REFUSE TO SURRENDER THE GREAT PEACE RACE

Canucks Back From Russia Tell of Furious Campaign-Red Soldiers Good At First, Well Equipped and Officered, But Are Losing Morale.

London, July 4.—Canada's very latest fighting soldiers have arrived at Ripon, bearing triumphantly the shell case of the very last shot fired by Canadians. This interesting batch of fighters consists of the 16th Brigade, Canadian Artillery, which for the last six months has been assisting General Ironsides, commanding the fighting against the Bolshevists in Northern Russia.

The brigade sailed homeward at the end of the month. Roughly speaking it was divided up in four sections. This Canadian artillery has been assisting General Ironsides, and his mixed command of British, American and French, in operations over an area of some 200 miles. The whole brigade at Ripon today looked very fit, and was extremely humored and contented in spirit this week. Col. C. H. Sherman, Ottawa, commanded the brigade, the other officers including Major Arnoldi, Toronto; Lieut. J. Roberts, London, and Lieut. A. McCausland, St. Thomas. The brigade arrived at Archar el on October 1st, and within three

London, July 4.—Officers and monoid of the Canadiar toops just back from Russia attempt to give some connected account of their experiences both of the country and of their enemy, but admitted the whole business was about as mixed as Russian affairs generally are.

Fighting, some maintain, was somewhat of guerilla fashion. Bolshevists, they say, had guns of superior range to our men. Regarding this, it should be said that the British authorities were solely responsible for arming the whole force. The Cana and sonly supplied personnel for their artillery. There were notable ratacks by 500 Bolshevists against 19 odd Canadian artillerymen who were holding a village. Fighting continued for nine hours, and the Canadians were obliged to abandon their hold, but eventually retook the place.

Fierce Fighting.

In January, there started a flerce desultory battle, which continued some two months, the enemy numbering about 6,000. Gen. Ironsides' force of around 1,500 included the 68th Battery of Canada. He was compelled to retreat 60 wounded, but leaving everything else.

The Canadian force for this campaign totalled 22 officers and 900 men. The casualties during the whole campaign was one officer and six others killed, and 20 wounded. The officer killed was Capt. Mowat of Campbelltown, and Col. Sherman handed to the Canadian Press a pathetic little account how he heard of Capt. Mowat being near his end and managed to reach him and pinned on his breast a military cross, which he had earned earlier in the expedition. Col. Halifax, July 4.—The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived last night with nearly 4,000 returning troops, of whom about 1,200 were for Nova Scotia. Among the distinguished officers on board was Brig.-Gen, Brutinel of Montreal, who was in command of the machine gun company, and was the originator of the motor machine gun idea, which was adopted by the Allies. Among the civilians on board was Premier W. F. Massey of New Zealand, whose wife and family also returned. Right Hon. Dr. Massep signed the peace treaty on behalf of New Zealand, and immediately thereafter took a motor car from Versallies to Havre, where he boarded a British destroyer and speeded for Spithead, where the Mauretania was waiting for him, and on which Mrs. Massey and family had embarked at Southampton. Sir Joseph Ward, treasurer of New Zealand, also was on board.

Holland Folk Are Not Inclined To Surrender the Ex-Kaiser.

BILL MUST ENTER DOCK

No Special Privilege in Event of His Trial Being in London.

London, July 4.—The only surprise of the report by Premier Lloyd George on the work of the peace conference to the House yesterday was the news that the former German emperor would be tried in London. The premier has a habit of launching news in speeches, a notable previous instance being his address in which he said that three submarines had been sunk in one day. The address came at a time when the submarines were the most menacing factor in the war situation.

A Well-Kept Secret.

The decision to bring the former emperor to London, with other prominent accused persons, had been a well-kept secret, and it is said Mr. George was prepared for the proposal. Holland has yet to be reckoned with, it is reported. Dutch public opinion has seemed to strongly support the kaiser's right of asylum there, and there are many predictions that Holland may refuse to give up the deposed monarch, and that the powers will not coerce her.

Great state trials in England, of which there have been none for many years, have been held: Westminster Hall; but it is not believed that William Hohenzollern will be given that honor. The procedure for his trial will be laid down by a commission which will be appointed, by, a committee which the Allies will soon set up to execute the provisions of the peace treaty. Five judges will be chosen by the British. American, French, Italian and Japanese Governments, and it is said they will constitute the court. In that event the Earl of Reading, lord chief justice, will sit for Great Britain, and Edward Douglass White, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, is regarded as the logical choice of the American Government. Parliamentary gossip holds that the former emperor certainly should not be given a privileged position in court, but should be put in the dock like any other man charged with a crime.

The trial is looked for this autumn.

be a humiliation for Holland to surrender the former monarch at the demand would be untenable under the law, since the kaiser's case does not come under extradition treaties, and the charge of "a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties is not covered by existing laws.

Press Satisfied.

With one or two exceptions, the morning newspapers expressed satisfaction with Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House yesterday. Several, including some most friendly to the premier, refer to its "defence" of the peace treaty, but there is a general agreement that he gave a good answer to those clamoring for more drastic terms, as well as those objecting to the oppressive features of the peace treat. The Laborite Herald alone sweepingly condemns the speech, asserting it to be unsatisfactory to most Labor and Liberal members of the House. The Liberal Daily News, however, while continuing to criticise certain terms of the treaty, says the validity of many of the premier's arguments is incontestable, and warmly praises his declaration of faith in the league of nations. Only a few comment on the announcement of the trial of the former German Vancouver. July 4.—At the end of the afternoon session of their convention yesterday, the G. W. V. A. elected Comrade W. P. Purney of Halifax president of the G. W. V. A. of Canada. This begins Comrade Purney's third term of office. The election of other officers of the association will take place this morning. The convention rose to its feet and cheered President Furney most enthusiastically. The president responded briefly.

Consideration of committee reports and the land settlement resolution occupied the time of the convention all afternoon. In addition to concurring in the principles of law and order, minimum wage legislation, old age, illness and unemployment insurance, improved conditions for labor, proportional representation, restriction upon immigratice and nationalization of aliens, equal opportunities for children, the convention passed clauses in the report of industrial commission disclaiming sympathy with factions controlled by the extremists who strive by all means to overthrow their institutions and breed discord and advocate riot or revolution. Other principles approved by the convention were: Public ownership of cold storage plants, the superannuation of a certain number of civil servants whose positions could easily be filled by returned soldiers, and a longer period of training in the vocational training system, with properly qualified craftsmen in charge of every department. only a few comment on the announcement of the trial of the former German emperor, saying that the Allies are honoring England's reputation for fair play, which must be lived up to.

Whether the bylaw will pass the council is another matter. It is being prepared by the city solicitor and the special railway committee at a special meeting of the latter body this afternoon. With one exception, the members of the special committee are opposed to it, but have no alternative but to obey the behest of the council and have it drawn in preparation for submission to the whole council on Monday night.

As an emergency measure the bylaw could be given its three readings at the one meeting, but in case an objection is raised to it, as almost certainly will happen, a two-thirds majority of the council will be required to finally pass it at the one meeting. If the necessary two-thirds majority is not obtained, the final reading will have to be deferred until a further meeting can be called, and as this would require the usual twenty-fout hours' notice, the bylaw could not be made operative in that event before Tuesday afternoon or evening.

FACTORY EMPLOYEES SAY THEY WALKED 75 MINUTES TO LABORS THIS MORNING

Motorists in East End Did Not Volun- OF CORN AT INGERSOLL teer Rides.

There seems to be quite a diversity of opinion in regard to the generosity of the London motorists towards the pedestrian, now that the strike is on. While many citizens, especially those in North London, report constant invitations to ride down to the city, those in the factory districts of East London say that they spent over an hour trudging to work this morning, without the welcome offer of a lift. Young girls, after an hour and a quarter's walk, are said to be unfitted for their work, and it is suggested that it would be an act of kindness on the part of motorists if they could in some way cut short this walk. Even a uniformed S. C. R. nurse was allowed to complete her three-quarters of an hour walk without an invitation to ride

In contrast to this, in the north end, delivery rigs were picking up stenographers, and the city garbage cart was the taxi for two young businessmen, and they were glad of the ride.

One man was heard to say: "Oh, I'm willing to take people, but I don't like asking them to ride," and perhaps his case is the case of many.

Now that we have Sunday car service to Springneck of the woods. With our shady streets, well-payed roads and handsome residences, we have a town of which we may well be proud. Our police department is on a par with the best on this continent, and the festive thing gets but a cool reception from Chief Williams' hired men, and, by the way, the chief is a wonderful old boy and can give cards and spades to great many heads of similar departments in Canada and the United States. Add to the above, the fact that we can all reach our work in a few minutes on foot or by conveyance, and you have a town which appeals to anyone who wishes to live quietly, comfortably and happily. No bright colored flies, either wet or dry were used to lure the fish to their doom. Instead a few of those humble little worms were impaled on a hook. The fishermen did not walk boldly to the edge of the stream and cast their lines in the water, for had they done this their story would have been one of failure. On arriving at the pool they approached the edge in the same manner that a wild beast stalks its prey. All efforts were rewarded when the bait neared the water for from its clear depths a lord of the stream leaped into the air, and another trout had left his haunts, for a home elsewhere.

The last of the Canadian troops in England, with the exception of those engaged in demobilization staff work and headquarters offices are expected, home within the next few weeks.

who witnessed the rites in connection with the passing of the Springbank Park car service before the great strike. "Country's safe yet," chortled the rival reporter as a big car whizzed down at 5:15 o'clock past the picnic sport grounds, toward the end of the line. Five minutes later a Ridout street car stood at attention at the platform, bounded on the south by the amusement park and on the north by the pavilion and park proper, while a genial motorman kindly announced that the last two cars were at the park, and last two cars were at the park, and those present must post-it-vely catch them, or get home another way. "How long are you waiting?" queried the faithful reporter anxiously.

'Cars are in danger of being derailed taking the switches the wrong way," commented the pessimistic one, who also conjured up a merry vision of a scab car coming lickety-pelt around a tree-screened curve to play the wrong-track car and its innocent passengers. Could the company be sued for damages by the survivors, provided there were any survivors.

The pessimist wotted not. The motorman experienced no anxiety about the trail that lay before him. His was the open road, and the whole city car line system for that matter. "When will the cars run again to Springbank Park?" sighed the automobileless, sentimentally inclined, who found in the route beauties on that last ride home that had never been suspected before.

The monotony of "the last ride home before the strike," was given an interesting little jolt just after the car, defying custom, swept under the Wharn-cliffe road subway onto Stanley street, instead of taking Beaconsfield avenue.

Clanging down to meet it came another car, big, bulky, open-sided, determined faced, obviously a Springbank car. Springbankward bent.

The kindly motorman of the Ridout street car looked puzzled, but followed the only course to save the face of his own car. He "backwatered" under the archway and through to the Wharn-diff, and line archly west the Springroad line, safely past the Springchine road line, sately past the Springbank turn.

What of the Future?

Peace has been signed. Germany has subtions. The signing merely of an agreement of peace will not bring an actual condition of peace. It will compel Germany to do all it can to repair the wrongs of war and every other nation must 'Fling away ambition" was the advice of both a national and individual ambition.

There is still all the difference in the world between Europe and America. Life and opportunity in an old and a new country are quite different. It is said one-fourth of the people in the United States are either German or have some German blood in them. Those in America have more opportunity to improve their position in life than those in Germany. This is true in comparison with all old countries.

Canada is even better than the United States. It is very like the United States, more like it than any other country, and is still a country to which a poor man can come with the certainty of success. That was the blessing of America to the world. Great as the crime of the war has been to the world America has been a greater blessing in which every country in the world has participated. Had Germany thought it had an outlet such as the United States was during the 19th century it is fair to hope its ambition to rule the world might have been allowed to sleep.

America (the United States and Canada) is the best living example to which European nations can at the present time be pointed. There is room for millions more to come and help to feed the world and clothe it too.

The corner-stones of freedom here are that "every man is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and that life is enjoyed on the basis of "liberty, equality and fraternity." It is a true conception of democracy.

America's part in the future will be to absorb many millions more from Europe, who will join with those here to feed and cloth the world. The leader, in that task.

America can teach democratic principles as no other country can. It has had no "entangling alliances." It based its future on sound lines and together Canada and the United States form an island continent many times the size of Great Britain, and if the power they together possess is exercised for the common good of all mankind it will form a great portion of all that is needed to insure a happy future for the world.

A Kingly Gitt to Music

Down in New York city a man named Augustus D. Juilliard has just left a fortune of $5,-000,000 to establish a musical foundation. It is the largest single bequest ever made for the encouragement of musical education.

Press reports state that the general scope of the foundation is to aid all worthy students of music in acquiring complete and adequate musical education either at appropriate institutions now in existence or hereafter to be created or from appropriate instructors in the United States or abroad; to arrange for and give without profit to stance come to public attention wherein a citizen the foundation, musical entertainments, concerts voluntarily returned to the country a large share and recitals of a character appropriate for the education and entertainment of the general public in the musical arts, and to aid the Metropolitan name of the man was Bailey, and he resided at Opera Company for the purpose of assisting it in

For many years Mr. Juilliard was interested in the encouragement of art, science and music. Unknown to anyone save one or two members of the family, he provided for the leaving of the greatest portion of his savings to the establishment of such a musical foundation. It will be one of the most encouraging things that has ever happened for the development of music on this continent, or for that matter, the whole world. It is not frequent that the idealist and the wealthy patrons appear in such combination as the bequest indicates was to be found in the character of this modest music lover. Thousands of deserving young musicians, ambitious, but without means to develop their art and skill, will have the benefit of the enormous grant, and genius for once finds a royal round to success, provided, no doubt, that the early struggles have given evidence of worthiness. Those who will have charge of the foundation are likely ficult for any save the gifted and the seriously inclined to avail themselves of the patronage.

But the hope of success, artistic success for its own sake, must fill the breasts of thousands of

CANADA'S COMPLIMENT TO NEW

[New York Herald.]

[New York Herald.]
Our neighbors on the other side of the political line which separates the American Republic from the self-governing Dominion of Canada are to open in this city next week an exhibition of works of art commemorative of the notable part taken by their soldiers in the great war which was crowned by victory for the Allies on land and sea.

For the first time in many years a governor-general of Canada will visit New York, not as an individual, but in an official capacity, and will receive a fitting welcome as the technical link uniting the northern part of this continent with the mighty organization known as the British Empire.

So close are the relations, intellectual, business and social, between Canadians and Americans that it is pleasant to think that to many of the former New York is in a very real sense the metropolis of North America, in spite of the fact that a different flag from ours floats over the cities of Ottawa, Toronto, Quebec, Montreal and Winnipeg.

That New York should have been selected for the display of the Canadian

Perhaps the little man's vanity is just the last link that is holding him and his wife to the old ideal—the ideal which made the woman the clinging vine and the man the oak.

With whom do I sympathize in this particular case?

I haven't the least idea.
If I were in the little woman's place I would stay at home and go without the automobile until my husband could afford to buy it for me. I think I'd stand a better chance of a good automobile for one thing.

In my experience it is a dangerous thing for a woman to let her husband feel that she can take care of herself. He's generally quite willing to let her do it, even when she's a bit tired of the experiment.

But I am not in the place of the little woman I know, and I am not the same sort of woman at all, so how can I pretend to judge her?

I wonder how she and the little man I know will feel about the whole affair twenty disillusioned, disappointed, cynical, unhappy years from now?

The Poet Bill Turns Naturalist and Educates "Babe"

The last time I saw him, the Poet Bill was at home. That is to say, he was enthroned on a huge packing boy in his own backyard, his short legs dangling, and a pipe of ancient manufacture in his mouth. Clothed from head to foot in rather wide grey stripes, he came to a full stop at the one end by means of a large panama hat, and was efficiently bumpered below, by a pair of buil-dog shoes, fastened with rows of large flat buttons. Out of the midst of a brilliant tie, gleamed the emerald eyes of the inevitable Irish terrier, which serves Bill as a tiepin. All around him, conversing to him in their own peculiar language, were Bill's dearest friends—his rabbits, chickens, ducks and small daughter "Babe" literally infesting the yard and his heart. His pockets, too, did not lack attention, for every once in a while a tiny mouse would poke its head out and squeak in pure joy. Bill was at home.

Over in one corner, and attracting undue attention to itself was a tiny gray kitten, "Toots" by name, daintily washing its face after an abundant saucer of cream. "Babe" was thoughtful, and after a few minutes she approached the parental throne and propounded the question which was bothering her.

"Say, daady! Why do kitties wash their faces, after they eat? We's wash our faces before."

Bill only needed the question. Before many seconds "Babe" was firmly seated on his knee and gazing with wandering eyes, as he told her his own fascinating over since, the children of israel, was a tiny gray strike, here the present of the propounded the question with wandering eyes, as he told her his own fascinating the proportion of its and the proposed of the proposed

Will Probably Take Up New Peace-Time Program of Work.

The annual meeting of the London Red Cross Society has usually been held in August, but this year it will be postponed until near the end of September, after the annual meeting of the General Canadian Red Cross Society, which will be held in Toronto about exhibition time.

The reason for this delay is the fact that the cessation of the war has changed conditions in regard to the Red Cross Society, and arrangements for a peace-time program will be discussed at the general meeting. The London society wishes to meet after such ar-rangements have been made, so as to be able to more definitely map out next year's work.

ONE BAD INNING SPOILS HENDRION'S

London's Early Lead Lasts Until the Sixth, When Loose Work Gives Visitors Win.

GOOD PITCHING

[BY BERT B. PERRY.] Bobby Hendrion pitched fine baseball yesterday afternoon against Battle Creek with the exception of one inning. In this frame, the sixth, Jenkins' men crowded over enough runs to win the game, the score being 4 to 1. Hendrion couldn't find the plate in the sixth. Previously, he had been using a nice curve ball and sending the visiting hitters back to the bench displayed in Season Sund a nice curve ball and sending the visiting hitters back to the bench discomfited. But in the sixth, he tried out his spitter and before he could get the side retired the game had taken on a mighty different aspect. Stewart's men had piled up a one-run lead in the second inning, and with Hendrion pitching the kind of ball he was guilty of in the first five stanzas, this lead would have sufficed. But one bad inning spoils a good ball game, and the 524 ning spoils a good ball game, and the 467 locals also seized upon the sixth frame 442 to uncork a couple of boots that helped 409 the contest on its way to the Battle 1.152 Creek win column.

"Red" Got Most London Hits.

"Red" Milligan, who usually hits from the port side of the platter, stepped the port side of the platter, steeped across yesterday because Buller, the visiting hurler, was a southpaw. As a result, "Red" helped his batting figures considerable. He had three hits, one a double, in four times up. Buller, one a double, in four times up. Buller, though, seemed to have the number of every other London player, although the locals managed to comb him for a matter of ten safeties. He was strong in the pinches, though, and he pitched himself out of two or three bad places. Milligan's double drove in the lone London counter, Pittenger being on second when the blow fell.

Hendrion's Wildness Started Trouble. Hendrion's Wildness Started Trouble. Hendrion caused most of the trouble for himself in the sixth by walking Kaylor. Then after Caesar had sacrificed, he handed Main a charity after getting two strikes on him. In an effort to catch Main off first, Hendrion heaved to Newman who let the ball READING, July 3.—Baltimore came up from behind and beat Reading today by a score of 7 to 6. Impromptu Umpire Looks Good.

There were few fielding features, the visitors playing airtight ball all through and giving Buller fine support. No league umpire put in an appearance, so both managers agreed to a young chap named Taylor, who claims to have done some umpiring in the States. Taylor is a military boxing instructor, and he fitted in nicely as an umpire, his work being better than that of most of the officials who have come here this season. He will likely try and land a second worked Jensen, the south-leps and Lotshaw one each. Schriver very much worsted Jensen, the south-leps are recently secured from Newark, the latter being hit hard. The Saginaw pitcher's hitting was the one big feature of the game. The score:

Saving 498 Apple Trees!

"Where there's a will there's a way." Two intelligent young farmerettes last year found out the way to do "bridge-grafting" and applied the remedy with almost 100 per cent success. One of the two, a well-known London girl, Miss Margaret McCrimmon, daughter of Lieut.-Col. W. A. McCrimmon, Hayman Court, told the story one day which has furnished the data for the accompanying article. She is very happy over the fact that the success of herself and friend just missed being 100 per cent. The photograph reproduced on this page shows Miss McCrimmon engaged in bridge-grafting on a fine old apple tree, three feet in diameter, which required the operation in order to save its life.

"Bridge grafting is real hard, dis-agreeable work, but it is such a satis- finish the orchard. reeable work, but it is such a satis-tion," said the former farmerette, she showed one afternoon a col-agreeable work, but it is such a satisfaction," said the former farmerette, as she showed one afternoon a collection of snapshots taken last spring and summer in an Ontario orchard, not far from Owen Sound, an orchard which she and a friend literally saved for the owner.

"How did we learn to be bridge grafting experts?" she continued with langshter in her eyes and quivering around the corners of her mouth. "We didn't learn at all. We just did it. You see, early in the spring of 1918, while we were living in Toronto, and when there was such an insistent demand for girls to take the place of men in farm work, my friend and I registered at the women's farm work department of the Government Employment Bureau. It wasn't long till we were called to go up north to do bridge grafting in an orchard in which the field mice had done their best to destroy 500 trees by 'girdling' them, or eating circles of bark right around the trees. Unles saved by bridge grafting, the trees would die.

FUTURE STAKED ON THE ORCHARD.

"Apart from the loss of food involved in a year like last year, and the great permanent loss of the fruit trees, the worst of it was that the owner of the farm had staked his whole future on the trees of that young orchards.

"It was obliged to return to Toronto in September to do social service work, but my friend remained until the middle of November for the picking and packing of the apples.

SUPERINTENDED GANG OF MEN.

"It was quite a triumph for the work of women that she was made the superintendent of a gang of six men, personally looking after all the packing."

"It was quite a triumph for the work of women that she was made the superintendent of a gang of six men, personally looking after all the packing on his fine old orchard or 100 trees would be ruined. The mice had not only girdled the trees above the ground, but owing to the fact that there was no snow they had burrowed through the earth and eaten the bark anything about bridge grafting, anything about bridge grafting them.

"We protested that we didn't knew anything about bridge grafting or any other grafting. The reply was that and finally went on my own terms.

"When I saw the big trees, and particularly the one shown in the picture, I was simply appalled. But I went to work, and the farmer and his wife helped me, and we got through in record time. I really got a lot of pleasure out of the second experience.

"A year ago last spring, on the fruit farm up north, we used to carry around with us as a part of our kit when bridge grafting an old box with SAVES APPLE TREES FROM TOTAL LOSS

"We found on our arrival at the farm that the mice had eaten the bark near the base of the trees, which were a few inches in diameter, so that the sap could not travel through from the roots.
"We owned up to our irrepresentation." "We owned up to our ignorance right away to the farmer, but told him we would do the best we could to find

GRAFTING WAX VS. FUDGE.

"He knew something we didn't.
how to make grafting wax. Anybody that can make fudge can do that, simply by following the recipe. If the farmer hadn't known, we would have simply looked it up in books of expert advice and followed the directions, just as we would have done in baking a as we would have done in baking a cake.

"It isn't nearly as nice, clean work as making fudge or baking cakes. To make grafting wax you boil resin, tallow and beeswax together until it forms a ball when you drop it in cold water (sams way as making taffy).

"It is the sticklest stuff you ever saw. Gets all over everything, on your clothes, on the floor, on the pump. That is one of the features about grafting that isn't exactly pleasant.

"One of the disagreeable things about bridge grafting is that you have to do it in such cold weather, before any buds are out on the trees. If you waited for budding time and warmer weather the shoots would grow out, the sap would go into them, and the upper part of the tree would die.

"Another disagreeable feature is that you work so near the ground you have you work so near the ground you have to lie right down on the cold, damp ground, which still has frost in it. "We overcame the latter feature in a measure by taking out a rubber sheet and laying it on the ground at the base of the tree on which we were base of the tree on which we were working.

"One of the first things we had to do was to learn how to bridge graft. We found out that bridge grafting involves making V-shaped incisions opposite one another in the tree just above and below the girdle, and inserting in these the two ends of a 'scion' or 'graft,' in a way to bridge the girdle. A whole lot of soft grafting wax is then put over the ends of the grafts. Hospital gauze torn in strips and soaked in the wax is then bandaged about the trees. We made great rolls of these bandages, and I tell you I found my Red Cross training very helpful.

"FIRST AID COURSE USEFUL.

"A St. John Ambulance first aid course would be very convenient as a preparation for the profession of bridge grafting.

"No, the grafts do not stand out exactly like teapot handles. If they did, they would soon get torn off. They are laid as closely to the tree as possible. The idea is to connect up the sap from below the girdle with the upper part of the trees. of the trees.

kind, but the operation is such a delicate one you can't manage with gloves.

"You have to work with a penknife, and the cuts must be as fine as possible, the smaller the incision the better.

"After the incisions are made and the ends of the grafts inserted, then the cavity is stuffed with wax.

"We inserted the grafts every four or five inches. Later we read that the grafts should be placed an inch and a half apart. We wouldn't have been able to finish in a year if that had been the case. Our grafting proved most satisfactory.

"We couldn't do anything but laugh. "Fortunately, we just had three more trees to do, but it took ever so much longer, because we had to run into the house every little while to melt the wax, and it was almost hard by the time we got back to the tree again.

NEGLECT NOW—FAMINE LATER.

"As I go through the country on the train now it makes me ache to get at some of the orchards that are simply going to waste through lack of pruning, grafting and general neglect. In addition to neglecting the old orchards, and this means that in time, unless something is done, Ontario apples will be almost a thing of the past.

Canada Drifting in Stormy Sea With No Hand at the Helm

American Writer Finds That Union Government Has Scarcely Any Friends Except Those Who Feed Directly at Public Trough.

A remarkable size-up of the political and industrial situation in Canada is contained in a recent number of the St. Louis Daily Globe Democrat from the pen of John Lloyd Balderson. His article was written in Ottawa after returning from the European war fields and a tour of Great Britain and Ireland. It certainly does not give Canada the best recommendation abroad, and, though an imparial review of Canadian conditions, it is the writer's conviction, when all things are weighed, that Bordenism and the present Union Government are wholly responsible for conditions described as "serious" and "grave." The article was evidently prepared before the delivery of the Budget, and it is, on that account, the more remarkable in its prophecy.

The story follows:

OTTAWA—Strange and disturbing rumors regarding Canada were afloat in London and Paris before I left Europe. The present coalition government, I was told, had purchased by advertising grants practically the entire press, landed the Dominion in a financial morass from which there is no escape by a frenzied and stupid fiscal policy, and ruled the country by a system of arbitrary orders in council that not only set aside the authority of Parliament, but in more than one case refused to citizens, whose property had been taken over by the state without legal proceedings, the right to lay their grievances before the courts.

"Canada," an eminent Canadian state of the country at the party of the country and Bolshevism."

Having been told these things, I came to Ottawa to seek out the truth. The water had painted too black a picture, an amazing political situation one exist here.

"Canada is drifting on a stormy sea, Canada is drifting on a stormy sea, and if she escapes piling up on the rocks it will be because of that gent, and if she escapes piling up on the rocks it will be because of that gent, and if she escapes piling up on the rocks it will be because of that gent, and if she escapes piling up on the rocks it will be because of that gent, and if she escapes piling up on the rocks it will be because of that gent and the she was a single their offspring about here of she political navigation that the English and the she was a single their offspring about here is a state that the public trough. "I have gained fifteen pounds since it commenced taking Tanlac, and since my health failed five years ago, it is the only medicine that has done me a particle of good," said M. M. Miller, a well-known and popular traveling salesman for the Northwostern Manufacturing and Milling Company, who lives at 302 North State street, Aberdeen, S. Dakota.

"I don't believe any man on earth ever had a worse case of stomach trouble than I did," continued Mr. Miller, "and I know I took enough medicine during that five years, to cure a dozen people, but I never got any relief and I day a real with the columbia that his provincial government proposes to collect taxes on the income from these tax-exempt war bonds, whatever the government at Ottawa may say. At present the credit of the province of Quebec stands higher than Dominion credit. Industrial Unrest Wide. Industrial Unrest Wide. Industrial unrest exists on a wide scale throughout the country. In the east it centres in Toronto, where Bolshevik orators are cheered by crowds in spite of the fact that wages continue high and little unemployment exists. These agitators, I was assured during a short stay in Toronto, are not men from across the border, but come from England or Wales.

In the west conditions are more disturbing. Winnipeg is a centre of red propaganda. The worst labor situation in the Dominion is on the coast, where the breakdown of the Seattle strike does not seem to have discouraged the Bolshevik agitators among the minery and lumbermen to the north of the frontier.

Everything I ate would sour on my stomach, and this would cause gas to form so bad that the pains I would have would almost kill me. I was in so much misery that I couldn't sleep at night, and would have to walk the floor for hours at a time. I lost in weight from two hundred and forty-five pounds to one hundred and

BRITAIN HAS THE KEY TO PROHIBITION

War Ends For Canada When It Ends For Britain.

FLAVELLE SPEAKS

Importation to Ontario Will Be Permitted on Formal Proclamation.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
OTTAWA, July 3.—Unless an interHouse conference should lead to a change in the Senate's position, existing Federal prohibition restrictions will cease to exist just as soon as the Governor-in-Council by proclamation declares that a state of war, so far as Canada is concerned, has come to an end.

Just when that proclamation will issue is not at present clear to anyone here.

The peace treaty with Germany has been signed, but technically the Empire is still at war with Turkey and Austria and Bulgaria, with whom separate treaties have yet to be drawn up and signed. In the case of Turkey there is no settled Government, and a state of chaos reigns. Austria apparently is ready to agree to any terms imposed, and the same is probably true of Bulgaria.

of Bulgaria.

Big Three Means Ail.

Under the new principles laid down that the various dominions of the Emthat the various dominions of the Empire shall have a say in matters of war and peace it would appear that separate ratifications by the parliaments of such dominions was necessary to withdraw each from a state of war, but it is generally conceded that when three of the Allied nations have ratified the treaty the others will consider themselves bound to proclaim that a state of war has ceased.

The three nations expected to ratify of war has ceased.

The three nations expected to ratify the treaty first are: Great Britain, France and the United States.

It may safely be predicted that just as soon as Great Britain proclaims that a state of war has ceased, the Governor-in-Council of Canada will follow suit. Whether Great Britain shall wait until matters with the smaller opposing nations are cleared up, before doing so, remains to be seen. remains to be seen.

BRITAIN'S RATIFICATION GOES, IS LUCAS' VIEW.

TORONTO, July 3.—The temperance policy of the Ontario Government Is not likely to be radically affected by the Senate's refusal to extend the life of the Dominion prohibition bill, according to officials at Queen's Park today. If the Dominion bill expires namediately on the official proclamation of peace, the province will be in the same position which is occupied before the federal law was passed, in the opinion of Hon. I. B. Lucas.

"In the event of the Dominion's falling to ratify the peace treaty, would existing regulations remain in force?" Mr. Lucas was asked.

The attorney—general expressed force?" Mr. Lucas was asked.

The attorney - general expressed the opinion that when the peace treaty was ratified by the British Parliament it would become effective for all parts of the empire, and that all legislation enacted "for the duration of the war," would thus be automatically terminated.

would thus be automatically terminated. In the extremely improbable event of the British Government's neglecting to ratify the treaty, regulations would presumably continue in force.

Importation of liquor, as a result of the senate's action, will be permissible as soon as peace is formally proclaimed, but no sooner, according to J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the license board.

"What would happen in the event of Canada's not ratifying the treaty" "We have not taken that up yet, but will confer with our solicitor before long, in order to define when the war is legally at an end."

fore long, in order to define when the war is legally at an end."

Premier Hearst made no statement on the subject, but it is recalled that when the senate took its first action some three weeks ago, he stated that the Ontario Government's prohibition policy would not be affected in the main. Some details may require revision, but it is not expected that there will be any change in the submission of the referendum.

GOVT. SHOULD ADOPT STRINGENT MEASURES, ADVISES COMMITTEE

Galt High-Cost-of-Living Inquiry Will Continue.

GALT, July 3.—After holding several meetings investigating conditions which are responsible for the high cost of living, a special committee of the board of trade, of which J. H. Hancock, well-known barrister, is chairman, presented its report at a meeting tonight, in which it is found that the present untrest among the people of Canada is which it is found that the present unrest among the people of Canada is due to the high cost of living, and the committee felt that unless some very stringent measures are adopted by the Dominion Government, condstions of people will become unbearable, socially and otherwise.

Considerable Discussion.

There was considerable discussion over the report, but in order that each member may consider the report carefully, the discussion was adjourned until a future meeting, when a decision, it is expected, will be arrived at. Some of the speakers felt it was a case of supply and demand that caused abnormal conditions and others argued that the middleman was responsible Suggestions Offered.

Suggestions Offered.

The committee's suggestions as to the means to control the situation by enactment of legislation were limitation of percentage of profit between manufacturer or producer and selling agent and to consumer, appointment of cost board to insure limitation of fair profit, inauguration of system of municipal or county cold storage plants, limitation of time goods can be kept in cold storage, to compel publication of financial statements at stated intervals, to proage, to compel publication of financial statements at stated intervals, to prohibit watering stocks, prevent formation of guilds or associations or combines, to prevent control by foreign corporations of stock yards, cold storage plants or markets, provided for settling differences between employer and employer by permanent industrial settling differences between employer and employee by permanent industrial board, to fix maximum rent of dwellings, limitation of amount manufacturers, producers, wholesaler or retailer may spend on advertising and to prevent inter-locating of directorates by allowing no person to be a member of a board of directors of more than two companies.

OTTAWA, July 3.—That not a single cent has been collected by the Government to date under the order-in-council limiting the profits of the pork packers to eleven per cent on the capital invested, and two per cent on the turnover, was the frank statement given to a surprised House by Sir Thomas White this afternoon.

It is interesting to note that in 1915-16-17, the William Davies Company paid nearly a million dollars into the treasury under the excess profits tax. The international trial court had intended to try the former emperor alone, the newspaper says, but it is possible the former crown prince will also be arraigned before it.

LONDON, July 3.—(By the Associated Press).—The prime minister, David Lloyd George, gave in the House of Commons this afternoon an explanation of the peace treaty, which he described as "The most momentous document to which the British Empire ever affixed its seal."

Though showing the effects of his long labors in Paris and lacking his usual fire, the premier at times made impassioned utterances, and was loudly cheered.

His announcement that the former German Emperor would soon be placed on trial before a tribunal sitting in London, was cheered most of all, while his presentation of the Anglo-French convention, which provided for British aid if Germany should attack France unprovoked-a convention analogous to one between the United States and France—was greeted with unrestrained approval. The House is Crowded.

The House is Crowded.

The scene recalled some of the great speeches of the war. All the seats were taken, and every inch of standing room was utilized.

The Prince of Wales, the Japanese, Italian and American ambassadors and many other noted persons were in the distinguished visitors' gallery. The gallery behind them was unusually bright because, under the recent rules, women were admitted to this section, and nearly monopolized the space.

The premier had a good reception from all sections of the House. His speech was largely impromptu and discursive. He told of the peace conference's effort to prevent war in the future, and reviewed some of the striking restrictions put upon Germany in the treaty signed at Versailles.

TORONTO STRIKE IS SETTLED; CARS RUN IN EARLY MORNING SINCE STABBING ROW

Men Are Granted Their Demands Temporarily, But With Understanding That New Scale Will Be Permanent-Railway Board in Charge of Lines.

Canadian Press Dispatch.]

TORONTO, July 3.—After having been on strike for twelve days, the street railway men here won out tonight and will return to work tomorrow (Friday) morning. They will resume operation of the street cars at 5:15 a. m. on the wages awarded by the board of conciliation a few days ago, including an eight-hour working day. The wages are to be: For the first three months in the service, 50 cents an hour; for the next nine months 52½ cents, and at the end of twelve months 55 cents an hour.

This was an interim award made by the board of conciliation, pending a report by experts on the ability of the Toronto Railway Company to pay the increased wages, but it is understood that it will be a permanent award. The men tonight accepted it on that understanding.

Railway Board Accepts.

The maximum pay received by the men before they went on strike was 39 cents an hour for a ten-hour day. The men on the civic street cars receive 48 cents an hour, and it is anticipated that they will now demand 55 ceats.

The Ontario Railway and Municipa' Board will operate the Toronto street railway service for a while. The board took over the control of the street railway shortly after the strike was started, but up to tonight had not made any progress towards the operation of it. R. C. Harris will act as manager for the railway board.

Examining the Books.

The Toronto Railway Company's books are being examined by G. T. Clarkson, chartered accountant, on behalf of the city, and it is possible he may be able to report tomorrow on the Toronto Railway Company's finances with regard to the company's ability to bear the increased cost of operating the street railway.

R. J. Fleming, general manager of the company, refused to comment on the reports that these books were taken away to Montreal, on legal advice, and brought back to this city today.

Mr. Fleming stated that the company was willing to open negotiations for sale of the concern to the city on the basis of the completion of its franchise in 1921.

The day of the races Teddy Possum and Jimmy Coon kept near Peter Rabbit. In fact they kept little Peter near them and quite a way back from Mirror Pond.

They were very nervous for, as yet, there wasn't a sign of Mr. Red Fox. Only the night before Jimmy Coon delivered the last of the eggs, and Mr. Red Fox said he would be on hand.

Peter was glad to see them, but he couldn't understand why they were about to make him a visit at this time, but he was very glad to see them. The two Snow Shoe Rabbits sat, one on each side of little Peter and they were so much bigger than Peter that they looked like giants compared to him. Soon Chatterbox could be heard talking very loud. "Don't move anybody, I am in a hurry. I can't stop. In fact, I have some business with Peter Rabbit."

When he said this he circled round and round until he caught sight of little Peter.

You would have been sorry for little Peter, for he was trembling like a leaf and scared to death! It was a lucky thing that those two great Rabbits sat on each side of him.

"Buck up, Peter. You may have a run for your money, but we will stand by you, or rather run by you, for Mr. Fox is in for some fun.

Charlie Chaplin's newest million-dolor every performance. In "Sunnyside," which will be shown on the doubleeature bill again today and tomorrow. Charlie is the full staff of "help" at a country hotel, and is obliged to go to bed with his clothes on, so that he may waste no time in getting up in the norning. of the fun.

There is a real romance in "Sunny-side." The scene where he comes to the ouse of his country sweetheart and finds his rival in all the glory of fash-ionable attire paying attention to the young lady, is neat preparation for the time when Charlie returns in an amusing imitation of the city chap's gar-ments. #### WALLACE REID AT MAJESTIC THEATRE IN "YOU'RE FIRED'

Charlie Chaplin and Norma Proves a Decided Hit in Paramount's Latest Screen Play Success.

When Wallace Reid comes to the ar comedy, "Sunnyside," continues to Majestic, a crowded house is insured iraw capacity audiences to the Grand whether the weather be sultry or cool. Thursday was no exception to the rule, for the many followers of this popular screen artist turned out to greet his latest Paramount success, "You're Fired." Generally he takes strong men's part, but in the light comedy role, in which he is seen in this picture, he is equally capable, Winsome Wanda Hawley in the leading feminine role does excellent work.

Wanda Hawley in the leading feminine role does excellent work.

The plot deals with a young man to keep a job for three months in order to win the daughter of a wealthy railroad owner, this being the test imposed upon him by the prospective father-in-law. He works first in an office, then as a xylophone player in an orchestra and finally gets a job to pose in a suit of ancient armor in an Italian restaurant and furnish part of the Bohemian atmosphere of the place. He has been compelled to resign from his first two positions to keep from being fired, as in that event, he would have lost his chance of marrying the girl.

An amusing complication arises when his sweetheart discovers him playing the xylophone in the orchestra and later, when she finds him posing in the old suit of armor in the cafe.

later, when she finds him posing in the old suit of armor in the cafe.
But the young hero averts a business disaster which might have fallen upon the girl's father, and thus wins out, just as the old clock in the little restaurant strikes twelve, marking the end of the three months period.

Joseph Martell, a baritone singer of no mean ability, delighted the audience with popular songs and others especially written for him. It is needless to say that he received many rounds of applause, and curtain calls. The Majestic orchestra rendered an overture from "The Vagabond," which was greatly appreciated.

Pretty Marie Prevost and funny Chester Conklin in "Love's False Faces," a Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy, were the laugh-producers of the evening, and as such, certainly filled the bill. Marie is the landlady of a boarding-house. She has a lazy husband, who takes more interest in the fair boarders than he does in his wife. This fact makes Chester, the bartender across the street, an ardent lover of Marie. However, when it is learned that she has come into a fortune, her husband does his best to get into her good graces again. As a result of the race between the two men, many screamingly funny complications screamingly funny complications

UTILITIES COMMISSION HOLDS A ROUTINE BUSINESS MEETING

The Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon held a meeting which was almost entirely devoid of interest from the public point of view. Except for the passing of routine accounts, the only matters taken up were a report from Jared Vining, representing the parks board, recommending that an automobile be provided for the use of the parks superintendent, and a proposal that the board adjourn for two months, subject to call by the chairman in case of important matters requiring attention.

The commission approved the proposal to supply the parks superintendent with a car, and Mr. Vining and General Manager E. V. Buchanan were named as a committee to ascertain whether one of the other departments had not a car which could be spared and sold cheaply to the parks board.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE PEOPLE'S RAILROAD. o the Editor of The Advertiser A holiday for mother and smal daughter? What better for a couple of days' outing than down to London's Port

We secured one-way tickets Monday at 50 cents each (being told this was the better way); were handed coupons to present next day for return tickets which we would receive upon payment of another 50 cents each at Port Stanley

Spine Fractured. the train moved on. I snatched my daughter, who had a foot on the step, daughter, who had a foot on the step, to save her life; one instance of many narrow escapes at that moment. This was the only stop at the station made by any train, either coming or going, till 1 o'clock in the morning, although going through empty and only about 206 passengers at the station.

We tried to telephone London from the peoples' refreshment place, to be told the 'phone was local only; the telephone at the station was locked up; telephone at the station was locked up; without an esco. We did not deem it safe to travel to the heights to call home for help.

At 1 a.m., a train with two coaches stopped to take on a few passengers. I lifted my daughter on; the train pulled away, leaving me standing on the platform. The child reached London, and at the station there was refused very bussulety the use of the televery brusquely the use of the tele

We reached London at 3:10 a.m., after waiting from 9 p.m. till 2 a.m. for a train to ston at the people's station. I presented my coupon on the train, which was taken from me and thrown away in contempt. I paid 70c to return to London on the people's railway. While many motorists came to the rescue of friends and filled their cars with passengers, a large car, purchased by the hydro commission, and paid for out of the people's money, sped to London practically empty.

Are we a community of deaf and dumb, to quietly accept treatment of this kind on our railway?

An inquiring taxpayer.
