"Flatterers"

The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER XXVII.
CONTAINS A TENDER REVIVAL.

But the impression of his words was not so easily got rid of. It filled her with vague alarm. What could Miss Jean's hyper-anxiety for herself mean? What Mr. Babington's bland high-handedness with her as with Mr. Hurst? Closer duties did he hint she should attend to? Why, she had none. That very morning had brought news from Paris. Leonora was this very month to marry an English gentleman. "Suitable," wrote her delighted mother, "in every respect. And after the younger people's honeymoon they and she were to spend the last half of the year in visiting, different."

"So Mrs. Alwyn hoped Sydney continued content with her self-sought position, as Mr. Morecombe Wood could not be expected to open his circle to her immediately, whatever he might generously do in the future!" They, prosperously enjoying life's ease, would be hardly likely to want her. And even Jacob Chene seemed glad of late that she had elected to stay at Cape Moor.

"I am getting too old, Miss Sydney," his letter ran, "to tie you to my infirmities—you are best among younger people; so nowhere was she wanted but at Wynstone. Now if Wynstone, the roof to which she had riveted her life, shook her loose—"

But, no! It was unfair to saddle Miss Hurst with the one project that would involve such change. Within that possibility lay a pain too intolerable to be faced!

But those June days, warm, luscious, flower-breathing without, within went very crockedly. The book was ended and sent away, less hopefully than it had begun. Mr. Hurst was resolute in attempting nothing fresh, but he had lost his old power of listening placidly to Sydney's reading. Miss Hurst took to sitting much in the study, attending her brother officiously, never chattering in the old inconsequential fashion, but breathing out sighs like minute-guns. Mr. Babington's ton's courtesy to Gilbert Hurst developed into a peculiar mixture, brotherly, paternal, pastoral—neither very happy nor acceptable in any form, though it was refinement itself compared with the bearing of a cousin whom he brought one evening to Wynstone, introducing him as Mr. Montague Carle, from Pembroke. This gentleman announced himself as a thoroughly practical man, and on that ground presumably, ignored the shilling politeness which generally adorns social intercourse, contriving to make every one on whom he bestowed his conversation thoroughly uncomfortable.

"You're a nice place here, Miss Hurst," he said, loudly, before the whole party, "lucky to drop into it! Horace told me it was your own. Pretty piece of property for a maiden lady, or a married one, eh?"

Had "Horace" indiscreetly divulged much more? Miss Hurst colored, flustered, and sent such timid glances at her impassable-featured brother that the Reverend Horace hastened to the door, promising his children? And could he get them now?

So a move was made to the river-side, whereupon Mr. Carle fastened his society on Sydney, remarking:

"You are not a fixture here, Miss Grey, I think? You see, my cousin has told me the ins and outs of everything. Ah!—twisting round his active figure and ferret face for a good look at the house—'It is a snug little box. Two, four rooms below—five, I suppose, above; servants' offices; bedrooms over them. Nice else for a small family. Pity it should be wasted on two, and the no business to be here, as it were.'"

Mr. Babington had indeed disclosed the ins and outs of Wynstone! Sydney caught her very skirts together, from contact with this man's coat! Her mouth curved into unconcealable disgust. "I think I can see some of the rushes Miss Hurst wants, if you will excuse me," she said, and all but ran from him to the water-edge, though she regretted freeing him when she saw him pounce on Mr. Hurst, and heard him start off a conversation of which the first words, "You my honor, a handsome young lady you're got there!" were all too many for her.

What followed was equally unpalatable. Mr. Carle was great on bland-ness. "I know a thing or two about that," he boasted, "for I've a dozen young chaps at my place by Pembroke, and none of 'em can see a stroke more than you can. Gentlemen's sons all. It's a speculation of mine. I train 'em and teach 'em, and—jocularly—'make a pretty penny out of it. They don't want things first chop, as if they could see. You understand that. I haven't sunk much in silver goods and smart carpets, I can tell you. Now, I should say an able-bodied man like you, Mr. Hurst, would do a deal better picking up a lying-in such a place as mine than hanging on here, making an old maid of your sister, and being waited on by that pretty young party that's kicking yellow flowers yonder."

"Miss Grey," Mr. Hurst interrupted, brusquely, "whereabouts are you?"

"By the last willow, getting frises," Sydney's clear voice called back. "Then," peremptorily, "move away. No, stop. Let me come. Moving straight as a dart along the bank he knew every inch of it till he reached her; then, 'Never lean over for flowers or rushes just here,' he ordered. 'Half a yard from the edge this is the dearest spot on the bank. A slip would take you into ten feet of water.'"

"And there's the setting out of that young lady," put in officious Mr. Carle. "So just you mind what Mr. Hurst says; of course, he only tells you what's for your good."

He looked very knowingly from one to the other, but neither face betrayed any sentiment, except one not flattering to himself. Indeed, Sydney shrunk into such rigid irresponsiveness that Mr. Montague Carle was as willing to get away as they to bid him adieu.

Miss Hurst watched her brother furtively when the callers were gone and they three had returned to the drawing-room. "Mr. Carle is an excellent business man, I understand, though he may not be very polished. No reply to this from either listener. 'I hoped you would have chatted with him longer. For—moving ornaments restlessly about—'It is too dusk to read, and I am not inclined to walk any more. Was Gilbert, if I find the evenings long, what must you do?'"

"Do you feel them long, Jean? You used hot."

"Oh!—fretfully—'people are not always alike at all times. How I wish you had taken to music, as poor papa did, though, to be sure, it made him more intimate with that wretched Mr. Alwyn, and so brought us no good. Don't say 'wretched'! Well, I think he was Gilbert's friend, and more. The 'cello was papa's instrument, Miss Grey. He played so well. When he was young he was offered two pounds a night to join an orchestra. Two pounds a night! Fancy if my brother could have earned that!'"

"Could have earned! Could have earned!"

Sydney saw him turn away. The cuckoo cry was too hard to bear. Some one must speak!

"I fancy neither of you cared for music," she said. "I have not once heard your piano, looking at the never-opened instrument."

"Oh, I like it well enough," Miss Hurst returned, indifferently. "And you used to profess to be fond of it, Gilbert. But I fancied you cared nothing for my playing, so I gave it up. Some people—used to like it, but no doubt it sounded poor to you, Gilbert."

"Jean!"

"So I never even asked Miss Grey, for fear she might not be more successful than I was."

The speech ended with a querulous choke.

Sydney moved to the instrument in desperation.

"It is so long since I sung, I may offend you both; but I shall like to touch the keys again," she said, and sat down to the Broadwood, tuneless still, though old.

The room was so still and full of soft twilight. The very birds outside were gone to sleep. Nothing seemed to stir save the ticking of one small time-piece, the throbbing of these troubled human hearts. Unbidden, except by the tense necessity of the moment, unpremeditated, except by its few simple chords, Sydney's song broke the silence.

"Oh, rest in the Lord. Wait patiently for Him. Commit thy ways unto Him and trust in Him. And He shall give thee thy heart's desire."

She never thought of how long it only put into it the unformulated imploring of her own soul, knowing that Gilbert drew nearer and nearer, mute, not motionless.

When she ended, poor Miss Jean thanked her volubly, tears dropped freely down—but her brother had left the room without a syllable.

Men Who Must Marry.

An Anti-Bachelor Bill introduced into the Turkish Parliament makes marriage compulsory for men over twenty-five.

Defenders will be fined a quarter of their earnings, which will be deposited in agricultural banks to help peasants to marry. No adult Civil Servant may be a bachelor.

Gifts of land, loans, and State education for children are held out as rewards for marriage, with a penalty of hard labor for a confirmed bachelor.

Amos must be watched; his moral character is botched, and if he gets a chance, they say, he'll bring his harpoon into play. My neighbors sometimes say, 'Gadsboks, why patronize that prince of crooks?' Perhaps the truth has not been told; who knows what grudges they may hold against this man Alkaside, who sells fresh henfruit, plain or fried. Perhaps their hatred is bestowed because he asked for what they owed; for many people's heads get sore when they lose credit at the store. Perhaps they hate this Amos Jay because he doesn't vote their way. A score of reasons might be found why they react on when he's around, but while of Amos treats me right I shall not say to him, 'Good-night.' What others say about a gent does not impress me worth a cent, so long as he seems good and straight, and gives full measure, honest weight. Of worth man cannot be a judge if he is moved by every grudge that drooling gossip may expound, with futile heat and empty sound.

Perhaps they hate this Amos Jay because he doesn't vote their way. A score of reasons might be found why they react on when he's around, but while of Amos treats me right I shall not say to him, 'Good-night.' What others say about a gent does not impress me worth a cent, so long as he seems good and straight, and gives full measure, honest weight. Of worth man cannot be a judge if he is moved by every grudge that drooling gossip may expound, with futile heat and empty sound.

Amos must be watched; his moral character is botched, and if he gets a chance, they say, he'll bring his harpoon into play. My neighbors sometimes say, 'Gadsboks, why patronize that prince of crooks?' Perhaps the truth has not been told; who knows what grudges they may hold against this man Alkaside, who sells fresh henfruit, plain or fried. Perhaps their hatred is bestowed because he asked for what they owed; for many people's heads get sore when they lose credit at the store. ## Permanent International Court of Justice.

Eleven Judges Elected--Dail Eireann Approves Appointments--Norway Ready to Recognize Russian Soviet--State Will Press Murder Charge Against Arbuckle.

THE INTERNATIONAL COURT.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.

The eleven judges of the Permanent International Court of Justice were elected by the Assembly of the League of Nations today and were confirmed by the Council of the League, which met simultaneously with the Assembly. The bench of the Court, chosen consists of John Bassett Moore, United States; Viscount Robert Finlay, Great Britain; Dr. Andre Weiss, France; Commendatore Dionisio Anzilotti, Italy; Dr. Ruy Barbosa, Brazil; Dr. B. C. Loder, Holland; Dr. Antonio S. Bustamante, Cuba; Judge D. W. Whitton, Denmark; Dr. Max Huber, Switzerland; and Dr. Rafael Altamira y Greco, Spain.

DAIL EIREANN MEETS.

DUBLIN, Sept. 13. Members of the Irish Republican Parliament, gathered here in response to a call from Eamonn De Valera, to begin secret session today to consider the situation that has arisen in the course of exchanges between Irish Republican leaders and the British Government. Mr. De Valera was expected to appear before Parliament this morning and lay before it the stipulation of Lloyd George that demands for absolute separation from Great Britain be abandoned if negotiations are to continue. Harry Boland and Joseph McGrath, the co-signers who Monday went to Garloch, Scotland, to hear Mr. De Valera's inquiries regarding the terms laid down in the Premier's latest note to the Republic. Leaders were expected to arrive here during the day. They were believed to have received from Lloyd George explanations of certain points of his proposals, and these were to be submitted to Parliament, so that it might take them into consideration in reaching a decision to continue or interrupt the conversations which have been going on between Dublin and London. It appeared certain that the formal reply of Sinn Fein Ireland to the British Government's proposals would be ready for dispatch to Garloch where the Premier is spending his vacation. Utterances in Sinn Fein circles had indicated that the partition of Ireland was one of the principal stumbling blocks to carry on negotiations, but there was no indication that the recently constituted Government of Ulster had altered its policy of standing aloof.

SINN FEIN FLENIPTENTIARIES.

DUBLIN, Sept. 14.

Appointment of Plenipotentiaries has been approved by Dail Eireann. It was explained that they were not appointed to go to Inverness in response to the Premier's invitation, but have been chosen to carry on negotiations, which may or may not follow the receipt by Lloyd George of the Dail Cabinet's reply. The appointments of Plenipotentiaries approved were those of the following, Arthur Griffith, founder of Sinn Fein and Foreign Minister of the Dail Cabinet, Chairman; Michael Collins, Finance Minister; Robert C. Barton, who has been one of the leading figures in the Preliminary negotiations; Eamonn J. Duggan, Sinn Fein member of Parliament; and leading figures in arrangement of the Irish Truce; and George G. Duffy, who has acted as representative of the Sinn Fein abroad.

SEEKING RELEASE OF INTERNED.

BELFAST, Sept. 13.

There is a theory here that the mission of Harry Boland and Joseph McGrath, Sinn Fein leaders, who went to Garloch to confer with Premier Lloyd George was to obtain the release of the Irish Republicans who have been interned. Sinn Feiners, living in County Tyrone, have been expressing during the past few days, a strong belief that their comrades would be soon liberated.

BRITAIN RECIPROCATES.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13.

That the promotion of cordial relations and good-will between the United States and Great Britain, and Canada, was his constant desire and aim, was the effect of the letter from President Harding, read at a banquet held at the Royal Alexander Hotel last night, under the auspices of the combined Canadian Club of Manitoba, Women's Canadian Club, and Associated Canadian Clubs of Canada.

NORWAY TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET GOVERNMENT.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 14.

Recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia as a de facto regime will be declared by the Norwegian Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the event that such application is made before the Norwegian Court during a law suit between the agents of the two Governments. It is said in the preamble of the Government's Bill for ratification of the Russo-Norwegian commercial agreement, that there has been an exchange of notes between the two Governments in connection with it and that Norway has promised recognition under the conditions stated.

EXCHEQUER RETURNS.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

Returns of the Exchequer for the period from April 1 to September 10 show receipts of four hundred million pounds and expenditure of four hundred and forty-nine million pounds, compared with five hundred and forty-five million pounds and four hundred and fifty-six million pounds respectively during the corresponding period of last year.

TO BE CONTINUED.

SMYRNA, Sept. 14.

Greek operations against Turkish Nationalists have been interrupted but will be resumed, said General Papoulas, Commander in Chief of the Greek army in Asia Minor, yesterday.

CURRAN FOR NEW YORK MAYOR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.

Henry H. Curran, Coalitionist Republican, now President of the Borough of Manhattan will be Mayor John F. Ryan's opponent at the polls next November. Curran won the Republican nomination by a vote of more than two and a half to one over the nearest of his three rivals in the Primary Elections yesterday.

NO RAILWAY FREIGHT REDUCTIONS.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.

There will be no general reduction in Railway freight rates in Canada at the present time, as a result of two judgments brought down by the Dominion Board of Railroad Commissioners today.

U.S. UNEMPLOYMENT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.

Those who are disturbed over the five million unemployed to-day overlook that in 1914 there were seven million out of work, a large percentage of whom were men and actual bread winners than in the present unemployment. Secretary Davis said today in a statement.

Wedding Bells.

CHURCHILL-BARNES.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place Wednesday, Sept. 7th, at Gochrane Street Methodist Church, when Miss Clara Belle Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnes, of Champneys, Trinity, was united in matrimony by the Rev. Mr. Johnson, to Edward Churchill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Churchill of this city. The bride was given away by Mr. A. G. Barnes, a relative of the bride, and looked charming in a dress of cream silk with bridal veil attached with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and asparagus fern, and was attended by her cousin Miss Sophie Barnes. The groom was ably supported by his brother Mr. A. Churchill. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to their future home 42 Prince of Wales Street, where refreshments were served about fifty guests being present. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Churchill many years of wedded happiness.

Orphans' Outing.

The children of the Methodist Orphanage, were given a very enjoyable outing on Tuesday the 13th, by the Literary Class of Wesley Church. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, eight or nine automobiles stopped at the Orphanage gate and conveyed the little ones to Donovan's where in the large rooms and beautiful grounds they romped and raced and laughed and shouted to their hearts' content as children love to do, under the supervision of Mr. G. Gushue and Mr. R. White, who happily wore themselves out to give the children a good time. Once again they had enough ice cream, fruit and candy, and that doesn't mean a little, but when six o'clock came, and they were seated at the long table before a sumptuous tea, it was a pretty sight to see the little ones, who were dressed in white (the dresses being the gift of two ladies of the West End last Spring) with their happy, healthy looking faces, and so many and so young, and several gentlemen waiting upon them. At 7.30 the cars arrived and conveyed the little ones to their homes, they each and all declaring that it was a grand time. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bugden, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. N. Burt and Mrs. A. Gooble were among our visitors and helped to make the afternoon a success. To Mr. A. Pelley, the promoter, is due our sincere thanks for his thoughtfulness and kindness, and to the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly and promptly loaned their cars. ## NEW LAMP BURNS 94 P.C. AIR

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, T. W. Johnson, 248 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

SHOOTING SEASON OPENS.—The shooting season opens on Tuesday next, the 20th inst., and sportsmen are already making preparations for a few days on the barrens. Large coveys of birds have been recently reported from the Southern Shore.

Russia Wants

N. F. Fish.

The present discussion as to the advisability of opening up trade with Russia, has brought forth considerable argument for and against, with the consensus greatly in favor of the opportunity offered. One of the difficulties put forward by exporters is that of finance, but it is well known that the Russian Government has enormous gold reserves, which will have to be used to purchase food from outside sources for the relief of the starving millions. The people themselves have no gold. Nothing but the paper rouble is permitted them. And even if they possessed unlimited specie, it would be of no use to them, as there is no local food supplies to be obtained. Therefore the Government must come to the rescue and utilize the gold it has stored away, or be written down to all eternity, as the most inhuman and callous administration known to history.

We have been given the privilege to-day of publishing a communication addressed by the Russian Community of St. John's to Hon. W. F. Coaker, now at Port Union, pointing out the many advantages to be gained by this country through the establishment of trade relations with Russia. These gentlemen lay particular emphasis on the fact that Russia is a fish eating country, and stress an assertion that all kinds of Newfoundland fish, fish which are either thrown away or used as fertilizer, could be sold to Russia. And who does not know of the enormous quantities of rich seafood cast aside by Newfoundland fishermen in the course of one season, as being not worth cure. The Russians at all sorts of fish, fish that the signatories to the letter append, declare to be of inferior edible qualities to dog fish, flat fish and others which are not at all regarded by Newfoundlanders. Herrings also are in great demand. With regard to the cure, Russia requires fish prepared in soft state, and our Labrador soft cure would be the ideal codfish for them, as they prefer in the main to eat all kinds of salted and pickled fish raw. We congratulate the gentlemen who have memorialized Mr. Coaker, and need not discuss their communication any further, except to hope that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries will accept the suggestions offered in the same spirit in which they are written, viz., the future benefit of Newfoundland and Newfoundland fishermen.

St. John's, Sept. 13, '21.
W. F. Coaker,
Port Union.

Dear Sir,—The Russian and Polish news in the city wish to point out to you and the Government the many advantages to be gained through opening up trade with Russia. We are very much in favor of the present discussion in the newspapers as the facilities are great. In the first place Russia is a fish-eating country, and here are two fast days every week, and two weeks fast before Christmas, and nine weeks fast before Easter, and the Russians must have fish like foods. We believe that all kinds of Newfoundland fish such as is now turned into manure could be sold in Russia at profitable prices. Some of us have sold, while in Russia, certain classes of fish that do not compare in any way with caplin, but fish and dog fish, which are now wasted in this country. Herring are in great demand, and the offer to buy cod fish, which was sent to the Board of Trade, proves that cod fish would be acceptable. Newfoundland cod fish would be better than Norwegian, as it is cured softer, and would be more suitable for eating raw, which the Russians like better. Newfoundland should find it easier to sell than Norway.

We think that good terms could be come to, as Russia is starving and has a large supply of gold. We think that considering the low prices now being paid for herring, fish, etc., the Board of Trade and Sir Edgar Bowring should not be against the opening up of new markets. We would urge the Government to send a smart Trade Commissioner to Russia, and believe great benefits will come to the whole country.

If you would open up a public fund for the relief of Russia, we would subscribe as well as we are able. The money could be kept in the country and spent on fish and herring and these sent to Russia. This would help our fishermen, and make a good impression on the people, and advertise Newfoundland products at the same time and so help trade.

Yours faithfully,
Yours faithfully,
Yours faithfully,

Abram Cohen, H. Cohen, Philip Wyman, Joseph Frehlich, I. Epstein, I. Wilensky, D. Wilensky, I. Levitz, O. Sidel, M. Epstein, Sol. Sheffman.

Manager's Resignation.

MR. MORGAN'S LETTER TO PRESIDENT REID.
The following is the letter written by Mr. R. C. Morgan to President H. D. Reid of the R.N. Co., resigning the position of General Manager of the Railway:

September 12th, 1921.
Reid Newfoundland Company, Ltd.
Dear Mr. Reid,—When we first discussed the question of my accepting an engagement as General Manager of the Railway for a period of five years, I was unwilling to bind myself for a definite term, and become acquainted with its requirements. The time I have spent here since then has afforded me an opportunity to size up the present situation and the future prospects of the road. The conditions attending railway operation here are very different from those in Canada and the United States, and while I might be able to effect some economies in operation, large capital expenditures on the Railway are necessary in order to put the freight traffic on a sound basis, and effect other savings of great importance.

After careful consideration I do not feel justified in giving up my prospects with the C.P.R. to accept the management of the Newfoundland Railway. I therefore beg to tender my resignation, and should wish, if convenient to you, to be able to return to Winnipeg at once, before my leave expires.

I wish to express to you and to the staff my appreciation of the courtesy shown me and the assistance with the details of operation.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) R. C. MORGAN.

His Excellency the Governor will be "At Home" in the gardens at Government House (if the weather is bright and fine) on Friday, the 16th instant, from 4.30 to 6 p.m.

If the weather on Friday is unsuitable the Reception will be held on Saturday, the 17th.

Government House,
September 15th, 1921.

Police Court.

A motorist was charged with speeding. At the request of Superintendent Grimes the case was postponed sine die.

A man was charged with assaulting his wife. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre appeared for the plaintiff. The accused pleaded guilty to being drunk but was not sure whether he had assaulted his wife or not. The wife said her husband came in and found her lying on the bed. He threw her down and kicked and beat her. She showed several large bruises on her arm as a result of this treatment and asked that she should be separated from her husband. Mr. McCarthy, J.P., put the defendant under bonds for $100 and fined him $10. He also said that a summons could be taken for non-support.

Burglars at Large.

It is apparent that in the recent round-up the police did not get all the thieves who have been getting in some good work during the past couple of months. No less than two burglaries and one theft have been reported within the last 48 hours. Last night a store on Kings Road, belonging to a well known grocer, was entered and a couple of boxes of butter taken. This morning when an employee visited the place he found that the burglars had smashed a large padlock and rolled several empty barrels to the street. On the previous night a well known legal light, who left his motor car outside of an office on Duckworth Street, found that some of the light fingered gentry had walked off with a valuable time-piece with which the machine was fitted. A store on the West End of the city was the last burglary to be reported. Some persons gained entrance during last night and made off with some wearing apparel, but unfortunately left no clues as to their identity.

Halifax Team Leaves.

Amidst loud cheers from the large crowd which had assembled to bid them good-bye and good luck, the team which is to represent Newfoundland in the coming sports at Halifax, left by to-day's express. The team consists of Messrs. Fred Phelan, Tom Butler and H. Skirving. Mr. E. J. Goodland accompanied them as manager and trainer. A considerable time before the train left, the platform was thronged with people sporting the black and white colours of the Amateur Athletic Association. Shortly before the train left, President Ayre of the A.A.A. called for cheers for the team which were given with a will. He then led the assembled crowd in the A.A.A. yell which is: "Rah, rah, rah, yah, yah, Terr-a-no-yah, rah, rah, rah." Manager Goodland made a short speech from the train. He promised that the team would do its best and that Newfoundland would have no reason to be ashamed of its representatives. The train then moved off amidst loud and prolonged cheering.

The sports take place at Halifax on the 24th inst.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

LABOR MINISTERS AGREE.

TORONTO, Sept. 15. All negotiations having failed, Hon. Gordon Robertson, Minister of Labor, has finally agreed to the petition of five big railway Brotherhoods for a Board of Conciliation, to hear the protest of the men against the wage cut recently put into effect on Canadian lines.

PROVED ABOISITIVE.

LONDON, Sept. 15. The campaign launched in several London Boroughs to pay no rent or taxes until employment is provided, and equalization of local taxes instituted, has evaporated. The Liverpool Trades Union Leaders have issued a manifesto declaring that the recent disturbances here were led by absolute irresponsibles, some of whom had no interest in Liverpool, practically all of them being avowed communists.

SHANTUNG.

TOKIO, Sept. 15. Japan's proposals to China relative to the restoration of Shantung, were published unofficially here yesterday. The conditions laid down by Japan are considered by newspapers as being most liberal, and a point is expressed that they form a basis for negotiations, which may clear away controversy over the future status of Shantung.

A RECORD HARVEST.

ANTWERP, Sept. 15. That the great wheat harvest of 1915 will probably be exceeded by the harvest this year, is forecast in a report issued by the Agricultural Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

GREEK RESERVES CALLED UP.

ATHENS, Sept. 15. Recruits of the class of 1922 were called to the colors by a Royal decree, issued yesterday. All those who have acquired Greek citizenship since 1921, and have not passed the age of forty, were also directed to report for military duty.

BOLIVIA WITHDRAWS DEMAND.

GENEVA, Sept. 15. Bolivia to-day withdrew her demand for the inclusion of her dispute with Chile in the agenda of the Assembly of the League of Nations. Experts will be given time in which to agree upon the question of the competency of the League to take up matters of this description. This action on the part of Bolivian delegates, was taken as a result of new instructions from the La Paz Government.

DEPENDS ON REPORT.

DUBLIN, Sept. 15. Continuance of negotiations with the British Government, with a view to establishing a basis for peace in Ireland, was believed here to-day to depend largely upon the report submitted to Senator De Valera and his colleagues by Harry Boland and Joseph McGrath, couriers sent to Galway on Monday to confer with Premier Lloyd George. The two couriers were expected to lay before the Irish leaders the explanations given by the Premier of certain features of his latest note to Dublin, and there was optimism that five plenipotentiaries, named by Dail Eireann yesterday to carry on parleys with Mr. Lloyd George, would go to Inverness soon. There was a possibility, however, that the report of Boland and McGrath would be such that there might be a break, at least for a time, in conversations that have been going on for the past two months.

Wedding Bells.

Yesterday afternoon, a pretty wedding was solemnized at the Chapel of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Presentation Convent, when Miss Annie (youngest daughter) of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keough, and the late Capt. David Gunnerson, and Mr. Edward Keough, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of white ivory satin and georgette, with a black tulle and silver lace, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair. She was given away by her brother, Mr. J. W. Keough. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss May Gunnerson, who wore a dress of Copenhagen blue silk with a hat of tulle, georgette, and Miss Olive Breen, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. The duties of best man were performed by Mr. J. W. Keough, brother of the groom. The groom's presents were to the bride a set of white fox furs, to the bridesmaid a ruby ring, to the flower girl a bracelet, and to the best man gold cuff links. After the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to the home of the bride where a sumptuous repast was partaken of, after which the happy couple motored to Manuels where the honeymoon will be spent. The presents received were numerous and costly, testifying to the esteem in which the young couple were held. The Telegram wishes them many years of wedded happiness.

In Defence of the Farmers.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—During the past few years the Farmer's of this country have been knocked pretty hard through the public press by some parties who apparently have not much else to do but write to the same. Personally, Mr. Editor, my only reason for not answering those communications was the fact that none of those writers has the courage to come out over their own signature. I should like to ask some of those people a few questions in regard to the Profit-sharing done by us as a class:

How many Farmers have retired? How many own their farms that is clear of mortgages and how many have been paying rent all their lives?

One of our own most prominent Farmers has been paying rent during the past thirty years, and his father for about the same period, is unable at the present day to find the purchase money for said farm.

Speaking on the milk question I may say that six or seven of us have been before the Food Control Board in regard to the price of milk. Once before the past F.C.B. and the other time the present. On one of those occasions we were sworn by oath individually. In both instances it was clearly demonstrated that no undue profits were made. Interested parties by interviewing the F.C.B. will, I am sure be treated courteously and can get all the information they require to verify same. A couple of years ago I received a letter from a gentleman asking for reasons for raising the price of milk. Five or six were given and at the same time an offer was made by me to the effect that my business could be turned over to him on condition that he, etc., be bought from me at the market price and that I would work same for $2 per day for that winter. Needless to say that offer was not accepted, but the same offer applies to the coming winter.

We as a class resent strongly any interference by anonymous writers, but I think the Farmers are fully in accord with me in saying that any man who will come out openly over his own name will get a square deal from us as a class of men who are termed, wrongly, Profiters. Considering the hardships occurring during the winter months both to man and horse you would find very few running a milk route to the city, only for the manure which is essential to good farming. Clear of the milk part of the business I think my unknown friend whose letter appeared on the 9th clearly shows what expenses go with the other part of the farm crops. No future communications will be noticed by the undersigned only over their own signatures. In conclusion I may inform the last writer that a cut of about 15 per cent. on the price of milk was made on June 1st (winter must be on a holiday). This was made by us on our own initiative and corresponding reductions will be made when conditions warrant the same.

Yours truly,
ERNEST COWAN.

Sept. 14, 1921.

Heat That Causes Cold.

As the hot weather draws on we notice a curious phenomenon. We have colds ourselves, and most of our friends have them, too. Why not days and nights should produce colds is at first sight a mystery.

Yet the reasons are quite simple. All colds are caused by microbes. The cold microbe is always waiting to way-lay us, but he cannot do so unless we are run down in health.

If you sit in a draught, probably you begin to sneeze. It was not the draught which caused the cold; it was one of the most sensitive of the nerves of the body—the nerve which serves the ear, nose, and throat.

Welcoming the Microbe.

If you remain for long in a current of cold air, this nerve will be affected; it will say to the nose, ear, and throat: "You do not like this draught," and they become so weakened that the microbes are able to find a home.

To keep free from summer colds you need only observe a few simple rules. Don't wear too many clothes. If you do you will become overheated, and as you cool down the nerves will send out their despairing message which lets the microbes in.

Don't after violent exercise, sit about in clothes that have become damp with perspiration.

Don't imagine that clothes which are sufficient for the heat of the day will be enough for the cool of the evening. Immediately you begin to shiver the nerves send out their welcome to the microbes.

Don't let your clothes dry on you if you get wet through in a shower.

Don't stay in the company of a friend who has a cold. He will probably pass it on to you. A little common sense will keep you free from that horrible affliction, a summer cold.

Bishop Spencer College

STARTS TEAR WELL.

Bishop Spencer College re-opened yesterday under very favorable circumstances. During the holidays the buildings underwent extensive alterations and to-day it is in excellent condition. New Class rooms have been added, additional windows have been put in, and the whole place has been thoroughly equipped. At 9.30 a.m. the teachers and pupils met in the assembly hall for the opening exercises. Among the Directors present were His Lordship the Bishop, who opened with prayer. Revs. Canon Bolt, Canon Jeeves, A. B. S. Stirling, H. L. Pike, A. Tulk, H. Facey, W. W. Blackall, Hon. M. G. Wintie, G. J. Adams, G. R. Williams, L. Outerbridge and R. Dowden. Dr. Blackall announced the results of the recent examinations which were favorable, and outlined the work for the coming year. The new teachers all of whom are very highly qualified will arrive by the next steamer. In the meantime lessons will not be interfered with as the services of three young ladies have been secured until the new teachers arrive. A large number of new pupils have been enrolled, and the attendance was the largest on record. We think for an opening day. His Lordship the Bishop also addressed the pupils and gave them encouragement for the future. The Directors then made an inspection of the building and were greatly pleased with it. Bishop Spencer College starts the new year well and the many friends of the institution wish it continued success.

Yesterday's Ball Game.

R.L.S. DEFEAT CHAMPIONS.

The R.L.S. and Red Lions were contestants in yesterday's ball game which proved very interesting, to the large number of fans who attended. The R.L.S. were the winners by a score of 15-10. Donnelly for the winners and Billy Callahan for the Red Lions pitched good ball but the fielding and throwing of bases could have been a bit more "nippy." Messrs. Chessman and Canning controlled the game and the following was the result by innings:

Red Lions . . . 1 0 0 1 0 1 4 0 3-10
R.L.S. . . . 0 2 3 0 0 1 4 2 0-12

The C.E.I. were scheduled for yesterday afternoon's games but the team refused to play owing to their disagreement with the League over last Wednesday's game and the fact that they have received no answer to their communication regarding their claim to that game.

Personal.

Mr. James P. Foley, B.A., son of Fire Constable P. Foley, left by Tuesday's express for Halifax where he resumes his studies at Holy Heart Seminary.

Mr. H. B. Robinson of the Robinson Export Co., who has been visiting St. John's as the guest of Mr. Arthur Hickock, leaves by train to-morrow for Placentia to connect with S.S. Glencoe for Marytown, Burin and on to St. Pierre, from the latter place moving by easy stages toward Boston.

Augustine Gibbs, son of the Hon. M. P. Gibbs, sailed on the S.S. Manoa en route to St. Augustine Seminary, Toronto, where he resumes his studies for the Priesthood. "Gus" who played left wing for the Irish will be missed in the forthcoming games.

Miss Mary Gibbs, daughter of the Hon. M. P. Gibbs, left by the S.S. Manoa to resume her studies at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Sault au Recollet.

Cadets Win

From Guards.

The Cadets defeated the Guards by 2 goals to nil in last evening's League football game. A large gathering of spectators were present during the game. Play was good throughout and whilst the Cadets had the best of the game the Guards put up a plucky fight. O'Neill and Meaney scored for the Cadets.

Fighting Fire With Bubbles.

The extinction of oil fires is becoming more urgent daily as the use of oil for fuel increases.

It is estimated that in ten years United States oil companies have lost 13,000,000 barrels of oil by fire, the damage amounting to $32,500,000.

The storage of oil in huge steel covering tanks has not banished the risk of fire. Gases collect above the oil and escapes through ventilators. Should the gases be ignited, the oil explodes, blows off the roof of the tank, and proceeds to burn itself out.

Water being worse than useless, the only way to extinguish an oil fire is to exclude all oxygen from the burning surface.

One of the most successful methods is a process of smothering fire with a mass of carbonic acid gas bubbles. This process is called the "Firefoam" system. The oil tanks are fitted with mixing chambers, from which the "Firefoam" enters the tank. The solutions which, when mixed, form the foam are stored in two separate tanks, and when a conflagration occurs they are pumped into the mixing chambers of the tank that is on fire.

Here the two solutions mix, and a chemical reaction takes place resulting in the formation of a mass of carbonic acid gas bubbles. From each mixing chamber a continuous discharge of these bubbles takes place, creeping by fog and rain last night. S.S. Sable I. passed west at 6 a.m. yesterday; down the inner side of the tank and spreading quickly across the burning surface in a foaming mass, precluding the contact of atmospheric oxygen, and literally smothering the fire.

The Captain's Account-Book.

In every ship's log and in all works of navigation a special point is made of the "dead reckoning" on board ship. This really means the calculation made of a ship's position by means of the compass and log, the first serving as point out the course she sails and the other the distance run. From these two reckonings the skilful captain, making proper allowance for the variation of the compass, leeway, currents, and so on, is enabled, without any observations of the sun or stars, to ascertain the ship's position tolerably well. But why dead? The explanation lies in the fact that it was not until the close of the eighteenth century that printed log books were supplied by the Admiralty. Before that officers were compelled to keep a journal, on loose sheets of paper, and the columns, when introduced, had to be ruled by hand. The log of the Dreadnought, 1879, had twelve narrow columns on a page. For want of space, the column for the ship's latitude, "deduced from the reckoning" was headed "Ded. Lat." This abbreviation for "deduced" was corrupted into "Dead." "Deduce" is the only word which expresses correctly the method of obtaining "dead reckoning."

The Value of a Smile.

There is no room for sadness when we see a cheery smile. It always has the same good look—it's never out of style. It naves us on to try again when failure makes us blue. Such smiles of encouragement are good for me and you. So smile away; folks understand what a smile is worth. It's worth a million dollars, and it doesn't cost a cent.

Marvels of Water Pressure.

An accident unlike anything else in Nature can and often does happen to fish which live in the depths of the ocean. Down there, at 2,500 fathoms depth, the pressure is about two and a half tons to the square inch. Every living creature is bearing upon its body a pressure equalling about two hundred tons. It is a pressure so great that it will twist copper like paper, and grind glass to fine powder. If these deep-sea fish, in following their prey, or for any other reason, come too near the top their swimming gasses expand, and they cannot control themselves. They rise to the region of white caps and billows, being killed by the great change in the conditions surrounding them. Often deep-sea fish are found floating dead on the surface of the ocean.

WHAT ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN TRAVELLERS IN CANADA SAYS.

"Now I am going to give you an unsolicited testimonial as they say in the patent medicine advertising. Harbortown, I have had a profound contempt for patent medicines, particularly so-called liniments. Perhaps this is due to the reason that I have been blessed with a sturdy constitution, and never have been ill a day in my life. One day last fall after a hard day's tramp in the bush of Montreal, I developed a severe pain in my legs and of course like a man who has never had anything wrong with him physically, I complained rather boisterously. The good little wife says: 'I will rub them with some liniment I have.' 'Go ahead,' I said just to hum her. 'Well, in she comes with a bottle of Minard's Liniment and gets busy. Believe me the pain disappeared a few minutes after, and you can tell the world I said so.' (Signed) FRANK E. JOHN'S, Montreal.

Growing Colored Cotton

Dyes may not be needed in the near future for cottons other than the white variety are now being cultivated. After several years of experiment, a planter has succeeded in growing cotton of various colours. He has exhibited samples of cotton in natural colours, light brown, dark brown, light green and dark green. He claims that fabric woven from the dark brown cotton would be of a softness equal to silk. The same planter has also raised a crop of black cotton. And he has received from an agent, who had been searching for them, samples and seeds of blue, grey and pink cottons grown in India. Another agent has found coloured cottons growing in Peru. It was by crossing blue India cotton with the darker shades developed from ordinary white cotton that a cotton absolutely black has been achieved.

Wild Puritans of the Desert.

It was announced recently by Mr. Winston Churchill in the House of Commons that a powerful and fanatical Arabian desert tribe, the Wahabi sect, is to be paid an annual subsidy of £50,000 to keep them from attacking the Emir Feisal and the Arabs who are our allies.

One who knows the Wahabi states that it should be cheap at £50,000 a year to buy their goodwill and to keep them quiet. They are a most violent people.

One interesting custom among them is the way they correct their women. They tie them up in bags then procure palm-canes, and beat the "outside of the bag" unmercifully.

Killed For Smoking!

Each man has three wives. Should any of them go out of doors the code allows him to have her put to death. This is because they believe that if any man looks at her she is contaminated, and that if a woman goes outside her home she is certain to go wrong.

Wearing any costly finery, precious stones, or metals is a penal offence. The reason for that law is that they are ultra-Puritans, and consider it a high offence of extravagance for a woman to adorn herself. They kill their men (or women) for smoking even a cigarette.

When any member of the Wahabi tribe goes from their villages and meets or sees strangers, he must before entering the village or going to his home divert himself of all clothing and wash most thoroughly. They are virile, and as austere as they are bloodthirsty and brave.

Famous Romance of Grand Duke.

Among the miniatures in the British Museum is one of Bronzino, recalling as strange a life drama as can be found in human history. It pictures the famous beauty, Bianca, daughter of Bartolomeo Capello, one of the Venice's most eminent senators. Her hand was sought by more than one great Tuscan noble, but being as wayward as she was lovely, she gave her heart to Pietro Bonaventuri, a dark-eyed bank clerk, much to the chagrin of her parents, who barred their door against her. Pietro promptly took advantage of her predicament by running away with her to his home in Florence, where she remained, not daring to return to Venice and it was in Florence where Francesco de Medici, heir to the Tuscan Grand Dukedom, first set eyes on the lovely girl. To this degenerate scion of the Medici, to wish had ever been to possess, and ere another day had passed Bianca had received an invitation to Court. She was not unwilling, and the next day she was presented at Court. There followed secret meetings with Francesco, and within a few weeks Bianca who had been secretly wedded to the bank clerk, found herself installed in a palace of her own, while Giovanni, the Archduchess of Austria, Francesco's newly-made bride, kept her lonely vigil in her apartments which seldom saw her husband. Bianca was now a Queen in all but name. Between her and the full queenhood were but two obstacles, her lover's unattractive wife, and her own impecunious husband. When the latter was found stabbed through the heart one was removed. By some means or other the Grand Duchess managed to preserve her life, but it was a mockery, for she was never able to oust Bianca. The Venetian Senate had recognised Bianca as a true "daughter of the Republic," and the legal wife of the ruler of Tuscany. Thus for her followed eight years of splendour and sovereignty when the end came in sudden tragedy. The Palace was the scene of a grand banquet, and the feast was drawing to its end when Bianca was seized with violent pains, and while Francesco was rushing to her aid, he, too, was seized by the same terrible anguish; a few hours after both drew their last breath. "Poison" was the word that ran through the Palace, and was whispered with bated breath in the streets of Florence, on that never-to-be-forgotten day, September 15, 1584. The truth was never known. All that can be told is that within a few hours of the termination of that fatal banquet, the bodies of Francesco and Bianca were lying in death side by side in an adjacent room, the door of which was locked against the eyes of the curious—even against the physicians.

Origin of True Blue.

The expression true blue is handed down from the Scotch Covenanters of the seventeenth century, who chose blue as their emblem in opposition to the royal red. The Covenanters were a group bound by a serious of covenants to uphold the Presbyterian forms and doctrines of faith. Thus true blue applied originally to a loyal Presbyterian. The blue ribbon, always the reward of the winner in a race or contest, originated in the use of a blue ribbon as the distinguished badge of the Knights of the Garter, an order founded by Edward III.

COULDN'T YOUR CHILD LEARN!

I heard the other day of a little girl of ten who has learned to make cake, pie, bread and many other things. She is one of a family of several children; her mother keeps one mess, but the house is never so busy as when she is much to do, and the mother is teaching the children to help themselves and help her.

Each Cake an Achievement. The older brother, who is 14, can make a creditable cake and get a meal if necessary. Won't his wife bless his mother some day! Why should not all children be given such duties and such opportunities for the doing of work like this by children certainly represents a double opportunity—an opportunity to learn.

How many ten-year-olds who can make delicious pies? How many 14-year-old boys who can prepare a meal?

The eight-year-old girl is learning to cook vegetables and has made a cake or two. The ten-year-old makes delicious Blueberry pie and has made a cake almost every day during the Summer. Her mother helps her the first time, after that she does it all herself, mixing, baking, frosting. Each cake represents an achievement and the girl takes pride in her work and enjoys the mixture of work and play quite as much as most children I know enjoy the ten weeks of undiluted playtime. More, I fancy, for I find that some of them are deeply bored before school time.

Won't His Wife Bless His Mother! The older brother, who is 14, can make a creditable cake and get a meal if necessary. Won't his wife bless his mother some day! Why should not all children be given such duties and such opportunities for the doing of work like this by children certainly represents a double opportunity—an opportunity to learn.

ROADS.

The roads of friendly faces. They're the ones for me. The lanes of kindly places. With the elm and maple tree. There's many a mighty highway For the feet of men to roam. But the one I want for my way Is the road that leads me home.

There are roads that wind o'er mountains And roads that find the sea; Some lead to sunlit fountains And some to majesty; But though it isn't your way, Nor very gayly dressed, The road that finds my doorway Is the one that I like best.

The road where men are neighbors Not people in a throng. The road that ends my labors And ends them with a song; The road of friendly meeting When the sun is in the West With a welcome and a meeting Is the road that I like best.

The roads of friendly faces Are strewn across the world, And in all the kindly places The faces of strife are furled. And the road of children's laughter When the day has closed its care Shall loom in life's hereafter As the world's best thoroughfare.

A wrap of black velveteen is heavily embroidered in dull black wooden beads and trimmed in black caracul.

Brith of the British Museum.

It is not generally known that the British Museum—that wonderful storehouse of treasures—was started from funds realized by a State Lottery. It certainly proves that it is easy to raise money by this means.

A special Act of Parliament was passed in 1753 to authorize the lottery, and it mentions "sums which under the same Act were to be raised by public lottery for the purchase and support of the Museum." The total sum was £200,000, and 50,000 tickets were printed, of which 4,153 were to be fortunate ones. There were prizes ranging from one of £10,000, one of £5,000, two of £1,000, down to £400 of £10. The prizes, together with £200 for the first ticket drawn, and £300 for the last ticket drawn, amounted to £100,000. Further, there was "a like sum payable in respect of the corresponding tickets," making the grand total £200,000 in prizes, or two-thirds of the money to be subscribed. There were several additional clauses dealing with the method of selling the tickets and of drawing them. Also selling chances for an enhanced sum was made illegal. That the lottery was a success is proved by the fact that the British Museum is what it is to-day—the most wonderful museum in the world.

The Cardinal's Hat.

The peculiarity of the cardinal's hat is that it is not intended to be worn. On one occasion only is it to be seen on the head of a cardinal, and that is when the pope himself places it there as a symbol of his own elevation to the Sacred College. When the cardinal dies it is placed upon his coffin. The hat is of a deeper red than that of the robe worn by the cardinal; it has long heavy silken cords, each with fifteen tassels at the end, hanging on either side. There are at present three "red hats" in Westminster Cathedral. They are those of Cardinals Wiseman, Manning and Vaughan. The crimson robes, which, like the hat, denote the cardinal's office, are made of a cloth which for several generations past has been supplied by a firm of cloth merchants at Burscheid, near Aix-la-Chapelle. The process by which the dye is distilled is a jealously guarded secret.

Bigamy as a Business.

If a census of the world's bigamists could be taken, it would show that marrying for a living is by no means an unprofitable profession.

A case occurred recently in which a man had bigamously married an heiress, whose wealth he might have appropriated had his record not been discovered in time. As it was, he managed to live for some months at the expense of his "wife's" parents, from whom he obtained considerable sums. One of the most notorious of professional bigamists was Dr. Vivian, who obtained $63,000 from a score or more of "wives." Two or three of his victims were titled women, while another was the widow of a wealthy merchant.

Ninety-Seven "Wives."

The last of his dupes was a Birmingham heiress, whose fortune was saved at the eleventh hour, the doctor being arrested as he and his "wife" were about to start on their honeymoon.

Another marriage maniac was Robert Taylor, who defrauded thirty women with whom he entered into false marriage contracts. He posed as the son of a landed proprietor, and, in exchange for hard cash, made over enormous sums by spurious deeds of gift.

The record for bigamy appears to be held by a man named Witzhoff, who "married" ninety-seven different women, from many of whom he obtained money and property.—Tit-Bits.

Charcoal is so Handy.

If you want to keep fish perfectly fresh lay a few bits of charcoal on them.

A muslin bag of charcoal hung in the larder will keep the place sweet. Another bag hung on a hook in the wardrobe will remove any stinky smell. A vessel which has a nasty odour, such as an unwashed cabbage colander, may be made wholesome by rinsing in water to which powdered charcoal has been added.

Charcoal is the best and cheapest disinfectant for sinks and drains, and it has no smell. A piece of charcoal suspended in muslin in drinking water will filter the water and make it quite fit to drink.

Applied to burns, charcoal eases the pain and quickly heals. And cotton wool with a layer of charcoal is an excellent bandage for sores.

Charcoal is a fine tooth-powder. Though its use entails rinsing the mouth two or three times, this is well worth while, for charcoal is a searching purifier and leaves the teeth white and the breath sweet.

LONDON GOSSIP.

A NEW VIEW OF LONDON.

LONDON, August 2nd, 1921.
I doubt if it is possible to acclimatise the gondola on the Thames. Its great advantage in Venice is that it requires no car space, and so the stately gondola moves even down the little side canals, under the low bridges, and out into the lagoons with a movement at once gentle or powerful as the gondolier decides. It is said that the fleet of gondolas that Mr. Milham is building may be used near the City. If so, there will be a gondola on a summer evening on the bosom of the Thames, with St. Paul's in its glory instead of the fussy Santa Maria della Salute, and the campanile of Westminster Cathedral instead of San Giorgio, and Somerset House instead of the Doge's Palace. We shall see London anew.

THE METROPOLITAN ESTATES.

At the moment three estates along the line out of London are being developed. The nearest is at Neasden, close to the company's power stations, where there is an incipient garden village. A little further out, at Wembley, another estate of 130 acres is being built upon, and there is, thirdly, the Cadogan Estate near Rickmansworth, in very beautiful country. The houses increase in size and cost, according to the distance from London, from small villas at Kingsbury, costing, however, something over £1,200 ($4,800) to big detached houses at Rickmansworth with an acre of land or more, costing roughly four times as much. These houses can only be bought, but there is a system of payment. The case for the railway company in entering on house-building is that they have the organization ready, the means for buying materials cheaply, and particularly of placing houses where there is good train service. For this and other reason the railways think that they ought to be allowed to do what they can to solve the housing problem. The houses inspected yesterday struck one as attractive and well built. At Rickmansworth villas are being planted in a pine wood, where the trees are to be saved and where there are wide grassy ways.

EXPORTERS' SCHEME

FOR DEFAULTERS.

The cancellation of contracts by importers abroad has been for some time a burning problem with our English manufacturers and shippers, but at last it seems that concerted action is to be taken with a view to bringing the defaulters to their commercial senses. In many of the principal industrial centres Manchester, Liverpool, and Nottingham, as well as London I believe, among them the manufacturers are devising schemes to prevent the trader overseas from breaking his contract with impunity. The latest to come into line are the merchants and exporters of London, who have now given consideration to tentative proposals for meeting the difficulty. The scheme is understood to be of such a nature that the defaulting importers overseas will find it very difficult to re-enter the English market until they have satisfactorily met their commitments, and the organization is in hands which should ensure its producing the best results obtainable. It is highly probable that before long a move will be made effectively to link up the Metropolitan scheme with those already established in the provinces.

thus placing the plan on a national basis.

NO DROP IN DRAPERY.

That the majority of drapers have not passed onto the public the benefit of the enormous fall in wholesale prices is by implication the opinion of no less an authority than the Merchants' Committee of the Drapers' Chamber of Trade. This Committee expresses the view that drapers "have not fully realised the drop in values and" "retorted the policy of at once cutting their losses." It suggests that "for their own information retailers should ascertain how great has been the depreciation and that this can be done only by comparing with the present market prices the prices at which goods in stock were bought. This implies that most drapers are still selling their old stocks on the basis of the high prices paid for them, and have not troubled to find out wholesalers' current quotations. While manufacturers and merchants have been compelled to lower quotations by anything up to 75 per cent, owing to the trade depression, retail drapers, as a body, have refused to reduce their customary profit margin, while many have raised it.

LONDON STREET "TURNS."

Hampstead has always been a favourite haunt of street musicians and other variety artists of the pavement. There are some who come twice a week to the same corner and others so rare (writes a Hampstead correspondent) that I have only seen them once in twenty years. The faded old gentleman who plays the clarinet comes once a week, the Irish piper two or three times a year. About this time of the year one expects new turns. At first I used to think they were professionals out of work doing a little busking in the slack summer season, but nearly all the performers are old and obviously regular followers of the road. The other in the High Street, a strangely-dressed pair performed on the hard road a series of dramatic dance-tableaux, in which a glittering dagger figures prominently. They were both old, and seemed to have stepped, all painted and tinselled, from an old "tuppenny coloured" print. But by far the strangest performer I have yet come across appeared at my own street corner yesterday. As I approached the corner I heard a sound of someone sawing wood. When I turned out of the sun I found a man in a black coat and straw hat sitting in the shadow of the wall on a camp stool. On his knee he held upright by its neck a new and cheap-looking fiddle. The strings were all clasped in the grip of his left hand, while the right sawed firmly backwards and forwards with the bow. The player—or rather operator—had a pale face with a vacant expression, and wore suspended from his neck a card, inscribed—Retired Cricketer, Stone-Deaf.

PROTECTING THE "BLACK COAT" WORKERS.

A recent Austrian Act, which came into force on July 1st, is noteworthy as designed to protect the interests of the non-manual, familiarly known as the "black coat," workers of that country. As well as affecting ordinary employees in commercial houses, the operation of the Act extends to non-manual workers employed by doctors and dentists, private asylums, private schools and organizations, and societies generally. The provisions deal with such questions as holidays and notice of dismissal by the employer, while for women workers a rest period is provided of six weeks before and six weeks after confinement. This Austrian example will give encouragement to the movement which is every day growing in force for improving the conditions of labour of non-manual workers. M. Emile Grane, president of the Swiss Federation of this class of employees, has been first in the field with the suggestion that the International Labour Organisation should include in the agenda of the Labour Conference to be held next year the question of the regulation of conditions of labour of "black coat" workers and in Italy the movement has grown so strong that a congress of non-manual workers has just been held at Rome, which decided to form a national confederation of all the societies of this

Keep Things Going.

Depression can't last for ever, because the world is not going to do without the things it wants for all time. Outside the devastated areas most countries are to-day better equipped for raising the standard of living than ever they have been. They have more and better machinery, and greater scientific knowledge, than they had even ten years ago. And they will use their advantages with more and more effect as the troubles caused by the huge upheaval of war die away. Mankind as a whole neither stands still nor goes back. It advances. After every check it eventually presses forward with increased eagerness and energy. A revival must come. It is impossible to believe that all the people in the world have in some mysterious manner lost their initiative and their ambition since 1914. But whilst the revival is slowly gathering strength, don't hamper it by forcing primary activity down to a lower level. Don't stop buying. Keep things going, and they will help to keep you going.—Johannesburg Times.

A QUESTION OF STYLE.

Mr. Lloyd George's invariable use of the word Britain when he wishes to speak of this country, or of this Empire, will not have passed unnoticed among writers and speakers vexed by difficulties of nomenclature. He is a Welshman, and, as the son of a small people who are not a politically independent nation, he refuses, not unnaturally, to use a word which may seem to exclude himself and his kindred. Scotsmen act with him in this and with so many Celts at the top and on the higher rungs of the ladder of Government the use of England and England is fast falling into abeyance. England, not Britain, was the customary use within living memory. England will not do this, and the English people will not tolerate that, was the style of statesmen of the older generation never Britain or the British people. Not that England and the English were used in any narrow and exclusive sense. The idea was that as the greatest included the least the word English covered also the less populous peoples who called themselves Scots or Welsh or Irish. The effect of the new fashion is to banish a glorious word from the language of public affairs, and one of these days we shall be having a Welsh or Scotch Minister of Education in London putting a ban on the teaching of "English" history, or even of the "English" language. The Prime Minister's "Britain" has its advantages when the idea he wishes to convey is the British Empire as a political unit; but there are purposes for which the word English, as comprehending the numerically smaller peoples, is more exact. Thus, when one speaks of British policy or the policy of Britain, one means a policy or the policy affecting the Empire and a policy to which all the States of the Empire are necessarily committed; but when one speaks of the English taxpayer, the reference is restricted to the inhabitants of these islands, and not extended beyond the homeland. Mr. Lloyd George has too delicate a regard for Celtic susceptibilities. He is not Prime Minister of Britain but of England. If he would make an occasional use of the word English it would be pleasing the ears of those preponderant millions of us who have not the honour of descent from the remnant of aboriginals who found refuge in their mountain fastnesses from the murdering and devastating invaders of whom the English nation has been fashioned.

C. C. C. Promenade Band Concert.

The second Promenade Band Concert by the C.C.C. Band takes place in the Prince's Rink to-morrow, Friday night at 8.15 and no doubt there will be as large an attendance as the opening Concert when 1500 people attended.

Acting upon numerous requests and suggestions the Band have decided to make the admission fee 25c, which will include all dance numbers. The Programme will consist of all favourite Concert and Dance numbers, which the Band have played during the Park season. No children will be admitted to these Rink Concerts and a Policeman will be stationed at the Rink to see that this rule is strictly carried out and to keep order. The galleries will be reserved for the older people who are unable to stand during the Concert, and no charge will be made. A number of male friends of the Band have kindly consented to act as floor managers during the Dance numbers. Refreshments such as ice cream, Drinks and Cigarettes will be on sale. These Concerts will be held on the nights of Monday and Friday of each week during the fall.

THE ALLEGED ILL-TREATMENT OF THE INSANE.

An ex-Commissioner of Asylums, with whom I have had some conversation on the allegations in Dr. Montagu Lomax's book about ill-treatment and callousness in asylums, agreed that if the picture drawn were true, it would constitute a degrading reflection upon all who are connected with the care and treatment of the insane and the management of lunatic asylums. But none of those concerned would be willing to allow that the case stated by the writer of the book could be answered by merely pointing to the known record of the responsible officials and public representatives. At the same time, that record stands in the way of a credulous acceptance of the alarming statements made. That slackness may creep in, that patience should sometimes fail, can easily be understood, and that through practical inability to meet every possible emergency some absolute failures in adequate control would occur is only in keeping with the limitations of human capacity. But the view that a systematic series of foolish and cruel devices have grown up in connection with the administration of asylums is, he said, quite unwarranted by the facts. Asylums are still free from bureaucratic control.

WAGES DISCUSSED.—At a meeting of Locomotive Engineers, Firemen, Railway Trainmen and Telegraphers, held last night, a deputation was appointed to interview the Reid-Nidd Co. on the wage question. The meeting discussed matters arising out of the recent wage reduction and formulated plans for their future procedure.

Remarkable instances of thought transference were related by Dr. Stenson Hooker, the well-known nerve and diet specialist, to the T.B. man.

"On one occasion," he said, "I was a mile from home when I saw in my mind's eye a telegram awaiting me at my house. I 'sensed' a message that I was wanted in some distant town. I hastened back and found a telegram from my wife, who was away, asking me to join her and bring her back."

"Another case occurred when I was making arrangements to visit a patient about thirty miles out of London. The invalid's brother explained the case and gave me the address, but no description of the house. Just after the brother had left I had a mental vision of the patient's bedroom."

"On going to the house I found that all was as I had seen it in my mind's eye. While the brother was talking to me his own mind had been focused on the sick room, and my mind, in sympathy with his, had received the impression."

"I was talking to a widow, and she told me she had never been the same since she had lost her husband. At that moment I saw her husband so plainly that I was able to describe him to his wife. She stated that the description was correct, although I had never seen him when he was alive. Again the thought of him came up in her brain had impressed itself on mine."

"Cases in which a dying person appears to a near relative are innumerable, and I can vouch for at least one in my own family. The man to whom the vision occurred did not believe in telepathy. He was travelling in Germany before the war. Sitting one day in his hotel, he was amazed at a visionary appearance of his father."

"Later a telegram reached him conveying the news of his father's death. He was actually dying at the moment his image appeared to his son."—T.H. Bits.

Sea Monster Sighted by Steamship.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Captain W. T. Holmes, of the steamship Calvin Austin, on arrival here from New York, reported sighting off Scituate, a sea monster of unknown species.

His officers and the members of the crew confirm his statement. Fearing ridicule Capt. Holmes was reluctant to discuss the matter but after being urged he stated that he sighted what at first appeared to be a seaplane lying motionless on the water, about a ship's length ahead. As the steamer approached the object was seen to move and then a ball shaped head shot out of the water and turned in the direction of the oncoming vessel.

Then it was that the Captain and pilot got a full view of the stranger. He was like a large glass ball, while protruding from the neck were two fins, or flippers. The entire body of the huge monster was visible. The captain said it was nearly twenty feet in length and must have weighed a ton.

The pilot and the quartermaster who also saw the monster described it as even larger than the captain's estimate.

A section of the road within the jurisdiction of the Municipal Council, leading to Mundy Pond from the head of Pleasant Street, is in an impassable condition owing to ruts and loose stones with which the thoroughfare is covered. It is hoped that in the interest of the large number of people who pass this way that repairs will be effected as soon as possible.

REMOVING THE ENGINES.—The work of removing the engines from the wrecked schooner Huntley began yesterday. It is hoped that when these are salvaged that the hull will float sufficiently to get it on dock.
