Blame Chauffeur For Arrest In Wyoming Looting

4 SUSPECTS IN BANK LOOTING CAUGHT IN NET

Driver, Who Gave First Clue in Case, Quietly Leaves City in Night.

TRIAL TO OPEN JUNE 13

Evidence Leading to Arrest Said To Have Been Obtained at Lakeside.

Where is the mysterious chauffeur, once employed by a prominent London lumber merchant, whose seeming interest in the Wyoming bank robbery of October last was materially responsible, it is claimed, for the ultimate apprehension of Edward A. McMullen, George Anderson, John Yohn and William Ayers, the four alleged bandits, who now pace their cells in the Lambton county jail awaiting the morning of June 13, when the machinery of the law will be given another turn and they will commence a grim legal battle for liberty?

Former companions of the absent driver assert that he is in Grand Rapids, Michigan, while others, equally confident that he has now left that city, declare positively that he was in a border city but a few hours ago.

It may be that the police can define his movements even as they familiarize themselves with the "goings" and "comings" of Mrs. Olive Myrtle Koehler, the crown's "star" witness, whose testimony at the Sarnia preliminary hearing, that she had tendered the "tip" preceding the arrest of the four prisoners almost upset the equilibrium of an otherwise staid and dignified court.

Leaves City Quietly.

Police officers themselves are not discussing the whereabouts of the missing chauffeur, however, not at this moment at any rate. Suffice it is that he, like one or two others, has quietly deserted the environs of London within the past few weeks.

That the former Londoner was possessed of certain information—how it was obtained is of trifling consequence—that inspired him to believe that the four prisoners were actually implicated in the Wyoming episode is the explanation advanced by several whose past associations would lead one to assume that they were in a position to speak authoritatively upon the subject.

Even prior to the time that such information is supposed to have been imparted to Mrs. Koehler, he was intrusted with this knowledge, they say.

On a witness stand in a public courtroom, Mrs. Koehler has frankly and fearlessly admitted that she repeated to the crown the names of the suspects, as they had been told to her.

Prompted in Act.

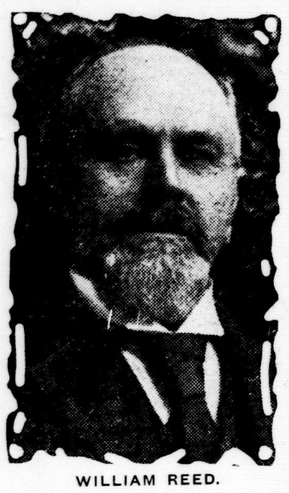

That she was prompted and encouraged in this act by the departed chauffeur, who incidentally is said to have been a close associate of one of the alleged gunmen, is the latest allegation.

"Go ahead. What do you care. You'll get the reward," were the words, it is charged, that spurred her on as she wavered in her determination to "burn her bridges behind her."

But that was not the climax, it is

FEEL CONFIDENT OF RESULT OF IRISH PARLEY

Government Quarters Optimistic Over Progress Made in Negotiations.

FRONTIER TROUBLE PAST

Churchill Expected To Make Statement Before House of Commons.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 10.—After today's meeting of the British signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty, it was stated that Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, would meet Prime Minister Lloyd George this morning and that it was likely a settlement of the questions at issue would be reached.

London, June 10—So much optimism regarding the progress of the Irish negotiations is felt in government quarters that it is believed Colonial Secretary Churchill will be able to make his statement on the position next Monday, when the House of Commons reassembles after its Whitsuntide rush.

The main question which created difficulties when the draft of the Irish constitution was first submitted is now understood to have been settled satisfactorily, with the technical matters still under examination, on a fair way to adjustment. A further meeting of the British signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty is scheduled for today, and a conference with Arthur Griffith, the chief Irish delegate, possibly will follow.

The Ulster frontier trouble has been smoothed away, temporarily at least, and Michael Collins' speech in Dublin last night is taken here as an indication that the southern leaders are determined to avoid anything likely to keep the wound open. Nothing further has been heard from Collins' protest over the occupation of Pettigoe by the military and it is inferred that the British government has given assurances acceptable to Dublin.

KIWANIS PLANS FOR GREAT TIME AT CONVENTION

International Clubs To Meet in Toronto, June 19, 20, 21 and 22.

FIRST TIME IN CANADA

Delegates From All Over the Dominion and U. S. Expected to Attend.

Toronto, June 10.—For the first time in the history of Kiwanis the annual convention this year of the Kiwanis international clubs will be held in Canada, Toronto being the meeting place and the dates being June 19, 20, 21 and 22. It is expected that close to 10,000 members and delegates will be in attendance. They will come from points all over the United States and Canada, from as far west as California and Prince Rupert and from distant points in the east. The delegates are drawn largely from leading industries and business concerns, many of them holding important executive positions. It will not only be the first Canadian convention of Kiwanians, but it is anticipated that it will be the largest and best in the history of the organization, which is now in its seventh year.

Coming by Boat.

So important indeed is the coming convention regarded at the Kiwanis headquarters in Chicago that one of the international officers, Dean Clarke of Chicago, has been in Toronto since February looking after the details of the arrangements. The selection of this city as the meeting place this year was made at the convention in Cleveland last year. Some indication of the big crowd that is coming is given by D. E. MacVannel of this city, chairman of the publicity committee, who says that every available Pullman car in the United States and Canada has been reserved for the occasion, and that these reservations will not afford sufficient accommodation to carry all the delegates, a large number of whom are coming by boat, notably the Chicago delegation.

The opening day of the big gathering, Monday, June 19, will be devoted to the usual convention preliminaries, and the next three days will be given up to the business of promoting Kiwanis interests. The feature of the opening will be an important contest of Kiwanis glee clubs for the international cup, which is donated for annual competitions. This will take place on Monday night in Massey Hall, where the convention will be held. Houston, Texas, is sending the largest glee club to compete this year, 40 voices representing the Kiwanis of that city. There will be no Canadian competitors.

Elaborate plans have been made by the local Kiwanians for the entertainment of the visitors. A big dance has been arranged for Tuesday night in the transportation building, Exhibition Park. On Wednesday night, there will be a musical ride and an historical pageant in Exhibition Park, concluding with fireworks. Thousands of school children will take part in the pageant, which will be put on at an expense of $6,000, contributed by the various Canadian clubs.

"American Day."

"American Day," Wednesday, June 21, is being looked forward to as one of the most interesting days of the convention. The day will be chiefly devoted to cementing friendships between Canada and the United States. This will be done in speeches and in an entertainment specially designed for the laudable purpose of promoting international amity. The local committee has devoted a great deal of attention to American Day with a Picks Spaniard As Future Heir To Throne of Song!

MADRID, June 10.—Angeles Ottein is the singer whom Luisa Tetrazzini says will be her successor.

The very fact that the Italian coloratura soprano has named a Spanish singer as the one destined to immortalize those famous top notes is something to think about.

She lives in Madrid in a villa whose grilled iron gates open upon a flower-filled garden. And she receives you in a Moorish music room filled with antiques.

"I'm coming to Canada and the United States next year," she is saying in Italian. "I have sung in South America and in Italy as well as in Spain."

"I was abroad for a very few weeks last spring, but I had to hurry back for engagements here.

"Next season—ah, how I want to sing a Spanish opera! But we Spanish singers must always sing Italian or French operas.

"From old days the Spaniards have had natural voices. They sing without effort and without study. They sing clearly, truly and simply.

"Perhaps when people are used to 'schools' they are astonished at the naturalness of the Spanish voice. The Spanish method or lack of method may seem too—too innocent! But to us the simplicity and not artificiality is what counts."

URGE HALT IN ROAD BUILDING

Middlesex County Council Protest Continued Expenditure For Highways.

Consider Request From Muncey Indians To Take Over Road.

Thomas Sullivan, reeve of Adelaide Township, introduced a resolution Saturday morning at the last sitting of the Middlesex county council, requesting the provincial government of Ontario to call a halt to their expenditures on highways throughout the province.

Sharp criticism was levelled at the provincial government previously in the week, when the council was discussing the $91,227.34 grant for the construction of highways in Middlesex, the greater part of the cost of which, in the neighborhood of 80 per cent, is paid by the provincial government.

The general opinion of the council was that the present Ontario administration had criticized their predecessors for extravagance, but once in office were duplicating their performance.

The board of road directors brought in a report at the meeting recommending that no action be taken concerning the requests of the deputation from Glencoe who appeared before the council Friday, asking that certain strips of road in Mosa Township be made county provincial roads. It was also recommended that no action be taken regarding the request for a change in designation of roads in Hyde Park. Indians of Muncey had requested that a road through their reserve be taken over by the county. This request was dealt with by recommending that the county solicitor get into touch with the Indian department at Ottawa and ascertain the rights of the county in the reserve.

It was moved by Thomas Elliott that a committee composed of the warden, the county clerk and the chairman of the jail committee, be appointed to look after certain repairs to dwellings in the court house building and in the county building.

Saturday's meeting was the last session of the county council and no action was taken concerning the recent eviction by the sheriff of Miss Minnie Harris, former matron of the jail from quarters in the court house building.

It was thought that the matter would be taken up by the county council, and reports were current to that effect, but no reference was

EGYPT'S KING TO VISIT EUROPE

Will Take Oath to State Before Sailing On Royal Yacht.

Constitution Under New Regime of Independence Unchanged.

Cairo, June 10.—The Egyptian constitution under the new regime of independence has been about completed by the committee having it in charge. Although the report has not yet been published, some of the main features are known.

The political division of the country remains unchanged under the constitution, it being composed of Mouderiehs, or governorates, which in turn are split up into Markaz or smaller districts. The Sudan has been incorporated into the Egyptian territory and forms, with the latter, a single state, subject to the authority only of King Fuad.

All religions are free, and placed under the protection of the law, in so far as their practices do not interfere with public order or public morals.

All Egyptian citizens are equal before the law and guaranteed freedom of civil and political rights.

King Fuad will shortly take his oath and will sail later this month on board the royal yacht, Mahrousha, for a cruise to the principal European ports. While on his trip he will visit several European sovereigns.

INTERNATIONAL BANKERS' COMMITTEE ADJOURNS

Report Expected To Show Importance of Improving Germany's Financial Position.

Paris, June 10.—The International Bankers' committee held its final meeting this morning, adjourning sine die at noon after adopting its report to the reparations commission. The latter body called a special session for this afternoon to receive the report, which it was expected would be made public this evening.

The report will express the opinion that under the present circumstances a big loan to Germany, liquidating the reparations problem as a whole, is impossible, according to the French press. The report will suggest, it is added, a number of ideas relative to Germany's obligations, and even the interallied debts, although the study of the latter is not included among the matter referred to the committee.

Above all it is expected to show the importance of improving the immediate financial position of Germany so as the facilitate the next partial reparations payment under the moratorium, and will advise, if not a small loan, at least the development of commercial credits by the wealthier countries in favor of Germany.

RAIL EARNINGS INCREASE.

Toronto, June 10.—Gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for week ending June 7, 1922, are $1,990,492, an increase of $18,346.34, compared with the corresponding period last year. From January 1, 1922, to date, the gross earnings have totalled $44,927,144.61, a decrease of $6,754,276.46, compared with the corresponding period in 1921.

TO INTER MAYOR PARNELL IN WEST

Winnipeg, June 9.—Word came from Mrs. Ed. Parnell late tonight that it had been decided to bury the late mayor of Winnipeg in Victoria. Acting Mayor Fowler received the following wire from Mrs. Parnell in regard to the offer of civic funeral in Winnipeg. Mr. Parnell is a former Londoner.

"While appreciating honor of civic funeral, my late husband wished to be laid to rest in Victoria. Grateful thanks for sympathy of members of council and citizens."

The funeral will take place Monday, June 12. Ald. Wm. Douglas will represent the city at the funeral.

Lightning Starts Fire In Tower Of School In Kitchener

KITCHENER, Ont., June 10.—The tower on the King Edward School was struck by lightning here last night during a spectacular electrical storm which passed over the city shortly after 10 o'clock.

The fire department had a stubborn fight with the blaze, which for an hour after the strike threatened serious damage. The damage is estimated at several hundred dollars. The fire damage will in no way interfere with the continuation of school.

EXPECT VIEWS ON CATTLE EMBARGO

London, June 10.—Canadian Press Cable.—The Evening News, one of the Northcliffe papers, alluding to the intention of Premier Lloyd George to attend the Dominion Day dinner here, says it will be interesting to see if he embraces the opportunity of demonstrating on which side of the fence he intends falling in the matter of the Canadian cattle embargo. "Up to the present," the News adds, "he has remained mum."

It is by no means certain, with the pressure of Irish affairs, that the premier will be able to attend the dinner.

DISLIKES CHARITY IMMIGRANT IDEA

London, June 10.—The Saturday Review, commenting on the Empire Settlement Bill, says everything depends on the manner in which the act is worded. It is no use disguising the fact, the Saturday Review says, that the immigrant who takes advantage of benevolent assistance is not the type who commends himself to the Dominion. However, the belief is expressed that Right Hon. Winston Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies, may be relied upon to supervise things in a far-seeing and imperial spirit.

CIVIL COURT TO DECIDE OWNER

Justice Fisher Rules No Cause For Criminal Action Against McMullen.

Orders Insurance Company Give $3,000 Bond To Hold Car Seized.

Holding that there was absolutely no case for the criminal court, Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher, presiding at the Middlesex weekly high court Saturday morning, ruled that any dispute as to the ownership of the Oldsmobile touring car, bearing license number 69-601, in which Edward A. McMullen, one of the four alleged Wyoming bandits was riding when arrested, must be threshed out in the civil court.

Despite the strenuous objection registered by C. G. Jarvis, counsel for the Mercantile Insurance Company of America, who now claim ownership, the bench ordered that should the machine be placed at the disposal of the company, a bond of $3,000 must be furnished in order that McMullen's interests would be safeguarded.

In his plea to the bench, Attorney Jarvis explained that the Motor Sales Company of Flint, Mich., claimed that the machine now bearing license number 69-601 had been stolen from in front of their plant last March.

CITY ENGINEER WROTH AT HINT HE 'BLUNDERED'

Charges "Someone" Seeks to Evade Responsibility For Water Main Tangle.

RAPS UTILITIES BODY

Denies Emery Street Grade Has Been Changed Six Inches in Ten Years.

Charging that a deliberate attempt has been made "by someone" to place responsibility for the present condition of the water mains on Emery street, which necessitates that they be relaid, on his department, City Engineer H. A. Brazier Saturday morning declared that the blunder, if any, existed, was made by the public utilities commission staff.

At the last meeting of this body the city engineer's staff was criticized because it was alleged that street grading carried out on Emery street will make it necessary to relay the water pipes, and "the blunder" will cost the city $2,200.

Further criticism was directed at the engineer because of the fact that cement curbs were laid over the water pipes, thereby making them inaccessible in case repairs were necessary.

"There have been so many half-cocked statements made that I usually never bother with them," said the engineer Saturday, "but I will this time. It looks like a deliberate attempt on someone's part to shoulder responsibility on the engineer's department.

Has Seen No Plan.

"It may be true that the curb and gutter is over the water main. As for the public utilities commission submitting a plan of the water pipes on Emery street, as stated, it hasn't been done. If it had been done, there would be reason to doubt its accuracy, as it is only approximate.

"As for the profile map suggested by the chairman of the commission, I do not think there is such a thing. But that does not get to the point as to why the curb is over the main.

"Our streets are of standard width and standard location," continued Mr. Brazier. "General residential pavements are 24 feet wide, and it was unknown to me until Friday that the public utilities commission had so managed to figure the location of their mains as to come under the curb.

"What is the blunder referred to? I have a profile map of 1917, when it was fixed to lower the grade of to a point 350 feet east. The max-Emery street from Wharncliffe road imum lowering was two feet three inches.

Will Cost $2,200.

"Then the public utilities comes along and says it will cost $2,200, because the main needs lowering from Edward street to 500 feet west. The grade has not been changed six inches in the last ten years, or since the pipes were laid. If the main is of insufficient depth, it was so laid.

"What is wrong is that somebody blundered, and laid a four-inch main when a six-inch one was required," the engineer charged, "and $2,200 is the cost of laying a six-inch main the whole length of the block from Edward street to Wharncliffe road.

"To put in a new main for 350 feet where the street has been graded would cost $500. We have not assumed any responsibility. It looks to me as if the commission was not furnished with the proper particulars. Had they these particulars, I do not think they would have made the statements credited to them.

"I notified the commission in April that work on Emery street was about to be undertaken in a few days. Mr. Hunt says this notice was ignored until I wrote them again on June 6. In the meantime, the street was graded, and curb and gutter put in."

Son of British Nobility Leads Adventurous Career

Reprieved From Gallows.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Major Ronald True, whose reprieve from the gallows for murder brought a storm of protest from the British press yesterday, claimed to be Lord De Freyne of French Park, County Roscommon, Ireland, when he served a 15-months' sentence in the Almeda, Calif., county jail, in 1917, for forging stolen money orders. He said he was a stepson of Lord Glenfalloch of Scotland.

The officer, who trailed True here from New Orleans, identified him through a belt, part of the uniform of the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, of which body True was said to have been a member. True, according to the officer, was an adventurer and born soldier of fortune, having been at various times, in addition to being a member of the famous Canadian police force, a sheep rancher in Africa, aviator in Brazil and prize-fighter in San Francisco. The belt through which he was identified and which led to his arrest, was left in a San Francisco hotel when True made his escape after passing a worthless check for $92.

Since his reprieve in England, the British newspapers have freely intimated that True was the son of one of the most noted gentlewomen of the British nobility, but that his identity has been withheld by the British authorities. He was tried for the murder of Gertrude Yates in London three weeks ago, and saved

Harry Claims His Trouble Was Mother-In-Law

Court Dismisses Case.

ACCORDING to the comic supplements, the family mother-in-law is to blame for a good many "home wreckings" and the police court was the background for the mother-in-law excuse Saturday morning when Harry Metsker, charged with non-support of his wife, told the magistrate that the "whole trouble was his mother-in-law."

"I'll hear the rest of the case in private," stated the court, with a glance at the reporters, busy sharpening pencils.

Apparently the magistrate did think that the mother-in-law had tossed a wrench into the smooth-running matrimonial machinery, for he dismissed the case.

Mrs. Metsker stated that she had been married in January, 1918, in Hamilton, and had been living with her husband and four children, ranging from 7 months to 3 years, about a year in London.

"Two weeks ago he started running out nights and taking money with him," stated Mrs. Metsker in the witness box. "He gave me $3 the night before last.

"I have had trouble with him running away. He has gone two or three times and been away for about a month each time. We had no trouble before this.

"I gave her $40 a week ago Saturday," declared the husband.

"He game me $5.00," came back his wife.

"She locked me out one night," stated Metsker. "The whole trouble is my mother-in-law," whereupon Mr. Graydon adjourned court to his office.

CLAIMS BRITISH QUIT ULSTER IN 'HOUR OF NEED'

Hon. William Coote of Tyrone, Ireland, Addresses London Audience.

RECITES IRISH DISORDERS

Resolution of Sympathy and Support To Loyalists Is Passed.

More than 800 people listened with interest to a graphic first-hand recital of Ulster's position in the present Irish crisis, when Hon. William Coote, D.L., M.P., of Tyronne, Ireland voiced an appeal in the interest of the Loyalists of Ulter, at the Masonic Temple Friday night.

The speaker, who is a member of the British House of Commons, and also a member of the Ulster Parliament, declared that until the common people learn to think for themselves, the future of Ireland will be dark, and predicted, under the present circumstances, that his native land will be bankrupt within five years.

Mr. Coote cited numerous crimes committed in Ireland, including murder and arson, which he attributed to Sinn Fein activities.

Dean Tucker of St. Paul's Cathedral, who acted as chairman, also addressed the meeting. Rev. Roy D. Mess of this city, and Professor Anderson of Huron College moved and seconded a resolution at the conclusion of Mr. Coote's address.

This resolution, which was passed by the unanimous standing vote of the audience, is as follows: "We pledge our sympathy and support to the Loyalists of Ulster in their efforts to remain within the empire, and pray his majesty's government at Westminster to come more speedily to their assistance."

Speakers Are Cheered.

The meeting was marked by great enthusiasm, the audience cheering the speakers at various intervals throughout the evening.

"This is no pleasant story," began Mr. Coote. "It is lamentable. If, in dealing in facts as I understand them, I may hurt the feelings of anyone, I cannot help it.

"Ireland today is a paragon. The Ulster people do not believe in home rule, yet for the sake of peace we did agree to a parliament if the other counties would accept. The other counties would not accept home rule, but those who did not believe in home rule accepted it while the others offered resistance.

"The Sinn Fein was not a party to the agreement. They hate England and are no part of this commonwealth of yours and mine. They determined that the parliament should not function. The British government thereupon engaged in pourparlers with the very murderers themselves.

"To the shame of the British government they agreed to a reconstruction of the boundary line without consulting us," he continued.

"No act of this kind was ever before recorded in British history. It has made civilization blush."

Mr. Coote then pointed out that the only restrictions which were placed on Ireland were that the country could not secede from the British Empire, or send ambassadors to foreign nations. Aside from these stipulations, he declared, that the Irish Free State enjoys all the freedom of Canada.

He characterized Ireland as "the back door of England," and therefore the above two restrictions had to be set down by Great Britain. Should the Emerald Isle have been geographically situated like Canada, "the government would have been pleased to cut it adrift," he declared.

"The war ought to have taught Britain if they would learn," asserted the speaker, "that under no circumstances must Ireland be cut from the British Empire. Ireland is as free as the air. Why won't she create a parliament?"

Looks to British.

"Because there is no law, control or peace in Ireland, there is no provisional government representative of the people. The Dail Eireann is as much in force now as ever, and lets the turmoil and chaos go on. I have never heard yet of an Irish soldier as they are ashamed of the term. It is all commandants and general taken from the anvil to run men.

"There is Rory O'Connor, who has seized the courts, and levies heavy demands on those with money. The British scuttled from Ireland after making a mess of it, and left the brave loyalists to themselves. They looked to the British law to protect them. Why, the nation would go to war over one British subject, yet there are 300,000 loyalists left to themselves, handed over to hereditary enemies, with no one to protect them."

Mr. Coote then mentioned the looting of banks in Ireland by Rory O'Connor and his forces.

"Of course, they signed receipts for the money taken," he said, "but you wouldn't take Rory O'Connor's signature for 5 shillings. That is pointing Ireland's progress down-grade, drifting to chaos.

"Probably there is some mind here challenging that statement. God knows the plight of the Ulster people. They trust God, and have no human being to trust. Do pray for these poor people until brighter days dawn for an unhappy country.

"Those who stand for religious freedom must bend to the storm or flee the country. I hope one day the British government will awake."

Continuing with regard to the warring parties in England the speaker continued: "We are anxious to work as neighbors with these people. There is no one in the south of Ireland to deliver the goods and her house is in a turmoil."

He asserted that well-known persons nominated for electoral campaigns in Ireland were compelled to withdraw their names as "they would never be there when the votes were counted if they did not withdraw their nominations.

"I want to be fair with all parties,"continued the speaker. "There are many farmers in the south of Ireland who are sick of this murder. They do not believe in murder. It is just the dregs of society taking command."

Mentioning the boycott against Ulster-made good, Mr. Coote said: "Many in the south want to trade with us, but dare not, as their shops would be burned over their heads. The trained murder gangs shoot down the Roman Catholic police just as much as the Protestants if they are loyal to the king and trying to do their duty.

Sees Ulster Victorious.

"Catholics and Protestants who are out to do what's right are doing it that the old flag can fly over Ulster. Those are the men whose ambassadors I am, and whom I am proud to represent."

"Some silly Canadians, and there are silly people in Canada as in any other country, say that these murderers are not Irish people, but Irish-Americans. Don't believe it. These murderers and victims probably played together in the same village. They have no grievance, yet go out and do others to death."

Mr. Coote then read a note which he alleged was tacked to the door of a home on the eve of the elections, warning the members of the household, under penalty of death, that they must not go to the polls next day. He related, amidst cheers, that the family concerned braved this threat and cast their vote, led by the mother.

"While Ulster mothers are of that type," he said, "in the end Ulster will come out on top. We are very much hurt and our business is hurt, but although we are we must simply keep pegging away, giving no offence and waiting. In a year or so or less, the bag will burst and bring things to an end.

"Let the people do their own thinking. I ask your sympathy for these people. If I do not speak to good Canadian friends, in two years there will be no Ulster, and the problem will be all wiped out. The British government betrayed us and knows it."

Citing the recent engagement at Beleek, the speaker said: "The British were very late in coming. They should never have gone away. If the murders go on they will have to come back and reconquer the country. The way South Ireland is drifting it will be bankrupt in five years and Russia will be repeated.

Makes General Appeal.

"The farmers are not sowing their fields, as their sons are away in the Irish Republican army. We people of Ulster feel it is up to us to forbear, but, remember, when Ulster must strike in real earnest you will hear of it."

"Help us that we may live," he concluded, "and all this thing may burn and eat itself out."

"There is no problem where we should sit on the fence," declared Rev. Roy D. Mess. "When Ulster takes up its side there will be more than one man leave this country and take up the fight for justice."

This statement was greeted by longed cheering and applause.

Prior to introducing the speaker, Dean Tucker said, in part: "It's a very risky thing for an outsider to meddle in the affairs of Ireland. If the south of Ireland wants to rule itself, and the British government wants to give it self-government, why should the Sinn Fein insist on dominating Ulster?"

I am not seeking any publicity, says Mr. J. P. Lavender, of Route No. 2, this city. A well-known truck farmer and veteran of the world war; but when a medicine has such wonderful reconstructive power as this Andes, and a person finds it out, it is not justice to humanity for them to not let it be known.

I called at Strong's Drug Store on May 27, walking with the assistance of a cane, and purchased one bottle of Andes; had been unable to do any work for two weeks and was losing flesh daily. I was struck with a piece of shell six years ago and my back has given me trouble ever since. For the past four months was almost impossible to get around. Every time passed urine would burn like fire and the pain was intense. From one to two teaspoonfuls of blood would pass also; was advised had stones in kidneys and must undergo an operation, but kept putting it off hoping that something would give me relief. Well, this first bottle of Andes gave the relief that I had prayed for. Never in my life have I had anything to do me so much good in such a short time.

The first four doses stopped the awful pain and burning and by time had used half the bottle the blood did not appear any more. I have gained in weight and all my friends marvel how much better I look and to think it required only one bottle of Andes. I am delighted and feel that I cannot praise this new medicine too highly.

Men and women in London and vicinity who suffered for years with constipation, say they are free from this affliction. Those who suffer from sluggish liver claim Andes has purged them of excess bile and never have a headache or dizzy spell to bother them. Others claim restoration from weak kidneys, stomach disorders and tell of how digestion has improved greatly.

Talk with the Andes expert at Strong's Drug Store. He will explain this new medicine and tell just how it gives good results to those that use it.—Advt.

O. A. C. Alumni Association Plans Big Program For Guelph Summer Rally

Ex-students of the Ontario Agricultural College will be interested in the announcement of the second summer meeting of the O. A. C. Alumni Association on Friday, June 23, at Guelph.

The past year's record of the Association is one of much good work accomplished.

Membership has steadily grown, and it is felt that the objects of the association—a fraternity of ex-students, stimulation of progressive rural life, co-ordination of practical and professional agriculture and co-operation and leadership in agriculture—are being realized.

President J. B. Reynolds will welcome the members and all ex-students, their wives and friends, who wish to attend the meeting and to take that opportunity of re-visiting the college at a season when the natural beauties of the surroundings will be at their best.

A good train service should enable many to be present from a distance, and it is expected that, as was the case last year, a large number of ex-students will motor in. The association will assemble in the gymnasium at 10:30 for a short address and details of the day's program, which will include sports in the afternoon.

HOLY NAME ORDER PLANS BIG RALLY

Members Will Parade From St. Peter's Cathedral To St. Mary's Church.

Final arrangements have been completed for the big annual Holy Name Society rally for the London Diocese of the Catholic Church to be held Sunday, June 11. According to instructions issued by Rev. J. F. Stanley, parish priest, Woodstock, under whose direction the rally will be held, the diocese will be divided into eleven districts.

The Rt. Rev. Administrator Monsignor D. O'Connor, vicar-general, has authorized the pastors of the diocese to have only low masses said in their churches on Sunday morning in order that their parishioners may have every opportunity to assist in the rally in the afternoon.

The devotions of the day will begin with the reception of Holy Communion by the members of each parish society in a body at one of the earlier masses. In the London district, which comprises the five parishes of London, Holy Angels, St. Thomas, Strathroy and West Lorne, and of which the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McKeon, D.P., is the director, arrangements have been made to hold a great outdoor demonstration.

At 2 o'clock the Holy Name men and the boys of the Junior Holy Name Society will form four abreast behind parish standards on the grounds of St. Peter's Cathedral. At 2:30 the parade, accompanied by the Marconi Band, under the direction of Prof. P. Venuta, and the Slater Band will move into Dufferin avenue in the following order: St. Mary's, St. Patrick's, St. Thomas, West Lorne, Strathroy, St. Martin's, St. Michael's, St. Peter's, and will proceed to the grounds of St. Mary's Church, Lyle street, via Wellington, Queen's avenue, Adelaide, King and Lyle streets. An altar will be erected on the grounds, where the following program will be carried out:

1—Hymn, "Come Holy Ghost," director, Mr. W. Mullins.

2—Sermon.

3—Renewal of the Holy Name pledge.

4—Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament; St. Mary's choir, director, Mr. W. Payne.

5—Hymn, "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

Arrangements are being conducted to have moving pictures taken of the parade in London.

PREDICTS BUMPER STRAWBERRY CROP

Showers in Ingersoll District Give Fruits Additional Vigor.

Special to London Advertiser.

INGERSOLL, June 9.—This district has received its quota of rain in two days. Showers which began yesterday continued today, the downpour at times being exceptionally heavy. The general demand had been for rain, and the benefit from the showers is considered incalculable.

Field crops generally have been promising, but the showers came at the right time to give additional vigor. Strawberries and small vegetables needed rain, and for the present the situation has been saved. A bumper strawberry crop is predicted. The continued showers will hasten the berries to maturity, and the growers are making preparations to meet the rush of the next few days. Considerable hail is said to have fallen in a small section of Dereham Township during the storm yesterday afternoon, and it is feared considerable damage has been caused. One farmer today reported that on his farm a field of 20 acres of fall wheat was knocked down.

Rev. R. J. Bowen of London was an interesting speaker at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Friday night. His subject was "Canada's Greatest Opportunity."

Although called upon to make payment of their taxes two months earlier than in former years, it would not seem that local taxpayers are being inconvenienced. Last year the taxes were not payable until August 10, and in the first six days of that month the amount turned in was $24,238.84. During the first six days of the present month the amount collected was $26,740.50.

Summer Boys' Tiser

THINGS ARE ALL READY FOR THE BIG 1922 CAMP

Boys From All Over Western Ontario Get Ready for Fisher's Glen.

All the boys of Western Ontario are talking about this famous Y. M. C. A. camping spot. Famous because of its wonderful glen, with a high hill on either side. The stream is cool and always clear, and men in London like Harry Peel, Dr. Jepson, Wm. Torney and others say they have caught excellent trout in it. The camp is famous also because of its history. Right close by are the wonderful fish hatcheries, which send out millions of small fish yearly into the waters of Ontario. Then again, there is the spot, about three miles off, where Mr. McClary first started to make stoves.

Have you ever been in a war canoe? Oh, boy! Fifteen boys and fifteen paddles! These will be used for races, for training in the proper use of handling a paddle, and also for our night hikes.

Some more fellows have registered—Dr. J. E. Hunter, Hugo Craig, Ronald Foot, John Lloyd, Gordon Ford, Ken Ford, Harold Dyson, Millard Grant, Art Glen. We can only take 25 senior fellow and 50 juniors, and over half of the registrations are in sight already.

A STRAIGHT APPEAL FOR SUMMER CAMP

Mayor Points Out Some of the Advantages of Going to Fisher's Glen Camp.

To the Tuxis and Trail Ranger Groups:

It is with some real regret that I hear on good authority that so far the applications for the Fisher's Glen summer camp are rather slow in coming in.

Do you realize the great opportunity you have in being able to attend or send a representative to this camp? The new ideas, stunts and good-fellowship will repay many times the cost of the two weeks in camp.

If you cannot attend yourself have your club choose a fellow and pay part or all of his expenses, and then watch the results at your club meetings.

Keep your club functioning this summer, so as to get away to a good start early in the fall. Have your club meet together at least once in two weeks and plan hikes and week-end camps.

The Boys Council would like to receive suggestions as to the program for the coming winter. If we are to have a successful year every club must get busy and let us know, so that we can discuss plans and events for the year. Hoping for some good, live suggestions, I am, yours truly,

JACK HUTCHINSON.

SATURDAY HIKES BRING GOOD TIMES TO THE BOYS

And Now Some of the Arts of Life-Saving Will Be Taught.

Saturday afternoon hikes are getting more popular every week. Jack Manuel finds enjoyment each week in breaking in some new recruit for baseball. Wentworth McPetrie hit the new pitcher, Harold Dyson all over the field, and looks for new men to conquer. Gerald Mack says that he found most of the treasures last week in the treasure hunt, but Douglas Walker claims this boy has a second sense for finding chocolate bars. Glen says he would sooner swim than play ball, so he broke up the old ball game and all stripped for the plunge in the river. Splash! away went the fellows into the shallow water, while the more daring and efficient swimmers took to the deeper spots.

Today the older and better swimmers will be given their first lesson in life-saving. This knowledge of caring for a drowning person is most important. "Be prepared!" should be the slogan of every good swimmer.

The Y. M. C. A. boys division invites all boys over 11 years of age to their Saturday afternoon hikes. Bring car fare and your grub for a lunch. The boys leave the Y. M. C. A. about 2 o'clock.

CHAPMAN OF WEINER CLUB ALLOWS ONLY TWO HITS.

Although only five players of the Weiner Club of Talbot Street turned out, they put up the most thrilling battle of baseball ever witnessed at Springbank Park this season. Before 300 fans on the bleachers the above team went down to defeat before the fast traveling First Presbyterians. By the time the sand settled and the moon came up, the Weiners were at the bottom end of a score of 4 to 0. Cod Lawrence pitched a wonderful game for the First Presbyterians, but it appeared that the umpire was going against him and he was talking a lot under his breath. Chapman, for the losers, pitched the best game that has been witnessed at Springbank Park in the C. S. E. T. League, allowing only two hits.

Four of the home run sluggers for the Weiner Club found out that Lawrence was going to pitch, so they thought if they came out it would bring their batting average down. It was learned later that the last four mentioned went down to Lobo to play the public school to keep their batting average up.

SECOND WIN FOR THE SOUTH ENDERS.

Thhe South End Tecumsehs won their second game of their series by defeating the Wortley Road Baptists to a score of 14-10. The game was staged at the South End diamond. It proved a very free-hitting contest.

Drake pitched a splendid brand of ball the first few innings, but as it grew dusk he seemed unable to find the base. Wildgust relieved him and pitched good right to the finish. Warner on the mound for the Baptists was hit freely. His loss was due to poor support.

Westman, the youngest player of the Tecumseh's, starred in the game. Drake, of the Tecs, and Taylor, of the Baptists, both hit home runs. The line-ups:

NAVAL CADETS MADE A SPLENDID SHOWING

Col. McCrimmon Made His Inspection and Addressed the Members.

The Naval Cadets were inspected on Monday last by Col. McCrimmon, inspecting officer of Cadets for M. D. No. 1, at their drill hall, 453 Talbot street. On arrival the colonel was received by a guard consisting of J. Crocker, S. Say, W. Harding, D. and R. Barnes (bugler), under command of Ch. W. O. Akiens. The guard came to the present while the bugler sounded the admiral's salute.

After taking the salute, Col. McCrimmon inspected the guard, and then the remainder of the brigade. After inspecting the boys, the storerooms and canteen, were inspected, after which the order for physical drill, which was carried out very well under direction of Mr. Akiens. Next a class at knots, under Ch. W. O. Pentecost, was inspected. Mr. Pentecost explaining the different knots and their uses aboard ship. Next came rifle drill, carried out well by a squad under M. Akiens, and they were complimented on the way they did their drill. After this came a class at compass, and the way they answered the questions was a credit to them. Then came cutlass drill, which was an entirely new thing to the inspecting officer, who was very pleased with it. Next was a team of signal boys, who put on a smart exhibition of signaling. After signals Boy Murrele and Holland put on a boxing bout, and leading boys a fencing bout. After the drills were over, Col. McCrimmon was asked to present the shooting cup and medal to the winners for the last month. Before presenting these to the winners, Col. McCrimmon gave the boys a talk on their work. In the first place, he pointed out that the first and main thing in any organization of this kind was discipline, without which no corps could succeed. He had been very much impressed by the discipline shown by the brigade during the inspection, and that was the reason it was able to put on the good work he had just seen. It was the first time he had had the opportunity to inspect the Naval Cadets, and until then he had no idea of the work they were doing, and after seeing what they could do he would not be satisfied until the citizens of London had an opportunity of seeing what he had seen, and when they did he was quite sure they would help them in their good work.

He was also satisfied that considering the lack of space, the brigade was as good as any corps he had inspected. On presenting the cup to Douglas Kennedy, he called attention to the fact that shooting was one of the finest sports going, and it was also excellent training for anyone who took it up in the right way, and if everyone had more training in the use of firearms there would not be nearly as many accidents with them. He congratulated Kennedy on winning the cup for the second time, and C queue for winning the medal. The boys gave Col. McCrimmon three cheers and a tiger, and were dismissed for the evening.

CAMP.

Who has smelled wood smoke at twilight;
Who has heard the bush log burning;
Who is quick to read the noises of the night.
Let him follow with the others.
For the young men's feet are turning
To the camps of proved desire and known delight.

SWASTIKAS PLAY TENNIS.

A tennis club has been formed by the First Methodist Swastika Club. Owing to school work and examinations close at hand the attendance has been rather small but after examinations are past a big turnout is expected each Friday evening.

Although a number of the members have played tennis very little in previous years they are going at it very enthusiastically and are fast developing into good players, so it behooves members of other clubs who are considering entering the tennis tournament in the early fall to get busy and practice up.

Owing to the small membership of this group it was impossible to form a baseball team so a number of the fellows are playing for the Sunday school team and hope to help win the church league pennant.

C. S. E. T. TENNIS.

Many of the boys in the various groups are practicing daily for the C. S. E. T. Tennis League, which will be held in the fall. We have seen the Manuel boks, Eric and Brightmer Chapman, and many others, out early mornings and after school.

On Wednesday, May 31, the last shoot of the month took place at the armories, and Douglas Kennedy was again winner of the cup. This is the second time Douglas has won it, and if it occurs again it will be a case of having to find another cup. Cleone Kew won the medal this month with a score of 64, in shoot-off with Stan Say.

The cup and medal were presented to the winners by Col. McCrimmon at the annual inspection on Monday night. Col. McCrimmon complimented the boys on their shooting, and gave them some good advice.

On Wednesday, June 7, the shooting was very good. J. Crocker had the best score, with 65 on his first target. The boys are beginning to see some results of their shooting, as four of them, R. Barnes, S. Say, D. Kennedy and A. Horner all got their marksman's badges last month, and there should be several more in the course of a few days.

Now the inspection is over the boys will be able to get out a bit more. On Monday next they propose to have a route march through the principal streets of the city in the evening instead of drilling indoors.

Y.M.C.A. SUMMER MEMBERSHIP.

When its hot, and away the gang goes to the good old tank in the "Y"—the fifty-cent summer rate was placed within the reach of all of us, and great numbers are taking advantage of it.

Mr. George Sinclair is on the job now to meet all the groups of swimmers. He is the new physical director and the way he took a hold of that class of non-swimmers last night and made them learn to swim is a splendid sign of his ability to make swimming very popular. He told the boys at the start that their chief difficulty was their fear of the water. He made them duck their heads a few times, and though the open mouths and noses gathered in some water the boys saw that they would not drown just as soon as they got a "mouthful" of water.

CITY CLERK'S ADVICE TO THE BOYS' COUNCIL

Impressed Several Things Upon Them at Their First Session.

The juvenile city council was convened Friday night at the city hall chambers by His Worship Jack Hutchinson.

The turnout of juvenile enthusiasts was not great, but all were impressed by the atmosphere of the room, the newness of their surroundings, the pictures of the men who have served their city so faithfully, and the oddness of the seating arrangements detracted somewhat from the enthusiasm which should have prevailed.

City Clerk Baker welcomed the boys in the absence of Mayor Cameron Wilson. He proved that he was interested in the boy life of London and stated the willingness of himself and the city fathers to help the boys make London the best city in Canada, both for the boys and for all citizens.

"Remember," said City Clerk Baker, "to guard zealously the rules and regulations of your council business procedure. The old law of one man required to speak only once on the point in question taught boys and men to think, quickly, clearly and concisely."

"Work meant success," and the council started right in to talk of two huge campaigns for the winter—an anti-cigaret campaign among boys, and a community clean-up campaign. We shall expect great things of the representatives of these fifty-eight Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups.

W. J. R. C.

The Winchester Junior Rifle Club is meeting out at the sand pits every night, except Wednesday. Think of it boys! You can practice shooting under the able leadership of Mr. E. E. Murtagh. Our clubs—four in number—have an excellent showing in the International Club competitions. Very few men will give so much voluntary time and expert knowledge to boys, and we should get out there often. Some of us have won several medals.

The field rifle meet will be in the fall and dozens of boys are trying to develop accuracy. That bulls-eye looks very small when one tries to hit it.

WELCOME TO GEORGE SINCLAIR

The Boys' Own 'Tiser welcomes the new Y. M. C. A. physical instructor to London and to the London "Y." We are very fortunate in securing a man of his stamp. Have you seen him yet? A great big six-footer, who looks as though he loves all boys and will give of his best in training and interest to the physical life of the boys and young men of the city. He has had about ten years experience in boys physical work, so that we can go to him with any of our problems and be sure that he can talk sense, and that he can tell us right from wrong with the rules of any game.

We believe that he has a most wonderful field in which to use his ideas and experience, and we will expect great things from him. Of course, we will help him all we can.

KI-Y CLUB.

The Ki-Y Club is getting ready for its big camp up at Sage's Farm. Harold Neil, Clarence Ager, Alfred Calhoun, and others, are talking up the camp among the members and are spreading enthusiasm.

A month's solid camp will be the greatest event in our lives.

OWLS CAME UP.

The fast-going Maitland Street Owls came from behind in the fourth inning of a five-inning game, to defeat the Comex 12 to 7. Heavy hitting featured. A home run by Cowley, with two men on bases, was a feature. Brown was hit hard, but pitched a steady game. Stanton for the Owls, pitched well, but errors accounted for the runs scored on him. He was relieved in the third by Thompson. Only one run was scored off his delivery.

Batteries: Comex—Brown and Allan, Johnson.

Owls—Stanton, Thompson and Stanton.

On the evening of June 3 many of the younger set went to Springbank with the lady of their heart to dance on the velvety floor of the casino.

Among those noticed were Hubert Hortense Loughlin, Theo. Crittle, Bill Johnston, Laurence Langford, Vernon Morrison, David McLean, Claude Gunther, Ted Johnstone and Jack Johnstone.

HOTTENTOTS FLEE BEFORE AIRMEN

London, June 10.—Canadian Press.—Airplanes did more to strike terror into the insurgent Hottentots in the recent uprising in Southwest Africa than the whole of the volunteer forces engaged in quelling the rebels, says the Capetown correspondent of the Argus, according to a Reuter dispatch today.

A remarkable incident in connection with the trouble was the locating of a body of Hottentots in the mountain gorges, where they were warming themselves by a fire shortly after dawn. The airmen dropped bombs and opened machine gun fire on them. Scores were killed and the others fled in all directions, yet ten of them could have held the pleateau against an army.

MISS DAVIS WILL PRESENT RECITAL

On Monday evening at the Institute of Musical Art, a recital will be given by Dorothy Davis, artist pupil of Thomas Martin.

Many Londoners are interested in the progress made by Miss Davis, and the high degree she has attained as a pianist. She will be assisted by Luther Jackson, baritone, and the program will be rendered

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-tives" the Greatest of All Nerve Remedies.

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health.

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

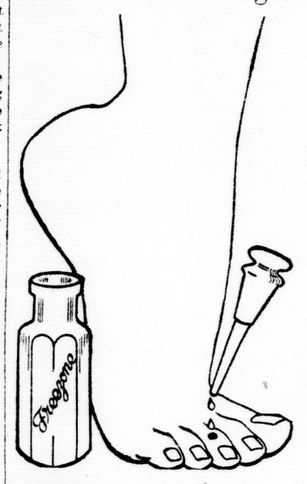

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-tives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvelous in its action.

WILLIAM REED DIES, AGED 90

Well-Known Horticulturist and Former Alderman Leaves Many Friends.

Death Ends 37 Years' Residence in London of Veteran Railwayman.

Death removed one of London's most-respected and widely-known citizens Friday, when William Reed, who has resided in this city during the past 37 years, succumbed at his home, 296 Horton street.

Mr. Reed, who was ninety years old, was born in Southampton, England. Since his twenty-second year he has made his home in Palmerston, Hamilton and London.

During the 37 years spent in London Mr. Reed cultivated a large circle of friends, who mourn his death. In 1900 his popularity was evinced at the municipal polls when Mr. Reed was elected to the city council, on which body he served for one year.

He was one of the few surviving employees of the Great Western Railway, the first steam transportation system to enter London, which has been replaced by the Grand Trunk Railway.

Following his retirement from the railway, several years ago, Mr. Reed devoted his time to the hobby of gardening. His prowess in cultivating flowers won him an enviable reputation among district amateur gardeners, the grounds of his home being noted for their beautiful appearance.

As a reward for his horticultural efforts, Mr. Reed was awarded the Adam Beck medal for the best home gardens in London one season.

Possessing a warm personality this lover of flowers earned the respect of many Londoners, who admired the sterling qualities of character which he exemplified in his daily life.

Besides his widow, three sons and three daughters survive. They are: Mrs. Thomas Purdom, Jr., 711 Waterloo street, city; Mrs. H. McElheran, Toronto; Mrs. Robert Milne, Hamilton; H. G. Reed, Rochester, New York; Fred Reed, Chicago, and William Reed, New York City.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, 296 Horton street, Sunday afternoon. The funeral services will be conducted at 2.30 o'clock.

TO DECIDE IF WILSEY CAN ROOM WITH PET HORSE

Magistrate Graydon to Give Verdict Tuesday Regarding Man Who Lives in Stable.

Charles Wilsey, who told Magistrate Graydon a week ago that he would rather go to jail than leave his pet steed, will appear in court next Tuesday, when it will finally be decided whether he will dine on plain but nourishing food supplied by Governor Dawson at the county jail, or whether he will forego the pleasant atmosphere of the barn where he and his horse dwell together as pals.

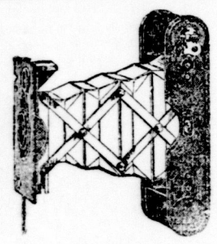

Chief Birrell, when questioned, would not say whether he was superstitious, but admitted that Tuesday, the 13th, might be very unlucky for Charles.

What will happen to the unfortunate nag if Mr. Wilsey dons prison garb will probably be decided by Inspector Tustin of the Humane Society.

ROSS UNKNOWN TO CITY POLICE

The alleged rum-runner, Dave Ross, captured by provincial officers near Waterloo on June 9, and giving his address as 312 Oxford street, this city, is not known to local police by that name.

"We have no record of such a man," stated Detective Thomas Bolton Saturday morning, "and he has undoubtedly given a fictitious address."

Cucumber Fatality Holds Up London Traffic

TRAFFIC, both pedestrian and automobile, halted at the corner of King and Richmond streets Saturday morning, while an embarrassed carrier, bent marketward, stooped to collect several dozen cucumbers from the middle of the road.

His wagon had taken the turn at the corner too sharply, and as a result all that was left of a number of very nice-looking cucumbers was a pulpy, seedy mass. Pedestrians joined in the picking up process, however, and with what was left of his load, the owner of the cucumbers went on his way rejoicing.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Ye therefore shall be perfect, even as your Heavenly Father is perfect. —Matthew v., 48.

AMONG all things in the universe, direct your worship to the greatest. And which is that? It is that Being who manages and governs all the rest. As you admire the best in nature, so you are to pay a proportionate regard to the best thing in yourself, and that is akin to Deity.—Marcus Aurelius.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN Regiment band will give a band concert on Ivererie Heights, Port Stanley, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

APPLICATIONS FOR increases in salary have been received by the school trustees from W. A. Tanner, secretary of the board of education, and Dr. George Weir, school attendance officer. The same have been referred to the salary committee for immediate consideration.

ATTRACTED, NO doubt, by the excellent salaries now paid in this city, as well as the greater chances for promotion, applications for positions on the public school and collegiate institute staffs are still being received by the secretary of the board of education.

ROY VENNER, who recently resigned from the London police force, will run a bus line from London to Grand Bend via Exeter. Mr. Venner was connected with the local department for nine years and was popular with officials and public alike.

LONDON 1 BAND of the local Salvation Army will go to Exeter Sunday to take part in the musical festival which is being given at Exeter in connection with the army anniversary services being held there over the week-end. It is expected that Brigadier Crichton will accompany them and take part in the ceremonies.

THOMAS JANES has taken out two building permits to erect dwellings in South London. He purposes constructing a two-story brick veneer dwelling on Wortley road, and a 1½-story similar structure on Briscoe street. These residences will cost $4,000 each. A total of 65 building permits have been issued this month, their aggregate cost being estimated at $107,470.

THE COMBINED EFFORTS of the Men's Brotherhood and the Ladies' Aid of Ridout Street Methodist Church will go toward making a success of the garden festival which is to be held on the church lawn Wednesday, June 21. Arrangements for the festival are already well under way, and it is expected that it will be one of the finest social events in the history of the church.

THOSE CITIZENS who during the hot spell have found the temperature almost unbearable, are invited to witness sturdy members of a gang engaged in laying a new platform on the Grand Trunk depot here. The station has been noted for years as the warmest spot in the city in June, but despite the fact that the sun mercilessly beats down upon them, these workmen are carrying on their unenviable task.

MEMBERS OF the Irish Benevolent Society will meet at Port Stanley next Thursday night when committees will be appointed and the date set for the annual picnic. Members of the society will journey to Port Stanley as the guest of Philip Pocock, honorary president, who will also provide supper for them at the cafeteria. Prospects for the society are in the best state in its history, according to officials, and the membership is rapidly increasing.

MEMBERS OF No. 1 committee of the board of education have approved of the recommendation by Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer that a supernumerary female teacher be appointed for duty at the Simcoe, Wortley and Tecumseh public schools. If appointed, the new teacher will act as substitute teacher when required at any of these schools, and will also relieve the principals when they are called upon to supervise in other rooms of the schools.

TORONTO LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED

Toronto, June 10.—John Murdock, Monarch Park Boulevard, a lineman and electrician for the Toronto fire department, was instantly killed at 9:30 this morning on Adelaide street opposite fire badquarters. He was electrocuted when standing beside a high pressure water service box on the street and it is not yet known how the fatality occurred.

DECIDE TO CLOSE SCHOOLS FOR FAIR

Trustees Recommended Monday Holiday Despite Protest of Inspector Greer.

Despite the suggestion emanating from Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer that Monday of Fair Week be not set aside as a public general school holiday, members of No. 1 committee of the board of education, at their regular gathering on Friday afternoon, acceded to the request in this respect from the Western Fair board of directors.

The committee will recommend to the board that Monday be declared a holiday, with the added stipulation that the Fair directors be asked to extend special concessions for Friday. Should the latter be disposed, as in the past years, to offer reduced rates for the children, the trustees would approve of declaring that day also as a special holiday.

Warned Committee.

Inspector Greer warned the committee that Monday was set as a holiday last year for the first time, and the result had been highly unsatisfactory from the board's point of view.

"When the school is dismissed Monday," he explained, "we found that the entire school was thrown into confusion for the remainder of the week. I possess sufficient civic loyalty to appreciate the fact that it is desirable from the Fair Board's viewpoint to set Monday as a holiday. Still, while I realize that I am treading on treacherous grounds, I would suggest that you do not close on Monday this year."

Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board, expressed the opinion that once the Fair directors had advertised free admittance for all children under the age of 12 years on that day, the children would go in any event.

Trustee A. N. Udy questioned whether it would be satisfactory to close on Thursday and Friday as well, but Trustee A. A. Langford reckoned that they might as well close the schools for the week.

Obtaining Concessions.

Trustees Ward Casselman and Thomas Rowe held that the Western Fair directors should be approached again this year with a view to obtaining concessions for Friday, despite the fact that they declined to consider a similar proposal last year.

"They claimed they did not have the time to consider it," explained Trustee Smith.

"They would have found time had they known they were to receive some money," suggested Trustee Rowe.

The trustees incidentally indulged in frank criticism of the admission charged by the London directors. "I understand the public is allowed five tickets for a dollar any day in the week at the Toronto exposition," commented Trustee Rowe.

"Six," corrected Secretary Tanner.

AMERICANS FINED FOR FISHING WITHOUT PERMIT

Authorities Explain Bass Season Does Not Open Until June 16.

Some American citizens visiting Canada have acquired the bad habit of fishing in Canadian waters without the necessary non-resident permit, according to reports received from the London branch of the Ontario game and fisheries department, Saturday morning.

Some days ago officers of the department were scouting along the coast of Lake Erie, when they discovered a number of citizens across the line catching fish without a permit, therefore violating the fish and game laws.

These people were apprehended and fined by Magistrate Massey of Dunnville. They were arrested in the vicinity of Port Maitland.

A section of the fish and game laws states that every non-resident of Canada must secure a permit before he is allowed to fish in Canada. A coupon is attached to this permit which allows him to ship the fish out of the country.

The local officers are keeping a close watch on this kind of thing, it was stated, and on account of the new system inaugurated some months ago, the evil is being curbed.

The warden explained that the season for small and large mouthed black bass does not open on June 15 as is the popular belief. The law designates the closed season on this variety of fish to be between January and June 15, both days inclusive, the season does not open until the 16th.

YOUNG VAGRANT HAS MERRY TIME

The youngster who caused police constable much concern Friday morning at Dundas and Richmond streets, when he evaded the efforts of the police to capture him as he was dodging motor cars, did not end his day's rampage when the police constable placed him on a Ridout street car homeward bound, as at noon he returned to the uptown district and journeyed to the Grand Trunk station and took a train for Ingersoll.

Today Johnnie Sutton, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, 125 Wellington street, is relating his experiences to his playmates. He declares that he was treated like a prince on the train, and that he had lots to eat.

UNPAID WORKS SUBJECT TO TAX

The following ruling has been received by the collector of customs, O. H. Talbot, London, relative to the application of sales tax on orders on file, but not delivered until after the date set for the increase of the sales tax:

"On contracts entered into prior to the 24th of May, for the delivery of goods or materials, and which contracts had not on that date been completed by delivery thereof, the increased sales tax is applicable in respect of all shipments or deliveries made on or after the 24th of May, unless the goods were fully manufactured and paid for prior to the date stated."

One Quarter of Entire Population of London Is Under Age of 18 Years

London can boast of precisely 16,352 children 17 years old and under, or one-quarter of the entire population of the city.

These are the exact figures as submitted on Saturday morning by Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer, as revealed by the education census just completed throughout the city. Separate school pupils to the number of 1,983 are included in the grand total.

The results are tabulated as follows: Public school children 7 years old and under, 6,541; 8 to 13 years old, 5,493; 14 to 15 years old, 1,667; 16 to 17 years, 668. Total, 14,369. Separate school pupils, 7 years old and under, 1,013; 8 to 13 years old, 672; 14 to 15 years old, 219; 16 to 17 years old, 88. Total, 1983.

All data will be carefully filed away in the school attendance department in charge of Dr. G. H. Weir, and can be referred to from time to time by the school officers.

The trustees now have at their disposal considerable information of an important nature. When the question of more class room accommodation for any one or several sections of the city is revived for consideration, they will be able to support their recommendations with the actual figures that will stand no rebuttal.

In any event, the figures will be of immense value when the board undertakes, as it must, to provide special classes for September next, when the new provisions of the school attendance act became effective.

The separate school board will shoulder its due proportion of the cost of the survey, which was in the neighborhood of $600. This amount is provided for in the year's estimates for current expenses.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TO HAVE PLAYGROUND

Wellington Street Methodists to Open Recreation Park Saturday.

Weather conditions permitting, the formal opening of the Wellington Street Methodist Church playgrounds will take place Saturday afternoon. Wellington Street Sunday school has taken the initiative among Sunday schools of the city in annexing a plot of ground to be used solely for recreation purposes. They leased a desirable location, part of the Minhinnick property on Grand avenue, facing the Victoria Home, and the Tuxis Boys, under G. E. McBurney, associate superintendent of the Sunday school, scraped the ground and laid it out with tennis and basketball courts, as well as a baseball diamond.

The recreation ground, it is expected, will be a means of holding the interest of the scholars throughout the week, and of providing them with a place to play rather than the streets, and in which to hold garden parties and socials. It will be under the control entirely of the Sunday school board of management.

Rev. George T. Watts, pastor of the church, will officiate at the opening ceremonies. Speeches will be given by Jared Vining, John Wallace, superintendent of the Sunday school, and G. E. McBurney, associate superintendent. Basketball games between the girls of the G. G. I. T. groups will be a feature of the program. The Trail Rangers will engage the boys of the Tuxis Camp in a baseball game, and there will be tennis for all who wish to play.

Throughout the afternoon the girls of the G. G. I. T. will serve refreshments.

MAKE REPORT ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Ottawa, June 10.—(By the Canadian Press).—Reports by committees appointed to consider the various phases of the unemployment situation in Canada occupied the time yesterday of the meeting of the Unemployment Service Council of Canada. It was stated in the report of the committee which considered the general situation, that while they were of the view that unemployment was not nearly as acute as in most countries, and that industry generally was showing gradual improvement, it was felt that the situation might be such next winter as to require careful attention.

PAYS TRIBUTES TO PRINCIPALS' WORK

Board of Education Eulogizes Alexander McQueen and W. H. Liddicoatt.

Alexander McQueen, former principal of the Victoria Public School, has been tendered the following tribute from the members of the board of education:

"That the sincere thanks of the board be tendered you for the valuable services which you have rendered for the past twenty-two years, first as principal for Victoria School for sixteen years and afterwards for six years as principtl of the Ryerson School.

"The trustees bore testimony to your conscientious and efficient work, your good influence over the lives of the pupils, and your constant endeavor for the welfare of those young lives entrusted to your care.

"You have been in the teaching profession for more than fifty-four years, choosing this work because of your love for children and for the opportunities, which contact with the young gave you for doing good. That you have embraced this good is evidenced by the fact that so many of your former pupils are now holding responsible and influential positions in all parts of the Dominion and the United States.

"The result of your efforts lives on and the influence of your character will be felt in future generations. The grateful appreciation of the board is extended to you as you retire from active service and responsibility."

A similar resolution was passed to W. H. Liddicoatt:

"That the sincere thanks of the trustees be tendered you for the very valuable services under the London board for the past 34 years, the greater part of this time as principal of Talbot Street School.

"The trustees eulogized your work, which has always been performed in a conscientious and painstaking manner. Moreover, it is realized that your good influence over the lives of the pupils and the effects of your constant endeavor to develop a higher type of citizenship will be felt for generations to come.

"This is evidenced by the fact that many of your former pupils now hold positions of trust, responsibility and influence, not only in Canada, but in places outside the Dominion.

"Much of the reward of a conscientious teacher comes from the knowledge of duty well performed and from a consciousness that the world is better because he lived and loved and exercised faith."

DECLARES CANADA LAND OF PLENTY

Tom Richardson, Labor Leader, Addresses Gathering On Market Square.

That the present trend of modern capitalism was the direct cause of the unemployment situation in the world today was the opinion voiced by Tom Richardson, member of the executive of the Canadian Labor party and former Labor member of the British House of Commons, in addressing a gathering of Labor men on the market square this morning.

"The people of Canada have everything necessary for human comfort and happiness," he said. "They have a good government, they have thousands of acres of land going to waste, and yet there are thousands of unemployed in the country. It is about time the citizens ask themselves the question: 'What is wrong?'

"One thing that can put Canada right is a good harvest, but a bountiful harvest will only be of real value to the people if the farmers can get a market for their produce.

By taking as an example sewing thread, Mr. Richardson showed how modern machinery and better conditions should have lowered the cost of this commodity, instead of boosting it. Forty years ago, he said, a spool of thread could be bought for two cents, but today people pay at least five cents for forty yards less thread, despite the fact that it can be made cheaper today than forty years ago.

"Improved machinery and improved working conditions, instead of giving us a square deal, has made life a burden and a struggle," he charged.

Mr. Richardson will speak again on the market square this evening from 8 to 9:30. On Sunday he will address the Askin Street Men's Brotherhood in the morning, and in the afternoon will speak in the Labor Temple at 3 o'clock.

H. A. Stevenson, M.P.P., will be the chairman at the afternoon meeting.

DECIDE AGAINST DAKIN SCHOOL

Trustees Finally Agree To Defer Building Program For Year.

Throwing up their hands in hopelessness, members of No. 1 committee of the board of education, meeting in regular session Friday afternoon, reconciled themselves to the well-established fact that there will be no new public school on Dakin street, or any other thoroughfare in southeast London this year.

In order that they will not be entirely "swamped when the schools reopen again in September next, the trustees recommended to the board that suitable buildings be rented to accommodate the pupils now in attendance at the Chesley avenue and Ealing public schools who should be provided elsewhere.

The committee reports that at Chesley avenue school alone there is need for three additional classrooms, in addition to the detached building on the Ealing property, once discarded as a classroom, but which will be utilized again next fall.

The trustees also recommended that a room in the basement of the Alexandra school be fitted up for use as a part-time classroom for adolescents.

It was further recommended that another auxiliary class be instituted this year, and the Lord Roberts Public School was selected for the location. No. 2 committee will be asked to attend to the necessary furnishings for this department.

During the past year the board maintained two of these classes for backward pupils at the Alexandra and Wortley road schools, and evidently they were so successful that a great clamor has gone up from the various principals for classes of a like nature.

DECISION ON CAR PAY NOT REACHED

The federal railway board of conciliation, which is settling the dispute between the London Railway Company and employees over the three-cent wage reduction which the company is demanding, met Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, but arrived at no solution of the question.

At these two meetings the case of the men was presented by Frank McKay. The company is represented by F. C. McGuigan.

It was stated Saturday morning that, though there has been no tangible solution reached yet the outlook during the past few days has been exceedingly hopeful.

4 SUSPECTS IN BANK LOOTING

claimed. It seems that there was another figure in the background—another checker on the board—a prominent Londoner as well, upon whom, it is alleged, was fastened the mantle of responsibility for dropping the first hint of guidance to the crown attorney.

"I know a woman who will give you the names of the Wyoming bandits", he said in effect, but the crown, the story proceeds, declined to accept at face value evidence seemingly whispered from one to another in underworld circles, and expressed a healthy desire to hear or view evidence of a more substantial nature.

Check Up Evidence.

Then follows, as a page torn at random from the Fireside Detective Library, a weird but intensely interesting narrative of the week prior to the ultimate arrest of the suspects, involving hurried and mysterious conferences in secluded places: "camouflaged" telephone messages, country auto drives with lakeside rendezvous and midnight liquor parties, with secret service operatives peering intently from behind curtains or crouched with ears to keyholes, as they drank in evidence calculated to establish beyond the shadow of any reasonable doubt that the four names submitted by Mrs. Koehler and her associates were those of the much-desired Wyoming robbers.

As the closing chapter, it could be reasonably deducted that the crown expressed satisfaction with what was seen and heard as the police "dragnet" was thrown out the following Saturday night.

REV. Dr. I. H. McDonald, Ph.D., of Kintore, a member of the London Presbytery, has received the degree of B. D. from Manitoba College. Dr. McDonald is declared to be one of the most scholarly men in Western Ontario.

RAINFALL SAVES CROPS IN DISTRICT

Farmers Believe Berry Patches Will Make 90 Per Cent Showing.

The strains of a symphony orchestra could not possibly be as sweet to farmers as the gentle pitter-patter of the raindrops on the barn roofs Friday afternoon, evening and Saturday as they will mean thousands of dollars to tillers of the soil all over Western Ontario.

According to R. A. Finn, district representative of Middlesex, the crops needed moisture in the worst way. Strawberry patches in the Delaware district, even with the showers, will only pick a half crop, while a continued dry spell would have meant their ruination, he said.

As it is, the majority of strawberry patches will run at least 90 per cent of a full crop, in the opinion of farmers attending the market Saturday.

Raspberry patches, which had started to turn yellow from lack of rain, will now pick up rapidly, although even at best will only pick 50 per cent, owing to disease and winter killing.

Hay, oats, wheat and corn will now come on rapidly, the farmers predict.

HELPS ALL CROPS.

Toronto, June 10.—Rain all over Old Ontario yesterday and last night came at the critical time for the strawberries and small fruits crops, and will do good measured in the millions. All farm crops, particularly winter wheat now showing a fine stand and spring seedings, have been set well on the way to success. Farmers had been anxious, as heat was developing into a persistent drought, accompanied by hot winds and scorching temperatures, the mercury hovering around the 90 mark during the past few days. This generous precipitation, running an inch and more, however, has set these fears at rest, and Old Man Ontario has for the moment no grouch with the weatherman. In Toronto precipitation reached the high water mark with 1.40 inches of rain, accompanied by scattered electrical disturbances which for a time put the telephone system and power transmission on the blink. Forecasts are for more rain.

AWAIT RULING OF SQUIRE CHITTICK

Although the case between John Crinklow and John Jones, two Westminster Township residents, who took their troubles into Squire Chittick's court, was heard Thursday last no judgment has as yet been returned by the bench.

The squire reserved judgment, expressing a desire to seek the advice of the crown attorney upon the issue. Crinklow admitted striking the plaintiff with a short stick, but claimed that he had just provocation, as the latter had threatened him. The feud is said to be one of several years standing.

TO WAGE WAR ON CIGARET

Boys' Council Decides to Conduct Campaign Against Use of Weed.

MAYOR OUTLINES PLAN

Various City Organizations Will Be Asked To Aid Project.

Boy cigaret smokers in London are destined to receive a hard blow in the fall when the Boys' Council of the city will conduct a vigorous campaign against the use of the "weed," by lads of teen age and will endeavor to show the younger generation the folly of their ways by smoking in their youth.

This campaign was decided on at the last meeting of the council for the summer months, held in the city hall, Friday evening. The new mayor, Jack Hutchison, was in the chair and this year's clerk, Harold Todd, was in his accustomed place—beside his worship.

The mayor outlined his plan very briefly, stating that it was his intention to obtain the co-operation of all the school principals, as well, as the ministers in the city. The Young Judea Club, and the Roman Catholic organizations, will also be requested to take a prominent part in eliminating "coffin nails" from the adolescent period in the lives of London' future citizens.

Will Lend Aid.

Lloyd Houlding, a representative from the Boys' Work Board, suggested that the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Mothers' Clubs be asked to lend their aid. Mr. Houlding said that the Rotary and the Kiwanis Club also would be only too willing to come in on the project. He promised that the Y. M. C. A. would back the scheme to the uttermost.

It is the plan of the boy mayor to call a meeting of the principals and the ministers early in the fall to talk things over, and soon after that literature would be distributed throughout the city.

In the absence of His Worship Mayor Cameron Wilson, City Clerk Baker addressed the boys and offered to give them any assistance they might need, and also to advise them on any "council tangles" the boys may encounter while in office.

"Boys get the notion, Mr. Baker said, "that community life means law and order and things like that, but community life is a very complex thing.

"Get the idea of community life and your success is assured. Its the spirit of brotherhood that always wins and remember, boys, your three-fold key to success, work, love and worship."

Mr. Baker finished by telling the lads in a joking manner, that he did not care how large a salary the boy aldermen voted for themselves, as long as it didn't come out of the taxes.

Wished Success.

A. R. Kennedy, the other representative of the Boys' Work Board present, in short speeches to the council wished the boys every success while in office.

A reorganization of the staff of the Boys' Tiser is planned by the mayor for the fall, and he was strong in his assertion that a boys' paper was one of the finest things connected with boy life.

It was moved by Allan Grant and seconded by Ronald Foot, that a letter of appreciation be sent to Mayor Wilson for the use of the council chambers by the Boys' Counil.

In the future it was decided that the representatives on the council from the various Trail Ranger groups will be either the tally or the secretary of the club instead of the chief ranger, as was the case formerly.

The question of a "clean-up" campaign to be conducted throughout the city, was laid over for further discussion.

Lloyd Houlding urged that all the boys who could attend the camps at Fisher's Glenn this summer, should do so, pointing out two weeks camp life was one of the finest trainings that a boy could obtain.

Financing Politics.

JUST THIS week word comes to THE ADVERTISER that one of the candidates in the last Dominion election has not been able to square all his election expenses, for the very good reason that he has had to pay them out of his own pocket, and has found it necessary to wear them down as best he can afford.

There are some constituencies where candidates are allowed to do this—or, put it another way—where the candidates will submit to such business.

If a candidate for a political party wishes to make a contribution to the funds, well and good, but when it comes to making him the candidate and asking him to arrange his own finances, it is putting it on too thick.

Why not apply the same principles and practices to politics that men apply to other things? They belong to a lodge, or they and their family are members of a church. They pay into these organizations, because they believe the things for which they stand for are for the good of the community.

Why not look upon financing political parties and the undertakings indorsed by these organizations in a similar light? A number of men hold that certain lines are right for the government of the country. They are drawn together by bonds of common opinion. Why should they not finance and promote their views in a straight, business-like way? As things are done in too many cases now it leaves the gate open to any member who may have money and an axe to grind to come in and bring pressure to bear. He could finance a campaign and have the member in his power afterward.

It's high time political associations put their finances on a respectable basis.

Well, Why Not?

THE Brussels Post has this to say about the automobile races that were held a few days ago:

"A speed fiend named MURPHY, presumably an Irishman, drove a racing automobile 94½ miles an hour in a 500-mile race at Indianapolis the other day and has no intention of ordering his coffin. We know some car drivers, whose names are not Murphy, who appear to aspire to record-smashing, but up to date the windshield, a broken leg and a dislocated shoulder are about as far as victory has been achieved by them. The lunatic asylums have rooms for these gents, but the 15-mile-an-hour chauffeur should have his name written on marble. We are prepared to cheer for him, and feel that insurance companies should offer special bonuses to these level-headed fellows who place some little value on this mortal life. Hurrah for the 10-miler."

And who can say that the Brussels editor is not on the right track? After all, we are a funny lot of people. We see a man going along the road in a car, minding his own business and keeping inside the speed limit—well, it's a fact he couldn't raise a cheer in a thousand years.

Then we get seated at a ringside and watch racers going it at 90 to 95 miles per hour, and we sit right there for four or five hours until we're dizzy watching them spin around, and hoarse from yelling at them to spin faster. A few broken necks, missing arms and legs are neither here nor there.

Now that the move is on to cheer a bit for the driver who minds his own affairs and does not molest the general public let's fall in line and give a couple of whoops.

Making Credit Easy.

IS THERE a demand for more credit in this country? The Picton Gazette believes that if there is the tendency should be curtailed rather than encouraged. The Gazette has this to say:

"Just what the advocates of the recently established provincial government banks expect to accomplished through their system or rural credits, is not easy to understand. Most people agree that one of the chief troubles of this country is too much credit. The necessity for an adequate system of credits for all legitimate enterprises, whether farming or otherwise, is admitted. But to many people government credits simply mean the opportunity of getting farther into debt. This will postpone the day of reckoning, but it offers no real solution. Credit is a good things to have available, but unwisely used, it spells disaster. If it is used it means debt and debt means interest and pay day always comes. Most of the present-day troubles of manufacturers, tradesmen and farmers can be traced to debts contracted during the recent years of prosperity. Many farmers, as well as businessmen, lost their heads during these years and went in debt beyond the hope of payment under changed conditions. The result is financial disaster on the farm as well as elsewhere. What this country needs is some way of stopping this drift into debt; instead of encouragement."

There is quite a heap of common sense in what the Picton paper has to say. During the recent years it was not a hard matter to get credit. Had it been more difficult things might have been much better for a good many people today.

The trouble about borrowed money is that it has to be repaid with interest. Notes have an annoying habit of coming due, and interest charges possess the nasty custom of piling up instead of climbing down.

It is one thing to show a man he can get some cash—it's another thing to show him how he is going to pay it back.

Paying the Price.

FOR SEVERAL weeks now the Sunday school lessons have been centered around Jeremiah. Some refer to him as the "weeping prophet," but there is danger of that phrase being misunderstood unless it is qualified. Jeremiah had not an easy task. Here he was, facing the greatest stage in the decadence of the house of Judah, and upon him was put the task of continually warning the kings and the people of what was certain to happen.

The result is that right now, in Sunday's lesson, Jeremiah finds himself in prison, and in the dungeon that was nothing but mire. It is a fact that the Lord has called upon some of His men to go through queer places before their work has been accomplished.

The big lesson for the average person in this lesson is that great men are not made out in the sunshine. Luxuriousness has never been the cradle of giants.

It is easy enough to see a person who has made an outstanding success in any line—simple and natural, perhaps, to want to imitate him. The real test lies in the question: Are you ready to pay the price? The world too often calls hard work and toil by the name of genius.

Many men would like to have the strength of character of Jeremiah, the devotion and energy and the record of Paul, but they are not willing to pay the price. They would be willing enough to camp on the high spots, but shudder at the thoughts of the dungeon with Jeremiah, of the shipwrecks, the punishment and final execution with Paul.

Strange as it may seem, great characters are developed more in adversity and sorrow than in prosperity and happiness.

The photographer may take his picture in the broad daylight, right where the sun shines and everything looks bright, but he has to go to the dark room and shut the door before the thing is developed.

There's a great big lesson in the seemingly dry story of Jeremiah being cast into the dungeon and pulled out again with old rags and clothes tied around his body and under his arms. It's more than a mere citation of Old Testament history. It carries a lesson that 1922 needs and must learn if it is going to produce men great enough or strong enough to tackle the problems that face the world right now.

NO. 237—SELLING THE CRUSHING HANDSHAKER.

A salesman should certainly take reasonable opportunity to shake hands with a prospective customer. There is so much about a person that can be learned from a handshake.

We are all of us more or less familiar with the fellow who grabs our hand in a crushing grip and seems to think that the more strength he puts into it the better the impression he is making. It's all right if we shake hands the same way, or if we have warning. Otherwise we suffer if we wear a ring.

The character indication of this propensity has been discussed in a previous article. But suppose you were a salesman. Specifically, what would you learn from such a handshake as to the best way to treat such a prospect?

You'd know him at once for the kind of man with whom it will pay you to be very assertive. This does not mean antagonistic necessarily. But be very positive in your manner and your statements. Be emphatic. When you're making a point drive it home forcefully. Be demonstrative. Be hale and hearty. If you laugh, laugh right out loud. Be frank and direct.

The reason is quite clear. This type of man has an element of roughness in him to which these tactics will appeal favorably. Also he is inclined to be inconsiderate of views and feelings other than his own. He may not be exactly "hard boiled," but he does have a sort of hearty, husky shell that you must break through with forceful methods.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

TRAGEDY OF DEAFNESS

PROBABLY no infirmity steals on one so much like a thief in the night as deafness. Nor is there any so irreparable when once established. Relief is always possible, and some arrest of the affliction's advance, but no cure.

Most people with defective hearing give little heed until they realize by accident, perhaps, that they cannot hear the watch or the clock tick as they were wont to do, or until there is a roaring in the ears or a dizzy spell.

The ear mechanism is extraordinarily complicated and delicatet, peculiarly affected by catarrh of the nose and throat by inflammations extending to the middle ear via the eustachian tube.

Most chronic deafness results from frequent and consecutive colds in the head, from congestions in the upper air passages, pneumonia, meningitis, tuberculosis, or other bacteria. Or inflammation will close up that tube, destroying the equilibrium which ought naturally to obtain between the air inside the ear drum and the air without the drum in the external ear.

It is not generally realized how great a handicap deafness is in the modern struggle for existence.

The number of those who are becoming deaf is constantly increasing. Their efficiency lessens with their hearing. And their mental activity is progressively diminished, because the acuteness and the sureness of their mental process, of their perceptions and consequently of their judgments, depend very largely on the sensations conveyed to their brains via their sense organs.

So, if you would prevent deafness, beware of colds. Treat them promptly, never allow one to run along for a considerable length of time.

The BOOKSHELF

EDITED BY CABR

"Q." By Katherine Newlin Burt. The Houghton Mifflin Company, Publishers, New York.

A NOVEL for the lightest sort of hammock practice, this. It is so obviously suited to the idle hour and the idle fancy that it seems almost unkind to measure it by any of the standards that apply to books of sterner stuff.

To call it inadequate in characterization and improbable in plot is rather like employing a steam roller to crack a nut. Unfortunately, even by the less annihilating standards of summer fiction, "Q" reveals itself as rather unsubstantial. A machine-made plot, a die-stamped heroine and a stereotyped hero are the materials from which it is manufactured.

"Q" is a cowboy possessing naivete found only in denizens of the Far West who stray between the covers of a book. He falls in love with an Eastern girl, cold and heartless as those girls inevitably are who live near the Atlantic seaboard and attract heroes of this type. One wonders why she should have lavished devotion on so bad-mannered and ill-tempered a girl, but this is one mystery the author seems unable to explain.

"Q" comes East to the home of his lady, determined to win her. His first step is to engage a teacher to instruct him in reading and writing, the girl is to send him to a first-class tailor.

The situation is rather beguiling, and might, if developed with a light touch, skim through the hours of a dull, hot day. Instead it trudges along on rather flat feet to a foreordained conclusion. How thrilling the reader will find the plot depends upon his degree of sophistication. The author has worked hard, apparently, to make her story exciting.

Some of the incidents are amusing—the account of how "Q" gave himself his name; and another (which is not to be recommended to aspiring authors), where he forces an editor, at the point of a gun, to read a rejected manuscript and accept it.

But in general the author has not made the most of her opportunities, and the book is reminiscent of others that have gone before.

TO THE EDITOR

THAT $600 BONUS.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir,—Ever since the opening of the Provincial Parliament it has been known that continual pressure was being brought to bear upon Premier Drury to again grant a $67,000 bonus to the members of the Legislature. It was believed that owing to the depression of trade, the unemployed and the appalling debt under which the province labored, that the premier would be stern in his refusal. This, however, has not been the case. The members have been granted the bonus on the ground that the session was a long-drawn-out one, and that their expenses were much increased. Be this as it may be, their expenses great or small, it is not the question at issue, and cannot be accepted as an excuse for the granting of the bonus. The question is, "Are they legally entitled to it?"

They volunteered to give their services to their country for four years at $1,400 each. They understood the terms of the agreement, and willingly consented. What right had they to ask or expect more?

In New Zealand legislation has been introduced by Premier Massey whereby the salaries of the whole civil service have been lowered and war bonuses reduced, while all departments, including the ministers, have suffered a gradual reduction, making a saving to that country of £2,000,000. Even the governor, Viscount Jellicoe, asked that he be not left out. He asked to have $2,500 taken off his salary. In Newfoundland the indemnities have been lowered, and I believe Saskatchewan and Alberta have followed the same course.

Just at a time when our half-starved, under-paid mail carriers were asking for a little more money to assist them in carrying out their agreement with the government, and when our returned heroes and Empire defenders—many of who have been selling leadpencils on the streets—were marching to Ottawa to make an appeal to an unthankful government for a pittance to provide their maimed and disabled with cork legs, wooden hands and glass eyes, our legislators at Toronto were voting themselves an extra $600, or a 42 per cent increase, on the plea that $25 a day was not enough for their services to their country.

What respect can the public have for men who have so shamefully betrayed the confidence placed in them—men who have turned the highest honor that the province could bestow upon them into a niggardly provision for themselves and their dependants?

An indignant electorate is looking on, but not with unconcern. The remedy will soon be in their hands. Will they apply it?

Debt

Debt, grinding debt, whose iron face the widow and the orphan fear and hate; debt, which consumes so much time, which so cripples and disheartens, is a teacher whose lessons cannot be forgotten.

It is incumbent on all right-thinking people to do more than avoid debt. It is necessary to accumulate a competence for one's dependent years. If, with a definite earning power you find it hard to live within your income, how could your wife support the home in the event of your death deprived of your earning power? "Your salary stops with your pulse."

A Manufacturers Life policy provides for all these contingencies. Systematic saving will keep you out of debt, and build a competence for the sunset of life. Should you not live to old age, your life insurance will create an estate for your dependents.

LIBERALS ARE CONFIDENT OF SAFE MAJORITY

Expect To Emerge Victoriously From Division On Budget Tuesday.

AGRARIANS STAGE ATTACK

Launch Volley of Criticism At Both Government and Conservatives.

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL.
Special to London Advertiser.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 9.—In anticipation of a more interesting session Monday next, when Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, in his desire to place the burden of taxation on the shoulders of those more able to bear it, probably will make certain modifications in the fiscal policy of the budget, few members displayed interest in the budget debate today.

To a slimly populated house, even Progressive speakers, the majority from Western Canada, attacked the Conservative party and the government in turn. Struggling hard they carried the debate through until 9 o'clock in the evening, when the first break in two weeks of steady debating occurred. The house turned then form its fiscal worries to the discussion of an animal disease act.

Confident of Victory.

Members of the government are confident they will emerge victoriously from the division scheduled for Tuesday next. Although some dissatisfaction was created by the protectionist views of Sir Lomer Gouin among a number of Progressives who were expected to support the government, it is duly believed that Mr. Fielding will smooth out the difficulty when he speaks Monday.

G. A. Brethen (Progressive, Peterboro East) resumed the debate on the budget this afternoon. Former speakers, he said, had emphasized that 99 1-3 per cent of the total income tax was paid by persons living in the cities, and 2-3 of 1 per cent by those living in the country. If this were the case it was because the people living in the cities had the income.

If, after 40 years, the fiscal policy of the country made it possible for 48 per cent of the people to pay 99 1-3 per cent of the income tax, no fair-minded person would say that that fiscal policy was a good thing.

Suggests Land Tax.

Mr. Brethen declared himself opposed to the increase in the sales tax, because it bore heavily upon those least able to meet it. He suggested that revenue could be raised by the reintroduction of the business profits tax and the luxury tax. He also suggested a tax on land values which might have the effect of decentralizing population.

Dealing with the automobile industry, he quoted the Canada Year Book to the effect that the annual output of the industry was valued at $66,000,000. The annual wages, according to the same authority, were $5,558,000. The duty on cars was 35 per cent and accordingly Mr. Brethen estimated the amount which this duty put into the pockets of the manufacturer at $17,322,000. In other words, the country could afford to pay all the workmen full wages and give them a holiday and still be $12,000,000 in pocket.

Three Dollars To One.

Again, the government revenue from the duty on automobiles was $3,961,000, or for every dollar that went into the treasury of the country, more than three dollars went into the pockets of the automobile manufacturer.

John Morrison (Progressive, Weyburn) said that the Canadian manufacturers of farm implements could compete in the open market and with any country that they wanted to, but they had shown that they did not want to compete. Prices on farm implements were higher to the Western farmers than American prices.

If Canadian manufacturers would only sell at the market value in Canada, they would have the "jump" on outsiders and more goods would be consumed. Farmers had to pay more than the actual value for the goods. If high protectionists would take up farming in the West they would see the light, be regenerated and become sanctified Progressives, he said.

Boots Cost $12.

Mr. Morrison declared that recently he had purchased a pair of boots for $12, but the best price he could get for a calfskin, or a cowhide, was $1. "Where is the nigger?" he asked.

The Liberalism of Bright, Cobden, Campbell-Bannerman and Lloyd George, in his palmy days was far removed from that of Canada, said T. W. Bird (Progressive, Nelson). The budget brought down by Hon. Mr. Fielding was proof of the fact that when a government started to revise the tariff the people as a general rule stood to gain very little.

"It's a different matter to eulogize the past achievements of a great party and to apologize for its present action," Mr. Bird said. "It seems strange that two gentlemen tracing their political descent from the same primal germ of Liberalism should turn out as differently as the member for Brome (Mr. McMaster) and the member for Brantford (W. G. Raymond)."

WELCOME OFFER TO DEBATE UNION

Congregationalists Accept Invitation of Canadian Anglican Primate.

BRANTFORD, June 9.—The last business session of the Congregational Union of Canada held in Brantford Congregational Church, Friday morning, was marked by elections of various officers and by the passing of several important resolutions.

The report of the nominating committee was read by Rev. J. L. Alexander.

An important resolution passed by the union read as follows:

"This Congregational Union of Canada hereby declares that it heartily supports the system of public schools and would desire to see all schools in Canada under the public school system. Inasmuch, however, as certain privileges have already been granted by law to separate schools, we would urge upon the government that the exact interpretation of these privileges be ascertained and therefore faithfully observed, but that no extension of such privileges should in any way be granted."

The union acknowledged with pleasure the receipt of a communication from the primate of the Church of England in Canada inclosing the invitation of the general synod of that church to confer on the subject of reunion of Christendom upon lines in harmony with the principles underlying the Lambeth conference.

Rev. W. H. Thomas, Toronto, presented the following items of interest:

The number of Congregationalists under pastoral care was 32,149. The number of members of churches equalled 12,172. There were 129 Sunday Schools and 10,518 Sunday School pupils. The total amount of money contributed to the Congregational Church was $362,032.

HOLD REUNION OF OSMOND FAMILY

Sixty Descendants of Two Burford Pioneers Meet in London.

Members of the Osmond family, 60 or more, descendants of two brothers, who settled in Ontario over 50 years ago, held their annual reunion in London on Friday as guests of Miss Hannah Osmond, 520 Hill street. The night before and during Thursday forenoon motor loads of relatives continued to arrive from eastern points, Ingersoll, Milton, Burgessville and Woodstock, until, with very few exceptions, the circle was complete, from the eldest survivor of the Canadian branch of the clan to the tiniest infant in arms, an acquisition of the past twelve months. The tempting noon-hour dinner and tea were served on the attractive back lawn, and between showers a program of races and other sports proved especially interesting to the children.

Settled in Burford.

A genial member of the party, brother of the hostess, was Charles S. Osmond of Milton, president of the association, son of the founder of the family in Canada, the late Samuel Osmond, who came out from Somerset, England, to settle in Burford, Ont., in 1857, removing later to Fairfield, then to Oxford County. His daughter, Miss Hannah, has made her home in London for the past 25 years. Mr. C. S. Osmond referred to the fact that his mother was Julia Webber of Somerset, a direct descendant of the famous Admiral Drake, who, in answer to a proud boast of Admiral Van Tromp that he would sweep the seas with a broom, declared he, Drake, would whip the seas.

Miss Edna Osmond, now of London, and formerly of Ingersoll, the secretary, is the daughter of the second brother, David Osmond, who came to Oxford County from England in 1871. The treasurer is R. E. Hughes of London.

Attend From Oxford.

Among those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Osmond, Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Clifton, Mr. Russell, Miss Marion, West Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Barnett and family, West Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson and family, West Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Dennis and family, Norwich; Mrs. David Osmond, Miss Mary, Miss Myrtle and Mr. Wesley, West Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler, St. Thomas; Mrs. John Ford, Dutton, and small grandson, Max Ford; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rudland, London; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hughes, Burgessville; Mrs. Samuel Somers and family, West Oxford; Mrs. Roberts, West Oxford.

MAY CARRY RATE CASE TO BRITAIN

VANCOUVER, June 9.—The provincial government is prepared to take the case for the applicantion of freight rates in British Columbia to the British parliament if necessary, according to a statement by Hon. John Oliver Wednesday.

The provincial government, Mr. Oliver declared, was also willing to impose direct taxation on the people of the province for the purpose of prosecuting such a course to make the present legislation asking for the rates an issue between the province and the government at Ottawa.

The premier declared that the trouble arose when confederation was entered into. When this happened it was thought that the idea was to bring the bonds of equality in Canada together, whereas the tendency has been to pull asunder such bonds, declared Mr. Oliver.

Rheumatism Left Him As If by Magic!

Had Suffered Over 50 Years!

Now 83 Years, Yet A Big Surprise to Friends

Regains Strength Goes out Fishing, Back to Business, Laughs at "URIC ACID"

How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists For Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago," writes J. B. Ashelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures,' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, as if by magic, I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

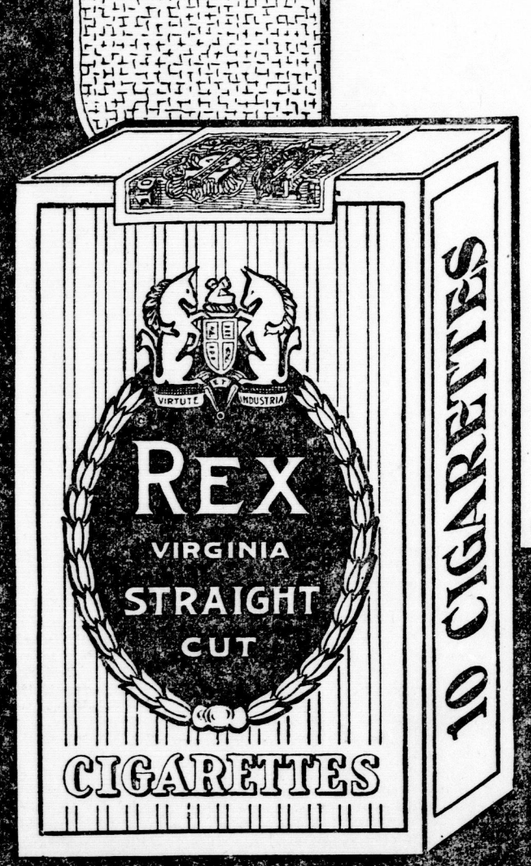

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Mr. Ashelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false theory that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take wrong treatments. You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatments supposed to drive the Uric Acid out of your blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism; that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the blood; that it is found in every new-born babe, and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folks, who have all along been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" humbug. It took Mr. Ashelman 50 years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," a remarkable book now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: If any reader of The Advertiser wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and cure of rheumatism, facts that were overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a postcard or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 46th street, Hallowell, Maine, and it will be sent by return mail without any charge whatever. Cut out this notice lest you forget! If not a sufferer yourself hand this good news to some afflicted friend. —Advt.

PRETTY AND PRACTICAL FETE ATTRACTS MANY

St. Andrew's Church Grounds Scene of Event Arranged By Aid.

Colorful surroundings, excellent music and splendid patronage made the garden party, which was held on the church lawn Friday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church, one of the brightest events of the early summer season. The grounds were thronged with patrons during the evening, and the president, Mrs. Curle, officially opened the fete.

The ice cream booth, decorated in pink and white with clusters of pink roses, was convened by Mrs. C. D. Fraser, assisted by Mrs. J. A. McLaren, Mrs. L. A. Moffat, Mrs. Auld, Mrs. Swazey, Mrs. Moule, Mrs. George Hair, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Angus Morrison and Mrs. Foster.

Mrs. W. H. Carson and Mrs. George Lamb were joint conveners of the home-cooking table, laden with a tempting array of cookies, pies, tarts and cakes, and decked with peonies and orange blossoms. Assisting were Mrs. Wood, Mrs. H. Ryan, Mrs. Hiscott and Mrs. Richmond.

Rainbow hues were used to decorate the candy table, where Mrs. D. Hardie presided, assisted by Mrs. Leleur, Mrs. T. McDonald, Mrs. Palmer Smith, Mrs. Guy, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Hayman, Mrs. W. H. Line and Mrs. Quigley.

Soft drinks and ice cream cones were sold at an attractive booth, effectively decorated with marguerites, and in charge of Mrs. R. J. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. Firth, Mrs. Morley Adams, Mrs. Stuart and Mrs. Burton.

One of the prettiest booths was the flower stall. Here huge parasols covered with ferns were used over the table laden with fragrant summer flowers. Miss Hamilton was in charge, assisted by Mrs. George MacDonald, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. McCallum, Mrs. Brick, Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. McCoubrey.

During the evening an orchestra played a delightful program; and strung from the trees were bright colored Japanese lanterns.

WITH THE BRIDES

PALMER—BOLTON.

A quiet wedding took place at the Bothwell Presbyterian manse, when George Dwight Palmer was united in marriage to Mary Jane Bolton, both of Euphemia Township. Rev. J. M. Beill was the officiating minister. The bride looked very pretty in her gown of white crepe de chine; she was attended by Miss Jean Archer of Florence, while John Gray, also of Florence, attended the groom.

COLLINS—FLOWERS.

Thursday at three o'clock the marriage took place at the home of the bride's father, Mr. George H. Flowers, 496 Adelaide street, of Laura A. Thomas, to Percival Roy Collins of 74 Evergreen avenue. About 30 guests witnessed the ceremony, including relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. Capt. (Rev.) J. Garbutt officiated.

BALL—McCORQUODALE.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McCorquodale of Lakeside was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday at high noon, when their eldest daughter, Esetta, became the bride of Mr. Adrian Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ball of Woodstock. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely gown of pink crepe de chine, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The wedding march was played by Miss May Wilson of London, a cousin of the bride. The couple stood under an evergreen arch trimmed with pink and white, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon W. Butt, Kintore. During the signing of the register, Miss Lilian Swanson of Stratford sang very sweetly, "All Joy Be Thine." A delicious wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room, with covers laid for 60 guests.

The bride's going-away gown was of blue gabardine with hat to match. After their honeymoon, which will be spent in Detroit and Flint, the happy couple will reside on their farm in East Nissouri.

FIND WHERE MILK GROWS AND HOW BERRIES RIPEN

Life Full of Interest at W. C. T. U. Camp, Opening July 1.

Any good-hearted club or person like to give a little shut-in-the-city girl a real summer outing, where she can wake up in the morning to bird and animal calls, with green grass and trees everywhere instead of sun-baked streets and city walls?

July 1 the W. C. T. U. summer camp is opening as usual down at Springbank, across the river from the pump-house, where portable houses have waited all winter, good as gold, for the holiday season coming round again. Mrs. Ida Harrison, the camp's fairy godmother, goes down the week before, accompanied by Miss Emma Gurd, to get everything ship-shape for the coming of a party of young girls between the ages of 10 and 14. The rules, however, are not exactly those of the far-famed Medes and Persians. If a little girl under ten, even as young as eight, has an older sister in camp to look after her, she may successfully pull wires to get in. Housing, bedding, meals, milk and all are provided in the $3.50 each charged for board. Half a dollar a day will buy all this for a little girl, with the fun thrown in.

In addition to relaxation features, the camp has educational as well, that, fortunately for the holiday-makers, are not recognized as such. For example, when members of camp go for milk, they can find out that it doesn't just come out of bottles or even a can. They make the acquaintance of the cow and the process of milking, separating milk from cream, and the manner in which butter for bread is made. They visit nearby fruit farms, and they see how currants, raspberries and gooseberries grow on bushes, and cherries and plums on trees, even if strawberries ripen lusciously on vines on the ground.

This year, according to Mrs. Harrison, there is excellent assurance of a bridge just below the dam at the old site for the visitors who care to go out from the city. This piece of luck is due to the fact that the London district Latter-Day Saints are holding a camp the first ten days in July, and will find it necessary to build a bridge for reaching their camp headquarters from the car on the north side of the river, neighboring the W. C. T. U. summer colony.

Personals

Miss Ethel Teasdale is leaving the beginning of July to spend the summer in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Langridge, 39 Ridout street, are spending a few days in Detroit.

Mrs. W. B. Shuttleworth King is leaving next month for England, where she will spend the summer, accompanied by her eldest son, Richard Kay Shuttleworth.

Miss Elsie Dorntree, a charming guest of the past few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marshall and Col. and Mrs. W. G. Coles, has returned to her home in New York.

Mrs. Fred C. Field was the hostess at the Kennels Friday afternoon of a bridge of four tables given in honor of Miss Newman, a charming guest with Mrs. Fritz Beck.

Miss Frances Beatrice Taylor of this city is writing the prologue and epilogue to be spoken by Mary Bowker for the "Little Garden Pageant," to be presented in the grounds of the London Institute of Musical Art on the evening of June 13, under the direction of Miss Topley-Thomas. The players are pupils of Miss Topley-Thomas, and the dancers of Miss Mary Manley.

Mrs. Gordon Hunt was the hostess of a luncheon given at her home on Wellington street, Friday, in honor of Miss Isabel Cowan. Covers were laid for eight, and the table was decorated with roses and pink blossoms, forming a maypole in the centre. A charming feature was the presentation of numerous hankies and a corsage of bright colored organdy flowers. Among the guests were Mrs. George Parkett of Chicago, mother of the hostess, and Mrs. Archibald Hunt of Winnipeg.

Interesting visitors in London the Less for the week-end, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sugden Pickles, 336 Ridout street south, are two English girls, Miss Florence Saunders and Miss Foster, teachers from London, England, who have been on exchange on the Stratford, Ontario, school staff during the past year. Coming out with a large delegation to attend the Imperial Teachers' Conference in Toronto in August last year, with appointments awaiting them, they are returning home this summer. First, however, Miss Saunders will take a trip through the Canadian West. Mr. Pickles motored to Stratford Friday afternoon to bring the visitors back with him in order to afford them a better view of the June-time Ontario country than could be obtained from the train. Friday evening Mrs. Pickles entertained informally in honor of Miss Saunders and Miss Foster, inviting only members of the city teaching staff who have visited in England and seen the schools there. These included Miss Myrtle Justin, who is going over to Old London on exchange for the coming year, Misses Ethel Teasdale, Coral McNaughton, Agnes Stewart, Edith Whittaker, Wildern, Maybelle Stuart, Isabel Craig and Inspector V. K. Greer and Mrs. Greer.

The Allentown, Pa., Morning Call of June 5 chronicles a novel method of announcing an engagement, which was adopted by Miss Dorothea Kennell the Saturday before. Miss Kennell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Kennell, the former treasurer of the Olbert Packing Company, and president of the Citizens' National Bank, is to be married to a young Ontario physician, Dr. Sidney Frederick Tichborne of Inwood, Ontario, who served with the Canadian forces in the war. The Allentown account of the announcement is as follows:

"Miss Dorothea Kennell on Saturday afternoon entertained a number of friends at a delightful bridge party at her home on South Third street, Lehighton. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and at a convenient hour luncheon was served. The guests were greatly surprised when they beheld in the dining-room one of the prettiest sights of their lives. It was a miniature bridal party, arranged on the table, the dome serving as a bridal bell, from which were suspended decorations of ribbons and flowers to the corners of the table in a pink and white color scheme. The whole effect was marvelous, and was the handiwork of Miss Kennell, who recently completed a course in the Art School at Philadelphia.

"The engagement of Miss Kennell to Dr. Sidney Frederick Tichborne, of Inwood, Ontario, was announced in the first prize given at bridge in the form of a corsage of lilies of the valley, Sweetheart roses and delphineums."

The lawns at Wolseley Barracks were the scene of a charming event Friday afternoon, when Lt.-Col. C. H. Hill and Mrs. Hill and the officers and their wives of the R. C. R.'s held a reception in honor of Brig.-Gen. W. B. M. King and Hon. Mrs. Shuttleworth King. Mrs. Hill, who received with the guests of honor, wore a pretty frock of blue ratine with a white hat, and Mrs. Shuttleworth King was charming in a gown of flowered crepe de chine with terra cotta trimmings, and a hat with a terra-cotta plume. Among the guests present were the R. C. R. officers and their wives, including Col. and Mrs. Langford, Capt. and Mrs. Hemming, Capt. and Mrs. Balders, Capt. and Mrs. Halloway, Capt. and Mrs. Campbell, Major and Mrs. Landon, Capt. and Mrs. Fenton, Mr. Prince and Mr. Belson. Other guests noticed were: Lieut.-Col. F. B. Ware and Mrs. Ware, Col. and Mrs. Robinson, General Shannon, Col. and Mrs. Eric Reid, Bishop Williams and Mrs. Williams, Rev. Quintin Warner and Mrs. Warner, Major and Mrs. Eaton, Miss Georgina Layton, Major and Mrs. Passey, Capt. and Mrs. Cooke, Major Arthur Mortimore, Mrs. Thomas Mortimore, Col. and Mrs. Murphy, Col. and Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. T. A Good Medicine For the Baby
Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets as a medicine for little ones. They are a laxative, mild but thorough in action, and never fail to relieve constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Damas des Aulaines, Que., writes: "I always keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They are the best medicine I know of for little ones, and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

Easy Way To Remove Freckles and Blotches
Some women have skin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. Sun and wind usually play havoc with skins of that kind. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, the trouble can easily be overcome. When the wax is washed off the next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or so, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or other cutaneous blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No harm or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.—Advt.

90 ANSWER ROLL AT ROBBINS REUNION

Event Held At Home of Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair, Zorra.

The 5th annual Robbins reunion was held on June 3 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. St. Clair, 3rd line, Zorra, and a most enjoyable time was spent in the reuniting of relatives and friends, numbering about 90, from various places, Sarnia, Watford, Belmont, London, Dorchester, Bennington, Thamesford, Harrietsville, Thorndale, Lakeside and Embro. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon, and the afternoon was spent in games, races and baseball.

The chief feature of the day was a time race for the oldest single granddaughters, the prize being a pieced quilt (the wedding ring), won by Miss Mildred Dundas of Dorchester. A special prize was given for a geography match for the second, third and fourth classes, and was won by Lily Murphy of Thorndale. A very amusing and interesting race was a rooster race, participated in by seven ladies, the prize going to Mrs. Mortlock of Dorchester. After a number of other races were run off the rest of the afternoon was spent in playing baseball.

A business meeting was called, and an invitation was given by Mr. and Mrs. E. Robbins to meet at their home at Harrietsville, on the first Wednesday in July, 1923.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Sophia Robbins; president, Mrs. Sarah O'Connor; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. McLeod; managed committee, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Robbins.

Byron Disabled Soldiers Thank Entertainers of Past Season.

The Westminster Hospital Troupe, under the direction of Dr. W. J. Towers, gave a concert to the patients of Byron Sanatorium on Monday evening, June 5.

From the way the audience received each number it was very evident that the efforts of the party were fully appreciated.

The hit of the evening was the song by Dr. Towers, "I've Got a Motto." The various side jokes by the two colored gentlemen, Mr. Sambo and Mr. Bones, kept the audience in high glee.

The violin solos by Mr. J. Cresswell were fully appreciated. Messrs. Lewis, Allister and Smith also received their full amount of applause. The dancing by Peter Thompson was exceptionally fine.

The program ended with a few remarks from Major Snelgrove and Dr. W. J. Towers.

The patients of Byron Sanatorium take this opportunity of thanking the various concert parties which have entertained them during the winter months in bringing a little gladness to the disabled soldiers.

On Wings of Wireless

by ARTHUR B REEVE

START HERE.

In pursuit of crooks who held up a fashionable Radio dance, Guy Garrick and Dick Defoe find that beautiful Ruth Walden may be the innocent instrument of robbers posing as wealthy idlers. They seek to check up on a mysterious cruiser, "The Bacchante," to see if its movements have anything to do with the occupants of the wireless equipped houseboat "Sea Vamp," where Ruth and her questionable friends spend much of their time, and where they found some of the robbers' loot and a roll of undeveloped films. By a ruse they get on "The Bacchante," where they find Professor Vario, radio expert, and learn of a W. 49th street restaurant called "The Inner Circle."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV.

THE INNCER CIRCLE.

THEY caught the afternoon train for the city.

It was a perfect summer evening in June. They mounted the breakneck spiral to the top of a bus and jolted and swayed across to Fifth Avenue, then uptown in blocks of motors and taxis. Everywhere were gay crowds almost as if New York were itself a summer resort.

Sauntering slowly down Forty-Ninth street, they found the address of the Inner Circle, a big old brownstone house midway in the block west of the avenue, back of a high iron fence with plain brass knobs setting off the sections. Heavy grilled doors opened into an English basement. Two or three smart motors were drawn up along the curb.

"Recherche!" nodded Dick, hesitating a bit.

Garrick turned in at the gate and pressed a button by the side of the doors. "Aren't I select enough for the Inner Circle?" He straightened with true British swank.

The door swung open. Garrick inquired nothing, explained nothing. He inclined slightly toward Dick to precede him and they passed the Americanized butler. It had been a magnificent gesture on Garrick's part. The most difficult thing had been accomplished on sheer nerve.

He might have owned the place as he led the way up the short flight of stairs from the former basement.

M. GEORGES PROFITED BY THE REVOLT AGAINST REFORM.

"Monsieur Georges—as I live!"

Garrick grasped the hand of a thick-set, erect, very dark Frenchman with a black, pointed mustache. He had been standing just at the head of the stairs.

"Ah-h! It is Monsieur the Admiral!" The Frenchman grinned pleasantly, displaying rows of splendid teeth. Indeed he seemed in fine trim.

Before them opened a little alcove reception room. Garrick paced on into it, followed by Georges, and introduced Dick.

"You must know Monsieur, Dick, who made the old Chateau Rouge up by Tarrytown so wonderful in the old days?"

Georges motioned them to a little table, clapped his hands sharply and a waiter appeared on rubber heels, took an order and they settled themselves. "Now for the mystery of the dancing men," whispered Garrick to Dick just as Georges turned. There was just a shade of contempt in Garrick's tone of raillery. At a glance he had taken an estimate of the character of the place.

For ten or fifteen minutes Garrick reminisced of the old days before and during the war. Gradually Dick pieced together the drama of the present.

It seemed that a group of rapid young people, many of them his own acquaintances, had started what they called the "Fifty Club." There had been a split of some kind, reducing the stalwarts down to twenty. The twenty had tried to go it alone. But it had been too much for their allowances. It had been a bit too exclusive.

Now it was really a private club run by M. Georges who had catered to the elite of a generation at the Chateau Rouge. Most of the twenty had stuck, and enough of the selected elect admitted by card kept the Inner Circle going.

The long, wide, high-ceilinged parlor of the old house had been remodeled into a dining-room with a beautiful dance floor. Outside they could hear the plaintive rhythmic notes of the club's own Hawaiian orchestra of three performers.

As nearly as Garrick could make it out, M. Georges was making an excellent thing out of the revolt against reform.

In a lull of the conversation and above the soft Hawaiian strains floated new voices from a table outside.

"Well, Glenn, here we are, alone—for once."

Dick peered cautiously out through slightly-parted portieres and nodded to Guy. It was Vira.

"It does seem good, doesn't it?" she was saying. "No, Rae, no Ruth, no rumpus. Let's have no worry. You've been looking nervous lately."

"Vira, you're great tonight! That violet tweed is slick. If I stole a kiss . . . would you register anger? That's the word they use, isn't it? Register?" Glenn chuckled contentedly as they toyed with thin-stemmed glasses. "It's mighty fine of you, Vira, to notice that I haven't been looking quite right. I didn't think you cared any more for me than for the rest of them. To tell the truth I am worried . . . but I can't tell anyone."

"I don't believe it's over exams. You don't seem to be carrying your Horace or calculus around in your pocket. You're not in love, are you, Glenn?" Vira gave him a look that would have thrilled the audience of any movie palace from coast to coast.

Glenn reached over, took her hand, passed his foot under the table and laid it gently over her dainty ankle. "Honest to God, Vira, I love you!" Then he added fervently, "I want to get you in my racer, soon, and we'll motor out to some nice quiet spot, like Canoe Place used to be . . . and I'm going to tell you all about it. Will you let me tell you . . . how much I love you?"

"Dear boy, I'm just dying to go on that ride with you." Her eyes were sparkling like dewdrops on a green leaf in the morning sun. Vira knew it, meant them to sparkle. At a lower level she would have reasoned, how could one get over dramatic moments on the screen unless one lived them? As it was she merely felt.

"Make it tomorrow, Vira," Glenn took her hands and toyed with the ring finger on the left hand.

"Well, you dumbbells!" laughed Rae, suddenly poking her pretty piquant face around the corner. "What are you doing, Vira? Rehearsing a scene on Glenn? You're not falling for it, are you, old dear?" With a shrug of her shoulders and her arms akimbo, she threw her head back and laughed silvery. Quickly leaning her beautiful body forward she waved a mocking finger toward Glenn. "With three cocktails, Vira, he would say the same things to me. Don't believe a word he says."

Somehow, Rae's jocular remarks bred distrust in both lovers. They glowered at her for the interruption. But they both fell for it. "Love claims all or none," is just as true among the sophisticated as among the simple.

Suddenly sitting down, Rae beckoned a boy. "Three soothing sirups in a hurry!" Then, turning to her companions, she said, lower, "I have some important news for you. I've been hunting all over for you."

Her voice dropped to a "bzz-bzz-bzz." Georges had been called away from Garrick and Dick to some of his multitudinous business in pleasing the ultra particular. They strained their ears.

"I was just up there." Then a break. "And it came in over Pinkey's wireless from . . ." It was lost. "It said, Watch out for Garrick and Dick . . . They got ashore . . . To New York . . . Get them out of the way for good."

Garrick and Dick exchanged glances. "Forewarned, forearmed," whispered Dick.

"Our forearms are about all we've got, too!"

There was a swish of someone passing their door and along the hall. Dick started. It was Ruth herself! Both he and Garrick were on their feet in a moment, quietly, down the hall after her and around a heavy carved newell post up the stairs to the second floor.

She turned as she heard their steps in the wide hall on the second floor.

"And along cafe Ruth!" exclaimed Garrick, smiling.

"What are you boys doing here? Snooping again? It's a bad idea. Snoopers never come to any good end." She laughed, but neither could be so obtuse as not to see that there was a kick in it.

She had her hand on the knob of a door at the end of the hall. She turned it, looked in, shut the door again and faced them.

"Show us around, Ruth. I'm crazy about this shack."

"Well, Guy, you might think I was a megaphone man in a Chinatown-for-a-dollar rubberneck bus . . . or the guide in many museums. Just what do you want to see this time?"

Her lightning mind seemed to tune itself to a fine adjustment. She did not wait for a reply. Instead, she opened the door and admitted them into a very pink room.

"Wait here a minute. Does anybody know you are here?"

"No one but Georges."

She did not wait for more explanation, but was out in the hall again, closing the door softly.

Garrick, running true to form, opened a cedar chest between two closet doors. He beckoned Dick. "A radio freqeuncy amplifier!" he muttered to Dick. "All wired up." He closed the chest upon the complete paraphernalia, thought a moment, then stood up on it, running his finger along the picture molding that circuited the room. He blew the dust from his fingers and wiped them on his handkerchief.

"About forty feet of wire placed behind the picture molding about the room where it's out of sight . . . The receiving outfit in a cedar chest where no one can see it. Humph!"

Dick went over it, making a hasty examination of his own.

"A loop outfit of this kind gives pretty fair results over reasonable distances, although it doesn't cover the same distance that the same equipment would if it were used with a good antenna. Still, during the summer when there are many lightning storms and static is at its worst, the loop is an interesting means of receiving. To begin with, the loop is safe from lightning since it can be used indoors. More than that, it doesn't pick up static like the usual antenna. It doesn't make use of a ground connection. It only intercepts a small portion of the usual energy intercepted by a good antenna . . . So the radio frequency amplifier."

"That's all very interesting, but just shut up that chest before we have fifteen men dancing on two dead men's chests!" Garrick was looking keenly at the color scheme of the lounge. "Pink-Pinkey . . . 'I was just up there . . . I gather that the threat . . . or warning . . . came over this wireless. From the 'Bacchante'? It's running through my mind: '5-22-22 250 cases S. S. Aroyo. CKGG'. This is CKGG. Do you begin to get it?"

Dick nodded, half comprehending. 'As they said about little Willie, 'What next? What next?"

Ruth opened the door quietly, mysteriously. She seemed to be laboring under high nervous tension.

"You saw the dance floor and dining-room downstairs. And you met Georges. I guess you can guess that anything Georges has anything to do with will be at least aristocratic?"

"Everything is classy and in taste," admitted Dick. "It has atmosphere, and all that." He longed to go on with more personal questions. But Garrick's presence restrained him.

Ruth beckoned them out in the hall. It was noticeable that she was discreetly quiet. "Of course, I can't show you around up here. You see, these are the lodgings of about half a dozen members and, believe me, they pay. That was a lounge, really for ladies." She was leading them back down the thick-carpeted hall. She came to a door. "There's one thing you might be interested in." She opened the door and it appeared to be a back flight of steps for the servants in the old days when it had been a residence.

Ruth started down the stairs and they followed, past a door that evidently opened on the parlor floor, then down another flight that led to the former basement.

Luscious odors of cooking smote the nostrils. They emerged back of the reception hall through which they bluffed the butler at the door. Here was the kitchen, beautiful, a gem of a place. It did Georges credit.

Ruth turned, opened another door and disclosed a stairway down into the cellar, in which a light was burning. She started down and the door closed behind them.

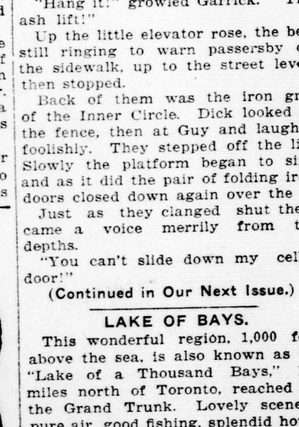

"What's all this?" inquired Dick, amazed, as he reached the foot of the stairs and saw weights and exercises on the walls on one side, a couple of punching bags, heavy mats, gloves, an ample handball court; in fact a quite complete little gymnasium in the cellar, with a very good ventilating device.

"Down the passageway, on either side are showers and we're having two steam roous put in."

Ruth was, however, moving toward the front of the building "I suppose you've been wondering," she said, "where are the things you usually find in a cellar." She paused and opened a door in the front, then with a twinkle added, "The heating apparatus."

There was a big, white-asbestosed low-pressure boiler and a row of ash cans.

Dick's face fell and Ruth laughed outright. "That was a mean one,

RUTH BROUGHT THEM TO A LITTLE IRON DOOR.

Dick. Disappointed? I get you. Well, as I was saying, the most interesting part of a house nowadays is the cellar!"

She winked and stood before a little iron door. "This must be what you expected. The vault . . . only this is built out under the sidewalk. Now . . . gloat!"

She swung the door open. It was dark and dank inside and cobwebby. The light from the cellar did not shed any ray into the vault. Ruth held the door, smiling, gently took Dick's arm and guided him in, then Garrick.

"Strike a match—if you want to see some good stuff."

Dick struck a light.

But as he did so a rush of air extinguished it and back of them clanged the iron door. There was a grinding of a bolt.

"Confound it!" growled Garrick at letting himself be trapped.

A gong began ringing, stridently.

It seemed as if the very floor on which they were was moving. There was a metallic noise overhead. Garrick looked up. It seemed as if the earth was opening above them and a glaring light pouring in.

He ran his hand up alongside and over his head. There was a heavy iron bow, U-shaped but inverted. They were rising. The top of the U seemed to be parting iron doors on either side.

"Hang it!" growled Garrick. "The ash lift!"

Up the little elevator rose, the bell still ringing to warn passersby on the sidewalk, up to the street level, then stopped.

Back of them was the iron grill of the Inner Circle. Dick looked at the fence, then at Guy and laughed foolishly. They stepped off the lift. Slowly the platform began to sink and as it did the pair of folding iron doors closed down again over the U.

Just as they clanged shut there came a voice merrily from the depths.

"You can't slide down my cellar door!"

Lingering Weakness Following Disease

Due to the Fact That the Blood Has Become Thin and Watery.

In almost every case the victims of la grippe, influenza, fevers and contagious troubles, are left weak, ailing and despondent after the disease itself has disappeared. They do not pick up strength as they ought, and remain tired, listless and discouraged. The only reason for this is that the blood has been impoverished by the ravage of the disease through which the victim has passed. Strength and full activity will not return until the blood has been restored to its normal condition. The blood can be enriched and purified quickly and surely by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. To enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves is the whole mission of these pills, and thousands have found them beneficial after disease had felt them weak and run down. Among those who have proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind is Mr. Charles A. Turner, light-keeper, Thrum Cap light station, N.S., who says: "In Jan., 1917, I took a severe cold, which I neglected until it developed into pneumonia, which confined me to bed for some weeks. When I was able to get up and sit around the house, I found that I was not regaining my usual strength; in fact, I seemed to be growing weaker, and was reduced almost to a skeleton. I took an emulsion, but it did not help me. Then one day a friend who came to see me said, 'Here's some Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; just the thing to put you on your feet again.' I took them and then got six boxes more and soon could feel they were helping me. By the time the last box was empty I was doing my work again and feeling fine, and I had gained in weight. My health has since continued good, and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Comet-Legs Scores a Point ---But So Do Twins!

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

Quick as a wink he ga ve the Moon-Man a push.

COMET-LEGS was the rival of Mr. Peerabout, the Man-in-the-Moon. One day he rode up to the moon on his star and hopped off.

"Now then," said he, "I'll just go round to the cities of the moon and show the moon people how handsome I am. No doubt they'll put old Peerabout out and give me his place.

"He's too old, anyway, and earth folks want a change. I'll bet they're good 'n tired having the same old moon run the same old way."

The idea tickled Comet-Legs so much he began to ho, ho and hee, hee, till his round tummy shook up and down like a plum pudding. By 'n' by he came to a mountain top and looked down at the earth. When he got up, there was old Peerabout looking at him!

Quick as a wink he gave the Moon-Man a push, and away went ho head over heels into space. Comet-Legs went on his way. He was so tickled he began to make up a song of his own.

This was it:

"When I am the Man-in-the-Moon,
As I really expect to be soon,
I'll run it about, through the clouds in and out,
And I'll turn night and day inside out without doubt!
And at midnight I'll see that it's noon.

"The moon I'll send 'tother way round,
That'll interest folks I'll be bound,
From the west to the east, I shall shove it at least
Quite half of the time after daylight has ceased
From Pike's Peak to Long Island Sound."

Suddenly he stopped and gave a loud yell. "Stop that!" he shouted. But he was too late.

Nancy and Nick had come up to the sky and cut the rope he fastened his star with. Then they rode off on it toward the east.

With or Without—That's the Question

COPYRIGHT BY McCALL'S

SLEEVED or sleeveless?

It's a question every woman must decide for herself after giving the subject the serious consideration it deserves. The difficulty is that the unprejudiced observer is likely to conclude, as always, that both sides are entirely in the right.

In that case there's nothing to do but to have two summer wraps—one with sleeves and one without. Both are fashionable.

Sleeves are interesting this season, and one dislikes to do without them. They are made in odd shapes and trimmed with beads or embroidery quite beyond one's wildest imaginings.

On the other hand, a cape without sleeves is an essentially romantic garment. It reminds one of Spanish cavaliers and dark-eyed villains and all that sort of thing. The choice, of course, is a matter of temperament.

Has Western Ontario Any Perfect Ladies?

WHAT IS ONE?

ARE THERE any fixed standards by which a member of the fair sex can be judged and declared a perfect lady? What are they? Does her dress, her wealth or manners carry any weight in the making of a decision?

How can she be singled out from the multitude of average indidividuals who are "not s ogood, not so bad?"

Or are there no perfect ladies?

The term "perfect lady" has been used indiscriminately for years. What does it really mean? Has it been misapplied in numerous cases?

Various generations had their popular conception of a perfect lady, and never hesitated to decide whether they were wrong or right.

This present twentieth century generation probably has its own idea on the subject.

The London Advertiser would like to know if there are any perfect ladies in Western Ontario, and if so what their attributes are.

For the best answer The Advertiser will pay $5, and for the five next best $1 each.

All answers must be sent in by Wednesday noon, June 14, as the contest will close at that time.

BRED A LADY.

My idea of a perfect lady is:

One who is born and bred a lady and has all the qualities that nature bestows on her and has good speech, habits and refined manners.

One who carries herself gracefully, and is gentle, kind and sympathetic to all around her.

One who does all in her power for the welfare of her country; one who lives a Christian life.

Yes, I feel quite sure there are ladies in Western Ontario. I do not consider flappers ladies, as they are too extreme. VIRGINIA.

Highgate.

MUST BE GENTLE.

My opinion of a lady: A lady should be gentle and kind to everyone whether rich or poor.

A person who treats the rich with every respect and looks down on the poor is not a lady.

If a girl is mannerly, honest and kind when she is small she will very likely be a lady when she grows up.

A lady does not necessarily have to be dressed in silks and satins and have servants to wait on her, nor is it necessary for her to fall in love with a knight. You may look a long time in a ballroom and perhaps not find a lady, but if you would look in many of the kitchens you would find "ladies" who do not have time to go to balls and walk the streets.

Powder and paint, jewelry and fine clothes do not make the lady, it is the person who is in the clothes that is the lady. Queen Victoria's life is a good record of a lady, and there are many like her today. JUNE.

OBEYS GOD'S WILL.

The following are my views of a perfect lady:

Western Ontario has within
Perfect ladies who do not sin;
She is one who does obey
God's own wishes every day.
A perfect lady must to herself be true
And must be temperate in all her ways;
She should be willing to assist the weak
By giving a word of praise.
A perfect lady places her trust
In Him above she is proud to own;
She is generous to the unfortunate poor,
And kind to the aged grown.
A perfect lady a flapper is not,
And is modest in her dress;
She looks in the bad for a little good,
And loves the little ones with tenderness.
A perfect lady does not dance;
She uplifts the fallen one,
And gives him courage to turn
From the wrong he has begun.

"WEST LORNER."

WHAT IS A LADY?

To be a lady she must have a sweet personality. It is not a pretty face that makes a lady.

She must be kind to all she meets, whether rich or poor, and endeavor to hide the difference in their rank of life.

Fine feathers make fine birds, but such is not the case with a lady. Silks and satins only make an outward appearance, but it is a lady's soul that is underneath.

A lady must be polite and graceful in her actions, be neither unkind, haughty or overbearing to her inferiors, and always ready to lend a helping hand in time of need.

She must be the same at all times, whether home or abroad.

She must be generous and truthful and not gifted to criticism and sarcastic remarks. She must be brave and courageous at all times and try to gladden and brighten the lives she comes in contact with from day to day. If she is a perfect lady this will all come naturally to her and she will leave an impression with all her associates.

Be a lady and the honors will always abide with you.

MRS. J. DOAN.

Strathroy, Ont.

PURE HEART AND SOUL.

To be a lady, in my opinion, requires that a woman should have a heart and soul so pure and clean that she is worthy of the company of angels.

She should be gentle and modest in voice and manner, should at all times possess an abundant supply of patience.

She should not adorn herself conspicuously, and should be neat and clean in person.

She should strive to be kind, unselfish, meek and lovable, and in so living she will help her fellow-creatures to live as God meant them to live. C. B. A.

WHITE LACE COATS.

Coats of white lace are new and very smart. They are worn over all-white costumes and are guiltless of belting or ornamentation.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Your Children Will Like This Better Than "Sody"

A COLD drink made of milk and eggs has a great deal of nourishment. Children especially need during hot weather nourishing food, easily digested.

When a youngster comes to the house overheated let him "cool off" before eating. One of these long cool drinks with one or two hearty brown bread and butter sandwiches make an ideal 10 o'clock luncheon for a small boy or girl and would not be scorned by a busy grown-up.

Cocoa Egg Drink.

One egg, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspcon cocoa, 1½ cups milk.

Beat white of egg till stiff. Add sugar and cocoa and continue beating. Pour milk on half of egg mixture, saving the rest for the top. The milk should be well chilled.

Pour the mixture into a glass and top with remaining egg white.

Another drink made with the same ingredients uses the whole egg. This drink is richer, having more fat.

Beat white till stiff and dry and beat in sugar and cocoa. Beat yolk of egg into milk. Add to first mixture. Pour into a glass and top with remaining egg white.

Radio Radiations

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

EVENTUALLY means will be found whereby radio messages will be sent in comparative secrecy.

Many steps tending toward this end have already been announced. But the chief drawback to all present methods has been the expense of equipment.

There are two methods of insuring secrecy in the transmission of radio messages.

The first—the one which is most likely to be used in the near future—consists in broadcasting a type of wave which cannot be translated by the receiver unless that instrument has been so constructed as to contain the "key."

In installations of this type, the radio wave is produced in the usual manner. The voice which is to be carried by the wave is thrown upon it. Then the uhole is distorted in a way known only to the receiver.

Upon arriving at the distant station, the receiver signal is again "distorted" in a manner exactly equal and opposite to the first distortion, with the result that the telephone signal is again intelligible.

This type of secrecy has the drawback that, in addition to going directly to that one person for whom it is intended, it also spreads in every direction, and acts as interference except for its own station.

A second method of sending radio messages in secrecy and one upon which a great deal of effort has been spent, is that of directing the radio wave along a given path so that the transmitted energy travels along that path alone. The message is capable of reception only by stations which are in that path.

This would reduce to a great extent the possibility of radio telephone conversations being intercepted by those for whom they were not intended.

Transmitting systems of this type were used by the Allied forces on the western front with considerable success. It should be but a few years before the high-powered stations which plan to provide inter-continental radio telephone service will be utilizing systems of this sort.

A combination of those two systems would insure practically complete secrecy in radio communication.

Some such combination undoubtedly will be perfected by radio engineers as simpler methods and easier ways of performing the complicated functions of a radio transmitter and receiver are discovered.

RADIO PRIMER

ROTARY GAP—A spark gap consisting of a wheel with projecting points or knobs and a stationary electrode on each side. The spark jumps from one stationary electrode to one of the moving points of the wheel, crosses the wheel, jumps to the other electrode and out. The wheel's speed determines the number of sparks per second, or its frequency.

To the Radio Editor:

Please tell me how far I should be able to receive from my aerial, which is 40 feet high and 315 feet long, with one wire; V condenser and 2000 Ohm receiver, loose coupler galena detector, phone condenser. Condenser is a Murdock 23-plate.

2. Would one detector tube receive music without amplifier?

ROY DALTON, R. R. 4, Thorndale

Answer—1. About 25 miles.

2. Yes.

To the Radio Editor:

Would you please answer the following questions through The London Advertiser?

1. What is the wave length and time of broadcasting of the high-powered stations in Ontario?

2. Why does a phone condenser increase the sound in some V. T. diaphrams and not in others?

W. A. JOHNSTON, Cottam, Ont.

Answer—1. The wave length of the Toronto Star, which is possibly the closest to this vicinity is 460 metres. This newspaper begins to broadcast at 7 p.m. daily.

2. The phone condenser is not responsible for the increase of sound; it is dependable on the static disturbance of the air.

TECS LOSE AND UMP GIVES BUZZ AIR FOR TALKING

Briger's Homer With One On Gives Hams Edge—Schaefer Gets Five Hits Wit h Five Journeys.

TECS LOSE

HAMILTON, June 9.—Although they played errorless ball, the London team did not hit as timely as Hamilton today, and dropped the second game of the series to the Tigers, 6 to 4. The Cockneys looked for a time as if they would walk away with the game, as up until the seventh innings Brown, who was dishing them up, seemed to have Calbert's clouters eating right out of his hand. It was different in the seventh, however, and the Wetzel crew lost their sting after Joe Briger had banged the old apple on the nose for a home run easing Johnny Carlin in ahead of him. When the balloon came down the locals had gathered four hits for as many runs and the game was practically over.

Drew First Blood.

London drew first blood and looked as if they would make a meal out of the Tigers. In the very first inning Watson walked, and although Stimpson and Clarke were easy outs, Schaefer, who by the way had a bad day, only getting five hits out of five times up, singled, scoring Watson. Hamilton did not get anything that looked like a hit until the fifth when Oakes singled and stole, scoring on Briger's single to left. London had already scored one in the fifth when, with two out, Clarke singled and Schaefer, the clouting kid, doubled.

Again in the seventh Wetzel's boys scored, but it was in the same inning that Hamilton came to life and drove Brown to the showers. In this frame, Carlin, first up, singled to centre and bingo, old Joe Briger banged the spalding into the soccer field at the rear of the ball park. All the ladies screeched and applauded our Joe. To make matters worse for Brown, Andy Miller singled, and Brown looked appealingly at Wetzel, who never noticed him, however, and Stutz, the next man up, sacrificed Miller to second. Dolly Gray collected his third ticket of the day, and Wetzel decided that Brown had had enough.

Warmly Greeted.

He signalled Arndt, who was warming up, to take up the burden, but Hunter greeted Arndt's slants with a smashing double to centre, scoring Gray and Miller. The count then stood 6—3, and the game appeared to be safe.

The Cockneys were nevertheless not without a dying kick, but Briger's homer and the ensuing runs had taken the life out of their attack. They managed to look dangerous in the eighth when Beecher stopped one of Miller's flights, and Watson doubled, resulting in a tally, but it was only a flash in the pan, and Andy Miller walked from the box in the ninth with the game safely won.

During the festivities Wetzel was chased for talking rough to the umpires, who were badly jostled in the fifth when Stutz clouted one down the first base line that the Londoners thought was foul. The umpires called it fair, and the Cockneys rushed at him, tearing mad. The argument was finally settled amicably. No runs resulted from the disputed hit. London did not have an error, but Stutz contributed one, and Carlin two for Hamilton. The score:

Pointed For Title

TREMAINE.

CARL TREMAINE, the Cleveland bantamweight, is walloping his way gradually up in the direction to the title, judging by the looks of what was scheduled to be a 12-round go with Eddie O'Dowd. He took all the fight out of O'Dowd in the first minute of the opener, and then rocked him to the duster in the second round. O'Dowd never got a chance to show the boys what he had.

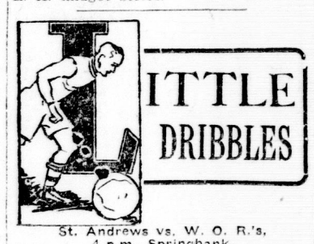

Tremaine was born in Listowel, Ontario, and lived there for a number of years. He fought Benny Gould an exhibition here in 1920.

FOUR SCHOOLS GET LACROSSE STICKS

St. Peters Latest To Enter Midget O. A. L. A. Series.

Four of the London schools have been supplied with lacrosse sticks as the result of recent donations by lovers of the game. The boys of St. Peter's are the latest to be supplied with sticks. Assistant Coach Bob Donahue of the London Lacrosse Club made the donation. Mr. T. H. Yull, president of the club, has supplied a team out at Chesley Avenue, and with Rectory and Hale street, both given sticks by Mr. E. H. Johnston, four school teams are rapidly learning the game.

Several of the members of the intermediate team have volunteered to coach the youngsters, and already each of the teams have held several workouts in preparation to enter the O. A. L. A. midget series.

The R. C. R. juniors are all out to make the champion Rovers travel for the points today. A win will practically give the Rovers the first series.

The game is called for 6:30 p.m., with Stokesley as referee.

The R. C. R. seniors traveled to St. Thomas on Wednesday last and beat the M. C. R. in a very enjoyable game by the odd goal in three. The game was very capably handled by Mr. Wallace of St. Thomas.

The score at half-time was 1—0 for M. C. R. After the kick-off the R. C. R. came more into the picture, and, playing uphill, gave the Michigan backs and goalie something to do, but it was 15 minutes before Proderick scored with a cool shot well out of the goalie's reach. The game looked from this stage as if a draw was to be the result, but after two runs by Stevens and Winters the R. C. R. forced the play, and eight minutes from time Taylor scored for the Soldiers with a terrific shot, the goalkeeper having absolutely no chance.

SUNNY JIM DUNN DIES IN CHICAGO

Cleveland Indians Owner Rose From Country Bank Messenger Boy.

CHICAGO, June 9. — The body of James C. Dunn, who rose from a country boy bank messenger to chief owner of the Cleveland American League baseball club and partner in a big construction firm, will be sent to Marshalltown, Iowa, his home town, tomorrow night for burial at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Accompanying the body of the baseball magnate, who died at his home here this morning after a lingering illness, induced by influenza last winter, will be three cars of admirers of the sportsman, headed by Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

CLEVELAND MOURNS DEATH.

CLEVELAND, June 9.—All Cleveland baseball fans tonight were mourning the death of James C. Dunn, president of the Cleveland Baseball Club, who because of his disposition had won the appellation of "Sunny Jim."

Upon receipt of the news of his death at Chicago, today's game between Cleveland and Washington was postponed, and Mayor Fred Kohler ordered the flag on the city hall flown at half-mast.

MINT Patter

Even Buzz wasn't very optimistic about the Hamilton trip, but there were those who were even more pessimistic than the London leader. Whether it's the threat of the axe or not, something happened to the London team within the last two days.

* * *

Buzz getting put off for talking to the umpire is the funniest thing that's happened in the Mint this season, outside of taking that first game on Monday from the Hamilton clouters.

Hamilton is greatly worried over the gate receipts in other places this year, and it isn't so long since every other place was worried over Hamilton.

Wednesday and Saturday games will start here at 3 o'clock after this. On Wednesday the St. Thomas and London Kiwanians will clash following the big game. The same price of admission will do.

* * *

Thursday the Westminster Hospital patients will be the guests of the London club.

A Sarnia fan writes regarding the attendance figures at the border, showing that it is really the Canadian city which is holding up down there. On Saturday in Port Huron they had about 300 paid admissions and Monday 187. Sarnia on the previous Saturday had 870 paid admissions and on Wednesday 688. They get good Sunday crowds, but over half are from this side.

A number of London fans will see the third game at Hamilton today. Carmen might be a selection for the final stand.

The Hamilton club has decided to keep Daniels, and Les Brooks is trying to engineer a deal which will send Blake and Picard to Kitchener for Marty Glynn. Glynn is an experienced pitcher, and would prove a winner with the Hamilton team behind him.

Guy Zinn has been released by the Bay City team, and it looks as though his career was nearing an end. He has been bothered with his legs, and although he has undergone considerable treatment for the trouble, he does not appear to improve. Zinn was looked upon as one of the most valuable men in the league two seasons ago.

Left Mathews, who was with the Brantford team in 1920, has been offered to the Brants by Baltimore, and the offer will likely be accepted.

Flint Journal: Cliff Hegedorn, shortstop on the Bay City club, is setting a pace for Mint Leaguers in the base-stealing line. In his last nine games Hegedorn has pilfered fourteen bases. His best day's work was against Frankie Lapp, Hamilton catcher. Cliff stole five sacks on this fellow in a double-header.

TOMMY NOBLE WINS BOUT WITH JIMMY GOODRICH

Pinchot Holds Ebor, Bantamweight Champion of Canada, to a Draw in Fast Bout.

TORONTO, June 9.—Tommy Noble, the 130-pound featherweight champion of the British Empire, won the judges' decision in a fast ten-round bout with Jimmy Goodrich, 131 pounds, Buffalo, junior lightweight champion of New York State, at the civic arena here tonight.

Eddie Pinchot, the clever Chareol bantam, held Bobby Ebor, Hamilton, bantamweight champion of Canada, to a draw in the fastest ten-round bout seen in Toronto in years, and Jack Loney, St. Catharines, middleweight, won a close decision over Roddy McDonald of Glace Bay, N. S., in six rounds, after being almost out in the first round.

Noble and Goodrich put up a great battle, and used all the boxing knowledge and vigor they possessed from the first gong, and when the final bell sounded there was very little between them, but the judges favored Noble for clever use of his left hand.

Goodrich displayed unusual aggressiveness, and several times missed what appear to be splendid opportunities for delivering a knockout blow. Eddie Pinchot added to his reputation by his clever display against the Canadian bantam champion. The bout was a splendid exhibition of boxing, and was varied at times with a stand-up battle between the two boys that brought the crowd to its feet. Both the boys received an ovation.

WOODSTOCK HAS JUNIOR BASEBALL

WOODSTOCK, June 9.—A baseball organization, which it is expected will prove a proper channel for the development of ball players for the Senior City League, has been formed. It is called the City Junior Baseball League, and Gerald McCleneghan is the first president, with Clarence Gorrie first vice-president, Bruce Billar second vice-president and Alex G. Donald secretary-treasurer. Three clubs, the Woodstock Uniteds, the Shamrocks and the Ingersoll Juniors, have already joined, and it is expected a team from the Oxford Rifles will round out the circle. The age limit has been placed at 18 years. Boys who have played in two or more senior league games will not be eligible in the new organization.

Southern Counties.

Saturday's contests in the Southern Ontario Baseball League should prove the most interesting yet. Woodstock will entertain the St. Thomas Saints, while Stratford will take on the fast-travelling Aylmer Carnation nine, the league leaders.

Struck out: By Gray 7, by Ryan 6; Gray walked 3, Ryan walked 3. Hits: Off Gray 6, off Ryan 6. Left on bases: Blenheim 3, Merlin 7.

Hunts Ball Players

DANNY LONG.

DANNY LONG knows just how a menagerie man feels when he goes out to catch the rare okapi in his native haunts. Or a botanist in quest of a new orchid. Or a bugologist on the trail of some such butterfly as never was seen before.

Danny's trade is running down untried, but potential baseball stars.

His latest stunt was conclusion of the $100,000 deal by which Willie Kamm, San Francisco Coast League player, became the property of the Chicago White Sox.

He lists some of his earlier discoveries as follows:

Frank Chance, found on a sand lot in Fresno.

Hal Chase, purchased in 1904 from Los Angeles for $750.

Duffy Lewis, bought for the Boston Americans.

Babe Ruth, a 1903 find.

Fing Bodie, discovered in Napa in 1911, and Buck Weaver, who came to light in the same year.

Craveth, Claude Williams, Risberg, Charley Street, Fred McMullin and "others too numerous to mention," as Danny expresses it.

"How do you do it?" Danny was asked.

"I do it on the strength of a lifetime of experience studying the playing of baseball," he said.

A. A. U. TRACK MEET IS DUE AUGUST 12

Calgary Gets Premier Athletic Event This Year.

CALGARY Alta., June 9.—The 34th championship meeting for track and field events of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will be held at Victoria Park, Calgary, Alberta, on Saturday, August 12, when twenty championships will be decided. Gold, silver and bronze medals are awarded to the first, second and third in each event, and in addition to the championships there will be 17 events, including tug-of-war, school boys' relay race and a 220 yards handicap for novices.

When war broke out in 1914 amateur athletics suffered heavily, and with practically all the best men away on active service it was found impossible to hold championship meetings in 1916-17-18 and 1919. The 1914 meeting was held in Charlottetown, P. E. I., for the Maritime Provinces. The championships have been decided only twice in the West, once at Winnipeg and once at Vancouver. For the Vancouver meeting A. A. U. funds were allocated to assist each province to send one representative, but even with that inducement Saskatchewan and the Maritime Provinces were not represented.

All entries for the championships of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada must be made on the entry forms issued by the A. A. U., which may be secured from the A. A. U. officials in every province. It is necessary for athletes to be registered amateurs of the A. A. U. or amateurs of any of the affiliated associations, leagues, unions or clubs, in which case the entries must be made by the secretary of their respective clubs.

The traveling expenses which an athlete is allowed to ask for, receive or accept are limited to first-class railway fare, including parlor car and single berth sleeping car fares actually paid, and the amount actually paid for meals and lodgings, which amount shall not exceed $6 per day. No payment for loss of wages or time shall be asked for or accepted directly or indirectly.

J. W. Jenkinson, hon secretary of the Calgary Caledonian Games Society, 219 Burns Building, Calgary, Alberta, will furnish any information desired.

MITCHELL AND RAY ENTER FINALS--MISS McKENZIE WINS GOLF TITLE

HUTCHINSON AND VARDON GO DOWN

American Golfer Beaten by Havers, Young English Pro.

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 9.—Edward Ray, former open golf champion of Great Britain, and Abe Mitchell, one of Britain's best on the links, will play each other for final honors in the Thousand Guineas golf tourney here. In the semi-finals today Ray defeated A. Compston, a sterling British golfer, two up and one to play, while Mitchell disposed of G. Gadd of Roehampton, three up to two to play.

The defeat of Jock Hutchison of Chicago, British open golf champion, was the sensational feature of the first round of the One Thousand Guineas professional tournament at Gleneagles, Scotland, yesterday. He lost by one hole to A. G. Havers, leader of the younger school of professionals in England. The Englishman went around in 76, while Hutchison's score was 77.

Hutchison's card was:
Out ..... 3 5 4 6 4 6 3 4 4—39
In ..... 5 4 4 5 3 5 3 4 5—37—77

Havers' card was:
Out ..... 4 5 3 5 4 7 4 3 4—39
In ..... 5 3 4 4 4 6 3 4 4—37—76

Another surprise was the defeat of Harry Vardon in the first round by Compston, who won from the veteran by one up.

In one of the other matches Joe Kirkwood, the Australian champion, who won the qualify medal yesterday, defeated Gordon Lockhart, 4 up and 3 to play. Arnaud Massey, former French title-holder, defeated Tom King, 5 up and 3 to play. J. H. Taylor beat Jack Ross, 4 and 3.

Abe Mitchell was victor over F. C. Jewell, 2 up and 1 to play. George Duncan, Mitchell's partner, defeated McInnes in a contest that went to the twentieth green. Ted Ray beat Hugh McNeill, 1 up, while George Gand disposed of H. C. Jolly by 2 up. The triumph of Havers over Hutchison was short-lived, as Havers was defeated in the second round by Anderson, 1 up.

There is bound to be a shake-up in the O. B. A. standing among the local clubs after today's two pastimes at Queen's Park. Hermits, Alert and Orients are in a three-cornered tie, and the first two will try to cut each other off in the first affray. Forest City have a chance to do Orients a mean trick in the second game if they win.

Hermits are strengthened up, and Alerts are not any too confident of a win.

One awful innings, during which eleven runs were scored and three hurlers were blown off the mound, made a burlesque of the 12—5 win Civil Service put over Scott-McHales last night. At that Civil Service only got five hits so what went on in the way of handing out free passes, and in the field was something scandalous.

HOW TO PLAY BALL

Sisler, King of First Sackers, Tells How That Position Should Be Played

GEORGE SISLER.

BY GEORGE SISLER.

One of the Greatest First Basemen of All Time.

A first baseman must primarily be a sure catch of a thrown ball from any position with one or both hands.

Since probably 30 per cent of all the outs are made at first base, it is apparent why a first baseman must be a sure catch.

The first baseman must always take into consideration the places where the batter usually hits.

The peculiarities of the batters must always be studied. There are in the major leagues a number of batters known as line-hitters. That is, they more often hit the ball down the first base foul line than between the first and second baseman. For such a type of hitter the first baseman must play close to the bag.

A situation that troubles a lot of ambitious youngsters is when to hold the runners on. This, of course, depends to a large extent on the stage of the game, the score, the batter and the number of outs.

With a runner on first, and second unoccupied, the first baseman should always hold the runner close by playing bag.

With runners on first and second and a sacrifice in order, the first baseman must play in close for the expected bunt and try to get the runner at third if possible.

If your team enjoys a good lead and there are runners on first and second, one or no outs, it is usually advisable to play back, since you are almost certain the batter is going to hit the ball hard and there is no chance for the runners to try to steal.

In a great many cases it is hard to figure out any set rule for play. I think the best way to determine how to play the runner and batter is to:

Take into consideration the stage of the game and the score. Figure what the opposition is trying to do. If common sense tells you it is better to hold a man on to help make a double play, hold him on.

Shifting the feet on throws is very important. If a ball is thrown on the first baseman's right, the left foot should be on the corner of the bag nearest the line of travel of the ball, and the right foot extended toward the throw, in order to get the maximum reach in that direction.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.

Budget debate continued by G. A. Brethel, Progressive member for East Peterboro. He stated that reciprocity with the United States was a live question in Canada today, and that it would become so in the United States before long. He opposed the increased in the sales tax, an suggested revival of the business profits tax and luxury tax to produce revenue.

John Morrison, Progressive member for Weyburn, said that Canadian manufacturers of farm implements could compete in the open market, but had shown that they did not want to do so. If high protectionists would take up farming in the west they would see the light, be regenerated and become progressives.

T. V. Bird, Progressive member for Nelson, remarked that Mr. Fielding's budget was proof that when a government started to revise the tariff, the people were likely to gain very little. The actions of the big corporations were a better argument for Socialism than Bolshevistic literature.

O. R. Gould, Progressive, Assiniboia, protested against banks being allowed to lend money on foreign securities when Canadians could not borrow at home. He supported the state-stamp tax.

James Steedsman, Progressive, Souris, thought that the tariff should have been reduced on all agricultural machinery, and C. G. Coote, Progressive, McLeod, that it should be taken off machinery for drilling wells.

The debate was adjourned by M. McKay, Liberal member for North Renfrew.

Bill to amend the Canada temperance act given first reading.

House in committee to amend the animal contagious diseases act.

Resolution to regulate the sale and inspection of root vegetables approved and bill based on its given first reading.

In the Senate.

The Senate held a brief sitting and adjourned until next Tuesday.

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mrs. Howard Houlette, Waskatenau, Sask., writes: "I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine Burdock Blood Bitters.

"My children started to break out on their faces in small white pimples which kept getting larger each day. Pus would form under the scabs, and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, which I commenced giving them at once.

"In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared."

All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood-cleansing medicine such as a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-five years, and one without an equal for all diseases and disorders of the blood.

SPLENDID PUTTS BEAT MRS. GIBSON

Miss Joyce Hulton Only Defeats Miss Marion Beck One Up.

TORONTO, June 9.—Miss Ada MacKenzie of Mississauga this afternoon won the Ontario ladies' golf championship by defeating Mrs. Hope Gibson of Hamilton in the finals by 4 up and 3 to play.

Mrs. Gibson was a stronger driver than Miss MacKenzie, but in approaching and putting Miss MacKenzie was much the superior, and it was due to this principally that Miss MacKenzie was able to win from her Hamilton opponent.

The results of the lesser championship matches played this forenoon were:

Consolation.

First flight—Miss Joyce Hutton, Toronto, defeated Miss Marian Beck, Toronto, 1 up.

Second flight—Miss W. Gage, Lambton, defeated Mrs. C. H. Carpenter, Rosedale, 5 and 4.

Third flight—Miss N. Dafoe, Rosedale, defeated Mrs. J. C. Moorehouse, Summit, at 19th hole.

Fourth flight—Miss M. Millichamp, Rosedale, defeated Mrs. A. D. Miles, Rosedale, 4 and 3.

Fifth flight—Miss K. Kapreol, Toronto, defeated Mrs. A. D. Miles, Rosedale, 4 and 3.

Sixth flight—Mrs. F. Hughes, Mississauga, defeated Mrs. F. C. Husband, Scarboro, 2 up.

Seventh flight—Mrs. W. E. Pepall, Mississauga, defeated Miss M. King, Lambton, 2 up.

For Lots With Rear Views

When the selection of a lot is a case of "Hobson's choice," the practical thing to do is to choose a house plan that is suited to the lot you have.

If your lot faces north, you can choose a plan where the real living porch is at the sides instead of in front; if the lot is narrow, you can have the length of your main rooms along the length of your lot; if you have a corner lot, you can choose a house that is as good-looking from the side as the front. Any condition may be met, and gracefully met.

For instance the house here illustrated is especially designed to take advantage of a moderate-sized lot in which the view is toward the rear. If the view is toward one side, even a narrower lot may be used, and an equally handsome front will be presented to the street. Reversing the plan increases the number of conditions covered by this plan.

The exterior development is thoroughly English. Some of the old cottages of England have just such dormers, half-timbers, and overhanging second-story as this. The hooded formal entrance and the casements are characteristic English touches. The wood panels applied on the bay are unusual and interesting.

One gets the impression of a large house. In reality its overall measurements are 29 feet wide by 23 feet 6 inches deep, and there are five rooms, all of generous size.

Vestibule and stair hall are dispensed with, the space being added to the living-room. The stair occupies one corner. The panelled bay shown in the exterior is a charming feature of this room. At the rear, between two built-in bookcases, a glazed door opens upon the living porch at the rear, not so large as some porches, but more room-like and furnishable for that very reason.

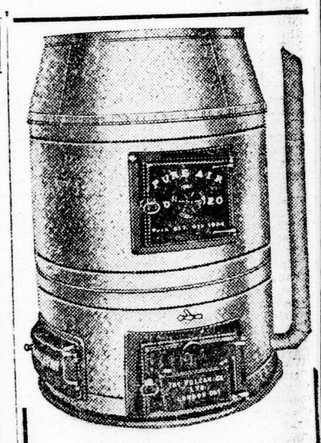

Opposite the bay, French doors welcome one to the dining-room. Grouped casements on two sides furnish this room with an abundance of sunlight and air.

There is a large kitchen in this house, where there is plenty of wall space for the cupboards, sink, range, refrigerator and work table. Wall cabinets with folding breakfast table or ironing-board are conveniences appreciated by the woman of the house, who usually finds that most "home-making" is done in the kitchen. Ample ventilation and light from two sides reach this workshop. The indoors basement entry is handy to both kitchen and grade entrance.

Two extra large bedrooms and a bathroom large enough to dress in on snappy winter mornings make up the second story layout. Small need, indeed, for a sleeping porch with such airy rooms. The one above the living-room has bays on two sides, seven casements.

Casements, as everyone knows, permit the full use of the window opening. With properly chosen hardware, they are just as weather-tight as double-hung windows, and are very much more likely to produce a beautiful exterior. The appropriateness for English architecture is well-known.

Every need of the ordinary family is taken care of in this carefully-planned home, and in addition many luxuries are incorporated, in a house of real character and individuality.

IT IS announced that beautiful Marilyn Miller, the 21-year-old dancer, who has entranced thousands of New Yorkers with her charming personality while taking part in the Ziegfield Follies, is soon to be married to Jack Pickford, brother of the famous screen favorite. She is a native of Ohio, is 5 feet tall, has blue eyes, and blond hair, which she wears in loose curls. People compare her to a burst of sunshine.

Casting Off in the National Balloon Race.

THIRTEEN entries piloted by the best army, navy and civilian aeronauts in the country started from Milwaukee, May 31, to race across the continent.

One of the entrants, Major Westover, who was compelled to make a forced landing at St. Andre le Pouvante, Quebec, traveled a distance of 850 miles in 17 hours, crossing the Great Lakes and flying over Northern Ontario during the trip.

Most of the contestants were compelled to land during the first stages of the competition.

LOWER PRICES AID REVIVAL OF AUTO INDUSTRY

Dealers Declare Present Selling Activity Due to Wholesale Reductions.

MANUFACTURERS BUSY

Notable Improvements in New Models Add Much Joy to Car Ownership.

In the flush of prosperity that the automobile factories are enjoying just now, one of the major factors, and one little recognized by the public at large is the greater value that has been wrought into the motor cars of today by their makers.

The present activity in making and selling began early in the year when wholesale reductions brought prices to rock bottom. It was price revision downward that ended the so-called buyers' strike and started the country once more on the way toward complete motorization.

Low prices started the buying wave. High values have sustained it and have restored the fascinating appeal that the motor car has for the average man, and of which it was robbed by war conditions which made ownership of a car more or less prohibitive.

The public is experiencing the advances that have been made in design, operation and performance, but few realize just what these advances consist of. An instance will illustrate.

Riding about London recently with an acquaintance who was the owner of a new car in the medium-priced class, the writer inquired of him how he liked it.

"I'll show you how I like it," he said and he drove on toward the next corner where he came to a dead stop.

Then he started the car again without touching the gear shift.

"You see," he said, "she'll start on high."

Starting on high had sold that man his new car.

Who can remember among cars that were sold two and three years ago, cars that would do that. There may have been two or three of them, but they were the highest-priced makes and few could afford them. Nowadays most of the cars offered in the medium-priced class will do it, and while general adoption of the practice in driving is not advocated, these cars do it now when it wasn't possible several years ago.

This is only one of a dozen departments in which motor cars have been improved in the direction of easier and quieter operation. All of us can remember when we had to crank them all, and many can recall the pain of fractured arms from the "kick back" that a refractory engine handed out.

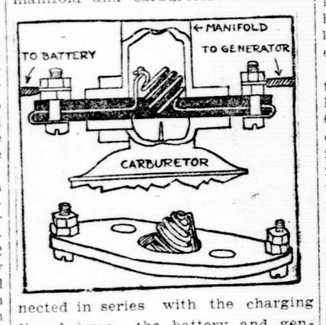

In addition to the improved clutch operation today, we enjoy such benefits as increased power from cylinder displacement, 18 to 23 miles on a gallon of fuel in cars that once gave 12 and 14 and lower, more accessibility and less of having to "get out and get under." Grease cups have been replaced by the high-pressure gun system. Spring suspensions have been perfected to give a new standard of riding ease.

The cord tire, now practically standard on every make above $1,500, cannot puncture unless it comes in direct contact with a big spike—something that happens rarely.

As a prominent executive has put it, "these accomplishments have been made possible by ceaseless efforts of research men and engineers combined with improved production methods. If the manufacturing methods of five or six years ago were followed today, these improvements would make the modern car cost fully twice as much as the car of that time."

ELECTRIC GAS SAVER.

Surplus current from the generator can be made to save gasoline. A coil of special alloy is placed between the manifold and carburetor and connected in series with the charging line between the battery and generator. Generator current keeps the coil red hot so that all gasoline from the carburetor is sure to be converted to a gaseous state.

Popular Salesman

RAY DUCKWORTH.

A London boy, who has made a record for himself in the sale of Overland and Willys-Knight cars, is Ray Duckworth of J. W. McLaughlin's staff. Formerly connected with the London and Port Stanley Railway as dispatcher, Mr. Duckworth joined Mr. McLaughlin's sales force about a year ago, and his efforts have met with great success. A resident of London from early boyhood, he has built up a large connection, and as "The Man With the White Hat," he has made many friends, who are enthusiastic over the record which he has established. The Overland and Willys-Knight cars have given Mr. Duckworth an opportunity to develop his ability in this line, and he is a valued member of Mr. McLaughlin's sales force.

OUTLINES ROUTE FOR PROPOSED PEACE HIGHWAY

Dr. P. E. Doolittle, President of C. A. A., Describes Huge International Trunk.

JOINS THREE NATIONS

Will Extend Southwest From Quebec To Mexico City.

Shortly prior to his departure on his motor club meeting tour of the Western Provinces with the annual convention of the Canadian Automobile Association at Victoria, as his chief objective, Dr. P. E. Doolittle, president of the C. A. A., made public the following description of the proposed Peace Highway to run from Quebec on the north to Mexico City on the south, thus linking the three major North American countries.

Canada, the United States and Mexico are now being linked together by a huge international trunk line connecting Quebec with Mexico City and running northeast and southwest through some of the greatest industrial cities of the United States.

It is known as the International Peace Highway and passes through Marion, the home of President Harding who, with President Obregon of Mexico, and Governor General Byng of Canada, were recently gratified to learn of its organization with headquarters at Louisville, by a conference of the foremost good roads workers on the continent.

First of Kind in World.

What this great project will mean to the future relations of the three great countries involved can scarcely be estimated at this time.

It is the first international highway ever projected linking both Canada and Mexico in fraternal bonds with the United States. The inspiration of an Ohio man, natal state of the United States president, gave it the name. A Missourian whose work for reclamation of land and good roads has made him nationally famous is the president. It will be the only northeast, southwest trunk line in this country.

Above all it springs almost full-born into being, without the usual promotion work incident to such affairs which have of late years criss-crossed the nation with many excellent state, interests and national highways as the result of activities by agricultural and automobile associations.

"The official organizer" of the International Peace Highway, who has himself organized no less than 150,000 miles of roads, draws only $5 a day and traveling expenses. There is no promotion stock nor campaign fund to repay the patriotic work of the men who are literally putting the peace highway across three nations.

Highways already built in many states, others which are to result from improvements by state and national co-operation to fairly good roads already in existence, are to become parts of the Peace Highway There will be a Roosevelt section, a Lincoln section, a Zachary Taylor section, a McKinley section, and various other sections marking notable stretches of good roads in the United States. Canada will probably have a Princess Pat section as one of her contributions. A Madero, a Juarez, an Obregon section, will doubtless designate Mexican divisions.

Routing Almost Complete.

Almost the entire 2,700 miles from Quebec to Mexico City have been practically decided upon. Two debatable routes through a part of the mid-west are all that now remain to be settled upon. By June or July, the Peace Highway will be marked out by automobile clubs in all the states through which it passes.

These markers are themselves a bit of sentiment that cannot fail to arouse good feeling as well as patriotic fervor in both Latin and English-speaking nations. Triangular in shape, a white field is inclosed by edges of red, green and blue, combining the colors of the three nations. Those of Canada and the United States, red, white and blue, are thus blended with the red, blue and green of Mexico.

Officers of the International Peace Highway who serve until the annual election, December, 1922, are Thad Snow of Charleston, Mo., president; R. Webb, treasurer; A. E. Nisson, official organizer. The directors are Messrs. Snow, Stuart, Webb, John H. Jackson, vice-president for Illinois, and secretary of the Tri-State Bridge and Highway Association; G. W. Huston, vice-president for Ohio, and secretary of the Cincinnati Motor Club, and Ben Weille, secretary of the Kentucky highway commission and vice-president for Kentucky. Vice-presidents of other state divisions will be added to the directorate as other states become organized.

Launched in Louisville.

The International Peace Highway was fully launched Dec. 6, 1921, at Louisville, Ky., whose mayor pledged his city's heartiest support and urged retention of the international headquarters in "the gateway to the south" because of its great interest in water, rail and road transportation systems, which gives it a peculiarly convenient and central position in the network of highways which draw tourists and industry from all sections of the nation.

Prominent in the launching were Eugene Stuart, secretary of the Louisville Automobile Club, who has probably entertained more tourists than any other man in American Automobile Association circles; Mayor Huston Quin, who is actively backing both highways by land and transportation by river; Judge G. W. Newman, president of the Louisville-Paducah Highway Association, which raised and gave to the state $1,500,000 for roads in addition to taxes; Dr. R. R. Elmore, president of the eastern division of the Midland Trail; Joseph Burge, president, and W. E. Morrow, secretary of the Louisville Board of Trade, backing every good roads project in the state; P. L. Atherton of the Jackson highway from Chicago to New Orleans; Thad Snow, Charleston, Mo., noted as the man who drained three whole swamp counties of two states and inspired good roads in Missouri and Illinois; Esty S. Smith of Troy, O., who suggested the name of International Peace Highway in a fervidly patriotic speech inspired by the disarmament conference; Albert Terstegge, president of the Louisville Automobile Club; A. E. Nisson of Iowa City, Iowa, with national reputation as a road organizer, and many other notable figures in the motor and agricultural worlds.

The first meeting was followed rapidly by others to the north and south of Louisville, and Mr. Nisson expects shortly to visit the executive heads of the three nations to be linked together in order to gather their views in person. In routing the highway, the route from Quebec to Poplar Bluff, Mo., was definitely outlined at the first meeting. Following are the principal cities through which it will pass.

How Road Runs.

Quebec, Three Rivers, Montreal, St. Johns (Canada), Rouse's Point (N. Y.), Ogdensburg, Clayton, Watertown, Oswego, Rochester, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Frankfort, Lexington, Louisville, Henderson, Paducah, Cairo, across the Mississippi on a bridge which will join Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri, Poplar Bluff (Mo.).

Between Poplar Bluff and Dallas alternative routes have been suggested. The first is from Poplar Bluff to Springfield, Mo., through Joplin, Muskogee, Okla., on to Dallas. The second goes to Dallas by way of Little Rock, Hot Springs and Texarkana.

From Dallas southward the highway runs through Waco, Austin, San Antonio and Laredo, Texas, across the State of Neuevo Leon to Monterey, to Saltillo, and then through San Luis Potosi, Dolores, Queretaro and Tula to Mexico City.

One may envision a future time when Central and South Americans, inspired by this huge international evidence of good-will, constantly traveled by tourist ambassadors of the three great nations of the North American continent, will carry forward the work until motors and trucks can travel from north to south over the land length of the Western Hemisphere. Pan-American congresses, and exchange of diplomats—even international treaties, cannot bring home to the peoples of these and fraternal good-will, so thoroughly as such an international highway.

Many Motor Accidents Due To Faulty Brakes

THE vast majority of motor accidents caused by mechanical faults or failures, statistics show to be due to faulty brakes. A considerable proportion of the brakes on motor vehicles do not receive proper care, and so become inefficient.

Motor vehicles, the brakes of which are inefficient, are, of course, a menace to safety. Regular brake inspection should be made obligatory by law. Needless to say the Motor League and Safety League favor this.

It is to be hoped that the select committee, appointed to unify the existing laws governing motor vehicles, will bring in a recommendation to this end, to the government. Every motorist owes it to the public, as well as to himself, to maintain the brakes of his car in an efficient functioning condition.

How Much is a Dependable Tire Worth to a Farmer?

How much is it worth? How much would he lose if his truck failed to deliver his milk to the cheese factory in time? How much would he lose if his milk missed the train? How much would he lose in temper and disposition and Christian character, if his moral balance was continually upset by blown-out tires—especially with a load on? Farmer's are "handy" at "fixing things," but what farmer cares to stop on the road to fix tires? Whether truck or pleasure car, the farmer wants uninterrupted service. A farmer's car is as much a business car as a bus or a taxi-cab. The surest precaution against the delays and expense of tire trouble is to have all four wheels shod with

SHIFT YOUR GEARS INTO LOW AT RAILROAD CROSSINGS

EXPERT URGES PRECAUTION TO END ACCIDENTS

Believes Education of Motorists Will Tend To Eliminate Reckless Driving.

DEATH RATE INCREASES

Railroad Authorities Stage Campaign of Instruction for Incautious Drivers.

Summer and the open road calling irresistibly to the spirit of the true motorist, summer and the long tours for the family, summer the real heritage of the autoist, summer and the incautious driver, all are here.

It is the twentieth century, the era of speed, but not necessarily the era of recklessness, for the more speed, the more reason for the motorist to think and act safely first.

Paramount among dangers to the motorist are the level railroad crossings. Year by year accidents on highways at crossings increase, despite the valiant efforts of educational societies to lower the death rate.

Alarmingly Large.

Figures by statisticians show railroad crossing deaths are alarmingly large. At first glance it would appear that to travel by car is one of the most hazardous methods of journeying.

Present methods of traffic control tend towards the elimination of level crossings. But headway in this direction is slow, owing to the immense cost of the construction of subways.

One other way to bring down the deaths through this cause lies open. It is the education of the motorist, that he may be cautious and exercise precaution.

A skull and crossbones in the days of the buccaneers meant danger. The boards of a railroad crossing sign, like the crossbones of old, are coming to have a like meaning, "danger."

In the United States, the tremendous increase in the number of fatal accidents at railroad crossings, in most of which automobiles were involved, have led to an educational campaign. Motorists have been taught that cross currents of traffic, the train and the motor car, were as dangerous to the motorist as cross currents in a river to a swimmer.

Shift Gears at Crossings.

Safety engineers urge automobile drivers to form the habit of shifting gears into low speed at all crossings. This practice causes drivers to pause at crossings and also reduces to a minimum the risk of stalling on the tracks.

Western Ontario has many level crossings. The increase in traffic has not reached that point where the motorists can demand heavy expenditures for subways. On this account the danger is greater than in many other sections of the country.

Heavy tourist traffic passes through Western Ontario in the summer time. Beauty spots in Northern Ontario are bringing tourists from the south in greater and greater numbers. Level crossing accidents will increase in proportion unless due respect is paid by traffic to the principles of safety, so badly neglected, through thoughtlessness. It is only the heedless motorist who keeps up the average of deaths.

MUST PREVENT OVERHEATING

Expert Outlines Essential Methods For Preserving Motor.

Careful Attention to Fan, Oiling System and Radiator Is Imperative.

Every automobile owner or driver knows from experience that a gas engine becomes hot after running for some time. This is due to the explosions or rapid burning of the gas inside the cylinders.

A large percentage of the heat developed in the cylinder goes to heat up the cylinder walls, and if these cannot be cooled either by strong blasts of air or water circulation around them, they will become so hot that they will crack and break apart or at least become warped out of shape and become useless. By far the greater number of cars use what is known as the water cooling system, and therefore that is the only type discussed in this article.

The water flows around the cylinder walls and then through piping and rubber hose connections into the radiator, where it is spread out in thin sheets or small pipes, which have an immense amount of surface exposed to the air. In this manner the water is cooled and then flows back to the engine in order to keep it, also, cooled to the proper temperature.

Will Evaporate.

If any part of the cooling system fails to function properly, the cylinders are not cooled, and we say that the engine overheats. Water, as we know, cannot be heated above 213 degrees F. without being placed under pressure. Therefore, the water which flows around the cylinder walls cannot be heated obove this temperature. If the water is not kept slightly below this temperature it will rapidly evaporate by boiling. If the engine is run without water in the water jacket the cylinder walls will be heated above their normal temperature, with the result that the oil will be entirely burned off the cylinder wall surface and the piston will begin to cut small slots lengthwise on the wall with the result that often the engine will, in a few minutes' time, be seriously damaged.

Warns Careless

HELP PRESERVE LIFE.

In order that the cooling system work properly, we must have the following conditions:

Use Plenty of Water.

Plenty of water, free circulation of water throughout the entire system, freedom from scale in the radiator and a strong current of air passing continuously through the radiator to cool the water.

It follows, that if the engine overheats, some of the previous conditions are not being fulfilled. Usually we look at the fan first, as this is where the trouble most frequently occurs. See that the fan bearings are free and that the belt is tight enough to drive the fan with very little slipping, also have the fan blades tipped at the proper angle to draw the air through the radiator.

While the fan belt must be tight enough to turn the fan, care must be taken not to tighten the belt so that it will be broken in a few minutes of running. Next see that there is plenty of water in the radiator; feel of the rubber hose connections to see whether the walls are firm or whether they feel flabby. If they are soft, it is very likely that the inner walls of the hose have softened and perhaps entirely filled the opening so that the water cannot flow through.

Test Water Pump.

If the car is fitted with a water pump, see that the pump is working properly, as sometimes the pump blades are broken from the shaft so that while the shaft which enters the pump may be turning, the pump itself may not.

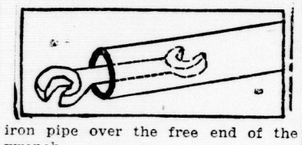

If you find that the engine continues to overheat after carefully checking the possible places for trouble mentioned thus far, it may then be possible that the engine is generating more heat than the cooling system can carry away or that the radiator is partially plugged or covered with scale so that it is not cooling as efficiently as it should.

If the radiator is scaled over, put one or two pounds of ordinary baking soda in the water and leave it there for a few hours while you are using the car, then drain and flush with clean water. If the trouble is caused by an excessive amount of heat generated by the engine, this may be due to a mixture which is too rich or to a spark which is set a little too late, so that an excessive amount of gas is required to produce power enough to drive the car.

Occasionally a slight overheating is caused by oil which is either too thin or by failure of the oiling system to work properly. Your engine will naturally run warmer in the summer than in the winter, therefore if you do not have to replace an excessive amount of water each day in the cooling system, it probably means that your engine is not running hotter than it should, although it may feel very hot under the hood when it is lifted to inspect the engine after it has been running for some time.

PIPE ADDS LEVERAGE.

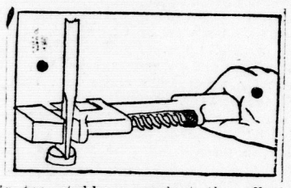

If you find it hard to loosen a nut with a small wrench, you may add leverage and power by fitting an iron pipe over the free end of the wrench.

KEEP WRENCH HANDY.

Appeal to the monkey wrench for aid when another tool can't do its work alone. For instance, if a screw is too stubborn against the efforts of the screw-driver, let the monkey wrench help loosen the screw. The additional leverage is almost sure to break down the resistance offered.

Genuine Ford Parts For Sale Here

Spurious or Genuine ?

Which will you buy? They cost you the same, for even to the price counterfeit parts ape GENUINE FORD PARTS. The price to you, that is, but not the price to the man who sells them. He buys them for less; he makes a bigger profit. That is the only reason why spurious parts are sold.

The low grade, cheap materials used in these fake parts, the cutting out of all expense in connection with inspecting and testing make it easy for the manufacturer to quote lower prices than is possible on GENUINE FORD PARTS, which are made from the very best grade of steel, rigidly inspected at every stage of manufacture and subjected to tests far in excess of any they will ever meet on the road.

Take no chances. Watch for the FORD sign and purchase spare parts only where you see it displayed.

OVERHANG LOAD AFFECTS TIRES

Life of Rubber Depends On Even Distribution of Weight.

Burden Multiplies Rapidly When Extra Leverage Is Applied.

A factor in determining the life of truck tires which should always be watched carefully, is the "over-hang load."

A tire that will stand up and give perfect service under a five-ton load properly distributed on a truck, will break down rapidly if that same five-ton load is distributed so that too much of its weight comes on the overhang of the truck frame, back of the rear axle.

There is an exact formula in mathematics that will show how rapidly weight multiplies when it is given extra leverage to bear down with, and this is just what happens when weight is piled up on the over-hang.

For instance, on a truck with a 14-foot wheel base, a ton of load bearing down on a point of the frame three feet forward of the rear axle exerts a weight of only 1,572 pounds on the rear tires, the other 428 pounds being carried by the front tires.

Move this ton till it bears down three feet back from the rear axle on the over-hang, and the rear tires then bear not only the original ton, but the weight is increased by 429 pounds, nearly a quarter of a ton, through the increased leverage it exerts because it is so far out. It takes some of the weight off the front tires, because of its balancing effect on the load forward of the rear axle, but it adds this weight also to the weight on the rear tires, and it sure punishes the tires on those rear wheels.

If a ton load is put three feet back of the rear axle, and another ton three feet forward of the rear axle, they just balance each other; none of this load is borne by the front tires, and the entire weight of the two tons then falls on the two rear tires.

This matter of the actual relation of load distribution to tire wear is one that should be very thoroughly gone into by every truck owner when buying truck tires, for careless drivers, or rather ignorant drivers, will cost him hundreds of dollars a year through bad loading unless they are made to see why they should distribute their loads to the most economical advantage. The average driver is willing to do the right thing if he knows what that particular thing is. He should be taught.

Not only do the tires suffer through bad loading, but the entire rear axle mechanism will suffer if the rear end of the truck is given more than its proper proportion to carry. Bad loading can be more expensive even than overloading, and it is easily avoided by a little extra educational effort.

REPORTS ROADS IN GOOD SHAPE

London Motor Club Publishes Information Regarding Safe Highways For Travel.

Construction Work in Various Districts Necessitates Several Detours.

Comparatiyely speaking, all the principal roads out of London are in good condition, according to this week's report of the Ontario Motor League.

Of the road from London to Hamilton, the following is reported: London to Crumlin, road closed, detours by the second concession (Oxford street) or by Hale street to the Gore road are in good condition. Traffic can also take the Hamilton road to Ingersoll. Crumlin to Woodstock, excellent road. Motorists, however, should watch for culvert construction between Ingersoll and Woodstock.

Between Gobles and Brantford there is an old macadam road and sand, which is very rough. Through motorists are advised to take, traveling from Brantford to Hamilton, the Governor's road, via Linden and Dundas. West of Ancaster, the macadam road is closed, owing to construction going on. The detour at this point is fair in dry weather, but very heavy in rain. Between the Wentworth County line and Hamilton the paved portions of the road are in good shape, but the macadam sections are very rough.

From London to Windsor (via Chatham)—Lambeth to Chatham, the gravel road is in fair condition. Between Lambeth and Delaware motorists are cautioned to watch for culvert construction, and the short detour around the Delaware Hill. From Melbourne to Thamesville the road is good, and from Thamesville to Chatham, on which stretch there are clay roads, the highways are good when dry, but poor when wet. Out of Chatham to Maidstone the clay roads are good when dry, but poor when wet.

East of Chatham 1¾ miles there is a detour in good condition.

From London to St. Thomas the road is in good condition. Concrete construction is going on between Talbotville and St. Thomas; the gravel portion of the road is in good condition. Traffic is advised to use the Wellington road between St. Thomas and London, and urged to take St. George street from St. Thomas.

Automobile industry utilized 37,165,000 square feet of leather upholstering last year.

Nearly 6,000,000 gallons of paint and varnish was used up last year for automobiles.

WEEKLY MOTOR NOTES.

CAN YOU IDENTIFY YOUR CAR?

COULD you recognize your own car if it were stolen?

Before answering with a positive "Yes," remember this:

The professional auto thief covers up all possible traces of identification. He repaints the car, changes the serial numbers on the engine and chassis, searches out all other tell-tale marks to change or abolish them, and in fact rebuilds the entire machine.

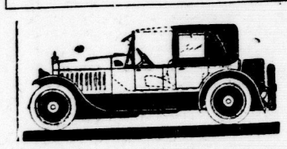

What chance is there for the motorist whose car has been stolen to identify it? Little, say police and insurance men. They back up their claim by citing instances wherein several car owners brought to headquarters to identify their cars, picked the same automobile as their own.

Slight imperfections in certain cars are not certain means of identification. The experienced crook takes his stolen cars to what is practically a rebuilding factory, alters the entire mechanism and changes parts with similar parts of other cars of the same make. Practically a new car is turned out.

Most practical means of identifying your car, according to those who have studied this problem, is left to the owner's own ingenuity. Individual marks stamped on various parts of the chassis and engine afford the surest way of picking your own car after it has been stolen.

Punch your initials on the flywheel, on the inside of the axles, and other such spots not readily discernible. Then rub them with grease so they will not be seen easily.

PUBLIC INSPECTS GRAY-DORT PLANT

Two Hundred Take Advantage of Opportunity To See Industry.

For the first time since its inception, Gray-Dort Motors threw open to public inspection its three huge plants located at the city of Chatham.

Some 200 guests availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing this gigantic industry at close range.

Convening at the Gray-Dort Club at 2 o'clock, the visitors taxed the transportation provided to the limit. Plant No. 2, in North Chatham, was the first stopping place, and here the visitors saw the sheet metal division, mammoth presses making shapes for the outer hide of the Gray-Dort product. From this plant a trip was made to the local sales and service departments, at the corner of King and William streets.

Plant "No. 1" on Colborne street was the centre of attraction. Here the visitors followed the raw materials through to the finishing departments. Much favorable comment was heard in the machine shops, where many types of machines were busily engaged in turning out Gray-Dort appliances for Gray-Dort automobiles. The big enameling ovens, with 450 degrees of heat, also formed an attraction that was well worth seeing. Air hammers, rapping out salutes on steel reposing on anvils, also were closely inspected. Right through the stock rooms, the paint shops, inspection and assembly, the visitors were shown the interesting phases of the work by company officials.

The main office and plant "No. 3" was visited. The quiet and yet busy aspect of the offices made a deep impression on the visitors. The assembly of bodies, the shaping of raw lumber at bandsaws, the terrific noise of rip-saws, and the moan of the planers gave an idea of some of the innumerable operations that are needed in turning out one automobile. The visitors also inspected the big drying kilns, and also viewed the first building of the firm—the old frame house that was used for an office for many years by the late William Gray before his death. The house is still preserved as a memorial of other days.

DELIVER GASOLINE IN TWO COUNTIES

Motor Tanks of Pure Gasoline Company Care For Farmers' Needs.

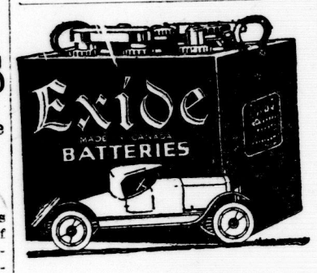

There is a saying that "business is there if you go after it," the truth of which is being proved by the extraordinary success of the Pure Gasoline Company.

Although this company has been in business only a few weeks, their fleet of tank trucks, which is delivering "Energy" Gasoline direct to the farmers in Middlesex and Oxford counties, is already earning a net of $100 a day, and the demand for this gasoline is increasing so rapidly that more tank trucks are being purchased immediately.

At present only Oxford and Middlesex counties are being covered—but it is the intention of the company to be eventually delivering "Energy" Gasoline on every rural mail route in Western Ontario, with modern and efficient service stations at all principal points.

An interesting fact of the Pure Gasoline Company is that over $40,000 was spent on equipping the business for a successful start before even a dollar's worth of stock was sold. The stock is still being offered for sale and is finding a ready market.

With the erection of a new $33,000 service station by this company at 362 Dundas street, London is being advanced another step into being the foremost city for motorists in Canada, and the beautiful new structure will be a delightful improvement on the old building that previously occupied this site.

Big Production That Lowers the Cost

Large scale production is one of the chief reasons why Firestone Tires are sold this season at such low prices yet give mileage greater than ever before.

Firestone resources have made possible the most economical buying of raw materials, reduced freight costs and more efficient manufacture.

The advantages are two-fold. Firestone is able to give more in the product—better materials and finer workmanship—and to sell at a closer margin of profit.

Investigate Firestone prices now in effect and ask any user about the mileage he gets from Firestones. That will convince you of the economy of using Firestone Tires exclusively.

SUMMER BRINGS RUSH FOR OVERALLS AND WORK TOGS

Regal Manufacturing Company Supplies Fine Quality of Goods.

In the summer time, when even the man works in the office all day turns out into the garden, there comes a rush for overalls and work clothes. Then, too, comes a rush for cotton gloves, which, in addition to overalls, coats, shirts and aprons, are manufactured by the Regal Manufacturing Company, 92-96 King street, London.

Cotton gloves, for the hand that has to pull weeds in a garden, save many a blister and package of ointment, not to speak of hard language.

But husband often becomes lax in tending the garden, and then comes the turn of the wife, and the apron is useful. When she turns into the berry patch, cotton gloves and aprons both save many a scratch.

Mass production brings down the costs. When an amateur tailor or tailoress for that matter, goes to work to design, say a pair of overalls, a single separate pattern must be had. It is made of tissue paper probably.

In an overall factory electric cutters are used and fifty cuts of one pattern are often made.

Then, there is the electric sewing machine which, though it only handles one piece at a time, yet is a great improvement on the old family foot-pedal machine. These are used by girls, just as in a cotton or woolen goods mill.

People employed in the manufacture of anything requiring the handling of cloth, whether the cloth be coarse or smooth, state that there is a certain fascination about it which is hard to overcome. Employees, though they leave for a time, will always return from other jobs to this one, they declare.

Regal Manufacturing Company makes cotton gloves, overalls and shirts.

LEFF ELECTRIC COMPANY NOTES BIG BUILDING BOOM

We are enjoying the greatest building boom in London history.

We specialize in all classes of electrical wiring, including the installation of motors and conduit work.

We represent the famous Knowles Electric Washer, made in London. This washer is not made to be placed in parlors as a thing of beauty. The Knowles washer is an exact reproduction of the largest washing machines in the up-to-date laundries in America. The price is only $125, complete with wringer, motor, etc.

At a recent convention in St. Louis there were 150 different washing machines tried out. The drum revolving type beat all other machines. The Knowles washer has a drum, revolving once in one position, then once in the other position. There is no machine on the market having any greater washing efficiency.

We also represent the Rogers Electric Co., Cleveland. These people manufacture a high grade line of electric heating devices. Niz curling irons for $5, hot plates at $3, Violet Ray generators at $15, and several other higher price articles.

When you think of electric bulbs you cannot help but think of Leff Electric Co. We are pioneers in this particular line. Back in 1914 we represented The Dominion Lamp Co. of Montreal. We have since made connections with several leading manufacturers in this line.

The year round we stock a large assortment of every size electric bulbs which we sell at reduced prices.

We owe our successful career to the following motto:

"Why Leff Electric Co.? Because we give you our square deal.

"We know the business from A to Z.

"We employ none other than the best mechanics.

"We treat you as though you were our only customer.

"That's why we deserve your patronage."

WEAR WRAY'S OVERALLS AND KEEP CLOTHES CLEAN

When on your way to spend a pleasant social evening, or to a picnic, or just out for a drive through beautiful Western Ontario, it is very objectionable to get your immaculate attire dusty, or have it spotted with oil in changing a tire, or fixing the engine. With your clothes dusty or oil stained it would probably spoil your whole outing, and perhaps you would be forced to return home.

The safest way to overcome this objectionable feature is to travel prepared by having a smock to slip over your clothes when you are forced to make any repairs. Smocks are easy to slip on or off, and no motorist's equipment is complete without one.

They are not expensive, either, and moreover, are manufactured in London. They are easily identified, and no one may be misled into obtaining an inferior article if they look for the label, "Wray's work garments wear well, union made."

This popular firm employ only first-class workmen, and only allow first-class and inspected articles, to leave their factory.

Any first-class clothing store handles Wray's work garments.

Succeed In London

TO SUCCEED in London is to succeed with London, for it is only by supporting manufacturers and merchants already established in the city and helping to make their ventures profitable enterprises, that other businessmen from out of town will be induced to locate in the Forest City. Make the workingman contented and happy by buying made-in-London goods, thus insuring constant employment for him by keeping the wheels of industry humming to supply your wants, thereby enabling him to enjoy the comforts and luxuries which naturally come to all during a period of prosperity.

London has many distinct advantages for the manufacturer which cannot be excelled by any other center in Western Ontario. Good water and efficient power supply, connection with all the main railway arteries in the Dominion, are a few of the material benefits to be derived from a business point of view by choosing a location in London.

Furthermore, the natural beauties of the district surrounding London afford pleasant recreation for the businessman and his family when the labors of the day are ended. It has good educational facilities which, combined with numerous theatres, playgrounds and sporting opportunities make London one of the best places in which to live, in the Dominion.

CHISHOLM SAYS NEW CAR MUCH SAME AS OLD MODEL

"Despite all the rumors by our competitors that Dodge Bros. are putting out a new model of their famous car, the new automobiles cannot be called new models." This was the emphatic statement made by W. J. Chisholm, Dodge Bros.' dealer, at 478 Richmond street, when questioned if the current rumor was true.

"And notwithstanding all these predictions," he went on, "Dodge Bros. have, as we expected, followed their established policy of maintaining the re-sale value of the used Dodge car by refraining from radical changes in design and construction.

"Dodge Bros. have made, what they officially announced to us some days ago, conservative changes in body design in all models.

"This consists of a higher radiator and hood assembly, with lower cowl, to give the straight line effect.

"The windshield is changed to conform with the new cowl to give it an attractive lower effect. The instrument board is also of a more pleasing design.

"Top design in open cars is improved to a great extent, as only one arm is used in the top bow socket. This furnishes a clear space and vision above the edge of the gypsy curtains. The side curtains have large oblong lights instead of the well-known former ones of Dodge Bros. design.

"Nickel handles on the outside of the doors add a pleasing touch to the body appearance, and are much more convenient.

"The Business Coupe, an entirely new car for travelers, professional and business men, will enter the production field about June 15. It has an extremely attractive appearance, and is a thoroughly practical car, having artillery wood wheels, leather upholstery and the world-famous Dodge Bros. baked enamel finish. And the price is only $200 more than the roadster.

"So if you are in the market for a car, be it new or used, call at our show rooms, and we shall be only too pleased to show and explain to you the different cars we have in stock," said W. J. Chisholm, Dodge Bros. dealer, 478 Richmond street.

STEEL MOVES BRISKLY AS BUILDING REMAINS ACTIVE

Canadian Publication Gives Account of Steel, Iron, Metal and Machinery Markets.

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment in its June 8 issue: With the exception of a slightly better tone in the non-ferrous metal field, Canadian markets remain much the same as last week. Iron and steel lines continue to move briskly, and so long as the present building activity keeps up, we can expect this market to remain firm.

Prices on bars are erratic, ranging between $2.75 to $2.90, but the careful buyer can usually secure the lower figure. In another week, however, the $2.90 price may be standard, as the tendency is upward. Those requiring bars would do well to place their orders at once.

Pig iron is simply holding its own. The production rate is not high, neither is the demand, so conditions are fairly well balanced. Some furnace operators are beginning to wonder how much longer the coal strike will last. Their coal is getting a little low and they are none too sure of future sources of supply.

Non-ferrous metals are stronger in some quarters. Prices are firmer, and the demand has improved slightly in Toronto and district.

Scrap metals are not very brisk, but prices are firm. Dealers feel the market is bound to break soon, and believe the tendency will be upward. At present, however, the only thing that is firm is the price.

Steel pipe is in good demand, and deliveries are getting more delayed every week. The delivery on sheets is also poor and in both cases prices are decidedly firm.

Machine tools are holding their own, but small tools and supplies have tapered off slightly in some quarters. Other localities report good business in the latter-mentioned line. This market fluctuates very much at present.

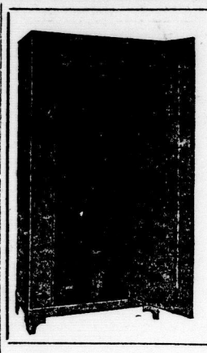

The automobile industry is not buying much steel, although their production rate has practically reached a record. The pig iron market is stagnant. Consumers are waiting for an expected readjustment in price when coke supplies become less scarce. Lake Superior iron ore prices have not yet been announced, the matter being held back by rail freights not being adjusted up to date of writing.

BRISCO'S RECEIVE FULL LINE OF SPORTING GOODS

Now that it is nearing vacation time, it is time to look over your fishing equipment, and make repairs, or probably you require a new tennis racquet, or the boys just leaving school need baseball gloves and bats for the baseball team they are organizing.

R. M. Brisco's sporting goods store at 258 Dundas street has just received a complete line of all sporting goods.

LONDONERS ON TRIAL TUESDAY

Four Alleged Bandits To Receive Hearings in Wyoming Case.

County Councillors Attack Many Problems Despite Intensity of Weather.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, June 9.—The general sessions of the peace for the County of Lambton, which open on Tuesday next, promise to be among the most sensational in the history of the county, and are expected to run easily into the week following.

Probably the first case will be that of the Wyoming bank robbery, for which Edward McMullen, George Anderson, John Yohn and William Ayers will receive individual hearings.

The King versus Peter Kehoe is another case in which the preliminary hearing stirred the county. The charge is that Kehoe perjured himself at the trial of Rex Bush of Detroit last spring, framing up a burglary charge to cover the sale of liquor for which Bush was sentenced to six months in jail. Kehoe is a very wealthy farmer of the Sombra district, and is out on $6,000 bail.

The King versus Carmen Mitchell is another case of alleged robbery with violence, when Gerald and George Downs of Port Lambton were held up by masked men and forced to load their stock of liquor onto a wagon.

County Council Busy.

The sessions of the Lambton County Council are expected to close Saturday, following a fairly-busy week in which the councillors have attacked their business problems bravely in the uncomfortably hot atmosphere that prevailed.

Grants of $100 to the Lambton Corn Growers' Association and the Lambton Plowmen were recommended when sessions were resumed this morning, and a resolution of thanks extended to the board of trustees of the Englehart Hospital, Petrolea, for the banquet and entertainment provided for the councillors.

The conditions of roads have had a great deal of attention at the present session. In a brief general talk on road conditions, Superintendent John McCallum praised the system adopted by the county of fixing an appropriation to be expended each year, and then levying for the full amount. As a result he pointed out that the government grant exceeded the levy by $10,000 this year.

Drive For Red Cross.

It was learned today that the drive for funds for the Sarnia Red Cross, which has continued for the last ten days, has brought in a total of a little more than a thousand dollars, or several hundred dollars less than the amount collected last year.

Conditions were better last year, however, and the officials of the organization expressed themselves as satisfied with the result of the canvass. This year the Sarnia Red Cross will continue the supervision of the playground at Bay View Park, which proved a tremendous boon for the young people last year.

The Steamer Imperial of the Imperial Oil, Ltd., left Sarnia this morning for Ioco, British Columbia, via the Panama Canal. The voyage is the longest ever made by a boat from this port. On arrival at the Pacific coast the Imperial will be permanently attached to the Imperial Oil Service with headquarters at Ioco.

PREPARES CAMP FOR 1,200 SOLDIERS ON HEIGHTS

An advance party of 100, from all parts of Military District No. 1, arrived in the city this morning to make the necessary preparations for the 1,200 soldiers, who will arrive in London Monday for a nine-day camp at Carling Heights.

The men will be busy all day Saturday pitching tents, and installing camp equipment.

It was announced Saturday morning that the Knights of Columbus would be unable to establish a hut at the camp this year but the Y. M. C. A. has agreed to look after the recreation life of the soldiers and will include moving pictures and concerts on the program.

All the military units will arrive Monday morning with their commanding officers, and will be established in their quarters before nightfall.

Brig.-Gen. W. B. M. King, commanding officer of M. D. No. 1, will be the camp commandant.

DECLARES CROP CONDITIONS IDEAL

Quebec, June 10.—(By the Canadian Press).—"Never before have I seen the province going through such a period of ideal conditions for the crop as those which have prevailed here for the last two months," stated Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture. "The hay crop is now guaranteed, and this means that farmers will have at their disposal a crop valued at $75,000,000, which is the basis of prosperity in this province with the dairy industry."

South Africa Experiences Biggest Rush For Diamonds

CAPETOWN, S. A., June 10—The biggest rush in the history of South Africa's alluvial diamond diggings occurred at Mosesberg, sixty miles from Kimberley, today, when about 15,000 diggers from all parts of the Union and Rhodesia pegged out their claims.

The line of start for the peggers extended over four miles.

There were no casualties, which is regarded as remarkable considering the number of claimants, on the excitement engendered by the rush. A huge canvas camp has arisen on the spot and the greatest optimism prevails.

made to the occurrence throughout the whole of the session of the council this week.

Adopting the report of the finance committee Friday afternoon the Middlesex County Council struck a tax-rate of 7 mills for the county, by which they hope to raise $270,801.86 to meet the current expenditures for the year. The new rate is one-tenth of a mill higher than last year.

The second recommendation of the adopted report of the finance committee authorized the warden and treasurer "to borrow on the credit of the county, the sum of $180,000 in 45 notes of $4,000 each, and that a bylaw be passed confirming the same."

Thirdly, they adopted the recommendation, "that this council pay $11,227.30 for the construction of a provincial highway, and that 20-year debentures be issued for the balance viz., $80,000." This balance is from the total of $91,227.34, which must be paid to the provincial government this year for the construction of a provincial highway in Middlesex.

T. R. Harrison of the firm of Wood, Gundy & Co., spoke to the council on the issuing of the $80,000 in debentures. His firm had calculated for the council, he said, that the yearly levy required to pay off the $80,000 in 20 years would be $6694.345.

Offers $99.65 For Debentures.

His company, he said, were prepared to offer the council, the bid being good for Friday only, $99.65 for the debentures.

J. E. Harrison, chairman of the finance committee of the council, however, pointed out that the money need not be paid until October 1.

T. R. Harrison, in reply, said that the issue could be made from the first of June, and that the money could remain at 5½ per cent interest on call until the first of October. He recommended that the issue be made now instead of on the first of October, thinking that the debentures would draw higher prices now than then.

The decision as to when the debentures should be issued was left to the finance committee.

A request from the council to the provincial government, asking that the designation of the county road be changed to provincial county road, the council was informed at the meeting, in a communication read by the clerk to the council, could not be granted.

The plea was refused on the ground that "after due consideration the minister was unable to grant the request, on account of the large existing mileage of provincial highways within the county, coupled with the heavy financial obligations assumed by the department in connection with the general highway system of the province."

Sheriff Graham was present at the meeting, and asked leave to speak to the council. He wanted to explain, he said, his part in the matter of the request of the grand jury, and their criticism of the county for not providing expense money for the jury's trip to inspect the House of Refuge at Strathroy.

Sheriff Makes Explanation.

Prior to the visit of the jury to Strathroy, one of the jurymen had penses of the trip, and I said to him offhand "that he expected that the county council would pay the expenses of the trip, and said to him that there was nothing in the act to warrant such belief." This was his only part in the affair, the sheriff stated. The council, through the warden, thanked him for his explanation.

A large deputation from Glencoe and neighboring region waited on the council asking assistance, with a request to the provincial government that certain portions of the road known as the Mosa-Ekfrid township road leading to Alvinston, be made provincial roads. They also wished that the certain portions of the townline road between Dunwich and Aldborough be assumed by the province.

J. G. Lethbridge, M.L.A., for Glencoe, introduced the delegation. It was an important proposition, he thought, that the delegation was presenting to the council. When completed there would be a provincial highway connecting practically three other provincial highways, going through Glencoe, on to Alvinston, to Sarnia, and thence to the southern highway.

A. Aldred of Glencoe, by means of a map showed to the council the portions of the road concerned, and declared that the roads in question had many advantageous features. The first section near Walker's bridge required, he said, the immediate expenditure of $2,000. But this was comparatively a small sum since engineers had told him that on account of the lowness of the bridge it was in great danger from flood.

If the bridge were swept away it would mean a cost of $50,000 to replace it. This road had few curves that were sharp, and the highest grade was only a 3 per cent one, he stated.

Road Is Designated.

M. A. MacKelpin of Dunwich, and Malcolm McIntyre of Alvinston, two other members of the delegation, also spoke in favor of the proposition. After the delegation had been heard Warden John Couzens, on behalf of the council, said that so far as he knew the council "was in favor of designating the portions of road in question as provincial county roads." The delegation thanked the council.

Some time after, when the council came to the introduction of resolutions, the following resolution on the delegation's request was presented: "Moved by C. C. Henry, seconded by A. M. McPherson, that the Middlesex County Council place themselves on record as approving of having the county road now assumed by the county, known as the Mosa-Ekfrid Township road leading to Alvinston, and also that portion of the road from the provincial highway to the Walker bridge in the township of Mosa be made a county provincial road, on condition that the county of Elgin will take steps and carry them out to make the road known as the townline between Dunwich and Aldborough Townships made the same type of road, and that the county of Elgin take the first steps to have the work carried on, in order to meet the wishes of the large petition signed by the people of section." The resolution was adopted.

Col. W. J. Brown, executive secretary of the Western University, explained to the council the plans for the new buildings to be erected in a short time, construction to start within two weeks or a month, he said, on the new site just on the outskirts of West London.

Treasurer Submits Reports.

The plans for the main building, of gray stone, the natural science building, the library and the bridge over the Thames leading to the 250-acre site, were shown to the council. Through the grant of $100,000 given by the council, said Col. Brown, other grants had been secured from the City of London and the province.

T. E. Robson, county treasurer, reported that county disbursements from the first of January to the first of June amounted to $281,073.81, receipts, $265,203.02. The report was adopted.

That no action be taken on the petition from Prescott and Russell County Councils praying for an amendment to the mothers' allowance act, was the recommendation contained in the report of the petitioning committee presented at the meeting.

The House of Refuge committee reported that a new boiler was to be placed in the house, at a cost of $1,383. Tenders had been called for in this, and the tender of William Skelly had been accepted. A new septic tank will also be built at the refuge, the report states. It will be built by S. Ingroulle. The report was adopted.

Three other resolutions passed by the council were: Moved by William Boler, seconded by Frank Nicholl, that the amount paid for the care of the feeble-minded be as much as for the care of the inmates in the house of refuge, viz., 67.7 cents per diem. The resolution was referred to the committee re insane and feeble-minded.

Moved by Thomas Elliott, seconded by William Ross, that the reward offered for the Murrells be cancelled. The reward is for $2,000.

Moved by J. B. Pike, seconded by B. Pike, that special grants be given to the different high schools of the county, the same as last year.

The report of the jail committee on the payment to Governor Byron Dawson of the county jail $300 for janitorial supervision of the county buildings.

DECLARES CANADA NEEDS SETTLERS

Ottawa, June 10.—"Rankest rot," was how W. T. R. Preston, author and publicist, in an address to the Kiwanis Club yesterday, characterized the contention of those who claimed that only English-speaking peoples should be admitted to Canada as immigrants.

Mr. Preston said that Canada needed a population of 25,000,000 people and he graphically described some of his experiences years ago in central and southern Europe.

He emphatically urged that Canada's population must be mainly agricultural. They must be such as will settle on farms for at least three generations, he said.

G. T. R. EARNINGS INCREASE.

MONTREAL, June 9.—Grand Trunk Railway traffic earnings for the week ending June 7 were $2,003,063, as against $1,830,231 for the same week of 1921.

INITIATION SCHEME HOLDS UP CITY PAVING PROGRAM

Under New Plan Ratepayers Must Be Notified Before Work Started.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier announced Saturday that Victoria street, between Richmond and St. George streets, has been graded, and the concrete laid preparatory for sheet asphalt. Other streets which have been graded are Cynthia street, from Byron avenue to Bruce street, and Emery street, from Edward street to Wharncliffe road.

The paving program this year is not advanced as much as in recent previous years, the city engineer's explanatoin being that in 1922 the initiation scheme has been placed in effect, which requires that the ratepayers involved be notified of the estimated cost of the work, with an opportunity to object, before the job is commenced.

In previous years paving streets was in order following a two-thirds vote of the city council in favor of the work.

FEEL CONFIDENT OF PARLEY RESULT

arranged that the British troops would hold the border temporarily, replacing the Ulster special constables, all the Irish Republican army regulars would be withdrawn from that neighborhood. Such an arrangement, he says, "is favored in the more important southern circles.

Mr. Collins' speech at last night's Mansion House meeting was apparently intended as a partial outline of the future policy of the south toward the north. To avert permanent partition is obviously one of its most important aims. Mr. Collins, among other things, advocated a conciliatory attitude toward those northerners, who, while preferring their own local government, did not wish permanent separation from the south.

"We must conciliate the elements capable of conciliation, not force everybody to fight us," he said.

CONSTABLES ATTACKED.

Belfast, June 10.—Sinn Feiners early today attacked a house in which a detachment of special constables was quartered. Their preparatory measure of extinguishing the street lamps aroused the suspicions of the guards, who awakened the sleeping constables. A bomb hurled through a skylight, but injured no one. This was followed by rapid revolver fire, which was likewise devoid of effect.

A number of attackers were discovered on the roofs of adjoining buildings. They were fired upon, but escaped.

Several incendiary fires were reported throughout the city this morning. A block of buildings in Alfred street, occupied by line firms, was badly damaged. A garage was set afire and five automobiles were damaged.

RESTORE PEACE IN ULSTER.

BELFAST, June 9.—With the British occupation of Beleek, peace ruled along the Fermanagh. The main body of troops engaged in the operation passed through Enniskillen and returned to headquarters today. Refugees also were returning to Beleek.

CONFERENCE PROVES SUCCESS.

LONDON, June 9.—The main difficulties of the signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty over the proposed Irish constitution are believed to have been eliminated in consequence of the conferences in London, in which Premier Lloyd George and Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann have taken part. It is expected that a joint meeting of the signatories will be held early next week.

A communicaiton issued this evening by the colonial office asserts that considerable progress was made at today's meeting between Colonial Secretary Church, War Secretary Worthington-Evans and Mr. Griffith. The experts continued to investigate a mass of technical and legal details connected with the constitution.

During the day Mr. Griffith notified the newspapermen that a statement would be given out at seven o'clock this evening. At that hour, however, it was announced that the Irish deputation had hoped the negotiations would have reached a point where it would be possible to make a statement, but that this point had not yet been reached.

It was added that the conversations with the British, which were proceeding without a hitch, would be resumed tomorrow.

Mr. Griffith will return to Dublin Monday.

The Irish delegation stated today that the press account of the incidents at Pettigoe and Beleek were not in accord with the reports in the hands of the Irish provisional government and which had been laid before the British government.

SON OF NOBILITY HAS LIFE OF ADVENTURE

from hanging by commitment to a hospital for the criminal insane.

The outcry against the reprieve of Major Ronald True, who was committed to an institution for the criminal insane, after having been convicted of the murder of Gertrude Yates, continues today unabated. According to the Evening Standard, an attempt probably will be made to raise the question in Parliament when it convenes on Monday.

The champions of Home Secretary Shortt's act of clemency say that under the law he had no alternative. The law provides that in case a prisoner is sentenced to death, if there is reason to believe him to be insane, the secretary of state shall appoint experts to inquire into the prisoner's mental condition. A home office official said today that Secretary Shortt acted on reports of two prison doctors, who, after observing True for two months, reported that he was insane. Mr. Shortt, accordingly, appointed three medical experts to examine the prisoner, all of whom agreed that he was insane.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STRAWBERRIES FAIRLY PLENTIFUL

Price Ranged From 25 to 30 Cents a Box On Market.

The heavy showers of Saturday morning prevented many buyers from attending one of the best week-end markets for some months. Large quantities of all kinds of produce were offered.

Strawberries were fairly plentiful. The price ranged from 25@35c per box; a few were asking 40c. Farmers report that in some places near Delaware, despite the rain, some patches will not yield more than half a crop.

There was a large quantity of butter. Dairy sold at 30c per lb wholesale and 32@35c retail. Many farmers, to dispose of their butter, were offering it at 30c by the single pound at noon.

Eggs remained firm in price, 28c per dozen wholesale and 30@32c retail being asked. Some were asking 35c per dozen.

Vegetables were plentiful. Spinach was offered at 50@60c per bushel, asparagus at 10c a bunch, radishes at 40c per dozen, and lettuce at 75@90c for large and 40@50c per dozen bunches for small.

Potatoes were fairly plentiful, but the quotations remained firm.

WALL STREET REVIEW

New York, June 10.—Stock market prices were irregular or unsettled throughout the week. A majority of the more active issues were plainly disposed to give way to professional pressure as outside interest waned.

Very much the same conditions prevailed in the bond market, although several of the Liberty group attained top records and underwritings of domestic and foreign origin were easily absorbed on house offerings. Despite the enormous expansion of brokers' loans, call money rates fell to lowest renewal quotations in four years. Concessions were made on 30 and 60-day accommodations, and commercial paper was in better demand.

Eliminating the coal strike and the prospective strike vote arising from another cut in railway wages, industrial developments were mainly encouraging. May production in the automobile trade was a record-breaker, according to authorities, and additional advances were announced in prices of metals, raw and refined sugars, textiles and leathers.

GRAIN

Winnipeg, June 10.—Futures opened: Wheat—July, ½c to ⅝c higher at $1 25⅛@1 26⅜; Oct. unchanged to ¼c lower at $1 13⅞@1 18½; Dec. unchanged at $1 15⅞.

Oats—July, ¼c higher at 52½c; Oct., ⅛c higher at 46⅝c.

Flax—July, ¼c higher at $2 25½; Oct., ½c lower at $2 13.

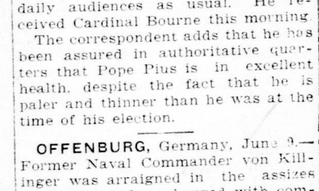

Rye—Oct., 1c lower at 83½c.

Chicago, June 10.—A reported prospective world's shortage of wheat tended to give the wheat market a firm undertone durin gthe early dealings on the board of trade today. The statement made by Secretary Hoover to the effect that the world wheat stocks will be lower than several years by July 1, as both Argentina and Australia have considerably less wheat than last year, was a factor. The upward trend of the European consumption also indicates a larger demand than a year ago, whereas prospects are for a smaller crop. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, with July of $1 15@1 15¼, and September at $1 14¼@1 14⅜, the wheat market underwent a slight setback, then rallied ot around initial figures.

Corn and oats were in sympathy with wheat. The early trading in corn was light, the feature being some selling of a small line of September, credited to a local trade. After starting unchanged to ¼c up, with July at 62@62⅞c, the market suffered a slight setback, which was followed by somewhat of a rally.

Liverpool, June 10.—Wheat—Spot, No. 1 northern, 12s 10d; No. 3, 11s 11d; No. 2 hard winter, 10s 7½d.

Corn—Spot, American mixed, new, 6s 8d.

BERNE, June 9.—The Swiss army, on active service from 1914 to 1921, inclusive, cost the government 1,561,000,000 francs, it was announced today.

LONDON, June 9.—Henry Jacobi, the 19-year-old hotel pantry boy, who was found guilty of the murder on March 14 of Lady White, was executed in Pentonville prison at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Lady White was the widow of Sir Edward White, once chairman of the London county council.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 9.—The Congress of Eastern Nations, arranged during the closing days of the Genoa conference, has been postponed at the request of the Russian Bolshevist foreign minister, George Tchitcherin. The congress was to have been held in Moscow this month, and was designed to include all those governments excluded from the Genoa conference.

LONDON, June 9.—A dispatch to the London Times from Rome says the best proof that the recent rumors that the Pope was ill are unfounded is the fact that the Pontiff is granting daily audiences as usual. He received Cardinal Bourne this morning.

The correspondent adds that he has been assured in authoritative quarters that Pope Pius is in excellent health, despite the fact that he is paler and thinner than he was at the time of his election.

OFFENBURG, Germany, June 9.—Former Naval Commander von Killinger was arraigned in the assizes court here today, charged with complicity in the murder of Mathias Erzberger, former minister of finance in the German cabinet.

Eighty-seven witnesses were called, including Erzberger's widow and Deputy Diez, who was with the official when he was assassinated last August. A portion of Erzberger's skull and his bullet-riddled coat were among the exhibits.

The courtroom was strongly guarded, because rumors had spread that the prisoner's friends might attempt to liberate him by force. Von Killinger admitted that he knew Schulz and Tillessen, the two alleged murderers, who absconded, but declared he was not friendly with them.

The judge warned the jurors not to permit themselves to be influenced by political considerations.

TWELVE ORDAINED BY ARCHBISHOP

Toronto, June 10.—The impressive ceremony of the ordination of 12 priests and 17 sub-deacons by Archbishop McNeil in St. Michael's Cathedral this morning, was witnessed by a capacity congregation. The archbishop was assisted by Mgr. J. T. Kidd, president of St. Augustines Seminary, Kingston road, of which the candidates are gradutes, and by Rev. Dr. Morrissey, prefector of the seminary.

The Seed of Success

THE man who spends all his income as he gets it will never succeed.

Most successful men and women possess bank accounts which were started with modest sums. They will tell you that the first thousand dollars saved represented self-sacrifice and hard work, but that the succeeding thousands accumulated more easily and quickly.

A growing reserve of money is not only the seed of success, but it builds character and breeds self-confidence.

If you would command success, build up a bank balance which will enable you to meet both emergencies and opportunities boldly.

We invite you to open a savings account at our nearest branch.

DIABETES CONQUERED

Dr. Stein-Callenfels' Treatment Proves Great Success

A reliable remedy for diabetes, discovered by Dr. Stein-Callenfels, has recently been introduced in America with almost unbelievable success. No dieting is necessary, and hundreds of diabetic sufferers report themselves free from loss of sugar.

Mrs. Evans, Pa., writes: "I feel like a new woman, I have no pains at all. I not only look good but feel so also, thanks to God and 'Eksip'."

Ida M. Powers, New York, says: "Since taking 'Eksip', I eat everything whereas before I was starving to death. I feel fine, don't worry and don't starve".

Mrs. Sherman, N. Dakota, writes: "My wife and child feel much better. There is no more sugar in her urine and the pain in her back has vanished".

If you suffer or know of any one afflicted with diabetes, write for this free book, "Eat and Get Well". It will be sent, postpaid and absolutely free to all who write M. Richartz, 220 West 42nd Street, E-78, New York.

SICK SOLES.
'Tis the soles of the people, I keep in view,
For I am the doctor of boot and shoe.
I sole the living, but not the dead—
With the best of leather, wax and thread
I can sew on a sole, or nail it fast,
Do a good job and make it last!
There is nothing snide about what I do.
Doubt not this—my work proves it's true.
I can give you a lift in this changeable life.
Not only you, but your children and wife.
A good many patients have come to my door,
Worn out, run down and feeling quite sore.
Though I don't use poultice, plaster or pill,
I cure sick soles, no matter how ill!

Life and Character Reading.

JUNE 10.

People born on this date and under this sign must learn continuity and consistency, and they should never permit themselves to do the acts they have condemned in others. They should firmly resolve never to complain or murmur, as this habit increases with practice to an awful extent, making the elderly people born under this sign very disagreeable in the family. Silence and passive reason, with introspection are the true inner pathways of spiritual illumination.

The governing sign of this date is Gemini, the cause of the dual nature those people have. The governing planet is Mercury, and the astral colors are red, blue and white.

The Home—The Most Important of All Institutions

THE home is the most important of all institutions. From it are the issues of life. In the little world of the home children are born and reared. In it they grow to manhood and womanhood. From it they go forth into the larger world of society and state to establish in turn their own little world of the home in which they grow old and die. Their memories linger around the homes of their childhood; the memories of them held by later generations are associated with the homes of their manhood and womanhood.

In the home children receive the most important part of their education. In the home must be established their physical, mental and moral health. The experiences of home constitute the raw material of the education of the schools. The character and the teaching, conscious or unconscious, of the home determine in a large measure their attitude toward all the relations of life. From the home parents and older children go forth to their daily toil, and to the home they bring the products or the earnings of their labor, to be expended, prudently, or unwisely, and imprudently, for food clothing, and shelter, and the other necessities and luxuries of life.

For most people the home is the beginning and the end of life. All their activities proceed from it and return to it. Therefore, of all the arts those which find their application in the home, making us intelligent about the home and its needs, are the most significant.

A Home of Your Own.

A home is the most valuable of all material possessions. It has greater influence over life and character and happiness than any other single thing that can be bought with money.

It has an important mental and moral effect on every member of the family.
It is the greatest of all aids to success.
It increases a man's working efficiency and earning power.
It makes woman's work pleasanter and life happier.
It is necessary for the welfare of the child.
It adds many of the finer things to life.
It reduces the cost of living.
It makes available an additional source of income.
It is the safest and most profitable family investment.
It is the best form of family protection.

The members of the London Real Estate Board endeavor to give the best service to their clients. Honest, fair-dealing, is their motto. And it will be to the interest of prospective purchasers to deal with them.

26 BILLS PASS LEGISLATURE AS SESSION CLOSES

Provincial Parliament Adjourns For Prorogation On Tuesday.

WAS RECORD BREAKER

U. F. O.-Labor Combination Voted As Bloc On All Occasions.

TORONTO, June 9.—At 5:22 this afternoon Hon. Nelson Parliament, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, adjourned the third session of the fifteenth Parliament of Ontario for prorogation on Tuesday next at 3 o'clock. The motion by Hon. Mr. Raney to adjourn came quite suddenly, in the absence from the chamber of Premier Drury, who was making preparations for his western trip. The members were taken by surprise, as an evening session had been expected. There was a moment's silence, and then the members broke into singing "God Save the King," following which R. L. Brackin (Kent) called for cheers for the Speaker.

The session from all standpoints was a record one. In the number of days over which it spread it breaks all previous records. The session opened on St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, and therefore lasted 80 days. In all 270 bills were placed on the members' file for consideration. Of these the majority survived the onslaught of the members, although many of them were much altered in the process of amendment.

During this afternoon's session 26 bills were given third reading. That, it was pointed out, in itself constituted a record. The subjects had been all threshed out in committee, and the passing of third reading was chiefly of a formal nature.

Combination Stuck Together.

The saw-off arrangement on the presentation of the public accounts committee's report saved considerable time. It was expected that the introduction in the house of the report would be the signal for a renewal of the Raney-Lennox controversy on the administration of the O. T. A.

On the whole, government legislation did not fare very badly. The government was never in need as far as a majority of votes was concerned. The U. F. O.-Labor combination, except on one or two minor cases, voted as a bloc, and this fact, coupled with the sympathetic support of some of the Liberal members, placed the government in a safe position. The chief opposition came from the Conservative benches. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and his followers scrutinized all legislation, and were never tardy with criticism.

Government followers are confident that the session has been a success from every angle. They regret the session was so lengthy, being sixteen days longer than the previous session, which was then a record, but felt sure the extra time was justified.

It is expected that few of the members will return on Tuesday for formal prorogation, which will consist of the usual ceremony, with the lieutenant-governor in attendance.

Major Lewis, in the dying hours of the Legislature, was successful in having his resolution passed indorsing the report of the international joint commission on the St. Lawrence River deepening project in spite of the protest of Attorney-General W. E. Raney, who urged the view that the provincial government should not pass upon matters that were under the jurisdiction of the federal government. He did not think that the Ontario house should press upon the Ottawa government the favorable consideration of the report.

Following the urging of Hon. Howard Ferguson and Major Lewis, the attorney-general withdrew his protest. The resolution was of the usual formal nature, to the effect that the provincial government affirmed its belief in the wisdom of the project in order that vessels of ocean draught might enter the Great Lakes. It also requests that the federal parliament give early and favorable consideration to the waterways commission report.

Doherty Opposes Resolution.

On Mr. Ferguson withdrawing his motion asking for a return of correspondence and papers in connection with the province's contemplated cement manufacturing plant, Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, stated that manufacturing would not be engaged in if cement prices remain at the present levels. No more definite assurance was forthcoming.

The peculiar situation of a solid Farmer group with the exception of one member voting against a resolution advocating that steps be taken to place unemployed men on the farms was one of the features of the afternoon.

The resolution, which stood in Sergt.-Major McNamara's name, but was moved by M. M. MacBride, provided for the appointment of a special committee of the Legislature to investigate the problem of the scarcity of farm hands and to report on such steps as might be taken to secure a working out of the "back to the land" movement. Opposition to the measure was led by the minister of agriculture, who stated that he did not think the activities of the committee would be of any avail. All Conservatives and Liberals voted for the measure. The resolution was lost on a government majority by a vote of 22 to 16.

Hon. Mr. Doherty also opposed a resolution by Mr. Bragg, that the fruit committee of the Legislature of last session be permitted to sit during the recess for further investigation.

Business Transacted Quickly.

"I cannot understand the minister's attitude," remarked Mr. Ferguson.

The last day of the session was featured chiefly by the record time in which the business of the house was transacted. In about ten minutes, with no discussion, Premier Drury's radial bill, amended to facilitate the clean-up deal in Toronto, went through, as did Mr. Raney's Ontario temperance act amendment, in connection with "swamp" whiskey and the attaching of false labels on bottles. Third readings were also given to the bill abolishing the Toronto-Hamilton highway commission; the minimum wage and hours bill for female labor; the Toronto Radial Railway purchase act; the Ontario hydro distribution act; the corporations tax act, and the act permitting the issuance of debentures for the rehabilitation of Toronto street car trackage.

Arrest Adam and Eve in Wilderness.

HOULTON, Maine, June 9.—Carl A. Sutter and his wife, who as the "modern Adam and Eve" had been living the simple life in the woods of Northern Maine for some weeks, were arrested by game wardens yesterday, charged with violating the state game laws.

The wardens said Sutter and his wife killed deer and partridge in the closed season. They will be arraigned in municipal court here today.

"Adam and Eve" undertook to spend six weeks in the wilds without civilized clothing, weapons or utensils. They claimed to have killed a deer in a pitfall trap set by "Adam."

PASS AMENDMENTS TO TRUST COMPANIES ACT

New Legislation Permits Loans On Stocks With Certain Restrictions.

OTTAWA, June 9.—"We are trying to accept the restrictions gracefully." This was the reply of G. Long, of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Company, when asked regarding amendments to the loan and trust companies act in the banking and commerce committee this morning. "Admitting the principle of restriction, the amendment is not objectionable," he added.

The amendment under discussion related to the margin of security on loans made by a trust company or by a loan company out of its own funds. It permits loans on stocks provided that the market value of the security on which the loan is made shall exceed the amount of the loan by at least 20 per cent of such market value or 20 per cent of the par value, which ever is less." It was explained that when the market value of a stock was above par, the margin must be twenty points; if the market is below par, the margin must be at least 20 per cent of the market value. The committee passed the bill.

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL.
Staff Correspondent The London Advertiser.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 9.—Assurance that Goderich harbor would be dredged at an early date was given J. W. King, member for South Huron, by Hon. J. W. King, minister of public works, when the member from South Huron waited upon him today.

Mr. King received a wire from Goderich yesterday, calling for immediate relief from the congested conditions in the harbor there. Owing to the greatly increased business handled this year and the limited space within the harbor, it was stated that heavy losses were being incurred daily because of the ships that were tied up.

The government will spend considerable money on deepening and widening the channel of the harbor to provide greater berthing space.

FRANK WHITE represented the city of London when a deputation from various Canadian municipalities waited upon Hon. W. S. Fielding, finance minister, today to protest against the check stamp act.

George H. Ross, finance commissioner of Toronto, acted as spokesman for the 30-odd members of the deputation. He explained to the minister that municipal governments, especially in cities where many large checks were issued and handled several times, would be forced to bear heavy burdens if the tax were enforced. He gave several instances where the tax would prove a great inconvenience to civic government. He urged that something should be done to meet the condition.

The minister, outside of assuring that the matter would be taken under consideration, would give no definite promise of what would be done.

R. V. Lesueur, representing Sarnia, was the only other Western Ontario representative on the deputation. Cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean were represented.

OWING to the uncertainty of the session and of the business which might arise during the next few weeks, W. G. Raymond of Brantford was unable to accept an invitation from the alumni of the Ontario Institute for the Blind to make a presentation on its behalf to that institution in Brantford on June 19.

The alumni, which consists of students in all parts of Canada, many of whom have made outstanding successes in business and professions, will present to the school a chiming clock on that date. The clock was purchased in England at a cost of more than $800, which was collected from ex-students.

The honor of presenting the gift was tendered to Mr. Raymond, not only because he is the member for Brantford, but because he has a personal interest in the school, in that he served on the teaching staff for several years previous to 1901.

HARRY FRENCH of Dresden, president of the Ontario Beet Growers' Association, spent two days in Ottawa this week assisting in the fight against the proposed tax on beet sugar. The battle in the lobbies has been carried on so steadily and so consistently the members of the deputation who are representing the beet growers of Western Ontario feel almost certain that a measure of success will attend their efforts.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN THEFT OF LIQUOR CASE

Appellant Seeks Value From C. P. R. For Cargo Stolen at Windsor.

OTTAWA, June 9.—(By Canadian Press.) — The supreme court of Canada reserved judgment today on an interesting case regarding the theft of liquor. It was the case of Major vs. the C. P. R.

The appellant, Major, purchased 100 cases of liquor in Montreal for delivery in Windsor, Ont. Fifty cases were stolen after it arrived in Windsor, and Major brought action for its value. The trial judge held that the liquor had been imported for sale in the province contrary to the temperance act, and dismissed the action. His judgment was affirmed by the majority of the appellate division.

Counsel for the appellant argued today that the action was founded on tort, in which the illegal contract was not invoked. Any unlawful intention was only collateral to the transaction. He argued also that the Dominion act of 1916 did not prohibit importation but only penalized the offender.

PLANS REPAIRS AT PORT BRUCE

Government May Set Aside $10,000 To Improve Harbor.

W. R. Stansell, Member For East Elgin, Interviews Hon. J. H. King.

BY RANDOLPH J. CHURCHILL.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 9.—Extensive repairs to the harbor at Port Bruce will probably be made this year.

It is expected that provisions will be placed in the supplementary estimates of the minister of public works for the repairing of a portion of the pier, which has been gradually washed into Lake Erie during the past few years.

Port Bruce received no consideration in the original estimates, much to the regret of the fishing companies which operate tugs out of that port. As it was feared that the gap in the pier would lead to much more serious destruction unless immediate repairs were made the condition of the harbor was brought to the attention of W. R. Stansell, member for East Elgin.

Mr. Stansell waited upon Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, and as a result of the interview a representative of the department inspected the harbor. He strongly recommended that repairs be made.

RHEUMATISM BRIGHT'S DISEASE BACK DIABETES
NUMBER 4087 THE PROPRIETORS

UNITED WELFARE FUND ASSOCIATION OF THE CITY OF LONDON, ONT.

"Just Suppose"

(An Advertisement Written in the Negative.)

GIVE UP GIVING. It is a nuisance and a bore. It means the writing of a check or the making up of a cash donation, perhaps at the expense of some pleasure or luxury. So far as you are concerned, let it be done by someone else, the immortal George, for instance, or let it not be done at all.

Let the five hundred odd children now being housed and fed and clothed in London's institutions for the orphaned or neglected be turned into the streets to shift for themselves. It may be an awful experience to see groups of ragged, dirty, starving children going through the lanes of London, getting their suppers from the scraps at your back doorstep and mine, and finding a resting-place in barrels and boxes anywhere. But just the same, you, personally, are fed up and can't afford to keep them from this extremity. Let the city, the state, etc., etc. Make up your mind not to subscribe to the Welfare Fund.

Let the hundreds of tubercular patients from Byron Sanatorium be given back to the homes of London or cast into the streets to shift for themselves—sputum cups in hand, coughing and falling with crimson-stained lips on this or that corner. Let them come back into such shops, offices and factories as will take them, there to struggle and to gasp and to die, but not before they have spread disease and worked for their victims, the very ones who denied them for a few dollars. Your donation couldn't have done much good, anyway, so don't subscribe.

Let a swarm of old men and women be cast adrift from the Aged People's and Incurable homes of London. Let them find their relatives if they can, and if they cannot, let them stagger and totter to the parks. The parks are very comfortable just now. Take the beds from under them, take the bread from their mouths, the roofs from their homes, the clothes from their shaking bodies. The Lord will provide. Be glad none of them belongs to you. Don't subscribe to the Welfare Fund.

Let those children who are now cared for at the Day Nursery while their mothers go forth to labor be left in the unguarded homes. In the course of a year there will be a few horrible things to read, of fires, or poisonings, or mishaps to these children. But that is not your concern or mine. Don't subscribe for their sakes. Their fathers should have lived or their mothers should find some easier way of making a living.

It is true that infant mortality in London has been cut down by the work of the Child Welfare Association, but this sort of thing is not very dramatic in statistics. Think of what it costs! Don't subscribe to the Welfare Fund.

Let the friendless girl rap in vain at the closed doors of the Salvation Army homes and hospitals.

Let the boys and girls without a father that they know be bundled out of the Ronald-Roy Gray Home.

Let the gangs of boys flourish on the streets.

Let the nurses who visit the sick in their homes be struck off the payroll of the Victorian Order.

Let old chaos rule again.

If you would not lift your hand to prevent such a condition of affairs,

Don't Subscribe To the Welfare Fund

Come · To · Church · Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss.

"You will take part in singing some good hymns.

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

PRESBYTERIANS KEENLY DEBATE PLAN FOR UNION

Dr. Banks Nelson Strongly Resents Suggestion of Appeal To Parliament.

WEST GROWS IMPATIENT

Alberta Delegate Declares Prairie Congregations Are Determined To Unite.

WINNIPEG, June 9.—(By Canadian Press).—The church union committee of the Presbyterian Assembly was instructed at this afternoon's sederunt to investigate during the coming year the legal requirements of the union question, and present a draft of the executive bills to the next assembly, so that the commissioners may be able to study them and see how far the church could legally proceed in the division of church property.

This met the objection of Rev. Ephraim Scott, D.D., of Montreal, the strong anti-union leader, who had moved an amendment, urging that the whole matter of union be dropped, or another referendum taken. He withdrew this, however, and moved that the assembly agree to incorporate the following in the church union report, which, together with the report, was unanimously adopted:

Reports Adopted.

"That those opposing church union state plainly that the moment action is taken looking towards consummation of union they will be bound in all conscience to break with those supporting union, but that they deem it inadvisable to make any break until the time for action comes."

Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, Toronto, had previously explained that the report of the committee on church union and co-operation had agreed simply to investigate the legal requirements. "Unionists did this with the one object, frankly; and the anti-union members did this with the opposite object, frankly," he said. "Both parties simply agreed to explore the legal possibilities of the situation. Those opposing said candidly that the moment action was taken looking to consummation of union they would be bound in honor to break with the unionists. They felt, however, that it was not desirable to make any break until that time."

Amendment Defeated.

After Dr. Scott's amendment had been withdrawn, another amendment to the report, submitted by Rev. J. Lennox, Marksdale, Ontario, and seconded by Dr. Banks Nelson of Hamilton, was overwhelmingly defeated. The amendment asked for the discontinuance for the next five years of any investigation of a legal character as to church property, and that the whole question of union should be left in abeyance for that length of time. Presbyteries would be instructed to continue the work of co-operation.

Dr. Scott took strong exception to statements made by Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, past moderator, who seconded the union report. In reference to the union committee, Dr. Gordon had said: "Last year we were divided; this year we are united." That expression, said Dr. Scott, would convey the idea that there had been a change of attitude on the part of certain members of the committee. "Both these statements entirely misrepresent the attitude of the union committee appointed as representing those opposed to union. Their position is as definite as it ever was, and is growing more so, according to their own declaration from year to year."

Legislate Carefully.

Members of the legal fraternity, he said, had said it was impossible for a divided church to obtain legislation. All knew how carefully legislative bodies were in legislating for the church in the absence of complete unity. Therefore, it was not likely that they could obtain legislation when only one-third of the membership was in favor of organic union. It was not fair to call the thousands a minority who wished to stay in the Presbyterian Church. If the union committee investigated a little further, by next year, he believed further obstacles in disposing of church property would be faced.

Dr. W. L. Clay, Victoria, B.C., said the Presbyterian Church in the West was solving the problem of "horrible overlapping" without surrendering anything of its life and energy.

Another strong anti-unionist, Dr. Banks Nelson of Hamilton, declared the assembly was throwing the union question into politics and they were being asked to go before a number of bodies which they did not respect. It was not a question of majorities, but a question in whom the church property should inhere. The so-called minority who remained in the church was the blood-child of the original owners of the property. If the matter was going before the people before it went to the politicians he would have nothing to say, but there was no assurance to that effect.

Sees Opposition Grow.

Dr. Nelson said that every time the matter was brought before the assembly the opposition increased. Why was there no minority report? It was because those opposed to union declared that the reason for their apparent acquiescence was that they "believed the law was on the side of the old church" and because the majority were taking that line of action which the minority who opposed union believed would end in the collapse of the whole movement, owing to the legal disabilities and because of the impasse that would be created in the legislatures of the country. To drag the church into Canadian politics and to start lobbying in the legislatures would be undignified, he said. It would not be a religious movement.

"Consider the composition of the legislatures; consider the composition of the Dominion Parliament with so many members from Quebec. Would you bring this church before a bar like that? I think better of you," said Dr. Nelson.

Impatient At Delay.

Rev. H. Young, B.D., Stettler, Alberta, said the people in the West were getting impatient at the delay. They were showing in a practicable way that they wanted union and that they were going to have it no matter what the assembly might do. He believed also that was the view of staid Ontario.

A plea for something quick to be done was also made by Rev. S. H. Sarkissian, Melville, Sask., pastor of the First Union Church in Canada. Another request for the Presbyterian Church not to delay union was made by Rev. J. T. Gawthoro, Silton, Sask., who said the church would meet with greater success than if it went alone.

ADJOURNS OVER SUNDAY

Winnipeg, June 10.—Further consideration of the report on home missions and social service was expected to be made at this morning's sederunt of the Presbyterian general assembly, which yesterday disposed of the momentous church union question by authorizing the church union committee to continue with its investigation of the legal and legislative aspects of the matter. Adjournment will be made at 12:30 until Monday morning. This afternoon the commissioners will be the guests of Winnipeg churches on a motor excursion.

Other important matters still to come before the assembly include the report of the educational committee, which has been meeting here since June 2, and it is expected to present important resolutions on the subject which it has formulated. A decision on ways and means of meeting the large deficit in the mission fund has also to be reached.

A Message to the Pews

By Rev. D. Rogers, St. Thomas.

When we write of pews, we are not thinking of the wood, paint, nails, etc., of which they are constructed, but of their occupants, men, women and children. I know very well that the pew could say a good many things to the pulpit, and much of it might be received with profit, but for the present it is to be a few suggestions from the pulpit to the pew.

1. The Irregular Pew.—There are valid reasons for occasional absence, but not thinking of these for the moment, what a great help to the pulpit is the man who is always regular. In the preparation of his message the preacher is pretty well assured as to the presence of many of his hearers, to profit by what he has to say, but "an empty pew throws a bucket of cold water over the pulpit." An Ohio deacon wittily said that absent members were like mud on wagon wheels; they added weight, but neither strength nor beauty. William E. Gladstone went to his place of worship twice on Sunday. "As his custom was" Jesus went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day. What the church needs, in this regard, is a consecrated regularity. "The principal people in the church are the people who go to church on principle." Heaven bless all such.

2. The Restless Pew.—The occupants keep "tab" on the folks who are late. It is not inspiring to the pulpit to see half his congregation seated, and looking around to see the other half coming in, or to see the small children, let loose by their parents, playing in the aisles, and the boys watching, as well as praying, during the quiet moments of devotion. Doubtless it is the pulpit's duty to so arrange the service, as to length and interest, that restlessness may be prevented. Arthur had been to church and on his return was asked how he liked the sermon. "Pretty well," replied the youthful critic; "the beginning was very good, and so was the end; but, it had too much middle."

3. The Critical and Fault-Finding Pew.—Their advice must be sought on all occasions, and if everything does not "go" just right, they have a convenient way of saddling the blame on the elder, deacon or preacher. The following conversation will carry its own lesson:

"Now, deacon, I've just one word to say. I can't bear our preaching! I get no good. There's so much in it I don't want, that I grow lean on it. I lose my time and pains."

"Mr. Bunnell, come in here. There's my cow, Thankful—she can teach you theology."

"A cow teach theology! What do you mean?"

"Now, see, I have just thrown her a forkful of hay. Just watch her. There now! She has just found a stick—you know sticks will get into the hay—and see how she tosses it to one side, and leaves it, and goes on to eat what is good. There, again: She has found a burdock, and she throws it to one side and goes on eating. And there, she does not relish that bunch of daisies, and leaves them, and goes on eating. Before morning she will clear the manger of all, save a few sticks and weeds, and she will give milk. There's milk in that hay, and she knows how to get it out, albeit there may be now and then a stick or weed which she leaves. But if she refused to eat, and spent the time in scolding about the fodder, she, too, would 'grow lean', and the milk would dry up. Just so with our preaching. Let the old cow teach you. Get all the good you can out of it, and leave the rest. You will find a great deal of nourishment in it."

Mr. Bunnell stood quiet for a moment and then turned away, saying, "Neighbor, that old cow is no fool, at any rate."

4. The Sleepy Pew.—This pew cannot very well fault the pulpit or choir for he does not hear what is said or sung. He seldom takes exception to what is said. He does not look at his watch to mark the hour of the day. My sympathy is with the man in the drowsy pew. He may have been overworked, may have had his rest broken, or been tired—as the preacher said, "Now to be brief, sixteenthly." He usually wakes up in time for the collection and sings the closing hymn with enthusiasm, and affirms that he was "awake all the while." Perhaps the poor, tired, humanity needed the nap more than he needed the sermon.

5. The Singing Pew.—The places which stir me the most, in my journeyings, are the ones where the singing is the most hearty and spirited. It may be a hymn or psalm, first heard away back in the early days, and sung to a familiar tune—O, the power it has to stir a thousand slumbering memories. How can we forget the warmth and fervor with which those good people sang, "Home of the Soul," "In the Sweet By and By," and the great congregation sing the hymn which Tennyson regarded as the finest sacred poem in the English language: "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord, God Almighty." May our pews be crowded with people who can "make melody in their hearts unto the Lord."

6. The Worshipping Pew.—Worship (from worth and ship) is the act of acknowledging God's worth. "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised." (Psalm xlviii., 1). I ought to worship. Ought is not a matter of convenience or inclination. I must pay my debt to God. God has appointed a time when, a place where, this duty can be performed, this debt paid. "Ye shall keep my Sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary." The best preparation in the pulpit will be lost upon the hearer if there is a lack of preparation in the pew. Take a meek and quiet spirit to church and see how the preacher will improve that day. Go in the spirit of the Psalmist, who said, "As for me, I will come into thy house in the multitude of thy mercy, and in Thy fear will I worship toward Thy holy temple, and thus "waiting upon the Lord" our spiritual strength will be renewed.

There are some words of an old rhyme running through my mind which I recall:

Some go to church to take a walk,
Some go there to laugh and talk;
Some go there to meet a friend.
Some go there an hour to spend;
Some go there to doze and nod.
The good go there to worship God.

WOMEN pride themselves on managing sweethearts and husbands who would gladly manage themselves if only they could find out what the wife wants.

It's a rare wife who lets a husband see the chart she has marked on the ocean of matrimony. Husbands who hope to navigate these uncertain waters with success often set out without sailing orders.

Some wives get their own way by nagging; some by helplessness; some apply rouge to their faces and expect to conceal the untidiness of their homes.

But after a while these tricks wear out; or worse, they become like unreliable compasses which will carry the matrimonial bark straight onto the rocks of everlasting domestic trouble.

An older member of their sex makes some plain observations concerning four girl chums, all about to marry:

"Lately I heard one engaged girl boast that she couldn't cook—and never intended to learn. Another couldn't sew, never darned her stockings—and she wore expensive silk ones! Another just hated housework.

"And all had promised to marry unsuspecting young men who doubtless were like other men in dreaming of what an ideal homemaker the little wife would be!

"Now I am too old and too wise to try to enlighten a modern girl about anything, but I put one question to this group:

"'Do you girls tell the men you are to marry that you don't intend to keep house?'

"'We're not that silly!" one asserted.

"'But you have some definite plan for keeping your husbands interested?'

"Then they were enthusiastic. They had discussed the point. This was their conclusion: A wife can manage a husband best—by keeping him amused!

"They were plain about that. But any old wife could have told them that a man must be made comfortable—before he permits himself to be amused!

"I did not suggest this. I asked:

"'You've talked it over with the boys?'

"They shook their heads in unison, answered in chorus: 'No!'"

Probably those perspective husbands were common men with ordinary ideas about the home they wanted—ordinary but very right and proper man's notions. Doubtless they assumed that women have an instinct for home-making, and are anxious to drudge for a home, and grateful to the loving husband who provides the chance.

They had no idea what was in the back of the girls' heads.

If, a few years after marriage, those girls pity themselves, will they remember that they themselves didn't play fair before the wedding day?

OFFERS HER HOME.

Dear Miss Grey,—Haven't written for a long time to your interesting page. I notice where some mother (I don't remember her pen name) wanted a home for her boy. As we have a little boy ourselves, would hardly care to adopt him, but if she hasn't found a place for him, would be very pleased to take him for a year or so anyway. We would try and do our best by him, just the same as we would like our boy cared for if he had to find a home among strangers. If she is near London she could come on the train and see us him, because we live near the station to arrange for her boy, if we got tion. I will leave my address with Miss Grey, and if she has a home for her boy, and any other boy about 12 or 14 years of age would care to some to the farm for the holidays, he would be very welcome. Here's a mite for S. C. H. Sign as before,

ABIGAIL.

There have been numerous homes offered for Working Housekeeper's little boy, so I think she must have found one by now. If any other boxite would like to send her little boy to your farm for the summer months, she may have your address from the Mail-Box.

CIVIL COURT TO DECIDE OWNER

machine in accordance with the policy held by the automobile company, and in May last executed a transfer of the same, the car now being their property, he submitted.

A search was instituted for the missing machine, and it was finally located, counsel stated, by Provincial Officer Palmer, and subsequently identified by Harold McFern, an agent for the insurance company. The latter now asked immediate possession of the same.

A. M. Judd, counsel for the prisoner, McMullen, while objecting that any such order be issued by the court, explained that he had received no intimation that such action on the part of the insurance company had been given him until Friday. He had not been afforded a chance, he stated, to see the material for himself that he intended to produce.

Asks For Adjournment.

"I have an affidavit, however," he said, "that McMullen purchased the car from a reputable Toronto garage, and he has a bill of sale. If you will allow an adjournment I will obtain this. We are aware that at least one insurance company is pressing this charge as strongly as possible, although McMullen has not been charged with the theft of the car, for the express purpose we feel to create as bad an impression as possible among the general public concerning the defendant and the Wyoming robbery."

Attorney Jarvis held that it was a peculiar circumstance that the car was registered under the name of John McMullen, a brother of the accused, and while he held for an immediate issuance to the company for an order of possession, Justice Fisher demurred, holding that it was unfair not to grant the defence an adjournment.

When Attorney Judd explained that his evidence would be a bill of sale, the bench explained that he could direct the issue at once as it would evidently narrow down to a question of evidence that would have to be settled in the civil courts.

He set the bond price, to be furnished by the insurance authorities, at $3,000, or nearly three times the supposed value of the machine.

MAJOR W. J. BAXTER, who was born and educated in Windsor, left the city editorship of the old Windsor Record in the fall of 1914 to take a commission as lieutenant in the 18th Battalion, commanded by Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle.

He was mentioned in dispatches, January 1, 1917, by the then Sir Douglas Haig for his memorable services as battalion scout officer at St. Eloi in 1916, and as adjutant in the Somme battle in September of the same year. In the Cambria advance on October 11, 1918, he further distinguished himself and was badly wounded. For the gallantry displayed on this occasion he was awarded the military cross.

On demobilization, Major Baxter became secretary of the Essex Border Utilities Commission, a position which he resigned in March, 1920, to take control of the advertising department of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. REPORT LENINE IS NEAR DEATH

London Dispatches Indicate Russian Premier Has Cerebral Paralysis.

Soviet Leader Believed To Have Lost Power of Speech Entirely.

LONDON, June 9.—From sources which can not be doubted it is learned that Premier Lenine's condition up to a few days ago was regarded at Moscow as "critical and probably hopeless," though there is no word as to what change the intervening days may have brought.

The advices state that the recent stroke of Premier Lenine was one of cerebral paralysis. He lost his speech entirely June 1, and was expected to die any day, those about him being certain that the end could not be prolonged beyond a few weeks.

Suffered From Mania.

The premier was possessed with a mania before the stroke came on him, say these direct Moscow advices, and demanded that his villa, outside of Moscow, be equipped with iron bars.

In view of the premier's grave condition, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin was called from Berlin to Moscow urgently. Advices from Berlin, however, have stated that Tchitcherin did not consider the premier's condition as grave as had been reported, and was still hopeful of recovery.

No News Up To June 1.

No mention of the gravity of Lenine's case has been made in Moscow and no bulletins had been issued up to June 1, though a later indefinite bulletin was issued.

Those at Moscow closely conversant with the political situation say it is impossible to determine as yet whether Trotzky will take control in the event of Lenine's death, thus strengthening military communism, or whether there will be an increase in the movement toward the right, or moderate wing.

"I Am Not Guilty," He Says On Scaffold.

QUEBEC, June 9. — Mike Prosko, alias Big Mike, who was sentenced to death for the murder of the Pole, Kostinian, at Kenogami, in July, 1919, was hanged this morning at the Quebec prison.

Before being hanged Big Mike, on the scaffold, denied his culpability. He said: "I will die this morning for a crime I have never committed. I am not guilty. Let God receive my soul."

Two men, Nick Debeka and George Morhari, have already paid the supreme penalty for this crime, having been hanged here in July, 1920.

RETURN VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Galt Jurymen Recommend Protection On Doors Opening Into Space.

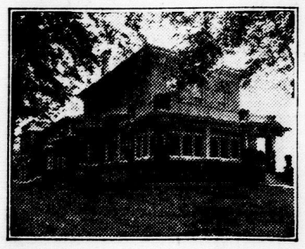

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, June 9.—Coroner J. H. Radford's jury investigating the death of John McKeith, the 16-year-old boy who fell from a third story door to the pavement on Monday afternoon and died on Tuesday, this afternoon, after hearing twelve witnesses returned a verdict of accidental death, with a recommendation that all buildings with doors opening into space should be provided with adequate protection.

No one actually saw McKeith fall. Three of the four iron bars of the guard on the doorway from which he fell were broken away from the fastenings. Evidence was produced showing that the unfortunate lad, with other boys employed in the store, had been frequently warned to not keep away from these doorways.

The public school board has decided not to alter its salary schedule this year. The work of remodeling Victoria School will be proceeded with at once and at a special meeting Monday night a decision will be reached whether to build a new school on the east side this year or not.
