Sunshine After the Storm.

CHAPTER XIX.

"Clear Shining After Rain."

It was a cruel accusation, and so cleverly based on its foundation of truth that Robert saw at once how difficult it would be to answer it. Besides, the world has no time to make judgments. It takes assertions and believes them until more plausible assertions are made. And it was a truth that he had dismissed St. Ange just when their long experiments were being brought to a successful close. For it is a general fact that an unfortunate thing is almost always forced to be done at an unfortunate time. It had been so in this case. But how could he explain circumstances resting upon an insult offered to his wife? Or how bring forward the part which Desha Madison and Adelaide Saltar had played in the wretched denouement?

He wrote answer after answer, and each one seemed tamer and more improbable than the other. He had really intended to give St. Ange all the credit he deserved. But who would not believe this? It was easy to authenticate his generosity to the man in money matters. But how many would take the trouble to satisfy themselves of the fact? He was actually in a position where even Truth might shrink from explanations and find it almost impossible to clear herself. And then came the interviewers, and all alike perceived that Doctor Carter did not tell the whole truth. Besides which, he lacked the suavity of St. Ange—the familiarities, the plausible affectations of wounded confidence, the scarcely restrained tears over his late employer's faithlessness.

Ambrosia did not appear in these interviews with the press magnates; but St. Ange's wife seconded ably her husband's accusations. She had no compunctions or reservations about a class of women from whom she had received nothing but insulting condescensions. She did not hesitate to blame Mrs. Carter, to insinuate, nay, to assert those imputations which sprang naturally from St. Ange's wounded vanity and wicked heart. For at that time St. Ange was playing the devoted husband and father, and Leaneore would have cheerfully sworn to anything he chose to assert.

So it mattered little that Doctor Carter crippled his own defence rather than to allude to his wife. His very reticence was a kind of confirmation of Madame St. Ange's assertions, and thus a guarded but still sufficiently clear association of Ambrosia in the quarrel was consequent. "A woman in it, of course," said the readers: "there is always a woman somewhere!" And then they recalled Doctor Carter's beautiful wife; how much younger she was than her husband, how gay and fashionable and how intimate the fascinating young St. Ange had been with the family. Every one had his own verdict, based upon his individual likes and dislikes, and there really appeared to be no use in resisting this tide of opinions.

For a little time Ambrosia let it beat her on every side. She refused to keep the shelter of her home; she

No more Torture from Eczema.

Relief Quick and Cure Certain When DR. BOVEL'S HERB AND GUM SALVE is used.

There is no form of itching skin disease which can defy the extraordinary curative powers of Dr. Bovel's Herb and Gum Salve.

This is a strong statement, and is only made after years of experience with the use of this preparation in the most horrible cases of eczema which you could imagine.

Relief from the terrible itching comes with the first few applications and then it is a question of patiently applying the salve and watching the natural process of healing which is set in operation by this great healer.

There are lots of cures to refer to, but what you want is actual relief in your own case, when you will soon realize that there is no disputing its wonderful healing power.

If you have Eczema or any form of itching skin disease don't let an hour pass before sending for this treatment.

Dear Sirs—I feel it my duty to make you some endorsement of the excellent healing qualities of your Herb and Gum Salve, which I have used for eczema and skin eruption. It has also been used in my household for scalds, burns, etc., and I find it unsurpassed as a curative agent for such troubles. Yours, W. DUFF, St. Lambert, P.Q.

would not permit the slightest unusual public attention from her husband. She told Robert it would be a few days' talk only; that as soon as the newspapers let the affair alone, every one else would do the same. In some respects she was right. A few days' discussion of St. Ange's wrongs made them a phantom, a thing of pestilent vapor to the press, and the makers of news blew it out of their roofs and passed on to never events. But society, that is born of men and women full of suspicions and superstitious susceptibilities, was more implacable. Without absolutely cutting Ambrosia, it made her feel that she was something of an intrusion. It had its Easter festivities to contemplate, and could not have its tranquil sense of propriety invaded by people who had ever been touched by a doubtful assertion.

Every day Ambrosia received some reminder that she had been accused. Her guilt or innocence made no difference; she had no business to be accused. Other sinners were more careful of their ways. No one really believed anything wrong of Mrs. Carter, but nearly every one had some personal slight or dislike to pay off. And how perfectly women pay such debts when they get their opportunity! Satan himself must look on with admiration. In such circumstances, it is almost impossible for lukewarm friends or mere acquaintances to avoid giving their contribution to the clearing-off. They may make faint suggestions of probable mistakes or faint reminders of the culprit's known good qualities, but all demurrers of this kind are smiled away into contemptuous oblivion. So at this time Ambrosia had few friends, for it is an almost impossible task to argue for a dog assailed by slander, how much more impossible to defend a woman in the same calamity!

Doctor Carter had his own full share of the public disapproval. The controversy, pushed out of the daily press, was renewed by St. Ange in the medical papers, and thus every week brought a fresh accusation and demanded a fresh rebuttal. He could not rid himself of the incubus. In addition, there was a more than wordy attack upon him professionally. St. Ange had secured the sympathy of some of Doctor Carter's patients, and had begun business on the promise of their support. His office was not far from Doctor Carter's office, and though he cared little for the financial loss, the name in the window made his eye flash and his heart burn whenever he passed it.

And a professional fraternity has all the smallness of a feminine set. The members of it made cutting jokes and said ill-natured things in a smiling way, and the familiarity of the offenders took away none of the intended sting. In their essence they were just as cruel as the vacant stares and polite cuts, the courteous chilliness or scornful recognitions of Ambrosia's friends and acquaintances.

Work after work St. Ange appeared to be steadily wasting away. Doctor Carter's reputation and business. For it is one of the most obvious characteristics of evil that at first it has the semblance of success. David fretted over "the man who brought wicked devices to pass" centuries ago; and in most lives of to-day there is a time when the wronged open the blessed book of the thirty-seventh psalm, and let their tears downfall on its earlier verses, and lift up their souls with gladness and confidence on its closing promises. Robert had not found out this old consolation. He had only Ambrosia, and sometimes she failed. One morning Ambrosia went to bid Will and Louisa good-bye. They were going to England; and, after all, Bessie and Jack were going with them. Louisa said she hated not to be friends with her relatives. Bessie had said she was "so sorry," and it was not right to be unforgiving. Besides, if they went to Ambleside and to-morrow without Bessie, it would not be at all like old times. Louisa had said these things frequently to Will, and she had also added, with a sigh:

"Amber is just a little impud nt, Will, and I do think the les on will be good for her. Married people ought to be sufficient for each other. We are, Will!"

And how could Will resist such reasonable arguments? So Will took his tone from Louisa; and when Ambrosia called, she felt this. At the bottom of his heart Louisa had put that faint disparaging and it chilled all they said. Ambrosia could not tell how they hurt her, how they disappointed her, how it was she was made to feel like a chidden child on probation. They were both affectionate in manner. Why, then, did she feel like flinging the words back from her? She felt their presence with a sense of injury and indignation, and her heart swelled, and she felt as if it would break.

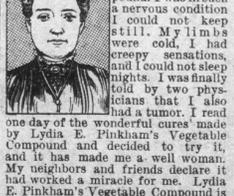

As her carriage passed down the street near her old home, a little church set back in a corner struck her with a feeling of familiarity, and a strong desire arose in her to enter it. There hung the white image of the Crucified One, at whose feet she had fallen when she was wearied and terrified with the eternities and verities of the philosophers, and longing for a Heart to pity her failings and love her in spite of them.

She had been a girl then; she was a woman now—a woman wearing a crown of thorns, that every friend pressed tighter on her brow. She went swiftly towards the pitiful, down-

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of my life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. BRANTON, 41 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

cast face. She sank before it on her knees, like one who suddenly meets the Cross in a wilderness. She wept and prayed and "poured out all her complaint," and arose at last justified and comforted.

Then she perceived that a priest was standing silently before the altar. She felt that he had been praying with her and for her. As she moved, he came toward her. She lifted her eyes to his eyes, and he saw the light of comfort in them; and he said gently: "Go in peace, my daughter." Then she bowed her head and went out with the blessing.

It was the day on which the Medical Journal came, and she had feared another attack upon her husband and all the miserable heart-burnings and defenses to follow. She no longer feared it. She had a conviction that there was a turn in the sorrowful tide. Those who pray really, however seldom, know and are sure that the very gift of prayer includes the gift prayed for.

The debate at the M. C. L. I. Rooms last night was one of the most interesting of the season. The subject was: "Resolved that an official salary should be attached to the positions of the Premier and Leader of the Opposition."

The arguments on both sides were keen and well thought out. On the vote being taken by Mr. A. W. Knight, who occupied the chair the affirmative side was found to have won by a fair majority. A Thousand Years Ago.

Dinners Served in the Banquet Hall of Our Anglo-Saxon Ancestors.

Many of the favorite dishes of today have descended from the middle ages. Macaroons have been served as dessert since the days of Chaucer. Griddle cakes have come down to us from far-away Britons of Wales, while boys have lunched on gingerbread, and girls on pickles and jellies since the time of Edward II., more than 500 years ago.

During the latter part of the middle ages the most conspicuous object on the table was the salt cellar. This was generally of silver, in the form of a ship. It was placed in the centre of the table at which the household gathered, my lord and lady, their family and guests being at one end, and their retainers and servants at the other. So one's position in regard to the salt was a test of rank, the gentle folks sitting "above the salt" and the yeomanry below it.

A thousand years ago, when dinner was ready to be served in the banquet hall of one of our Anglo-Saxon forefathers, the first thing brought in was the table. Movable trestles were brought, on which were placed boards, and all were carried away again at the close of the meal. Upon this was laid the tablecloth.

The food of the early Anglo-Saxon was mainly bread, baked in round flat cakes. Milk, butter and cheese were also eaten. The principle meat was bacon, as the acorn forests, which then covered a large part of England, supported numerous droves of swine.

Each guest was furnished with a spoon, while his knife he always carried in his belt. As for forks, who dreamed of them, when Nature had given man 10 fingers? Roasted meat was served on the spit or rod on which it was cooked, and the guest cut off a piece to suit himself. Boiled meat was laid on the cakes of bread, or later, on thick slices of bread, called "trenchers" from a Norman word meaning "to cut," as these were to carve the meat on thus preserving the tablecloth from the knife.

"I contracted Kidney Disease working on the Transcontinental, where I am a foreman," Mr. Jonelle states. "My skin had a harsh, dry feeling, and I itched and burned at night. I was always tired. The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I have a story in three chapters to tell you to-day.

CHAPTER I.

Eleanor and Katherine, her two cousins, were chums from primary school days.

A 11 through grammar school and high school they had walked to a school together and had done their lessons, to-day at Eleanor's home, to-morrow at Katherine's.

Two chums of the opposite sex had obligingly become enmeshed in the twain and had "beamed" them to most of the high school parties in cozy foursomes.

Then Eleanor went to college and Katherine stayed at home, but if any one thought that would break up the friendship he was much mistaken.

The two girls corresponded as regularly as plighted lovers all through the school year, and the first day of vacation found them linked arm in arm, and thus they remained all summer.

Then Eleanor graduated and came home to live, and the following June Katherine and Eleanor crowned the Damon and Pythias act by announcing their engagements on the same day.

The fiancés, although not the two high school swains, were obliging enough to be very good friends, so the foursome continued through the engagement.

Katherine was married in September, Eleanor, in November. Katherine and her husband boarded the first few months until Eleanor had returned from her honeymoon. Then, as neither of the grooms was over-loaded with the world's goods, no one was much startled when the word went round that the four were going to housekeeping together in a much nicer house than either couple could have afforded alone.

CHAPTER II.

I'm not going to write this chapter.

You see, I don't really know much about it. So I'm just going to leave you to infer it, as I do, from what I know is apt to happen when any two families, however congenial, attempt to live together.

CHAPTER III.

The third chapter is simply that Eleanor and Katherine now live at opposite ends of the town and are barely "speech-friends."

Do you think that any two families, however congenial, can live together and have as much peace and harmony in the home as if each had an impregnable castle of its own?

I don't.

The families may be closely linked by relationship—they may consist of father and mother and married daughter's family—or of two married sisters, or of a son and wife and his father and mother, and they may be the most congenial and affectionate people in the world, but the moment you put two heads of a house you set a trouble germ to work.

There may never be any open friction, but I don't believe there will ever be the complete happiness and home satisfaction and harmony around that hearth that there is about the hearth where the housemates are all members of one family.

I don't even believe it is a good policy for two related or very intimate families to live in two apartments in the same house.

Now that may sound overstated, but it is the testimony of many, many people whose wisdom is not of theory, but of experience.

Perhaps you think all this is overstated—you who are contemplating some similar move—doubtless you think YOU can get along with people whom you love. All this may be true as a rule, you say, but YOUR case is different, YOU and YOUR friends are peculiarly congenial!

Maybe so, maybe so—but, please remember, my friends—"that's what they all say."

Ruth Cameron

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, weak bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form.

With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it may be better. But you are thinking of the cure not the result, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English, or Medical Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised up-to-date Edition, paper-bound, sent for 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

Among the useful fabrics that find first place in women's favor are the hemstretas and soft cashmires that lend themselves to either a simple or an ornate style.

Many blouses are showing designs in beads or in a beaded effect, secured by French knots. These latter are very new and are worked in silk or heavy cotton and in contrasting colors.

Skirts of new tailored costumes continue straight and close. Later it is probable that wide silk bands will assume greater importance as an adornment on skirts as well as on coats.

Flat little pump bows of Irish lace, against tiny wings of pleated hemstretas and soft cashmires that find first place in women's favor are the hemstretas and soft cashmires that lend themselves to either a simple or an ornate style.

Distinctly new and fetching among the fascinating fabrics for children's frocks are the hand-embroidered cottons, marquisettes that have an eyelid design. These have a white crown with the embroidery done in all the usual colors.

Tailored coats continue to be cut on loose, straight lines, and are of length best fitted to the figure; generally they end just below the hips, or half-length. A pleasing variety is seen in the length of the small sleeves and the shape of collars and revers.

Many blouses match the suit in color and braid. Crocheted buttons and the touch of black satin are the end of the touch of trimming. They favored forms of crepe de chine are generally made of crepe de chine.

Kidney Suffering

Saakaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS

There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease.

There is a reason for this. Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system.

Mr. S. J. Argue, Kars, Carleton, Co. Ont., writes:—"I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit. I wish to say, however, that I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as a splendid medicine as they have proven of very great value to me."

A COTE, Merchant. St. Isidore, Que., 12 May, '98.

S. U. F.

On Tuesday evening, in the British Hall, the Rev. J. Thackeray delivered the annual lecture in aid of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund of St. John's Lodge, Society of United Firemen, to the members and friends of that Society and representatives of the different societies of the city who were present.

The Rev. gentleman took for his subject: "Practical Lives" which he classified under three heads, viz., "self reverence," "self knowledge," and "self control" as the three pillars which support the edifice of a wise and well ordered practical life.

In the course of his remarks he paid a glowing tribute to the heroes of the past and also to many of the great writers. He showed how the poor and lowly as well as the rich and mighty could all make their lives better by practicing the three things mentioned, viz., "self reverence," "self knowledge" and "self control."

We were all imbued with a sense of doing right and of knowing right from wrong, therefore we should all be true, and brave and noble. He gave illustrations of the bravery of the common soldier and sailor as well as the great general and the great admiral; there is not a noble act done throughout the world by high or low but it is held up for admiration and praise, whilst any signal instance of cowardice or selfishness is held up to ridicule and contempt.

In speaking of great and good writers he states that all the higher works of poetry, fiction and biography have a good tendency and are read by an ever-increasing number of readers; for all, especially the young, there is no help to self-improvement so great as to read good books in a generous spirit, and nothing which dwarfs the mind so much as to debase it reading frivolous matter and by the moral drain drinking of stensational rubbish until it loses the natural and healthy appetite for the pure and elevated. Perhaps the best test of "self reverence" in an individual or a nation is to be found in the tone and manner in which women are treated: a low tone invariably bespeaks a low nature and testifies to the coarseness and snobbishness however high may be the rank and polished the outward varnish of the person who indulges in it; on the other hand the roughest miner, fisherman or backwoodsman is already more than half a gentleman if his attitude towards women is one of chivalrous courtesy. At every moment of our lives natural instinct tells us to do one thing while reason and conscience tell us to do another, it is by an effort we do that which is right; it is by an effort we refrain from indulgences and forego pleasures, control our passions and restrain our tempers.

The uneducated man is violent, selfish, childish, it is only by the liberated or acquired practice of self-control that he is formed into the civilized man, courteous, considerate, "noble and reliable. The Rev. lecturer gave many more instances of our we should govern ourselves so as to make our lives successful, and he would better for we having lived in it.

The lecture was a rare treat and the audience listened with great attention. At the close of his address he paid a tribute of respect to the Rev. Canon Dunfield who was a member of St. John's Lodge, and a townsman of a devotee.

A vote of thanks was moved by Bro. J. A. Chiff, P. M., and seconded by Bro. V. H. Goodland, P. M., and was carried by acclamation. Hymn, "O Worship the King" was sung at the beginning of the meeting, and "O God our help in ages past" at the close.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Widows and Orphans' Fund and amounted to a creditable sum. The National Anthem brought this, the third annual lecture of St. John's Lodge, to a successful close.

Sealers Notice.

All men who intend leaving for the sealfishery should take with them one or more bottles of "Stafford's Liniment," the Queen of Liniments (at 14 cents a bottle).

You will be surprised with its marvellous results. When rubbed to the wrists, and arms, ankles and legs, it will not only enable you to travel on the ice faster, yes, faster even than the seals themselves, but it will remove the tired muscular fatigue of the limbs, the result of excessive walking and hauling. Once you have applied it to your wrists and ankles you will never again think of proceeding to the fishery without a good supply. It is worth its weight in gold. It should always be in every household as it is also one of the best preparations for the following diseases: — Zarahche, Headache, Toothache, Faceache, Neuralgia, Wounds and all Skin Diseases, as Itch, Acne, Ringworm, Barber's Itch, Bozema, Hay Fever, Burns, Scalds, Excessive Sweating on body or feet, Diphtheria, Croup, Catarrh, Stomach, Throat, Laryngitis, Foursiveness, Quinsy, Mumps, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Pneumonia, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Colic, Cramps, Wind, Diarrhoea, Flatulency, Piles, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Strains, Bruises, Sprains, Corns, Warts, Tender Feet, Chilblains, Bolls, Bites of Animals, Stings, Swollen Throat, Chapped Skin, Worms, Poisoned Wounds, Carbuncle, Swollen Glands.

Rev. Mr. Sidey Dead.

His many friends in this city will regret to learn that Rev. J. C. Sidey died at Lac la Pêche, Clinton, B. C. He had been incumbent of the Methodist Church there for several months. His sphere of labour covered a large territory. He had gone to Lac la Pêche to attend the funeral of a young man who had died there of an unknown disease. There was no doctor in the settlement and the pastor went there to try to identify the disease and find out if there were several months. While there Rev. Mr. Sidey was taken ill and gradually growing worse died on Feb. 10th. By his own wish he was buried at Clinton. The news of his death was received by Rev. Mr. Fenwick to whom a letter was written by Rev. Dr. White, Supt. of Missions for British Columbia, and who is stationed at Ashcroft. The deceased was stationed at the mission of Lower Island Cove, Nfld., last year, and was given leave of absence for a year.

McMurdo's Store News

THURSDAY, March 9, '11. This raw March weather is apt to be very hard on the chest and throat particularly in the case of those who take cold quickly. It is a trite saying that "Prevention is better than cure," but it is none the less quite true. A box of Pine Tree Lozenges is a boon to such, and one of these placed in the mouth occasionally will go far to prevent colds, hoarseness, and throat troubles generally. Price 25c. a box.

The March winds, too, have an unpleasant effect upon the skin, making it sore and sprayed. To prevent or cure the effects of harsh winds, there is simply nothing to equal Cream of Lilies, a tried and proven remedy. Not sticky, nor greasy. Price 25c. a bottle. At both our stores.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Widows and Orphans' Fund and amounted to a creditable sum. The National Anthem brought this, the third annual lecture of St. John's Lodge, to a successful close.

A Complete Exposure of the Government.

From four o'clock yesterday afternoon until nearly two this morning, the House of Assembly was engaged in debating the "New Agricultural Policy," inaugurated by the Government last year. In another column of this newspaper will be found Sir Robert Bond's scathing criticism of that policy and we would direct public attention to it. Nothing so scandalous as the payments made, and that are about to be continued, to Messrs. Seymour, Downey and Devereaux, under the pretext of services rendered and about to be rendered in connection with the promotion of agriculture, has ever been attempted by a government in this Colony. The rules of parliament, the safeguards of the freedom of parliament are all set at naught and trampled under foot, by the reckless and daring men now in charge of public affairs.

Anticipating the exposure, Mr. Downey absented himself from the House yesterday, but Messrs. Seymour and Devereaux sat there during the debate with apparently no sense of shame, and at one o'clock this morning when visitors to the Assembly had left the building Mr. Devereaux worked into a frenzy by the terrible indictment against him gave expression to his feelings in screeches that might have been heard on Military Road. Sir Robert Bond directed the attention of the Chairman of Committees to May's Parliamentary Practice in which it is clearly defined that "a member who has a direct pecuniary interest in a measure before the House shall not attempt to influence debate and his vote shall be disallowed."

The Chairman at the instance of the Premier who declared that the rule did not apply in the case of Messrs. Seymour, Downey and Devereaux, instructed Mr. Devereaux that he might proceed with his speech, and when the vote was taken on Sir Robert Bond's amendment to the bill the spectacle was witnessed of Messrs. Seymour and Devereaux voting in justification of themselves and in payment of themselves. The ringing cheers that went up from the immense audience in the visitors' seats as Sir Robert Bond punctured the defense set up by the government, indicated public feeling in respect to this agricultural scandal.

Quite a number of people were collected on the different wharves to see them off and as far as can be known none of the men were left behind.

THE VISITING HOCKEYISTS.—None of the hockeyists who arrived here yesterday were ever before in the city, except Mr. Shaw, who was here with the Windsor team 6 years ago. Jack McGrath of St. Bon's formerly, is looking well, has played much hockey since leaving here, is in good trim for the matches and his many friends are glad to see him.

SALVATION ARMY NOTES.—The public services being conducted in the Citadel this week are being very largely attended, while in spite of the storm on Sunday evening, some 600 people were present. The meetings are made interesting by music and song, also a number of converts are being made. The service to-night (Thursday), promises to be especially interesting, as Adj. Habkirik is announced to sing continuously for one hour, or sixty songs in sixty minutes.

As Spring is advancing ladies are considering where to get their Spring costume made. If they call at S. Zaviloff, Ladies' Tailor, 3 Adelaide St., they will receive every satisfaction, as well as best design and finish. SEALS IN GULF.—Yesterday the Magdalen Islands reported heavy ice packed everywhere and that a number of seals could be seen around Bryou Island.

STEAMERS GOT CLEAR.—Though there is a heavy body of slob ice packed in on the shore outside this port, it looks as if it did not impede the ships which left here yesterday, as none can be seen from Cape St. Francis, and they should arrive at their destinations this afternoon.

Horrible Accident

A young lad, son of Mr. John Woodford, of No. 15 Convent Square, serving his time at the E. N. Co. railway shop, met with a horrible accident this forenoon. He found a torpedo used generally on the rails as danger signals, and taking a hammer laid the torpedo on the bench where he was working and struck it, a sudden explosion followed. The explosive struck him in the right eye and knocked him down. J. Jackman who works beside him ran to his assistance and lifted him up. The blood was flowing from his face, and the right eye was lacerated in a dreadful manner. A sleigh was procured and he was driven home. The E. N. Co. sent a doctor to him, and after the wound was temporarily dressed he was sent to the hospital. It is said that he will lose the sight of the eye.

B. I. S.

The first of the season's series of debates was held in the rooms of the B. I. S. last night, the subject being "Resolved that the examinations as conducted by the Council of Higher Education are conducive to the best interests of Education in Newfoundland." Messrs. J. Campbell and J. Keough supported the affirmative, and Messrs. R. C. Power and E. L. Carter the negative. The speakers were introduced by Mr. J. C. Pippy, who kindly consented to act as Chairman. After the regular speakers had finished, Messrs. W. J. Higgins, E. L. Carter, V. P. Burke and R. T. McGrath (Oderin) took part as volunteers, and by their remarks added considerably to the interest and information imparted during the discussion.

Birds of Ill-Omen.

'Crows are birds of ill-omen, and this morning several of them were seen to circle round the grounds of the Assembly while one alighted on the top of the flagstaff remaining there for some time. This is a portent of the dissolution of the "Pieniey Party," which the public have learned to despise for extravagance and corruption. Those who saw them regarded it as an ominous occurrence and believe that the people are only waiting a favourable opportunity to turn the rascals out.

A Strange Affair.

Last night Mr. Clift declared that the Opposition had no knowledge of the clause which was inserted in the Act of last year indemnifying any member of the House from the effect of Carier's Purge, who took service under the Agricultural Department between them. Mr. Clift produced a bill of last year which did not contain this clause of indemnity. The Government members aver that a bill with it in was given to them. However that may be, it is a fact that it is but a short time ago since the Opposition became aware of this indignity, and most significant of all, last night the Government refused to do away with it and voted down the amendment of Sir Robert Bond, meant to purge the House of this indignity. The Government party voted it out and voted to continue this black enormity. No wonder a carion crow was observed this morning perched on the flagstaff of Colonial Building.

Sealing News.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. T. P. Hogan, who has been employed all the winter on Bell Island, is now in town on a brief holiday. He expects to return to the island in a day or two.

Mrs. Andrew Power went to St. John's on Friday last to spend a week with friends.

R. W. A. Mann, Esq., was in town on Sunday and Monday. His host of friends are always pleased to welcome Mr. Mann to town, and now are delighted to see him in the enjoyment of such excellent health after his recent trip abroad.

Four car loads of lumber are now at the railway yard for the Union Wood Working Co., and business will be rushing there for months to come. Carloads of lumber are constantly arriving.

Sunday last brought us a genuine winter day and but few people ventured out to the different churches in the forenoon. But in the evening so bad did the storm come on that no services were held in the churches. All through the night the storm continued, and by morning huge snow banks were to be seen in every direction.

The engine that brought the express Carboneau on Saturday night, being ordered out on the line to assist in snow fighting, no engine was left at the Carboneau end, and consequently the fight had to be all on-coming.

On Monday evening one of the housekeepers remarked how lonely it was without the train whistle; (Oderin) took part as volunteers, and by their remarks added considerably to the interest and information imparted during the discussion.

Our streets were impassable for some few hours, but Mr. Edmund Rogers, the energetic Chairman of the Road Board, soon had a crowd of men at work clearing the roads in the principal parts of the town, for which he has received the best thanks of all our citizens.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, March 8.
Ambassador Bryce's report to the Foreign Office on the subject of the negotiations between Canada and the United States was issued this evening. The most interesting communication is under date Jan. 22nd, the day following the conclusion of the agreement. This says in part: "As at present advised I am disposed to believe that British interests are not to any appreciable extent prejudiced. No opportunity was lost in the course of the negotiations of reminding Canadian ministers of the regard, which was right and fitting they should have to Imperial interests. The arrangement still rests in reality, on the growing realization of the fact that a high tariff wall between contiguous countries whose products are economically interchangeable is an injury to both and opposed to sound fiscal principles, no more in Canada than in Republican Latin America, to which the States Government has sought to extend its Pan-American propaganda, nor does there seem any likelihood that a freer interchange of commodities will lead to closer relations of a political kind."

The most extensive movement of troops and war vessels ever executed in this country in time of peace is now under way, the objective being the country north of the Mexican boundary and the waters of the two oceans at either end of it. Twenty thousand troops, more than a fourth of all arms of service, are moving towards the Mexican boundary; armoured cruisers are ordered to the naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba; and most of the Pacific fleet will shortly be on their way to assemble at San Pedro and San Diego. It is officially announced that the purpose of the mobilization is for the training of officers and men under severe conditions, and to practice co-operation between the land and naval forces.

Through the Grain Grower's Guide, the official organization of farmers in Western Canada, orders have to-day been sent broadcast that all grain of whatever character is to be withheld from the market pending the consummation of the Reciprocity Agreement, as alleged combines in the States of grain men propose to put up the prices enormously. It looks as if no more grain will be shipped from the Prairie Provinces or from the head of the Canadian Lakes until after seeding, as the grain growers always follow their orders implicitly.

No Indigestion or Sick Stomach.

Gas, Heartburn, Dyspepsia and all misery in Stomach vanishes.
Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.
The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak; there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.
If your appetite is feeble and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.
Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.
Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a Little Diapiesin.

A Lighthouse Keeper's Story.

From the lighthouse at Lobster Cove Head, Bonne Bay, Newfoundland, Mrs. W. Young sends an experience of Zam-Buk, which should certainly act as a true beacon light, guiding all sufferers from skin disease to a safe harbor of refuge.
Mrs. Young says: "I suffered with eczema for seven years, and to my great delight Zam-Buk has cured me. The disease started on my breast, and spread until it extended over my back. The itching and burning—especially when the affected parts were warm—was terrible; and yet when the eruption was scratched or rubbed, it turned to bad sores, and caused great pain. I went to a doctor, and tried various prescriptions, but seemed to get no benefit, so I tried another doctor. Again I got no relief, so I tried a third doctor, and then a fourth. Although they all did their best for me I got no relief from my pain.
Seven years is a long time to suffer, and I had got used to the thought that I never would be cured when I saw a report in 'The Family Herald' telling how beneficial Zam-Buk was in cases of skin disease. I thought there would be no harm in giving this balm a fair trial, and bought some.
"Well, from the use of the very first box I saw Zam-Buk was going to do me good. I persevered with it, and the improvement it worked in my condition was really wonderful. It eased the irritation, stopped the pain, and the sores began to dry up and disappear. In short, I found Zam-Buk all that was claimed for it, and within a very short time it worked a complete cure in my case."
Not only for eczema, but for ulcers, abscesses, varicose veins, bad leg, poisoned wounds, cuts, cold sores, chapped places, piles, ringworm, children's eruptions, burns, scalds, and all skin-injuries and diseases. Zam-Buk will be found unequalled. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

The New Agricultural Policy

SIR ROBERT BOND'S EXPOSURE OF THE SCHEME.

Seymour, Downey and Devereaux Piloried Before the Bar of Public Opinion.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.
March 9, 1911.

SIR ROBERT BOND—The question of Agriculture is a great theme; it is one that has engaged the attention of some of the greatest men the world has produced, from the time of Cato, the great Roman Censor, who was a practical and scientific farmer and wrote a treatise on Agriculture, down to my hon. friend, the Minister of Agriculture, who has introduced this bill, and impressed himself upon the future by the novelty of his proposition. Agriculture has engaged the attention of this Legislature many times in the years that have passed, many schemes had been propounded, but I regret to say, without any material success until the year 1908, when the movement approved by all progressive countries for the promotion of Agriculture was adopted almost unanimously by both branches of the Legislature of this country. The present Government has destroyed the effect of that movement, as I shall presently show. I did not have the privilege of listening to the whole of the remarks of the Minister of Agriculture when he introduced this bill on Friday last, but from what I did hear him say, and after perusing his report on the work of the Agricultural Board for the year ending 31st December, 1910, I am led to the conclusion that the "New Agricultural Policy" of the present Government which was heralded with such a clamor of trumpets on the part of newspapers supporting the Government, consists—

1. In finding something to do for their supporters in this House;
2. In prescribing what those hon. members shall do, as a sort of justification for their appointment; and
3. In destroying the foundation that was laid by the late Government upon which it might reasonably be hoped that an Agricultural population might be built up from native material.

Agriculture, the great Lord Beaconsfield declared, was "the invention of the gods and the employment of heroes." Agriculture, the Minister in charge of this Bill has declared, is the invention of the People's Party, and the employment of needy supporters. I do not use the word need offensively, but as conveying the idea of men who have no profession or business of their own and who must needs have employment at the hands of the Government if they are to devote time to the business of this House. Last session an Act was passed by the Legislature which instructed this "New Agricultural Policy" at the tail end of which was inserted a clause that "the provisions of Chapter 4 of the Consolidated Statutes (second series) shall not apply to any person who may be appointed members of the said Board of Agriculture."

"I was not in this House when the Act was under discussion, but the wording was so adroit and apparently so innocent that those who sit on this side of the House permitted it to pass without question or comment. It was never supposed, of course, it could not have been contemplated, that there was wrapped up in that section an element destructive of the very first principle of the independence of Parliament.

This Tail-End Section Was the Kernel of the Act, the other Sections, as We Now Know, Were But the Shell in Which the Kernel Was Concealed and Protected.

Sir, if it had not been for the passing of that section Messrs. Seymour, Downey and Devereaux, members elect for Harbor Grace, St. George's and Placentia Districts, would not have retained their seats in this House, for having accepted offices of profit under the Crown. In accordance with our Legislative Disabilities Act their seats must have become vacant. The Legislative Disabilities Act was passed to secure the independence of this House. The great Mother of Parliaments—the British Parliament—has ever recognized that in order to maintain the honor of the nation it is essential that Parliament which is the source of law, authority and power, shall be composed of free men, wholly independent of Government support or emolument. This ideal has been embodied in legislation for hundreds of years, and as been adopted and carried out in all the legislatures of the world that have taken the British Parliament as their model. The British Parliament has declared that "if any members accept any office of profit from the Crown during such time as he shall continue a member, his election shall be and he hereby declared void, and a new writ shall issue for such new election as if such person was naturally dead." Our Legislative Disabilities Act, to which I have referred, is based on the Imperial law, and provides "Whenever any member of the House of Assembly of this Colony shall

1. Accept any office, place or appointment or emolument from or under the Crown, or the Government, or
2. From any Board or Public Body, the members whereof are nominated by the Government . . . he shall by writing under his hand tender to the Governor the resignation of his seat in the said House of Assembly, or his seat shall thereupon become vacant."

There are sections in our Legislative Disabilities Act defining offences that may be held without violating the law, but they do not apply to the cases I have under review, and hence across the necessity for what I have termed the "tail-end" clause of the Agricultural Act of last session; a clause that at once destroyed the independence of the members I have referred to; that deprived the respective districts they represent of that free and independent representation that they believed at the period of election they had secured; that has violated the compact of honor and trust between the electors and the elected; and that has brought discredit and I think dishonor upon this House. It was, I submit never contemplated by this House when it passed the Agricultural Act of last session that such a disgraceful condition of things could or would exist. These three members who today support the Government are their paid servants, and their very existence as officials and the emoluments they enjoy are subject not to the will of this Legislature but to the favor of the Government that appointed them. Sir, these members by continuing to hold office of profit have a direct personal pecuniary interest in the legislation that is now under discussion, and it cannot but be clear to the House that their continuing to hold a seat is a breach of trust contrary to public policy, incompatible with the spirit of our Parliamentary Constitution, and with that independence and freedom which lie at the very basis of representative government. Follow this matter to its logical conclusion. If a Government, in the manner I have described, appoint three of its supporters in this House to positions of emolument; it may appoint twenty-three, and thus we might witness a corrupt Government sustained in office for four years by the purchased support of a majority of this House. The three members to whom I have most regretfully allude, according to the Public Accounts, the drawing salaries at the rate of eighteen hundred dollars per year. This in itself is disgraceful, for we have regard to the services rendered. There is no departmental officer in the Colony, taking into consideration the responsibilities of office, who is so well paid as these three men. But the question is a minor consideration, and apart from the all important one with which I have to do, we have to ask ourselves what they are doing, what work of public utility are they performing? Agriculture is a science. Will any one contend that any of these hon. members possesses a theoretical or practical knowledge of that science? A theoretical knowledge can only be obtained by close study, and a practical knowledge by employment. The hon. members themselves will scarcely have the hardihood to advance their qualification as a justification for their appointment. If they were scientific men, learned in the science of Agriculture, or practical men engaged in the pursuit of Agriculture, the Government might set up a plea on behalf of their appointment.

But, Seeing That They Are Neither Scientific or Practical, We Are Forced to Arrive at the Conclusion That the Government Appointed Them Simply and Solely in Order to Provide Them With Jobs at the Public Expense.

Now, in the second place we have to consider what it is that the Act defining the "New Agricultural Policy" prescribes as the duties of these three members, who with the Minister of Agriculture and Mines and a secretary constitute "The Agricultural Board." They have to compile "Agricultural or farm notes" whatever that means, for the local press; "to deliver" lectures on "Agriculture throughout the Colony"; to "compile an Agricultural Primer for schools"; and "to superintend the formation of Agricultural Societies in all the electoral districts." In this twentieth century, when knowledge runs to and fro and is ever increased, and every intelligent man is heir of all the ages, in respect that the knowledge accumulated by scientific and practical men in all ages and in all parts of the world is readily obtainable through books and pamphlets, does it not appear as the highest folly to pay three men at the rate of eighteen hundred dollars per year each to "compile from notes" and "an Agricultural Primer" for one hundred dollars we might obtain a supply of such literature sufficient to meet our present requirements a hundred thousand times over. As regards "the formation of Agricultural Societies in the Electoral Districts," could not any intelligent man in those Districts superintend the formation of Agricultural Societies without the assistance of three unscientific and non practical men from this House? They have done so before, and presumably they can do so now. But of what practical use is the "formation of Agricultural Societies" where there are no farmers? In every country in the civilized world there are Agricultural Societies, but they consist of farmers; they are formed for the purpose of stimulating agricultural effort amongst farmers; they are associations of farmers who meet to exchange ideas and to profit by the experience of their respective experiments. That is precisely what Dr. Robertson told you. In his most admirable address, a copy of which has been tabled as a report, he said: "We have found in Canada that Agricultural Societies are an effective means of attaining the improvement of farming methods and of awakening further interest in further improvements." Mark what he says, "for the improvement of farming methods." That means that where farming is an industrial occupation Agricultural Societies are an effective means of attaining the improvement of the methods employed in the cultivation of the soil. It does not mean that by such Societies you are going to make farmers out of fishermen for they do not know anything about "farming methods"; nor can they know until they are taught. Outside of this city suburb, and two or three other small localities you have no farmers. Then what is the use of Agricultural Societies, and employing at an enormous wage three able-bodied men to go around this country proclaiming such nonsense as "New Agricultural Societies"? It is a wild waste, as I said the other day, of the public funds. If you want to distribute a few garden seeds or animals amongst the poor fishermen it can be done with greater satisfaction to them by forwarding direct to their address.

In the third place, what was the foundation laid by the late Government upon which it might reasonably be hoped that an agricultural population might be built up from native material, and that this "New Agricultural Policy" is designed to destroy? It was outlined in a speech delivered by me in this House on the 5th of February, 1908, when introducing Resolutions for the establishment of a Model Farm and Experimental Station in this Colony. I cannot refer you to the official records for information on this point because I find on reference to them that the report of what I said was deliberately cut out. However, I have a copy of the official report before me which I happened to have amongst my private papers. On the occasion referred to I ventured to express the opinion that the mistake which ran through the whole of the so-called agricultural policies of preceding Governments was the attempt to create farmers out of fishermen, and to blend the two industries of fishing and farming. I endeavored to prove from the history of past efforts that a man could not possibly succeed if he tried to combine these two distinct occupations, for each occupation required the whole time and attention of the man who would be successful. That While it was commendable to encourage honest confession, a Doctor's Talk on Food, There are no fairer set of men on earth than the doctors, and when they find they have been in error they are usually apt to make honest and manly admission of the fact. A case in point is that of a practitioner, one of the good old school, who lives in Texas. His plain, unvarnished tale needs no dressing up: "I had always had an intense prejudice, which I can now see was unwarrantable and unreasonable, against all muggy advertised foods. Hence, I never read a line of the many 'ads' of Grape-Nuts, nor tested the food till last winter. "While in Corpus Christi for my health, and visiting my youngest son, who has four of the ruddiest, healthiest little boys I ever saw, I ate my first dish of Grape-Nuts food for supper with my little grandsons. "I became exceedingly fond of it and have eaten a package of it every week since, and find it delicious, refreshing and strengthening food, leaving no ill effects whatever, causing no eruptions (with which I was formerly much troubled), no sense of fullness, nausea, nor distress of stomach in any way. "There is no other food that agrees with me so well, or sits as lightly or pleasantly upon my stomach as this does. "I am stronger and more active since I began the use of Grape-Nuts than I have been for 10 years, and am no longer troubled with nausea and indigestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. age the Fishermen to raise such Vegetable Products as were Necessary for his own use, to lay down the Principle that the Fisherman could at the same time become a Successful Farmer was Entirely a Mistaken Idea. Surely there is no necessity to labor the point, that a fisherman cannot be a farmer any more than a farmer a fisherman except by devoting his whole energy and attention to the particular industry. I then proceeded to point out that if this country is to be successful in keeping within its bounds the large sums of money that are now sent abroad for agricultural products, it can only be accomplished in two ways, the first was a Speedy Process, the second a Slower Process. To accomplish the end desired by the Speedy Process it would be necessary to hold out liberal inducements to practical farmers in other countries to come to this Colony and settle; the Slower Process would be to educate the youth of this country in the science of agriculture. The Resolutions that I introduced in 1908, and which were adopted almost unanimously by both branches of the Legislature dealt with the Slower Process and provided for the establishment of a Model Farm and Experimental Station in this Colony. I visited at my own expense the greatest Model Farm and Experimental Station in Canada, at Guelph. I interested the head of that establishment, Professor Creelman, and the Government of Ontario, under whose control is the Model Farm at Guelph, in our undertaking, and the ablest man in Canada in respect to Model Farms, Professor Zavits, was through the courtesy of Professor Creelman and the Government of Ontario, sent down here free of charge to the Colony to advise us as to how best to proceed with the undertaking. There was the greatest difficulty in obtaining the services of a suitable man to take charge of the undertaking at any salary, because of the manner in which the undertaking was attacked by the press now supporting the Government, and the manner in which Professor Zavits was personally attacked by that press; but at length the late Government succeeded in inducing a graduate from the Agricultural College at Truro to come here. Just about this time the late Government went out of power, and as soon as the present Government obtained power they proceeded to destroy the work of their predecessors in office. The gentleman in charge of the station was forced to resign; the farm was given over to a political supporter without either scientific or practical knowledge of agriculture; then it was placed under the control of the Board of Agriculture of which Messrs. Dowe-

ney, Seymour and Devereaux are the principal components, and I observe from the report of that Board which has been tabled that the property be given of, as in its opinion the continued maintenance of the establishment is simply a case of throwing good money after bad, and the property cannot be maintained for less than two thousand four hundred dollars a year." Then we are told by these three wise men of the East that the property may be "leased to some enterprising farmer for a term of years, and thus enable the Colony to secure some return on the investment, without having to face the certain loss involved by the annual outlay that is inevitable at present." Think, Sir, of the colossal impudence of the suggestion. What was intended to be an educational institution for the youth of this country; a nursery for the growth and production of an agricultural element in this country; a school from which every other school in this country might obtain a theoretical and practical knowledge of agriculture is to be abandoned on the suggestion of Messrs. Seymour, Downey and Devereaux in order that they may receive at the rate of eighteen hundred dollars per year each out of the money voted by this House to promote the advancement of agriculture. It is "a case of throwing good money after bad" they say to expend two thousand four hundred dollars in educating the young men of this country in the science of agriculture, but it is eminent-ly proper to take

Five Thousand Four Hundred Dollars out of the Agricultural Grant to Support Themselves in Luxury and Comparative Idleness.

This, then, is the "New Agricultural Policy." Sir, I can imagine with what contempt that distinguished gentleman Professor Robertson must have regarded this so-called "New Agricultural Policy."

No Living Man has ever Advocated the Establishment of Model Farms and Experimental Stations more strenuously than has Professor Robertson.

His brilliant career is reflected from those great institutions in the Dominion that are rapidly converting the prairies of the North-West with the graineries of the world. He was the guest of the Government during his brief visit here. A guest could not very well condemn his host. He was therefore silent in respect to that which has been his life work and the inestimable value of Model Farms and Experimental Stations.

It is only a few days ago that Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, at a banquet in Halifax declared that the Model Farm and Agricultural College in Truro is the most valuable asset of the Province of Nova Scotia.

Let us look further afield. In 1861 agriculture was at such a low ebb in Denmark that the people were fleeing from the country. To-day this little Kingdom through the instrumentality of Model Farms, of which it has 22, is supporting a population of about two million people and is exporting agricultural products to the value of Fifty Million Dollars annually. The area of Denmark is only 14,700 square miles; the area of Newfoundland is nearly three times as great. Much of the little Kingdom is temperate sweet and desolate. The climate is very variable, violent winds, rains, and fogs frequently occur, and the temperature ranging from an extreme of 85 degrees in summer to 22 degrees below zero in winter. Yet

Sir, in the face of these natural difficulties it now, in proportion to its size, leads the world in agriculture. The proportion of cattle to its area is 92 per hundred acres, as compared with 75 in Great Britain. Denmark exports meat, butter and eggs to the value of ten million pounds sterling. While the total agricultural exports work out at five pounds sterling per head of population, Canada and the United States only export to the value of two pounds per head. These figures show how advanced Danish agriculture must be, and this progress is entirely due to the establishment of Model Farms and the intelligent use of modern methods of agriculture. In view of these facts, does it not strike you, Sir, that it is a monstrous shame that Forty Thousand Dollars Per Annum, or the interest on nearly a million and a half dollars should be practically thrown away, and the foundation laid by the late Government of a Model Farm be destroyed, to serve the caprice and to meet the demands of the three hon. members to whom I have been obliged to refer in this connection. I shall test the sense of the House on this matter by moving an amendment to this Bill repealing the third section of the Act of last session.

ney, Seymour and Devereaux are the principal components, and I observe from the report of that Board which has been tabled that the property be given of, as in its opinion the continued maintenance of the establishment is simply a case of throwing good money after bad, and the property cannot be maintained for less than two thousand four hundred dollars a year."

Then we are told by these three wise men of the East that the property may be "leased to some enterprising farmer for a term of years, and thus enable the Colony to secure some return on the investment, without having to face the certain loss involved by the annual outlay that is inevitable at present."

Think, Sir, of the colossal impudence of the suggestion. What was intended to be an educational institution for the youth of this country; a nursery for the growth and production of an agricultural element in this country; a school from which every other school in this country might obtain a theoretical and practical knowledge of agriculture is to be abandoned on the suggestion of Messrs. Seymour, Downey and Devereaux in order that they may receive at the rate of eighteen hundred dollars per year each out of the money voted by this House to promote the advancement of agriculture.

It is "a case of throwing good money after bad" they say to expend two thousand four hundred dollars in educating the young men of this country in the science of agriculture, but it is eminent-ly proper to take

In the Assembl

A Sitting Full of Pub Interest.

Much interest centered in today's sitting of the House of Assembly inasmuch as the Government Agricultural policy was the theme of the debate and was severely criticised by Mr. Kent and other members of Opposition. An important item was presented from H. Hon. Sir Robert Bond from Rev. James White, other residents of Grand Falls who petitioned for facilities at that place. The present building was not five years ago by the A. N. D. Co. to be temporarily, is a small cramped and totally unfit for use now. Sir Robert, animated over the importance of the town with its population of 2,000, and stated that the building which not only serves as a post but a telegraph office and St. Bank, is only 12 by 15 feet. It is possible to conduct business there, but it is difficult to select a site. Sir Robert stated that its revenue, largest perhaps outside of St. John's, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909-10, the sum of $104,506.50, collected, and there was reason to believe that this would amount to $200,000 by June 30th, 1911, thought, therefore, the Government should take immediate steps to build a suitable building.

The Premier said the Government had noted the necessity for the building and it was difficult to select a site and to get a building large enough to accommodate all the public employees. The Government's attention to the matter.

The Explosives and Education were passed and sent to the Legislative Council for its concurrence. The Crown Lands Bill was passed at the request of Sir Robert as was the request for some statistics as from Mr. Kent, who was then asked but took his seat later.

AGRICULTURAL RESOLUTIONS
Here Sir Robert Bond, when the House had gone into committee on the Agricultural Resolutions, the most eloquent speech which has been heard in this House since the opening of the session. Mr. Dwyer in a speech commended the biting sarcasm imparted to the effective quips used by the Premier in his scathing and extravagant agricultural policy of Government, showed that the island points imported were used to farmers, being vicious and not for work; and that bulls costing $130 each were of an inferior breed. He said that the Government motto was, "You take this and take that." No Liberals would give seeds or pigs that the Ministry of Agriculture would give out.

Mr. Bondford here interjected "Your talking politics," when Dwyer retorted, "You're in the line of them, and that's the way, too." He then referred to the time the Minister was to give small packages covered with sugar for the destruction of the Government. A good deal of it, however, was held to whitewash the Government. It is thought that the Minister should be needed for this that orders have to be duplicated. Mr. Dwyer then referred to the aspersions which the Premier had cast upon the other day in debate and showed that he feared no brow-beating or dodging from the Premier, and so with such independence and courage that the galleries thundered their protestation. Mr. Dwyer said he was in this way through the Government. The fearless attitude of Mr. Dwyer as to resenting insult and calumny directed against him brought the Premier to his feet.

PREMIER REPLIES.
In a speech which became prolonged as he proceeded, Sir Edw. said that the language he had used towards Mr. Dwyer was spoken in heat of debate and under stress of a rebuttal of a charge he had made. Mr. Dwyer was untrue. Here the Premier denouncing the Premier's speech and saying that the Premier had insulted Dwyer had insulted.

MR. BLANDFORD SPEAKS.
He (Mr. Bondford) took up the cudgels in defence of the Government's agricultural policy, and said more or less serious accusations were made against the Premier. Mr. Dwyer to the evident delight of the occupants of the galleries, alluding to a view of the Premier's speech.

In speaking of time, Mr. Dwyer served that the Government was doing it for potato growers, but a good deal of it should be applied to the Government party to enable the canker of corruption and extravagance evident in it. Mr. Bondford said that some of it would be given for Mr. Dwyer's place, when he referred that if Mr. Bondford would over his (Mr. Dwyer's) from his view.

In the Assembly.

A Sitting Full of Public Interest.

Much interest centered in yesterday's sitting of the House of Assembly inasmuch as the Government's Agricultural Policy was the theme of debate and was severely criticized and ably countered by Sir Robert Bond, Mr. Kent and other members of the Opposition. An important petition was presented from Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Bond from Rev. James White and other residents of Grand Falls for better postal facilities at that place. The present building was put five years ago by the A. N. D. Co. to be used temporarily, is a small cramped place and totally unfit for its purpose. Sir Robert advised that the importance of the town with its population of 2,000, and stated that the building, which not only serves as a post office but a telegraph office and Savings Bank, is only 12 by 15 feet. It is impossible to conduct business there. To show how important the place is Sir Robert stated that its revenue is the largest perhaps outside of St. John's. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1909-10, the sum of $100,450, and to December 31st, 1910, $84,506.56 were collected, and there was reason to believe that this would amount to $200,000 by June 30th, 1911. He thought, therefore, the Government should take immediate steps to put up a suitable building.

The Premier said the Government had noted the necessity for this but had found it difficult to select a site and to get a building large enough to accommodate all the public offices. He promised the Government's attention to the matter.

The Education and Education Bills were passed and sent to the Legislative Council for its concurrence.

The Crown Lands Bill was deferred at the request of Sir Robert Bond, who had to get some statistics as to it from Mr. Kent, who was then absent, but took his seat later.

AGRICULTURAL RESOLUTIONS.

Here Sir Robert Bond, when the House had gone into Committee on the Agricultural Resolutions, made the eloquent speech which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Mr. Dwyer in a speech remarkable for the biting sarcasm imparted into it and the effective quips used by him when interrupted, scathed the extravagant agricultural policy of the Government, showing that the whole island policy was useless to farmers, being vicious and unfitted for work; and that bulls costing $120 and $130 each were of an inferior breed. He said Government members motto was, "You take this and I'll take that." No Liberals would get the free seeds or pigs that the Minister of Agriculture would give out.

Mr. Blandford here interrupted: "Your talking politics," when Mr. Dwyer retorted, "You're in the middle of them, and the politics they are too." He then referred to the free lime the Minister was to give out in small packages covered with Soling paper for the destruction of canker. A good deal of it, however, must be held to whitewash the Government. It is thought that so much lime will be needed for this that orders will have to be duplicated. Mr. Dwyer then referred to the aspersions which the Premier had cast upon him the other day in debate and showed that he feared no brow-beating or bullying from the Premier, and spoke with such independence and spirit that the galleries thundered their approval. Mr. Dwyer said he made his way through life honest and fair. The fearless attitude of Mr. Dwyer as to resenting insult and calumny directed against him brought the Premier to his feet.

PREMIER REPLIES.

In a speech which became impassioned as he proceeded, Sir Edward said that the language he had used towards Mr. Dwyer was spoken in the heat of debate and under stress of a rebuttal of a charge he (Sir Edward) had made untrue. Hence the Premier denied having made the contracts of 1898 and 1901, as he alleged Mr. Dwyer had insinuated.

MR. BLANDFORD SPEAKS.

He (Mr. Blandford) took up the cudgels in defence of the Government's agricultural policy, and some more or less acrimonious passages at arms occurred between himself and Mr. Dwyer to the evident delight of the occupants of the galleries affording a view of the arena.

In speaking of lime, Mr. Dwyer observed that the Government were using it for potato canker, but that a good deal of it should be applied to the Government party to eradicate the canker of corruption and extravagance evident in it. Mr. Blandford said that some of it would be good for Mr. Dwyer's place, when he retorted that if Mr. Blandford walked over his (Mr. Dwyer's) farm he would have to lime it again. Mr. Blandford's speech was a lengthy one in which he endeavored to justify the whole agricultural policy of the Government and the payment of $1,900 each per year to Messrs. Downey, Seymour and Devereaux.

MR. KENT SPEAKS.

Mr. Kent followed in a lengthy and logical address, holding that the development of our inland resources if ever brought about should come through the Department of Agriculture and Mines, which had under control the other industries allied to agriculture, viz., the development of our mineral resources, and the care, protection and development of our forest resources. Upon the proper management, development and care bestowed on these depended the country's future. The policy of the Government did not tend towards this. If the country was to become prominent in agriculture we should follow the lines laid down in the Experimental Farms Act of 1908. From the establishment of Model Farms in the Dominion of Canada dated its present great progress in agriculture. If our Model Farm or Experimental Station had been conserved, results equally satisfactory as those of Canada would have been noted. We had everything to recommend the development of that policy—the experience of experts and practical men, and it was a pity that it was marred. Canada had to undo the work of 30 years by a mistaken policy in the past, and if the policy of the present Government here is pursued it would be seen in the course of a year or so that it will be necessary for us to act similarly—start all over again and commence the policy instituted by the Bond Government in 1908. The expenditure under this head last year was $50,000, a vote of $20,000 and over of $30,000, while they asked for a straight vote this year of $40,000. Mr. Kent said this was being squandered and re-undone little to the Government's credit. Three members of the House are receiving $1,800 per year each; the Legislative Disabilities Act was specially repealed and amended to enable these men to sit on that Board with no special fitness for their duties. They should have resigned their seats before coming under the pay of the Government. These men voted to repeal the Act, which was the only protection the people had against legislators being in the pay of the Government and then voted for the very amendment which gave them $1,800 per year each. Mr. Kent thought this conduct a disgrace to the country. Mr. Kent brought forward many telling points as to the unwise policy of the Government, and after recess continued his speech; after which Mr. Blandford replied, followed by Mr. Dwyer, who was in turn followed by the Premier, who tried to justify the appointment of Messrs. Devereaux, Downey and Seymour by quoting precedents established by the Whiteway, Thorburn and other governments in appointing members to act in various capacities and who received remuneration.

Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Bond made another eloquent and forceful reply to the speech of the Premier, followed by Mr. Devereaux, when Sir Robert moved the following amendment to the Resolutions which on division was lost.

"Section 3 of an Act for the encouragement of Agriculture, 1910, of 10 Edward VII, Cap. 18, is hereby repealed, and henceforth Chap. 4 of Consolidated Statutes (second series) shall apply to any persons who may be appointed members of the said Boards, including persons heretofore appointed, or who now are members of said Board."

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Mrs. Cesar Vancott, St. Antoine, Eack, writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Provisionally we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering."

As a cure for eczema and itching skin disease there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.

Efforts to Save Women From the Electric Chair.

Boston, Feb. 27.—A state-wide crusade by women was started to-day to save from the electric chair Mrs. Lena Cusumano, who was convicted of the murder of her husband yesterday at Plymouth. Governor Foss will be asked to commute her sentence of death to imprisonment. The Governor to-day intimated his course of action. "I always feel lenient towards a woman in trouble, and I would be awfully sorry," he said, "to see a woman electrocuted in Massachusetts."

Since he has been in office Governor Foss has pardoned two life prisoners.
