CANADA.

Historical.—Canada was discovered by Jacques Cartier in 1535. By the Treaty of Paris, in 1763, it was ceded to Great Britain. Quebec was organized into a province in 1764, including a part of what is now the province of Ontario. Canada was divided into the two provinces of Upper and Lower Canada in 1791. In February, 1841, the two Canadas were united in one province. The province of Canada then comprised, roughly speaking, what is comprehended now in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

A Tilt at Discounts.

One of the greatest enemies of philately is discounts. This advertising of stamps at 50 and 75 per cent. off catalogue discredits the stamp business. It gives the inexperienced the impression that the demand for stamps is dying out, that they are a poor investment and can soon be bought for about nothing. It destroys confidence even among philatelists. The sooner the system of discounts is discarded the better for the future of philately.

The system is not altogether due to the inflated prices in the catalogues. The average although partially so. prices in the standard catalogues are probably too high. Some are five times too high. I could quote some that are five times too low. But on the whole there has been a tendency on the part of the catalogues to inflate prices, and this is a mistake. But the dealer is under no obligation to price his stamps according to the catalogues. Such a system is not pursued in any other business under the sun. Stamps which can be bought for $3.00 per 100 should not be priced at 25c each because the catalogue says so. But stamps are priced in that way, and when a customer gets the stamps at 75 per cent. below catalogue, the dealer is making 100 per cent. on his investment.

In any other business a merchant marks his goods according to what they cost him, giving himself sufficient margin to cover expenses, risks and a fair profit. This is the only reasonable and just method to employ in the stamp business also. If the expenses and risks in a mail and approval business are so great that nothing less than 50 per cent. above cost is enough, let the dealer mark his goods at 50 per cent. above cost price and not charge his customers two prices while pretending to give them bargains. Bar-num said that people like to be fooled, but when they find that they are being fooled at the expense of their pockets they do not enjoy it so much.

Another evil which has fostered discounts is the agency business.' Sufficient care is not taken to discriminate between agents and single buyers. A collector sends for stamps on approval and sells to himself, for his own collection. He does no work to earn his commission and yet he asks and gets the same discount as is allowed to a hard working agent. In this way it has come to pass that every collector is an agent, and every agent is a dealer, with a few exceptions. In order to get a commission, an agent ought to be required to prove that he does some work for it, if not to report the names of the parties to whom he sells and the amount of his sale to each. If the stamps re marked at net prices, 10 per cent. would be a sufficient commission to pay to any agent.

Another cause of these extravagant discounts is the habit which dealers have of cutting prices. One dealer advertises a bargain, and a score of other dealers think they must advertise the same thing at a lower price, which destroys the profit for both him and his rivals. This is another mistake. The philatelic field is wide, and becomes wider every day. When possible advertise what others do not, and you do not need to cut prices in order to make sales.

These large discounts are not fair to the trade and are no benefit to the collector. Whatever lessens the prices of the stamps the collector buys. lessens the value of them after he has bought them. When a dealer makes up a sheet of stamps at 50 per cent. discount, he knows that if he puts a few stamps on the sheet that cost him more than half catalogue, the shrewd collector may select those only and the dealer will be out of pocket. But in general the dealer puts upon his discount sheets stamps that are overpriced in the catalogues, and he would be a fool to put any others on them. There are hundreds of common stamps that are never seen on discount sheets. simply because dealers cannot buy them at 50 pcr cent. discount. Some few collectors have had their eyes opened and they always buy from net sheets. Dealer and collector, for their mutual interest, should do what they can to abolish the discount nuisance.

Notes.

It seems that we are to have a new permanent issue of postage stamps in the course of two or three months and that the design has already been approved by the Postmaster General.

If our stamped envelopes were sold at a lower price, they would be more generally used. $3.00 per thousand is a high figure for envelopes of the quality employed. Why should we not have envelopes of different grades, sizes and colors? A cheap manilla envelope would be useful for circulars. statements, &c. A blue, amber or white envelope would be in demand for business correspondence. And a square envelope of good quality would please the ladies.

A few further additions to our postal conveniences are recommended to the favorable consideration of our esteemed Postmaster General. We have no postal union reply cards. Five, eight and ten cent envelopes, the use of which is obvious, would be appreciated by many. A set of unpaid letter stamps would ensure greater correctness in the collection of deficient postage. The employment of official stamps would be a check upon the abuse of the franking privilege.

The $\frac{1}{2}$, 6 and 8c, and double values of the jubilee issue are not priced in the advance sheets of Scott's 58th. Perhaps the omission may be rectified before the full catalogue is given to the public. We can understand how difficult it must be to decide upon just prices.

The 1c and 2c Cabot issue cannot now be obtained at the post-office in St. Johns, Newfoundland. The stock of these values still on hand will be sold only in complete sets.

Good manuscript, containing matter of real interest and profit is always acceptable to the editor of this paper. Correspondents in Toronto, Montreal and Halifax are required.

We learn that the U. S. Postal Department is about to introduce a linenlined stamped envelope for registered letters. Let Canada follow the example.

The Philatelic Era and the Herald Exchange give very full instalments of prices from the advance sheets of Scott's 58th.

It is announced that the new Canadian stamp will contain a portrait of the Queen taken at the time of the Jubilee, approved and signed by Her Majesty, and the corner of the stamp will be filled with maple leaves.

'Canadian,' writing in the Virginia Philatelist, says the ½c Jubilee stamps can now be purchased for 20 cents each. We would like to receive a few at that price. We will gladly pay him 25 cts. each for good, well-centred specimens.

The Philatelic Advocate is the only

Canadian stamp paper that has reached us for a long time. We hear of several new ones, but have not seen them yet.

The handsome appearance of the Virginia Philatelist is deserving of special mention. We trust that it will receive sufficient support to maintain so high a standard.

The 1c Jubilee stamp is found in two shades, yellow and orange, the 2c in green and blue green, the 3c in a light pink on spongy paper, the 8c in a variety with period between 'eight' and 'cents,' and the 50c in pale and bright ultramarine.

The Perforator is a bright little paper, and is presenting its readers with quite a gallery of portraits of good-looking philatelists.

E. A. M., in the Perforator, says the Sc jubilee bids fair to be very scarce, and whoever owns one is lucky. We have a few, but we would rather own a Nova Scotia shilling.

The 10, 15, 20 and 50c Jubilee ought to be better stamps to buy than the Sc and as good as the 4c. They are less in demand because they have been more evenly distributed. But wait.

The Columbian Philatelist, September, contains an interesting contribution 'On the value of English stamps.' Among the stamps mentioned as under-priced in the catalogues are: 1840, 1d black; 1856, 6d and 1s; 1870, 11d; 1880, 11d and 1s.

Several writers have been exercising their wits lately describing the features of an ideal stamp paper. Let us also give our opinion. The paper also give our opinion. which comes nearest to our ideal is full of information about stamps rather than stamp collectors; it does not devote more than half its space to admiration of itself and censure of its fellows; and the other half is not altogether filled up with pictures of col-lectors, and biographical sketches of its advertisers.

The advertising pages of the Messenger have until now been almost wholly taken up with the publisher's own announcements. With this issue a new departure is inaugurated. Fourteen leading dealers have advertisements in the present number, and we hope to publisher's ads are crowded out alto- Postal Union reply cards.

gether. The Standard Stamp Co., of St. Lowis, has spoken for a half page. Look out for their advt. in November. We ask intending advertisers to kindly send in their copy before the 20th. Remember, 25c per inch. cash in advance ; 75c per half column.

'Burnham,' under which pen-name a well-known philatelist contributes interesting notes from Boston to this number, will be a regular contributor to the Messenger. Another contribu-tor, 'Karl Kramer,' writes forcibly of a practical question affecting philately.

An International Stamp.

Mr. Maury, in the July number of his excellent journal Le Collectionneur de Timbres-poste, which, by the way, was founded 33 years ago, suggests a new scheme to obviate some of the difficulties connected with an international postage stamp. His first proposition is that the alternate horizontal lines of perforation be omitted in a sheet of the 5c. stamps, or their equivalent in other countries, as 25 centimes, 20 pfennig and 2½ pence. This will give vertical strips of two stamps, imperforate between. The double stamp is to be lapped over the fold of a lettercard leaving a single stamp on each side of the card. One side only is to be obliterated and the double stamp is to be detached (cut out or soaked off,) and is then to be used for return postage. The objection is raised, how-ever, by the postal authorities of several countries, to whom Mr. Maury's scheme was submitted, that it would be difficult to furnish all post offices with letter-cards of this description since demand for them is very limited and that on account of the expense of manufacturing them they are not in use in many countries.

Mr. Maury acknowledges the force of this objection and proposes that a horizontal double stamp, imperforate between should be used on an ordinary envelope, and that through a slit cut in the envelope one stamp should be slipped inside and so protected from obliteration and the other stamp will adhere to the envelope in the usual way. When the letter reaches the addressee, the double stamp can be detached and used for return postage.

The scheme is ingenious, to say the have twice as many with us next least of it, and the principle involved month. We shall not mind it if the in it is already admitted in the use of Massachusetts Items.

The Boston Philatelic Society, after adjourning over the summer months, has resumed its meetings. The September meeting was marked by an of excellent attendance members though most of the officers were absent. There were several propositions for membership, one that of C. F. Rothfuchs, formerly of Washington, now located at 66 Huntington Avenue, Rev. J. L. Kilbon read a Boston. paper relating to certain unpaid letter stamps of Uruguay. There was no auction sale.

W. H. Suydam, a New York collector, was a recent visitor to the Hub; also C. A. Needham of Hamilton, Can.

Considering that the book was only about $5 \ge 9$ inches in size, the writer felt considerable interest in examining the more than \$30,000 worth of stamps contained therein, and found at the office of the New England Stamp Co. Mr. Carpenter exhibits the rarities with a keen sense of the pleasure they On one cover are two St. awaken. Louis, priced at \$3000. Mr. Batchelder reports his New York, Philadelphia and Washington trip as very successful.

The Old Colony Philatelic Society held its fiftieth meeting October 6th, and took steps toward the formation of an insurance fund for the exchange department. Fred Perry, Attleboro, was listed in memhership and J. W. Chadderton, Mansfield, and B. P. Thomas, Pemberton, N. J., resigned.

Massachusetts has several candidates for official recognition at the annual convention of the S. of P. to be held at Nashville, Tenn., this month. For treasurer, Geo. M. Frame; for superintendent of sales, Charles E. Shaw; for attorney, I. A. Wainwright; for purchasing agent, Gardner R. Kennedy. They may not all be elected. The first auction sale of the season was held in Elk's Hall, Tuesday, Sep-tember 28th. Four hundred lots were disposed of by the Colonial Stamp Co. in less than two hours, the sale being very successful from the buyers' stand-There were no stamps that point.

brought catalogue price. We don't think much of auction sales as giving a fair estimate of the value of stamps, yet the craze for prices is so great, that we append a few comparisons :

A new stamp paper has appeared from Salem and is called the Philatelic Bulletin. It is published by the Naumkeag Stamp Company, and C. A. Hall is editor.

B. L. Drew & Co. will hold their nineteenth auction sale of stamps October 18th. There are in all 330 lots of which about 200 are United States. This firm held ten sales last season.
