THROUGH THE ROCKIES CANADA'S PLAY-GROUNDS

An Immense Reservation, Half as Large as Nova Scotia, Set Apart by the Government—A Grand National Park, the Largest in the World

Our longing for mountains as we gradually ascended the foot hills beyond Calgary was soon gratified, for soon there were mountains of mountains on either side of us, and it seemed as if they had opened a narrow gate-way to receive us.

We still follow the Bow River and enter the mountains in the gap or gorge by which this beautiful milky-green stream makes its exit. Its current here is very rapid reminding one of Niagara River below the falls. In our first view of the mountains they seemed like great masses of clouds above the horizon as we often see them above our own little mountain range, where the summits of the clouds are thrown on the sky line in irregular peaks and rolls. Nearer on either side of us the mountains rise to great heights; the view is magnificent, as we look out upon the snow-capped peaks as far as we can see. Many are wooded on the lower levels but the upper portions are of bare reddish grey rock until the snow is reached near the summits.

The "Three Sisters" is the first group that we recognize. They rise to their dizzy height to the south of us and are particularly pretty.

With the dazzling snow on their sides and tops they are always bedecked and dressed to have their pictures taken, and from the many views that we, seen everywhere, they are particular favourites for this pastime. We saw them too late in the day for the cameras of our party. Continuing through this grandeur and beauty on all sides for twenty miles we reach Banff Station. We are now 4500 feet above the sea level and the mountains about us reach a height of many of them a mile or more.

At Banff we stopped a day and two nights to break our journey and enjoy the feast of grandeur to be found here. We had been well prepared for it, for all the way across the continent we had heard: "You must be sure and stop at Banff and Laggan and see the mountains and mountain lakes, snow mountains, glaciers, canyons and gorges, at close range." Banff is the centre of the Canadian National Park and Reservation that is owned and controlled by the Dominion Government.

An area nearly half as large as the whole of Nova Scotia proper (5,732 square miles) has been set apart as Canada's play-ground and is a spot, a very large one, for which we should all be justly proud and also thankful to our statesmen of the early days of Canada that set this immense park aside for the people's benefit.

The sweeping expression of praise that one hears on all sides and every where from those who have visited our mountains as well as the mountains on other continents cannot but make a Canadian's bosom swell with pride at their great heritage in this line.

Dr. T. G. Longstaff, an experienced and professional mountaineer of England, has just completed a two months' stay here and writes that he believes the Canadian Rockies are destined to become the play grounds of the world and that no where else on the globe do peak and cliff, snowfield and glacier, alpine forest, lakes, cataract and stream form such a perfect combination as is found, not in one but in hundreds of places in these glorious ranges. "The Alps could be held on the lap of our own mountains," said Sir Willford a few days ago in referring to our mountain heritage. An American Bishop referring to them said they were so wonderful that it was impossible to tell the truth about them without lying.

It is quite impossible for an ordinary individual to describe the beauty and grandeur of the mountains; adjectives fail and seem utterly inadequate so I can only narrate the many places of beauty to which the visitor is shown. In his passage through this grand mountain park, the largest in the world, as we were told, being half as large again as the celebrated Yellowstone Park of the United States.

Banff has a population of about 1000, probably nearly half of this number is employed at the six or eight hotels. The greater part of the balance are in the photograph or picture card business or government officials in connection with the oversight of the park. The hotels all keep from forty to one hundred horses, and these are in constant demand to take visitors in various directions to beauty spots or vantage points from which magnificent views are to be obtained of the surrounding peaks or mountain lakes or streams. One of the most interesting places we visited was the hot springs here water heavily charged with sulphur and other chemicals and at a temperature of 114 degrees, bubbles out of the solid rock. The Government has made a large cement basin 20 x 20 feet square along side; bathing suits are provided, and into this warm bath about all the visitors jump and spend an hour or more. The water is from four to eight feet deep and affords, a refreshing, medicated bath, after a day of mountain climbing and sight-seeing. These hot springs were first found here in a deep cave in the side of Sulphur Mountain and were the remains of an old, Geyser that had somewhat quieted down but still retained much of its heat. The side of the cave was broken to give an entrance and the water, however, to the various places of interest makes the day fairly easy and as the roads are all good we return at evening quite fresh. As we go and come we meet many loads of visitors and tourists all bent on the same mission and from June to October this constant flow of travel is kept up and yearly increases as the mountain becomes better known.

So easy of access, and with such good accommodation in the way of hotels Banff must continue to be a very busy place in this respect and its thousands of visitors increase from year to year. Already a number of summer cottages are being put up by families from Calgary and the cities of the plains and it is certainly an ideal atmosphere and location for a summer vacation.

One can scarcely forget the feeling of rapture he experiences in looking out for the first time on these beautiful mountains surrounding one of our

Plan to Exploit Arctic Whaling

MacKenzie and Mann and Winnipeg Capitalists Have a Big Scheme.

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—Representing themselves and MacKenzie-Mann interests, Col. Davidson and A. D. McRae, capitalists of Winnipeg and Vancouver, are planning to exploit Arctic whaling. Two steamers and a sailing ship will be despatched to the Arctic regions next spring from Vancouver, when a station will be established on the mainland or on one of the many groups of islands. This entire region east of the boundary line between Alaska and the Dominion, and extending to the North Pole, is wholly within British territory. It embraces a vast archipelago, notice of ownership of which has been proclaimed to the world by Canada through the British Foreign Office.

In the summer months the waters adjacent to the mainland, including the estuary at the mouth of the MacKenzie river, are open and can be navigated by seagoing vessels. This has been demonstrated by the success of American whalers, which have been poaching in these British waters for nearly twenty years. The action of our owners in importing goods for trading purposes, as well as liquor, resulted several years ago in the Dominion Government establishing a custom office, on Herschel Island, the rendezvous of the fleet. The vigilance of the authorities was declared by the collection of thousands of dollars of revenue, as well as the suppression of the illicit sale of intoxicants which was demoralizing the Esquimaux.

It is now kept as one of the places of interest. An old Scotch highland soldier is here as guard and guide, and with lighted candles conducts small parties of visitors into this extinct geyser and delivers his story of its history and former greatness many times a day. Another place of interest is the buffalo park where a herd of upwards of one hundred of these former monarchs of the plains are kept. They are very tame and our drivers took us amongst them but visitors are not allowed to get out of the carriage for fear an angry one might go for them. In this park are also elk, antelope, mountain sheep, and other animals found in the mountains. A drive of eight miles between the mountain peaks brought us to Lake Minnewanka, a magnificent mountain lake fourteen miles long and about one mile wide.

Down this we were taken in a little steamer, the mountains and peaks rising to their great heights on both sides wooded on their lower slopes then bare for some distance and the tops snow covered. We leave the most of these peaks can be climbed on one side or the other, but from the water side it looks quite impossible. The local Masonic Lodge make it a practice to yearly ascend one of these different mountains and on the Sunday following our visit they were to make their annual climb and hold lodge on one of these solitary peaks, where they certainly could feel as secure from the minutest as in their own sheltered lodge room. To crowd these many attractions into one day kept us quite busy and made it seem like working at sight-seeing. Driving, however, to the various places of interest makes the day fairly easy and as the roads are all good we return at evening quite fresh. As we go and come we meet many loads of visitors and tourists all bent on the same mission and from June to October this constant flow of travel is kept up and yearly increases as the mountain becomes better known.

So easy of access, and with such good accommodation in the way of hotels Banff must continue to be a very busy place in this respect and its thousands of visitors increase from year to year. Already a number of summer cottages are being put up by families from Calgary and the cities of the plains and it is certainly an ideal atmosphere and location for a summer vacation.

September Weddings

WHITMAN—MESSENGER

One of the most interesting events of the season took place at Centrelea on Wednesday last, Sept. 14th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Messenger, when their elder daughter, Gladys Elmore, was united in marriage to Mr. J. Parker Whitman, of Paradise West. The ceremony took place at 10.30 a.m. the bridal party entering the room during the rendering of Mendelssohn's Wedding March by Miss Jessie Beals, of Inglisville.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. McNeil, pastor of the Bridgetown Baptist church. The room had been decorated with cut flowers and potted plants by the young friends of the bride. The bride, one of Centrelea's fairest daughters, looked charming in a gown of white silk with ornaments of gold beading and bands of embroidery. She carried a bouquet of white lilies.

The bridesmaid, Miss Elle Durand, cousin of the bride, was also gowned in white silk and carried white asters.

The best man was Mr. Wilber Banks of Inglisville. After the ceremony and congratulations, the guests numbering about one hundred, were treated to a most delicious luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman left on the west-bound "Bismarck" for Yarmouth where they took the steamer for Boston and other American cities. On their return they will take up their residence at West Paradise.

The brides' travelling gown was a tailor-made suit of dark green broadcloth with hat to harmonize.

They were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts.

The groom's gift to the bride was an elegant gold watch and chain, the bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a set of gold cuff links. Both bride and groom have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.—COM.

CROSSMAN—HARRIS.

Miss Ruby Imogene Harris of 132 Cedar St., Somerville Mass, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Crossman of 139 Morrison Avenue, on August 10th. The parlour was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Loren A. Clevenger D.D., the ring service being used. The bride was gowned in white silk mull, lace trimmed, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was the recipient of a number of beautiful and useful gifts, including a chest of silver, the gift of the groom's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crossman, also glass from her sister, Mrs. Berley D. Hammond, 69 Marlboro St., Belmont, and presents in cash by her brothers, Messrs Fred A. and G. S. Harris.

The groom is a native of Hillsboro N. B. and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Harris, Margreville, N. S. Mr. and Mrs. Crossman will be at home to their friends at 17 Willow Avenue, West Somerville, Mass. The best wishes of many Nova Scotia and New Brunswick friends of both bride and groom will follow them to their new home.—COM.

McCORMICK—McCORMICK

An event of much interest to many friends took place at the home of H. V. McCormick, Granville Centre, on Wednesday morning, September fourteenth, when his sister, Ada Elizabeth, was united in the bonds of wedlock to George Thomas McCormick. The bride, recently of Paradise, is a daughter of the late John McCormick, Granville Centre.

The wedding, though quiet, was a very pretty one. The parlours were artistically decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. At nine thirty, the officiating clergyman, Rev. W. E. Snodgrass, rector of Granville, took his stand, followed by the groom. The bride was led to her place on the arm of her brother, M. C. McCormick, of the firm of McCormick and Stronach, Clements-Port. She was very becomingly gowned in Alice blue silk, trimmed with chiffon

More About the Bi-Centennial

To the Editor of the Monitor:

I thank you much for your courtesy in sending me a copy of your interesting notice of our Bi-Centennial celebration. There is one omission I should like to mention that, upon entering the Fort, the white St. Luke's ensign, generously presented to this Parish by W. H. Holmes, Esq. of Bellevue, Truro, was unfurled by the Rt. Hon. and Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of London. This was to remind us of the "striking" of the golden lilies of France, and the final hoisting by General Nicholson, of the cross-embazoned Flag of old England, the sacrament of justice and equal rights for liberty-loving people. As it was the first occasion on which the Bishop had performed such an office, he was pleased to say that he did so with the deepest emotion. The National Anthem was lustily sung by the large concourse of loyal subjects representing the myriads who happily enjoy the privileges guaranteed by our beloved Flag.

Mrs. How presided at the organ, and thinks it quite amusing, as well as very complimentary, that nobody seems to have noticed any improvement when, at the time before the sermon by the Lord Bishop of Glasgow, at the National anthem, after the benediction and the recessional our talented visitor, James Edmund Jones, took her place, by her special request. "That your account may be correct, I shall be much obliged if you will accord me the favor of making this correction. Mr. Jones practiced with our choir till 10 p.m. and taught them many new and lovely hymns. We were very much delighted to see the St. James' choir represented by Mrs. H. Ruggles.

The memorials for August, Isabella Gray, General Nicholson and Rev. John Harrison have arrived and are in their proper places. Each bears a brass plate with a suitable inscription. They are the work of the Valley City Seating Co., Ltd., of Dundas, Ont., and reflect the greatest credit upon their conscientious workmen. The Bishop's chair also bears the date, Aug. 12th, 1787. This was the day of the consecration in memory of the devoted daughter and benefactor of the church, Mrs. W. S. Gray. The handsome additions make it somewhat difficult to recognize old St. Luke's.

I desire to give public expression of our deepest gratitude to the Rev. W. B. Muir, M.A. and the Rev. Porter Shirley, who kindly placed their churches at our disposal for the overflow meetings and to Rev. W. Raymond, who with the above offered gracious hospitality to our distinguished guests. They have, however, but shown their latest token of good will for the old church and this congregation. Others in their congregations also extended generous hospitality. Our visitors were deeply impressed by this exhibition of such good will. Rev. E. Underwood kindly lent us a set of eucharistic silver. Our old and new sets of silver vessels were in requisition, hence our needs. The Oddfellows and Salvation Army also placed their halls at our disposal for vesting.

I have the honor to be Your obedient servant,
HENRY HOW,
St. Luke's, Annapolis Royal

over Persian silk and lace, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white asters. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary McCormick, of Boston, who made a pretty appearance in blue silk of a darker shade than the bride's gown.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, hearty congratulations were extended, and then all repaired to the dining room where a dainty luncheon was served, and shortly after, the happy couple, accompanied by Mrs. M. C. McCormick and Miss Mary McCormick, amid showers of rice, were driven to Bridgetown, where they took the D. A. R. train for a short wedding trip.

The bride's travelling suit was of London smoke broadcloth with hat to match.

The presents were costly and well selected. In addition to those of silver, linen, etc., a sum of money was received. The bride and groom are very popular, and have the good wishes of many for their future happiness.—COM.

WHAT YOU CAN DO FOR YOUR OWN PROVINCE

President of Maritime Board of Trade Gives Good Advice—Much Lost Through Waste—Should Stop the Export of Ore.

At a recent session of the Maritime Board of Trade held in Chatham President Snowball is reported in the Chatham World as saying in part:—"The Board is the parliament of the Maritime Provinces without the power of making enactments, but able to have its views impressed on the parliaments so that they will be embodied in legislation. The time is fast coming with the rapid growth of the west when we must act together for our mutual good if we want to maintain our influence in the affairs of the Dominion."

"The Maritime Provinces are awakening. We can see evidence of this all around us. The people have become dissatisfied with the easy-going methods that have prevailed. Gentlemen, help the spirit that is animating our provinces, and strangle and kill the one that is pessimistic and ready to decry our eastern heritage.

"We have a grand portion of the Dominion, one that has rendered in many cases too easy returns from her forests, fisheries, mines and farms. The surface has been used, prompt, ready return, and the waste that has been permitted because of indifference to the future, has been phenomenal. Still these provinces hold good things for us that may be used for our benefit and handed on to posterity through prudence, forethought and consideration.

"We must stop waste to make any enterprise pay today. The lumberman is learning the lesson. The people should have, and should insist on having, the greatest benefit from this resource, whether from government owned or from granted lands. The greatest good to the greatest number, should be our cry.

"Waste of bye-products at mills should be stopped and those bye-products turned into a source of revenue and employment. The roasting of wood for export to keep industries in foreign countries going should be prohibited.

"On the farm, waste has been going on to such an extent that everywhere we see deserted farms and dilapidated farm buildings. The stability and prosperity of our country is dependent on the farming industry. We were told by Prof. Robertson, at the Conservation Commission meeting that Quebec's shipment of 1000 tons of hay, returning to that province about $14,000, took more of the elements of fertility out of the country than did the $50,000,000 of butter shipped from Denmark.

"Never lose an opportunity to speak well of your own town, your province and your country, and if you can't say anything good keep quiet."

"It would be well if the Dominion ministers expended some of the energy and money they have been expending on the west in getting a good class of farm settlers for the east.

Then we have our fisheries—so important to these provinces. Are we getting all we should from this heritage of river and lake and sea? Can we improve our methods and enforce our laws and enact new laws that will preserve to us our salmon, lobster, codfish, mackerel, smelt and other fish in steady supply, rather than in a diminishing quantity of a quality becoming inferior?

"Our coal, iron and other mines should be conserved to our people. The export of ore from our provinces should be stopped so that industries making iron and steel and using these products may grow up in their midst. Large preparations are now being made on this river to ship ore from the Drummond mines in Gloucester to the United States, Germany and England. This will not only give employment to our people, and give a small revenue to our province. This should not be permitted to continue many years.

"I would suggest to towns in these provinces the encouragement of small industries, natural to the place, started if possible by local men who know the business, and that will grow naturally, rather than big industries induced by bonuses, grants and exemptions, that often fail and leave the place worse than before. We have people with money who could go into the manufacturing trade that would bring up our provinces in population and increase the value of properties. They selfishly prefer investing in bonds, stocks, lands in the west and get-quick schemes.

"Too much money is being sent out of our provinces to the large departmental stores of the western cities. The community should patronize home merchants if they want good stores. We also have too many idle dollars in banks and stockings. Idle dollars and idle men are useless to the state."

Mr. Snowball also pointed out the markets opened to the east by the Transcontinental Railway, referred approvingly to the movement for technical education, and concluded as follows:

"Never lose an opportunity to speak well of your own town, your province and your country, and if you can't say anything good keep quiet."

Success of the Boy Scout Idea

General Baden-Powell Explains Why Boys are Taught Tactics of War, but Rather to Become Good and Useful Citizens

(St. John Telegraph, Sept. 12th.) Major General Sir Robert Baden-Powell must have been gratified at the warmth of the reception he met with in the Opera House yesterday afternoon, when he addressed a meeting in connection with the Boy Scout movement.

The head of Making was accorded an ovation as he stepped upon the platform and as he explained the formation and discipline of the scout movement.

Premier Hazen, who at the close moved a formal vote of thanks, said it was doubtful if the name of any other man in the British Empire would have been sufficient at such short notice to call together such a large number of the people of this city.

General Baden-Powell expressed the hope that before he left St. John he would be able to form a committee which would carry on the boy scout movement in St. John and New Brunswick.

The chair was occupied by M. E. Agar, president of the Canadian Club; Premier Hazen sat on the right hand of the speaker and Mayor Frink on the left.

The seats on the platform were occupied by a large number of representative citizens, including among them was a deputation from the Women's Canadian Club, members of the city council, prominent in educational matters, military men and clergymen.

Mr. Agar introduced the speaker in a very brief address. GENERAL BADEN-POWELL'S ADDRESS.

General Baden-Powell said in part: "Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, I have to apologise to you for appearing in this town. The reason is that your express service is not so fast in this country as I had anticipated and I suppose that the day after tomorrow I would have been able to appear before you in proper uniform. The reason I am here is that I came of my own accord. There are no advantages, too, in coming that way, you can see the city and its inhabitants then under normal conditions.

For instance, I was standing in the street just now and overheard a conversation that was going on inside a shop between a man and a woman. The man asked 'what are all the people going in there for?' The woman replied, 'Oh, General Baden-Powell is going to speak there on the boy scout movement.'

"Hearing that the man turned away, saying 'that's not much in my line, I think' (Laughter). "That's just the trouble. The boy scout movement doesn't seem to be much in anybody's line. I want to explain it to you and then you can think it over and form your own conclusions. A good text occurs to me from an incident. I saw yesterday. A poor old man was making his way across the street on crutches, dragging his limbs after him. A number of young fellows on the sidewalk halted him. 'Well, Jack, how are you?' The old man replied: 'I'm just as right as rain, thank God.' That's the right kind of spirit and you have much of it in this country. It's no use for me to preach the boy scout movement to you. That's the right kind of spirit, because of the patience shown.

"When I was in the western part of your country I found your boys to be a splendid lot of fellows with a great deal of patience also. That's what our boys in England need. But then there's the danger of these attributes going to extremes to be faced. Your self-reliant man or boy may get too uppish. He knows he can do things and the danger is that he may get in such a way after a bit that he may do nothing. You are building here a great nation but that nation has to be made up of many parts, of people of varying creed, of differing beliefs. You must have some cohesive spirit running through the whole of it. The lads seem to acquire a tangible spirit of brotherhood as soon as they join the scout movement and when they learn it as boys, it may be taken for granted they will live together in harmony as men afterwards.

BISHOPS INTERESTED "It is presumption on my part to speak to you after you have listened to such eminent visitors as you had in your city yesterday. These bishops told you of the sins and evils of society and how they might be cured. I follow in a humble way and tell you how they may be prevented. The Bishop of London and Bishop Taylor-Smith take a keen interest in the boy scout movement. Our method is to give the lads a purpose that is really attractive to them. The scout movement does not deal with the work of the soldier on the field of battle. That is one kind of scouting but another is the scouting of peace. These scouts of the empire are they mounted policemen or missionaries who have to do their duty far from applause and simply because it is their duty, have to learn to look not only after themselves but others.

"As we believe that the lads of these men furnish the best examples to be found anywhere, we hold them up for the lads to emulate. So we teach the boys to look after themselves in the field, to cook their own meals, to read maps and to find their way by reading the stars. Not only so, but we teach them to be helpful to their comrades and in towns and cities to be helpful to weak women and children. In short, we teach them to be chivalrous in the best sense of the word. We also urge upon them public duties simply because they are duties and organisations among them fire companies, and companies for life saving and ambulance work.

"Do not misunderstand me. I do not hold a brief for any particular branch of the service. I am rather against that than otherwise. I am no general nor you know. All that is done with, I am a doctor. I think that I have had as much experience in military matters as any man in the British empire and we rather discourage the military side. We aim to make our boys use their hands and brains, whereas under a military system each boy becomes part of a machine. If any of our officers takes it up of course we do not forbid it. We put a boy on his honor and expect him to do things. This makes him more valuable to the empire when he is taught to consider his own pleasure in the second place.

"The matter of religion is an important one and it might well be asked what we do about it. Well, as a matter of fact, we don't do anything. We expect every scout to have one form of religion or another and to live up to it when among his comrades. There is one thing we insist upon which is perhaps the practical side of religion, that is that every day they shall practice doing a good turn either to their fellows or to animals. This is the side of religion which appeals most to youngsters who can't see where the other side connects with our daily life.

DISCOURAGES THE MILITARY SIDE. "There is another reason, however, why we do not impart military training. A great many parents have conscientious objections to having their sons' minds filled with thoughts of war and killing, and very properly so. I do not by this mean to run down any of the existing organizations such as the cadets. We have no right to do that, being a junior organization, but we rather want to work with them. It was while working in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. that I gave them the idea of the scout movement as an organization controlled altogether by the boys themselves.

"We soon found, however, that such an enormous number of boys who belonged neither to the Y. M. C. A. nor the cadets took the idea up that we had to abandon all thought of combining it to either. One reason why a boy prefers to join the scouts to any of the others is because there is no red tape about it and I am glad to say that the cadet corps have largely adopted our methods and work with us shoulder, to shoulder. Our organization in Canada makes its own rules. Governor-General Lord Grey is at the head of the movement. Then in each province the lieutenant-governor is in command of the scouts in his particular territory. The only difficulty we have met so far is in getting good scout masters to look after the training of the boys. Most men will say that they have not got the time or the money. It really takes very little time, an evening or two a week, nor does it require much money. We do not train our boys to expect money from the public. We make them work for it, if it is only making buttons and a boy can in a few evenings pay for his uniform making buttons.

LET THE BOY EARN HIS MONEY. "If you want to make your boy really give him a job rather than make it for him. Each troop makes its own money. Each scout master appoints his own patrol leaders. These are not officers in the ordinary sense of the word. They are treated with a little more respect than the ordinary member of the company, that is all. There are generally eight of them in a company and they are responsible for the smartness and appearance of their comrades.

"We teach them to row, but that doesn't mean that we take them out and make them labor hour after hour over the oars. We have a lb of wood out in the water which we call a 'whale' and each company before embarking chooses its harpooner. And then the race begins. There is great excitement when they are fastened to the log and all sorts of crabs are caught and sometimes they lose their heads. They very soon find out, however, that in order to win, it is necessary to keep cool and it is really surprising how skilful they become in a short time. Our life saving and ambulance drill is conducted on altogether different lines from those followed in military circles. We make each boy use his head and his hands. They pick it up more readily and the reason is that they look upon the instruction given as so much real good sport.

"I ask all young men, and I consider all men young who are between the ages of eighteen and eighty, to consider whether this scout movement is not a thoroughly practical idea, to help their younger brothers. We have a tremendous amount of life saving in the old land. Our scouts are daily on the lookout for the opportunity to save life and it is no exaggeration to say that every day I receive applications for rewards for some who have saved life at the risk of their own. This is simply putting in practice their determination to do a good turn for someone every day. I heard an amusing story the other day of a boy in Toronto who after he went to bed one night, suddenly remembered he had not done a good turn to anyone. His conscience felt guilty and he did not well know what to do. Suddenly he heard a mouse trap near click and he jumped out of bed at once, opened the trap and gave the mouse to the cat. He did the cat a good turn anyway. (Laughter)

EXAMPLE OF BRAVERY. "I met in Vancouver the boy scouts turned out to the forest fires. They patrolled the territory night and day and where the fire was advancing often beat it back. They succeeded at last in beating it out and thus saving hundreds of houses which stood in the direct line of the flames. Since coming to Canada I have received no less than five applications for rewards for saving life by the scouts at the risk of their own. One was from a boy fourteen years old for stopping a runaway horse. He had been taught how to do it in his company and running up he put his left hand on the shaft and seized the bridle of the horse with his right, jerking its head around till it stopped. This was a particularly gallant action when it is remembered that the little fellow was of his feet a good part of the time.

"Another case was where a poor boy was bathing beyond his depth with water wings which collapsed. A companion, who was a poor swimmer, jumped in but the first caught hold of him and both went down. A scout who happened to be on the beach was a capital swimmer and he at once went in for them. They caught hold of him, too, however, and the three went down. The scout at last succeeded in breaking their hold and swam ashore with one of the two. They say that when he reached the shore the scout made use of one of our texts of which we have many. 'Never say die till you're dead.' I don't know whether he did or not but he at once went after the second lad. He dived and brought him to the surface but the drowning lad caught him by a death grip round the throat and they both sank. When the scout at last succeeded in breaking this hold he was thoroughly exhausted and was picked up in a half-drowned condition. These things only show what can be done with boys. They only want a guiding hand to direct them."

In conclusion the speaker said that he would only be a few hours in St. John but he hoped that before he left a committee would be formed which would carry the movement forward to a success in this city and province.

When he resumed his seat there was a tremendous outburst of applause and it was some time before Premier Hazen could be heard to move a formal vote of thanks. This was seconded by Mayor Frink and carried by a unanimous standing vote. The distinguished visitor replied in a brief and fitting manner.

GIVE THE BOY A USEFUL TRADE. "The boys are taught the past history of the nation and the race and the best ideals found there are held up for their imitation. We also strive to make of them good citizens and to this end endeavor to impart to them handicrafts and trades so that they shall not be utterly helpless when they leave school. We are, you know, struggling with the problem of the unemployed in the old land. The unemployed unfortunately are unemployed because they would never be taught to do anything useful.

"To me it is plain that the boy will make a success in life not in proportion to what he gets in school as to what character he develops afterwards. Unfortunately there is no way in which a boy can be taught character systematically in school, where reading, writing and arithmetic are taught. The boy must be taken individually and this is what the parents should do. But it often happens the parents are very busy people and cannot spare the time. That is what we do as far as possible and the way we do it is simply that we expect a great deal of the boy. We put responsibilities on him which he is expected to carry out.

TEACH HIM HANDICRAFTS. "So we teach him handicrafts in order that he may not be absolutely hopeless and helpless when he starts out in the battle of life. It is a great thing to teach him how to cut down trees, how to build boats and huts. All this leads on to carpenter work. We also encourage them to make their own shoes and clothes and give badges for those who pass examinations in particular handicrafts. It may well be that out of a half dozen trades, a boy will choose one and devote all his energies to it. "You would be surprised at the way the idea of these badges took. At the outset we had only a few but we were obliged to increase them to many hundreds. I wish you could have seen the little troop of boys I brought from England. All of them had badges and some had so many they had no room for more, as they were little chaps. There are different grades. There is the Kings badge for efficiency in any particular trade and the Silver Wolf, which signifies that the wearer has won all the badges it is possible for him to win.

THE WAY THEY LEARN. "In all this we don't try to teach. We try to get the boy to learn, which is a very different thing. We say 'Here's a badge which you can win if you succeed in passing our tests.' Suppose it's a baker's badge. Well, a boy who wants it will hunt up a friendly baker and get lessons from him in a few things. We have our examining board and after a time he comes before them and if he succeeds in passing the examination well and good, he gets the badge. Then troops are formed from the boys, called technical troops. These include telegraph and telephone troops who can install a system for you anywhere. In Ontario they have, I believe, a troop of very efficient wireless telegraph operators who can send and receive messages.

AMBULANCE WORK. "The ambulance work should be most important in this country. Then there is the fire brigade work. These boys are always under the command of the fire chief and are called out just the same as other fire companies. If they cannot work at the fire they can at least pass buckets or keep the crowds back.

THE SEA SCOUTS. "Then there is the branch of sea scouts which I am glad is being taken up with so much energy in this country. In Vancouver, two sealing schooners are being used in the service and many of the boys spend their week-ends on board ship learning how to reef and haul, tie knots, etc. The importance of this cannot be over-estimated, especially seeing that you are going to have a navy of your own."

M. K. PIPER PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER. WEDNESDAY, September 21, 1910

It is regrettable that the visit of General Baden-Powell to Eastern Canada was so brief as there is a very general interest taken in the 'Boy Scout' movement, which was described in the address of General Baden-Powell at St. John, quoted freely on another page of this issue. The organization is not of a military nature as might be inferred but is designed to direct the natural impulses of the natural boy into channels which will develop manly character, and direct his energies into forces for good. The organization is meant to include all classes, even the unfortunate class confined in reformatories and industrial schools, and this is a feature which particularly commends it. It is the natural birthright of every child to be well born but since society neglects to enforce the provisions of this moral claim the least it can do is to see that every child has a chance for a free existence, unhampered by the evils that clog the mental and moral growth and feed the grosser passions, which are the sole inheritance of so many unfortunate children.

General Baden-Powell goes after the enemy by the aggressive method of warfare, driving out the forces of evil before they have time to fortify their strong hold. It is safe to predict that the class that occupy our jails and penitentiaries will be greatly reduced by the result of this humane movement. Another feature of the General's campaign that merits strong commendation is the practice of introducing every boy to some trade or handicraft, to make him a working citizen. The old proverb "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do" is as true as it was in Dr. Watt's day. Keep the boy busy and feed his ambitions, give him an outlook on the higher things of life, interest him through his hobbies and furnish him amusement and the forces of evil have small chance to obtain the mastery. We look for important results from General Baden-Powell's movement.

French and Anglican Churches of Annapolis Royal

A brochure has just been published under this title, descriptive of the establishment of the French and English churches in Annapolis Royal, by Judge A. W. Savary, who is popularly known as the historian of Annapolis county. His facile pen has recorded here events of uncommon interest and especially so in connection with the recent Bi-Centennial celebration. To Judge Savary's chronicles of the church's earliest history is appended a sketch by Mrs. S. B. Godfrey, widow of the late Rev. W. M. Godfrey, a former missionary in Annapolis Co. now residing in Annapolis Royal at the age of ninety-five years. Mrs. Godfrey was also a sister of the late Rev. E. Gilpin, a former rector of St. Luke's parish, and her sketch gives a vivid impression of the early days of St. Luke's, her recollection extending as far back as 1838. Her graphic and interesting narrative is preceded by an introductory letter by the Rev. Henry How. The pamphlet is on sale and may be obtained from Judge Savary for twenty-five cents.

Through the Rockies

all sides. In early morning, with the bright sunlight and clear atmosphere as found here he can quite easily forgive the heathen that by nature worship mountains. I presume we have much the same feeling of adoration and awe. Even here we meet Annapolis county boys as we had at most other places we stopped at. Mr. S. M. Armstrong, of Granville Ferry, son of E. H. Armstrong, Esq., is connected with the leading grocery business in Banff, and has made a success of his western migration. In addition to managing this business Mr. Armstrong is also Customs Officer for the mountain district and we would judge is in quite as great demand and his judgement relied on as was Joseph in Egypt.

From Banff we resumed our journey westward in the early morning. As we board the train large numbers get off to take the drives and see the sights we had seen the previous day. The C. P. R. continues to follow the valley of the Bow River and so far there has been nothing but easy grades; one would say their engineers had found a natural pass for a road through the mountains.

From Banff to Laggan a distance of thirty-four miles we pass through rows of mountain peaks on either side of the track some of them particularly grand. The C. P. R. have marked the names on wooden arrows pointing to the peaks, nailed to posts and from the cars one can identify many of them. The principal one in this distance being Castle Mountain, a sheer precipice one mile high and eight miles long with turrets, bastions and battlements complete, if one's imagination is equal to it. A draw-bridge and gateway is also distinguished by the poetic eye. Near Laggan Temple Mt. comes into view the loftiest and grandest in the whole panorama and easily recognized in the whole sea of mountain peaks that surround it. The snow is said to be three hundred feet deep on the summit of this grand mountain temple.

At Laggan we leave the cars again to drive to Lake Louise, two and one half miles distant. This distance is up a continuous grade as steep as our North Mountain road, but there are ample two horse teams to carry everybody in waiting. This portion of the mountain is heavily wooded and our road, which is a good one, is through the forests of fir, spruce and cedar, and along a ravine, down which flows the stream that is the outlet of Lake Louise.

Lake Louise is one mile and four hundred feet, above the sea level. It is called the "most winsome spot" in the Canadian Rockies and is acknowledged by those competent to judge to be one of nature's greatest master-pieces. Hearing all this we are ready for a beautiful visit and are fully satisfied when we at last alighted at the C. P. R. Hotel on its margin. The lake, which is glacier fed, and consequently has the pretty milky-green waters before mentioned, is about two miles long and half a mile wide and lies between two great mountains that rise quite abruptly from its shore and shut it in on either side. Sloping away from its upper end is Victoria Mt. and glacier, its heavily snowed side and peak making a reflection in the lake as in a mirror, and illuminating the front windows of the hotel so that twilight lingered the whole night in fine weather. The sun's rays on the ice and snow reflect ever changing colors in the water and all makes a picture one carries away as a perfect gem.

The surroundings are absolute solitude, save the life about the hotel. The lake was named for Princess Louise, wife of the Marquis of Lorne but was quite unknown until the C. P. R. was built. In 1890 the railway erected a small log house here for the convenience of visitors, but the travel has increased so rapidly that this has been added to year by year until now they have a large hotel and this is so taxed by the increasing tide of travel that to get a room one requires to speak some time in advance. The hotel is managed by ladies and in the office and everywhere they conduct the affairs quite as smoothly as the Lords of Creation could do. In the dining room Chinese waiters appeared exclusively.

From Lake Louise travellers climb the mountain side to many interesting points at still higher altitudes, and the government have opened bridle paths in many directions here to places of interest. Our party select a climb to the Lakes of the Clouds (Mirror and Agnes) as our stint for the day. A climb of three and a half miles brought us to Lake Agnes, which is almost a mile and a quarter above the sea level and quite within the perpetual snow line. Here we are able to make some snow balls (Aug. 12th) and also take some snap shots of them having in mind our ravitation and the fate of Dr. Cook.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

A young colored man accused of assault on a young girl was arrested on Monday and is confined in Annapolis jail awaiting trial.

Several rainy days during the past week have been welcomed by the farmers as in many districts the water supply was getting very low.

Providence church Sunday School are preparing for their annual 'Rally Day' which will be held on Sabbath morning, Sept. 25th, at 11 o'clock.

Several papers, referring to Rev. J. Clarke's poem on the death of King Edward VII, entitled 'His Hands are crossed on His Breast,' speak of it as the best published on that event. It appeared in the Monitor at the time.

A horrible murder case is reported from Truro. The victim, Mrs. Maud Wright, was the mother of five children, was a woman of unvarying character and had been harboring the man who is supposed to have committed the deed. He is in charge of the authorities.

Among the prize winners at the St. John Exhibition were the veteran exhibitor, B. F. Chesley, whose prizes totalled over $100; A. F. Hiltz, who took eight prizes on flower exhibits, six being first prizes; and E. C. Young who took a prize on home-made cheese.

Sunday next being the last in September, in accordance with the usual custom, the Harvest Festival Service will be held in St. Mary's church, Belleisle, at 3 p.m., the collection being for the Episcopal income fund. Friends are asked to send their contributions for decorating the church as early as possible on Saturday.

Mrs. I. B. Freeman has recently been bereaved by the loss of a sister, Mrs. Amelia Fairman, whose death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital, Glace Bay, from cancer of the stomach. Mrs. Freeman was with her sister when the end came, and was much touched by the evidence of friendship and kindness shown for her sister by the people of Glace Bay. Mrs. Fairman was a very charitable woman and was devoted to the interests of religion. She was instrumental in raising $1000 towards the building of a new Presbyterian church at Glace Bay.

The choir of Providence church, assisted by some leading local talent, are rehearsing two splendid choruses, 'Come where the lilies bloom,' and 'The song of the Vikings.' These selections are to be used in connection with a concert to be given in the church on the 30th of this month. This concert will be under the direction of Mr. Charles A. Cooke, of Ottawa, Canada's Indian Basso and Elocutionist. Mr. Cooke, who is now touring the Maritime Provinces in concert work, comes highly recommended, and his selections, both musical and literary, will form a large part of the evening's program.

The excursion from Port Wade to Lunenburg on Friday last, via the H. & S. W. was a great success. Six carloads of excursionists arrived at Lunenburg and spent three hours in town. A Lunenburg despatch says: 'The lively men were quite busy, as every available team was in active service. The hotels and restaurants did a thriving business, and the sale of curios and souvenir goods was exceptionally large. Travelers were anxious that this event should be duplicated. The excursion was promoted by two enterprising young men, who hired the train, making special rates with the railway company, and they netted a neat sum by today's outing. It was a beautiful day and the visitors saw Lunenburg in all its glory and went home highly pleased with what they had seen, and the reception received from the people of the town. The return train left here at four o'clock for Port Wade and Annapolis, much too soon for most of the sight-seers.'

DEATH OF LITTLE

GERALD EGAN. Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Egan have the sympathy of their numerous friends in the death of their only son, Gerald, a bright little lad of seven years, which occurred on September 10th, after a brief illness from infantile paralysis. The little fellow had but a few weeks since gone through a double operation for a severe and critical attack of appendicitis. Dr. MacDonald was summoned from Halifax to attend the case and advised the removal of the child to Halifax for operation in the hospital there. His father accompanied him to the city, remaining after the operation until the time of anxiety was over, and it was with pleasure their friends learned of the little boy's satisfactory return to health. He had commenced re-attending school and seemed in the best of health and spirits when the sudden blow fell that removed him from their fond care.—COM.

DONE!

A sad and seedy individual gained admission to the office of one of the city's best-known legal firms, not at last somehow penetrated to the sanctum of the senior partner.

"Well," asked the lawyer, "what do you want?"

"The visitor was nothing if not frank.

"Half a dollar," he said boldly.

The man's unusual manner caught the lawyer's curiosity.

"There you are," he said, handing out the money. "And now I should like to have you tell me how you came to fall so low in the world."

The visitor sighed. "All my youth," he explained, "I had counted on inheriting something from my uncle, but when he died he left all he had to an orphan asylum."

"A philanthropist," commented the lawyer. "What did his estate consist of?"

"Ten children," said the visitor—and vanished.

A VEGETARIAN COOK.

"But you said you had done the cooking for a whole family," exclaimed the exasperated housewife, when the new arrival told her that she was quite ignorant of the mysteries of broiling a steak and could not have roasted a chicken if her life depended on it. "How in the world could you have ever done that when you seem to know nothing about it?"

The new incumbent smiled blandly. "I did cook for a family of four," she protested. "But they called them selves vegetables, and all we had to eat used to be nuts and boiled potatoes, and I always boiled the potatoes."—New York Sun.

HIS GRACE.

A young lady who taught a class of small boys in the Sunday school desired to impress on them the meaning of returning thanks before a meal. Turning to one of the class, whose father was a deacon in the church, she asked: "Some day you will be a minister, will you not?"

"William, what is the first thing your father says when he sits down to the table?"

"He says, 'Go slow with the butter knife; it's forty cents a pound,'" replied the youngster.

ANCHORED.

A little chap four years of age met with the misfortune to have his hat blown into the river. When he reached home his father said to him: "It's a wonder you didn't blow overboard too."

"I couldn't," was the quick response. "I was fastened to my feet."

Four-year-old James awakened early one morning and found his father dressing by lamplight and asked why he was up so early.

"To earn potatoes for you my lad," was his father's reply. Presently James slowly climbed out of bed, and his father asked him why he got up so early.

"Why to eat the potatoes," came the answer.

"I adore intelligence," she cried. "So do I," said he. "All the same, though, beauty and intellect never go together."

"And do you think me intellectually feeble?" she asked.

"No," he confessed frankly. "With a faint flush she answered: 'Flatterer.'"

"What do you mean by 'being candid,' ma?"

"Speaking unto others as you would not like them to speak to you"

FOREST FIRES - A NATIONAL MENACE.

During the past summer forest fires have been devouring the growth of centuries with ruthless rapacity. Northern Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia have suffered most. Fine tracts of merchantable timber worth millions of dollars have been destroyed, square mile upon square mile of young growth coming on to supply the demands of the future has been wiped out of existence. In Northern Ontario, where but this layer of vegetable mould covers the rocks, the soft, oozy forest floor, the only hope of vegetation and equable stream flow has been completely destroyed, leaving a cheerless rocky waste for generations to come. Even if no thought be given to the number of lives lost, it must be admitted that the loss occasioned this year by forest fires has been nothing short of appalling.

Can nothing be done, then, to prevent this loss? The answer is that much can be done. The solution of the problem is indicated in two words—public sentiment. The two principal causes of forest fires are campers and railways, and public opinion must be brought to bear upon these. The tourist-camper does not at all realize the extent of the damage which his unextinguished camp fire may do. Laws against leaving camp fires burning are already on the statute books, but it is quite evident that their observance rests mainly with the tourist himself. He must be impressed with the very serious lives in the offing. If a man sets fire to a building, he is convicted of arson and sent to prison as a felon, but if his unextinguished camp-fire burns down millions of dollars worth of timber and perhaps destroys human life as well, he is, at best, made to pay a small fine. When public opinion views this carelessness of the camper as a criminal act and frowns upon him accordingly, considerable progress will have been made in lessening the number of forest fires from this cause.

But it is the railways that spread the most destruction. Traversing, as they do, the great lone stretches of uninhabited timber areas, the sparks from their locomotives start numerous fires that gain great headway before being detected. Too often the right-of-way, piled thick with inflammable rubbish, furnishes a tinder-box for these conflagrations. The owner of destroyed property along the line has found it almost impossible under the present laws to get damages from the railway company, so difficult is it to fix the responsibility, and so expensive is the process of litigation. In order to lessen the number of fires due to this cause the Committee on Forests of the Commission of Conservation has proposed to make the railways peculiarly responsible. It has recommended that there be added to the Railway Act a clause making them liable to a fine of $1,000, recoverable by summary prosecution before a stipendiary magistrate or two justices of the peace, for every fire started by sparks from their locomotives. It makes no difference whether the fire begins outside the right-of-way or spreads there from the adjoining land. The railways are exempt from this fine if they can show that they have the best modern appliances on their locomotives to prevent the emission of sparks, that their employees have not shown negligence in conducting to the starting of the fire, and that they have maintained an efficient and properly equipped staff of fire-rangers. In other words, the Committee proposes to lessen the number of fires caused by sparks from locomotives by having the railways fined for the damage they do, unless they take every possible precaution to prevent such damage. This is obviously a fair recommendation as regards both the railways and the public, and the effort to have it made law is worthy of public approval. Every Canadian is deeply interested in the protection of our forests; for each forest fire means that higher prices for every foot of timber they use. Such a measure, for the preservation of our forests, is that recommended by the Committee on Forests of the Commission of Conservation should, therefore, commend itself to every public-spirited citizen and newspaper in Canada.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills
 Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin, and I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

"At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

ROMANTIC WOOINGS.

Sir Henry M. Stanley Was Rebuffed When He Sought Miss Tennant.

Like an aroma, that haunts and colors the thoughts and feelings of our most tender moods, is the romantic odor that clings around the love-life of some of the world's most notable men and women, leading to an attractiveness and fascination which neither time nor circumstances can effectually diminish.

Even a man like Sir Henry Stanley, resolute, brusque, and absorbed in his life-work, had one of the most romantic wooings imaginable, and certain it is that if any one had told Miss Dorothy Tennant, when she first met the great explorer, that he would one day lead her to the altar she would have laughed the idea to scorn. Daintily, during Miss Tennant, whose charm and caustic wit had gained her celebrity in London society, openly expressed her indifference, almost dislike, for the famous traveler. This was discouraging to begin with, but Stanley, nevertheless, set himself to pay marked attention to perhaps, the only girl in his "set" who did not eagerly welcome his notice from the moment he talked of man of the year. When, later, he proposed to the much-petted young lady, he met with a further re-buff.

Sir Henry went on his way back to Africa to relieve Emin Pasha, with unmoved mien, but a very sore heart, to the onlookers the little drama was closed. But they reckoned without their host, and the sequel to the foregoing love tale came when Stanley returned triumphant—again successful in his undertaking.

At a ball in Kensington they met again. Before the evening had advanced far Stanley and his first and only love were alone together for a moment. "I have not changed, Dorothy," he said, simply. "Really?" she asked, raising her beautiful eyes to his face and speaking more softly than was her wont. "I have thought." And then Stanley knew that he had won yet another victory.

The wooing of that other great traveler, Sir Richard Burton, was quick and very unconventional. One day Sir Richard was walking with his sister in Hologate, she passed a strange man whose dark eyes, as she afterwards confessed, "seemed to hypnotize her." Turning to her sister she declared, "Some day that man will marry me." The very next day the sisters again met the strange gentleman, who, chafed upon the wall this question, "May I speak to you?" Sir Richard chafed in response, "No, mamma will be angry, and this is the beginning of one of the most remarkable wooings and wedded lives in the world's history."

It was over a dinner-table that Miss Glynne caught her first glimpse of Mr. Gladstone, to whom she was to devote her life. "Do you see that young man a steamer man who is sitting next her?" he said. "Some day he will be Prime Minister of England." No wonder the young girl's interest was aroused, and when in the winter following, they met again in the lovers' garden of Italy, what wonder that the wooing proceeded apace, and that the foundation of one of the most beautiful marriages in history was laid?

The love affairs of famous writers have ever provided an interesting and fascinating topic for discussion, and little wonder, when one recollects the romantic wooings of so many of our great writers, that the love life of the romantic wooings are chronicled in these affairs of the heart than that of any other class of men. The wooing of Miss Sheridan, when he determined to make Miss Linley, the beautiful "Nightingale of Bath" his wife, she counted her suitors by the score; but his devoted devotion won her heart. He disguised himself as a coachman merely to have the pleasure of driving her, he escorted her to a French nunnery to rescue her from the persecutions of an odious wooer, with whom he fought his duel on her behalf. And this was but a type of the chivalrous adventures which ultimately enable him to lead her to the altar in April, 1773.

Possibly the happiest and most romantic of all literary love-stories is that of the Brownings'. Their courtship was by no means devoid of difficulties, thanks to Miss Barrett's father, who was a most exacting parent, and seems to have kept his daughter in a state of semi-confinement. The lovers determined, nevertheless, to get married. To face the anger of her father was, however, too much for Miss Barrett; and, therefore, the marriage was solemnized without his knowledge. Husband and wife parted at the church door; but a week later they met again at a stationer's shop, and set off for Southampton, whence they sailed for that beautiful southern shore which was to witness such happy years of married life—an ideal union, fitly described as one unbroken realized poem.

The love romance of John Ruskin was not without its pathos. Adele Doneed, the beautiful daughter of his father's partner, was the object of his father's worship. She came on a visit to his home at Hereford Hill, and the youth promptly fell "head over heels" in love with her. "Most oval face and sparkling of her native tongue, Spanish while his natural shyness and Spanish efforts at love-making so ridiculous that she declared: 'If this boy does not desert I shall die of laughing.' But for young Ruskin it was the one love of a life-time, and from the day when Adele became the wife of Baron Dequense his "heart was dead within him."

"Nine Tailors Make a Man."

The often employed phrase, "nine tailors make a man," is said to have originated in the following incident: In 1742 an orphan boy applied to a fashionable tailor's shop in London in which nine journeymen were employed. His interesting appearance opened the hearts of the benevolent tailors, who immediately contributed nine shillings for the relief of the little stranger. With this capital he purchased fruit, which he retailed at a profit. Time passed on, and wealth and honor smiled upon the young tradesman, so that when he set up his carriage instead of troubling the college of heralds for a crest he painted the following motto on his carriage door: "Nine tailors made me a man."

THE FORMULA OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Is On The Outside Of Every Box For All The World To See

Every user of "Fruit-a-tives" knows exactly what is being taken. The formula of this famous fruit medicine is printed plainly on the outside of every box. We have stated many times—and now state clearly—that "Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, with valuable heart and nerve tonics and antiseptics.

Everyone knows that fruit juice is healthful—but perhaps some do not understand why this is true.

Fruit juice consists of about 91% water, 8% of sweet principle, and 1% of a bitter substance. It is the quantity of bitter principle in fruit that gives a fruit value as a medicine. An eminent physician of Ottawa, after years of experimenting, found a method of increasing the bitter principle in fruit juice, thus increasing the medicinal or curative qualities.

The juices are first extracted from fresh, ripe oranges, apples, figs and prunes, by a secret process, some of the sweet atoms are replaced by the bitter principle. Then tonics and antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets, now known far and wide as "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices, and is one of the few remedies that have let their composition be known from their introduction to the public.

"Fruit-a-tives" is nature's stimulant for the liver, bowels, kidneys and skin. In cases of obstinate Constipation, Liver Trouble, Indigestion, Backache, Rheumatism, Headaches and Impure Blood, this wonderful fruit medicine cures when everything else fails.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BE SWIFT.

Be swift, dear heart, in loving,
 For time is brief,
 And thou may'st soon along life's highway
 Keep step with grief.

Be swift, dear heart, in saying
 The kindly word;
 When ears are sealed, thy passionate pleadings
 Will not be heard.

Be swift, dear heart, in giving
 The gracious deed,
 Lest soon they whom thou holdest
 dearest,
 Be past the need.

Be swift, dear heart, in giving
 The rare sweet flower,
 Nor wait to heap with blossoms the casket

In some sad hour,
 Dear heart, be swift in loving—
 Time speedeth on;
 And all thy chance of blessed service will soon be gone.

IMPROVEMENTS C. P. R.
 WILL MAKE

A Montreal despatch says:—There is a strong opinion prevailing here that the Canadian Pacific, after spending large sums in the West, will now turn its attention to the lower provinces and that they have fully decided to make Halifax the winter port for mails and passengers. That the company will bring Halifax within sixteen hours of Montreal appears to have been decided upon. The opinion prevails that the C. P. R. will start from Fredericton Junction, or thereabouts, and build a new line across New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to Halifax.

Extensive improvements are contemplated on the Dominion Atlantic Railway as soon as the C. P. R. get possession in May next. Besides building a telegraph line from Truro to Yarmouth, the Canadian Pacific will spend a round million on the road bed and bridges.

WATCH THE TREES.

That there are so many Tussock caterpillars to be seen just now is a matter of no little concern. In many New England cities they have gained such complete control of the situation as to not only become almost eradicated, but to destroy many fine trees as well.

The Civic Improvement League is in communication with the civic authorities suggesting immediate action with respect to the trees in the parks and on the public streets, and appeals to the citizens to watch their own trees.—Halifax Recorder.

CARING FOR WHITE HAIR

White hair, like white gowns, need careful handling or it is soon ugly and ill-kept looking.

Brushing and combs should be washed every day or so. A dusty brush makes white hair dull.

As white hair is more likely to be more brittle than before it lost its color, it must not be roughly handled.

Do not tug or pull at it with a comb, and do not use too much heat. Ordinary shampoo mixtures are apt to make white hair streaky.

Shampooing with lemon is excellent for white hair. Put half the cut lemon in a thin muslin cloth, and rub over the scalp, which has first been thoroughly wet.

The white-haired woman must not be careless of her hairdressing. Her hair should be loosely waved and worn becomingly, irrespective of styles of the moment.

THE "FLABBY" BOOK.

Mary who has had opportunities of considering the matter from a close view-point, will agree with Miss Ida M. Tarbell, the well-known writer on timely subjects concerning her own sex, in what she says about what someone else has aptly called the "unmoral" book.

There is a certain sort of book not generally termed "immoral" which I consider most dangerous, said Miss Tarbell. It is what I call the "flabby book". All such books tend to relax and weaken the mind and the intellectual processes.

The "flabby" tales, the books that pretend to present life and really give such false aspects of it. In this class the most prominent examples are the tales of the "virtue triumphant" order. The poor girl always ends in a palace. She couldn't possibly land anywhere else.

Laughing against the fairy tale, pure and simple. I speak of the "fairy" tales, the books that pretend to present life and really give such false aspects of it.

Some of the most prominent examples are the tales of the "virtue triumphant" order. The poor girl always ends in a palace. She couldn't possibly land anywhere else.

The habit of "answering back" is as reprehensible in grown people as in children, and should be suppressed by every person anxious to lead a peaceful and harmonious life.

The "scrappy" household, in which each member strives for the last word in the argument, is most anxious to maintain an independent course of action, is not a happy household, nor can it ever become such a one.

It is an odious place to visit, and the separate individual that composes it can always have a pleasanter atmosphere and time somewhere else, yet it is but seldom that any one will give up the habit, or a whole family reform and institute a new order of things.

There is but one way to produce a lasting result, and that is to "withhold your tongue on each and every occasion when bitter or sharp words arise to the surface."

The old adage, "It takes two to make a quarrel," is invariably true, and while silence is an aggravating response to an irritating remark its effect is inevitable.

word in the argument, is most anxious to maintain an independent course of action, is not a happy household, nor can it ever become such a one.

It is an odious place to visit, and the separate individual that composes it can always have a pleasanter atmosphere and time somewhere else, yet it is but seldom that any one will give up the habit, or a whole family reform and institute a new order of things.

There is but one way to produce a lasting result, and that is to "withhold your tongue on each and every occasion when bitter or sharp words arise to the surface."

The old adage, "It takes two to make a quarrel," is invariably true, and while silence is an aggravating response to an irritating remark its effect is inevitable.

The effect is inevitable. The temptation to repudiate an unjust accusation is strong, but if it is unjust it will be regretted more than if a quarrel resulted in which both parties lost their temper.

She who will inwardly determine to "withhold her tongue" from ill-natured remarks, from unkind suggestion, from bitter retort, from nagging, will begin a revolution in her own home.

Do not wait for someone else to start the movement; have the joy in your own soul that you have planted the seeds of happiness yourself. Do not be discouraged if your efforts are not met half way. Go all the way if you need be. "Seek peace and pursue it!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

WOMEN AS GUIDING STARS.

The woman doesn't live who is not flattered by the idea that she is a good angel to some man. It is a part of the feminine makeup to wish to be a guiding star. Men know this, instinctively, and when they need an excuse, they word it something like this: "I know I am not worthy of it but you are the one good thing in my life."

Girls, especially young girls, with a slight knowledge of the world, are strong in their own sense of power. They think that their wanting to make a man good will make him good. Knowing nothing of the awful grasp of evil habits, they believe from the bottom of their little white souls that they can bring him up to the heights, and that is how it happens that women marry men to reform them.

A great problem faces the girl who falls in love with a man who is weak. Generally her love for him makes her underestimate his weaknesses. She calls his liking for the things that harm him by other names than the true ones. If he drinks, she tries to convince herself that he can stop if he will do it. She is sure gambling will have no attraction for him when he can bank always in the pleasure of her society, and she contends that his flirtations regard for other girls will cease when married.

Sometimes her faith in him is justified. Some men lead reckless lives until they meet the one woman to whom they give a great love, and that love transforms them. But such cases are exceedingly rare. The average man, in the first flush of adoration, makes promises which he cannot keep. Bad habits are not easily replaced by good ones, and the girl who engages herself to a man whom she knows to be dissipated should insist upon a long engagement. Only in such engagements can her lover prove himself worthy. It is easy enough for the intemperate man to refrain for a few weeks or months from tipping, but a year or longer will test his strength and prove his love.

If all women were strong they might bear up weak men on the wings of their strength, but marriage after the honeymoon, is a practical proposition. The young wife faces problems that never before confronted her, and she needs a husband who will help her bear them and not add to them. The wives of weak husbands are always to be pitied. They never have their womanly heritage of protection and tenderness. They go through the world with more weight than their slender shoulders really ought to carry. No man who is the victim of his own weakness should ask a girl to marry him. His love for her is very great but he may tell her of it, tell her that he wishes her to be his wife but that, as yet he has no right to bind her to anyone.

Love is a sacred thing, so sacred that no two people should treat it as trivial. It should not demand of its object perfection but it must demand a striving toward good. The young couple who wish to marry must have ideals; they are to have happiness, they must have strength, if they are to bear the burden of their race. They must be temperate, if they wish to hold respect of the community.—Kansas City Star.

WOMEN AND FEATHERS. James Buckland, who is fighting for a law in England to prevent the traffic in plumes made of the feathers of birds killed to supply them with vanity decorations. "The befuddled Herodias," says he, "cannot plead she errs in ignorance. The truth is that, for all their boasted refinement, some women remain in their impulses little else than scented barbarians. They are in such utter bondage to vanity as to be at the mercy of every whim of fashion, and when fashion decrees that feathers shall be worn they are absolutely without conscience or feeling, so far as the treatment of their victims is concerned."

IN MEMORY OF. The monument erected to memory of Rev. Thomas Wood, inventor of which took place in old Annapolis Royal cemetery in Victoria grey granite, after the style of an eighteenth century Cornish Grand bears the following inscription: "Laid here in the Bi-Centennial year 1910."

Two centuries ago, declares The London Chronicle, persons engaged in trade, even though of gentle blood, held they had no right to be addressed as "esquires." In the report of the historical manuscript commission on the Welbeck Abbey papers appears a letter from Nathaniel Harley, merchant at Aleppo, to a correspondent in London, which concludes with the remark, "Pray, sir, inform your clerk who supercribes your letters that no merchants are wrote Esqs. but fools and coxcombs." And yet Nathaniel Harley was the brother of the Earl of Oxford, leader of the Tories, whom Swift proclaimed "the most virtuous minister and the most able that ever I remember to have read of."

Dust Laden Records. Searching for important old manuscripts at the British public record office, whether by Shakespearean students or others, is disagreeable work. Nine-tenths of the manuscripts are covered with the dust of ages, and among them makes the searcher as black as a sweep. Sums of money are so fragile that they can scarcely be touched without their falling to pieces, such as those rescued from the House of Lords fire in 1834, which were so hopelessly saturated with water that bundles of them had to be squeezed dry in powerful cold. It can be put on the steppes, it is almost everlasting in its wear and quality. Ask Karl Freeman more about it.

As advertisement in another column calls attention to the low rates that will prevail on the Railways for the forthcoming exhibition at Halifax. There are three different rates to the Exhibition—those by the Excursions on special trains on special days; Excursions on regular trains also on special dates, and the ticket at one first class fare for return trip to Halifax prevailing all through the Exhibition, all of which have admission tickets attached. The Ticket Agent at the nearest Railway Station will furnish the public with the dates on which excursion trains run and he will quote rates. The attention of intending visitors to the Exhibition is called to the fact that in advance of the sale of tickets for one dollar will be sold. This gives an admission ticket at the rate of 17-23 cents. These will be forwarded on application to the Exhibition Office, Halifax, and should be sent for at once. "Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.

A unique interest attaches to the September number of Busy Man's Magazine because in it is to be found a striking prophecy about the future of the Hon. Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, based on the extraordinary likeness he bears to three great political leaders. These three men are Benjamin Disraeli, Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. This striking likeness is brought out clearly in the portraits of the four men which illustrate the article and which are placed together for purposes of comparison. Richard McBride is still a young man but even today he bears a marked resemblance to all three men referred to and in his mannerisms he is astonishingly like Sir John A. Macdonald.

B. McDaniel. Miss Bessie McDaniel, of Shelburne, N. S., is the guest of her brother, E. B. McDaniel. Good progress has been made on the building of the new Roman Catholic church, which will soon be open for service. Judge Owen is making improvements on the grounds of his residential property. Miss Nellie McMillan has gone to Sackville to take a course of study at Mr. Allison, music being a specialty. A "shower party" was given at the home of Miss Mary Haliburton yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Constance Whitman. An event looked forward to with much interest is the marriage of Miss Constance Whitman, daughter of F. C. Whitman, to Mr. Sydney Wilcox, of Windsor, which is announced to take place on Wednesday morning next 28th inst. in St. Luke's church. They will reside in Vancouver. The harvest festival at St. Alban's Lequille, took place on Sunday last. Rev. H. How presented the Lord Bishop of London with two souvenir apostle spoons, G. S. Hoyt and Jas. Hoyt presented him with a stone axe and arrows, historical souvenirs. By the special request of the Lord Bishop of London the eloquent address of welcome delivered by Mayor West, on the occasion of the Bi-Centennial celebration, was placed in his charge to be conveyed to London to be placed in the archives of Fulham Palace, the site on which the Bishops of London have resided for over a thousand years.

Last week the Chatham World drew attention to what is alleged to be the mis-use of English in another newspaper. Thereupon the Montreal Times drew attention to what was declared to be an error of the same kind on the part of the World itself. It is unlikely that there is any Maritime Province paper which does not occasionally offend against the rules of grammar and does not make use of composition of questionable merit. For papers to set themselves up as censors in this regard seems to us to be taking a course of which the wisdom is doubtful.—Exchange.
