WIRELESS MAN ERRED

Sussex's Position Wrongly Reported—Americans Are Among Missing.

LONDON, March 27, 2:56 a.m.—
Altho there is still some uncertainty
as to the loss of life in the disaster to the cross channel steamer Sussex last Friday, there no longer is any doubt that the death list is much larger than the early advices indicated.

The Sussex had 436 souls aboard, of whom the following have been accounted for: Landed at Dover, 72; landed at Boulogne, 250; dead at Boulogne, 9; dead at Dover, 3. This is the total accounted for.

The list of missing may be slightly reduced later by the fact that some of the passengers who landed continued their journey without reporting safe to the proper authorities.

The Sussex now lies in shallow water in Boulogne harbor. She will not be a total loss. Most of the damage is above the water line. The main shock of the explosion was spent in blowing off the deck of the ship.

Official Statement.
The official communication issued in Paris Saturday night reads:
"The British steamer Sussex,
which carried about 308 passengers, was torpedoed in the channel on the 25th by an enemy submarine.

The captain observed a torpedo about 100 metres (110 yards) from the side and immediately manoeuvred
to avoid it, but the vessel was struck in the forward part,
which was destroyed.

The vessel however, remained afloat. The fall of the mast destroyed part of the antennae of the wireless. Moreover, when an aerial wire was improvised, the operator, by an error, reported an incorrect position, which misled the torpedo boats and patrol boats.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—
A private cablegram received here today by relatives from Prof. J. Mark Bald-sengers of the Sussex, read wife and his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Baldwin, reported in various despatches to have been killed. The message was dated Boulogne today.

BRITISH LINER
CALL TOO LATE

Minneapolis Fell Victim to a Submarine in Mediteranean Sea.

CREW'S FATE UNKNOWN

Captain of Leicestershire Answered Appeal, But Without Effect.

MARSEILLES, March 26.—11 p.m.—The British liner Minneapolis was sunk in the Mediterranean last Wednesday by a submarine, according to Capt. Bibby of the British steamer Leicestershire, which has arrived here from Batoum.

The Leicestershire went at full speed to the assistance of the Minneapolis, but arrived too late, the vessel having sunk.
The fate of the crew was not known to Capt. Bibby.

The Minneapolis was a steamer of 13,343 tons gross. She was built in 1900
at Belfast and was owned by the Atlantic Transport Co. Late shipping records do not give the movements of the vessel, which probably was in the British Government service. Prior to the war the Minneapolis plied between American ports and London.

WAR SUMMARY
THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

INSTEAD of waiting for the Germans to make another air raid on England on Sunday the British navy on Saturday morning decided to anticipate such action by attacking the German aircraft in their homes, and so a squadron of machines was conveyed to Sylt Harbor, near Heigoland, and the German airship sheds in Schleswig-Holstein, north of the Kiel Canal and east of Sylt Island, were made the targets of high explosive shells. Two German patrol boats outside of Sylt Harbor were encountered and sunk by the British escorting squadron of light cruisers and destroyers under Commodore Tyrwhitt, but as the weather became extremely stormy the British destroyers Medusa and Laverock collided. The Medusa was badly damaged and she may have been lost in the heavy seas, altho the admiralty is still uncertain as to her fate. No apprehensions are felt as to the safety of her crew. No German warships, apparently, came out. Three British seaplanes failed to return from the raid. Going by reports from Danish sources, the British Admiralty, in the absence of a full report from Commodore Tyrwhitt, believes that the air raid was quite effective.

The stories about a big naval battle in the North Sea, which have been sent out from Denmark, are apparently incorrect. The admiralty says nothing about the emergence of the German fleet from Wilhelmshaven and the Kiel Canal, and as the British grand fleet was probably within call for such an emergency, the Germans, knowing its 300 per cent. superiority in gun power, decided not to force their navy to commit suicide. The stories which have been sent out from London that the German navy was soon to come out originated with friends of Lord Fisher, who are still engaged in a press campaign to restore him to his old place in the admiralty, or even higher, in the face of opposition from the fleet, which is said to be still suffering from his mistakes. In regard to the raid on the Zeppelins, it is correct military policy to attack these in their defenses. If two or three of these "yellow sausages" were destroyed, it would be adequate compensation for the loss of the destroyer, a type of

CONVINCING AFFIDAVIT

Huxley and Drake Indicate
Clearly That Submarine
Sank the Sussex.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Official information upon which President Wilson will decide whether the sinking of the steamship Englishman and the damaging by an explosion of the chancel steamer Sussex, were the result of acts in violation of international law, is being gathered from every available source by consular representatives of the U. S. in England and France.
Despatches already received indicate that several Americans were injured or killed in the Sussex disaster. Four American citizens who were aboard the Englishman and who were said in despatches yesterday not to be among the rescued, still are unaccounted for.

Strong Affidavit.
Only one despatch of importance concerning the explosion which damaged the Sussex was received by the state department during the day. This contained an affidavit made in London at the American embassy by two American survivors, Edward S. Huxley and Francis E. Drake, of New York.
Both swore that the explosion occurred "without the slightest warning" and they credited the commander of the Sussex as saying that he saw the wake of a torpedo before it struck his vessel.

Mysterious Sailing Vessel.
Another statement in the affidavit officials seemed to consider significant had to do with a strange sailing vessel which hovered near the Sussex
after the explosion, and which, in response to signals for assistance from the channel steamer, sailed away and disappeared.

The position of the United States will be decided upon official reports

AWAIT FURTHER NEWS

No Fresh Word Yet Received
From Auxiliary Ship
Aurora.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., March 26.—It is generally believed here that a relief expedition, to give succor to Lieut. Sir Ernest Shackleton and his band of Antarctic explorers, who are due at the Ross Sea base, will be imperative. No further news has been received from the auxiliary ship Aurora, which was to have taken the party on board at Ross Sea,
and which is proceeding to New Zealand
for repairs.

The government meteorologist says the Macquarie Island wireless station, which was abandoned in December, would have been useless for communicating with the Aurora. During the winter the Aurora failed to answer repeated calls from the station, and during the summer, when atmospheric conditions were less favorable, the Aurora's wireless, which admittedly was defective, was too weak to be heard. The station was abandoned owing to the war.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The following official communique has been received from Sir Max Aitken, Canadian general representative in France.
Canadian General Headquarters in France, March 25, via London, March 25.—Between 1 and 6 o'clock on the afternoon of March 18 the enemy threw over twelve hundred shells into the sector of the defenses held by our first infantry brigade. About three-quarters of the shells were high explosives, mostly of large calibre and the remainder shrapnel. The intensity of the fire varied considerably, but at times reached four shells per minute. The reason for this bombardment was not apparent and remarkably little damage resulted. Three times during the afternoon our artillery retaliated. The first retaliation resulted in drawing an increase of fire from the German artillery. Subsequently combined shots by our field batteries and heavy howitzers were organized and proved effective in subduing the enemy's fire. Two of the enemy's shells fell short and burst
in his own trenches.

Canadians Retaliated.
During the bombardment Sniper
Hanson of our second eastern Ontario Battalion, shot a German officer who was engaged in observing the effect of the hostile artillery fire from a support trench.

On the afternoon of March 18—the German artillery again became very active on our front, once more continuing its efforts on the area of our first infantry brigade. More than 600 shells fell in this section. A few of the enemy's shells again fell short and burst in his own trenches.

On the appearance of three British aeroplanes over our lines the fire from the hostile batteries rapidly dwindled and our artillery and trench mortars combined in a heavy retaliation. Our fire was directed principally against the enemy's front and communicating trenches, and against a strong point in the German lines. The enemy's parapets were breached and his trenches wrecked in several places, quantities of woodwork and timber being hurled high into the air. Numerous direct hits were

LONDON, March 26.—A Central News
despatch from Christiania quotes Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, as having said that the members of the Shackleton party who were stranded at the Ross Sea base by the breaking away of the auxiliary steamer Aurora are in no danger of starvation, as there is an abundance of game to be had there.

A Reuter despatch from Wellington,
N.Z., says that Premier Massey has received the following wireless message from J. R. Stenhouse, chief officer of the Aurora:
"The Aurora is proceeding to Port Chalmers, N.Z., in a disabled condition
as a result of her enforced ten months'
drift in the ice from winter quarters.
The premier replied with the assurance that a cordial welcome was awaiting the Aurora. The government is considering the advisability of sending a steamer to assist the Aurora.

Premier Salendra and Foreign Minister Sonnino of Italy, arrived here this afternoon and were accorded an enthusiastic reception. They were received at the depot by Premier Briand,
M. Viviani and other French statesmen. The Italian statesmen were greeted at their hotel with great cheering,
and the crowd sang the Marseillaise.

The Republican Guards maintained
order with considerable difficulty.
The Paris papers devote much space to the forthcoming conference, which is co-ordinate the efforts of the allies against their adversaries.

Acclaimed British Delegation.

The British prime minister, Sir H.
Asquith; foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey; minister of munitions, David Lloyd George, and the chief of the imperial staff of the British army,

RUSSIANS MAKE
FURTHER GAINS
IN GREAT FIGHT

REPULSE FOE ATTACKS

Czar's Lines Move Forward in Dvinsk Sector and Lake Region.

Special Cable to The Toronto World.
PETROGRAD, March 26.—In the big battle which they are forcing on Yv-Hindenburg on the front near near Vilna to the Gulf of Riga, the Russians have advanced from Jacobstadt to the fortified Village of Lepuy, which they are now attacking. They have gained further ground on the Dvinsk sector, capturing another line of German trenches and consolidating most of their gains, and they have broken thru several obstacles in the sector northwest of Lake Sekly in the Widay region, where they are now engaged in a violent fight.

Their troops immediately followed up their successful piercing of the German front in the Jacobstadt sector by beating off heavy counter-attacks and advancing to the fortified environs of Le-puy Village, where they were encountered by a body of Germans, which took the offensive and was repulsed by their fire. Intense fighting has been going on at other points of this sector, and there has also been fighting on the left wing
south of Livenhof.

Westward of Dvinsk the Russians are continuing their advance and have consolidated the ground, which they have gained in some places. Some prisoners have been captured.

Desperate Fighting Proceeds.

Desperate fighting is still proceeding in the region westward of Postavy and Laken Naroc and Vichavskok. In the sector northwest of Lake Sekly in the Widay region, the Russians have broken thru several defensive barriers erected by the Germans. Here they were fired on with explosive bullets by the Germans. The Germans attempted to repair their entrenchments which had been damaged by the Russians under cover of a heavy snowstorm, but they were whipped by the fire of the Russian artillery.

LONDON, March 26, 11 p.m.—The British steamer St. Cecilia, from Portland, Me., March 11, for London, has been sunk, according to a despatch to Lloyd's from Dover.
The crew was saved.

The steamer St. Cecilia was a comparatively new vessel, having been built at Greenock in 1912. She was owned by the Saint Bride Steamship

Two German Patrol Ships
Sunk—British Destroyer
Probably Lost—Three Machines Missing as Result of Venture Over Schleswig-Holstein—
Naval Fights Rumored.

Special Cable to The Toronto World.
LONDON, March 26.—The British seaplanes made a raid on the coast of Schleswig-Holstein Saturday forenoon and bombarded a number of German airship sheds, doing, it is believed, considerable damage to the sheds and the zeppelins which they contained. The British machines were scattered to the Island of Sylt by a squadron of light
cruisers and destroyers under command of Commodore Tyrwhitt. Two German patrol ships were encountered in Sylt harbor and sunk, and the seaplanes flew from their parent ship eastward to the mainland, north of the Kiel canal, and attacked the airship sheds. They were subjected to a heavy fire from the German aerial defenses.
Three seaplanes failed to return.

In a storm which followed the raid,
two British destroyers collided and it is feared that the Medusa has been lost.
The German fleet did not come out to attack Commodore Tyrwhitt's squadron. Unofficial reports of a naval battle Sunday are not confirmed.

Admiralty's Report.

The following official statement was issued tonight:
"An attack by British seaplanes was delivered yesterday morning upon German airship sheds in Schleswig-Holstein, eastward of the Island of Sylt. The seaplanes were conveyed to their rendezvous close to the German coast by an escorting force of light
cruisers and destroyers, under Commodore Tyrwhitt.

"Three of the seaplanes which took part in the attack are missing. The destroyer Medusa was in collision with the destroyer Laverock, and it is feasible that in the stormy weather which prevailed last night, the Medusa was have been lost, but no missivings attended as to the safety of the crew.
The German armed patrol vessel was sunk by our destroyers.

"No detailed report has yet been received, but from the preliminary messages it would appear that this operation, which was carried out within the enemy's waters, achieved its object."
The seaplane, 360 feet long, was built in 1914, and displaced 965 tons.
She was armed with three 4-inch guns and two torpedo tubes. Her normal complement was 100 men. The latest available British navy records give no destroyer Medusa.

Sea Ships Escape.

During the naval engagement off Sylt four German torpedo boats were driven off by a number of British torpedoes, but eventually succeeded in making their escape, says a despatch to the Central News from Copenhagen.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Copenhagen, says:
"According to The Politiken, large British naval squadrons were observed yesterday along the west coast of Jutland, off Esbjerg and Trane. Ship captains arriving at Esbjerg report that they met a large German flotilla, consisting of five cruisers and 20 torpedo boats, which were traveling nearby, and that one British cruiser nearly collided with a British battleship.

Germany Put to Flight.

"It is supposed that the British flotilla last night attacked and put the German squadron to flight.
The captain of the steamer Cimbric, says he met a German flotilla going southward at noon yesterday, and later two German trawlers arriving on the scene. Suddenly a British squadron, composed of ten torpedo boats, appeared and attacked the trawlers, which took flight and in flames ran for Sylt Island, whither it was impossible for the British to pursue, as the German fortress of Sylt opened fire.

Prohibition Much Discussed

From Many Points and Angles and Some Severe Criticism---But the Hearst Bill Will Likely Go Thru.

There is a lot of talk both in Toronto and at Ottawa in regard to the situation of the liquor trade. The Hearst bill certainly is as much concerned about it as those in the liquor trade. The World met a man last week well acquainted with the liquor interests and he had no hesitation in saying that in the last general election the liquor trade in Ontario had organized to defeat Mr. Rowell's program to abolish the bar; that they had raised money and spent it legitimately to defeat the Rowell candidates, and contributed more or less to that end; as a consequence the late Sir James Whitney was returned by a large majority. Now Mr. Hearst, as his successor, had betrayed them, and was abolishing the bars, altho the decision in the election was against this. The liquor trade, the liquor trade, he said, would be less than human if it did not resent this action on Mr. Hearst's part when the opportunity came to them to get even, and that might be in the next election.

Notwithstanding the allegation of betrayal of the liquor interests by the Conservative party since the last campaign recalled for the World the last public speech which Sir James made in Massey Hall when in exceedingly deliberate and measured terms the liquor traffic and the support of the liquor trade as the support of the people would warrant them. And in his electoral address, issued before the election, Sir James said: "We shall continue our efforts to minimize as far as possible the evils resulting from the liquor traffic and the drink habit."

NOT MANY ATTENDED MEETING AT STRAND

Only a very few people put in an appearance at the recruiting meeting held in the Strand Theatre last night under the auspices of the Irish Fusiliers and despite many appeals from the chairman, W. J. McWhinney, K.C., on behalf of Lieut-Col. Lennox's battalion, not one man mounted the stage.

SPLENDID APPEAL FOR RECRUITS, BUT GOVERNMENT RESPONSE

C. H. Judd of Ottawa made a spirited appeal for men, and in open view declared that two years ago the cry was for universal peace. He then reviewed the events which caused the war, and declared that Great Britain did everything possible to keep out of the struggle. Mr. Judd referred to the splendid achievements of the allied generals.

HUNDRED MILLIONS IN THE BOWLING GAME

Has Baseball Backed Off Map as Far as Investment is Concerned.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 25.—With the baseball schedule interfere with the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association tournament here, Can baseball men blame bowling for the decrease in patronage in baseball during the 1915 season? These are the questions many bowling enthusiasts have asked John J. Donovan, secretary of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, when they hear the cry that the vast sum of $54,000,000 is tied up in baseball.

This amount is a paltry sum compared with the money invested in bowling alleys in the United States. The money tied up in two hundred thousand bowling alleys alone represents more than all the money the magnates have tied up in contract ball parks, salaries and other expenses.

A good illustration of this is found when figuring the cost of two hundred thousand bowling alleys in the United States, each one representing an average cost of $5000; that is, barring the pins, balls, and the cost for rent in seventeen of managers not owning their own buildings.

This would make a total of $100,000,000 tied up in bowling alleys alone, with $5,000,000 for pins and balls and other playing equipment.

Take New York, for example. It has about three thousand seven hundred and fifty bowling alleys, which would make a total cost of $15,750,000, not counting the pins, balls, and other fixtures, which will represent an investment of almost as much again. In New York alone there are more than three hundred thousand regular bowlers, which is quite some food for thought for the baseball magnates.

There is hardly a city of any consequence in the United States but what has at least $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 invested in bowling, and judging from the healthy increase in the last two years, baseball men are justified in claiming that some of the decrease in patronage has been caused by bowling.

MARS CASSIDY WINNER FEATURE AT HOT SPRINGS

Beat Good Field in Six Furlong Handicap Over Muddy Track.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 25.—A rainstorm early this morning changed track conditions to muddy at Oaklawn Park but there were plenty of mud runners entered in the various races, and the fields did not suffer to any extent by the withdrawal. The weather was threatening most of the afternoon, but this did not hold down the attendance. There was a usual large half-holiday crowd being out. For a feature, a handicap at six furlongs was provided, and this fell to Mars Cassidy, who was recently acquired by C. R. Anderson. This was his first start in his new owner's interest. THE CANADIENS LEAD FOR THE STANLEY CUP

Portland Beaten in Third Game for Hockey Championship—Free Fight in Last Period.

MONTREAL, March 26.—By defeating Portland Rosebuds at the local arena Saturday night the Canadiens placed to their credit two of the three games played so far for the Stanley Cup. The score last night was 3 to 2, and the game one of the liveliest ever witnessed in this city. The local team was on the aggressive from the start. The visitors' scoring was confined to the first ten minutes, Canadiens having a lead of one goal at the conclusion of the second, and easily outlaying Portland in the third. Besides being a good exhibition of hockey the game was a fine one to watch, which was attested by Chief Moffat of the Westmount police force and one of his constables. Lalonde was back checking Irvine when Johnson knocked Lalonde down and hit him with his fists, being joined in the assault by Oatman. Then it was a sort of "come all ye" players of both sides taking part with their sticks until the police interfered. Oatman and Johnson were benched and the game was resumed with Portland thus handicapped. BRITISH SHIP IS LOST AFTER SINKING RAIDER Armed Merchantman Allentara Was Torpedoed in Moment of Victory.

HOT NORTH SEA FIGHT

Nearly Two Hundred Germans Drowned—British Lost Seventy-four Men.

LONDON, March 25, 1:50 p.m.—A German raider has been sunk in the North Sea. Five German officers and 115 men out of a total of 300, were captured. The British lost 74 men.

The British armed merchantman Allentara, which sunk the German raider, the Greif, was herself sunk. The fight occurred in the North Sea, on Feb. 23. The Greif was sunk by gunfire and the Allentara by a torpedo.

The Allentara was a large liner belonging to the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. of Belfast. She had been in the service of the British Government for some time. Her gross tonnage was 12,430. She was 570 feet long and was built in Glasgow in 1913.

The following official statement was issued: "An engagement occurred on Feb. 23 in the North Sea between the armed German raider Greif, disguised as a Norwegian merchant vessel, and the British armed merchant cruiser Allentara. Capt. T. E. Wardle, in command of the Allentara, was killed in the course of the engagement. The Greif was sunk by gunfire and the Allentara by a torpedo.

"Five German officers and 111 men were picked up and taken prisoners out of the total of complement. It is believed to have been destroyed before she succeeded in passing our line of patrol."

The Greif attempted to run the British blockade and the German raider Moeve returned. Evidently it was expected the patrol squadron would be engaged in hunting for the Moeve, but the cordon of auxiliaries left no loopholes.

Seeing herself in a tight hole, the Greif turned eastward, proceeding toward home in a leisurely manner, so as not to attract the attention of the British ships. She was followed by the two ships lay almost side by side while the captain of the British steamer was engaged by megaphones for particulars of the strange vessel, which, according to the official report, had the Norwegian colors painted on her sides, but which flew no flag. The enquiries from the Allentara were answered in perfect Norwegian, but the actions of the raider aroused the suspicions of the British auxiliary. She was lowering a boat to send a searching party aboard when the Germans opened fire. The action is described as one of the hottest of the war, recalling duels between events which took place in the days of ironclads. According to the British account the German raider was put out of action by a few broadside shells from the British auxiliaries. She was followed to the bottom a few minutes later by her victorious adversary, which in the meantime fell victim to a torpedo launched from the Greif's tube a moment before the raider disappeared beneath the waves.

Other British warships soon appeared on the scene and rescued many members of the crews of the two fighters.

The naval authorities state that the Greif was well equipped for raiding as was the Moeve.

Three German steamships are listed under the name of Greif. The largest, a vessel of 1165 tons gross, is 235 feet long, was built in 1912 and is owned in Bremen.

GENEVA, Switzerland, March 25.—(Via Paris, 4 p.m.)—Information received here today from German sources indicates that the raider Greif was blown up by her commander.

The German Government applied to the Swiss Red Cross to learn the fate of 150 officers and men on the Greif, which was an auxiliary cruiser. It was said her commander blew her up during an engagement with three British ships in the North Sea on Feb. 23. It is believed the men on the Greif were captured.

GERMAN VERSION.

BERLIN, March 25, via Amsterdam and London.—The following statement on the engagement in the North Sea on Feb. 23 in which the German auxiliary cruiser Greif was sunk, together with the British Allentara, was issued today by the admiralty:

"The admiralty staff states that, according to news from various places, which has been confirmed, an engagement occurred on Feb. 23 in the northern part of the North Sea between the German auxiliary cruiser and three British cruisers and one destroyer. In the course of the battle the Greif was sunk by a torpedo shot by a great British cruiser of some 15,000 tons and finally blew herself up.

"About 150 men of the crew of the Greif, whose names are not yet known, are now prisoners of war in the British. There is no communication with the outer world of the British, who observe the strictest secrecy regarding the events, and against this have been taken."

Panic, Confusing at Outset, Became Irregular, and Closed With Net Losses.

MANY DECLINES OF POINT

Foreign Exchange Rates Got Extremely Irregular, With Marks Slightly Steadier.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Saturday's trading on the stock exchange was barren of interest. Trading was lighter and more narrow than usual, and the heavy undertone was due to a combination of circumstances including further adverse news from abroad and the customary week-end settlement of open contracts by the professional element.

Prices were confusing at the outset, but became irregular later, closing with numerous fluctuations of which were especially substantial, except in the specialties. Studebaker, Crabbie Steel, and Industrial Alcohol, Mexican Petroleum, and Mercantile Marine preferred, were lower by 1 1/2 to 3 points, and such falls as Reading, New York Central and Southern Pacific, which bolstered the session of the preceding day, averaged one point declines.

There were a few neutralized features, for instance, General Motors, which made up some of its recent severe decline by an advance of 13 points to 48 1/2; Harvester Corporation, which rose four points, and 1 to 3 points advance in Maxwell and Willoughby, the Ferris and American Writing Paper preferred.

EARLY STRENGTH SHOWN ON MONTREAL MARKET

MONTREAL, March 26.—A few issues showed early strength, Saturday, notably the common and preferred stocks of Steel of Canada, Canada Steamships and Ames-Holden. Weakness developed at other points, Bridge and Rail breaking quite sharply under a light volume of selling. The whole market was inclined to sag as a result of the weaker tone at New York.

Ames-Holden common closed 1 1/2 up at 27, a new high for the movement, and the preferred 2 1/2 higher at 74 1/2, also a new high. Bridge sold 8 points, selling at 207, and the preferred at 18 1/2, or 1/2 higher and the preferred at 78 1/2, or 1/2 higher. These prices proved the sinking of the day, the market going to 19 and the preferred to 78, where they closed.

Ames-Holden common closed 1 1/2 up at 27, a new high for the movement, and the preferred 2 1/2 higher at 74 1/2, also a new high. Bridge sold 8 points, selling at 207, and the preferred at 18 1/2, or 1/2 higher and the preferred at 78 1/2, or 1/2 higher.

LARGE INCREASE IN COBALT ORE SHIPMENTS

Three Times as Big as Previous Week—Nipissing Shipped Bullion.

COBALT, Ont., March 25.—Over nine hundred thousand pounds were sent out from camp during the week. The aggregate ore shipments from the camp for the week ending last night were almost three times that of the preceding week. A total of 915,228 pounds was sent out, as compared with 274,424 pounds the week previous. The shipments this week were contained in twelve cars, as compared with only five last week.

Domestic Reduction led the list, with 72,000 pounds. The Mining Corporation had a car each. Both shipments were consigned to Toronto. The Mining Corporation and the Buffalo Mines shipped to Denver, Col., Peterson Lake to Perth Amboy, N.J., and to Welland, Penn. Canadian to Carnegie, Pa., and McKinnon, Ontario. The Buffalo Mines shipped bullion shipments for the week aggregating 270 bars, containing 324,144 ounces, valued at $125,087. Nipissing led with 210 bars, consigned to London.

Mining Notes

The Crown Reserve has a gang of men working on the McCrea-O'Neill claims in Pease Township, Boston Creek, which it has under option.

Boston Creek: James Hughes of Haldenbury, who owns the claims in the Boston Creek district and has others under option, is discussing renewing operations in the spring.

Kiely, Smith & Amos had the following order for their special wire: "The Foster discovery is a vein of high-grade about 2 1/2 inches wide. They made small shipment during the week, which I am informed assays 2900 ounces."

The Comfort Mining and Leasing Company has now pumped out the old Wetlaufer mine to the fourth level, says The Northern Miner. Drills will soon be running again. There is some ore known to be available in the mine, so that production should commence at once.

The operation of dewatering the Gifford mine has been completed, and drills should be running again soon in the old workings. Air will be taken direct from the hydraulic swastika, so that there will be no immediate necessity of installing more plant than is now on the property.—Northern Miner.

Morgan Cartwright and his associates were forced to discontinue the sinking of new properties in Bowman Township because of lack of water for the boiler. They were working on a small property in Bowman Township which is on the north of E. N. O. Railway, and a short distance north of Seeseville gold district.

One of the widest if not the widest stopes on one in the Cobalt camp is at the 250-foot level of the McKinley-Darragh mine. The blind vein will average a stopping width of 20 feet, and is a very rich one. It is in one place it is profitable to mine it for the great width stated. This is the more surprising because it is only a short time ago since it was believed that the mine had definitely been "bottomed" at 200 feet.

Sampling has been commenced on the first level of the Lucky Cross mine at the 100-foot level, under option to the Tretrewey Mining Company. The mine has been dewatered to the second level and good progress is being made in the pumping. By the first of the week it is expected that the compressor will be started and one drill set to work in the first level of this week, but for the fact that some slight repairs had to be made to the compressor.

A new vein was cut on the Rochester property a few days ago. It is composed of calcite and about 8 inches in width, says The Cobalt Nugget. This was picked up in a cross-cut at the 285-foot level and is now being followed in the drift. The vein, at the point where it was cut, carried no values, but it is exceptionally strong and is considered promising.

The Tretrewey Mining Company, who have a lease on the property, have two drills working, and operations are being conducted thru the Lumden shaft.

WHEAT AGAIN DECLINES THRU TORPEDOING SHIPS

Chicago Market, After Early Rally, Closed Unsettled, With Values Down.

RAINS HELP SOUTHWEST

Prospects of Smaller Area Being Seeded in Canada Influenced Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Torpedoing of vessels with Americans aboard resulted Saturday in lower prices for wheat. The market closed unsettled, 3-3c to 1-2c down at 11.03-1.8 for May and 11.06 7-8c for July. Corn gained 1-8c to 1-4c net, oats finished 1-4c to 3-8c off and provisions up 1-2c to 10c.

Wheat had rallied from an early decline, but when attention was turned to the notable increase of hostilities against shipping the market headed sharply down. The week-end weakness at the outset was due chiefly to rains in the southwest where the lack of adequate moisture of late has been impeding growth. Advisers, however, that prolonged winter conditions in Canada and a scarcity of labor there were virtually certain to cause a big decrease in the extent of seeded acreage led afterwards to an advance above yesterday's closing prices. It was explained that help from soldiers had not been secured, and that farm work on last year's soil appeared to be a physical impossibility.

THE hiatus between human milk and cow's or goat's milk has never been bridged. This ravine of difference is bottomless in its want of vital and anti-germ substances. It is farther across than the distance from the cow's udder to the infant's mouth, which is destined to receive it.

The chasm between the baby's lips and the cow's "bosom" may be scores of miles. The interval in time may be hours or days.

The distance between the mother's milk and the baby's mouth may be less than the line of a hair's breadth. The time interval between the yield of human milk and its entrance at blood heat into the very life-blood of the little angel may be less than a stop-watch can register.

Young girls and mothers-to-be, do you see the point? Not only will the baby be delinquent from ill health, poor tissues, and ever-threatening germs by human milk, but mother's milk is scarcely for an instant exposed to foul breath, bad air, dirty winds, bottles and tins impossible to keep scientifically clean.

In a word, human milk is—as far as babies are concerned—the ambrosia of the gods. Cow's milk, at its best, carries lurking dangers that even a heedless Achilles might not escape.

Minimizing the Dangers.

Mechanically, chemically and antiseptically bottled milks may fairly measure up to the analysis of all that mother's milk is were there not many seemingly occult and mysterious constituents of this vital food of infants unfathomed as yet by logic or by science.

What, then, can you say of grannies, aunts and others, who "have raised many babies" upon "a taste" of beer, coffee and other things from the adult dinner table? Children that seem "to be raised" just as well upon the misdeeds of grandmothers and mothers, who give them to eat of what they should not have, tell no tales and know no better, when later in life they show signs of gout, stomach distempers, chronic constipation, coated tongues, appendicitis and other chronic illnesses, which honestly hark back to the infant days when domestic authorities defied the warnings of their doctors.

Since fresh cow's milk is far superior, had as it is, to substitutes for human milk, something must at least be tried to diminish the gargantuan difference of time and distance between its deprivation from its source to its bestowal in the baby's bottle.

That is to say, a means must be found to minimize its dangers and to make it more or less equivalent to mother's milk in freedom from such dangers.

The problem set for mothers who will not nurse their babies, as well as for doctors who wish to do good and prevent disasters to children, is to keep these microscopic, evil geni from baby's lips.

Bottling Best Way.

This may be tried in two ways, neither of which considers putting the infant to the cow's nipples, because cow's milk is two to three times too strong in albumen for little children under a year old, and one-half too weak in sweets.

Cow's milk must be changed by the addition of sugar and a reduction of proteins. Moreover, the precise quantity needed by a child changes from week to week, and from month to month, so that the child as it approaches its first birthday anniversary is able literally to drink milk like a calf.

The accuracy demanded of a doctor and a mother calls for vigorous and energetic attention to details. Cow's milk must not only be kept, if possible, without any germs from the instant it leaves the cow, but its every contact with hands, cans, flasks, nipples and bottles must be in a way as sterile as a fiery furnace.

Since it is not feasible to disinfect cow's milk, milkmaids' rubber gloves, cow sheds, pails, cans, flasks, bottles and nipples from each and every microbe, additional measures, besides mere disinfection, sterilization, and "super-me-plus- ultra" cleanliness are demanded.

After all is done, however, it behooves mothers definitely to destroy, by boiling, the last vestige of germs or dust particles in even the purest, freshest and sweetest of milk. Furthermore, the water or cereal used to weaken cow's milk, the lime water and sugar to make it move like mother's milk, must also be sterilized and made free of possible trouble. With the mouth of the child and the nipple of the bottle finally thoroly washed in boracic acid water, the little one may be saved from the pains, aches and discomforts of adult life, as well as from being one of the thousands of infants that needlessly die under 5 years of age.

The Amateur Gardener

PLANNING THE GARDEN

SMALL garden will not require much planting, still it is desirable that the owner of it should look it over at the beginning of the season and make himself or herself familiar with its possibilities. If a haphazard arrangement of plants is resorted to there will almost always be a jumble of colors that will seriously detract from the pleasure a garden ought to afford.

It is well, therefore, to determine in advance what plants you will use, and so locate them that there will be as great a harmony of color as possible. The habit of the plants should also be considered. Unless this is done you will be likely to get tall plants in the foreground and small ones in the rear, or so misplace them that they will have but little chance for displaying their beauty effectively.

I would not advise spending much time on the making of beds, and none at all on "pattern gardening," such as we see in public parks and large private gardens, which are in charge of professional gardeners. Keep in mind the fact that the flowers you grow are of much greater importance than the shape of the beds in which you grow them. Simple beds are always most satisfactory to small gardeners.

When you order your seed take pains to read over the descriptions of the plants you select. Most catalogs tell you the height, the color and the flowering period of each plant in its list, and if you understand these things it will be an easy matter for you to put each plant decided on in the place where it will be able to do itself justice.

It is a good plan to locate large plants, like rhinias, hollyhocks, delphinium, and cosmos, along the fence at the boundary of the lot, if there is one, with those of medium height in front of them, reserving the space next the path for the low growing kinds, like raney, verbena, sweet alyssum, and the like. If the planting is done in rows it will find much easier to care for your plants than when beds of fancy shape are made use of.

Especially is row planting advised in the vegetable garden, as this will admit of the use of the garden cultivator—a tool that should be used wherever there is room for its operation. It does better work than the hoe, as it leaves the ground in the shape, and so expedites matters that a little time will suffice to keep the average garden in perfect order.

Beauty a Real Possibility for Everyone Who Strives

By LUCREZIA BORI

BEAUTY is ugliness corrected," writes Pierre Coulevain in "On the Branch." What a wealth of consolation for the woman whose mirror tells her that she is homely. Armed with this truth, she can answer with the challenging remark: "But I can and will be beautiful!"

In time the mirror will be forced to change its opinion, and reflect transformed being, whom the world acknowledges as fair to look upon.

Of course it is ridiculous for a woman who is homely to expect to become a world-famed beauty, but it is possible to attain a loveliness that will cause her to be more satisfied with her appearance, and will win for her the reputation of being good-looking.

The First Principles.

The very beginning of this transformative process is to stand before a mirror and make note of your good and bad physical points. If your figure fulfills the demands of beauty you are saved the trouble of striving to improve it, and can concentrate your efforts upon your face. If, on the other hand, your face is lovely enough to satisfy you, then direct your efforts toward improving your figure.

You know that exercise combined with the proper diet will correct the defects of your form. If you are stout, reduction should be your aim. If too slender, you will have to gain in weight.

To correct the defective features of the face will require patience and systematic treatment. "Persistence and then again persistence," must be your watchword if you desire to accomplish what you have set out to do.

Look critically at your hair. Is it healthy, beautiful and well combed? If not lose no time in treating it with massage, a reliable hair tonic and frequent brushings. Then experiment until you discover the most becoming way to dress it, and you have one of the foremost features of beauty.

Next examine your skin for blemishes. If it is sallow, rough and altogether unattractive looking correct its faults by feeding the tissues with a skin food, reduce the size of the pores by applying an astringent lotion, improve its texture by frequent baths, softened with bran, and regulate your diet so that it will be rosy with health.

Care of Eyes.

Your eyes are next to be considered. If they lack brilliancy you need to rest and take outdoor exercise. Bathe them several times a week with a solution of boracic acid and avoid eye strain.

Perhaps the eyes are beautiful, but the brows require shaping, and the lashes are in need of nourishment, so that they will become luxuriant. Apply a tonic composed of:

Eye wash 10 grams
Boracic acid 10 centigrams

Rub this paste into the roots of the lashes at night.

It is impossible to change the bone structure of the nose, but if the flesh is too heavy at the base it can be massaged away.

The shape of the mouth can be changed more readily than one is prone to imagine. Cultivate a pleasant, natural smile, and the corners will turn upward and form a "Cupid's bow." Remember the muscles about the mouth at all times, and you will soon note what an improvement there is in your expression.

Pay particular attention to your teeth and daily give them the attention to keep them white and healthy.

Last of all, if the contour of your chin does not please you, massage away the superfluous flesh or round out its line by the application of fattening oils, such as cocoa butter or heated almond oil.

During the process of transformation bear in mind that "ugliness can be corrected into beauty."

Diary of a Well-Dressed Girl
BY SYLVIA GERARD

How She Made a Smart Dinner-Dance Frock.

TED left for South America today. He went to attend to some business for his father and will not be back before Janet's wedding.

The trip was arranged so suddenly that I haven't yet recovered from my surprise at hearing of it. Of course, I feel wretched.

We all went to the station with Ted, and when I came back to the house there was a box of spring flowers from him and a note in which he said:

"I was nothing less than a brute. Robin, to pester you the way I did. Forgive me."

"In spite of the 'many faults' which you 'confessed' to me, I still think that you are finer than any girl I know."

"By the time I return I will have schooled my feelings and will prove myself to be the best big brother that you have ever had. See if I don't."

"Now do not bother your dear little head by worrying any more about me. I'll soon be all right and will think of you only as a fellow ever had."

"Write to me sometimes, and am always glad to hear about what you are doing."

Moving Pictures in Japan.

Japan was the first foreign country where I saw moving pictures shown. The "rickshas," which carry one to the theatre, have read Japanese lanterns—they drip along in the darkness like glow worms. At the theatre they will wait for you till the performance is over and speed you back on tires of American rubber.

In Yokohama one whole street is given up to moving pictures—Theatre street. Great banners hang clear across it, with the picturesque Japanese alphabet racing up and down them, advertising the respective performances.

On the floor the audience sits, with feet squarely turned under them, absorbed in the shifting shadows. The subtitles are in English; but so common is English coming to be in Japan that the meaning doesn't go over their heads. It is now being taught in the public schools so that there is always some one to whisper the title's meaning.

American manufacturers have labored long and hard to find films that will amuse the Japanese, but their success has not been very marked.

The Japanese are now manufacturing their own films, but they are not of much interest to us, as nothing ever happens in them. There is no action. By the way they lift their cups, by the way they swing their fans they are passing a message. Two Japanese can talk to each other with their fans, while the white man standing alongside understands nothing of what they are saying.

Is This How to Succeed?

GET the habit of being successful. Impress people that you are successful. If you can do that, you are made—you will become an established thing. People will say: "There goes Oscar, he always succeeds."

And people like their little superstitions—and will further them on every occasion.

Why?—Because they hate to lose it.

Oscar.

The Old Gardener Says

That a new and useful plant force consists of a light wire frame into which lights of common window glass are set. An entire row of young plants can be covered with this device and a crop obtained several weeks earlier than if the plants were left unprotected. Beans, corn, tomatoes and lettuce can be given a fine start with these impromptu cold frames and seeds sown ten days earlier than would otherwise be safe.

After reading his note I wept and wept, until Janet came in and scolded me for making my eyes red, when I knew that we were going to a leap year dinner-dance at the Country Club.

This served as a reminder that I wanted to make a few alterations in the frock I am going to wear. I bought it at a fashion fete before coming away, and didn't have a chance to change it to suit my taste.

The frock is of wistaria-colored Georgette satin, of a tone in which the gray predominates. I did not like the bodice, which was a draped affair, with a very low-cut décolletage and no sleeves. There was a band of exquisite gold embroidery about the top of the bodice and shaped pieces of black velvet over the shoulders, which added color to the frock, and I saw that I would have no trouble in transforming its entire character by a few minor alterations.

I bought some pale violet silk tulle and from it made short, puff sleeves, finished with tight bands. Then I arranged folds of the tulle to fill in the décolletage and to form yokes over the shoulders, to which I stitched the sleeves.

The waist altered to my satisfaction. I began a like transformation on the skirt. It originally had a queer-shaped double train hanging from the waist line at the back, and pannier draperies trimmed with black velvet. There were also waistcoat points of the velvet extending from beneath the girdle, and the train had a narrow border of the same trimming.

The skirt dipped low on one side and was quite short on the other, making a very unbecoming line. I first ripped off the train and then straightened the skirt so that it was a uniform length all around.

From the material used for the train I cut two shaped panel sections and trimmed them with velvet. I stitched these to the front of the skirt, making it appear quite complicated in design.

The frock is really charming now, and with slippers of gold brocade, wistaria-colored stockings and a scarf of gold tulle it will be a costume worthy of notice. Janet says that she will love a frock of this same color scheme for her trousseau.

Ted's going away has robbed my visit of half its pleasure. I think I'll start for home the end of the week.

"THE IRON CLAW"

There's something coming that you can't afford to overlook!

If you enjoy exceptional motion picture plays—if you want to read fiction of the kind that grips your interest and never lets go till you finish—take our tip. Don't miss "The Iron Claw"—

PATHE'S GREATEST SERIAL
Featuring Pearl White
Creighton Hale
and Sheldon Lewis

The pick of the greatest aggregation of moving picture stars in America—the original "Elaine" cast—heading it with Pearl White. Yes—Pearl White of "The Perils of Pauline"—the "Peerless Fearless Girl."

Creighton Hale, the inimitable Jameson of "The Exploits of Elaine," whose careless swagger and dashing buoyancy have made him the target of marriage proposals innumerable, is cast in the role of a clever and courageous secretary.

Sheldon Lewis, famous wherever motion pictures are shown as "The Clutching Hand," he whose forceful personality, whose dramatic sweep and power have gained him the reputation of "the most fascinating villain on the screen," is cast in a sinister role.

The Feature Film Corporation was instructed to make "The Iron Claw" pictures regardless of expense, and they did. Results have more than justified the enormous sums of money expended. The thrills that made the "Elaine" pictures the sensation of two continents have been outdone in "The Iron Claw."

The reputation of Arthur Stringer as a virile writer of unusual fiction is the interest-guarantee of "The Iron Claw" stories, which will appear in this newspaper simultaneously with the weekly release of the pictures in the theatres.

Everyone of our readers will be interested in knowing that Arthur Stringer is a Canadian and living in Chatham, Ontario, and his story must be tremendously appealing when five hundred American newspapers are publishing it. Do not forget the date of the first instalment, Sunday, the 2nd of April, and every Sunday thereafter for fourteen weeks, in "The Sunday World."
