HEROES.

There are heroes who are lauded for their daring on the field, There are heroes who on engines let their courage be revealed; There are heroes who rush boldly to save others in distress; There are heroes who give hungry little orphans happiness, But another merits mention as a hero ring the bell For the man who doesn't grumble when he isn't feeling well. Let us give the heroes medals who go forth to dare and do In the crash and roar of battle, and where flames are leaping, too; Let us honor them that nobly help the poor and weak and small, But he ought to have a statue, finely wrought and white and tall, Who refrains from boring others with his troubles, just for spite, Who works on without complaining when he isn't feeling right.

Grippe Headache.

Mrs. C. Appleton, Whitewood, N. W. T., writes: "Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders have given me great relief from the terrible pains of La Grippe in my head and through my back." Price 10c. and 25c. all dealers.

Harry and Charlie, aged five and three respectively, have just been seated at the table for dinner. Harry sees that there is but one orange on the table, and immediately sets up a wailing that brings his mother to the scene. "Why, Harry, what are you crying for?" she asked. "Because there isn't any orange for Charlie."

Minard's Liniment cures Diphtheria.

At this time of the year when sore throat, pains in the chest, rheumatic pains, and aches are so prevalent, it would be wise to keep on hand a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is a perfect medicine chest. Price 25 cents.

When Baby Alice first saw a cow with a bell around its neck, she thought it so funny that nothing could induce her to leave the spot. She stood watching the cow until it slowly walked away. Then, when the bell began to ring, she turned de-lightedly to her mother exclaiming, "O mamma, does the cow ring the bell it when wants the calf to come to supper?"

The Church and the People.

The Professor of Church History in the Baptist Theological Seminary at Rochester, New York, lately discussed in the Independent the failure of Christianity to deal with the questions which agitate the world of the present day. "The morality of the Church," he says, "is not much more than what prudence, respectability and good breeding also demand. Nor is the morality of church members generally distinguished by the glow of spiritual fervor." It does not seem to occur to him that because the Reformation gave up the Evangelical Councils, treated vows of chastity, poverty and obedience as hypocrisy or fanaticism. "When we pass from private and domestic life to political and business life, continues Professor Ranschenbusch, the matter is worse. About the most pressing questions arising there the Church as a body is dumb. It has nothing to say about the justice of holding land idle in crowded cities, of appropriating the unearned increment in land values, of paying wages fixed by the hunger of the laborers and taking the surplus of their output as 'profits,' or of cornering the market in the necessities of life. It feels restless about some glaring evils like child-labor, but only moderately so. Individuals in the Church are intelligent and active, but the Church, both as an organized body and as a corporate spiritual force, is inert. The moral guide of humanity is silent where authoritative speech is to-day most needed. Where it does speak, it is often on the wrong side. When we consider the ideas prevalent in the churches, their personnel, and their sources of income, has the Church a message of repentance and an evangel for this modern world? One important and growing class in our population is largely alienated from the Church—namely, the industrial wage-workers. The alienation is most complete where the industrial development has most completely run its course." These are words of reproach, and they are well deserved. Elsewhere in the same article Professor Ranschenbusch sums up his complaint against what he calls the Church, in the following words: "In private life its standard differs little from respectability. In commerce and industry, where the unscrupulous and painful problems lie, it has no clear message, and often claims to be under no obligation to have one. In the State Churches the State has dominated; in causes which lead to conflicts between employers and employed. . . . No man may with impunity outrage that human dignity which God Himself treats with reverence, nor stand in the way of that higher life which is the preparation for the eternal life of Heaven. Nay, more; no man has in this matter power over himself. To consent to any treatment which is calculated to defeat the end and purpose of his being is beyond his right; he cannot give up his soul to servitude; for it is not man's own rights which are here in question, but the rights of God, the most sacred and inviolable of rights. . . . If we turn now to things external and corporeal, the first concern of all is to save the poor workers from the cruelty of greedy speculators, who use human beings as mere instruments for money-making. . . . In regard to children, great care should be taken not to place them in workshops and factories until their bodies and minds are sufficiently developed. . . . As a general principle it may be laid down that a workman ought to have leisure and rest proportionate to the wear and tear of his strength. . . . Let it be then taken for granted that workman and employer should, as a rule, make free agreements, and in particular should agree freely as to the wage; nevertheless, there underlies a dictate of natural justice more imperious and ancient than any bargain between man and man, namely, that remuneration ought to be sufficient to support a frugal and well-behaved wage-earner. If through necessity or fear of a worse evil the workman accept harder conditions because an employer or contractor will afford him no better, he is made the victim of force and injustice. . . . We have seen that this great Labor-question cannot be solved save by assuring as a principle that private ownership must be held sacred and inviolable. The law, therefore, should favor ownership, and its policy should be to induce as many as possible of the humber class to become owners. . . . Many excellent results will follow from this; and first of all, property will certainly become more equitably divided."

For the result of civil change and revolution has been to divide society into two widely differing castes. On the one side there is the party which holds power because it holds wealth; which has in its grasp the whole of labour and trade; which manipulates for its own benefit and its own purposes all the sources of supply, and which is even represented in the councils of the State itself. On the other side there is the needy and powerless multitude, broken-down and suffering, and ever ready for disturbance. If working-people can be encouraged to look forward to obtaining a share in the land, the consequences will be that the gulf between vast wealth and sheer poverty will be bridged over, and the respective classes will be brought nearer to one another. Surely this excellent Baptist Professor has taken a narrow view of the Church, when he has failed to see that a clear pronouncement upon these grave matters to which he refers has been made by the head of that organization which even non-Catholics admit to be the strongest and most important religious society on earth. Nor was Leo XIII., laying down in this document any new principles. He was simply applying to the labour question the rules enunciated by moral theologians concerning a maximum and minimum price, rules at variance with the pagan political economy which teaches that every man has a right to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest without let and hindrance. Political economy says that freedom of competition will make the relations between seller and buyer, between employer and employed, harmonious. Religion says that the law of brotherly love is a better promoter of harmony, and now that freedom of competition is being destroyed by combinations of capitalists on the one hand, and by combinations of workmen on the free Churches the capitalist class dominates. Both influences are worldly—in favor of things as they are, and against the ideals which animate the common people. . . . The Church has passed under the spiritual domination of the commercial and professional classes. I do not mean that they alone compose its membership, but they furnish its chief support, do its work, and their ethics and views of life determine the thought of the Church more than we realize. . . . The people are becoming daily more sensitive to the class cleavage of society. The Church suffers under the general resentment against the class with which it is largely identified. By the Church, of course, the Professor means the Protestant sects, and his remarks do not apply to the Catholic Church. Still, the last words which we have quoted remind us how the Catholic Church has suffered in Europe by being identified in the eyes of the people with tyrannical governments, and we cannot help wondering whether it will ever be identified with tyrannical corporations in America. It will not, if Catholic bishops and priests are always careful to avoid even the appearance of siding with the capitalists against the just demands of the workingmen. In France the clergy were never really in favour of tyranny; but they were afraid of the people, and had a profound distrust of the wisdom of the masses. When these masses finally rose in revolt against conditions which could no longer be endured, they did not look to the clergy for leaders, as other peoples had done in the Middle Ages, but allowed themselves to be guided by unscrupulous demagogues, who had them thrown down the altar along with the throne. If Ireland remained so thoroughly Catholic, it was because the clergy were always in perfect sympathy with people. Mistakes have been made in these matters, and may be made again not by the Church, however, but by churchmen. Professor Ranschenbusch cannot have read the Rhycolical, Berum Novorum, or he would have modified his statement that "the moral guide of humanity is silent" about the most pressing questions in political and business life. "His great and principal duty," said Leo XIII., speaking of employers for labour, "is to give every one a fair wage. . . . To exercise pressure upon the indigent and the destitute for the sake of gain, and to gather one's profit out of the sweat of another, is condemned by all laws, human and divine. . . . It is shameful and inhuman to treat men like chattels to make money by, or to look upon them merely as so much muscle or physical power. . . . The laws should forestall and prevent such troubles (strikes) from arising; they should lead their influence and authority to the removal in good time of the other, the scientific solution is losing its usefulness every day, and the religious solution is becoming the only one available."

Even Socialism recognises this, and takes as its first principle brotherly love, brotherly love so similar to and yet different from that taught by Christ, however, that thoughtful men are asking themselves whether Socialism is not the anti-Christ foretold in the Scripture—The Gasket.

Items of Interest.

The fact that at the pontifical Mass celebrated on the occasion of the consecration of the Cathedral of Armagh, a collection amounting to $30,000 was taken up, makes the Catholic Transcript remark: "We do not believe an equal sum was realized on any like occasion in America. It begins to look as though the 'Irish at home' are able and willing to build their own churches."

"In addition to the large number of religious whom the tyranny of Combes has forced into exile from their homes and country," says the Catholic Union and Times, "we read that by the closing of their convents twelve thousand more have just been turned out into the world, friendless and penniless. Verily, in the words of the great Edmund Burke, the days of chivalry have departed, and the France of Bayard is no more."

Noting the fact that eight students of the Wisconsin State University were suspended recently for taking part in a drunken carousal, and breaking into a house occupied by "oo ooo," the Catholic Telegraph says: "Is it any wonder that our bishops and clergy are so solicitous that Catholic students should attend our own educational institutions, where morality is inculcated, and where the sad of co-education, with its temptations and scandals, has no place?"

"Rev. Dr. De Costa's prospects of being able to be about again grow stronger every day with the passing of the heated term," says the Freeman's Journal. "That he has battled for his life so long is another proof of the value of an abstemious life—of temperance and orderly habits—as well as a tribute to the nursing of the good Sisters of St. Vincent's. The clear head and bright eye and cheerful countenance in old age, and even when the limbs are unfirm, are ever the rewards of abstinence in youth. Thus while the good doctor is confined to a room and a chair, he is still preaching to young men a lesson in temperance."

A despatch from Paris describes how the monks of Premontre were driven from their monastery by soldier and police, aided by the local fire brigade, who "played upon the little band of monks unmercifully with their water hose." The despatch ends by saying that a crowd of "8,000 or 4,000 people cheered the monks" as they moved away singing hymns. Commenting on this the Freeman's Journal says: "If such an outrage were perpetrated in any other Christian country the sympathy of 3,000 or 4,000 people with the victims would take some more tangible form."

"When convention time comes around," says the Michigan Catholic, "space is looked for in the Catholic press by laymen who never contribute a cent to its support. Resolutions are drawn up and passed, but the Catholic press, like Catholic schools, can not thrive on resolving. The members should act business-like, and be eager to do their duty in supporting the Catholic press. A splendid work could be done by the members of the Federation if they wish to live up to the programme mapped out by the founders of the movement. At the coming convention, Catholic editors, who have not hesitated to give valuable space all year to the work of Federation, will watch and see how their work is appreciated."

Catholic Americans may well mourn the passing of Senator Vest of Missouri, for he recognized, as few outsiders do, the true meaning of Catholic effort. "In all matters affecting the Catholic religion," says the Western Watchman of St. Louis, "Senator Vest has been our undoubted champion. Whenever the Sisters wanted a friend they found one in the senator from Missouri. When the Catholics of New Mexico or any other part of the Union were assailed, Senator Vest appeared as their defender. When the Catholic Indian schools were made the subject of unjust and discriminating legislation by the Government, Senator Vest undertook the defence of the Old Church, her policy and her history; and the words he uttered in our highest legislative halls will not be forgotten while truth and eloquence are held in honor by that body."

New Light on the Railway Deal.

(Mail and Empire.) Mr. Bole, who is the Liberal candidate in Winnipeg, has just published an interview, in which he says: "I think it a pity that the new transcontinental line could not have absorbed the Canadian Northern. Had this been done as was rumored, the Province of Manitoba would be relieved of a contingent liability that will some day be a serious menace to the provincial credit. I think the proposed road will, or should, solve the transcontinental transportation problem for years to come. Surely two open to ocean highways are sufficient for a population of six millions."

The Canadian Northern is our second transcontinental road. The country has subsidized it liberally, and in the course of time it will be a completed work. In discussing the Grand Trunk Pacific this fact is often lost sight of. We were bonusing and paying for the Canadian Northern when the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme was launched at Ottawa as a third railway for the country to carry. Now, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern will run side by side in the North-West. We are subsidizing one road—the Canadian Northern—and are guaranteeing the bonds of another to parallel it all the way from Winnipeg to the coast. From Winnipeg east to Port Arthur the Canadian Northern has a line which was bonused both by the Dominion and by the provinces. The condition upon which the bonuses were given was that the line when completed should be open for the use of the Grand Trunk if that company desired to run its trains over it. It was the Government policy that the Canadian Northern from Port Arthur to Winnipeg should be controlled in such a way as to permit all railways to use it on fair terms. Thus the Grand Trunk, the Both line, and even the Government system would find a way to Winnipeg via the Canadian Northern from Port Arthur. To-day instead of giving the Grand Trunk entrance to the West over the Canadian Northern by way of Port Arthur, as provided for by law, what is the Government making us do? It is compelling us to build at the public expense a new railway from Winnipeg east. Every cent of the cost the taxpayer has to bear. We pay through the Federal for this enormous line, and are required in addition to give out of the provincial possessions $400,000 and 2,000,000 acres of land in order to make a branch to Port Arthur. The facts are deserving of re-iteration. Four years ago we were induced to give a large subsidy to the Canadian Northern on the ground that the Grand Trunk would have the use of that line between Port Arthur and Winnipeg. Provision was thus made for the entrance of the Grand Trunk to the West, and we were to pay nothing more under that head. Immediately after the line had been built the policy changed, and we were compelled to build another line for the Grand Trunk, paying from the Ottawa treasury every cent that it will cost. This line points to the north. It side-tracks Port Arthur, and threatens to carry business away from that port. In order to save Port Arthur the province has to come to the rescue, and to give $400,000 and 2,000,000 acres of land to get a branch down to it. The remarks of the Liberal candidate in Winnipeg are a strong condemnation of the railway policy of the Government which he supports. It would be a surprise if the mass of the Liberals are not of the same way of thinking as this gentleman. Why did the Government change its policy? Why did it declare that the Grand Trunk, which could have got into the West at no large expense to the public, should be ruled out unless it would consent to a huge scheme, which, as we all know, has all the earmarks of a steal? Why should Mr. Sifton oppose the entrance of the company on the cheapest and speediest terms? Why should he stand out for a plan which calls for the expenditure of $150,000,000 of public money when there was an easier and a quicker way of making the connection?

News of the War.

Tokio, Aug. 25.—The final assault on Port Arthur is imminent, and the Japanese guns continue to pour a destructive fire into the city and harbor along the line of forts and entrenchments preparatory to the infantry assault. It is evident that the Russian lines have been weakened and partly penetrated in the vicinity of the Antonov and Ileson forts. The entire line of Russian defenses immediately about the harbor within range of Japanese guns and a number of Russian forts and batteries continue a vigorous fire. The Japanese death toll will be heavily increased before they are captured. The direction of the Japanese attacks creates the impression that the city and its defenses on either side of the entrance of the harbor will fall first. The final stand will be made at Liao Tchen. Chaofoo, Aug. 25.—Golden Hill, White Marble Mountain and Lolo Mountain are now the only main forts secretly held by the Russians at Port Arthur. The others are held by them but are subjected to an artillery fire which renders their tenure uncertain. Fort No. 5, which has recently been reported to have been taken by the Japanese and retaken by the Russians is again declared to be in the hands of the Japanese. A report says that the new European section of Port Arthur is in flames. It is supposed that the Japanese are using 300 heavy calibre guns taken from the harbor defenses of Kobi, Nagasaki and Yokohama.

Tokio, Aug. 25.—Japanese official channels of information remain closed and the Navy Department's announcement of the striking of a mine by the battleship Sebastopol, and the firing upon the Russian forts by the cruisers Nishin and Kauga yesterday are the only disclosures made for several days. It is believed here that both mines have suffered heavy losses and that the final record will make the siege the bloodiest since Sedan. The Japanese are supremely confident of the ultimate result. The leaders of the Government await the outcome in calm assurance. The people are everywhere decorating streets and houses and awaiting the national celebration of the expected victory. Further details of the disabling of the Russian battleship Sebastopol have been received here. It seems that on Tuesday after Japanese landed forces from a position outside of Port Arthur, the battleship struck a mine and was disabled by the explosion. She was towed into Port Arthur. The Japanese battleship Asahi was detailed to watch the Sebastopol. Her commander reports that the Russian battleship emerged from Port Arthur Tuesday morning and co-operated with certain Russian batteries in bombarding the Japanese forces on shore. This firing had been kept up for several hours, when the Sebastopol suddenly struck a submerged mine. The explosion caused her to list heavily to starboard and at the same time she lurched forward, almost burying her bow under water. She was towed back into Port Arthur by the Admiral Katsuka. Reports that the Japanese cruiser Nishin and Kauga fired upon the Russian forts on Tuesday. They discovered that the Russians were shelling the Japanese land forces from a position near Lungtze. The Nishin and the Kauga steamed in silence the Russian guns. Kantszrin, Aug. 27.—Contrary to the expectations of the Russians, the Japanese are beginning to advance along the whole line of the Russian eastern front. On the morning of August 24th there was a rifle skirmish and on the next day the Japanese artillery opened fire. On both days the firing ceased at dusk and the small enemy displayed by the Japanese might be taken to indicate that it was merely a demonstration on reconnaissance in force. On the morning of the 26th, however, rifle and artillery fire was renewed with an energy that left no doubt that a severe battle was intended. The Japanese pushed the attack against the Russian right flank and centre concentrating the fire upon the first battery of the third brigade. Three officers and several men were wounded early in the day, but the battery held the position and repelled the Japanese fire with such a marked effect that General Iwasaki sent a congratulatory message to its commander. The Japanese several times attempted to cross Liao River but only a few succeeded and these were forced to hide in the fields of corn. At two o'clock in the afternoon the artillery fire became as hot as it was at Vafangou but it fluctuated considerably and occasionally the Russian fire almost silenced that of the Japanese. The rain fell in torrents but it did not stop firing and later in the evening several Russian companies moved forward to the attack. It is not yet possible to state definitely the result of the battle, but it is claimed that the Russians were successful.

London, August 29.—The correspondent of the London Chronicle, with General Kuroki cabling under date of August 25th, says:—The fall of Port Arthur is imminent. The Japs are now within the main defenses and their guns command it down. Desperate fighting occurs day and night, and the losses on both sides are enormous. The Russians are making furious attacks, but the Japs are clinging to the positions they have won as so great a cost. There is a report this morning that the fortress has fallen but it is not confirmed. The correspondent at Tian Sin of the Standard, cabling Saturday says: Confirmatory details have arrived and represent the Japs as having reached a point within twelve hundred yards from the new town at Port Arthur—the west side and being within a mile of East Dock basin on the East side. Strong reinforcements are hurrying from Dalny and Pitsawo leaving the reserves at both places. St. Petersburg, August 30.—A decisive battle opened at ten o'clock this morning near Liao Yang, the Japanese attacking the Russians on the latter's chosen ground.

Obituary.

On Thursday 25th ult., an Emery Wheel in the factory of J. M. Clark, Summerside, burst causing the instant death of Thomas Hickey. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Summerside and was in charge of Branch 215 C. M. B. A., of which Branch Bro. Hickey was an honored member. The members of above Branch marched from their Hall on Saturday morning, 27th ult., accompanied by members from the neighboring Branches, to the home of the deceased, where they were joined by three fire companies, Bro. Hickey having been an engineer of the Steam Fire Engine "Beaver," and proceeded to St. Paul's Church where a High Mass of Requiem was sung by Rev. J. C. McLean.

The church was filled by a large congregation of all denominations. The pall-bearers were, Bros. Mayor McNeill, Fiddell Perry, Joseph McCullough, J. R. Kenny, J. M. Noonan, and S. G. Cameron. After the last rites were performed, the procession reformed, and marched to the Catholic Cemetery, where all that was mortal of Bro. Hickey, was laid to rest, to await the resurrection morn. R. I. P. I. B. S.

We deeply regret to be obliged to record in our obituary column today the death of Mr. Johnston, wife of Mr. John Johnston of this City. The sad event occurred on Saturday morning the 20th inst., at the residence of her son, Rev. J. F. Johnston, P. P. St. Margaret's, whether the deceased had gone on a visit. Her illness was pneumonia, and was of just a week's duration. She died in her 70th year, and on the 50th anniversary of her marriage, after devoutly receiving the last Sacraments at the hands of her son. Her remains were brought to the City by train on Saturday afternoon, and the interment took place on Monday morning. The funeral from her late residence to St. Dunstan's Cathedral on Monday morning, was very largely attended by all classes of the community, who turned out to pay their tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased. The High Mass of Requiem was celebrated by her son, Rev. J. F. Johnston, who also performed the service at the grave. She leaves to mourn, a disconsolate husband, four sons and one daughter. The sons are Rev. J. F. Johnston, J. J. Johnston, Barrister of this City, William Johnston, M. D., of Boston, and Richard E. Barrister, also of Boston. The two last named were present, with the other members at the funeral, having arrived home Saturday night. Mrs. Johnston was an exemplary Christian woman, who unquestionably devoted her life to the duties of her station and to the welfare of her family. She was a good neighbor, kind and charitable, and was much esteemed by her acquaintances. To her husband, and the other members of the family we tender our sincere sympathy in their sore bereavement.

Emperor Nicholas' Manifesto.

The manifesto of the Emperor Nicholas on the birth of an heir to the throne, published recently, abolishes corporal punishment among the rural classes and for first offences among sea and land forces. It also remits all arrears owing to the State for purchases of land and other direct imports, and sets apart $1,500,000 from the state funds for the purpose of forming an insalubrious fund for the benefit of indigent people. As to Finland it grants amnesty to those Finlanders who emigrated without authorization and remits fines imposed upon the rural and urban communes of Finland who refused to submit to military conscription. It also remits the fines imposed upon Jewish communes in cases of Jews avoiding military service. The manifesto provides for an all round reduction in the sentences of persons convicted for common law offences while a general amnesty is accorded in the case of all political offences, with the exception of those in which murder has been done.

Wedding Bells.

MORNING—KERR.—A pleasant social event took place at St. Peter's Bay on Tuesday, the 16th inst., when Mr. Joseph Morrison, of St. Peter's, was united in marriage to Miss Mattie Kerr, of Glenora. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Castle Sutherland, while Mr. Seymour McAlay supported the groom. Both bride and bridegroom were appropriately gowned for the occasion and looked charming in their stylish bridal robes. The marriage ceremony was performed by Father Gillis, and at its conclusion the party drove to Souris, where they took dinner at Hotel Imperial. Returning in the afternoon they drove to their future home where a number of friends had assembled in honor of the occasion. The bride and groom received many useful and valuable presents. After spending a pleasant evening the guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Morrison happiness and prosperity in their journey through life.—Com.

DIED.

At Bloomfield on Saturday August 13th the death occurred of Miss Fanny McWilliam at the comparatively early age of 18 years. R. I. P. At the residence of her son, Rev. J. Johnston, P. P. St. Margaret's on the 20th inst., Mrs. John Johnston of this city, aged 70 years. May her soul rest in peace. At Kinkora, Sunday, 21st, Minnie Monaghan, eldest daughter of Mr. Patrick Monaghan, Kinkora, at the youthful age of 18 years. R. I. P. A London despatch of yesterday's date says: A rumor is current in official military circles that Lord Dunsandel has been selected as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Ceylon.

MONTREAL GAZETTE: Liberal papers continue to exhibit signs of great weariness over Mr. Borden's leadership of the Conservative party. It can be believed that the signs do not exaggerate the inward disturbance.

We are pleased to learn that Rev. Dr. Bernard McDonald, who has been under treatment in the Charlotteville Hospital for appendicitis, is rapidly improving. He has been able to be out for a few hours the last day or two.

On Monday afternoon a horse owned by M. F. Schurman & Co., drawing a loaded truck was driven down the Ferry Wharf, when he took fright and ran down the wharf full speed on to the Ferry boat, and striking the chain in front broke it and fell overboard. The weight of the wagon took the horse to the bottom at once, where he remained, drowned. The wagon was afterwards recovered.

PERMITS have been issued in Winnipeg this year for construction of building to cost over $7,000,000. Last year the building in Winnipeg was phenomenal, but the total at the end of the year was only $5,800,000, and this is already exceeded by over $1,000,000. From the way the figures are creeping up it would not be surprising to see the estimate of $10,000,000 for the season reached.

An extremely sad fatal accident happened in the lumber mill of J. M. Clarke, Summerside on Thursday last, by which Mr. Thomas Hickey, engineer was instantly killed. The fatality was caused by the bursting of an empty wheel on which he was grinding a moulding cutter. The wheel flew to pieces, some of the fragments striking him on the head and breaking his skull. Deceased was about 45 years of age and leaves a widow and two small children, who have the sincere sympathy of the whole community in their bereavement.

AN Ottawa despatch of the 25th, inst., says: To win three out of four appeals before the Privy Council makes an excellent showing for a lawyer. That is what Mr. Lomieux, Solicitor General, and Mr. Newcombe, K. C. Deputy Minister of Justice, are able to boast. Mr. Newcombe only returned to Ottawa yesterday from London where he represented the Government on the appeals referred to. Although the Privy Council has not formally given judgment in the Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick representation cases, there is not the slightest doubt, Mr. Newcombe says, that the Dominion's contentions will be upheld.

The Examiner has this to say: The Patriot laborously figures up the appropriation for this Province to $1,147,450. But it seems to forget that this Province has to bear of the enormous liability imposed upon the people of Canada by the G. T. P. deal, no less than $3,400,000, equal to $30 per head of the population. It loses sight, also of the fact that if large appropriations have been made for P. E. Island, much larger ones have been made for the other Provinces. So that we only get a small part of what is going—and our taxpayers will have to bear their full share. The point is well taken.

As will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, Mr. Lemuel J. Sentner has been obliged, on account of ill health, to withdraw from the firm of Sentner, Trainor & Co. All will regret Mr. Sentner's ill health, and it is to be hoped that rest and change of climate will result in its restoration. The new firm under the style of M. Trainor & Co., will continue the business at the old stand. We bespeak for it a continuance of the patronage so liberally extended to the old firm, and feel sure the utmost satisfaction will be experienced by all old and new customers.

A Cheerful Heart.

On Vacation.

Now that vacation time is with a few words on that pleasant topic may not be amiss.

Another thing which Catholics should think about seriously in connection with summer vacations is the rules of conduct to be observed.

The Bible in the Middle Ages.

We wonder if our Protestant friends, who make such a show of loyalty to the Bible, and who speak as if Catholics were debarred from reading or even possessing the Word of God, ever stop to consider that it was not for the Catholic Church they would have no Bible to boast about.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't eat and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Strengthens and tones the stomach and the whole digestive system.

average Protestant, the monk of the Middle Ages appears as a lazy, winebibbling individual, ignorant himself of Scriptural truths, and solicitous only to burn every Bible he could lay his hands on so as to keep it from the knowledge of the laity!

"Nowadays," says our esteemed contemporary, "a Catholic can purchase a New Testament for a few shillings, become the owner of a bound volume containing all the Inspired Writings of both the Old and New Testament. But it was not always thus. Before Catholic brains and hands invented the art of printing with movable types, a Bible was an expensive luxury.

The Lake of the Blessed Sacrament.

Albert Danker has a poem in the Boston Transcript which recalls the fact that the beautiful sheet of water in New York State, now known as Lake George, had originally a title far more befitting and religious. Its native name was Horicon. Its name was changed to honor a Catholic missionary who was killed by the Indians in 1634.

"Prayer Book for Religious."

We warmly recommend to the attention of all who are earnestly endeavoring to lead a devout life, whether in the cloister or in the world, a new "Prayer Book for Religious," compiled by the Rev.
F. X. Lasance. The title page informs us that it is "a complete manual of prayers and devotions for the use of the members of all religious communities—a practical guide to the particular examen and to the methods of meditation."

SCOTT'S EMULSION serves as a bridge to carry the weakened and starved system along until it can find firm support in ordinary food.

"The Mirror of True Manhood."

Fr. Pastel & Co., New York and Cincinnati, publish "The Mirror of True Manhood as reflected in the Life of St. Joseph," translated from the French by the Rev. John F.
Mullany, LL.D. Bishop Ludden of Syracuse gives his imprimatur;

The 325 pages of the clearly printed little volume present St.
Joseph to us for our meditations in the various aspects of his earthly life they recall to us his faith, hope, charity, humility, patience, prudence, obedience, piety; they reveal him to us as intercessor for the afflicted, for sinners, for the dying, as the patron for youth, and for the toiler;—in fact, as "the patron of all in every state of life, age and circumstance, because he always presents himself to them as their protector, their guide, and their model."

The Bible and the Church.

A little reprint on "The Bible and the Church: an Essay Towards Faith," by the Rev. Willard G.
Davenport, Episcopal pastor of St.
Ann's Church, Annapolis, D.C., has such good things in it only increases our earnest desire and prayer that one who sees so far may soon see farther still. The writer strives to impress upon his readers that "the Church has stamped the books comprising our Bible" [he should have said the bible] "with her own imprimatur, and accredited them to us as the Word of God." But then comes up to Mr. Davenport that Catholic call inspired, and Episcopalians call "apocryphal." Straightway he has to inform his readers that "the Church of Rome alone is not the Catholic Church;" and, to the Catholic mind, his reasonings become very confused and contradictory. He seems to lean at one time on the Bible alone, and at another time upon "the Church," as he understands it, and to fail to perceive that among many conflicting voices there must be one voice that is clear and infallible, the mouthpiece of the Holy Ghost,—not a book, or an organization, but the voice of the living vicar of Christ as His Church's head. [Young Churchman Co., Milwaukee. Price 50c.

The Church in New Zealand.

The New Zealand Herald, a non-Catholic journal, paid recently the following tribute to the Catholic Church in that country:—
"However much men may differ upon doctrinal points, we do not think that there is any difference of opinion as to the energy and persistence with which this ecclesiastical organization carries on its work.
As the result, it steadily holds its own among powerful and vigorous denominations. Indeed, it has somewhat improved its position during the past twenty years.
During the period between the census years of 1896 and 1901 it added nearly 11,500 to the number of its members in this colony, its rate of increase being slightly higher than that of the Anglican church, and only exceeded by the larger bodies among the Methodists. The results are undoubtedly due to the hard and systematic work of the Roman Catholic clergy, work which the Protestant community is generally ignorant of, but is gradually beginning to recognize."

Why She Recovered.

She was in love with a young doctor.
"His quite impossible!" cried her mother, when informed of it.
"Out of the question," asserted the father.
"His fine prospects," insisted the girl.
"Can't live on prospects,"
said the father.
The next day she was ill.
"I can see nothing wrong," said the physician who was called to attend her.
Nevertheless, he left a prescription, but it seemed to do no good.
The symptoms she described were conflicting and confusing.
"Is very strange," said the physician.
"If you do not understand the case we must get some one who does," said the mother.
So, after a week or more of experimenting, another physician was called in.
"A trifling indisposition," said the second physician, "I'll have her all right in a day or so."
But in a day or so she had him puzzled. Her lover had told her how to do it.
"Every time I see her," said the second physician, "there seems to be some new complication. I can't find anything radically wrong, but her statements certainly show that she is not all right."
By this time the father and mother were worried, and they sent for a specialist. The latter looked wise, but he met no greater success than the two who had preceded him, although his bill was considerably larger.
The father had just seen the bill when the girl called to him.
"I fear," she said, wearily, "that this trouble is going to continue indefinitely. Don't you think it would be wise to have a physician in the family?" The father looked at her stupidly.
"Perhaps it would," he admitted.
"And it's so easy to have one," she persisted.
"Arrange it to suit yourself," he said, resignedly, for he was a man who knew when he was beaten.
The next day she was able to sit up, and the day after she had recovered. But the father continued to look at her reproachfully even up to the day of the wedding.

is given as an appendix to this pamphlet of sixty pages, inclusive.
Father O'Connell has followed the method which has been one of the special features of the Sacred Heart Review in its years of labor for the cause of truth—that is, he has brought forward, in support of his thesis, witnesses from the rank of non-Catholics to prove his position.
He does us the honor, indeed, to quote extensively from our columns; but he cites as well Lutherans, Episcopalians, Quakers, Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists; he brings forward as witnesses editors and college presidents, and even the Chinese Minister, Wu Fang; and he has given us a pamphlet well worth buying and keeping and consulting. Single copies 10 cents; $7.50 per 100 copies.
