Game-Butchering.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—By far the heaviest bags of the season have been obtained by Lord Ripon, Lord de Grey and a party from Studley Royal on the famous Dallowgill Moors, in West Riding. On Monday and Tuesday six guns killed nearly 1,100 brace of grouse by driving.

Exporting Blooded Cattle.

LONDON, Aug 23.—A large number of shorthorns have just been exported to South America, including animals bred by the Queen at Windsor, by the Prince of Wales at Sandringham, by Lord Rosebery at Dalmeny, by Lord Lathom at Lathom House, by Lord Polwarth at Mertoun, and by Lord Lovat at Beaufort Castle.

A cablegram from Antwerp says that new cholera cases there averaged two daily.

Eulalie's Whereabouts.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Infanta Eulalie stayed about three weeks in London before she departed for the watering place Royat, and lived in the strictest retirement in a furnished house in Westbourne terrace. After a cure of about three weeks at Royat the Infanta will return to England in semi-state to visit the Queen and several members of the Orleans family. Meanwhile her little sons are staying in England with their governess, the widow of an English officer.

The Queen's Health.

LONDON, Aug 23.—Queen Victoria has been affected by the weather as in no former summer. She has passed hours trying to find in the summer house in the Osborne Park relief from the heat. Punkas and other tropical appliances for cooling the air have been in constant use around her. In the evening she has driven in the most densely shaded parts of the grounds. Although, apparently, she has suffered no decline of her general health, her physicians advise that she should go to Balmoral for a change of air as soon as possible.

The Duke Is Dead.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Duke Ernest, of Saxe-Wurtemburg, died last night at his castle at Reinandsbrunn in Cobourg.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The death of the duke will bring to the throne of the duchy the Duke of Edinburgh, who will thence become one of the princes of the German Empire having a vote in the Imperial Council. Duke Ernst was the ruler of an insignificant realm, but as such he attempted to play an important role, but with little success. He will be chiefly remembered as having been a composer of opera, the brother of Prince Albert, who was the consort of Queen Victoria, of England, and for the curious part he played in German history. He endeavored in a way to become ruler in the realm of art, but he failed because his natural ability was too restricted.

Duke Ernst had the idea once of being the co-founder of a German empire, and there was a time when he was counted among the most popular of German princes. When in Prussia it was considered a crime to speak of German unity and a united German fatherland, he was the first of the princes, in spite of much ridicule, to give expression to the feelings of Germany at the time. He became imbued with the idea that song would carry the Germans forward in their demands for unity. He composed a maennerchorgesang, which was sung in those days all through Germany and is not forgotten even to-day. He was the first German ruler to congratulate King William on his proclamation as German Emperor.

The Duke of Edinburgh was to-day formally recognized as the ruler of the duchy. He had been spending some time in Germany, and when the conditions of Duke Ernst became critical he was notified and at once came to this city. He was at the castle of Reinhardsbrunn when his uncle died, and there to-day he took the oath of allegiance to the constitution in the presence of Emperor William and all the Ministers. The Diet will meet on Saturday for the purpose of swearing allegiance to the new ruler of the duchy. The body of Duke Ernst has been embalmed, and it will lie in state in the castle on Friday. On Monday it will be removed to this city, where it will be interred in the Moritzkirche at noon.

The Khan of Kelat.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—There has been justification of English rule in India not only in Bombay, but also in Beloochistan. Mir Khunadad, the Khan of Beloochistan, forgot that this is the nineteenth century and that civilization has an eye upon him. His Wazir ventured to disagree with him—of course in the most respectful manner in the world, with his face in the carpet and his haunches high. The Khan went wild with wrath, and, after several painful scenes with the Wazir, his father, his son and his faithful secretary, who had humbly implored the Khan's leniency, he was taken to an ancient cemetery and hacked to pieces, after the most lingering and excruciating Asiatic fashion. The Khan notified the British Government at Simla, not defiantly, but to forestall the news sure to come from friends of the Wazir's family. In a few days a polite Government agent, accompanied by a stenographer and reams of official paper, appeared at Kelat, the capital of Beloochistan, set up a court of inquiry and found that the Khan, an experienced old blood-drinker, had tortured four wives to death, and mutilated and savagely destroyed scores of subjects with small excuse or no excuse except love of shrieks and blood. In due time the Government agent reported that the Khan had been arrested, jailed and deposed, and that his son had been put on the throne in his stead. The Khan probably will be tried as a common murderer.

One cause of the peculiar but undoubted popularity of English rule with all classes in India is the frequent repetition of this calm, relentless punishment of bloodthirsty princes. The average length of life in India is yearly raising.

An Ingenious Printer.

It requires a good deal of ingenuity to become a successful printer. Boys with printing-presses, and ambition to develop into great printers, should remember this, and exercise their inventive qualities at every opportunity.

A story is told of a Prague printer who got himself out of a very disagreeable dilemma by the use of his ingenious mind. He was once called upon to print a report of the Board of Trade of his native city in the two languages of the country, German and Czech, and the representatives of either nationality strenuously desired that their tongue should occupy the first of the parallel columns on each page. The wary printer got out of his dilemma by turning one column upside down throughout the book, and arranging the titles accordingly, so that each language had a front column on every page.—[Harper's Young People.

The Chinese scriptures or sacred books were compiled and partly composed by Confucius himself. They are divided into five books.

ROYAL TEMPLARS IN CAMP.

The Attendance Not as Large as Expected—Encouraging Reports Received.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—The attendance of the Royal Templars' camp at yesterday's meetings was a slight improvement on the earlier days, but still it is much smaller than in previous years, and the promoters, especially the local committees, are greatly disappointed thereat. The circumstances which militates more than any other against large meetings is the difficulty and expense of reaching the camp grounds.

Yesterday was "advanced prohibition day," and the speakers were all advocates of a stern fight to the death and no quarter. The keynote of the addresses throughout was no dallying with party, but a straight vote for principle no matter who was hurt.

The president and treasurer presented their reports, showing that considerable advance has been made, and sufficient has been accomplished to make the future outlook hopeful. Reports presented showed that great advance had been made in the organization of clubs and securing the co-operation of the electorate in the counties of Waterloo, East Northumberland, North Grey, London city, Peterboro, and many other places not reported at the meeting are known to be actively at work in the same direction. Some counties have already taken steps to nominate independent candidates. Councilors were appointed on business, policy and finance.

The report on policy that was discussed and adopted says:

"This convention of Advanced Prohibitionists emphatically indorses the declaration of the Premier of Ontario that three-fourths of the vice, lunacy, idiocy, poverty and misery of every kind was owing to the foul evil of intemperance; therefore, the entire destruction of the liquor traffic ought to be the dominant political issue.

"It is the duty of all who share these convictions to consecrate their efforts to secure the election of representatives who are publicly committed to this issue. We therefore reaffirm the platform adopted at our last convention, and pledge ourselves not to give our vote or influence to any candidate for parliamentary honors, whose party is not distinctly pledged to the suppression of the liquor traffic, unless such candidate is prepared to introduce or see introduced a resolution committing the Parliament to the outlawry of the liquor traffic.

"And we further covenant with one another to co-operate in the election of such candidates.

"Believing that our platform presents the only practical method by which effect may be given to the resolutions adopted by the various church courts on this issue, we therefore call upon the members of the said churches to co-operate with us in carrying to victory these principles at the polls.

"Recognizing the issue that is to be presented to the electors on the first Monday in January, 1884, as being that of prohibition, we are resolved to put forth every effort to secure such an overwhelming vote as will proclaim to all time to come the attitude of the people on the issue."

At the afternoon and evening meetings speeches were made by Rev. W. Kettlewell, of Paris, the head of the organization; Rev. J. B. Aylesworth, LL.D., president of the London Methodist Conference; Rev. D. L. Brethour, of Burlington; Mr. W. W. Buchanan and Rev. Dr. W. A. MacKay, of Woodstock.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

The New York Stevedores Still on Strike Printers in Richmond, Va., Quit Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The strike of the longshoremen on the docks of the Clyde, Mallory and Ward steamship lines, which was begun Monday because of a reduction of wages, continues, but it is believed the strikers will have to return in the course of a very short time, as they have not been able to prevent agents from hiring other men.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 23.—The compositors in the newspaper offices of the Dispatch and Times have struck. The trouble grew out of a disagreement over the scale of prices on typesetting machines and shorter hours between the Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Typographical Union. The Times is now using typesetting machines, and the Dispatch expects to have seven in operation in a few days.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 23.—St. Paul Typographical Union No. 30, by a unanimous vote, rejected the proposition of the employing printers to reduce the price of composition from 42 cents to 35 cents per 1,000 ems on morning papers, from 35 cents to 30 cents on all piece day work, and from $15 to $14 per week for the week help. Frederick Driscoll, business manager of the Pioneer Press, made a speech proposing that the cut last but 60 days, but the printers concluded to hold the scale at the present figures.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—The latest news in connection with the street car company in this city is that a strike is among the possibilities of the near future. The man who kept the door for the company at the meeting of the street railway employes on Sunday afternoon last has been for some reason discharged and the employes have sent word that unless the discharged employe is reinstated by noon to-morrow the whole of the employes will strike. It is considered likely the company will yield the point.

DETROIT, Aug. 23.—The Michigan Peninsular car shops will, by Saturday night, be shut down for a period not exceeding three months. The shops have a capacity for building about 100 cars a day.

The directors have voted to lay off all office employes for three months without pay, and lay off all superintendents and chiefs of departments for the same period on half pay. An official of the company says contracts could be secured easily enough, but that railroad companies are not able to get money to pay for cars, and the shops cannot be run on credit. When the shops are running at their full capacity—100 cars daily—over 9,000 men are employed in all the departments. The highest number employed this summer, however, before the financial stringency arose was about 6,000.

SIR OLIVER AT RAT PORTAGE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 23.—A Rat Portage dispatch says: Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. John Dryden and Mr. James Conmee, M.P.P., arrived here last evening. The distinguished party were met at the station by the mayor, council and members of the Liberal Association. As Sir Oliver stepped to the platform he was welcomed by loud and prolonged cheers. After he was escorted to the Hilliard House by a large crowd, Sir Oliver was somewhat fatigued by his journey, and after an introduction to many persons he retired. To-day he was interviewed by different committees in regard to mines and timber improvements, and was impressed with the necessity of taking immediate action to remedy the titles. He expressed himself as pleased to have found this out, and would give it an early consideration. This afternoon Sir Oliver is taking a trip on the lake, and was taken over Keewatin. He and Mr. Dryden addressed the citizens to-night in the Athletic building, after which the whole party leave per Shamrock for Pine River and Fort Frances, where they will address meetings on Wednesday and Thursday respectively. It is announced that Mr. Laurier may not visit Manitoba this fall.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Opening of the Local Season on Sept. 8.

The House Undergoing a Thorough Renovation—Strong Class of Attractions Booked—A Successful Season Assured.

The season of inactivity and rest is nearly past and the long winter evenings will soon be here. The theatrical season will open in a couple of weeks time, and to many it will be welcomed with pleasure. The intelligent theater-goer in London of recent years has become a connoisseur in dramatic and operatic works, and a play with any sort of a metropolitan success will always be well attended. Last season's bookings were about the best ever given, and financially the theater came out ahead of any year previous. Successful management combined with the personal popularity of the officials has had a great deal to do with it.

The Grand this year will open on Friday, Sept. 8. The house is now undergoing a thorough renovation. During the summer much has been done to improve the theater in the way of comfort for its patrons. An entire cleaning and renovation of the interior has been made. New carpets will be laid throughout. A new floor will be laid on the stage. The scenery will be retouched and new drops painted. The dressing-rooms will undergoa thorough overhauling. Several new pictures of prominent professionals will adorn the lobby. The improvements will be pleasing to the eye, and the house, always attractive, will present even a neater and cleaner appearance. The strong attractions booked promise the most successful season of the Grand Opera House. Mr. C. J. Whitney, now one of the largest theatrical managers in the country, is in New York city engaging more companies. He has now some seventeen theaters under his control, and every prominent house in Ontario is included in this list. Both houses in Toronto, the Hamilton, London and Woodstock theaters are leased in his name. The American theaters under his management are the three houses in Detroit, two in Buffalo and one each in Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Bay City and Saginaw. To enter his American circuit and enjoy the privileges companies have to also assent to playing the Canadian circuit in a great many cases. This will give London a chance of seeing the more recent successful plays, as is seen in the booking given below. The orchestra will again be under the leadership of Mr. Fred L. Evans, who gave patrons last season the best music the theater ever had. He has just returned from Detroit with an entire new set of orchestral music and is now busy rehearsing the different pieces. Mr. James Lamb will remain as chief usher and Mr. Gus Schabacker as stage manager. Mr. Ernest Ruse has been appointed chief ticket seller. Manager A. E. Roote has in the above competent set of officials and under his careful eye a second year's success is no doubt in store for the Grand under his care.

"Held in Slavery" will open a preliminary season Sept. 8 and 9, and matinee on latter date. Jarbeau puts in the entire fair week—18th to 23rd. Before Christmas the following companies are booked: Silver King, Rhea, Modjeska, Walker Whitesides (the boy tragedian), Clare Coleman, Lady Wildermere's Fan, Robin Hood, Robert Downing, Corinne, Faust, Arthur Lloyd, Ramsay Morris Company, Tavary Opera Company, Fire Patrol, The Drews, Jane, Dan McCarthy, Fay Foster and Ivy Leaf. Commencing in January are the following: Spider and Fly, Rice & Barton, Kellar, Isle of Champagne, Wilson Barrett, Master and Man, Field's Minstrels, Lillian Kennedy, Thomas Keene, Barlow Minstrels, Tuxedo, Mantell, and Primrose & West's Minstrels. Henry Irving will probably play in some of the Canadian theaters late in April.

Whichever country wins in the great seal issue, some of the gentlemen who talked away in Paris will be sure to find that their arguments have had no Bering on the case.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

Harmony is all right in its place, but the barber and his razor should never undertake to pull together.

BRANT.

The Brantford Bicycle Club will hold a meet upon the 31st inst., at which prizes to the value of $1,000 will be given.

Ald. Bunnell, of Brantford, who has been in England to sell city debentures, on Saturday returned home, having been cabled to do so by Mayor Secord. At the time he had nearly disposed of the bonds at a good figure, but a reported sale at $96 55 in Canada, which has since fallen through, led to his recall. There are likely to be some lively developments.

ESSEX.

The picnic given by the Roman Catholic Church at Maidstone every year has been an event in Essex county, and the one given Tuesday was no exception. About 2,000 people were present, and it was a success in every particular.

Now that the Sandwich firebugs have grown tired of burning buildings, they have resorted to plying their vocations in another manner. Dr. Pare is the last one to be the sufferer. He left his buggy outside of his residence and they burned it up.

The open air meeting under the control and direction of Rev. J. E. Moore, of the Methodist Church, Botany, was held in Z. Moore.

Robert Gerguson, M.P.P., has loaned his grove to the Methodists of Thamesville, in which to hold their annual open air meeting, which comes off next Sunday. The services will begin by a service prayer meeting at 7 o'clock in the morning. Revs. J. E. Moore, J. E. Holmes, J. J. Haylock and D. Pomeroy and Messrs. W. C. Ingalls, R. Laing aed Evangelists W. Martin and G. Chilvers, of Chatham, are expected to preach.

Miss E. Crozier, of Silvan, and Miss L. Armstrong, of London, are visiting Mrs. E. Graves, of Thamesville.

Miss M. Marshall, Aylmer, and Miss V. McKenney are visiting at Rev. J. E. Moore's, Thamesville.

LAMBTON.

Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock on a back street near the Sarnia gas works, Mr. Joseph Ash, sen., attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a knife. He had cut quite a gash when noticed by a couple of small boys, who alarmed the neighborhood, and soon a large crowd was gathered at the spot. Ash is about 65 years of age and an old British pensioner. He was a heavy drinker, and that is supposed to be the reason of his committing this act. The police were notified and took him to jail, where his wounds were attended to by a doctor.

Two important changes have been made in the Collegiate Institute staff, Stratford. Wilson Taylor, the mathematical master, goes to take a similar position in Chatham at $1,200. He is succeeded by L. Pope, of Kingston, at a salary of $1,000.

At the last meeting of the Guelph city council Ald. Spragge presented a petition from the Royal City Cycle Club, asking permission to construct a cinder track inside the present half mile track in the exhibition park.

DRUNK, OF COURSE!

His Kick Fractured His Wife's Skull—He May Have to Answer a Charge of Murder.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—James Meyer, a laborer of middle age, who lived in the tenement house No. 315 East Sixty-first street, went home drunk on Monday afternoon and attacked his wife Annie without provocation. He beat her and kicked her until her screams were heard all over the house, and some of the neighbors interfered to protect her against further brutality. She had become unconscious when a policeman was sent for to arrest her drunken husband, and the officer called an ambulance, which took her to the Presbyterian Hospital.

The surgeons said her skull had been fractured and she had received many severe bruises. She recovered consciousness later, but her condition was critical. Her husband was taken to the hospital, where she identified him as her assailant. Meyer appeared to be too much under the influence of liquor to understand that he might soon be called to answer the charge of wife murder.

Perils of Modern Life.

Contacts with electric wires, railroad accidents, broken car and elevator cables, explosions of steam, natural gas and chemicals, poisons in adulterated food and drink, are a few; but all these dangers combined do not kill as rapidly as slow and sure consumption. The death rate, however, from consumption, is being yearly cut down since Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., has given to the world his celebrated "Golden Medical Discovery," a cure for consumption and throat and lung troubles that lead to consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial. The time to cure consumption (which is really nothing more nor less than lung-scrofula), is in the first stages. A cough generally sounds the alarm, and you should take the "Discovery" at once. There is a time when it is too late.

BOY BANDITS DISBANDED.

Juvenile New Jersey Desperadoes Devote Their Time to Plundering Grocery Stores.

PARK RIDGE, N. J., Aug. 23.—Justice William B. Smith, of this place, has succeeded in dispersing a gang of boy banditr, who, under the title of "The Red Rangers of the Pascack," are charged with levying tribute on many citizens of the surrounding country. It was reported some time ago that a number of boys had a hiding place in the woods near the town, where they gathered and divided the spoils of depredations, but not until Justice Smith was appealed to and went on the trail was the perfection of the organization made known.

The exposure was brought about by a complaint of Fred C. Landerman, who swore that he suspected Carl Frohn, Geo. Reid, Perry Bransgrove, Frederick Vanbuckum, Albert Frohn, Charles Latterman and George Ackerman of having stolen syrup, soda, one door, lumber, kerosene, cigarettes, cigars, chewing tobacco, a bar of iron, pails, cuspidors, nails, hammers, torches and other articles from the stores of Gerhard H. Tiemeyer and William Kamps, the New Jersey and New York Railroad, the Island Park and the Colored People's picnic grounds, and from the Foresters' Hall. On this complaint Justice Smith issued a warrant for the arrest of the boys, and an officer went to the woods on the hill east of the village in search of the retreat of the "Red Rangers," a name symbolized by the red shirts worn by members of the band.

In a secluded place, obscured by heavy underbrush, the officer came upon a well-worn path that was guarded by a rudely-lettered sign, "No trespassing." This warning was posted in several places through the woods. Disregarding the admonition, the officer kept on the trail, and soon came upon a small clearing, in which was the ruin of the hut of the "Rangers."

The bandits had learned that Justice Smith was after them, and they destroyed their headquarters before scattering to their homes. There was ample evidence that the missing articles had been used by the boys in their hut. In addition it appeared that they had taken lessons from 5-cent stories, samples of which were found in "Nat Wood's Capture of Keno Clark, King of the Diamond Lifters," "A Dangerous Case for Nat Woods; or, Yellow Dick's Last Treachery."

The boys were armed, and had made arrangements for all the comforts of a forest home. They were getting along famously when, by the untimely appearance of Mrs. Snell in the door of Tiemeyer's store one day last week, one of the "Rangers" was discovered in the act of transferring to his pocket a bottle of syrup from which temperance drinks are made. Mrs. Snell exposed this illegal business method, and the result was the apprehension of the boys. Mr. Tiemeyer said he had no idea how much had been taken from his store, but that it was often an easy matter for dishonest persons to "work" the place by ordering oil or some other article for which the attendant, often alone in the place, had to go to the cellar. A similar trick was played at Kamp's store.

Justice Smith had all the boys brought before him on Saturday, some of them being accompanied by their parents. Geo. Reid admitted that the hut had been built after school hours, and other boys told how they had procured many of their supplies.

Although the justice had six witnesses, including J. B. Storms, editor of the Park Ridge Local, he decided to let the accused lads off with a reprimand which he administered with a fatherly grace. They promised, between sobs, that they would never range again.

THE OPEN FORUM.

Ticket Scalping.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

A paragraph appeared in one of your late issues calling attention to selling railroad tickets that are unused or a portion of them unused, in which you stated that "there are more ways and means of obtaining recompense for the same than that of procuring the assistance of a scalper." That means is anything but satisfactory to the traveling public. When a traveler presents a ticket to the railroad agent for rebate, the agent gives a receipt for it and informs the traveler to call again as he (the agent) has to send the ticket to Montreal and have instructions before he can pay the money.

Why is the traveler put to such inconvenience and delay? Why not compel the railroad company or their agents to pay the rebate at the place the ticket was presented? If the ticket could be cashed at the office when presented the scalper's assistance would not be called for.

If you trust in God and yourself you can surmount every obstacle. Do not yield to restless anxiety. One must not always be asking what may happen to one in life, but one must advance fearlessly and bravely.

—PRINCE BISMARCK.

London, Thursday, August 24.

—No man has taken a more decisive stand on the Toronto Sunday street car question than Principal Caven. Probably there is not in Canada a more influential clergyman.

—The London Conference of the Methodist Church has appointed Sunday, Sept. 17, as Temperance Sunday, when the moral responsibility of recording every vote possible in the coming prohibition plebiscite will be urged.

—We surrender considerable space on this page to the able and friendly discussion of Anglo-Saxon Federation, by Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston. Mr. Cook thinks that America, the largest English-speaking nation, will not be a part of any such federation. Any such federation, without the United States, would be a farce—with, it would be invincible. It will yet be an accomplished fact.

—Is the P. P. Association a political organization? We have been shown a letter which goes to prove that the institution has been established in the interests of the present Administration at Ottawa and the Opposition in the Province of Ontario. The Grand President of the Order, in visiting one of the lodges a short time ago, said to a brother member: "I am going immediately into the county of ——, to organize all the lodges I can. It is Mr. ——'s stronghold, and we must make a decided effort to secure his defeat at the next election." Of the accuracy of this statement our readers need have no doubt, and it is just as well that the public should know whither they are drifting.

RETURN OF THE BERING SEA HEROES.

It seems that the acting Premier is very anxious that honor should be done his chief upon his arrival at the Dominion capital. Mr. Bowell feels that a reception by Sir John Thompson's political friends would have no weight with the country. The hungry and the aspiring of the Tory party have flocked to the capital as vultures do to a dead camel in the desert, and he knows that a reception by those who have received or expect favors would count for little. The rule that the ox who treads out the corn ought not himself to be muzzled applies in this case as between the Prime Minister and his supporters. But to call upon the citizens, the majority of whom in numbers, and the vast majority in point of wealth, are of another way of thinking, to do honor to the Tory leader, and solely because he is the Tory leader, savors a good deal of what Mr. Bowell might call moral courage, but which others would characterize by a different name. We have no doubt Sir John Thompson, to the best of his ability, did his duty as an arbitrator, but before a community, irrespective of party, undertakes to glorify an achievement it ought to be shown that it is an unqualified success. That has not been done in the case of the Bering Sea arbitration. But for this it may be that the Minister of Marine and the venerable Boanerges are mainly responsible. At all events it is now very clear that someone has blundered.

Dr. Dawson in an interview with the Globe's correspondent informs him that while the Americans were pressing to exclude Canadians and all others from sealing upon the high seas it would have been most unreasonable to expect that they would consent to establish a close season upon the Pribylov Island or in the circumadjacent sea. What intellectual perversion has taken possession of Dr. Dawson's rational faculties? It is the Americans who are asking for a close season. It is being established at their instance. Surely they, beyond any others, ought to make concessions to secure that end at which they professedly aim, and if they want all the rest of the world to abstain from killing seals over a wide expanse of sea, where the numbers are few, and the chance of destruction proportionately diminished, surely they ought to set the example where the seals are abundant, the limits confined, and the opportunity for destruction very great. Is it not clear to even the most careless thinker that no such one-sided regulations could have been made without a gross blunder having been committed by someone? Let it be ascertained who the blunderer was before champagne and shouting become the order of the day.

Anglo-Saxon Federation.

(By Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston.)

Sir Lepel Griffin tells us that the British Empire is yet in its infancy. What is England? Six things: The mother islands, the Canadian group of Provinces, the West Indian group, the South African group, the Australasian group, India. What is the greatest question in the future of the British Empire? Confederation or disintegration, which? Turgot used to say that the colonies are like fruits, which drop off their parent stems as soon as ripe. There was once a greater France, nearly encircling the earth. Where is it to-day? Disintegrated. There was a greater Spain. Where is it? Disintegrated. There was a greater Holland. Where is it? Disintegrated. There is a greater Britain on which now the sun never sets. Where is it likely to be in 100 years unless confederated? Even Britons are predicting that within two generations the British Empire must disintegrate, unless held together on a plan essentially new. The certainty is that the number of Britons outside the mother islands will soon be greater than the number inside. There are now only 10,000,000 or 11,000,000 of Britons outside Great Britain and Ireland. But very soon the 35,000,000 or 40,000,000 in these islands will be exceeded in numbers by the Britons in Canada, Australia, India, the West Indies and South Africa. It is very true that the British colonies rule themselves; but in one particular they have no influence, they do not determine the foreign policy of the empire. As soon as a majority of Britons is found outside the mother islands, the question will be raised whether it is just to allow the management of the whole empire to be conducted by a minority of Britons. Why may not the majority outside the mother islands have something to say as to foreign policies, in which they are profoundly interested, and that may bring them into wasting wars? It is plainly necessary, if the British empire is to be kept together, that it should give a voice to the majority of Britons in the determination of its foreign policy.

It is not surprising, therefore, that we find statesmen as conservative as the late Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Forster, recommending imperial federation. Important public discussions by scholars, statesmen and reformers, both British and colonial, are thrusting into great prominence the large topic of the possibility and advisability of imperial alliance between the mother islands and her colonies. Mr. Forster, in dispassionate and luminous forecast of the great changes awaiting the British Empire, said:

"In giving self-government to our colonies we have introduced a principle which must eventually shake off from Great Britain Greater Britain, and divide it into separate states, which must, in short, dissolve the Union, unless counteracting measures be taken to prevent it. . . .

"These two opposing principles—subordination on the one hand and self-government on the other—cannot long co-exist. This imperfect, incomplete, one-sided federation must end either in disintegration, or in complete and equal and perfect federation. . . . If, then, I am asked, how can the mother country be kept united with her colonies? I reply: By an organization for common defense, and a joint foreign policy. And, again, to the question, why not leave matters alone? I reply: Self-government will end in separation if there be no such organization."

On what plan will the confederation of the British Empire be consummated? Probably on that of the American Federation. It will undoubtedly give great liberty to local legislators; it will put into the hands of such bodies in Canada, Australia and the other colonies, the government of local matters; but it will retain imperial powers in the hands of an imperial parliament. Prof. Seelye, in his highly suggestive work on "The Expansion of England," has already most definitely recommended the American plan of union as the basis of a new confederation of the fragments of the great empire of which he is so proud. There would be a severance of imperial and local powers, a reorganization of parliament, and such a representation of local legislators in an imperial legislature as to parallel the general principles of the American Union. Englishmen do not admire everything in American civilization; but since the civil war they have often been very frank in expressing their admiration of the principles underlying the Union. They admit that the political ideas of the age of Washington have shown themselves capable of holding together a great number of States between two oceans widely separated, and that perhaps no other principles known to history are fit to be the basis of a consolidated British Empire.

Let us not underrate the British States of North America. It has been my fortune lately, in Manitoba and in British Columbia, to meet with experiences which have given me a new conception of the dignity of the Canadian Dominion. Conversing with a professor of a university, in the beautiful and energetic city of Winnipeg, while a map of North America was opened before us, I put my compasses down, one foot on St. Paul, and left the other swinging above the chart. "Now," said I to my informant, "how far north must I carry this loose foot of the compass to reach the farthest border of your good wheat lands?" You must carry it north," said he, "to the Peace River in Athabaska. On the banks of that stream the buffalo and their young may be seen feeding on grass on the 10th of May." I opened the compasses until they reached the Peace River, some 1,500 miles northwest of St. Paul. I then swung the compasses around, and their northern most point, when carried to the east, stood in the Atlantic Ocean, and when carried to the south it stood in the Gulf. Incredible as the assertion may appear, there is more arable land northwest of St. Paul than east of it, or south of it.

The American consul at Winnipeg, the Hon. Mr. Taylor, told me that he is accustomed to divide North America into three belts—the cotton belt, the maize belt, and the wheat belt—and that, in his judgment, three-quarters of the wheat belt line lies north of the international line. The sunlight endures two hours longer on a summer's day in Athabaska than in Ohio. Canadians are discussing, with not a little eagerness, the project of a new route to England through Hudson's Bay, from the mouth of the Nelson River, just north of Winnipeg. At least three months in every year ships may pass freely through the outlet of Hudson's Bay. The distance from the mouth of the Nelson to the mouth of the Mersey is 200 miles shorter than that from the mouth of the Hudson to the mouth of the English stream. Sir Richard Temple had just been lecturing in Winnipeg when I was there, and he was accustomed to say publicly and privately, that as the ships of the Hudson Bay Company had gone in and out of Hudson's Bay for 200 years, it might be expected that steamships could carry on an important trade there. Archangel, in Russia, with 20,000 people, has a climate worse than that of the Nelson River, and yet it was and is an important port. The Canadian Pacific road will carry to England all the tea that the mother islands bring from Japan and China. A study of Manitoba and of British Columbia, and of that mighty region of the Saskatchewan Valley, through which the warm isotherms runs north so far, has doubled my respect for the political and industrial future of the Canadian Dominion.

The Australia Confederation has already been adopted. England is urging it upon the colonies in the south of Africa. Federalism is the natural outcome of self-government in neighboring States.

The colonies are very proud of their loyalty, but equally attached to their self-government. But if they were ruled as the thirteen States were when colonies, they would revolt in an hour.

Many of you, riding up and down through the countries of England, and reading in the daily journals the reports of Parliamentary business, have no doubt raised the question why England does not relieve Parliament, the most overworked body in Christendom, from a large amount of attention to local affairs, and give these over to local legislatures. Why should England not change her great counties and group her small ones into States? This re-organization of England on the American plan is precisely what Matthew Arnold recommended. He hoped that home rule in Ireland itself may be achieved in this way. He would divide Ireland into three or four great States, give each a legislature, and allow each local rule. He would divide Scotland into two States, a highland and a lowland; and Wales into two, a north and a south; and he would make several great commonwealths of the counties of England: He is bold enough to confess that he would substitute for the House of Lords a body of Senators, elected by the proposed new local legislatures.

Mr. Gladstone thinks it probable that in the year 2,000 there will be one thousand millions of English-speaking people in the world. In a letter addressed to an American correspondent, he says:

"What a prospect is that of very many hundreds of millions of people, certainly among the most manful and energetic in the world, occupying one great continent, I may almost say two, and other islands and territories not easy to be counted, with these islands at their head, the most historic in the world. In contact, by a vast commerce, with all mankind, and perhaps still united in kindly political association with some more hundreds of millions fitted for no mean destiny; united almost absolutely in blood and language, and very largely in religion, laws and institutions.

"If any anticipations such as these are to be realized in any considerable degree, the prospect is at once majestic, inspiring and consolatory. The subject is full of meaning and of power; of so much meaning that the pupil of the eye requires time to let in such a flood of light. Clearly, if the English-speaking people shall be anything like what we have now been supposing, and if there shall not be a good understanding among them, there will have been a base desertion of and easy duty a gran rifiuto, such as might stir another Dante to denounce it, a renunciation of the noblest, the most beautiful, the most painful primacy ever presented to the heart and understanding of man.

"On the other hand, great as it would be, it would demand no propaganda, no superlative ingenuity or effort; it ought to be an orderly and natural growth, requiring only that you should be reasonably true and loyal to your traditions, and we to ours. To gain it will need no preter-human strength or wisdom; to miss it will require some portentous degeneracy. Even were it a day-dream it would be an improving one, loftier and better than that which prompted the verse—

"'super et Garamantas et Indos
Proferet imperium; jacet extra sidera tellus,
Extra anni solisque vias.'"

It is probable, as Mr. Gladstone seems to assume, that the British islands will remain at the head of the English-speaking populations of the world an hundred years hence? In 1910 the United States ought to have 100,000,000. Sir Lepel Griffin himself predicts that 100,000,000 of people will be found within its borders before those now born have grown gray. If, in the providence of God, I am permitted to see my 72 year, in 1910, I shall expect to see the sun in heaven looking down upon a population of 100,000,000 within the present boundaries of the republic. I will give you 40 years in which to double after 1910. You should have 200,000,000 in 1950, a date which some here in life's morning may live to behold. I will give you 50 years in which to double after 1950. In the year 2,000 you ought to have 400,000,000 of English-speaking people on this continent. They will be found not necessarily within the present Union, but overflowing to the best lands north and south. Of course the most fertile soil will be taken up before the poorest. Somewhere on this continent we are likely to have, in the year 2,000, under the operation of present historic causes, 400,000,000 of people speaking the English tongue. We shall double great numbers in the future almost as rapidly as, in the past, we have doubled small ones. We shall double our 50,000,000 and our 100,000,000 nearly as quickly as we doubled our 25,000,000 or our 10,000,000. You think this a wild estimate; but it is only half the estimate of German scholarship, of Scotch sagacity and English condescension.

The highest foreign estimate as to the number of English-speaking people outside this continent at the date I have named, is only 200,000,000. Which will set fashions for the other—the 200,000,000 outside the continent, or the 400,000,000 here? Not more than 100,000,000 of the 200,000,000 will be in the British islands. There may be a confederation of all the present parts of the British Empire. America is not likely to form a part of it. She, however, will be the largest English-speaking nation She is such to-day—and, as such, will have extraordinary political and moral influence. A confederate British Empire would be a second set of United States.

WHENEVER I see Hood's Sarsaparilla now I want to bow and say

'Thank You'

Mrs. Paisley.

I was badly affected with Eczema and Scrofula Sores, covering almost the whole of one side of my face, nearly to the top of my head. Running sores discharged from both ears. My eyes were very bad, the eyelids so sore it was painful opening or closing them. For nearly a year I was deaf. I went to the hospital and had an operation performed for the removal of a cataract from one eye. One day my sister brought me which I took, and gradually began to feel better and stronger, and slowly the sores on my eyes and in my ears healed. I can now hear and see as well as ever." MRS. AMANDA PAISLEY, 176 Lander Street, Newburgh, N. Y.

CRICKET.

DEFEATED BY TORONTO.

The Toronto Cricket Club, who are on a tour of the western portion of the Province, and will also try conclusions with the Detroit Athletic Club towards the latter end of the week, met the Asylum team yesterday. The game was interesting throughout, but the visitors proved triumphant. They defeated their rivals with nine wickets to spare. Two of the chief features of the game were the magnificent score of 94 by Terry in the Londoners' second inning, and Laing's scarcely less brilliant showing of 75 in Toronto's first inning. Laing captured 10 wickets for 13 runs in London's first inning, and succeeded in performing the hat trick twice. Terry's score included 18 fours. His batting was exceedingly clever. Goldingham did some excellent fielding. Wadsworth made a good catch in the outfield for a long drive. Following is the detailed score:

DRYGOODS MEN PLAY BALL.

An interesting match was played yesterday afternoon between baseball teams representing the wholesale drygoods and the retail clerks. For the wholesale men, Johnson's pitching was a feature of the game, the retail people only making two hits. The fielding of the wholesale team was also very good, especially that of G. Sippi, F. Grant and Struthers. Score:

THE TURF.

CANDIDATES FOR THE BIG PRIZE.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 23.—The value of the Futurity to be run off on Tuesday at the Sheepshead Bay track is estimated at $63,995, but in big stake races of this kind the winner never gets the full amount, for there are always many forfeits which cannot be collected. Among the horses not declared and eligible to start are: Figaro, Patrician, Jack of Spades, Hurlingham, Ascot, Dobbins, Declare, Sam Lucas, Appomattox, St. Maxim, St. Julien, Hyderabad, El Telegrafo, Domino, Prig, Ameer, Fatality, Dorian, Will Fonso, Mr. Mernberg, La Jaya, Roscommon, Lougdale, Curacoa, Rubicon, Chant, Lucky Dog, Sir Excess, Joe Ripley, Vassal, Galilee, Aurelian and Trinculo.

HAL POINTER VIRTUALLY DISTANCED.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 23.—The second day of the Grand Circuit races on Hampden Park was more successful than the first. There was an attendance of 4,000 people. The free-for-all race was the surprise of the day, for Hal Pointer, who was looked on as a sure winner in straight heats, only escaped being distanced in the last heat by a technicality. The gelding took the first heat with ease. In the second Hal Pointer broke badly on the back stretch and came in third, while in the third heat he again won handily. So sure were the judges of his taking the next heat that they waived the distance penalty for the other horses in order to allow Hal Pointer to go ahead by himself and break the track record. On the back stretch, however, Blue Sign showed a great burst of speed and forged ahead of the village farm horse, who immediately went to pieces, and Geers could not get him on his feet in time to avoid being distanced. Consequently only the agreement to waive distancing allows Hal Pointer to race tomorrow. Summary:

FLEET FOOTED COLTS.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 23.—A large crowd witnessed the races at the Columbus Driving Park to-day. The feature was the phenomenal time made in the 2-year-old pace. The first half of the first heat was paced in 1:07, a 2:14 gait, and the mile was finished by Tiny Bug in 2:17½.

STANLEY SCORCHED.

The Explorer's Men Said to Have Been Badly Treated.

Dr. Peters Believes that Emin Pasha Is Still Alive.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Dr. Carl Peters, the African explorer, said to a reporter that he wished to correct a statement which had been attributed to him in an interview published on his arrival from Europe on Friday.

"Some papers have quoted me as saying that Stanley traveled like a gentleman while I traveled like a brigand," said Dr. Peters. "Now, I do not think that Stanley traveled like a gentleman, and I did not say so. From all that I could learn, traveling through the same country that he did, I would say that he did not travel like a gentleman, for he did not treat his European companions like gentlemen.

"Stanley lived on good food for himself, and allowed his men to live as the negroes did. The French missionaries told me that they visited Stanley's camp at Usumbrir and saw Stanley sitting at the head of the table eating European diet and drinking claret, while Emin Pasha, Mr. Mackay, and the members of Stanley's party ate negro diet and drank water. I was told that some of the white men of Stanley's party had to abandon their tents and sleep in the open air, so that Stanley's boxes of wine could be taken along. I was told by one of the missionaries that when one of Stanley's companions had the fever, and was not able to go on, Stanley took a horsewhip and flogged him saying: 'If my white men fall down, what will my negroes do?' That was on Stanley's first trip, and I was told that he had a white man flogged on his last trip.

"Another thing, Stanley in his books and lectures excites the pity of his readers by stories of his men starving. Now, I never lost a man from starvation. I always drove cattle when I was in doubt as to the country ahead of me. When men suffer for want of food it is due to carelessness. The rivers of Africa contain plenty of fish and there is plenty of game, if other supplies fail. Stanley got plenty of glory and fame out of his travels, and I admire him for it, but I do not admire the way he treated his men."

"Is there any trouble between Stanley and you?"

"No, none at all. I stood up for Emin Pasha when Stanley was against him, but that is all. I have no feeling against Stanley, but think the truth should be told.

"I wish you would say that it is impossible for me to answer all the letters that are sent to me. People write to ask me if I know positively that Emin Pasha is alive, and to ask for my autograph, and to offer to go with me on my next trip to Africa. I have news of Emin Pasha since the report of his death. I do not know whether he is still alive, but think he is."

Production of Gold and Silver.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A statement prepared by the mint bureau, Treasury Department, shows that since 1792, and up to 1892, the aggregate production of gold was $5,633,908,000, and of silver $5,104,961,000. Of the gold produced, $3,582,605,000 has been coined as money, and the balance has been used in the arts. Of the silver produced, $4,042,700,000 has been coined as money, and the balance used in the arts. Of the gold used in the arts, it is stated unofficially that most of it is now in graveyards, as the practice of dentistry absorbs a large proportion of the gold used in the arts.

Easily Answered.

"Suppose," said a Dakota teacher while hearing a class in mental arithmetic recite, "that your father should plant an addition of 30 lots to the town, and there should be a boom, and he should sell fourteen of them to a man from Chicago, and nine to a man from Minneapolis; and seven to a man from Denver, how many would be left?"

"I know," shouted a boy in the middle of the class.

"Very well, Tommy, you may tell us."

Safe, Sure and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure-pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes.

Mice Sheared Her Tresses.

In the most novel manner Miss Nora Hodge, a young lady of 16 summers and the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Vaughn, of this city, awoke Sunday morning to find that during the night before she had strange visitors—mice had paid her a visit, seemingly for the sole purpose of trimming her hair. This was done to the utmost satisfaction of these mischievous little visitors. Upon retiring it has been her custom to carefully plait her hair, which is of more than ordinary length. Fully two-thirds of the plait was cut off close to the head almost as neatly as could have been done by the most expert barber in town. All this shearing was done without disturbing in the least the slumbers of the young lady. It was while combing her hair that the loss was discovered. The neighbors were called in to see and account for, if possible, the mysterious act. Her hair was cut, by what? A careful search of the room disclosed the evil perpetrators. A nest of mice was discovered. The mice had already appropriated some of the hair to their own use, having been found with some of the stolen goods in their possession. It is unnecessary to state that the discomfited young lady is now wearing her hair cut short. Her friends deeply sympathize with her in this loss.—[From the Farlington (Ky.) Eee.

WOODS' FAIR!

WOODS'

It is a well-known fact that the stringencies in the money market has forced many large factories this season to realize on their goods for cash at a great sacrifice.

We doubt if any previous year has furnished such opportunities for the cash buyer to secure such grand bargains with his money.

We sell strictly for cash, consequently we had the ready money, and we have invested it with great care; and we are and will be in a position to offer to the public this fall better value for their money than ever before.

On account of extra retail room occasioned by our running two stores, 123 and 200 Dundas street, our assortment of goods will be much larger this season, and you will find many new lines added.

We do not claim to keep all quadruple plate, but it rests with you whether you will buy the best or cheapest. No danger of your being deceived in quality, and you can buy of us fully one-third cheaper for same quality than of the regular dealer.

Sheffield Silver-plated Knives 70c per half-dozen.

Rogers' Best Quality 12 dwt. Silver-plated Knives, $1 75 per half-dozen.

We also carry a large assortment of Trunks and Valises, on which we can save you money. Dot this down and don't forget to give us a call before buying elsewhere, as money saved is money earned.

We also carry now a much larger assortment in Crockery We can give you a handsome decorated 100-piece dinner set for $5 75.

Better grades a trifle higher.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

This week closes unsettled in several lines, the week having witnessed a good many changes, particularly in oats and provisions. Nothing new occurred in wheat; the demand and supply were both steady and prices unchanged at $1 to $1 03. The price of oats one week ago to-day was from $1 05 to $1 07, and to-day's closing values were 95c to $1, showing a decline of 7c to 10c per 100 lbs. The price now seems to be down to a manufacturing basis, and millers are buying at inside prices. There have been no receipts of any other kind of grain yet.

The deliveries of eggs were steady and a little in excess of the demand; sales on Tuesday were 9c to 10c by the basket.

Butter advanced 1c to 2c per lb; baskets of choice pound rolls sold at 23c to 25c; single rolls at 25c to 27c; crocks at 23c for the best, and from that down, according to quality.

Hay fluctuated between $8 and $9, the bulk of sales being made at $8 50.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—During the forenoon at the Western cattle markets yesterday business was not good. A lot of stuff was left unsold, buyers and drovers failing to come to terms. In the afternoon, however, they were more inclined to come together, and nearly everything was sold before the close of the day. Prices realized were no better than they have been for some time. Offerings were not heavy, only 57 car loads being on sale. These included 630 sheep and lambs, 200 hogs, 30 calves and 40 milch cows and springers. Receipts for the week ended Saturday, Aug. 19, were: Cattle, 1,867; sheep and lambs, 909; hogs, 494; weigh fees, $44 96. The attendance of buyers was fair, but buying was slow. Only a few loads went to Montreal. Reports from the old country were not encouraging, but some dealers expect better markets there soon.

PETERBORO.

PETERBORO, Aug 23.—The regular meeting of the cheese board was held here yesterday in the council chamber. There was a fair attendance of buyers, but owing to the continuous dry weather the number of cheese boarded was considerably less than last year. The number of cheese offered was 4,634 boxes. Bidding was very slow, only four factories selling. The board adjourned for two weeks, when the balance will be again boarded.

Mr. Quinn Comes Back.

A familiar figure to many Londoners arrived in this city yesterday after an absence of a couple of years. The figure referred to is that of Mr. James Quinn, who for probably a quarter of a century braved summer's heat and winter's cold on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, where he was wont to ply his vocation of newsvendor. Mr. Quinn has traveled extensively since leaving London. After a time spent with relatives in Toronto he went to Great Britain, and arrived direct from there this morning. He is looking well. It is not likely that Mr. Quinn will follow his old occupation, as his worldly affairs are in much better shape now than they once were.

The Late Judge Davis.

The Sarnia Canadian of yesterday's date contains the following: At a meeting of the legal profession of the county of Lambton, held here on the 9th inst., the following resolution of sympathy and condolence with the family of the late Judge Davis, of Middlesex, was unanimously adopted:

Mrs. J. Frederick Davis, London, Ont.:

Madam,—We, the members of the legal profession of the county of Lambton, have heard with the most profound sorrow of the sudden death, on the 5th inst., of your husband, the late J. F. Davis, judge of the County Court of the county of Middlesex, and we beg to offer to you our united expression of deepest sympathy in the time of your greatest sorrow and bereavement.

Those of us who knew the late judge intimately in the past years of his residence and practice at Sarnia, before his removal to London, and appointment to the county judiciary, have pleasant memories of his genial disposition and urbanity in social life, as well as of his public and professional intercourse with all classes. His appointment to the county judgeship of Middlesex, and as one of the judges of the judicial district of Middlesex and Lambton, caused great satisfaction to his numerous friends in both counties, and the marked ability and unswerving adherence to right and duty he always displayed in the administration of his office as judge most deservedly won for him a high position in the estimation of the legal profession and public generally.

We humbly trust that you will have great consolation in being assured that your late husband will always live in the memories of his friends as an upright man, and one who most worthily filled the position of judge, from the arduous duties of which he has been so suddenly removed by death.

Sarnia, Aug. 9, 1893.

A Deserter.

Some two years ago Wm. Banks, alias Lambert, deserted from No. 1 Company, C. R. I., London, and has ever since been at liberty, but the hand of fate followed him, and now he is again, or will soon be, back in his old company. Col.-Sergt. E. D. Griffith, of No. 1 Company, on Monday, arrived from London to see the British soldiers parade, and while walking along the street ran across Banks, who evidently also had a desire to see the soldiers. The officer handed Banks over to the police. Yesterday he appeared in the Police Court, pleaded guilty to being a deserter, and was remanded until to-morrow, when an escort will arrive to take him back to London.—[Toronto Mail.

Manitoba's Crops—A Denial.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—Dispatches were received here from Manitoba to-day denying that the crops had not been damaged. Dispatches say they have been badly damaged by late rains, which still continue heavy; also that two nights' frost did harm last week. It is said that the yield will not be nearly as heavy as Mr. Ogilvie predicted.

I have been gone just a year from home; to here I have covered awheel and afoot, in America, Japan and China, 8,592 miles, and crossed the Pacific Ocean and Yellow Sea by steamer, over 6,000 miles of water. Treat for the Children.

Messrs. Fish and Terry, two citizens, have located a palace circular swing on the vacant lot corner of King and Clarence streets. This is the same swing that has delighted children all summer in Queen's Park. The above two gentlemen were born and brought up in London, and they completed the manufacture of the swing by their own hard and clever work. They have been well patronized while in Queen's Park and make the move to above locality on account of the season being about closed for any more turn-outs in the park. The swing will be running to-night and every evening and Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons. Every comfort and care is given to children. Remember the spot—corner King and Clarence streets. b

HIS REPENTANCE.

The gentleman standing at the window was Mark Cray. Resident at Honfleur for more than a month now, this was the first time he had been called in to see a patient. A traveler had been taken ill at the Cheval Blanc in the middle of the night, had asked if there was an English doctor in the place, and Mark was summoned.

It was a rather serious case, and Mark had not left him yet. The door between the rooms was open, but Mark kept as still as a mouse; for the patient, he hoped, was dropping into a doze. Mark had occupation enough, looking out on the busy scene. It was high tide, and the harbor, close on which the hotel was built, was alive with bustle. Fishing boats were making ready to go out; fishing boats were tiding in, bearing their night's haul. The short pier underneath had quite a crowd on it for that early hour; women with shrill tongues, men with gruff ones, who were waiting to tow in a merchant vessel drawing near; idlers only looking on—their babel of voices came right up to Mark, and had he been rather more familiar with the Norman tongue, he might have known what all the gabbling was about. A quiet wedding party, three men and three women, were taking a walk on the pier, two and two, after the performance of the early ceremony; or perhaps it had been performed the previous day, and this one was the continuance of the holiday—one never knows; the gala caps on the women's heads flapping out their extraordinary wings, such caps as we may see in pictures; a sober, middle-aged, well-conducted wedding party of humble life. They probably came, Mark thought, from some few miles inland, where the water and the boats were not every-day objects, as at Honfleur, for their interest in these seemed intense. Every minute there was something new, as is sure to be the case with a full tide at early morning; now an entanglement of boats at the entrance to the harbor; now the snapping of a cord and deafening noise in consequence; and now a flat barge, heavily laden, went rounding off to the Seine, to toil up between its green banks as far as Rouen.

Suddenly, a noise as of the waters being cut through arose, and Mark, who was watching the toiling barge, and wondering what she was laden with, turned his head to the left. The steamer plying from Havre was coming in—had almost reached the port. She had made a fine passage that morning; not 25 minutes yet had passed since she steamed out of Havre. The coming in and the going out again of these steamers, twice each way in the summer days, is the great event in Honfleur life.

In she came to the harbor, swiftly and steadily she rounded the point under the hotel windows, and moored herself in her place, opposite the hotel entrance. Mark Cray changed his window now.

Quitting the one at which he had been standing, he quietly opened the one which faced the town and inner harbor, and leaned out to watch the disembarking of the steamer's live freight.

"I wonder how many of them will be coming into the hotel for breakfast?" he murmured. "I wish——"

What he was about to wish was never known. A voice from the inner room interrupted him. And it was not by any means a feeble voice, but rather a loud one.

"Mr. Cray!"

Mark hastened in. To his surprise he saw his patient, whom he had left in hope of sleep, out of bed and dressing himself. Mark, as medical attendant, made a strong remonstrance.

"I feel a great deal better," was the answer. "I can't lie any longer. Is not that the boat coming in?"

"Yes," said Mark. "But——"

"Well, I told you I must go back by her to Havre if I possibly could. Necessity has no choice."

Mark could only look his amazement. The boat would go out again almost directly, and the patient stood little chance of getting time for breakfast. "You cannot go by this boat," he said. "There'll be another later in the day."

"I can't wait for that. I must be away from Havre by an early train."

"But—I—I don't know that I can pronounce you out of danger," remonstrated Mark, hardly able yet to realize the fact that a gentleman, thought to be dying in the night, was dressing himself to go off by a steamer in the morning. "Of danger, sir, do you hear?"

"I know these attacks of mine are bad—dangerous, I suppose, while they last; but once over, I am well, except for weakness. And the long and the sort of it is, I must go to Havre by the return boat."

Mark Cray saw that further objection would be useless. The chamberman (I can't help it if you object to the appelation, the hotel had no women servants) came in with warm water, and the traveler ordered a cup of coffee to be ready by the time he got down. Mark went back to the sitting-room. He would stay and see him on board.

The steamer's first bell had rung when the traveler came forth. Mark caught up his hat and gloves. "I hardly know what I am indebted to you," said the stranger, placing a thin piece of paper in his hand. "Perhaps that will cover it."

It was a hundred-franc note. Mark would have given it back, badly though he wanted money. It was too much; altogether too much, he exclaimed.

"No," said the stranger. "I don't know what I should have done without you; and you have stayed with me the night. That's being attentive. I was taken ill once before in the night at a hotel in France, where there happened to be an English doctor in town, and they got him to me. But he was gone again in an hour, and in fact, seemed to resent having been disturbed at all. I didn't pay him more than I was obliged."

"Ah, he had plenty of practice, perhaps," cried Mark, rather too impulsively. "But indeed this is paying me a great deal too much. I don't like to take it."

"Indeed it is not, and I hope you will accept my thanks with it," was the conclusive answer.

Mark Cray saw the traveler on board the boat, watched it move off, turn and go steaming done the port. And then he made the best of his way home, the hundred-franc note in his pocket seeming to be a very fairy of good fortune.

They had come to Honfleur the latter end of April; this was the beginning of June; and poor Mark had not found a single patient yet. Mr. Barker was there to receive them. How Barker contrived to live, or whence his funds came, Mark did not know, but he always seemed flourishing. There are some men who always do seem flourishing, whatever may be their ups and downs. Barker was in Paris now apparently in high feather, his letters to Mark boasting that he was getting into "something good."

Mark ran all the way home; his lodgings were not far, near the ascent of the Mont Joli. Could scenery have supplied the place of meat and drink, then Mark and his wife might have lived as epicures, for nothing could have been more grandly beautiful than the prospect seen from their windows. But alas! something besides the eyes requires to be feasted in this world of wants.

It was a small house, with a garden before the door, and was tenanted by a widow lady and her servant. Mark and his wife occupied a small sitting-room in it and a bedchamber above; opening from the sitting-room was a place about four feet square, which served for a kitchen, and was let to them with the rooms. They waited on themselves; it is rare indeed that attendance is furnished with lodgings in France. But madame's servant was complaisant, and lighted their fire, and did many other little things.

Caroline was in the bedroom dressing when Mark returned. Dressing in that listless, spiritless manner which argues badly for the hope and heart. It was a pity their expectations in regard to Honfleur had been so inordinately raised, for the disappointment was keen, and Caroline perhaps had not strength to do battle with it. She had pictured Honfleur (take the impression from Barker's letters and Mark's sanguine assumptions) as a very haven of refuge; a panacea for their past woes, a place where the English patients, if not quite as plentiful as blackberries, would at least be sufficient to furnish them with sufficient funds to live in comfort. But it had altogether proved a fallacy. The English patients held aloof. In fact, there were no English patients so far they could make out. Nobody got ill; or, if they did get ill, they did not come to Mark to be cured. Tribulation in the shape of petty embarrassment was coming upon them, and Caroline began to hate the place. She was weary, sick, sad; half dead with disappointment and ennui.

Unfortunately, there was becoming a reason to suspect that something was radically wrong with Caroline. Not that she thought it yet; still less, Mark. Dr. Davenal surmised that her constitution was unsound.

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."—Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, which has done such wonders in my case." 1

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

"There are conditions," said the man who started the ventilating fan, "under which one is justified in putting on airs."

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Justice O'Halloran — Have you any children, Mrs. Kelly? Mrs. Kelly—I have two living, and wan married.

A mans' wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

MR. DAWSON'S REJOINDER.

KINGSTON, Aug. 23.—Mr. G. W. Dawson, M.P., publishes the following letter in to-day's Whig:

"Will you permit me to correct a misstatement in the report submitted to the Supreme Orange Lodge, in session at Sault Ste. Marie, by Major Sam Hughes, M.P., chairman of committee on correspondence. The report stated: 'Your committee, after due inquiry, has learned that the person put forward to attack our M. W. G. M. (N. Clarke Wallace) is a man formerly an Orangeman, but for years not in connection with the order. Your committee, however, recommends that prompt action be taken to inquire fully into the premises, to give the offender an opportunity of explaining his unbrotherly conduct in the House of Commons, for Mr. Dawson, the member referred to, spoke as an Orangeman and dealt with him accordingly.'

"As a matter of fact the committee did not make due inquiry. His Parliamentary companion would have given Major Hughes my address, reference to the Grand Lodge records would have revealed the fact that L.O.L., No. 1,159, meet at Plevna, my home, and that Bro. James Stalker is W. M. thereof. Had the committee sought to ascertain the fact Bro. Stalker would have told them that I am now, and have been continuously for seventeen years, a member in good standing of L.O.L., No. 1,159, that I have been master, and that I am still an officer of my lodge; that in seventeen years I have been absent from sixteen meetings only, and that I never yet failed to 'meet my brethren on July 12.' My brethren everywhere may feel assured that my resolution declaring 'That the action of N. Clarke Wallace, in expressing sympathy with and holding out the hope of active aid to those who threaten to levy war in Ireland against her Majesty is deserving of the severest censure at the hands of this House,' was moved in perfect good faith by a brother in good standing, who believes the intemperate utterances of the grand master, on the occasion referred to, are inconsistent with those professions of loyalty so often made by him, and that the resolution was not submitted by 'a man formerly an Orangeman, but for years not in connection with the order,' as Major Hughes seeks to make it appear. Will you permit me to assure the Grand Lodge that the 'offender' is quite prepared to 'explain his unbrotherly conduct in the House of Commons,' or elsewhere, whenever it may please them to graciously 'afford the opportunity' recommended by the committee. And, in return, the 'offender' will be pleased to learn wherein the Orange constitution justifies the M. W. G. M. in pledging 'our active aid, if that active aid be necessary,' to 'our friends' in Ireland, who 'have asserted their unalterable determination never to submit' to that local legislature which Mr. Gladstone and his Government wish to establish in Dublin, and which her Majesty, on opening the present session of Parliament, declared from the throne to be designed 'to afford contentment to the Irish people, important relief to Parliament, and additional securities for the strength and union of the empire.' Let me, in conclusion, further assure the Grand Lodge that the recommendation to 'deal with' me will not deter me or any other Orangeman who loves liberty and values the priceless privilege of self-government from sternly condemning seditious utterance, whether made by friend or foe, Saxon or Celt."

BOUND TO BURN CHURCHES.

Peculiar Mania of a New Hampshire Firebug—Coal Oil and Shavings Used in Profusion.

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 23.—This town is in a fever of excitement over what seems to be a plot to burn all the houses of worship in the city. Saturday night the beautiful Belknap Memorial Church was discovered on fire. Though damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars the structure was saved for the time being. Scarcely had the firemen returned to their quarters, however, when the church was again in flames. The fire first originated back of the door at 9:30 o'clock, and the second in the belfry shortly after midnight. It was found that the lower portion of the building had been filled with dry wood and this saturated with coal oil. The second fire almost completed the ruin of the property.

A third alarm was rung before daylight and the Parish Baptist Church was found to be on fire. Before the flames were subdued the structure was in ruins. Here, too, the odor of kerosene was strong.

It has also been found that preparations were made to fire the M. E. Church, the most magnificent of its kind in town. The Advent Church had also been visited by the incendiary and a large quantity of inflammable material had been placed in readiness for the torch. In the Advent Church the carpets, seats and cushions had been saturated with oil. At all the other churches in the town it was found that plans more or less elaborate had been laid by the firebug. Each edifice had its pile of rubbish and the carpets were saturated with oil.

In the unburned churches the preparations of the incendiary must have been made after services Sunday night.

The citizens of the place are thoroughly inflamed. Firemen are ordered to patrol the streets, and the members of the militia detailed to aid them in their watch. Every church is being guarded.

The general opinion is that some monomaniac is doing the work. Another theory is advanced by the radical temperance people, who say the liquor element is responsible.

RATTLING RAINFALL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The greatest rainfall hitherto recorded at the Central Park Arsenal was exceeded on Sunday morning. Dr. Draper said that his rain gauges showed that one and one-half inches fell during the twenty minutes between 10:15 and 10:35 o'clock. From 9:30 a.m., when the rain began, until 3 p.m., when it ended, the fall was 2.21 inches, which figures break the record for the last five years. From 6:30 o'clock on Saturday evening to 6 o'clock on Sunday morning the fall was 1.6 inches, which makes the total rainfall for the two days 3.81 inches.

"Now," said Dr. Draper, "if you will multiply 3.81 by 23,000 you will obtain 87,630, which is the number of gallons that fell on one acre during the storm."

IN A SAD PREDICAMENT.

Her Husband Sent to Jail for Deserting Another Woman—The Real Wife Starving.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Bernard Greenwald was convicted of abandonment in one of the police courts several weeks ago, and, as he had no bondsman to guarantee that he would pay $3 a week to his wife, he was sent to Blackwell's Island. In such cases the imprisonment is for six months, and then after his discharge if he again fails to support his wife he can be rearrested.

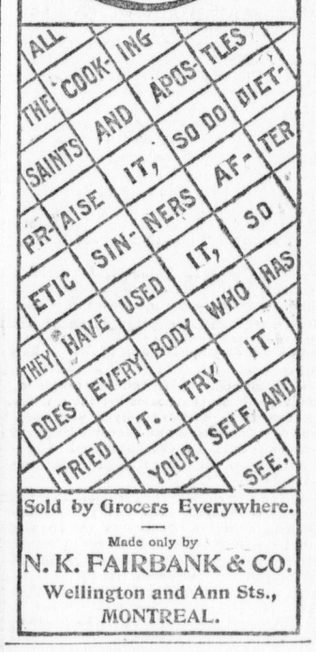

A woman entered Supt. Blake's office, at the Department of Charities, yesterday and wept bitterly. Greenwald was her husband, but it wasn't she who had him locked up. While she was in Poland her husband had been living with another woman in this city, and the latter had him arrested for abandonment when Greenwald returned to his wife. The poor woman is penniless, starving and without a friend. She also has a 6-months-old child to look after. Mr. Blake will try to help her.

A FOOL AND HIS MONEY.

Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight,
Give me back my pile again just for to-night,
For I am dead broke; my money is fled;
And that comes of keeping it under the bed.
From my trusted bank I drew out the pile
And hid it away in the carpet awhile,
And, as I was sleeping, a gentleman crook
Made entrance, and all of my rich treasure took.
It made me quite weary; so much do I weep:
"Kick me to sleep, jackass, kick me to sleep."
—Indianapolis Journal.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mr. G. Street returned last evening from a very pleasant reunion with old friends in Milton, Palermo and Oakville.

—Investigation into the charges against Rev. W. S. Ball, of Vanneck, will be made by a commission of ministers and elders on Aug. 29.

—Mr. M. E. Jones, photographer, of Brownsville, has gone on a visit to Cleveland. He will bring back some views of the Forest City.

—The lad Warren, who was run over by Horner's grocery wagon last Saturday, has been removed to the hospital. He is seriously injured internally.

—The demonstration which was to have been given by the Young Liberal Fleet to-night in Victoria Park has been postponed until some evening next week.

—An ice cream social under the auspices of the King Street Methodist Church will be held at the residence of Rev. Mr. Rigsby, 13 Wortley road, this evening.

—Specifications for the lease of the L. and P. S. R. have been sent to the M. C. R., C. P. R., G. T. R. and Mr. Brennan by Secretary Coo. They ask that the harbor be kept open and that so many trains a day be run.

—Miss Mary E. Tolhurst, formerly a resident of this city, who has been on an extended visit among relatives and friends in this city and vicinity, returns to her home in Tilsonburg to-day well pleased with the pretty appearance of her native city.

—Thomas Cox, of Westminster township, and his wife Mary Ann settled their little grievance before Squire Smyth yesterday. The charge of assault and abusive language was withdrawn by the latter, and white-winged peace once more reigns over the household.

—The city engineer has ordered the following new walks laid down: West side Richmond street, Cheapside to Victoria street; north side Oxford, George to Talbot streets; north side Albert, Talbot to Ridout streets; north side Horton, Burwell to Maitland streets; south side Campbell, Egerton west to present walk; south side Mabel, in front of cottages only; north side English, Dundas to Queen's avenue.

Raise the Flags.

"I think it's a shame," said a Richmond street merchant yesterday, "that the many citizens who own flags and flag poles make no attempt to float their banners on a holiday. They prefer to let them rot in the attic dust rather than to let strangers in town know that is a holiday and not a funeral that is going on."

School Matters.

No. 2 committee of the School Board held a special meeting last evening to make arrangements for a model school room. The cost of one in the southern part of the city was considered too great, and the board will be recommended to use the vacant room in Princess avenue school. Inspector Perry reported that all the public schools were ready for occupancy, and that the Collegiate Institute would be completed by Sept. 6. This fact will be advertised.

Corcoran Was Discharged.

The assault case of Delay vs. Corcoran received a lengthy hearing before Squire Lacey yesterday and resulted in the discharge of the prisoner, Thomas Corcoran. Patrick Quinn received 23 months imprisonment at the June Sessions for his part in the affair, and an endeavor was made to show that Corcoran was with Quinn when old man Delay and his daughter Margaret were assaulted and beaten in their home on Tipperary Flats in May last. The evidence was so very contradictory that the magistrate found no case and discharged Corcoran. Magee, Q.C., for the crown, Love for the defense.

Water Commissioners.

The water commissioners met Tuesday with Wm. Jones in the chair, and R. K. Cowan, Engineer Moore and Secretary Ellwood present. As usual water will be supplied for the fountain in the main building at the coming Western Fair. Lawns may from this time out be watered from 5 to 8 a.m., and from 5 to 8 p.m. Engineer Moore, Commissioner Cowan and Secretary Ellwood will attend a meeting of the American Waterworks Association in Milwaukee on Sept. 5 to 9. A communication from S. Fuge, re boiler composition, was referred to the engineer. Tenders will be called for the painting of the city hydrants. Mr. John Clement's offer to shingle the hotel at Springbank at $4 a square was accepted. The commissioners still think that the citizens are wasting water. "Most of the water must run into the sewer," said Commissioner Cowan. "From the amount of water pumped each man, woman and child must be five or six barrelsful." The house to house inspection will begin right away. Some talk was indulged in with reference to the lack of pumping power at Springbank. It was decided to await the visit of Engineer Keefer, and then authority will probably be asked of the council to permit the commissioners to expend their surplus in pumping power.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in Somerset hall Tuesday. There were 37 members present. Mrs. (Rev.) Fowler occupied the chair and conducted the devotional exercises. Letters were read from the president, Mrs. Thornley, which greatly cheered the members of the union. After a solo by Miss Lightheart, Mrs Carson took charge of the business part of the meeting, which consisted of making arrangements for the work at the dining hall, Queen's Park, during the fair.

The next meeting will also be devoted to the same subject. It was announced that another mass meeting will be held at Queen's Park next Sunday at 4 p.m. Music will be furnished by the Sons of England Band.

Prospecting.

Reeve Abray, Deputy Reeve Dreaney, Councilors J. R. Hodgins, J. H. Hodgins and E. Dann, of the London Township Council, met Messrs. Smallman, Hellmuth and Break yesterday afternoon, and accompanied them in a 'bus over the proposed electric route east on the Governor's road to Pottersburg. Mr. Ed. Johnston, Col. Clark's solicitor, was also present. The object in going over the road was to see whether the road was wide enough for the rails without filling in the ditches on either side. This is still a matter of opinion. Mr. Johnston was authority for the statement that an offer from Col. Clark would depend entirely on whether or not they secured the city franchise. The London street railway people assert that the decision of the London City Council does not affect them at all, and that an electric road in the direction named simply depended on what inducements are offered by the township council. What these will be will probably be made known at the council meeting during the first week in September.

A London Man's Mishap.

A Hamilton dispatch says: "An accident occurred last night on the G. T. R. which may result fatally. John Dunn, of London, was thrown from a moving train about ten miles east of here and injured his spine. He lay by the track in a helpless condition for an hour and a half before he was noticed. He was then brought to Hamilton and taken to the city hospital, where he received medical aid. His condition is serious."

The report that Mr. Dunn had died yesterday was incorrect. His brother Charles, of this city, was in Hamilton and arrived here last night, and stated that the injured man was resting quietly. Later in the evening he received a telegram that John was very low and that there was but slight hope of his recovery. He left on the Erie express with Mrs. John Dunn for Hamilton.

John Dunn has been working in Buffalo for about four years and was on his way to London, the factory having shut down. At one time he was in partnership with Mr. Essex here in the brass moulding business and later had an establishment of his own in the old Mechanics' Institute building on Talbot street. His many friends will be grieved to hear of his serious misfortune.

A Probable Murder.

Word was received by G. T. R. Superintendent Tiffin yesterday of an attempted robbery at the Drumbo station, and of a shooting affray which may probably end fatally. The agent, John C. Pritchard, who lives over the depot, was awakened during the night by noises emanating from the lower part. He was aware of someone walking below. He fired a shot from a revolver in order to scare the supposed depredators. This he succeeded in doing. Mrs. Weaver who is a sister of Mrs. Pritchard, and who was looking from a window received a shot in the breast from a weapon in the hand of one of the burglars who was standing upon the platform acting as a look-out. The extent of the young woman's injuries has not yet been ascertained. It is thought, however, that she will not recover. None of the robbers have yet been apprehended. They tried to break open the safe, but were not successful.

The ball, in striking Mrs. Weaver, entered the upper part of the chest and pierced the right lung. It has not yet been extracted, and at last accounts she was in a very critical condition. An unconfirmed report was circulated in the city last evening that the woman had died.

London West's Street Railway.

The London West Council may eclipse the city in securing a street railway with electrical motive power. At a special meeting Tuesday night the matter was thoroughly discussed by all the members, who, with the exception of Deputy Reeve Scarrow, were in favor of making an immediate agreement. Finally, on motion of Councilor Smith, it was decided that Mr. Bartram should hold a conference with the London Street Railway Company authorities and prepare a bylaw containing any agreements which might be arrived at. These will be ratified or rejected at a meeting of the council on Friday evening next. Members present suggested a number of stipulations which might be inserted. The line must extend from Kensington bridge, along the Wharncliffe road as far as Oxford street, and thence to the bridge on that thoroughfare. The rails are to be laid in the center of the streets. The road level must be graded to the top of the tracks and also be graveled for twelve feet on either side. Mr. D. C. Macdonald was asked to give his views. Among other things, referring to the adoption of electric propulsion, or the retaining of the present horse and mule service in London city, he remarked that this mattered very little to London West—the mule power would all be in the City Council chamber until the 1st of January.

Dropsy and Ulcerated Ankle Completely Cured.

HAMILTON, Nov. 2, 1890.
MR. WILLIAMS:
Dear Sir,—I have great faith in your Royal Crown Remedy, and can recommend it to the public as a great blood purifier. I was laid up for three months with an ulcerated ankle; dropsy also set in my legs. I was advised by Mr. John Bickell to try your medicine and vegetable pills. After using two or three bottles and one box of pills I was completely cured. Yours truly,
MRS. S. ROBINS,
