GIOVANNI GIOLITTI.
THE YOUNGEST PREMIER ITALY EVER HAD EXCEPT COUNT CAUVOIR.

Sketch of the Man Who Was Largest Responsible for the Downfall of the Budini Ministry.—A Piedmontese in Whom the King has Absolute Confidence.

When something more than a year ago, King Humbert I was on the confines of Italy, he was received by the Marchese di Budini, signor Giovanni Giolitti to the Quirinal, and in the language of statements charged him with the duty of forming a new cabinet. It was known by that time that he was the only man in Italy who could step into Rudini's shoes with any chance of being immediately overthrown. The present proposal was to bring through the new pretender, and a narrow escape from overthrow, being sustained by so narrow a majority that he considered it unsatisfactory. He appealed to the country, which gave him a good deal of support, but he largely in his favor, which proved on a trial to be closer than was comfortable.

Nevertheless when his supporters recently met to consider what was to be done, it was still of the opinion that no one but Giolitti could stand the assault of the opposition, and he finally prevailed upon the government to accept his services instead and go on. There have been hints that this reluctance was but assumed and that the whole proceeding was prearranged by Giolitti for the purpose of getting rid of King Humbert. His position, however, might strengthen himself by giving portfolios to a couple of influential senators. Be that as it may, Giolitti continued in office.

Giolitti was largely responsible for the downfall of the Rudini ministry. He was minister of finance in 1890 under Crispri, but was forced to resign because of disagreement with his chief on the tariff question. Rudini offered him a portfolio, but he declined it, and cutting loose from his former chief, he became the author of a policy that has been eminently successful. Signor Giolitti was born at Mondovì in 1843. His father was a jurist, and he himself determined to adopt the legal profession, but entered the customs service in 1869. His advancement was rapid, and in 1878 he was appointed general inspector of finance, and under the Depretis ministry, he became director of stamp duties. He was elected to the depu-tatives from his native province almost with-out opposition, and Crispri made him minister of finance.

He is taciturn and presents speech of a slow, quiet, abrupt and even brusque of speech. He shuns society and devotes himself entirely to his ministerial duties.

He has perfectly held his ground bodily strength.

Count Cavour, the young est premier Italy has ever had.

THE NEW MODERATOR.

Rev. Dr. Craig, of Kentucky, Who Preaches the Frightful Sermons That Win.

The new moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly of the United States of America, the Rev. Willis G. Craig, D.D., was elected as the representative of the conservative element of the church, but he was personally commanded by his eminent fairness by members who did not vote for him. Like his predecessor in the moderatorship, Dr. C. Young, he is a native of Davierville, Ky., and was educated at Center college in that town and at Danville Theological seminary.

Dr. Craig graduated from Center college in the class of 1851, when he was not yet 17 years of age, and spent seven years afterward in theological study with his brother. He entered the seminary in 1853 and in the spring of 1861 was licensed to preach. His first ministerial connection was with the Westminister Presbyterian church of Kookoo-ka, La., where he remained 20 years.

In 1881 he was elected to the chair of Biblical and ecclesiastical history in the Theological Seminary of Northwestern, but the congregation so vigorously opposed his removal that his presbytery refused to release him. The following year, however, his church and presbytery were both practically up to date, and he returned upon the duties of his professorship in September, 1882.

He occupied the chair of church history for fifteen years and was transferred to the chair of ethics and pastoral theology made vacant by the resignation of the late Dr. Thomas H. Skinner. He still retains his membership in the Iowa presbytery, however, and was sent to the general assembly as a commissioner from that body.

Dr. Craig is in his sixtieth year, but he looks fully 10 years younger. He is a direct descendant of the Scotch-Irish, which betrays his Scotch lineage. He is a cousin of Vice President Stevenson, but has never taken any active interest in political matters.

SALLY DOWS, An After-War Romance OF THE SOUTH. BY BRETHARTE.

COPYRIGHT, 1892, BY THE AUTHOR.

The overcast hastened for a moment, and then unloosened a revolver from his belt and handed it to Courtland.

"Now, how many of you are in the habit of going round the town armed like this?"

"Only de men who've been insulted, sah."

"And how you been insulted?"

"Marie Tom Highbees down in de market reckoned it was high time fancy niggers was drove into de swamp, and I allowed that I looked and began to hold back when they lit upon me. They was around, said Marie Tom said he'd cut my hab'it out."

"And do you think your carrying a revolver will prevent him and his friends performing that operation if you pro-

"You said it was to perfect oneself, sah," returned the negro, gloomily. "What fo' den did you drill us to use dem rife in de army?"

"To defend yourselves together," it added, not to satisfy yourself with the idea of being a hero. Together, you would stand some chance against those men; separately they could eat up O'Court."

"I wouldn't trust too much to some of dem niggers standing together, sah," said Cato, darkly. "Day run before we old masters—if fo' didn't run to 'em. Saah!"

A shiver of fear had crossed Courtland's mind before, but he made no present comment. "I found out of the army rifle in the men's camp," he said, "but I don't know again. They must not be taken from the army except to defend it."

"Yes, sah."

There was a moment of silence. Then it was broken by Cato, who said, "I accept that as the column of the por-

LYNDHURST.

FRIDAY, June 16.—The post office and Mr. F. Eaton's tailor shop are now looking very nice owing to the new coat of paint they received last week, but if those painters would like to see some very fine work in that line we would call their attention to R. W. Copeland's hotel, and also to Mr. Mackay's store. Johnny does not take a back seat from even his old employer.

We would advise Bob after this, when he goes in or on the water, to take a rope and tie one end around his body and the other to the boat-house. He is rather Young to get very far from shore, and he might accidentally go over the Falls and then—Oh! Bob! the girls would miss your smiling face so much.

The post master has seen that a good job has been done in repairing the sidewalks in the village. A traveller can walk along now without being afraid he is going to fall into his own hole.

We understand that Mr. Joseph Withers has severed his connection with this little town and gone to Watertown. We wish him every success.

Miss Minnie Roddiek, who has been confined to the house for some time past with measles, are glad to see us able to be out again.

The members of the Society of Friends, who are holding meetings in this neighborhood, enjoyed on Sunday last the company and agreeable labors of a foreign minister, Elwood Carter, with James Kersey as his travelling companion. On Saturday evening, previous to their departure, they experienced complete satisfaction in visiting the parts also admiring the little town of Athens for its beautiful location and well promising aspect. Judging from the substantial Arrests.

Respectfully dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Haase, Plum Hollow:

We always one another. All must sometime part. Our hearts will often bring our heart. All shall from this life depart.

Ever shall we be here, though we have left our kind—Alas! she's gone, we find.

Heaven has their little loved ones. And twill we then name him; His love is given. Since death has lost its venom sting—Earth, she left on flying wing.

C. V. W., Teacher.

The A. O. U. W. at Addison.

On Sunday morning last the annual church parade of Addison Lodge of Workmen took place and was a very successful event. Over sixty members of the order were present from Athens and other points. Rev. G. S. White, member of the order, conducted the services, and delivered an address respectfully to the Workmen as a fraternal and insurance organization.

Speaking in a general way his defense of secret societies was admirable, and while serving to clearly justify their existence, contained a sharp rebuke for those who, through ignorance, seek to hinder the good work that is being done. After the service the brethren returned to their lodge room where brief speeches were made and the customary votes of thanks passed.

After adjournment the visitors were treated to a grand spread prepared by host Alex. McDougall. The dinner was in every respect a model one and served in first-class style.

The Addison Lodge is a progressive club.

The Report of the A. O. U. W. and the members are to be congratulated on the perfection of their arrangements for the services on Sabbath.

A Little Pink Book.

The Report has off its description and a large number of the finest men in the country, that is just the same as saying the finest in the world, but the experience of the past two weeks has demonstrated the fact that it has or had a few that may very properly be termed "mosey"—a few who are mean and dishonest simply because they know that the amount they beat the paper out of is too small to be recovered in a suit at law.

Another class, but little less contemptible, is made of those who have taken the paper for four or five years on credit and when dunned for the amount owing, call into the office, quietly effect a settlement on the basis of a dollar a year, and then as they pocket the receipt exclaim, "Now, I want you to stop it!" Let us show just how mean such people are!

The cash in advance of the paper is a dollar a year and the account of a man for five years should read as follows:

To subscription, five years, $5.00 To interest at 6 per cent, 1 1/2

When the editor agrees to accept $5 in settlement of this account, he does so on the assumption that the delinquent will continue to be a subscriber and pay more promptly in future. It will be readily seen that to take advantage of a publisher's trust and liberality in this way is dishonest as well as mean.

We are pleased to say that we have met few men of the latter class, and devoutly pray that the number may grow less.

Drugs Wholesale.

The new drug house of John A. Bar has decided to increase their already large trade by offering to the trade in town and country all the leading medicines and chemicals, and lines usually carried by grocers and country stores, at wholesale prices, and with that end in view have laid in an immense stock, no less than 50 cases and barrels being received during past month.

Call and get their prices. Corner store, Fullam Block, Brockville. Telephone No. 177. Orders per mail promptly filled.
