War Equipped for Active Service—

Every Arrangement Made for War.

Allahabad, India, March 24.—Earl

Dufferin met Gen. Sir Donald Stewart, commander-in-chief of the forces, to-day.

Lord Dufferin sanctioned the mobilization Lord Dufferin sanctioned the mobilization of two army corps of twenty-five thousand men each, which are to be sent to Pishin with a reserve of 10,000 men. Gen Stewart will have supreme command.

Stewart will have supreme command. Lord Dufferin sanctioned the mobilization en. Roberts and Gen. Hardinge will each command an army corps. The Duke of Connaught will be given one of the disisional commands. Supplies for six months are being sent to Pishin. Gen. Stewart has started for Rawul-Pindi to mature his plans. Lord Dufferin will start for Rawal Pindi to morrow. It is expected the whole force will advance at the conclusion of the meeting between Lord Lufferin and the ameer of Afghanistan. The greatest rivalry prevails among the regiments for active service. The monitors in Bombay harbor are being equipped on a

Which Will Beclare War First? LONDON, March 25,-Although the Standard this morning says for a positive act that no alarming despatch has been received from St. Petersburg, it is known that not only is such really the case but that it is simply a question which will make the declaration of war first. Both England and Russia are trying by every subterfuge to outstrip the other in the preparations. Gens. Graham and McNeil Censured. LONDON, March 24.-The officials at Chatham have been ordered to prepare for immediate service a large draft of trans port corps, which it is supposed will be seat to Suakim. The Chatham officials have also been suddenly ordered to put an have also been suddenly ordered to put an ironclad in commission. The war office is dissatisfied with Gen. Graham's management of the Soudan operations. He will probably be recalled. The St. James Gazette denounces the incapacity shown at headquarters, and says "this murderous military scuffle would never have happened if Gens. McNeil and Graham had taken the presentions which should have occurred to precautions which should have occurred to cadet." The general press comments are

The Losses Increasing. SHAKIN March 24. - The latest returns place the causualties in Sunday's engagement, including the Indian troops and exclusive of the camp followers, at 6 officers men wounded. One officer and 70 men are reported missing. The guards and marines, while advancing from the Hasheen zareba to-day to meet a convoy from Suakim had several skirmishes with the rebels dur-ing which sixteen British were wounded and one killed.

Osman Digna's Tactics. British positions in entrenched zarebas on the road to Tamai, but to intercept and destroy all convoys of water and provi-sions on the way to the zarebas. It is believed Osman Digna is short of food, as the dead Arabs found upon the field after Armed women were seen among the rebels.

An escort to the convoy while returning to Suakim was not molested. The scarcity of camels will delay the advance on Tamai. The transport and commissariat branches of the British service alone lost 150 killed in Sunday's engagement.

A Tremendous Defeat. London, March 21.-Suakim advices state that the country between Suakim and the Scrabis is swarming with Arabs. The Diritto of Rome alludes to Sunday's fight as a tremendous defeat of the British, which will inspire with new courage the whole Arab world and make it necessary for Italy to send 2000 men at once to Massowah in order not to risk beginning a campaign with such an experience as that of Gen. Graham's expedition.

Operations Suspended by the French. Tonquin, March 24.-Gen. Negrier, after a reconnaissance across the Chinese frontier, has returned to Langson. An immense entrenched camp has been formed between Langson and Kilua, where Gen. Negrier will await reinforcements. Regner will await reinforcements. The rainy season, which begins about the middle of April, will suspend operations for three months. The Chinese have been argely reinforced from Canton and threaten to resume offensive operations.

The music used on the occasion of high mass at the cathedral, Westminster, England, on Ash Wednesday last, was composed by the Right Rev. Monsignor John Provost Crookall, D.D., who had entrasted it for this its first public performance to the choir of the cathedral. Monsignor Crookall was humself present at the mass, and was much pleased with the manner in which his new music was rendered. Besides the antiphon, sung during the blessing of the ashes, there is a kyrio, offertory piece, sanctus, benedictus and agous Dei. We hope the Monsignor will write acredo for this mass and publish the whole work.—Weekly Rezister. The Monsignor has a brother in Canada. Charles Crookall, of the Merchants' bank, Berlin.

of Pennsylvania and "fit in the revolution."
Mr. Badgerow settled in Markham and christoned his fifth son George Washington in

He was a law student of wonderful ability and conducted the division court practice of his principals with precision. As a lawyer Mr. Caiger has no hesitation in saying that Mr. Badgerow "is a conscientious, straightforward and upright practitioner." In politics he is "rather an advanced liberal." "As a legislator he has been most successful. His manner in debate is carnest, fluent and con-

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 25, 1885.

At this time, when a possible war with Russia is the most absorbing topic of the in the Northwest. He has already cost day, it may be well to go back some thirty odd years, and note what was going on then, when the question of peace or war with the same power was pending. First let us take the words of the London corespondent of the New York Times, who ables the following, under date of Satur-

The peace of Europe is no more assured today than it was during the anxious weeks of this same month thirty-two years ago, when Lord Aberdeen timidly feaced with the agents of the Czar Nicholas and Europe wavered from day to day between the fear of war and the hope of peace. The present temporary respito seems to the unthinking mind the equivalent of a permanent settlement, and the English press correspondents at Paris, Berlin and Vienna, who are careful always to reflect the current tone of London opinion instead of now chatter as if the whole affair had blown over. As a matter of fact, however, the situation could hardly be in a more critical and menacing stage than it is in now. I find among politicians that the better informed a man is the more firmly he believes that the outcome must inevitably be war. The only way out of it is an atject and complete surrender on the part of England, and that the country would not tolerate the bare thought of.

Next let us repeat a few lines from that

The coincidence in this respect between the two situations-that of 1853 and that of the present time—is really alarming. One hope we may indulge in-that if war should come, the queen would at all hazards interpose her authority, and compel the substitution of a real, live war government for the present divided and inefficient one. And the country would with a burst of patriotic devotion support her in so doing. The time has come to declare that for the safety of the state a change of government is required, and that without

The argument that it is necessary for this great wheat-producing country of ours to have flour from the United States is utterly ridiculous. And its absurdity will appear in a still stronger light from the day that the C. P. R. steamers begin landing cargoes of Manitoba wheat at Owen Sound. That, let us hope, will be ere many more weeks have passed.

There is only one way to stop Louis Riel, and that is to hang him the first time he is caught in red-handed rebellion. He is a rebel by trade and by inclination and is in his glory when stirring up trouble this country millions and kept back the settlement of the prairies. He will cost us many more millions if he is not suppressed in the most summary fashion. Rebellion has got to be put down if the confederation is to be preserved; any trifling with insurrection will only increase the audacity of those who take part in the next outbreak. If the halfbreeds have a grievance right them, but put the rebels down. The fenians, the railroad rivals of the Canadian Pacific, and other influences adverse to Canada will make the

We are assured by those who dight to know that it is would be a crime if an abundance of Canadian hard spring wheat, also of flour made from it, enough to supply all home demands, with a good deal left for exportation. It is the merest to the high in this country. I do not believed deal left for exportation. It is the merest producing control of the series of Canadian bakors. There may have been some color of such a necessity before, but last year's big crop in Manitobs did away with it for good. In all probability next peason's crop will render such pretence atterly ridiculous.

But we will not have to wait so long as until next fall for proof conclusive enough. In the C. P. The undersigned respectfully announce that on the 9th day of April, 1834, Joseph R. Rainer dissolved parmership with Frank Sweetnam and John Hazelton, as piano manufacturers, and that said Joseph F. Rainer, with his son, will continue to manufacture the original gross-scale Pianes, of which the said Joseph P. Rainer's the sole inventor.

Since the above dissolution, Mr. Rainer, sr., has greatly improved the sinall Cross-scale Piano by adding one string more to each note throughout the middle, making three strings to each note instead of two, thus giving the Plano a third more power of tone throughout the middle. There will be fifty three notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down as formerly. The undersigned will give to wholesale, and retail customers the benefit of this improvement by letting them have these Planos for the same price as the ones formerly make with two strings.

He joined the party, and singled her out as the object of his attentions. The routes they traveled he had been over before, and his would point out all that was beautiful or interesting. It was a golden season, and the girl's heart surrendered in spite of womanly pride and feltotance. But she had no cause to feel shame or to believe her love unsought for. One mellow, mecalit night, in as old Italian garden he stretched out his hand to her with sudden, passionate words of love, and so elocuently did he plead for the sweet gift of all her future life, she could not withhold the promise to be his wife.

"You shall never regret it. You shall be happy," he cried, with a lover's confidence.

"I am happy now," she whispered, if am happy now," she whispered, if the she wantered long among the flowers, feeling that heaven lay about them; but the next morning the girl received bad news from home. She only made out clearly that her presence was needed, and with only one regretful sigh for the bright dreams she had cherished, she began preparations for the long journey. "I shall come on in a few weeks whether you send for me or not. We must finish this interrupted tour together, Marian."

She returned home to find their guardian dead and their fortune gone, swept away in some ill-advised speculation. The maiden lady sought a home with relatives, and Marian Ray found herself among the world's workers, and with a helpless invalid to take care of. Helpless, did I say? Nay, she was the only hope and comfort of poor Marian's heart, for her handsome, wealthy lover came not, and the letter she wrote to him explaining their reverses of fortune remained unanswered. She tried to think of him with contempt, to hold the love that failed in the hour of her bitterest need as valueless, but she only succeeded in tormenting her own faithful, loving heart, which, in spite of pride and reason, clung to that short, sweet romance with a hold death alone could break.

All day she walked from house to house through the bitter cold, while the clouds hung dull and heavy over the city; but when, her day's work ended, she started home in the evening, a strip of blue had appeared overhead. She lifted her eyes to it and saw the clouds part wider, and wider, until the little rift had become a broad bright space across the heavens.

Large Deputation to Leave for Ottawa This Evening and Conter With Hon. J. J. C. Abbott's Select Committee A special general meeting of the board of trade was held yesterday afternoon, at which about fifty members were present. President Darling occupied the chair. Ald. John James, provision merchant; A. M. Clark, merchant tailor; A. J. Somerville, manager Ontario lead works; Alex. Mc-Michael, manager Dominion saw works; and A. Lockhart, grain merchant, Newcastle, were ballotted for and received as new members. The president then an nounced the object of the meeting to be to take speedy action on the necessity of bankruptcy legislation. Mr. Darling said there were but fourteen days remaining for the board to get some information before the dominion government for the necessity of a law having for its object the equitable distribution of insolvent debtors' estates. "A select committee of the house of commons, with Hon J J. C. Abbott as chair-man, continued Mr. Darling, "has been carefully going into the whole matter and were revising and amending the bill intro uced by Mr. Curran of Montreal at the istance of the different boards of trade The Toronto board had passed many reso lutions and sent several deputations to Ottawa, but up to the present time nothing had been accomplished in the way of having a just law enacted."

There were several speakers after Mr. Darling, but they were by no means of a uniform nature. The great stickler with the wholesale men is the insertion of a discharge clause. Some of them do not favor such a clause at all, while others do not even favor an insolvent bill of any kind. However it was decided that the day given for plaintiff. In Clark v. Eck. following deputation should go to Ottawa following deputation should go to Ottawa to night and confer with the select committee of the house having the bill in hand: President Darling, Capt. W. F. McMaster, Wm. Christie, G. B. Smith, G. M. Rose, Hugh Blain, R. W. Elliott, J. L. Brodie, A. B. Lee, W. B. Hamilton, W. Ince. T. O. Anderson, G. F. McKinnon, D. McKay, James Brayley, H. A. Nelson, W. J. McMaster, W. D. Matthews, jr. The deputation will ask that the bill now before the bouse by made a government measure ouse be made a government measure and that it be passed at the resent session. A telegram was read from James Beaty, M.P., stating that he had made an appointment with the select committee for Thursday morning. Depu-tations from the Hamilton and Montreal poards of trade are also to go to Ottawa on similar missions.

Capt. McMaster and G. B. Smith offered the following, which was carried: "That in the event of the discharge clause being inced into the insolvency bill now before the house of commons it shall b good that at least two thirds in number of creditors and three-quarters of the amount due by the debtor will be re-quisite before a discharge shall be granted to the debtor: and it is understood that of this board to the committee on insolvency srouble in passing entries at customs Something more simple is asked for. The clause reads: "In deciding the dutiable value of goods there shall be added to the actual wholesale price or fair market value thereof, at the time of exportation, in the hipment and transportation, hipment and transportation, and or by water, with all expenses included, from the piace of growth, production or manufacture to the vessel in which ship-ment is made and to and at the port from which such vessel finally clears for her out-ward veyage direct to Canada." ward voyage direct to Canada."

royd the jury found for defendant. McLean v. Gooderham was an action brought by Thomas McLean against the executors of the late firm of Gooderham & Worts to recover the value of ten flat cars leased to that firm. The cars were used by defendants on the Nipissing road, and when that line went into possession of the Grand Trunk railway plaintiff was unable to recover the cars. Damages are laid at $6000. Among the witnesses examined were E. Wragge, local manager of the Grand Trunk, and formerly mechanical engineer of the Nipissing road. The latter placed the value of the cars in 1883 at $275 each. Now they were worth nothing but serap. The evidence was all taken yesterday, and Chief Justice Wilson will address the jury this morning. Dr. Mcaddress the jury this morning. Dr. Mc-Michael Q. That man of universal knowledgehisown idea—Pendragon, has some remarks in the London Referee regarding the Scholes-Mitchell fight. He advances no new opinion except that "Mitchell's feat of knocking Scholes down with a swinging left-hand blow was a wonderful one," and as Mitchell didn't greatly do that talker. Mitchell is clever, artistic, brimful of courage, doesn't know what it is to fear a man's fist, and could come pretty near whipping any body. Between him and Greenfield it would be six of one and half a dozen of the other, but Mitchell could hardly stand as much punishment as his brother Englishman. Ryan is a good one, but greatly overrated and not the man he should be with his build. Burke is clever, has a good left arm, but has no punishing power. It's a toss between Burke, Ryan, Greenfield and Mitchell, which is the best man, and he (Sullivan) wouldn't care to offer an opinion on that point. He would be withing to meet Burke and Ryan on the same day within three months of his polishing off McCaffrey. Cleary is smart, and if he gets one in with his good right arm in the proper place is lishly a do and many and he would have fared better, and in asserting that as it is he lost no prestige by the contest. But these opinions were voiced long ago by every paper in Toronto. Pendragon also echoes the faultfinding with the referee's decision, yet it is safe to say had he been present he would have voiced long ago by every paper in Toronto.

other than the conclusion reached by Mr. Auldjo. When Mr. Sampson, alias Pendragon, has to depend solely on local reports for grounds for his criticism he should scarcely be so emphatic. Fred Archer on his return to England announced his weight as 136 lbs.; leaving him 10 lbs, to throw off before getting within hail of Derby weight. He said that he liked America immensely, that he reckoned he had traveled 20,000 miles, that the traveling is good excepting that the time kept is bad, that the baggage system is perfect except the handling part, that the hotels are the finest edifices in America and that the Windsor, Moutreal, tops ther and that the Windsor, Moutreal, tops them all, that he was disappointed with Broadway. New York, that he saw Miss Ysault Dudley and she was comfortably situated in a pleasant room, that he never saw a single jockey or a racehorse, that McLaughlin promised to come down to see him off in the Bothnia, but failed to keep his appointment, that he only was in the saddle once, and that on a hack in Central park. G. W. Carleton, the well-known New York book publisher, says in a private note from the yacht club at St. Augustine: "I came down here three weeks ago to stay among the alligators and oranges of Ponce de Leon until about April 1, and so escape the blizzard and snow storms of New York. But the climate here this winter has been wretchedly variable; one day hot enough for straw hats, white sun umbrellas and iced lemonade, and the next day cold enough to freeze out every stock holder in the Consolidated gas company of New York city. Here is a Florida item for the northern journals: An entire family was frozen to death in St. Augustine yesterday picking strawberries.

Mopes Yet of a Peaceful Settlement-The Telegraph Wires Cut—Officials Seized and Held as Hostages—The Attitude

WINNIPEG, March 25 .- Amid all the reports that are travelling about, it is a work of the greatest difficulty to distinguish the true from the false. It is certain, however that grossly exaggerated stories have been sent to both the Canadian and United States press. No conflict is known to have taken place, although with the wires cut in several places it is rapossible to describe the exact situation. However, a despatch from Battleford last night says Col, Irvine is expected to form tion with Major Crozier from Carleton to-day at a crossing on the south branch of the Saskatchewan river, opposite

Duck Lake, where Riel is supposed to be the stores of the Hudson bay posts and the Indian agents, and the officials arrested to be held as hostages. The telegraph ines have been cut and the operators arrested to prevent communication with the mounted police posts. Two hundred police have arrived at the scene of the roubles. Not more than 500 of the rebels are armed, but they possess Remington and Winchester rifles and are skilled in their use. The Indians have not yet been induced to join the rebels. Piapot is the operating with the Indians north of Regina and Qu'Appelle with some Pound Maker and Big Bear are two hundred miles northwest of the scene of the troubles and not likely to be induced te rebel. A large number of white settlers are in sympathy with the cause, but are not disposed to take up arms, feeling sure that the government will treat with them and adjust their grievances. Parties who have been on the lands for years have been unable to procure their patents Speculators and others who have given fees to persons having influence at Ottawa obtained deeds, and in many instances ave taken lands over the heads of the first settlers who improved them for fifteen and eighteen years, The militia authorities here are moving with alacrity. A rifle regiment, three hundred strong, is under arms, and was paraded to-night with the field battery. A hundred and twenty-five men of the Rifles under command of Major Boswell, Captains Rattan and Clark, embarked to-night for Qu'Appelle. They will wait the arrival of the remainder of the battalion and the artillery who expect to leave Friday with

A report was received to-night - that Charles Nolin, a former member of the local legislature here and an epponent of Riel in 1870, had been captured and threatened to be shot. Lieut, Governor Dewdney and Capt. McDougall of Prince Albert returned west to-night with troops. The wires northwest from Humboldt and Prince Albert and Fort Carleton are still down. A courier reports that the mails between these points and for Battleford and Edmonton have been seized by the

A prominent Catholic clergyman telegraphed last night from Edmonton that announcement that the dominion government had appointed a commission consider the claims of the halfbreeds was having a very beneficial effect. An Old Settler's Views. A Scotchman, a settler between Port Albert and Carlton, called in The World office yesterday. He said the real cause of the trouble was the way government, through its agents, had treated the settlers and halfbreeds in regard to lands. There and halfbreeds in regard to lands. There are enough white men in the country, all well armed, to put down an uprising of the "breeds" or Indians in twelve hours if they wished it; but the truth is, said he, that the settlers are more or less in sympathy with the Metis, and they think the government will quit temporizing once they see that rebelion is raising its head. It was somewhat laughable to hear the settler make fun of Governor Dewducy, his cocked hat, and his method of dealing with asttlera grievances.
