THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XVI

As he started forward to see, the door opened and Frank himself rushed out, like one crazed, bare-headed and frantic, and was in the act of mounting and galloping off, when Disbrow's voice arrested him: "Hello, Frank! Good heavens! What is the matter?"

"He might well ask, for in turning round, Frank disclosed a face so wild and haggard, and eyes so full of passionate grief, that it sent a thrill of nameless terror to his heart.

"Oh, Frank! speak and tell me what has happened! Is she there?"

"Who?"

"Jacquetta."

"Yes," said Frank, in a tone of passionate bitterness, "she is there. Will you come in and see her?"

"Yes come with me."

Both were on their feet in an instant and Disbrow was white with apprehension.

"Come, then," said Frank, "and see the result of their work. You may all be proud of it alike."

"Frank! Frank! What do you mean?"

"You will soon see. Come!"

He led the way into the long, high kitchen, and a strange, nameless horror was thrilling through the heart of Disbrow.

Captain Nick Tempest sat gloomily frowning by himself and neither moved nor spoke as they entered. Old Grizzle sat at the other end of the room, dark and sinister as usual, and glanced at them with a malignant smile as they came in, but did not speak. The door of a small room opening off the kitchen lay ajar, and passing into this, Frank made a sign for Disbrow to follow. There was a bed in the room, and under a white sheet was the dreary outline of something that made Disbrow reel as if struck by a blow.

Without a word, Frank pulled down the sheet, and pointing to what lay

What makes a good baby?

When Baby cries it is Nature's way of telling you that something is wrong—probably it is a question of food.

Virol, by getting rid of digestive troubles and by supplying a properly balanced diet containing all the vital principles makes baby's life happy. A Virol Baby is good as gold—good temper, good to look at, good in its firm flesh, fine limbs and healthy colour.

my hand touch that of her murderer!"

"Hard words, young man," said Captain Nick, his bronzed face slightly paling. "Every man has a right to his own; and she was my lawful child."

"I will believe that when we can gather grapes of thorns! But, as I said before, were you ten times her father, I would not care; for, here in the presence of God and the dead, I declare you to be as much her murderer as if you had held the knife to her throat! Let her blood cry for vengeance upon you till the day of retribution comes!"

"Take care!" said Captain Nick, growing whiter still. "One word more, and we are deadly foes for life!"

"So be it, Captain Tempest, you are a coward and a liar!"

"Now, by heavens!" furiously began the captain; but the strong hand of Grizzle was laid on his shoulder, and she spoke rapidly and imperiously to him, in Spanish.

"Respect the dead!" said Disbrow pointing to the lifeless form, and speaking in the deep, stern tone he had used throughout. "I quarrel not with you here. Fear not that a day of reckoning will come soon. Leave me now. I wish to be alone."

Even had he not been under the influence of Grizzle, there was something in the eyes and voice of the young man that would have commanded his obedience. Like an angry lion, robbed of its prey, he turned, with a smothered growl, and accompanied by Grizzle, left the room.

There was a long pause in the chamber of death. Like a tall, dark ghost, Disbrow stood, his arms folded across his chest, his eyes fixed on the small, fair face in its calm sleep, his own face like marble. What seemed the world, his coronet and prospective bride in that moment, compared with what he had lost!

Well, has it been said that we know the value of nothing until we forever lose it.

How she arose before him in all her entrancing beauty—bright, radiant, untamed as he had known her first—this matchless girl who had loved him so well! He recalled her in all her wilful moods; the fair sprite who teased and tormented him, yet whose bright smile could dispel his anger as a ray of sunshine dispels gloom.

He thought of her in her heroic daring, risking her own life, freely and fearlessly, for that of others—the tameless mountain fairy transformed to the ministering household angel, hovering beside the sick and suffering. How tame and insignificant all other women appeared beside her—this high-souled fay of the moonlight!

This was the girl who had loved him and them so well; and in return they had hurled back her love with scorn, and cast her off like a dog from their gates. And now she lay there before him, dead!

There was no reproach in those closed eyes—in those sweet, beautiful lips—in that fair, gentle face, or folded hands. She had forgiven them all for the great wrong they had done her; but he would have given worlds at that moment for words of pardon from those pale lips—those lips that never would speak more.

Frank's deep, suppressed sobs alone broke the silence of the room. Once or twice he had looked up to speak but that white, stern face had awed him into silence, and he felt, with a strange thrill of terror and pity, that it was possible for that dark, tearless grief to be deeper than his own.

Disbrow himself was the first to break the silence. And his voice sounded strangely cold and calm:

"Does he—Mr. De Vere he could not call him well then—know of this?"

"No," said Frank, with a sob. "I was just going to Fontelle when I met you that time, and turned back."

Historic Places up For Sale in London Real Estate Marts

LONDON, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—The changed social and economic order, which since the war has been yearly more apparent, has brought another historic mansion upon the real estate market.

This is Combe Woodhouse, in Combe Wood, once the home of Katharine Parr, a lady who achieved distinction by becoming the sixth wife of Henry VIII and undying fame when the mutations of fate decreed that she should be the cemetery widow of a monarch among whose spouses mortality was heavy, even for the times of the Tudors.

The interior of Combe Woodhouse is charming, all the features being Tudor. There is a leather room, also a Tudor Hall, long gallery, panelling everywhere, and some old stained glass with Katharine Parr's arms on it.

Thus changes are taking place in England, the country which used to be so hostile to any interruption of the established order. Although it must not be taken as a forerunner of prohibition, it is worth noting that the Old Castle Inn at Smallberry Green, Isleworth, a favourite haunt of Dick Turpin, the highwayman, which has dispensed good cheer since 1597, will shortly become a private residence.

The notorious highwayman, who frequented Hounslow Heath, was not the only caller whose visits are recalled by the villagers who drop into Old Castle Inn of an evening. Shakespeare and Ben Jonson often called there on their way to Windsor and during the Victorian era its walls resounded to the conversation of such well known authors, artists and theatrical people as Dickens, Cruikshank, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir John Galsworthy, Sims Reeves, Marie Lloyd, and at least once, Matthew Arnold.

What Do You Think of a Fluid?

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or veranda clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yes, San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

Tribes in Philippine Islands

HAS CALENDAR ALL ITS OWN.

MANILA, Sept. 20 (A.P.)—The Itugad, an industrious non-Christian tribe in habiting the Mountain Province, have a calendar all their own, according to Dr. H. Odley Beyer, head of the department of anthropology of the University of the Philippines. When an Itugad wants to know what day of the month it is, he does not consult an almanac, but asks the "Tumunoh," the clan astronomer, calendar keeper and model husbandman. There are some 60 Itugad clans and each has its "Tumunoh," who is considered the most important personage in the tribe.

Their calendar has 13 months divided into 28 days each. They know there is one day more in each year and this extra day is called "Tungo," the last day of their year. The "Tumunoh" cultivates certain plants in an isolated spot where the temperature is relatively uniform, and from the budding of these plants he claims to tell the exact date of the month or year. He knows that 365 days a year is not exactly correct when a leap year comes around, but he keeps silent and does not tell his people about the extra day.

The "Tumunoh" advises the people of the date to begin planting and the date to start the harvest.

RESULT OF BRITISH ELECTIONS MAY AFFECT PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. The coming British general elections has injected a new element into the political campaign in the United States. Politicians in this country are waking up to the fact that the fate of the polls of Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's Labor Premier, and the fate of his party, may have an important bearing on the Presidential elections in the United States on November 4th. Should the MacDonald Government be strongly upheld, that fact will give great encouragement to the American Federation of Labour and other Labour elements that are supporting the LaFollette movement and will tend to strengthen the showing of LaFollette candidates at the polls. The fate of the British Labour Government will also have an important bearing on the conference to be held in the U.S.A. following the Presidential election at which it is hoped to form a permanent third party.

UP.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 11. B. F. Parker, El Paso, auditor of the Erupcion Mining Company, and eight other men, were lined up and put to death on Thursday, by bandits, who wrecked a freight train of the Chihuahua and Oriente Railway, 41 miles southwest of Juarez, in a $15,000 payroll hold-up. The entire train crew were included in the nine men who were killed. Federal troops are at the scene to start in pursuit of the bandits, two of whom are thought to be Americans.

PUTS BLAME ON BRITAIN.

LONDON, Oct. 12. A despatch from Constantinople says the Turkish note to Great Britain throws on Great Britain the responsibility for the violation of the statu quo in the Iraq, and the death of Turkish soldiers incident, adding that Turkey will never give up Mosul.

POLITICIANS BET BUSY.

LONDON, Oct. 12. The three big parties have lost no time in placing their platforms before the electorate. The three election manifestoes came out last night. The first noticeable feature, which undoubtedly is an outgrowth of the new experience of the country in having had a Labor Administration for the first time, is the small part now played in the election literature by foreign affairs and the defence question. These are scarcely mentioned in the Labor manifesto apart from the Russian treaty credit for the improvement of relations with France and Germany and noticing the important steps taken at Geneva toward arbitration security and general disarmament. In the Liberal documents, references are equally scant but in the Conservative Manifesto the Tory tradition, the Empire, and foreign relations are given greater attention, but still are overshadowed by social and economic questions. In reference to foreign affairs Mr. Baldwin pronounces his party for co-operation in all matters, admitting of common action with the United States, and for support and strengthening of the League of Nations on practical lines. With regard to defence, he says that the Unionist, if returned to power, will have to examine afresh the position in which the defence of the Empire have been left by the present administration and while favoring any practical proposals for the general limitation of armaments, must scrutinize carefully in conjunction with the Dominions, the far reaching commitments and implications of the scheme recently put forward at Geneva. Labor claims great credit for the Government's financial policy, declaring that its budget, swept away thirty million pounds sterling annually, of taxes on the people's food. The Labor manifesto concludes, "We appeal to the people to support us in our steadfast march towards a really social commonwealth in which there shall at least be an opportunity for goodwill to conquer hate and strife and for brotherhood, if not to supercede greed, at least to set due bounds to that competition which leads only to loss and death."

ZRS OFF ON LONG TRIP.

LONDON, Oct. 12. A despatch received from Berlin by Aelter's shortly after 6 o'clock this evening, said the latest reports received in the German capital were to the effect that the ZRS was then out over the Atlantic Coast. The big dirigible, which left Friedrichshafen at 6.30 o'clock this morning for Lakehurst, N.J., at 4 o'clock this afternoon was over the Bay of Biscay near Bordeaux, France. The motors and wireless were functioning perfectly. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, decided to take the southern route from Bordeaux by way of the Azores and Bermuda which is considerably shorter than the route, via Spain.

CONSERVATIVES WILL NOT JOIN LIBERALS.

LONDON, Oct. 12. A review of the activities of organized labor in the political campaign reveals that the Miners' Federation, the most powerfully organized politically of all the unions, and which already holds 43 seats in the coal fields, will concentrate its campaign on the re-election of those. Without perhaps any effort to gain three or four seats which appear fair game for the miners, the railwaymen have eleven seats including J. H. Thomas. The Rail-way clerks have seven members. John Bromley, Secretary of Locomotive Engineers' Union, is again contesting the constituency of Barrow. Joseph Devlin will possibly run again in Liverpool making another effort to gain that seat for the Irish Nationalists. The Liverpool Conservatives who are against any rapprochement with the Liberals whatever may happen in other parts of the country.

TRAVELLING 65 MILES AN HOUR.

BERLIN, Oct. 11. At eight o'clock to-night the German wireless stations were out of touch with ZRS. The following wireless message from Dr. Eckener was received by the Frankfurt Gazette: "Reached the West Coast of France after a very pleasant and uniformly good flight through central France. Here at the mouth of the Gironde we take leave of Europe. We are travelling at an average speed of 65 miles an hour, with a south wind measuring 6 or 7 metres per second. The ship's motors are in excellent working order and everybody is in the best of spirits."

One trouble with the world is that laziness is so seldom fatal.

BEHIND YOUR BACK.
The things men utter to your face may sweetly strike the ear. But do not trust that gentle speech men whisper when you're near. For critics seldom criticize unless the man's away.
And those who really love us best to us will little say.
The proof of what men think of you of gossip has the smack.
For it is always what is said of you behind your back.

Beware the voice of flattery, trust not the fulsome friend.
On these, for judgment of yourself, 'tis dangerous to depend.
They'll paint you greater than you are; the truth they will not tell.
But what you are and what you are your neighbors know full well;
They know you weakness and your strength, the traits you have or lack.
Your reputation's founded on what's said behind your back.

So call it gossip if you will, but gossip makes us all.
'Tis by men's nods and winks and smiles we either rise or fall.
Here is the test, all mortals face while life is in the clay:
Not what we think ourselves to be, but "what do others say?"
Then give no malice or to shame no reason to attack.
So live your life, you need not fear what's said behind your back.

Star Gazers Told of Wondrous Skies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(A.P.)—October and November are two good months to look at the stars, for November is the month of meteors. During October the great nebula in Andromeda can be seen without the aid of a telescope, says a bulletin from the American Nature Association, which points out that Mars is the only one of the bright planets to be seen in October evenings. You must get up before sunrise to see Venus, which is glorious at that time. Jupiter and Saturn are too close to the sun to be seen in October.

With the visit of Mars this summer, when it was only 34,000,000 miles away and nearer than it had been in a century, the Nature Association says a remarkable impetus has been given "star gazing." Reports of a new comet discovered by the Bonn Observatory recall the visit of Halley's Comet in May, 1910. This "visitor" is due again in 1936. In 1910 the comet was only 14,000,000 miles away.

In November every year several meteor swarms are due. The Leonids, so-called because they come from the general direction of the constellation Leo, appear about Nov. 15, but you will have to be up before sunrise to see them because Leo is then in the morning sky.
The Andromedes, which will seem to come from the direction of Andromeda, will appear in the evening hours, however, about November 23 or 24. Then there are the Taurids, several distant groups appearing at different times during the month from different points in Taurus. These also will appear in the evening hours, from the direction of Taurus, nearly due east. An occasional fire-ball, which is simply a meteor of exceptional size or brilliancy that may succeed in reaching the earth's surface, has been known to appear among the Taurids, so keep an eye on the eastern heavens November evenings. You may see something of special interest in the way of meteors.

The object that will probably first catch your eye November evenings will be the straggling W in Cassiopeia, in the northern heavens, high above the pole. You will probably search in vain for the Big Dipper, for it lies on the opposite side of the pole from Cassiopeia, and is so close to the horizon in November that it is concealed from view, partly if not completely, by trees or buildings to the northward. Possibly you may be able to make out the outlines of the Little Dipper, though, with the North Star, Polaris, at the end of its handle.

Next to Cassiopeia, the Great Square in Pegasus with the constellation of Andromeda joining in on the east, is one of the most noticeable of the autumn groups. It now lies directly on the meridian due south of the zenith overhead. To the southwest of the Great Square lies Aquarius, the Water-Bearer, which can be distinguished by a stream of faint stars flowing toward the south and southeast. Mars, still in Aquarius where it has been for many months, is moving rapidly eastward during November and receding from the earth.

In the east in November you will recognize some old acquaintances in the Pleiades and Hyades in Taurus, and Aldebaran, the fiery red eye of the Bull. November was known in ancient times as the Pleiad month, and the ancient Kings of Persia never failed to grant any request presented to them on Nov. 17, the day when the Pleiades came to the meridian at midnight. This exquisite little group with five stars forming a tiny dipper, and two additional stars visible to keen eyes, will be one of the most noted groups in the heavens. The V-shaped cluster of the Hyades is scarcely less famous.

How Oysters are Nursed

An oyster lays anything from one to a hundred million eggs in a season. Of these, only one egg in a hundred million ever grows to be an oyster. Hence the importance of the recent discovery that it is possible to treat the eggs artificially and to make them grow through the first stages of their development.
The difficulties that the experts have had to overcome have been enormous, but perhaps the greatest was the changing of the water.

Dead Egyptologist's Haunting Fear

WARNED BY MONKS.

Among the letters read at the request of Mr. H. G. Evelyn-White, the Leeds University lecturer, who shot himself in a taxi cab after being summoned to attend the funeral of his friend, Miss Mary Helen, "Nina," on Tuesday, the following passage in the dead man's handwriting occurred:

I knew there was a curse on me, though I had leave to take those manuscripts to Cairo. The monks told me the curse would work all the same. Now it has done so.

Mr. Evelyn-White was a noted Egyptologist and had spent many years in Egypt conducting excavations on behalf of the Metropolitan Museum of New York. During the last two seasons of 1920 and 1921, it is stated, he was working at the monastery of Wadi-Natroun, a valley about 70 miles from Cairo. The valley has long been a great centre of monasticism.

The building comprised Coptic monasteries, which Mr. Evelyn-White explored thoroughly, discovering a secret room about 10ft. square. In this chamber he found a great number of manuscripts written in Coptic and Arabic. Most of them were incomplete and appeared to be portions of carelessly torn books. For days Mr. Evelyn-White worked in the room, suffering great discomfort from heat and dust and tormented by insects. At last he succeeded in bringing out the more important documents, and applied to the highest dignitary of the monasteries for permission to bring the MSS. to Cairo and thence to England. Permission was grudgingly given, but the monks told him that anyone interfering with the relics of the past came under the ban of an ancient curse.

They would not say what form the curse would take, nor could Mr. Evelyn-White discover its terms, although he tried to do so.

PRINCE AND POULTRY.

Out West a prince is raising hens, a prince of noble pedigree; his forebears fought in brackish fens and sailed rude ships upon the sea, and chased fierce pirates to their dens, and earned their crowns, it seems to me. He still might strut on haughty legs with septred monarchs, cheek by jowl, and have his medals heaped in kegs, and make an ancient palace howl; but he is setting fourteen eggs beneath an old bone-headed fowl. For trappings fine, for kingly swag no high ambition does he feel; he does not wish that men obey his slightest nod, his mildest spelt; he has fried chicken thrice a day, he has poached eggs at every meal. The pillow which supports his head when slumber deep and sweet he keeps, is stuffed with feathers, black and red, from roosters in his private pens; he smiles while resting in his bed—his dreams are all of setting hens. How could a prince, some ask, lay down without a sigh the robes of state, the ermine and the jeweled crown, the prestige of the high and great, to drive a rusty bus to fowls, with fattened chickens in a crate? Few princes do this splendid thing, few years to know the simple life; from those bright gawds to which they cling you could not part them with a knife; each hopes to be at last a king, and have a morganatic wife. But one there was who did not care for royal grandeur, unearned hale; he wisely did not wish to wear the honors centuries made stale; and now, with feathers in his hair, he herds his Leghorns in the vale.

Earth Movements of Decades

STUDIED BY GEODETIC SURVEY.

SANTA ANA, Cal., Oct. 12 (A.P.)—A United States geodetic survey party is engaged in a survey to determine what earth movements have transpired in the past two decades along the 150-mile route extending from Santa Ana to Barstow, north of here, on the Mohave desert.

The precise levels, or sea elevations, are being established at various points along the route, connecting with the marks established by the last survey, in 1906. Comparisons will determine whether changes have taken place as a result of earthquakes or other disturbances.

Tame Beasts Run Wild

FORESTS DESTROYED BY PLAGUES OF GOATS.

The dingo or wild dog of Australia has always been a nuisance to sheep farmers, but since it is naturally shy and cowardly it has been kept down and in many places almost exterminated. But now fresh trouble threatens in Greenland.

It appears that a mastiff which had either lost its master or come ashore from a wreck went wild and joined a dingo pack. Inter-breeding with them, it has produced a new type of dog much more powerful and plucky than the original, and too cunning to take poisoned bait. This new dingo not only kills sheep, but even attacks cattle. It constitutes serious danger to stock.

Forest Colonies for Lumberjacks

MIGHTY WORK LAND NEAR LUMBER CAMP IN OFF SEASONS.

QUEBEC, Oct. 2.—(Canadian Press) "Forest colonies," located within close proximity to the various lumber camps provided by lumber companies, which would enable lumberjacks to till the land during the off-season, and work for his company for a certain number of days for the remainder of the year, are advocated by G. C. Piche, chief forester of the Provincial Government.

Mr. Piche stated to-day that the question had already been raised as to whether it would have paid lumber companies to have their own staffs of men on the job all the time, instead of importing men every year, with the risk of obtaining "green horns."

In the olden days, he said, the companies had farms, to provide food and shelter for the lumberjack and feed and shelter for the horses, but this system was gradually abandoned and at the present time the jobbing system was mostly used.

The possible utilization of hard woods by the mills will also form an important part in the employment of forest colonists.

This subject, concluded Mr. Piche, is not a new idea, for it has been tried in the Scandinavian countries and found satisfactory.

Tuberculosis

London Daily Express: Modern medical science has led a crusade against the insidious enemy that lurks in the dirt and confinement of cities and thrives on ill-nourishment in its victims. So successful has been the campaign that the ravages of consumption are now definitely being "got under," and an official of the Ministry of Health has declared that with persistence and intensification of the battle the disease may in ten years be actually stamped out. Twenty years ago this would have sounded like an extravagant dream. Ten years hence it may be a dream come true. Such a triumph would be a magnificent tribute to the work of the medical profession.

Dyed brown fur and bands of white or cream colored sueds are correct for the street.

Hunting Wild Horses.

Under a clause in the Animals Act, stockmen have been given authority to shoot wild horses straying on their ranges, but owing to the risk of shooting their neighbours' stock this regulation has been ignored. Now, Mr. Mackenzie, the Grazing Commissioner, is starting to round up and destroy the droves of wild horses.

In the States of Nevada and Washington the wild horses have become a terrible nuisance, and in Queensland the "brumbies," as the wild horses are called, are hunted down and shot.

St. Helena, a mountainous island of about fifty square miles, was originally covered with dense forest. In 1518 the Portuguese introduced goats, which ran wild and, browsing the young trees and shrubs, destroyed them. Thus there was no new growth left to replace the older trees when they died down, and with the disappearance of the forest the heavy rains began to wash the soil from the hillsides. The present desert condition of the island is entirely due to goats.

Similar trouble is in store for the Santa Barbara Islands off California, where tame goats, which have run wild, are destroying the brush.

On the Galapagos Islands wild dogs descended from tame animals are destroying the curious native fauna, especially the giant tortoises. They do not attack the tortoises themselves, but dig up and eat the tortoises' eggs. Pigs that have run wild are another pest of the Galapagos. Pigs were introduced into New Zealand by Captain Cook in 1770, and increased so rapidly that in the North Island they made farming almost impossible. A single hunter could kill fifty in a day,

Going to Sleep for Months

ANIMALS THAT ARE GETTING READY TO DOZE THE WINTER AWAY.

When food becomes scarce in autumn, and the cold days come round, many of our smaller animals seek ways in which to pass away the autumn and winter, only waking when the weather is warm and when they are sure of finding food.

All sorts of queer spots form their sleeping-places. Bats, for instance, choose the beams and dark corners of barns or the towers of churches. They hibernate in companies and hang head downwards from the chosen spot. They are quite unconscious, and give no sign even if gently thrown down from their perches. But, strangely enough, they sense the time when insects will be on the wing, and waken accordingly.

The squirrel is in a somewhat different class. He chooses a nice hole in the root of a tree, having first bored it well with nuts. He goes to sleep, but if he feels that the air is warm he awakens, eats of his store and comes out to investigate.

The dormouse also stores away a lot of food for the winter, but never takes to eat it. Indeed, he is perhaps the heaviest sleeper of all. There is obviously no food for the dormouse in winter, for his diet consists chiefly of insects. He finds a suitable hole at the foot of some sheltered hedge and decides to winter there. To make himself as comfortable as possible, he goes away to a slope where there is a carpet of fallen leaves. He rolls down this slope once or twice, thus covering his prickles with leaves. Then he creeps into his narrow and sleeps the sleep of the just.

Frogs seek holes near ponds in which to pass the winter. Their beds consist of mud. In the spring they come to mate and lay their eggs, and to use their remarkably quick tongues with skill to gain their food. Of course, many of our little hibernators never see the sun again. Either they die naturally or are found and devoured by some prowling, flesh-eating animal, driven by hunger to a strange food.

How a Great Architect Deceived London

How many people know that St. Paul's Cathedral nearly had a spire, instead of a dome?

The original model, made by Sir Christopher Wren, which is to be seen at the South Kensington Museum, differs in several essentials from the completed cathedral. The authorities did not approve it, and asked Wren to design another, in which a spire instead of a dome was to be the principal feature.

Highly displeased, Wren set to work to make another model—and altered the design of the cathedral to suit his own tastes as the work progressed.

The dome gradually assumed its present proportions, while the proposed spire was displaced by the stone lantern, the ball, and the cross which now surmount the cathedral.

The dome, by the way, is an architectural deception. Most people imagine that it is solid stonework, and that it holds up the cross, the ball, and the stone lantern, which represent a weight of seven hundred tons.

Nothing of the sort!

Wren's ingenuity provided that the dome should consist of three parts—the outer shell, which, surprising though it may seem, is made of nothing more substantial than wood; an inner cone of brick, which supports the weight above it; and a third covering, seen only from inside the cathedral, of brick reinforced by wood.

Around the base of the inner cone is a great iron chain, placed there by Wren to prevent the structure from collapsing under its own weight.

Two complete shows nightly when Strad and Legato will appear at 8.45 p.m. and again at 10 p.m. is the arrangement at the Majestic Theatre. The stores and business houses are open until 9 p.m. This will give people opportunity for the many who have already learned to admire the vaudeville artists.

Strad and Legato will be seen and heard in some of their best hits as held in the special ad. in this issue. Their operatic and easy time renditions are a high favour for them during their fifteen years of vaudeville and programmes of music is sure to establish them in the good will of Majestic patrons.

C. L. B. Cadets

Yesterday the Union Jack and the blue and white flag of the C. L. B. flying on the poles of the Armoury indicated a special Church Parade. The Newfoundland Regiment and their Comrades were ordered to answer the roll call at 2.15. The Spencer Guides and Girls' Friendly Societies Companies were also invited and ready to march, but the Guides Parade was cancelled by their officers. However, the old Brigade carried on as usual and all the veterans were on duty, including President Crane and his "Old Guard," at which all C. L. B. men are extremely proud to be marching with the Battalion. The Brigade was about four hundred strong. Leaving the Armoury under command of Lieut.-Col. Walter F. Rendell, C.B.E., Officer Commanding, the Regiment formed up to the Eastward of the Armoury where Photographer Read of Windsor, Nova Scotia, took a panoramic photograph of the entire group. Copies of this are intended to be forwarded to General Headquarters, London, for purposes of historic record. The Cathedral Men's Bible Class and the Brigade attended the service together.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Bayly, M.A., officiating. Mr. Frank Smith, People's Warden, was present and superintended the seating of the extra large congregation that filled the sacred building. The Organ and Staff are grateful to the Organist, Prof. King, and the ladies and gentlemen of the Choir who were present and did a great deal to help make the service so enjoyable. The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Bayly from St. Luke XXII, 27th verse. "For I say among you as he that saith unto the disciples, 'I have chosen you, and ye have chosen me, that ye should go and bear witness unto all the world, that ye should testify that I have been crucified for you.' He claimed that the members of the Bible Class were to be doing duty weekly visiting the prisoners on the harbor and those at the wharves and those at the wharves were to have an invitation to the seamen to 'Come to Church' and leaving Sunday literature, were going to do work for God. Many an early morning the C.M.B.C. chaps would be more comfortable in their work. The Master washed the feet when He was here, and when the laymen of the Church do their responsibilities and do their bit for Him, what shall they later when they stand face to face at the day of Judgment? Will He say, 'I was too busy'—that hollow phrase. The Master left the Heavens and was incarnated as a Babe in Bethlehem and lived a pure, holy life as an example for us, in healing the sick and preaching the gospel, afterwards dying for us the painful and agonizing death on the Cross. He addressed his listeners to 'Get busy as I have been busy, and everybody can do some thing, and in the doing of it, when he will discover his own weakness. He also referred to the self-sacrifice made by the gallant officers of the C. L. B. in the years that are gone, to whom the Brigade to-day owes its existence. He also appreciated the work of those self-sacrificing men who are now giving so many pleasures and hours of rest and recreation in order that the lads of the Brigade may benefit by it. The sermon was one of the best ever delivered by Rev. and Lt.-Col. Brimbleton, who closed his address by wishing each and everyone to 'Work for the night is coming when man's work is done.'

Several of the original members of the C.M.B.C. who attended yesterday's service were much gratified to learn that the Harbour Mission work started by Rev. Canon Bayly, M.A., of Bonavista, is carried on so splendidly.

The Brigade returned to the Armoury via Gower and Flavin Streets and Military Road, where Lt.-Col. Rendell announced that the winner of the Outerbridge Shield this year was No. 2 Section F, Company, under the command of Sergt. Barrett. Congratulations, Sergeant, and also to your gallant lads, President Crane and his "Old Guard" were complimented on their appearance by the Organ, who assured them that their presence at C. L. B. Parades was highly appreciated by all ranks. After the National Anthem was rendered by the Battalion Band the parade was dismissed.

The Lieut.-Col. announced to the lads that he is taking steps to have the Brigade incorporated, a constitution drawn up and the appointment of a Board and Governing Body for Newfoundland, founded on the basis of the English Pocket Book 1324, modified to suit Colonial conditions, which was unanimously approved. We also hear Lieut. Col. of Felt College Company, who has recently been at Columbia University, will give an illustrated lecture on New York in Canon Wood Hall, October 23rd, when all lads will have an opportunity to learn something of that great city.

UNITED STATES INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL.

Indications are 1924 Earnings Will Exceed 1923 Showing of $11.57 a Share on Common Despite Higher Production Costs.

Boston—Alcohol prices are five to six cents a gallon higher than in 1923 and approximately 12 cents above 1922, with volume of sales at least equal to output of 1923 and in excess of two years ago. "Business is very good" is the succinct comment of the head of the largest producer in this country, United States Industrial Alcohol Co.

Notwithstanding important increases in production costs over last year, indications are Alcohol's earnings in 1924 will exceed 1923, when $11.27 a share was reported on 240,000 shares of common. Compared with earnings in 1922 of only $3.55 a share the present earning outlook is particularly significant, since it is becoming increasingly clear that this extraordinary improvement is the result of factors likely to be lasting.

Adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment and enactment of the Volstead Act had important bearing on the industrial alcohol situation. Through these measures the chemical industry was relieved of competition resulting from use for beverage purposes of the most available fermentable material—molasses.

The fortunate position of users of industrial alcohol in procuring supplies has been a great stimulus to active competition of the chemical industry in world markets. In no field of chemical industry has industrial revival of the past two years been more clearly reflected than in broadening use of industrial alcohol.

United States Industrial Alcohol Company is able to take advantage of this situation which, in the last four months, has changed from what was termed a decidedly courageous attitude by chemical manufacturers to one of very active demand for alcohol, notwithstanding two price advances in that period. Addition to property account in 1923 totalling $829,384 were largely expenditures in expanding Industrial Alcohol's principal subsidiary, United States Industrial Chemical Co., with the result that the latter became in 1923 the largest single consumer of industrial alcohol. Additions are continually being made to its already enormous special manufactured products.

Supply of cellulose, starch and sugar, renewed annually by natural growth, offers practically unlimited raw materials for production of alcohol for fuel purposes in event of unusually high prices of petroleum.

Leading manufacturers of industrial in this country are not disposed to regard seriously the so-called molasses crisis in Cuba, American exporters deny there is a shortage of molasses, and resent the attempt of Cuban distillers to force delivery of 6,000,000 gallons of molasses for the manufacture of distilled products destined, it is alleged, for bootleg trade. The present situation was brought about by action of distilling interests in bringing pressure to bear on government officials to create a total or partial embargo on exports of molasses. Protests to the State Department resulted in entrance of the American Ambassador into the controversy in interest of American manufacturers, and it is expected a settlement will be made in a short time. Molasses exports to the United States and England in the past week have been particularly heavy through the ports of Matanzas, Mantilla and Cienfuegos.

Unruly Boys Causing Annoyance on Plank Rd.

Neighbors of Plank Road are complaining of stone throwing by school boys who live in that neighbourhood. This practice has gone on unchecked for several weeks past, and the quicker a stop is put to such nuisance the better for all concerned. On Thursday morning last the climax was reached when a large stone was hurled through a bedroom window, the missile barely escaped hitting a lady. As a result she is still suffering from shock. A visit from a plain clothes policeman would probably have the desired effect.

Harvest Sunday at Congregational Church

Yesterday was Harvest Festival Sunday, at Queen's Road Congregational Church and despite the inclement weather of the day, large congregations were present at both morning and evening services. The Pastor presented a very attractive appearance. A large collection of fruit, vegetables, flowers, etc., had been placed on display and fittingly marked the occasion. At the morning service, the Pastor, Rev. D. L. Nichol, discoursed from John xv-16 x x x "That ye shall go forth and bring forth fruit, that your fruit shall remain, that whatsoever ye should ask of the Father in My name, my Father will give you." In the evening the reverend gentleman preached from the beautiful and inspiring verse in Psalm 139-5 "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing the precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." Both addresses were most impressive and appropriate to the occasion, and dealt with the great spiritual results to be gained from Scriptural fruit, as achieved by such great men as Mofat, Livingstone and others. Life, after all, he said, is just an agricultural garden producing sheaves for the Harvest Home. The choir, under the direction of Miss Barnes, the organist, rendered special music at these services. In the morning the anthem "Heaven's Harvest Home" was sung with telling effect, the solo part being taken by Miss Bessie Thomas. At the evening service the anthem "O Lord How Manifold" and A Song of Thanksgiving, was splendidly rendered; while the solo by Miss Joffe, entitled "How Lovely are thy Dwelling", was highly appreciated.

Father Matthew's Day October 10th

(FOR THE STANDARD.)
Thy day, Father Matthew, never ends,
It lasts with ever brightening glow;
And men of every creed and blood
It in a brighter being know.

"A Grand Old Man" of Grandeur God—
The woes of "Drink" his soul oppressed,
Like His Head, the Father's peerless Son,
His aching spirit found no rest.

He rose, a Seer filled with fire,
He tramped around his native land,
He wept, he reasoned, and implored—
A modern Crusade wisely planned.

Vast crowds foreswore the deadly cup,
Thousands reformed their broken lives,
Children the joys of home regained—
And the land renewed for happier wives.

Comfort reigned mild where Want once ruled,
And Health and Concord raised their heads,
And all the Blessings thronged, as e'er,
When Piety with Prudence wed.

Across the Seas, the good Wave rolled
To mainlands with Drink's Evil cursed;
And sweet before it Greed and Want,
And wide the bonds of Habit burst.

And we who live in these late days
Thus gained more freedom from these ills,
Than did our fathers of the past—
The tempting glass o'errode their wills.

And shall we not "The Apostle" thank
Of "Temperance" and Happy Home,
And aid him in his blissful work
Here and wherever our footsteps roam?

Obituary

REV. FR. MARTIN SEARS.
It is with feelings of regret that the Telegram has to chronicle, today, the passing of Rev. Father Martin Sears. A telegram conveying the sad news was received from California yesterday. There are many in this city and throughout the Island who were well acquainted with the Rev. Sears, and his passing will be learned with regret. About four years ago Father Sears was stationed at St. Patrick's, but owing to his failing health he was compelled to leave St. John's for a change of climate. He proceeded to Toronto where he continued his labors for a few years and later went to California. The deceased was a native of Ireland and leaves one brother, Rev. Patrick Sears, residing in California; also one uncle, Rt. Rev. Mons. Sears, of St. George's Diocese.

MRS. EDWARD MURRAY.
News was received in the city this morning that Mrs. Murray, the wife of Mr. Edward Murray, ex-Magistrate, passed away at her home at Harbour Main at 7.30 p.m. yesterday. The Telegram extends sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Great Jewel Robbery
MINROLA, N.Y., October 1.—Police authorities have failed to confirm the report that representatives of Lloyds of London, in New York, had admitted receipt of a claim for insurance on $50,000 worth of jewels said to have been stolen Sunday night from the country home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sanford, of Brookville, where the Prince of Wales was entertained during his recent Long Island visit. A member of the Sanford family yesterday refused to either confirm or deny the report. The police believe that if the report is true the crime was committed by the same gang that stole $150,000 in jewels from the home of Coaden at Port Washington on night of September 11. Some of the gems belonged to Lady Mountbatten whose husband is a cousin of the Prince.

Sugar From Douglas Fir

It is not generally known that long before the coming of the white man to Canada the Indians of British Columbia had a white sugar of a high quality which they derived from the Douglas fir of that territory. This source of sugar supply seems to have entirely escaped the attention of white traders, explorers, surveyors, missionaries, and other pioneers, and remains to-day an untapped and unutilized resource. This phenomenon has been the object of exhaustive investigations by Professor John Davidson, the botanist of the University of British Columbia, and his results are the subject of an article by Mr. Francis Dickie, Heriot Bay, B.C.

This sugar appears in white masses of different sizes, ranging from a quarter of an inch to two inches in diameter. The smaller masses form like white drops at the tips of the single leaves of the fir, and also at times several of the leaf tips are imbedded in a large drop. Masses of greater size scatter over the leaves and branches. Placed in the mouth the sugar is exceedingly sweet, with a flavor comparable to the highest class of manufactured articles. For a moment it passes into a pasty consistency in the mouth, but quickly becomes entirely soluble under the action of the saliva.

The principal regions where Professor Davidson's investigations show the sugar to be produced are in the hottest and driest parts of the interior of British Columbia between the 50th and 51st parallels, and between 121 and 122 longitude. These areas take in the Thompson River Valley, west of the mouth of the Nicola River, the district near the junction of the Fraser and the Thompson Rivers at Lytton, and a small part of the Fraser Valley above Lillooet. In the Kamloops district, the Nicola and Shillikameen Valleys, and the eastern part of the State of Washington it is also reported to occur.

The investigations proved that this sugar is the result of natural exudation from the tips of the needles of the fir. It crystallizes in some instances, cementing the twigs and leaves together, but a slight rain quickly dissolves it from the branches, and it is to be found recrystallized at the base of the tree. Exposure to sun and a long succession of sunny days, are necessary to produce the sugar, and the sugar is not generally found where firs stand densely, so that a regular harvest of any size could not be depended upon. The deposits are nevertheless of considerable value.

Whilst the fir sugar will never play a part as a food supply, like the product of the cane and the beet, it will likely eventually prove valuable for use in chemistry, and perhaps in other ways which the scientific experimenting conducted by those interested in the discovery will bring to light. The manna from the Douglas fir contains about fifty per cent. of a sugar known as melezitose, which in small quantities is selling at $66 a pound. It has been suggested that on the basis of the price and yield of melezitose, another constituent, higher prices might be paid. Meanwhile, in the heart of British Columbia, concludes Mr. Dickie, the Indians are still gathering this sugar, as they have for centuries, and scientific attention is just beginning to be attracted to this curious source of supply.

Canada is England's Granary

LONDON, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—The United States is no longer the chief exporter of wheat to the United Kingdom. The largest supplies of this grain to the British Isles now come from the Dominion of Canada, with the United States second and Argentina a close third.

Seattle Police Row Settled by City Council

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 25 (A.P.)—When an ordinance to add 18 men to the local police department was "placed on file" by the City Council the other day, many persons read in that action the close of a chapter that divided the attention of the country with the early stages of the Democratic National Convention in June.

While Mayor Edwin J. Brown was attending the convention, Mrs. Henry Landis, president of the City Council, was acting mayor and she dismissed the chief of police and assumed his office also. She declared the city was full of corruption, and the efficiency committee of the council laid away the efficiency and the barking of dogs as nocturnal and mutinous irritants.

Vagrant Mines Menace Ships

DOVER, England, Sept. 26 (A.P.)—There are still several explosive mines, relics of the war, floating about in the Baltic Sea and in the English Channel, according to reports which are being filed almost weekly by captains of vessels which ply in these waters. A ship coming from Antwerp recently reported a mine off the Goodwin Lightship in the Channel, and two others were reported nearby by the captain of a vessel sailing from Russia.

FALSE POSITIVENESS.

There is nothing in the world so positive as ignorance. Do you remember the Greek's classification of the four stages on the road to knowledge? "He who knows and knows not that he knows not. (He is a fool, shun him); He who knows not and knows that he knows not. (He is simple, teach him); He who knows and knows not that he knows. (He is asleep, wake him); He who knows and knows that he knows. (He is wise, follow him.) The positive person is most often found in the first class. Of course the last class might be positive. But it seldom is. For one thing it has learned its false positiveness is both ugly and dangerous. A woman I know read a book on a subject of which she has a very slight background. When she finished it I asked her what she thought of it. She said:

"She Decides It's Silly. "Well, it was rather interesting but there were a lot of things in it that I don't believe."

"You find that other authorities don't agree with me I wish you'd tell me whom to read on the other side."

"Oh, I don't know anything about that," she admitted freely. "I haven't read anyone else. But I think some of the things this man says are silly. I don't believe him."

A Zeppelin Coming

The ZR-3, which sailed yesterday, is the latest creation of the German Zeppelin factory at Friedrichshafen, is not a war ship; it is in type and design a commercial airship.

Its length, 656 feet, diameter 90.66 feet and height 101.68 feet. Its hydrogen capacity is 2,472,000 cubic feet. The makers have availed themselves of an experience of more than twenty years to produce the safest and most dependable Zeppelin; in the series which its completion closes by the requirements of the Versailles Treaty its number is 126. Hereafter, such dirigibles, containing the features of the inventors, will be constructed by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, Ohio. With what is practically a monopoly of helium gas the United States expects to be in a position to develop the commercial dirigible without serious competition.

There are three United States naval officers on board ZR-3 as observers, but the pilot is a German, the veteran Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Company, and the crew will be German. As the ship was not designed and built for the Atlantic passage, hydrogen, which is lighter than helium, and, of course, much less expensive, is used to inflate her. Unless ZR-3 encounters a violent storm, the risk of using hydrogen should be inconsiderable. The Germans pride themselves on their skill in the navigation of Zeppelins, and the record shows that in their hands hydrogen has seldom given any trouble. The ZR-3's five motors, each of 400 horsepower, have given a good account of themselves in her trials in Germany. A Friedrichshafen authority, estimates her mean speed at sixty-eight miles an hour. There has been an innovation in attaching the cabin solidly to the keel well toward the front. In the forepart is the control room, "like the bridge of a yacht," with controls and telephone lines leading aft. This arrangement should make for simpler and surer navigation. ZR-3's carrying capacity, exclusive of fuel (thirty-five tons of gasoline), is about fifteen tons. For six months the U.S. Navy will have charge of the new Zeppelin, after which she is to be turned over to the Army for the same period. Eventually, it is estimated in the American press, the United States Government may use the ZR-3 to carry the mails.—Halifax Chronicle.

"In the Palace of the King"

SCREEN SPECTACLE AT THE NICKEL TO-NIGHT.

"In The Palace Of The King," a great spectacle photoplay of the Spanish court in medieval days, with one of the finest casts ever seen in any picture, is the entertainment of the Nickel to-night.

The story is adapted from F. Marion Crawford's beautiful romance of the days when the Spaniards were battling with the Moors and intrigue was rife in the court. Blanche Sweet heads the cast as Dolores, the lovely heroine. Edmund Lowe, one of the handsomest leading men on the screen, and a talented actor as well, plays Don John, the dashing young hero of a war-like nation. Pauline Starke plays the role of Ines, the blind sister of the heroine. Sam de Grasse, memorable for his villainous characterization of Prince John in "Robin Hood," plays King Philip. That sterling old favorite, Hobart Bosworth, appears in a leading character role as General Mendoza, father of the heroine. Allison Fringe, the striking avenger of the silver sheet whom Goldwyn has chosen to act the Lady in Elton Glyn's "Three Weeks," plays a sinister vamp role, that of the Princess Eholi, in "In the Palace Of The King."

Filming the story was a tremendous and costly undertaking. It is said, involving the construction of a palace 280 feet high and 300 feet long, one of the greatest sets yet constructed for the movies. In addition, the costuming and interior settings caused much difficulty, as it was the aim of director Flynn to make the production historically accurate in each detail.

The story concerns the love of Don John, hero of all Spain and brother of the King, for Dolores Mendez, the daughter of a soldier. Envious of his popular brother, the King sent him on an expedition into Spain, the Moors, hoping that he would never return. But, after a brilliant victory, Don John comes back more a national hero than before. The King and General Mendoza, father of the heroine, seek to keep the lovers apart, but after a series of dramatic incidents, true love wins.

Earthquakes at Sea

EXPLOSIONS THAT FORM ISLANDS

A big ship on her way across the Atlantic recently was suddenly jarred all over as if she had struck a reef. At first her officers believed that she had hit a derelict, and were relieved to find that this was not the case. Presently news came by wireless that two other vessels, each about sixty miles from the first, had had equally alarming experiences. Then the captain knew that what he had felt was the shock from a submarine earthquake or volcanic explosion.

Thrown Over a Railway Bridge. In 1869 a ship, thirty miles off the Chilean coast, was lifted as if a giant had seized her under water, and shaken violently. In 1877, another vessel crossing the Pacific was shaken twice in five minutes, while from the depths came a sound like distant thunder. In November, 1893, a large steamer was passing Cape Verd, on the African coast, when she began to shake all over and roll and tumble so violently that everyone rushed on deck. The weather was dead calm and very hot at the time. Sometimes these under-sea earthquakes throw up vast waves, wrongly called "tidal" waves. Off the Chilean coast in November, 1922, a wave was so great that it flung a large ship inland over a railway bridge.

The shocks may cast up islands. In 1831 an island of this sort rose in the Mediterranean, only to sink again; while in September, 1901, an island rose and vanished in the Gulf of Mexico.

One of the most frequent results of these submarine earthquakes is the breaking of telegraph cables. The yearly bill for this sort of thing runs into many thousands of pounds.

B.I.S. L. & A. Club Meeting

SEASON'S PROGRAMME WILL OPEN WITH A DANCE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

A special meeting of the B.I.S. Literary and Amusement Committee was held Saturday night when matters of much concern to the society and club were considered. The Chairman, W. J. O'Neill, presided. As already advertised the Ladies' Auxiliary will open the season's programme with a dance in the club rooms on Wednesday night when a real good time is promised the club members and their friends. The Committee is making special preparations for the event, and the Prince's Orchestra will let loose their latest and best. Following the dance, another event is booked for the week when a card tournament for the members and their friends will be conducted at 9.30 on Friday night. This will enable a large number of store employees who are working at night to participate. Much enthusiasm was in evidence during the meeting, and what promises to be an eventful and successful season will commence on Wednesday night. The Committee will meet again on Tuesday night to deal with other important matters and complete arrangements for the following night.

The Council's Work Praised

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—It is seldom we see a letter in the Press praising the Municipal Council for work performed; in fact fault-finding seems to be the order of the day. Well, Sir, with your permission, I will avail of the columns of your valuable paper to sound the praises of that body, for the excellent work performed under the skillful management of Inspector Neville, on the section of the city known as Deanery Avenue. This avenue is used by thousands of people who attend St. Patrick's Church. Patrick St. is now being attended to and will soon be in first class condition. The entrance to this church has been graded and has received a fine coating of gravel, which makes it easier travelling for us old people. As a matter of fact all over the city, can be seen evidences of the activity of the Council. I therefore deem it as my duty, as a citizen, to say a word of praise of His Honor, the Mayor, and the Councilors.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Labradorite
 Always we have prided ourselves on the quality of our Labradorite and refused to place on sale stones that did not do credit to the peculiar beauty that is its chief charm. We have now received the first samples of our new stock and they fulfil in every way our ideas of what Labradorite should really be like when made into jewellery.
 Specially selected and extra well polished stone made into an assortment of Pendants—Bean, Oval and Square shape are the chief items in our new selection.
