STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

On June 27th lightning struck the farm buildings of Mr. William Davis, near Frankville, during a light thunderstorm, and passing thence pursued such an erratic course as to endanger all the huildings on the place and the lives of the family.

The bolt tore a hole in the roof, burst open the double doors in the gable, tearing one from its hinges, and setting fire to some chaff near the door; thence it passed under the horse stable, in which were four horses, tearing up the floor, but not injuring any of them other than to render two deaf. Next it passed through a carriage house, splintering doors and taking the cap off a new buggy wheel, and on through the calf house, killing 3 out of 6 calves. A wire fence extends from the barn to the honse, and along this the lightning ran. It tore up about 3 feet of the veranda floor, moved the whole veranda out about 3 inches from the building, then passed through the stone wall into the cellar. Here, apparently, the bolt divided; one current tore out a window and the other passed under the floor of the room in which the family were gathered, and out into the yard, where it shattered a stone about 5 inches in

Mrs. Wm. Percival, Mr. and Mrs. Davis and the three children were standing in the kitchen watching the storm, but none was injuriously affected. A piece of lead pipe leaning against the wall, only a few feet from Mrs. Percival, was struck by the current and the top melted. A little boy had just returned from feeding the calves, and his escape was narrow

The fire at the barn was extinguished without difficulty, and then a careful inventory of the damage was made. It was found that several lamps and panes of glass were broken, but other wise the damage was as stated in this

The moral that stands out most prominently in this freak of lightning is the danger that attends connecting buildings with a wire fence. Of course, the records show that lightning will travel along any kind of a fence, but its affinity for metal is well known, and it would be prudent to break any existing connections of this nature.

The Suffering Savior .-- Isa. 52: 13 to 53; 12. Commentary-I. The humiliation and exaltation of the Saviour (vs. 13-15). The prophet here makes a brief announcement of the exaltation in store for the one who was known to many as an object of aversion and contempt; "he shall suddenly be revealed in his true dignity, and the unexpected transformation will startle the whole world into actonishment and reverence." These verses are a sum-mary of what is described in detail in chapter 53. The main idea of the whole passage is the unexampled contrast be-tween the present and past degradation and the future glory of Jehovah's Ser-

II. The suffering Saviour (vs. 1-3). 1. Believed our report—The report of the prophets and the gospel message. The world is still full of unbelief. To believe this report is not merely to assent to the truth of it, but to so receive it that the conduct will be influenced by it. The Jews did not receive the report, therefore Christ was to them without "comeliness." Arm of the Lord-The arm is a symbol of power, as it is the instru-ment by which we execute our purposes. It is put for the power of God (Isa 51. 9, 52, 10). It hence means God's power in defending His people, in overcoming His enemies, and in saving the soul.—Barnes. Revealed-Made known, seen, understood The questions in this verse are strong, but not total demals. Who hath believed. This verse is twice quoted in the New Testament as finding its fulfilment in the rejection of Christ by the Jews (John xii. 38; Rom. x, 16).—Todd. 2. For John Nn. 38; Rom. X. 10).—10dd. 2. For The prophet now gives the reason why the report is not believed. He—The Saviour. Grew up (R. V.)—The point of vision is at the time Christ's sufferings were finished and He was entering into His glory. As a tender plant—He grew up small and of no reputation, from a family nearly extinct, like a tender plant—springing upporting from its tender root. oringing unnoticed from its tender root d in a barren and dry land, out of which nothing great was expected.— Bishop Horne, And as a root, etc.—The sprout which springs up form a root. Such a sprout would lack strength and beauty. Both figures depict the lowly and unattractive character of the small and unattractive character of the small but vigorous beginning. The expression "out of dry ground," which belongs to both figures, brings out in addition the miserable character of the external circumstances in the midst of which the birth and growth of the servant (the man Christ Leans) had taken place—the exist. Christ Jesus) had taken place-the exist Christ Jesus) had taken place—the existing state of the enslaved and degraded nation—in a word, "the dry ground" is the corrupt character of the age.—Delitzsch. See him—The former part of this verse refers to his birth and childhood, the letter to his first public appearance. the latter to his first public appearance No beauty-This refers to his state of abasement. He did not come as a great prince or even as a rich man, but as a prince or even as a rich man, but as a hungle, poor peasant.

3. Despised—By the rich and great. Rejected—"Forsaken of men," renounced. We hid... faces—His appearance was such as to cause men to turn their backs or hide their faces with disgust. "Men avoided him as though he had a disease like leprosy." Esteemed him not Failed to recognize his worth. Why did Christ come in this humble manner? As a rebuke to the proud and haughty. 2. to hide their faces now from His humble are a rebuke to the proud and haughty. 2. a rebuke to the proud and haughty. 2. to hide their faces now from His humili-So that He could sympathize with those ation and suffering will be in the day who suffer. 3. To show the true nature of the kingdom of God.

III. The atoning Saviour (vs. 4.9) 4. Hath borne—The meaning is that the consequences of sin fell upon Him, the innocent, and that He bore His undeserved sufferings as a sacrifice on behalf of His people. —Cheyne. Griefs—"Sicknesses."—R. V., margin. To bear sickness is not to take it away but simply to endure it. Christ endured in His own person the penal consequences of the people's guilt. Sorrows— Our pains. How did Jesus bear our griefs and sorrows? In his sympathy. 2. By His healing power. Stricken —The expression used when God visits a man with severe and sudden sickness, especially leprosy, which was regarded as the sin. The leprosy is only a strong image such sufferings as are the evidence f God's wrath against sin.—Skinner. Wounded, etc.—But He was pierced because of our rebellions, crushed be cause of our iniquities."-Cam. Bib. The strong verbs pierced and crushed are probably metaphors expressing the fateful ravages of leprosy. —Ibid. Bruised Applied to the body, crushed; applied to the mind, severe inward agony is implied.—Bannister. Of our peace —The chastisement needful to procure peace for us. Chastisement is pain inflicted for moral ends and with remedial intent. — Cam. Bib. It was necessary for Christ to die for us.

6. Like sheep-The figure of the stray sheep is common in the Bible. Sheep without a shepherd, having lost their way, are the very picture of helpless-ness; and this is the condition of man. Hath laid, etc. - The sorrows that would have fallen upon us because of our sin fell upon Christ. But Christ was not tarily made an atonement for sin. 7 Oppressed-This verse shows the treatment He received, and how he conducted Himself under it. "Oppressed denotes harsh, cruel, and arbitray treatment, such as that of a slave driver toward those who are under him."

8. Taken from prison-"By oppression and judgment he was taken away."-R. V. There are various opinions here. Some think that this means that he was bles. Who shall declare-See R. V. This is a very difficult clause, and there are numerous opinions as to its probable meaning. "Meyer, Alford and others understand this as equivalent to Who can describe the wickedness of the men of this time? Others interpret it, he shall this time? Others interpret it, 'ho shall declare his posterity?' that is, his spiritual children. Dr. Kay understands by his generation, his lifetime or his life. Mr. Urwick suggests that it includes (1) his origin (2) his earthly life, (3) his everlasting reign in heaven." 9. Made his grave, etc.—An enigma which only history could explain. Jesus was put to death with the wicked on the cross, and they thought to bury Him in a criminal's grave. They appointed His grave with the wicked, but by a striking providence the same authority gave permission to a rich man, Joseph of Arimathea, who provided Him with an honorable burial in his own rock-hewn tout (Matt. xxvii. his own rock-hewn tomb (Matt. xxvii. 57-60) .- Paloubet.

IV. The Saviour rewarded and exalted (vs. 10-12). "The main thought in these difficult verses is that the Servant is to be the instrument in establishing the true religion, by removing the burden of guilt and bringing many to righteousness. As the reward of His sufferings He will enjoy a brilliant future and have a numerous spiritual offering. He will become a great power in the world, ata numerous sprittual offering. He will become a great power in the world, attaining a position like that of a mighty conqueror. The idea of a resurrection from the dead appears to be necessarily implied."—Cam. Bib. 10. Pleased the Lord—The death of Christ was no afterthought, yet Jehovah did not wish His Son pain nor evil, neither did He in any sense approve the spirit or deeds of His son pain nor evil, neither did He in any sense approve the spirit or deeds of His murderers, but He saw the salvation of a lost race could be reached in no other way. His soul—His life. An offering—"A guilt offering." B. V. "A guilt-offering."—R. V., margin. As inverse 5 the divine Servant is represented as a sin-offering, His death being an en-pination; so here He is described as a guilt offering. His death being satisfac-tion.—Urwick. His seed—"The true spir-itual Israel of the future. Those who by His means are converted to the knowledge of Jehovah." In His hand—knowledge of Jehovah." In His hand— Under His government or direction. 11. Satisfied — He shall see such blessed fruits resulting from His sufferings as amply to repay Him for them.—J., F. & B. 12. With the great—Or among the great. Christ's victories shall be very great. His kingdom shall rule among the nations. Divide the spoil—"There the nations. Divide the spoil—"There shall flow to Him and His kingdom the wealth, the strength, the numbers, that the strongest nations possess."

"He is despised and rejected of men"
(vs. 3.) He knew the sorrow of unrequited love. He came to His own and His own received Him not. He left His own received film not. He felt the company of those who loved and worshiped Him and lived with those who reproached His goodness, refused His teaching, misunderstood His mo-tives, maligned His character, accused Him unjustly, mocked His misery and tortured Him even to crucifixion. That thus they should requite His tender, disinterested love cut deeply into the heart of Jesus.
"A man of sorrows and acquainted with grief" (vs. 3). The world was one vast hospital for Jesus. Great multi-tudes came to him having with them those who were lame, blind, dumb, mained (Matt. xiv. 30), and they brought un to Him many that were possessed with levils (Matt. viii. 16). And he had compassion on them and healed them. His heart ached constantly for the pain and misery of a multitude of people. "And we hid as it were our faces from Him" (vs. 3). Moses as a babe was exceeding fair, a godly child (Acts vii. 20; Heb. xi. 23, R. V.). David was of a beautiful countenance and goodly to look to (1 Sam. 16: 12). Saul was a choice young man, from his shoulders upward higher than any of his people (1 Sam. ix. 2). But Jesus had no physical "beauty" that "men should desire nim" (vs. 2). He was not to be loved for the height of His stature of the heavy of height of His stature of the beauty of his face or the gladness of His counten-ance, but for His acquaintance with on the throne and from the wrath the Lamb. (Rev. 16). "Surely he hath born our carried our sorrows" (v. 4.) In his life he suffered with the sinful, the sick, the sorrowful; in his death he suffered for the sinful, the sick, the sorrowful. The crucified One suffered the most excruciating agony without the slightest miti-gation or relief. No one suffered on a bed of sickness, no one ever suffered under any circumstancessuch pain as Jesus bore on the cross. "He saw the travail of his soul" (* 2.) Oh. the laborious, long continued work of our Lord between Bethlehem and Calvary! His first recorded spoken word is, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" (Luke 2:49). Later he declares, "I must work the work of him that sent me" (John 9:4). He closed his carthly labor with the declaration, "I have finished the work thou gavest me to do" (John 17:4). And his one exultant cry upon the cross was, "It is finished" (John 17:30).

ation and suffering will be in the day of judgment to call on the rocks to hide them from the face of Him that sitteth

"The chastisement of our peace was upon him" (v. 5). Dr. Pentecost was called to a dying woman. She was much distressed as she told him she had but wo or three days to live and cried out: two or three days to live and cried out: Oh! I have not made my peace with God." "Well, I have come to tell you good news," said he, and opening the Bible he read this chapter, putting a little emphasis upon the words: "The chastisemut of our peace is upon him." Then he said, "You have only to accept the pardon Christ has procured for you. Will you it now?" A change came over her face. She forgot all about her visitor. She turned to the wall and said, "Oh, how good it is that the Son of God came into the world to make peace for the like o' the world to make peace for the like o' me!" The evangelist slipped away and left her, but many a time afterward her words brought a thrill of joy to her own soul. A sinner cannot make his peace with God any more than a cond criminal can make peace with the Gov ernment whose laws he has violated. The official executive must grant a pardon and the sinner must accept it. Then he can go in peace, It pleased the Father that in Jesus should all fullness dwell and he made peace for us by the blood of the cross (Col. i, 19-20)

A man can lose more money through one hole in his pocket than 18 holes in a golf course.

New York, July 3 .- Magistrate Higginbotham, who on Wednesday sentenced George Lindsey, of Brooklyn, charged with abandonment, to kiss his wife every day, take the wife and baby to the park weekly, and bring her flowers once a week, has a new prob-lem to solve. ### ROMANOFF DYNASTY.

SERIOUSLY MENACED BY THE PRE-SEN T CRISIS IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, July 3.—Not since the insurrection in December, 1825, when portion of the guard regiments joined in an attempt to create a revolution in Russia, has the situation of the autocracy and the Romanoff dynasty been so serious. Nevertheless, the crisis may be passed in a few days. Either the open revolt will by that time be stamped out or the flames will have spread possibly beyond the hope of control. At the Admiralty it is said that the Rear Admiral's squadron is expected to arrive at Odessa during the day. No explanation is offered for the delay in the squadron's sailing from Sebastopol, nor of the nature of Kruger's orders. It is admitted, although great reticence is manifested, that at 9 o'clock last night the Kniaz Potemkin was firing upon the city. The Admiralty thinks the mutinous crew were probably drunk. The officers consider it possible that the crew were supporting strikers and revolutionists ashore against the troops. Throughout the day an attempt to create a revolution in orting strikers and revolutionists ashe gainst the troops. Throughout the day he soldiers and police had evidently re-rained from attempting to inte fere with the strikers, under the threats of the nutineers of the battleships to set their mutineers of the battleships to set their guns against them.

It is possible that the quiesence of the soldiers was due to fear. A detachment of dragoons and a brigade of artillery have been sent to Odessa from Kersen. The troops should have arrived at Odessa this morning. With these reinforgements and the city under martial law, it is believed the military governor will be strong enough to attempt to suppress the rioters by force. The plan is believed to be for the troops to plan is believed to be for the troops to crush the disorders in the city while Kruger's squadron holds the entrance of the harbor. It is apparently questionable whether Kruger will engage the Kniaz Potemkine if she refuses to surrender as firing upon the vessel might be too dangerous a test for the sailors on board his ship. Besides he would involve necessarily the destruction of the battleship, costing millions and damage to the city. Admiral Skrydloff's plan of likely to be followed. At Libau the mutin ailors to the number of about 5,000 were corralled by troops and artillery in a wood near the port and by this morning a thousand of them had already surrendered. Their comrades possibly will be starved out. Whether ther was any great loss of life is as yet un known. Great precautions are being taken to prevent the possible spread of the mutiny to the sailors of St. Petersburg

"No, not yet," says the boy; "I can't stand all that eackle about the fal-lals, and to-morrow's feed. Let's go down the lane into the road, Jen." And so, side by side, they go through the crimson flood of sunlight, Jeanne's face, in all its fresh loveliness, beneath

At the meeting of the Good Roads Association at Brockville last Wednesday, Provincial Highway Commissioner A. W. Campbell, C.E., of Toronto, was the first speaker, and took for his subject "Progress of the Good Roads Movement in Ontario." He opened by stating he had attended several conferhad concluded that we must resort to some system other than statute labor in order to secure good highways.

Citizens are sometimes led away by the fact that as they are now building roads by statute labor, it is necessary to continue this practice, and believe that without such, unusual taxation would result. He believed the comshould be studied and practised. Com-mutation has already shown that it accomplishes better results than the statute labor system. The statute labor commuted at fifty cents per day would result in more good than does the statute labor system of today. He believed that the township that would adopt modern improvements, in a term of say five or ten years, more work would be performed at twenty cents a day than under the system at present in vogue.

Municipal councillors must realize that today they are raising a large amount of money which is proving that the $1 per day is not spent wisely, and is farther proving a burden on the taxpayers. In the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, over $1,000,000 had been expended during $1,000,000 had been expended during the past ten years, which he considered a fair idea of the amount of money that is wastefully expended in mud.

As a remedy for all this he recom mended that townships prepare plans, let the contract to the lowest bidder, who would reduce the work to a system, and he was sure the result would be far more than any person could realize. The expenditure, as far as possible, should be concentrated, first on the most important roads, and next on the roads of lesser importance. To get the genuine support which is de sired, all must come together on the commutation of statute labor, and in this move all would get his hearty support through the Legislature, where he would ask that the statute labor Act be obliterated from the statutes forever. Special legislation had been asked for, but the difficult feature was that it was impossible to get a dozen councillors who would wait on the Government and ask for such legislation. Continuing, Mr. Campbell said that work should be expended first on the trunk roads, though all roads should be looked after to some extent and kept in a safe condition. A system capable of finishing the work ced by statute labor must be evolved, and can be evolved, that will result in the statute labor being entire-

Mr. Campbell also stated that any county may designate a system of roads, and after completion of the roads, may draw upon the Province for one-third of the outlay without limit. This was the result of a law passed by the Legislature in 1901, which granted $1,000,000 towards the work, and all they asked was that the county appoint a supervisor and a guarantee that the work had been properly accomplished. system of county roads could also be inaugurated in groups of townships, if desirable. He advocated that the county councils should call on groups of the township councils to consider this act, and see if some improvements could be made, which have not been made up till the present time.-Re-

The bride looked charming in a dress of rush white silk, wore a white tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was unattended. Little Miss Marjorie Neil made a pretty flower girl, and Master Frederick, brother of the bride, acted as ringbearer. the future queens of Europe.

Princess Margaret is the eldest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Conter of the Duke and Duchess of Con-naught, her father being the third son of Queen Victoria. Her birth was hailed with rejoicing, especially as her parents had been married nearly three years when she appeared on the scene. She was born Jan. 15, 1882, at Bagshot Park, an estate within easy reach of London and Windsor. During the so-journ of the Duke and Duchess in In-dia, Princess Margaret, with her brother journ of the Duke and Duchess in India, Princess Margaret, with her brother and sister, was under the care of her grandmother, Queen Victoria, and this circumstance, no doubt, to a certain extent moulded the character of the young princess, who is so soon to assume the responsibilities of consort to an heirpresumptive to a throne.

The royal bride-elect was brought up in a sensible fashion. She was nearly twenty before she was much seen in London society. When the Duke was commander of the forces in Ireland his daughters used to be present at the stately functions in Dublin Castle, and the eldest was often called upon to help her mother to doing the honors on occasions.

The princess is described as high-spirited and clever, an exceptionaly good musician and an amateur artist. Those who have met her in the country houses where she and her sister sometimes stay, declare her to be well-read, a graceful horsewoman, and a good skater—which is fortunate in view of the part skating plays in the national life of Sweden. Princess Margaret first met her future husband when she was travelling with her parents in the east. The Duke of Schonen, to give him his official title, was travelling in Egypt, when he met the Duke of Connaught's family, and was able to make the acquaintance of the princess in a much less formal manner than is usually permitted to a royal suitor. In the southern part of France, which borders on the Mediterranean and ex-tends between the Alps and the Dhone, the culture of flowers has developed in-to a great industry for the manufacture of perfumes. "In the department of the Alpes-Maritimes the perfumery industry has probably made greater strides than in any other portion of France," says Georges Cayes in the Monde Moderne, of Paris. America has few memorials to attract or invite mob violence. Possibly the Hay market monoral, in Chicago, may some day be blown up by those who regard the anarchists executed for the crime as martyrs, but the only recent attempt to blow up a statue was the unsuccessful effort to destroy the monument to Frederick the Great at Washington. European memorials incur the dislik of the lawless because of their associa tions rather than because of their lack of artistic value. Were the latter defect an incentive to crime the park po lice would be kept busy here.

Germany, in spite of smaller territory employs a greater number of women postal clerks than the United States, naving no fewer than 242,000 in the combined postal and telegraph system. In America there are only 239,000 women thus employed and Great Pritain finds a place for but 184,000 women in the st and telegraph offices.

Just so long as the frenzied financier of Boston was able to direct newspaper attention to his magazine diatribes, and just so long as he continued to loom up large in the advertising columns of the dailes, he was an all-important factor in the speculative wordl. As he has grad-they ever the centre of the newspaper stage his influence upon stock market quotations has diminished. In some respects he furnishes an interesting example for the merchant who wants to direct public attention to his business. If interest in any enterprise is to be sustained the advertising thereof must be continuous. It is not necessary or even advisable to be spectacular, but it is necessary to be persistent. When the motive power of advertising is shut off the wheels of business cannot be expected to revolve.

A Plant That Goes for Water.

There grows in the east a wonderful plant called the Rose of Jericho. It springs up in all sorts of forlorn and unexpected crannies, much as the unap-preciated little dandelion does in our preciated little dandelion does in our land. But the places which the Rose of Jericho strives to make more cheerfulare so destitute of moisture that the plant cannot bring forth its seed.

So what does this marvelous rose do but wither up, collapse into a ball, fall off the place to which it is rooted, and allow the winds to carry it toward the sea. After many hard knocks and falls by devious paths across the desert it is at last brought to the shore. Here, brittle and parched, it falls on the bosom of old ocean. The welcome moisture penetrates it, it flings out its crimpled arms, and the little seeds burst from their prison walls. Then the wind changes and blows the other way. So the little seeds are carried back across the little seeds are carried back across the desert. Although the mother plant lies dead upon the seashore, they know nothing about it, and bloom cheerfully upon a housetop or between stones on a dusty camel path.

Crew Mutinied and Now Threaten to Bombard the City of Odessa.

The City Panic Stricken—Sea Front on Fire—The Whole Fleet May Mutiny.

An Odessa cable: The most sensational development that has yet occurred of the revolutionary spirit which misery of the people has produced in Russia has burst forth here with startling suddenness. The crew of the battleship Kniaz Potemkin Tavritchesky, flagship of the Black Sca fleet, broke into open mutiny, killed their officers, and now, with the assistance of equally desperate striking laborers ashore, hold the city at their mercy.

Late last night the battleship arrived in the bay from Sebastopol, acomuanied by a torpedo boat, both flying the red flag of revolution instead of the imperial and national standards. They ignored the signals from shore, and when the port authorities sent a launch to communicate with them the boat was driven off by the torpedo boat, which threatened to sink it if the order was not obeyed. All night the torpedo boat patrolled around the flagship, which lay anchored off the town.

When morning came it was some time before the populace realized what had happened, the numerous rumors ascribed to the malevolence of the strikers, who throughout yesterday kept the city in an uproar. The ru-mors, however, quickly crystallized into fact when the torpedo boat, with her guns cleared for action, ran into the harbor and seized the Russian collier Esperanza, with a cargo of two thousand tons of coal, and took her along-side the battleship. At about the same time an armed pinnace, which had been launched by the battleship, steam-ed to the quay, where it landed an open coffin containing the body of a seaman, to whose uniform a written paper was attached. This paper stated that the man's name was Omelchuk, and that he had been shot dead by the chief officer for complaining about the bad quality of the soup served the crew. It was added that Omelchuk had been mur-dered for telling the truth, and that the whole crew had avenged his death by

As the news spread large crowds, consisting mainly of riotous strikers and their following, flocked to the quay and passed with bared heads, respectfully saluting the dead. The police, supported by Cossacks, tried to disperse the crowd and remove the body, but the crowd surrounded the cofin and defied them to touch it. Some ecuffing followed, but before there was a definite result the Kniaz Potemkin Tavritchesky hoisted signals that the body was to be left on the quay, that it was to be taken on board later for burial at surdown, with full naval honors, and that if the authorities interfered the battleship would immediately bombard the city. This threat, empha-sized by the sight of the muzzles of the ship's 12-inch guns levelled at the port, had its effect. The police and troops were called off, and the coffin remained, surrounded by the sympa-

Authorities Helpless.

Meanwhile the battleship was rapid-coaling from the Esperanza, while authorities conferred on how to act. At moon the Governor ordered all work in the harbor to cease, and late he directed that all the shops and pub-lic places should be closed. He had meanwhile telegraphed to St. Petersburg and Sebastopol, asking the au-thorities at the latter place to send a fleet. It was evident that the authorities realized their helplessness. attempt at force would have undoubtedly led to a realization of the most to a realization of the muti neers' threat to bombard the city Moreover, there is reason to believe they distrusted the loyalty of the troops, who, apart from their natural sympathy with their comrades of the mavy in the circumstances producing the mutiny, have long been plied by revolutionary agents' arguments in be-

Whole Sea Front Blazing.

A crowd of many thousands of orderly residents thronged the elevates. Nicolai boulevard, whence they could view the harber and the battleship, watching the latter with mingled curronic battleship and fear. The latter was intensified when during the evening the Kniaz Potenskin Tayritchesky moved nearer to the shore, with her heavy guns still trained on the city. This caused ronewed excitement among the rioters, whose numbers were augmented during the day, partly by the compulsion exerted by the strikers and partly by the encouragement derived Whole Sea Front Blazing. pulsion exerted by the strikers and partly by the encouragement derived by the presence of the mutinous warship. A huge mob, bellowing revolutionary cries, and waving red flags, burst through the troops guarding two Castoms warehouses, which they looted. Then, spreading to all parts of the harbor, they set fire to warehouses, stores, offices and shipping, which are now blazing, lighting up ble whole sea front of the city.

The Kniaz Potenkin is a more powerful ship than any in Kruger's squadren, and the gravity of the situation is increased by the fact that the city is practically in the possession of the strikers. Should the sailors of Kruger's ship join numbers, the Government would have to face open revolution, which would spread like wildfire to other towns in the Black Sea littoral.

There is no news of the approach of the rest of the squadron to which the mutinous battleship belongs. Its arrival is feared quite as much as it is harred for Discontant not to say inhoped for. Discontent, not to say in-subordination, is known to be rife among a large part of the fleet, the among a large part of the neet, the grievances being identical with those which drove the exasperated crew of the flagship to rebellion. It is believed that mutineers are in possession of other warships of the squadron. If so the mutiny has control of more than half of the ships of the Black Sea fleet. The other vessels said to be in the hands of the mutineers are the battleships Tiehesme, Sinope and the Tria Sviatelia, (three apostles). The admiralty, however, does not confirm the report of the mutiny on board Admiral Kruger's war-ships. Admiral Wirenus, chief of the naval general staff, at noon to-day informed the Associated Press that he did not know whether Kruger's squadron had arrived at Odessa. Wirenus appeared to be at a loss to account for the mu tiny, saying that the commander of the Kniaz Potemkine was a fine officer, hav-ing a most kindly disposition. He expressed the opinion that they should put it to still greater advantage.

The United States, though at fifty per cent. disadvantage compared with Great Britain, still managed to do a large trade with Canada. He impressed his hearers with the fact that Canada was more of a manufacturing country than was generally regarded here. Her manufacturing interests were greatr than her agriculture and kindred in-

Renunciation of Temporal Power for Subsidy Arrears Mentioned.

Rome, July 3.-The Vatican has indirectly asked whether the Government is inclined to pay the arrears of the subsidy offered by the guarantee laws to the Pope and refused by Pius IX. and Leo XIII. The Vatican hints at the possibility that it will renounce its claims to temporal dominion in case of a favorable answer from the Government.

A favorable answer is improbable, owing to the large amount of the arrears and the expected opposition of Parliament.

liberty and honors, and an annual revenue from the Italian Government of 3,225,000 lityres ($844,000). Pope Pius IX. in an allocution delivered on May 15, 1871, rejected the Judge Reynolds has given an important decision on a clause of the new essment act. The new act says that machinery shall be assessed as part of the real estate, but exempts fixed machinery used for manufacturing purposes. James Cummings of Lyn, who owns a large mill property, appealed against his business assessment, which is based on the real estate value, the assessors having placed the machinery as part of the real estate. The Judge decided that fixed machinery meant any machinery being permanently used for manufacturing purposes, and consequently his milling machinery was exempt. This judgment is very important to manufacturers.
