CROWDS FLOCK TO FAIR; RECORDS GO FAR; RECORDS GO

More Than 10,000 at the Exhibition Monday Despite Wretched Weather

Amusements All in Full Swing and Well Patronized—Judging Begun—Interesting Incidents of a Day With the Busy Throng of Sightseers.

(From Tuesday's Daily Telegraph.) The first full day of sightseeing at the exhibition resulted in there being 3,092 more paid admissions than on the corresponding Monday of 1904.

The attendance figures, as compared with the exhibition of 1904, show: 1904. 1006. Saturday. 3,575 4,072 Monday. 7,516 10,008 Tuesday. 12,279 Wednesday. 15,437 Thursday. 15,489 Friday. 10,365 Saturday. 3,618

With fine weather for the remainder of the week the attendance should easily be a record one. All over the buildings, and in the grounds there was a busy and restless scene throughout the day. Exhibitors reported that sales had been good and the various amusement centres had no reason to complain of a lack of attendance.

THE AMUSEMENTS

All the Attractions Were Enjoyed Yesterday—What They Offer.

The many and varied kinds of amusements were all open for the first time yesterday and the visitor must have been hard to please who did not find something to his taste. The various centres of attraction were well patronized, despite the unpleasant and threatening weather.

JUDGING BEGINS

Awards in Some Departments—The Live Stock Show—Dog Show Today.

The business of judging the various exhibits will commence today in earnest. For the guidance of exhibitors and those interested in the exhibition, the following list of judges and superintendents in the various departments has been prepared:

THANKSGIVING DAY FIXED FOR OCT. 18

EXHIBITION OPENING A STRIKING SUCCESS

Record Crowd Hears Cheering Speeches and Very Fine Singing at Inauguration of the Big Fair of 1906--Buildings Present Many Attractions, and Everybody is Enlivened by the Swing of the Pike.

Amusement hall, the scene of the formal opening, was gaily decorated and, after a little, brilliantly lighted, the electrical apparatus resumed work at first and the people gathered and took seats in semi-darkness. A little after 8 o'clock all was in order and the lights were turned on to show the large building crowded to its capacity and more people stood on the stairways, filled the platform seats and occupied extra chairs placed wherever a place could be found for the people.

The association here the hall nicely decorated. The pillars are twined with hunting and the work is done with much taste—more so than is usual. For the opening exercises A. O. Skinner presided. Not all the speakers were present when the chair was taken, but arrived before their places on the programme had been reached. To the right of Mr. Skinner sat we should not consider nationalization of the port. He also presented the advantages of St. John for manufacturing purposes.

Premier Tweedie, was loudly applauded. He referred to this year's opening as a change from the old style. Then the speakers had to voice their sentiments to the accompaniment of the hammer. He was not the only one to do so, because the speakers need not then be particular what they said for they were not heard.

The politician, he said often accepted an invitation to speak without fully considering what that involved. Mr. Tweedie illustrated this by a humorous story which won for him a hearty laugh.

He was surprised as well as pleased, and up that to note the contrast that existed between those days and today. I remember well the exhibition in Sussex Vale, where the village people came to meet the congestion and people were sent to Apolquin, to Norton, and indeed as far as the city of St. John. Things have changed since then.

"I have had the pleasure, in the long period which has elapsed, of attending other provincial exhibitions, and each as a stepping stone has marked the progress of our own province and not only of our own province but of the dominion of which we form a part. Progress has been in harmony throughout all Canada.

The great journal of events finds us at a standpoint that we were really going to account today in the twentieth century of the Christian era. We don't often stop to think when we are in the twentieth century that we are in the nineteenth. We thought and struggled with the difficulties of founding and putting us in possession of this land of promise.

Does not this suggest a sense of responsibility in connection with this, your heritage and possession? I am sure that as a little reflection you will conclude that while your forefathers hewed out the path for you to tread, difficulties in different forms are yours also and responsibility rests upon you with regard to those that will come after. These responsibilities are very great.

"A nation consists of its territory, its people and its laws. The only everlasting thing is the territory. That endures. When you realize its vast extent, the character of the people, and consider the perfection to which your laws have been brought, you must conclude that so far as your territory is concerned you should make the most of it and as a people not wrap up your talent in a napkin." As I said just now, the only durable thing is the territory and the only thing that endures is the territory. It is not our people, but our laws which should be the basis of our government.

"From those who have gone before us we have inherited a system of government unparalleled on any continent. (Applaud.) There is greater individual liberty for us than under any government under the sun, and while we might fairly congratulate ourselves on that, yet let us reflect that it only emphasizes our responsibilities, that there was work for all and that all over the province there was content and there were fewer poor in New Brunswick than in many other places.

In closing, the premier referred to the government's grant of $100 to the exhibition and said that Hon. Mr. Emmerson, who was to follow, might perhaps promise $50,000 from Ottawa for a dominion exhibition to be held in this city. Mr. Tweedie trusted the St. John fair of 1906 would meet with every success.

Hon. H. B. Emmerson.

Hon. H. B. Emmerson was applauded as he was announced. In his opening remarks he asked his hearers if it were possible to go anywhere without hearing unpleasant reminders. He had fancied himself rather a young man, but when he came on that platform and heard the mayor refer to past exhibitions and especially to one in Kings county in 1861, he was reminded that he had been there. It was a good many years ago, and he regarded it as one of those things which might be termed unpleasant reminders, and his hearers could therefore figure out the rest for themselves. (Laughter.) Mr. Emmerson, continuing, said in part:—

"It is a far call from 1861 to 1906, and I am sure no better theme could be taken from abroad, there is no peril from without, yet our laws and territory are in danger. Of what? In danger of the lethargy that is within us, that want of energy, and want of faith in our country and in ourselves. It may seem academic to say we must protect ourselves against ourselves, but you know—and there is nothing political in this—that every decade, which are more honored in the breach than the observance. In my experience in the provincial and dominion legislatures I have seen the errors, the promoters recognize will not be respected and the people will, if these things continue, cease to be respectable and law-abiding.

People said we could not make money now like in old days. He believed otherwise and it was for us to make use of the opportunities offered by the great natural resources of the country.

The speaker pictured this sturdy young country in the present and expressed his conviction that there was a bright future in store. He congratulated the exhibition management on the success so far achieved and, in conclusion, spoke of his pleasure in the presence of Gov. Snowball and the minister of railways. He continued, "I have seen the errors, the promoters recognize will not be respected and the people will, if these things continue, cease to be respectable and law-abiding."

Dr. Stockton, M. P.

Dr. A. A. Stockton, M. P., was well received. He said he was glad to see such a magnificent attendance at the opening ceremony. "My friends, the premier and the minister of railways," he continued, "have been reminiscent in some of their remarks. I have not reached that stage yet. I was not present at the exhibition at Sussex Vale in 1861, but I have heard of it by tradition." (Laughter) "One writer has said that words are as sunbeams, the more they are condensed the deeper they burn. I don't know if my remarks will burn but they will certainly be condensed as I will detain you but a few minutes."

Hon. H. B. Emmerson, Minister of Railways.

Proceeding to speak on the future of the dominion, Dr. Stockton said the great hopes expressed by the minister of railways were not too optimistic—or his reference to the possibilities in store. "Then friends to the south had not a single transcontinental line from ocean to ocean, whereas Canada already had one and would have three. When the resources of the dominion were more fully developed he believed there would not be sufficient to bring the products of the west to the hands of the east."

Everyone, continued the speaker, admitted the value of exhibitions. They enlarged the mind and people went home determined to make efforts to achieve greater success. "If his hearers had been in Ottawa during the last parliamentary session they would have listened to much about the merits of St. John, the east. It might be well to be proud of the west but it would not do to forget there was an east also. If the crowds must go to the west his hope was that the people of the east would be equally proud of their own part of Canada under the British flag and be bringing about the development of the empire."

But so far as the future of the dominion was concerned there was nothing political in what he was saying, but it was beyond dispute that the time was not far distant when public men would see the importance of nation-building in the parts of St. John, Halifax, Montreal and Quebec, not only for the benefit of the people themselves but for the benefit of the whole people of Canada. For that reason it was a project which should receive universal support.

In closing Dr. Stockton spoke of the work of Mr. Skinner, the president, and of Mr. Milligan's untiring efforts as manager and predicted for the exhibition a magnificent success.

Mr. Skinner then introduced Lt. Gov. Snowball, who formed in a few words, declared the exhibition open, saying: "I have the honor to announce that the Canadian Exhibition of St. John for 1906 is now open. God Save the King was sung and the proceedings were over."

Harry McClaskey's Fine Singing.

Delightful beyond words was the singing of Harry McClaskey, who has never been heard with such pleasure before in St. John. His voice and singing charmed everyone and he was happy in the selection of his pieces. He was twice on the programme and both times was enthusiastically received. While all his selections were sung extremely well, his expression and delivery in tone, his heartiness generally were most pleasing to his third number, "Money, Money, Money," had not been heard in that before. The song gives much opportunity for dramatic work and it was taken full advantage of, especially in the last verse where the singer held his hearers in tense silence and deep enjoyment of his artistic interpretation. This solo won for him a thunderous cheer and there was renewed applause when the opening piano notes showed that he was to sing "Good Night, Little Girl." His very fine singing of this last before we bid him much applause and on this occasion his rendering was particularly good. Miss Mand March was accompanied and performed her duties excellently.

WHAT IS TO BE SEEN

Some Things Which a Tour of the Buildings and Grounds Reveal.

Directly facing the visitor as he enters by the main doors is a very fine booth in which Dunlop, Cooke & Co. have an extensive display of their wares. Facing the offices of the executive on the left and the press room, next office and C. P. R. office, and especially in the last year B. Telephone Company have a booth which offers every accommodation for those who wish to see their instruments.

The Booth of the National Cash Register Company is the next to claim attention. The Boston Dental Parlors have an attractive display of their wares. Facing the E. Williams' fruit stand will be much admired, and flanking it is the booth of the Yim Tea Company, which is a very fine one.

attraction, is next. It is well stocked with specimens of the many inhabitants of our lakes and streams.

The exhibit of the manual training department is just around the corner to the right in the annex. The articles have been arranged with much taste and the exhibit is in charge of T. B. Kidner.

Adjoining this, the St. John Street Railway Company has a large space in which they display all kinds of gas fixtures and stoves. Directly opposite is the very fine exhibit of the C. P. R., and next to that the Intercolonial Railway booth. Both still keeping to the right, Manchester Robertson Allison Ltd. have a fine exhibit, and Peter Campbell shows a line of furnaces and acetylene gas fixtures. Passing along the aisle the following exhibits are in the order named: J. A. Humphrey & Son, Montreal, dry goods; Morrissey & Emery, marble and granite works; Canada Oil Company, Ltd., paints, varnishes, etc.; J. E. Wilson, stoves and iron cornice work.

The Independent Order of Foresters have a cosy booth here, and next to that is an exhibit of Sparks' duckless ash sifters, and Phillip Graman's stoves and ranges.

The Telegraph and the Times.

The Daily Telegraph and the Times' booth, which is in the centre of the aisle between the main building and gallery, is interesting because of its originality, representing the making of a newspaper from the written copy to the printed page. The counter is covered with matrices, held in place by linotype slugs, the curved plates made from the matrices extend up both sides of each side of the booth.

Back of the booth is a picture of the Telegraph-Times building, surrounded by copies of the Telegraph and Times printed on white cotton.

Overhead decorations are of tri-colored bunting. Everyone will be welcome to call. On the opposite side of the aisle the McClary Manufacturing Company has on exhibition a fine line of their stoves and ranges. Emison & Fisher have the next booth, which is very tastefully trimmed. Just in the centre of the floor here the Fry Pig Tobacco Company and the E. D. Smith jams and jellies have exhibits of their wares.

Still passing to the right, the visitor sees in succession the exhibits of the James Robertson Company, Ltd.; the Beverley Company, and Glenwood ranges. The Harvelock Mineral Water comes next, while the space opposite is taken up with a display of the Edwardsburg Corn Syrup Company's goods. D. K. McLaren has a full line of genuine English oak tanned belting in a booth close at hand, and the Dastless Brush Company has also a fine booth near.

In the Gallery

Passing now upstairs, J. Grondino, the plater, and Scott's White Liniment have the first booth, after which comes a fine booth in which the work of the children of the Free Kindergarten has been tastefully arranged. A beautiful Japanese tea both next claims attention, and here the visitor can sip his tea or coffee, waited on by dainty Japanese ladies, while he listens to the music of the band.

The next booth, that of the Woman's Art Association, which contains paintings by local ladies, will claim a good deal of attention on account of the excellence of its contents. The order of King's Daughters have a cozy home-like booth next, contiguous to which M. R. A. Ltd. have a fine exhibit.

Still keeping to the right, the next booths are Isaac Erb & Sons, photographers, and Scovill Bros. Ltd., both very daintily arranged. St. Charles Evaporated Cream fills the next space, then comes the booth of the Red Shield Coffee Company. The Sun Publishing Company have an exhibit at this end of the gallery, while Floods' pianos and organs will attract attention on account of the same displayed in the arranging of the exhibit.

H. E. Gould, of Sussex, has, as usual, a beautiful collection of potted ferns and other plants which will prove a great centre of attraction.

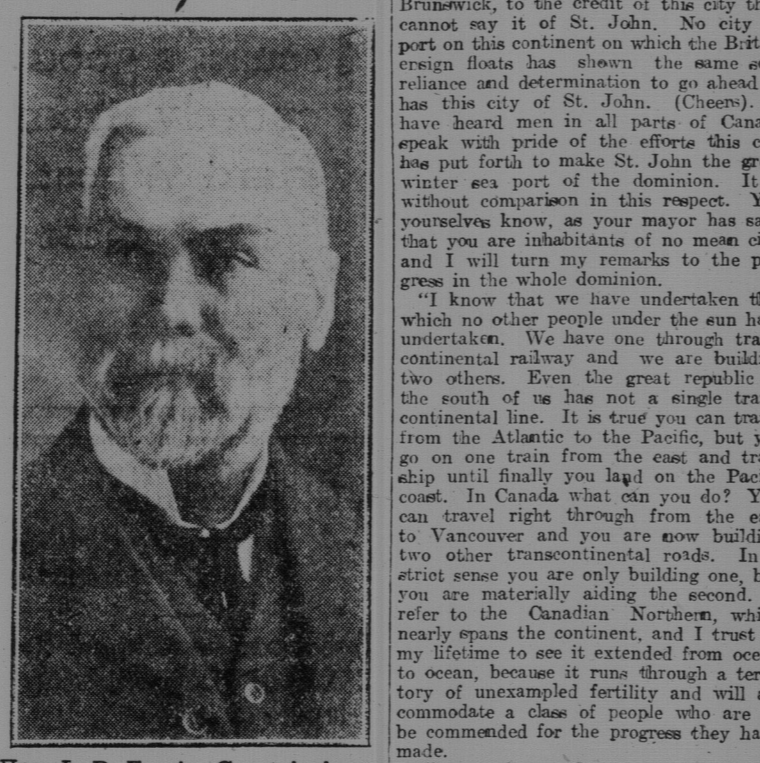

Besides these booths in which the various local and out of town merchants display their wares, the main building is well supplied with places in which visitors may buy souvenirs of the city and exhibition. There are very fine refreshment booths and refreshment rooms in which all may linger pleasantly and profitably.

Motor Boats and Dog Show.

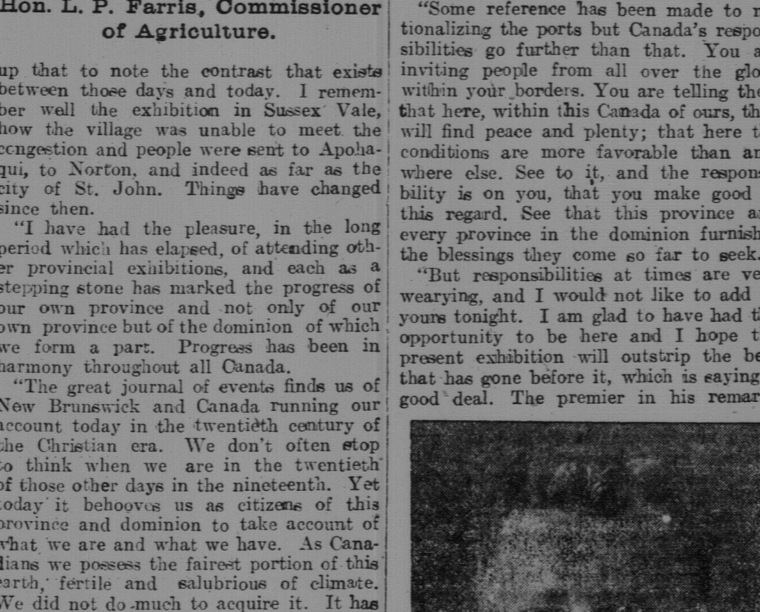

In the machinery hall is an extensive and very fine display of motor boats of various makes and most popular designs. These occupy one end of the big hall. In the other will be the dog show, which promises to be the best ever held in St. John.

SOUGHT MONEY; FOUND DEAD CHILD. Policeman Lawson of Fairville Unearthed Tin Box With Baby's Remains.

MYSTERY FIRST; SOON EXPLAINED. Body Had Been So Buried to Save Expenses of Cemetery Interment.

On Coroner's Advice Proper Burial is Given-Policeman Was Following Robbery Case.

A strange story comes from Fairville as a sequel to the finding of the box which had contained J. R. Clarkson's money.

Mr. Lawson very carefully if somewhat hurriedly deposited the box in the hole again, covering it with earth and stones, respectively connected, but through a mistaken notion of economy to save expenses at Cedar Hill cemetery, the child was buried in an out of the way place.
