Are Your Folks Ashamed of You for Not Enlisting ?

This space given to Regiment by BOWRING BROTHERS, Limited.

Published by Authority

Owing to the collapse in Russia, which allowed Germany to remove the main part of her Army from the Eastern to the Western front, the Allies have been severely handicapped in meeting the greatest offensive of the war.

There is an urgent call to all parts of the Empire for men. In the United Kingdom steps are being taken to conscript all men up to the age of 61 years. As a self-governing Dominion Newfoundland has been called upon to do its part in filling the gaps. We have been specially called upon by the Secretary of State for the Colonies to keep the Royal Newfoundland Regiment at its full war strength. Three hundred men (300) are required immediately and sixty (60) men additional per month. The need for these men is set forth in the despatch received Tuesday, April 9th, from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, which reads as follows:—

"April 9th.—Statement has been received from Army Council to the effect that the Newfoundland Regiment in France is now short of the authorized War Establishment by 170 men, and that the number of men under training in England is not sufficient to make up this deficit. Since very heavy fighting must be anticipated, at least 300 men will be required from Newfoundland as early as possible in order to bring the Battalion up to strength and an additional sixty men per month will be required to maintain it in the field. H. M. Government trust that your Government will be able to supply these men. (Signed) LONG."

Conscription prevails throughout Canada and the United States, and Newfoundlanders in Canada are being conscripted. Under the War Measures Act the Newfoundland Government have ordered:—

That no unmarried man between the ages of twenty and thirty-five, who is eligible for the Army or Navy, shall be permitted to leave the Dominion. That no person who is otherwise permitted to leave the Dominion without a Passport. Newfoundland must do its part and cost what it will, the Regiment must be maintained. Our Regiment has performed deeds of valor equal to any in the history of the British Army. Its gallantry in the field has won the recognition of the King by the bestowal of the glorious prefix "ROYAL."

It has earned so many emblems from the Commander in Chief, the Divisional and Brigade Generals, that we cannot allow it to be withdrawn from the scene of conflict. It has placed the name of Newfoundland on the Honour Roll of the nations. It would be an eternal disgrace to the eligible men of Newfoundland to allow the name to be erased from that Honour Roll by failing to keep the Regiment up to its full fighting strength.

An opportunity is now afforded the young men of the country to join the ranks. On St. George's Day, the 23rd April, the Legislature will be convened, and immediate attention will be given to the consideration of the steps to be taken to maintain the Royal Newfoundland Regiment at full war strength. In the meantime the need is urgent, and every effort should be made to answer the call from His Excellency the Governor and from the War Council, to enlist as many men as possible.

W. W. HALFYARD, Acting Colonial Secretary, Dept. of the Colonial Secretary, April 11, 1918.

CHAPTER IV.

"Yes," she said, and her hands clasped despairfully, as her eyes grew hungry to his face. "Yes, now, at once. Ah, I hope, I hope we shall never meet again. I thought that I had suffered all that I could suffer in the last week, but to-night—"

His lips twitched.

"Where do you live?" he asked, in a low voice.

She moved her hand heavily toward a lane at the side of the churchyard, and he inclined his head.

"Let me see you there safely?"

"No," she said, almost inaudibly. "I am quite safe. I—I often come out at night alone—nearly every night. Do not come with me."

"Very well," he said. His heart beat tumultuously; he was playing a bold game. "Good-by, Lela. Good-by," and he held out his hand.

She put hers into it, and the little hand struck like fire in his. Her lips moved, though he heard no sound, and pressing her hand between his, he turned slowly and moved away.

He had not gone a dozen steps when he heard her cry his name; it was a wail, a desolate wail of entreaty and despair. The next moment she was on his breast, her slight frame convulsed with sobs, her hands clutching his arms, her eyes upturned to his with wild, helpless love.

"Oh, no! no!" she panted. "I cannot let you go! I cannot! I cannot! Oh, Edgar, my love, my love! Forgive me! I cannot lose you! Oh, what am I doing—I who had meant to be so strong and brave? But I cannot! It is like tearing the heart out of my body! Edgar, stay with me! Don't go! Ah, don't go!"

He was silent for a moment, as he pressed her to him and kissed the silken hair and the pale, passion-laden lips. She was transformed; it was she who pleaded now by look and gesture, not he.

His artifice had succeeded. The great woman's love had conquered, and all vanished. She lay in his arms, sobbing and panting, fearing to release her hold of him lest she should lose him; her lover, her god!

CHAPTER V.

An hour passed. The moon had sailed into the heavens and poured a stream of vaporous light on the church, and on the two, as they sat on a time-worn bench beside the porch. Lord Edgar had drawn her cloak around her as she lay against his heart to shield her from the soft summer air, and she sat with her arm around his neck, her eyes upturned to his.

"And you have been so miserable; you missed me!" she murmured, her eyes glowing with solemn joy, her face "encrimsoned with love's torch." "I thought you would have forgotten me, dear."

"As you have forgotten me?"

"Ah!" and she shuddered.

"There is not an hour of the day, that I have not thought of you, my

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep. I Walked the Floor in Nervous State—When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

This is the kind of cure that has set Windsor people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radical, different to the usual treatments for the nerves that everybody wants to try it. Gradually and certainly it nourishes the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.

Mrs. M. Smithson, 27 Arthur street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when fire broke out in the adjoining house. My nerves were in such a state that, after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room, the downstairs. Even when I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and jerk me. I used to be cold, nervous, night sweats, sometimes would become unconscious and lie that way for quite a little while. I was always cold and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or keep warm. When on the street I would see two or three objects at once, and did not want any person to speak to me or bother me. Any little noise irritated and annoyed me very much. I had consulted specialists and tried many remedies during this time, but could not gain relief. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could see that this treatment was proving of benefit. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty, can go across the river and go about the same as usual. I sleep well at night, and am feeling more like myself every day. I am pleased to be able to write you to tell you how much good the Nerve Food has done me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system. I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 8 boxes for $4.00. Send for booklet "Nervousness, Bates & Co. Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint."

"You must not think of it! You may come down—sometimes; and I will meet you—sometimes. And—perhaps in time grandpapa will relent, and—"

"We shall be happy?" he said, with the confidence of youth and love with its loved one near. "Very well. I ask for nothing better. I am so happy if finding you, at having you near to me, that anything would satisfy me! Heaven! if I do not wake and find it is a dream! But, no, we will say that the past week is a dream and that this is reality."

As he spoke, the clock struck ten. She started, and raised her head.

"Edgar, did you hear that? It is ten o'clock! I must go—I must—I must!" clinging, wistfully, "Ah! how time flies when we want it to linger."

She drew away from him, her hands clasped on her heart.

"It is so hard to go, dear!" she whispered, deprecating his handsome face with her loving eyes.

"I shall come to-morrow evening," he whispered. "I shall stay here to-night."

"No, no!" she breathed. "Grandpapa will see you. You must go back."

"Very well," he said, obediently. "I will do whatever you tell me, darling; anything, however hard, now that I have your promise that nothing shall separate us."

"Yes, you have that," she murmured devoutly. "I see now that I could not live without you. No, I know that I should have died if— if you had not come back when I called you to-night! Nothing shall separate us!"

"I am satisfied," he said, fervently. "And I will come to-morrow! Let me take you as far as I dare."

He put his arm around her, and they walked to the lane in which the cottage stood. A light was burning in the small sitting-room, and Lord Edgar saw the professor seated with a book at the table. He looked older and more worn and was than he had done in the cosy room at the cloisters, but Lord Edgar's thoughts were too engrossed to notice him closely.

He gathered Lela in his arms, and kissed her, and murmuring, "to-morrow," she slowly drew from him and entered the cottage.

Lord Edgar stayed outside—saw her enter the room and come to the window and put her hand to her lips, knowing that he was there waiting, though she could not see him; then she drew down the blind, in obedience to the request of the professor, and Lord Edgar turned and walked back to the inn.

His blood was surging through his veins: a wild joy had possession of his heart. The past week seemed indeed, like a dreadful dream, a veritable nightmare. He had found his darling, and proved her love, and all was fair and bright before him.

He entered the inn—he had to knock, for they had closed the doors at ten o'clock—and, getting a light, went to the stable! The ostler was asleep on a heap of clean straw, but he hobbled up—all who have to do with horses are quick of hearing—and quite understood when Lord Edgar said that he must get back to London to-night, and had lost the train.

"Your honor will ride, then," he said, stripping the cloth off the chestnut. "Well, he'll do it, and think no-

LONDON, April 22. (Official.) Early in the night there was a severe attack, accompanied by the capture of our positions in the neighborhood of Messin, north of Albert. At 11 o'clock a very heavy rain fell, which rendered it impossible to carry out any offensive operations. The attack was repulsed. The positions were recaptured. A number of raids were carried out on the night of the 22nd, but they were all repulsed. The enemy's losses are estimated to be heavy. The British are now in a position to launch a counter-attack at any time.

TO CONTINUE ATTACK.

LONDON, April 22. (Official.) The Reuter's (Ottawa Agency) said that the battle is not expected to last long, despite the inclemency of the weather with wind and rain. The Germans are attacking their positions with great force, and it is not likely that the next day will see any more activity in the area.

WHAT OUR SOLDIERS WITHSTOOD

PARIS, April 22. An idea of the gigantic struggle on the western front can be gained when it is said that the Germans in three hours fired 1,500,000 shells. They could not have done this without the help of captured British and Russian guns and shells. In the whole war of 1870 only 1,600,000 shells were fired from either side.

A Duty for Those at Home.

When we contemplate the terrific struggle taking place on the Western front to-day, where allied soldiers by the thousands are giving their lives to breast the German waves, one thought should come to all of us. Are we doing as much as we can toward winning the war? Are we co-operating as fully as we should with these brave men who are dying that the freedom of mankind may not be endangered, and that those who have stayed at home and future generations may continue to live and be born and bred in the traditions of ordered liberty?

We should all feel the stimulus of the example of those whose strenuous efforts and noble self-sacrifices are opposing on the Western front such a stubborn opposition to the Teutonic tyrant. Surely, the fighting spirit that shines so brightly in France to-day will inspire the people who have stayed at home to give the soldiers the support they look for. The will to

Lieut. Murphy's Lecture

The Casino was completely filled last night to hear Lieut. Leo Murphy lecture on "From Belgium to Monchy." His subject covered that period from 1916 to 1917 the time he was with the Regiment in France. He described his impressions on landing at Boulogne where the people of a nation steeled to action had gathered to meet them. In France every woman was engaged at some kind of war work and every man was in uniform. On arriving at Etaples they began to realize what war meant. He then described his going up to the line, the meeting of old friends, the going into the first line of trenches to Hell fire corner. Finally with the 29th Division "Ours" moved out in front of Guedecourt. Shortly after arriving there "Ours" were subjected to a 48 hours bombardment of the most violent kind and suffered 127 casualties. Pte. Errol Munn, despatch rider, finally came along with the news that we were to go over the top in the morning. At 4 o'clock in the morning the forces began to move into position and as D Co. passed B which was already in Lieut. Murphy saw Capt. O'Brien sitting on the parapets of his trench, also Lieut. Sam Ebeary who was resting on a tree stamp. Following Guedecourt "Ours" fell back to a small village where they rested. While there a concert was held in a Y. M. C. A. hut where Pte. Esau Pomy, of "Ours," sang a song of 32 verses much to the delight of all present. Lieut. Murphy vividly described the attack on January 27th—the Kaiser's birthday—the various raiding parties of "Ours," how 12 men and an officer held a most important part of the line. It was here that Lieut. Gerald Byrne won his M.C. by bombing the enemy out of the trenches into which they had jumped. The courage of "Ours" was plainly shown by the action of Pte. Sam Manuel, who fired of using bombs, threw off his tunic and fought with his fists till the end. The saving of Monchy-le-Prieux by a handful of "Ours" under command of Lt. Col. Forbes Robertson won for all time undying honour and glory for Newfoundland but had to say there is a grave danger of losing all that those brave men had fought and died for.

The lecture closed with a tribute to those noble women who in hospitals are devoting themselves to restoring the health of the wounded. A vote of thanks proposed by Dr. Rendell and accented by Mr. H. Erowrzig was accorded the lecture by acclamation.

During the evening solos were rendered by Miss Brown and Captain Campbell, while a patriotic recitation was given by Mr. T. H. O'Neill. The C. C. C. Band was in attendance and discoursed sweet music.

The Hawaiian Quartette, with Hawaiian Guitar accompaniment, at George Street Basement on Wednesday evening, will be well worth hearing.

"Eureka's" Discovery.

Editor Evening Telegram.—A modern Archimedes has appeared among us. He differs from his ancient namesake in that the discovery he has made exists only in his weak imagination.

He professes, and perhaps believes, that he has discovered in my letter of the 11th inst., a statement that Lord Shaughnessy opposed the election of Mr. H. D. Reid to the presidency of the Reid Newfoundland Company.

He tells the readers of the Star that I have stated "Lord Shaughnessy was against the appointment of Mr. H. D. Reid to the presidency of the Reid Newfoundland Company."

This is conclusive proof that "Eureka" never read my letter. If he did he could not have fallen into such an error, or uttered an assertion capable of being so easily and conclusively disproven.

From this fact another deduction follows as inevitable. That is, he has undertaken the duty of refuting my statements under orders, and like most hired defenders in such cases has not taken interest enough in the subject he was to deal with, to ascertain the facts.

He was told to take up this matter and reply to it for the purpose of showing that the election of Mr. H. D. Reid to the presidency of the Reid Newfoundland Company was with the approval of Lord Shaughnessy to whom I had referred as "the most successful manager of large railways on the North American continent."

This, of course, was to be a clincher in favor of the change of Presidents, and would so spike the guns which "Eureka" had trained on the road and the management during the past few weeks as to shut off further bombardment.

Here is what I said: "In 1912 Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, addressed the officials of that corporation at the annual dinner given in the C. P. R. Hotel, Montreal, said: while the officials should continue to labor devotedly and loyally for the intelligent advancement of the company's affairs, they should never forget their duties to the public, and that amongst these duties are the safe and prompt carriage and transportation of the people and the goods that may be entrusted to their care, and to be always unflinching in courtesy.

Having quoted thus from President Shaughnessy's address I said: "The above extract is taken from President Shaughnessy's speech as published in the Montreal Star of that date."

I then went on to emphasize the importance of his exposition of railway officials' duties, contrasting it with the practice in vogue on the railway of this country, saying that by the observance of these principles the great railways of Canada and the United States have become the main arteries of the commerce of the continent.

Not even a hint was given that Lord Shaughnessy did not approve of the election of Mr. H. D. Reid to the position of President of the Reid Newfoundland Company. Indeed I rather favored the view that President Shaughnessy approved of the election. I did not expressly state it as it was too well known that he was mainly instrumental in bringing about the change to need any reference from me.

Besides that, I was not, nor am I now, interested in any manner or degree in who or who is not President of the Reid Company now, or at any time in the past, nor am I likely to be interested in the future in the personnel of the Reid Company.

It is of no interest whatever to me which of the gentlemen is President. My writings are not inspired by any such motives as the writer in the Star would have it appear. I am not anxious to discredit Mr. H. D. Reid as President of the Company. I would be pleased to see him make good. I would be the first to congratulate him on improvement in the system.

He did not say that Lord Shaughnessy did not approve of his election, because I know that he did. In fact I know a good deal about that matter. I know something of the wirepulling of certain politicians and members of the present Executive Government previous to the election. It might not be pleasing reading to these gentlemen if I were to give it publicity. It may throw some light on the Government's failure to compel the Reid Company to live up to their contractual obligations since Mr. H. D. Reid became President. For the present it will keep. If "Eureka" is really out for "discoveries" he may be more successful than he imagines.

He has blundered badly in attributing to me a statement which I have not made. No man who read the above quoted words could construe them into a statement that Shaughnessy opposed Mr. H. D. Reid's election to the Presidency.

"Eureka" has been sent out as "scout" to ascertain if Argus had evacuated his trench. He has learned something he did not expect. I will have something further to say on this matter in next issue.

April 23, 1918. ARGUS.

SALE AND CONCERT.—The Women's Association of St. Mary's Church are holding a sale and concert at Botwood Hall this afternoon and night.

His Excellency the Governor, Miss Harris and His Lordship Bishop White will attend. The hall has been beautifully decorated for the occasion and the stalls simply laden with merchandise of varied descriptions.

A most enjoyable programme has been prepared and those attending are assured of a pleasant evening. The proceeds will be in aid of the C. E. Orphanage and the W. P. A. Fund.

WASHINGTON, To-day.—The Versailles Inter-allied War Committee, according to an official despatch from France to-day, henceforth is to be constituted as follows: President, General. Beldier, France; Members, General Sackville West, for Great Britain; General Doinrabant, for Italy; and General Bliss for the United States.

Sports.

By RUTH CAMERON.

What are outdoor sports, walking and golf, tennis, swimming, riding, and all the rest for? Are they a test of endurance, or are they to give pleasure and to make one more fit for the business of daily living? At a little inn to which I sometimes go, there came last year a man and his wife who made a deep impression on me. Five miles from the Inn there is a mountain which the more sturdy among the guests usually climb as the climax to their visit. Now, the average person drives to and from the mountain, though some of the harder walk one way.

A Twenty Mile Walk.

But this is what that man and his wife did. They reached the Inn at six o'clock Saturday night (after a tiresome four hour train journey). The next morning they were off by eight o'clock. They walked to the mountain by the roundabout way which involved the climbing of a smaller mountain, climbed the mountain and walked back. They arrived barely in time to throw their things into their bags, eat supper and catch the train home. When I realized what they had done I was filled with a great admiration. "They are the finest sports I ever knew," I said. And I have been talking about them ever since.

But the other day I met a man who knew the couple quite well and when I spoke of their remarkable endurance and of what splendid sports they were, he was evidently not impressed.

Out Of Their Own Hides.

"Yes," he said, "I know just what kind of hikes they take, and I know that they take them right out of their own hides. You ought to see Mr. R. some Monday morning after one of those excursions. He will come into the office and just slump down at his desk. Sometimes it will take him most of the week to get over the effects of a trip. And yet he thinks that he is getting out into the country for his health's sake. Talks to me about getting out more. Tells me to be a sport." It was interesting to see the reverse of the picture.

And suggestive.

It drove home a truth I think I needed; that over-exercise is just as wrong as any other kind of self-indulgence.

More Sporting To Have The Courage To Stop.

It is often a temptation to push yourself after you are completely tired out, for the sake of making some record, or because you hate to give in when others with more physique are going on. You want to be a sport, you say. As if it was not ten times as sporting to know when to stop and to have the courage to stop right then! There is something splendid about a test of endurance for some definite purpose; but people who make their sports a continual test of endurance, completely pervert their rightful end.

Our Daily Story.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.

Excepting to a very few high German military officials, the suicide of General Deutschpreken is still shrouded in the deepest mystery. In to-day's story the general public will, for the first time, share the peculiar secret:--

I.

For two weeks the Germans had been bombarding the little Belgian town of Allumette.

"General," Colonel Schmeerease reported to his commander-in-chief, "we can take the town, now. Every defense has been battered into guzduiken (mincemeat)."

"Pilmeressen wienerdumple gedople!" ("Why don't you tell me something I don't know?") retorted General Deutschpreken. "The only reason I'm continuing the bombardment is because I hate to stop the cannons while the church is still standing. It's such an easy mark, too--the gunners ought to be unmpgedumple! (ashamed of themselves)."

And the bombardment continued until the tall slender spire had succumbed to German shells.

II.

Panting with violent emotion, in which were mingled rage, shame, embarrassment, remorse and astonishment, Colonel Schmeerease again stood before his general. The town has been taken.

"A scout has--has just reported," he stammered, "that the building was not a church at all. It was a--a sausage factory. It seems that the manufacturer had a fancy for spires and steeples."

GARDEN PERILS.

I've spaded up my acre lot, to make a wartime garden; 'twill be the smoothest little plot you ever saw a hard in. I've sown the kind of boneless greens that used to please our daddies, and I have beds of peas and beans and leeks and flannan haddies. A n d neighbors come along and say, "In vain is all your toiling! For vagrant hens will come this way, your treasured garden spoiling. And dogs will come, and once or twice they'll wallow in your lettuce; then you'll recall our sage advice, ah, then you won't forget us! And when the moonlight, white, intense, the world in silver washes, a cow will climb your garden fence, and eat your Hubbard squashes. Some night a horse, from halter free, perhaps a gray with dappels, will come and climb up yonder tree and swallow all your apples. And hogs will come from distant pens, long leagues they'll come, a-kitting, to eat the onions that the hens passed up, as uninviting. Oh, we have raised such garden sass, to feed such vagrant varmint, and we have wept and cried "Alas!" and torn our hair, and garments." It's such encouragement as this I get when I am hoeing, and it destroys the peaceful bliss I felt, to see things growing.

HOT WEATHER COMPLEXIONS.

What are you doing for your complexion these spring days when the dust is in the air, the wind is strong and the sun begins to burn hot? Never in the whole year are you quite as anxious to look your best as now. The quickest and most direct way to treat the blemishes that come with the approach of war weather is to take each one separately and apply its own specific remedy.

Powder is one of the chief causes of a bad complexion at this time of year. This does not imply that face powders are not good for the face; on the contrary they are highly beneficial.

Special Notice.

At the end of this year we will give 5 cts. for every 12 Outside Green Wrappers obtained from "STAFFORD'S LINIMENT."

We will also give $10.00 to the person forwarding us the largest number and $5.00 to the 2nd largest.

We will keep a record of every person forwarding us these wrappers from time to time and at the end of the year we will publish the names of the winners.

"STAFFORD'S LINIMENT" is the strongest and most penetrating Liniment for sale in Newfoundland and is sold in over 500 stores.

It is the best Liniment you can use for RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all ACHES and PAINS. Owing to the cost of Bottles and Ingredients used in the manufacturing of this Liniment, we have had to advance the price a little, but the bottle still remains the same size.

Appeal From Ex-Corporal V.S. Walsh

Dear Friends,—In my last letter I appealed only to the men of St. John's Bay; this time I appeal to the young men in the outports who were offered for King and Country.

I want to reason with you, and tell you why it is your duty to join the ranks of our glorious Regiment. It is your duty to your King, it is your duty to your Country, it is your duty to your fellow-men, who strove so hard to get you up; the father and mother who suffered so many hardships on your account; the father and mother who denied themselves of lots of things so as to be able to keep you in school; the father and mother who would suffer any hardships rather than to see you suffer; the father who would do anything in his power to make you happy. But you, like poor father and mother, did not get for all your troubles and care you had when your boys were growing up? Here are the Germans doing all in their power to break through to your homes and relatives, to crucify you, to torture you, the same as they did to the women in Belgium, and your sons who are now big, able-bodied men are being led by and letting them do it.

Your sons might say to you that you must never touch your wife while you are there. I ask you what are you doing to keep them away? If you think you can defend your people from the Germans by staying home, then I will advise anyone who will think that to go to school again and learn some sense, as what you have been making a fool of you.

Do you think for a moment that by staying at home you are doing any good? No! You are only in the way, for men with spirit look for the dear ones at home, and with no spirit leave them to their own devices to look out for. Come young men, you have had long enough to make up your mind to what your duty, or do you want some one else to make it up for you? You will not be sorry to be called something disagreeable to yourselves and to your people. I know that some of your people have seen wars in their time, and the loss of a province or two in the war; but that is not the case in this war. You will lose territory and you will lose money, but it is certain, is this, that if you are taken to your knees, if you are compelled to submit, you will lose infinitely more than province or money. Do not make a mistake about it, this is a fact. If we go under, we go under for ever. I do not want you to suggest to yourselves that you will go under, but if you are not going under, every man, who is capable of defending his people and his country, is bound to step into the ranks, and if he does not do this, he will always have to keep his head lowered with shame.

Just think. Just try and imagine what it would be if we were beaten. I do not suppose we should be annexed as a province, that is unthinkable. To see foreign uniforms, foreign police, foreign laws in our country—that I discard as absolutely impossible. But there is another improbable thing that might happen, which would happen if we were defeated, that is we would be reduced to an inferior power, living at the good will of our superior lord, living on sufferance, our army limited, our navy limited, our Empire cut up and divided among the plunderers; a position so abject that we cannot realize it. If we were to sink to be a third-rate power in the position that I have described, I for one, from my heart and soul, rather than all our people as they now exist, would leave our island and into death dear, vacant for some superior race. But make no mistake about it, we are going to win, and you, young men who have not offered your services, are going to help us, whether you like it or not. We are going to win because our people are united as they have never been before; above all we are going to win, because we are fighting for a pure and a just cause. Now boys come on and help us, as you know that it is your duty to defend your dear old father and mother. Oh, would I have done my duty to my father and mother if I stayed home. No, I think I would be disgracing them and all belong to me.

Now, before I close, I want to say a word or two to the women as I think they can do a lot towards sending along recruits to us. Can you not make your sons realize where their duty lies. I know from experience that it is hard for a mother to part from her son, but just think how many women have given one, two, and some women have given four. Is it any harder for you to part with yours as it is for these women to part with theirs? I think not. It is just the same only you do not realize where your duty lies. Now I ask you to realize it before it is too late. Boys, think of those brave boys who have fallen on the battlefield; they have given up their all so as their people might live. Will you do the same to defend your people? Are you man enough for that, or are you going to stay at home and let other people do it for you? Surely you have more spirit than that. Come along then, boys, let us see what you are made of, for we all want to fight for the cause that is right and to cripple Germany.

Just put your trust in God, boys, and come and lend a hand.

For it's better to die a hero's death, than live a coward in Newfoundland! (Sgt.) Ex-Corp. V. S. WALSH.

The call for men is urgent, don't let it be in vain! Let DUTY be your watchword, abhor a coward's name; The chains you knew in school days are "Over There" in France, They're calling you. Old Comrade; don't miss this only chance.

A Volunteer's a man, Jim, and a Conscript is one, too; But there's different kind of Men, Jim, and leave our island that night. The kind of a Man we're proud of—the one we love to cheer. Is the one with the pluck and courage of a noble Volunteer.

Wouldn't it be just great if His Excellency Governor Harris could wire the Home Secretary to-night—The Feast of St. George—that the 300 gaps have been filled by men who have volunteered in response to the urgent appeal for help sent out by their Pals "Over There."

THE REQUIRED NUMBER IS NEARLY IN SIGHT—BUT TO YOU YOUNG MAN, HAS THEIR CALL FOR REINFORCEMENTS PROVED UNAVAILING!

Use "Cascarets" for Liver and Bowels
When Constipated.

When bilious, headachy, sick, for sour stomach, bad breath, bad colds.

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place on April 17th, from the residence of Miss Southcott, 29 King's Bridge Road, when Miss Jane Spurrill, of Butler Cove, Trinity Bay, and Frank Rogers, of Catalina, streamer with the Reid Nfld. Co., were united in holy matrimony. They were driven to the C. of E. Cathedral where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Brinton. The bride was splendidly dressed in white with a white veil. After the ceremony, accompanied by Miss Southcott, they went to their home where a tea was prepared and an enjoyable evening was spent.

Having turned over the schooner Nellie Moulton now lying at the city wharf to her new Halifax owners, Captain Matthew Ross, accompanied by his crew, left yesterday for Burgeo, Newfoundland and from that port will bring to Halifax the schooner Pretty Mary, which, it is said, has been sold to LaHave parties. It seems unusual for Newfoundland vessels passing into the hands of Nova Scotia interests considering the Ancient Colony's shortage of tonnage caused by the loss of many vessels through the Hun submarine menace and by storms and in further view of the fact that there is such a great demand in Newfoundland particularly for Nova Scotia built vessels as is evidenced by the vessel dates of the past two years at least.—Halifax Herald, April 12.

Household Notes.

Never sweeten a war bread. Custard can be sweetened with honey. Try hard to like the new war dishes. Never allow soiled clothing in a bedroom. Use raisins for sweetening in rice pudding. Milk should never be kept in an open vessel. The possibilities of eggs are almost endless.

Any banana can be used for making marmalade. Apples will form the basis of almost any jelly. Old velveten makes very good polishing cloths. Breakfast is a meal which should be made to count.

When the skin is sun scorched give it a milk bath. Stale bread can be used as a basis for many meat dishes. If the fern drops its fronds, it is probably rootbound. Good salads can be made of potatoes and salt mackerel.
