Her Sociable. 'Tell your mother about it will you, Lydia?' said Miss K... 'I will try hard to see her myself, but if I should fail, ask her please to come without a visit. I am so very busy.' Lydia promised, but she half smiled at the thought of her mother going anywhere. She would tell her, and there it would end. She did tell her as soon as she got into the house, to have it for her mind. It would never do for Miss Howe to ask questions, when she had not done it. That was the only difference it would make. 'Miss Howe says that you are invited to a sociable on Friday night, mother.' Mrs. Hackett turned from the wash tub in her surprise. 'A sociable?' she said. 'Yes, at the Sunday school.'

'I suppose then, you children will be wanting your dresses washed out again.' If a sigh ran along the busy mother's words, they were still not unkindly said. 'No, it isn't for us,' explained Lydia with a touch of regret. 'It is just for you. It is a Home Department sociable. You are a member, you know.'

'The Home quarterly hung on a nail over the stove. Mrs. Hackett glanced at it through the cloud of steam, she had been very slow to join. 'I promised that, she told Miss Howe many times, 'I'd want to do it.' 'There's six children in this family and my man: Half hour don't lie around on the floor to be picked up. There's pretty nearly always something to do next that has to be done.'

The Stomach Needs Help. The liver, kidneys and bowels must be kept active with DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS. The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangement follows. This one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This medicine gets the bowels in motion at once and by weakening the liver and kidneys causes the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems. With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthful condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression. You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment. One pill a dose, 30 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Good Medicine for the Spring. DO NOT USE HARSH PURGATIVES—A Tonic is All You Need. Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has not done you good and may be troubling.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this so speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new blood which cleans the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. Maude Bagg, Lemberg, Sask., says: 'I can unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and tonic. I was very much run down when I began using the Pills and a few boxes fully restored my health.'

'Won't all black be kind of sorrowful for a sociable?' inquired Albert. 'She will leave the veil part off, won't she?' 'Most certainly she will. What a question!' said Lydia, more sharply than she would have spoken, except that the all-blackness was disturbing her own mind. Albert waited humbly until she was pleased to say more. 'Black is a very stylish color for ladies,' Lydia went on presently. 'If you set it off with something, we'll have to do that.'

Prominent Features of The Excelsio Life Insurance Co. ARE High Interest Earnings, Low Mortality Rate, Economy in Management. These are the chief sources from which profits accrue. CAPT. S. M. BEARDSLEY, Wolfville, PROVINCIAL MANAGER.

As Arabella Wilkinson says, from morning to night. It surprised us all when mother joined the Home Department. She never has belonged to anything else, except the family. She never does anything in particular for herself. There isn't a day left over for her. 'It's supplied Lydia, interrupting Albert. He glanced quickly up from the gutter. He remembered his sister's freckled face, the look in her eyes, the set of her mouth. His own muscles relaxed into satisfaction. Lydia had some more. Albert knew her for an all worth having. 'We'll get mother off to it some how, won't we?' he asked. Lydia nodded. 'Friday is pretty close,' she said, thoughtfully. 'It doesn't leave much time to do it. There are her clothes, too. What will she wear?' 'We can't get her anything over from Paris by then, can we?' chuckled Albert. 'She will just have to content herself with what can be done right here in New York.'

'I couldn't get it out of their heads,' she told Mr. Hackett when they were asleep. 'They were more set on it than if it was somewhere they were going themselves. I had to give in. I have fine children. And, she added a little shyly, 'their father is sober and hardworking. I ought to be a better woman; it's true.'

'What's all right,' said Mr. Hackett patting her awkwardly on the shoulder. 'I don't complain of you. You suit me and the children first-rate.' Mrs. Hackett folded a gratified smile away with his coat, which was finished at last. She had worked late but she was more rested than she had been earlier. 'But,' she said with a glance at her Quarterly, and a memory of Miss Howe's visit, 'I ought to be better.' Friday evening came finally. Mrs. Hackett completed her toilet amid prevailing family excitement. 'I'll walk over with you, Sarah,' said Mr. Hackett. 'It will be like old times. And—and—fishing in his pocket—to make it more like I brought these along, if you don't mind wearing them.'

WOLFVILLE, N. S., APR. 5, 1912.

Our contemporary, the Western Chronicle, in a recent issue published a well written article entitled 'Kings County's Priceless Contribution to the Defence of the Empire.' In it fitting reference was made to some of our young men who participated in the recent South African war. Major Robert Holden Ryan, Lieut. L. Beverly Barclay Webster, and Lieut. Harold Borden, of these two latter lost their lives during the campaign. Other young men from this county distinguished themselves, two of whom, Messrs. William Regan, Jr., and Horace Jones were from Wolfville. All honor to these brave sons of Kings county.

Our contemporary, however, falls into error in the following paragraph: 'In the South African war, also, a Kings county colored man, William Hall, who lived at Hortoville, for unusual bravery received the distinguished honor of the 'Victoria Cross.' As a matter of fact William Hall, who, it is now generally known, died about the time of the South African war, won the Cross during the Indian Mutiny, within a few years after the institution of the order, for acts of heroism which were remarkable both for the number of lives which depended upon it and for the coolness which characterized it throughout. Hall, who entered the navy in the winter of 1853, was at the time a sailor on board the frigate Shannon and his courageous action in helping to save naval guns on the way to Lucknow prevented the annihilation of the corps to which he belonged and assisted very materially in the success of the campaign. THE ACADIAN published a sketch of the life of this brave man some years ago which we may republish when opportunity offers.

You Cannot Get It.

THEN LET US HAVE IT.
EDITOR ACADIAN:—Your editorial last week about the abattoir proposal on the Cornwallis river calls for further explanation.

By general consent the time must come when this river will have an abattoir, and I am free to admit that on some counts the Town Plot site is better than that at Port Williams. But I may add that there are also reasons why I prefer to see the dam built, as has been proposed, from Kingsport to Long Island. In this case there are no blind spots to see the difficulties to be overcome before work is likely to commence.

One year ago there were strong interests in favor of the site at Wolfville and Town Plot and the foundations were supposed to be good. Today Wolfville stands firm in its regard to this question. The opposition is stronger than ever and the foundation has been found to be bad.

I was in the office of the Provincial Engineer a few days ago and saw a cross section plan of the river opposite Town Plot. There appeared to be a small matter of some fifty feet of mud on the rocks on the Wolfville side which would have to be piled or excavated. The engineer was doubtful of the safety of the piling and, as the excavating would call for pneumatic caisson work the excessive cost, in his opinion, practically put the abattoir out of the question.

The site at Port Williams, on the other hand, is an ideal one with level rock all the way across. As yet no serious opposition has developed and it only needs the co-operation of the Provincial and Federal governments to the extent of their present interest in the river and road to assure the construction of this abattoir for which our people have worked and hoped these forty years.

If Wolfville people, without a shadow of reason to hope for success, begin again to agitate for the lower site our efforts will be over more come to naught, for, in the words of Premier Murray, the scheme is, perhaps, 'an ambitious one,' and a difference of opinion among us is sure to be seized upon as an excuse to shift the blame for inaction upon our people.

The promotion of a work of this kind is full of difficulties and complications and it is to be hoped that our Wolfville friends will not add to them unnecessarily by pressing their claims unless they have good reason to think that they can and will be forced to a successful conclusion.

Politics?

The Liberal party in British Columbia have the intense satisfaction of knowing that Fate has done its worst for them. They did not elect even one of their candidates in the last held provincial election. It could be no worse. There can be no change but for the better.

A. K. MacLean, M. P., has it said, been rendering splendid service to Halifax. We would think it about time. He has been at Ottawa during many sessions, when his generous Liberal friends were in power. Strange that he should delay his splendid services, until the moment when his influence in Halifax is nil.

The session of Parliament at Ottawa, has ended with the Government stronger in the country than ever. Even Liberals, whose judgment would be valuable, admit that. The Senate, at the bidding of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, signified the end of the session by killing four Government measures. One of these was the bill by which $1,000,000 was to be used in improving the highways of the country. The measure, which was introduced by Mr. Borden, was considered, and would have been the fulfillment of Mr. Borden's pre-election promise. What the public of Nova Scotia thinks of Sir Wilfrid's meddling we do not know, but can guess. Mr. Borden made a specific promise in the last federal election. The people gave their approval. It was carried through the House of Commons, whose members were fresh from the people, elected in part to pass just such legislation. Sir Wilfrid fought it in the Commons and ordered his nominees in the Senate to kill it.

By this action Sir Wilfrid Laurier has proven himself an enemy of the people. The Maritime Provinces, had the bill passed the Senate, would have benefited by the expenditure of over $1,300,000 of Federal money upon our highways. Hon. Geo. E. Foster, in a scathing criticism of Sir Wilfrid in the House, pointedly reminded him that his obstruction to this bill would not be forgotten by the people of Canada.

The organ of the Liberal Government at Halifax pretends to believe that this highway bill to expend $1,000,000 was nothing but a scheme of the Government to provide a campaign fund for Tory elections. The organ knows by experience, how monies have been expended upon the highways of Nova Scotia by the previous combination at Halifax, and forthwith judges that Mr. Borden's Government is composed of as big rascals as are those at Halifax. Sir Wilfrid has lost his grip, together with his petty attempts to act, race and religion at war. He now makes the blunder of the session, Parliamentarians at Ottawa understand the game and will counter the old fox as they did in the Manitoba boundary incident.

A prominent Liberal, living in Cornwallis, remarked last week that as soon as there was a change of Government, every Tory office holder would be fired. When that hour arrives, the remarker will be over 80 years of age, a greater age than that allotted to his ancestors. A few active partisans have been dismissed in this country, and a few more may follow; but whose fault but the 'active partisans' of the Liberal party.

The gentleman can console his aching heart with the consolation that many Liberal office holders still continue to lead at the Federal trough undisturbed. Those dismissed, no doubt, deserved it. In any case the thing is done and it's no part of a gentleman to squeal. The squeaker and bid loser makes every one sick and disgusted. A good loser makes friends, and justly so, the other fellow can go to grass.

Our Legislators and the Liquor Business.

In the work of temperance reform there are two main factors:— EDUCATION AND LEGISLATION. The Church educates. The House of Assembly legislates.

Education is indispensable, and is being carried on in our churches, and with the encouragement of our churches in schools and temperance organizations, on the platform and in the press. The people are being educated in regard to the evil effects of the beverage use of alcohol. Taking the Province as a whole, there is an overwhelming sentiment against intemperance.

The liquor business as conducted in various ways by bar-rooms, by club and dive, and by wholesale dealer, promotes intemperance. Surely such a business should be suppressed. This brings us to the matter of legislation. It is one of the functions of Government to enact legislation for the suppression of wrong. Under properly enforced legislation the liquor business—admittedly wrong—may be suppressed.

The Temperance Act of 1910, although a great improvement upon any previous temperance legislation in force in Nova Scotia, contains several defects. We have submitted to the Government a memo of necessary amendments so that defects may be remedied.

Where local officials desire to suppress the liquor business, they should be provided with the most effective law. Where local officials permit the illegal sale of liquor, the Inspector in chief as agent of the Government should be enabled by adequate legislation to compel observance of the Act.

It is the duty of our legislators to strike a death blow at the liquor business.

Homes are being wrecked, life is being destroyed, character is being ruined by this business. Our legislators have been entrusted with the responsibility of enacting various kinds of legislation, but none more necessary than that for the destruction of the liquor business. Would it not be statesman like to enact legislation for the protection of home, of life, of character?

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN

STRONGLY ADVISES HIS FRIENDS TO TRY GIN PILLS FOR THE DIABETES. "I have been a Pullman Conductor on the C. P. R. and Michigan Central during the last three years. About four years ago, I was laid up with intense pains in the groin, a very sore back, and suffered most severely when I tried to urinate. I treated with my family physician for two months for gravel in the bladder but did not receive any benefit. About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by taking Gin Pills, after having been given up by a prominent physician who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try Gin Pills which I did, with the result that the pain left me entirely. FRANK S. IDE, BUFFALO, N. Y. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Sample free. ## CURIOSITY Prompted Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR

THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.

They were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.

They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.

Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.

REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now

This Spring and always after with a REGINA PNEUMATIC CLEANER

As its name indicates, it is a machine for cleaning carpets, rugs, hardwood floors, curtains, draperies, walls and upholstered furniture by the vacuum process. It is simple but substantial in construction, and thoroughly practical and efficient in operation.

EASY TO OPERATE. It is so easy to manipulate that the strength of a ten-year-old child is sufficient for the task. It removes every particle of dust and dirt, not only from the SURFACE but also from the BODY of the fabric, and it does this without raising any dust. It thoroughly RENOVATES carpets, rugs, curtains and upholstered furniture without the necessity of removing them from the house, and it does this so quickly, easily and well that to use it becomes a pleasure.

Call in and let us Convince You.

A. V. RAND, Druggist, Wolfville.

DO YOU SAY "AIN'T"?

THERE is no such word in the English language. Educated people, hearing you say "ain't," will look upon you as ignorant.

Do you say, "He don't like me." That is bad grammar. It should be, "He does not like me."

Do you say, "I had rather not?" Wrong again. You should say, "I would rather not."

Do you feel ashamed of the letters you write? Do you sometimes keep quiet when you want to speak, for fear people will laugh at you?

Do you realize that your business could be extended and your standing improved if you were familiar with good commercial English and business forms?

We have made a specialty of teaching "Good English for Every One," in a short series of clear, practical lessons. You will be greatly benefited by studying it.

We shall be pleased to send you all the literature concerning this Course, absolutely free. If you do not like the description of the Course you are under no further obligation.

The Sunday afternoon meetings for men and boys at the Opera House were brought to a close on Sunday last, when Rev. O. W. Miller gave a very fitting address from the text: 'What think ye of Christ.' Dixon who arranged this course of meetings and to the genial proprietor of the Opera House for the free use of same.

Easter Millinery Openings.

In spite of winter's rule out-of-doors, the display of spring and summer head-dress at Miss B. K. Saxton's, J. D. Chamber's and W. C. Dexter & Co's, popular millinery parlors attracted feminine attention universally this week.

The new models follow those of New York city and are simple and attractive to a degree almost unknown during the last three years. Small, close fitting hats will be popular for early wear and the larger hats for summer time. Among the former the Gabby Turbans, made of fine, soft braids in draped effect, the new derby and the derby sailors are all smart appearing and serviceable. Small, soft hats of capeline follow the winter styles in being worn well of the face and down in the back. Amongst the new straws are milans, tagel, chip and panama, while the braids used in foundations are of mohair, ramie and hemp.

As to colorings, they are brilliant. The primrose shades, which include cerise, lobster, coral and red; tans in the lighter shades and a bright green called Kelly green are the leaders. Royal blue is still good, while black and white in combination with primrose and white are much in evidence.

Nets, gossamer and standing up from the crown, are much used in trimming. Taffeta, satin, velvet and fancy ribbons are also popular.

But this is primarily a flower season. Flowers in many beautiful tones are formed into quill, buckle and band effects, cabochons, whole crowns and, indeed, whole hats. Among the latter a small, especially dainty one of violets with a touch of rose pink at the side is shown at Miss Saxton's. The flower display here is particularly lovely. Flowers in two-toned effects and most beautifully blended in colors form a bank along one side of the room, and a basket of sweet peas in all the natural shades covers a table.

Among Miss Saxton's hats are several beautiful creations in black lace. On one the lace trim is embroidered in colors and is lifted slightly at the side. The crown is of shaded green and in primrose tones and the long ends of black velvet bow fall over the shoulder when worn. A dainty turban in primrose shades is draped with velvet net the face. The entire crown is of poppies, and twisted velvet quills complete the trimming.

Another turban shape is banded in champagne raffia tastefully outlined with white beads and gold threads, and trimmed with wings of white maline and shield of fine, white flowers. In the white tagel Miss Saxton shows an especially pretty rolled brim sailor with band of black beaute, and chola of pink roses and a drooping white feather. A model in the new 'baker's cap' has black lace drooping toward the face and a large tan-colored crown with wreath of fine pink roses.

At J. D. Chambers' one especially good dress hat is of black mohair braid with rolled brim and crown of primroses with osprey and five flowers in golden tone at side. Another is of black maline straw rolled from the face with point lace facing. The brim is caught up with small black flowers, a black osprey completes the trimming. A very dainty bonnet shape is made of pink roses divided by pink and green ribbon. A derby is in black straw with wings of white fringe crocheted. A pretty straw turban is made in two-toned blue effect and is trimmed with small cerise buds and foliage. 'A baker's cap' in pearl gray with wreath of shaded gray roses and wings of taffeta; and an auto bonnet of pink and gray with high crown of chiffon over silk are two other attractive models.

A dress hat of black tagel straw, with brim rolled from the face and wing of white roses and plaited set crossed by a black velvet bow, and another bow at the side is an especially handsome creation at W. C. Dexter's. One in black chip has brim edged in fine pink roses and a large milian wing across the front, finished by a bow of black velvet. Another dress hat is of royal blue tagel straw edged with black, the long back and high crown are swept by a magnificent black willow plume. A lace hat of white batonberg with flower mount. A turban is of primrose shaded muslin silk and Arabian lace and is finished at right side with primrose and black flowers.

When a mother that be given to young children it should be pleasant to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is made from leaf sugar, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it pleasant to take. It has no superior for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all dealers.

The services on Easter Sunday at the Lower Horton Methodist church will be more than usually interesting and attractive. At the morning service special music will be rendered and after the regular service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. In the evening the Woman's Missionary Society will hold its annual meeting. The speaker for the occasion will be Miss H. J. Jost, who has spent two terms of service in Japan. There will be special music and a silver collection in aid of mission work. Miss Jost is a guest at the parsonage.

Opera House.

The management of the Opera House have much pleasure in announcing the coming appearance of 'The Myrtle-Harder Co.' for two nights, April 24th and 25th.

All who have seen this company speak in the highest terms of the quality of both the plays and players. It is unusual for this attraction to play the smaller towns and Wolfville is the only one in the valley between Halifax and Yarmouth that will have the opportunity of seeing good clean plays produced by a most excellent company.

This company carries no vaudeville and the management of the house will therefore have the Wolfville Orchestra in attendance.

The opening play will be 'The Great John Granton.' Full particulars next week.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER

"Fruit-a-Lives" completely restored me. I was in a hospital for three months, suffering from indigestion and dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. I also suffered with constipation. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

I read in the "Maritime Herald" about "Fruit-a-Lives" and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-Lives" has entirely cured me when every other treatment failed, and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-Lives'."

The Outsider. They wanted the prettiest china. But they didn't ask for mine.

They wanted the minister's party. They wanted everything fine.

They wanted the nicest silver. Mine's sterling, every bit. It lies all yellow and tarnished.

For why should I brighten it? They wanted the lightest biscuit. The hand and heart of me aches.

When I think of my roomy oven, And the wonderful way it bakes. They wanted all the good people. That cut me 'twist, like a knife.

You see 'twas the minister's wife. And I'm the saloonkeeper's wife. From behind my kitchen curtain I could see them laughing. Say there are roads in the world lots harder.

Than their 'strait and narrow way. I know how they hold me. But tell me, Is it sinful to keep the vovs?

That I made that sweet June evening, As I stood in my father's house? Oh, well, they're there and I'm here, And it's an use to sit and whine.

Bill—they wanted the prettiest china. And they didn't ask for mine. —By Miss Della R. McCullum.

Their Health Drunk. When temperance advocates publicly dispute about the methods of temperance reform, their health is drunk with enthusiasm by those who are opposed to temperance reform.—St. John Times.

Nearly a year ago a Russian was found to death, returning to a lumber camp in North on Ontario. He had been drinking at a hotel in the near town, Thessalon, and had a quantity of liquor with him when found nearly dead. Last week judgment was given in a Toronto court that his death was due to drink, and the keeper and bar tender of the hotel which supplied him with liquor were ordered to pay $500 to the dead man's family. A light enough punishment for doing a man to death. But, small as is the amount, if the rum sellers of the country, including those in St. John and Halifax, had to pay $500 for each life they have destroyed, though but their victims are not yet dead, they would be quickly hushed.

Leave Shoulder: is simply a sign of the over-accumulation of the muscles, and quickly yields to the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by all dealers.

The great wrestler, who beat Hackenschmidt, says: "I do not believe in any form of alcoholic drinks to make me fit. It is the health of mind and body which has made provision for all necessary stimulants. We should live as near to nature as possible—regular hours and regular, wholesome diet, with plenty of exercise. Patiently and persistently follow the course of nature, and you will find that you are able to do more than you ever dreamed of."

Selling His Family For Opium.

A long shrill wail rings from the courtyard of a Chinaman's house. Passersby pause with an involuntary shudder. Gossips cease to chatter. It is the cry of the bereaved mourner. But a more relentless enemy than death is in possession. A girl, sobbing piteously, clings to her mother until strong hands force them apart. The woman sees her third and last remaining daughter led off to the fate which has already befallen her sisters. Like them, she is to be a slave on one of the flower-boats, and like many others of the same class, her life of intolerable degradation may end in a plunge in the river. The dirty, unshaven, scowling wretch, shuffling on feeble, ill-shod feet, who has sold her to her father, the once rich, respected secretary of the governor of the city of Kinkwa Cheeking. What has robbed him of wealth, health and natural affection? "Villainous opium," answers one of the crowd who knows the story. "But opium, eat sorrow," adds a moralizer.

The mother has one treasure left her only boy. Her husband will surely hold to the son on whom safety of his soul after death is supposed to depend. But the drug habit prevails. To satisfy the craving, he sells his last remaining child, and then his wife herself. —Illustrated Missionary News.

Constipation brings many ailments in its train and is the primary cause of much sickness. Keep your bowels regular, and you will escape many of the ailments to which women are subject. Constipation is a very simple matter, but like many simple things it may lead to very serious consequences. Nature often needs a little assistance and when Chamberlain's Tablets are given at the first indication, much distress and suffering may be avoided. Hold by all dealers.

The opium conference opened at the Hague on the 1st inst. The conference is an outcome of the opium commission which assembled at Shanghai early in 1908. Twelve nations are represented by delegates—Great Britain, the United States, China, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Persia, Portugal, Russia and Siam.

Signs of Kidney Trouble. In the early stages kidney troubles are known by backache and urinary disorders. Later come dropsy, stone, and perhaps diabetes. But if you catch the disease early, Chamberlain's Kidney Pills will help you in a few hours. They thoroughly clean the liver, kidneys and bowels, and clear away the poisons which cause such ailments.

Cocaine dens are being raided by the Montreal police. In one of these dens, two men and one woman were found in various stages of stupefaction. There were two or three large bottles of cocaine in the room, which was shakingly filthy. After a severe fight the whole crowd were taken off by the police.

A Lumberman's Opinion. In the early stages kidney troubles are known by backache and urinary disorders. Later come dropsy, stone, and perhaps diabetes. But if you catch the disease early, Chamberlain's Kidney Pills will help you in a few hours. They thoroughly clean the liver, kidneys and bowels, and clear away the poisons which cause such ailments.

The Land of Promise. "Yes, but he started when the country was young and he had lots of chances. You can't do that sort of thing now." This is a common thing to hear when we read the story of some great success achieved in Canada.

In 1837 there was an incident re-bellion in Canada because there were so many men held to this belief, it contained men who saw the big, empty spaces in the country held by a few of the early comers who "pioneered" in the earlier part of the century, and who had secured grants of land similar to the grants MacKenzie and Mead had resuscitated by parliament a few years ago.

In the seventies men looked back to the halcyon days when the Americans were paying big prices. In the nineties men said it was enough for a man to get a start right after the National Policy of 1879. To-day we look back to the chances we miss in the Cobalt, to the opportunities we neglected in not investing money in the North West during the depression after the prairie floods of '81. So it goes.

In 1920 it will no doubt be said that a man had a chance in 1912 when all was prosperity and Canada was just beginning to know the truth about her future.

The man who is going to be satisfied in 1920 will have no time to regard other people and other times except in so far as what he can learn from them. Success is neither harder nor easier than it ever was. The fact that a young man is poor to-day is not a hindrance. It over was. Poverty is the best inheritance a young man can have. No combination can be better than poverty, good health and a public school education. We can pity the young man who has not the stimulus of poverty for he can never know the deeper joy of achievement. Discontent with things and conditions was come at times, but if there is real grit behind, it will disappear with the clouds.

Money-hunger is not a sign of success, nor yet is it a pure instinctive skill, if one strives to reach the top of his class in any line in Canada he cannot help being rich.

For Constipation. Mr. L. H. Farshaw, a prominent druggist of Spirit Lake, Iowa, says: "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are certainly the best thing on the market for constipation. I give them to my family, and you are certain to find them agreeable and pleasant in effect. Price, 50 cents. Sample free. For sale by all dealers."

Do not suffer from piles. Chamberlain's Piles is a sure cure for all cases of piles, whether internal or external. It is a pleasant and effective remedy, and is sold by all dealers.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell others what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation. Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe ovarian inflammation. I would have such terrible pain that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed."

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ailments should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

"They look," said Pansy, dreamily, "as if they were sweaters, if they weren't so old—and married."

"Not one of these matters," flashed out Lydia, with her usual decision, "if they don't think it does."

It was a very late hour, after the sociable was over before the family of Hackett could content itself to get to bed. There were so many questions to ask and so much to tell that the questions did not cover it.

"You're just started, now, mother, and you can't go anywhere else about it." "I'll be right back," said Lydia, with a happy inspiration. "I'll keep the baby."

"I will," Mrs. Hackett told herself before she fell asleep. "And I'll get to come. We won't be any worse off for it. It appears as if it was getting plainer and plainer to me how good such things are."—Forward.

THE STANDING ALIBI OF H. STANLEIGH STORME

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.) (By Wm. Hamilton Osborne.)

hard, cold voice. "You were not at the club last night at two or half past two, H. Stanleigh Storme. You were here in this very house!"

Storme looked at her curiously. "I was—here, in this house?" he repeated in a dazed sort of way. "In this house?"

"In this house," repeated Miss Dumont. "I saw you here."

Storme put his hand up to his head. He caught her by the arm. "Tell me," he said with a queer look. "Did I come back? What did I do? Did the others—your guests—see me? Were they still here?"

"They were not here," returned she. "They had gone. You came later. A burglar visited us last night, and you—"

"Did I—did I shoot him," queried the man. "About him!" exclaimed the girl. "You were the burglar yourself—it was you who broke in and entered the house."

Storme looked at her for a moment as though he thought she had gone crazy. Then he started forward as if shot, and with his eyes starting from their sockets, and his arms waving wildly in the air, he threw himself into a chair and covered his face with his hands.

"Good God," he exclaimed brokenly, after a long while, "is that the truth? I've come to—is that the secret of my life—my livelihood?"

CHAPTER XIII. A Dinner at the Club. Livingstone Dredlington was the smallest thing in town. He was the spendthrift millionaire of the place. He flattered himself that he kept up the pace with the best of them.

"When I do a thing, Storme," he would say, "I do it, and don't you forget it!"

But if Dredlington kept up the pace, it was clear to him that Storme made it.

Storme had many admirers. Dredlington of all those was the most ardent. He did the things and said the things that Storme did and said.

Storme, to him, was the essence of all that was chic and dashing and exclusively fashionable.

Some weeks now had elapsed since the great trial of the people versus H. Stanleigh Storme.

No one was more enthusiastic over the outcome than Dredlington himself. It supplied him with an all-embracing topic of conversation, and it furnished him with a mighty inspiration.

He would give a dinner on the most magnificent scale. Storme should be the guest of honor. It would be the talk of the town.

He consulted Storme about it. Storme acquiesced with delight.

He was appreciative and became enthusiastic about the thing. It even suggested some of the details of the affair.

It was to be a freak dinner on a breakneck scale; and more than all, a dinner commemorative of the great trial.

The invitations, which of course came out two weeks ahead of time, were frank in themselves. They were in the shape of subpoenas to testify, with big red seals, and even the genuine signature of the county clerk.

The sheriff, a personal friend of both of the men, volunteered the services of one of his deputies to serve the invitations personally on the invited guests. The idea, as may be guessed from the weak, sickly humor it involved, was the idea of Dredlington.

The newspapers, when they finished roasting the police department, took up the freak dinner for all it was worth.

They lauded it to the firmament. They printed facsimiles of the invitations and also of the menu, which had been designed in advance by Storme the caricaturist. Canon was a member of the club, nevertheless he sent his little bill to Dredlington, and Dredlington paid it on the spot.

Canon fixed up highly illuminated copies of the indictment, and the verdict of the jury, and the menu—the whole included in a magnificent menu representing on the last five pages the details of the breaking into a bank in a full dress suit, and on the back a striking likeness of the same gentleman in prison garb, rustily contemplating the outlines of a nearby penitentiary.

The dinner cost Dredlington one hundred dollars a cover, and there were fifty covers. The whole thing was stupid and boyish enough, but the newspapers considered it utterly dastardly funny.

The town laughed at it and talked about it, and waited for it. On the evening, the best invitation every man of the town paid to attend—and even men attended.

The judge also was invited. There were Storme suggestions—and he had good reasons for them.

The thing began at 10 o'clock precisely on a hand, but Storme himself turned up five minutes late. He had had an engagement he was to when it was announced that it was to be a dinner in honor of H. Stanleigh Storme, and as well as prescribed it to any person whose invitation was required and he never failed to get the contrary.

CHAPTER XIV. The Second Charge. Ridiculous still seemed and notwithstanding the whole town knew

"Only a Cold"

SNEEZING and running at the nose, stuffed up feelings in the head, sore throat, tickling in the throat and coughing.

This is the natural development of what in the beginning "only a cold." It is the way in which scores and thousands are allowing colds to develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, or consumption.

If colds were promptly cured there would be no need for sanatoriums and hospitals for consumptives. Because people have weak lungs they need not become consumptives if they will but guard against colds and cure them promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This great medicine has proven its right to a place in every home by curing croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and all sorts of coughs and colds. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

plained, and had had to hurry. He seemed breathless and out of sorts. The company sat down—fifty men in all.

"You're looking pretty pale tonight," said the sheriff, "are you?"
