TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Arthur Ballard, aged 19 years, the son of Arthur E. ("Albie") Ballard, tobacconist, of Toronto, died at Channing Park near Peterboro yesterday afternoon as the result of an alleged assault committed on Monday night of this week. There are conflicting stories about the tragedy. One is that Ballard, who was loafing at the park, was set upon while returning through a thickly wooded park to his home, after attending a dance. Another is that death is the result of injuries received in a fist fight. An inquest will open at Peterboro this morning.

SECOND RACE WILL LIKELY BE RE-SAILED

The Chinook Crossed the Line Before Starting Gun Was Fired

It is quite likely that the second race for the Carter's Point Plate which was declared to be won by Church Brothers' Chinook, will be re-sold.
 The race was declared awarded to the Chinook, although she and the Waabeno crossed the line before the starting gun was fired. Since the race the decision, won the race. An error in the official record of the race gave the race to the Chinook. Since the race the decision concerning the winner has been under reconsideration. Mr. Proffman, should the race be formally awarded to the Mona, will ask that it be re-sold.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedial means. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
 We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, P. O. CHENEY CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 160

HOME NEWS FROM ABROAD
Moose Are Plentiful Down This Way

(New York Herald.)
 Moose will be plentiful when the season opens this fall in the province of New Brunswick, Canada, says the Charlottetown News. The open season in New Brunswick begins on September 15. It is not uncommon for those who live near the New Brunswick forests to see any moose in the closed season. It is so common for a moose to stroll through a village or town in the summer that the local editor rarely gives it more than a paragraph. This summer the moose have been out in unusual force.
 Trains on the Inter-Colonial Railway, which winds its way through the moose country, have reported seeing many moose feeding near the tracks. The animals showed little fear; they seemed to know that the law protects them.
 The crew of the Maritime Express alleged fast train between Halifax and Montreal, counted twenty-one moose one morning between Bathurst and Newcastles, which are not many miles apart. On the branch line from Chatham to Chatham Junction a large bull moose was sighted every day for more than two weeks. He was feeding only a few miles from the town close to the railway line.

OUTING ASSOCIATION IS GROWING RAPIDLY
 Will Have at Least 100 Membership by Monday Evening

The newly organized Renforth Outing Association is meeting with a great success at this early period in its history. The new association being its existence with thirty-five charter members, and by Monday evening, when a meeting to complete organization is to be held, it is expected that the membership will be about one hundred. Monday evening's meeting will be held at the residence of I. H. Nordrup, Renforth.
 Plans for the observation of Labor Day are being made. There is to be an illustrated parade of water craft in which boats from Renthessay, Millidgeville, Riverside and other places are to take part. A feature of the illumination is to be the burning of a ship. The vessel is to be made of combustible material and towed out to the Kennebecas, where she is to be burned as the final spectacle of the Labor Day celebration.
 The Renforth O. A. will go into all branches of sport, aquatic and athletic. Baseball teams are to be organized, tennis courts to be laid out and other activities engaged. It is not expected that the present season will see the organization in operation in all branches, but it is expected to make a good start in the spring.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 27.—Three Nova Scotians and a Prince Edward Islander will go to Bisley next year. Major Dymond of Halifax was sixth on the Bisley list. Sergt. Steek of Truro was tenth, Major Jones, Charlottetown, was twenty-second, and Lt. Co. Flowers, Halifax, twenty-fifth.

2 MORE LIVES FLICKER OUT IN RACE OF DEATH

BRIGHTON BEACH MOTOR DHOME, Aug. 27.—(Special)—Mechanics of the Sears car, in 24 hour automobile race was killed here tonight and the driver, Laughton, was fatally injured in a collision with the Acme car shortly before midnight. Patchke, and Maynard, the crew of the Acme car, were only slightly injured. Both cars were wrecked.
 Gross and Cole were thrown from their car in the collision. Cole was almost instantly killed. Gross' spine was broken and he cannot recover. The race was stopped and at once resumed.
 Less than fifteen minutes later, in order to avert another collision at the same point, Vansteele, driving the other Acme car, struck death by steering his car straight through the heavy infield fence. Both he and his mechanic escaped injury and his car was damaged only slightly, losing a front wheel. The machine was dragged back to its quarters and started again in a few minutes before the accident in which Cole was killed. Driver Hughes of the Allen-Kington was seriously burned when his clothes caught fire from a blaze which started near his gasoline tank. The blaze was put out by one of the other drivers, who stopped his car and rolled Hughes in the hand while the mechanics smothered the flames in the car.

ANXIOUS TO SECURE STUBBS AND STERLING

Oxford, N. S., is going to have a big day of athletic and other sports on Labor Day, September 6. Those managing the sports are very anxious to secure Stubbs and Sterling for the distance events, on three and five miles. Capt. W. Ambler and Pate of Springhill will both run at Oxford, and competition between them and the local long distance cracks along makes an interesting run.
 These events are a lengthy programme of events including the ordinary athletic events and women's events. Admission to the club will be free. All events will be under the M. P. A. A. sanction. Entry blanks can be obtained at the club office. Very fine prizes will be given winners of events at Oxford.

AFTER LAJOLE
 DETROIT, Aug. 27.—When the papers announced that Larry Lajole had resigned the management of the Cleveland team, the "fans" began circulating petitions, which were presented to the Detroit Club officials, asking them to purchase Lajole from the Cleveland club at any price and place him on first base.

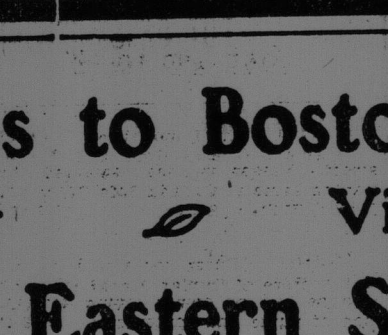

President Navin, in discussing the subject, declared emphatically that he did not believe that Lajole was a game in the seventh inning because, he said, one team had scored more runs than he cared to see, and that the game was getting to be too much of a joke. Appleton was playing Rockford, and the former team had scored 15 runs up until the time Dremen called a halt.

TOO MANY RUNS IN THE GAME
 Umpire Bremen, of the Wisconsin-Illinois League, recently called a game in the seventh inning because, he said, one team had scored more runs than he cared to see, and that the game was getting to be too much of a joke.

THE RACE FOR THE PENNANT.
 Hughie Duffy has promised $1,500 to the Providence players if they win the pennant. Manager John Gansel has been promised a $5,000 house and lot if the Rochester Club wins the pennant. The Buffalo Courier says:
 "Here's a tip to Mr. Gansel—he had best refrain from paying any installments on the furniture that residence for a few weeks to come, anyhow. It's a great race all three great teams are dashed in the battle with others of no little class waiting a chance to jump in and make trouble. Toronto is by no means beaten yet and Jersey City is coming fast, while our own battered Bisons have shown some signs of resuscitation."

FUNERAL ABSENCE REVOKES BEQUESTS Old Folks' Home, Beneficiary, to Care for Needy Relatives. NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The will of Henry Kuritz, who died at Walker Valley, this state, on August 3, leaves $5,000 to the German Evangelical Aid Society of Brooklyn, for the Home for the Aged, conducted by the society, with this provision:

THE OLD SCHOOL BOOKS. When a man gets along in years, his mind at times turns back to the days at school, and in recalling the incidents and impressions of those years he is apt to make comparisons with more modern conditions. To many the lessons of boyhood, the subjects taken up in classes, are still vivid remembrances, and subtle memory, which has often faded in matters seemingly of greater importance, frequently reproduces in detail the happenings of long ago.

FORGETFULNESS. I was "busy and forgot" to write the letter that was written, for weeks and months. I forgot to make the call on my "shut in" friend and the fading eyes grew dim waiting for my coming, and I made a hard life a little harder.

AGAINST THE ALIEN. In plain English, Mr. Ghose's ideal is that of "absolute autonomy, free from foreign control." He declares that deportation is the favorite instrument of men incapable of wise rule. In the name of his countrymen, he condemns British methods of administration, rejects the "claim of aliens to force upon us a civilization inferior to our own, or to keep us out of our inheritance on the untenable ground of the superior fitness. The government of India is alien, and must be replaced by an Indian administration."

ANOTHER INTERESTING LETTER FROM SAMUEL GOMPERS

Copyright, 1909, by P. S. Ridsdale, for Samuel Gompers.
VIENNA, August 12, 1909.
The most interesting event of my journey during the last week was a visit to Pilsen. The name of this town brings a smile to the American connoisseur in light-liquid refreshment, but I shall hereafter during my life remember Pilsen, not for its beer, but for the quickening into life of a great people's movement that has supplanted the conventional methods of both institutional philanthropy and old established political parties in helping the masses. From Berlin I travelled to Dresden and then to Prague, devoting two days to each city.
It came about unexpectedly, that I went to Pilsen, through my being thrown much into the company of a labor member of the Austrian Reichstag in Prague. A word as to his personality and life story will serve to illustrate the social changes which are nowadays so rapidly succeeding one another in Austria. In Prague, on the day of my arrival, a conference was being held by the Bohemian social democratic members of the Reichstag at the labor headquarters, an immense three-story public building, each wing more than a hundred feet in length, situated in the heart of the town, or the large printing office in another part of the city. It is because I have to mind the story of Herr Gustav Haberman and Pilsen, which will serve to illustrate to my readers what I herein seek to convey. I may say, however, that the Bohemian national trade union and the Social Democratic party together have paid $30,000 on the building, leaving a mortgage of $200,000 that it has been in their possession for two years, and that its restaurant, with a large garden, is a favorite gathering place daily for the working people, the garden serving for concerts and also for large open-air mass meetings. A visit to the suites of offices of the various national unions gave me an opportunity to see that business in each was conducted with the system of a large corporation. In fact, the secretary, book-keepers, typewriters and others had much of the bearing and manner of busy, disciplined, public functionaries, so numerous everywhere I have been on the European continent.
On his way to Pilsen Herr Haberman, in reply to inquiries, told us his story. Twenty odd years ago he spent three years in prison. On being liberated he went to the United States, where he worked for eight years as a wood turned, mostly in New York and Chicago. Twelve years ago he returned to Bohemia, settling in his home city Pilsen. His term of imprisonment suffered in consequence of the publication of political sentiments. "But," he said, "the things I then said and printed and for which I was imprisoned are now being published with impunity every day in the party and trade union papers. The last twenty years has seen the greatest progress in political liberty that Austria has ever known. Not being given work in prison, Herr Haberman studied French and English. His sentence was for four years, but as three days of good conduct counted four, he was released at the end of three years. I asked what else he had learned. He smiled and replied: "To wait." I could well imagine that during those months and years of waiting his character developed and his face gradually took on its patient, kind, firm, calmly expressive. His seat in parliament, said he, was due largely to the vote of farmers. In one village he had received 306 out of 400 votes. Asked if he favored the social revolution, he answered that he regarded sending a man to the parliament of Austria for the same sentiments that sent him to prison twenty years before had already marked a revolution. The Social Democratic party had very little representation in the Reichstag even six years ago; now it has 83 members out of nearly 600.

And now that they were in the house, what were they doing?
"Well," was the reply, "they were a part of the opposition."
"No," he could not say the party was actively opposing the Emperor as such, but it favored the people."
"What was the foremost measure advocated in the last session of the Reichstag by the party?"
"The old-age pension scheme."
"No government ownership of industries."
"No."
In fact, the general work of the people's deputies, from his statements, seemed to be protesting against excessive compulsory military service and those taxes bearing heavily on the poor. He described to us, as had been done before and since by others, the difficulties of promoting legislation for the people in Austria. He could count eight languages spoken in different parts of the empire, with many dialects. The population is divided by boundaries that signify differences, not only in language, but in race, history, and in cases, religion and industries. Those and similar facts, known to us Americans simply by description, and seen at a great distance, evidently are as high as mountains to the imperial legislator representing part of a province.
Herr Haberman gave us the statistics of land ownership in Bohemia, the story of Scotland over again, or worse. A few hundred great land owners, chiefly of the nobility tracing their possession to a feudal ancestry, own vast areas; the number of the proprietor farmers owning five acres or less form a small percentage of the population that gain a livelihood from agriculture. But he could not say that the land question was at present really a live one in the parliament. Both the head-quarters building and several acres of temporarily rented grounds, separated from the gardens by a turbid mountain stream, which was wood-enclosed for the occasion by the municipality, in all, the exposition was a highly creditable display of the manufacturers of Pilsen, not including beer, with especially in the outdoor part, agricultural implements, and in the interior, many souvenirs, and pictorial illustrations of the work of the trade unions and "the party" in various countries. A set of those diagrams which show statistical data by means of squares and lines of varying lengths gave speedily interpreted visual information as to the growth of trade unionism and co-operation, and the election returns for Pilsen and Bohemia. The leading notable fact in these points was that by a great percentage the real growth in all these respects has taken place within the last five years. Bohemia, like the other parts of Austria that have taken up with the modern working class movements, is in the first flush of hope and victory.

Labor has burst some of its bonds. It is eager to go in what stage it has advanced, and just where it is going? Time will tell the story.
A great meeting took place in the evening in the Pilsen exposition restaurant hall. From the beginning of the gathering to the end there was a series of demonstrations of enthusiasm. A men's chorus, strong and good, sang a dozen airs, either of their own or of the labor movement. Out on the grounds a brass band played. Later the same became a fine orchestra and on the stage gave us an excellent programme, most of the numbers strange to us, but all marked by unusual spirit, rhythm and precision. The national and international anthems of labor--Russian, Polish, Italian, French, German and others--brought out prolonged bursts of applause and encore.
We had been sitting perhaps two hours enjoying these scenes, when one of our hosts told us that as Herr Haberman had telegraphed to the workingmen's afternoon daily newspaper that we were to be present on this evening, a number of people of the town had come to hear something from America. Over at one part of the hall were some supporters of the clerical and in another, little groups of business men, and here and there was a soldier, risking two weeks in the guardhouse for coming to the people's meeting place. An address of welcome and then being introduced in the Bohemian tongue, I made a short address in English, being aware that not half a dozen persons in the hall could understand me. All the same, at the conclusion came a hearty round of applause. At the close of the interpretation, another. The big heart of the people in all countries is the same.
Among those spectators who now came to our table to have a word while the orchestra was playing, was a young man who, as he stated, had been a very active socialist agitator in Chicago, where he had lived some years. He had returned to Pilsen to his parents, who were growing old and had some property. He was not now active in the party. He said he knew of course, and knew that I knew, that capitalism was swallowing all industries, one after another. The social revolution was therefore inevitable. But circumstances at present prevented him from taking any part in the revolutionary movement. He repeated the story of the big strike in Austria in 1905 that hastened reforms in the ballot and otherwise; told of the progress under various European governments of workmen's accident, sick and pension schemes; denounced the capitalists of America for avoiding the liabilities of employers in cases of accidents, and found cause enough in this fact--and the inevitable progressive monopoly--for prophesying a socialist society of the future. But, he added, the Social Democratic party of Austria was in no wise a revolutionary party.

When at midnight our party left the hall it was still crowded. As we passed out, a long, loud and hearty hurrah! (Nedra Czechah) was our parting salute. Herr Haberman saw us on our train at one o'clock in the morning.
In this outline of facts, little and big, regarding our visit to Pilsen, I have tried to suggest to the reader something of the impressions they made upon me. The aggressive opponents of social justice are not working in our civilized world under just the same lights. In various countries they have developed different methods, modified by historical events and social conditions. Certainly, the work done during the last five years in Pilsen, as an example of many places in Austria, has been noteworthy. The development of voluntary co-operation are admirable. Those of trade unionism are fine, as beginnings. Some comment agency designed to remove political disabilities, non-existent in our country, was necessary. Some combination of representatives answerable to democratic constituencies was also essential in the parliament to look out for the welfare of the classes so long neglected. All very well. But why couple these practical movements with the visionary schemes of the "professionist" and of clever guessers at social evolution of half a century ago? Why jumble together the clear that are necessary regarding the work now being done by the people with the misty stuff fed to them by so-called "intellectuals" who have been so often discredited by events, the course of which has run to the contrary of their predictions, especially in regard to their favorite dictum, "Things must become worse before they can be better." As Herr Haberman in effect said to me, "What I was sent to prison for twenty years ago, everybody can say, print and do today without fear." It is the contention of the American labor movement and it is mine, that the great social revolution is not and will not come with a bang and a crash. It is going on now every day, everywhere in the world and in the most advanced countries it moves fastest. In them it is most practical. It will be held, for example, by those best acquainted with the American labor movement that our organizations would hardly leave the Pilsen brewery at peace while it conducted its business under such non-union conditions, as is being done in the Austrian labor movement. We might not in the United States, with hurray, vote for the materialization of rainbows in the year 2000, but we would have 3,500 better paid, better conditioned brewery workers in a five-or so would absorb--at least from Pilsen beer.

WILL BEGIN CONSTRUCTION ON HANDSOME TABERNACLE

Methodist Committee To Go Up River Today To Select A Site

Before the snow flies, the Methodist camp ground on the river will in all probability be adorned by a handsome tabernacle in readiness for the first summer of active work.
Following the decision of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Methodist Conference, reached while in session at Moncton in June last, the camp grounds committee will go next week to Camp Epworth to select a site for the tabernacle. The selection made, tenders will be called for, and construction will be commenced at once.
Members of the committee from other sections of the province will arrive in the city on Wednesday, and with the local appointees will sail to the grounds by the steamer Seneca, which will make a special trip for the occasion, in addition to her regular Wednesday afternoon excursion.
The site most favored for the tabernacle is one about opposite to the cottage of Rev. Neil McLaughlin, pastor of Portland street Methodist church.
During the summer the steamer

DECIDES TO DIVIDE INTO TWO SECTIONS

TORONTO, Aug. 27--The Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association closed three days meeting here today, decided to divide into two sections, one for Ontario, Quebec and Eastern Provinces, and the other for Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and Yukon. Most of the big companies have head offices in the Western Provinces now, and the division will enable claims from the West to be paid without reference to Montreal or Toronto, as is the practice now.

HE DOESN'T LIKE PEANUTS.

When, fifty-four years ago, Sir Robert Hart was first attached to the British Consulate at Ningpo, he had an experience which was the reverse of pleasant. He was travelling to Shanghai in a 150-ton schooner, and the voyage took three weeks instead of one, on account of a monsoon. Provisions gave out, and the ship's company were reduced for twelve days to an unsavory diet of water-buffalo and peanuts--all they could get from a nearby island. "Was it any wonder that Hart could never afterwards endure the nuts of peanuts, or that at the sight of a passing water-buffalo his appetite was clean gone for the day?"
This is not the only occasion when Sir Robert has experienced some of the troubles of starvation. During the Boxer rebellion of 1900, when the Legation of Peking was besieged by the fanatics, Sir Robert, in common with the other refugees, cheerfully ate mule, which was hatefully coarse while it was fat, and unsuitably tough when it grew lean.

JOHN D. AT 80 WILL BE FIRST BILLIONAIRE

Rockefeller's Wealth Today is Placed at $700,000,000

Standard Oil Stock is Now at the Highest Point of Its History—Interesting Figures.

HOW JOHN D.'S FORTUNE HAS INCREASED

In 1865 it was worth $5,000. Ten years later it was $50,000. In another decade it had reached $500,000. In 1899 it was worth $400,000,000. In 1906, $550,000,000. His (estimated) wealth today is in the neighborhood of $700,000,000.

Standard Oil stock sold at 712 recently, the highest price it has reached since the panic of 1907. The stock has risen 322 points from the low ebbs at which it sold on Nov. 4, 1907.

Those who know Rockefeller as well as he allows himself to be known said at that time that his assumed coarseness in ascertaining the exact amount of his holdings was merely in keeping with the scrupulousness of his character.

THE ROCKEFELLER FORTUNE. The latest approximately accurate estimates available place his fortune at 100 to at least $500,000,000; in 1906 it was $400,000,000. This is an increase of $100,000,000 in five years.

But it is not in the nature of things that the organization he has built up day and night, the value of its stock and dividends must increase. It is simply a natural law, working in the interest of an old, wrinkled, passionate man.

In September, 1907, it was estimated by Rockefeller's closest associates that his income was at least $90,250 a minute. Some figures placed it as high as $40 during the same space of time.

Since 1882 when the company, which pays dividends of 40 per cent. a year, was organized, it has paid its stockholders $600,000,000 in dividends. Of the sum Rockefeller's share has been one-quarter. The company's earnings did not fall off in the year of depression that followed the panic, and there has accumulated a surplus of about $75,000,000. These figures show what an impossibility it would be for Rockefeller to keep from growing richer in increasing ratio as the years go by.

Rockefeller's affiliation with Standard Oil has become so prominent in the public mind, that his almost innumerable other interests have been forgotten. Not so long ago a banker showed some friends a list of more than fifty banks and trust companies, all of them reported to be under the Rockefeller influence.

Not so long ago in a conversation with a business man of Cleveland a reported said jokingly: "Why, if Mr. Rockefeller wanted to suddenly foreclose, he could put the city out of business."

The business man looked serious. "If it were possible or if he were so disposed," he replied, "Mr. Rockefeller by suddenly withdrawing all his investments could precipitate a condition for which panic would be a very mild word."

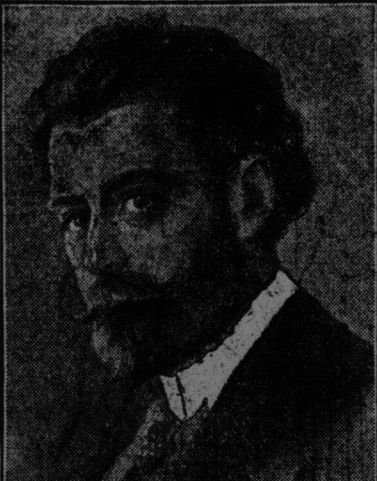

From a purely financial point of view Rockefeller is the greatest potentate in the world. If he had to earn his wealth at the rate of $1 a day, the average of his employes' wages, it would take more than 89,000 years to do it.

Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the occult sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxbury, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people, seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. C. C. Mansford, F.R.D., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Summit Hill, Pa., U. S. A., in a letter to Prof. Roxbury says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Everyone consulting you will marvel at the exactness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxbury's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your place and date of birth, state your sex, and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting: "I have heard of your power To read people's lives, And would ask what for me You have to advise"

HOME WITH CHILD COUNT GIZYCKI STOLE

American Woman Who Wed Russian and Divorced Him

Story of Payment of $500,000 as Ransom for Little Girl Deceived by Relative.

The marital woes of the young Countess Gizycki, formerly Miss Medsger Patterson of Chicago, which have been engaging the attention of the people of two continents, took a new turn Tuesday when she returned on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse with her three-year-old daughter, Countess Felicia.

The fact that powerful influence had been brought to bear upon the Russian government to compel Count Joseph Gizycki, husband of the Countess, to surrender the child he had stolen in England, when it was eighteen months old, and the fact that the ransom sum—in one report placed as high as $500,000—had been paid to the Count as the price of peace, made the homecoming of the Countess and her daughter of special interest.

And at the moment of her landing from the liner, it was rumored by some on the ship, that the end-faced young Countess, whose stormy married life ended in Vienna, it is said, with a knock-down blow from her husband, might still be reconciled to him, the interest grew in this curious romance which began in St. Petersburg when the Count in 1902 met this daughter of a Chicago millionaire and began to pay her ardent court.

SILENT AS TO RECONCILIATION. But the Countess would say nothing about her future save that she would return to live in Vienna in six months. Whether this means that she will be reconciled to the Count is a question she would not answer.

She would not go over the history that the cables have told piecemeal since her brilliant marriage in the Washington home of her parents in 1904, following a round of visits to friends made with the Count announcing their engagement, unknown to her parents.

"I am weary," she said, as she sat in the sitting room of her suite on the Kaiser. "I do not wish to talk of the past. I wish to forget it. Now that I have my baby I am satisfied," and she placed her arm affectionately about the child. "I shall remain in this country six months and shall spend all the time with my dear little girl," she added. "Then I shall return to my home in Vienna."

The Countess shook her head. "I do not care to say anything more. You must not ask me further. I shall keep my little one close to me. I shall be at the home of my father, Robert W. Patterson."

The Countess is tall and still girlish in appearance, though her eyes bear the lines of her years. It was while the latter's wife, it is said, was in a gray travelling gown and wore a large hat with plumes.

The little Countess was in olive green with a white sailor hat. She is a beautiful child with perfect complexion, fine features and large blue eyes. She clung to her mother and would not consent to release her hand for a moment.

Accompanying the Countess was her cousin, Joseph Medill McCormick, and the latter's wife. It was while the Countess was on a visit to her aunt, wife of the then American ambassador to Russia, that she met Count Gizycki. It is declared to have been through the efforts of the former ambassador that the little Countess was restored to her mother.

STORY OF BIG RANSOM DENIED. Mr. McCormick was almost as reticent as the Countess, but he denied the story that any money had been paid as a ransom for the little Countess. "Not one cent was paid," said Mr. McCormick emphatically, "not one cent. It is true that influence was brought to bear upon the Russian Government to have the child restored to its mother. That is all I care to say."

"Why is the Countess then to return to Vienna? Will there be a reconciliation?" was asked. "Do not ask me; who can say what might happen?" he responded.

The Countess was accompanied by a maid and a governess for her daughter, but the child would pay no attention to the latter, clinging closely to her mother. After their baggage had been examined.

THE SUN AND STAR'S BIG CONTEST CLOSES TONIGHT

Wonderful Degree of Enthusiasm Shown—Hustlers are Busier Than Ever—A Good Schedule of Votes and Bonus Offer Until the Close—Only few Hours More of Contest Remain—Committee of Award Will Count Votes and Announce Winners on Tuesday

MR. GEORGE ROBERTSON, Assistant Receiver General, Manager Dominion Savings Bank. MR. C. A. GRAY, Manager-Union Bank of Halifax. MR. EDWARD BEARS, Postmaster. MR. W. H. WHITE, of White & Galkin, Insurance Agents.

MR. R. SEYMOUR WRIGHT, Hopewell Cape, N. B.

If you have really made up your mind to win, make every moment count before ten o'clock tonight. Don't stand back and figure on what you can do. A belated lead is better than a harvest; an automobile in St. John is worth a whole garage in Windsor. Likewise and also remember that many a horse leads to the quarter-pole, but it is the big, strong-headed animal with "sand" and "bottom" that pokes his nose under the wire ahead of the bunch. "Genius darts, flutters, and tires; perseverance wears and wins."

Just to show that he is rather reckless, the contest man is going to inflict this near-gem on the readers of The Sun and Star, which is more remarkable for what it tries to say than for what it says:

"When it looks like all is up, keep a-go! Drain the sweetness from the cup, Keep a-go! See the autos whizzin' by Get together, make a try, If you feel like cryin', cry— But keep a-go!"

LIVING OVER CATACOMBS.

Paris in many of its districts, is built over the catacombs, says Harper's Weekly. These vast subterranean chambers and galleries produce that peculiar cavernous sound which is heard in the Luxembourg, Montparnasse, Vaugirard, Montrouge and Montsouris quarters when heavy carts pass rapidly along the curbside metalled roads. The streets are then like monstrous drums beating funeral marches to the grave over that vast common grave of ten centuries of Parisians with its millions of skeleton dead. That quaint little Gothic house at the corner of the Boulevard Raspail, which many an American artist must remember from his student days, actually has a private staircase leading to the catacombs from beneath a hermetically closed stone slab just in front of the doorstep.

ROOSEVELT INITIALS HORRIFY SECRETARY

Big 'T. R.' is Painted on Packages Sent From Africa. HE GETS REAL ANGRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—A big express wagon loaded with nine black barrels and one huge box, containing trophies of the Roosevelt hunting expedition in the jungles of Africa, arrived at the Smithsonian Institution at noon today. More will follow.

To the horror of Secretary Richard Rathbun, of the institution, the packages were marked with the initials "T. R.," placed there with white paint

As usual, he was monopolizing the newspaper. "Please let me have the woman's page," she said. He carefully tore off a page and handed it to her. It was a full page advertisement of a military opening and he chuckled at his own little joke. Still she was revengeful. She went to the opening, and he paid the bill.

The above named prominent citizens have kindly consented to act as a committee to canvass the vote and award the prizes at the end of the Sun and Star Prize Voting Contest. The Sun and Star feel most fortunate in securing the services of these gentlemen whose standing is so high and so favorably known as to insure an absolutely correct and impartial decision. This committee will be authorized to make a thorough investigation before the awards are made so that no question can ever arise as to the winners of the prizes.

THE CANDIDATE'S PRAYER. "Oh, Lord, help me to win. But if, in Thy inscrutable wisdom, It be ordained that I shall not win, Then, Oh, Lord, make me a good loser."

In today's Star appear half-tone cuts of some of our candidates who are working so earnestly to secure a sufficient number of votes to be found among the thirty-four winners when the result of the contest is announced next Tuesday.

MRS. J. D. MACNUT, Truro, N. S.

Interest in the big Contest reaches its climax today and is not confined by any means to the City of St. John, but the prizes are being talked about throughout the Province of New Brunswick and votes are coming in for many of the candidates, not only from Canada, but from the States.

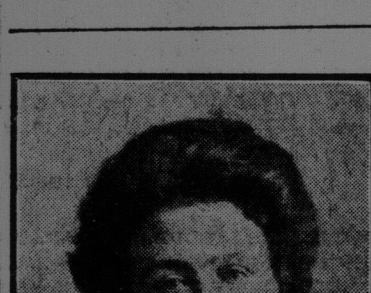

Nearly all of the candidates in the published list are actively at work, as has been shown by the standing of the votes each day. It certainly has been an interesting race from the first. The manner in which candidates have changed position daily has been interesting to watch.

It is very evident that the various candidates are managing their campaign with decided skill. Some of them feel that it is best to keep in the very forefront all the time, and as a result they are prompt in sending in large numbers of votes. Others have faith in a waiting game and are just as anxious to keep up fairly close among the leaders, but do not try to get into a leading position. They plan undoubtedly to have a large reserve for the closing hours.

No indication can be secured from the state of the vote as published today of the actual standing of the candidates. No one knows how many ballots are being held back. The friends of no candidate need be disappointed if their favorite name is not among the leaders. At the very end, the one who is last in the line right now, may have sufficient strength to place them among the actual winners. Or it may be that leaders are also holding back a lot of votes.

The great interest in the race is its uncertainty. There are no favorites to any. There is not a person in the race that is not popular and who has not a large number of friends.

Many of the candidates are receiving help from unexpected quarters. Subscriptions come to this office from strangers who instruct their ballots to be given to some particular candidate whose name has appealed to them. In every instance these instructions are carried out to the letter.

MISS MARTINA DOUCETT, Bathurst, N. B.

The onlookers who are here where the fight is growing so exciting, see many interesting features daily. It would be impossible not to be thoroughly interested in the contest, where there is so much real hearty enthusiasm displayed. All the candidates are heartily in earnest and are doing their best to win. If you happen to be one of those who are not making every effort to win one of these splendid prizes, you had better make the most of the next few hours. You haven't any idea how much a little conscientious concentration expressed in action will accomplish.

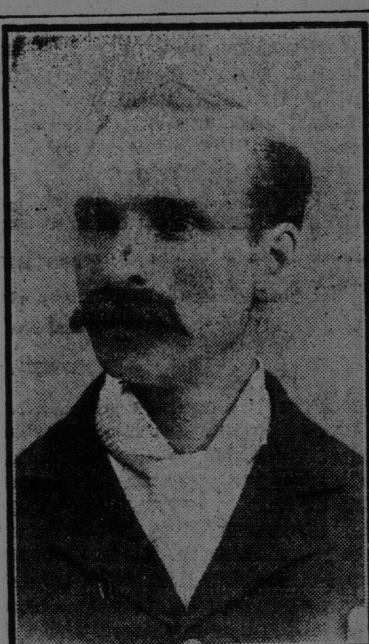

MISS KATHLEEN RUSSELL, Lower Derby, N. B.

again to remind you that most of your fears are merely phantoms. If you stayed in the contest department for a few days you would speedily learn just what the real value of rumor is. Every day we hear of some contestant who is absolutely certain to win the Russell touring car, and every day it is a different person. Sometimes all the anxiety is centred upon one who stands high in the published list. Sometimes it is the famous "dark horse" by whom they are sure they will be trampled. We sit quietly and listen, but in fact we know nothing, except that the outcome is entirely doubtful and that the prizes are going to the candidates who secure the highest number of votes. So meet on Tuesday morning and will complete the canvass of the votes as early as possible so that the final result can be announced in Wednesday's paper. The bonus offer continues up to the closing hours. This our last advice to you: Get busy and see to it that your name is among the winners.

Unless It's a Good Store It Will Not Pay to Advertise It!

Unless you know a person—unless that person comes into your life in some way—you are not greatly concerned about whether he is good or bad, desirable or objectionable.

It's so with a store. The people who never visit it care nothing about it in one way or the other. It doesn't exist—for them. But when they are persuaded to patronize it—when they come to turn the spot-light of their attention on it—when it comes to have a part in their lives, as some stores must have in all lives—then it's different; then it DOES matter whether it strives to win confidence; it does matter whether or not its price concessions are genuine, dependable.

If it meets all tests that a good store must stand when it is advertised—when it thus invites the critical attention of people—then advertising "makes" the store. If it fails in most of the vital things—if it proves, under the light of publicity, not to be much of a store, THEN ADVERTISING WILL NOT PAY—for it will emphasize shortcomings as well as merits.

For these same reasons it is generally assumed that the store which does not advertise in seeking to avoid close inspection and comparison—and that the store which does is courting them.

ARTLETT MINES WILL WORK NIGHT AND DAY
Cov Ganda's First Electric Light Plant
Will be Installed in a Few Days—
Work Begins in Another Vein.

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—The first electric light plant at Gow Ganda will be ready in a few days on the Bartlett Mine, Gow Ganda, thus enabling it to operate its staff of seventy men in two shifts, night and day.
The work of a large gang of men on surface stripping has borne good results, and two other good veins carrying silver values have been uncovered within 100 feet of No. 1 shaft, and will probably be taken in at the 100-foot level through the cross-cutting operations which will just commence.
An interesting feature of the Bartlett development is the starting of the work on the big Calotte vein on the north group of properties. This vein is said to be from 8 to 24 inches in width, and carries the strongest silver-bearing indications. If silver values should be found in this vein, even in low grade assays, the body of ore would be so extensive as to make it a great concentrating possibility. This vein has always been only secondary in interest to the silver veins which are now being worked. The company state frankly that, while their work on the silver veins, they have been impelled to do sufficient work on the big Calotte vein to ascertain its possibilities.

ESTIMATES WHEAT CROP 115,000,000
Quality is the Best Canada Has Had in Many Years, Says F. W. Thompson.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—The greater part of the crop in Manitoba is already out, and harvesting well advanced in the other provinces. Threshing is under way at many points, and it will be possible in a few days to make a more fairly accurate average yield.
This statement was made in an interview by Mr. F. W. Thompson, vice-president and managing director of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd.

BEST QUALITY IN YEARS.
"We find as a result of the tests made in our laboratory and baking done in the other provinces, that the quality is the best we have had in many years, both as respects strength and color, and it is just such crops as the present that have made Canada famous in the world over in the past for the quality of her hard Fyfe wheat."
ESTIMATE BIG YIELD.
"While our official estimates of the crop have not yet been completed, we believe from the reports so far received that the total yield will approximate 115,000,000 bushels."

FINANCIAL BRIEFS.
These cyclonic markets must be great for the bucket shops.
The bucket shop industry is not as healthy as it used to be, and only a corporal's guard of the old army of gamblers have survived the drastic legislation introduced to stamp them out, but the survivors must be everlastingly flaying any of their clients who trade in the Harriman stocks.
A good common-sense observation has just been made by Judge Gary, chairman of United States Steel.

"The GENDRON is a beauty, and it's the car for me. There are lots of good plain reasons why you should buy a GENDRON for baby."
"This carriage car is made in Canada. Every inch of material embodied in the GENDRON is the best that money can buy."
"See that triple curved spring? That feature is exclusive to the GENDRON. It's made of selected and treated steel—the triple curved spring gives the carriage car a veritable feather bed for baby. There are other reasons why you should invest in a GENDRON carriage. Style and service are guaranteed. Then—carriage cars are so easy for us baby drivers to operate."

WOMAN CLAIMS CHILD, CHILD DENIES CLAIM
Former Says She Is Her Daughter—Latter Says She Is Not
The Young One Does Not Understand Her Alleged Mother's Language—Puzzle for the Paris Police.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—A strange lost child perplexing the Paris police—An Armenian mother is claiming the girl as her daughter, but the latter disclaims her mother. The girl is only 6 years old, but talks with astonishing volubility. She happened one day to the police station, and she could not speak any apparently known language, but she understood the police officers and that one of the police officers understood her. She then said that she had been taken away from her grandfather's home in Syria, by a strange woman, who had taken her to America, and who had, in fact, brought her as far as Paris. The little girl said that she had taken the first opportunity to run away from the woman. The police were astonished at the fluency with which the girl talked, and were about to send her temporarily to a home when the strange woman of whom she had spoken turned up, and said that the child was her daughter. "I am not your daughter," replied the little one, "I know my mother. She is very different from this person." The police were seriously embarrassed. They put off the inquiry for the day to obtain a second interpreter, for the mother, or alleged mother, herself speaks a strange mixture of English and French.

THE WOMAN'S STORY.
As soon as the two were again confronted with each other, the precocious child threw up hands and looked at the young woman in horror. "She is not my mother," she exclaimed. "The woman then told her that she had been taken to New York when very young. She married an Italian, but he died, and she was left with a child. Her husband died the day that the child was born. She kept the baby for one year, then sent her to be taken care of by the child's grandfather in Syria. Having heard that the grandfather was dead, she went to Syria to fetch the child. On the way the child took the child's name, and she said she was the child's mother. She said that the woman was not her mother. Until three weeks ago she had never seen the woman. It is not true that her grandfather is dead. I know her real mother very well, for she left Syria only a year ago and got married again in a town not far from Jerusalem."

CLOTHES AND THE MAN
Man is in some sort a slave to his clothes and there are many men who dislike wearing the same clothes on two consecutive days, more particularly the necktie. For the two or three things you look at when you meet a man are his eyes and his necktie. And there is a sort of underlying consciousness as you face the morning world that your tie must be straight and clean and new. But to this end you must buy the cheap tie and throw it away with your sins before going to bed—London Chronicle.

A CURIOSITY.
"What in the world have you got that bill framed up there for?" we asked.

"Yep."
"Add why?"

ICELANDERS WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS
New Sanitarium for Patients Now Being Constructed on the Island.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Tourists in Iceland during the present season might pay a profitable visit to the new sanitarium for consumptive patients which is now in course of construction and is to be opened next year.
As medical statistics showed that this dread disease was on the increase in the island, the Icelandic Odd Fellows took the initiative in the matter by forming a Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis in the autumn of 1906, and met with immediate success. By a general contribution all over the country a sum of 20,000 or 40,000 kroner (about 13 kroner equal an English pound) has been raised. The Icelandic treasury sanctioned 100,000 kroner toward the erection of a house, and the Althing (Parliament) has granted 15,000 kroner toward the cost of maintenance.

Stray logs along the river between Fredrickton and St. John are now being picked up by the city. This is what is known as the clean-up drive and is for the purpose of recovering the logs which have drifted from the rafts on the way down and become lodged on the banks. This practically ends the logging season on the river.

The semi-annual theological conference of the priests of St. John city and the surrounding counties will be held on next Wednesday, at the rectory of St. John the Baptist Church. The date of this conference has been changed, for reasons, from the first Wednesday in October to the first Wednesday in September. The sub-committee of the harbor board appointed to consider the application of the provincial government for the use of the apple warehouse on the Pettibill wharves, a storage place for potatoes, met yesterday afternoon and made a brief inspection of the warehouse. It was found to be in good condition. The committee will report to the board at its meeting on Tuesday next that the warehouse should be rented to the government for the time required from September 1 to April 1, at a moderate rental. The sum to be charged will be fixed by the board.

Gertrude Coveney, the ten year old offender, who was brought before the court yesterday, was sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd this morning. The little girl while wandering the streets entered the house of George Whitechurch and stole a purse containing six dollars. She also stole a pair of shoes but did not know whose house she had entered.

Some of the money was spent in going to the Nickel, but the balance could not be found and the police think she must have lost it. No time was stated by the magistrate as to the length of her detention at the home, but her parents are expected to call at the Waterloo street institution and arrange for her future disposition.

Walter Patrick, charged with stealing from Arnold's Departmental Store, was remanded until Monday. Further evidence of his guilt having come to the notice of the police.

Frank Walsh, Allan Howard and Thomas Green, three Carleton youths, charged with removing enamel letters from the window of Israel B. Smith's shop, were given a private warning. The evidence by the boys was very contradictory and implicated a fourth party. The case was postponed until next Saturday morning when more particulars will be learned.

Revival of Interest in the Monument for Partridge Island

The unveiling of the monument at Isle Des Croix to the Irish immigrants has revived interest in the scheme to erect a suitable tomb-stone on Partridge Island. There were several hundreds of immigrants stricken with the fever during 1847, who died on Partridge Island.

The local Irishmen have been discussing the erection of a monument for some time. Plans have been prepared and approved. However, there is a feeling that the Irishmen from other parts of the provinces should assist in defraying the expenses. The matter will probably be thoroughly discussed at the convention of the order in Sydney in 1910. The National Board may also be induced to make a substantial grant to assist in placing a tomb-stone to distinguish the graves of the deceased immigrants.

PERSONAL Mrs. Frank Ross, formerly of St. John, but now of Wheeling, W. Va., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Morrison, West Side.

Misses Lena and Lillian Mills, accompanied by Miss Bessie McNeil, will leave this evening on the Calvin Austin for the States, where they will in future reside.

Miss Hattie Anthony has been visiting Rev. S. W. Anthony, leaves on the Calvin Austin this evening for Stamford, Conn.

Y.M.C.A. COMMITTEES ARE PLANNING BUSY SEASON

Educational Work Along Novel Lines Will be a Prominent Feature—Boys' Work Secretary Arrives Next Week.

With the approach of the fall of the year preparations are being made by the Y. M. C. A. for a more active and more successful season than the local institution has ever before experienced.

The chairman of the various committees who were appointed at the time of the annual meeting have selected their committees and are now beginning to plan the winter campaign.

The religious committee under the direction of W. C. Cross will have the usual men's meetings and Bible classes, and some new features will be added.

The physical department has always been one of the most popular and this year ample provision will be made for those looking for sports or exercises. Some entirely new features are being planned by the educational department.

The committee of Miss G. A. Henderson is the chairman, is arranging an elaborate program of educational classes and clubs. Some of the best instructors in the city are being secured to give their assistance, and this promises to be an exceptionally enjoyable feature of the work of the association this week.

Social features will not be neglected, and a large committee with Fred T. Barbour as chairman, will help to make the evenings enjoyable for the members.

With a secretary to give his whole time to the work, the boys' work committee expects to do more than ever before. The new boys' department secretary, Wm. H. Moore, of Toronto, will arrive next Wednesday and will immediately take hold of that part of the association work.

Present prospects point to an increased membership and to a more enjoyable season than the Y. M. C. A. has ever before experienced.

As the summer draws to a close the members are beginning to return to the city in larger numbers, and some of those who have been absent during the summer, are rapidly filling up again.

ARNOLD'S GOODS COMING FROM ALL DIRECTIONS

Valuable Packages of Stuff Taken by Patrick Were Today Received From Toronto and Annapolis.

The police continue to receive articles proving the guilt of Walter Patrick, charged with stealing from Arnold's department store. This morning Detective Killen received by express a package from Toronto and another from Annapolis, N. S.

In the parcel from J. S. Holman, Broadview Ave., Toronto, were several articles, including a man's suit, a pair of plated mug and a large silver doll with a card "For Lillie from W. Patrick."

Douglas Ware of Annapolis sent a small box containing a souvenir of fancy china. While the police officials refuse to state the particulars regarding these latest recoveries, it is learned on good authority that Patrick gave them as presents to both parties who were in the city at the time.
