CARRIES LOAD OF 600,000 BRICKS FOR THE SMELTER AT ANYOX BAY

This is the Largest Shipment Ever Made From a Sidney Industry at One Time, and it is Expected the order will be Duplicated Some Time in the Near Future

For the past two or three weeks many residents of the town have wondered what the big three-masted ship was doing lying off the coast about a mile and a half, just opposite the wharf of the Sidney Island Brick and Tile Company on Sidney Island. Finally it was learned from the manager of this progressive industry that his company had chartered the big wind-jammer, John C. Potter, to carry a very large shipment of their product up the coast almost to the northern boundary of the province. The shipment is certainly a very large one, in fact, is the largest ever sent out by any industry in and around Sidney, and consists of six hundred thousand bricks, entirely the product of the Sidney Island Brick and Tile Company, and consigned to the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting, and Power Company, of Anyox, British Columbia.

The mining town of Anyox is situated on a beautiful little bay just six miles south of the northern boundary of British Columbia, and is the centre of a very large area of rich minerals. To cope with the rapidly increasing business the Mining and Smelting Company have found it necessary to erect a very large smelter in close proximity to the town, and for this purpose some time ago placed an order with the local brick firm for 600,000 bricks. This order, although very large, will not be sufficient for the purpose required, and it is very likely that on her return the John C. Potter will again be chartered for the purpose of conveying a duplicate of the above order to the same destination.

There are a great many people already located at this progressive little mining town, and the number of men alone on the company's payroll would make a little city by themselves, as it is expected there will be upwards of six thousand men drawing pay envelopes before the first of November.

The ship that will carry this immense load to its northern destination is the John C. Potter, a large three-masted wind-jammer owned by a Victoria firm, and was chosen for this particular job on account of her extra large storing capacity, there being no boilers or other machinery in her hold except the necessary donkey engine used on this class of freighters for loading and unloading purposes. When the loading operations are completed and everything in readiness the tug Amur will throw her towing line aboard and proceed on her long journey north.

The master of the good ship John C. Potter is Captain H. Augustine, who was appointed to this position a little over a month ago, after making a most enviable record for himself as mate on board other large ships plying up and down the coast. He held an officer's commission on board the C. P. R. boats for five years and also served a year on one of the Grand Trunk steamers. While in the latter position and during the brief period his boat was tied up at Vancouver, on the 28th of August, 1912, he was an eyewitness to the attempted suicide of a young lady of that city. The young woman walked out the wharf and deliberately jumped into deep water. Without a moment's hesitation the captain doffed his coat and hat and sprang to the rescue. A few strong strokes and he reached the unhappy woman and after a brief struggle succeeded in bringing her ashore. For this manly deed he has been commended by the Vancouver officials for the medal for bravery.

Captain Augustine is proud of his new command, and what is more, he is proud of his fine crew of seven men and told a Review representative that there was not their equal on board any ship on the Pacific coast. One of the reasons for his pride in his ship is the fact that the John C. Potter holds the record for fast sailing vessels between Cape Flattery and San Francisco, having made this sea voyage in exactly forty-eight hours some two or three years ago. Of course the captain admits that the wind was very favorable and just a trifle strong, but nevertheless it is a record for the master of any ship to be proud of.

Another ship that Captain Augustine speaks highly of, and on board of which he has served as mate for a little over one year, is the famous "Sea Wolf," the boat that figured so largely in Jack London's sensational story of the north seas. Unfortunately for him he was not on board at the time, but received his commission on the next trip she made after her return with the famous story writer.

During the three weeks that the genial captain spent in Sidney while waiting for his cargo to be loaded he made many friends who wish him every success in his new command, and will be glad to welcome him and his crew back at any time.

The John C. Potter, in tow of the tug Amur, started on the journey north on Tuesday afternoon at 4.30.

SIDNEY FOOTBALL TEAM MEET DEFEAT AT GANGES

The Teams Score One Goal Each in the First Half and Ganges Scores Winning Goal Just Before Time

The Sidney football team journeyed to Ganges Harbor on Wednesday, Sept. 17, to play the Ganges team for a handsome challenge cup, donated by the Agricultural Society for competition at their annual fair. The game, which was a very evenly contested one, ended in favor of Ganges by a score of two to one.

Line up: Sidney—Goal, E. Munro; backs, King and Apps; halves, Norris, Sewell and Robertson; forwards, Mould, Westley, Doig (capt), Pridham and Norton. Ganges—Goal, G. Monatt; backs, Dean and Norton; halves, E. Springfield, Emerson and Lang; forwards, Cartwright, Milne, Stanford, Robinson and C. Springfield. Referee, Meed.

The following were elected to handle football matters at a meeting held on the athletic grounds the other day: Captain, David Doig; vice-captain, Bob. Mould; manager, P. N. Tester. On selection committee, F. W. Bowcott and Alfred Duffus.

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR BIG AGRICULTURAL SHOW

Will Be Held in Saanichton on October Third and Fourth—A Large List of Entries is Expected.

The North and South Saanich Agricultural Society are doing all in their power to make a record show, but arrangements have been somewhat delayed owing to negotiations for horse racing not being complete. The result will be published at the earliest possible moment. The executive would like to remind the people of Sidney and North Saanich that they have as much to do with the Show as those of South Saanich, in fact the Show is that of the whole Saanich Peninsula, and it is hoped that every resident of the peninsula will use his or her influence to make a success of this year's show. It is hoped that the Ladies' Guild of the English church at Sidney will reap the reward they will amply deserve in their arduous undertaking of the refreshment department. The beautiful new hall, of course in Saanichton, and is in a most central position, being served by two lines of railway. It is pleasing to record that ever since the show was instituted there has never been the least jealousy between the districts but each has largely supported it and the result has been gratifying, and the new hall is one that all may be proud of.

Saanichton News

On Sunday last the Rev. Mr. Archbold was inducted by the Venerable Archdeacon Scriven. Before the service, those who had taken their seats were requested to retire outside the church. The church being emptied, the doors were locked, and the churchwardens handed the keys to the Venerable Archdeacon, who handed them to the Rev. Archbold, remarking at the same time that the reverend gentleman had now possession of the church as if it was his own house, and that henceforth he had control of it, as no clergyman could hold service there without his permission. The Venerable Archdeacon preached an appropriate sermon.

In the event of a flower show being held in August, 1914, Sidney might be the better locality, and if it is chosen the whole population of the peninsula will no doubt be as loyal as they have been to the agricultural show. Cowichan and other districts are ahead of Saanich in their flower shows, which have proved a great success. It is hoped that the Sidney Board of Trade may be induced to take up the matter, which should be got into shape as soon as possible in order that it may be well advertised.

Children's Fete.

The St. Andrew's Junior Branch of the Women's Auxiliary to Missions is giving a garden party in Mr. Des Barres grounds to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. There will be a number of competitions with prizes and plenty of fun. Tea will be served at 15 cents each. Ice cream, home-made candy. Lots of room for grown-ups. Come and have tea. The proceeds are to go to a Mission School in Kauria, India.

GANGES AGRICULTURAL SHOW ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

The Entries in Every Class Were Numerous, the Horses, Cattle and Poultry Being Particularly Well Represented
Football Match a Feature of the Afternoon

The 18th Annual Exhibition of the Ganges Agricultural Society took place on Wednesday, September 17th, at Ganges Harbor. From start to finish the show was an unprecedented success, and was patronized by farmers from all parts of the island, from the neighboring islands, and from Victoria, the gate showing a record entry. The various divisions comprising both live stock and agricultural products have never been surpassed, either numerically or from the point of view of general excellence.

A well advertised excursion from Victoria yielded splendid results and although rain fell during the earlier part of the afternoon's entertainment, it cleared off, and the various sporting competitions were carried through to the accompaniment of the 24th Regiment band. The Hon. A. E. McPhillips was a passenger on board the Joan and on her arrival he was escorted to the grounds and in a brief speech declared the exhibition opened.

The president, Mr. G. T. Collins, in introducing Mr. McPhillips, wished him to convey to Mr. Price Ellison the thanks of all those present for the good work he had done and was doing for Salt Spring Island.

PRIZE LIST—HORSES.

The entries in this division far exceeded former years, a new feature of the show being the pony classes, which were well filled.

Pony, ridden—T. Lang. Saddle horse, ridden—A. G. Smith. Buggy horse, driven—A. G. Smith. Colt, 1 year and under 2—Wm. Mowat. Foal of 1913—Treherne Thomas. Best groomed and smartest turnout—Miss G. Colt, over 2 and under 3 years—W. H. Lee. Best colt by Hunter Blair—W. H. Bullock.

CATTLE

allowed the cattle stalls were filled to overflowing, and as the island has already made a name for itself in this line, the entries were most encouraging.

Jersey bull—H. W. Bullock. Cow—A. E. Smith. Heifer, dry—Price Bros. Heifer in milk—H. W. Bullock. Best dairy cow—A. G. Crofton. Best grade heifer, dry—E. Carton. Best grade heifer, 2 years old, in milk—Rev. A. Bastion. Grade heifer, 1 year—G. C. Lang. Grade calf—N. W. Wilson. Best herd of three cows—A. G. Smith.

SHEEP AND SWINE

The entries in sheep and hogs were very small and not up to former years, but one or two good exhibits were shown, notably that of Mr. Lang's Dorset sheep. A $20 special prize was awarded to Mr. H. W. Bullock for the exhibition of the most stock bearing evidence of continuous kind treatment.

POULTRY

Poultry were this year for the second, time exhibited in the fine shed adjoining the hall.

The following were the most successful competitors: White Leghorn cock—V. C. B. Morris, N. W. Wilson. Cockerel—W. Sharpe, T. McMurds. Pullet—W. Sharpe H. Caldwell.

Brown Leghorn cock, cockerel, hen and pullet—Mason and Sons. Buff Orpington cock and hen—T. McMurdo, 1st and 2nd. Cockerel—T. Mansel, T. McMurdo. Pullet—T. McMurdo, 1st and 2nd.

FACTS THAT APPEAR VIVIDLY TO AT LEAST ONE WOMAN

Old Mother Hubbard
Went to the cupboard
To get her poor dog a bone.
But it cost so much pelf
That she ate it herself
And so the poor dog had none!

The above paraphrase of a favorite nursery rhyme demonstrates the fact that all is grist that comes to the funny man's mill. We must have our joke even on an empty stomach. Perhaps this is just as well, though it sometimes seems to thinking people that we are a bit too light-hearted over hard times and the causes of them. If we looked a little deeper, perhaps, we might be able to lend our influence to the betterment of affairs so that our nation might adopt a more sober pace, a less jaunty air and a return to quieter, saner ways, instead of being recklessly ready to "quaff the gay draft round the red fires of ruin." With vainglorious swagger we have gone on proclaiming to the other nations that ours is a land of milk and honey, until the question of meat—plain meat—stares us in the face and there is imminent probability of our having a class, like the peasant class of Russia, which cannot afford to eat meat.

While much of the dreadful cost of living may be properly traced to woman's extravagance and to her taste for idleness the thing that puzzles me most is the fact that people go ahead in exactly the same way despite the general alarm over high prices. Women get just as many new dresses and have just as much company, churches rebuild and redecorate, "causes" that call for donations flourish, the cheerful requests, "Do you want to buy a ticket?" or "How much will you give?" come quite as often to our door, and some way we meet them all, and each day's dawning finds us alive and kicking, though most of our "kicking" is about the indecent cost of living.

Nearly everybody knows that most of the poor man's money goes down the "red lane." I have known women who worked like dogs themselves and kept their husbands' noses to the grindstone simply because of poor ways of cooking. Such women use three eggs where they should use one, or even none. They heap the spoonful of baking powder, and put in two cupfuls of sugar where a cupful and a half would be plenty. They pile lard in the frying-pan and work it into the pie crust regardless of the fact that they are both injuring the food and ruining their pocketbooks. They never have any sour milk handy—they can't spare cream—and they are stingy of butter exactly when they shouldn't be. My idea about economy in the kitchen (though presented humbly and with a consciousness of possible mistake, for some of the women I have known to talk most learnedly on household economy have been deplorably mistaken) is that in cooking quality always takes the place of quantity. I believe we eat more poorly cooked food because of an unsatisfied craving (we do it mechanically), not really wanting the food, but putting it away, as it were, for future use, fearing that if we do not eat it we may get hungry. It would be very well for us all if we did get hungry in the right way oftener, and then it would be a good thing if we could have, when real hunger seizes us, the right sort of things to eat.

Personally I am very fond of plain, rather rough food, just as I like rugged facts—big, rough, unvarnished truth; just as I like crude, open country; just as I like big, unaffected, simple people. It is no hardship for me to come down to boiled cabbage and corn dodger. Give me a dash of vinegar and a taste of cayenne with my cabbage, with just a bit of bacon (extravagant taste!), or of beef with some fat on it, and a potato or two steamed on the top of the pot, and you may have all the dainty dishes you like. In the winter we always buy a quarter of beef from a farmer, which is easy to do because our village home is in the midst of a farming community. I put it away after a recipe which I have, which was handed down from my foremothers—and maybe you think it isn't a joy to go and fish out a steak or a boiling piece when other people are wringing their hands over the high prices. This and the simple getting of a fat fowl now and then from my own henroost, together with bringing in grand eggs, varying in number from eight to fifteen a day, have kept us rich during many a hard, trying winter.

The things that really count for most in studying how to keep the home cuisine up to a standard of excellence are things made in the kitchen by the careful hands of the cook. For instance, take various breads. Nothing is more monotonous than a steady diet, day after day, of the same kind of bread, even though it be good. A simple meal may be redeemed and a touch of luxury added by a plate of hot biscuits or muffins or a pan of fine cornbread. Woman's distaste for the kitchen is a cause of much waste and extravagance. Many a wife who is "dressed up" and feels that she cannot go into the kitchen goes to the telephone and orders something extravagant to help out a meal, when just by adding the cleverness of her own hands she might give greater satisfaction and work a decided economy.—Ladies' Home Journal.

TEA TABLE TALK

By Aunt Sally, in the News.

"God and I, we made that garden," said Mrs. Smithson, when showing a visitor through the grounds. The visitor was shocked at the irreverence of her hostess. "Really, my dear," she remarked, "is not that, to say the least, a very novel way of expressing yourself. I hardly like to talk of the Divinity in that light way. It seems sacrilegious."

"But," replied the hostess, "it is true. I cultivated the soil, fertilized and irrigated, and kept the land free from weeds. Also, I planted the seed. I made the conditions right and some higher power than mine did the rest. We work together, and I feel sure the enjoyment is mutual. I believe that God loves and enjoys my garden, and for that reason I expended on it my very best efforts, and he certainly seems to encourage me, for my pansies are finer, my roses redder, and all my flowers mere excellent than those grown by my neighbors. The mutuality of our work makes for a high standard of quality. There is nothing like team work in any useful effort, and God and I make a great team when it comes to gardening."

"But, Auntie," remonstrated her little niece, after the visitor had gone, "you shocked Mrs. Clements so much that she did not care to stay. I am sure she thought you very wicked."

"What do you think, little one?" "Oh, I think you and your garden both perfectly lovely, and I'm sure what you told her was true."

The above incident needs no elaboration. It is worth thinking about.

Mr. A. Raynes, of South Salt Spring Island, the Dominion government pile driving expert, and his gang of men are now busily engaged in building the new wharf at Robert's Bay. When completed this wharf will fill a long felt want to owners of launches and small boats in and around Sidney. In the past these small craft had no convenient place to land or take on passengers, except at the wharf at Beacon avenue, and this was not a very convenient place.

Robert's Bay is the only sheltered place for small craft anywhere near the town and this means of getting in and out to them will be greatly appreciated. The wharf is 974 feet long and extends out over the shallow water and sand bar to deep water. It is constructed of two rows of piles six feet apart. A trip over the Victoria and Sidney railroad is now a pleasure, provided you make it in their new gasoline-electric car. The three trips made each day by this car to the city and back again are a great convenience to the residents of this district, and its clean, tidy, well-lighted and well ventilated interior is a source of great pride not only to Conductor Shade and his crew, but to the public as well. The old days of the steam engine, with its cloud of dust and smoke pervading every corner of the passenger coaches is gone, we hope for ever.

This new mode of locomotion is practically in its infancy, as there are not by any means a large number of them in existence. This particular car was built by the General Electric Co., at their Schenectady, N. Y., shops, and is equipped with an eight cylinder, four cycle engine developing 175 horse power, and is capable of a sustained speed of 35 miles per hour. It is one of sixty similar cars manufactured by the above named company, the others being distributed throughout the western portion of the United States, but mostly in Minnesota, and in Texas and Oklahoma, where numbers of them are in service. There is but one other in Canada and it is operated by the Canadian Northern in eastern Ontario.

ly boarded. On this float a shed 10 by 12 will be built for the convenience of those using the wharf.

Cedar piles are being used as far as the sand bar goes and from there to the end fir piles will be, used including the raft.

Mr. Raynes is an old hand at the job of pile-driving, having been employed twenty-one years by the Provincial government at this one class of work along the coast of British Columbia, and has erected practically all the wharves now in existence on the islands and along the mainland. Two years ago he began work for the Dominion government and since that time has built four or five wharves, including the ones at Deep Bay and Retreat Cove. As soon as his present job is completed he will move his pile driver around to the Sidney wharf and place the eighteen creosote piles in position under that structure. These piles were brought over from New Westminster recently. They are fifty feet in length and cost laid down here in the neighborhood of forty-five cents per foot.

Now that the shooting season is in full swing the columns of the newspapers, will, no doubt, be filled with the usual number of accidents. "Didn't know it was loaded," "Thought he was a deer," and many more of the stereotyped phrases will find their way into print again as the excuse for doing some foolish thing that may cost a man his life or the loss of a limb. We sincerely hope that we may not be called upon to print any of these sad stories, and we honestly believe that if the man behind the gun would only use a little common sense, we would not have to do so nine times out of ten. "Accidents will happen," they say, but a great many of the accidents that happen during the hunting season, are simply gross carelessness, and could be avoided if a little more care was taken, and as a result there would be less men killed outright and a few less men left to finish their life in a crippled condition. We sincerely hope that anyone carrying firearms will use a little more care than is usual this year, in the manner in which they carry them and be doubly certain of the objects at which they aim.

The chemical works at present located in Victoria are said to be on the lookout for a new site somewhere in the vicinity of Sidney. We would be pleased to welcome this new industry, provided they do not locate too close to our growing town. We would make the suggestion that they follow the example of The Canadian Explosives, Ltd., and purchase one of the many small islands lying to the east and north of us for a permanent location.

Everybody has a vote in Calgary provided he or she is able to read from the second reader. The charter amendment which has just passed was supported by practically every organization of women in the city. The commercial capital of Alberta is "going some."

Wanted—A Minister of Health.

We build our warships and armaments with exquisite care. A cannon that has a flaw in it cannot exist after examination. The steel is perfection, and every equipment is in a sound and healthy condition. But what is a warship, no matter how sound and in "healthy" condition, if the sailors who have to man her are semi-invalids? What a farce it seems that we have a Minister of War and no Minister of Health. The enemy is within the camp, and the only minister of war to prevent the whole white race from falling under the power of the yellow races, is the medical profession. Prosperity, luxury, pleasures of all kinds in excess, are steadily undermining the white races. And yet in this twentieth century we have no real minister of war to prepare us for the onslaught of the yellow men. No Minister of Health. "The harvest is ripe," says a writer, and the Goths and Huns of the twentieth century are watching; waiting their time.

Geese once saved Rome. We want a few of these geese, but we are wise to listen to them. Would we were as foolish as the Romans of the earlier days.

First Things

The first serious railway accident in history occurred 83 years ago, when William Huskisson, M.P., was killed at the opening of the Liverpool and Manchester railway in England. The first great railway accident in which many lives were lost occurred on a French line at Versailles in 1842. The carriages, with the people locked in them, were burned, and 53 people, including Admiral D'Urville, were victims of this gross carelessness. One of the most terrible of early railway disasters in America was at Burlington, Pa., in 1856, when over a hundred were killed in a collision. Canada's first great disaster occurred in 1864, when a train ran off a bridge at St. Hilaire, and 83 were killed and 200 injured. The railroads of the United States lead the world in railway fatalities. During 1911 only 14 passengers were killed on British railways as compared with 318 in the United States.

SUPERIOR SCHOOL GIRLS WILL HOLD SALE OF CAKE

Aprons Will Also Be Sold, and an Evening's Entertainment will be Provided of a Very Unique Character

The young ladies attending the Superior school, with the help of their girl friends around town, recently formed a basket ball club, and for the purpose of securing funds have decided to hold a rather unique sale of cake, and aprons. This particular kind of sale is very popular in the old country but this is the first time it has ever been attempted in Sidney. The evening will not be entirely devoted to the sale as it is the intention of the young ladies to introduce several forms of amusements.

Miss Logan, teacher of the Superior school, is busily engaged these evenings teaching a class to drill and march. Miss Simister is also busy teaching a number of girls to dance the real old English dances. These, together with the musical and other numbers on the programme should provide an evening's entertainment that should be well worth anyone's while going to see.

The sale and entertainment will be held in Berquist's large hall on the evening of Friday, September 26, and an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for adults and 15 cents for children.

PLUCKING A DUCK.

Scalding Method Explained—How to Treat the Feathers.

Plunge the duck into boiling water just long enough to loosen the feathers, but not long enough to tear or cook the flesh. Holding the fowl in scalding water or pouring the water on them breaks the flesh, rendering them unfit for the home table or for market.

After the fowl is properly scalded, wrap in a flannel blanket. Allow it to remain there five minutes. This loosens the feathers more evenly and also absorbs the water that adheres to the feathers. Now begin at the breast and remove both large and pin feathers, clearing up as you go. Proceed thus until all are entirely removed. Then plunge duck into clean, clear boiling water for two seconds to plump it, and immediately put it into the cooler.

When scalding any fowl use boiling water, as hot water which does not boil tends to tighten instead of loosening the feathers. Finish plucking one duck before scalding another.

The live feathers of geese and ducks never lose their downiness by being scalded and the work can be accomplished much quicker by this process. Especially is this true when one has several dozen or several hundred live feathered birds to dress for market.

Dry in a few hours' time in a warm dry room or out in the open air in wire netting boxes after the scalding process has been employed. Always turn feathers frequently so they will dry evenly.—A. C. Osterhout.

NOAH'S BOAST.

Noah prided himself on his humanity.

"I'm the only person who ever shut up the house for the summer and didn't leave the cat behind," he boasted.—New York Sun.

The rector of a country parish in Texas, who was revising his sermon one Sunday morning, was waited upon in his study by his organist, who asked what he should play. "I don't know," said the rector, absentmindedly; "what kind of a hand have you got?"

The directors of the exhibition wish to extend their thanks to Mrs. F. S. Scott for the way in which she came forward and undertook the entire decoration of the hall.

Considerable improvements, to the extent of some $700 had been made, thus making the hall an up-to-date building.

A collection of agricultural products is being got together and will be exhibited at the coming Victoria Fair. In former years the Island's districts have done extremely well and great hopes are entertained for our success this time.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When you are boiling rice, do not throw away the water. Strain it into a bowl, and you will find it makes excellent starch. The starch may be used either hot or cold. Two or three drops of turpentine are an improvement.

When making kitchen aprons a good plan is to put an extra thickness of the same material across the front. When the outside wears thin the patch will be ready, and, if of colored material, faded to the same shade as the apron.

To remove smoke marks from ceilings mix a thick paste of starch and water, and with a clean flannel spread it over the mark. Allow to get dry thoroughly, then brush off with a soft brush and the marks will have disappeared.

If you get a cut that will not stop bleeding, there is nothing like cold water. Don't bandage the hand, but hold it above the head and pour the coldest water procurable over it. The worst case of bleeding will usually yield to this treatment.

To clean gilt picture-frames put a gill of vinegar into a pint of soft cold water. Remove all dust from the frames, dip a large camel's hair brush in the mixture, squeeze it partly dry, then brush the gilt, doing a small portion at a time.

A man arrested in England as an army deserter was found to have one arm tattooed with the story of his courtships and the names of his loves, whilst the other arm contained a record of his family bereavements, with "in memoriam" tablets and tombstones.

The Interurban System
An interurban system can only justify its existence when it tends to develop the hinterland. The "raison d'être" of the Saanich line is to settle the peninsula. Saanich contains a large area of agricultural land, which is not being cultivated. Victoria needs all the food that can be produced in its vicinity. Settlement and production of crops are dependent on cheap and easy transport. The Saanich Interurban line may pay well enough in the summer, because of the crowds of pleasure seekers which it will always carry. This traffic is confined to about three months. What about the other nine? Surely it would be good policy to encourage permanent settlers who will cultivate the soil, furnish Victoria with farm and garden produce, and travel constantly between the farms and the city. To do this, and so ensure an all the year round business, the B.C.E.R. must give lower rates, at any rate to "bona-fide" dwellers outside the city, who certainly cannot afford to pay the present excessive charge of three cents a mile. This is a matter of common justice to the settler; it would be matter of profit to the company.

YOUNG OLD MEN

Hard Workers Far Past the Three-Score and Ten

This is pre-eminently the age of "young old men." It has been said by a student of modern England, and it is certainly wonderful as we look around to note how much of the most energetic work in this country is being accomplished by those who have already exceeded the Biblical span.

Lord Strathcona, whose activity in business continues unabated, and whose appetite for hard mental exertion is as insatiable as of old, is 92. Lord Wemyss, though 94, still follows modern politics with all the zest of youth, and is a redoubtable antagonist with his pen.

Dr. Atkinson, the master of Clare College, Cambridge, is 98, and is fast approaching the record of Dr. Routh, the famous president of Magdalen college, Oxford, who lived into his 100th year. Earl Nelson, the Nestor of the House of Lords, is 89.

If there is any slackness in this country it is to be found in the rising generation, not in our old men. Earl Roberts puts our youth to shame by the splendid vigor and persistence of his services in the cause of national defence.

Lord Halsbury, for all his 86 years, is one of the strongest forces in his party; in his green old age his ardor for combat has rather deepened than decreased. Our greatest figure in literature is Thomas Hardy, who at 72 can yet produce poetry that will live.

The contrast with the 18th century is certainly extraordinary. Then, in the days of Pitt and Fox, men were counted old at 40 and sank to valetudinarianism at that age. Now they retain their health and strength and are young at 90. This does not suggest any loss of vigor in the race.—London Mail.

Scotch Caution.

It was a Scotchman from Dundee, en route for the west, who stood on the platform at North Bay during the hunting season. Seeing some large animals lying there, he approached a native with "What might you call that?"

"A moose," was the reply.
"A mouse! Ma conscience, if that's a mouse, what must their rats be like?" And he took the next train back for Montreal.

A FEW REASONS WHY

Your Name should appear on the Subscription List
: of your Local Paper :

The local newspaper always gets the support of public spirited men, not only by their names on the Subscription List but by using the advertising columns as well.

We are perfectly aware that there are in Sidney at the present time many people who purchase a copy of the "Review" from the boys on the street, or from the different places it is on sale and honestly believe they are helping us. We do not wish to offend anyone, but we would like to make it very plain, "You are not giving us the support we need," and we will tell you why: When an advertiser makes enquiries regarding space he invariably asks the question: "How many subscribers have you got on your list?" One name on our list is worth more to us than a dozen papers sold on the street, for the simple reason a Subscription List is one of the principal assets of a newspaper office and without it we cannot do business.

Another reason why you should subscribe just now, is the fact that the cold, rainy evenings will soon be here, and the boys that usually sell during the summer will not be able to do so during the winter, as they all attend school and do not get out until it is nearly dark.

RANCHES OF ARGENTINA.

Vast Tracts Recovered From Indians
Supporting Great Cattle Herds.

Washington, Aug. 13.—"It is almost impossible to conceive of the enormous growth of the stock industry of Argentina in the last quarter of a century," said Ernest Maffel, a large cattleman of Buenos Ayres, at the Shoreham. "I believe if the laws of the two countries are favorable Argentina can supply this country with a great quantity of beef, which would materially assist in reducing the cost of meats to the consumer."

"Less than forty years ago the great rich tracts of grass land in Argentina were practically unproductive. The Indians roamed the plains and general settlement on the land was dangerous and well-nigh impossible. The Indians, however, were subdued in 1878, and that date saw the inception of the estancias or ranches and the systematic reclamation of the land to pave the way for an industry the magnitude of which to-day is stupendous."

"The immensity of the cattle business can be estimated from the official returns recently published, which show that last year in the Argentine there were 30,000,000 cattle, 70,000,000 sheep and 7,000,000 horses. The cattle and horses are bred in the warmer parts of the country to the north, where alfalfa abounds, and the sheep in districts in the southern provinces."

"Some of the large ranches carry as many as 50,000 head of cattle and provide hunting grounds for many Englishmen. The 'gaucho' is one of the most picturesque as well as useful figures on these ranches, and forms the counterpart of his famous brother, the cowboy of North America. Life on a ranch is far from unpleasant, and on some of the big ranches under British control evening dress for dinner is the custom. The Argentine wool is of high grade, and a large part of it goes to supply the home markets."

LYNCHING STATISTICS.

Booker T. Washington has hit upon publicity as the most effective available weapon against lynching, and at regular intervals he publishes the statistics of this crime. Dr. Washington believes that lynching is on the wane. He finds that there were fewer lynchings last year than there were the year before. Nevertheless, in April, May and June of this year he publishes details of about three dozen mob murders, as the Louisville Courier-Journal calls them. All the victims were negroes, and most of the lynchings took place in either Georgia or Mississippi. It is significant that only one of the lynched negroes was accused of a crime against a white woman. The others were condemned, on what evidence is not stated, for assaults upon white men, resisting arrest, murder and other less serious offences. When lynching is defended it is on the ground that for a crime against a woman it is the only fit penalty, and that if it were not frequently enforced these crimes would increase at such a rate that the two races could not live side by side in the south. From Dr. Washington's statistics it would appear that if there were no lynchings except for this one offence there would not be more than one victim of lynch law where there are twenty to-day.

PRINCE JOHN IS TERROR.

Eight-Year-Old Son of King George
An Engaging Little Scapegrace.

London, Aug. 4.—Prince John, the youngest child of the King and Queen, is eight years old. He is one of the most interesting members of the royal family. The story of how he told his nurse to go to hell, and how, when the Queen ordered him to apologize, he said to the woman: "You needn't go," is by now well known, but other equally good stories are being told about the little prince.

Recently he was again in disgrace. He managed to get hold of Princess

Mary's paint-box, and enjoyed himself hugely in decorating his face with brilliant stripes of color. Thus ornamented, he reached the diningroom where the King and Queen were entertaining a distinguished party at luncheon. Prince John is afraid of no one but his mother. "I thought you meant to be good during Lent, John," Her Majesty said. "And so I did, mother, but you never told me when I promised, that Lent was going to be so long," was the reply.

On another occasion a young matron was having tea with the Queen. She was very anxious to renew her acquaintance with Prince John, and so the Queen sent for him. He was very pleasant and polite when he came, and, his salutations over, he amused himself as he pleased, while the Queen and her guest took no further notice of him.

Meanwhile the prince climbed upon an ottoman behind the guest, and was admiring a diamond ornament in the back of her hat. When the guest arose to leave a disconcerting sight met her gaze. On her chair were several golden curls, Prince John having employed his time in unfastening the hairpins that had held them.

ADDS NINETY MEN TO MOUNTED FORCE.

Just 61 Canucks Among 414 Who Entered Service in 16 Months.

Laurence Fortescue, comptroller of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, recently returned from England after a visit undertaken in part for recruiting purposes. He has engaged ninety men, the applications having numbered about 1,600.

The fact that it has proved necessary to visit England to obtain recruits is a fresh illustration of the difficulty of obtaining men in Canada for this species of service. During the sixteen months ending July 31 last, 414 men have joined the Mounted Police; of these, 397 engaged in Canada, 27 were secured by Inspector West in England in 1912, and 90 by Mr. Fortescue this summer. Of the 324 engaged prior to Mr. Fortescue's visit only 61 were natives of Canada; 234 were natives of the United Kingdom, several were born elsewhere in the empire, 13 were Americans by birth, and half a dozen were natives of Continental Europe.

Thus Canada furnished 61 recruits out of 414, or not quite 15 per cent.

Here is a whimsical reminder from the Oklahoma Banker that those who own costly autos will have to pay a pretty price for their tooting machines:

He owned a handsome touring car,
To ride in it was heaven.

He ran across a piece of glass—
Bill—$14.97.

He took his friends out for a ride,
'Twas good to be alive,

The carburetor sprang a leak,
Bill—$40.95.

He started on a little tour,
The finest sort of fun,

He stopped too quick and stripped his gear,
Bill—$90.51.

He took his wife downtown to shop,
To save carfare was great,

He jammed into a pitching post,
Bill—$278.

He spent his little pile of cash,
And then in anguish cried:

"I'll put a mortgage on the house,
And take just one more ride."

—For an after dinner smoke. The Morena cigar.

Mr. Bowser says he thinks the strike at the mines will be settled by putting in strike breakers. Perhaps it will, but the men tell a different tale.

How much is money worth? That is a question which is often debated. To some of us it would be worth a good deal just now, but the thing is to get it.

There are two sorts of useful work: to create the beautiful and to destroy the evil. The former is by far the more meritorious but the latter is often necessary.

Dr. Keming, of Victoria, and a party of friends, were among the many visitors to Sidney on Sunday. The genial doctor was very favorably impressed with Sidney.

The regular weekly choir practice will be held at the Methodist parsonage on Wednesday evening at 7.45. All who desire to join this choir are requested to be present.

The first deer of the season were brought into town on Monday evening by Messrs. Wilfrid Harrison and A. E. Simpson. They spent the day on Mount Newton and were fortunate in securing one specimen each.

To fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Calvert, who has removed to Victoria, the members of Sidney Lodge I.O.G.T., at the meeting held on Monday evening, elected Miss R. A. Simister to the office of Chief Templar for the balance of the present term.

Sir Gilbert Parker intimated at the Canadian Club luncheon that the best society would not use such expressions as "It clean knocked me off my feet." Polite society misses a good deal, especially in manner of expression. Sir Gilbert acknowledged that by using the figurative expression commonly known as slang.

Mr. George Anstey, a recent arrival in Sidney, from Coventry, England, has accepted the position of instructor of manual training at the Central school, Victoria, and took up his duties there on Monday last. Mr. Anstey has had many years' experience in this class of work in different cities in England and is well qualified for the position he now holds.

On Saturday evening, September 13th the marriage of Mr. Charles Tressilian Leachman and Miss Lasson Anderson took place at Holy Trinity Church, North Saanich. The bride had only just arrived from Edinburgh, Scotland. Miss Norah Phipps acted as bridesmaid and Mr. R. Kilsall was best man. The bride was given away by Mr. Phipps. Miss Wilkinson presided at the organ.

A letter received in Sidney by Mr. Sproule, gives the information that Presbyterian services will be started here on the first Sunday in October. Rev. Mr. Clay, convenor of the Home Missions Committee, the author of this pleasing news, also announces the fact that he has secured the services of a very capable student, in the person of Mr. A. McLean, to take charge of this district.

The rock cod are beginning to come in around the wharves now, and of course the heart of the small boy is delighted. But the small boy is not the only one who goes a fishing on the wharf, and almost every fine evening from one to a dozen men can be seen enjoying this sport, and they get good baskets too. The fish are not very large as yet, but in a couple of weeks the larger ones will be coming in, and then the sport will be really worth while.

The parents of all children in Sidney are requested to attend in company with their little ones, a meeting at Berquist's hall on Monday evening at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Junior Temple of the International Order of Good Templars. Both boys and girls are eligible to join this order and it has been felt by many of the workers in the senior lodge that the organization of a junior society would be a great benefit to the young people of the town. Kindly remember the date and be in attendance.

Messrs. J. Hicks, A. Calvert and Sandy McDonald were appointed delegates to the Grand Lodge of the International Order of Good Templars, to be held in Victoria next Tuesday and Wednesday Sept. 23 and 24, at the regular meeting of the Sidney Lodge held last Monday evening. A banquet on the evening of the 24th will be tendered the delegates in the K. of P. hall.

Dr. W. C. Kaake, one of Winnipeg's foremost dentists, is at present touring our province, and paid Sidney a visit on Wednesday evening. This was the doctor's first trip to Vancouver Island, and he was very favorably impressed with the natural beauty of Victoria and the Saanich peninsula. While in Sidney he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moore, Second street.

Hon. John Gordon, M.P. for Brighton, accompanied by his two daughters, paid Sidney a visit this afternoon, and while here was the guest of Captain L. Adamson, who showed him over this part of the district in his auto. Mr. Gordon has very large interests in Western Canada and particularly Vancouver Island, and is making a tour of this part of the province looking over his holdings.

The business of Vancouver Island is paralyzed, the merchants are suffering hardships, the miners are lingering on strike pay or languishing in prison, while Sir Richard, two big a man for such trivial matters, is enjoying English hospitality, and Mr. Bowser, too small for his job, is issuing bulletins and holding consultations. What is needed in the government just now is a man.

A special train over the V. & S. was necessary on Sunday to bring out the number of people desiring to spend the day here, and yet the management state that Sidney is not prospering. If the V. & S. would get a move on them and put on a better train service on this particular day, and spend a little money in judicious advertising, even if they do not want an electric light to show where their station is located, they would only be doing their share in making the town prosper.

The opening of the shooting season caused a good deal of hustle and bustle around town on Saturday. Sidney seems to be quite the centre of things once this time of year comes round and launches were coming and going all day meeting parties of sportsmen that had arrived in town either by the V. & S., the B. C. Electric, or by motor car from the city. Every available boat in and around Sidney was put into commission and if there had been twice as many more they could have been rented too. The objective point for the beginning of operations seemed to be the islands lying to the north and east of Sidney, and many of the parties who went out seemed to be equipped for at least a week's stay.

The moving picture show is drawing larger crowds at every performance, especially Saturday evening, and they are well worth anyone's time and money. The manager, Mr. Charles Senior, is very generous with the number of pictures he shows at each performance, and Saturday evening was no exception to the rule. Five or six long films were thrown on the screen and covered a number of very interesting subjects. The trip through the Alps and the animals at the London Zoo being particularly good. Of course there was the usual funny picture, and this time it was a sportsman preparing for the day's outing, the fish he caught and what became of it. The little fox terrier that took such a prominent part was certainly well trained. A feature of the evening's entertainment were three or four views of Sidney prepared by a local amateur.

The Building of the Addition to Present School Has Been Laid Over While Awaiting Developments.

At the time the agitation was on for the establishment of a Superior school in Sidney the fact that there was no suitable place to accommodate it was brought to the attention of the authorities by the board of school trustees. To overcome the difficulty for the time being, Berquist's small hall was leased and the school is now holding sessions there. The question of building a wing to the present school building was first brought up and received the sanction of the government, but on thinking the matter over very carefully the trustees came to the conclusion that the building of this wing would only give temporary relief on account of the large number of children that will reside here with their parents on the opening of the several new industries that are in course of construction in and near Sidney. The managements of these large concerns were approached by the board in regard to the number of men with families that would be employed by them. The result of this investigation proved to the satisfaction of the trustees that the building of one room would not nearly accommodate the number of children that would be residing in Sidney in the course of the next year, and they decided that it would be inadvisable to proceed with the erection of this room. The information they had received was laid before the educational department at a recent meeting, and the request was also made that a new four or five roomed school be built in Sidney.

The government seem to be thoroughly in sympathy with this new move on the part of the school board, and the following letter has been received by the secretary, Mr. Alex McDonald:

Education Office, Victoria.
Sept. 16, 1913.

Alex McDonald, Esq.,
Secretary, North Saanich School Board,
Sidney, B.C.

Sir,—In further reference to your interview with the Honorable the Minister of Education and your visit to this Department in respect to providing additional school accommodation at Sidney, I beg to say that after careful consideration it has been decided by this Department not to proceed with the addition of one room to the present school house at Sidney. In the meantime the principal's class can continue in the present quarters, the rent of which will be paid by this Department until such time as the necessary accommodation is provided. This action has been taken as the result of your representations in respect to the establishment of certain industries at Sidney. In the course of a few months the situation will no doubt have resolved itself so that this Department can determine definitely what the school needs of the district require.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
ALEXANDER ROBINSON,
Superintendent of Education
