Keep Your Display Windows Free from Frost.

For preventing the Frosting of Display Windows in winter time there is nothing Simpler or more Effective than

The Air Blast of an Electric Fan directed against the glass.

The philosophy of the thing is plain. The evaporative effect of the air current simply prevents condensation of moisture upon the window and affords relief from the annoyance which is generally sought but only imperfectly attained through various awkward means.

CHAPTER XII.

"Are you sure of that, Yorke, I asked, doubtfully. I was beginning to think what a fine fellow he was, and what a power of attraction there was about his frank handsome face and cheery way. Nat might care for him after all, and, if so, she was not the sort of girl to heed the fact of his being poorer than she, madame notwithstanding.

"As sure as I am that the sun will rise to-morrow. She has no more thought of marrying me than she has of marrying you."

"And you don't even mean to ask her?"

"No."

"Well," I said, shrugging my shoulders. "I know precious well that I should if it were my case."

"If it were your case?" Yorke laughed, as he wheeled round from the window and came back slowly to the fire. "Well, I like that! There's a great deal of likeness certainly between the future master of Chavasse and ten thousand a year and Doctor Dizarte's partner."

"Well, if you were in my position," I was beginning, when he cut me short.

"If I were, I would make her care for me. As it is—"

"As it is, you're going to let Fraser Froude get her, I suppose?" I supplemented, rather out of temper.

"No, I don't think that," he said, quickly. "I don't anticipate that. But, at the same time, there's nothing—no, nothing that I would not rather see. I hate that fellow, Ned!"

It was plain that he did from his style of saying it; and his manner startled me.

"Well, you needn't then," I said. "I tell you that Nat doesn't care a straw for him."

"Nor he for her. That's what puzzles me."

"Eh?" I cried. "What makes you think that?"

"I know it."

"I think you're out there, Roger. If he doesn't care for her, what do you suppose that he's eternally mousing about Chavasse for?"

"I say that that is what puzzles me. I can't make it out. Look here, Ned—I'm not likely to make a mistake about a thing of this sort when it concerns her, and I tell you that he doesn't care for her. That is not the reason that he's always after her—he's hanged to him!"

"Well, but what can be the reason?"

FEARED LOCKJAW

In Badly Calked Horse—But Egyptian Liniment Saved Him

The season of icy roads and sudden heavy snowfalls, is an anxious one for horseowners, because it is so easy for a sharpshod horse to cut himself seriously when floundering in the deep snow.

A bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment on hand then, may be the means of saving a valuable animal for you. It not only stops the bleeding at once, but keeps the wound clean and healthy and quickly heals it.

Read what Mr. G. P. Ashbocker, Ryan Mills, N. Y., says about it: "Egyptian Liniment has made extraordinary cures for me. One of my horses got badly calked, and everyone said he would have the lockjaw. The wound gathered and broke, and there was a great hole between the hair and the hoof. I used only Egyptian Liniment and the horse's foot was soon sound and well. It made a permanent cure. In my estimation there is nothing equal to this Liniment for cuts or sores of any kind."

then?" I asked, dubiously, and certainly unconvinced.

"I say I wish I knew."

"I don't like him, you know, old man," I said, thoughtfully, staring at the fire. "and I wish to goodness that he'd keep out of Chavasse, and let Nat alone; but, all the same, this idea of yours that he doesn't care for her is new to me. I've always given him credit for that. But of course you may be right. If he wasn't up to the eyes in cash himself, it would make me fancy that he'd got her money in view."

"Her money?" Yorke repeated, turning to stare at me. "What are you talking about?"

"Natalie's, of course?"

"Has she any money then?"

"Of course she has—ten thousand pounds! Didn't you know it?"

"I never even dreamed of it," he returned, his brown face paling a little as he looked at me. "I have always supposed her to be entirely dependent upon your mother."

"Bless you—no! Her father was well off. It was a home and protection that he wanted madame to give her—nothing else. He left her ten thousand pounds, as I said."

A pause ensued; Yorke stood with his arm on the chimney-piece, looking with a moody face down into the fire, and said nothing. I glanced at my watch—it was a quarter to six. It could be as much as I could do to get back to the Mount by dinner-time. I took up my overcoat and began to put it on. My fingers were busy with the last button when Roger said sharply, without raising his head—

"It doesn't make much difference, after all, Ned, my boy—only puts her a little further out of my reach, if that could be. But look here! Her having money explains to my mind my puzzle about Froude."

"Why, he's as rich as a Jew!" I exclaimed.

"Doubtful. At any rate, we don't know it for a fact. Every one knows that a stock-broker—and that's what he is, I suppose—may be a millionaire one day and next door to a beggar the next. Neither you nor madame would much like the idea of his making a victim of—Miss Orme."

"By Jove, no! But I think you're on the wrong track, Roger—I do, indeed. Froude's rich enough, and I think he's fond of Nat—not that he'll get her, though, any more than—"

"Any more than I shall," Yorke put in, finishing my sentence in a way in which I had certainly not meant to finish it. "Well, you'll keep silence, Ned? If I am a fool, Whittlesford needn't know it."

"Of course, I will," I returned heartily; and with that we shook hands, although I was not quite ready to go yet.

"Thanks, my boy," and his big brown fingers gave my hand a grip which made me wince. "I meant to keep it all a secret, and make the best of it; but, since some one is to be perforce in my confidence, I'm glad it chances to be you. I'd sooner have my secrets in your keeping than in that of any one else."

I do not know how it was exactly—perhaps because the confidential nature of our talk had made me feel nearer to him than I had ever felt yet, my chosen friend though he was—but suddenly the resolution which I had so ignominiously broken when I first came in returned to me. I gave myself no time to think better of it, but hurried out the words in a rush. "Look here, Roger," I said; "talking of secrets, there's something I should like to say to you—something that has bothered me a great deal. I've been within an ace of speaking of it half a dozen times, but haven't had the cheek. What is it that you know about Mademoiselle Valdin?"

Yorke's face had simply worn a curious and puzzled expression when I began to speak; but a deep flush overspread it as I brought out the name, and he gave a violent start. I was awfully curious, but I began to wish that I had held my tongue.

"What do you mean? What do you know about it?" he demanded, harshly and quickly.

"I saw you with her in the Lady's Walk on the very night she came to Chavasse," I answered.

With an exclamation which struck me as being a good deal more emphatic than pious, Yorke turned away, strode to the end of the room, and came back.

"How came you to be there, pray?"

"I couldn't sleep, and went out to smoke a cigar."

"If it were anyone but you, Ned Chavasse, I should say you had played the spy."

"You'd better say it then," I retorted.

"Pooh! You heard as well as saw, I suppose? What did you hear?"

"Very little," I answered, feeling rather hurt and a trifle sulky. "As or playing the spy, Yorke, if I had wanted to do that, I suppose I could have set all the tongues in Whittlesford tattling by this time. As it is, I have never mentioned it to a soul."

"No, no, of course not!" he said, astily. "I beg your pardon, Ned; I was surprised. Thanks for being silent about it. It was the best thing—no, only thing either to do or to be done."

"And is that all you are going to tell me?" I asked, blankly, a good deal astonished.

"No," he said, thoughtfully, after a moment's hesitation. "Look here, Ned: I'll tell you all that I can, without breaking the pledge which I was fool enough. I think sometimes, to give her. It isn't much. I met her by chance in France about a year ago before she came here; Clara, my sister, knew her. Her life had always been rough, though I'm not at liberty to tell you how or why. While I was still there she got into awful trouble—what it was I can't tell you—and it fell to my lot to be of some little service to her. It was a disgraceful business, horrible business, at mind you, it was not her fault—she was no more to blame for it than you are. I neither saw her nor heard of her again until I met her at Chavasse," Yorke stopped.

"Well!" I said.

"Well, I was awfully surprised, as you must have seen. I knew well enough that, if madame became acquainted with her past life, she would have to march from the Mount. She had it too, and it was to beg me to old my tongue that she asked me to meet her in the Lady's Walk. I wish that she had never found her way to Chavasse, and I told her so; but I did at last promise that, so long as nothing came out from any other source, I would not speak. That promise I have kept and must keep."

"Remember, Ned, that for what happened in the past she was not in the least to blame, and it was entirely over and done with before she came to Chavasse."

"You are sure that it is so?"

"I will pledge you my honor that it is so."

"And," I said, thinking of what she had told me, and hesitating about what I wanted to say next—"I suppose she's all right? I mean that there's no doubt about her being a fit companion for Nat, you know—eh?"

"If I had had any doubt about that, she would not have been with her for a week," said Yorke, very quietly. "You may be sure of that."

"I suppose I may."

"You may. Well, will you trust me enough to keep silence about this, too, Ned?"

I said "Yes," and meant it, feeling, although I was puzzled still, that, after all, I would take Roger Yorke's word against that of anyone I knew. But then a sudden thought struck me, and I said, abruptly—

"You flew off to Paris the next day, I remember. Had that anything to do with mademoiselle?"

"Yes," he answered, readily. "There was one thing she told me which I wanted to prove to be true before finally pledging myself. I went to do it."

"And it was true?"

"Strictly."

"I was as satisfied as I was ever likely to be upon the subject, it seemed, and I said so, bidding him good-night, and again promising to keep his confidence in both particulars. But on the doorstep a strange fancy came into my head, which made me say—"

"If it were anyone but you, Ned Chavasse, I should say you had played the spy."

"What's that?" Yorke laughed out a loud hearty laugh of frank amusement which was more like his old light-hearted self than anything I had seen in him that night. "What next will you get into your head?" he said. "Remember, silence is golden. Good-night!"

And it was not until I was back at Chavasse and up in my room, hurrying for the ringing of the second dinner-bell, that I uncomfortably remembered two things—first, that after all, Yorke had not told me outright that he had never been in love with Lucille Valdin, and, secondly, that I had forgotten to tell him that there had been a second and an unknown witness of that interview in the Lady's Walk.

Special Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.
 Secretary Knox, in his reply, assures the British Government that domestic coastwise trade will not be permitted to extend operations into foreign competitive fields, and increased tolls will not be laid on foreign shipping to balance the remission to American ships. If Britain is not satisfied on these points, the United States proposes a special commission of adjustment. The communication is devoted to the purpose of reducing to the smallest point the number of issues on which the two governments failed to agree. As there are only two, it is contended that they are entirely susceptible of adjustment by diplomatic means. If this is not acceptable, it is suggested the whole controversy shall be referred to a special commission of enquiry, provision for which was made in the unratified Knox-Bryce general Arbitration Treaty. That Convention was approved by the Senate with an amendment which curtails the power of the committee to making investigation and reporting, and refusing to permit the commission to bind either country to arbitration. Because of this amendment President Taft has, so far, declined to consummate the Treaty. To meet the needs of the present issue, Knox offers to give life to the Treaty by immediate exchange of ratifications, which would insure the existence of a general Arbitration Treaty after the lapse of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty on June 4th next. As an alternative, the Secretary is willing that a commission shall be created for the special purpose of ascertaining the facts in regard to the effect on British shipping of the Panama Tolls Act, and of the President's proclamation fixing the tolls. Much of the Secretary's argument rests upon the contention that Sir Edward Grey's protest is made in advance of the President's proclamation, and is entirely inapplicable to the controversy in its present stage and, as a matter of fact, the British contention rests upon an apprehension of things that may happen in the future, but which, in all probability, will never occur.

LONDON, Jan. 23.
 "I hope we shall win on Monday," Lloyd George told a deputation of suffragettes, representing the working women of the British Isles, today, when he and Sir Edward Grey received them at the Treasury Department. "I certainly shall do my very best to see the amendment to the Franchise Bill, eliminating the word, 'male,' is passed by the Commons. Since I have been in the Cabinet I have become a more convinced supporter of woman's suffrage, than ever." The Liberal Government, he said, was ready to stand or fall by Premier Asquith's pledge that if the Commons approved the extension of the franchise to women, the Government would support it. There was no truth, he declared, in the published statement that some Cabinet ministers would resign if the vote was given to women.

LONDON, Jan. 23.
 The immediate consequence of the decision of the Turks to conclude peace, will be the cessation of hostilities between Greece and Turkey, both in the province of Epirus and the Aegean Sea, also an arrangement for the Turkish surrender of Adria-nople, Janina and Scutari, and the withdrawal of the Turkish garrisons with all honors of war. Difficulties, it is thought, may arise concerning the future of Scutari, as no one knows to whom it is to be surrendered, whether the Montenegrins, the Provisional Albanian Government or the representatives of the European Powers. Members of the Turkish Peace Delegation in London, show signs of depression, but they are determined that the era of concessions must now be regarded as finally closed.

LONDON, Jan. 23.
 The Times states that the Ministry is equally divided on Woman's Suffrage. Those who support the measure are Sir Edward Grey, Viscount Haldane, Lloyd George, Augustine Birrell, Viscount Morley, Walter Runciman, McKinnon Wood, Sir Rufus Isaacs, and Earl Beauchamp. Opposed to it are Premier Asquith, Winston Churchill, Colonel Seeley, Lewis Harcourt, Reginald McKenna, Marquis Crewe, H. S. Samuel, J. A. Pease and E. Hobhouse. The doubtful members are Sydney Buxton and John Burns.

LONDON, Jan. 23.
 A further stage has been reached in the negotiations between the C.P.R. and the Austro-American Company, regarding the new C.P.R. service. The Austrian concern, which hitherto enjoyed a monopoly of emigrant traffic from Trieste to the United States and Canada, has decided to reduce the rates one-half. On the question of the establishment of a new shipping connection between Trieste and Canada, with St. John as the probable port this side, negotiations have taken place, but so far these have given no results. They may be resumed at the end of the month.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.
 It is stated that the Prince of Wales, after his present term at Oxford, will call on the Kaiser at Potsdam, after which he will visit several German cities. He will then be received officially at Potsdam by the Emperor, who will confer upon him the Cross of the Black Eagle. It is understood that there is great interest in court and society circles over the visit of the "blonde Prince" as he is known in Germany. Extensive preparations are on foot to give him a good time.

LONDON, Jan. 23.
 The February number of the Review Nord and Sud, prints extracts from the diary of the former Sultana Abdul Hamid. Some of the extracts are: "The English are more to be feared than any other nation." "There is no promise to hold them." "Our rule in Europe is based on divisions in the Balkan States."

League Hockey.

A CLEAN "WALK OVER."
 Last night the second League Hockey match took place between the Feildians and St. Bon's. The ice conditions were all that could be desired, and there was a goodly attendance but the game was not up to much, being too one-sided, as the Feildians defeated their opponents by sixteen goals to two. Six of the St. Bon's never played in the League before and a lack of practice it can be imagined what combination they played. However, the Bon's did remarkably well by scoring at all against a much superior team and may yet have to be reckoned with. Altogether there was too much fouling and checking in last night's game and a great deal less of it would have sufficed.

The players were:—

St. Bon's: Walsh, R. Callahan, Rennie, W. Callahan, Hagen, Keating, Edens.

Summary of Goals.
First Half:
 1. Collier (F.) 8 mins.; 2. Hagen (St. B.) 12 mins.; 3. White (F.) 12½ mins.; 4. Pinsent (F.) 14 mins.; 5. Winter (F.) 14½ mins.; 6. White (F.) 16 mins.; 7. Strong (F.) 17 mins.; 8. Pinsent (F.) 18 mins.; 9. Strong (F.) 18 mins.; 10. Strong (F.) 22 mins.; 11. Strong (F.) 22 mins.

Second Half:
 1. Winter (F.) 2 mins.; 2. Collier (F.) 14 mins.; 3. White (F.) 19 mins.; 4. Keating (St. B.) 22 mins.; 5. Strong (F.) 25 mins.; 6. Jeffrey (F.) 28 mins.; 7. Pinsent (F.) 29 mins.

Presented With Medals
 Last night in the C. L. B. Armoury the members of the Brigade who were at the Exhibition in Toronto last year were presented with the silver medals received from the authorities in Canada who conducted the competitions amongst the Cadets from various parts of the Empire. The medals were presented by Lieut.-Col. Rendell to Lieut. W. F. Rendell, the Commander of the Newfoundland Squad and Privates E. Ellis, A. Bendall and F. Warren. Pte. E. Ellis, who was the best shot in our contingent, was presented with a silver cup. The trophies were engraved on one side: "National Exhibition, Toronto, 1912," and on the reverse with the profiles of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall. Cheers were heartily given for the squad, and the medals and cups are highly prized by the winners.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR
 Chronic, Crippled-up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of New Remedy are Taken.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled-up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it. Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you. The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poison from the blood and drive it on and out of the system. Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome urinary disorders.

Sudden Death.

The death occurred very suddenly at his home last night of John Curnew. For some time deceased had been troubled with heart failure, but no serious results were anticipated, and as he had been able to go about and attend to his duties up to within two hours of his death, his sudden passing away came as a dreadful shock to his family. The late John Curnew was born at Barensted, Conception Bay, in 1856, but for many years has been a resident of this city, where he was well known and highly respected. He was a man of deep convictions and of strong religious principles, and was a member of the Salvation Army, having held the position of Corps Serjeant, Major for many years. Besides his wife he leaves four children—William, in Vancouver; Emma, of Sydney, C. B.; and John and Ida at home. Mr. Isaac Curnew of this city, is a brother of the deceased. The funeral will take place from his late residence, 11 Cabot Street, on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body will be taken to the No. 1 Crematorium where a short service will be held. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

HUNKERS AT BARBADOS.—The S. S. Bonaventure, Capt. Randall, is now en route to Barbados from Bahia to get bunker coal. On her way to South American ports from St. John's the Bon. met terrific weather and sustained damage. When returning she will call at Louisburg and load coal for here.

A Crook at Work.

BREAKS INTO LARACY'S, COLLINS' and ANDERSON'S STORES.—GETS AWAY WITH CASH and GOODS.

Yesterday the Telegram, in an exclusive, referred to the fact that a burglar had been at work in our midst, and on making enquiries we find that he forced his way Wednesday night or early yesterday morning, into the stores of P. F. Collins' Dr. Goods premises, on Water Street, getting away with money and goods. The thief had the light of the moon to work by and going to A. H. Murray's premises where there is no watchman employed at night, he went up the gallery to the top of the shed which runs along to the rear of the second flat of Mr. P. F. Collins' Dr. Goods premises, and there began operations for effecting an entry. He first tried to enter by the window in the west side of the flat, smashed the glass and even used a knife to cut away the putty, when he first liked to get out the glass without breaking it. An iron shutter barred the window inside and this he tried to remove but without avail. Then he turned his attention to the window on the eastern side, broke a pane of glass 22 x 16 inches and wrenched off one of the iron bars inside the glass and got through. He went through the three flats of the store and made a thorough search for money. Going down to the Water Street flat, he took $1.20 in coppers and silver from the open cash register. Fortunately the drawers were open or he would have wrecked the register. Going into the office he prized open the desk with an axe and took all the cash there about $2.00 and then ransacked the building and took gloves and other goods. There was about $150 locked up in the safe and he tried his best to open this but the combination baffled him. He thought, however, he had hit on a plan to get the swag and took the tops off the hinges, but this was futile, he could not get the hinges off and he then made his exit by the window through which he had entered. The tracks of the man's boots can be plainly seen in the deep snow on the roof of the shed which he ascended.

Hon. John Anderson does not know exactly how he entered his store, but thinks he must have got in through the front door by the aid of skeleton keys or possibly by raising a window at the rear. Notably when the drawers were open or he would have wrecked the register. Notes and Comments.

The Grabbers must go!

The Fishermen of Conception Bay are uniting their voices with their brethren of the north and calling out loud for a change.

No second term for the People's Party, is the cry. We have had enough of Morris. We cannot let him finish his work, or he will finish us.

Our accounts of the doings in Conception Bay, are much appreciated by the people who were eye-witnesses to the scenes which took place.

Morris has been in power nearly four years and has not yet placed on the free list tea, pork, sugar and the other prime necessities of life, as he promised in his manifesto four and a quarter years ago. A death-bed repentance will not save him now. Morris Must Go!

Fishermen, farmers, laborers, and all who work for a living, are disgusted with the Graball Government. They are determined to oust it next fall. To do this they recognize that they must unite, and the spirit of union is in the air.

"United we stand!
Divided we fall!"

People want cheaper coal. Morris promised cheaper fuel, and has failed to carry out his promises. Indeed, coal has been rising all the time his Government has been in power. The price now is almost prohibitive.

Morris promised to open up new markets in Mexico, Central South America and other parts of the world where our fish did not go. He has not done so. Morris Must Go!

We direct the attention of our readers to the letter of Mr. William Londrigan. He tells what is needed to prevent the terrible loss of life and great destruction of shipping near St. Shott's. Surely it is time a light such as he suggests, should be provided.

As we have pointed out before today, so we point out again, there is no good reason why enquiries such as those that are now, should be held in private. They are investigations into matters of public concern and the public and press should be allowed into the room where they are held to hear what is going on, as is done in England. It is time these secret enquiries were brought to an end, and the public taken into confidence.

The Turkish Debacle.

On October 8th last, when Montenegro declared war on Turkey, no one anticipated the debacle which befell Turkey in a few weeks. Montenegro, the smallest of the Balkan States, but the most warlike, was the one to strike the first blow. But Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece were behind the gallant little nation. Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro having formed an alliance to obtain from Turkey by union, what each felt unable to obtain alone. Some sixteen years ago Greece had striven single-handed against Turkey, and had been forced to conclude an inglorious peace after a short but disastrous war. Turkey claimed ability to put 1,200,000 men in the field in time of war. No one of the Balkan nations felt confident of bringing Turkey to book alone. But the people were united, and immediately the allies had come to an understanding, the people could not be restrained. They were determined to right the wrongs of their Christian Brethren in Macedonia, who had been calling in vain for centuries for effective aid against their oppressors. Reforms had been promised them by the Turks and guarantees given to the Powers. But the Turks delayed and dabbled and did nothing, while the Powers looked upon them as though paralyzed and impotent. The allies were determined to right these wrongs and to try as far as possible to drive the Turks from Europe where they had been cramped for some 550 years. In many ways the outlook was favorable to the allies. Turkey was at war with Italy, and Italy had command of the sea, and thus could prevent Turkey from using the sea for the transportation of troops and supplies from Turkey in Asia to the scene of conflict in Europe. Turkey, however, concluded peace with Italy and contemporaneously formally declared war on the Allies. The task therefore of keeping the Turkish transports of the sea devolved on Greece, and very successfully did she carry out the task. The Turkish navy was kept within the Sea of Marmora, and after the few ventures out into the Aegean Sea, was kept corked up in the Dardanelles. Turkey was unable to use the Mediterranean and Aegean Seas for her transports, and could move her troops from Arabia, Syria and Asia Minor only over the few badly kept main roads and poorly equipped railways. At no time was she able to concentrate large armies of regular troops at the theatre of war. Her guns also proved inferior to the guns of the allies, and her communications broke down absolutely. The result was in a few weeks her armies were defeated everywhere, some of her fortresses at Monastir and Salonika fell, and her troops were driven back behind the Tschatalie lines near Constantinople and at she had left in Europe was Constantinople, the Gallipoli peninsula, and Adrianople, Janina and Adrisanople just before Christmas lend hostilities were partially suspended with a view to peace, and a Conference had been going on in London with a view to arranging terms of peace. Turkey was most reluctant to give up Adrisnople and the Islands in the Aegean Sea, but the allies were more insistent. Turkey has at last backed down. Adrianople, Janina and Sentari are to be surrendered. The news as to the Aegean Island is however, not clear. In any case Turkey in Europe has ceased to exist as a power beyond the shores of the Sea of Marmora and the Straits which give entrance to it, which of course includes Constantinople. The Eastern question which has troubled Europe for centuries and was the cause of many wars in the Nineteenth century and constantly gave rise to international embroilment is now practically a thing of the past. The latest news is that the Young Turks have made a coup at Constantinople. Nazim Pasha, the Commander-in-Chief, has been assassinated, the Grand Vizier has resigned, and the Young Turks have obtained the Government. The object of the coup is still a mystery. Whether it will prevent peace being brought about and force on the resumption of war is not yet known. The Allies declare that Russia will take a hand if war is resumed and the Turks will be driven out of Europe entirely, and may be stripped also of the Asiatic Provinces.

K. of C. TOURNEY.—The Knights of Columbus held a card tourney in their rooms last night when Mr. John McCarthy, of the G. P. O., won a pipe, and Mr. John Curtis, of the Postal Telegraphs, a tobacco pouch.

CAUGHT PATCH FOX.—Mr. Wm. Mercer, at the head of Mundy's Pond, caught a fine patch fox in his snares there yesterday. A black fox has recently been seen in the neighborhood and quite a number of traps are out for him.

NO SIGN OF BYRNE.—So far there is no tidings of Lawrence Byrne, aged 40, who left his home a fortnight ago, despite the incessant efforts of search parties and the police. Byrne's friends express the belief that the unfortunate man is not alive and that his body will likely be found in the harbour.

HURT BY FALL.—As Mr. H. M. Jarke, H.M.C., was passing along Duckworth Street yesterday afternoon, he was thrown to the ground by a dog. His head struck the ice was badly cut, and he was rendered unconscious. He lost his eyeglasses and when he came to could not find them.

BROKE HIS LEG.—The ambulance was at the station today, and took to the hospital a man named Murphy, of Conception Harbor, who accidentally broke his leg yesterday. Another man named Hopkins, of Grand Falls, who was the victim of an accident yesterday, will be brought here by the express to-morrow to go to the hospital.

We have just opened a very pretty assortment of Silver Lapidary Ware. This is glassware consisting of Jgs Sugar and Cream Sets, Plates, Salts, Tobacco Jars, Vases, etc., having pure silver firmly deposited directly to the glass in beautiful designs by an electrical process. R. H. TRAPNELL dec22,11

At 3 p.m. yesterday a fire broke out in the galley of the Rosina, at Goodridge's wharf, which came near having a serious ending. The cook was painting this apartment and unwittingly threw some turpentine in the stove when almost immediately the whole place was in flames. The men about were quickly on board and with water brought in pails quenched the blaze but not before the galley was badly charred.

MAIL CAR ENQUIRY.—Yesterday afternoon the enquiry into the burning of the mail car and its contents was continued before Judge Knight. The Reid Co's Superintendent of car construction, Mr. H. Ross, was sworn and examined. Witness produced a lamp similar to the one which set fire to the car. It is of the same type as those used on American and Canadian trains. This afternoon the evidence of Mr. Lush, who looks after lamps before the departure of trains, will be taken.

As soon as the storm moderates Bowring's sealing steamer Kite will sail for Grofs Islands and from there will proceed on her annual sealing hunt. The Kite is not prosecuting the sealfishery this season in the Gulf, as formerly. She is amply provisioned, having all the necessary supplies on board and is in good condition to contend with the ice pack north. She has her engineers and stokers on board but will get her deck hands, comprising nine men at Grofs Islands, where she leaves March 1st.

Special to Evening Telegram. MCKENNEY, Texas, To-day. By the collapse of a three story Oddfellows building seven persons were killed and thirteen injured.

LONDON, To-day. Bonar Law's amendment to time limit on Suffrage debate was defeated by 259 to 191. The general opinion prevails that whatever is the result of Grey's amendment the Government will drop the Franchise Bill. Leading Suffragists are greatly disheartened. They have decided, however, to take no action until it is seen exactly what course the Government will adopt. The prospect is that women Suffragists are doomed to another disappointment.

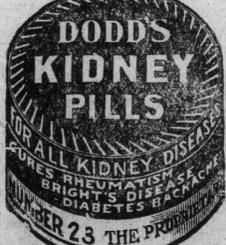

LONDON, To-day. The fact that Shekret Pasha has been appointed Grand Vizier, while Lataat Bey, who is a prominent member of the Young Turk Committee and Deputy for Adrianople, have been made Minister of the Interior, is significant. The Young Turks have labored vainly for some time to regain power. Their activity among army officers has been great. Prominent officers, recently returned from Tripoli, joined the Tchatalja army and are largely responsible for the revulsion of feeling. Whether the advent of the Young Turk Ministry means the Ottomans will make a last fight with their backs to the wall, depends upon the amount of support the Young Turks are able to command in the army. Should there be a division of opinion, as diplomats acquainted with Turkey predict, military revolt against the new cabinet is nowise improbable. The delegates of the allies received the news with expressions of anger and sarcasm. Some officers are of opinion that the Constantinople coup was prearranged and a comedy. Shekret Pasha did not participate in the Grand Council because he knew he would succeed Kismal Pasha. They declare their alliance as strongly knit as at the beginning of the war, and are ready to resume hostilities at a moment's notice. They cherish the hope and belief that if they were to re-assume power, they would ensure Russia's appearance on the stage in the role of active intervention. They think Russian action would not lead to European war, as has been generally believed, but result in the complete dismemberment of the Turkish Empire, which would include the loss of Constantinople and the Asiatic Provinces. The Powers are gradually becoming familiarized with the idea that the complete suppression of Turkey would mean the extinguishing of a source of constant disturbance to peace. Mohammedans themselves as a whole are not reluctant to accept a foreign civilized dominion instead of a chaotic Turkish Government. Still these delegates best acquainted with the Turkish system, think the latest move has not the resumption of war as the aim but to squeeze better conditions from a desperate situation.

Nazim Pasha, the former Minister of War and Commander of the Turkish Army, was shot dead during a demonstration here to-night.
NAPLES, Jan. 23.
The Director of Mount Vesuvius Observatory reports that an extensive landslide occurred in the upper ridge of the crater recently. The western portion of the ridge was suddenly engulfed, and an eruption is threatened.
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.
The waiters agitating a strike, found themselves anticipated in one of the large Broadway hotels to-day, when the management of the Hotel Knickerbocker discharged 250 waiters in its employ.
LONDON, Jan. 23.
Fenton, editor of the Sporting Times, and generally known as the Pink 'un, was fined $4,500 for sending indecent prints through the mails. His lawyer urged that the Pink 'un was a paper for men of the world, not for boys.
WELLINGTON, N.Z., Jan. 23.
In consequence of the public utterances of so great an authority as Admiral Kingsmill, favoring a Pacific Fleet, comprised of divisions from the Dominions, whose shores are washed by that ocean, Premier Massey has taken the occasion to emphasize the position of New Zealand. He declares that the Southern Dominion stands straight for a British Fleet, under Imperial control, and adds that if the call should come, and he anticipates it, New Zealand will be ready.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The S. S. Adventure after discharging her cargo of coal left this morning for Sydney. The ship was given a quick despatch.
Two more parties were before the Court this morning charged by Head Sheppard with violations of the Temperance Act. Both pleaded guilty and a fine of $50 was imposed in each case.
Quite a number of people are now having the telephone installed at their homes, and others are contemplating partaking in the same convenience.
Mr. A. J. Goodland, Principal of the C. of E. High School, has been laid up for the past few days by illness, but is now improving.
The children of the High School held a Concert and Tea in the school-room on Tuesday afternoon. The proceeds amounted to about $20.00 and will, we hear, be used with other amounts for the purchase of a new organ for the school. The evening was very much enjoyed by all who attended.
The bandmen of the K. E. Brigade are putting in a lot of time at practice, and are, we are told, making good progress. The band will be quite an addition to the parades of the Brigade during the summer.
The above Brigade is having regular drills each week and keeping themselves in "trim" for their summer's work. No doubt the C. C. C. are now or will soon be doing the same. Brigade officers can never estimate what good they do for the boys, and they must not think the time spent with them is wasted. Far from it, as each boy makes his mark in the world, the drill nights will then appear to the officers as bright spots in the past. That was the experience of a man who had to do with Brigades in the long ago. Such men as Col. Kennedy, Col. Rogers, Col. Williams and the other officers will see the force of this.
There is now fairly good skating on the nearby ponds and our young people are there each day enjoying this healthy pastime.

Here and There.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.—C. O'N. Conroy is forty-three years old to-day.
LOADING FOR EUROPE.—The schr. Hilda R. is now loading codfish at McTear's, Hr. Grace for Europe.
COAL CARGO.—The s.s. Beatrice arrived last midnight from Sydney with a cargo of coal to Hynes & Co. The passage occupied 3 days.
CRUISER FIONA.—The revenue cruiser Fiona is now laying up and will undergo a thorough renovation before resuming the fishery protection service on the S.W. Coast in March next.
MIGHT HAVE PERISHED.—Last evening a young man was lying in the snow near the old railway yard helplessly drunk and fast asleep. Citizens who were going to the hockey match removed him but for which the unfortunate might have perished.
CAPT. COURTENAY HILL.—Letters recently received in the city say that Capt. Courtenay of the Olanda, was ill for about 10 days while the vessel was at Trapani, but at the time of writing was rapidly improving.

WHEN SHOPPING TO-DAY

Marshall Bros.

"LET US GO IN HERE"

Said she.—No, No, No! That's four times you tried to put me off the right track this evening and upset my plans for buying. I have made up my mind before leaving the house to go in nowhere only DEVINE'S, where the Genuine Sale is. I know what I am doing, or least I ought after buying for forty years. I tell you again, when DEVINE'S have a Sale it is a Sale, and while the chance is here now I am going to buy up a few things and lay them aside, because it will be a long time before these things will be so cheap again.
Only six more days, ladies and gentlemen. Make good use of the time.

Feel free when you visit this store

Move round and examine the BARGAINS.

Still fighting the battle of your dollar and exhausting every means at our disposal to give you service.

News From Theatricals

Letters just received states that the Clark-Urban Company are now at Toronto playing to packed houses. The troupe will leave there Feb. 1st for Bermuda and the West Indies, returning to New York in April when they will disband and go into camp for the summer. The Company intends to visit St. John's next year.
Word is also to hand from the W. S. Harkins troupe, which are now on their way to Halifax from Bermuda. This talented combination of players have an excellent repertoire and it is not unlikely they will visit St. John's this Easter if arrangements are made.

Stomach Misery Just Vanishes.

Time It! No Indigestion, Gas, or Sourness five minutes after taking "Pape's Diapepsin."
If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of fullness, heartburn, Flatulence, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.
A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.
Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.
This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.
Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

M. C. I. I. Debate.

The weekly debate took place at the M.C.I.I. Club Rooms last night. The subject was "Would it be in the best interests of Europe that Turkey be driven out?" The speakers for the affirmative side were Messrs. J. J. Currie, R. G. McDonald and G. V. Rabbitts, and those of the negative by Messrs. S. P. Whiteway, Eric Ayre and T. Soper. The speakers in well prepared and well thought out speeches reviewed the Turkish army from the time they took Constantinople after crossing the Dardanelles in 1453, until their present defeat by the Balkan Allies. Much information of more than ordinary interest was advanced concerning the Turks. The affirmative side of the question emphasized that the Turks were a civilized race of people, knew nothing of civilization; they were unfit to remain one of the nations of Europe as their murders and atrocities proved. The negative argument was that if Turkey was deprived of all European privileges there would be endless trouble and probably war. The discussion throughout was very enjoyable. The affirmative side won. Next week Mr. Davies, of the Methodist College staff, will give a scientific talk to the Institute.

James Skinner Missing.

James Skinner, is the name of the man who is missing in Fortune Bay, as exclusively referred to in the Telegram recently. He was working with his son at Hr. Breton, building a house and proceeded to his home at Grand John by way of Fox Cove. After leaving the latter place, he was overtaken by a storm and has not since been seen. He was 60 years old and leaves a wife and several children.

What Next?

Wednesday night a fine fat goose, alive, which came down from Salmonier to Mr. LeMessurier, was in a crate on the Portia, on the deck at Bowring's wharf, when someone ripped off the covering cut off the head of the bird and threw it over on the deck of a schooner, moored at Pitts' where it was found shortly after. The intention was to take it quickly away by parties who wanted poultry for supper. Two persons were arrested to-day for the deed.

News From Visiting Team.

The League officials have received word from the St. Francis Xavier hockeyists intimating that they would not be able to leave Antigonish on their proposed visit here before February 26th. As this date is considered a little late a wire has been sent to-day to try and secure a Halifax team, possibly the Wanderers. The latter are a very strong aggregation and if arrangements can be made to have them visit here a good hockey display will be the outcome.

TOURNEY POSTPONED.—The card tourney which was to be held last night by the L.S.P.U. did not come off the attendance being small. It will take place next week and four prizes will be given.

Another Slap in the Face for Piccott Heelers

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Kindly allow me space in your most esteemed paper to make a few remarks on the editorial which appeared in Monday's Daily News. Mr. Robinson published a forecast, which no doubt coincides with his wishes, but I am surprised that a man of Mr. Robinson's ability should thus give himself away. He says there are 811 voters in Bay Roberts and adjoining settlements. The F.P.U., he says, got 115, leaving Piccott with 696 or a majority for Piccott of 581. He then states that "we have no hesitation in saying and we think even the bitterest opponent of the Government will admit that every man who joined the Union at Bay Roberts on Friday night last was opposed to the present Government." Now, Mr. Editor, if that holds good for Friday night, it holds good also for Monday night, when 70 more joined and a further 60 who were by the door but could not be admitted owing to lack of room, but we hope soon to be able to meet in a room large enough to admit all who are desirous of becoming members and forwarding this noble cause, we will then ask Mr. Robinson to publish another forecast and show us what Piccott's majority will then? And furthermore if the members of the Union at Bay Roberts without exception are opposed to the present Government the same holds good for Bonavista Bay, Trinity Bay, Bay de Verde, Port de Grave and every other district or settlement where the Union has been established. I should like to see a few forecasts in his paper on those places mentioned above, for future reference, if for nothing else.

Mr. Robinson resents the remarks of the Telegram on Rum and Rowdyism at Bay Roberts. I think, Mr. Editor, he would stand far higher in the estimation of the people of Bay Roberts if he did nothing of the kind. I would like to ask Mr. Robinson if he would dare; I repeat, would he dare publish in his paper that that action committed here on Friday last, in pulling down that Dear Old Flag and trampling it in the mud, was done by men, citizens of Bay Roberts, in their sober senses? I venture to say, Mr. Editor, that he would not; your remarks were quite correct and I who was an eye-witness can swear that the men who took part in that mob were under the influence of strong drink. Furthermore I have the name of one party who gave a bottle of whiskey towards the liquoring up of those men, and in justice to Bay Roberts, I must say he is not a resident of this place but very closely connected politically throughout the district. Now, Mr. Editor, if you will permit me there is another little instance in connection with Mr. Coaker's meeting that I want to deal with. The same crowd that tried to stop the procession tried to break up the meeting, with one addition at the latter place "the mailman." After the speeches the National Anthem was sung and the crowd were then told that all who wanted to join the Union to remain and the others to disperse. The mailman immediately intervened and said No. Coaker's meeting was over and that if he wanted to hire the hall again he should pay extra for it. The hiring committee, most of which were present and the majority of which are Piccott heelers, met outside and returned with a verdict, "You can save the lodge, but you must pay double hire, making another sixteen dollars total for hire of hall for four years—twenty-four dollars. I would like to hear the opinion of some of the northern members of the Union but I am proud to say that at the weekly meeting of Victoria Lodge last night, a vote was taken which with the exception of the few heelers (as usual), was unanimous in refunding to Mr. Coaker the sixteen dollar extra charge; another slap in the face for Piccott heelers. Thanking you for space and wishing you every success, I remain,

Yours truly,
HUMANITY.

Important to Mothers.

Mothers should know just why Zam-Buk is so effective in cases of rashes, scalp sores, pimples and eruptions on babies and young children.

Most ordinary salves contain animal oil and fat. Every housewife knows that if animal oil or fat be left exposed to air for any length of time putrefactive changes must occur. These changes occur none the less even if they are hidden by scent.

Now, any salve which sinks into the pores enters the blood. You would not feed your child impure food. Why put into its blood rancid animal fats?

Zam-Buk contains no trace of animal fat or oil, or any mineral poison. It is compounded of healing herbal juices and essences.

Applied to cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries it allays pain, kills disease germs and heals. Sold everywhere at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price.

A good many men are remembered only for the reason they wore mustaches.

Acadian Recorder's Centenary.

On Thursday, the 16th inst., the Acadian Recorder issued its centenary number, having completed 100 years of existence. The number is most interesting and contains a number of fascinating sketches of the days of a hundred years ago. A complimentary dinner was given by the proprietor of the Recorder to his employees and one of the toasts has a special interest to Newfoundland. A Newfoundlander was honored, who served his time as a printer half a century ago with Mr. Seaton in the Express Office. He is remembered well by Mr. Herder. Of this toast the Recorder reports:—

"Vice Chairman Ross then proposed a toast to the veteran printer in the Recorder, W. C. Hodgson. Mr. Hodgson has been the longest in the Recorder's employ. He served his apprenticeship in St. John's, Nfld., and after eight years, he came to Halifax in 1868. He worked in several offices viz., the Citizen, Colonist, Provincial Wesleyan, Recorder Job Room and the Chronicle and then he accepted a position on the Recorder composing staff in March 1872, and consequently is within two months of completing his 41st year. In 1869 at the formation of the Halifax Typographical Union, he took an active interest in that body, and held the office of President on two or three occasions."

No Lie to Nail.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—There is no lie to nail about this sheep shed in Burin to be used as a hospital. It is more than half shingled to put a poor fellow in to be operated on. There is a doctor in Marystown who is a good doctor, and a hospital in Grand Bank. Why not send the poor man to one of these places. The people of Burin call to have this moved again before any one is put in. Magistrate Avery is the one in power to have this outrage on a people stopped. Has Thomas LeFevre been given money to spend on a sheep-shed for a hospital in Burin. This place belongs to a Government heeler.

Proverbs That Lie.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The housewife who must have everything just so had been over-working again, and her husband was reasoning with her. "Why couldn't you clean things up a little and let it go at that?" he asked. "Was it worth a fit of sickness to have everything spick and span?" "Oh well! I hate to half do things," she answered fretfully. "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well, you know."

Did it ever occur to you that a proverb might lie? There are a great many people who consider a proverb the last word on any question. Apparently they think that proverbs come right from Heaven, such is their sublime faith in them. And yet when you come to think of it, proverbs are only the words of fallible mortals like you and me. The fact that generations have accepted and passed them on proves they have some value, but it doesn't prove that they are infallible. Applied to certain conditions proverbs may be bare-faced liars.

Take the proverb with which the woman who must have everything just so tried to justify herself, for instance. It certainly is a flagrant example. Doesn't almost every day of your life show you things that must be done and yet are not worth doing well?

I can feel those readers who are fond of quoting that proverb stiffening up in indignant denial. Very well, here is an instance. In my stocking basket last night was a pair of stockings with a tremendous hole in the lower part of the heel. They were old stockings and yet not quite old enough for my conscience to permit me to throw them away. To have darned that hole well would have taken at least half an hour. To draw the hole together so that it would last a few more wearings took about five minutes. The stocking certainly wasn't worth a half-hour of my time, but it was worth five minutes; and that's just what it got.

Furthermore people who use that proverb generally make it mean "What's worth doing at all is worth doing as well as you can." That's one of the objections to proverbs: people read their own meanings into them. Now a nurse once taught me to make a bed the absolutely perfect way in which they are made in hospitals. When I make a bed for an invalid or for any special occasion, I do it that way, but it takes just about twice as long. Is it worth while to spend my time that way every day? The devotees of that proverb assure me that it is. I can't see it.

"Figures can't lie," is an old saying. "Proverbs can't lie" is an old belief. I beg to differ on both cases. Figures and proverbs both need to be taken with a good pinch of the salt of common sense.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains and aches—are too great a drain upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

Mrs. Dickover.

"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes Mrs. E. F. Dickover, of Utopia, Ohio, Route 4. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment. I am the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Sarsaparilla' and have never suffered much since. I wish I could tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 50 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

Household Notes.

Fried food should not be allowed to become chilled before serving.

A delicious salad is made by filling tomatoes with minced pineapple, celery and chopped nuts. Mix with mayonnaise and garnish with green.

When making garments for a bazaar it is a good idea to roll the scraps that are left into a little bundle and fasten them to the garment.

The odor of kerosene lamps can be stopped by putting one teaspoonful of fine table salt into each lamp. The salt should be changed once a month.

When churning it is sometimes difficult to make the butter gather. Try putting a little soda in the cream. It will cause the scattered bits of butter to come together.

When making apple salad pour over the apples a little lemon juice. This blends with the salad dressing and will improve the taste and keep the apples white.

To distinguish cotton from linen, moisten a spot of the material. If the material wets through instantly it is pure linen; cotton does not take up moisture so quickly.

Potatoes are not so apt to rot if the cellar is not kept too warm. Sprinkle air-slack lime among them and cover them lightly to keep the light away from them.

Black walnut furniture or furniture made of any dark rich wood should be cleaned occasionally with a soft rag dipped in paraffine oil, then polished with another soft rag.

To clean velvet, stretch it taut, pile upward, over a basin of boiling water. As the steam rises through the velvet have a second person brush it briskly with a clean brush.

When the eyes ache, relieve them by closing them for a few minutes. If there is a burning sensation, bathe them with hot water, to which a few drops of witch hazel has been added.

White enamel ware can be cleaned of stains by making a strong solution of baking soda and rainwater. Put the utensils in it and boil them hard; they will be as white as new.

A good method of cleaning black jet is to first brush it free from dust, then apply a little olive oil by means of a brush, then polish with chamois. Care should be taken not to break the jet.

The best way to clean the beanpot: Fill with cold water, put in some kind of washing powder and cover tight. Put on the stove and let it come to a boil. This will make it easy to wash.

To test silk, fray out the threads and break them. If they snap easily, it is not good. The warp thread running lengthwise should be of equal strength with the wool thread running crosswise.

When frying doughnuts it is a splendid scheme to have a dish of boiling water on the stove. As each cake is done lift it out with a fork and dash quickly into the boiling water and out again.

If your kitchen is small and crowded, take out the kitchen table and have a hinged shelf made. A shelf answers every purpose of a table and can be put down out of the way when not in use.

Gum-arabic starch is made by putting a quarter of a pound of the best white gum in a large-mouthed bottle and covering it with a pint of water. Set the bottle on a cloth in a pan of water over the fire to dissolve. Stir until it liquefies, then strain through a cloth.

When darning table linen it is best to use a raveling from the goods. Where there is a hole, put under it a piece of the same material, carefully matching the pattern. If the darning is carefully done, the hole will not be noticeable.

Buck Kilbey says his notion of uneducated money is that paid out to see a prize fighter perform in a theatre. It is to be regretted, of course, but do not permit the fact that the great herds of buffalo have all been wiped out to interfere with your business.

Wedding Bells.

A real old time wedding took place at Ferryland on the evening of the 19th inst., when Mr. William Costello was united in bonds of matrimony to Miss Martha Devereaux, daughter of our energetic and popular planter, Mr. James Devereaux. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. Vereker at the home of the bride, where a hundred guests had assembled to witness the ceremony and also partake of the sumptuous and appetizing wedding supper, which each did full justice to after the eventful knot was tied and the bride and groom had led the way to the tables and his Reverence, Fr. L. Vereker, adhering to the traditional custom started the feasting by cutting the bride cake and proposing the toast, Magistrate Freebairn, Mr. Geo. Teasler, Mr. Fred Costello and several other prominent residents then followed in brief but complimentary remarks appropriate to the occasion, each speaker in concluding his remarks alluded to the skill of the Misses Devereaux in the culinary art, which was fully demonstrated in the elegant spread that all were then about to enjoy.

As the feast was drawing to a close the strains of sweet music was heard from the adjoining dance room, inviting all to enter in the programme of quadrilles, lancers, waltzes, reels and jigs, that our local artist felt capable of rendering on the accordion with a skill to almost rival that of the famous Peter Wipid the accordion king. Dancing then began and was kept up in that exhilarating and un-conventional manner for which our fisherfolk are famous, until the wee hours of the morning.

The great display of bunting, the numerous volleys of musketry on the evening of the event as also the many valuable presents received by the happy young couple go to show how popular they are in this locality. The bride who had but recently returned from the United States where she spent three years as cook in one of those wealthy homes, was the recipient of many valuable presents from her friends in the land of Uncle Sam.

The bridesmaids who looked almost as charming as the bride, were Misses Maggie and Katie Devereaux, sisters of the bride, while the role of bridesmaid was ably fulfilled by Mr. Richard Mahler.

The Florence Disaster.

LETTER FROM MR. WM. LONDRI-GAN, ON THE NEED OF BEACONS

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I saw a statement in the Telegram Jan. 2nd, from the second mate of the ill-fated s.s. Florence. I don't pay much attention to what he says. A lot of it was false; the case was bad enough. He says they swung the boats in the davits and then went ashore on the rocks and stopped four hours, then went back to the ship again. He does not say when he went back, whether the boats were there or not. If they were, I would like to know the reason that all the crew didn't get away in them. He says there was a raging sea. Any man acquainted with the place know that could not be so. It is true there was a good sea on but not too much to land men anywhere between Broad Cove and Peter's River if the boats was manned by skilled oarsmen. My opinion is that when England lost the square rigger she likewise lost her oarsmen. I saw by the Titanic disaster, the women had to row. All the same the poor fellows need a dismal doom all for the want of some one to help them. I would take four men and land anywhere from the wrecked steamer to Peter's River. It is true it is called the Graveyard of the Atlantic, and so it is. It is sixty-three years ago since I went to my first wreck and the crew of her were all drowned. From that time I have seen many a disaster on that bleak and desolate shore and no one to render any assistance.

Vessels coming to the eastward go ashore. They know little of what they have to contend with, the chart shows about two and a half mile tide where there is a 5 knot one running. I have seen several times one running four and a half or probably more. A vessel steering across east south east takes on the starboard bow drags her in St. Mary's Bay, and the captain is not aware of it until he is brought to destruction.

If surveyors go there a night before a south easter or in a south gale then they would find how the tide runs. There is no fear of them being there then. They are snug enough stowed away then in their homes. There is not a man alive understands the run of the tide around the coast of Newfoundland in the winter. A few years ago a schooner was lost at Baccalieu. The skipper's name was Hisebeck. He had a boy on board. Within forty-one hours from the time she was lost I picked up that boy's cap on St. Vincent's Beach with his name on the inside with white letters. If he is living and writes to me he can have it. That will give you some idea of the cruel tide that runs on those shores in the winter. All this fearful loss of life and property that is lost is all for the want of more lighthouses. Remember those wrecks not in St. John's. Four or five miles to the westward of it there is a desolate shore and worse than that is a god-forsaken spot from the ward head of St. John's to Gull land Point. Put a lighthouse there and all those things will end. Cape Pine light was lit in 1856. I never knew a vessel or a man to be there. Just fancy a light on Cape Pine and another on Cape St. Mary's. St. Mary's Bay have only one light to guide our poor fishermen to sea. A short while before the s.s. Florence was lost, there was a steamer ran into Peter's River. She was lights in the houses and backed after a delay of twenty minutes. I would have been there had I been a Newfoundland schooner and the crew were lost. One man got ashore. He was found in the bush near St. Mary's. He was supposed to be the skipper. They were coming from Fanning's. His name was Michael Ait. There was a couple of lighthouses on each part of the coast the keepers would be able to render assistance and many a poor sailor from the night. Just think of these poor fellows thinking of their dear ones in England and death staring them in the face.

It seems to me that England's ones are not half as well lighted as France. Go down the French coast in the East you will see the lights; they are lighted; go down the coast of the Atlantic and see what you will. If this coast was well lighted, Florence or Helligoland wouldn't have been lost as there was no fog or darkness and hard to see the fisher with the snow on it. The fisher of St. Vincent wouldn't have had there and bury scraps of human life.

Now let our members of the House of Assembly wake up and put a light or two there. Don't let this go on any longer. Put them lights on the coast. It is about time that man is put on a lookout it is about time looking not up in the clouds where the few lights on the coast. Something should be done to stop this dreadful slaughter. It says that those poor unfortunate fellows had lots of time to save themselves but didn't do so. It is sure they landed on the rocks as they had room to do so. I remain, Yours truly,

WM. LONDRI-GAN

Pretty Wedding.

On Sunday Miss Ellie Walsh daughter of Mr. Mike Walsh, North Head, and Mr. John Trimlett were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Father O'Flaherty. The bride, charming in a suit of white silk, hat and veil to match. The bridesmaids were dressed in blue. After a ceremony a sumptuous supper was provided and a dance held at the house of the parents of the bride. Fifty couples were entertained. John's Pond, Jan. 12th, 1913.

The Testimony of Facts!

From a letter published in the "Autocar" of Sept. 14th, '12, we notice that out of 13 Cars in a garage at Harrogate the following splendid tribute to

MICHELIN TYRES:

3 Cars fitted with 2 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
2 Cars fitted with 3 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
5 Cars fitted with 4 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
3 Cars fitted without any MICHELINS at all, which shows out of 52 Tyres, 32 were MICHELINS. In other words, 61½ per cent of Tyres fitted were MICHELINS, the remainder being divided between five other makers.
