To Be Successful

Stop saying that fate is against you. Going about with a gloomy look on your face. Fault-finding, nagging, and worrying. Taking offence where none is intended. Boasting of what you can do instead of doing it. Talking continually about yourself and your affairs. Saying unkind things about others. Writing letters when angry instead of waiting until you have cooled down and thought matters over. Thinking of yourself instead of doing doing for and thinking of others. Belittling those whom you envy because you feel that they are really superior to yourself. Gazing idly into the future and dreaming instead of making the most of the present.

NUTE AND COMMENT

The Guelph Herald puts the matter of the abnormal increase in the price of paper this way: "The public does not realize what such an increase in price means to the publisher. It simply makes absolutely necessary drastic action in every direction. Increase in subscription rates, in advertising rates and a reduction in the size of newspapers are likely to be general." One news-paper has just received the following notice from the manager of the paper mill which has for thirty-eight years continuously made its paper: "Kind-ly note that on and after this date we are compelled to advance our present prices on all grades of paper." The increase means an advance of 90 per cent since January

Miller's Worm Powders will drive worms from the system without injury to the child. The powders are so easy to take that the most delicate stomach can assimilate them and welcome them as speedy easers of pain, b-cause they promptly kill the worms that cause the pain, and thus the suffering of the child is relieved. With so sterling a remedy at hand no child should suffer an hour from morms.

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine —Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of i woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:-

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. Mayme Asbach, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCasland, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and Lampleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

SUPPOSE THE GUIDE-ADVOCATE GEASED PUBLICATION

UST suppose this community was left without a local newspaper! What would become of its local pride? Wattord would just be a name on a railway time-table or a post office guide. Men and women might die, or marry, or go away, or suffer accidents, or entertain friends, and you would hear about it all only through gossip. Farm sales and other announcements of interest to this particular part of the wide, wide world would have no publicity. Our local merchants would have no cheap and quick way of telling you what they provide for you. Our churches and schools and other institutions would have no medium of news or appeal. And this whole community would slip back and be the sport of joke-smiths.

Would City papers take the place of The Guide-Advocate? You know they would not.

HE point of it all is: We are raising The Guide-Advocate on December 1st to $1,50 a year. Now if you "kick" and drop your subscribtion, you say, in effect, "This community doesn't need a local weekly. If I can do without The Guide-Advocate all others can." Advocate, all others can.'

We do not believe for one moment that the good people of Watford, Warwick and Brooke and neighborhood mean to "kick" or drop their subscription to The Guide-Advocate. We expect all our subscribers to recognize the new conditions of living and publishing that have made the old dollar rate impossible to continue. But we want to let you see that your weekly newspaper at the higher rate of 3 cents a week—the price of a postage stamp—still costs an insignificant sum when you reckon up the service your weekly newspaper renders you and this whole community.

Be loyal to and proud of the community you live in. Keep it on the map.

ORIGIN OF LAUGHTER.

Carrying the Analysis Back to the Lowly Prehistoric Glam.

Laughter is an involuntary physical eaction. Hughlings Jackson calls it one of the innumerable epilepsies to which man is subject." It is apparently a universal heritage, though certain ses may operate more powerfully upon one individual than upon another to produce it. In the little child whose sensibilities are uncomplicated by any mental experience unless they be racial ones the shock of delicate touch—tickling, as we call it-first causes laughter. Why?

The claim of our psychologist carries us a long leap backward to the most elemental form of animal life. Beyond the savage stands the monkey and dimly far beyond him the mollusk, whose only sense was that of touch. Picture this great-grandfather of living things lying motionless save for those nervous, fluttering, sensitive feelers extended to play the part of sight and hearing. A bit of seaweed bumps against them. A spasm racks the mol-lusk's whole being, crushing him into his shell until the surprise has abated; then the fact that no further attack follows brings relief. follows brings relief.

This is the germ of the cause of our This is the germ of the cause of our laughter spasm—a sudden shock, instantly followed by a feeling of relief. Only such shocks as were followed by relief became racial memories. Where relief did not follow the clam did not live to leave a heritage.—Burges Johnson in Harper's Magazine.

SPOILED HIS SYSTEM.

He Thought It Couldn't Be Done, but He Is Wiser Now.

I know a man who wears his shirts in chronological order—that is, if he buys a new shirt he tags it with his initials, numbers it and places it at the bottom of the pile. And, no matter how much he likes it, he does not wear it until it comes out at the top of the pile. He went into wordy detail about the economy of his system, and he added that he arranged his socks and underwear in the same manner.

I told him that he would meet the woman of his dreams some fine day and that she would knock the spots out of his system. I told him that she would admire a particular shirt, caress its delicate stripes lovingly and ask why he didn't wear it oftener. And then he would send it to the laundry as soon as it was soiled and wear it as soon as it got back, and he would buy other shirts like it, and he would forget the system.

"Don't you believe it!" he said. "The person doesn't live who could upset my system!"

But I met him a few days ago-for the first time in a year. He was hurrying to catch a car, so I had only time to ask him how he was and how things were going. And he didn't have time to explain. He only shouted over his shoulder jubilantly, "I'm wearing 'em every which way!"

And I hadn't even heard he was mar-

Crossing the Bar. Tennyson's famous poem "Crossing the Bar" was written, said his son, in the poet's eighty-first year "on a day in October when we came from Aldworth to Farringford. Before reaching Farringford he had had the 'moaning of the bar' in his mind, and after dinner he showed me the poem written out. "That is the crown of your life's work," said his son, who was the first man after the poet to read "Crossing the Bar" and who passed the first criti-cism upon it in such fitting and generous language. "It came in a moment," said the poet, and he explained the pilot as the Divine and Unseen, who is always guiding us. A day or two before he died the poet, calling his son to his bedside, said, "Mind you put 'Cross. ing the Bar' at the end of all editions of my poems."

The Forehead and Health.
The forehead is the first feature of the face to show indisposition. The minute one's stomach is out of order there will be yellow spots on the brow. When one feels faint the forehead will instantly show it. When one is sick there will be freckles and pimples upon the brow, which was smooth and clear before. The forehead is as good an indication of one's general health as is the pulse.—London Globe.

"Dad, what do they mean by peren-"Continuing from year to year," answered pop.

"Like my hat," interposed ma,

And then there was a deep, portentous silence.

The Proven Asthma Remedy. Since asthma existed there has been no lack of much heralded remedies, but they have proved fort lived and worthless. The ever-growing reputation of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has given it a place in the field of medicine which no other can approach. It has never been pushed by sensational methods, but has simply gone on effecting relief and making new converts.

DO YOU

that your skin trouble is incurable because ordinary treatments have failed? If so get Zam-Buk and prove, as thousands of, others have, that Zam-Buk is capable of healing after everything else has failed!

Mrs. Horgan, of 183 Manning Ave., Toronto, writes: "For eight months my little son's face was simply covered vish eczema. The pain and irritation were so intense that he could not sleep. He received treatment at a hospital, but it did min no good. Then I heard of Zam-Buk and commenced using it. It really worked wonders. The pain and irritation soon disappeared, and I could notice a decided improvement. I persevered with the treatment until now his face is quite free from sores and his skin is perfectly clear. I cannot be grateful enough for what Zam-Buk has done, and I shall never be without it."

Zam-Buk is equally good for ringworm, salt rheum, blood-poisoning, ulcers, old sores, piles, burns, scalds, cuts and all skin injuries. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25, all druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

NOTE AND COMMENT

James Brierley, a writer in the Montreal Daily Mail, has published the deplorable facts that French Quebec has not contributed more than 12,000 or 13.000 men to the overseas fcrees, while English Quebec has given 24,000.

A Hamburg sausage-maker was fined 2,000 marks for putting on the market a sausage not yet approved by the German food authorities. It consisted of macerated rubber, finelyground hair and gelatine. Evidently in Hamburg the dogs and cats have disappeard.

Street noises do not disturb wounded soldiers in English hospitals and nurses and visitors have wondered thereat. As though the roar of London could be other than as the soft murmuring of a gentle breeze in the trees to those who had beeu subjected for easy at a time to the shattering thunder of the trenches!

It is estimated that more than twelve million dollars will be added to the revenue receipts of the Dominion during the month of Novemder next. This amount will represent the war tax on business profits provided for in last session's budget, and which is payable next month. Already the receipts are beginning to pour into the hands of the Receiver, with every indication of a satisfac-tory total at the end of the coming

The Independent (New York) .-Canada is taking long strides along the path of progressivism. She is finding herself in the war in a way that compels admiration. It is a big enough achievement to build a volunteer army of 350,000 for overseas service, to foot a bill of half a billion dollars for war expenses, and to raise from private pockets thirty millions for war relief. But her political progress is even more astonishing. When the war is over Canada will have suffered severe losses, and will be carrying a heavy debt. But her splendid action on these two vital issues will make the country a better place to live in than "before the Glencoe Transcript :- It is stated that there is an increasing tendency to cigarette smoking among the youth of Glencoe, and the question arises, Where are the boys getting the dope? A provincial act prohibits the sale to miners, and it is a duty incumbent on county constables to take youthful cigarette smokers before the magistrate and have them questioned as to how and where they obtained the cigarettes. Unfortunately Glencoe is at present without a constable able to be on duty. Speaking of the injurious effects of cigarette smoking, a physician of large experience stated the other day that he had treated more physical wrecks the result of cigarette smoking than those from the results of alcoholism, and while there was some hope for the alcohol victim it was absolutely impossible to restore the victim of the cigarette habit.

The Cost of Paper

The newspapers publishers complain of the cost of paper. The cost of paper making has risen, but the chief cause of price increase is the enormous demand for newspapers because of the public interest in the war. Paper stocks are, it is said, nearly exhausted, and the daily consumption exceeds production. The dailies, on account of their news service, enlarge circulation without what is termed by merchants selling cost. The weeklies which cannot meet the public demand for war news must depend on a generous public to remember the useful service which they, too, in their way, perform. It would be an unfortunate result, if news and public debate were to fall entirely to a few city dailies.—The Weekly Sun.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard out little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockyille Ont. o., Brockville Ont.

World's Record Wheat Crop

In view of various claims of world's record wheat crops for large areas, the Crowfoot Farming Company of Crowfoot, Alberta, submit a sworn statement of their results for the year 1915 which probably surpass all properly authenticated claims from other sources. From 1356 acres the Crowfoot Farming Company received an average yield of 51 bushels, 56 1/3 pounds per acre of number one spring wheat, by actual selling weight; 400 acres wheat averaged 59½ bushels per acre. These records were established in the Canadian Pacific Rail-way Irrigation Block in Southern Al-In view of various claims of world's way Irrigation Block in Southern Alberta.

"Fruit-a-tives Again Proves Its Extraordinary Powers

ROCHON, QUE., March 2nd, 1915. "I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives". I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable without results. I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well-the Rheumatism has disappeared, and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. I hope that others, who suffer from such distressing diseases, will try "Fruit-a-MADAME ISAIE ROCHON.

Story of a Heroic-Mexican Girl and a Yankee.

By F. A. MITCHEL

The Sierra Tarahumare range of mountains runs in a southeasterly direction through the Mexican state of Chihuahua. James Jernegan, a young American engineer, was called to a certain point in these mouncains to build a dam on one of its streams with a view to utilizing the water power.

The nearest house to where his work was located was the home of a Mexican woman named Cavillo. Jernegan persuaded her to take him to board during his sojourn and was thus fortunate in escaping the necessity of camp ing. The house overlooked an extended territory beneath, and from its veranda one might gaze on a very attractive view. The grounds were not inclosed, and the whole mountain side might be considered as belonging to the place. Everything was kept tidy and was in better condition than might have been expected of a mountaineer's residence.

On the evening of Jernegan's arrival a little table was set for him on the veranda for his supper. On taking his seat he was regretting that he must sup alone when a girl dressed in the costume of the country appeared, bringing the viands.

"Oho!" he said to himself. "If I can have no one to sup with me I can at least have this little senorita to wait upon me, and I shall contrive to keep her with me as much as possible.

The girl, who was the daughter of Senora Cavillo and whose name was Inez, laid the dishes on the table and was about to depart when Jernegan, who spoke Spanish indifferently, said to her:

"I feel much honored, senorita, at having a pretty girl to wait on me. It would be much more fitting that I wait on you. However, since you have assumed the duty I beg that you will not be beyond call, for there may be something that I shall need which is

The girl, who had never before listened to such deferential words from a man, was too confused and delighted to at once reply. A quick succession of blushes passed over her face, her eyes sparkled, and a happy smile played upon her lips.

"Ah, senor," she said presently, "It would not be proper for you to wait upon me, and it makes me very happy to wait upon you. If you want any thing I will be within call."

There is no greater danger than for a man of superior caste to go among his inferiors and become involved with one of their women folk, especially if she be an attractive young girl. Jerne gan, observing the effect of his words upon Inez, felt the necessity of cau-tion. But it is one thing to feel a necessity for resisting a temptation and another to resist. He suffered the girl to go into a room opening on the veranda, but did not let her remain long there. He called:

"Senorita?" "I am coming, senor." And from the few seconds occupied in her appearance it was evident that she had not been far away. Indeed, she was look ing through a lace curtain that covered the opening between her and the handsome American. Those who believe that love must have time to take root and grow have never seen a country girl suddenly confronted by a some gentleman. In such instances the girl is liable to throw up her hands in token of surrender at a glance. At any rate, such was the case with Inez 'Could you bring me some more tamales?" asked Jernegan in a tone of voice that he would have used to a superior being.

"Yes, senor." When she returned with what he had asked for he suggested that if she would take a chair on the veranda she would not have to tire herself by coming to him, as though she had a long distance instead of a few steps to come to him. She accepted the suggestion and sat down in a bamboo rocking chair near him.

Now, there was a swarthy young Mexican who the very evening before had secured the little girl's promise to become his wife. He was a rough mountaineer and not very clean, but he was the best Inez had ever seen, and she was sixteen, and that is a proper age for a Mexican girl to marry, Jernegan had swept her away from this man, Manuel Corall, in a twinkling. It is questionable if after com-ing under the influence of the former she gave the latter a thought pass the first evening after his be-trothal with his promised wife. Inez was so wrapt in her companion that she did not hear Manuel coming. But he saw her sitting on the veranda, saw gringo eating at the table and Inez's eyes resting upon him with a look of idolatry. Corall saw at a glance that the hated American had swooped down like an eagle from the sky to carry off the lamb that he had supposed had belonged to himself.

Corall paused, hid himself behind a bush and looked. He had already seen enough to tell him that this being, snperior to himself in refinement, in intellect, in manly beauty, had taken the heart that had belonged to him. What the gringo would do with it did not concern the Mexican. He was absorbed in vengeance. Resisting the temptation to rush upon the man who had dispossessed him, he finally slunk away, resolved to wait an opportunity to take his revenge without its reacting upon himself.

Jernegan, having finished his supper and smoked, went to the camp where the men who were to construct the dam were to begin work the next morning. There in conference with the superintendent Inez passed from his mind. It was 10 o'clock when he returned to Senora Cavillo's. The inmates were all in their rooms, but the house was open as it had been during the day, for the weather was warm, and, being remote from other places and persons, the doors were never shut at night. The only light on the main floor was one in the living room opening on to the veranda.

The engineer sat down on a bench on the veranda and was thinking of a problem that had arisen in connection with the construction of the dam when he saw the shadow of a human figure cast through a window by the light in the room behind him and heard a voice

"Senor, thinking you might need re-freshment I have iced some wine for senorita; always kind and thoughtful! I will drink the wine on condition that you drink it with me." Inez brought out a tray on which was a small pitcher of a beverage she had concocted, and, drawing a table before the bench, the two sat down on the bench to regale themselves.

They had been seated some time and had emptied the pitcher. Jernegan's arm was around Inez's waist. On the table before them suddenly appeared the shadow of a head, then of a pair of shoulders. Lastly a shadow of an arm rose from the rest. Inez gave a shrick and, springing up, covered her companion with the upper part of her body. A blow descended upon her, and she sank down on to the floor.

Jernegan rose, turned and saw a Mexican holding a knife in his hand from which blood dripped. From this he cast a glance at the sinking Inez and took in the situation. An intenher receiving the blow that had been meant for him. Seizing the only weap-on at hand, the earthen pitcher on the table, he hurled it with all his strength through the window. It struck his opponent in the temple, and he fell senseless to the floor.

Forgetting his existence, Jernegan stooped, took up Inez and held her in his arms. Notwithstanding a severe wound in her shoulder she had not lost consciousness. She looked up at him with a smile that spoke volumes. She had received the blow that might have killed the man she loved.

Her shriek brought down her mother from the floor above and others. Senora Cavillo glanced at the figure of the would be murderer stretched on the floor with the bloody knife near the hand that had held it. She recognized Corall, but he did not interest her; her concern was for her daughter, whose shriek had brought her to the scene of the trouble. Going on to the veranda, she took Inez from the American, tore away the clothing that covered the wound and began stanching

Jernegan gave a shrill call to the men in the camp, and the superintendent and several other men came to the house

"Take that man away!" cried the engineer. "He tried to kill me. girl threw herself in his way and received the blow."

Corall, who was still insensible, was taken up and carried to the rear of the Inez was supported to her room by her mother.

Jernegan thought it best to spend the night at the camp. On reaching it he told what he knew of the story. This was not much. He did not know who the man was who had attacked him, but surmised it was some Mexican -possibly interested in Inez-who hated gringoes. Those engaged with him in construction work advised him to remain in camp with them, for, since he had excited antagonism, he was liable to be murdered. He had no stomach for the scene of his tragic adventure and took their advice.

Corall, who had been struck in a vital lace, remained unconscious till a sur-con removed a fractured bone and its consequent pressure on the brain. Then he recovered consciousness, and it was not long before he was about again. He expressed much concern as to Inez's condition, his first words after regaining his senses being, "Have I killed her?" When he was assured that she was living and her wound was not mortal he expressed a wish to see her. But she would not grant it. As soon as he became able to go about by himself he was sent away without word from her.

But four hours elapsed between the meeting of Jernegan and Inez and the limax of the drama. Each endured for a lifetime the consequences of a sudden outburst of love from her and a yielding to a momentary indiscre-tion on his part. They never met again. Indeed, Inez was soon convinced that another meeting would not be advisable. She realized the difference in their conditions. Why had she not ione so in the first place? Because the flood came upon her too violently to admit of forethought.

Jernegan, satisfied that he had bet ter leave the locality, did so, sending another engineer to take his place. He is now a middle aged man, but is not married. Inez has long ago passed into that condition of physical decay common to women of her race. She too, has remained single. Strange it is how condensed may be evenus that determine human destinies.

DELAYED INAUGURATION.

Why Washington Had to Wait Until April 30 In 1789.

Although March 4 is the date set by law for the inauguration of our predents, there was one occasion when the rule was not observed, for George Washington was inaugurated on April 30, 1789, instead of March 4.

When the constitution had been ratified by the requisite number of states the Continental congress by resolution of Sept. 13, 1788, set the first Wednesday of the following March (March 4. 1789) as the "time for commencing proceedings" under the new form of gov-

Owing to delays of various kinds, such as difficulties of travel, etc., members of the first congress were very slow to assemble in New York, and a quorum of both houses was not obtained until April 6. The counting of electoral vote, the notification Washington and his journey from Mount Vernon to New York took until April 23, and his inauguration was set for April 30.

His term of office was, however, construed as having commenced on March 4, the date set by the Continental congress for the inauguration of the new government, and so it came to an end on March 4, 1793, although it lacked nearly two months of the four years provided for by the constitution.

CATCH THEM AND KILL THEM.

Don't Keep Fish Alive After You Get Them Out of the Water.

Probably nine-tenths of the fisher-men hereabouts make the mistake of trying to keep their fish alive after they are caught on the theory that the flesh will taste better after they get home and prepare them for the pan for cook-They string them and keep them in the water or let them die in the

The custom is a mistake, according to the experts. They declare the best way is to kill the fish the moment it is landed by pushing its head back and thus breaking the neck or giving it a hard blow on the head. Then take a knife and "bleed" them by running the knife blade around the bottom of the gills

"In order to get your fish home without any discoloration," declares a vet-eran angler, "take along a yard or two of white cheescloth, and as soon as the fish is caught kill it and bleed it. Then dampen the cloth and wrap up each fish separately, taking care that no two fish touch each other.

"By doing this you will find that the fish will retain all the color marking just as clear and bright as when it was first taken from the water and the fish will be sweet and palatable."

Napoleon's Custodian at St. Helena Sir Hudson Lowe, the man appointed by England to be the custodian of the emperor, arrived at St. Helena on April 14, 1816. His appearance was not prepossessing. He was extraordinarily thin, with a stiff carriage. He had a long, bony face, blotched with red and scanty hair of a dirty yellow color. His hollow eyes gleamed under thick, reddish eyebrows, but were furtive and restless, never looking straight at any one save by stealth.

"That is a bad man," declared Napoleon when he had seen him. "His eye as he examined me was like a byena's caught in a trap.'

He really resembled this horrid, sly animal in its walk as well as in hair and eyes. He never sat down when he was talking, but swung about hesitatingly and with abrupt jerks.—"With Napoleon at St. Helena."

REFUSING RICHES.

Chances For Making Fortunes Have Often Been Turned Aside.

is not an easy thing to say to wealth when it is offered in handfuls, but there are people who have done it. In the eighties the best known and most popular actress in the world, perhaps, was Mary Anderson, an American who was as good as she was beautiful.

At twenty-eight she married and has never since been tempted out of her retirement except for a charity per-formance. In the hope of inducing her to go on the stage again an enterprising American manager offered her £60,000 for a season of thirty weeks a fortune in itself. The lady refused. Calve was offered £4,000 a week to go on the vaudeville stage. Her work was to consist of singing four songstwo at a matinee and two in the even ing-which works out at about £150 a song. She also refused.

Jack Binns, who in the early days of wireless won worldwide fame by sticking to his post on a sinking liner and bringing help from the four quarters, was offered fabulous sums to appear on the music hall stage and show "how it was done." His reply was that he was an electrician and not an actor. So he "turned down" a for-

SHAKESPEARE AND SLANG.

Later Day Phrases That Were Used by the Immortal Bard. "Good night," a terse ejaculation that has taken ranking position among the slang of the day, had its source in no less authority than Will Shakespeare. It took a Hamilton college student to discover that the magic words were frequently used in Shakespeare's plays and with as much variety of meaning as we have been giving to them.

"The idea that 'good night' has the mark of modernity," declares this stu-dent, "is a sad mistake. In act 1, scene 3, of the first part of 'King Henry IV.' Worcester says he will disclose a matter of Hotspur which is as full of peril 'as to o'erwalk a current roar ing loud on the unsteadfast footing of a spear.' To which Hotspur replies. If he fall in, good night.'"

Many other bits of modern vernacular are from Shakespeare, the student says, among them "Go to it!" "You cheese!" "I am for you," "Dead drunk" and plenty of others.

And regarding that once very favorite phrase "Beat it" the student says this: "Every one from a former presi dent to a newsboy has made use of these two words. Yet in act 2, scene 1. of 'The Comedy of Errors' Luciana exclaims: 'Fiel Beat it hencel' "

The Indignant Mandrill. The blue faced mandrill which, or who, has ended an unhappy life in his solitary cage at the zoo was a victim to the human sense of humor. Care must be taken not to spill over the fingers or dress any drop of the first two named liquids. MANY children are born with a defect of vision. Unless it is very great the child does not particularly suffer until the school period. Then the young mind becomes intent upon study and any detect of vision becomes a direct strain upon the brain. To relieve this the child will squint, or turn the head, in many cases using only one eye. This habit grows until we almost have a deformity of the eye. Parents; do not let this be the experience of your child. We will gladly and thoroughly examine your child's eyes, and tell you truthfully how best to remedy it. See to it now.

Pay Your Debts

This is the season of the year when most business men are trying to balance their accounts and place themselves square with the world. It would be a much easier task if the people who owe small accounts here and there, would make a point of settling them at once. Such people apparently do not stop to consider the inconvenience to which they are putting merchants and tradesmen by not paying their bills promptly. The amount in any case may not be large, but when a number of people have the same habit of putting off the payment of the small accounts, it becomes a serious matter. Indeed, in some cases it constitutes a serious handicap to the success of a business. People should realize that it is just as dishonest to owe one dollar for an indefinite period as owe a hundred dollars. If everybody would pay his bills there would not only be a great renewal of business activity in the town, but there would also be, we verily believe, a genuine revival of practical religion—for how can a man love his neighbor if the one on the right hand is dunning him for $5, while the one on the left hand will not pay the bill which would enable him to settle with his creditor?

Men and brethren-and sisterspay your debts:

Bars Open on Sunday.

An unusual spectacle presented itsself to the citizens of St. Thomas who happened to pass in close proximity to the standard hotels Sunday. Following the example of proprietors of standard hotels in other places the local hotelmen opened their bars to the public and although there did not seem to be any great rush for their wares there was considerable business done. Had the new regulations come into force during the hot summer it is interesting to contemplate about how much business might be transacted. Apparently there is nothing in the regulations covering the standard hotels to prevent the bars from doing business on Sunday but many people who have taken but little interest in the temperance question have decided opinions on the matter and are prepared to debate the advisability of allowing the hotels this privilege.—St. Thomas Journal.

Chapman-Fowler

A quiet wedding was solemnized Thursday evening, Sept. 28th, when Miss Ethel Jane Fowler, 53 Metcalfe St., forelady in Jane Fowler, 53 Metcalfe St., forelady in the Monarch Knitting Company plant, became the bride of Pte. Arthur James Chapman of the Canadian Army Dental Corps. The ceremony took place in St. John's Church, the rector, Rev. W. F. Brownlee, officiating. Pte. Chapman left for overseas the following Saturday and Mrs. Chapman will continue to reside at 53 Metcalfe St.—The St. Thomas Townsel. Tournal.

Mrs. Chapman is the eldest daughter of Mrs. W. Fowler of this place, and her many friends wish them long life, joy and prosperity.

Provincial Inspector to Investigate Lambton Fires Sarnia, Oct. 17—Inspector Miller, of the provincial police force, arrived in this city this morning, and will assist Deputy Fire Marshall Dickie and Detective Stringer in the investigations which are now being conducted relative to the numerous barn fires in Lambton and surrounding district. Detective Stringer stated this morning there was no doubt most of the fires were of incendiary origin, as in some cases no other conclusion could be arrived at. This investigation will be a thorough one, and nothing will be left undone in the way of tracing down the cause of these costly blazes.

CAN BE EASILY CURED

A Tonic for the blood and Nerves With Rest All That is Needed

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still or for dropping things, when the trouble was really St. Vitus dance. This trouble may appear at any age but is most often met between the ages of six and fourteen. The most frequent cause of the disease is poor blood, aggravated by indoor confinement, or mental strain at school. Under these conditions the blood tails to carry nourishment to the nerves and the child begins to show listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vitus dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams Pink Pills which renew the blood thus feeding and strengthening the starved nerves. This is the only way to cure the trouble and parents should lose no time in giving this treatment if their child seems nervous or irritable. Mrs. Wm. A. Squires, Cannington, Ont., says: "My only daughter, now fourteer. years of age was troubled for several years with St. Vitus dance. She was so tad that at times she would lose control of her limbs and her face and eyes would be contorted We had medical advice and medicine, but it did not help her. In fact we thought the trouble growing worse, and finally we had to take her from school. About a year ago we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and by the time she had taken five boxes she was completely cured, and is now a fine, healthy girl. I firmly believe we owe this to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are very grateful for her restoration to perfect health."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $5.05 from The Dr.
