The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER VII.
CHAPTER VIII.

But her outspoken distrust of him and his motives saddened him; and when he reached his rooms he turned up the gas and sought to bury the whole affair in a more than usually complicated Blue Book; and he did not get to bed until he was too tired to think.

Clive strolled out of the House on Monday afternoon for a little air. He was one of those unfortunate men—they are not numerous—who cannot sleep in the House; and usually he listened attentively to even the proudest speakers, for he knew that in a bushel of the veriest chaff there is always the grain or ear of wheat which goes to fill the granary of knowledge; but this afternoon he found it difficult to follow the honorable gentlemen who were stammering and faltering through a debate over that hardy annual, the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill; the House was hot and stuffy; though there were only a score of members slumbering or fidgeting in their places, the voices seemed to drone like the humming of over-laden bees and the hot June sun struck keenly through the latticed windows.

He rose, nodded reassuringly to the Whip, and sauntered through Palace Yard and into the streets, thinking not of the bill, but of how hot it must be in Benson's Rents; and a picture of the slight figure, with the clear ivory face, bending over the keys of the piano, started up before him. It was wonderful how plainly he could see her. Why was it, why could he not forget the girl? With an unconscious gesture of impatience, he quickened his pace and walked on to Hyde Park; and, leaning on the railings, watched the never-ending procession of carriages. Every now and

If Head Aches And Your Ears Buzz You Surely Have Catarrh.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief—even though Catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrh-ozone.

A few breaths through Catarrh-ozone inhaler clears the phlegm out of the throat and stops your cough. The nostrils are cleansed of offensive mucous discharge, and sneezing and sniffing stop at once. Partial loss of hearing and headache (very common symptoms of catarrh) are quickly cured, and in a short time every trace of catarrh disappears. Nothing can be simpler or more again a lady bowed to him, and Clive raised his hat; but he was preoccupied, and the greeting and the smile that accompanied it were mechanical.

Presently there came a block, and a carriage stopped almost in front of him. It was the Chesterleighs', and Lady Edith was sitting in it, with Sara in the seat opposite her. Lady Edith saw Clive before he saw her; she had been leaning back rather languidly; but as her gaze rested on the tall figure, the blood rose to her face, and involuntarily she leaned forward with a sudden catch of her breath.

Sara, whose eyes were fixed on her mistress' face, saw the start and the sudden blush, and she shot a quick glance at the man at whom Lady Edith was looking; it was a glance only, but she knew that it was the man, Mr. Clive Harvey, of whom her mistress had spoken the other night. With her eyes watching Lady Edith closely, she saw Clive raise his hat, and waited breathlessly. Lady Edith returned his salutation with a slight bow; she seemed to hesitate, then she made a little gesture, as if beckoning him. Sara set her teeth hard and dropped her eyes. Clive went up to the carriage.

"A long block I'm afraid, Lady Edith," he said.

The color was still lingering on her face, its listlessness had gone, and in its place was a kind of suppressed eagerness. It seemed as if she could find nothing to say, she, who was usually so ready with the small change which passes current for conversation in society.

"Isn't it almost too hot for walking?" she said at last.

"It's cooler here than in the House, anyway," he replied with a smile. "I have come out to breathe." Then, suddenly a thought struck him. "I am glad I have met you, Lady Edith; I wanted to ask a favor."

The carriage began to move slowly, and she swept her skirts aside to make room for him.

"You had better come in," she said. Clive murmured his thanks and got in, glancing with natural curiosity at the Hindu woman as he did so.

"It is Sara, my old nurse; my companion now," said Lady Edith. "We have been shopping. She has excellent taste, indeed; she dresses me now as she used to do when I was a child."

Clive inclined his head; but Sara looked straight before her, as if she were deaf and dumb.

"You don't often ask favors, do you, Mr. Harvey?" said Lady Edith. "I am wondering what it is you want me to do for you. Shall I promise beforehand?"

"No; but I hope you will promise to help me when you have heard what it is," he replied. "You have such a large circle of friends. Do you happen to know of any young people who want violin-lessons?"

She thought for a moment or two, and Clive, during the pause, noticed, half-unconsciously, how exquisitely dressed she was; certainly the woman who looked so strangely incongruous with her dusky hair and black eyes, with her gold earrings and her semi-Oriental dress, deserved her mistress' tribute to her taste.

"Let me explain," he said. "I want to interest you in the case of a struggling musician—I mean a real musician; one of the best violinists I have heard, but quite unknown. I came across him during one of my rambles about in the slums."

"It is a man?" she said quickly. "I thought it was a woman."

He looked up at her with faint surprise.

"Why? Oh, yes; it is a man. A dwarf, hunchback, I'm sorry to say. I heard him playing in the street—oh, don't be afraid! He is quite presentable, or will be, with a new suit of clothes. And his manners—well, I'll answer for them."

"You seem very interested in him," she remarked.

"I am." He was silent for a moment. Should he tell her, the whole story, tell her that his interest in Elisha was prompted by his interest in Mina? Why should he not? But he did not. "I am," he repeated. "He is a good sort, is Elisha; and his is one of those cases of genius hidden in dark places; one of those cases that ought to be helped into the light."

"Is he used to teaching?" she asked absently. She had been listening to his voice rather than his words, and the voice stole into her heart and was welcome there.

"Yes," he replied, thinking of Mina. "He can teach singing, anyhow; and I'll answer for it that he'd be as good at the violin; though he may not get about it in the orthodox way. I wish you could see him; you would be as interested in him as I am."

She smiled. "I'm afraid not. You see, I'm not a philanthropist."

"I hear you say it," he retorted smilingly; "but I have my doubts."

"I suppose he is very poor?" she said, leaning back, but with her eyes on his face, and all her apathy gone.

"Very. So poor that he will be more than satisfied with half the fees the swell fiddlers demand and get so freely."

"Let me see," she murmured. "Yes; I think I can get him some pupils. I have some young consins who will have to learn, of course; and there are Lady Standon's nieces. Oh, yes; I think I can manage it. Where shall I write to him?"

Clive was about to give the address but checked himself, and said:

"Oh, write to me, if you will be so kind. It is good of you! But I knew you would help me."

Her eyes were downcast for a moment, then she raised them to his swiftly.

"Why?" she asked in a low voice. Clive smiled. "Her heart was as golden as her hair," he quoted.

The color rose to her face, and her eyes veiled themselves, but a smile hovered about her lips.

"That was very—pretty," she said. "But you would not have said it, if you had meant it."

"I beg your pardon; I meant it," he returned in his direct way.

"Did you?" she breathed. "Then I must forgive you. But do you always make flattering allusions to your friends' personal appearance?"

"No, I don't," he said, "and I beg your pardon, Lady Edith. The words slipped out before I was aware of them. Yes; pray forgive me!"

"I do," she said. "Though I don't think the line fitted me. I fancy my heart is not golden, whatever my hair may be. Don't trouble to contradict me; it wouldn't be worth while, for you know so little about either."

"I know that you have been so very kind and good as to grant my request," he said. "That's warrant enough for my impertinent quotation."

"Was it impertinent? I suppose it was," she said. "You thought I was vain about my hair, so you numored me."

There was a touch of resentment in her tone that surprised and hurt Clive and he looked at her gravely; but he knew that it would be wiser to say nothing, and presently she relented. "You are almost as bad as Sara there," she said, with a laugh. "She fusses over my hair as if—as if it were her own; and, if she has heard you, you will have found a direct way to her heart."

Clive glanced at the Hindu woman, but Sara's face was as impassive and expressionless as if it were carved out of mahogany.

"I'm glad," he said. "I want all the friends I can get; we do all of us, if we only knew it! Then you will send me the addresses of the pupils, if you should get them, Lady Edith?"

"Yes. Oh, I shall get them. I always get everything I want."

"That's easily understood," he returned simply.

She laughed. "That means that you consider me irresistible, I suppose? Thanks. Are you Irish, Mr. Harvey?"

"Of course," he admitted laughingly. "We are three parts Irish and only one part English."

"Then I am forewarned," she said, smiling up at him, "and I shall only believe one-fourth of your pleasant speeches—what nonsense we are talking!" She broke off with a shrug of her shoulders; but her face was beaming, and her eyes sparkling, as if she found his nonsense sweeter than other men's wisdom. "Tell me what you have been doing since we met?"

"Not all!" he retorted, with mock alarm.

"Trust me in all, or not at all," she retorted. "You see, I, too, can quote. I suppose you have been working hard, visiting the slums—it was in the slums you found your hunchback fiddler?—and speaking and writing—"

"And eating and drinking and sleeping," he finished.

OFFICIAL.
 LONDON, Sept. 27.

The Governor, Newfoundland: Heavy fighting in France on Saturday and Sunday, General French reports. We attacked south of La Basse canal, east of Vermilles, capturing trenches on a five mile front, penetrating at some places four thousand yards. On the western outskirts of Hulluch village, at Loos, Hill 70 was captured. The quarries near Loos were captured.

North of La Basse canal was hard fighting all day our troops reoccupying the same position as on Saturday night. Near Hooge, Bellevue farm and the ridge were captured and lost. South of the Menin road, six hundred yards of enemy's trenches were captured, and twenty-six hundred prisoners, nine guns and many machine guns taken.

Aeroplanes successfully bombed enemy railways, derailing two trains, one full of troops. The French Government report the whole of Souchez village occupied, and further advance towards Givenchy. A thousand prisoners were captured.

In Champagne the French penetrated the enemy lines on a twenty-five kilometre front, to a depth varying from one to four kilometres. Twenty-five field guns, sixteen thousand un wounded prisoners and three hundred officers were captured.

Russia reports fierce fighting near Dvinsk, and enemy attacks repulsed. Near Novo Alexandrovsk the enemy entered the Russian trenches, but were dislodged with serious losses. Near Dubno the Russians captured 1,600 prisoners, and near Novo Alexinets 3,900 more. Prisoners taken at Lutsk numbered 6,000. A later report says that the position is quieter on the Dvinsk front.

Desperate actions near Viteika, and minor successes at other points.
 BONAR LAW.

ALLIES SUCCESSES.

PARIS, Sept. 27. On the western front the British and French captured in two days more than 20,000 un wounded prisoners, according to the French official communication issued to-night. New progress by French troops north of Arras realized fresh progress. We have occupied by sheer force all the villages of Souchez and have advanced towards the east in the direction of Givenchy. More south we reached Lafelle, and pushed north as far as Thelus, destroying telegraphs. We made in the course of this action about 1,000 prisoners. In Champagne our troops continue to gain ground, after having crossed nearly the whole front, extending between Asberive and Ville Sur Tourne, a powerful network of trenches, passages, small forts and shelters, perfected by the enemy during long months. The troops advanced towards north compelling the Germans to fall back to their trenches to their second position from three to four kilometres distant. The struggle continues on the whole front. We have reached Pine de Vagedrange, passed the Cab in road from Souain to Sommepey, and on the road from Souain to Tarpure, more east, we are holding the farm of Maisons de Champagne. The enemy suffered by our fire, and hand to hand struggles, very important losses. He left works in which he abandoned considerable material which has not yet been inventoried. Already the capture of 26 field guns is recorded. The number of prisoners is increasing steadily. There are actually more than 16,000 men not wounded, of whom at least two hundred are officers. The total number of prisoners captured on the whole front by the allied troops during two days is more than twenty thousand men.

LONDON, BUDGET.

LONDON, Sept. 27. According to the French account, Germans were driven out of their trenches over a front of fifteen miles, varying in depth from two-thirds of a mile to half a mile. The French in this engagement captured 12,000 prisoners. Apparently the advantage is being pressed still further. French communications make only the briefest mention of these operations. The importance of this gain lies in the fact that every yard of ground taken in this region weakens the German position, around Verdun from which the Germans might be compelled to retire, should the French succeed in making any further advance. The French also have regained the cemetery of Souchez, and trenches east of the Labyrinth in Arras district, which was the scene of much heavy fighting earlier in the year. There the Germans built what they considered almost impregnable fortifications. The attack was made in co-operation with the British, on either side of the La Basse canal.

Field Marshal Sir John French reports complete success in the attack on the south canal. Five miles in width and about four thousand yards in depth were taken at this point. This push forward gives the British possession of the road from Lens to La Basse, which was used by the Germans for moving troops and supplies north and south and threatens the flank of the German troops, which hold the town of Lens, and Hill 70. One of the positions taken on the road is less than a mile directly north of Lens, while Hulluch, which also fell into the hands of the British is at the end of the road near La Basse, and it is only twelve miles from Hulluch to Lens, the capital of Northern France. North of the canal the British, although they fought all day yesterday, were unable to hold all the ground gained, and had to fall back to the trenches, which they had left in the morning. The attack, however, accomplished our purpose, as, according to Field Marshal French the German reserves checked this move, thus giving the British south of the canal the opportunity to consolidate their new positions un molested. In a somewhat similar manoeuvre to the north of the south Nonin Road and east of Ypres, results were the same. On the North Road they were unable to hold the ground taken, while in the south they gained about 600 yards of German trenches, and consolidated the ground won. So far as is reported the British took 1,700 prisoners with eight guns and several machine guns. Some of the fiercest fighting in the campaign is now progressing.

At the Russian front the Germans continue their furious attack to drive the Russians out of Dvinsk, while at Volsignia in Galicia, the Russians continue to harass the Austro-Germans who have designs on Kiev, from which town they are now further than they were a few weeks ago. General Ivanoff is apparently determined to hold back the Austro-Germans. His efforts are meeting with considerable success. The fortress triangle, which includes Dubno, Rovno and Lutsk is almost entirely in possession of the Russians. In Galicia the Austrians have been driven back across the river which runs parallel to the border. The Italians, like the rest of the allies, report a number of successes, taking fortified mountains from the Austrians.

OFFENSIVE MOVEMENT CONTINUING.

PARIS, Sept. 27. The new offensive movement is continuing along the entire front. In Champagne, the War Office announced to-day, that further German positions had been occupied. The announcement also says that all the gains on the Arras region, in northwestern France, have been maintained. There is intense cannonading between the Meuse and Moselle and in Lorraine on the part of both the Allies and the Germans.

REJOICES OVER THE GLORIOUS NEWS.

LONDON, Sept. 27. The congregations in every church in England last night rejoiced over the glorious news from the western front. The British advance north and south of La Basse has completely overshadowed the fighting at Neuve Chapelle, in fact it is the most glorious achievement of the Allied arms, since the German rout in the Battle of the Marne; but while the British advance is a great achievement, it pales, when contrasted with the French victory in Champagne; where the German iron wall has been shattered into fragments by the gallant French who have penetrated the German lines to a depth of three miles. German losses in this great battle are appalling, when it is considered the fighting was a rout.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Sept. 27. In Artois district we have maintained our positions. To the east of Souchez our advance, previously reported, as having reached and destroyed the telegraph line to the north of Tellus, has not, as a matter of fact, passed the orchard of La Folie and the highway from Arras to Lille. This advance, however, has been at all points maintained. Along the front to the south of the river Somme there has been some fighting with bombs and torpedoes. In the vicinity of Andrecy our artillery has vigorously counter-attacked the batteries of the enemy which were cannonading our positions at Guenevires. In the Champagne district fighting has been going on with tenacity all along the front. We have occupied at several places, notably at Tron Aricot to the north of the Waques Farm, several positions in the rear of our new lines, where certain detachments of the enemy had been able to maintain themselves. The previous statement that we had captured 200 German officers is erroneous, we have taken prisoners three hundred German officers. In the Champagne district between the Meuse and the Moselle, and in Lorraine, district there has been severe artillery fighting on both sides. A violent storm in the Vosges has for the moment suspended all operations in this district.

GERMANS HARD PRESSED.

LONDON, Sept. 27. In a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam, dated Sunday afternoon, a correspondent says that whatever may be the final issue of events now in hand along the western front, it can, at least, be said that the Germans are hard pressed. Every available man in Belgium is being flung into the defence. Troops, newly arrived, are being rushed to the firing line without an hour's rest, while villages and frontier posts are being denuded of their guards in the endeavor to meet the Allies' onslaughts. The German losses are described as terrible. The roar of cannon can be heard ceaselessly at places well inside the Zealand frontier. An endless procession of German wounded is pouring into the towns and villages behind the enemy lines in Belgium.

BRUGES BOMBARDED; GAS WORKS DESTROYED.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 27. The aviators of the Entente Allies again bombarded Bruges in Belgium. The sudden cessation of the flow of gas to Sluis in Zealand, on the Belgian frontier, which is supplied from Bruges, leads to the suspicion here that bombs from the aircraft struck the gas works. A message received later from Bruges has confirmed the belief that the gas works have been struck by bombs of the Allied airmen. The LONDON, Sept. 27. Emperor William intends to remove his headquarters to Luxembourg in October, says a despatch from Amsterdam to the Exchange Telegraph Co. Instructions have already been issued regarding the transfer, according to advices from Berlin, the despatch adds.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Sept. 27. The French official statement made public here to-night, says that the number of Arras remains unmodified, and that fighting continues. It adds that the Germans to-day began another offensive movement in Argonne. It was completely checked. The German losses were heavy.

BRITISH VICTORY.

LONDON, Sept. 27. The British official communication made public here to-night, says that northwest of Hulluch we repulsed a number of attacks and inflicted heavy loss on the enemy east of Loos. Our offensive is progressing, our captures now amount to 53 officers, 2,800 men, 18 guns and 22 machine guns. The enemy abandoned a considerable quantity of material, which has not yet been classified.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 27. The British steamer Natal, a transport, was shelled and sunk by a German submarine on Sept. 17th south of Crete. The crew was picked up and landed at Piraeus, Greece. The Natal was last reported to have arrived at Port Said on July 15th.

ASQUITH APPOINTS WAR COMMITTEE.

LONDON, Sept. 27. Premier Asquith, it is announced, has appointed a special committee of the Cabinet to be charged with the general oversight of the war committee, which is composed of the Premier, Kitchener, Lloyd George, Balfour, Sir Edward Grey, Lord Lansdowne, Andrew Bonar Law and Winston Spencer Churchill. They will act as a sort of executive committee absorbing the functions of the Cabinet's Dardanelles Committee.

AUSTRIA WILL RECALL DUMBA.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. Austria has informally notified the United States Ambassador, Penfield, that it will recall Dr. Dumba, the Austrian Ambassador to the United States, as requested by President Wilson.

A BERLIN REPORT.

BERLIN, Sept. 27. One British warship was sunk, and two others damaged in an attack by a British squadron on German batteries along the Belgian coast, especially at Zeebrugge, simultaneously with the Allies' offensive movement on the land, according to a German official statement of Sept. 26. After the losses the British ships withdrew. The official statement enumerates the capture of more than 5,000 French and British prisoners and a number of machine guns in the land fighting at various points along the front.

FRENCH TRANSPORT SUNK.

BERLIN, Sept. 27. A despatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung from Athens, says that a French transport steamer of 5,000 tons, has been sunk by Austrian submarine in the Libyan Sea. The steamer was carrying coal from Malta to Cyprus.

THE POPE AND PEACE.

COLOGNE, Sept. 27. The Prussian Catholic Bishop attending the conference at Felda, received the following message from Pope Benedict: "In the same measure in which needs grow worse through the continuing of war, our desires for peace increase. We hope that this universal yearning may open up with everyone the royal road by which patient human love leads to peace." The Pope's message concludes with a plea for peace, which shall combine the demands of justice with the dignity of the people.

Our New Idea!

Having shown where we excel in the Bedding Line, we wish to add one word more on Our New Idea Bedstead. Having installed machinery the past month for the punching, boring, &c., of our Beds, we can now fit our Oxford or Copper Spring to any Bed as required. This does away with the wood altogether, makes it absolutely vermin proof, and makes a Bed superior in every way to the old, as it is made into the Bed and can be removed and packed very closely—a great convenience when removing. We also have the Combination Lath and Spring Beds, the only thing of its kind in the country.

Adjutant Rendell Wounded by Shrapnel

The message to-day has reference to fighting in the Anzac and Suvla Bay regions of Gallipoli Peninsula last week. It is in the latter region the Newfoundland Regiment landed eight or nine days ago, having left Mudros Bay on Sunday week for Suvla Bay, some seventy miles distant. This morning a message was received by Mrs. Frederick Rendell from her son, Capt. W. F. Rendell, Adjutant of the Newfoundland Regiment, the text of which is as follows:

"Blue Sisters' Hospital, Malta: Wounded, shrapnel, arm and leg; doing famously."

As Malta is about 900 miles from Suvla Bay, and taking into account the collection of wounded at the base hospital, it is probable that Capt. Rendell's wounds were received about Thursday or Friday. Enquiry from the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. John R. Bennett, elicited the fact that no news had been received by the Governor, the Government or the Regimental authorities about Capt. Rendell being wounded or of the Newfoundland Regiment having been in any way attacked. But the news despatch from a British official communication intimates that there has been activity recently on the Gallipoli Peninsula. Aircraft attacks, mining and artillery bombardment. The significant part of the message, however, are the following sentences: "On one occasion, the Turks opened a heavy artillery fire along our front at Suvla and Anzac, which appeared to be a prelude to a general attack. It was followed by an attack by a small force only. AT THE RIGHT CENTRE OF Suvla, the enemy was easily disposed of by our rifle fire and twice subsequently by much the same thing happened." It is likely that Capt. Rendell received his wounds in one of the bombardments by shrapnel, which is a shell which is filled with bullets which scatter when the shell explodes and is used to destroy troops. News will be anxiously awaited of the Regiment, which would likely be under the same fire, if not in the line which repulsed the attack of the Turks, or it may be some of the officers, among whom Adjutant Rendell was one, were sent to the firing line with another regiment to gain experience.

BRITISH THEATRE.

The much lauded photo-play—"David Garrick" was shown at the above theatre yesterday and fully realized the fondest expectations. It is a superb piece of work from beginning to end and the truly great and most artistic acting of both Mr. Seymour Hicks and Miss Ellaline Terriss was indeed a revelation which was only to be expected from such polished and finished performers. It was a matter of regret that Senora Sabatano was unavoidably delayed but her place was filled by the rising young tenor, Mr. Henry Chaplin, who acquitted himself most admirably. The balance of the programme was very good especially the photo-play entitled "Fate" in which the favorites Phillips Smalley and Lois Webber scintillate with artistry.

"REGANS DAUGHTER" AT THE POPULAR CRESCENT.

The great picture programme shown at the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday is being repeated to-day, also who saw "Regans Daughter" pronounce it one of the best pictures ever seen in the city, the mountain scenery shown in the film is beautiful. The other pictures that make up this programme are also of a high order.

Mr. Dan Delmar, a noted New York vocalist, is due to arrive in a day or two by the Florizel and will sing the latest and best songs at the Crescent. Don't miss to-day's show it's a good one.

SARAH BERNHARDT AT ROSSLEYS THEATRE.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the great photo-play now being shown at the above theatre. It is full of interest as every character in the cast is in the hands of first class exponents, and when it is said that the leading part is taken by the great French actress, Sarah Bernhardt, words are almost needless to describe the faultlessness of the production. The death scene is the most realistic ever produced in a photo-play and the grace and beauty of every action displayed by all the characters stamp the film as the very best. There are other films which delight and instruct and the new programme given by Ian Mackenzie, the great Scottish baritone, in his unique entertainment introducing English, Irish and Scottish ballads interspersed with wit and refined tales; Miss Rex Guerin, the brilliant soprano in fine songs, beautifully sung, and Mr. William Wallace, gives delight and satisfaction to all. The whole entertainment may be entered as "A1 at Lloyd's."

McMurdo's Store News

TUESDAY, Sept. 28th, 1915.

The popularity of Willard's Fork-dipt Chocolates continues to increase. Damage by Storm.

Last evening's storm was one of the severest felt in the city for the season. The wind blew from the S.S.W. with unusual violence while the rain showers that prevailed in the afternoon was the heaviest experienced for sometime. Much damage is reported to have been done to fishing property, but owing to all the telegraph and telephone lines being down nothing definite could be gleaned. At Pouch Cove several boats and stages were destroyed and settlement has lost heavily as a result of storms this year. A heavy undertow raged here in the harbor and several boats broke adrift and some of them got damaged. A number of trees countrywards were blown down. Three trees were blown down at Winter Avenue and a farmer passing by narrowly escaped being hit by them in falling. On the Torbay Road the house occupied by Mr. W. R. Howley, was wrecked; also the roof was blown off a house on Bannerman Street. At Witless Bay, Ferryland and Bay Bulls many of the stages were carried away by the tremendous sea that raged, and nearly all the striking the two police officers were sunk at their moorings.

Another Health Lecturer Coming.

On the Florizel, which is due here tomorrow is Dr. Carolyn Geisel, a noted physician, surgeon and lecturer of Battle Creek, Michigan. As speaker this lady lecturer is said to be more than entertaining. Clear in diction and enunciation, choice in language, graceful and winsome. One of her lectures is "The Home Behind the Man."

The central thought of the lecture on Monday was to make the home a comfortable, happy, healthful and restful place for the man, whether he measures six feet or two feet, and the thought was beautifully developed in detail.

Sleeping porches are a necessary adjunct to every home, in fact, the speaker declared, "the coming home will be largely a dressing room, the dining, living and sleeping rooms will be out in the open." Then colds, grippe, throat affections and tuberculosis will cease to afflict the human family; for lungs constantly inflated with pure air will not entertain the germ of those diseases.

During 1914 as many as 54,000 grown men died in America between 30 and 40 years of age, from four diseases largely preventable by proper housing, habits and food.

No matter how beautiful the china, napery and table appointments, if the food served isn't nourishing, the meal is a failure. Housekeepers are not to purchase foodstuffs just because they smell good and look pretty. Dr. Geisel dwelt at some length on the question of proper foods.

Danish Steamer Forced Into Port.

LUMBER CARGO BROKE ADRIFF.—With thirty degrees of a port list, the Danish steamer Nordboen, Capt. C. Petersen, 3 days out from Three Rivers, Quebec, bound for London, heavily laden with lumber, crept into the Harbor this morning. She called at Sydney on the way along and bunkered, leaving there on Saturday last. On Sunday evening a strong wind from the S.S.W. raged with a choppy sea. As the night advanced a terrific storm raged. When about forty-five miles S.E. of St. John's, her big deck load of lumber broke adrift, caused by the huge seas that swept over the ship. All night Sunday and all day Monday while the storm continued, a tedious time was spent, the Nordboen which was almost unmanageable, "laying to" all the time until the elements subsided and Capt. Petersen availed of the chance to come in here. The ship is now discharging her deck load at Shea & Co.'s wharf and the work will take some time. The cargo will be adjusted to the new names of the steamer. The Nordboen was never here before, neither was her captain, who has been in her ten years. She was built in 1896 at Station-on-Tees by Richard, son Dick & Co. She is 2,417 tons gross and 1,547 net, and 310 feet long.

Man Drowned

Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings, received a message this forenoon from Magistrate Benning, at Lawn, intimating that Richard Lovell, of Lories, aged 28 years, was accidentally drowned on Saturday night last while going on board of his vessel. Yesterday the body was recovered and friends there brought the body in another boat to Lamaline for burial. No further particulars were received and Magistrate Benning is holding an inquiry.

Select Medicine Carefully.

Purgatives are dangerous. They gripe, cause burning pains and make the constipated condition worse. Physicians say the most ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore activity to the bowels, strengthen the stomach and purify the blood. A Nurse Should be Quite Independent.

A nurse should never have to rely upon help from the servants or from the mistress of the house, for her duties are always immediate and urgent, and much of her work must be done after the household as a whole has retired. If she is provided with modern gas appliances she will be independent of all outside help and can do her work efficiently without any undue labour.

A Gas Fire needs practically no attention, and saves all grate-cleaning, fire-laying, coal-carrying and replenishing.

A Gas Water Heater gives abundant hot water at the shortest notice at any hour of the day or night. An inverted incandescent Gas mantle gives a steady brilliant light that is most restful to the eyes of the patient.

A Gas Cooker needs no preparation, provides heat for several purposes at once, and can easily be installed in a room near the sick room.

In all long cases especially gas appliances are essential for good nursing.

Doctors recommend and use Gas Fires. For further particulars and copy of Special War Number of "A Thousand and One Uses for Gas" (post free) apply to

420th Day of the War

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.40 A.M.

LONDON, To-day. The Westminster Gazette says it is decidedly encouraging to note the persistent way in which the Canadian Prime Minister, now he is back in his own Dominion, goes on paying tribute to Britain's contribution to the cause of the Allies. We take his words as real encouragement to persevere in the completion of our task.

THE FUTURE OF THE AEROPLANE

LONDON, To-day. An interviewer quotes Graham White, aviator, as saying: "I am quite certain years hence will be running a daily line of aeroplanes, each carrying fifty passengers, between London and North of England, in ten years or less. I shall be running a daily service of great passenger aeroplanes between London and New York. People will use their own aeroplanes, as they use their motor cars now. It is but a small jump from private to public use. The aeroliner will be as safe as locomotive or steamer and possibly safer."

ROUMANIA'S CONCENTRATION.

BUCHAREST, To-day. The Roumanian Cabinet at a meeting yesterday at which the mobilization of Bulgaria and Greece was discussed, decided that Roumania should continue the course she has been following. These new developments, it was determined, were not of a nature to cause Roumania to modify in any way, the line of conduct she has pursued up to the present, consequently Roumanian troops will remain concentrated along the national frontiers. The Cabinet did not consider the question of establishing martial law.

GERMANS MAKE THE BEST OF A BAD JOB.

BERLIN, via Sayville, To-day. The German General Staff is not surprised by the new Franco-British movement, says the Lokal Anzeiger. Although on this occasion, it was not announced in advance, brave German troops withstood the onslaught, the newspaper continues, and will hold out until the enemy has been driven back. The German iron wall proposed on the half billion dollar of a credit loan to Britain and France. During their stay in this city the members of the Commission received threatening letters from persons hostile to the loan and the police taken unusual precautions to guard them from harm.

SERIOUS GASOLINE EXPLOSION—TWENTY KILLED AND TWO HUNDRED INJURED.

ARDMORE, Oklahoma, To-day. Twenty persons were killed and it is estimated 200 were injured seriously here yesterday afternoon, when a 250 barrel-tank car of gasoline exploded in the heart of the business district. The force of the explosion shook the buildings and threw the burning gasoline in every direction. A few minutes later, Ardmore was at the mercy of scores of fires.

GREECE CALLING HOME STEAMERS.

CARDIFF, Wales, To-day. The Greek Consul here received telegraphic instructions that all unloaded Greek steamers at Cardiff, Barry and Penarth must proceed to the Piraeus immediately. A dozen steamers are affected.

RUSSIANS TRAP GERMAN COLUMN IN MARS.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Petrograd says: Fighting of extraordinary violence is proceeding around Dvinsk. An important success for the Russians was reported, involving the defeat of a strong enemy column, near Lake Tchighirly. The Russians, taking advantage of their intimate knowledge of the country, led the enemy to marshy ground, where they surrounded the column on three sides, exterminating and capturing in three complete infantry companies and taking much booty. It is reported from the southern front, that the Russians have reached Kovel and that the Austrians have evacuated Brody. During the retreat the Austrians lost a great quantity of supplies into the River Styx.

IMPORTANCE OF THE TRANSVAAL GOLD.

JOHANNESBURG, To-day. W. H. Dawe, President of the South Africa Chamber Mines, called attention yesterday to the vital importance of South African gold to the cause of the allies. Dawe said numerous employees of the mines desired to volunteer for service at the front, but permission for them to do so could not be given, because the importance of the industry was so great that no risk could be taken, which might affect its steady operation. The adjustment of the American Exchange rate Dawe said covered ordinary commodities, but large orders of munitions placed by allies must be paid for to a considerable extent in gold, and the continuation of gold payment, he said, would be possible because the British Empire produces 30,000,000 gold annually and two-thirds of it is from the Transvaal.

NOT A SURPRISE ATTACK.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Telegraph in an editorial to-day, dealing with the question of there being a surprise in the allies' attack on the Germans in France, argues nobody could suppose there is anything faulty with the German intelligence service. It declares considering the allies' attack had been prepared for by artillery for several weeks, that there could have been no element of surprise in it. What are we to make, says the Daily Telegraph of the astounding fact that so many thousands of unawakened soldiers were captured, to say nothing of wounded, not yet enumerated. The officers of Champagne alone in the plain face of the meagre facts yet published, that something very remarkable certainly without precedent in this war, took place in the attack on the Champagne front, if not elsewhere.

CROWN PRINCE'S REMOVAL EXPECTED.

NEW YORK, To-day. A special cable to the Tribune from London says the German Crown Prince will soon be relieved of his command in the Western front, if the change has not already been made, according to a German officer, just brought as a prisoner to England. The Prince, this officer said, repeatedly ordered attacks known to be foolhardy by other experienced officers, but would not listen to advice. On two occasions prominent members of the staff pleaded with him that to sacrifice men in view of a certain repulse but the Crown Prince paid no heed.

It is not surprising, the officer said, that the Crown Prince is broken down as he was constantly on duty and refused to take proper rest. He was blinded and obsessed with the desire to smash the enemy lines and as a result, a serious nervous condition set in. The German officer prophesied the Crown Prince's place would be taken by Von Mackensen who would have a strong front so entrenched for the winter that the Russians would be unable to force their way through.

ENEMY BATTERIES SILENCED.

PETROGRAD, To-day. An official statement issued by the Minister of Marine, under date of September 21, says: During bombardment of the enemy's land positions in the Gulf of Riga, by our ships, an enemy projectile fell on one of our ships, killing Captains Viazemsky and Ivinimo. Our ships silenced the enemy batteries. Our only other losses were five men killed and eight wounded.

ENEMY REPULSED.

NISH, To-day. An official report says that the attempts of the enemy to cross the river Drina on the night of the 23rd, under heavy artillery fire, were repulsed. One in the direction of the Thoronata Custom house and the other near Viopregred, Bosnia.

RUSSIANS HAVE RETAKEN IMPORTANT POSITION.

LONDON, To-day. Discussing the Russian military situation, the morning papers attach considerable importance to the report that the Russians have retaken an important railway junction of Kovel. The Chronicle says editorially that it is a most startling achievement if the news is confirmed. The report is unconfirmed, but if it is correct it is the most striking evidence yet of Russian recovery in the south. The Times says neither special despatches nor official reports contain anything to support the idea of so rapid an advance.

GRAPHIC STORY OF SOLDIER FIGHTING IN THE CHAMPAGNE COUNTRY.

LONDON, To-day. The infantry attacks began at noon on Saturday, said a soldier wounded in the Champagne fighting, in describing the operations which resulted in an important gain for the French. My regiment was acting as a support for three days. Our artillery had been making an appalling din by day and night and big guns hurled shells without respite, we infantrymen waiting for the end of it, began to get impatient on Saturday. We ate heartily at 11 o'clock and then took our arms. Finally at noon our chiefs shouted "Forward." We began to yell like men possessed. With a single charge we were in the trenches. It was pretty hot in front of us. The boys who had gone ahead were doing good work and were already beyond German trenches. We reached them in our turn. The double trench was filled up to the brim with German bodies. Further on we saw enormous craters in which many Germans had been buried. By falling earth, and there a boot protruded, and we tugged at them to see if any were living, but they were not. We did not stop long but passed on to our right. We saw a strong enemy contingent sheltered in a pit with machine guns. They did not last long for we fell on them with bayonets. It was a pretty stiff bit of fencing. Seeing themselves done for the survivors held up their hands. Some, however, although prisoners, still fired at us. My left hand was pierced by a revolver bullet, fired point blank by an artillery man. My captain knocked him down and I sat on his chest. All the wounded who have arrived here were covered from head to foot with chalky mud, most of them were wearing new light steel helmets which they declared had saved thousands of lives. One or two who had no helmet and the head was cut by glancing machine gun bullets. He said in the thickest of the infantry attack, I arrived with my company at the German artillery positions. The gunners were mixed up with infantrymen, huddled round the pieces. All of them were surrounded. Our artillery had completely stupefied them. Despite efforts of Germans to minimize the great Franco-British victory on the Western front, an infantry position to say though both London and Paris press deprecate premature rejoicing, that the results achieved are far more potential even than the victory on the Marne. Late figures report the capture of more than twenty-three thousand men, and all special despatches from the front agree that the German losses were terrific. There is no doubt as the German Communiqué reports, there have been very heavy losses in the Allied armies, but the result achieved, the establishment of the moral superiority of many Franco-British forces in the capture of nearly all points was worth the great sacrifice.

WOUNDED ARRIVING IN LONDON.

LONDON, To-day. The first consignment of wounded from the latest battle on the Western front, reached London at midnight. The twelve men in the party were guarded carefully from the curious crowds at the railway places and placed in the ambulance and removed to hospitals. It really began on Friday with a heavy artillery action, the Daily Mail quotes one of the wounded officers as saying: "On Saturday morning under a hurricane of shrapnel the infantry leaped out with short sharp rushes. The German trenches were at a distance of four hundred yards. There was some fine work with bayonet and hundreds of prisoners gave themselves up with apparent eagerness. Their willingness to be captured was the most surprising thing of the whole business. Many of them were old men who seemed crushed and exhausted."

BULGARIAN AGREEMENT WITH GERMANY.

PARIS, To-day. The Bulgarian Cabinet has agreed with Germany, the Rome correspondent of the Petit Parisien says he has learned from a former Roumanian Minister, that Bulgaria shall mobilize only four divisions to watch Roumania. This will be done, it is said, to avoid action which might stir Greece into a feeling she was called upon to intervene, under the terms of the treaty of alliance with Serbia. Meanwhile, the Petit Parisien correspondent asserts, Bulgaria proposed to have 25,000 Macedonian irregulars attack Serbia, but details of this plan became known in Nish and preparations were made by Serbia for a possible attack.

Lieut. Jack Baird Wounded.

Lieut. Jack Baird, of the 4th Worcester Regiment, was wounded at the Dardanelles. His father, Mr. Hugh Baird, received a letter from him at Alexandria, dated Aug. 22nd. He was leaving for the Dardanelles the next day with a draft of reinforcements, the 4th Worcesters, who have been at the Dardanelles several months and have met with heavy losses. This morning his father received a message from London stating that his son was among the wounded.

To Tell, or Not to Tell.

By RUTH CAMERON.

If you had picked up a stunning suit at a remarkable bargain and someone admired it, would you tell the admirer what a bargain it was or let her think you had paid the full price for it? A neighbor of mine has a sister who is always picking up remarkable bargains. "But what good does it do her?" says my neighbor. "She never lets people think the things were really expensive. Just as soon as anyone admires anything she tells what a bargain it was."

"Of course," says the sister. "What would be the fun in getting a bargain if I didn't tell about it?"

A Question of Fun or Appearances? "Fun!" sniffs the other. "It isn't a question of fun, it's a question of appearances."

To quote one of the fables with which my mother used to oil the waters, "And both were wrong and both were right and both were very impolite."

I have often heard this matter discussed and it seems to me it is like all such questions, simply a matter of the point of view.

It's Just a Question of What You Want Most.

It's just a question of what you want, what impression you care most to give, an impression that you have more money than you actually possess or that you have cleverness enough to make a good appearance with little means.

If you want most of all to look expensive, of course you won't confess that you watched that seventy-five dollar suit until it was marked down to fifty and finally to thirty-five dollars; that you winnowed those smart looking shoes from an "Odd Sizes for Two-Dollars" counter; and that you got that clever little blouse for a song because there was an ink spot on it and got rid of the ink spot by inserting a lace medallion from an old evening gown.

If You Are More Proud of Your Brains You'll Tell.

If on the other hand, you are proud of your ability to produce a pleasing effect out of little you will enjoy sharing the secret of your contrivings with your friends.

Personally it always seemed to me more praiseworthy and more satisfying to play a poor hand of cards up to its full value than an excellent hand mediocre well. So perhaps you can guess on which side of the fence I stand.

But I don't believe in too promiscuous confidences on this subject any more than on any other. The people who go about continually proclaiming how little their clothes cost are in just as bad taste and just as great bores as those who insist on letting you know how much they paid for everything they have on.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

German Brutality in Nigeria.

Reuter's Agency has received particulars from Nigeria of cases of brutality on the part of the Germans. Among them it is stated that a German force of about 20 men, under a white officer, entered the British hospital at Yola at dawn and deliberately opened fire on the patients in their beds. One sick man had his head blown off, while another native soldier was wounded. The remaining soldiers scrambled out of their beds and escaped, but were followed by the British, who succeeded in capturing five.

A formal protest was addressed to the German Commandant, who apologized. He said he would give instructions that such conduct should not be repeated, but at the same time objected to the complaint as reflecting on the honour of the German soldier.

Run Aeroplanes by Wireless.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, has undertaken to demonstrate to the navy department that gasoline is available as a more powerful motive fuel for submarines.

Mr. Ford will begin his work on behalf of the government Thursday morning at the Brooklyn Navy Yard where he will make a descent in a submarine by arrangements perfected for him to-day by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. In addition to his efforts to adopt gasoline as a motive power for the undersea boats, Mr. Ford, it was stated to-day, has developed a scheme by which aeroplanes without passengers may be directed and used by wireless as practically self acting engines of war.

FOR EDISON'S NEW STORAGE BATTERY.

New York, Sept. 23.—An official Government test, at the New York Navy Yard yesterday, of Thomas A. Edison's new storage battery for submarines, proved beyond a doubt that it overcomes the deadly chlorine gas peril, according to an announcement made by Miller Reese Hutchison, personal representative of the inventor.

The new battery, according to Mr. Hutchison, is made of iron, nickel and potash, instead of lead and sulphuric acid, and the containing vessel is of steel, not hard rubber.

THE MURDER OF AMERICANS.

Providence Journal.—Scores of Americans were murdered yesterday on the high seas, by order of the German Government. Men and women, citizens of the United States, travelling peacefully on a merchant steamer have been sent to their death by the deliberately planned act of Emperor William and his advisers. When poor Belgian peasant women and children were brutally outraged, flayed and shot by fiends in uniform, the civilized world stood aghast at the evidence of Prussian savagery. And now the mangled bodies of hundreds of innocent non-combatants lie at the bottom of the Atlantic, victims of this same savagery, which recognizes no law of God or code of honor and knows only how to slay. What crimes have our dead committed?

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not sleep, nor had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live.

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."

Mrs. MARTHA SLAYES, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

London Globe Out With Brand New "Scandal."

London, Sept. 22.—Great prominence is given by the Globe to-day to what is described as "The Scandal of Sulphuric Acid."

"In the Spring of this year, for reasons believed to be good and sufficient," says the Globe, "the firm of C. Tennant, Sons and Company, remotely connected in a family sense with a member of the Cabinet, was commissioned to buy large quantities of sulphuric acid in America. Why no attempt was made to secure acid in this country, we will not stop to inquire."

The Globe asserts that the methods employed in the shipment of the acid were so defective that hundreds of thousands of pounds were lost.

It is asserted that acid was forwarded in an impure form in iron drums, which, even had the acid been pure, would have corroded and leaked. It is said ships were damaged by escaping acid, which released noxious gases endangering the health of the crew. In one case, according to this newspaper, the crew refused to leave port and the acid was held up in New York for two months. Two steamships are said to have been damaged so badly that there was nothing to do but to buy them, at a cost of $300,000. The Globe suggests two questions.

Why the acid was not shipped in proper vessels and who has made good to the owners, Tennant and Company or the Government.

AUTUMN REFLECTIONS.

The farmer hauls his wheat to town and puts the plunder in the bank; the grass is turning sere and brown, the sunflowers shrivel, rank by rank. By day there is a golden haze, by night the heavens glow with stars; and agents chase me all my days, resolved to sell me motor cars. The maple leaves begin to fall, they've had their little passing day, and on the crumbling garden wall, the vines are showing dun and gray. I am inspired to effort now, I feel that I could write a poem, but auto men obstruct the view, they form a ring around my home. The birds are chirping in the trees, as though great projects were in hand; they'll shortly leave such scenes as these, and fly to some far southern land. But auto salesmen are a bar, they hang around the whole day long, each boasting his unrivaled car, and keep my mind from Art and Song. The wind in northern quarters shifts, and waits at night with demon mirth, and soon the snow, in mighty drifts, will lie upon the frozen earth. Then to my window they will come, the auto agents, undismayed, with frosted ears and fingers numb, and bone me till they get my trade.

The Hearts of the Sons of the Blood the World Over

WILL BEAT FASTER OVER THIS STORY.

The Loyalty and Pluck of a Newfoundland Boy That Should Shame the "Safety of Firsters" and All Other Shirkers.

"Constable Forsy reports that on Sunday last, between Clarenville and Shoal Harbor, he met a boy named Bartlett, who was on his way to Bishop's Falls, having walked all the distance from St. John's. The boy was then in good condition, the officer says, and no doubt has reached his destination ere this. Bartlett came here to enlist in either of His Majesty's forces, but was not accepted as he was under age. He paid his own upkeep and his train fare coming from home, consequently he ran short, so he decided to walk back to Bishop's Falls, a distance of 270 miles."

The above is a clipping from a late number of the St. John's, Newfoundland, Evening Telegram. It is worthy to be published in letters of gold. The loyalty, pluck and determination of this Newfoundland boy to do service for his king and country are sufficient to put to shame hundreds and thousands of men who are not "under age."

Think of this boy journeying so far from his home, spending every cent he was owner of to reach headquarters, in the expectation of being accepted by either the naval or the military force—imagine his great disappointment when informed that he was "under age" and therefore debarred from enlisting. His only alternative now is to wend his weary way homeward, and to accomplish this, he has a long and lonesome road to travel—a distance of 270 miles. Every foot of this he had to walk. He must have been a plucky youth.

The police constable says when he met this lad Bartlett he was then in good condition. Undoubtedly some of the good-hearted settlers, which are few and far between on the 270 miles from St. John's to Bishop's Falls, had given this hero some food and furnished him with shelter. It's a pity that this brave boy had not been accepted and sent over to join the ranks of his hardy countrymen now fighting both by land and sea for home and freedom.

A Newfoundlander Elected as Bishop

OF GRAHAMSTOWN, AFRICA.

By the last Church papers news has come of the election of the Very Rev. F. R. Phelps, M. A., Dean of Grahamstown, as Bishop in succession to Bishop Cornish, who resigned in June last. The election took place on St. Bartholomew's Day.

Dean Phelps is the son of the Rev. J. F. Phelps, at one time Headmaster of the Academy in St. John's, and also Precentor of the Cathedral.

It is gratifying to see the appointment of Dean Phelps, and all Newfoundlanders and especially his old school-mates will rejoice at the appointment thus made.

Dean Phelps graduated from Keble College, Oxford, Eng., in 1886 and went out to South Africa as Warden of the Community of the Resurrection in 1909. In April 1914, he was elected Canon of the Cathedral Church and in August of the same year he was appointed Dean and Rector of the Cathedral Parish by the Bishop, in succession to the late Dean Vincent—Com.

DEVASTATED POLAND.

London News and Leader:—Very few people in these islands have any idea of the horror this war has brought upon Poland. The eastern theatre is Poland, and armies during these eight months have repeatedly swept to and fro across Poland. Each movement has meant devastation. Two hundred towns and 7,500 villages have been ruined. The material loss amounts to $500,000,000, and ten million people have been brought to the verge of starvation. It is a calamity greater even than that which has fallen on Belgium. M. Paderewski appeals to English people for help in mitigating the suffering of his countrymen. He ought not to ask in vain.

Three Immense Features at THE NICKEL To-Day.

"ROSELYN."
 A Vitagraph—A beautiful actress, who is loved by an ambitious young lawyer; the marriage of the lawyer to another woman, whose father can further his interests; the accepting of the lawyer's rival in a moment of pique; and the near wrecking of the four lives later. These are the salient points of this great social drama. Naomi Childers makes the actress, a beautiful woman.

ARTHUR HUSKINS and DeWITT CAIRNS, The Harmony Boys.

"THE RED BLOOD OF COURAGE"—A powerful two-act picture play, remarkable for thrilling incidents, picturesque and unusual situation.

"OUR MUTUAL GIRL"—Margaret has an exciting experience.

C. E. T. S. Meeting

The semi-annual meeting of the Church of England Temperance Society was held at the Synod Hall last night, and was one of the most largely attended meetings in the history of the society.

His Lordship Bishop Jones, who presided, spoke of the Prohibition question as a matter of self sacrifice on the part of a great number, and said that he hoped all would consider that in the present issue they were asked to give up a lawful luxury for the benefit of weaker brethren.

Rev. Dr. Jones followed with a forceful and practical address, and pointed out that the constitution of the C. E. T. S. enabled every member to aid in the fight for Prohibition. He hoped that each would do his share in the coming struggle.

Mr. R. G. McDonald discussed Prohibition from a medical standpoint, and dwelt on the injurious effects of liquor on the system. He believed that the indiscriminate sale of intoxicants was a perilous danger and should be prohibited.

Mr. I. C. Morris, who was the next speaker, took an optimistic view of the situation. He was of the opinion that the work done in the past mainly along Local Option lines, the public were in favor of Prohibition. He believed that the coming election would result in the polling a great majority for the abolition of intoxicants.

Rev. Canon White followed, and after dealing with the great benefits of Temperance work, expressed the opinion that even after Prohibition has been won the good work should be continued, in order to impress on all the justice of the measure and as a means of assisting in the proper carrying out of the law.

Obituary.

MRS. MARGARET KEOUGH.
 The death occurred on Sunday at her late residence, Chapel Street, of Mrs. Margaret Keough, who was favourably known and esteemed in the community. She was the eldest daughter of the late Nicholas Galway and a sister of Rev. Edward Galway. Deceased had been enjoying good health up to a fortnight ago and was stricken somewhat suddenly. Deceased is survived by a husband, Mr. Wm. Keough, cooper, three sons, Edward, of the Newfoundland Regiment; Joseph, of Job Bros. employ; and John, of Barr's office. To the bereaved family much sympathy is extended.

FORCED TO RETURN.

A few fishermen ventured on the local fishing grounds yesterday. The high wind and heavy sea that raged made them return to port quickly.

ZAM-BUK

MRS. A. SAICH, of Cannington Manor, Sask., Writes:—"My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."

This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing powers of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts, and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.
