Canadian Cavalry Reported On Turkish Soil GERMAN PEOPLE GIVE UP HOPES OF GLORIOUS VICTORY

CANADIANS NOW FACING TURKS?

Dispatch Indicates Cavalry Has Landed With British at Dardanelles.

NOT NEEDED IN BELGIUM

Operations There at Present Not Suitable For Mounted Forces.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, March 4.—That Canada's mounted soldiers are now fighting the Turks, with British expeditionary forces against Constantinople, seems to be indicated in a Reuter dispatch from Athens, published this morning, stating that the first detachment of troops forming the Allies' military expedition, including Canadians and Senegalese, has arrived and landed at the Straits of Dardanelles.

It has frequently been stated that Canada's cavalry will be the first contingent to go to Egypt, as operations in France and Belgium at the present time were not open to the work of mounted troops. The "extra divisional" mounted troops with the contingent are the Royal Canadian Dragoons, from Toronto and St. John's; Quebec, the Strathcona Horse, from Winnipeg, and Royal Canadian Horse Artillery from Kingston, Ont. All these corps are regulars but went to England strongly reinforced with drafts of men from all over Ontario specially enlisted for the war.

DOUBTED AT OTTAWA.

[Canadian Press.] Ottawa, March 4.—The militia authorities here say that it is unlikely that a Canadian force is sharing in the operations along the Dardanelles. Canada has been kept closely informed by the war office of the disposition of all Canadians, and there has been no intimation that any had been sent to this part of the world.

It is believed that some other colonials, probably the Australians and New Zealanders, are participating in the march upon Constantinople, but that all Canadians are performing military service elsewhere.

ROBINSON'S FATE IN HANDS OF JURY

Counsel For Defence Pleads Doctor Acted as Good Samaritan.

DID HIS BEST FOR GIRL

When Blanche Yorke Died, His Nerves Became Totally Unstrung.

[Canadian Press.]

Napanee, March 4.—No impressioned jury of orators greeted the ears of the jury when Mr. Robinson rose to make his address in the closing chapter of the Robinson murder trial today. The speaker couched himself largely to the medical evidence of the case, and pounded home the statements of prominent medical men in court. His address was comparatively brief, extending over a period of only 30 minutes. Mr. Hutchinson's was not even that length of time, forty minutes sufficing for his presentation of the case.

GOOD SAMARITAN

Medical evidence was the basis of the defence case as presented to the jury today by Mr. Robinson. "Did she or did she not come to him bleeding?" was the oft-repeated question put by the counsel for the defence. On this, he averred, hung his case. She had come to him bleeding, and (Continued on Page Three.)

GERMAN SUBMARINE RAMMED BY COLLIER

Claims of Thordis Appear To Be Substantiated and Crew Will Probably Be Rewarded—Her Propeller Blades Torn Off and Keel Damaged.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—The statement of the captain of the collier Thordis, which arrived at Westmouth two days ago, that the vessel had rammed and destroyed a German submarine off Beachy Head, appears to have been substantiated. The captain and crew of the Thordis probably will receive in consequence of their actions awards amounting to $5,000, which had been offered by various agencies to the first merchantman which sank a submarine. The Thordis went into drydock at Plymouth today. It was then learned that one of her propeller blades had been torn off, and that her keel was damaged badly, indicating the force with which the craft struck the submarine.

BRANTFORD THEATRE ABLAZE; WHOLE BIG BLOCK THREATENED

Firemen, Policemen and Soldiers at Work To Subdue Flames Which Break Out Across Street From the Scene of Wednesday's Fire.

[Canadian Press.] Brantford, March 4.—Just after 12 o'clock this afternoon the fire brigade was called out to another big blaze, this time in the Gem Theatre, recently remodelled, and ablaze terrifically. The location is just opposite the road from the big fire in the Crompton Block, and indications are that it is a more dangerous one than that. The Gem is situated in the centre of a long block, and if the fire once spreads the whole block will be doomed. Every available fireman, policeman and many of the soldiers and street railwaymen have been called out, and are now fighting the fire, which threatens destruction of an immense amount of property. The building is owned by A. C. Lyons, and is valued at $15,000. Loss is phenomenal as yet.

STARTED FROM MACHINE.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Brantford, March 4.—An electric arc in the operator's cabin of the Gem Theatre moving picture show started a blaze which is still raging here, and promises to prove disastrous if not soon checked. Although four fire engines are pumping water through ten lines of hose into the building, its situation, between the two business buildings of Newman & Sons, jewelers, and the Long Furniture Company, prevents the firemen getting at the heart of the fire. The theatre has already been completely gutted, and there is instant danger of the flames breaking through the walls into the adjoining premises, from which, however, all goods have been removed. The blaze started at 12:30 p.m., at the front of the theatre, but later worked through to the back, where it is three stories higher. Here the flames had a splendid sweep, and the firemen were practically helpless to check them. The theatre building is valued at $10,000, and the total estimated damage up to this hour (2:45 p.m.) is about $60,000, covered by insurance.

GERMANS DARE NOT RECEDE IN BELGIUM BECAUSE OF EFFECT

Staff Officer Admits Their Position There Is Hopeless, But People Would Strongly Resent Losing of Such a Dearly-Bought Territory.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—The correspondent of the London Daily Express under date of "On the Battlefield, Wednesday" says: "The German position in Belgium is hopeless, is frankly confessed by a German staff officer. 'We have no illusions about the fact that we are fighting for a lost cause. We are a wise thing to have retired weeks ago and utilized our strength in other directions. We dared not do so, our Government would not let us recede an inch, fearing the effect on the people at home. 'Fear Internal Troubles. 'As long as the German armies go forward, or at least hold their own, it is possible to keep the nation in a hopeful frame of mind; or at least keep it from despair. But news of our relinquishing territory for which so many lives have been sacrificed would have a terrible effect. 'Internal troubles are feared far more than a mere defeat of our armies in the field. If the people ever believe they have made sacrifices in vain, and that Germany is beaten, look out for revolution. They will not think so, despite the growing economic pressure put on them by Britain. 'Provisional Victory. 'The air and sea raids and the new submarine campaign against Britain have stimulated public opinion. The loss of the Bismarck did not cause the slightest reaction. Gen. Von Hindenburg's victory in the east was simply providential. 'Our people are tired of meagre bulletins which only state for victories. Incidentally Gen. Von Hindenburg's success as much as he surprised the Russians. 'Still this is a war of surprises. Now we are assured of a fresh lot of picked troops for Flanders, and presently we shall have to go to it again and throw a few more divisions into the abyss. 'The Allies will never turn us out of our trenches en masse. We can hang on till doomday, but I fear the Allies can do the same. Meanwhile the people at home are waiting for food and victory.'

PLAIN TRUTH FOR NEUTRALS

Sir Edward Grey Wants No Suggestions On Belgian Affairs.

GERMANS MUST LEAVE

Other Countries Can Help Put Them Out or Keep Silence.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—8:30 p.m.—"Unless neutral nations are prepared to assist in throwing the Germans out of Belgium, no suggestions from them in the matter of preventing the further devastation of that country are wanted," said Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, in the House of Commons today.

Query Answered.

The foreign secretary's statement was made in response to an inquiry from Frederick W. Jowett whether the Government was "willing to invite suggestions from neutrals with a view to avoiding the further devastation of Belgium by the great powers which are contending for its mastery." "The only solution," Sir Edward continued, "is the evacuation of Belgium by German troops, the restoration of her independence, and reparation for the wrong done her. Unless neutral powers are prepared to assist in securing that solution, I don't see what could be gained by the course suggested."

PASSED WORTHLESS CHECKS IN LONDON

Police Searching For Man Who Gave Name of Harry Findley.

CAME HERE TO ENLIST

So Declared To Those He Met—Checks Uttered Not Honored by Banks.

The police are conducting a search for an alleged fake-check artist, who signed his name as Harry Findley, and succeeded in getting London merchants, hotelkeepers and businessmen to cash his checks, which were later returned by the banks marked "no funds." Findley, who arrived here some weeks ago, put up at a local hotel. He was stated that he was an American who had come to enlist to help the British in their war against the Germans. The man the police are now seeking also said he was going to get a commission. He entertained lavishly some few acquaintances in London.

BRING UP 16-INCH GUNS

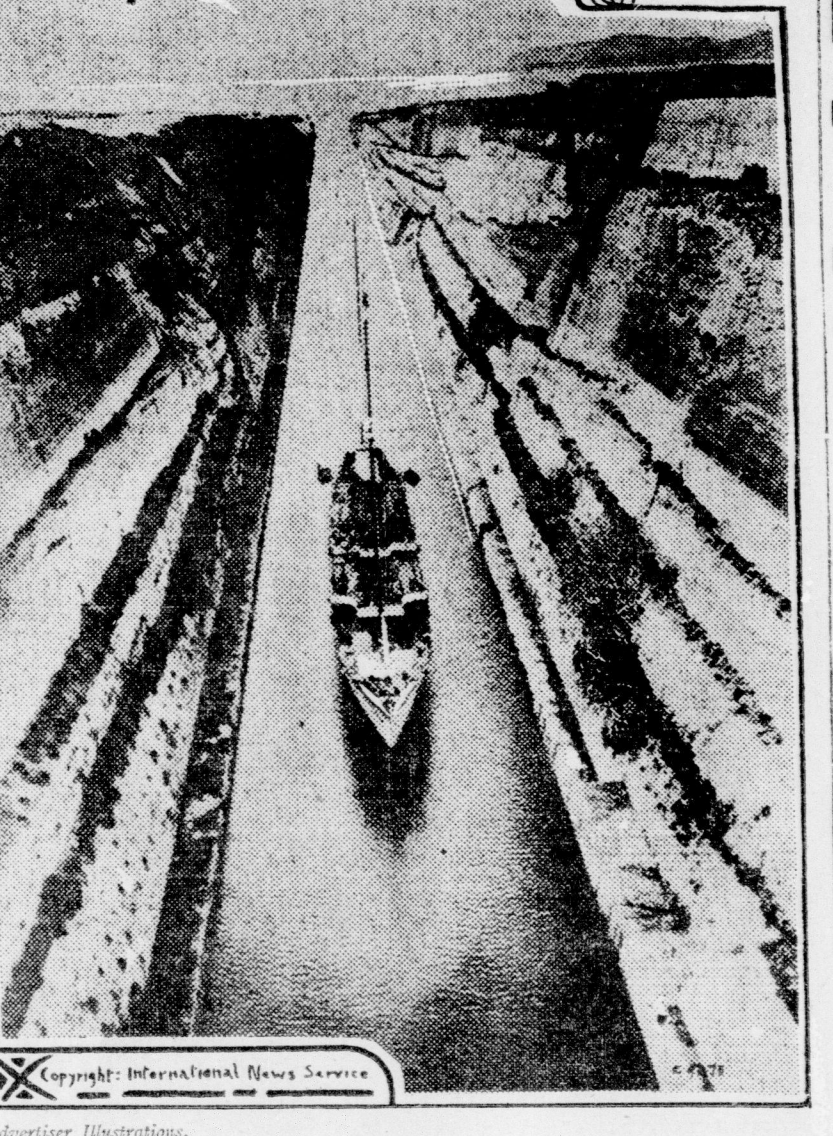

Only Chance To Break Through Russian Line of Fortresses.

[Canadian Press.] Petrograd, March 4, via London.—2 p.m.—The German forces in Northern Poland are starting for the Russian fortified lines near the Prussian frontier by capturing the fortress of Ossowetz. This battle, the outcome of which is regarded as of high importance, is proceeding with increased violence. The Germans on this occasion have succeeded in bringing up some of the heaviest and most effective guns, including the great 16-inch field pieces.

ASQUITH REFUSES MORE INFORMATION

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—Premier Asquith declined today to throw further light on the nature of the measures to be adopted by Great Britain and her allies in pursuance of their announced intention of cutting off trade to and from Germany. Speaking in the House of Commons, the Premier said: "The intention of the Government will be apparent when the orders of the council on the subject are published." His remark was prompted by a question whether, in case neutral ships carried goods to or from Germany, or of German ownership, and these goods were seized, the ships would be released.

Women of Berlin Riot Over Food Restrictions

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—The correspondent of the Daily News telegraph from Copenhagen says: "Berlin grows more and more alarmed at the coming potato famine. The newspapers print special potato editions, with pictorial advice on how to economize and how to grow the potato. I am informed that a week passes in Berlin without a disturbance due to the new food conditions. In nearly all cases the disturbances are caused by dissatisfaction among the women. These demonstrations are becoming more frequent and more violent. There already has been one case of riot."

Only Two of Turkish Forts Remain Intact

So British Officer Tells Athens Correspondent—Bombardment of Minor Positions Resumed Today By Ten Warships—Turks Burn Their Dead.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—1:25 p.m.—The allied fleet this (Thursday) morning resumed their bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles, according to a dispatch received by the Reuter Telegram Company from their correspondent at Athens. The text of the dispatch follows: "The bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles was resumed Thursday morning. Ten big warships took part in the operations. According to a British officer, only two of the Turkish forts remain intact. "Allied landing parties found the charred remains of soldiers in the damaged forts, showing that the Turks had burned their dead before evacuating these positions."

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, March 4.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Gazette says: "I learn from a trustworthy source that Berlin hears all European Turkish forces have been concentrated in the region of Constantinople and the Dardanelles. PEACE BECOMES GERMAN THEME

People No Longer Expect a "Glorious" Victory—Want "Honorable Peace."

PRESS PREPARING THEM

Says There Is No Chance of Gaining One Inch of Territory.

[Canadian Press.] New York, March 4.—A London Daily Express dispatch to the Herald, dated Amsterdam Wednesday, says: "Significant paragraphs appearing in the German daily and weekly press make it clear that the Government wishes the people to become accustomed to the notion that the peace Germany will be able to gain will not give her one inch of surplus territory. 'Even a post-German newspaper like the Berliner Post, whose active contributor, Gen. Von Bernhardi, was for years, admits that it is not wise to force German nationality on people who are not German, and who are not worthy of being turned into German subjects. 'In several reviews the same notion is impressed on readers with significant insistence. Suddenly Germany discovers that the Allies, the Poles and the Danes have given her encouragement, and that a 'good peace' must assure her a 'much-needed rest for later rebuilding. Doubt Enters In. 'No such rest is possible if Germany annexes, say, Belgium, for the Belgians have proved what they can do when called on. God knows what they will do to us if they think we want to conquer them. 'The general comment on peace—on that peace which the Germans are asked to be 'glorious' and now hopes will be 'honorable'—is in a minor key. Even Maximilian Harden, who has been throughout the war a bitter spoiler of 'rightfulness at any price' wonders what the peace will be and how the die is going to fall for Germany. 'The Businessman's View. 'In Der Hammer, Dr. Zimmermann candidly says: 'The question is not now whether Germany will be larger after the war than before, but out of the question. The question is whether we will be permitted to keep what we have. 'The word which one formerly read most often in the German press, 'victory' is now 'peace.' Not that the Germans openly state that they want peace; they would not be allowed to print that. But they do state that they accustom the general public to the prospect of a peace that might not, after all, be as glorious as was hoped. Businessman's View. 'Commercial and financial interests have been brought to bear on the military party. Traders in Germany say: 'After all, this war has lasted seven months, and the only gain we have had is that the fighting has taken place almost exclusively on foreign soil. That is, something that is not entirely to our advantage. 'We have avoided destruction everywhere, except in East Prussia. But what of that? Our trade is ruined and our shipping has vanished from the seas. We are on short rations. We have no raw materials, no petroleum, no copper. No silk, we starve soon, our savings are dwindling down to nothing. Unemployment, in spite of the fact that much labor is needed for the manufacture of ammunition, is increasing dangerously. How Long? 'How long are we going to stand by and look at our armies gaining a hundred yards, which they lose the next day? 'How long are we going to look at our men and women, who have lost their dear ones in what is now admitted to be a fruitless and nonsensical war. However strong the military party is in Germany, it cannot shut the mouths of every citizen, and slowly, but with uneasy sureness, the German nation is waking up to the criminal folly of its leaders. 'Unless the Kaiser has entered Paris or destroyed the British fleet by Easter, he can be sure that his faithful people will before long, no matter what the ending of this war, which has been his own doing and which must prove his undoing."

PREPARING HER ANSWER

Details To Be Given Regarding Enforcing of Commerce Order.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 3.—(3:25 p.m.)—The order-in-council putting the British declaration against German commerce into effect, it is stated authoritatively, will explain the details as to how the act will be enforced in enforcing the blockade order.

The exact date of the order has not been decided upon, but it will probably be published in a few days. "Great Britain has not yet prepared her answer to the American note submitted to the British and German Governments, looking to the withdrawal of the submarine blockade, and the continuance of food movements to Germany for the civil population. The publication of the text of the American note and Germany's reply in the London papers has attracted wide attention.

Germany's Subterfuge. The English view which will undoubtedly be embodied in the note to the American Government, is that the suggestions proposed that Great Britain shall virtually force the strength of her position, due to her superiority in navy. In other words, Great Britain feels that Germany is trying to have the neutral states perform duties for her which she could carry out had she a superior navy.

Furthermore, the British Government, it is asserted, will ask what assurances the United States can give that Germany would not resume her submarine activity after she had obtained sufficient food under the relaxed regulations to enable her to carry on the war indefinitely.

Britain's reply to this suggestion that the belligerents cease the use of floating mines will be that she has never used them.

The British position as to neutral flags and the arming of merchant ships is that no general order has been issued for the use of the flags of neutral states, and that merchant ships were armed only after Germany had declared a submarine blockade.

Italy Is Pleased.

ROME, March 3.—(12:30 p.m.)—The identical note of the American Government to Germany and Great Britain, the contents of which were published here today, met with general praise, both in the political world and in the newspapers. The Chronicle of Italy calls it a proposition aiming to preserve humanitarianism in war, and expresses the hope that it may be the first step toward further negotiations, which will lead to non-partisanship for an ultimate understanding.

Pope Benedict was greatly interested in the document, and requested Cardinal Gasparri to send him the text of the note, and also the German reply to it. He also had Cardinal Gasparri inquire at the British legation to the Holy See what the British attitude in the premises would be, but Sir Henry Lowndes, the British minister, said he had as yet heard nothing on the subject.

FLEET OF ALLIES SHELLS TURKS ON GULF OF SAROS

Batteries of Banakie and Kilibehr Destroyed—Hundred Thousand Men Gathered By the Enemy On the Gallipoli Coast.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 4.—(1:20 a.m.)—According to dispatches received here from McIlhenny and "Tenedos Islands," says Reuters' Athens correspondent, "the allied fleet has destroyed the batteries of Banakie and Kilibehr and have arrived near Dardanelles. There are over 100,000 Turks on the Gallipoli coast under Issad Pasha. The village of Yenishahr is reported to have been destroyed by fire.

A Rome dispatch from Athens dated March 3, says: "The bombardment was resumed this morning at 10 o'clock when batteries on the Gulf of Saros. At noon the shelling was redoubled in violence for two hours. The results are not yet known.

"Allied detachments which landed at Kum Kale, on the Asiatic side of the strait at the entrance to the Dardanelles, met and dispersed the Turkish garrison. A British warship has bombarded Yenishahr (about two miles south of the entrance to the Dardanelles) on the Asiatic side."

A Constantinople dispatch dated March 3, received by the Reuters Telegram Company by way of Amsterdam, confirms the announcement that some of the forts on the European side of the Dardanelles have suffered severely by the fire of the allied battleships.

Battleships Outrange Forts. The British battleships, says this dispatch, "completely outranged the forts, the guns of which were unable to reply effectively, so that the battleships gained part of the desired effect. Moreover, the fleet has received reinforcements, and now more than forty big battleships are lying off the Dardanelles—besides a great number of small cruisers, torpedo boats, destroyers and other craft.

"The further advance of the fleet seems to be impossible owing to the chain of mines and the forts. An attack from land would be welcomed by the Turks who have gathered a strong army there, composed of their best troops."

A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Athens says a mist prevented the ascertainment of the extent of the damage done by the warships in their bombardment of the inner forts of the Dardanelles yesterday. A destroyer which eluded the town of Dardanelles, passed before the correspondent, reported according to the correspondent, reported that it had been evacuated.

DOMINION ALLIANCE WANT DRY COUNTRY

Large Convention Memorializes Government—Would Amend C. T. Act.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, March 3.—That the Dominion Government be urged to prohibit the manufacture, export and sale of intoxicants during the period of the present war and that the Dominion Alliance be requested to start a Dominion-wide campaign in favor of the proposal was one resolution passed at the annual meeting of the Dominion Alliance, which opened here today with 2,000 delegates present.

Another resolution was that an amendment be made to the Canada temperance act to the effect that licenses should not be issued in any city or county pending an appeal against prohibition when under the Canada temperance act, and this amendment, that an appeal under the act be limited and carried no higher than the highest court of the province in which the poll against was held.

J. H. Roberts, Montreal, secretary of the Quebec branch, was the mover of both resolutions.

LONDON, March 4.—(3:20 a.m.)—The Morning Post's Bucharest, Roumania, correspondent says the Russian forces have recaptured Stanislaw, in Galicia.

RUSSIAN STATEMENT.

PETROGRAD, March 3.—The war office issued the following statement today: "On March 1 and 2, between the Niemen and the Vistula Rivers (Northern Poland) the Germans delivered attacks in the region of Ossowetz. Many attempts of the enemy to approach the fortress were repulsed.

"In the region of Grodno and in other sectors of the whole front, our troops continued to make progress.

"We took by assault the village of Kerjlen on the left bank of the River Amoulet, where prisoners included ten officers and certain numbers of soldiers, and captured two rapid-fire guns.

"In the Carpathians, between Ondava and the San, we continue with complete success to repel formidable attacks of the Austrian army. The Germans delivered fruitless attacks in the region of Kozlowka and Rojanika. At the latter point we succeeded in enveloping and annihilating two German companies.

"In East Galicia the Austrians, who were ascending the passages of the River Lomnitsa, suffered a new and very serious check, our troops while fighting, crossing the river and occupying the village of Kraena. The following day we took 6,000 prisoners, with 64 officers and four cannons, seven rapid-fire guns and a large quantity of regiment and division trains.

"There is no change on the left bank of the Vistula."

INDIA WITHSTANDS FINANCIAL STRAIN

Excellent Resources Enable Her To Meet Conditions—Deficit For Year.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 3.—(Through Reuters' Ottawa Agency)—A special dispatch from Delhi, India, says: "Sir William S. Meyer, financial secretary, delivered his budget statement before a crowded attendance of the Indian council today. He announced a deficit of $2,750,000 for the current financial year and estimated a similar deficit for the year commencing April 1, 1915. This shortage, he said, had been due to the effect of the war on railway and customs receipts.

He proposed no additional taxation to meet these deficits as they were due to special causes. The financial secretary devoted much of his speech to setting forth how the excellent resources of the country had enabled India to come successfully through the supreme test to which its financial and economic system had been subjected.

"He proposed, he said, to base the budget requirements upon the supposition that the war would last through the years 1915 and 1916, as a measure of caution. He declared that India's contribution to the war would be $2,000,000 for the current year and $17,500,000 during the coming year.

Strength Well Demonstrated. India, he said, had been much buffeted but her inherent strength, financially and economically, had been demonstrated at every turn.

"He pointed out that India's paper money and loans had been practically unimpaired, and that the stability of the rupee had been successfully maintained. Naturally at the outset of the war, he said, there had been some bewilderment and dislocation of both foreign and internal trade; but readjustment was taking place and, above all, India was steadily facing her obligations. There are, therefore, no need to resort to any extraordinary measures of help; the country could look forward to the future with confidence in its material prosperity, especially in view of the prospect of exceptionally bountiful crops.

"The budget will be revised, being considered as showing India's remarkable financial strength."

London Advertiser

LONDON, THURSDAY, MARCH 4.

DON'T PAY THAT "BACK SALARY."

WHEN General Manager Glaubitz laid off an old employe of the hydro and water departments, or dismissed him, The Advertiser has no recollection of anyone rising to his feet and demanding "British Fair Play."

One man named Simmie and another named MacLean were thrown out of their positions under the absolute monarchy of Mr. Glaubitz, and if they received ONE DOLLAR, it was because The Advertiser and some others of their friends made a demand for justice that secured it for them.

Today these old citizens have no checks of $690 coming to them. Mr. Glaubitz says that he should be given that amount, although he did no work for the city, (or if he did it was against the will of the men who have reemployed him), it is not British fair play to hold back the money from him.

Upon what grounds is he entitled to one dollar? There was no charity for Simmie and MacLean—the very reverse in fact. There should be none for their high salaried ex-boss.

It is all very well to be fair with a man. And Mr. Glaubitz has been given a great deal of consideration by the people of London. But he is no more entitled to the "back salary" of $690 than is the day laborer who is laid off because it rains.

It is a shame that the people of London should be defied by a large number of the men they elected to carry out their will. When it comes to protesting for other citizens, who have been done tremendous injustices, they were all absolutely silent.

GERMANY'S REPLY.

GERMANY'S reply to the note of the United States virtually means that she accepts all of the proposals of the United States, with the exception of the limiting of the use of mines to purposes of defence. Germany says she is willing to employ her submarines against merchantmen only for search, providing Great Britain permits foodstuffs reaching the civilian population of Germany. It was to be expected that Germany would fall in with the suggestion of the United States. Her blockade bluff has been a move in the game to make Washington pull the chestnuts out of the fire. It is not to be supposed that the Germans really believed they could blockade the British Isles. The submarine raids were simply intended to involve the neutral nations headed by the United States. If the protests of neutrals compelled the Allies to allow Germany to get supplies from the outside world uninterrupted it was a great gain for Germany. If the Allies refused to alter their policy, Germany, in desperate case anyway, was not much worse off, so far as her connection with neutrals was concerned. Therefore she launched her heartless piracy, which involved the murder of non-combatants.

The declaration of a general blockade of the coasts of Germany and her allies was Great Britain's reply to the Washington suggestion, and Germany's acceptance of the note is not likely to alter it. A German guarantee that the food would not reach the armies of the Kaiser would not be worth the paper it is written on. There is no pact or agreement, rule or regulation, that Germany will consider sacred so long as it interferes with her armies.

Germany's brutal warning on the neutral shipping is just one more instance of how inadequate are her diplomatic forces. Splendidly efficient in a military way, behind this efficiency is a diplomacy ridiculously ineffective, and this last blunder has been the most glaring of all, because it placed in the hands of the Allies the excuse to hit back with the fullest power which they possess, and which because of the neutral nations they were unable to use. Germany's impudent submarine raid on neutral shipping has made practically worthless any protests made to the Allies from neutrals.

ALL DO THEIR BEST.

NOW and then one sees the remark made in uninformal quarters that Great Britain or France leaves the brunt of the fighting to the poor Russians. The truth of the matter is that every member of the alliance is exerting its full strength, wealth and intelligence to bear the foe of humanity. At the same time, if there were one of the Allies that more than the others is called on to contend regardless of cost, it would be Russia, against whom in the first place Germany made her war for the Balkans, and in whose company France and incidentally Belgium have suffered such wounds. But this is civilization's war of defence against organized barbarism, and all are equally concerned, whatever may have been the opening moves of the game.

PASSING OF THE TURK. THE moment Turkey threw in her lot with the Germans, the turning of the Dardanelles, the capture of Constantinople, and the expulsion of the Turk from Europe, became possibilities, and last week's smashing of the outer fortresses of the famous straits by the allied fleets has made them a certainty. For 600 years Constantinople has been in the hands of the Ottomans, and that they have remained in control so long has not been due so much to their own prowess as to the rivalries of the European powers. Time after time Turkey for her own safety has made alliances with other powers, who feared the advance to the Mediterranean and the Near East of the Russian, the hereditary enemy of the Ottoman. After the battle of Pultova, Swedish Charles, routed by the Muscovite, Peter the Great, found asylum in Turkey. Under Louis XIV France protected the Turks against the Russians. In the seventeenth century the domains and dominion of the Turk in Europe reached almost to Vienna. Then in 1859 came the defeat of the Moslems at the gates of Vienna, when the King of Poland ground beneath the foot of Napoleon. Pléte and other philosophers preached that only by a school education in which the past and future imperial calling of Germany should be made the central point, could the ideal of a German state impregnable through a nation in arms be realized and maintained. Boys must be taught the imperial history of Germany, its original and uniquely warlike character, its invincibility when united, the duty and privilege of all to fight in organized force for the Fatherland. This philosophy was drastically applied in Prussian schools, and in time not only secured Prussia and Germany against aggression, but made the German army in 1870 the most formidable offensive force in the world. The people, educated to support a national military machine, supported it.

After 1870 German teaching in school and college became more and more militaristic. A text-book was introduced to drill all boys and girls in the biographies of German warriors and to fill their minds with emulation, and a confidence in the coming expansion of Germany. The teachers themselves are nearly all officers of the Kaiser's army and imbued practically as well as theoretically with ideas of war and German omnipotence. Socialism has struggled against this teaching of the schools in an outside, informal way. But as the twist is bent, the tree is inclined. When, therefore, the Kaiser and his digarchy called to war, the huge Socialist party, though doubtless more or less aware that the nation was being misled and that the war was made against themselves as much as against the foreign powers, fell into line both in the Reichstag and in the army. Taught in the schools the war spirit and to hate England, and having submitted all these years to the description, they stepped into their places. They could do no other.

A similar result is seen in the German Americans. Many of these left Germany displeased with the system, which had been praised to them in the schools, but which their maturer understanding or self-interest rejected. But now that the war is on, their sympathies are frequently with the Kaiser, not merely because blood is thicker than water, but because of the lessons learned in the schools, under army officers, which ever rush back to memory.

WOMAN NO DESTROYER.

WOMAN does none of the destroying in the present war. Her whole function is creative, and when she cannot create, she mends and nurses back to fitness the bodies of mothers' sons. All through the world, with the rule-proving exceptions of the Amazons and suffragettes—women's place in the world has been, not to contest for power, but to build up nations in pain and to foster them in peace. Behind the firing lines of the armies there is intense suffering enough. God knows, but what greater inferno of pain could be imagined than if all wounded were left to the mercies of men. Not that the hearts of men cannot be touched to pity, but man's hand is fashioned for the mercies of the knife. Woman's hand is always put forth to soothe. She holds the anaesthetic, her softness eases agony, her presence holds men in the world by loving kindness. The mercy of man becomes mechanical, but the warm mothering instinct holds true in woman, and for that reason some of the horrid, jagged wounds of war are soothed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Now that we have seen the first robin, let's get ready to sweat the first fly.

Needless to say the Princess Pats are plotting stunts for St. Patrick's Day.

Since the war commenced Denmark has twice increased the taxes. A little more of that, and the "Melancholy Dane" will go mad.

Germans and Austrians should take some comfort from the statement of Dr. Woods Hutchinson, that overeating is the most harmful of man's weaknesses.

A ten-dollar forerunner won the top prize against the pick of the world's most famous canines at the New York dog show. That was a grand swat for pride and prejudice.

A Toronto gentleman suggests that Canadians use their front lawns for growing potatoes. Good. Most people would prefer the neighbor's hoe to his lawn mower at daybreak of a summer's morn.

A section of the American press is furious over the use of the Stars and Stripes by a British ship in order to deceive the German submarines. It's a matter of history that in the Spanish-American war a fleet of American warships, transports and merchantmen, flew the Jap flag in order to enter a Spanish port and gain a victory.

ARTISTIC.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.] A social reformer remarks that the husband comes home at night too tired to cultivate the art of domestic relations. Well, if he is very tired, he is eating his supper without grumbling at the cooking and can lend a hand with the kids while his wife cleans away. That's about all the art that can be expected from him.

THE COMFORTER.

[Anne P. Field, in New York Times.] Silence is the house, I sit In the fire-light and knit. At my ball of soft grey wool Two grey kittens gently pull— Pulling back my thoughts as well From that distant, red-rimmed hell, And hot tears the stitches blur As I knit a comforter.

"Comforter" they call it—Yes, Such it is for my distress, For it gives my restless hands Blessed work. God understands How we women yearn to be Doing something conscientiously— Anything but just to wait Idly for a clicking gait!

So I knit this long grey thing Which some fearless lad will fling Round him in the lay blast. With the shrapnel whistling past; "Comforter" it may be named, Like a mother's touch again, And at last, not grey, but red, Be a pillow for the dead!

Music and Musicians

"Since nought so stockish, hard, and full of rage But Music for the time doth change his nature." —Shakespeare.

Thomas Martin's Recital. An excellent program was given yesterday afternoon by advanced pupils of Mr. Thomas Martin, assisted by vocal pupils of Mr. Harold Meek. The numbers throughout were well rendered, and showed careful training and good musicianship. As is usual, Mendelssohn was very much in evidence on the program. Of the great composers, he is perhaps the least, but nevertheless a great composer. His works are clear in form, happy in expression, marked by the utmost refinement, ease, comfort, and oftentimes gaiety. For these reasons he is still a popular writer, and few programs are given without a place on them for Mendelssohn. Mr. Martin introduced a new work by Kavel, played by Miss Victoria Fraser. The composition is of the ultra-modern type of the French school, its harmonious progressions are very strange. It was well played, and its appeal was direct. I should like to hear more by this composer. In fact, I should like to hear more works of the modern writers on our programs. Music, like other arts and sciences, has made considerable progress since the time of Beethoven, and even of more modern composers, such as Wagner and Chopin. The new art is not readily accepted, but it is because we are not willing to become acquainted with it. It is that hath ears to hear let him hear what the new men have to say to us.

In a pupils' recital such as was given yesterday, it is unfair to individualize, but perhaps an exception should be made about Miss Catharine Reekie's rendition of the group allotted to her. The March Grosseque, by Sinding, and the scherzo by Liszt, were particularly pleasing in a group of recitals, which he gave with fine tone, clear enunciation and musical feeling.

Altogether, the recital was very enjoyable, and was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. The pianoforte pupils taking part were Miss Sybil Saunders, Miss Victoria Fraser, Miss Ruth Booker, Miss March, Miss Catharine Reekie, and Miss Adele Guild. The vocal pupils were Miss Margaret Hickey, Miss Marilyn Pockock and Mr. Wilkins Shuff.

A Question in Logic. A certain professor of logic at Aberdeen University, wishing to test a student's progress in the science on which the professor was lecturing, and being aware of the student's musical abilities, attacked him thus: "Suppose a lady were to come to you, and declare that she had sung a scale of six octaves, what would you say to her?" The most obvious answer in the world was one which the professor would not accept. In what the student said that he would ask the lady to sing it again. Evidently the study of logic had taught him something.

Choir Competition. How about the competition for choirs that was so auspiciously put under way some time ago? The organization had an excellent president, a hard-working secretary, an enthusiastic executive committee, and an enthusiastic executive committee. The gentleman who first launched the idea is very busily engaged in military duties, and has had to disengage himself from almost every other kind of work, but there are others to carry it on. The scheme was an excellent one and deserving of every support. I don't know whether it has been definitely dropped or not, I should be very glad of a little light on the subject from those who were interested at the inception of the project. It is bad to let good things drop. We want to boost London musically as well as in every other way. Music as usual, men, don't forget.

Answers to Correspondents. Questions sent to this department were answered, "Musical Editor, London Advertiser" and should be brief and to the point. They must also be of general musical interest.

INTERESTED READER. Which of the principal solo instruments would you consider to be the most difficult to learn?

They are all about equally difficult when it comes to acquiring great virtuosity, but as a direct answer to your question, I should say, the violin. It makes the greatest demands on the nerve force, and the musical faculties generally. The technique of the violin, too, I consider the most difficult to acquire.

In the "Home Guard"

The householder who through Life Insurance protects his dependents against want is just as truly in the "Home Guard" as the good citizen who carries a rifle.

The Last Line of Defence

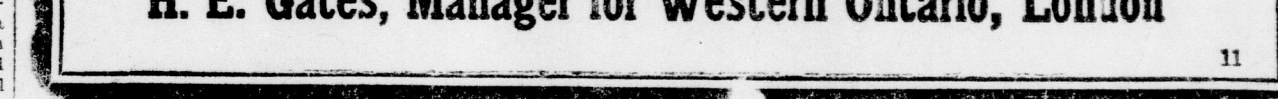

For many a man is his insurance policy, and if it be in the CANADA LIFE that defence may be greatly strengthened by applying his dividends to relieve the burden of payments in his later years. In many cases Canada Life dividends have cancelled the premiums, and turned an expense into a source of revenue.

For Example

Under Canada Life policy No. 13,813 dividends have been applied as a life annuity towards paying the premium of $42. In the past five years the annuity was $44.94, paying the premium and leaving a margin of $2.94. In the next five years all premiums will be paid by profits and there will be a yearly cash return of $18.04 besides. This annuity is guaranteed for life and will be further increased every fifth year.

Also this fellow seems to have far less 'side' than most of his class.

The first orderly explained that this was because Trevelyan had become cosmopolitan. He had traveled a lot, spoke French and Spanish, and understood Italian, whereas most Englishmen scorned to learn any "foreign" tongue.

Acquaintances All Over. That day again the first orderly's dinner conversation was of Trevelyan. Their conversation of the morning had gotten away from armies and surgeons and embraced art and people, which were the first orderly's forte. People were his hobby, but he knew a lot about art. This knowledge had developed in the form of landscape gardening at the country houses of wealthy friends. It appeared that he and Trevelyan had known the same families in different parts of the world.

He knows the "G's," he proclaimed, naming a well-known New York family. He spoke of the way the grounds are laid out, before he knew I had been there. Talked about the box perspective for the Venus fountain, that I suggested myself.

The corps "joshed" the first orderly on that, and asked him whether Trevelyan had yet confined the reason for his position in the ranks. The first orderly was indifferent. He waved a knife, loaded with potatoes.

"He may be anything from an honorable to a dunce," he said, "but I don't like to ask, for you know how Englishmen are about those things. I've found, though, that he did the Vatican and the Medici collections only a year ago with some friends of mine, and I'm going to sound them about him some time."

There were sharp engagements that afternoon and the corps was kept busy. At nightfall the booming of the artillery was louder and nearer, especially on the left, where the French heavy artillery had come up the day before to support the British line. The ambulance corps was ordered to prepare for night work. They snatched plates of soup and beans, and sat on the buses, waiting.

At 6 o'clock a shell screamed over the line of cars, then another, and two more.

"They've got the range on us," the fat major said, "we'll have to clear out."

Eighteen shells passed overhead before the equipment and the few remaining wounded got away and struck the road to the main base at B—.

The American squad was billeted that night in the freight station, dropping asleep as they sank into the straw on the floor.

At midnight an English colonel's orderly entered and called the squad commander. They went out together; then the squad commander returned for the orderly of the first bus. The chauffeur of the second bus was awakened when they returned after several hours. Through the gloom the squad commander was groping his way to his place. The first orderly half staid down in the straw. They said nothing.

It was explained in the morning at coffee. "Trevelyan" was shot at sunrise. He was a German spy.

WHY GO TO WAR TO SEE BLOODSHED WHEN THERE'S A CITY HOCKEY SERIES AT HAND?

ABOUT THE ONLY THING THAT SOME PLAYERS LACK IN THE WAY OF EQUIPMENT IS A MUZZLE.

LONDON FANS CAN STAND A LOT OF PUNISHMENT

They Had To Put Up With Another of Those Burlesque Hockey Matches Last Night When Western U. Won City Championship by Beating Feds 9 to 3.

[BY BERT PERRY.] The game of hockey was brutally murdered at the Princess Rink last night when the Western University and Feds came together in the final game of the city championship. Western walked away with an easy victory, 9 to 3, and incidentally there was a lot of gore scattered around before the teams left the ice in the final minutes of Monday night, and the game resulted in another burlesque match with the teams splitting about fifty-fifty on the rough stuff. Some day some of the doctors of the London, innocent and unsuspecting public, is going to come out and pass a law making it a crime to allow such a thing to be done at night, and to keep people out late at night witnessing such hockey games. Until then, it is likely that such affairs will continue to be done without a halt. London has suffered enough of them this season, and the game is going to be hard to see and to see in this city pretty soon, at the present rate. The curtain closed on the game about 10:30 on Monday night, and the fans have to pay out good money to witness it.

Feds' Outclassed. Up until the third period, the game was fairly close, though, and there was not a moment in the whole contest when the Feds were in a position to have a chance to overtake the three-goal lead amassed at the University Arena on Monday night. The Western players were up to a fairly good exhibition. The bitter rivalry between the two teams was not warmed up to the point where it began to simmer out for the crowd to gaze upon. The Feds were out of their minds, though, and he made three trips to the bench before the game was over. Incidentally, Gus scored the only goal of the period, beating Wardroppe of a year ago when the season was about half over.

The second period was probably the most even of the three in this frame, despite the frequent goals in the penalty box that some of the players took. Ernie Hagerman received a nasty gash in his forehead when he and Wardroppe collided in the first five minutes of the second period, and he was carried off to the hospital in an ambulance. He was a couple of inches wide and pretty deep, and he was later taken to Victoria Hospital in an ambulance. The Hagerman incident seemed to stir the team, and they proceeded with six men. The Western players were up to a fairly good exhibition, and the game proceeded with six men. The Hagerman incident seemed to stir the team, and they proceeded with six men. HIGH JENNINGS, FIREBRAND OF BASEBALL

A MANAGER IN THE PAST, A GREAT LEADER STILL, SAYS FULLERTON

No manager of modern times has been so much praised by his admirers and so much criticized by his opponents as Hugh Jennings, leader of that wonderful Detroit aggregation. Ball players either declare him the best they have ever known, or else accuse him of being the luckiest fellow in the game, and give the credit to his possessing two of the greatest hitters the game ever has known, and during the winning days, a bunch of a-tight pitchers.

Jennings is an odd type. He came from the country, an ignorant, untamed, uncultured boy to join the worst bunch of rowdy players the game ever saw—the Baltimore Orioles. No man could play on this team who lacked nerve and courage to stand the abuse and criticism heaped upon him by his fellows for any misplay.

It is related that once a player became unbearable, and Jennings "framed" another player to whom he was angry, and then fired the trainer. I happen to know that Jennings' famous antics on the coaching line besides amusing the spectators, are included in chiefly to hide his signals. He has a system of signals using spoken words, and he can call an order at the end of his voice and not attract the attention of opponents, as the words with meaning are hidden among a lot of ones that are uttered aimlessly.

ALLIES GAIN TWO MILES IN STRAITS

Silence Three More Forts On the Asiatic Side of the Dardanelles.

Many Guns Are Wrecked Nineteen Destroyed at West End of the Turkish Waterway.

[Canadian Press.] LONDON, March 4. — 12:25 a.m. — The admiralty late last night issued the following report regarding the bombardment of the Turkish forts by the Anglo-French fleet.

"The operations in the Dardanelles were resumed at 11 o'clock on Monday morning, when the Triumph, Ocean and Albion entered the straits and opened fire on the batteries at White Cliff. The fire was returned by the forts and also by field guns and howitzers.

"An air reconnaissance made by naval sea planes in the evening brought the report that several new gun positions had been prepared by the enemy, but that no guns were erected in them. The sea planes also located surface mines.

"During Monday night a force of six sweepers, covered by destroyers, swept within a mile and a half of Cape Kephez, and their work, which was carried out under fire, is reported to have been excellent. The casualties sustained during the day were slight, amounting to only six wounded.

"Four of the French battleships operated off Bulair, and bombarded the batteries and communications.

Many Guns Destroyed. "The operations at the entrance of the straits, already reported, have resulted in the destruction of nineteen guns, ranging from 6 to 11 inches, eleven guns below 6 inches, four No. 6 inch guns, and two searchlights. The magazines of forts 6 and 2 also have been demolished.

"A further report received states that on Tuesday the Caucasus Swifts, sure and Cornwallis engaged fort No. 8. A heavy fire was opened on them by fort No. 9, together with field batteries and howitzers. Fort No. 9 was hit, and ceased fire at 2:30 in the afternoon, and although three ships were hit, the only casualties were one man slightly wounded.

"Sea plane reconnaissance was impossible owing to the weather, the mine sweeping operations were continued today. The Russian cruiser Askold has joined the allied fleet off the Dardanelles.

Three Forts Silenced. A dispatch to Reuters's Telegram Company from Athens says: "The allied fleet today bombarded and reduced to silence three forts, Dardanos, Hamidish and Tchemerik.

HUNGARY ANXIOUS FOR INDEPENDENCE

Morning Post's Correspondent Reiterates Story That Movement Is Strong.

CITY COUNCIL PETITIONS Government Denials Intended For Neutrals, But Not At All Sincere.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—The Morning Post's Hungarian correspondent, writing from Budapest, February 28, says: "Wherever anything appears in the Morning Post in connection with the independence movement in Hungary, the Austrian-German-Hungarian government papers unanimously sound the alarm that the Morning Post is again daring enough to talk about an independent movement, whereas there is, of course, no such thing."

City Council's Appeal. "Today, nevertheless, all the Hungarian papers publish a telegram from Szeged, the second largest city in Hungary, which states that the municipal council of that city has decided to address a memorandum to the Government in the name of the inhabitants, earnestly hoping and desiring that the heroic efforts on the part of the nation and the sacrifices they entailed will add to the desire to strengthen our national constitution, which stood the storms of a thousand years, and that the recognition of our national independence, which the unwavering nation has the right to demand in return for the blood it has shed for the cause."

Halo Government. "Such resolutions are passed very often by town and county councils, showing that the people are quite aware of the unique opportunity offered to them to get the upper hand of Austria, and that the Government and territorial powers, in fact, are on a quite different footing. The papers are not allowed to comment on such resolutions, and it is only the Government that is permitted to issue memoranda, for they only help Premier Tisza in terrorizing Austria, and thus having his own way."

Only constitutional bodies are in a position to talk politics, and as it is daily printed in the papers and then forgotten, but that there is an independent movement in Hungary cannot be doubted, and all the heroic efforts on the part of the nation are not effective enough to break up the alliance between Hungary and Austria and Germany, simply because the time has not yet come, and every man is a soldier, but the time will come when these seemingly ineffective resolutions will make their effect felt."

CONGRESS STRENGTHENS HANDS OF PRESIDENT

Allows Him To Refuse Clearance To Any Suspected Vessels.

[Canadian Press.] Washington, March 4.—All that was needed today to enlarge the power of President Wilson to prevent violations of American neutrality by vessels leaving United States ports with men or supplies for belligerent warships was the President's approval of a joint resolution of Congress. The resolution, a substitute for that previously passed by the House, was unanimously adopted by the Senate early today. It was later agreed by the House and today only awaited President Wilson's signature to make it a law.

As finally passed, the resolution differs in some essential particulars from the original House measure. The proposed legislation is a direct result of information obtained by the Government in the recent grant inquiry in New York into alleged shipments of supplies to belligerents at sea.

The resolution empowers the President to direct customs collectors to withhold clearance from any vessel of American or foreign register or license, which the President believes to be "about to carry arms, ammunition, contraband, or supplies to any warship, or tender, or supply ship of a belligerent nation in violation of the obligations of the United States as a neutral nation." If such a vessel is found to be carrying arms, ammunition, contraband, or supplies to any warship, or tender, or supply ship of a belligerent nation in violation of the obligations of the United States as a neutral nation, the President is authorized to seize the vessel and its cargo, and to detain the vessel and its crew until the vessel is cleared of the prohibited articles.

Stokers on Steamer Beat Out Submarine Wrexham Escapes German Pursuer After 40-Mile Chase. [Canadian Press.] London, March 3.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Rotterdam tells of the dramatic escape of the British steamship Wrexham, from Harwich to Rotterdam, from a German submarine.

The Wrexham, which ordinarily makes thirteen knots an hour, espied the periscope of a submarine when nearing the coast of Holland, and straightaway began to manoeuvre to escape the torpedo.

The first attack was frustrated, the captain of the ship determined to make a run for it.

Every man of the crew and every other person not actually needed in navigation was sent below to work in the stokehold. Those who could not be spared were utilized as divers. Unshowered coats were slung over the funnels of the ship and she attained a speed of sixteen knots.

The submarine, however, kept steadily after her for 40 miles the pursuit continued, the German under-water motor trying to get herself in a position to administer the deathblow. She failed.

The Wrexham kept straight ahead, although it was known she was travelling a stretch of water thick with mines. Forty-eight hours after the fatal blast, only fourteen bodies had been brought to the surface, but it was believed that many more would be found before the day was over.

Slow progress was made in the search yesterday, owing to the great amount of wreckage and after-damp. Rescuers believe, however, that the main entry will be cleared of bad air probably by late today, and they declare that when this has been accomplished, rescue work will progress rapidly.

It was said that the rebellion had been encouraged by the withdrawal of Italian troops from the interior to the coast, and that the movement gradually was spreading. Tripoli, where fortifications were being erected.

Danger Signals Warn You Of Approaching Paralysis Slowly and Surely Exhaustion Goes on Until Collapse of the Nerves is the Natural Result.

You may be restless, nervous, irritable and sleepless, but you think there is nothing to be alarmed at. You have no appetite, digestion is impaired, and there is weakness and irregularity of other bodily organs. You feel tired in body and mind, and find it easy to attend to the daily task.

You may not realize that these are the symptoms of nervous prostration and the danger signals which warn you that some form of paralysis is the next step of development.

At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. CANNOT UNDERSTAND POLICY OF REPRISALS

Former M. P. Wants To Know What Will Be Done With Cargoes.

[Canadian Press.] London, March 4.—Thomas Gibson Bowles, former member of Parliament and a writer on naval matters, in an address before the Institute of Shipbrokers in London, expressed, with much emphasis, his inability to understand the policy of reprisals against Germany outlined by Premier Asquith in his speech in the House of Commons. Voicing his perplexity, Mr. Bowles said:

"What is to happen to cargoes of enemy ownership, origin and destination which are brought into ports? They are not to be confiscated, this is expressly declared. Are they to be purchased by the captors, according to the doctrine of pre-emption, with ten per cent compensation for delay?"

If the latter course was pursued, Mr. Bowles pointed out, Great Britain would trade with Germany on a large scale, if pre-emption was not to be resorted to. Mr. Bowles asked if seized goods would be held in trust for the enemy's goods found in neutral ships.

The speaker criticized the Asquith policy in that, so far as it has been outlined, it neglects to conform to the common law, which protects neutral traders. He further objected to the Premier's policy because it does not inflict maximum damage upon the enemy by confiscating the enemy's goods found in neutral ships.
