"Great and Good."

The Late Ex-Premier's Character Epitomized.

Commendatory Comment from an American Journal.

Honored by His Fellow-Countrymen in the Old Land.

Invited to Windsor Castle—Offered Knighthood—Kingston Reminiscences—His Devoted Partner.

The late Alexander Mackenzie, from the Canadian point of view, was great. From almost any point of view he was good.—[Buffalo Express.

Alexander Mackenzie was a good man. What matters it now to him whether he died in office or in private life? He did his whole duty on earth, and he had no reason to fear death and judgment.—[Hamilton Times.

HIS DEVOTED PARTNER.

His widow was his second wife, whom he married in 1853. She was a devoted and loving partner. During the period Mr. Mackenzie was at the head of the Government she filled the social duties of her position in a manner that won for her unqualified admiration. She was a charming hostess, and her affability and naturalness secured for her a host of friends in society and political circles. Her worthy husband's name will long have an honored place in the history of the country, and in her deep affliction she will have the warm sympathy of all classes of the Canadian people.—[Ottawa Citizen.

HONORED IN HIS NATIVE LAND.

In the summer of 1875, Mr. Mackenzie paid a visit to his native land after an absence of 33 years. He had left it with a stout heart and strong willing hands, but with little of the world's goods. His pospects were good, but only such as his own ability and strength of character could secure him. He returned the Prime Minister of a vast Dominion, embracing nearly half a continent, honored and respected by thousands who never saw his face. He left his home a stonemason and returned an eminent statesman and one of her Majesty's most trusted Privy Councilors of the Dominion of Canada, and her first minister for that part of her empire. No wonder his fellow-countrymen in England and Scotland gave him the grand reception they did. On arriving in London he met the leaders of both sides of the Imperial House of Commons, who were deeply impressed with his clear grasp of not only Dominion but Imperial politics. His official business finished, he was invited to Windsor Castle as the guest of her Majesty. He subsequently, with Messrs. Blake and Laurier and Cartwright, it is said, was offered the Order of the Knighthood of St. Michael and St. George, but only the latter accepted, Mr. Mackenzie and the others respectfully declining the great honor, giving as a reason that titles were out of place in a democratic dependency like Canada. After leaving England he turned his steps to his Bonnie Scotland, to the scenes of his youth. A hearty Highland welcome met him on the threshold of Perthshire. The demonstrations of his fellow-Highlanders and school-fellows in Dunkeld and Logienait were only a part of many banquets, etc., given in his honor. They were such, however, as will live in the memory for years. He received the freedom of the city of Perth and of the towns of Irvine and Dundee, and receptions in Greenock, Ayrshire and other places. In Edinburgh the banquet in his honor was presided over by Lord Rosebery, who on that occasion called Mr. Mackenzie the Gladstone of Canada. On his return home to Ottawa he was received in the capital by all classes and political stripes, and congratulated upon his success in the mother land and for his many manly utterances there in defense of his adopted country.

KINGSTON REMINISCENCES.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 19.—The late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie once lived here. The Montreal Witness correspondent learned these facts from Alexander Cameron, of Portsmouth, a life-long friend of the ex-Premier: "My first recollection of Mr. Mackenzie was while he was dressing stone for the front doors of St. Mary's Cathedral. The clergy reserves question was hotly discussed at that time, and Mr. Mackenzie, as a Baptist, was in vigorous opposition. Because of his outspokenness one morning he went to work to find his stone damaged and defaced.

"I was a chum of his brother, Hope Mackenzie, a cabinet-maker, with the late Adam Main, and through that association became intimate with Alexander. After living here a brief time Mr. Mackenzie went to Welland Canal as a foreman for the Haggarts, of Perth, but soon returned to act as foreman for Allen & Matthews, who had the contracts for the martello towers. Mr. Mackenzie had the responsibility for the construction of the Cedar Island and Point Frederick towers. He thoroughly understood his work. As a mechanic and man of lines he always had my sincerest gratitude, for I learned much from him. He knew what he wanted, and expressed his desires as clearly that I had no difficulty in providing what he required.

"Frequently my friends would ask me if Mr. Mackenzie was wealthy. I invariably said, 'No, his character is against his being wealthy.' I can candidly say he was a most benevolent man. He was not a friend of 'beats,' but when he met persons worthy of confidence and in misfortune he would give his last dollar to aid them. I know this to be a fact.

"Mr. Mackenzie was a clear Scotchman, plain and true. He was reserved among strangers but jovial and entertaining with intimates. No one enjoyed a laugh better than he. He attended the Baptist Church, located then as now.

"Yes, I think he was married here. His wife's maiden name was McNeal. I knew her father and brother well. Mr. Mackenzie lived, I think, on Earl street. After several years the family went to Sarnia.

"Mr. Mackenzie was always the same. When I met him here and in Ottawa in the height of his power, he was the same plain common-sense 'Sandy' Mackenzie. He frequently chatted with me over the days in Kingston and elsewhere.

"Robert Hendry, sen., Johnston street, came to Canada from Scotland with Mr. Mackenzie. They landed in Montreal in May, 1842, and came to Kingston. Mr. Mackenzie was then about 22 years of age and was very quiet mannered. They crossed the ocean on a sailing vessel and occupied four weeks in making the voyage. While the passengers were enjoying themselves at various games on board the vessel Mr. Mackenzie kept aloof, and was generally found in some corner reading a book. He wore a suit of moleskin clothes on leaving the old country and did not change them until he reached Montreal. He was always retired in manner, but willing to give advice if asked. On coming to the city he secured work in connection with the erection of the city buildings and afterwards became foreman. He was more than an ordinary workman, being able to comprehend perfectly the plans of work. He remained two years in the city and then moved west, when Mr. Hendry lost track of him. There are very few living in the city now who worked with the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie."

A large meeting of the Reformers of South Brant was held Tuesday night at Brantford, when a resolution of sympathy for Mrs. Mackenzie in the great loss she has sustained was carried.

In addition to the Ministers already mentioned Messrs. Ouimet and Carling will attend Hon. Alexander Mackenzie's funeral.

At Belleville respect for the memory of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie is shown bp the floating of flags at half-mast from the public buildings.

DEEPLY LAMENTED.

GALT, April 20.—A fairly representative meeting, composed of Reformers and Conservatives, was held last night in the hall of the business college, called by the North Waterloo Reform Association to do honor to the deceased statesman, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie. Eulogistic resolutions were passed unanimously and addresses were delivered by the Hon. James Young, George Laird, Thos. Cowan, Dr. Griffin, Mr. Trotter and others.

GODERICH, April 20.—At a meeting of the Goderich Town Council held last evening a delegation was appointed to attend the funeral of the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie at Sarnia. On receipt of the news of the death of the ex-Premier the flags of the town were hoisted at half-mast.

Mr. J. J. Ross, managing director for the Erie and Huron Railway, will run the train from Chatham North on Thursday next, in time for passengers to attend the funeral of the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie.

MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCE.

MILVERTON, April 20.—The Liberals of North Perth in convention assembled tender to Mrs. Mackenzie and family their heartfelt sympathy in their sore bereavement.

G. G. McPHERSON, President. A. H. HIPPLE, Secretary.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The Liberal members of the Senate and House of Commons, assembling immediately after the adjournment of the House yesterday, tender to you their deep sympathy on the great loss which you and whole country have sustained by the death of your husband, their late leader, whose eminent public services form an honorable and unsullied page in the history of Canada.

JAMES SUTHERLAND.

EDINBURGH, April 20.—Deepest sympathy. [MRS. GEORGE] BROWN.

OTTAWA, April 20.—Please accept heartfelt sympathy of Chief Justice [Ritchie] and myself in your deep affliction.
GRACE RITCHIE.

The Toronto Caledonian Society turned out in force to attend the funeral. Mr. Mackenzie was one of the first members of this organization, and three years ago the society showed their esteem for him by electing him an honorary life member. St. Andrew's Society, of which Mr. Mackenzie was a member, also took part in the funeral.

The Ottawa City Council passed a resolution of condolence last night, tendering their sincere sympathy to the widow and relatives of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie. The council instructed that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to Mrs. Mackenzie with the assurance of the heartfelt sympathies of all classes of citizens.

LOUISIANA ELECTIONS.

The Anti-Lottery Candidate for Governor Elected.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 19.—Advices so far received indicate that Foster (anti-lottery) has carried the State by about 10,000 plurality. John Fitzpatrick (Dem.) is elected mayor of New Orleans. The people voted for Governor and other state officers, for a full Legislature, Senate and House for four years, and for district, parish and local officers. Three amendments to the constitution were also submitted to popular vote, including the famous revenue amendment extending the charter of the Louisiana Lottery Company. This was defeated.

Teacher and Pupils Saw Snakes.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 20.—Teacher and scholars of the Chestnut Hill school at Montville saw snakes the other day and have not yet recovered from the shock. School opened for the summer term and all went well until a little girl screamed and rushed out of the room. She had seen a snake peeping out of the plastering near the teacher's desk. Half an hour later a small boy saw a snake crawl out of a hole near the chimney, and killed it with a slate frame. It was warm weather, and pretty soon a half-awakened reptile, five feet long, tumbled out from a hole in the ceiling and landed with a great thump just in front of the recitation seats. The teacher stood on top of her desk till the big boys had settled his account. Then snakes began to tumble down by twos and threes, bigger, blacker and uglier than ever, and the whole school, big boys and all, took to flight. The teacher refuses to enter the building again, and the Chestnut Hill school term is adjourned without date.

To Kill the King.

MADRID, April 19.—Felipe Munos, the Anarchist now under arrest here, has confessed that at a recent secret Anarchist meeting lots were cast to decide which of the members should kill the boy King of Spain. This statement has caused much excitement, and the precautions to guard against any attack upon the King have been greatly increased. It is thought that in a short time everyone connected with the plot will be in custody.

The New Italian Cabinet.

ROME, April 20.—The formation of a new Cabinet has been completed. Its programme includes retrenchment in the army budget. The new members are Signor Ricoletti, Minister of War, and Signor Genalla, Minister of Education. The other ministers are the same as in the last Cabinet, except that Signor Chimiai has been transferred from the Ministry of Commerce and Industry to the Ministry of Justice.

Perils of the Compartment Car.

LONDON, April 18.—Hon. Patrick Greville-Nugent, brother of Lord Greville, was to-day arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of having criminally assaulted a young lady named Price. The offense is alleged to have been committed last night in a compartment of a train running to London from Brighton. Miss Price stated she had made a most desperate struggle against her assailant. The prisoner was remanded in bail of $2,000. He strenuously denies the charge, and declares the case is one of attempted blackmail. The affair has caused a tremendous sensation.

Giants with Ape-Like Heads.

LONDON, April 20.—An interesting discovery has just been made near Mentone, across the Italian frontier. Some workmen engaged in excavating the entrance of a large natural cave at Rochers Rouges came across three skeletons in a perfect state of preservation at a depth of 24 feet below the surface. They evidently belong to the flint period, and the largest is that of a man, which measures seven feet without the head, which has been removed, with that evidently belonging to a female which lay by its side. The skulls are of a very animal type, almost resembling an ape, and the teeth in the smaller skull are quite perfect, while in both jaws there is a distinct indication of the growth of the wisdom teeth.

The Famous German Aeronaut.

BERLIN, April 20.—Herr Damm, the famous German aeronaut, is dead. He has a world-wide reputation and has frequently made ascents in the United States. During the France-Prussian war Damm obtained from the Prussians the balloon in which Gambetta escaped from Paris to Tours, and which was turned adrift as soon as Gambetta had effected his purpose. With this he performed many experiments and made some of his most daring voyages. The deceased had long been occupied with the subject of military ballooning, and it is believed he possessed plans that would enable him to steer balloons, make them travel against the wind and place them under the complete control of the navigator. It is these air ships which the Germans have of late been using over the Russian frontier.

Overworked Railroad Guards.

LONDON, April 20.—In reporting to to Board of Trade on a recent fatal accident to the guard on a goods train of the Midland Railroad Major Marindin condemns without measure the habitual overworking of employes on English railways. The dead guard worked for consecutive periods of 20, 17, 23 and 23 hours, immediately before the period during which he was killed. Other employes suffered similarly, mostly owing to the fact that goods trains seldom run on time. The engine driver on the same train with the dead guard had been on 47 consecutive hours and 40 minutes at one time and 48 consecutive hours two days later. Only five hours were allowed often between periods of 25 and 18 hours. In the week after the week in which he remained out on the long periods mentioned the same engine driver worked for two periods of 61 and 70 consecutive hours. Major Marindin says that the railways must be compelled to largely increase their forces in order to assure the safety of trainmen as well as of passengers.

Dominion Parliament.

The Government Refuses a State Funeral to the Ex-Premier.

OTTAWA, April 19.—The refusal of the Government to grant a State funeral to the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie in response to the request of Mr. Mowat is freely talked of here. It is not considered that the friends of the deceased statesman would have accepted the offer, but that is no justification for its refusal. Leading Conservatives are not slow to express their opinion that had the late Conservative leader, Sir John Macdonald, been alive this would not have been the case.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier will leave for the west to attend the funeral.

Hon. David Mills and James Sutherland, Liberal whips, arrived here this morning. The first dispatch which Mr. Mowat received from Sir John Thompson was that the House would only adjourn for to-day and sit again to-morrow. This did not meet with the views of the Liberals, and Messrs. Mills and Sutherland came to lay the matter before Parliament and ask for a longer adjournment. In the meantime the Government arranged to adjourn until Thursday, and this proposition was accepted by Mr. Laurier, and the other Liberals and Messrs. Mills and Sutherland will leave to-night to be present at the funeral.

The United States agree to prohibit stealing, save 7,500 for the subsistence of the natives.

Provision is made for the seizure of offending vessels; for the continuance of the clause allowing British agents to visit the seal islands. In the event of a decision of the arbitrators adverse to the United States, then compensation is to be paid Great Britain. On the other hand, Great Britain is to compensate the United States. He called up the Diamond National Bank by telephone and asked if it could supply the Marine with $500 in change. The reply was favorable, and he immediately called and secured the money. The cashier of the Diamond Bank afterward discovered that the check for the money was dated one day in advance, and, notifying the officials of the other institution, was told it was a forgery. The boy is still at large.

STATING THEIR VIEWS.

Temperance People Talk to the License Commissioners,

And Present Several Points for Consideration.

The Centralization of the Liquor Traffic Urged—The Restaurant Business Condemned—An Early Closing Petition Chairman Regan's Reply.

The temperance people took possession of the license commissioners' meeting this morning at Inspector Henderson's office on Queen's avenue. The advertised purpose of the meeting was the hearing of any objection against the granting of licenses to any applicants.

Wm. Bowman, Professor Bowman, D. A. McDermid, Rev. H. C. Speller, Dr. Arnott, Rev. George Boyd, Rev. Stephen Bond, and Rev. A. C. Courtice represented the London Temperance Union, while a delegation of W. C. T. U. ladies was also present. Mr. D. Regan, the chairman of the board, and his associates, Messrs George M. Reid and Charles Elliott, together with Inspector Henderson, were there to hear and consider what was said pro and con. It was mostly pro.

Rev. H. C. Speller was the first to speak. The temperance people, he said, felt gratified at the results produced in the city by reason of the action of a year ago, and were there now on the same mission. They would like to say something as to the licenses that should be cut off. They didn't want to dictate to the board, as the latter might know more about the circumstances than the temperance people. Lyingat the bottom of the traffic was not the desire to feed men with whisky, but to get gold by so doing. This leads some of them to violate the law. For this reason the whole trade should be brought into as small a compass as possible, so that it might be under better police surveillance. Outlying saloons, grocery stores that had licenses and places where liquor is not allowed to be sold by the glass, but where he was sorry to say it was sold that way, were the least desirable. The list to be presented was one that would bear the best investigation of the board and aid them in more speedily determining what places should have licenses. The reverend gentleman alluded to the "indignation" meeting held in the east end to protest against the "injustice" done that section in limiting it to one license. There was a modicum of truth in the indignation, as some of those cut off there were more respectable places than others sustained in the city. The traffic should be taken away as much as possible from the residential portions of the city in order to guard the boys who were growing up. Many alleged that restaurants were a necessity and must have a bar or they would not pay. Young men often desired to treat their friends to oysters, etc., and were exposed to the tempting influence of the bar. These restaurants threw a spirit of respectability around this sort of thing that seemed very enticing. There were places where legitimate refreshments could be procured where there were no bars, and the temperance people submitted a list of those restaurants which should be cut off. The speaker knew of one establishment in which the profits of the bar in the first year of its licensed business reached $3,000, while the tables did not pay.

Wm. Bowman made a few remarks confirmatory of Mr. Speller. The commissioners knew the circumstances as well as the temperance people. They asked that the board exercise its judgment in cutting off those places most detrimental to the city's interests.

Rev. George Boyd directed the special consideration of the board to Hamilton road, where he had been compelled to visit much of late. He felt that a large proportion of the workingmen's wages was spent in drink there. He had noticed that a renewal of licenses was given to men who frequently violated the law. This should not be. In the old country these men would forfeit their licenses.

Rev. Stephen Bond said he had submitted to Mr. Henderson a largely-signed petition asking that the bars be closed at 10 o'clock. People in saloons after that hour were not there for purposes which the commissioners would desire to further. Young men in responsible positions by late attendences at such places were liable to particularly disqualify themselves for their occupation next day. The earlier closing would be exceedingly desirable in the interests of morality, financial safety and the business of the city.

Mrs. J. F. Robinson read a few words from Mrs. Thornley, who is out of the city. She asked a total separation of the grocery and liquor business. All right-thinking people would approve of the early closing petition.

In reply Chairman Regan said the board appreciated the good his auditors had done for temperance in the city. Mr. Speller said there had been some indignation as to their treatment of the eastern part of the city. The licenses there had been dealt with entirely at the suggestion of the temperance people, namely to centralize the business as much as possible. They knew there were just as respectable men in the trade at that end of the city as in the center, but the limitation was made in obedience to the views of the temperance people. The opinion that the traffic should be centralized was a strong one, because workingmen as a class lived in the outskirts and might not buy liquor if they had to come to the city for it. He promised that the board would give its best consideration to the points submitted. The temperance movement was undoubtedly abroad in the land. He was very forcibly impressed with this fact during a recent trip in the North. The taverns that some fifteen years ago flourished along the road every four or five miles were now bankrupt. The property was useless, unoccupied and abandoned. Prohibition seemed to be coming whether by law or moral education. There was a time when drunkenness was not looked on with disfavor, but now a man felt a reproach if seen under the influence of liquor. He was prepared to give the fullest measure of credit to those who had brought about this state of affairs—largely the ladies.

"That's the best temperance speech made to-day," said a minister. And then the deputation filed out.

Suddenly Swung Into Space.

INVERNESS, Fla., April 20.—Four negroes were jailed here Sunday night for the murder of Stevenson and Hayne. Their names are Jerry Williams, Albert Robinson, Willie Williams and George Davis. A strong body of masked men surrounded the jail about midnight and overpowered Deputy Sheriff Cott. They took out three prisoners and hanged them to trees near by. Before they were swung into eternity they made confessions and implicated a fourth. Then this one was secured and hanged. The confession did not implicate the remaining two in jail, though it did implicate two negroes yet at large, and for whose capture no stone will be left unturned.

Notice to the Public.

CONTRARY TO THE CITY BYLAWS—Shop-keepers and others are making a practice of distributing dodgers, depositing waste water, ashes and the sweepings of their shops and houses on the city streets and the Market Square, thereby making it impossible to cause the city to have a clean or orderly appearance.

It is therefore requested that the public will refrain in every way from this practice, and assist in making the streets look clean.

Any infraction of the bylaws in this or any other respect will be strictly enforced and dealt with as the law provides.

Pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Sparta, N.J., voluntarily writes strongly in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. He says: "Nothing I know of will cleanse the blood, stimulate the liver or clean the stomach like this remedy. I know of scores and scores who have been helped or cured by it."

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient, action. d

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRUCE.

The sheriff of Bruce has appointed Fred. Kleist turnkey of the jail. The late John Erdman held the position for fourteen years.

BRANT.

An infant child of John Lalor, a laborer in Bow Park, was smothered to death in bed by its mother. The affair was purely accidental and an inquest was not deemed necessary.

John Lamb, an employe in the Massey-Harris Company in Brantford, had a thumb wrenched off and two fingers badly crushed by being caught in a wheel on Monday.

ELGIN.

A large sale took place last Tuesday at Messrs. Medcraft's, near Sparta. The sale realized about $4,000. The thoroughbred sheep were sold at fair figures. Yearling lambs ranged from $16 50 to $20 each; ewes with lambs at their side from $23 to $30 each; thoroughbred pigs, 5 weeks old, $5 each; 2 thoroughbred sows brought $48; cows $45 each; 7 steers averaged $58 each; horses ranged from $80 to $95. The splendid 150-acre farm sold for $12,000.

Mrs. Martha Little, aged 76, an inmate of the Elgin House of Industry, died on Monday.

Duncan P. Graham, farmer, of Iona Station, died on Monday. Mr. Graham was a young man, in the neighborhood of 35 years of age, and was one of the most energetic and progressive farmers in the township. At one time he bought cattle on a large scale, and thus became well and widely known in West Elgin. He was married to a daughter of the late Matthew Lodge, who, with several young children, survives him. The deceased was a son of Duncan Graham, of Dunwich. He had not been long ill, but latterly had been suffering from heart trouble, which was probably the final cause of death.

A Kootenay paper reports that Mrs. George Woods and child were drowned in Kootenay lake through a gust of wind striking the sail of the boat in which they were seated. Mrs. Woods was formerly Miss McDermott, of Elgin county. Mr. Woods had a narrow escape from drowning, but did all that was possible to save his wife and child.

Miss Maggie Moore tripped on a loose plank in St. Thomas while going to church, and falling, broke the bone of her arm at the shoulder.

Irene, the 12-year-old daughter of Geo. Stanton, Middlemarch, was severely burned about the hands and face by the explosion of a bottle of quicksilver which she was shaking.

The Board of Education of St. Thomas claimed $2,017 annually from the County Council of Elgin for the next three years as the proportionate cost of maintaining pupils from Yarmouth, Southwold and Port Stanley at the St. Thomas Collegiate Institute as county pupils, as based on the cost for the last three years, in accordance with the High School Act. The County Council only granted $1,400, and claimed that these pupils were not county pupils within the meaning of the act, because the territory had been set apart as a high school district some years ago, though no high school was established and no high school trustees appointed. The dispute was referred to Judge Hughes, as provided in the act, and he holds that the municipalities named do not form a high school district, never having been organized nor vitalized as such, and that the pupils therefrom attending St. Thomas Collegiate Institute are county pupils. He also holds that under the 37th section of the act the term county pupils has a wider application than that given it in the interpretation clause, namely, pupils not within the bounds of a high school district, and includes all pupils in any part of a county who may attend a high school in a town or city separated from the county for municipal purposes, as St. Thomas is from the county of Elgin. He has not yet calculated the exact amount to be paid, but it will be equal, if it does not exceed, the amount claimed by the Board of Education.

ESSEX.

A presentation has been made in Windsor to Theodule Girardot, inspector of schools for North Essex, by his friends and admirers. The present consisted of a handsome water pitcher and two goblets finely gilded. Inscribed on the stand of the pitcher were the words: "Presented to Mr. Theodule Girardot, inspector of schools, by his grateful friends." Mr. Belleperche presided at the meeting, and Henri Morand made the presentation in a very complimentary address in French. A number of prominent citizens occupied seats on the platform, among whom were Judge McHugh, inspector Maxwell, of the south riding, Sol White, M.P.P., Wm. McGregor, M.P., and others. Addresses were made by a number of those present, all complimentary to the guest of the evening.

A clever scheme to put an end to the prosecution of Prince Michael in Detroit for adultery has come to light. An effort was made by the prince's solicitors to secure Mrs. Mills' signature to two agreements. One was that for a consideration she would drop proceedings against the prince. The other was that on receipt of $1,000 the said complainant would release the defendant from any and all marital rights so far as said rights related to maintenance, support and alimony. Mrs. Mills refused to sign. It is said she is afraid of a counter charge.

The fifteen days allowed by law in which to appeal in extradition cases has elapsed in the case against Jim Butler, the escaped prisoner, and it is likely that he will be taken back from Windsor to the Jackson (Mich.) prison this week. The reward offered by the authorities will go to Officer Nash, who arrested Butler.

Officer Jackson went to South Gosford on Monday and arrested Geo. Henderson, charged with obtaining $150 from Daniel Fox by false pretense.

KENT.

Rev. S. J. Farmer, of Pembroke, recently received a call to the pastorate of the Baptist Church at Calgary, Alberta. He refused. Last week the Baptist congregation of Wallaceburg extended a call to Rev. Mr. Farmer, but he decided to stay with his Pembroke congregation.

A few days ago three men named James Eustus, John P. Leonard and Peter McDonald visited Tilbury Center and proceeded to "fill up" on beer. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon Fred Murick, who had been sent there by Mr. Shafer for some store supplies, offered the three men a ride back. When about three miles from the village the toughs commenced destroying groceries in the wagon, breaking into a package containing 31 pounds of tobacco. When the driver objected to this he was brutally assaulted and thrown from the wagon. Early next morning Mr. Shafer went to Chatham and laid information against them for assault and larceny. Constables Sloan and Shaw went out to arrest them on Saturday, but the trio had skipped.

LAMBTON.

The Sarnia Township Board of Health recently met and decided to notify the owner of the property on which Sarnia refuse has been placed that no more of it will be allowed to be placed there. The neighbors object vigorously. This is about the first meeting in fifteen years that the Township Board of Health has held.

OXFORD.

H. B. Beard, Q.C., Woodstock, was overcome by dizziness while standing on the steps of his house and fell unconscious. He received severe injuries, several stitches being required to sew up the wounds on his face.

PERTH.

A fire was discovered in Stratford early on Tuesday morning in the rear of Anthony's boot and shoe store, William Gordon's block on the corner of Ontario and Market streets. The block was an old wooden one, and the fire had made such progress before discovery that it was impossible to save it. The block was occupied by Poland, tailor; Way, boots and shoes; Post, barber; Brown, ticket agent; and C. P. R. Telegraph; Beutter, jeweler; Nichol, fancy good. Most of the stocks of these firms will be saved. The block was completely destroyed. It was worth about $3,000 and not insured. The fire was supposed to be of incendiary origin. The total loss is estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000.

WENTWORTH.

On Saturday Owen Nowlan, the Hamilton horseman, met with an accident. He was driving Parnell, and the stallion ran away. Mr. Nowlan fell and broke his collar bone and cut his head.

R. D. Bensley, the clerk and treasurer of Barton township, died after an illness of about six weeks. Mr. Bensley was stricken with paralysis, but until the past week or so his friends had hopes of his recovery. He was in his 64th year, and left six children. The deceased was clerk of Barton since 1877, and also treasurer of the township since 1879. He was well known as a good municipal officer, and he had many personal friends.

WATERLOO.

Henry Allemang died in Preston last Sunday, aged 42. He was at one time a prominent business man in Berlin, but for the last three or four years resided in Preston. He has been in poor health for a year or more, and his death was not unexpected. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss. He had the good fortune to be insured for $2,000 in the Workmen and $2,000 in the Select Knights.

WELLINGTON.

Henry Varley, of Calgary, formerly of Mount Forest, died on Saturday from hemorrhage of the lungs. He had been most successful in business in the West.

John Beecher, proprietor of the Union Hotel, Guelph, is dead, aged 42 years.

Jas. Chalmers, Minto, has sold his thoroughbred Durham bull for $4 12½ per hundred. The animal turned the scales at 2,450 pounds, which is the second heaviest weight on record from Wellington county, another being shipped from the Model Farm which weighed 2,700 pounds.

The license commissioners for South Wellington have granted the following licenses, viz.: In Guelph, to David Martin, Wm. F. Watson, L. Singular, John Doran, C. Reinhardt, Jas. Keough, H. Malone, J. McAteer, C. Schmuck, J. Hallett, M. French, Jas. Johnston, John Haugh and Mary Deady. In Guelph township, to Jas. Burns, Marden and J. Heffernan. In Pilkington, to Ed. O'Neill and Philip Ummal.

THE HORSEMAN.

The great brood-mare list now contains 876 mares.

∴

John Porter, a well-known English trainer, says that no, foals born after May are roarers.

∴

Parson Arney, the Michigan clergyman who had trouble with his presiding elder on account of a fondness for trotting horses, now has six animals in training and has just added to his string one with a record of 2:25.

∴

According to the Russian trotting rules a horse that makes four breaks in a heat or jumps 11 or more times in a break is disqualified.

∴

The English and European Governments will not buy a horse for cavalry purposes which has been docked, and officers are not allowed to ride them on parade, even if they be private property.

∴

A good foot-dressing to preserve the hoof and assist it in retaining moisture is as follows: Beef suet, two parts; beeswax, one part; tar, two parts; honey, one part; whale oil, four parts. Mix and melt over a slow fire, and apply to sole and wall of foot twice a week.

∴

Professor Wilkins, of Vienna, finds that in horse-breeding when the parents are different in color that of the mother most often results in the colt. Bay is the most frequent color, black the scarcest. There are only about 190 black mares per 1,000. The Arab is usually white, and 729 times out of 1,000 if the mare is white and the stallion is not the foal will be.

∴

A contributor claims to have cured cases of scratches, by bathing with thick sour buttermilk. It was applied by rubbing on with a cloth for about a half-hour at a time, and its effects were almost immediate. This is worth knowing, for if it will cure so severe a case of scratches as he describes, it would cure other sores, and an ordinary case would be cured by a single bathing.

∴

What is an ideal driver? He may be defined, briefly, as a horse of good size, high style and finish, including, of course, acceptable (preferably solid) color, magnificence of carriage and action, fair trotting speed, absolute soundness, and nerve and ambition in harness, combined with a safe and docile disposition. The horse combining all these qualities must, of course, be produced from trotting blood; and as in his breeding the question of high speed is subordinated to the greater essentials in an ideal driver fashionable trotting blood is not necessary to his production, though, of course, the truth should not be overlooked that the better the blood the better the horse, and the purer the pedigree the more money he will bring in open market.

No man can get very much of education without going to school to his mistakes.

HUNDREDS BEING RESCUED

MRS. OWENS STILL LIVES.
Looks and feels like a "new woman." A splendid example of what the forward march of science is accomplishing for the "gentler sex," even where all hope seems gone, and in its place only despair. If you would avoid the rocks which will surely wreck, and the deep waters which will surely sink your now frail craft, listen to the warning: "Suffering ladies of Toronto and elsewhere, I advise you to try the Histogenetic System of Medicine. It has done more for me in three weeks than I can tell you here. The remedies are unlike any I ever saw. It does not seem like taking medicine. No horrible, nauseating bad taste, and yet the curative power is wonderful. Two years ago I had typhoid fever, from which I have never thoroughly recovered. About four months ago my condition was such that I decided to undergo an operation, which I did, but have been still worse since. This was followed by inflammation and all kinds of bad results. My friends have all been much alarmed and very anxious about me. My husband's hard-earned money seemed worse than wasted on me. I was six months in the hospital at one time, and suffered dreadfully also with a diseased ear. Three months ago a complicated female weakness made my case still more hopeless. At last, and I believe just in time, I heard of the Histogenetic System and consulted Dr. Rear, of Toronto. He assured me there was one hope of ultimate and complete recovery. I took the treatment, and in a few days was some better. I continued to gain, and now in three weeks my ear has completely healed up, my system perfectly regular, organs all restored to natural position and condition. I am sound and well. I have walked nearly two miles to-day and feel none the worse for it. It is a grand treatment. Try it; you will not regret it.
"MRS. OWENS,
"98 Bond street, Toronto."
Free books; free examination. Just the actual cost of the medicine supplied. Experienced physicians prescribe for you free. Remember, all chronic and acute diseases treated, and you have only the medicine to pay for. Question sheets sent to outside patients, who are treated successfully at their homes. Will you believe the statements of your neighbors? Do you wish to get well? Try once more. If this fails all else will, for it is the latest and greatest achievement of medical science.
We cure these also—
If you have Nervous Debility, Consumption, Paralysis, Epilepsy, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Kidney Disease, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Blood Diseases, Female Weakness, Histogenetic Medicines will positively cure you if cure is possible. —[BROWNING.

London, Wednesday, April 20.

Mr. Mackenzie was both an honest man and a politician. His life is a standing rebuke to those men who stand aloof from participation in the management of public affairs because they believe that all men are crooked.

The Turkish Government has caused a panic by the issuance of an order prohibiting the importation of all patent medicines. How on earth are the Turks to obtain relief from that symptomatic "tired feeling" unless patent medicines are both advertised and sold?

The Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London yesterday strongly condemned political corruption and gerrymandering. The report adopted affirmed that "our country, at present, is cursed and dishonored by political corruption." How can it be otherwise when professedly religious men meet to rejoice over such rascalities as the theft of Mr. Hyman's seat?

"One of the last speeches made in Parliament by the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie," remarks the Ottawa Free Press, "was one in support of Mr. Blake's resolution proposing that Canada should obtain the right to negotiate her own commercial treaties—a proposal which has recently been described as disloyal and tending towards the disruption of the British empire. Mr. Mackenzie was a loyal Briton, but he was a true Canadian also, and did not believe in having his country's liberties fettered by Downing street red tape."

There was a great deal of grumbling when the jubilee coinage was issued in Great Britain. The designs accepted were held by the majority of people to be clumsy. That is probably the reason why the issue of coinage in 1887 was so small. Now new designs have been accepted, and the Queen is once more shown to be without a crown. This will be a decided change from the picture of Her Majesty on the current shillings and half crowns, on which she is represented as wearing a diminutive little coronet, apparently perched upon her head in such a manner that the slightest movement would bring disaster. A lady friend of ours says she is quite sure that the design must be that of a man, as no woman would dream of placing an ornament upon the head at such an unbecoming angle, or in a position where a bonnet-pin or hairpin of any description would be utterly impossible. The new designs more nearly resemble the royal head, dignified and simple.

A DEATH-BLOW TO THE LOTTERY.

It is a pleasure to record the fact that in the Louisiana State election just held the infamous lottery system has received its death-blow. The candidate for Governor who was nominated on the anti-lottery ticket has been elected, and, to all appearances the proposed constitutional amendment extending the charter of the lottery has been thrown out by the electorate.

The result reflects credit on the electors of Louisiana. No one can deny that the temptation held out to the taxpayers by the lottery company was a strong one. Give us, said the gamblers, the right to ply our occupation in the midst of you without let or hindrance, and we will pay into your treasury out of our gains the sum of $1,200,000 a year. By many, no doubt, this was looked upon as found money, and it was hard to resist the bait. Well could the manipulators of the gullible public afford to pay that sum, or double that sum if need be, for their privileges. The profits of the lottery managers in the last decade have ranged away up into the millions, and the ramifications of their dealings seem to have extended every recurring year. But the strong stand taken by the Federal authorities against the use of the mails for gambling purposes has reduced the volume of their business, the extent of which in Canada even was very large; and now that the people of Louisiana have decided against licensing the evil, the end should not be far off.

No organization has done more to encourage the gambling mania on this continent than the combination now overturned in the only State that has profited by its operations. It is very questionable, however, if Louisiana did not lose more through the demoralizing influences of the lottery than it gained in subsidy. When men and women are taught by the State to look for something in exchange for nothing; when they are familiarized with the methods of the professional gambler, they are apt to neglect honest industry, and too often adopt more than questionable means to obtain wealth. Then their descent is rapid.

THE NEW WAR IN AFRICA.

The King of Dahomey, against whom the French are once more sending an armed force, is successor to the old monarch come across by the trading Scottish ship captain, who, on his return home, was asked by a deputation from the local Presbytery, intent on missionary extension, "Does the King keep Sunday?" "Yes," was his ready reply, "and ilka ither thing he can lay his hauns on." If the story which a correspondent relates is well founded, the kleptomaniac tendencies have been put to account with wonderful success. This correspondent says it is believed on good grounds that an immense treasure—the accumulation of upward of two centuries—is buried in Abomey, the capital of Dahomey. Allowing largely for exaggeration, this treasure, the writer declares, is said to be worth a sum equivalent to 500,000,000 francs, or about $100,000,000. It is known that the successive kings of Dahomey have buried vast quantities of bullion within the precincts of the palace in a number of large pits, ten or more of which are said to contain gold and silver to the amount of several millions of francs each. Authentic reports of the existence of this treasure reached the French through missionaries and traders, and this readily accounts for the eagerness displayed by the French to capture Abomey. Whether the French resolve to storm the King's capital or not, it seems to be determined that their troops shall seize and hold Whydah, which is the only seaport Dahomey possesses, the other important port, Kotonu, about fifteen miles further east, having been ceded to the French. The cause of the present troubles in a nutshell is that, in spite of his protestations of friendship made as late as March 2 last, King Behanzin has been raiding for slaves among the border towns of Porto Novo, a region near the sea which is under French protection. He has destroyed five large towns and many villages in that district and has hunted slaves within 30 miles of Kotonu. He wanted these slaves partly for his annual sacrifices, when he butchers a large number of prisoners, and partly to sell. Of course the French have cut off the pension which was voted to him after the war of 1890 to induce him to keep the peace. Abomey, the capital, is about 80 miles inland. The worst feature of the situation is that a number of French nuns and priests who were in the missionary station at Whydah are in the hands of the Dahomeyans and have been taken to Abomey. They are likely to be used to extort favorable terms from the French at the close of the impending war. It is expected that some of the native tribes upon whom the Dahomeyans are continually making raids in order to obtain victims will readily join in fighting their oppressors.

PLATFORM, PRESS AND PETITION.

W. E. Gladstone, with his ever-fruitful pen, finds time to write an interesting review of Henry Jephson's new work on "The Platform, Its Rise and Progress." The great Liberal leader points out in unmistakable language that the three great elements in molding public opinion and in advancing the welfare of civilized nations are "Press, Platform and Petition." Mr. Gladstone concludes that we may reasonably hope that the three will hereafter be, as they have been heretofore, combined as harmoniously as the figures of the three Graces, and will contribute, each in its due measure according to the calls of the time, towards the consolidation and progress of free government.

It may fairly be questioned whether all three agencies are fully and wisely turned to account in Canada at the present time. The Press is a powerful agent for the instruction of the people, but a newspaper loses its force as an exponent of what it believes to be correct principles of government when it is recognized as a mere organ of a party or a body of men. The newspaper which excuses when it should condemn cannot be trusted. And the writings of an editor who takes up one position on public affairs to-day and another to-morrow at the crack of the party whip must necessarily be looked on with suspicion. Not principle, but expediency, is his motto, and a contemptible motto it is.

The Platform and the Petition are not often enough turned to account in influencing the public and the governing bodies. In Great Britain all the noted reforms of recent times have been promoted, most effectively by plain public speaking and petitioning, persistently carried on, year in and year out, in times of depression as well as in days of high hope.

As a rule, political parties in Canada seem to think it enough that they discuss their views before the public, and complete their organization, a week or two before a general election. That is not the way to obtain a good hearing for sound principles of government. It may be the most effective method for men who rely for victory upon stuffed voters' lists, on wholesale personation, or on other equally corrupt and despicable methods. But to obtain a calm, dispassionate hearing from the populace public instructors will choose other times than in the turmoil of a general election. When two great political parties are drawn up in separate camps, when acquired or inherited party predilections are strongly aroused, it is difficult to get men to look on public questions with that disinterestedness and consideration for the public weal that it is desirable should actuate them. For this reason the ADVERTISER holds that public men, with few exceptions, do not go before their constituents with sufficient frequency. If we had our way we would have every member of Parliament the Dominion over go before his constituents once a year to give an account of his stewardship, to give reasons for the political faith that is in him, to be "heckled," if need be, on his votes in Parliament. A defeated member of Parliament could well be asked to exercise the same privilege—in joint meeting, if it could be arranged. These meetings for the discussion of public questions on their merits, when the fate of neither Government nor Opposition would be impending, might be of incalculable benefit in educating the member of Parliament as well as the people. For it should not be forgotten that an M. P. who came before his constituents year after year with a record of broken pledges, of votes to condone wrong-doing because a party boss demanded that sacrifice of him, would lose prestige, and would deserve to forfeit the confidence of even those whose votes sent him to Parliament.

How much more honorable and useful would a fair, open, above-board warfare like this be than much of that conflict that we in Canada have witnessed in recent years? Every honest man should strive not only to increase the effectiveness of the Press as an agency for the betterment of the race, but the Platform and Petition as well. In their respective spheres they may be made powerful agents to combat wrongdoing and secure needed reforms.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

Babyland for May greets the babies with a smile as sweet as the month itself bestows. There is a May-day story about the Kits that went a-Maying, which will please baby and Mamma, as Babyland's stories are sure to do, and there are bright little incidents and merry tales with pictures that speak for themselves—enough to last for Baby's bedtime and playtime until the next number arrives. 50 cents a year; 5 cents a number. John Burroughs has written for the May number of the North American Review an article on Walt Whitman, under the head of The Poet of Democracy. Lady Jeune, whose receptions are so agreeable and noteworthy a feature of the London season, has written an article of London Society for this month. The Exclusion of the Chinese from the United States is the subject of an article which the Hon. John Russell Young, late United States Minister to China, has written for the May number.

The lily of the valley has become the popular flower of the season in England, for the flagrant little blossom was the favorite flower of the Duke of Clarence. With the exception of a heart in violets, it formed the cross which the Princess May placed over the remains of her betrothed, and held chief place in the floral tribute of the dead Prince's brother and sisters. The flower is cultivated in the neighborhood of Sandringham, and millions of roots are sent to all parts of the country.

The very remarkable statement is made that Fanny Crosby, who is known wherever church music is heard, from her "Pass me not, O gentle Saviour," is the author of 3,000 hymns. The most famous of her religious songs was written 23 years ago, and since that time she has continued to produce them with unremitting industry. She lives now in New York and is 63 years old. No other writer of hymns, not even Dr. Watts, has been so prolific, though Dr. Robert Lowry, of Plainfield, New Jersey, is said to have produced several hundred. It was he who wrote "Shall we gather at the river?"

A CANADIAN PROTECTIONIST ABROAD.

[Hamilton Times.]

The big bell that calls the MacNab Street Presbyterian congregation to prayers was the gift of an old Hamilton boy, Senator James McMillan, of Detroit, Republican Senator for the State. Now Jim wants Uncle Sam to build gunboats for his protection from the warlike Canucks. Jim ought to be ashamed of himself.

NO MORE ELLIOTIZING WANTED.

[Brantford Expositor.]

The Dominion Government announces a bill to amend the Franchise Act and reduce the cost of revision. The most effective way of dealing with the Act would be to abolish it, but as the Tories will not consent to this, any measure of relief will be welcomed by the Liberals. It is to be hoped care will be taken that no more constituencies will be Elliotized.

A BURNING SORE LEG.

Ulcers Form. Hospitals and Doctors Useless. Crazed with Pain. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

About eight years ago I wrote you from Wilkesbarre, Pa., describing how your wonderful remedies completely cured me of a terrible case of eczema or salt rheum. I must now tell you what CUTICURA REMEDIES have again done for me. On the 22nd of last September I had the misfortune to bruise my leg, and I put a piece of sticking plaster on it. Inside of a week I had a terrible leg. My wife became frightened and advised me to go to a surgeon. I went, and doctored for two months, but no good was done me, besides costing me big money. My leg had by this time formed into an ulcer, and got worse every day. I could not stand it any longer, and made up my mind to go to a hospital and see if I could be helped. I went to several here in the city, in turn, but none could do me any good. I had a terrible leg, with a hole in it as big as a dollar, and pain that almost set me crazy. I got scared about it, and determined to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. I obtained a set, and inside of five weeks my leg was healed up as well as it ever was, except the terrible scar it left for a reminder of what was once a terrible sore leg. These REMEDIES are worth their weight in gold.

EPPS'S COCOA—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast-tables with a delicately-flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. THE CRANK HAS COME.

Comes now the crank upon the scene;
Who lays aside his reason;
Who talks of naught but fouls and flies;
Who lauds his favorites to the skies,
Who splits with yells the azure dome
When Ginger Johnson slides in home,
Who wants to break the umpire's face
When Houlihan's denied first base,
Who wearies all his fellow-men
By playing each game o'er again,
Who goes to sleep to dream o' nights
That we've the pennant dead to rights;
For now's the baseball season.

ATHLETICS.

In the light-weight fight between Geo. Dawson and Billy Gallagher at the California Athletic Club, San Francisco, on Monday night the purse was $1,250, but there was a great deal of money up. All the end of 42nd round Gallagher's seconds threw up the sponge. It was pronounced a "good" fight throughout.

CHESS.

The chess match between S. Lipschutz, of New York and J. Showalter, of Kentucky, for the championship of the United States and $750 a side, has begun.

FOOTBALL.

THE WHEEL.

French laws require cyclers to always carry a bell; the lamp must be kept lighted after dark, even if the cycler is walking and pushing his machine; the machine must have a plaque with the name and address of the rider; a permit card is required on certain streets; a bicycle must not be wheeled on a footpath, even it the cycler be dismounted and walking with his machine.

C. H. Shadbolt, of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, has broken the world's record for miles ridden in a year. It was 12,580 miles in twelve months. He has already ridden 12,581 in eleven months, and as he has nearly another month to go he expects to set the peg at 14,000 miles.

THE TURF.

Jem Goater, the famous English jockey, is dead.

The Canadian stallion, Alvin, 2:14½, has been purchased by Capt. James Willen and A. A. Parke, of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Robert Bonner is very enthusiastic over the 2-year-old colt by his great stallion Ansel that he purchased at the Stanford sale last winter. The youngster was 2 years old last month, and he can show better than 2:30 gait. The Ansels are all natural trotters, and they should make great race horses.

CRICKET.

The Canadian Cricket Association was fully organized Tuesday night at a meeting at the Walker House, Toronto. The officers elected are: Honorary president, his Excellency the Governor-General; president, John Wright, Toronto; vice-presidents, Capt. C. C. Newton, Montreal; C. P. Wilson, Winnipeg; Hon. C. E. Pooley, Victoria, B.C., and N. A. Henry, Halifax.

LACROSSE.

THE DEAD EX-PREMIER.

Tributes to His Memory In the House of Commons.

Feeling Addresses of Sir John Thompson, Mr. Laurier and Hon. David Mills.

OTTAWA, April 20.—In the House yesterday the attendance of members was small, owing to the knowledge that the business would be merely formal previous to adjournment until after the funeral of the late Ex-Premier. The proceedings were brief and melancholy. After routine, the following panegyrics were delivered:

Sir John Thompson—Mr. Speaker, I think that probably the first duty which the House owes to its own history and to the country, and on reassembling after the vacation, is to notice the great loss which the House has sustained, and which Canada has sustained, by the death of the honorable member for East York. If it devolved upon me to-day, if it devolved on anybody to state the great public service, the estimable character and worth of the honorable member for East York, I would greatly prefer that that duty should have fallen to those along with whom he served in public life, when he was at his prime, because when it was my good fortune to enter this Parliament the honorable gentleman had ceased to take that active part in which for many years he occupied so commanding a position, and did himself so much honor and the country such useful, zealous service. Fortunately, however, for me, Mr. Speaker, the history of the country supplies what is deficient in myself in this regard. The achievement of the honorable gentlemen, his zeal in the public service, the great position which he sustained not only officially in this country in connection with the public affairs, but in the estimation of the people of Canada, are part of the records of the country. Now, I can only say, on behalf of the gentleman who are co-operating with me in this Parliament, that I am expressing their sentiments when I state the services I have mentioned and the qualities which I have referred to evoke from us the greatest esteem. Those of us who were in the House when he was active in political struggles, and those of us who had not entered on public affairs in Canada, feel as deeply, I am sure, as the honorable gentlemen of the opposite side of the House that a great tribute of respect is due to the memory of the gentleman who devoted his great abilities, great zeal and great talents disinterestedly to the service of Canada. We feel, therefore, that it would be incumbent on the House, out of respect, not only, as I have said, for its own history, but out of respect for the public feeling in Canada, instead of transacting the business which is on the order paper to-day, we should ask adjournment, and that the adjournment should take place till Thursday in order that, as many members of the House as feel able to do so may be present at the funeral obsequies, which, I understand, are to take place in Toronto to-morrow. With these observations, Mr. Speaker, which I am sure but feebly express the sentiments of the House, but which are very cordially given, not only on my part, but on the part of those of whom I am the humble mouthpiece, I beg to move, "that when the House adjourns to-day it do stand adjourned till Thursday next, in consequence of the lamentable death of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, late member of the Queen's Privy Council of Canada and out of respect to his memory."

Mr. Laurier—Mr. Speaker, twelve months have not yet elapsed since death removed from among us the great man who had been for more than a quarter of a century the leader of the Conservative party and a most prominent figure in the national life of Canada. His demise was mourned over by the whole country, friends and foes upon that occasion forgetting the differences of opinion which had divided them only to remember these greater qualities which commanded universal admiration. This day we have to deplore the loss of one who was for many years the chief opponent of Sir John Macdonald, and who was in many ways as richly, although differently, endowed as himself, and who was undoubtedly in the estimation of all, I believe, the strongest character that Canada has seen for many years. On this occasion again I am glad to know—indeed I knew it before the Minister of Justice spoke—that all parties, friends and foes alike, would unite in a common and sincere grief. Although upon this occasion grief cannot assume the same intensity of expression which it assumed on the other occasion, there are various obvious reasons for that. It was Sir John Macdonald's good luck that he was struck standing at his post; that he died in harness; that he was removed under the very gaze of the public eye from the field of active strife to eternal rest; whereas it was Mr. Mackenzie's misfortune that he survived for many years his own self. For many years he has been prostrated by illness, and though his heart continued as warm and his mind as active as ever, his physical frame was shattered; he was condemned to silence; his services were lost to the country, and the public had long been reconciled to the painful idea of his death. There can be no doubt whatever that to one of so strong and energetic a nature these years of invalidity and of prostration must have been years of intense suffering, and death, whenever it came, was looked upon as a relief. At last, in the very hour, on Easter Day, of that day which, in the faith of Christians, is the symbol of victory over death, his long-imprisoned soul was released from his shackles, and he now lives forever. Already the Canadian people realize the magnitude of the loss they have sustained; and, indeed, Mr. Mackenzie was a unique man in his day. Living in an age, which was not particularly distinguished for staunch adherence to principle, he never wavered from what he thought to be right, and God gave him to see the right. Living in an age when success was very often held to be a primary condition, success with him was never a primary or secondary condition. He strove for the right as he saw the right, and indeed it is a matter of history that when he was in office he could have conciliated public opinion and perhaps continued to enjoy power if he had consented to deviate ever so little from these principles of political economy, which alone he held to be true. But on this occasion his stern character again asserted itself. He risked everything and he lost all, and he did it cheerfully. Such examples are rarely, if ever, met in our own day, and to find any parallel you have to go back to the days of Puritan England, when men fought and bled for principle, holding any kind of compromise in scorn. Such were the principal qualities which distinguished, I believe, above all others Mr. Mackenzie's career. Indeed, his strong qualities as a public man are well known. There was, however, another aspect of his character little known to the public, and perhaps, entirely misconceived, but well known to those who had the privilege of his friendship. He was supposed to be stern, cold and ungracious; but the very reverse was the truth. He was richly imbued with that quaint humor peculiar to his own race, little to be suspected under somewhat reticent exterior, but to which the unrestraint of intimate life acted as a stimulant, and which then broke forth into copious and rich fancy. To those who had the privilege of his hospitality he was one of the most agreeable of men, and with that, he had a kind heart—a most kind heart indeed—which always responded generously when he was properly appealed to. In many ways Mr. Mackenzie was an exceptional man. I may say—and I am sure in this, all will agree—that he united many qualities seldom found together, and which, combined, made him one of the truest and strongest characters to be met in Canadian history. I agree to the motion.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell)—I beg to make a few observations to the House on the important subject now before us. It was my good fortune, sir, to be intimately acquainted with the late member for East York. I knew him before I became a member of this House. I enjoyed his confidence and his friendship during his public career in Parliament, and I am sure when he ceased to be able to discharge the duties to which he took a prominent part in this House the country felt it sustained a very great loss. I do not think, sir, there has been in my day, nor do I know there was in any earlier period of the history of Canada, a representative of the people in this House who in a larger degree enjoyed their confidence as a man. I am confident of this, sir, that however much those outside of Parliament and those who are representatives in Parliament may have differed from him, no one questioned his high character, his disinterested motives and fidelity to his convictions, whether they were held to be right or wrong. He implicitly believed that that cause which he espoused—those principles which he advocated—were those which, if they could be made successful, would best serve the interests of the people. Mr. Mackenzie, in early life, had not the opportunities of intellectual culture and education that were enjoyed by others, but no greater mistake could be made than to suppose he was a man of great natural ability and nothing more. I don't think I ever met one of a more retentive memory, or who was more industrious as a student, than the late member. He had a retentive memory, and there were few things embraced in English historical or political literature with which he was not conversant. Few men who sit in this Parliament or sat in any former period were better informed than he was. All know his debating ability. Few sat in this Parliament when he was in the prime of life and are here now that do not remember his extraordinary readiness as a debater, and few will say he ever mingled anything like personal bitterness with the subject of controversy, however warm he may have espoused the side he believed to be for the best. I am sure all honorable gentlemen in this House, whether members of the Conservative party or of the Reform party, will feel the country has lost a representative of extraordinary ability, of very great integrity, a man of very keen and tender sympathy, and who will be very difficult, to replace in this House for some time.

The motion was agreed to, and the House adjourned at 3:35 p.m.

With the experience gained in handling the Circular, knowledge of the Band Saw is much more readily acquired. Special improved tools also facilitate the work. We furnish an expert with each mill to instruct in the use of tools and work on saw.

The adjoining cut illustrates our NO. 1 BAND SAW MILL, capacity 10,000 to 20,000 feet in 10 hours. Our No. 2 mill is much heavier—capacity 20,000 to 40,000 feet per day.

LOCAL MARKET

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.
LONDON, Wednesday, April 20.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Trade has been only moderate during the week just closing. The general receipts were lighter than last week, and the demand also was considerably lighter.

Wheat continues low, and shows little inclination to advance; $1 35 per 100 lbs was the ruling figure for the week.

Oats have fallen off in supply somewhat since seeding commenced, but this had little or no effect on the market. Prices are steady at 85c to 86c.

Peas have "gone to pot." The week has witnessed a break of from 5c to 10 per 100 lbs; closing was 90c to 95c for ordinary.

Barley and corn dull and a shade easier. These were the only changes in grain.

Clover seed is now almost all picked up; there is none offering and values remain unchanged.

Butter was active all week, first quality being in good demand.

Eggs steady, with prices a shade higher; see following list for values.

Vegetable supply was good; potatoes and turnips almost impossible to sell. Early onions and radishes sold well.

Hay quiet at $10 to $11.

CHICAGO, April 19.

Corn and pork divided public interest with wheat to-day. A bulge of nearly 2c took place in the corn pit. Pork was almost panicky and slid down 3c. Wheat went off 1c. There was considerable stir in corn. It was due to some nervous buying, helped on by some manipulation. The firmness in corn for several days past, even when all other markets on the floor were weak, was a warning to the short sellers in May that it might be safer to get under cover. The opening of navigation has left practically no contract corn in store here. The last ten days of April have been reached, and still about all the No. 2 corn has the word "new" attached, and is ruled out of the contract grade. The weather has been against both shipments and grading. The action to-day was almost entirely May. It is said that Boyden's purchases of May corn for the past three days have aggregated fully 1,500,000 bu. Oats firmed out with corn, closing about ½c higher than last night. Too many hogs at the yards and consequent lower prices knocked the bottom out of the market for pork. Not even the strength in corn could sustain it. Trading was active, the public selling freely and the shorts buying, thus taking their profits. Wheat trading was largely local. The market opened weaker and prices ⅛c to ⅜c lower than yesterday's closing; advanced to the extent of the decline, and yesterday's closing figure was reached, but again became weak and declined ⅜c; then ruled irregular, and the closing was about 1c lower than yesterday. The demand for vessel room was lighter and more was offered. For wheat to Buffalo 1½c was asked, and shippers claimed to have been offered room at 1¼c. Corn room was held at 1½c to Buffalo, and 1⅜c was paid for corn to Georgian Bay.

ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.

Rest, kindly soul; the evening brings no knell,
Still surely following out the path of Right,
Of Honor, of Integrity, the shadows fell,
But in thy night the stars are bright
And all is well.

—Mr. Bartlett, of Glencoe, a brother of the late J. W. Bartlett, who was here to attend the funeral, leaves for home this evening. The widow of deceased will return to Ontario to live, but will leave her two eldest sons in Winnipeg.—[Winnipeg Tribune.

—Mr. E. T. Essery writes to say that Mr. Marshall's expenses in the East Middlesex election were $380 11 and not $1,281 11 as stated in the ADVERTISER. The mistake arose through a typographical error published in the advertisement in the Free Press, from which the figures were taken.

—At Osgoode Hall, in the case of Beneteau vs. Masuret, D. Armour, for the defendants Masuret and Read, moved to dismiss the action against them for want of prosecution. F. Hilton, for the plaintiff, contra. Motion dismissed; the plaintiff to go down to trial on May 4 at the London Assizes. Costs in the cause.

—Charles Crockett, of London West, was arraigned before Judge Elliot this morning charged with assaulting, beating, wounding and refusing to support his wife. —At Osgoode Hall on Tuesday in the case of Pavey vs. Davidson, T. H. Purdom, (London), for the defendants, Alexander Davidson, and Alexander Purdom, demurred to the statement of claim in an action by a judgment creditor of the defendant E. L. Davidson to have the defendant Purdom declared a trustee for the plaintiff and other creditors, of a certain mortgage over lands in the district of Oregon, U. S. A., made by the defendant Alexander Davidson to the defendant Purdom, who resides in London, Ont. The lands were conveyed by the defendant E. L. Davidson to the defendant Alexander Davidson, the plaintiff alleges, as a trustee merely. Love (London), for the defendant, E. L. Davidson, also supported the demurrer. The defendants contend that the court cannot give the relief sought owing to the lands covered by the mortgage being out of the jurisdiction, and rely on the recent decision of the Chancery Division in Burns vs. Davidson, 12 C. L. T. Occ. No. 93. Gibbons, Q.C., for the plaintiff, contra. Reserved.

Mirth and Music.

The Easter ball given at the O'Neill House on Monday night by the ladies of Woodstock was a gratifying success, and the committee of the fair sex who had the affair in charge are to be congratulated. There were from 150 to 200 guests present, the greater number of gentlemen being from a distance, a number coming from Toronto, Hamilton, this city, Simcoe, Ingersoll and other places. The dining-room of the hotel was in first-class condition for dancing, and the large halls afforded ample accommodation. The refreshments provided were the choicest. The music by the orchestra of the Seventh Battalion Band, under the leadership of Mr. Hiscott, was all that could be desired. It was not until after 3 o'clock that the last number was danced.

Gold Medal Awarded.

At the recent examination of graduates at the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, F. L. Botkin, a student in the office of Mr. J. H. Tennent, veterinary surgeon, of this city, won the gold medal, being the highest honor conferred by the college upon any of its graduates. Mr. Botkin won several other prizes for proficiency in various subjects. Mr. Clark, also a student of Mr. Tennent's office, obtained his diploma, having passed a very creditable examination. Mr. Botkin proposed practicing his profession in his native State, Indiana, and Mr. Clark will try his fortune in the State of California. Within a comparatively short time three students of Mr. Tennent have been successful in winning the gold medal given by the college each year. Mr. Smith in 1882, Mr. Blackwell in 1887 and Mr. Botkin in 1892 secured the coveted prize.

A London Boy May Get It.

A Montreal dispatch says: "The successor to the late Mr. Edgar as general passenger agent of the G. T. R. is causing no little speculation among railway men in general. Several names have been mentioned in this connection, among them being that of Mr. G. T. Bell, chief clerk for many years under the late general passenger agent. He has an intimate knowledge of the duties, as he did the work of the department in the absence of Mr. Edgar. Other names that are mentioned with a good deal of favor are: Mr. F. W. Walker, auditor of the company; Mr. J. Francis Lee, commercial freight agent, Chicago, and Mr. W. E. Davis, general passenger agent of the C. and G. T. R." Mr. Bell is a London boy, and the son of Relief Inspector Bell, of this city.

Much Ado About Nothing.

Rev. A. S. Stewart, of Kilmartin, was in London yesterday. He left with one of his parishioners on an evening G. T. R. train for home. The parishioner missed him after they had journeyed some distance and became alarmed. He notified the railway people at Glencoe and the village became all stirred up. A searching party was organized, and they came east on a hand-car. Another was sent out from Appin. The excitement increased all along the line. The reverend gentleman is well known and popular, and his friends feared that he had fallen off the train between Longwood and Appin, and had met a terrible death. Yet no trace of his body could be found and the mystery deepened. By-and-bye in the small hours of the morning anxious hearts were relieved when these facts were ascertained: Rev. Mr. Stewart got off at Mount Brydges, either by mistake or intentionally. He went to bed there, had a good sound sleep, and then left for home by the mixed train, leaving Mount Brydges at 8 o'clock. He is having a good laugh now.

Frise—Pratt.

This afternoon two young people joined hearts and hands and left for Uncle Sam's dominions. The groom is Mrs. S. Charles Frise, late of this city, and now in the music business with his brother in Flint, Mich. The bride is Miss Adeline Pratt, daughter of Mr. John Pratt, of Longwood. The ceremony occurred at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. A. J. Abray, 96 Wellington street, and was performed by Rev. G. W. Henderson in the presence of a pleasant company of friends and relatives. Mr. Charles Pratt, of Hamilton, assisted the groom and Miss Beatrice Rogers of this city was the bridesmaid. The costume of the bride was handsome, and she carried a beautiful bouquet of white flowers; the bridesmaid was attired in harmonizing colors. After the knot had been tied a reception was held, during which congratulations and the usual good-wishes were showered on the happy couple ad libitum. Many handsome and costly presents attest to the esteem in which they are held. Mr. and Mrs. Frise left on a later train for their new home in Flint. Both are popular in London, and a host of friends wish them prosperity in life.

How is This?

Judge Elliot this morning gave judgment in three betting cases which came up at the Division Court on Saturday. M. Cahill bet H. M. Douglas $50 that Hyman would be elected and Douglas bet on Carling. J. McMartin was stakeholder. Cahill sued McMartin to recover his half of the stakes. Judgment was given for plaintiff for $50 without costs. R. Richards vs. E. C. Wheeler was an exactly similar case and the same decision was given. R. Reid, jun., waged $100 to $50 with S. Hungerford that Carling would be beaten. R. B. Hungerford was the stakeholder and told his brother the Saturday after the returning officer's decision to call at his (R. B.'s) office and get the check for the amount, as he had won the bet. S. Hungerford said he did not receive the check until a week later, getting it from Mr. Andrew Ellis. Mr. Reid remarked to Mr. Hungerford about that time that "if the Tories were mean enough to steal the seat he was mean enough to seek the recovery of his money." Accordingly he sued R. B. Hungerford for the stakes. This came out in evidence, and Judge Elliot gave judgment for the defendant. The quibble was put forward and sustained that R. B. Hungerford's action in telling to call for the money did not constitute a regular payment.

TORONTO, April 20.—The residence of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was the center of a great throng of carriages and people this morning. The street in the vicinity of the house was packed with people by 12 o'clock, at which hour it had been arranged that the funeral procession should leave for the Jarvis Street Baptist Church. The remains of deceased statesman were in the drawing-room and were surrounded by a mass of marvelously beautiful wreaths betokening the sympathy of innumerable friends. Among the most beautiful of these were a wreath of calla lilies and roses from the Governor-General and Lady Stanley of Preston, a wreath of white roses and lilies from Hon. Wilfrid and Mrs. Laurier, an anchor of pink roses from the family of deceased, a wreath from Wm. Mulock, M.P., and handsome tokens of a similar character from the Toronto Reform Association, the Executive Committee of the Liberal Association of Nova Scotia, staff of Globe newspaper and many other bodies. The callers during the morning included a very large proportion of the most prominent citizens of Toronto.

The morning train from Ottawa brought in a very large delegation, including Sir John Thompson, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. J. C. Patterson, representing the Government; also Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. David Mills and Hon. S. H. Davies, representing the Liberal leaders.

The following members of the Conservative party also came from the capital to represent their comrades:

Quebec—Messrs. Desjardins, Girouard (Two Mountains), Curran and Cleveland.

Ontario—Messrs. Clark Wallace, Mackey, Denison, Cockburn, Kirkpatrick, Rosamond, Coatsworth, Hughes and Cochrane.

Nova Scotia—Messrs. Mills and Gillies.

New Brunswick—Messrs. McAllister and Wood.

British Columbia—Messrs. Earle and Corbould.

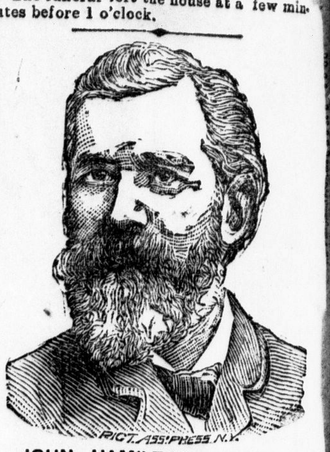

Manitoba—Messrs. Daly, Ross and Macdonald.

Prince Edward Island—Messrs. McLean and MacDonald.

Northwest Territory—Messrs. Davin and McDowell.

Of the rank and file of the Liberal party of the House of Commons fully three-fourths were on the train or had already arrived in the city and formed part of the tremendous cortege that an hour or two later proceeded from the residence of the deceased to the church. The members of the City Council met this morning at 11 o'clock, and proceeded in a body to attend the funeral. In accordance with the request of the mayor many citizens suspended operations during the hour of the funeral. The Reformers of East York, the constituency of deceased, met at the Reform Club house to attend the funeral. A. J. Boultbee, ex-M.P., and W. F. McLean, the defeated candidates in the recent elections in East York, were among the mourners. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. Dr. Thomas, pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, and Rev. Jas. Grant, of Parliament Street Baptist Church, offered prayer.

The funeral left the house at a few minutes before 1 o'clock.

JOHN HAMILTON BROWN,

Inventor of the Brown Wire-Wound Gun.

Dr. Woodbury, an American, first conceived the idea of making wire-wound guns in 1850, and ordnance experts have long agreed that such a gun was to be the weapon of the future. The ideal cannon must be both a military and economic success, and the past 40 years have witnessed many attempts to produce this much-desired gun. The highest powder pressure, coupled with the greatest power of resistance in the gun, and consequent greater initial velocity and penetrating power of the missile; such are the requisites of the ideal cannon, which must be garbed with the greatest facility and rapidity of manufacture. All are fulfilled by the wire segmental gun of John Hamilton Brown. The length of the powder chamber is 61.50 inches, with a tensile strength of 165,000 pounds per square inch. With a charge of three pounds of powder, the pressure is 514,550 pounds per square inch. From this description it is apparent that modern gun construction is on the eve of a radical transformation.

POLITICAL POINTS.

North Perth Liberals Re-Nominate James Grieve for the Commons.

The Liberals of North Perth have nominated James Grieve, ex-M.P., Millbank, as their candidate in the coming bye-election for the House of Commons.

The Toronto Conservative Convention is to be held on Wednesday evening, and the indications at present are that Mr. E. E. Sheppard will secure the nomination.

It is understood that Mr. J. Israel Tarte's paper, Le Canadien, will become the French Liberal organ.

The Dominion Ministry on Monday cabled an offer direct from Ottawa to St. Johns. It proposes an interim arrangement pending the conclusion of a formal conference between representatives of the Dominion and Newfoundland Governments on the questions at issue.

The Little Minister.

By J. M Barrie,

AUTHOR OF "WINDOW IN THRUMS," "WHEN A MAN'S SINGLE," "MY LADY NICOTINE," ETC.

On the west side of the hill; two figures:

"Tammas, hie! Tammas Whamond, I've lost you. Should we gang to the manse down the fields?"

"Wheest, Hendry!"

"What are you listening for?"

"I heard a dog barking."

"Only a gypsy dog, Tammas, barking at the coming storm."

"The gypsy dogs are all tied up, and this ane's atween us and the Toad's-hole. What was that?"

"It was nothing but the rubbing of the branches in the cemetery on ane another. It's said trees make that fearsome sound when they're in fear."

"It was a dog barking at somebody that's flinging stanes at it. I ken that sound, Hendry Munn."

"May I die the death, Tammas Whamond, if a great drap o' rain didna strike me the now, and I swear it was warm. I'm for running home."

"I'm for seeing wha drove awa' that dog. Come back wi' me, Hendry."

"I winna. There's no a soul on the hill but you and me and thae daffiing and drinking gypsies. How do you no answer me, Tammas Whamond, whaur are you! He's gone! Ay, then I'll mak' tracks hame."

In the broom; a dog cart:

"Do you see nothing yet, McKenzie?"

"Scarce the broom at my knees, Rintoul. There is not a light on the hill."

"McKenzie, can that schoolmaster have deceived us?"

"It is probable."

"Urge on the horse, however. There is a road through the broom, I know. Have we stuck again?"

"Rintoul, she is not here. I promised to help you to bring her back to the Spittal before this escapade became known, but we have failed to find her. If she is to be saved now, it must be by herself. I daresay she has returned already. Let me turn the horse's head. There is a storm brewing."

"I will search this gypsy encampment first if it is on the hill. Hark! that was a dog's bark. Yes, it is Snap, but he would not bark at nothing. Why do you look behind you so often, McKenzie?"

"For some time, Rintoul, it has seemed to me that we are being followed. Listen!"

"I hear nothing. Ha! McKenzie, at last we are out of the broom."

"And, as I live, Rintoul, I see the gypsy lights!"

It might have been a lantern that was flashed across the hill. Then all our part of the world went suddenly on fire. Everything was horribly distinct in that white light. The firs of Caddam were so near that it seemed to have arrested them in a silent march upon the hill. The grass would not hide a pebble. The ground was scored with shadows of men and things. Twice the light flickered and recovered itself. A red serpent shot across it, and then again black night fell.

The hill had been illumined thus for nearly half a minute. During that time not even a dog stirred. The shadows of human beings lay on the ground as motionless as logs. What had been revealed seemed less a gypsy marriage than a picture. Or was it that during the ceremony every person on the hill had been turned into stone? The gypsy king, with his arms upraised, had not had time to let it fall. The men and women behind him had their mouths open, as if struck when on the point of calling out. Lord Rintoul had risen in the dog-cart, and was leaning forward. One of McKenzie's feet was on the shaft. The man crouching in the dog-cart's wake had flung up his hands to protect his face. The precentor, his neck outstretched, had a hand on each knee. All eyes were fixed, as in the death glare, on Gavin and Babbie, who stood before the king, their hands clasped over the tongs. Near was petrified on the woman's face, determination on the man's.

They were all released by the crack of the thunder, but for another moment none could have swaggered.

"That was Lord Rintoul in the dog-cart," Babbie whispered, drawing in her breath.

"Yes, dear," Gavin answered resolutely, "and now is the time for me to have my first and last talk with him. Remain here, Babbie. Do not move till I come back."

"But, Gavin, he has seen! I fear him still."

"He cannot touch you now, Babbie. You are my wife."

In the vivid light Gavin had thought the dog-cart much nearer than it was. He called Lord Rintoul's name, but got no answer. There were shouts behind, gypsies running from the approaching storm, dogs whining, but silence in front. The minister moved forward some paces. Away to the left he heard voices:

"Who was the man, McKenzie?"

"My lord, I have lost sight of you. This is not the way to the camp."

"Tell me, McKenzie that you did not see what I saw."

"Rintoul, I beseech you to turn back. We are too late."

"We are not too late."

Gavin broke through the darkness between them and him, but they were gone. He called to them.

"Is that you, Gavin?" Babbie asked just then.

For reply, the man who had crept up to her clapped his hand over her mouth; only the beginning of a scream escaped from her; a strong arm drove her quickly southward.

Gavin heard the cry, and ran back to the encampment. Babbie was gone. None of the gypsies had seen her since the darkness came back. He had rushed hither and thither with a torch that only showed his distracted face to others. He flung up his arms in appeal for another moment of light; then he heard Babbie scream again, and this time it was from a distance. He heard a trap speeding down the green sward through the broom and dashed after it.

Lord Rintoul had kidnapped Babbie. Gavin had no other thought but this as he ran after the dog-cart from which the cry had come. The earl's dog followed him, snapping at his heels. The ten o'clock bell stopped. The rain began.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Gavin passed on through Windyghoul, thinking in his frenzy that he still heard the trap. In a rain that came down like iron rods every other sound was beaten dead. He slipped, and before he could regain his feet the dog bit him. To protect himself from dykes and trees and other horrors of the darkness he held his arm before him, but soon it was driven to his side. Wet whips cut his brow, so that he had to protect it with his hands, until it had to bear the lash again, for they would not. Now he was forced upon his knees, and would have succumbed, but for a dread of being pinned to the earth. This fight between the man and the rain went on all night, and, long before it ended, the man was past the power of thinking.

In the ringing of the ten o'clock bell Gavin had lived the seventh part of a man's natural life. Only action had been required of him. That accomplished, his mind had begun to work again, when suddenly the loss of Babbie stopped it, as we may put out a fire with a great coal. The last thing he had reflected about was a dog-cart in motion, and, consequently, this idea clung to him. His church, his mother, were lost knowledge of, but still he seemed to hear the trap in front.

The rain increased in violence, appalling even those who heard it from under cover. However rain may storm, though it be an army of archers battering roofs and windows, it is only terrifying when the noise swells every instant. In those hours of darkness, it again and again grew in force and doubled its fury, and was louder, louder and louder, until its next attack was to be more than men and women could listen to. They held each other's hand, and stood waiting. Then abruptly it abated, and people could speak. I believe a rain that became heavier every second for ten minutes would drive many listeners crazy. Gavin was in it on a night that tried us repeatedly for quite half that time.

By-and-by even the vision of Babbie in the dog-cart was blotted out. If nothing had taken its place he might not have gone on, and had he turned back objectionless his strength would have succumbed to the rain. Now he saw Babbie and Rintoul being married by a minister who was himself, and there was a fair company looking on, and always when he was on the point of shouting to himself, whom he could see clearly, that this woman was mrrried, the rain drove back his words. Presently the ceremony begsn again, always to stop at the same point. He saw it in the lightning flash that had startled the hill. It gave him courage to fight his way onward; because he thought he must be heard if he could draw nearer to the company.

THE TORONTO MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

[Wives and Daughters for April.]

The Ministerial Association of Toronto, when recently asked by the W. C. T. U. of that city to further the teaching of temperance in the Sunday schools, refused to take any steps in the matter.

So says a report in a daily paper which we have no cause to distrust. No reason was given for this singular refusal, and we are beaten about by the waves of speculation in an attempt to give a satisfactory explanation of it.

Perhaps the association feared that the free absorption of temperance principles in youth would almost certainly lead later on to an enormous increase of our total abstinence population. It is useless to close our eyes to the deplorable fact that such would probably be the case. It is painful to think of the bright boys speeding in unending procession along that brilliant broad path which leads to a drunkard's grave, and never allowed to get there because of the wholly uncalled-for interference of Sunday school teachers and others. Many a noble career of degradation and crime has been ruined in precisely this officious and inexcusable manner. Youth is a very impressible period of life, and when the earnest man or woman, for whose character and convictions he has learned to feel a great respect, pointedly warns him against the so-called evil of strong drink, there is a serious danger that he will abstain from it—nay, even that he will go so far as to make a life-long habit of abstaining. What a terrible picture do these simple words convey. Try to realize, if possible, the horror of a life in which young men never get intoxicated, in which mothers' hearts are never broken, nor fathers' heads bowed down with shame; in which there are no stings of remorse, nor vain strugglings, nor despairing yieldings; no enfeebled will, nor clouded intellect, nor shattered constitution. How tame, flat and dreary must that existence be which is robbed of these high-flavored ingredients. But do Sunday school teachers ever stop to think of this? Never! Availing themselves of their high positions of trust and responsibility, and in the very shadow of the sanctuary itself, they speak the insidious, blighting word which turns the boy who might otherwise be a first-class drunkard and an example to the entire community, into a commonplace total abstainer. This is a grievous evil, but the members of the Ministerial Association are equal to it. We can imagine them shaking their heads at each other and saying, "No, no, it would never do. We must stem this vast sickening tide of moral instruction which threatens to whelm the giant evils of the time. These evils must be kept alive, for otherwise where would be the need of a Ministerial Association?"

This is the first hypothesis that we have to offer in explanation of their action. The second has to do with the folly and blindness of W. C. T. U. women in stepping so far out of their sphere as to ask the association to move in the matter of teaching temperance in the Sunday schools. St. Paul expressly says that if a woman has a petition to make the husband at home is the proper official before whom to state the case. If temperance women have no husbands, or if the husbands do not happen to be at home, or if being at home they say that, "Oh, they don't want to be bothered," all that W. C. T. U. women can do is simply to let the matter rest. We own that no reform was ever advanced by letting matters rest; but really, ladies, do you expect that a creature as hard in the mouth as a ministerial association is going to trot off in the right direction whenever you flop the lines, and call out g'lang? We trow not. If your husbands absolutely refuse to drive, you will as a last resource have to surround the association with smiles of double-distilled sweetness, and say, "Reverend and kind sirs, we are poor, weak women, aspiring to be nothing but door mats worthy of the feet of men. We know nothing about the evils of intemperance, nor about anything else for that matter, because it is so unfeminine to know anything; but our husbands have declared that they will neither eat nor sleep until temperance is taught in our Sabbath schools, and in the spirit of pure wifely submission we come to you for help." Then it would be necessary for you to smile and smile quite a good deal more, and show your long lashes. The association would feel all smooth and tranquilized, and its members would lean one towards another and say, "Well, now, perhaps a little temperance in the Sabbath school wouldn't do so very much harm after all."

If the Ministerial Association does not consider the spread of temperance knowledge an evil, and if its masculine vanity has not been wounded, then we are at a loss to account for its curious decision. The three saving agencies of civilization are the church, the home and the school. A great multitude of parents are doing their part in the homes, and teachers all over the country are doing their part in the schools. What is the church doing? Why should it be lethargic? The churches of our country, if they would but exert themselves, could sweep every vestige of the pestilent evil of intemperance from the land. In the face of this fact the association's refusal seems all the more remarkable. It displays such a large amount of immoral courage where only a very little moral courage was required.

Dr. Froude succeeds the late Dr. Freeman as professor of history at Oxford University.

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM?

City stores are now seen at their best. Like Easter bonnets they assume a brighter appearance at this period. Among the finest displays of goods is that of A. Screaton & Co., 149 Dundas street, where anything and everything usual and requisite to a first-class drygoods house is to be procured. Special features of this well-known establishment are its carpet and curtain departments. With commendable enterprise the firm has secured the sole agency of the largest carpet factories in the world especially that of John Crossley & Son, Halifax, England. Screaton & Co. import direct from headquarters, their patterns are made expressly for their own trade, and those in need of carpets may be assured of getting the superior quality which has made the name of Crossley & Son famous. In the curtain line Screaton & Co. are prepared to offer special inducements. They have them in all shades, sizes, qualities and prices. They are making a specialty of fine Brussels net and Swiss curtains, and also carry an elegant assortment of portieres. These two departments are under the personal supervision of Messrs. Screaton and Bartlett—a guarantee in itself of their completeness.

It is not what its proprietors say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that makes it sell, and wins the confidence of the people.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Well, winter lingers, that is sure,
Within the lap of spring,
With coat and furs around me wrapped—
Of April do I sing.
Where is the genial, balmy air,
Of which the poet prates?
There is a marrow-curdling wind,
That seems suggesting skates!
I write these lines on an April day,
Within the firelight's glow;
Outside the noses, pinched and red,
Sniff nervously for snow.
But ere my rhyme gets into print,
And many a reader greets,
The linen duster may be seen,
Curveting through the streets,
The perspiration trickle down,
The 'kerchief be unfurled,
In honor of our climate queer,
Unequaled in the world!

—Chief Detective Day, of the G. T. R., was in the city yesterday.

—The street sweeper was out last night and cleaned up Richmond street.

—Mr. C. W. Sarvis, of Jackson, Mich., formerly of this city, is renewing old acquaintance ships.

—Vanderbilt Smith, Arnold Ivey and Cleve Hall, students of Upper Canada College, are in the city.

—Mr. Charles Frise, of Flint, Mich., formerly of this city, is visiting old friends here. It is said he will not return alone.

—Donations to the Convalescent Home are gratefully acknowledged. The list of donors appears in the advertising columns of this issue.

—Franklin L. Harvey, the publisher of the Melita (Man.) Enterprise, died on Monday night. He was a brother of Dr F. N. Harvey, L. D. S., of this city.

—It would be well to remember the sale to-morrow (Thursday) of household furniture, piano, books, etc., at the residence of the Rev. Geo. Brown, Dufferin avenue.

—The concert under the auspices of the ladies of the Methodist Church, Mount Brydges, was a great success. Water Commissioner Davis, of London, was in the chair.

—The Young Liberals had another splendid rehearsal last evening. The choristers are rapidly attaining perfection. One of the best features of the coming performance will be the drills by two separate brigades in elaborate uniforms. The solos and specialities will be new and bright.

—Mrs. Thomas Hodgins, mother of the late Ralph Hodgins, died Monday at the residence of her daughter-in-law, 283 Talbot street, at the ripe age of 69 years. Deceased leaves a large family and was extensively connected in this section of the country. The funeral takes place this afternoon.

—An eccentric character died on Monday evening in the person of Catherine or "Kitty" Ward. She had lived alone for many years at No. 587 Princess avenue, in a small cottage belonging to Mr. V. Cronyn, and, being badly crippled by rheumatism, had subsisted on the charity of neighbors for a long time. Her demise was rather sudden, as she was around as usual on Saturday. She was well known in the neighborhood where she resided.

—Col.-Sergt. J. D. McCrimmon, Col.-Sergt. W. H. Allen, Col.-Sergt. E. J. Freeland, Sergt. Geo. Hayman, Sergt. J. D. Jacob, Sergt. H. L. Milligan, Corp. J. M. Scarlett, Corp. J. H. Brown, Lance Corp. Beecher, of the Seventh, have recently passed the examinations on military, and been given certificates to that effect.

—The Falcon Guitar Club, a popular all-round musical organization of the city, entertained a large audience in the St. Thomas Opera House last evening. The concert was under the C. O. O. F. auspices and the club members report a good reception. The programme was varied in character. Among the contributors were: Messrs. W. J. Element, J. Fleming, G. Burrows, S. Drennan, J. O'Neil, T. Sullivan, R. Reid, A. Johnston, Williamson, Rockett, Carter and others.

The Hypnotist at the Grand.

Dr. Flint's performance at the Grand last evening was even more successful than his first exhibition. His subjects were absolutely under his control, and their irresponsible actions kept the audience in convulsions. One young man went through the house selling imaginary ADVERTISERS, bawling at the top of his voice; another peddled red herrings; another hugged a gentleman in the audience in the belief that it was a sweetheart, and many other ludicrous things were done. An immense stone weighing 500 pounds was broken with a sledge hammer over the rigid body of a youth.

Death of Lieut.-Col. Winlow.

The death of Lieut.-Col. J. B. Winlow, late town clerk of Strathroy, took place at the family residence, No. 151 Oxford street, London West. The deceased was born in Plymouth, England, on May 27, 1820, and came to this country at the age of 16, settling in the township of Metcalf, where he farmed for a number of years. He moved to Strathroy 37 years ago, and resided there until the last few weeks. Mr. Winlow was one of the active militia in the rebellion of 1837-8, and served as lieutenant, commanding a company. He did some hazardous duty in carrying dispatches during the disturbance. He married Elizabeth Moyle, of Metcalf, and his widow, seven sons and two daughters survive him. The burial will take place on Friday at Strathroy.

Where Marriage Was a Failure.

A Victoria, B. C., telegram says: "In the case of Welsh vs. Welsh and J. O'Flaherty as co-respondent Mr. Justice Crease granted a rule nisi to bring it up six months hence at the same hour and place. The petitioner, H. H. Welsh, was born in London, England, where he married the respondent in July, 1887. He came with his wife to London, Ontario, in January, 1890, and in May of the same year came to New Westminster, where he at present resides. While there he had information of his wife's improper relations with the co-respondent, O'Flaherty, and took proceedings with the view of obtaining a divorce on the grounds of adultery and desertion. A commission took evidence in London, Ont., where the fact of her intimacy with O'Flaherty was clearly proved, as also that she now lived in Port Huron under the name of "Nellie Howard."

The Kings of Minstrelsy.

A bumper house is assured for Primrose & West's minstrels on Friday night, the advance sale being rapid. G. H. Primrose is a former London boy, Primrose & West have established their claim to be called the "kings of modern minstrelsy." The jokes are fresh, timely and new, and the dances, particularly the clog dancing, extremely interesting. On the whole, the performance is claimed to be the best ever given by the company, and all who like an evening spent in listening to merry jokes, bright music, pretty ballads and clever marching and dancing, should not fail to gratify their taste by a visit to Primrose & West's minstrels. The feats of the Borani Brothers appear almost impossible to men of flesh and bone, and their flexibility in their various tumbling feats is little short of marvelous. The laughable sketch, "Trouble in Blackville," which ends the performance, sends all home in a paroxysm of fun.

"He Never Came Back."

Ex-Alderman Charles Taylor, who left the city a week or two ago under unusual circumstances, has not yet returned, much to the disappointment of those gentlemen with whom he was financially liable for the debts of the Ontario Mutual Fire Insurance Company, now deceased. The ex-alderman is known to be residing with relatives in Chicago. It now transpires that before he departed to live under the "Stars and Stripes," he made a conveyance of some of his property to Mr. W. H. Wigmore. Mr. Taylor was a surety in the company to the extent of $10,600, though his actual liability, occasioned by its insolvency, would not reach that amount. Money was borrowed on the strength of his guarantee from the banks, principally the Molsons. The Molsons Bank has now taken out a writ to set aside the conveyance of the property to Mr. Wigmore, on the ground that it was made with fraudulent intent to shirk the liability.

Wanted a Coat.

Contractor Murray applied two coats of paint to Askin street school instead of three, as the specifications called for. The fact was discovered, and last night he appeared before an Educational Board jury composed of Messrs. R. J. Blackwell, R. M. McElheran, J. S. Dewar and J. Brady. Mr. Murray pleaded guilty to the charge, but in defense said he didn't know the specifications called for three coats. He was cross-examined for about an an hour and reprimanded for not more closely scrutinizing the written terms of his contract. A verdict was brought in recommending the Board to deduct a reasonable sum from Murray Bros.' account, and that other contractors taking such action receive no further work. The engineer found no fault with the quality of Mr. Murray's work. Evidently there was no intention to evade the contract.

St. Matthew's Church Vestry.

The Easter vestry meeting of St. Matthew's Church, East London, Monday evening was well attended. Rev. W. M. Seaborn presided, and among those present also were Messrs. T. Clark, I. Stratfold, J. Lapthorn, D. Callard, J. Isaac G. Oxley, J. Chadwick, W. Homister, G. L. H. Minhinnick, A. Cook, J. Spearin, P. Murch, E. Gardiner and W. Henshaw. The usual reports were submitted, approved and adopted. A vote of thanks was tendered to the retiring churchwarden, Mr. H. Stratfold. Mr. G. F. Oxley was nominated as the people's warden; Mr. Thomas Clark was nominated as the rector's warden. The sidesmen chosen were: On the east side, Henshaw, McKenna and Chadwick; on the west side, Percival, Lapthorn and Isaac. Messrs. G. Minhinnick and I. F. Hellmuth were appointed delegates to the Synod of Huron. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Gardiner and the choir for their Easter service. After discussing several other matters of interest the meeting adjourned.

Everything Lovely.

Union Jacks, Stars and Stripes and bunting of red, white and blue, artistically and profusely draped, gave the old City Hall a rejuvenated appearance last night. Add to this the glow of many lights, the lively strains of Dayton's orchestra, and youth and beauty in natty attire gliding over the polished floor, and the combined effect of sight and sound was dazzling. The annual assembly of the Iron Molders' Union, No. 37, is generally a pretty nice affair, but last night eclipsed the record. The attendance was big, the arrangements were perfect, the supper was fine, and everbody was made happy. The general committee was composed of George Grant (chairman), John Walton (treasurer), and Thomas E. Tennant (secretary). The special committees were as follows: Managing—John Noulty, John Walton, Thos. Dwyer, Chas. McCharty; floor—Robt. A. Carroll, Geo. A. Murry, John Insell, Wm. A. Carroll, Jas. Stevenson; reception — Chas. Benson, Jas. Grant, Richard Stokes, Jas. Baker, Wm. Yelland; invitation—John Noulty, Robt. A. Carroll, John Walton, Thos. Dwyer, Geo. A. Murry, Thos. E. Tennant.

Boating Booming.

A very largely attended meeting of the members of the Y. M. C. A. was held in in the parlor last evening to discuss reorganization of the boating club. The commodore, Mr. Bart Howard, delivered an address, congratulating the club on the success of its initiatory season, 1891, and it was unanimously decided to renew the club for 1892. The officers were elected as follows: Bart Howard, commodore; W. J. Doherty, lieutenant; A. G. Lind, secretary-treasurer. Some important matters were discussed, upon which the Executive Committee will report to the adjourned meeting on April 26. The membership is already much larger than anticipated, and a splendid season is assured.

For Fifty Years a Member.

Since 1842, in capacity of deacon and member of Finance Board, Mr. Mathewson has been prominently identified with the First Congregational Church in this city. Last evening the congregation celebrated the 50th anniversary of his connection with the church. A large representation gathered in the basement, and the pastor, Rev. Robt. Aylward, presided. Mr. H. Crossin, after paying in a short address a high tribute to Mr. Mathewson read and presented him with a handsomely engrossed address signed by six deacons—Geo. Marshall, H. Crossin, W. Johnston, R. Moule, W. R. Langridge and W. H. Greenway. Mr. Mathewson, although feeble from continued ill-health, replied suitably. Short addresses were delivered by Rev. J. A. Murray, Geo. Marshall, Dean Innes, Canon Richardson, Wm. Davis, Rev. Mr. Shortt, Sam Grigg, Geo. Anundson, Sheriff Glass, Bert Crossin and Andrew Thompson. Miss Mutch sang a solo, and Messrs. Pink, Brock, Greenway and Anundson rendered two quartets, Miss Meek acting as accompanist. Those who were able to stay enjoyed a "cup of Congregational coffee" after the programme had been exhausted.

On Oct. 15, 1835, Rev. Wm. Lyall took the necessary oath and was authorized to celebrate marriage in this city. From that day dates the existence of the Congregational Church of London. To Rev. Wm. Clarke, however, the credit is given of having established Congregationalism in 1838. His successors were as follows: W. P. Wastell, Southwold, 1843; Joseph Silcox, Southwold, 1845-50; Edward Ebbs, London, 1846; John Durrant, London, 1847; W. H. Alworth, Port Stanley, 1848, and W. F. Clarke, London, 1849. Rev. Messrs. Porter, Watson, Boyd, Dickson, Wallace and Hunter were subsequently pastors of the church.

Every mother, wife and daughter should use Strong's Baking Powder; 25 cents per pound, guaranteed strictly pure, made fresh daily and sold only at STRONG'S Drug Store 184 Dundas street. 47tf

WONDERFUL EVENTS.

CERTAIN WONDERFUL EVENTS THAT occur from week to week, are recorded in our daily press, and create much surprise and call for comment amongst all classes of our population. Our people are quick to discern grand and worthy deeds; they feel that in some degree men and women are made better; and that notwithstanding the fact that the world is evil, there is still something worth living and working for. Certain newspapers have informed us of great and mighty cures, which to one class in particular these recorded events have proved a blessing, and brought comfort and cheer to many despondent hearts. Week after week we have had proof of men and women—old and young—who were saved from the dark tomb through the power of a remedy that not one paper in Canada had the generosity to mention the name, save the ADVERTISER, simply because they were not paid for advertising this remedy. This shows a most wonderful pecuniary principle on the part of an otherwise generous press. The principle of the ADVERTISER is to deplore such a state of affairs, and to give fair publicity to all worthy preparations. It therefore is a pleasure for us to give the honorable name of this wonderful medicine, known as the ROYAL CROWN BITTERS. It seems to be able to take hold of the worst cases—those for whom physicians held out no hope; who were pronounced beyond all earthly help. The weak, nervous, sleepless, despondent, morose, dyspeptic and rheumatic, are given new life, and anxious parents and relatives are filled with joy. All this has been accomplished by ROYAL CROWN BITTERS; and truly such grand and noble works benefit us as a nation, and future generations will bless the name of the great discoverer of the grandest remedy ever given to suffering humanity. tx
