore out the roads would pay the tax.

He pointed out that with the diverting of a large portion of the traffic to the provincial highways, the township roads would not come in for as much traffic and consequently it would not cost so much to keep them in repair; this would be a great saving to the townships and counties.

"If we wish to keep Ontario on the map, we must have good roads and that is all there is to it," concluded the minister of public works.

Engineer Charles Talbot went into the history of suburban area "zoning." He stated that since the commission was appointed in 1918 there had been two meetings and one resolution passed. He had received orders at one meeting to keep things in shape and he had done so ever since and charged up the city's share to the city.

Urges Peaceful Settlement.

Surely the city and county could extend the olive branch. The matter was not worth fighting over. He was satisfied that the county council next year would appoint a committee that would be glad to help the city pave any road out of the city that was desired.

"I believe that we are going to have better roads and better feeling all round," declared Mr. Talbot amid applause.

John Freeborn, M.L.A., backed up a number of the statements of Mr. Biggs, and told of a recent trip made through Eastern Ontario.

J. B. McKillop, president of the London Motor Club, extended his heartfelt congratulations to Mr. Biggs on the completion of the highway, and told of the courteous treatment the club had always received from his department.

Other speakers were W. E. Griev, ex-Warden Thomas Clarke of Middlesex County, Warden Alton Ryckman, John Cousins, R. MacDonald and J. H. Laughton.

DR. J. H. WALLACE DEAD IN DETROIT

Graduate of Western University Dies After Brief Illness.

Dr. John Henry Wallace, B.A., a graduate of Western University Medical School, and for two years an interne at St. Joseph's Hospital, died in Receiving Hospital, Detroit, Wednesday evening following a brief illness. Dr. Wallace left St. Joseph's Hospital last summer, following an appointment to the staff of the hospital in which he died.

His death occurred under pathetic circumstances in that Dr. Wallace's relatives reside in Auckland, New Zealand. He left home in 1914, having enlisted in the First Anzac Division. When war broke out Dr. Wallace was a first-year medical student, and he left his native land with the first troops from the Antipodes.

He participated in the landing of the Anzac troops at Suvia Bay, and later accompanied the division to France. Following severe wounds received at Poziers on the Somme, in 1916, Dr. Wallace was invalided home. However, on route to New Zealand via Canada, he decided to complete his medical course at Western University, and for this purpose was demobilized at London. He received his bachelor of arts degree at Dunedin University, Auckland, N.Z.

He graduated from the medical school here last May, and at that time members of the faculty of that institution predicted a brilliant surgeon in the person of Dr. Wallace. However, death interfered shortly after he began his post-graduate studies in Detroit, tuberculosis meningitis constituting the fatal illness.

Dr. Wallace was one of the most popular students attending Western University and news of his death here caused a number over that institution. He was a member of a host of friends in London and district made during his four years' residence here. His father, also a member of the medical profession, died recently, and Dr. Wallace is survived by two brothers and two sisters. In New Zealand, who also served with the Anzac forces during the war.

The body will arrive in London on Thursday afternoon, accompanied by Dr. Edward Loughlin, a fellow student of Dr. Wallace at Western University, and a London boy now on the staff of a Detroit hospital. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock in the funeral parlour of the city of Detroit. Interment will be in Woodland Cemetery. The services will be conducted by Rev. D. C. MacGregor at St. Andrew's Church.

LENINE SAYS BIG POWERS TO FIGHT

Sees U. S. in Conflict At End of Gold Chase.

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.—Nikolai Lenine, the Soviet Russian premier, made the fourth anniversary of the Soviet republic today the occasion of an article published on the occasion of an anniversary number issued by the Pravda, in which he predicted the world chase for gold will result in wars between the United States and Japan or the United States and Britain by 1925 or 1928.

The article is entitled, "The Value of Gold, Now and After the Victory of Socialism."

In it the premier says the Soviet Government has merely retreated in the attack on world capitalism and is strengthening its position so it can make renewed assaults.

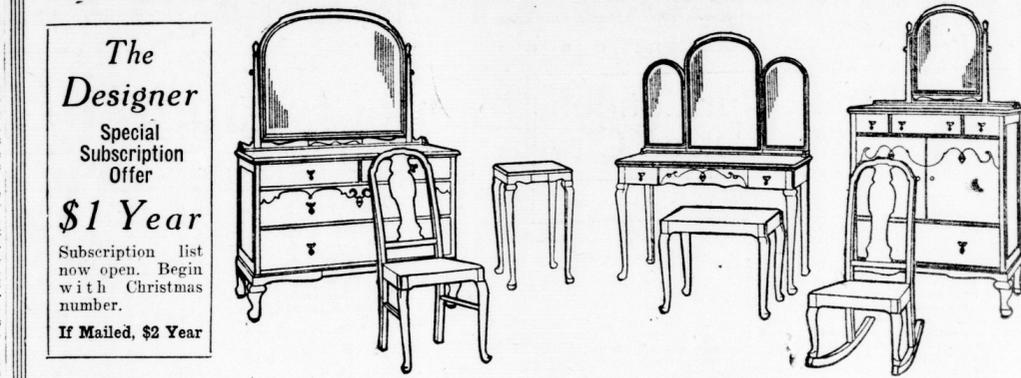

These attacks, he predicts, will after twenty years or so, enable the Russian Communists to achieve an economic victory which will make it possible to employ all the gold that exists in the building of public structures that will demonstrate how foolish it was to kill thirty million men in the great war for the sake of gold, and how foolish are the capitalists who are planning wars over gold, such as those he predicts.

SPOKE ON ELECTION TOPICS.

"I had stomach trouble so bad, I could not bear the smell or taste of food of any kind, and got so thin and weak I could not work. I had four doctors attend me, but they did me no good. I was in no pain, but felt so ill, at times, I thought I would die. In fact, all my friends were sure I could not live many weeks."

"This time last year I saw where a man was relieved of stomach trouble by Burdock Blood Bitters, so my husband got me two bottles, but I had no faith in it after all the different medicines I had taken. However, he insisted, and after the first two days I must say I began to feel better, and after the first bottle I felt so much better I went out a little every day, but could not go alone I was so weak, but I soon got so I could walk and eat, and have got quite stout."

Headache

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such up-building treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return.

Mrs. W. J. Pearse, Nunn St., Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite improvement in my condition. I continued using them until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

GETS BUSY ON CHARGES MADE BY AID. WENIGE

Special Committee Probes Number of Minor Ones, Disproving Them.

OTHERS ARE LAID OVER

Investigation To Continue When Accuser Returns From Chicago Trip.

The special committee named by Mayor Little to probe the charges made by Ald. G. A. Wenige against the city engineering department made good progress Wednesday night, despite the absence of Ald. Wenige, who was in Chicago.

Twenty-eight of the 43 clauses were gone into, and a number of them disposed of. Others were held over pending the return of Mr. Wenige, when he will be given an opportunity to present evidence in their support.

Few charges of importance were passed upon. In some of these the statements of the engineer were taken and then the matter held. As soon as Ald. Wenige returns he will be made acquainted with this action, and asked to prepare his evidence for the next session.

Ald. Harley, the chairman, said that it was desirable to have the charges gone into thoroughly, no matter whose toes were trod upon. He laid down the general principle that only charges that were supported by evidence should be considered, and no charges involving matters of opinion between the alderman and engineer. The members of the committee were agreed upon this.

City Clerk Baker read the charges, clause by clause, starting with the general statement which preceded them. This, for the most part, was taken by the members of the committee as being Ald. Wenige's opinions on matters of policy as laid down by the council from time to time. Some of these statements brought some sarcastic and jocular remarks from members of the committee.

In support of the statement that a "big man" was needed, the question of why it was necessary to bring in consulting engineers was raised. The engineer, replying, said that on two occasions only had he had the advice of a consulting engineer, and it was no disgrace, no matter how big a man he, to call in a consulting engineer on a difficult problem.

The charge relating to the use of insulting language to citizens was shown to involve Robert Fraser, Waterloo street north, who supplied an affidavit to Ald. Wenige.

Several of the aldermen remembered the occasion of the Fraser incident at a meeting of No. 2 committee. The engineer stated that on the occasion in question Mr. Fraser, in his opinion, "deliberately misstated the facts, and I had to correct him."

Supports Engineer. Ald. W. A. Wilson, a spectator at the hearing, said he remembered the occasion, and supported the engineer. Ald. Colbert, who was also present, was asked to attend the next meeting of the committee. On the other charge the engineer made denial.

To the charge that the engineer's department could not supply some information, and that this showed inefficiency, and left a loophole for waste, a letter was read in which City Clerk Baker, replying to Ald. Wenige's request for information, stated that the request was presented to No. 2 committee and fled. The alderman had asked what had become of a $5,000 sand drier. The engineer said that he had not been asked about the matter.

Ald. Harley said that Ald. Wenige's statement was substantiated by the clerk, but, as Ald. Wilson pointed out, it did not show that the information was not available in the department. The committee held the charge that the engineer was not a taxpayer disqualifier and pays income tax.

Ald. Wenige will be asked to give instances of names in support of his charge that the water on the bridge was "bums and loafers" were engaged in the laying of Quebec street pavement. Another charge relating to the hauling of gravel for this pavement was also partially dealt with.

A signed statement from several Quebec street residents was read, but as this statement was not sworn to, it was ruled as not being evidence.

Claims City Out. The charge relating to the gravel was that the hogs drawing sand to this job, as well as others, were not full, and thus the city lost thousands of dollars. The engineer, Mr. Hunter, all loads were checked, and that every wagon had been measured.

Some of the members of the committee, including Ald. Drake, agreed that there was something the matter with the west side of the York street bridge. The water lays there, and, according to Ald. Drake, many people are splashed while crossing the bridge.

Wenige charged that water on the bridge would impair the timber flooring. The engineer agreed that something on the floor of the bridge was water, that should be remedied. He will close up the opening between the road and foot part of the bridge.

As for the water impairing the floor, he said that the planks had been treated with creosote.

PROMISES TO BE KINDER TO WIFE

Joe Leonard, Facing Assault Charge, Released Under Bond.

Joe Leonard, charged with assaulting his wife, appeared in police court Thursday morning and promised to do so many good things if he was allowed to go that he even made an impression on Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett, who bound him over in the sum of $200 to keep the peace.

"I don't remember hitting her, your honor, but if I did I am sorry," declared Joseph. "Don't prosecute me and I'll be twice as good to her." He volunteered the wife. Several police court habitués licked their lips and eagerly awaited a statement on the source of supply which was designated by Mrs. Leonard as the "corner of Clarence and Horton street," or "some-where near where Mr. Leonard kept his horse."

"That's a bad neighborhood," interjected Chief Birrell. "There have been several convictions down that way lately."

Joe Leonard, who had kept his eyes fixed on his wife, again fell called upon for a few words. "I'll not say a word to you, child, if you take me back. It is the first time in my life a woman has ever been so kind to me."

The heart of the court was apparently touched, and Joe will have a chance to make good with his better half.

MEIGHEN RAPS LIBERAL PLEA

Blames War Cost For Canada's Grave Financial Condition.

FARNHAM, Que., Nov. 9.—(By Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)—Three meetings were necessary to take care of Missisquoi County voters who gathered here today to listen to a discussion of political issues by Premier Meighen, Hon. C. B. Allan, Hon. J. D. McMillan and F. N. D. Groulx, Conservative candidate in the riding, and others.

After a year's illness, the death occurred this morning at the hospital of Mrs. John Philip of 27 Dunfries street, in her 76th year. She was born in England, and came to Canada 41 years ago, and for the past 10 years had lived here.

Hesperia may get a new library building. The town has a library, but lacks proper quarters, and now an offer has been received from the Carnegie Foundation of New York of $10,000 towards the construction of a Carnegie library.

FORD RAILWAY SCRAPS MANY OLD CUSTOMS

Numbers Trains Irrespective of Directions So Public Can Understand.
QUICK FREIGHT SERVICE
through "Check-Up" Policy
Insures Prompt Handling of All Shipments.

Henry Ford's railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, is satisfying the public and its employees, and making money. This is the second article of the story of its success.

BY JOHN W. RAPER.
On Henry Ford's railroad, there is no secret about the way Henry Ford accomplishes things. The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad. The answer is, common sense and hard work.

To begin with, Ford has scrapped the ancient railroad traditions, customs and precedents he has encountered. The surest and easiest way to get to his company is to say to a man to say, "When I was on the Southern railroad we did this." They don't want that kind of a man on the T. & I.

Ford made out his own passenger timetable when he took the reins. "The train that starts first on a road ought to be No. 1," he said. The Baltimore accommodation starts at 7:15 in the morning, so instead of calling it No. 2 as it has always been called, we'll call it No. 1."

Remembers Trains.
"Oh, no," said an old railroad man. "That can't be done."
"Why not?" asked Ford.
"Because," explained the railroad man, "The Baltimore accommodation goes to Springfield. It's a north-bound train and in this country north and east bound trains have even numbers and south and west bound have odd numbers."

"Do you suppose," asked Ford, "that giving this train an odd number would prevent it from arriving in Springfield?"
The railroad man thought it would hardly be that bad.
"All right, then, we'll call it No. 1," said Ford.

The D. T. & I. employees have caught that spirit and are eager to speed tradition wherever they find it, especially where it is an obstacle.
The D. T. & I. gives service on its own lines simply by moving cars. That's all there is to the mystery.

"A freight car brings in no revenue when it is standing still," said Superintendent W. H. Kinney. "The car may stop, but the interest on the investment keeps running. It has to be moving to be of real value to a company. We don't use yards and sidings as storage places for loaded cars. It's the business of every man working for

THE station agent, Henry Ford model, is something new in railroading. He combines several men's jobs—like a telegrapher to janitor. This one was snapped on the job—which is several jobs—at Napolet. This efficiency explains why the employees of the D. T. & I. are better paid than those on other roads, while the line makes money and reduces rates.

bound train and in this country north and east bound trains have even numbers and south and west bound have odd numbers.
"Do you suppose," asked Ford, "that giving this train an odd number would prevent it from arriving in Springfield?"
The railroad man thought it would hardly be that bad.
"All right, then, we'll call it No. 1," said Ford.

The D. T. & I. gives service on its own lines simply by moving cars. That's all there is to the mystery.
"A freight car brings in no revenue when it is standing still," said Superintendent W. H. Kinney. "The car may stop, but the interest on the investment keeps running. It has to be moving to be of real value to a company. We don't use yards and sidings as storage places for loaded cars. It's the business of every man working for this railroad to help in the movement of cars and every man does help, no matter whether he is an engineer, conductor or stenographer.

One thing that undoubtedly is of great importance in quick handling of freight on the D. T. & I. is the "check-up" policy.
Orders Are Obeyed.
When an order is given on the D. T. & I. it is checked. The official who gives the order knows immediately whether or not the order is obeyed. The result is that orders are obeyed. Officials spend no small part of their time traveling up and down the line—and not in private cars, either—with eyes always open.
Giving service on other lines over which cars are routed, when they pass out of D. T. & I. control, seems not such a simple matter, but Ford appears to have solved it.
The D. T. & I. crosses all the big trunk lines that run west from the Atlantic. Some of them it crosses two or three times. In addition to the connections at Toledo and Detroit it has 46 connections with other roads in its 378.4 miles of main line.

Ford simply plays one line against the other.
He says to one big trunk line: "Give me service and I will give you freight. No service, no freight. I'll give it to another line."
The D. T. & I. is such a big feeder that there isn't a single big trunk line that can afford to loaf on the job.
The third article will appear tomorrow.

Judge Declares Commission Covers Only Set of Charges.

WELLAND, Ont., Nov. 9.—At the opening of the investigation today into charges laid by former Chief of Police George Laing against Police Magistrate Goodwin, License Inspector Putnam and Police Officers Goss, Wilnot, Cressy and Angle of the Welland police force, counsel for the complainant met with a snag. For the first time it became public knowledge that Laing had filed two declarations, one on Aug. 2, and the other three days later.
Judge Campbell of St. Catharines declared his commission only covered the charges laid on Aug. 6. These refer only to the magistrate and Putnam. Laing testified that he could not get a warrant to search the Goodwin Block, owned by the magistrate, and suspected of being a gambling place. He alleged that Goodwin had declared that there must be proof of a rake-off before anything could be done.
The ex-chief also stated he had given Goodwin six bottles of Three Star brandy which had been confiscated.
A further allegation is that the officers had taken bribes which were all pooled. It transpired that six weeks after the charges were laid Laing sent Goodwin an invitation to pay a social visit to him at the Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, stating "that it might benefit you to do so."

Laing this morning swore he had no motive in writing the letter. There was no idea of blackmail, but a visit might have proved beneficial to the magistrate in view of the fact that he might at a future date commit some one to that institution.

The investigation is proceeding and is liable to last for days. R. Bracken, K.C., M.L.A., Chatham, is defending those implicated in charges, while William German, K.C., is appearing for Laing and city council.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

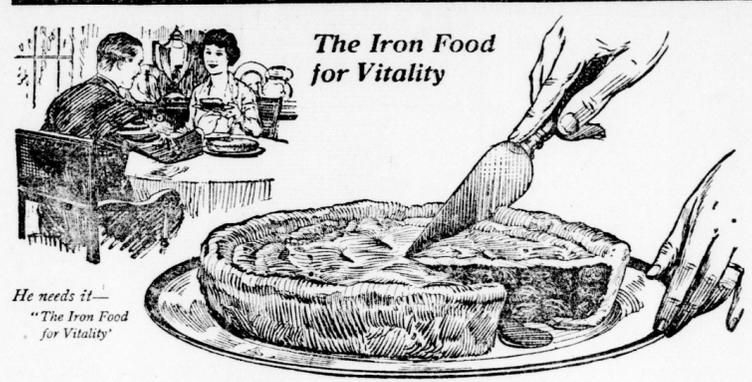

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back, or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Iron and Energy

—give them to your husband in a pie that he'll crave because of its luscious flavor
THE man for whom you choose the food, madam, depends largely on you to keep him fit for the modern business grind.
He needs foods that give him luscious flavor to enjoy, and energy and iron to refresh and vitalize him.
Raisin pie is prime food in both respects.
Raisins are rich in iron. Men need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital. Raisins furnish 1,560 calories of energizing nutriment per pound—in practically pre-digested form.
So this pie is ideal dessert for the hard-worked, tired man at night.
Make according to the recipe shown here. You don't know real raisin pie, nor does he, until you've tried this kind. You'll serve it at least once a week at his request. You'll please him and improve him, and you'll enjoy the pie yourself.
Delicious raisin pie and raisin bread are sold by bake shops and groceries everywhere. Buy of them to save baking at home.
Real raisin pie is made with lots of raisins. Insist on it. First-class bakers do not stint.

Disarmament.

When they meet for disarmament at Washington they cannot do better than take the advice of Charles Sumner:

"Lay a new stone in the grand temple of universal peace, whose dome shall be as lofty as the firmament of Heaven, as broad and comprehensive as the earth it sits on."

In West York.

Conservatives in West York are having a merry battle long before the election starts. The convention gave the nomination to A. J. Anderson, a barrister of West Toronto.

Another Conservative, Len Wallace, refuses to get out of the way, and he balks at the idea of another convention. He is in the field to stay as a straight Conservative.

A. J. Anderson was a member of the Liberal party in 1917, according to "charges" now made against him. While all this is going on Major Streight, the Liberal candidate, is conducting his campaign with remarkable success.

Four Splendid Members.

"What we have we'll hold." There were four splendid members in the last Parliament from Western Ontario. Duncan C. Ross, West Middlesex; Archie McColg, West Kent; W. C. Kennedy, North Essex, and Fred F. Pardee, West Lambton. They represented every class in the community, and are all men of more than average ability.

Meeting of the Life Insurance Presidents.

The fifteenth annual meeting of Life Insurance Presidents will be held at the Hotel Astor, New York, on the 8th and 9th of December next. When first organized in 1907 the meetings were attended by a few only, but each year they grew in size and importance, until in recent years the capacity of the hall has been taxed.

The Key of Liberty.

"All men are at some time the masters of their fate," so the greatest bard has told us. Liberty for the few only was the rule in early and in feudal times. Liberty has been wrenched from time to time from kings, lords and princes until the circle of its power extends to all the people.

More Tory Funds.

If one were to stop to read the billboards just now he might be able to pick out signs of a brand new circus coming to town. For have we not pictured thereon a stalwart man, hero-style, grasping the arm of a dazed dame, and leading her out of some sort of a wreck?

The Jail Problem.

Guelph has had another jail breaking, the governor and the turnkey being badly beaten. Three men got out, but two were recaptured. The province should by this time have seen the folly of trying to house dangerous men in isolated spots all over the country.

MANY a man's destiny has been settled by nothing apparently more grave than a pretty face on the opposite side of the street and a couple of bad companions round the corner.

Familiar Studies—Francis Villon.

A Picnic With a String Tied To It.

with the chances of escape reduced to a minimum.

Recent camps at Woodstock, London, Guelph, Toronto and elsewhere surely cry out for a system that is strong enough and workable enough to baffle any roughneck or group of roughnecks that come within the grasp of the law.

tween the two countries that will reach into billions.

LITTLE 'TISERS

Even in death a turkey at 45 cents a pound must feel a lot better than a pile of liver at 10 cents.

That wee Hapsburg who started a fool uprising a few days ago would probably have been anxious to sign the young man on if he had only read that slogan "Meighen Will Lead Us Through."

The suggestion has been made that, with Mackenzie King in possession of a fine home in Ottawa, he should take steps to select a suitable lady to preside over the place. Being the wife of the prime minister does sound rather attractive.

Four of the Conservative cabinet members can look with complacency on the present contest. They are Sir George E. Foster, Hon. Dr. Reid, Hon. James Calder and Sir Edward Kemp. The campaign of "Safety First" is surely bearing results in high places.

James Murdock was praised by the Conservative press when he went on the Board of Commerce. Now he is denounced as a fakir by the same press. Simply because he is carrying into the open the threat he made straight to the Government that he would let the people know how the said Board of Commerce was tied hand and foot by Ottawa Conservatives.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie, minister of agriculture, speaking at Woodstock, urged the need of a tariff, using the words: "How can we compete with the cheap labor of Germany or Japan without a tariff?" This ministerial stumper is talking wide of the mark. The Liberal administration took steps years ago to protect Canadian labor. Today there is no intention of allowing Canadian labor to come into competition with cheap foreign labor. It is plain misrepresentation of facts and of purpose.

NOAH'S POETRY

Morning and Night. Along about this time of year I get from off my couch, and nurse what grows in hours to be a fairly good-sized gronch. The weather for the day is cold, the snow is in the sky, and sour things lurk upon my jaw and camp within my eye.

HARD WORK

BY DR. WM. E. BARTON. I HAVE heard of men working themselves to death, but I do not think I have ever known anyone to do it. I have known a good many men who had died from what was called overwork, but I doubt the diagnosis. Work is good for men. It does not kill them, and they can do more of it than most of them do.

thrust upon my feet, great things they be to shed the cold and generate the heat.

I put a quilt around my neck and tabs upon my ear, and sally forth to face a world that's powerful grey and drear.

I fail to see the strugglin' light what's touchin' the sky, my think-tank is too blue, my boy, to take a look on high. I take it all for granted that things is dark and grey, and nothin' of the beautiful touch will come to me that day.

But when I turn to home at night I find the sun's up there, and things about me seem to bear a happy kind of air.

I take the quilt from off my neck and see the sunset red, and decent thoughts they trickle in and camp inside my head. And when I reach my little hut my soul's begun to thaw, a smile comes waltzin' up to me and camps upon my jaw.

This sermon's just a homely thing, but still it's powerful true, there's loads of sun if you'll just look to chase away the blue.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 31—LONG FINGERS.

Long fingers are not the marks of a "practical" person. Nor are they the marks of the man or woman particularly suited to hard physical work or strain.

Unless you find their indications overbalanced by other characteristics, you are safe in assuming that the long-fingered person is a dreamer, sensitive both in feelings and appreciation.

Long fingers are, in short (if the pun may be pardoned), the outward and unconcealable sign of an inward artistic temperament. If you know somebody with long fingers, just check this up against their temperaments as revealed to you in ordinary association.

It is well that all people in the world haven't long fingers, for the world is decidedly better off for having a certain number of them, for their flights of fancy often make them pioneers in many fields where the stolid, unimaginative individual with a practical turn of mind would not be likely to blaze any trail.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY Here We Have Items of Local and District Interest, As Recorded in The Advertiser of 1896.

NOVEMBER 10, 1896. This morning the laying of the floor at the G. T. R. carshops will be commenced in the machine shop at the east end. It is expected that the work will be finished by Christmas if the weather is favorable.

The Organized Charities Society intends to continue its good work throughout the coming winter, and at a meeting held last night in the city hall the following officers were elected: President—J. S. Pearce. Vice-President—A. Taibot. Second Vice-President—Dr. Arnott. Treasurer—O. Labelle. Recording Secretary—H. E. Gates. Inspector Sanders of the Children's Aid Society was appointed secretary for six months.

Ex-Secretary Alex. Marshall reported that in his term of four months last year he had visited 75 families, representing 500 persons, and of these only 50 families had been found deserving. Six impostors and thirteen unworthy cases were discovered, and four cases of wife desertion reported.

Schemes for the winter were discussed, and the advisability of co-operating with the Salvation Army and the police was admitted. President Pearce reported that the society had made a fairly good record in the year of its existence, considering the difficulties it had met.

Last week at the public library 1,422 books were circulated, 889 of them being in the fiction department.

On Saturday the principal of the Western Ontario Art School, Mr. John H. Griffiths, received from Dr. May, superintendent of art schools, etc., twelve diplomas, being awards to the following students, etc., who exhibited specimens of their work at the Columbian Exhibition, Chicago, viz.: R. Bland, Miss Beach, Mrs. Cartwright, Miss Doty, Miss Gray, Miss E. M. Gunn, Mrs. A. C. Johnston, Miss Kemp, Miss Leithbridge, Miss Mattie Griffiths, John H. Griffiths, also a diploma for the school. Mr. Griffiths will be at the studio Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings to deliver the diplomas.

Ventilation Means Health DR. BISHOP TELLS WAY TO AIR YOUR HOME

PEOPLE can live without food for days and without water for hours, but without air only a few minutes. It is readily seen then that the air supply is of prime importance. The mere construction of the proper kind of buildings does not assure good ventilation. The most important factor in ventilation is the proper degree of humidity and freshness.

Most people are unreasonably afraid of air in motion, or drafts. A gentle draft is really one of the best friends which the sincere seeker of health can find. Of course, a strong draft directed against some exposed part of the body, causing a local chill for any length of time, is naturally undesirable.

But the ordinary draft results from poor ventilation is usually to be had through the windows. It is advisable to keep windows open almost always in summer and often in winter. Whenever practicable, one should have an entrance for fresh air and an exit for stale air at opposite sides of the room. Where there cannot be a cross-current of air such as this, circulation may be established by opening a window both at the top and bottom.

Window boards, simple means for letting air in during the winter, deflecting it upward so that the air will reach the breathing zone without chilling the feet, are excellent. For the lack of such simple things most people go through an entire winter without raising a window.

When it is necessary to be saving of gas or coal, a partial substitute for ventilation can be secured through an electric fan.

The importance of coolness of air is almost as little appreciated as the importance of motion of air. Most people enervate themselves by heat, especially in winter.

The temperature of living-rooms and workrooms should never go above 70 degrees and for young people and those who have not lost largely in vigor, a temperature of five to ten degrees lower is preferable. Heat is depressing. It lowers both mental and muscular efficiency. In the cold season, indoor air is often too dry and may be moistened to advantage. This may be done to some extent by heating water in large pans or open pots.

In very cold, dry weather, the air supply of an ordinary medium-sized house requires the addition of not less than ten gallons of moisture every 24 hours and sometimes much more.

AS A LONDONER SEES IT

THE following letter has been received by The Advertiser from the superintendent of a London firm, and a style of discussion that is commendable: Editor Advertiser: Sir—Supporters of the Meighen regime are never tired of declaring that the present is the best time for the welfare and the destiny of this country is in the balance.

We quite agree with that proposition. No great insight is necessary to perceive that not only the civilization of Canada, but that the whole world is on the edge of a precipice.

During the Meighen regime the country has been going from bad to worse, but we are told not to worry; that the same set of performers who put us in the hole are those best qualified to get us out again. They use the familiar slogan, which the Meighen machine is spending thousands of dollars to advertise, "Meighen will lead us through." That idea surely needs advertising.

This being the case, it is well to recall that all revolutions from the fall of the great Roman Empire to the French Revolution, and the Russian Revolution, were all precipitated by the "Stand-patters," the hardshell type of Conservative, the reactionary. In other words, people of Mr. Meighen's mental calibre who, unable to see the rocks ahead, steer straight for them. No student of history, be he Conservative or Liberal, would deny that it was the ultra-Conservative and reactionary tendencies of the ruling regime that brought about the French and Russian revolutions, and plunged two great countries into a sea of blood and starvation.

The same cause determined the American Revolution of 1812-15, and so it has ever been. The only safeguard against the recurrence of such calamities is a policy of wisdom, conciliation, and justice, and above all a determination to abolish all grafting, extravagance and patronage, and to fight on the side of legitimate progress.

The wheel of progress goes steadily onward, moved by Eternal Law. Those whose illegitimate interests suffer thereby will spend millions and make frantic efforts to stop its progress. But whenever nations or governments or individuals have endeavored to arrest the inevitable forward movement of the world or of society, sooner or later they have been ground to pieces. Their names are soon forgotten, but the names of those who, seeing far into the future, have lived and fought for the cause of a larger liberty and a higher standard of citizenship, will live forever in the grateful memory of future generations. Such were Gladstone, Laurier and Lloyd George.

The Tory press continues to assume that Mr. King is a free trader, and so necessary protection is to be thrown to the winds. The only thing wrong with that assumption is that it is not true.

Mr. King has declared again and again that the only kind of protection he wished to abolish is the kind that sends up the price of foodstuffs and other necessities 25 per cent, and at the same time fails to provide employment for a single additional workman. The only result of such "protection" is that the owners of some industries make bigger profits at the expense of the workingman, than they would otherwise.

On the other hand we find that enormous quantities of goods are manufactured in the States, which should be manufactured here in Canada, because in many cases the present duty works a hardship on the Canadian manufacturer, having been designed years ago for a certain set of large interests. There is not, for instance, a tariff in Canada which would benefit more by a proper tariff revision than our own city of London.

Some years ago the few paper mills in Canada had sufficient influence on the "powers that be" to get a tariff of 35 per cent imposed on paper coming into Canada from the United States. Either through indifference or ignorance the people who designed the tariff imposed a duty of 22 1/2 per cent on printed pictures, chromos, etc. From these figures you will see that the printers of London have a 12 1/2 per cent tariff against them. Mr. Somerville in his manifesto upheld Mr. King in declaring for proper tariff revision, and if the voters of London elect Mr. Somerville, extensive expansion in the printing industry may be looked for right here in London.

Everyone knows that one child can easily cost the state ten thousand dollars during ten years getting out and in of penal institutions. Never on any question have so few of the aldermen of this city shown such admirable lack of backbone. To hard-working citizens, having no time to give a special study to civil and social problems, elect such men who are supposedly better informed, and who take a special interest in such problems. And then, forsooth, the efficient officials, not being able to make up their own minds about simple questions, about which there are no two opinions, have to go and ask the people what they think about. Why did they not find it necessary to ask the people about the new utility buildings, and the extension to the river playground which will cost thousands of dollars?

Then again this assembly of Solomonoids to defer the question until the police commissioners can tell the whether a separate trial room is required or not. I understand Mayor Little was in favor of this motion. Lives there a man or woman who knows the first thing about juvenile courts, and who understands their spirit and purpose, who would think it desirable to bring children to the common court room? G. Why Dominion Rubbers? To some people rubbers are just rubbers. They think so little of comfort and wear, that they say: "I want a pair of rubbers" and take anything that happens to go over their shoes. As a matter of fact, there is as much difference in the quality of rubbers as in cigars or silk stockings, with practically no difference in price. ## Creator of "Bed Time Stories" Captures Heart of City Kiddies

"If there are any big people here, going to tell you about the animals and birds. You know, they are real little people like you. They have their griefs, just like you do, and their good times, just like you do, and their good times, they are happy, and they even go to school. But it isn't just the same kind of school you go to. Big folks call it the school of experience, and in it the little birds and animals learn how to take care of themselves."

Following "What I'm going to talk about" came an hour of enchantment, during which Mr. Burgess told stories of his very homeliest friend, Mr. Hop Toad, hump backed, long legged, big mouthed with a "hind side fore" tongue, and possessing beautiful golden eyes, and the way Mr. Hop Toad scored Peter Rabbit into being an honest citizen; about how the cousin of the red headed bird headed Mr. Buzzard got his black head, and the tale of how Buster Bear and seven other little bears got very big pains in very small stomachs through eating stolen sweets.

Even the tiniest tot responded with sympathetic silence to the poetic beauty of the parable of the million little beams of sunlight that started from the sun to gladden the earth. On their way to a room where a billion of little raindrops in a cloud who smiled back at them and the two together made the most beautiful thing in all the world.

"The rainbow!" cried intent little listeners.

After that, according to the spinner of tales, the sunbeams found their way to the hearts of flowers to make honey there, through iron gratings, and one found its way to a room where a billion-eyed baby caught it and smiled. "And even the shadows of night couldn't chase the little sunbeams away, because they were safely locked in the heart of flowers and of men," was the happy ending.

After the stories there were pictures so life-like that one little boy wanted to know if birds and animals were really there and would bite. There were screech owls and horned owls, Mrs. Blackie, the crow, the song sparrow and her relations, the many members of the squirrel family, the residents of the smiling pool, from the noisy little toad, the turtle and Jerry Muskrat, to the stately heron and the king fisher. There was Bobby Coon, Uncle Billy Possum, Old Man Coyote, Paddy the Beaver and nobody needed to tell those audiences who they were. Last of all, there was the rosy, Reddy the Fox, greeted with shouts of laughter, and finally to say "Bless you my children, you may run home now," Mr. Peter Cotton said.

Animals Go to School.

There was absorbed attention when the man who really made the animal and bird stories stood up and said, "I'm

Velvet Gowns in Fashion's Favor

BY MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Velvet combined with other materials is growing more and more in favor as the season advances.

And when velvet is shown in brilliant and rich shades the effect is naturally stunning. The gown of red crepe matelasse and velvet is like a burst of flame, and flame color is one of the most important shades this year.

The gown has many novelty touches—the soft draped collar, the uniquely skirted sash belt extending low on the skirt and the originally-cut sleeves. The bodice alone, which resembles a basque, is of matelasse piped in velvet.

The skirt is full and extremely girlish appearing.

The small hat, with its pendant loop of red silk and velvet.

CHAPTER 17—THREE WOMEN AGREE ABOUT LOVE.

"What's the big hurt in love?" I asked.

Motherdear flushed. Sometimes I think she has, at her age, more feeling than I, who am supposed to be entering the silly sentimental period of girlhood.

"Since you ask, you must be old enough to guess, May."

"But I can't guess! So tell me!"

"Forgetting? The pain of loving is forgetting? Then Ginetta was right."

"What did Ginetta say?"

"That Cissy is a piker."

Motherdear scowled. I hastened to explain.

"I don't like the word any better than you do. It's Ginetta's idea of 'forgetting' in love."

"If you know what you're talking about, be definite."

"The other day Ginetta was talking to a bunch of women and she called Cissy a piker, and Rose remarked, 'So he's passed you up, has he?' And Ginetta said, 'I should worry! Love always passes' in it true. 'Motherdear! Or were they talking to frighten me?'"

"I think the girls were in earnest," Motherdear admitted.

"But is it true? Or only true for Ginetta? And for Rose?"

"It's true for many men and women, dear! Since you ask, you're old enough to hear the truth."

"Then why—why let myself fall in love? If it isn't going to last, why let it begin?"

"That's quite an idea!" Motherdear smiled sadly. "Perhaps it would be best for you not to be looking for love all your waking hours, as most girls

HOLD THANKSGIVING TEA.

Members of the First Methodist Church Mission Circle met for tea at 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening on the occasion of the Thanksgiving dinner. Dr. A. McEwen, a returned medical missionary, was the speaker of the occasion, two young ladies appearing in Hindu and Mohammedan costume to illustrate the dress of the country. Sister Mrs. Scoble, proved a pleasing addition to the program.

SPEAKS ON "MOTHERHOOD."

An address by Mrs. Pelow on "Motherhood and Its Relation to the Problems of the Day," a solo by Miss Irene Perly, a witty Irish reading by little Margaret Talbot, and a punning pie social as a wind-up constituted the enjoyable program of the meeting of the Hale Street Mothers' Club Tuesday evening.

UNDERSTAND THE CHILD.

An eloquent plea for a sympathetic appreciation of the viewpoint of the child on the part of parents and teachers was made by Rev. G. A. Lechlitter on Tuesday evening, in an address delivered at one of the most interesting meetings of the year of the Riverview Mothers' Club. Mr. Lechlitter also delighted with a solo, "Absent." A gratifying report was received to the effect that $15 had been realized from a home-made candy and rummage sale this amount to be used for relief work in the school district. Mrs. Charles Walker presided, Mrs. Eckert contributing a much-appreciated reading. Refreshments and a social hour wound up the evening.

MOTHERS' CLUB PROTESTS.

The Empress Avenue Mothers' Club is preparing to bring out a West London candidate for the school board. The step is prompted, it is stated, by the alleged neglect of the board of education regarding certain pressing matters in connection with the West London school. The president, Mrs. C. M. Linnell, declares that the only case in force is to be "thrown out of the window."

The business part of the monthly meeting of the mothers' club on Tuesday evening took the form of an "in-lane" meeting. Mrs. John I. A. Hunt of the school board, who was present, agreeing that matters should be righted at once. Mrs. Hunt gave an interesting address on "A Trip to Cairo."

MOTHERS PLAY, PAY BY INCHES

A party to raise funds for the War Memorial Children's Hospital proved a very jolly event for the members of the Lord Roberts Mothers' Club this week, taking the place on Tuesday evening of the November meeting. Galas of merriment were provoked by an all-fashioned spelling match, for which the honorary president of the club, Mrs. W. J. Carson, performed the role of teacher. In addition to this "school days again" feature, there were kindergarten games, led by Miss Buttery into which the mothers entered with keen enjoyment. A musical program included numbers by Misses Williams, Strudwick, Morgan and Dumaresque, with Miss St. Clair as accompanist, after which there were delicious refreshments.

For once inches proved expensive possessions. Little envelopes had been sent out to the members and other prospective guests, in which to place an admission fee, 5 cents for each foot of height, with an additional cent for each inch above the even feet. One small woman, just 5 feet 2 inches, paid 27 cents to get into the party. At that, it cost her smaller neighbor 21 cents, because the latter measured exactly 4 feet 11 inches, and 11 inches meant 11 cents.

A Valentine tea and sale of work early in February will be the next effort of the club on behalf of the children's

WHERE THE PEARL WAS

When the Twins heard Cukie Cotton-Spinner say that he had eaten the Fairy Queen's pink pearl, they could't speak for amazement. The idea! That such an ugly, shapeless, concealed member of the Wiggelins family should dare to touch the lovely pearl that Silver Wing, the Fairy Queen's messenger, had dropped into the sea by mistake!

There they were, bound hand and foot by the long white threads that Cukie had so quickly and unsuspectingly woven around them. And nothing did a bit of good. Their Magic Green Shoes and the Silver Badge were of no use at all now that they were tied so securely.

"What are you going to do with it?" asked Nancy, finally wondering what Cap'n Pennywinkle, the fairy policeman would say when he heard where the wonderful pearl was.

"Oh, just keep it and look at it every whip-stitch," grinned Cukie, "I

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

There are too many lazy people in the world. You find them every walk of life, persons who are so selfish that they do not care whether they are useful or not.

An irritating type is the one which is quite well off, possibly inherited at birth, when their only ambition is of no use whatever in this world. The income, more than likely, came from parents who worked their fingers to the bone in order that their children might be comfortable.

Then there is the person who works in a routine way, coming to work at the hour set and leaving just as promptly, the one idea in working being to draw a salary which will provide the necessities of life. This person will go on living this insane existence for the rest of his days.

It is our duty to humanity to be industrious and useful. A lazy person is one of civilization's shavers and should be shaved into service, compelled to produce something that the world needs. Laziness is not simply an undesirable habit, it is a sin against society. Don't go out of this world without having done something for a human soul. By keeping yourself busy and useful you will be healthier in mind and body.

SLAYER FAILS IN DECISION APPEAL

Will Be Sentenced At Hamilton Next Week.

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—All the questions advanced on behalf of Wilfrid Meharg, found guilty by Sir William McLock of the murder at Hamilton on December 23 of John I. Whitworth, storekeeper, have been answered by the appellate division adversely to the prisoner. He will be sentenced at the adjourned session of the assizes, which begins Nov. 14.

T. J. Agar, who appeared for the prisoner, referred to the Crippen case and the Holman and McFadden case on the question of admissibility of certain evidence in reply instead of in chief, and was told that these cases were dead against him.

According to Mr. Agar's story, Meharg and a companion named Dickenson entered the store with the intention of robbery, but when Meharg saw that Whitworth was a big man he decided to have nothing to do with it, and intended to leave, but Whitworth, pointing at Dickenson, told him to get on with it, and they would get, when his hand knocked against the scales, and the revolver went off accidentally, killing Whitworth.

"If they were engaged in a criminal act, it makes no difference," said Sir William Meredith. "Why were they armed?"

"To assist in robbery," replied Mr. Agar. "Yes, and to use, if necessary," said the chief justice.

Justice Ferguson—"Why didn't he go out when he decided to have nothing to do with it?"

Mr. Agar—"Dickenson called for help."

Justice Ferguson—"He could have gone out if he wanted to, but he tried to take the other man out of lawful custody, which he had no right to do."

Mr. Agar argued strongly that it was improper for the judge to instruct the jury in the absence of the counsel. "It is the first case in Canada," he said.

"And the last time a judge will make such a slip," suggested Sir William Meredith.

His Bedtime Tales Teach Cruel Oriental Boys To Love Animals

"When I completed the sixteen stories necessary for my first book I went home and told my folks I was written out, that I had written my last animal story. Since that time I have written more than 2,500 on the same subject," was the little pup into his experiences as the children's favorite author, afforded The Advertiser by Thornton Burgess during his visit in the city Wednesday.

"How did I start to write these nature stories for children?" He repeated the question of the interviewer. "I had been for some years with the Phelps Publishing Company of Springfield, Mass., when my little boy, four or five years old, went to visit his had a most interesting experience. My first book to be translated into another language is in Chinese. A missionary at Han Kow, wishing to teach the little Chinese children kindness to animals—and they are unintentionally cruel, she states—expressed her wish to me that she could have my stories for the children. I mentioned it to my publishers and didn't think any more about it until this summer I got one of my own books in Chinese. I couldn't even read my own name.

Tell Children Truth.
"I have two things specially in mind in writing these stories for children; first, to tell them the truth about nature, and second, to inculcate a moral lesson. Children are just like grown-up people. They shy at the thing that looks like a moral or preaching."

"But I can give a moral in the very opening of a story and the children will approve. I get all a question of psychology. The little folks have the same attitude of indulgent superiority towards animals that grown-up people have toward small folks. The child, for that reason, feels that justice has been done when Peter Rabbit or one of the other animals gets what is coming to him for doing what he should not do."

Mr. Burgess had something to say with regard to his method of writing. It is his business in life. How does he find out all the delightful things about birds and animals? Knew ever so many of them before he started writing at all, observes them when he has time, and consults the best authorities available, insisting that at least "two shall be agreed" before taking their word for it. And he pounds his typewriter from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Enjoys Welcome.
His motto is "sincerity until the end is the evil thereof." When he made his first contract with a syndicate for 313 stories, six a week for a year, he could only think up eighteen titles the first day.

"I would go stale if I started worrying over what was coming next," he says. "I don't know what I am going to write about the next day, though I announce what the title of the next story will be. When I go to my desk next morning I frequently have to see what I am supposed to write about."

Sometimes I write four or five stories a day, and my record day was when I wrote in Jackson, Florida. I received word from a syndicate that a number of my stories had been mislaid, and asking me for more at once. I dictated six stories between 2 and 4 o'clock, and four stories between 2 and 4 o'clock, and they were by no means the worst I have written."

Mr. Burgess expressed himself as delighted with the welcome he had received from his little friends in London.

OLD QUEEN CITY PLAYHOUSE SOLD

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—(By Canadian Press.)—The recently-reported sale of the Burlesque House, Star Theatre, is but another chapter in the history of Toronto City property that has had about as many changes as Joseph's coat had colors. Originally the building which still forms part of the Star Theatre was a Methodist Church, about 60 years ago. Then for many years the church building was occupied as a printing establishment. Later it became a temperance hall and justified the name of the street on which it stands—Temperance street.

Some time later it became a show house and the first burlesque theatre in Toronto. During the intervening years there had of course been many additions to the building and the church-like appearance disappeared between the modern theatre walls. For some time, the Toronto Police Benefit Association held a mortgage on the building, and there was more or less comment on the fact that the purchase of the Toronto police should be in any way mixed up with a burlesque theatre.

LLOYD GEORGE SURE BLUE SKY "IS EMERGING" Refers To Coming Improvement in Trade At Lord Mayor's Banquet. PRAISES ARMS PARLEY Declares Man Is Most "Unteachable of All World Animals."

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The prime minister speaking at the lord mayor's banquet this evening, referred hopefully to signs of coming improvement in trade. "The world is settling down to work," said Mr. Lloyd George, "and it is said Mr. Lloyd George will fill the depleted tills which will enable purchasers to come to the markets. The blue sky is beginning to emerge; the Washington conference, summoned by President Harding, like a rainbow in the sky. For, without the assurance of peace, restoration of business is impossible. "This conference comes none too soon. So far the war man anticipated from it, in arresting the growth of armaments. Man Most Unteachable. "Man is the most unteachable of all animals. If you inflict punishment upon any other animal he quickly learns the lesson. But, take the late war; it was the most terribly destructive in the history of the world. For that devastation competition in arms is largely responsible. The world is being scourged deep into the flesh of the world, and yet no sooner are we out of it than the nations spend their substance in devising and amassing fresh engines for war; fresh machines spring up everywhere to justify war. You might imagine that the one purpose and glory of a national organization was human slaughter. "Armaments today are twice as expensive in men and material as they were before the great war; at the present rate they will soon be a hundred times as destructive and terrible. In peace the burden was crushing; in war

DO YOU SMOKE TOO MUCH?

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, excites the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath, and loss of sleep. To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS. They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco. Mr. Frank Lutes, 71 Terrace Hill street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop on me some time if I did not cut out tobacco. When I would get a spell my heart would pound, and I would break out in a perspiration, and get so weak I would have to sit right down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going. I should say, about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that they did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight." Price, 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The P. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

"DANDERINE" Grows Thick, Heavy Hair 35-cent Bottle Ends All Dandruff, Stops Hair Coming Out

Ten minutes after using Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow long, strong and luxuriant. One application of Danderine makes thin, lifeless, colorless hair look youthfully bright, lustrous and just twice as abundant.

the effect will be too terrible to contemplate. Road to Safety. "Disarmament is the road to safety for the human race. Suspensions, fears, misunderstandings, even quarrels, are as inevitable among nations as among individuals; deadly weapons are ready at hand, one day they will strike. The United States conference has the future of civilization in its charge; therefore, I earnestly pray for its success. "Twenty-four years ago Lord Salisbury in this room expressed the satisfaction which the people of this country felt at the peace settlement which had just been reached of our last serious difference with the United States of America. Every man who is a man of British blood has been taught to regard a serious quarrel with the United States as unthinkable. That attitude of mind is in itself a guarantee of peace between the two countries. May Be Great Event. "But this conference held under the auspices of the United States ought to carry us a stage further; it is the inculcation of a similar attitude towards and between all peoples. If that is achieved at this assembly the Washington conference will be the greatest event of the last nineteen hundred years. "The gathering at Guildhall was as brilliant and distinguished as ever before, representing all phases of national life, and including among its members the United States, Japanese, Spanish, Brazilian and Italian ambassadors. Incidents of the banquet were the ovation accorded Mr. Lloyd George and the amusement he derived from instructing his daughter Megan, in the use of the loving cup. Drinks With Curzon. The United States ambassador, George Harvey, drank with Lord Curzon from the cup, and was also greatly interested in the ancient ceremony. Lord Curzon, in toasting the diplomats, alluded to the late United States Ambassador Page's correspondence to prove of how a wise, tactful and high-minded ambassador could exert a powerful influence in the country to which he was accredited without the slightest derogation of his loyalty to his own country. He referred to the gathering of statesmen at Washington as a conscious grouping of the nations of the world towards international relationship far better than the old balance of power, and the sole remedy for the evils from which the nations were suffering. The Spanish ambassador, Senor Merry del Val, responded on behalf of the diplomats. Reveals No Secret. Of the Irish negotiations, Mr. Lloyd George said in conclusion. "I cannot reveal any secrets of the conference room; that is the way to bring a conference to naught. All I can say is that there is a better prospect of our invitation to the people of Ireland to come into free partnership in the British Empire as equals being heeded today than at any time for years. "Mr. Lloyd George repeatedly emphasized the necessity of peace, saying that it was needed for the welfare of the Empire as well as for the good relations of the British Isles. The worst aspect of a family quarrel, he added, was not only that it caused unhappiness within the family, but attracted the attention of neighbors. Declaring that there could be no peace and that a great opportunity would be lost if each party approached the tangled problem determined not to budge an inch, he explained: "We who are in the conference on behalf of the British Government and people, regard ourselves there as the trustees of the Empire, the guardians of its honor and security. It is a high trust; we promise you we will not betray it."

BRITISH ARMS PARTY ON WAY TO WASHINGTON ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Arthur J. Balfour, former British prime minister, and acting head of the British delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments, and members of the delegation, comprising 21 persons, passed through Albany late today on their way from Montreal to Washington, where they will arrive about 8:30 tomorrow morning. Sir Arthur Wauchope, an English journalist, traveling with the official party, said the former prime minister would not make public Great Britain's greetings to the United States people until after his arrival at Washington.

CLAIMS FAREWELL WANTS DIVIDENDS Secretary Morrison Calls Shareholder a "Poor Co-operator."

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—At a meeting of a number of shareholders of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company held here this afternoon, called by Dr. A. A. Farewell of Oshawa, a shareholder in the company, Dr. Farewell criticized some of the directors on the ground that they had little financial interest in the company. He suggested that a new board of directors should be chosen. Dr. Farewell, who is being sued by the United Farmers' Co-operative Company for $50,000 damages for alleged slander, disclaimed responsibility for a newspaper article upon which he intimated the legal proceedings against himself had been based. He said that he had been told by an officer of the company that no dividend would be paid this year. He had asked that a meeting of the shareholders be called to consider the company's affairs, but Secretary J. J. Morrison did not agree to this and at the time had suggested that there was "profit in it."

Francis, president of the Engineering Alumni Association of the University of Toronto, expressing regret that he could not accept the invitation to visit Toronto while on this side of the Atlantic, the famous admiral says: "It would have been a pleasant duty to pay publicly a humble tribute to the wonderful work of Canadians at sea and at sea during the war and to testify the affectionate admiration with which they are regarded in the Old Country."

FINDS RORDON DEAL "SIMPLE"

Drayton Admits Government Accepted $800,000 in Notes For Taxes.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 9.—(By Canadian Press.)—In a memorandum issued tonight replying to the statement made by H. J. Ellard, Progressive candidate in Wright constituency, that the Government had accepted notes from the Rordon Lumber Company in lieu of some $800,000 owing for excess profit taxes, Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, declares that in fact determination was "a sheriff's sale on the one hand, or nursing the account on the other, so that the business of the company might be carried on." "The action of the Government was the only possible one, he asserts, in view of the fact that a sheriff's sale would have resulted in a severe hardship to many citizens doing business with the company, and to the company's employees. Sir Henry emphasized that the Government has not waived its claim in any way, but that the claim for taxes has priority over the claims of pulp producers, jobbers and bankers, and carries interest at the rate of seven per cent. The interesting point brought out by Sir Henry is that the principle is exactly the same as that applied to the farmers of the Northwest, who through crop failure are unable to meet their obligations. The memorandum in part follows: "The Rordon situation is very simple. The company is in the same situation as any other company that is now and has been unable to pay its business profit tax. "The position of the business profits tax is very different from that of the income tax. The business profits tax is now cancelled and certainly few firms would, in any event, be liable to a business profits tax on their income. "As a result of action taken by the Government and other credits, the large mills at Kipawa and Rockland are now running. This end is being accomplished without the Government waiving its security at all. "The attitude of the Government ought not to be less patriotic than that of the farmers in the northwest who, being unable to meet their income taxes earned in profitable years, have found themselves, owing to subsequent crop failure, in this predicament. These farmers have not been asked by the department, but their arrears are carried at the same rate of interest as the Rordon arrears. "It may be further observed that the department's action is not only consonant with sensible business administration, but that it is similar to practice everywhere. "The minister says this is the practice both in Great Britain and the United States.

London Papers Declare G. T. R. Arbitration Award Proves Fair

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The financial editor of the Evening Standard advises the Grand Trunk shareholders to read carefully the arbitration award which fixes the price which it is presumed the Canadian Government will pay for the assets of the Grand Trunk Railway. The award has just been received here. The editor adds: "Having read the award, shareholders must in fairness admit that the award is just and in no way bears out the contention that the arbitrators were out to support confiscation. Some evidence relating to the actions of the late board of directors leaves a nasty flavor in the mouth." The Morning Post also speaks of the unpleasant impression created on first sight regarding the manipulation of the accounts in recent years by the directors, but says a rather different complexion is placed on the chairman's review by the memorandum of ex-President Taft, another member of the board.

Three Epochs in Woman's Life

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark on her career—the first when she changes from a care-free girl to a woman, the second motherhood, and the third is change of life. SEES AMERICA STERN IN EAST

Washington Official Certain New Stand Will Stir Arms Parley.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A radical change of front on the part of the United States with regard to her policy in the Far East, will make itself felt for the first time at the arms conference here, according to an important official of the Harding administration today. From an attitude of purely academic protest when the rights of her nations abroad are assailed, America is expected to serve notice on the nations gathered here that a new rule of conduct, not so passive, will guide her actions in the future. England is likewise expected to make known a similar, though less drastic, shift of policy, she having less far to go than the United States to arrive at the same stand. As a result of this long step for America, and the shorter one for Britain, the two nations may fetch up very close together, at least on Pacific problems. The American delegation's China platform, at the conference here, the same official indicated, will be: 1. China is the concern of all the powers, not of any one power or group of powers. 2. The peace of the world must be preserved by insisting upon right international relationships in the Orient. 3. A solution of the problems of the Orient must be sought through the help of China's sovereignty must remain unimpaired and her territory unbridged. 5. There must be a reorganization of China, by the Chinese—with such international aid as may be necessary—on a sound basis, and with a government acceptable to her own people, capable of preserving the peace, protecting life and property inside her borders and discharging her international obligations. 6. No special advantages must be allowed any power in China which are not allowed Great Britain and the United States. 7. What is their due, whether great or small, that Great Britain and America must have. On paper these seven points are but the reiteration of the 22-year-old policy of the "open door." But the significant contention now is that instead of allowing this doctrine to remain the door-mat which it has been up to this time, the United States intends to stand by it and make it effective, as a necessary preliminary to agreement on Pacific questions. Behind this change of attitude there is an interesting story. Accepted nearly a quarter of a century ago by all the great powers, the American policy in the Orient has been stepped on and kicked about by nearly all Japan has been one of the worst offenders. "Why don't you make your ally respect the 'open door' and be good?" Uncle Sam unofficially, but none the less earnestly, whispered to John Bull, "Why don't you?" was John Bull's retort courteous. "It's your 'door,' isn't it?" Which ended the quiz. Threatened with war in the Orient as the result of twenty-odd years of drifting in the Far East, the Washington Government now begins to show positive evidence of making a right-about-face. Great Britain, on her part, exhibits a willingness to co-operate with America. The question is, how far can the Harding administration go with the land-tied up as it is with election pledges? RUSSIAN INVENTION RESULTS IN WRECK Flat Car Driven by Airplane Propeller Runs Down Train.

BAKU, Azerbaijan, Nov. 9.—A Russian invention for propelling railroad cars by the use of airplane propellers has just resulted in a smash-up.

Captain Simobov of the Soviet Army had rigged up a flat car with a motor to drive a big airplane propeller, and built a little triangular house on the car. At a railroad junction outside of Baku, he tried to induce a conductor of a train to hitch his airplane car on behind. The conductor refused and the train went on for about three miles and

As the passengers in the rear coach were making tea, the airplane car came around a curve going at about 60 miles an hour. Most of the passengers got out of the rear car by way of the windows, and the captain and a girl companion leaped from his flat car, which banged into the rear coach, doubled itself up and jumped the track, a mass of wreck.

Nobody was hurt, but the proud invention of Bolshevik land had gone to smash.

The captain said he did not see the train in time to stop, but, he added, "anyway the brakes does not work."

The Russians have been applying this airplane propeller device to push trains, automobiles and boats.

TELLS MOTHER TO USE CASTOR OIL WITH CARE

Sir Wm. Taylor, Noted Irish Surgeon, Addresses W. O. Academy of Medicine.

WARNS AGAINST DELAY Claims Pains in Abdomen May Indicate Serious Intestinal Trouble.

Members of the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine in session here Wednesday afternoon were honored by an address delivered by Sir William Taylor, K.B.E., C.B., M.B., B.A., F.R.C.S.I. of Dublin, past president and member of the Council, Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland, who is en route to Montreal after attending the Clinical Congress at Philadelphia.

Sir William selected for his topic, "Acute Intestinal Obstruction," and thoroughly covered this branch of surgery.

He urged both physicians present and the public to be ever mindful of pain in the abdomen, particularly in the case of young children, impressing upon his audience the fact that such pain unless carefully investigated may lead to serious consequences. He further emphasized the fact that mothers should not be too hasty in seeking the castor oil bottle in the pantry in an effort to relieve baby's colic, pointing out that in the onset of intestinal obstruction or appendicitis purgatives harm the patient to a marked degree.

The speaker dealt with the technical side of operation and treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, stressing the fact that the high mortality in this illness is chiefly due to delay in placing the patient in the hands of a surgeon. Operation was the only hope and that as soon as possible.

Quoting words of one of his preceptors Sir William said at this point: "There is a time in the affairs of men, which, taken in the flood, Leads on to Fortune." He stressed the surgery of intestinal obstruction there is an opportune moment at which operation is possible and following which the best results are obtained.

He reviewed several cases, which during his many years in the profession he has treated, and pointed out difficulties and pitfalls which beset his way.

He introduced the subject of chronic subluminal obstruction during his address and outlined his method of treatment.

During the discussion which followed Sir William Taylor's address, Dr. John Wishart of this city asked his opinion on the use of purgatives, and it was at this point that the distinguished visitor agreed with local surgeons in the opinion that if used at all in such selected cases these drugs should be employed with extreme caution. Dr. Hadley Williams compared Dublin, where Sir William Taylor is a surgeon, to London.

Work Under Difficulties. He drew attention to the fact that in the majority of urgent surgical cases in Ireland there is a hospital near at hand for treatment, whereas in Ontario surgeons are often required to respond to a call from sparsely settled districts. Here should an operation be necessary and the patient's condition not warrant removal of several miles to hospital, the surgeon must do his best at the farm house, often under very adverse circumstances, and handicapped by meagre equipment.

In moving to a note of thanks to the speaker, Dr. H. Williams said: "Sir William was right to the point and told more in 30 minutes than some people could do in five years." Dr. John Wishart of London seconded the vote of thanks, and voiced his appreciation of the treat accorded by Sir William's visit.

The address was delivered in the auditorium of the Western Ontario Medical School and in introducing Sir William, Dr. F. W. Hughes, president of the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine, said: "Sir William Taylor comes here with a reputation and he has engaged in surgery for a number of years. He enjoys a world-wide reputation and has come to London after attending the Congress of Surgeons at Philadelphia."

Sir William Speaks. In his opening remarks Sir William said: "I noticed while at Philadelphia that your hospital has been recognized by the American College of Surgeons. While coming from Ireland, a doctor on the ship informed me that you had one of the best medical schools in Canada here."

Investigation of Sleeping Sickness To Take 2 1-2 Years

LONDON, Nov. 9.—An expedition formed by the Tropical Diseases Prevention Association will soon leave to make the first organized attempt to investigate on the spot the treatment of sleeping sickness, as distinct from the question of the mere transmission or cause of the disease.

The expedition will be conducted by four physicians and two veterinary scientists, and it is expected the work will occupy two and a half years. It is sought to carry out the work in different centers with the sanction and support of the governments interested, and it is hoped that it will result in a general system of vaccination whereby all individuals arising in a danger zone will be inoculated, and so gradually rendered immune.

The expedition will first work in Uganda. It will probably proceed later to the Belgian Congo, and it is hoped to extend the work to Rhodesia and the Sudan, where there is a big epidemic of the disease.

Sleeping sickness has been prevalent among the natives of West Africa for 100 years. It is generally attributed to a parasite carried by a species of tsetse fly which infects cattle. The disease has caused heavy mortality among the natives of the Congo and Uganda for many years, and is greatly dreaded by Europeans in the parts of Africa where it exists. Its origin has been the subject of much medical research.

What item of expense looms larger for the girl supporting herself than that of clothing? She wants to present a pleasing appearance, because she knows that this not only gives her self-confidence and adds to her self-respect, but is actually an important factor when it comes to securing and holding a

ONE CANDIDATE WILLING TO RUN No overwhelming ambition to sit on the school board apparently existed among "desirable" candidates in London, if the evidence is conclusive which was presented by the special committee which reported on Wednesday afternoon to the citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women. Six vacancies await to be filled on the board. Of citizens approached with regard to running, only one definite promise has been secured to date, that of the Local Council of Women. Six names will be urged to stand for a second term.

Between nomination and municipal election days, probably on December 1st, it is proposed by the committee to hold a mass meeting at which all the candidates running for municipal honors will be invited to speak and state their platforms. The idea is to give the women of London an opportunity of knowing the candidates and what they stand for.

November 24th has been arranged as the date for the meeting in the Masonic Temple to hear the Conservative candidate, Mr. Frank White, and a presentation of the National Liberal-Conservative platform under the auspices of the citizenship committee. Miss Constance Boulton, president of the Toronto Women's Liberal-Conservative Association and a brilliant speaker, has been secured to deliver an address on that occasion.

ALLEGED U. F. O. CRITIC GETS NOTICE OF ACTION TORONTO, Nov. 9.—A writ for slander, claiming $500 damages, has been issued by the United Farmers' Co-operative Company against Dr. A. Forewell of Oshawa, following his alleged criticism of the company's affairs. The writ was issued by Gordon Waldron, K.C., solicitor to the U.F.O.

SCIENCE OF CLOTHES IS NEW CLUB STUDY

Y. W. C. A. Industrial Federation Holds Fashion Show.

A "Fashion Show" for most practical purposes is the new thing under the sun for the federation of industrial clubs of the London Young Women's Christian Association. Thursday evening is "federation night" at "Lenmore," the King street residence, when representatives of the nine clubs will be present at the supper and for the program to follow.

The study of the home, to which the federation is giving attention, will be continued, this time with relation to finances.

What item of expense looms larger for the girl supporting herself than that of clothing? She wants to present a pleasing appearance, because she knows that this not only gives her self-confidence and adds to her self-respect, but is actually an important factor when it comes to securing and holding a good position. She is a human and "just girl," therefore she is happier when she appears to good advantage. Because she is modern and up-to-the-minute and has heard and read so much on the subject, she realizes that good dressing is largely a matter of suitable dressing, whatever the actual expenditure for clothing.

All these things have been taken into consideration by the Blue Triangle club in presenting the case to Smallman & Ingram's and asking the firm to give a fashion show of clothing for girls in business, in the home, and on the street, in connection with the federation night gathering. "This is how it has come about that the girls who attend will see an exhibition of the right things to wear for forenoon and afternoon, and the kind of simple little frocks which prove so becoming for evening."

Owing to the importance of the occasion, the federation is extending an invitation to all girls who are interested to attend.
