The intensity of the artillery drumfire with which the Entente Allies had been demolishing the Teuton trenches preparatory to today's assault has been described by the German general staff as the greatest in the history of warfare, even surpassing the terrific fire maintained a the beginning of the Somme and Arras offensives. Military observers have attributed two objectives for the Entente offensive—the recapture of the Belgian North Sea coast, which has been used by the Germans as bases for their submarines, and to assist the hard-pressed Russians on the Galician front.

THIRTY-MILE BATTLEFRONT. The battlefront north of the River Lys stretches from Warneton on the Franco-Belgian border, to the North Sea coast, the distance between those two points being about thirty miles. Included in this battle area is the famous Wytschaete-Messines front, where the British on June 7 after exploding a million pounds of high explosives under the German lines, attacked on a 9-mile front and captured the high ridge, several towns, 47 heavy guns, and more than 7,000 prisoners. ANOTHER FRENCH SUCCESS.

Paris, July 31.—French forces last night made a successful attack against the German positions along a 1,500-yard front at La Royere and west of Epine-de-Chevregny, on the Aisne front, says the French official statement issued this afternoon. A German conuter-attack was crushed.

The bed is no longer a household necessity. Benches, blankets on the lawns, a block of ice in the cellar, any of these things is good enough to sleep on. Families are spread over the whole plantation, and the village bell has to be rung at daylight to gather them in. Like the Arabs, the folks silently fold their "nighties" and steal into the sunbaked homes just at daybreak, there to spend the remaining hours till work time in abusing roundly every person connected with the weather bureaus,

It's hot, all right, and then language fails. The weatherman promised showers and cool weather, but he failed miserably. And that's It was believed he was struck by some portion of the radiator, although the nature of the wound makes it difficult to understand what part of the car could have inflicted such an injury. The car was a new one, having just been purchased by Goldberg, who was being instructed in driving by Archie McLaughlin, 123 Cathcart street, a Ford instructor.

Instructor.

The car was coming from the east on King street, following another. At the corner of King and Richmond streets the car driven by Goldberg, according to witnesses, attempted to pass to the right instead of the left. Branton and J. Doig were standing at the edge of the walk, alongside the hydro pole. Doig was not injured, except a slight scratch on the leg, but his trousers were torn.

boig was not injured, except a sight scratch on the leg, but his trousers were torn.

When Branton was struck he fell to the pavement, the blood flowing freely from the deep wound in his thigh. Dr. Holmes was summoned and a tourniquet applied to stop the bleeding. Weak and fainting from loss of blood, Branton was removed to Victoria Hospital.

Dr. Holmes stated later that there might be danger of blood-polsoning.

Goldberg claimed that McLaughlin, who was instructing him, took hold of the wheel and gave it a quick turn, and that the accident happened before he could regain control of the car.

McLaughlin, on the other hand, claims he grabbed the wheel when he saw the accident was about to happen, but too late to prevent it occurring.

MURPHY EXPLAINS

Joseph A. Murphy, who acted as presiding steward at the Thorncliffe meeting, made public for the first time the reason for the severance of his relations with the Canadian Racing Association. Under date of November 23 he received the following letter from W. P. Fraser, secretary of the Canadian Racing Association: "Your letter of September 30 regarding your services as steward for the season of 1917 has been submitted to the committee of the Canadian Racing Association, who have instructed me to say that the agitation in Canada regarding the employment of those who are not Canadians is such that the committee feel that they are not in a position to accept your services for 1917."

"My friends have been insistent for some time that I should make the letter public," said Mr. Murphy, "but I have thought that racing in Canada was in trouble enough without starting an international controversy among the horsemen."

(Special Correspondence, Financial World, New York.) Next to the present great war the greatest problem which is daily nearing a crisis for the Dominion of Canada is her railway problem. Should the war end suddenly it would be with affright that not only Canadians but Americans, whose finances are tied up in Canadian railways, would look at the present Can adian railway situation.

Two of the Canadian Transcontinental systems are on the verge of bankruptcy and are only being saved from collapse by an indulgent Government which must allow of a leak in the Government treasury, through which flows the sustenance, in a pure stream. This is allowed to continue because of absolute ecessity to prevent a collapse, which would greatly impair Canada's already huge and practically unknown public debt. This debt is daily increasing owing to the continued war costs.

The great problem is what is to be done. The present outlook is for na tionalization as the remedy, but naturalization means a monopoly by the political party in power. Canadians mostly, and Americans also, have paid dearly and mostly through the nose for the Canadian railway systems, only one of which, the Canadian Pacific, has been absolutely successful. And yet all the systems, except the Intercologial are considered. which, the Canadian Pacific, has been absolutely successful. And yet all the systems, except the Intercolonial, are owned by private interests. Here are rail-ways paid for by the people through whose country they operate, and which are in reality public utilities, but owned by private interests. Their franchises are given by the people. Of three transcontinentals not one of them is owned by the people of Canada though these same people have been the wet nurses of

Only one of the three transcontinentals pays; but to nationalize Canadian rallroads wholesale would be to have Canada shoulder a burden so enormous that might in the end mean a national burden too great to bear.

In the case of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific it will be perfect In the case of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific it will be perfectly safe for the Government to let them alone, but the Canadian Northern, which is closely linked up with the Government—federal, provincial and municipal by reason of the enormous amount of public help which has been rendered, must be taken over to keep the credit of Canada safe. The Government would never dare to allow that road to repudiate its debts. But this white elephant, "what will it do with it?" It is not a paying proposition and would be of no financial use, but would be as expensive as a scion of a rich family.

So far as the Grand Trunk Pacific goes that can be taken over by the ent and with its help a National Transcontinental Railway can be established which will reach from ocean to ocean. This would be taking a huge burden off the shoulders of the Grand Trunk and it could be run easily in nection with the Intercolonial Railway.

GOOD NEWS FOR COBALT PROPERTIES.

There has recently been an abnormal demand for silver, and the United a week. No doubt this is almost entirely required for coinage purposes, and these requirements will increase as the number of American troops for France Silver is quoted in New York around 80c, and has sold in San Franisco as high as 811/2c.

India and China are large users of silver for coinage, and in 1916 India along ight over $75,000,000 worth. As gold disappears from circulation in many of European countries the demand there is already a difference of about 16 cents per ounce between presen prices and those of only one year ago. These bettered conditi i.70 per share. It is worthy of note that considering the producing, coupled ith the regular, and exira, dividend-record of this property, demand for and rices of shares, do not more readily respond to apparent intrinsic worth, espe-ially as Nipissing probably has, at the present moment, two years' supply of e blocked out. This is another illustration of how long it takes some ling properties to outlive "a black eye." Since Bernard Baruch and oterie of New York brokers made their well-remembered visit to Cobalt, and that celebrated mining engineer, John Hays Hammond, made his equally well-remembered derogatory report on Cobalt, and Nipissing had been selling up to nade several millionaires in the meantime,

ST. PAUL RAILWAY AMONG THE LAGGARDS-STOCK STILL DECLINES.

For some years financial interests in this property have not been satisfied with the Earling administration. They gave sufficient time for the slack to be taken up after the Puget Sound extension was completed and merged into the parent company. Then the situation was glossed over by the electrification of parent company. Then the situation was glossed over by the electrification of the mountain divisions, which was a spplendid bit of engineering and the adaptation of modern methods to a serious operating problem. A great deal has been heard of the foresight of the St. Paul in putting this plan through. Generous credit is given for it, though as yet there are no figures available to show just how much is being saved over the old method plus the charge for carrying the cost of the electric divisions. Meanwhile, the operating ratio of the entire system has been rising. Recently it has seemingly been dut of control. Bailgrand tem has been rising. Recently it has seemingly been out of control. Raily men point to the transportation ratio of 44 per cent of gross earnings in the five months to May 31. This is far beyond that of the Northern Pacific, which has less branch mileage than the St. Paul, to be sure, and is a more compact system, but whose heavy tonnage movements are almost duplicated by the St. Paul, viz., those of lumber and grain with more coal and ore on the St. Paul than on the Northern Pacific to offset some of the disadvantages of this branch mileage.

The situation in St. Paul is one of "dry rot." This has before brought down many good properties to a point where a change in operating personnel was imperative. The queer thing is that the William Rockefeller interests have been so fascinated all these years by what the Earling management turned out in the way of transportation results. In the St. Paul organization are many men who have passed their day of active usefulness. It is not fair to St. Paul share-holders that they should stay on. The road needs new young blood, and that is probably what it will get very quickly. The problem of the day is where to secure St. Paul presidential timber from among the men who are now satisfied

LIFE INSURANCE HELPS THE THRIFT HABIT.

Life insurance is one of the greatest saving institutions in the world today, and the only means by which the average man may provide, both for his and his family's future. It is the foe of poverty and the rock upon which the home can rest secure, and once you have taken ample insurance, a very great as well as a pressing part of your burden and anxiety then will have been shifted to others, and you will have a good right to spend more of your income for your own and your family's enjoyment, while you live, and as you go along.

No right-thinking man can have peace of mind or feel satisfied with himso long as this one duty remains unperformed. GOOD INTENTIONS alone will not protect the family.

If you can get life insurance today, by all means TAKE it today.

WALL STREET CONDITIONS

There is nothing disturbing. Money is easy owing to such large amounts ing out into commercial channels and percolating through its many avenues trade and commerce and back to the banks again.

The Liberty Loan was absorbed with such ease and was so acceptable to the American public on a 3½ per cent basis, that the Government at Washington is preparing with every confidence to put out another three billion at same rate of interest, but will doubtless pay the banks, trust companies and bond brokers the usual commission, especially after the magnanimous way in which they came to the assistance of the treasury when up to June 15th the Liberty Loan was stagnating and would have failed of accomplishment but for the trained effort and judicious publicity given it by those whom the secretary of the treasury did not seem to consider as a necessary adjunct to the operations of the treasury department.

Should it prove possible to put out another $3,000,000,000 at 31/2 per cent it would greatly help bonds bearing from 4 to 5 per cent, and there sho improvement in price of many very excellent issues which have already reached the lowest point in twenty years. For instance, such bonds as Ontario and Westhe lowest point in twenty years. For instance, such bonds as Ontario and western 4's, guaranteed as to principal and interest by the New York Central Railway and selling around 88. These are times when our own Canadian issues offer good bargains and some of our shrewd farseeing investors are already beginning to pick up "a bunch of good stuff": for the strong box.

Bache's Review has the following as covering the outlook at New York. The current situation in the stock market, when it can be reliably analyzed, of great assistance in determining the conclusions of the best financial thought if the country on the effect which the great and small movements throughout the of the country on the effect which the great and small movements throughout the world are liable to have upon business and material prosperity. The present market is no exception. What will results be from the action at Washington, on prices and taxes—the collapse of Russia as a present aid to the Allies—and the death grip on the Western front? If prices are discounting, the worst that can happen in any of these directions, the conclusion, it seems to us, must be that the best thought believes; first, in a sane solution—a solution on the constructive side of the price fixing problem and that of taxtion—a solution which allows side, of the price-fixing problem and that of taxation—a solution which allows prosperity to continue and will not rob enterprise of inducements to put forth its prosperity to continue and will not rob enterprise of inducements to put forth its best efforts; and, second, a conclusion as to the outcome of the war, that with the employment of every resource in men, money and production of a nation of 110 millions of people possessing $240,000,000,000 in wealth—a people who have never been beaten in war—added to the extraordinary achievements and still vast resources of England, France and the other Allies; with all this against her. Germany is sure to be crushed, in the end, and the war completely won for Lib-

Any other inference as to what final opinion is, would mean an outlook for a collapse in prices of great proportions and general disruption in the business

Life Insurance For Young Men

The importance of encouraging young men to make at least a start in life insur ance is not fully appreciated. Many too hastily assume that it will be time enough to act when they shall have become producers and when there shall be someone depending upon them. The young man should begin early for several reasons:

It costs considerable money to rear and educate a boy; and it is right and proper that the family purse should be reimbursed for the benefit of the others in case of premature death. The same amount of money put into a house would certainly be covered by fire insurance. Besides, the expenses of sickness and burial in most families cause sacrifice and embarrassment, and this could at least be prevented by life insurance.

It is well to start a policy in early youth because the premium is low and the insurance will cost less throughout life, or be fully paid in early manhood.

Accident or impairment of health may make it impossible to pass a medical ex-

Some time later the individual may want to engage in some hazardous occupation, or go into prohibited territory, and may not therefore be able to get life insurance when it is most wanted, whereas most companies have no limiting conditions after one or two

Paying for a policy, especially for an endowment, will teach a boy or young man economy and thrift. He can see that he is making some progress in estate building, and the proceeds of an endowment policy in early middle life may prove to be the founda-

FEARS CIVIL WAR

IF CONSCRIPTION

PASSES IN CANADA

HEIDELBERG, July 30.—Before 200 electors from the village and surrounding country, Dr. Hett, candidate of the independent Labor Party, tonight emphatically opposed conscription. Judging by the applause which greated his remarks the people of this district are for the same opinion, that it is not in the best interests of Canada to enact such as measure at the people should have voted on the question, and said that the people of Quebec were united to oppose conscription.

"They are absolutely united and I car that ti will be a great blow to Canada when it passes. I fear that ou will plunge into a state of civil war, and how can we help the Allies of which was received and the car and the other conscription. Serious damage was sone to the car.

time proyers, allow me to remind your readers of what is called "The Lord's Prayer." For twenty-six years I have been in my private devotions confining myself to this model, seeking to explore its riches of expression, and I now believe that all that a praying person on earth could possibly ever need finds here adequate expression.

on earth could possibly ever need finds here adequate expression.

Having a little knowledge of New Testament Greek, I have recently been trying to express in rythmic English (the Greek seems to me evidently intended to be rythmic) my conception of the meaning of Christ's words in this model, which he gave to his disciples. In the hope that variety in version may help towards vividness in conception of our Lord's meaning, I offer to those of your readers who are trying to learn "what to pray for as we ought," the result of my effort.

We are still in Sunny Sussex by the seaside, on three sides of the camp a guarantee will be secured before the ciringe of wood form our boundary and through the trees we catch glimpses of warms our nearly by the secured before the ciril is asked to take a dollar of risk, that the company will be controlled and through the trees we catch glimpses of waving corn noading in the pright July sunshine.

For the past three days and nights we have plainly heard the heavy cannonading on the Beigium coast; it sounds like thousands of big drums in the distance. There is a runbor that the Ailled and United States fleets are bonnarding Ostend. Anyway there is held to pay" somewhere.

On our way down here we came arrows a hunch of Carman valences.

> POPE REFUSED TO INTERFERE

New York, July 31.—The Tribune this mornining prints the following dispatch from Washingfollowing dispatch from Washington dated yesterday:
A cable from Berne, Switzerland, today states that the Austrian chancellor, under the direction of Emperor Charles, recently attempted to persuade the Vatican to intervene in favor of a general peace on the basis of the integrity of the monarchy.
This, according to this dispatch, the pope refused to do.
