Skagway Daily Alaskan Conducting a Presidential Voting Contest

WITH BRYAN SLIGHTLY IN THE LEAD.

Roosevelt's Popularity Helping McKinley in New York.

BABCOCK MAKES ESTIMATE.

Looks Favorable to Government in Canada—Sifton Defends Walsh on Charge of Drunkenness.

Skagway, Nov. 2.—The Daily Alaskan has followed the example set by the Nugget and is taking a ballot on the presidential contest, and on the question of Alaska being given territorial form of government. The polls opened Tuesday, the votes being counted each night. In three days 198 votes were cast and last night's count showed Bryan to be 11 votes ahead. A big vote will be polled on election day, when the general impression here is, Bryan will be snowed under. The vote for territorial government is practically unanimous.

Much interest is manifested here in the Nugget's Klondike presidential election. From the papers received here from the States but little idea can be formed as to the probable general result of the election. The papers are filled with speeches, but there is little speculation as to the outcome.

New York Politics.

New York, Oct. 29, via Skagway, Nov. 2.—There are some misgivings here as to whether or not registration was honestly conducted in the Greater New York district, as the registration books show a fraction more than 656,000 voters. As a general thing the vote of the entire state is conceded to McKinley by a large majority. Roosevelt has met with great receptions all over the state and in the interior it is thought his personal popularity will add largely to the Republican vote, while the same thing will assist in decreasing the Democratic majority in Greater New York.

Chairman Babcock, of the congressional committee, asserts that the Republicans will have a majority of 17 in the next house, two more than in the present house and eight more than is necessary to elect a speaker. Babcock says: "During the past 30 days more marked changes have taken place than in any campaign within my recollection, and I am very conservative when I state that McKinley will win by a large majority."

Betting in the big circles is not brisk. Croker offered $100,000 to $150,000 that Bryan will carry New York city and state, which was immediately covered. A few bets at two to one have been made on McKinley, but Democratic money, even at these figures, appears to be scarce.

The best conservative estimates based on information from all the state central committees gives McKinley a majority of 54 votes in the electoral college.

Sifton on the Stump.

Vancouver, Oct. 29, via Skagway, Nov. 2.—As to the Dominion election everything looks favorable to the government, although the opposition is making a strong and bitter fight, its principal argument, and a very strong one, being the abuses in the Klondike.

Sifton recently made a great speech at Brandon in which he answered many charges, devoting considerable time to defending Walsh against the charge of drunkenness. It is undoubtedly one of the hottest campaigns in the history of Canada, and in the next few days are expected some clever deductions as to the result.

Weary Travelers Return.

Attorney Dan McKinnon and Charles McLeod are tired. Not only are they fatigued in body but they are mentally exhausted as well. This condition is not due to a rush of business, but to extended travel.

The pair started out early last Tuesday morning in one of McLeod's rigs, to go to Dominion creek, and after traveling hard all day, they stopped late that evening at a road house, which proved on investigation to be Sproule's house on Sulphur creek. How they got there, having started for Dominion, of course they were unable to say, but they stopped all night and made a fresh start the next morning, firmly resolved to reach Dominion or perish in the attempt. They did neither. What they did do, however, was to get to Gold Run during the evening, and even to this day Dominion knows them not, as they succeeded in getting back to Dawson last evening, having left Gold Run yesterday morning.

Mr. McLeod accounts for their failure to get to Dominion with but a single word. When asked about it he says "damnn." It's different with Dan. He has, notwithstanding his weariness of spirit since his return, evolved a theory concerning the matter, and he is of the opinion that one of McLeod's horses is a reincarnation of Tam O'Shanter's mare, and if that is so the gentlemen are to be congratulated upon their safe return to Dawson.

Will Meet Tonight.

All members of the Arctic Brotherhood are requested to be at the camp tonight at 8:30 o'clock in order that the business of the meeting, which is the nomination of candidates for election next week to fill the offices for the ensuing term may be disposed of early, as many of the members desire to witness the athletic entertainment at the gymnasium. No initiations will be conferred tonight.

The Ice in the Yukon River Stopped Before Dawson At 4:00 a. m.

IT WAS A CASE OF FREEZE UP

Due to Severe Cold in the Early Part of the Night.

STOPPED WITHOUT A JAM.

Yukon Navigation Practically Open but Four Months in the Year—Ice Travel in Order.

Although not yet six months have elapsed since the last season's collection of ice moved out of the river from in front of Dawson (it was early in the morning of May 8th), the river again presents a solid surface, the ice having ceased moving sometime early this morning—some people say at 3:30, others at about 4:30 o'clock, but at any rate it was stone-still when the portion of the city's population that sleeps at night woke to action this morning.

In closing this year the river was ten days, all but four hours, later than last year when the ice at this point stopped moving on the morning of October 23d. If the date of the breaking up next spring should correspond with that of last, the river will be closed this season six months and six days, and the fact that for fully a month before closing and for a similar period after opening, navigation is slow and hazardous, there is left not over four months' good open season for the Yukon—four months in which the commercial portion must arrange for the business of the entire year—four as busy months as are ever experienced in any city on the North American continent.

The fact that the river was closed this morning was a surprise to nearly everybody in Dawson as only yesterday odds of two to one were offered, but not taken, that the ice would continue to move for 48 hours. But the mercury went very low the forepart of the night, being down to 14 below zero at 9 o'clock; but about midnight it grew warmer and this morning the mercury had raised eight degrees in ten hours.

The closing of the river was, in the parlance of childhood, a case of "the cat dying;" that is it closed without a jam and entirely of its own volition as though it had simply tired of grinding along on its slow but forceful journey. Even today spots of clear, open water can be seen between the big ice cakes, and opposite the lower end of the city nearly the entire river is yet open.

"The first man to cross on the ice" crank is in evidence today and the fact that he did not get a cold bath is a matter of general regret. Men who have money up that the river would be open until the 5th have not yet thrown up their hands, but are praying that the pressure from above will force the solid body from its moorings and that they will still win their bets. In the meantime many preparations are being made for the trip up the river to Whitehorse, and in a few days winter travel over smooth ice roads will be regularly on.

He Escaped Arrest.

Yesterday afternoon a weary looking individual driving, or attempting to drive, a large yellow dog, made his way down First avenue with some difficulty and was narrowly watched by many people. Those who looked after him with the most apparent suspicion were policemen and women. All the difficulty which seemed to retard the onward progress of the tired pilgrim seemed to arise with the dog, which had evidently become imbued with the patriotic spirit which animated the army of Coxe. He was opposed to labor, and believed in setting a good example, so refused to obey the mush order, however heartily given, and voiced his protests in long blood curdling wails of disapproval, whenever it seemed that punishment was imminent. The man who drove him onward and pulled the sled himself by way of encouragement, was mindful of the fact that the dog's howls were drawing upon him considerable scrutiny and was forbearant in consequence. Near the bridge over the slough he got relief. Another dog sled drew alongside and two dogs were taken out of the team and hitched up with the balky dog, one before and another behind, and the order to mush was given. The yellow dog, true to his principles, sat down with great promptitude and decision, but it wasn't a good place to sit. The black dog behind him had apparently no feeling in common with the sitting-down habit, and when he found his way blocked he began cannibalistic practices on the sitter. There was a howl indicating pained surprise, a snapping of tightening harness, and when the sled rounded the next corner the driver was holding his cap on with both hands and the lead dog was stretching himself to keep out of the way.

Where is the Mail?

The consignment of mail amounting to 500 pounds which has been expected to arrive for the past day or two, has not yet put in an appearance and it is doubtful when it will do so. It was reported as having left Stewart Wednesday morning in a canoe, but the telegraph operator at Ogilvie reported this morning that it had not yet been seen at that place nor does he think it probable that it passed there without his knowledge.

The ice was still running at Ogilvie this morning and is probably running yet, as up to 9 o'clock this morning it was still moving at the mouth of the Klondike river; but shortly after that time there was a jam and it stopped as far up the Yukon as could be seen. If the mail canoe is still traveling in the ice it is not likely that much time is being made, and it is, therefore, doubtful when it will reach Dawson.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon a telegram came from the mail carriers stating that they are held by an ice jam between Ogilvie and Stewart, and asked that dogs be sent to them at once. The dogs were immediately started, but as the jammed ice has probably caused much of the shore ice to overflow, the trip up the river and back will necessarily be slow.

Concerning Dogs.

Many complaints are made that the dogs are a much greater nuisance in winter than in summer; that they fight more in winter and are much greater thieves than during the warmer weather. Dawson is now full of homeless, half-starved dogs and as the season advances and the demand for them does not increase, there will be many more homeless dogs than at present. To a great extent the days for dog-teaming in the Klondike are past, and if fully one-half the canines in the city were decently but effectually killed off, it would be better for the people and at the same time be a kindness to the dogs.

All Signs Fail.

For the first time within the memory of the oldest squaw man in the Klondike the ice in the Yukon stopped running before the mouth of the Klondike closed. For the past several days teams with heavy laden sleds have been crossing that stream at the ferry about a mile above the toll bridge, but for some distance above that bridge the river has been and is yet running clear, its water pouring through an open channel into and under the ice of the Yukon with the velocity of a mill race, with the result that on the Yukon in front of the barracks there is considerable backed water. It was on the fact that the mouth of the Klondike was still open that many bets were placed that the Yukon would not close before the 5th of the month.

INSPECTION NEEDED.

It is time for the health officers to bestir themselves in the matter of investigating the quality of various commodities sold in Dawson. It may or may not be known to the health department that old, rancid butter which has stood (and possibly walked) from time immemorial, is not infrequently reworked and placed on sale as a good article. It may also be news to the men who are entrusted with the care of the public health that a practice is made of resmoking and selling for home consumption old time bacon which the company stores have placed aside as fit for nothing but dog food. We mention these matters merely for the reason that splendid opportunities for such abuses are offered in Dawson and unless some systematic inspection is maintained, unscrupulous parties are certain to take every advantage of the situation possible. A rigid inspection should be made whenever reason exists for belief that commodities are being sold, the consumption of which may tend to endanger the public health.

THREE CLASSES.

The men who have been concerned in the strong opposition to the federal government which has been so outspoken in this territory during the past three years may easily be divided into three classes. Of these the smallest class consists of men who saw in the spirit of antagonism to the federal laws, which has so universally prevailed, a foundation upon which future political preferment might be secured for themselves. Naturally they enlisted under the banner of reform.

A second class were of those who are constitutionally and unchangeably opposed to government of any sort, under any circumstances. These also joined themselves to the ranks of opposition.

The third class, which includes the great body of intelligent men in the district, have opposed the government for the simple reason that the regulations which until very recently, the government has seen fit to impose upon this territory, have been of such a nature as to hinder and cramp the efforts of every man who has sought to contribute his share toward the work of opening up our natural resources.

With this last class the Nugget is one. The fight which this paper has conducted against the federal administration, was undertaken for no purpose other than from a desire to see this territory governed by wise and liberal regulations. The Nugget had no private ends to attain nor is it an unbeliever in government on general principles. In the best judgment of this paper the interests of the territory at large were served by the strongest possible antagonism to the government. That this theory was absolutely sound and correct results have amply established.

Today, we have no hesitation in saying that this territory, in comparison with other countries organized under similar circumstances, is governed by wise and just laws. In recognizing and acknowledging this fact, there is absolutely no inconsistency. The charge of inconsistency and insincerity may only be lodged with justice against those men who, either from personal reasons or from a spirit of inherent hatred of government in any form continue to hurl anathemas against laws that have been wiped off the statutes and against law-makers whose power has been taken away.

Whenever the government performs an act of justice toward this territory we stand ready to make due and proper acknowledgment thereof, and every man in the Yukon, no matter how bitter his opposition to the government may have been, if that opposition was sincere, will be ready to do the same.

We want good laws, and are entitled to good laws, but to stand by and curse the authority that is busying itself enacting them for us is something we will not do.

We believe in war as a last resort, but we don't believe in turning the war dogs loose on an enemy who has already capitulated.

To Care for the Homeless.

The women of Dawson are earnestly requested to meet at the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon, Nov. 5, at 3 o'clock for the purpose of devising ways and means of providing for the homeless women in our midst.

Art of Breathing Properly.

"It may seem strange enough," said a doctor the other day, "but really over 90 per cent of the population do not know how to breathe. Nature kindly enough adapts herself to imperfect methods of respiration, as she adapts herself to the unnatural quantities of tea, coffee or alcohol a man floods his system with during his lifetime, but all the same she does not approve. Why, one of the first things an actor or singer has to do is to begin to learn how to breathe before he can learn how to produce the voice properly. The first point is to fill the lungs. Very few people take the trouble to do that. As a rule, they distend them until the lungs are about three-quarters full, and then they stop, leaving the base of the lungs unemployed and naturally ready for any mischief, like most idle things or persons.

"If people would only take the trouble to breathe properly, consumption would no longer be heard of. Why is exercise so beneficial? Simply because in running, rowing or cycling people are obliged to fill their lungs to their utmost capacity to breathe in short, as nature meant them to breathe. I have frequently recommended those whose business will not permit of any outdoor exercise to practice breathing for an hour in the morning and at night. Exercise is not a necessity; breathing properly is. How to go about it: Watch an infant lying on its back if you want to see breathing done as it ought to be, or if you have got out of the habit of proper respiration one of the first points to remember in learning to breathe is to keep your shoulders down. They are inclined to go up long before the lungs are filled. Another part is to get control over your lungs. Fill them slowly, lying on your back if possible and feeling them fill; then empty them at will, sometimes quickly, sometime slowly. Unless the mind has control of the muscles which distend and empty the lungs, then it is no use trying to breathe. An hour's practice daily will do you more good than all the gymnasiums in the world. Yet breathing is undoubtedly a lost art, and if we are to remain a healthy nation it must be recovered."

Bits of Science.

A German surgeon recently cut off a patient's second toe and sewed it to the stump of a missing forefinger. It proved a very good substitute and can be moved by the owner, as an artificial finger could not be.

Recent discoveries tend to increase the belief that the sun's corona, the mysterious lacelike, pearl colored halo that is seen surrounding the sun in a total eclipse, is an electrical phenomena similar to the aurora.

The larynx of a man in Sydney, Australia, became useless through disease, and he lost his voice. Prof. Stuart, of the University of Sydney, is said to have made an artificial one, and it can be so registered as to make the voice soprano, tenor, contralto or bass at will.

Disappointed.

A young man of this city rang up a lady acquaintance of his in Court street some days ago, but instead of her answering the phone herself her elder sister did so. The young man recognized the difference at once and said in a suave, mellow voice:

"Won't you please deliver a message to Miss Clara?"

"Delighted at the prospect of carrying a message that might result in giving her some insight into the relation that existed between her sister and the young man at the other end of the line, she answered:

"Why, certainly, with the greatest of pleasure."

"Well, tell her to come to the phone."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

TO COLLECT SMALL DEBTS

An Ordinance Now Being Passed to That End.

Has Been Read Twice and Will Come Up on Final Reading Tonight—Protection of Game.

An ordinance to confer limited civil jurisdiction upon justices of the peace has been passed to its second reading by the commissioner in council, which is known as the small debt ordinance.

It provides for the collection of debts not exceeding $300, and is a very lengthy and minutely detailed affair of 63 sections.

An act recently passed by parliament authorizing this enactment of legislation by the Yukon council looking to the further protection of game in the Yukon territory. This legislation may be wholly independent of, and aside from anything contained in the laws of the Northwest territories.

The act at present in force provides that:

5. Except as hereinafter provided, the following beasts and birds shall not be hunted, taken, killed, shot at, wounded, injured, or molested in any way during the following times of year respectively:

(a) Musk oxen, between the 20th day of March and the 15th day of October.

(b) Elk or wapiti, moose, caribou, deer, mountain sheep and mountain goats, between the 1st day of April and the 15th day of July, and between the 1st day of October and the 1st day of December.

(c) Minks, fishers and martens, between the 15th day of March and the 1st day of November.

(d) Otters and beavers, between the 1st day of May and the 1st day of October.

(e) Musk rats, between the 15th day of May and the 1st day of October.

(f) Grouse, partridge, pheasants, and prairie chickens, between the 1st day of January and the 1st day of September.

(g) Wild swans, wild ducks and wild geese, between the 15th day of January and the 1st day of September.

6. Except as hereinafter provided, no eggs in the nests of any of the birds above mentioned, or in the nests of any other species of wild fowl shall be taken, destroyed, injured, or molested at any time of the year.

7. Notwithstanding anything in sections 4, 5, 6 and 7 of this act, the beasts and birds mentioned in those sections may be lawfully hunted, taken or killed, and eggs of any of the birds or other wild fowls so mentioned may be lawfully taken.

(a) By Indians who are inhabitants of the country to which this act applies, and by other inhabitants of the said country. But this exception does not apply to buffalo, bison or musk oxen during the close season for these beasts.

(b) By explorers, surveyors or travelers, who are engaged in any exploration, survey or other examination of the country and are in actual need of the beasts, birds or eggs for food.

(c) By any person who has a permit to do so, granted under the subsequent provision of this act.

9. None of the contrivances for taking or killing wild fowl, known as batteries, swivel-guns or sunken punts, shall be used at any time of the year, to take, destroy, or kill any of the birds mentioned in this act, or any other species of wild fowl.

10. None of the beasts and birds mentioned in this act shall be taken or killed at any time of the year by the use of poison or poisonous substances.

11. No dogs shall be used at any time of year for hunting, taking, running, killing, injuring or in any way molesting musk oxen, buffalo and bison, or during the close season any of the other beasts, or any of the birds mentioned in this act.

12. No one shall enter into any contract or agreement with or employ any Indian or other person, whether such Indian or person is an inhabitant of the country to which this act applies or not, to hunt, kill, or take, contrary to the provisions of this act, any of the beasts or birds mentioned in this act, or to take contrary to such provision any eggs.

The general feeling concerning the protection of game in the Yukon territory is that the principal matter to come within the scope of the proposed legislation is, that such laws as are enacted should look especially to the prevention of the indiscriminate slaughter of moose and caribou, and it is pointed out by many that unless something of the kind is put into effect soon those animals will be in danger of extinction except in remote parts of the territory.

The matter was referred to Justice Dugas, and will doubtless soon make its reappearance in the form of an ordinance.

Owing to the fact that yesterday was All Saints' day there was no meeting of the council last evening, the regular weekly meeting having been postponed till tonight.

The Czar's Courier.

There is one official in Russia whose post is not the object of any general scramble to occupy and on whose life it would be difficult to obtain a policy of insurance, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. He is the officer of police whose duty it is to act as advance courier when the czar travels by rail and to ride in advance of the imperial train to see that the track is clear of obstructions, torpedoes or other elevating things in these days of anarchist plots. The courier stands a fine chance of being blown up, shot at, mobbed or otherwise maltreated every time the czar makes an excursion. As yet, however, he retains an unpunctured epidermis, and so does the czar—a natural sequence. Still it is on record that something like 20 attempts have been made to blow up the czar's train. In one case a mine was found to have been cunningly laid under the rails at the terminal point of a mile long tunnel, which the conspirators had dug from an obscure point. The officer frustrated the plot and was complimented for his vigilance.
