SAD ACCIDENT

Fred Jefferson's Little Daughter Drowned Sunday Afternoon

A sad drowning accident at 2.15 marred the quietness of a Sunday afternoon in Bridgetown, when Evelyn, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Jefferson, fell in the Aborteau as small pond near the centre of the town, and of a depth of about five feet. The only witness of the accident was George Fox's little three year old son George, who gave the alarm. It was impossible, owing to the muddy water, to recover the body until it came to the surface wentyfive minutes later, when it was brough out by Leeland Dory, the little child's uncle, who was among the crowd of spectatore which rapidly gathered. Evelyn was a bright little child who had a host of friends. Had the accident occurred after high watter accident occurred after high watter will be given by the control of child who had a host of friends. Had the accident occurred after high water the receding tide would have carried the body down the river and perhaps never found. The funeral was held the following afternoon with interment in Riverside cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. A. R. Revyolds, paster of the Bridgetown

"Buy-at-Home" Campaign!

"Buy-at-Home is Now the Slogan from the Atlantic to the Pacific all over the continent, Canada and the United States. It is now rated as one of the biggest commercial revolutions in years and is gaining ground every day. Nearly every newspaper and magazine of any standing contains articles and advertisements every few issues calling upon readers to realize the folly of buying out of town goods and the need for buying at home, buying from the local merchants and keeping the money in the community for the upbuilding of industries and stores at

The Butterick publications contained the announcement a short time ago that in future the publishers will not carry the advertisements of the big mail order houses as they consider that every effort should be made to encourage the stores in the small towns and cities. "Quebec refined oil for Quebec people" is the slogan of an aggressive campaign that is now being waged in the newspapers of the Province of Quebec. Every time excursions are arranged from Montreal to United States, articles appear in the newpapers of the metropolis calling upon the people not to spend their money in the United States but to save it all to buy goods in Montreal so that the money might be kept there to build up Montreal industries and make the city prosperous. All through the Canadian West, in Brooklyn in the east of the United States and California in the far west, there is heard the cry high above the roar of factories, 'Buy at home and keep your money at home so as to build up the home town.' Travelling salesmen declare that it is harder to sell goods now than it was ten years ago because all dealers patronize local manufacturers and all consumers patronize local dealers and so on down through the whole list. The United States Government is reported to have taken a stand in favor of the movement, realizing that the principle of centralizing the wealth of the country in a few big centres is wrong. Secretarties of government departments report that the cities and towns which have adopted the "BUY AT HOME" principle are leading in com-

Califonia is a typical example of the benefit to be derived from a strong Buy at Home campaign. Banded under the name of the "Native Sons" the people of that state practice the "BUY AT HOME" principle in all their purchases and the state has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. And lastly every nation is practising the principle just in so far as she can.

Many are forced to buy heavily in Canda and the United States but that is just because the "BUY AT HOME" principle was not practised before the War and their factories were not equipped to turn out goods fast enough. But there has come a change now. The Buy at Home principle is being practised wherever it can be enforced. All of the Allies are building factories just as fast as they can and in a short time they hope to turn all their needs out of their own factories and spend all their money at home. Let's get right into line with this big movement. Let's make "BUY AT HOME" our slogan in Nova Scotia. Buy from your home town merchants then and keep your money here to build up the home town. Buy at home and get another chance at the same old dollar. Buy at Home. This is the great Buy at Home Cam-

A VACATION ON LONG ISLAND Home of Several Enterprising Wholesale Fish Dealers.

Having chosen Long Island, Digby County, N, S. as a desirable spot to spend a quiet vacation, it was the great pleasure of the writer to be one of a joilty outing party that spent Friday, August, 17th, at Fish Point, Freeport. From this vantage point you get a magnificient view of the Bay of Fundy on the one hand, and St. Mary's Bay and the French Shore on the other. Grand Passage connects these two waters, and separates Long Island from Brier Island.

The exhificating salt air inhaled

The exhilirating salt air inhaled at this point is a good tonic, sharpened our appetite, and soon after arrival we were doing justice to a sumptuous picnic spread. Luncheon over, we were taken in a motor boat, owned by Mr. Weld Tibert, of Central Grove, by Mr. Weld Thert, of Central Grove, across Grand Passage to Westport, on Brier Island. After spending an hour or more in this pretty and prosperous seaport town, we returned to Freeport just as the fishing boats were coming in from the fishing grounds. For over three hours we watched boat after boat unload their devices the and witnessed the process day's catch and witnessed the process of handling the fish after leaving the

Here the fish is weighed and each fisherman is given a stateand each fisherman is given a state-ment of his day's haul. He has no-further care of his fish, and is thus given a longer time on the fishing grounds, with the result that larger catches are made. The price paid for the fish from the boats is but little less than that received for the dried product, so that in order for these firms to make their enterprise pay they must do a large business.

Owing to the fact that light always travels in a straight line and never in a curve, the rays which em-anate from any object within our range of vision bave to descend and ascend in order to travel into the narrow opening in the eye which corre

Continuing on in straight lines, their relative position be-comes just the reverse of what they were when they left the object seen. Thus the image register on the retina of your eye is topsy tury, just as it is on the photographic plate in a camera. If you are looking at a house, for instance, the image your eye gets will show the chimneys down below, the foundation walls up above, and so on.
But the impression your brain gets reveals the house right side up unless you happen to be afflicted with a rare
