The Earl's Son; —OR— TWO HEARTS UNITED.

CHAPTER III.

"Quite so," said Ralph. "In Australia we haven't many lords—excepting some 'remittance men'—men who live upon the allowance sent by their people in England—and they don't count much. But I see that here, in England, it's different. Well, I'll go and interview the hermit head keeper—what's his name?—Geoffrey Burchett. If I succeed in getting a berth we shall be neighbors, and I shall have time and opportunity for thanking you for your kindness and hospitality, Mrs. Mason."

He rose and held out his hand—Fanny noticed that though rough and brown, it was long and shapely; in fact, like those of the hero in the novelette, and that it closed on hers with a strong and manly grip—and went towards the door. There he paused and, looking over his shoulder, said: "By the way, if Miss Veronica should happen to call, you won't mention that I was hurt, will you?"

"Oh, mother, what a splendid young fellow!" murmured Fanny with a deep-drawn breath, as he went down the garden path with head erect and a graceful swing. Mrs. Mason pursed her lips. "Rather free and easy for his station in life, I fancy," she responded. "I reckon Mr. Geoffrey will make short work of him. Come and help me with those collars, Fanny; there's no end to do."

Ralph walked quietly across the moor, and following Veronica's instructions, reached the keeper's hut in the clearing; but the door was closed, and no response came to his knocking; so he seated himself on a rough bench outside and, refilling his pipe, waited.

It had been a morning of adventure—and, to the young, adventure is the most precious thing in life. He thought of the great Earl, and the pretty girl with the fair hair and weak mouth and chin; but he thought more of the haughty beauty who had been too proud to accept his glance of gratitude. In a sense, her beauty, her youth, the curve of her proudly tender lips, haunted him; and he almost started when footsteps roused him from his reverie, and a grey-haired but upright old man, with a gun over his shoulder and a couple of dogs at his heels, came from amongst the trees and stood before him, eyeing him with stern interrogation.

Ralph rose and nodded.

"Mr. Burchett?" he said, with his frank smile. "My name's Burchett," responded the head keeper, grimly. "What's your business with me?" The response was so uninviting, not to say repellent, that most men would have been daunted; but the young man's smile did not falter, and he met the stern frown with a serene cheerfulness.

"I want a berth—gamekeeper. I met Lord Lynborough; he sent me to you."

Geoffrey Burchett eyed the young man critically. "Oh, he did, did he?" he said, grimly. "Come inside."

They entered the living-room of the hut; it was sparsely but comfortably furnished, with heads of deer and antlers for ornament; a rack full of guns and another as full of fishing-rods the most conspicuous objects. Geoffrey Burchett motioned the young man to one of the hard rush chairs.

"What's your name and where do you come from?"

Ralph supplied the information for the third time that morning. "Australia! What do you know about gamekeeping?" queried Geoffrey Burchett, grimly.

Ralph leaned back in his chair with the ease which had astonished the Masons. "Well, not much," he said; "but I think I know what's wanted, and I'm tolerably quick at learning. If you require a man to take care of the game, to ward off poachers, to track 'em down—were you ever in Australia, Mr. Burchett?"

The keeper frowned at him under thick, grey brows. "No," he replied. "Ah, well, then, you don't know what scouting means! If that's any use in gamekeeping I'm fairly good at it. I can track a man's footsteps across plains of grass or sandy reaches through anything but water, for a hundred miles—"

"Not much use to me," he said, curtly, breaking in upon the other's frank, pleasant voice. "Can you shoot?"

"Well, a bit. Got a Winchester here?" asked Ralph. He went to the gun-rack. "Ah, yes, here's one! Come outside."

He loaded the rifle and led the way outside—a breach of etiquette—and pointed to a beech at a long distance from the hut. "Do you see that knot half-way up it? You try it first."

Geoffrey Burchett, who was proud of his shooting, took the proffered Winchester, aimed, and fired. When the smoke had cleared away, Ralph said: "Missed! It's a small mark, and you were a trifle too high. Allow me."

He took the rifle, brought it to his shoulder sharply, and, as it seemed, without taking careful aim, fired. The bullet struck the knot in the tree, plumb.

Geoffrey Burchett looked at him out of the corner of his fierce eyes with reluctant admiration. "You can shoot," he said, laconically. "Where's your testimonials?"

Ralph took out an old pocket-book and extracted a letter. "It's from a man, the overseer of a mine in Wally-Wally," he said in explanation.

Geoffrey Burchett read the letter. "Humph! Honest, reliable. Has had charge of men at mine. Can be recommended." Why did you leave Australia—why did you come to England?"

The young man shrugged his shoulders. "Wanted a change. Wanted to see the old country which all of us, drunk or sober, call 'Home.'"

Geoffrey Burchett still seemed to hesitate. "Anybody here in England know you?" he asked.

"Nary a soul!" replied Ralph. "If you don't take me, I shall just go on."

Geoffrey nodded towards the beech. "Do that again," he said, curtly.

Ralph raised the rifle, and once more the bullet struck the mark. Geoffrey nodded.

"Come inside. Sit down," he said. Ralph resumed his seat, and waited with cheerful patience while Geoffrey Burchett paced up and down frowning thoughtfully.

"I'm running a risk," he said at last, gruffly. "I know nothing about you, young man. That letter may be forged—"

Ralph laughed. "I never thought of that. Oh, it's genuine enough; and, forgive me, but I don't see much risk. I should say you were quite capable of taking care of your property and—yourself."

"I am," said Burchett, grimly. "I'll try you. I'll have to teach you your work. I'll know in a week if you'll suit me. It's hard work; the covers are well preserved, and poaching's plenty, or would be if we suffered it. You can't call an hour of the day, or the night either, for that matter, your own."

Ralph nodded. "I'm not afraid of work," he said, cheerfully. "And I say 'done.' By the way," as he rose, "perhaps you can tell me where I could lodge? I've got a little money to go on with."

Burchett hesitated for a moment. "There's no place that I know of. You'd better live here: there's another room; at any rate, till you've time to look round."

"You're very kind," said Ralph in his frank, bright way. Burchett emitted a kind of growl as if he rather resented the assertion.

"Where's your things?"

the lobbies, the smoking-room, and the library; for the word had run round, "Talbot Denby is up!" and they were all eager to hear him.

He stood erect, a tall, thin young man with a face almost pallid, contrasting vividly with his smooth black hair and almost black eyes. He was clean-shaven, so that the play of his thin lips could be plainly seen. It was a striking face, one of those faces which once seen are never forgotten; but the impression it created was not altogether a favorable one.

You were forced to admit that the countenance was handsome, the eyes brilliant and full of a certain power; but they were hard and cold and denoted intellect unhampered by a heart. Talbot Denby's voice matched his face. It was clear and cold and rang metallic. It never rose beyond a certain low tone; but every word, every inflection, reached to the farthest corner of the hot and ill-ventilated chamber in which the collected wisdom of the country makes our laws for us.

His speech was of that kind which delights the House; not eloquent in the ordinary sense of the word, but unflattering in its delivery, admirable in its choice of words, and full of a biting sarcasm, of a polished invective which, to-night, was pouring like a burning lava over the shrinking party to which he nominally belonged; for though Mr. Talbot Denby had been returned for Lyme in the Tory interest, he was too clever not to be aware that your rising politician gains a great deal more by worrying his party than by slavish obedience to its whip. To-night he was speaking on a bill which the government had introduced in haste, and of which they were likely to repent at leisure.

Dr. C. A. Peters

APPOINTED LECTURER.

Last week several new appointments were made in connection with the teaching staff of McGill University, owing to the loss of Dr. Barlow, on the Empress of Ireland, and the resignation of three members of the teaching staff. Among these appointments was that of Dr. C. A. Peters to the position of lecturer in medicine and clinics. This is a post of much responsibility and the appointment testifies to the professional regard for Dr. Peters by the medical faculty. We congratulate Dr. Peters on his appointment.

Sunshine Band.

The Sunshine Band of Pilley's Island, gave an interesting little concert in the school house recently. The Band which has only been organized a few weeks, has for its object the distribution of "Sunshine" and the twelve members are to be complimented on their work. The club has rooms and meet frequently. A few days ago they gave a tea, when they presented the school teacher, Mr. Garland, with a gold piece. The older people are rather pessimistic regarding this young organization, but the children are making good and can teach many of their elders of the joys of spreading sunshine.

Empire Day at John's Pond.

The pupils of John's Pond school, Salmonier, celebrated Empire Day in a truly patriotic manner. Over 40 children participated in the celebration, and an excellent programme of vocal and instrumental selections, and recitations of a patriotic character were given under the direction of the teacher, Miss C. Carroll, who deserves to be congratulated on the general excellence of the programme, and the standard of proficiency reached by her pupils. Miss Carroll has the co-operation of the parents in all her work and on Empire Day the good ladies of the settlement provided a tea for the children, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Parental co-operation is an important factor in the success of a teacher's work, and Miss Carroll is particularly fortunate in this respect.

ROGER BACON died 1294, aged 80. He is generally alluded to as "Friar" Bacon and was a man of remarkable gifts. The invention of gunpowder has been ascribed to him, also the air-pump. For a long time he was looked upon as an alchemist and sorcerer, and it is only in modern times that his writings and scientific discoveries have been rightly appreciated.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN died 1847, aged 61. The famous Arctic explorer whose final expedition in command of the "Erebus" and "Terror" ended disastrously, all the members of the expedition perishing. Many attempts were made to discover Franklin and eventually precious relics were found to show that he had all perished amid the rigours of the frozen sea.  Detachments of Infantry occupy a strategic position in Rome, and troops patrol the principle thoroughfares. Over two hundred arrests were made yesterday. So far the workmen are unable to bring about a general railroad strike.

LONDON, To-day.
 John Bull, a weekly periodical, dealing with the Empress disaster scores the Board of Trade, declaring it is not surprised at any maritime catastrophe so long as the control of the mercantile marine is left in the hands of the Board, and complains that practical suggestions have been ignored, such as a center deck permitting the launching of boats on either side of the ship, a deck dynamo for Marconi installation, and also both transverse and longitudinal bulk heads.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., To-day.
 Wild scenes, culminating in fist-cuts, marked the all night sitting of the Australian Parliament. Because the Opposition continued obstruction tactics, the Government decided on an all night sitting of the Government whip provided Ministerialists with pillows and blankets. The laborites who were not so comfortable commenced removing blankets, pillows from their slumbering opponents. A battle royal was the result. The melee nearly became riot, when a Labor member struck the Government whip on the jaw. Efforts were made to separate the fighters, so almost the whole membership of the House were rolling on the floor wrestling, hitting and clawing. Finally the antagonists were separated. The Debate then proceeded until the Government forced a vote, while two Labor members were out of the room. The House adjourned after a twenty hour sitting.

Wedding Bells.

LAMB-DUFF.

The marriage of our popular young townsman, Mr. John Duff, and Miss Nellie Lamb, took place yesterday afternoon at three o'clock at the R. C. Cathedral, and was solemnized by Rev. Mons. Roche.

The young couple were supported by their near friends, the bridesmaid being Miss Lamb, sister of the bride, and Miss Duff, sister of the groom. The bride was dressed in white satin with embroidered net over lace and looked very happy.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Lamb, Freshwater Valley, where a large number of guests sat down to a sumptuous repast, and where a very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

At 5.30 the party left for the train where the bride and groom took passage to Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent. The Telegram joins in the hearty congratulations of the party and trusts that both Mr. and Mrs. Duff will have fair winds and much sunshine along the river of life.

Beri-Beri.

LETTER FROM DR. GRENPELL.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The renewed outbreak of beri beri leads me to ask you to publish the following:

I have recently had interviews with the Government Medical Officer from the Philippines, who states that the beri beri there is entirely cured by insistence that the people use the brown rice with the pericarp on, instead of the polished rice. This is exactly in accordance with the result of the experience in the Japanese Army, where so long as polished white rice was used 10 p.c. of the men suffered with beri beri. It also entirely agrees with the experiment carried on in Europe showing that the disease can be produced by feeding animals on a diet freed from the alkaloids contained only in the pericarp.

Whether the absence of it means that the other part of the flour develops a toxin is not certain, but beri beri can be caused by the lack of the ingredient that is taken away in over cleaning of flour, and can be cured by the replacing of that either by the use of whole meal, or by the extracts made with acid from the bran. This Mission has had the experiment on animals remade under Dr. Rosenau in the famous Pathological Laboratories of the new Harvard Medical School. Dr. Oiler having worked there at our expense. Dr. John Little will shortly be publishing his second monograph in the American professional papers on this subject, meanwhile I should like to say that last year I had made by Mr. John Browning, a large number of hard bread and other kinds of biscuits of whole meal, which I distributed all along the coast of Labrador and North Newfoundland quite freely.

We have for some years been trying to insist on our patients buying the whole meal flour. An inquiry into the Board of Trade, St. John's, made by the Secretary of the Board, showed that during recent years the use of brown flour has largely decreased in Northern outports probably owing to the fact that the people have been getting better off. It must be remembered that these people have a very monotonous diet, they do not enjoy the privileges of the varied forms of food that we can get in the larger centres. Beri beri is essentially a disease of people with restricted diet. It may be that the scientific causes are not yet fully known by those who state that "brown flour means dirty flour, and that therefore white flour cannot deprive consumers of anything of value. It certainly is a worth while provision for all our outport people to at least use one barrel of whole meal flour for every two of white. Mr. Browning has only now succeeded after many experiments in producing a very delectable whole meal hard bread, to my palate it compares quite favorably with the white hard bread which is so largely used, and all the biscuit factories will very shortly do the same thing if only people will make a demand for it and realize the value of it.

Beri beri is not a disease to be played with, the loss in White Bay this year will be very serious. St. John's and the world are roused and touched to the heart when some dramatic loss occurs, as that of this year on the ice fields, but it is most difficult to raise any interest in these slow and wasting evils, that yet entail a vast amount of misery and also of economic loss.

If you will kindly ventilate this in your columns it may produce discussion, and no doubt there are other opinions of what is best to be done. The opinion of the scientific world is certainly that beri beri can be held in check by the use of whole meal and other vegetables such as the skins of potatoes, the shells of beans, which at present are largely discarded.

DRAW THE CROWD TO THE CENTRE.

"Love in the Ghetto," a Vitagraph drama of Jewish life. "Gambler of the West," an Essanay drama, with G. M. Anderson, and two comedies, "Two Many Cooks," a Power's, with Donald McDonald, and Marie Waincamp, and a Frontier. "When Roaring Gulch got Suffrage" is a list of pictures that scored at the Crescent last night. Sidney Barnshaw, who will appear but three nights more, sang "Mother McCree" in a manner that won the applause of the large audiences. To-day the same show is repeated.

TO-MORROW.

The week-end Bill at the House of Features should prove a big attraction. The principal picture is a two reel war drama "The Guerrilla Menace," a story full of thrills and exciting situations. Sidney Barnshaw, for his first rendition, has selected the very appropriate song, "Good Bye Boys." A three-reel subject is booked for Monday and Tuesday next.

OUTPORT CRAFT ARRIVE.—Several schooners arrived from the northward and westward yesterday for supplies. In all there are about one hundred and eight outport craft in the harbor at present.

CAPE BRETON DISCHARGING.—The s.s. Cape Breton, which received damages by ice while on the way to Botwood from Glasgow, is now discharging her coal to the Newfoundland on the Southside, so as to lighten the ship in order to make the necessary repairs.

HOME ENCOUNTERS MUCH ICE.—The s.s. Home, which arrived at Lewisporte yesterday, reports ice in large quantities in Green Bay. The ship was jammed at Leading Tickle for 23 hours on the outward trip, and returning had to go round Black Island in order to avoid the ice.

FISHERMEN BUSY.—The fishermen of Conception Bay are now making active preparations for the season's voyage, and at Carbonear, there is a general hum of industry as all the crews are getting ready for the Labrador voyage. Up to date no captain have put in an appearance but are expected to strike the land at any time.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.—On to-morrow afternoon the first rugby match for the season will take place at St. George's Field. The contesting teams are the Collegians and Feldmans, who for some time past have been practicing hard. Enthusiasm is running high amongst the supporters of both teams, and a lively exhibition is expected. The game starts at 4.30 p.m.

YESTERDAY'S EXCURSION.—About 250 excursionists went out by yesterday afternoon's train to points as far as Kelligrews. Nearly one hundred detrained at Waterford Bridge, some spending the afternoon at Bowring Park and others plying the fly in the pools of Waterford River. The day was all that could be desired, and return to the city was made at 10 p.m.

MAN STILL MISSING.—Though diligent searches have been made, there is no sign yet of the man Littlejohn, who strayed away on the railway line and was never seen after he left Terra Nova station. Constable Tobin, who was aiding Mr. T. Littlejohn, son of the missing man, to locate the latter, came back to the city yesterday after a futile search. A reward is now out for the recovery of the man's body.

"Dan Doolin" and "Hogan" on Old Time Cricket.

It does a fellow good to visit now and again the scenes of his boyhood; the places where he spent happy hours in days gone by, and recall the men who figured prominently in sport and pastime. Yesterday being Sunday it was a day off with myself and Hogan, so we started out for a stroll around Kitty Vitty Lake, and between you and me, there is no place that stirs your fanciful propensities more than this spot. Old Pleasantville, how dreary it looks to-day compared with the good old days; why one can scarcely think that such a change would be possible in a few years.

"Well," says Hogan as he stood and gazed on the field where the good old game of cricket used to be played. "It makes a fellow feel sad when he thinks of the old days on this field when the Shamrocks, Arizon and Terra Nova cricket teams strove for supremacy at the bat. The Mechanic, Marlboro and Nondescripts were hard teams, too, in their day, and what pleasant days we spent in this locality. Poor old Peter Routledge, what a host he was, and what queer old tales he would dole out to us on the old verandah. And poor old Sergt. Scarlet, I think I see him now umpiring the game and counting the overs as he slipped pebble after pebble from one hand to the other. Do you remember Tom Bates' says he to me, wasn't he a dandy to drive the ball sky high over the fence. How we would clap and cheer: what joy we felt at one of his slogs. Pat Berrigan, too, used to do some fancy batting; no greater enthusiast ever wielded a bat, kept a wicket or delivered a ball than Pat; he was first on the field and the last to leave it. Harry Simms, too, played a good old fashioned game, he was earnest worker for his team, steady and reliable. And Johnny Bennett, with what force he would send the ball as he bowled to Winter or Job, and as a batter he had few if any equals. Jack Donnelly and Jack Larkin and Ned Berrigan were top notchers, too, the two former being crack bowlers who always got in their work effectively. Charlie Ryan I think was the best wicket-keeper ever seen at Pleasantville; the long stop had an easy time of it when Charlie stood over the wicket. Kenneth Prowse was a great bowler for

Proposed Commission TO INQUIRE THE SEALING DISASTER.

We thank our contemporaries who have commented on our remarks on the means available for investigating the sealing disasters. It is quite clear that the loss of the Southern Cross and the 173 men who went down in her can be investigated under Chapter III of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Of a Marine Court of Inquiry." It is questionable if this chapter would cover the case of the loss of life and limb which befell a large number of the crew of the S. S. Newfoundland. The first section of the chapter empowers the Governor in Council to appoint by Commission under his hand and seal three persons to form a Court. The persons to be appointed are to be of judicial knowledge and habits and two persons of nautical skill and experience. Section five provides an alternative. Under this section, the Governor in Council may appoint any other persons to a tribunal authorized to make enquiry into the matters which the aforesaid Court may enquire, with like powers. The power of the Court to summon parties and compel the attendance of witnesses and etc. arises not instantly, but from the authority of section 4.

The main object of these provisions may be gathered from a perusal of section 7. We quote this section. "Upon the conclusion of the case, or as soon afterwards as possible, the Court shall state in open Court the decision to which they may have come with respect to cancelling or suspending certificates, and shall in all cases send a full report upon the case, with the evidence, and with the judgment and opinion thereon, and such observations, if any, as the Court may think fit, to the Governor, for transmission to the Board of Trade with their report." Such a report to cancel such certificate, forward such certificate to the Governor, for transmission to the Board of Trade with their report. Such an enquiry would not meet fully the needs of the case. It might not be able to deal with the case of the Newfoundland, nor even of the Southern Cross, as fully as would be desirable from the standpoint of enquiry fully into the sealing voyage and making recommendations for the preparation of a Bill for the Legislature. It is not a mere question of cancelling or suspending certificates.

The Government might appoint a Commission without the authority of any Statute, to obtain unsworn testimony. That Commission might run its full course without meeting any difficulties, but if any witnesses refused to attend, or to testify, or gave false testimony, there would be no remedy. One of the reasons why such Acts as the Public Inquiries Act and the Marine Inquiries Act are passed, is to get over such difficulties and provide the remedies needed. We do not object to the Government appointing a Commission, but we do point out the limitations which might make the Commission defective. On Tuesday we pointed out how the limitations could be extended. These would not be up time and are therefore objectionable. But the stating of the objections does not cure them, nor does

The Deputation from the Provincial Synod of Canada.

We are asked to state that in the "Daily News" of this morning's issue the reference to the proposed visit of the Deputation from the Provincial Synod of Canada is not entirely correct. The position is that the Deputation has decided to leave the matter over until the meeting of the General Synod of Canada in September next, so that the General Synod may give the invitation and appoint the Deputation which would speak with greater authority than if appointed by the present Provincial Synod of Canada alone. As regards "the preponderance of opinion locally" no person is either authorized or able to say what that opinion is.

AT THE ROSSLEY THEATRE.
To-night Dan Cusack presents a complete change of act, also his great feature song. That's a moving picture taken from life, "one of his New York successes, together with other two or three good songs and some dancing. There are also five of the finest full reels. "Nearer to Earth" a splendid American Biograph subject. Another feature Vitagraph "A Winning Hand" with all the leading Vitagraph artists. "Simple Simon," the boxing champion, a Lubin comedy and others, all new and up to date. By the s.s. Digby there will arrive one of the finest and largest shipments of films for Rossley. Mr. Jack Rossley no longer hires his films but buys outright from the best European firms, therefore by doing so he has the pick of the market.

Three Men Exhausted and Hungry

Three young men belonging to Conception Bay called at the police station last night and asked for shelter, which was given them. They had been on Bell Island, could get no work there and had to walk to the city after crossing to Portugal Cove. They were hungry and exhausted and with typical kindness, Inspector Collins gave them food to eat at the lock-up. The men report that work is very slack on Bell Island at present and they would not advise anyone to go there on spec.

is not likely to be found doing "big things."
To succeed nowadays one must be wide awake daytimes and sleep soundly at night.
Tea and Coffee, on account of their drug, caffeine, keep many people awake nights and make them dozy in the daytime, when they should be keen and alert.

sons of the well-to-do, and for the most part were educated abroad. I was very near forgetting another team the "Zulus." There was a kind of mystery surrounding the "Zulus," for, while the team was composed of hard, plucky young men, still they never seemed to astonish the natives by their brilliant play. Their costume seemed to be the best of them which fairly dazzled the spectators. John Barron, Gerrit Byrne, Mike Galloway and Sam Ryall were the crack players of the club, Galloway being considered one of the best bowlers of the time. I remembered, says Hogan, that the "Zulus" used to practice in Brazil's field in the West End. No one bothered about paying rent for a field in those days, you simply went up selected the best field and pitched your stumps. The owner of the field usually arrived just as practice would be at its height and then there would be a lightning charge, stumps pulled up, and a better shelter when the warty and loud voiced owner of the field would be seen in the distance making tracks. These interruptions, I have no doubt, played havoc with the Zulus, for it was a regular thing to see them flying in a westerly direction when the owner of the field screamed in from the east.

Pleasantville attracted every one to a match. Hundreds of carriages bringing down all the "upper ten" would arrive on the grounds in the evening. Hundreds of ladies always attended, and did much to spur on the game, while from early morn the entire field would be lined by the enthusiasts who generally lay down flat on the field, put in a good eech of the weed and placing their hands under their chins scrutinized the game. During the interval while the players went to lunch, we generally went to "no bottom" for a dip. All through this article I have had two men foremost in mind and now I must mention them as the greatest enthusiasts that cricket ever had—Alex Burke and the late Tom Parker. Tom and Alex viewed the game seriously and hated fellows arriving from "school" who generally "put on airs" when they came back among the Natives. No game can be kept alive if we get too fond of each other and it was this rivalry that did much to keep the interest up. Dr. Rendell was a great wicket-keeper and I'll never forget one day he stumped Sandy Burke. Sandy took a long time to be convinced that he was out, and as he left the wicket he, well he didn't smile at the genial Doctor.

Cricket met an untimely end, due to frills. When they put up the high-board fence around the ground, erected grand stands and invented boundaries, the wane of the good old game was heralded. We are a peculiar people, we hate frills, and where they are introduced that's a good place to hate from the people.

The Water Wagon.

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

The water wagon is a very popular vehicle, running between Poverty and Success. It does an enormous business, but has never yet come under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This is because it has no rates, doing a free business. In spite of this fact, the joy car which is propelled by alcohol, and which charges an enormous price is a very formidable competitor; although there have been more wrecks on its system than on any other line running between the two destinations.

This is because the water wagon is very uncomfortable, and is not fitted with many conveniences for its passengers. Those who were born on the water wagon and who have never gotten off it ride with very little difficulty even on the roughest roads, but the casual passenger would have more success riding a peevish buffalo. The water wagon does not stop for passengers, but must be ascended while in full career without the aid of ladders, stairs, hand-holds, ropes or elevators, and riders must stick on its smooth, round back afterward without stirrups or life lines. The terminal station of this celebrated vehicle is magnificently fitted up, and the view from its windows is superb. But the journey itself is tedious, and the wagon frequently rolls in almost entirely empty. A few armchairs would improve the service immensely.

The water wagon runs at all times of the year, but on or about New Year's, the traffic is very great. In fact, for a few days it has an almost entire monopoly of travel. Most of the tourists, however, buy short distance, round trip tickets. They ride a few days and then return by falling off and rolling back. No one who has watched a powerful, red-faced man holding frantically onto the water wagon with both arms and shrieking for help, while beside him a slight woman is not only riding placidly but is keeping her children on with very little effort, can feel so brash thereafter about the superiority of man.

The water wagon takes a northerly course to Success, and much of the scenery is bleak and uninteresting, consisting mainly of hard work and sand, with here and there a lemonless fountain. The fauna is also much less remarkable than that along the more southerly course. Pink alligators and pale green boa constrictors are never seen from the water wagon. Even the Heavens on this route are commonplace, there being but one moon and the usual number of stars.

Sunburn is a Disease.

Spring sunshine, according to a medical paper, is far more apt to do you harm than sunshine later in the year.

Too much bright light is apt to cause a disease known as photophthalmia, a sort of inflammation of the eye. It is not dangerous, but may take days to pass off. The sight of one or both eyes becomes misty.

It is far commoner in spring than in summer, as the eyes have not then accustomed themselves to the new brightness of the daylight. The sensitiveness passes off later in the season, but on the first bright days of the year everyone has, more or less, to screw up their faces to protect the eyesight.

The inflammation in photophthalmia is caused by the ultra-violet rays contained in sunlight. Lamplight, gas-light, and ordinary electric light are weak in these rays. But some forms of artificial light are rich in them, particularly naked arc lamps, mercury vapour lamps, and the metallic filament in electric lights that are now so popular.

In offices where this electric light is in use all day snow-blindness (for this is the best-known name of photophthalmia) is becoming increasingly common.

It is the ultra-violet rays in sunlight that cause sunburn which a medical lecturer has called merely a form of dermatitis or skin disease. You can if you like get sunburn enough for a month at the seaside by getting a beauty specialist to give you ten minutes of the concentrated rays of a mercury vapour lamp, the eyes, of course, being protected against the danger of photophthalmia.

The Baptists of Great Britain celebrated in the Albert Hall, London, on the night of April 27th, by a mass meeting, the completion of the fund of $750,000 to provide more adequate stipends for the ministers of the church. At present 140 ministers receive less than $375 yearly, while 700 are paid less than $750.

There have been several fatal cases of bubonic plague in Havana; but the authorities are making vigorous efforts to stamp the disease out by fumigation, destruction of rats and military guarding of the affected zone. No uneasiness is felt at the presence of the plague, but merchants are complaining of business losses.

Charley Somers.

Red McGehee

Red McGehee says: "Dja ever hear of Somers, boys? He ain't a guy that makes much noise in baseball's three-ring show. He's quiet-like and doesn't play, but b'lieve me, boys, he has his say when talk shifts round to dough. Long green is Charley's one best bet an' ol' time fans'll not forget the way he shelled it out. Athletics, Yanks an' Boston Sox were financed from his ol' strong box when Ban's new league broke out.

All through that early war-time fun of Charley stood behind the gun that shot the dollar bills. An' when Big Ban gained full control, Chas. 'Settled back to sellin' coal without no fuss or frills. He only owns five half teams now but they've put wrinkles in his brow—they don't show any speed. His Pelicans in New Orleans look like the only team that means to finish near the lead.

His Naps refuse to hit their stride, his Cleveland A. A. team seems tied to that league's bottom stumps. Out West his Portland team is fair; they might breathe in some top-place air if they'd jus' get the breaks. Then up in ol' Connecticut his Waterbury team don't cut the ice he'd like to see. The season's young though. He should fret! Darn few guys have a five-way bet to cop an' ol' burgee.

A Testament Play.

"Miss Nancy Price has produced at the Comedy Theatre 'The Holy City,' a New Testament drama by Mr. Thos. W. Broadhurst. The play was richly and picturesquely mounted, and accompanied by music composed by Mr. Norman O'Neill, and by singing by the members of the choirs of three London Roman Catholic churches," says the Times.

"The author has identified Mary, the sister of Lazarus, with Mary Magdalene, and the first act shows her house at Magdaa, where, during her unregenerate days, she is entertaining a gay throng with wine and dancers, among the guests being the uninvited Barabbas, who has ventured thither, though a price is set upon his head, because he wishes to make Mary his lawful wife. Her refusal of his offer is very shortly followed by her conversion, and in the next act we see her return to her home repentant. It is during this act, and in the house of Lazarus, that she breaks the box of precious ointment, and it is here, too (though both these events take place off the stage), that there occurs one of the incidents of the Last Supper.

"The third act shows the portico of the Hall of Judgment, with Mary Magdalene making an impassioned speech before Pilate, the release of Barabbas, the denial by Peter, and other incidents of the story. Act IV takes place at the house of Lazarus during the Crucifixion, and includes the remorse of Judas, followed quickly by his suicide in sight of those on the stage, and also the partial conversion of Barabbas. In Act V, the characters on the stage see the stone rolled away from the tomb, and Mary Magdalene reports the vision of the risen Saviour.

"The absence from the play of the chief character in that story necessitates a good deal more of narration and report than is compatible with dramatic effect. The play was both written and acted with entire reverence."

Shakleton Uses Kapok

Many people have been asking what "kapok" is, since the announcement was recently made that Sir Ernest Shackleton is having a sleeping-bag made of "kapok" for his next South Polar Expedition.

As a matter of fact kapok has been known for many years. It comes from the seed pods of a white-flowering silk-cotton tree that grows largely in Java.

The pods are of a yellowish buff color when ripe, and they split lengthwise and let the fine, fluffy, silken tresses burst forth.

This silken floss was first made use of by Dutch merchants many years ago, for they realized the soft silken and elastic nature of it. It was used chiefly for stuffing cushions, couches, mattresses and pillows.

Recently, however, it has been discovered that fabric made from "kapok" besides being about six times as light as ordinary cotton, is so oily as to be absolutely waterproof.

A mattress stuffed with the substance, though only weighing 10 lbs., will support 200 lbs., on the surface of the water. The United States Navy in fact, are already using kapok in connection with life-saving experiments.

It is chiefly on account of its extreme lightness and its waterproof nature that Sir Ernest Shackleton is taking it with him, for in the Polar regions lightness counts, as well as ability to keep out the wet.

We know who he will buy it for? But who will he buy it from? Hundreds of Engagements and Weddings are sealed yearly in Newfoundland with Trappell's Solid Gold Rings. Hundreds of friendships and tokens of affection to sweetheart, wife, mother, sister and friend are embodied in lasting emblems with Trappell's Rings, the popularity of which is based upon their quality, finish and variety and beauty of design. Rings for men, women, baby and mist for every occasion. Gem Rings, Chased Rings, Signet Rings, Birthday Rings. Should you have a desire to get a ring of such design as you may create yourself, or that you had seen somebody else wear, just take your design to Trappell; there is nothing impossible along these lines for his talented workmen. A splendid assortment of anast stones can be seen if your design calls for a Gem Ring. Ask to be shown the new White Sapphires. They are hard and brilliant like diamonds so much so that they puzzle experts. —ap20,17

Prospero Back Again.

The s.s. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, has arrived back from northern ports. Owing to ice encountered the ship only reached as far as Quirpon. On the return the ice pressed heavy on the land in White Bay and a couple of ports of call had to be omitted. Throughout the trip the weather was very cold. The ship brought a large freight and 83 passengers in saloon: Messrs. Biles, G. H. Pearce, H. Pearce, Hovey, Francis, Omond, Murphy, Devine, Rev. Atkinson, Joy, Walters, Templeman, Lodge; Mesdames Mookler, Norman, March; Misses House, Miffin, Templeman (2), Grant, Barber and 32 in steerage.

Serious Accident.

The Deputy Minister of Justice received a message from Mr. George Skiffington, J.P., of Gambo, yesterday, saying that a little girl named Ward had been accidentally shot by a boy named Barrow, aged 14 years, at Middle Brook, on Tuesday evening. The victim of the accident is scarcely five years old, and it was feared the wounds would prove fatal, and Mr. Skiffington asked to have a doctor attend the case whereupon Mr. Hutchings made the necessary arrangements and Dr. Roberts left for Gambo by last evening's express.

St. John's Gas Light Company.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S. Analyst and Assayer.

Fishery North a Blank

By the Prospero, we learn that the fishery to the northward is a complete blank thus far. The outlook is gloomy owing to the prevalence of unusually heavy ice blocking the bays and harbors and continuous adverse weather. These conditions naturally hamper operations. Unless traps meet with exceptional success next month, the voyage will be a poor one.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Joannea would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Proposed Name of New Race Boat

The new race boat, which is now under construction and in the hands of Mr. Bob Sexton, being built to the order of the C.C.C., will be launched next month. We understand that 'Cadet' will be the name given the racer and the christening ceremony will take place at the Cadet Boat House on the lake side. The new boat is splendidly designed and will be of superior finish and probably the finest that ever left Bob Sexton's hands. Already a number of crews have applied for her.

ASHORE AND TOWED OFF.

While beating out the Narrows Tuesday evening, the schooner Jessie, laden with supplies for the north run on "Pancake" and was towed off again by the motor boat of Mr. J. Richardson, who was passing at the time. No damage was done and the Jessie continued on her way. Mr. Richardson refused payment for his kindly act.

Kidney Disease in Every Symptom.

WHY MRS. MARK FOUND QUICK RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

New Brunswick Lady who Suffered for Six Years Tells How She Found a Speedy Cure.

Miscou Harbor, Gloucester Co., N. B. June 10th. (Special).—"For some five or six years I was troubled with backache. I tried many tonics, but kept growing steadily worse, until I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They gave me almost immediate relief."

This is the statement of Mrs. A. Mark, well known and highly respected here. Asked to give more particulars in regard to her case, Mrs. Mark said:

"My trouble started with a cold, and gradually grew worse. I had stiffness in my joints and cramps in my muscles and suffered from neuralgia. I had heart flutterings and headaches, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I was always tired and nervous. I had dark circles under my eyes, I was irritable and often dizzy and had a bitter taste in my mouth in the mornings. I also had attacks of rheumatism.

It just took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to fix me up."

Every symptom Mrs. Mark mentions spells kidney disease. That's why she found such quick relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Staunch Position of Robin, Jones & Whitman, Ltd.

St. John's, June 11th, 1914.

The Montreal Financial Times in its issue of May 23rd prints several schedules showing important changes which have been made since the beginning of the present year in the dividend disbursements of certain Canadian Companies.

Unfortunately, in a number of cases these changes are represented by the deferring or actual passing of dividends.

Conspicuous among the more successful ones is Robin, Jones & Whitman, Ltd., which is included in the schedule of those few Companies having paid an initial dividend during the year on Common Stock—the latter in the case of R. J. & W. Ltd., being still offered as a bonus with the Preferred.

When we also consider that the actual earnings on this Common Stock for the past FOUR years has reached the high average of almost SIX PER CENT annually, and that reserves now aggregate the substantial total of $127,002.87, we can realize the Company's staunch position.

Narrow Escape from Drowning.

Yesterday afternoon, a man named Baird, who had indulged too freely during the day, fell over Crosby's wharf, and narrowly escaped drowning. He was sitting on the head of the pier with two of his companions, when he lost his balance and fell into the water. He shrieked when falling, which attracted the attention of some of the workmen, who immediately went to the scene in a boat and rescued the unfortunate man landing him on the wharf safely. The unexpected bath had the effect of bringing him from the bestial state to that of the natural man, which fact was verified by his display of ingratitude. The drenched man began to pour tirades of abuse upon his rescuers, who eventually called Constables Stamp and Pither, whereupon Baird was placed under arrest. Baird had another narrow escape from drowning, under similar circumstances, some three years ago.

ACCIDENT TO MATE OF CLUTHA

Fisherman on Trial.

CHARGED WITH MALICIOUSLY DAMAGING CODTRAP OF BROTHER FISHERMEN.

The case preferred against a fisherman named Maher, of Flatrock, who was out on bail, charged with cutting and maliciously damaging a codtrap, the property of John Noseworthy and James Flight, fishermen of Pouch Cove, was heard in the Magistrate's Court this forenoon. The accused was represented by Mr. Higgins, who denied the charge. After several witnesses were examined, Inspector General Sullivan, who appeared for the prosecution, asked for a postponement to enable him to probe the case further and get more evidence. This motion was strongly protested against by Mr. Higgins, who stated his legal reasons. Judge Knight upheld the objection raised and considered the request of the Inspector General unreasonable as a further postponement would mean a great hardship to the defendant in view of the heavy expenses in bringing witnesses from Flatrock and Pouch Cove. After some discussion, however, the case was postponed till Wednesday next, as the Inspector General, on behalf of the Crown, undertook to pay the expenses of witnesses.

Dangerous Practice.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—Just a few words in your widely read journal regarding a pernicious practice indulged in by the boys of this city. I refer to the dangerous sport (?) of throwing stones in the public streets. Last night a stone was thrown at a store window, smashing it, and the girl inside narrowly escaped serious injury. This nefarious practice should be put down with a firm hand. Parents should insist on their children to refrain from participating in stone-throwing and playing ball on the streets. If this thing continues a serious accident is in store for some future citizen and perhaps the victim will be some one near and dear to the offender.

Trusting you will publish these few remarks.

I remain, yours truly,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Sport for Convicts.

Humanitarian motives have led the authorities in the States to institute remarkable regulations in some of their penitentiaries. The convicts are allowed to smoke, play cards and various outdoor games, indulge in musical evenings, and enjoy other privileges in order to relieve the tedium of their long sentences.

And still there is a cry for more humane treatment for prisoners, the result of which has been the establishment of what is known as the State "Honour Prison," at Great Meadow, in the United States, a report concerning which has just been published.

The prison is really a thousand-acre farm, on which the men are employed, everything being done to make the prisoners contented and happy. That the authorities have been very successful in this direction may be gathered from the fact that, although no walls surround the institution, only four men attempted to escape last year, and so insignificant were the other convicts at what they considered an abuse of their privileges of freedom, that many of them volunteered to aid in the search for the men who had violated the trust reposed in them.

The governor of the prison believes in making friends with the men, and having done so he places them on their honour, and allows them to work in the fields practically free of all restraint. This method has proved entirely successful, and has resulted in transforming quite a number of habitual criminals into industrious and hard-working men.

Baseball games and athletic sports are regularly indulged in during the summer months, and in the winter moving picture entertainments and concerts, organized by the convict orchestra and mandolin club, help to alleviate the long hours of prison life.

Another great privilege which the prisoners enjoy is not being locked in their cells on Sundays as in other prisons, the men being permitted to exercise in the corridors and within a stockade between the buildings.

Procession Sunday.

The annual process of the Blessed Sacrament and Benediction will be held in the R. C. Cathedral grounds in Sunday next in honour of the Feast of Corpus Christi.

IMAGINATION.

By RUTE CAMERON.

"One of the hardest things in the world," said the late Joseph Fels, "is to convince the man with a full stomach that there is somebody hungry."
Mr. Fels' aphorism is very true in the sense in which he means it, and true in a thousand other senses besides.
It is very difficult for anyone who has not experienced any given form of discomfort to sense that discomfort and realize that other people feel it. The well-fed man may know, as an abstract proposition, that other people are hungry, but he does not sense it as an actual, painful fact.
If we could really sense other men's annoyances and troubles—of course, I don't mean actually suffer from them—but realize them, sense them, take of selfishness in the world would be wings to itself.
For it isn't so much because we do not know, that we permit others to suffer annoyances or misery.
For instance, I have often noticed that a woman who has had to prepare meals and who therefore knows how hard it is to keep them appetizing if they are delayed, will seldom permit herself to be late to the table. It is almost invariably the masculine members of the family, or those feminine members who have not had experience in housework, who are persistently careless about being on time to their meals.

A mother told me the other day that her older daughter was much more considerate and sympathetic to her than her younger. "You see," she explained, "my older daughter is married and has children of her own. I find that makes a great deal of difference, my dear. I don't blame Hilda, for I'm sure she will be different when she has children of her own and knows how much mothers suffer for children and how much children mean to them.
It takes either much experience or much imagination to be truly unselfish.
The most unselfish man in intention whom I know is sometimes quite selfish in deed because he lacks imagination. He is generous to a fault with money; he gives his wife more luxuries than he has himself; he does many kind things for her. But because he utterly lacks imagination to sense the things that will make her feel hurt or unhappy he is sometimes very selfish indeed.
The same place which is paved with good intentions is walled in with the selfishness of those who mean to be unselfish but don't have enough imagination to know how to be.
"How so?" you say. "Should one be blamed for lack of imagination? Surely, my friend. For this kind of imagination—perhaps we'd do better to call it the ability to put yourself in his place—is something which every one of us could and ought to cultivate."

Rute Cameron

Afternoon
With a Prodigy.

"All musical England is talking of Willy Ferrero, the wonderful boy, aged seven and a half—so absurdly the youngest symphony conductor in the world—who has conducted the Imperial Orchestra before the Russian Court, who took London first in incredulity, then in amazement, and then by storm, quite recently, when he led the ninety performers of the New Symphony Orchestra at the Albert Hall," says Twell Brix in the Dilly Mail.
"And while all England has been talking of Willy Ferrero, I rejoice that Willy Ferrero—utterly unconscious of and uninterested in his fame—has been eating numberless criss sandwiches, and that he and I escaped from the celebrities who crowded his London home to see him, and that we enlisted two maidservants and a soldierly person aged two, and that we have marched round a kitchen in terrible array, while I roared to Willy like a Prussian drill officer, while the soldierly person aged two fobbed us indiscriminately with the staff of a Union Jack, and while Willy—the leader of the Albert Hall orchestra—banged at his drum—and, thank Heaven, banged it out of tune!"

The Editor of "Punch."

The knighthood conferred upon Owen Seaman is a fitting tribute to the most courteous and kindly of English editors. Before he joined the staff, Punch was a close corporation. The outside contributor was ignored. Punch was written by the staff. With the advent of Mr. Seaman this was all changed. However obscure the writer might be, his contribution was carefully considered. If it was returned, well, one has heard, says the Manchester Guardian, that Mr. Seaman could reject an article more pleasantly than most editors could accept one. Punch's literary, artistic and commercial advance during the past ten years is almost entirely due to the ability and discernment of its present editor. Perhaps, however, some of the success of Punch as a national institution is due to the fact that it holds the balance fairly between parties. This may be accounted many years ago by the lady's mother, says the "Daily Chronicle" (London), who obtained special permission from the astronomer-general, and the present "time-distributor," who has been sixteen years on her rounds, still derives a modest income from it, despite the cheap facilities for electrical synchronizing of clocks throughout the metropolis.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percle Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland—ap 17 m

Wild Oats.

You're sowing wild oats, William Henry Fitzjames, you're playing, with others, the dissolute game! when you should be sleeping you're still on the jump, a-painting the village clear down to the gump; and ancient tradition looks foolishly kind on chaps like yourself who are going it blind; it says, "Let them frolic like lunatic goats, for youths must be youths, and must sow their wild oats." But merry carousers who caper and prance must pay for the fiddler when done is the dance. Alas for the oats that you carelessly sow! You find they are thistles when started to grow, and though you may live for a cycle, my friend they'll prick you and sting you right up to the end. I sowed fifty bushels of oats that were wild, and while I was sowing I recklessly smiled; I laughed at the future and blithely gay tunced and now I am old I am harvesting brunes. With aches in my body and grief in my soul, and doctors and druggists despoiling my roll, the wearisome knowledge my consciousness totes, that all of my troubles are due to wild oats. Be wise in the morning of life, oh, be wise!—And sidestep the bait of the father of lies; for wasting the moments and sowing wild oats will lead you to chewing the husks with the shotes.

Meigle's Report.

The s.s. Meigle, Capt. Goobie, which reached Humbermouth yesterday morning from the Straits, brings discouraging news of the fishery outlook. The following is a copy of a message received by the Reid Co. from Capt. Goobie: "Made every port of call to Battle Harbor going and returning. Experienced strong gales going down but had fine weather returning. There is no ice from Red Bay to Battle Harbor, nor no sign of codfish in the Straits."
GLENCOE HERE.—The s.s. Glencoe arrived here yesterday from Port aux Basques after a 31 hours run. She will go on deck to get her annual cleaning up. During her absence the Invermore is doing the S.W. Coast service.

A Remarkable Norse Stone in London.

"London antiquaries have the opportunity of judging for themselves whether Christopher Columbus discovered or re-discovered America, for, in the windows of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Charing Cross, the celebrated Fletcher runic stone, discovered near Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, by Dr. Fletcher over 100 years ago, is now displayed," says the Daily News.

"On this stone strange characters can be seen which, it is stated, for over fifty years baffled the leading scientists throughout the world. It was left to Mr. Henry Phillips, junior of Philadelphia, to decipher the mysterious inscription, which he found represented the words 'Harkussen Men Varu' (Harka's son addressed the men.)"

"Searching through ancient writings, Mr. Phillips found that, in an expedition of Norsemen which left Greenland in the year 1007, the name of Harki occurred. This expedition consisting of 160 men in two ships under the leadership of Thorfinn Karlselfne and Biome Grippolisen, took all kinds of livestock with them for the purpose of establishing a Colony in Vinland (Massachusetts). But on their way they landed and partially explored Nova Scotia ('Markland')."

"To celebrate the event Harki, one of their chieftains, addressed his followers, and apparently this stone was inscribed in commemoration of the event. It was recently shipped from Nova Scotia in order to be given the place of honour in the Centenary Exhibition of Norway, which will open in Christiania on May 15th."

Emergency Wedding Rings.

Most workhouse masters and police-court missionaries possess what they term "emergency wedding rings" which they either lend or give to women who are desirous of being married, but whose prospective husbands lack the means to purchase for them a ring of their own.

The other day, for example, the master of the Lewes Workhouse reported to the guardians that he had in his possession no fewer than six such rings, which had belonged to former inmates now dead, and he was given authority to bestow one of them on a young woman who was going to take her discharge in order to get wed.

At a certain police-court in a north-western suburb of London, again, there is a missionary who possesses an emergency ring which, up till now, has done duty in over a score of marriages; all of which, contrary to expectations have turned out well.

This particular missionary, by the way, is a firm believer in matrimony as a cure for many of the minor ills of life, and he has arranged many hundreds of police-court marriages. He always keeps his emergency ring handy, wearing it on his own left hand for safety.

Limit in Cheek.

Bouncer: "Halloa, Jack, got a clove in your pocket?"
Simple: "Yes, here you are, old man."

Bouncer: "Thanks. Now have you a match?"
Simple: "I have. Help yourself."

Bouncer: "Thanks. Lend me your cigar-cutter for a second, will you?"
Simple: "Certainly. But where's your cigar?"

Bouncer: "Why, I was just going to ask you for one."
Simple: "Humph! Here you are. The match you borrowed is to light the cigar, I suppose, and the cigar-cutter is to take the end off?"

Bouncer: "You've guessed it, old chap."
Simple: "But what did you borrow the clove for?"

Bouncer: "Oh, that's to chew after I take that drink you are going to buy me."

Both Pretty Rotten.

The late Rev. C. Silvester Horne was, of course, a keen politician and had a seat in Parliament.

He used to tell a story connected with one of his parliamentary elections. When a canvasser called at a certain workman's house to ask him to support Mr. Horne he found the voter deep in the election addresses of the two candidates and carefully studying their photographs.

"Well," asked the canvasser, "what do you think of them?"
The voter continued to stare at the photographs and mumbled some half-inaudible remark.

"What did you say?" asked the canvasser eagerly.

"I dunno nothin' about none o' them," replied the voter; "but from what I sees of 'em I says: Thank 'eaven only one of 'em can get in!"
