

Great Britain Declares War On Bulgaria
Defend London by Light, Says an Expert

MAKE LONDON A BLINDING CARPET OF GLAZING LIGHT

That, Says Aviation Expert, is Proper System of Defence Against Air Raids--Zeppels Viola Holland's Neutrality.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 16.—London's whole system of protective darkening against Zeppelin attacks is wrong and should be replaced by a lavish system of searchlights, making the city one of a carpet of light, according to C. G. Grey, a widely known aviation expert writing in the Express. The best way to prevent an air raid from doing serious work, Mr. Grey says, is to blind him with a glare of light.

"For this reason," declares the writer, "the proposed plan of sending up aeroplanes at night to attack Zeppelins is ridiculous, because, until the Zeppelin is lit up by searchlights, the beam of the searchlight and the glare. One hears much about night aeroplane patrols over Paris, but they are there only to compose the minds of the people, and the real protection of Paris is a ring of searchlights completely enclosing the city. I submit the following scheme for the protection of London.

FOUR LIGHTS PER HALF MILE

"Divide the city into half-mile squares, and in the corners of each square place searchlights throwing wide beams vertically upward, the beam of each searchlight overlapping that of its neighbor. Thus London would be covered with a carpet of light so blinding that passing aircraft could see nothing below, while land

GREAT BRITAIN NOW AT WAR WITH BULGARIA

Both France and Russia Expected to Make Same Declaration.

London, Oct. 16.—Great Britain declared war on Bulgaria to-day. France and Russia are expected to take the same step at once, but no official declarations have yet been issued by these powers. It is expected that Czar Nicholas will issue, as "chief protector of all the Slavs," a manifesto to the Bulgarians declaring that King Ferdinand is guilty of treason in joining with the Teutonic allies, the enemies of Russia. The Russian government has already let it become known that a Russian army will be sent into the Balkans as soon as the necessary troops are available. A formal declaration of war by the Czar against Bulgaria and the sending of this Russian army in all probability will follow close upon the heels of the awaited manifesto.

That Italy will aid in defending Serbia against the Teutons and Bulgarian-Turkish allies is by no means certain. The Rome correspondent of the Morning Post says: "I am informed that the Italian Government will not send troops to Macedonia, preferring to devote itself entirely to its own national war."

The seat of the Serbian Government has been transferred to Mitrovitz, near the Montenegrin frontier, according to a despatch to the Secolo.

ROUMANIA NEUTRAL

The Roumanian cabinet after again going over the war situation to-day made a pronouncement in favor of Roumania maintaining neutrality. All necessary military precautions have been taken on each of Roumania's frontiers.

The presence of two German submarines at Varna, Bulgaria's chief seaport on the Black Sea, has been confirmed.

The Salonica correspondent of the Milan Secolo sends the following: "Communications have been cut between Serbia and Roumania, as well as between Salonica and Russia as the result of the Austro-German offensive. The Serbians are expecting an attack by the Bulgarians between Guevghel and Strumitza, and are object of cutting the Salonica railroad and preventing the arrival of allied troops at Nish."

No direct news has been made public here regarding the Anglo-French forces at Salonica, and it is not known whether they have advanced or not. The lack of positive information regarding the movements of these troops is attributed to the censors. A recent report coming through German sources stated that the Entente forces were still encamped within a six-mile area at Salonica, to which, according to the German information, Serbia was entitled to access under her treaties with Greece.

A report that Sir Ian Hamilton, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces at the Dardanelles, has gone to Nish has not been confirmed. A Vienna despatch received by way of Amsterdam, quotes information from Salonica, under date of October 14, to the effect that the landing of Anglo-French troops continues at the Greek port under the protection of a French cruiser, and the Russian cruiser Askold.

APPEAL MADE FOR WORK FOR SICK SOLDIER

Pte. Whitfield, Honorably Discharged, Asks for Employment.

The following letter has been received from the secretary of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, making an appeal on behalf of Pte. Whitfield, honorably discharged from the 36th Battalion owing to ill-health, and who now asks for light employment: To the Editor Courier, Dear Sir,—We beg to call your attention to the case of Pte. F. Whitfield, formerly attached to the 36th Battalion, but honorably discharged from England, owing to ill-health, and pronounced by the Medical Board at the Discharge Depot as unfit for further military service. Mr. Whitfield returned to Brantford last week, and is most anxious to get some kind of light employment, preferably in the open air, and if through the columns of your paper you can do anything to assist him to secure employment, it will be greatly appreciated.

Yours truly, E. VAN NORMAN, Assistant-Secretary.

ANOTHER SENTRY GONE

Major Newman Wounded But Now Back at Front

Lance-Corporal C. C. Standish, Employee of J. S. Hamilton & Co., Also Wounded—Was Considered a Good Man.

The last official despatch from Ottawa as to Canadian casualties contains the names of H. J. Logan, "kill, die." The Courier of last night gave this sad information.

Major Newman is reported as wounded, but "at duty." This refers to the narrow escape which he had some time ago when a shell burst in a dugout occupied by himself and another officer. Particulars were given in a letter which appeared in this paper, sent by Corporal Patte to his father. In writing home regarding the incident, the Major stated that he had been somewhat burned, and this is no doubt the wounding to which reference is made.

RECRUITING IN BRITAIN BY CIVILIANS

Military Authorities No Longer to Have Anything to Do With It.

London, Oct. 16.—Recruiting is to be taken entirely out of the hands of the military authorities and entrusted exclusively to civilian organizations. This, which is the scheme by which the Earl of Derby, director of recruiting for the army, hopes to secure a sufficient number of voluntary enlistments to render recourse to conscription unnecessary. He described the new system at a private conference with the Parliamentary Recruiting Committee and the joint recruiting board yesterday afternoon.

"The changes that I propose making," said Lord Derby, "have not been necessitated by any shortcomings on the part of the recruiting staff, but by the exigencies of the present situation which, to my mind, require entirely new methods of dealing with the subject. In the past recruits have been found by the military authorities, assisted by civilians. I propose to make civilians responsible for bringing raw material in the shape of recruits to the military authorities for them to enlist, clothe, equip and train."

"This can only be rendered possible if some thoroughly representative civilian body be willing to make itself responsible for the work, and my most grateful thanks is due to the two bodies—the Parliamentary Recruiting Committee and the Joint Labor Recruiting Committee—who have made themselves jointly responsible."

The much-discussed "pink-form" will be used in canvassing, but in conformity with instructions prepared by Lord Derby, which were declared would result in the canvassing being "conducted with the utmost tact and discretion."

CARRANZA TO BE RECOGNIZED AS PRESIDENT

Pan-American Peace Conference Will Meet Next Week to Settle.

VILLA KILLED BY MUTINOUS TROOPS (?)

Chief of His General Staff Also Reported Dead. So His Faction is Much Weakened.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Recognition of the Carranza government in Mexico probably will be extended next week. The Pan-American peace conference will meet then to arrange the form which recognition shall take. Secretary of State Lansing will call the conference together, following the receipt of formal assurances from the government of Brazil and Chile that they are in accord with the decisions to recognize Carranza. Such assurances have been given by the other Latin-American nations. It is believed that all of them will take identical action with the United States. Eliseo Arredondo will be received by the conference next week when he probably will be presented with a communication notifying him of the recognition of Carranza.

VILLA DEAD.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16.—A report that General Francisco Villa, leader of the northern faction in Mexico has been killed, was brought to El Paso early to-day by a Mexican who just arrived from Casas Grandes. According to the story, Villa was shot in a fight when dissatisfaction broke out in the Villa army late yesterday. Another report brought by an American passenger, said that on Friday Villa was being tried by a court-martial, and that the trial was still in progress when he left Casas Grandes.

TROOPS MUTINIED

The Mexican who reported Villa shot, declared that the trouble arose when the chief called upon one of his comrades for a forced loan. The man was ordered shot, the report continues when he refused to accede to Villa's demands. Division in the army resulted, it was said, approximately seven thousand of the nine thousand troops revolting. In a fight that followed, the Mexican said Villa suffered mortal wounds.

CHIEF GENERAL KILLED

General Rodolfo Fierro, chief of Villa generals, is dead, according to information reaching here from Casas Grandes. The explanation given briefly was that Fierro fell from his horse while fording a river to-day and was drowned. Fierro sprang into prominence at the time of the death of William Benton, a British subject, at Juarez two years ago. Benton's death, which has never been satisfactorily explained, has been laid to Fierro.

Dividend Declared.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 16.—The directors of the Nova Scotia Underwear Co. have declared the regular dividend on the preferred stock due November 30. This action was taken since the complete destruction by fire of the company's plant at Turcot, this week. The company was at work on a large order for the Italian Government and had a good year up to the time of the fire. There was $165,000 insurance.

Sarnia Citizens decided that Sarnia would make a contribution to the British Red Cross of at least $10,000.

LONDON TIMES ATTACKS BITTERLY SIR PERCY SCOTT

Supported in This Criticism by Daily Chronicle, For Once.

HALDANE AND GREY ALSO UNDER FIRE

Seventeen Zeppelins Have Been Destroyed Since the Beginning of the War.

New York, Oct. 16.—A cable from London to the Herald this morning says:

Commenting on the report that during the Zeppelin raid on last Wednesday night, fifteen soldiers were killed and thirteen soldiers wounded, The Daily Telegraph says: "To achieve a smaller diminution of British fighting power than would be accomplished by a single effectively placed shell at the front, the attack culminated in the sheer murder of 27 men, 9 women and 5 children, and 64 men, 30 women and 7 children were wounded."

The Telegraph adds that only those who have witnessed the frightful scenes after air raid murderers have dropped their bombs can form any conception of the character of the crimes against humanity which are being committed in the name of Germany. "In the interests of humanity we must not cloak the horror of such acts," it declares. The material damage accomplished by the London area was confined largely to broken windows.

ONE ZEPPEL WINGED.

The official statement of last night repeats the report already cabled that one of the Zeppelins was winged, but as the despatch may have been submitted to the censor, who excised the words "and the king's" from the "captains and the king's" part from Kipling's account of his trip to the front, a fact brought out in Parliament Thursday, I am in doubt whether it reached you. However, as all the London newspapers have been allowed to publish the news that the casualty reports were much heavier than at first reported owing to the wide area covered by the raiders, and the fact that more Zeppelins were engaged than in the raid of five weeks ago, perhaps I may now be permitted to tell you there is no fear in London or among the residents of London or in the sphere of Zeppelin activity, vaguely described as the eastern counties. The only feeling aroused is one of wrath which found expression in the resolution adopted at the big meeting of business men in the Cannon Street Hotel, which demanded immediate reprisals by the organization of British aerial raids on Berlin and other important cities, so the Kaiser's subjects may be given a dose of their own "rightfulness."

ATTACKING SIR PERCY SCOTT.

Lord Northcliffe's Times, supported strangely by the Daily Chronicle, turns its battery on Rear Admiral Sir P. Scott because the Zeppelins were not brought down and says nastily: "When Admiral Scott was named it was thought his mere appointment would frighten the Zeppelins away. Unfortunately we were mistaken."

In addition, The Evening News has demanded the head of Lord Haldane, and the Daily Mail attacks Sir Edward Grey because traitorous Bulgaria has joined forces with the central empires.

The Times assails Mr. Balfour because he did not reassure the public. Instead he permitted Sir John Simon,

Brantford Soldier Home; Through Battle of Ypres

Pte. J. Robinson Was With the Fourth Battalion During the German Gas Attack, Wounded, Rushed to Boulogne and Operated Upon.

Pte. Joseph Robinson who left Brantford on Aug. 22nd, with the 1st Contingent, arrived home this morning from the front with an honorable discharge, after having sustained very severe wounds.

He was in the second battle of Ypres under Col. Colquhoun. The fight started on the night of April 29, and as all Courier readers know was of a very fierce description. The use of the gas by the Hun made the test all the more severe. Robinson came through unscathed until April 25th when at about 5.30 in the evening he was struck in the head by an explosive bullet. He was knocked unconscious and lay out on the ground for two days. The first thing he knew he was in the Hospital at Boulogne. Fortunately the bullet took an upward course, smashing a portion of the skull, but just grazing the brain. An operation was performed and the skull trepanned. For weeks his left side was paralyzed but he is now improving. Mr. Robinson, when he enlisted here was a moulder at the Massey-Harris work and he has a wife and two children, one a little boy born during his absence. The family reside at 125 Cayuga street, Eagle Place, and a large number of friends will be glad to welcome Pte. Robinson home again.

FERDINAND OF BULGARIA EXPLAINS

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, Oct. 16.—A copy of the manifesto of King Ferdinand to the Bulgarians, portions of which were forwarded from Sofia recently by telegraph, reached London to-day. The manifesto implies Bulgaria has no quarrel with the entente powers. It explains that they, like Germany were prepared to give Bulgaria the greater part of Macedonia.

"Our treacherous neighbor, Serbia, alone remained inflexible in the face of the advice of her friends and allies. The manifesto continues: "Far from listening to their counsels Serbia, in animosity, stupidly attacked our territory, and our brave troops have been forced to fight for the defense of their soil."

In concluding King Ferdinand says: "The European war is nearing a close. The victorious armies of the central empires in Serbia are advancing rapidly. I command our valiant army to drive the enemy from the limits of our kingdom and crush this common neighbor. We shall fight the Serbs at the same time as the brave armies of the Central empires."

"I Need More and Still More" Says Kitchener

Thus Does He Word His Message to People of Birmingham, While Cabinet Decides to Give Voluntary System One More Chance.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

New York, Oct. 16.—A cable to the New York Times from London, dated Saturday says: "The Birmingham Post has received the following from Lord Kitchener: 'The people of Birmingham with reference to the recruiting campaign at that city: "I need more men and still more if armies now in the field and more will in their turn proceed forward are to be kept at proper strength. I appeal earnestly to all men who are able-bodied and can be spared to respond to the call, unless they are satisfied to allow the many lives given by their gallant fellow townsmen to have been in vain. I can only do my duty by the country, if you will do yours by me. We must have more men at once."

CABINET MET.

London, Oct. 16.—(In Montreal wires)—The Daily News' lobby correspondent writes: "The cabinet met yesterday and again considered the question of compulsory military service as well as crucial matters of policy in the near future. It is understood that they have decided that Lord Derby's voluntary recruiting efforts must have a fair trial for six weeks, and in this the conscientious objectors have at least acquiesced. At the end of that time they hold themselves free to press for a compulsory system if the recruiting effort does not come up to their fullest demands. NOT YET DECIDED. "It must not be assumed that the majority of the cabinet are pledged to adopt compulsion if Lord Derby's efforts does not satisfy the demands of the conscientious objectors. What is the result of the recruiting campaign now inaugurated, the cabinet will have to make a firm decision in December. Lord Derby's speech reflects the present cabinet policy. The cabinet met in the morning, so that when Lord Derby met the recruiting committee he was able to proceed with confidence, having been informed that the cabinet would support him."

VENIZELOS HOPES ALLIES WILL PREVAIL

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Oct. 15.—Earnest hope for the success of the allies was expressed by former Premier Venizelos of Greece when asked by the Athens correspondent of The Matin to express his opinion of the refusal of the new Greek cabinet to send an army to the assistance of Serbia. "It was because I foresaw the new government would take this attitude that I made the speech I did in the chamber on the 12th. I have nothing to add to it but none hopes more ardently than I for an early and decisive success for the allies. I am more deeply convinced to-day than I was yesterday of their final triumph."

In his speech in the chamber on the 12th M. Venizelos declared the majority in the chamber, which he controlled. The victory given to the government as long as the government did not alter the principles of its policy to which the chamber had already given a vote of approval. "The question is not," he said, "whether we ought to make war, but when we ought to enter the war."

Obituary

FREDERICK CUTMORE
Mr. Frederick Cutmore died yesterday at his residence, 63 Sheridan street, at the age of 82 years. The late Mr. Cutmore had been a valued employee of the Waterloo Engine Works for 38 years, and a member holding an office in the Sons of England for 33 years, in that time only missing one meeting.

He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and one son, Mr. Edward Cutmore, 18 Sheridan street, a well known business man. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 3:30 from 63 Sheridan street to Mt. Hope cemetery.

ROBERT LLOYD KITCHEN
Robert Lloyd Kitchen, manager of the Kitchen Drug Co., Limited, died yesterday at his home in Amherstburg, after a week's illness. The late Mr. Kitchen was well known in Brantford, being a brother to Messrs. C. E. and F. J. Kitchen, of the Kitchen Overall Co. He was 31 years of age. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and one little son, his mother, one sister and six brothers also survive. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock at Amherstburg.

TERRACE HILL

The funeral of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Goodred, St. Paul's avenue, took place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the Howes, 791 Dundas Street West. The casket was a beautiful wreath of white roses from one of the departments of the Massey-Harris Co., as a mark of sympathy to the sorrowing parents.

Mr. Pipper, for many years a valued employee of the Grand Trunk Railway, has taken up his residence on Sydenham street, where he has bought a property.

The Ladies' Guild of St. James' Church held their annual meeting for the election of officers, the rector, Dundas street, on Wednesday afternoon last. An encouraging report of work done and funds raised was presented by the president, Mrs. Riley. The officers appointed for the coming year were: Mrs. Sotley, president; Mrs. Riley, vice-president; Mrs. Muntz, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Pickles, secretary.

Next Sunday is Children's Day in St. James' Church, when a special sermon to adults and parents will be given at the morning service, and a service for the Sunday school will be held in the church in the afternoon, to which parents are also invited.

The W. M. S. of Sydenham Street church will have charge of the services tomorrow, when a prominent member of the Hamilton Branch, will speak at both services. This is now recognized as an annual fixture, and the ladies always make the day a success.

Quite a number of children connected with Grandview school have measles. The school board will have to take active steps, as many of the epidemic as it is understood many of the children are returning to school as soon as the rash disappears, as are also children of the same household where the disease is prevalent.

The Epworth League of Sydenham Street Church will reorganize on Monday evening.

tees will be utilized and the various municipal and civil authorities will be asked to co-operate. Every eligible man will receive a letter signed by Lord Derby, stating briefly the situation which makes an increase in the army necessary, in order, as explained by Lord Derby, "that he may have a direct appeal, and be unable to say in the future that he was not called upon to join."

Recruiting

At recruiting meeting in Vice-regal Lodge at Dublin, which was attended by Baron Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, it was decided that the Lord Lieutenant should form a department for recruiting for Ireland, and he himself take the position of director, as chief organizer, being appointed to work in co-operation with the military. It was stated that the number of Irish recruits was 81,000, exclusive of those enlisted in England and Scotland, and the Irish reservists who joined on mobilization.

Old World Notes

Lord Halsbury, ex-Lord Chancellor has celebrated his 80th birthday. He thus exceeds the great age attained by another Chancellor, Lord Brougham, who was a few months short of 90 when he died, but has yet to achieve the record of Lord Lyndhurst who reached 91. Despite his great age Lord Halsbury still maintains his wonderful vitality of mind and body. Within the last 12 months he has completed the 12th volume of "The Laws of England," a work of 28 volumes, giving a full exposition of English law. Lord Halsbury attributes much of his long-preserved vitality to total abstinence from smoking.

After being imprisoned by masses of coal and debris for nearly three hours, while his comrades worked desperately to release him, a miner, employed at the Abernethy Colliery, Wales, was rescued recently little the worse for the ordeal through which he had passed. The miner was employed in the main heading of the pit, when a collapse occurred, about 100 tons of coal suddenly crashing from the roof and throwing him down. Timber caused the coal to form an arch, so that he did not crush to death, but his head and legs were held as in a grip. His arms were free but he dare not move then lest he should bring down another fall. Rescuing parties were at once organized, and for nearly three hours the hazardous task of extricating the imprisoned man proceeded. At last success rewarded the rescuers, and the miner was taken home.

A singular story of credulity was related before the Downham Market, Norfolk, magistrates, the other day, when a hawker of the typsy type was charged with obtaining a sovereign by means of false pretences from a housekeeper. The housekeeper stated that she suffered from asthma, and that the prisoner called at the house and sold her some liquid which she was to take in the cold weather. Prisoner also asked her for a sovereign and a pocket handkerchief. These she gave to the prisoner. The prisoner then asked to be alone for five minutes, and when the prisoner returned gave her the handkerchief, in which a coin had been tied and told her to put it under her pillow until the following Saturday morning, when her heart would be very much affected. Witness put the handkerchief including the coin under her pillow, and the prisoner went away. When the handkerchief was opened it was found to contain only a shilling instead of a sovereign. The prisoner admitted having worked this trick frequently and went to prison.

PERSONS EXEMPT FROM JURY SERVICE

The following is a list of those persons exempt from jury service and will no doubt be of interest to many citizens of the city and surrounding country. Adhes and Pains of rheumatism are not permanently but only temporarily relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy? "John Doe" is the name of the man who offered the reward which corrects the ailment of the blood on which rheumatism depends and cures the disease.

The name of "John Doe" on the majority ballot of Geneva, N.Y., is causing serious legal tangles; "John" got the most votes.

$50,000 is offered in London for the capture of the criminal known as "The Clutching Hand." Much mystery surrounded the offer, and "The Clutching Hand" recently had the front-page to advertise that $50,000 was far too small a sum to pay for his arrest, and that the man who offered the reward would soon be numbered amongst his victims. From a subsequent advertisement it is clear that "The Clutching Hand" has carried out his threat, for Elaine, the daughter of Taylor Dodge, the man who offered the reward, declares that she will give the whole of her fortune to the man who brings about the arrest of the arch-criminal. Who is "The Clutching Hand?" So far no description has been published. He is a mystery of mysteries.

The Situation

Russia has asked permission from Roumania to send troops through that country to the aid of Serbia. This is putting matters up to the Roumanians in straight fashion. She may protest, but so did Greece, and all the same the troops of the Allies were landed at Salonika. A like thing may happen in this instance.

Sir John French has reported the strengthening of the British position, and the French have recaptured some trenches in Loraine. The Germans report two gains.

Reports show that the British submarines are masters of the situation in the Baltic. Their latest exploit is to sink a German destroyer and a German torpedo boat. Ships loaded with enemy cargoes are also scurrying for cover.

The Russians continue to keep Von Hindenburg on the defensive, and they are manifesting a sustained comeback which is little short of marvellous.

The heavy losses in the Dardanelles as given in last evening's Courier, again show the tremendous nature of the fighting there and the heavy tribute entailed for the amount of foothold thus far gained.

Prevention of Zeppelin Raids in the Old Land and reprisal raids upon German centres are still the main topics of discussion in Great Britain, and there has been much criticism. A more barbarous form of murder it would be hard to imagine, and it is only natural that reprisals should be urged.

French calculations place the expenses of Germany at the present time at about 120 million pounds a month, at the very lowest estimate, and the average since the war began at about 100 millions. The Paris correspondent of the "Standard" writes—

This is without taking into account the advances made to Austria and to Turkey, which amount to about another 150 millions. Consequently, Germany would have spent by the end of May, without reckoning the loans to Austria, about a billion pounds sterling. Therefore, by the end of November, 1916, the expenses will have reached the enormous total of £3,160,000,000, and it is scarcely conceivable that after then Germany can stand the strain very much longer, financially.

Red Cross Work.

Particulars have already been given in these columns with reference to the scope and the activities of this splendid institution but the fact that a special Dominion wide appeal is now before the Canadian public will make some further details opportune.

Base and general hospitals vary in size, the largest unit containing over 1,000 beds. As there are approximately 100 of these in France and England alone, they must contain at least 50,000 beds. To these must be added the hospitals in Egypt and various parts of the Mediterranean, in Mesopotamia and in every part of the world where British forces are fighting. If, therefore, the Naval and Military hospitals to be supported by the British Red Cross be alone taken into account, and the hundreds of voluntary hospitals in England be regarded merely as auxiliaries, the cost of keeping up these hospitals, in salaries for doctors, nurses and stretcher bearers, ambulances, hospital trains, etc., must be enormous. The ambulance and motor lorries require elaborate blacksmith and mechanics shops all along the way, to keep them in repair, and, in fact, the more one looks at the actual operation of the Red Cross activities the more wonderful they appear and the more remarkable is it that voluntary subscriptions can keep up such a huge and complex organization.

It is very difficult to get at the exact cost of all these activities, not because this is not reported in the British Red Cross reports, but because of the difficulty, in the time at disposal, of going through these reports for our present purpose. We know beyond doubt that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John have spent, up to date, all the money raised through the 'Times' fund, namely $8,000,000. To this must be added contributions from the British Dominions the Canadian Red Cross alone having contributed $125,000, besides relieving the British Red Cross Society of the care of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. These figures take no cognizance of individual gifts which have been made to the Society direct, of which we know there have been several of very large sums. We may, therefore, state, knowing quite well that the figure is far below what a detailed analysis of the reports would show, that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John have spent up to date upwards of $10,000,000, and the demands which they have to meet are just beginning, for, with the offensive movement of the Allied Forces, the casualties must increase enormously, and with these the demands made upon Red Cross agencies. In appealing for help from the citizens of the Empire the world around, the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John have done the only thing that they could possibly do, and we in Canada, and particularly in the Province of Ontario, should recognize that the obligation laid upon us is particularly heavy. When we consider that the income tax in England, high before the war, has been enormously increased, we can readily recognize that the possibility of voluntary subscriptions to the Red Cross Society is thereby largely reduced. Our War taxes in Canada up to the present time are trifling compared with those in the Motherland, and our resources have as yet hardly been touched. Patriotism and humanity must together urge us to consider the debt we owe to those who are fighting our battle. To a certain extent our obligation cannot be measured in terms of money, for, when we recognize that our sailors and soldiers are fighting for our honour, for our freedom, for what we justly prize as British justice and fair play, together with all that flows from our British connection, we must feel that on the one hand is all that we hold as of absolutely first importance and on the other the comparatively few dollars which at the very utmost we would be able to give were we to give all we have. The appeal of the British Red Cross Society thus gives us an opportunity to show in a peculiar way the value which we put upon British citizenship and institutions, and while our appeals may perhaps give us an equal opportunity we should not allow this special one-day offering, to pass without seriously considering the many obligations of which it makes us mindful.

Three great dairies have just effected a merger in London. The new corporation, to be known as the United Dairies, has a capital of $5,000,000 and will control the trade in London and the surrounding district. According to the big dairymen, the combination was made necessary by the strength of the farmers' organization, which fix the wholesale prices which the dairy companies must pay for the milk. These farmers' societies, which are banded together in a strong central body, have recently been considering radical changes in the milk contracts. It is expected that they will fix the wholesale price of milk at 29 cents to 33 cents per gallon.

Their Majesties, although spending so much time in visiting hospitals and touring the provinces, have kept their attention fixed upon the needs of individual soldiers who, when on leave, pass through London on the way to their homes in the country. Poor chaps, few, if any, of them know which way to turn. A score of these temporary waifs are now taken in nightly at the Royal Mews, and start for home next morning fortified for the often long and tiring journey by a good breakfast. And when their friends put the inevitable question "Where did ye stop over night, lad?" what pride in the ready answer, "Where? Why, at Buckingham Palace—leastwise the Royal Mews—as the King's guests."

Sir Alfred Mond, chairman of the Free Trade Union, is heading a movement against what he says is protection in the new budget. Certain of the uncompromising Free Traders in the House of Commons are disgruntled with the new import duties proposed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, basing their opposition on "the violation of the principles of free trade" and the "infinite small returns which the taxes will yield."

The orders and regulations as to enlistment in the Canadian Expeditionary force now provide that expert mechanics should be enlisted only in corps requiring their services and that in other cases their enlistment should be referred to Headquarters, Ottawa. The said provisions are in force to be carried out as follows.

(a) Upon the application for enlistment by any man who is a qualified expert mechanic, his enlistment should not be completed but full particulars as to such man should be forwarded to Headquarters. Ypa will then be informed with as little delay as possible as to whether the service of such men are required for the manufacture of munitions.

(b) No men who are at present engaged in the manufacture of munitions should be allowed to enlist, but it should be pointed out to them that they are serving the country as well by carrying on their present employment and helping towards a successful issue of the war in another way.

Ontario Leads in the Red Cross Campaign

Government Is Active in the Empire-Wide Collection

CALL from the Motherland, an appeal from the British Red Cross Society. For the first time in history this age-old institution is in need of help and is looking to the daughter nations of the Empire for relief. Great Britain is entering upon the most serious stage of the war. The demand on the British Red Cross Society for medicine, hospital supplies, and equipment for the succor of the wounded sailors and soldiers is taxing the resources of the Red Cross Society to the utmost, and if the noble work is to go on unimpaird, more money must be available.

Lord Lansdowne, President of the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, has called an appeal to the Governors of all states in the British Empire, an appeal that is eloquent in its simplicity and convincing in its earnestness.

"The money from this appeal," reads the cable, "will be devoted entirely to relieving the sufferings of our wounded soldiers and sailors, from home and overseas, at the various seats of war, from all parts of the King's Dominions. We have already received generous assistance in our work, but with the increase of British Overseas forces at the front there is a corresponding increase in our expenditure, and we shall be truly grateful if you will help us by organizing an appeal and sending the proceeds to us for the objects I have named."

What will Ontario's answer be? Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant Governor, sends this message to every man, woman, and child in the Province.

"This is the first appeal of the Motherland to Canada in this present war. It calls upon our humanity as well as our loyalty. This collection will be made upon an historic occasion. October 21st is the anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar, and the British navy to-day is abundantly worthy of the great traditions bequeathed to it then. It is possible to know of the most renowned quarter of Ontario that October 21st is "OUR DAY" for Soldiers and Sailors, and the people of the banner Province of the Dominion will be able to show their appreciation for the men who are fighting for Britain's integrity on the most "far flung battle line" of all ages.

The organization of the Province for this great appeal has been carried out with commendable promptitude by the Government of Ontario. Immediately he received the cable Sir John Hendrie laid the matter before the Premier, Hon. W. H. Hearst, who summoned his colleagues to conference, and later called to the council chamber men of all political stripes and creeds. It was time for action. A general committee was struck, the Premier himself taking the chairmanship. On this committee he associated his political opponent, the leader of the opposition in the Legislature, otherwise active in the public life of the Province came forward to help, and in a short time the big movement was under way. Accommodation was found in Parliament Buildings for Dr. A. H. Abbott, who offered to act as Secretary of the Committee; a staff was procured, and Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, consented to act as Treasurer in respect to the fund. Lord Lansdowne's cable was sent to the mayor and receive of every municipality in Ontario.

"What has been done is known, what remains to be done shall be limited only by the need," said Sir Robert Borden during that historic session of the Dominion Parliament in the fall of 1914. What has been done by Ontario is perhaps only too little known, and its recital here may stimulate the people to greater achievements for the added burdens which the future holds in store. The gift of 200,000 bags of flour to the Motherland was received with popular acclaim all through the Province, but this was supplemented by cash grants to the Belgian relief fund, and the shipment of large quantities of produce to the hard-pressed sufferers of that gallant little country. Foods of all sorts were shipped to the sailors in the North Sea, and the replies that have been received are worth more than all the trouble of collecting the supplies. But while Ontario has given food in abundance the gift of 1,000 machine guns to the Canadian Overseas forces was a further evidence of the loyalty and enterprise of the Provincial Government, and this has been followed by the establishment of a base hospital with accommodation for 1,000 patients at Orpington, Kent County, England.

In a less spectacular way the Women's Institutes, organized by the Department of Agriculture, have done a noble work in collecting funds, providing comforts for the soldiers, supplies for the Red Cross, and assisting to a large extent in local charity. The various experimental farms and demonstration orchards throughout the Province are sending this year the best of their crop. For Ontario, it can truly be said, "what remains to be done shall be limited only by the need."

FRENCH OFFICIAL

Paris, Oct. 16.—French forces have repulsed several counter-attacks in the Lorraine district against the trenches occupied by them yesterday, according to the official statement issued by the French war office to-day. The text of the communication follows:

"We repulsed last night in Lorraine several counter-attacks against the trenches which we occupied yesterday to the north of Reillon. In the course of these engagements we took 100 prisoners. "In the Vosges the enemy undertook shortly after midnight an attack in force between the Lingé and the Schratzmannele. This was preceded by a severe bombardment and accompanied by a curtain of fire directed against our second lines and our communicating trenches. This attack was completely repulsed by us. "There has been nothing to report from the remainder of the front since the issuing of the communication of last night.

W. M. S. Held Annual Convention and Heard Interesting Addresses

The Brantford district of the Women's Missionary Society held their annual convention yesterday at Colborne St. Methodist Church. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. George Jones of Lynden, who also gave an interesting talk on the work of the W. M. S. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Marten and the minutes of the last year's meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. Shultis, and adopted. Reports of progress by auxiliaries, circles and bands were read by new circuit representatives which showed a decided increase over last year. A lecture on the W. M. S. and its importance in the history of the Empire was given by Mrs. Peters of Marlboro St. Church in a very intelligent manner, followed by the organizers report.

ORGANIZER'S REPORT.

Mrs. G. A. Chrysler, organizer, reported as follows: The last year's work proved very pleasant, especially the Sunday service for the W.M.S. at Ingersoll, Paris, New Durham, Burgessville, Salein, St. George, Transjuly, Pleasant, Hickson, Hebron, Etonia, Princeton and Echo Place addresses on the missionary department of the Chicago International S. S. convention were given.

The total addresses were 71, being given in Sunday schools, auxiliaries, circles, bands, Epworth and Junior leagues, young ladies' classes, prayer services and three Baptist Young People's societies.

We have 1675 auxiliary, circle and band members, which is an increase of 110.

Our district takes 175 Outlooks, 152 Palm Branches and 63 reports. The amount which was raised is $2275.

I wrote 123 letters and 39 cards; 90 bouquets and 60 articles of clothing were given out and $4 worth of pamphlets, leaflets and books were bought to be used in the new societies.

A new circle was formed at Wellington Street church consisting of 10 members and two life members. Paris and Oxford Street bands are reported to be doing fine. Marlboro church and St. Pleasant church, new circles, are also doing excellent work.

The travelling expenses amounted to $16. The district convention held last year at Wellington Street Church was a decided success, the ladies excelling themselves by providing dinner for 150, while music by 11 of the ministers was splendid and a chorus by ministers' wives was well rendered.

In the Brantford district we have 2735 women and girls attending church and 1675 belong to auxiliaries, circles and bands. Invitations were given for the next meeting from Colborne Street, Copetown and Paris. Dinner was then served in the Sunday school, when Miss Round

Second Article

I want to take you with me to an interesting article to the bears. Everybody likes to see the bears. They are safely guarded. No one would like to meet one in the wild. Well the bears in Brantford Park live in a bear's paradise. They live happily in captivity. They furnish endless enjoyment to tourists who throng to see them. There are several bear dens in the park. The ideal conditions for bears. Bears do not need as much as many other animals. Buildings are provided for them. They have dry sleeping dens, but they live in the open. They rocks and the trees and the pool of which is found in it. It is best not to feed the bears and those who do, run of being severely reprimanded by the authorities, as feeding the bears to irritate them, sets them fighting, and so spoils their tions, and thus renders them out to the keepers who have with them. So when you see bears, never throw anything at them. The bears of North America are well defined groups as follows:

1. The Polar Bear.
2. The Grizzly Bear.
3. The Brown Bear.
4. The Black Bears and Allies.

Twenty species of bears have been discovered, but I will not tell you first of all of the most one of the finest species of the family. Of all the bears this the most showy and attractive. white coats make it catch the eye of the visitor and whether young they are generally the most playful of all captive bears. In weather, when other bears lie in or curl up in the straw of sleeping dens, the polar bear is seen sporting himself in the cold water of his swimming pool will joyously play with a cube when the very sight of it sends you fairly shiver. Although the bears inhabit practically the whole of the Arctic Ocean and its islands.

thing a grizzly bear like a lion or a tiger will run as soon as he discovers the presence of his only enemy—man; but if he is wounded or cornered he assumes the aggressive attitude and an instant's delay. In a wild state grizzly bears live on berries and fruits of all kinds available, roots, grubs, carrion, if it comes handy, and live game if it can be killed. In the cattle growing sections bordering on the Rockies for example, a bounty of $12 to $15 is paid by the government for every bear killed.

Other bears are the Black, the spectacled, distinguished by a glossy jet black coat, very small ears, long feet and a large imperfect circle of white around each eye with white bands down the cheeks and throat. It is found in south America in the Andes Mountains, and resembles the small American black bear.

MOVIES, MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE BRANT.

The management of the Brant Theatre promise two exceptionally fine bills for next week including special feature vaudeville and photo plays. For the first half of the week the feature photo drama will be "The Builder of Bridges," a five part World Film production with the famous abietic actor C. Aubrey Smith in the leading role. This will undoubtedly prove one of the best of the superb pictures now being shown. The vaudeville will consist of two selected acts of pleasing variety. "The Bernard Trio," three classy singing and dancing girls, and "Three Saxons," an artistic musical offering.

The last half of the week a great treat is promised in the showing of the popular actress Lillian Russell in her greatest play, "Wild Fire." Special vaudeville attractions will be secured to make this entire week a decided amusement resort.

"THE BUILDER OF BRIDGES."

Second Gustave Frohman Photo-drama Presented by World Film. World Film Corporation presents the five-part photo-drama "The Builder of Bridges," based upon Alfred Sutro's successful play of the same name, at the Brant next week. In theatrical annals Sutro is known as a dramatist of power; his work always got over with the greatest of excellence and gripping qualities.

C. Aubrey Smith, plays the part of Edward Thurstield, the builder of bridges, a great man; a master engineer who is responsible for the largest bridge in the world. While this mammoth structure is in course of construction love intrudes itself; as well as other things concomitant with tender passion.

The worst of it is, that when you fall in love with a girl, the thing does not begin and end there. Not a bit of it. The girl usually has relations, and be sure, they trouble you sooner or later.

So it was with Edward Thurstield. A young fool in his office lost money in a bucket shop, and stole the money to make up the deficit. Edward Thurstield found this out and then sensitively fell in love with the young thief's sister. Then the drama began to move.

Marie Edith Wells, one of the prettiest girls ever seen in pictures, plays the sweet appealing part of Dorothy, whose love for Edward Thurstield introduces the human interest into the story.

There is a splendid supporting cast and Director George Irving has produced the picture with a keen eye to dramatic effect. Gustave Frohman's second picture will no doubt prove a valuable addition to the long list of World Film successes. AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE. Manager J. Whitaker, of the Grand announces that he has secured for the theatre goers of Brantford the following attractions: Oct. 21, The Recruiting League and Red Cross meeting. Oct. 26, the musical comedy "Bringing up Father."

Oct. 30, The new military play "Under Orders."

Nov. 5, "It Pays to Advertise," now playing in Toronto, following with "The Birth of a Nation." The most wonderful motion picture of the present day, having finished a three weeks engagement at the Royal Alexandra theatre, Toronto. This production carries with it a special orchestra of 10 pieces, and Brantford has one of the treats of the season. Manager Whitaker, after a lot of hard work, has been fortunate in securing this attraction. Altogether, the Grand is to receive some good attractions this coming season.

BRILLIANT ADDRESS BY DR. BARKER IN ZION CHURCH ON "HOW TO LIVE A HUNDRED YEARS"

Concluding Lecture of His "Health and Happiness" Series Easily His Best Effort, Packed Full of Simple Directions Based on Scientific Investigations as to Best Way of Avoiding Disease.

HOW IT IS DONE

Regular systematic exercise, regular friction rub of whole body, buttermilk, meat once a day at most, and specialize in vegetables, fruits and cereals.

Dr. Barker gave five directions to cure constipation, a disease so prevalent, so insidious, since it gradually possessed one unawares, so fatal in its results, and yet so absolutely unnecessary. These five directions had all to be followed, not only one or two of them. They were: Upon rising in the morning, drink 1 to 1½ glasses of hot water, preferably but not necessarily, followed five minutes later by a glass of cold water; lie down flat on one's back and take simple exercises for five minutes, bringing into play the abdominal muscles; follow a certain simple diet, eliminating meat entirely until cured, and then take it once a day or less, but consuming vegetables, green, fruit and cereals; drink 8 to 10 glasses of water per day, and take orange juice of two oranges just before retiring.

THE INTENSINES

In regard to meat eating, Dr. Barker stated he was not a vegetarian; nevertheless, science showed clearly that meat was not necessary for sustenance. Besides performing their own particular function, the kidneys also acted in carrying off waste matter that the lungs, skin and intestines did not throw off. The effect of these three organs being out of order, but many a man when 45 or 50 found he had diabetes, Bright's disease or some such trouble, simply because his kidneys had been overworked in that way. These diseases were only rare; the result of dissipation, many times more often because of lungs, skin and intestines had for years not been up to the mark.

BULGARIAN CENTENARIANS.

In conclusion, Dr. Barker stated that not only was it necessary to keep the organs mentioned working properly, but one or two other points should be noted. He again referred to the question of diet. A famous French physician had found about 20 years ago that there were more centenarians in Bulgaria, than in all the rest of Europe, the United States, Canada and Australia. Exhaustive investigation showed him that these long-lived people were not heavy meat eaters, drank large quantities of water daily, and also large portions of buttermilk daily. Buttermilk, the doctor stated, was an excellent ingredient, as it increased the number of benign and beneficent germs in the intestines.

WHERE IS IT?

The doctor said that he had discovered a place in Brantford—he would not say where—where one could get pure fresh buttermilk at the rate of two glasses for 5 cents. He advised his audience to hunt around until they found this place and then patronize it, or failing that, purchase Bulgarian tablets and prepare their own buttermilk.

AMUSING EXPERIENCE

Regular systematic exercise, the doctor admitted, is something that he simply won't take. Therefore, an alternative was a dry friction rub, two minutes every morning and once with Japanese flesh brush, available at any drug store. In this connection, the speaker related his experience that befell him in St. Marie, Mich. At the conclusion of his speech, a woman was judged to try about 60 or 65 minutes of it, and, after felicitating him upon his address (on the same subject last evening) asked him to guess her age. He was loath to do so and she finally told him, to his amazement that she was 96. He was so obviously incredulous that she appealed to her friends to confirm her statement, and he took her aside and asked her what she had done to make her look so much younger than she was.

"Just what you have outlined in your speech," she said. "Eighty years ago, when a young girl, our family doctor in New York State, himself an old man, told me to give myself dry friction rub every day, and presented me with several pairs of coarse mitts for the purpose. I followed his advice with the result you see."

"She rides often 12 miles a day on a bicycle," said Dr. Barker, amid laughter, "and that isn't the cause of her good health, as she only learned to ride four years ago." The doctor further stated that this incident could be verified by writing to the Y. M. C. A. secretary at Sault Ste. Marie.

very carefully that he was employed by a certain association in the United States at a set fee to deliver these lectures, and any recommendation he made during his speech, as to the purchase of any article, was made unbiased, and he had no financial interest in them or utterly no motive than their merits in bringing them to the attention of his audience.

Boy Knight Notes

Church parade on Sunday to the Congregational Church was well attended and the B. K. was well repaid for their effort in listening to the bright, forcible address of Rev. W. Kelly. The music was also a most helpful character, the service being a very hearty one.

Monday, as a sports day for the B. K. turned out fine and bright. Two paper classes were held. One over the White School House route, the other the Echo Place way. Jack Stewart made a record run, doing the trip in 40 minutes. All laces were caught. A grand treasure hunt was held at 1 o'clock, which furnished considerable amusement and excitement.

The afternoon was given over to athletic events. Gernal House won the championship among the juniors with L. Gordon following close. L. Sears also made some good records. N. Reynolds, B. Egalden, E. Willis, were among those who headed in different events. The standing of the boys by points was as follows: Vernal House, 42; E. Willis 28; Corp. Jones 28; J. Stewart 30; C. Sterne 30, G. McCormack 40; D. Currie 6; A. Money 6; B. Money 10; G. Field 15; D. Westlake 6; N. Reynolds 21; E. Robertson 11; W. Robertson 6; Cecil Bowman 10. A. Ross 17; Sgt. Lynn 21; L. Foulger 30; C. Finch 22; F. Bour 6; C. Dennis 11; G. Forsythe 4; E. Forsythe 4; R. Tyrrell 17; F. Brown 5; Ivan Moore 5; A. Reynolds 21; Serg. Sears 36; E. Philip 21; M. Reynolds 15; C. Campbell 10; G. Campbell 27; J. Bowers 12; E. Harrison 3; T. Richards 15; W. Reynolds 15; R. Girdlestone 9.

Old World Notes

Female doctors are greatly in demand, perhaps because of the feeling that males are needed at the front. Several of our hospital doctors are offered to women. This is particularly true of the provincial hospitals. Boards of guardians are so hard up for doctors that, casting aside their inherited prejudices, they are offering positions to women at increased salary. Before the war an infirmary doctor in the Whitechapel district, who was always a man, received only $300 a year and emolument. Now that post is advertised for a woman at $1,000 and emolument.

Gossip of Notables

A man of many parts is Sir Oliver Lodge, who has been appointed a member of the Central Committee which will assist Lord Fisher, Chairman of the Inventions Board. Mechanics and electricity, wireless signalling, lightning conductors, educational reform mathematics for parents and teachers, life and matter—such are the varied subjects he has dealt with in his writings and lectures. Not to mention spoofs. For Sir Oliver Lodge was one of the founders of the Psychological Research Society, and has always manifested a keen scientific interest in the subject of the life "beyond the veil."

Sir Oliver has known days of struggle. He was born sixty-four years ago at the little village of Potesly, in Staffordshire, his father being a merchant in the Potteries. The future scientist at first worked with his father but the latter, recognizing that the boy's heart was not in the business, sent him to London, where he entered University College and laid the foundation of his great success.

Not that Sir Oliver was in any way a brilliant boy. Indeed, he seemed to be getting into disgrace at the boarding school he first attended, and has related how the master "kept the cane in his boot, except when he flung it at the class and came the boy who picked it up and returned it to him. He was always caning somebody, and was nicknamed Dick Larup. I used to get on an average of about three cuts a day."

Sir Oliver, who is a giant in stature, being much over six feet in height, with a face and head extraordinarily like the late Lord Salisbury, is not the dry-as-dust scientist of tradition. There never was a more unconventional professor, and he is the hero of numberless stories. He is a firm believer in recreation, and when he first began to play golf, a game for which he has the greatest respect, he got Professor Tait to teach him at St. Andrews. "Now remember," said Tait, "you don't play golf with your muscles. You play it with your morals." "But I hope, sir, my morals are not as bad as my golf," said Lodge, cheerfully.

After giving up his work as a motor-car mechanic a London man was rejected fifteen times by the recruiting officers in Great Britain. He was rejected on account of a broken bone in his left arm which had not set properly, but which had regained its normal freedom and power. After the fifteenth attempt to enlist to avenge the deaths of his two brothers killed at the front, he stowed away in a vessel sailing for Seattle through the Panama Canal. Suspected of being a German spy when he was discovered, he proved his identity, and was signed on as one of the crew, but was arrested when the boat reached Seattle. He was arrested but the British consul arranged for his release and sent him to Victoria, British Columbia, the nearest British port, where he again presented himself to the recruiting officers, was pronounced medically fit and joined a Canadian battalion.

SPORT

Baseball—Football—Basketball—Bowling—Hockey—Curling—Boxing and Wrestling.

Pete Compton, Boston, according to report, will turn over Pitcher Dick Cutcher and Outfielder Larry Gilbert. The matter of further payment in cash will be determined by whether Compton remains with the Braves next year.

The Boston Braves will have an overhead expense of $106,000 annually for their new ball park. For the thirty-one years they may use the park they will pay a total of $2,559,000. With a payroll for players alone of around $80,000 a season and a few other "incidental" expenses, it's a cinch that the backers of the Boston Nationals will not want to even hear a whimper of cut prices.

Pat Moran Says Alex. Strained Side

After it was all over Pat Moran, the Philadelphia manager, said: "It had been my intention to work Alexander in the game to-day, but when Alex. went out to warm up he found he had sprained his side. He might have gone in and pitched a good game of ball, but the chances are that even if he had done so he might have injured himself, and I would rather have him fit for work next year than send him in to win any one game, even a world's series game."

His Name a Popular One.

Umpire Silk O'Loughlin was caught in the mood before Braves Field prior Tuesday's game, and, after struggling helplessly for three-quarters of an hour, besought the assistance of a mounted policeman. "I'm O'Loughlin, the umpire," said Silk, "and it is absolutely necessary that I get through this crowd at once. Can't you make a passage for me with your horse?" "Yes, you're O'Loughlin, all right," entered the officer. "But the trouble is you belong to too large a family to command my respect. Do you know that over twenty of your older brothers have sprung that song. Just take your time like they did." And the officer refused further to pay the least attention to Silk's outbursts of wrath.

ED. HARRIS KILLED IN ZEPPELIN RAID

Well-known St. Catharines Lacrosse Player Meets Death in England. St. Catharines, Oct. 16.—Relatives of Sergt. Instructor Edward Harris, who were yesterday notified that he was killed on Wednesday by a bomb from a Zeppelin at Atterpool Camp, England, yesterday afternoon, cabled the request that his body be shipped to St. Catharines for burial. He left with the ammunition column of the 2nd Artillery Brigade Sergt. Harris was the well-known lacrosse player whom the Mann Cup trustees barred from playing in cup games with Vancouver in 1912. He made his debut in senior lacrosse in 1904 and was a member of the team which brought The Globe Shield to St. Catharines in 1908 and played at Montreal for the Mann Cup in the same year. He was captain of the succeeding St. Catharines teams which defended it up to 1913. Harris was 32 years of age and unmarried. He leaves a widowed mother and three sisters here and one brother, William, in Chicago.

The STREETS of your TOWN

Are Lighted by

Hydro Quality Lamps

REMEMBER the old arc lamps that hung at the corners of down-town streets before the days of Hydro. You remember how the corner was bright and the street was dark.

What a difference between then and now. To-day the wonderful, even lighting of streets in Hydro towns and cities which everyone admires—is made possible by Hydro Quality Lamps. All day long and all the night through these street lamps must stand the constant vibration of waggons, autos, cars and the throngs of passing people. Month after month they stand this strain; always ready to flood your streets with beautiful clear, White Light.

If Hydro Lamps give such excellent service in your streets just think how much more satisfactory service you can expect from them in your home.

To get the Full Measure of Light that you pay for insist on genuine Hydro Quality Lamps.

Look for the Hydro Name on Every Lamp.

TRADES AND LABOR CONGRESS OF CANADA

Several Very Important Matters Came Up at the Convention Recently Held in Vancouver.

Now that the full reports of the Vancouver convention are to hand, it is apparent that the meeting dealt fearlessly with the different propositions that came before it. There was no straddling the fence and the delegates were outspoken in regard to every proposition and resolution that was up for discussion.

ATTITUDE CLEAR-CUT.

Among some of the more important resolutions passed at the following will show that a great amount of ground was covered and the standing of the Congress in regard to the great issues before the people and the nation cannot be misunderstood.

Of course, the pronouncement of Labor in regard to its stand on the question of war, showed that the Congress and Organized Labor in the Dominion were standing shoulder to shoulder with the great Labor Party in the Motherland and were unequivocally pledged to uphold the authority of the Imperial government in its struggles in the defence of the Empire.

OPPOSED TO CONSCRIPTION.

On the question of conscription, a firm attitude was affirmed in opposition to any form of enforced military service, which was antagonistic to labor interests and at variance with the fundamental principles of constitutional freedom, the help of Labor must be free, it must be dictated by duty, not coercion; therefore unalterable opposition was voiced in any attempt to enforce conscription either in Canada or elsewhere within the British Empire.

MORE PROVISION FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Strong pronouncement was made in regard to the welfare of soldiers disabled in the war, and the pension system of the Dominion government was described as pitifully inadequate so far as the rank and file was concerned, and a better and more liberal and comprehensive system will be urged upon the government to be administered by a national pensions board.

FAIR WAGES IN MUNITIONS FACTORIES.

John Bruce of Toronto, brought up the matter of the low rate of wages paid in many of the munitions factories in Canada, and produced affidavits and evidence to prove that the workers were being heartlessly exploited. In many clothing and shoe factories where soldiers' equipment is being made the conditions existing were a positive disgrace. Other delegates declared that Canadian manufacturers were exploiting the present national crisis to give them extortionate profits.

REDUCE WAGES AFTER GETTING FAT CONTRACTS.

Delegate G. Bell of the Shoe Workers cited a number of cases of factories in the East where wages had been reduced though the firms involved had received fat army contracts. It was proposed to send a special representative to Britain in an effort to have the British Government place and enforce fair wages clauses in all contracts for war supplies in Canada. Delegate Jas. Simpson of Toronto, advised that the matter be left in the hands of the Executive committee to take what action it thought best. This was carried by a vote of 128 to 5 against.

PROVINCIAL FEDERATIONS ARE CRITICIZED.

The question of provincial federations of labor came in for considerable discussion and criticism. The Alberta Federation desired the Congress to take up the work of organizing provincial bodies in the different provinces, to the end that when so organized the Dominion legislative executive, at present represented by the Trades Congress executive, shall be changed to be the chief executive of provincial executives, and that subordinate legislative bodies within each province, such as trades and labor councils, shall be chartered from their respective provincial federations. This was non-concurred in on the recommendation of the resolutions committee; as also was another proposal from the same body to the effect that the Congress donate at least $200 per year to each of the existing provincial federations of labor.

PETTYPIECE DISAPPOINTED.

Later in the session a resolution was introduced by Delegate Peebles of Edmonton in favor of dissolving the Alberta Federation, as he claimed the work accomplished had not justified its existence. Delegate Welles of the British Columbia Federationist, claimed that valuable work had been accomplished by the federations in the provinces that had them.

Delegate Pettipiece, Vancouver, said he was coming to the conclusion that in many cases where unions had obtained what they wanted by legislative means they lost interest in keeping their industrial organizations up to a keen pitch of efficiency. He was not sure of the result of the recommendation of the Alberta Federation, as he claimed the federations in the provinces that had them.

DELEGATE WELLES OF THE BRITISH COLUMBIA FEDERATIONIST, CLAIMED THAT VALUABLE WORK HAD BEEN ACCOMPLISHED BY THE FEDERATIONS IN THE PROVINCES THAT HAD THEM.

Delegate Pettipiece, Vancouver, said he was coming to the conclusion that in many cases where unions had obtained what they wanted by legislative means they lost interest in keeping their industrial organizations up to a keen pitch of efficiency. He was not sure of the result of the recommendation of the Alberta Federation, as he claimed the federations in the provinces that had them.

SUNDAY RESOLUTIONS.

Among other resolutions adopted were one favoring a working week of not more than six days for employees in the restaurant business. That fair wage clauses in government contracts be strengthened so that the established unit rates in a district shall be recognized as fair rates.

The Dominion government to pass laws providing for the greater safety of trackmen and repairers working in railway yards. Compulsory education in Quebec and Manitoba, where such a law does not at present prevail.

Half holiday to certain grades of postal employees coming under the head of letter carriers, who are not at present included in the privilege. Abolition of private employment agencies and the substitution in their place of municipal employment bureaus where each municipality will have full control of the machinery and deal with its own unemployed problem.

A literary test for all immigrants entering the Dominion of Canada. The exclusion of Asiatic immigration as being inimical to the interests of the country and the working class.

The adoption of the proportional representation in the Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislatures and Municipal Councils.

Adoption of the single tax on land value approved of. A colonization act along the lines of the one advocated by the London Trades and Labor Council in order to settle immigrant workers in the cities upon foreign land.

THE QUESTION OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

Attention was called to the widespread unemployment throughout the country. A special committee was advised and appointed to get the views of delegates from each province and to outline a policy from a national, provincial and municipal standpoint. At the close of hostilities the executive anticipates that many thousands of workmen will be released from war or war work. Many new immigrants are expected to come from Britain with a consequent grave problem of unemployment further aggravated by the release of interned aliens. On this point the report adds:

"It will require the exercise of the greatest care on the part of the directing force of government to prevent social chaos." It was recommended that this whole question should be considered by a special committee in conjunction with immigration and the attitude of labor to the release of interned aliens.

The First Appeal From the Motherland

Read This Cable From the Marquis of Lansdowne, President of the British Red Cross Society:

Sir John S. Hendrie, C.V.O., Lieut.-Governor of the Province of Ontario, Toronto.

I beg to inform you that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, in view of the great demands upon their resources, both in France and the near east, have decided to make an appeal throughout the empire, by street and other collections, upon the 21st day of October next.

The money received from this appeal will be devoted entirely to relieving the sufferings of our wounded soldiers and sailors, from home and overseas, at the various posts of war, from all parts of the King's dominions. We have already received generous assistance in our work, but with the increase of British and overseas forces at the front, there is a corresponding increase in our expenditures, and we should be truly grateful to you if you will help us by organizing an appeal and sending the proceeds to us for the objects which I have named.

I shall be greatly obliged if you will kindly communicate the foregoing to your government. Their Majesty the King and Queen and His Majesty the Governor-General are giving us their generous patronage, and I trust that you will also be able to see your way to help.

LANSDOWNE, President of the British Red Cross Society, 33 Pall Mall, W., Sept. 27, 1915.

We shall not fail them—our stricken heroes.

HELP!

for those who are making the Greater Sacrifice to keep the barbarians from our gates.

Lord Lansdowne has cabled that the British Red Cross Society is in dire need of funds to provide medical supplies, hospital appliances and comforts for sick and wounded soldiers and sailors from all over the King's Dominions.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario has set aside as a public day of gift-giving

"OUR DAY"

For Sailors and Soldiers Thursday, Oct. 21st

It is literally "Our Day," when we stay-at-homes can contribute our bit by giving to the British Red Cross, and so send aid and comfort to our brave sailors and soldiers who are now languishing in their pain and illness because they saw their Duty and did it.

Ontario's Quota is $500,000

Give liberally to this worthy cause. Not a fraction of a dollar is wasted. Even this advertising space has been contributed. Everyone is working to make "Our Day" a tremendous success. Why not give one day's pay, and induce others to do so, too?

Made Bright and Well by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Used to Scream Terribly for no reason whatever.

Just a bundle of Nerves.

Weak, Wasting away, and Digestive Troubles.

Thought she could never recover.

Now cured and happy through DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Canadian mothers of little weak or nervous children should read this testimony to Dr. Cassell's Tablets, given out at simple cost by Mrs. Worrall, 32 Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ontario. They will then see what a valuable medicine they have in this great remedy.

Mrs. Worrall says: "Dr. Cassell's Tablets have quite cured my little girl, Gladys, of extreme nervousness and digestive troubles, and I think it is worth your while to read the story for the benefit of other mothers whose children may be afflicted. Gladys began to ill when she was only two years old, and steadily grew worse though we did all we could think of to get her well. She was very nervous and cried continually. Sometimes she would scream for hours and at other times we would discover and nothing would pacify her. She just a little bundle of nerves. Her appetite was very poor and naturally she got quite thin and weak, and her little cheeks fell in dreadfully. Indeed, she hardly ate anything and soon just wasting away. We tried all sorts of different things that did no good at all. Then we had advice and treatment for Gladys, but that, too, was of very little use. She became sicker and suffering from nervous breakdown and enlarged liver. After that we took her to an institution, where for nine months she was treated as an out-patient. Perhaps she was a little better for a time, but she soon grew as ever. Next we took her to England for three months, and that seemed to help her. But almost at once she relapsed into the old weak state. For four years this had gone on, and

MOYLE-TRANQUILITY.

An exceptionally pleasant and profitable afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. J.P. Gregory, St. George Road on October 13th, when, the members of the Women's Institute met for their regular monthly meeting. The meeting opened by singing "The Maple Leaf" and repeating motto, Mrs. E. D. Clump, secretary-treasurer, read a letter from the Red Cross in Toronto acknowledging the barrel of jam and jellies.

Buffalo Doctor Tells Militia Department This in His Offer to Teach Flying.

Letters strange and fantastic are received every day in the Militia Department, which it seems is being bombarded by all the cranks in creation. Undoubtedly the gem of these efforts is a message from one "Samuel Genner, M.D." of Buffalo, who proposes to come to the aid of the British by supernatural means. He promises to take about five or ten thousand men and by means of levitation and cohesion "make them pass through the air" as "birds". The secret formula by which this transformation takes place is securely locked in his bosom but will be revealed for a consideration. The modest gait of 50 miles a minute for "birds" carrying fifty pounds of luggage is assured. "This should make the German army pause and wonder" is the naive comment of the doctor in this phase.

Through his "affiliation with the White Brotherhood of India," the doctor guarantees five or ten thousand men with the necessary qualifications as "birds." "It is all in the way you breathe," he confesses.

If the Militia Department considers his proposition seriously, "Doctor Genner" says he will come to Ottawa and train men for the overseas service. The spectacle of four or five thousand men twittering about from tree to tree, and building nests in the branches where they may hide their ammunition may then be afforded.

What type of bird the soldiers will be made into is not stated. Whether they will be sparrows, robins, cranes or buzzards rests with the doctor.

Once transformed into birds the Canadian army can perform prodigies of valor with their invisible means of offence, for "Dr. Genner" claims to be able to make them invisible, too, and would no doubt, as the doctor states, create consternation and wonderment among the enemy and others.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-prolonging properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best 25 cents you ever spent.

Edward Green, of Atlantic City, accused of desertion, says his wife's kin compelled him out of a place to sleep.

A Dead Soldier's Noble Message

One of the most pathetic, yet significant letters yet published from the Dardanelles was that of Sergeant Richard Spence, of the 8th Manchester, which was found on his dead body after a battle on the Gallipoli peninsula.

"The Trenches, Sedel Bahr—I sit here in the reserve trenches; we landed on Turkish soil yesterday. All around is beautiful country, flowers of all colors shining in the rays of the sun. The birds sing gaily, and yet to my front are men, men of whose community I belong, fighting like demons, hacking, heaving and blowing each other to eternity. Yet the flowers and the birds live on, heedless of the death struggles that exist between the nations. Such is the ambition of the human race, the struggle for existence weaker; and such it will be until the end of the world.

To-day may be my last, but what matter to that; I am sacrificing my all for my country.

"If I fall, well, it will be my fate. Grieve not for me, for what is better than the ever-peaceful sleep. Away from all battles my soul shall rest in the blue heavens above. There I shall see my beloved sisters and brothers, who I know wait for me with outstretched arms. Rather than the Lord for His mercy in accepting me in His arms. I am ready to face the foe free from fear or conscience. My one wish is that you do not grieve, otherwise you will disturb my spirit, and I will await your coming in the heaven of rest, where nought can separate us."

Cutting off horses tails has again occurred at Darlington, Staffordshire, following a poster which "G. H. Darby" sent out saying that he would resume operations. These are the first cases of the kind in Staffordshire for over twelve months. For over twelve years the authorship of a long series of these maiming outrages in the Black Country has remained a mystery. "G. H. Darby, Captain of the Wryley gang," is the unknown writer of many letters and postcards which generally accompany the outrages.

British Aviator, on First Trip Across Channel, Engages in Fight in Clouds with Taube—Bombs, Grenades, Rifles and Machine Guns in Use.

(Special Despatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 16.

Crossing from Salisbury Plain to join the British forces in France, an aeroplane observer, telling of his first cross Channel flight, describes a battle he and his pilot as they found themselves enveloped in the cloud bank they burst clear into dazzling sunlight. Then the writer proceeds:—

"As we cleared" we were astonished to note that we were hardly two hundred feet above another aeroplane, which was following us. I noticed a large machine gun on the double undercarriage and the ominous crosses showed him to be a German "Extension Taube." We had the "speed on him" and gained so rapidly that we were right above him before he noticed us. He then "slipped outward" and began to climb. The pilot in the inside seat of his first bank the German observer opened fire with a Mauser. He was too wide to get even the planes. We circled for his blind side and got our machine gun on him. My pilot stood on the machine on the very tip of her left wing and she missed magnificently as I ranged in to the Hun. Our machine gun was obviously unobserved, because after a few rounds the Taube went into what was almost a nose-dive and made for the clouds below.

Narrowly Avert Collision.

We had now been in the air for more than two and a half hours, and the pilot showed some anxiety about the petrol supply. He advised close quarters as soon as possible. He almost had his wish in an extreme degree, because in an instant we met the Taube in the cloud and passed at such close quarters that our right upper plane carried away a strut of his undercarriage and was twisted in the process. We hurried away in one another's wake with engines.

"Both machines went up and this time I got clear of the clouds. As we left the outer ribs of the 'fluffy stuff' I saw the Taube set about showing his nose right over us. At the same time he let out a cloud of smoke, from which dangled a number of what appeared to be contact grenades. To avoid this crossing manoeuvre was a matter of life and death. I just had time to shout to the pilot to circle outward, because the German was climbing better and getting straight across us. The Hun anticipated our sudden outward turn in time to alter his course accordingly. He was still in our line, coming down wind with the grapple missiles a good 200 feet below him. We hadn't left the outer side of our steep wing tip when he was over us. The grapple dashed against an airhorn, bounced back, dropped a few grenades into space and then seemed to cling to our upper plane in a sort of way. I had leaped along the body in a moment, and, assisted by a tilt of the machine, threw off the grapple and resumed my manoeuvres with my pilot. There was a loud explosion, a dazzling flash and an 'air bump' which jolted us leftward, but which did not disturb our necessary equilibrium. Bits of grenade shrieked and tore through the planes, but fortunately none found a vital spot. The Hun's machine gun had been liberated by the Hun as soon as he thought he 'had us.' All that was left of the grapple and the grenades went circling earthward to frighten some innocent Continental villagers.

Three Minutes to Live.

"The engine was now throbbing ominously. The pilot gave her 'three minutes to live.' It was a time for desperate measures. The German, having come away from his 'loop across us,' was now circling in an endeavor to bomb us. We steered out of three nasty 'lobes' of high explosives and by a strenuous climb managed to get a shade above him before he had estimated our tactics. Turning down wind we bore due to him from a distance of not more than 300 yards. So that our speed was well on to 120 miles an hour, the Hun did not have time to figure all out. We saw him hover for just an instant. It was enough to show his indecision. He circled inward, almost in a straight line, but not soon enough to escape us.

"My pilot did not deflect his course one degree. Collision seemed inevitable, in a fraction of a second both machines might be interlocked in a fall to earth, which would mean the complete destruction of both. But the Hun didn't have quite the 'nerve.' He went into a nose-dive when we were so close that we heard the noise of his engine as it 'complained' at the controls. Our machine bumped upward on the air bump of the Hun's evolution. At the same moment I dropped on him all the missiles I could grasp in that instant. A grenade hit the Hun near the engine, and exploded with a sharp report. The Taube burst into flames. He crashed downward a burning wreck.

"By this time two of our cylinders had 'chuffed out.' Luckily we had just spotted an open patch in the clouds. It was close country, and as we had no way of telling our course during the fight we were by no means sure that we were really on the right side of Belgium." At 2,000 feet the engine 'petered' out and we had to land. Going down wind we made for a stubble field and 'got in' nicely. We were much relieved to find some friendly troops near by. They led us to a spot only two fields away where the German had crashed. There lay the Taube, a charred and tangled wreck. There was nothing left of the Hun's machine but their identity discs clinging to some shapeless bones. We thought of the fortune of war and how easily the situation might have been reversed.

"MARNE CULTURE"
GRAVES ARE FOUND

(Special Despatch.)

PARIS, Oct. 15.

In the German trenches just east of Soissons, near the Chateau Buoy le Long, Captain Pelemann stumbled across a bronze nose chain which protruded from the sides of the trench, and upon investigation a skull also was disclosed. Upon removing the earth from the side of the trench a whole row of graves was discovered, and the skeletons found therein had ornaments around the neck, the wrists and ankles, all of which were of solid bronze.

The graves were not dug very deep and the skeletons were with two exceptions intact. All of them had large bronze rings around the necks and arms. Beside each skeleton was a vessel which had contained meat that had been buried with the body. Only a few weapons, mostly spears, were found with the bodies.

Ten of the skulls with the bronze ornaments were carefully packed and shipped to Germany in charge of Hans Riggemann, a university student. An examination disclosed that the graves belonged to the age known as the "Marne Culture," dated back to the fifth century before Christ. The bronze ornaments with their rings and buttons, together with the other ornaments, are in like degree, to which the "Marne Culture" belongs.

ACTION NEEDED IN BALKANS, NOT DIPLOMACY, SAYS ROME NEWSPAPER

The Tribuna Warns Allies That Words Are Worse Than Useless, the Mode of Thought in the Balkan States Considering Threats and Ultimatums as Part of the Local Method of Trading

(Special Despatch.)

ROME, Oct. 16.

A solemn warning is issued from Italy to the other Powers of the Entente regarding the method of meeting with the Balkan States. Words and diplomatic intrigues, they are told in what is regarded as virtually an official warning, are useless in this case; deeds alone count and deeds of weight must be forthcoming soon or a disastrous condition may result.

It is the Tribuna of Rome's newspaper, which publishes the warning to France, England and Russia. Italy has long been the best informed of all the Powers in regard to matters in the Balkans, but her position with regard to the small States is a delicate one.

In Serbia and Greece an important section of the press has openly accused Italy of thwarting the purposes of those countries in obtaining territory to which they assert rights in Albania, and Greece has a question of her own regarding the Turkish islands and regarding prospective possession of territory in the Levant. It is, consequently, Italy's discreetly avoided active part in some of the recent negotiations in the Balkans, although it is presumed she has been consulted by her allies and has approved their course.

Real Gravity of the Situation.

Apparently, however, it is considered in Rome that the hour has come when it is desirable to make known the real gravity of the situation in the Balkans and that this can better be done through a great newspaper than in the cumbersome methods of international official communications.

First of all, the newspaper points to the attitude of the Balkan States, which has changed. Romanians some months ago were boasting they were not a Balkan state, but a Latin State, and that blood was thicker than water. She is understood to have received certain financial aid from the Allies and to have agreed to mobilize in the Balkan States, but she has since the Allies when the hour came.

There have been rumors of a masked revolution in Roumania, and the fact now ascertained is that that State has not mobilized in the accepted sense of the word. It is true that following her customary custom she has been mobilized in some degree, but her mobilization has been a mere formality, and it is understood she has not mobilized in any way that is of any real value.

Bulgaria, therefore, estimates this time to be paid with promises. She has asked both sides to give her immediate possession of the land which is to be hers. The Teuton and the Turk, with a due appreciation of the Balkan mountains, have already handed over to Bulgaria a very valuable part of the property they promised if Bulgaria would join them.

In view of this fact, the question is being asked, why do not the Allies induce the other Balkan States to make an immediate adjustment with Bulgaria and thus win her over and remove the last obstacle which stands in the way of the Balkans unanimously joining in the war on the side of the Allies? The idea which inspires this suggestion is based on a fallacy, and a jury of citizens found them guilty on the testimony given by their witnesses. The judge sentenced them to death.

German Chemists Find Outlet for Their Energies in Artificial Foods

Substitutes for Jam, Marmalade, Cheese, Milk, Beer, Coffee and Other Commodities Are Offered to Public in Advertisements—New Paper Wrapping Twine.

(Special Despatch.)

BERLIN, Oct. 16.

Something instructive regarding the state of affairs in Germany always may be learned by a study of the advertisements in a widely circulated newspaper like the Berliner Tageblatt.

Taking them as they come—Here a wholesale dealer in Frankfurt-on-Main wants large consignments of wooden boot soles. He will pay cash for immediate delivery. The presumption is that leather soles are growing scarce.

The number of substitutes (ersatz) that are offered for sale is surprising. Artificial jam and marmalade are frequently advertised. A chemical factory in Dresden offers to supply fifteen tons of the stuff every week and seeks travelers to push it. But one is not told what the artificial jam is.

A substitute for whipped cream is advertised by another chemical factory in Berlin. The sale of the real cream is forbidden, and this enterprising chemist states that his "product" has been tried in one of the largest and best cafes in Berlin "with brilliant success." He affirms there is neither cream, milk nor butter in his preparation, no chemicals, only pure natural products. The manufacture of it is "surprisingly simple and much cheaper than cream." He is doing a roaring trade. Now they have a substitute for bean coffee—beans being no longer procurable—called "Krieg-kornbraun," highly recommended as "going far" and being very cheap. "It is incumbent on us all to be economical," says the advertiser. "Goudur" cheese, made of skimmed milk, is a substitute for real cheese. One dealer advertised fifty tons of it. It is "excellent for working people and the poorer classes generally, as it has quite a cheesy taste." A substitute for oil for polishing floors is not all at all, but gives a high polish. The same dealer advertises substitutes for glycerine and other household oils.

One of the most pathetic of all advertisements is the cheap substitute for beer. And yet this is what "Kellmet" professes to be. There is no alcohol in it. It has a pleasant reminiscent taste of malt, and is the color of the best Munich beer. When poured out it produces a beautiful white froth and "has already been sold in quantities to military canteens, hospitals and jails, also to military prisoners' camps, where it is highly esteemed."

String and cord in large quantities, made of paper, are extensively advertised. There is no more hemp or jute. And it is said of this paper cord that it is strong enough for tying up packages and for the ordinary purposes of the shopkeeper. The manufacturers also make packing canvas from paper, "which is easily handled and very cheap."

"Milk food" is advertised very largely. Whatever it may be, it is said to have been invented for the use of prisoners of war, and that an entire hundredweight may be had for $20, while a pound is enough to satisfy four to six men. Another class of the community for which "milk food" is recommended is "the half million Russian prisoners who have been detained in Eastern Germany since the outbreak of war."

German Correspondent Finds Life Dull in Captured Russian City

Dr. Wilhelm Feldmann Writes to Berliner Tageblatt That the Chief Excitement in City of Government of Grodno Is Watching the War Bulletins.

(Special Despatch.)

BERLIN, Oct. 15.

Life in a Russian city captured by Field Marshal von Hindenburg is described in the Berliner Tageblatt by its correspondent, Dr. Wilhelm Feldmann.

"We are in a dirty little city, like so many others that we have passed through in the march east, but nevertheless of particular importance to us. It is the first city of the River Bug. Poland lies behind us and we are now camping in West Russia. Politically this city is part of the government of Grodno.

"Nothing has been disturbed or damaged here. The rapid advance of the German troops saved the city from the incendiary fire of the Cossacks. As the advance columns entered, after a short, sharp skirmish, the Cossacks were still in the market place. They had poured kerosene freely over the floors and counters in the various shops and were in the act of setting fire to them. A rain of bombs quickly laid low every Cossack in sight and the city was saved from a disastrous conflagration.

"Before their retreat the Russians perpetrated a murder. Two soldiers attacked a Jewish resident. His wife, to save him, clung to his neck, and she fell dead with two bullets in her breast. Strangely enough, the next day several hundred Russians who had been captured north of here, German Christians and Poles, were among them were the two murderers. They were at once tried in the criminal court, and a jury of citizens found them guilty on the testimony given by their witnesses. The judge sentenced them to death.

"Prisoners of war are brought in daily, and they are always brought to the market place, where they can rest while food and drink are given them."

"On the market place stands an apparatus that resembles a 45 centimetre gun from a distance. On approaching it, however, one can see in large letters on one of the side wheels a sign indicating that it is drinking water. It is a filtering machine that travels with the troops and is in use day and night to provide the soldiers with pure water.

"The water here is filthy and the beds are worse, being made of straw that has served many seasons.

"We are living in the best part of the town, in 'Palace street.' The palaces are one story wooden structures in which officers, physicians and correspondents have their quarters. Here many of them sleep on straw but have the luxury of comfortable beds in Poland. Five are in one room, and we all wash from the water of one basin, and are glad to have that. "A walk through the market place at least every Cossack in sight and the city was saved from a disastrous conflagration."

"Morning and evening the entire population gathers in the market place to see the latest war dispatches that are posted there. Apart from this the only excitement furnished is the daily arrival of Russian prisoners, the majority of whom appear to be very much pleased with their condition. At sundown everybody goes to bed, for there is nothing else to do."

AUSTRALIANS MISS ASK EXPORT OF HORSES TO AID FRENCH CREDIT

(Special Despatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 15.

There is many an Australian soldier at the front to-day who blesses "Murphy's mules." Murphy is, or was, a hero of Anzac who never got mentioned in despatches, but he frequently figures in letters sent home by the Australians. His real name was Simpson, but for some unaccountable reason he got the nickname of "Murphy."

So many were the wounded who required to be taken to safety that Murphy commanded a pair of mules, and officers connived at "them" when they learned the noble work he was doing.

He used to leave the animals just under the brow of "Braund's Hill" and dash forward himself into the firing line to pick up the wounded.

"Murphy's voice near them sounded like a voice from Heaven," the soldiers said. "Day after day he climbed the hill, sniffling and cheery. But one day 'Murphy's mules' did not come. The wounded cried out to the overworked stretcher bearers, 'For God's sake, send Murphy's mules.'"

The mules were found contentedly grazing in Strangetown Valley, but Murphy had done his last climb.

"Where is Murphy?" cried one of the first battalion. Murphy is at Heaven's gate," replied a sergeant, "helping the soldiers through."

Adverse conditions caused by the war on the business of raising thoroughbred horses in France has led the association of horse breeders to request permission from the Minister of Agriculture to export their yearlings and two-year-olds to the United States and South America, according to a recent issue of the magazine. Horses are not available as reimportation. Several prominent persons in the horse world in France, including the Minister of Agriculture, have written to the principal elements of prosperity in Normandy, the Pyrenees and in the west of France, has been hard hit by the war. Many small breeders already have been ruined. One of the worst blows to the industry has been the cancelling of several famous cavalière horse auctions, postponed last year and this.

Other sales also have been stopped because of the cessation of horse racing, by which the values have been fixed in the past. The remount depots buy out throughout in three-year-old horses.

For these reasons the breeders last year and this have had their yearlings and their hands, which the price of horses gradually have been rising.

"Some idea of the loss to breeders may be obtained by a study of the market for sales in 1912, the sale of yearlings brought to the breeders 1,200,000 francs ($100,000). A few animals in particular brought high prices. Red Cross sold for 81,500 francs ($6,520); Nantun, 67,000 francs ($5,360); and another, 60,000 francs ($4,800).

CROWN PRINCE IS QUOTED AS SAYING 'I WANT A WAR'

British Author Says Kaiser's Heir Asked for 'Smack at French Swine.'

(Special Despatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 16.

A book by Mr. Ian Malcolm, M. P., entitled "War Pictures Behind the Lines," published by Smith Elder, is not one of those to be dismissed with the remark, "Oh, another war book." It is the first-hand story of a man who has done valuable Red Cross work almost since the war began. It opens with a revealing talk with Mr. Malcolm and with the most notorious Crown Prince of Prussia at Berlin in January, 1914. He also saw the Kaiser, whose frankness nothing could exceed, but it was the Crown Prince who looking back on what he said, let the cat out of the bag. Here is his conversation with Mr. Malcolm, as reproduced from the latter's diary.

"Crown Prince—After all, you English people ought to be better friends with Germany than you are.

"I. M.—We are always ready to do as you wish, as you know, but to all of our countries your Chancellor replies with an unvarnished smile.

"Crown Prince—How can we trust you better you are allied with such people as the French or the Russians? You have nothing really in common with them, and you have nearly everything in common with us. Together we could divide Europe and keep the peace of the world forever.

"I. M.—But now would you propose to do that? Given our existing treaties, how could we back them in order to be better friends with you?

"Crown Prince—You could shut your eyes and let us take the French colonies next door. We want them.

"I. M.—Forgive me, sir, I have seen several of your colonies and, in my opinion, I say it with great respect, it would only be better to improve the colonies you possess before you take those belonging to other people.

"Crown Prince—That is very candid. You are right very well that none of our colonies are worth anything if they had been captured by some would have had them long ago.

"The interview closed," he says, "my not making the remark that would probably have been made, which injured the Kaiser and damaged in like degree, to which the Crown Prince vigorously replied: 'I say you are a man of a much better nature than I have seen of any of the French who are so-called statesmen.'

Highwaymen Had Gotten

Two Freights Held Up Mexican Outlaws, and at South He Stepped From

New York, Oct. 15.—A party held up and robbed two freights and attempted to rob an express on the West Shore Railroad entrance to a tunnel between Haverstraw and Haverstraw, N.Y., today. After loading an ambulance with packages taken from the freights, the bandits escaped in an automobile, the robbers with the wires controlling and caused the light to show. The first freight train it stopped the hold-up men, beside the locomotive and cow engineer and fireman with them. They then ripped open several cars and selected such packages they wanted, loading them in automobile. Then they ordered engineer to proceed.

The second freight train, up and robbed in a similar way. When the American express stopped at the red signal the neglected to station a man locomotive, and all of them were apparently with the intent of breaking into one of the cars, as they were out of sight, a nearer opened the throttle and stopped at West Haverstraw next station north from the hold-up and the crews got first news of the robbery. A train which was sent from Coopersburg to Haverstraw to repair the damages to the wires covered the bandits opening revolvers. The sheriff of the county and others attempted to locate the robbers in an automobile, but were able to track only as far as Hackensack, N.J.

The New York police were to be on the watch for the all the ferries crossing the River.
