NO SPLICING THE MAIN BRACE

How Grog Began and How It Was Abolished in the U.S. Navy.

They didn't "splice the main brace" the other day on the Nashville, when the gallant gunboat had raced through the sea, with every human pulse a-beat, and captured the first prize of the war. They won't splice the main brace on the Oregon, even if all hands should have the strain of that seemingly impossible thing, an all-day's running fight with a fleet of Spanish

"Splicing the main brace" is, or rather used to be, serving an extra allowance of grog to all hands on a naval vessel after an engagement. This explanation is so old that it will be news to many in these days. If things were as they used to be, how naturally it would have happened that when the Nashville had captured her prize, and when every heart aboard was aglow with the success, the boatswain and his mates should have piped through the ship the order, "All hands for grog." At the beginning of any other war in our history "Grog o!" would have resounded through the ship. But-

They've raised his pay five cents a And stopped his grog forever.

Major-Gen. Shafter's order, just pub-"Headquarters United States Troops in Cuba, Santiago de Cuba:
"General Order No. 26—The successful acomplishment of the campaign against Santiago, resulting in its downfall and the surrender of the Spanish forces and the capture of large amounts of military stores, together with the destruction of the entire Spanish fleet in the harbor, which upon the investment was forced to leave, is one of which this army can well be proud. This has been acomplished through the heroic deeds of the army, and to its officials and men the major-general commanding offers his sincere thanks for their endurance of hardships heretofore unknown in the American army. The work you have accomplished may well appeal to the pride of your countrymen and has been rivaled upon few occasions in the world's history. Land-obstacles that, even looking back, seem insurmountable.

OBSTACLES TO THE ADVANCE. "The outlook from Sevilla was one that might have appalled the stoutest heart. Behind you ran a narrow road, made well nigh impassable by rains, while to the front you looked out upon high foothills covered with a dense tropical growth, which could only be traversed by bridle paths terminating within range of the enemy's guns. "Nothing deterred, you responded eagerly to the order to close upon the foe, and, attacking at Caney and San Juan, drove him from work to work until he took refuge within his last and strongest entrenchments, immediately surrounding the city.

"Despite the fierce glare of a southern sun and rains that fell in torrents you valiantly withstood his attempts to drive you from the position your valor had won. Holding in your vice-like grip the army opposed to you, after seventeen days of battle and siege you were rewarded by the surrender of nearly 24,000 prisoners, 12,000 being those in your immediate front, the others scattered in the various towns of Eastern Cuba freeing completely the eastern part of the island completely from Spanish troops. THE COST.

"This was not done without great sacrifices. The death of 230 gallant soldiers and the wounding of 1,284 others shows but too plainly the fierce contest in which you were engaged. The few reported missing are undoubtedly among the dead, as no prisoners were lost.

CAUSE FOR PRIDE.

More soldiers are sick now than during the bad weather in which about 14,000 were in Camp Merrit, where today there are only a little over half the number. Washington, July 25.-A dispatch from Gen. Shafter says that 336 new cases of fever of all classes were reported in his camp before Santiago yesterday. As the same dispatch reports only four deaths, and none of them being from yellow fever, the war authorities are more than ever inclined to the belief that the cases of yellow fever are of extremely mild type.

Washington, July 25.—It is calculated that General Miles has arrived at the point on the coast of Porto Rico selected as the rendezvous for all the vessels of the expedition. Whether or not he will undertake to make a landing in advance of the arrival of the whole expedition will depend upon conditions as he finds them. YELLOW FEVER

A dispatch received late last night from Gen. Shafter told of the death of six men from yellow fever, and also announced that there were 1,500 soldiers sick with fever, of whom 150 have genuine yellow fever. Precautions have been taken by the authorities at Santiago to check the epidemic, and a general shifting of the troops took place to get them away from the infected section. Official announcement also came of the departure of five transports from Port Tampa for Porto Rico. "YELLOW" JOURNALISTS FIRED.

GERMAN FEELING.

London, July 25 .- The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says: Ac cording to a dispatch from Washington the interview between President Mc-Kinley and the German ambassador Dr. Von Hollebon, was very cordial, the latter assuring the president of the friendly feeling of Emperor William and Germany toward the United States. It is said that Dr. Von Hollebon conveyed Emperor William's desire for an amicable statement of America's in tention regarding the Philippines: It is not known whether President McKinley responded.

partment has received the following from General Shafter: "Colonel of engineers of the Spanish army has arrived from Guantanamo. He heard from the French consul there that Santiago had surrendered, and that they had been included. Not crediting it, he was sent here to verify the fact. They will be very glad to accept terms of surrender; very short of rations; and I shall have to begin feeding them at once. He tells in there are six thousand men at that place. Am now feeding six thousand prisoners here and sixteen hundred sick in hospital. Expect two thousand men from San Luis and Palmas. Will send an officer with one of Gen. til the heat subsides. J. R. Bigar, of Battery A, Sixth Artillery, who has been in poor health for some time, committed suicide by drowning here Saturday morning just after his father had arrived to take him to his home near Ithaca, N. Y. His body was not recovered, although over 200 of his comrades spent two hours diving after it.

APOCRYPHAL REPORTS.

Washington, July 25 .- Doubt is cast upon reports of recent exciting events days. The fact among the Cubans at or near Santiago owing to the failure of Gen. Shafter to make any report upon them, and masmuch as he has made less important subjects matter for dispatches it is hard to understand why he should fail to mention an event of such importance as the reported attack by Garcie under Spanish troops on their way to surrender to Shafter.

Drownings. STEAMER KALAMAZOO SUNK. Seattle, Wash., July 25.-The steamer Kalamazoo, built by a party from Michigan on Lake Bennett last winter, was totally wrecked on Thirty-Mile River. The wreck was passed by the party which has arrived here. Only the upper works of the vessel could be seen above the water. The The pilot ran her on a rock, and a great hole was torn in her bottom. The steamer and outfit on board will prove a total loss. This is the second steamer to come to grief on Thirty-Mile River after successfully running the dangerous White Horse Rapids. The river is full of rocks, and the swift current makes steering very hard. The other wreck was the Iowa, but the most valuable part of her cargo and machinery were saved. Kalamazoo, Mich., July 25.—The Kalamazoo Hustlers were last heard from when they had shot the White Horse Rapids, and they had expected to reach Dawson City in five days. The party which was going down the river with the Kalamazoo consisted of twelve men. No news of their accident, if they met with one, has been received here. They are Wm. A. London Should Maintain Its Good Reputation.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

It is currently reported in the city and believed by the generality of citihave made a connection between the river and the water mains, so that in case of necessity the river water can be made to supplement the city supply. The analysis of the river water which you published on Thursday makes this rumor a very unpleasant one. We are told that above the city and its suburbs the river water is "impure and of which, however, it precipitates beween this and Byron, so that where the connection is made with the mains the water is "almost as pure" as it was before entering the city. Is it any wonder that the bare rumor of such a connection should excite alarm, and that a fakir should find a profitable occupation in selling filters to purify water that should be the purest on the ed by the Board of Health, no connection between the river and the city's water supply should be permitted, and Dr. Hutchinsea will be failing in his duty to the citizens if he does permit it. Apart entirely from the question of our own health, London's reputation for pure water is of the greatest benefit to the city, and should not be put in The Water Commissioners have no easy task of it in trying to reconcile a practically unlimited demand with a practically limited supply, and their endeavors to check waste is deserving of all praise. The most serious waste of water seems, however, to be beyond their control. If the city could manage to lay the street dust without drawing on Springbank, the water question would be much simplified. And such management does not appear to be very difficult. A dozen tanks judiciously distributed through the city, supplied with water pumped direct from the river. would be all that is necessary. The first cost would be the main expense, and as there would be no danger from frost, the connecting pipes need be buried but one spade deep. Their maintenance would be little or nothing. A gang pump rigged up at the jail would keep the tanks full, not only without expense to the city, but at an actual advantage to its morals. The "hard labor" at the jail is at present a farce, and none know it better than the tramps and loafers that congregate there. This system of utilizing prison labor is in successful operation in various parts of England, and in no place is it more required than here in our own city. The pump need not be exposed to public view, so that no unnecessary indignity will be inflicted upon the prisoners, and the tides might arranged so that the supply could be kept up without injuring their health by overwork. In case the system was applied to the whole city, a small engine might be used to supplement the work of the prisoners. But I would not advocate its immediate application to the whole city. One tank near the corner of King and Ridout streets would be enough for the business part of the city, and relieve the reservoir of the most imperative part of the street watering. This tank could be in operation in a week or ten days, and a very short time would determine whether it would be advisable to extend the system or not. If the experiment be worth trying, no time should be wasted. The regular dry season is not upon us yet, but the necessity for relieving the strain on our water supply is already apparent. The good name of the city and the health of the citizens alike require a better remedy than flooding our water mains with diluted sewage. Yours respect-JOHN CONNOR. fully.

TARIFF ON BARLEY

Canadian Grain Shut Out of the American Market-The Yankee Farmer Worse Off Than Ever.

Buffaio, N. Y., July 25.-Grain men who make a specialty of barley are waiting for reports as to the condition of the crop in the great barley centers of the Northwest. Most all of the barley that is handled in this city is grown in the American Northwest. New York state used to raise a lot of barley, but the acreage devoted to this crop has fallen off of late years.

The cause is said to be the tariff on barley, which is now 30 per cent. This tariff operates against the barley grown in Canada, and practically shuts it out of the markets of the United States. It gives the home government absolutely the whole option of home grown barbut this is said by the dealers to be a bad thing for the home growers. They say the tariff takes money out of the pockets of the New York farmers, and the dealers point to the steady fall in the price of barley since the McKinley law went into effect. Barley that before the tariff sold for 90c and $1 a bushel sold last year for 30c a bushel intendent Williams, of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Toronto, moves his

Mr. O. G. Spann, of the board of trade, was asked to explain the effect of the barley tariff upon the industry in the United States. He said: "The Republican orators and speakers told the farmers that a tariff on barley would shut the Canada barley out of the country, and they would have the market all to themselves. With a home market, it was explained, the farmers would get good prices for their barley. They certainly got the home market. The Canadian barley was shut out of the United States by the McKinley tariff of 30 per cent. What happened then? Why, all the farmers began raising barley. They wanted to get the benefit of the 30 per cent. tariff, and the home market, and where previously they had raised ten acres of barley they now, raised hundreds of acres. Then the old law of supply and demand resumed business at the old stand and knocked the bottom out of prices. The markets were fleoded with barley that poured in from the Northwest, where the big farmers were raising it on a large scale. And down went the price. In this State the acreage has been falling off year by year. Now there is very little barley grown in Western New York. The effect of the tariff has been that the farmers have been driven out of the barley raising business.

"The Canadian barley is better than malting purposes. Our barley does not have the "flavor" of the Canadian

Chicago, July 25.-The borrowing of $3,000,000 by Levi Z. Leite Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, and the sale of his Madison and State streets corner for $2,100,000, are taken by the board of trade to represent the amount that was sunk in

AND CHRISTIAN

Captain John Philip of the Warship Texas.

Sketch of His Career-His Memorable

Prayer After Victory. [Chicago Chronicle.]

It is certainly not the least significant experience of the present war that officers high in command think of the "God of battles" when the fray is on. No doubt many a commander is a true Christian, but few will have the true manhood to avow their religious sentiment while shells are bursting and bullets are whistling around their ears. One of these few is John W. Philip, commander of the United States battleship Texas, who demolished Sacopa battery on Santiago Bay and who helped to send Admiral Cervera's fleet to the bottom on the eve of the 'glorious Fourth." Nelson, if Southey in his life of the great British admiral is correct, coupled his country with victory. Thus, in the battle off Cape St. Vincent, when he gave orders for boarding the San Joseph, he exclaimed, "Westminster Abbey or victory!" and before the battle of Trafalgar, where this ideal British sailor found his death, he signaled to his fleet that "England expects every man to do his duty."

ster Abbey since, among England's great dead. John W. Philip now fights the same nation that Nelson did, and no doubt loves his country as dearly as Nelson did his, but Capt. Philip--"Jack" Philip, as he is affectionately called by both officers and crew—is not ashamed to show his strong religious faith in the midst of carnage as well as after hard-won victory.

It is indeed a strange contrast, the conduct of Capt. "Jack" during and after the great battle of Santiago on Sunday, July 3, and the conduct of many a "heart of oak" on similar oc-Touching as well as a fine sample of the American sailor is Capt. Philip's remark to his crew when an American shell exploded the magazine of the Oquendo and the boys began to cheer tremendously: "Don't cheer, boys, when so many a brave fellow has been blown into

And after the great battle, when the Texas lay alongside the Cristobal Collon after the latter had been beached and surrendered to the American commander, Capt. Philip said to his officers and men: "I wish to make confession that I have implicit faith in the officers and crew of the Texas, but my faith in you is secondary only to my fatith in We have seen what he has done for us in allowing us to achieve so great a victory, and I want to ask you all, or at least every man who has no scruples, to uncover his head with me and silently offer a word of thanks to God for his goodness toward us all.'

What a strange contrast, indeed, between this silent prayer and the customary shouts of victory. Chaplain Harry W. Jones, of the battleship Texas furnishes these and other incidents of the pronounced religious sentiment of Capt. Philip. On one occasion, prior to this battle so disastrous to Cervera's fleet, the captain was called on board the flag-ship for a council of war. It was also a Sunday, and the decision was reached to bombard the forts of Santiago Bay that afternoon, when Capt.

Philip said: "Admiral, this is Sunday. I do not think we should fight today. We may be sorry if we do." The bombardment was deferred until the next morning. The strong religious faith of Capt. Philip is corroborated by Edwin S. Wheelock, of this city, the president of the Christian Citizen Publishing Company, whose brother married a sister of the captain.

"From all I know about him," said Mr. Wheelock, "I know he hates to hurt any human being, yet, if his duty calls him, I know he will fight as bravely as any warlike Christian of ancient times. You can readily imagine what the officers and crew of such a commander are. He is a very quiet man, almost reserved, in fact but he is a great favorite wherever he is known, with his equals in society, as well as with his men in his capacity of commander."

Capt. Philip's true Christianity has not prevented him from being a good sailor and a brave fighter during the civil war. His career has put to shame Shakespeare's

• • drunken sailor on a mast, Ready with every nod to tumble down,

The captain was born in New York Aug. 26, 1840, and was appointed to the naval school Sept, 20, 1856. He was made midshipman in 1861, and passed through all the grades to his present rank, his commission dating from March 31, 1889. He was in active service all through the civil war, and after the close of the latter was transferred to the Asiatic squadron as executive officer. Subsequently he served with the European squadron, and since that time his service has been diversified. During leaves of absence he commanded one of the steamers of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and also the Woodruff scientific expedition around the world. He was engaged in surveying the west coast of Mexico and Central America, and was lighthouse inspector or the twelfth district. In every position Capt. Philip has given good record of himself. Thus, evewitnesses of the battle of Santiago Bay state that during the fierce fight that typical Yankee stood on the bridge of the Texas and directed the operations of his vessel personally from the beginning to the close of the memorable running engagement. He just escaped being blown to pieces once by the explosion of a shell, a mere accidental change in his position being all that saved him. Contrasts have been referred to repeatedly in this brief sketch of a Christian sailor, There is another contrast yet, the one between the deep religious feeling of the commander and the popular superstition attaching to his ship. The Texas has been accounted the Jonah of the United States navy. Ever since she was launched at the Norfolk navy yard in 1892, she has had the very worst of luck-until Capt. Philip was assigned to her, less than a year ago. Even while the Texas was building several men were fatally hurt while at work upon her, and one mechanic plunged to death from her deck. Her engines were burned in a fire at the Richmond iron works, and her bronze propeller was broken on her first trip. Every turn she took she seemed to go awry. She swamped a schooner on her first dock trial, one of her turrets very nearly sank her docked in November, 1895, it was found that she had structural weaknesses that cost $125,000 to remedy, Every one of the Texas' trial trips was unfortunate. In one of them her eccentric strap got hot, in another her condensers would not work, in another her wheels wobbled, and in a fourth stearing gear was broken. lost one of her anchors at Tompkins-ville, and had other minor mishaps without end. After this accident Capt. Glass was relieved from the command of the Texas, and Capt. Philip was assigned to her. Even then she made one more attempt to prove hoodooism by running afoul of a coral reef near the Dry Tortugas. This was in March of the present year, but the injuries were so trifling that she was put to sea again in a few weeks. Since then she has behaved herself. The unshaken faith and Christian fortitude of Capt. Philip was too much for hoodooism. The Texas was the first American battleship built after the English plans, and this fact made her a cynosure for a long time.

BASEBALL.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Hamilton, July 23.—All three pitchers were badly bombarded in today's ball game, but the London fielders gave Lipp good support, while the Hamilton fellows fumbled and muffed and threw wild, and ran bases like schoolboys. London, consequently, had little diffi-culty in winning. The London players in the past have had a good reputation for clean work, but they did a lot of rowdy work today. Ward was put out of the game but he was not the worst offender. Lohman, because Black gave a man safe at the plate, threw the ball out of the field. He was ordered out of the game by Umpire Black, but as London had no other catcher, Black allowed him to resume. London's batsmen hit Friske steadily for five innings, and then he was replaced by Baker, who fared no better, and the hits were so sandwiched with errors that run-making was easy. Friske, too, was very unsteady, but Lipp couldn't get the ball ture of the game. The score:

MICHAEL DEFEATED BY LINTON.

New York, July 25.—Jimmie Michael met Tom Linton, of Wales, at the Man-hattan Beach cycle track Saturday in a 25-mile paced race, and beat his opponent in the presence of more than 15,000 spectators. His defeat on last Saturday through the bursting of a tire was not looked upon as a defeat by any means by the midget's friends and on Saturday thousands of dollars were bet and won on the "rarebit."

Michael was the favorite in the betting, odds of 100 to 80 being freely laid on his chances. There was plenty of Linton money, however, and in the history of cycling there has never been such a large amount wagered on a contest.

There was little wind and everything favored an excellent race. Still no records were even equaled, as both riders indulged in a good deal of jockeying in the early part of the race. Some of the individual miles were covered in ex-cellent time, the ninth mile being run in 1:38 4-5. In the last lap Linton's men swung out and flew past Michael amid deafening cheers and frenzied cries. Linton maintained his advantage for nearly a mile until he lost his pacemakers. Michael, who was then riding like a little demon, passed his opponent and rode away from him.

With the same unfaltering as-surance a skilled and scientific physician seeks for some undiscovered remedy in the wide ocean of materia medica the nature of a disease is once thoroughly under-stood he has located the latitude and longitude of the remedy; and its ultimate discovery is only a matter of time. It was in this way that Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., was guided to his world-famous "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of consumption.

He realized that consumption is a consti-tutional malady, deep-seated in the blood. He sought and found this marvelous constitutional remedy which renovates and enriches the vital current with nutritious lifegiving elements; healing wasted tissues, restoring digestive and assimilative power, and building up healthy flesh and genuine enduring vigor.

In all those debilitating diseases which are caused by imperfect nutrition; this extraordinary "Discovery" is the most perfect alterative remedy and strength-builder known to medical science. It is not a mere temporary stimulous like various malt "extracts." Its good effects are permanent permanent.

"Dr. Pierce, I am one of your most grateful patients," writes Mrs. Annie M. Norman, of Equinunk, Wayne Co., Pa. "I have taken 'Golden Medical Discovery,' also 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pellets' with wonderful results. I am, as many of my friends tell me, like the dead brought to life. The doctors said I had consumption and death was only a matter of time. That was six years ago. I concluded to try your medicine. I continued until I had taken nine bottles of 'Discovery' and several bottles of 'Pellets.' I got well and have done a great deal of hard work since."

The Invasion of Spain.

It has been stated that the government of the United States intends to send a powerful fleet to Spain. Like many Spaniards we are inclined to say that we hope it is not true. To many curnalists it seems a legitimate subject for merriment and cheap satire. Poor Spain is in a deplorable plight, and however much she may merit contempt, she is a fit object for pity. If the people could express themselves, they would no doubt demand a speedy peace, but her internal condition is, if possible, weaker than her outside defenses. It may seem befitting the irony of fate that the country that has invaded many lands, should in turn be invaded by a foreign foe; but still it is allowable to hope that American enterprise will not be pressed so far.

To conquer three groups of islands, and arrange their affairs, would seem to be a large enough contract for the present, without running the risk of those complications which might arise through the presence of an American fleet in European waters.

No doubt the Spaniards live in mortal fear of the threatened invasion, having long ago ceased to appreciate its comic side; but we will continue to hope that our Amercan friends will carry on their gunnery practice elsewhere.

Republicans Only in Name.

Names are very useful, but somethe name "Republic" is a very good name, whether as to its real meaning, or its historic associations, but we must beware of thinking that it always same thing. Some of the communities in the southern part of this continent bear the name of re-We venture to say that in "monarchical" Britain there is more real constitutional liberty than in republican France; and it is probable that the people there have more speedy and direct control over the executive government than in America. It is possible for some of us to make a fetish of the word republic, and so prefer the shadow to the substance.

The words "Empire" and "Imperialism" suggest similar reflections; and also the name "Colony." The old empires of the world were military, cruel, aggressive; the empire of John Bull & Co. runs on different lines. A Roman colony meant a superior military caste, possessing special privileges, and treating the natives with contempt. Britain has created a new kind of colonies. "An imperialist" with us does not necessarily mean a jingo; and if our neighbors are going to develop "an imperial policy," as some of them suggest, it need not be in the spirit of Napol-

It may be that "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet;' and perhaps the new ideals would have a sweeter flavor if they could be dissoclated from the old names; but that is difficult, and so we must learn to remember that in this case, though the wine is new, the bottles, or at least the labels, are old.

The Higher Task in Cuba. R sone thing to deliver the oppressed and free the slave. It is another and a higher task to train those thus freed for the enjoyment of freedom and the duties of citizenship. We all admit the truth of the statement that to keep men in bonds until they are fit to be free, is like saying that boys shall not go near the water until they have learned to swim.

The only way in which men can learn the virtues of free men is through feeling that they are free, and that there is a demand made upon them for a higher manhood. But the task of putting men through a firm, gentle discipline, and training them for the commonplace duties of ordinary citizenship, is both more difficult and less romantic than besieging cities or fighting battles. In the one case, heroic deeds may be done and precious blood given; but in the other there is a call for a still higher heroism, and that which works slowly and steadily, in spite of the constant discouragement of ingratitude and mis-

Interpretation. The Cuban, seen from a distance, as he fights for his home and freedom, may be a romantic figure; but the charm vanishes when you get too near, and find that the man who has been treated as a savage is stunted in growth and brutalized in temper. Then comes the real test of your philanthropy, which must patiently teach him the meaning of Christian citizenship, and impart new thoughts of life and duty. This is the higher task, and, because higher, more difficult.

Frenchman's View of Mr. Chamberlain.

M. F. De Pressense contributes each month a political review to the international journal, which bears the appropriate name of Cosmopolis. This race, and his remarks are always worthy of careful consideration. it is well to look all round a subject, the following passage is to be noted as showing the effect of Mr. Chamberlain's present attitude on an educated Frenchman who was a reverent admirer of Gladstone and a strong sympathizer with English Liberalism. M. De Pressense is known to many English readers as the son of a famous Protestant minister who has written a biography of Cardinal Manning. He

"Some readers will perhaps be astonished at finding nothing here on the great manifesto concerning foreign politics, that Mr. Chamberlain promulbefore his trusty and well beoved subjects and electors of Birmngham. It is not that I have overlooked the importance of this speech Everything that comes from the man who incarnates so completely the average English citizenship (La bour-geoise Anglaise), and who has been well named the commercial traveler par excellence of Anglo-Saxon opportunism, merits attention. I am not ighowever, of the keen revenge which Lord Salisbury arrayed against his impertinent and unmanageable colleague the day when Mr. Chamberlain was set on the stool of repentance in the House of Commons, and when the silence of the Ministerial bench taught lesson to this brazen-faced orator. Still the question of English alliances is too important for me to treat at the end of a review. I am the better able to reserve it for next month, that the fortunate signing of the convention relative to East Africa, while crowning the work of M. Hanotaux, on the eve of a fall much to be regretted, and while baffling the intrigues of the apostle of jingoism, has cleared the international horizon, and will allow us to undertake this discussion with perfect calmness.

As the writer of these words is one the better class of French politicians, it is evident that the French view of Mr. Chamberlain is far from favorable, and we cannot wonder, when we remember that to them he appears to purposes of aggression and, after America, looks to Germany as England's natural ally. Well, for all these things, French politicians will have to get as much comfort as they can out of their friendship with Russia, and they must remember that France, as well as England, has its jingoes, and that it behooves sensible men of all nations to combine against the "fool fury" of the war spirit.

Whitney's Curious Contention-The Galicians-Fifty Millions in Two Years.

Special to The Advertiser. Ottawa, July 25. - The smoke and noise of the preliminary scrimmage which followed the calling of the legslature, and precedes the session, has to some extent cleared away, and the issues of the fight are now pretty well defined. The case for the constables is that they have exercised their franchise unchallenged for 30 years past, and are every way entitled both in law and equity to rank with their fellow-officials, the deputy returning officers and the poll clerks. The case for the government in asking the legislature to decide the matter is that the courts, having declined to give special urgency to the question, it cannot possibly be dealt with in time to allow all election trials to be disposed of before the legislature would have by law to meet, in January, and that it is necessary to have an immediate decision which the legislature is perfectly competent to give, as the question is simply one of an interpretation of its own law. In support of this contention, the precedent of the Federal House in 1887 is cited, and all recognized authorities, irrespective of party, now admit that the cases are exactly similar. A CURIOUS CONTENTION. The answer Mr. Whitney and his supporters make to all this is that the legislature should not be called upon to decide the dispute because some halfdozen of its members might be affected by an adverse decision, and would therefore be bilased judges; and that the precedent of 1887 cannot be cited, because the same momentous issuethe fate perchance of a governmentdid not hang in the balance. Without stopping to question the accuracy of this alleged fact, though Sir John Macdonald's own majority of 17 was admittedly in peril, it may reasonably be asked whether the rights of a citizen to vote is to depend upon the effect that vote may have in any elec-tion. The constables have a right to their franchise or they have not. legislature framed the law which decides this; they are now simply asked to put in black and white, by special enactment, that which nobody ever questioned before. This is the case in a nutshell.

- THE GALICIANS. So much attention has been given recently in the oposition papers to one class of immigrants going into the Northwest, namely, the Galicians, from Austro-Hungary, and so many inaccuracies have been allowed to creep into the articles written thereon that a simple statement of a few acknowledged facts will be of service. While the majority of these people are only recent arrivals, some hundreds have been in the country from two to four years, and a report of ir general condition may be reasonable taken as an indication of the general outlook for the entire community. From the latest reports pubwe find in several settlements around Winnipeg there are familles of Galicians owning their own farms, upon which they have erected comfortable houses and outbuildings, the latter being well stocked with horses, cattle, and all farm requisites. In fact, the nspector states that in many cases they are better housed and equipped than many older English settlers. Not only are they doing well on their own farms, but large numbers of them hire out during the busy season at good wages. This condition of affairs is repeated over and over again; a few points that may be specifically mentioned being Yorkton, Whitewood and Saltcoats, in East Assiniboia, in the vicinity of Edmonton and through the Saskatchewan district, at Stuartburn and Gonor, and a dozen other points in Manitoba, and elsewhere. In fact, with the one solitary exception of a small settlement near Fort William in Ontario, actual investigation discloses a most satisfactory and creditable state

QUITE AS GOOD AS THE NEXT. The proportion of Galicians taking up homesteads is as large as that of those coming in from the empire and the United States. In 1897, for instance, 358 families took up homesteads, as against 363 English and 164 from the United States. This year, up to May 30, the figures are: Galicians 239, English 170, and the United States 209. 1t may be also pointed out that the Galicians are only a moderate proportion of the total arrivals in the country, for up to May 30, this year, there arrived in Winnipeg 16,451 immigrants, out of whom only 2,307 were Galicians, while 2,364 were from the United Kingdom, and 2,-020 from the United States. These fig. ures are from the latest returns, and place the matter in a different light altogether from what would appear from the perusal of the interminable screeds to which some papers are almost daily treating their readers. THE GOVERNMENT PAYS NO-

THING. Another point may be mentioned in this connection. The government is not paying $5 a head to these people as an inducement to come to Canada, nor has it ever paid them. For twenty years agents of steamship companies been bonused at the rate of $5 per head for all immigrants brought out, but not one cent has gone to the immigrant or the steamship companies. Even this 55 has been stopped now, as far as the Galicians are concerned, and those that are now coming in are not costing the country one cent.

SIR WILFRID AND THE SPAN-TARDS

Terrible things are going to happen to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and through him to the Dominion, for the action of the government in insisting upon the departure of Senors Du Bosc and Carranza from Canada. All manner of absurd accusations of cringing and sycophancy towards the United States have been brought against Sir Wilfrid Laurier but as the Conservative News of Toronto remarks, the premier could not do anything else, and "it is the height of folly to charge him with undue friendship for the United States in taking such action." Anyone that pretends to the slightest knowledge of international procedure knows perfectly well that a matter of that kind would only be dealt with after conference with the imperial authorities, and, indeed, it is more than probable that the colonial office in London took the initi-

FIFTY MILLIONS IN TWO YEARS. An increase in the imports and exports of the country, amounting to ove fifty millions in two years is the best answer to those who declared that Can ada would be ruined under a Liberal administration: "The government of business men," so ridiculed by mem-bers to the left of the speaker, and their supporters in the press, have shown their right to the title by so taking advantage of the favorable conditions that have arisen. By the readjust-ment of the tariff, by the adoption of an imperial preferential policy, by encouraging trade along natural lines, and discouraging artificial inflation, they have brought about an era of prosperity which no natural conditions could have produced had they been hampered by the old unnatural restrictions. Fifty millions of this increase tions. Fifty millions of this increase is credited to the fiscal year just closed, being $24,723,678 increase in exports and $19,236,174 in imports. The farmer, manufacturer, the merchant and the mechanic does not now require to study statistical tables to satisfy him-self that the country is prospering; he feels it in his pocket, his business and his home, and that is the only proof that will satisfy any man. Canada can stand this sort of disintegration, and is finding the road to ruin a very pleasant

Very Encouraging at Winnipeg-Quite Active at Toronto-Good Average at Montreal-Bradstreet's Review

The distributing trade at Montreal the past week has been a fair average for this season of the year. The hot weather stimulated quite an active demand for sorting lines in seasonable drygoods and the demand for the fall trade is beginning to show signs of expansion, the bright prospects for business being an inducement for country traders to send in more liberal orders. The feature of the week has been the large importations of continental manufactures in order to discount the approaching discrimination in the tariff. The customs' receipts so far this month have been very heavy, the heaviest on record at Montreal for a July, and it is estimated that the amount of duty that will be collected for the month will exceed a million dollars. This would be the largest for any month with the exception of August, 1890, when the duty on sugar was rais-In that month the total duty collected was $1,198,000. There is a fair demand for hardware and metals for this season, and the distributive demand for general groceries is fairly active. Sugars are firmer and there are selling. Green hides have dropped 1/2c. The boot and shoe trade shows temporary dullness, the demand from jobbers being small owing to the hope of easier prices. The markets for flour and grain are dull because our markets are relatively higher than those in the United Kingdom.

Wholesale trade at Toronto this week has been quite active for the third week in July, which is generally regarded as part of the between season period which is usually characterized by dull-There have been a number of buyers in the market in Toronto this week from Manitoba, British Columbia and the Territories, and they have all spoken hopefully of the prospects for increased business the coming fall in that part of the country and have placed liberal orders. There is more inquiry for fall staple goods from Ontario points and home woolens and cotton goods are very firm and in many cases difficult to get. A leading house in Toronto, owing to its inability to get sufficient bleached cottons from the home mills, has had to import some of the United States. Foreign dress goods are very firm. There is more than the usual activity for this season in millinery lines, and importers are making preparations for the fall openings which they expect will start the largest season's trade in the history of this market. Hardware is moving out and prices are generally firm. There is a very active demand for smoked meats and prices are firm. Smoke-houses are running day and night which is unusual for this season. Cheese is steadier. Butter is easier and stocks are accumulating. Eggs are steady. Groceries are in good general demand. Packers have withdrawn quotations for future deliveries of canned vegetables owing to the uncertainty about the crop. At Winnipeg the business situation is very encouraging. The past week has been a busy one with the jobbers. A large number of buyers during the past two weeks have been in the city taking advantage of the holding of the Exhibition to visit the wholesale houses and place orders for the coming season, the outlook for which is very promising. Nearly all the travelers representing eastern and local houses were in the city to meet customers and a large business was done. The weather has been favorable for the crops with the exception of hailstorms which are always a source of danger at this time of year. The demand for land continues active especially in the Winnipeg district and prices are still very reasonable. There has not been any boom in values of these lands yet. Trade at the coast has fallen off some this week, and business is quiet. Prices of farm products have declined, butter is lower and eggs have dropped owing to the receipt of several cars from On-Cheese is 1/2c lower. The attempt to make an arrangement among the canners to control the market is meeting with difficulties as some the smaller concerns are reluctant to curtail their output. The indications are that the 1898 pack will be an aver-

Captain Eulate Said to Have Shot 40 of His Men.

New York, July 25 .- Annapolis advices state that Capt. Eulate, of the Spanish battleship Vizcaya, is just now the object of much more curiosity than he has been since his stay. He first made himself notorious by refusing to sign a parole, although Admiral Cervera and all his brother officers did so It is now reported, and the informacomes from Spanish seamen, that Capt. Eulate, at the destruction of the fleet off Santiago, July 3, shot about 40 men for leaving their guns. Horrible as the charge is, it is reiterated by sailors, and is borne out in part by the action of Eulate's fellow-officers, who shun him. This lack of association which was noticeable from the first, was supposed to be the result of the captain's discourteous eccentricity in refusing to sign the parole, but now the seamen have spoken, it is thought the bloodthirsty act of which he stands accused by his men has much more to

WALES' MISHAP. London, July 25 .- Despite the cheerful and united efforts of the press to depict the Prince of Wales as rather healthier, and gaver than ever, under his affliction, the fact remains that there is a strong popular undercurrent of apprehension. He has too weak a heart action to make the use of any antiseptic safe. BRITAIN'S NAVAL PROGRAMME. London, July 25.-Mr. Goschen's speech created a profound impression in the commons, and was the most important utterance of the session. He has gone over bag and baggage to the forward school, and even left Lord Charles Beresford far in the rear. His supplementary naval estimates carry-ing $40,000,000 for four battleships, four armored cruisers and twelve torpedo boat destroyers, were described fore-ibly by Sir William Harcourt as a flaming programme. Mr. Goschen's candor in explaining the reasons for increasing the outlay for new con-struction from $35,000,000 to $75,000,000 was really startling. Russia had suddealy proposed to add four battleships, six powerful cruisers and a torpedo flotilla to her navy, and consequently England must respond by strengthen-ing her own fleet by the same number vessels, superior in every class. Moreover Mr. Goschen was explicit in explaining that these new ships was this anti-Russian tone which made a great stir on both sides of the

GLADSTONE'S MEMORIAL. London, July 25 .- since Mr. Gladstone's death, Mrs. Gladstone and family have received many thousands of telegrams, letters and resolutions, expressing sorrow and sympathy. London, July 25.-Peacemaking is exclusively a newspaper industry. There is no evidence that any foreign em-bassy in London has any knowledge whatever of overtures from either Madrid or Washington in favor of peace. There is no reason to believe that the foreign office has received intimations from any quarter that peace is within sight; yet every well-informed observer is convinced that the war is virtually over, and that Sagasta, while pretending to be in favor of a continuance of fighting, is preparing to make peace on the best terms obtainable. Sagasta cannot and will not rush into peace negotiations before Spain is convinced that the continuance of the war is impracticable. If he was in hot haste for peace he would impair his authority for bringing the war to an way Company exceed £70,000, and it is calculated that the institution of electricity would represent a depreciation anything but humiliating. It is probin this one item of not less than 50 per ably true that procrastination in this case is not the thief of time, but the guardian of peace. Military experts here are amazed by the anomaly offered by a contract with a Spanish line for the transportation of troops from Santiago to Spain at the expense of the victors. The course which Englishmen would adopt under similar conditions would be to invade Porto Rico with the army, and send Commodore Watson's fleet to the Canaries, reserving Havana for cool weather and taking Manila as soon as possible. If Sagasta has been counting upon the chances of German intervention in the Philippines as a diversion in favor of Spain, he has been disappointed by the complete change of tone in the Berlin press this week. It is now considered improbable in diplomatic circles here that the German emperor will attempt to repeat his tactics of interfering with the victors and placing the vanquished under obligation to him. well as the game worked at the end of the war between Japan and China, There are vaporings about European would be specially built for the pas- to send a fleet to Spain, and there is an sage of the Suez canal and meeting occasional shot fired at random here the Russian fleet in Chinese waters. MISS SCHLEY'S MISSION. Madrid, July 25 .- Miss Jessie Schley, delegate from the Peace Society Paris, has arrived at Madrid with the intention, it is asserted, of interviewing members of the cabinet with a humanitarian object. Miss Jessie Schley is the daughter of Charles Schley, of Milwaukee, a cousin of Commodore

Schley. It was announced from Paris that Miss Schley was about to start for Madrid to see the queen regent and Senor Sagasta with a view of bringing about peace and then to proceed to Washington to visit President McKinley in the same interest. Last Friday it was announced that Miss Schley's father, on learning of his daughter's intention, instructed her to return home immediately, disavowing her course and excusing it as the result of a warm, sympathetic nature and a special enthusiasm for philanthropic and peace movements.

Santiago, July 25.—The Cubans here resent Gen. Shafter's attitude in ignoring Gen. Garcia and in refusing to allow the Cuban forces to enter Santiago or to consult Gen. Garcia on the terms of surrender of the city. Gen. Garcia's action in withdrawing his troops into the interior, his letter to Gen. Shafter and his resignation of his command, forwarded to Gen. Gomez are approved and applauded by all classes of natives.

Gen. Garcia refused to accept a subordinate place, insisting that he was an ally. Gen. A lively time is going on at Erie Rest. Nearly all the cottages are rented, and bonfires are much in evidence. Hill Crest is quite up to date. Gas lights the hill and electric bells give notice of visitors. The Hingston & Woods' dredge will complete her work this week. It is reported that she will then leave for Georgian Bay.

The Jenny arrived here loaded with stone on Sunday. Little Leonard Woods, who is sumnering at Port with his parents, met with an accident the other day, which might have been fatal. He had been out for a pleasure ride on the Hill Crest pleasure yacht, and when stepping ashore slipped and fell between the boat and the wharf. He was pulled out of the water just in time to escape being crushed against the wharf. Mr. Arch. Campbell, who is visiting here, met with a bicycle accident on Wednesday. He was riding along on a one-planked sidewalk, when he became nervous and fell, striking his head on a sharp stump. He received a bad cut on the face. The Eagle's Nest tree, which many Port Stanley visitors remember, has blown down, and part of the nest has broken away. A bonfire and taffy-pull will be the

The remains of the late Mr. Angus C. Stewart, principal of the Talbot street school, were conveyed to their last resting-place this afternoon. The funeral took place at 3 o'clock from the family residence, 178 Simcoe street, to Mount pleasant. The cortege was very large, and included a large representation of Eureka Lodge, I. O. O. F., with which Mr. Stewart was prominently identified for many years, as well as many members of other city lodges; the board of education, the city teachers' association, and a large turnout of the pupils of the Talbot street school. The pupils were marshaled by Principal Althouse.

The service at the house was conducted by Rev. J. Edge, pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church. The honorary pall-bearers, chosen at a Detroit meeting of the city teachers on Saturday afternoon, were Principals Graham, of Simcoe street school; Woodburne, of Park street: Liddicoatt of West London; Bryant, of Princess avenue; Eckert, of Lorne avenue, and Baker, of St. George's school. The active pall-bearers were from Eureka Lodge, I. O. O. F.-Bros. J. Hunter, Thomas Vallier, L. W. Crawford, Geo. Mortimore, John Kirkpatrick and Geo. Powell. P. G. Bro. William Skinner officiated at the grave.

The service throughout was a most mpressive one, and the keen grief exhibited by the large number present attested to the great popularity of the late Mr. Stewart with his fellow teachers, his pupils and among the citizens generally.

At a special meeting of the board of education held on Saturday evening, a resolution expressing sadness and regret at the very sudden death of Mr. Stewart, and placing on record the board's appreciation of the deceased's indefatigable efforts to forward the interests of the pupils under his enarge and the best interests of the city at large, was unanimously adopted. husband.

San Francisco, July 25.-C. H. Kline, who represented a New York syndicate, has returned from the Klondike, which he regards as the richest mining region in the world. He said, in an interview. "What greatly impres-sed me was the length and extent of the bench claims. As an instance, I saw a claim on the ninth fier in French Gulch, which appeared to be 1,000 feet above the creek bed, which was turning out $1,000 per day. What extent of territory - is claim of ground covers, no man knows, and the development of the diggings will probably occupy years. As to quartz ledges, after careful investigation, I am strongly inclined to the belief that they no longer exist in that region. As to the future possibilities I would say that they are apparently immense.'

Preparatory Message Sent From Spain to Washington.

Poor Queen!"—Sketch of Her Majesty's Daily Life - Matters Growing Worse and Worse in Spain.

London, July 25 .- A special dispatch to Madrid says the Spanish Government has drawn up a message for Washington preparatory to discussing the terms of peace. An armistice is proposed.

A dispatch from Kingston, Jamaica, says: Austria will remain neutral. Emperor Francis Joseph has said it, and he never changes his word. This was the only comment the captain of the Austrian warship Maria Theresa would make on the Spanish-American war. The Maria Theresa came into Port Royal harbor Saturday morning. Capt. Von Ripper said: "Austria will be neutral. Any American fears that Austria will help Spain are groundless. The troubles of his relative, the queen regent of Spain, causes great sorrow to Emperor Francis Joseph, but the feeling in Austria is that he has given a pledge of neutrality, and he will maintain it."

THE QUEEN'S DAILY LIFE. 106 Dundas Street

What It Has Taught the World Abou Naval Warfare.

An American paper says the war has taught the world these lessons: 1. That the so-called secondary battery of quick-fire guns is of far more importance in battle than the main battery of heavy rifles.

2. That torpedoes are a source of danger on a battleship, and that torpedo boat catchers are ineffective, and, in battle, practically useless. 3. That marksmanship is of more importance than either speed or arma ment. 4. That means of putting a battleship to its highest speed at a minute'r notice is an essential. 5. That electricity is a most valuable aid on battleships, and that it can be used for many purposes for which other nations use steam. 6. That the extensive use of non-in-flammable wood in battleship construc-

Held There This Summer. The director-general of the Bergen, Norway, International Industrial and Fisheries Exposition is Kr. Lehmkuhl. who, though a comparatively young man, is one of Bergen's leading citizens. His treatise on fish and fisheries has won for him national and international distinction. The president of the exposition is Chr. Michelsen, also a young man, who controls the largest tonnage in Norway. Norway and Canada are closely connected because of their trade in provisions, flour, leather and sirup, which Norway buys from us, while we buy other articles from that country. The exposition now going on in Bergen comprises many branches of industry. Its predominating feature, however, is fish. The exposition is a very creditable affair and presents many features of interest to Canadians, not only to the numerous travelers, who, as tourists, visit the coast of the land of the midnight sun. but also from a commercial point of view. The old Hanseatic city of Bergen is in itself very interesting, and consider. ing the location and latitude, an unusually lively place. Bergen has for centuries occupied a leading commercial position in the Scandinavian peninsula, a position which it has never yielded but fully maintained until the present day. Considering the population, no city on the European continent can boast so large a tonnage of merchant steamers as Bergen, nearly a hundred of which are constantly engaged in trading. A curlous fact is noted in that the United States men-of-war, during the present struggle, meet the Norwegian flag (mostly carried by Bergen steamers) more frequently than that of any other Situated not far from the open coast, the city is surrounded on although quite a number are reported almost all sides by high mountains, rising sharply several thousand feet. That part of the old Bergen popularly known as "Tyskebryggen," consists entirely of queer-looking wood structures built centuries ago by Hanseatie merchants. The newer part of the city is prettily built and boasts many public and private residences. This is especially the case in the Nygaard Park district, where the exposition is situated on a very picturesque terraced ground.

after this visit. She had little confidence in women, not believing them capable of justice. They might have generous impulses and noble and generous impulses and tender hearts, very sketchy and pli-able. She would never have given to women the ballot, the law, nor the sole direction of any institution whatever where they would have unquestioned power over others. She did not believe in angelic women, though she knew that there were good women. She always suspected an angelie woman to be an allusion, a hypocrite, or a mere unproven piece of composition which would not stand "No woman has a right to be an angel to anybody but her lover," she said, and, also, "I never saw a perfect woman who had not some serious imperfection in her." Her only divisions of women were into those who listen and peep at keyholes, and those who do not; and the subdivision of those who do not, into women who are blockheads, and women who have brains. Her ideal woman was an intellectual one, who resolutely minded her own business. As for those men whom she did not find either odious or indifferent, she regarded them with somewhat ideal homage. A Summer Garden. The pleasures of a garden are not always without drawbacks, even if although sometimes mild, are often as even wiped their eyes in speaking of her when it was thought that she one is brave enough to defy "the bugs They felt themselves to an' worms an' mice" of Eugene Field's ditty. A phase of garden life which are debarred from intercourse with has driven one tender-hearted suburbanite almost insane this summer is the constant warfare between cats and birds. The garden of the suburbanite in question is a large one, thickly wooded, and at present the home of a number of birds. While the nest-building was progressing, the suburbanice fancied herself the envy of her neigh-bors, so interested was she in the work of her home-making friends. Weeks passed, and now nearly every tree has one or more families of young birds, which the cats look upon as their lawful prey. The parent birds make such a hubbub, which the nestlings imitate to the best of their ability, that all the cats in the vicinity wake up and prowl up and down the garden walks waiting for something to happen. As soon as the older birds catch sight of their feline enemies they redouble their outcries, beating their wings and circling round and round the cat as he springs up a tree and slinks along the branches. The blackbirds are the most rigilant and the most energetic. To keep a cat's attention from the brood they will perch dangerously near the animal's head and utter piercing notes as long as puss remains in the vicinity This is to warn the nestlings that they are to keep quiet where they are and not approach the dangerous spot.

The sympathetic suburbanite declares that in one day she has rushed dozens of times into the garden to protect her young feathered friends. Occasionally her pet cat, a fat, black, spoiled creature, refuses to budge from his lurk-ing place, on some high, leafy bough, and the only argument that affects him is a good shower from the hose. "Poor Tom!" said his mistress. "It went to my heart to do it, but I had to. care of themselves"

True Culture.

Anything that draws the home-keeper from a healthful, loving, faithful join a study club if she finds that it will be helpful to her; but if she finds that it will force her to neglect things that would tell upon the home comfort, there are books that will furnish what she needs for the purpose of mental cultivation, and perhaps her husband could, after he has rested of an evenng, join in the study, and so the two would have the pleasure of a joint interest in a subject. But let the woman who chooses the reading course beware of taking up a work because it has become the fashion. Her own intellectual need should be consulted. She must learn to select for herself; to see with her own eyes, and to decide through her own judgment. Her home must be an expression of her own taste and must prove the fact of her economy of time and strength and money. She must not feel herself superior to the most trifling means towards accomplishing success in home manage-ment; indeed, she should be proud of an ability to make a nickel go as far as possible, and so oil the machinery of service that it seems to run itself.

2 2 Contagious Diseases.

Keep the children out of doors in clear weather, except when they are eating or sleeping, or when they are already tired out by out-of-door exercise, but select their playground. Let it not be at the street corner, where the sewer emits its poisonous gases, nor in those streets which are torn up by the omnipresent gas man, subway operatives or pavement layers. A few of our city streets are happily still free from these invaders. Choose rather the parks and squares, which have been truly called the lungs of the city. We must say a few words about spe-169 Dundas Street.

White cloth cut out around the edge in daisy petals may serve for the table linen, a bowl of daisies is the centerpiece, and if the china is decorated with daisies the effect is perfect. Some of the courses may be garnished with daisies cut out of hard-boiled eggs or white turnips, and it is a simple mat-ter to serve ice cream in daisy form, using pistache for the leaves, some white ice for the petals, and a yellow French cream or frozen custard for the

R . The Tunio Again

An importer of unquestioned veracity says that the tunic is the latest thing worn. It is a long basque reaching almost to the knee, and forming an overwaist and is usually built of rich guipure or embroidered lawn. From the same authority I learn that dresses with short sleeves and mittens of black net or lace fastened into the sleeves will be worn this summer.

RR Revival of Pongee Underwear.

Pongee has lately been revived for underwear, and with a purpose, as nothing is cooler for hot weather use, and nothing will resist the merciless efforts of the laundress as well as this light, washable silk. It is trimmed with white or butter-colored laces and insertions through which ribbon is

The prediction that longer coats are to be worn has not yet ben realized. On the contrary, the newest designs for jackets to be worn when chilly evening zephyrs forewarn the summer girl that her reign is at an end, are all short and close-fitting. Eton coats are recommended by the tailors as one of the most desirable styles for the coming season. There are double and single breasted etons, and eton coats turned back in fancy double revers, which do not meet or fasten in front at all. The plain short-fitting fly-front coat, with small revers turned just enough to show the necktie and fasten below, is shown among models as one of the styles which never die out.

Lambertville, N. J., July 25.-Three young women living near this town, Mary Joline, Carrie Steinbeck, and Mary Costello, went out to Goat Hill Berries were many and big and black and sugary. The young women's joy was consequently great. In one short half-hour their mouths were surrounded with berry stains, and the botns of their pails were nearly covered. The girls agreed to retire to a secluded and shady spot on the edge Mary Joline and Mary Costello started toward the trees. The regular meeting of the London cheese board was held on Saturday afternoon, and the salesmen became tired of the actions of the buyers, who are sore over the board refusing to comply with their request to make it compu sory to buy and sell at the board only. A week ago Saturday the buyers held forth in the arcade, but last Saturday they attended the meeting in the city hall and sat in the center of the crowd of salesmen. They appeared to be enjoying the situation immensely, and declined to bid on nearly all of the offerings. During a discussion of the trouble with the buyers, one of the salesmen said: "Get up there and bid like men, and do not act like a pack

SERIOUS ASSAULT

Constable Spicknell, of Pottersburg, Felled With a Rock by Two Men Whom He Attemped to Arrest.

County Constable Samuel Spicknell. of Pottersburg, drove to the police station here on Saturday night with his head badly cut and his clothing covered with blood that oozed from an ugly cut in the head. Two young men from the city drove out to Pottersburg in company with a young woman, and a disagreement took place as soon as they arrived there. The trio had been imbibing freely, and became decidedly illhumored. A row occurred that disturbed the whole population of Pottersburg, and Constable Spicknell set out to quell the disturbance. The officer attempted to place the "disorderlies" under arrest, but they drove off. He followed them, but was soon distanced whenever he approached them. When near Crumlin the officer overtook the fugitives and ordered them to surrender. They replied with a volley of oaths, and, jumping out of the rig, followed this up with a volley of rocks, one of which struck the constable on the head, inflicting a long gash behind the ear. The constable fell on the road, while his assailants escaped to the bush and forsook the rig. When the officer recovered sufficiently he drove back to the city, where he learned the names of the two men. Warrants were issued for their arrest, charging them with assaulting a constable.

BURNS WON THE DINNER. There is a story told of Robert Burns in his youth, says the Newcastle, England, Weekly Chronicle. Burns was living in the town of Ayr, and though still young had attained more than a local reputation as a poet. One day he was passing through the main street of the town and saw two strangers sit ting at one of the inn windows. With idle curiosity he stopped to look at them. Seeing him, and chinking that the rustic might afford them some amusement while waiting, the strangers called him in and asked him to dine with them. Burns readily accepted the invitation, and proved a merry, enter-

When dinner was nearly finished, the strangers suggested that each should try his hand at verse-making, and that the one who failed to write a rhyme should pay for the dinner. They felt secure in the challenge, believing that their rustic guest would pay for the meal. The rhymes were written, and Burns read the following: "I, Johnny two sheep; two sheep saw Peep, saw Half a crown apiece will pay for their fleece, and I, Johnny Peep, go free." The strangers' astonishment was great, and they both exciaimed: "Wh are you? You must be Robbie Burns.

We have had an expert chemist from Boston here for some time, starting our glycerine works, and I have been talking to him about our London sewerage problem. FLORISTS' MISTAKE

Another Bridal Couple Enjoyed the Benefit of Their Decorations.

Accidents and mistakes are always liable to happen at a wedding, and many brides and grooms have learned to their cost that it pays to supervise the arrangements for their marriage themselves. An amusing thing happened to a very smart wedding not far from London recently. The bride's parents sent to some fashionable city florists to decorate the chancel of the parish church, but when the bridal party arrived not a flower was visible. and the place was as bare as a barn. Indignation and surprise consumed all concerned, and violent inquiries were sent by wire to the fashionable florists to learn why they had failed to obey instructions. The answer came in due time with the bill, and on inquiry it was discovered that the smart 2 o'clock nuptils had been preceded by another earlier wedding. The florists had arrived just before and profusely adorned the church, but as soon as the ceremony was over, supposing it to be "the" wedding for which they were engaged, they carefully removed all the decorations and bundled them off to town.
