HELD TALBOT ST. CHURCH

Dr. Bowley Green Delivers Ordination Sermon Tuesday.

A ceremony that was impressive as well as interesting, and the mem-ory of which will long be cherished conducted in Talbot Street Baptist Church Tuesday night, when Earnest J. Davis was ordained to the Baptist ministry by a council composed of representatives of the Baptist Church of the Middlesex and Lambton Association.

The examination and the statement of Mr. Davis' calling to the ministry was held in the afternoon, and it was then decided to ordain him to the Baptist ministry in the avaning. evening.

Delivers Sermon.

The ordination sermon was de-livered by Dr. Bowley Green, pastor of Talbot Street Church, taken from the sending out of the workers during the ministry of Christ. "The supreme task of the church is the evengelization of the world," declared Dr. Green. "It has no other business and no other program. It is its business to testify to the truth, as it is found in Christ Jesus. Evangelization is to be carried on by men receive you or not; testify to the truth. Never forget for one minute that your business is evang-elization. It is a sobering thought to every preacher, that though he pro-claim the word faithfully, only here and there will be found the one who receives the truth. That is none of business.

Privilege and Duty. "Then there is the privilege, as well as the duty, and the sublime thought sinners saved by gracehave been given a partnership in this work. The spirit, impulse, and the whole genius of the Christian church is missionary. Andrew found Simon, and Philip found Nathaniel."

Dr. Green pointed out as well that the church has not the choosing of the ministers, that being done by the Lord Himself. "I would rather have one minister in London, filled with a spirit which would shake the city to its heart, than a dozen men, who were not sure but what they might be doing better in some other line of business?" was the speaker's con-ception of the style of preaching that proved effective.

Reads invocation.

Dr. Sowerby, who was in charge of the ordination services, read the invocation, while the Rev. C. H. Geer, of the Broderick Memorial Church, St. Thomas, read the Scripture. After the ordination services was a served with the continuous services with the continuous services. the ordination sermon was delivered by the Rev. The inspection of water taps in he city, with a view to tracing the leakage and waste of water, has been brought to an abrupt stop by the cold weather, and will not likely be resumed until early spring. A deputation of Yarmouth Heights residents waited on the meeting Monday afternoon to ask the council not to grant the application of the company to close the road entirely, but to consider the construction of an overhead foot bridge. bridge.

The residents brought with them The residents brought with them a resolution drawn up at a representative meeting of the neighborhood last week, asking the council to decline to close the road, and to propose an overhead bridge for all traffic to relieve the situation. The deputation was of the opinion that it would be better to refer the matter to the Dominion Railway Board than accep the offer of the company.

In 1885 the Canada Southern (now Michigan Central) made application Michigan Central) made application to the Yarmouth Council for permission to erect two overhead bridges. one at Fairview avenue, and another at Park avenue. The present bridge over Fairview avenue was built, but the other was never proceeded with. It was pointed out that there was no law compelling the company to build an overhead bridge, and that there was no law forcing the township to close Park avenue.

The council, it is understood, is in no way attempting to put a crimp in the plans of the M. C. R., and it is hoped that a settlement will be reached without the intervention of the railway board.

This conditions is shown first by the presence of "kernels." These kernels are really an enlargement of the glands of the neck. The sub-maxil-lary glands, the glands under the

Tom appeared home from the office early one Saturday afternoon; "Tom, I'm so glad you came home. I've been delayed so, and Bobby's hair is disgracefully long. Grandpa Alden is coming tomorrow—it would never do. Be a dear and take Bobby down to Stirling's and have his hair bobbed. And don't let them shave it up the back. One has to be very firm or they will—I'd send Maggie with him only last time she went and—"

"Oh, all right," said Tom. "I'd planned to play golf—but all right." There was nothing very amiable in Tom's voice, nor did he look more amiable when his married sister called him "a sweet angel of a brother."

The barber shop at Stirling's children's store was crowded as usual on Saturday afternoon, and Tom found that he would have to take a number at the desk and remain in the waiting room adjoining the barber shop, where sleek, slender young men dressed in white plied the long-bladed scissors and the clippers. Bobby took his place in one of the small chairs in the center of the room, and Tom felt increasingly embarrassed to find that he was the only adult male in the crowded waiting-room.

There were occasional wails and even shrieks from the room beyand as some child newly initiated to the mysteries of being bobbed registered his disapproval of the whole process. Here and there in the barber chairs sat a big girl or grown woman who followed the fad for bobbed hair. Tom sat a big girl or grown woman who followed the fad for bobbed hair. Tom watched them take their seats beside the children with some dismay. Presently a portly, gray-haired wo-man bustled into the room, a slender young girl of 18 or so in her wake. The older woman regarded the others, waiting rather disapprovingly, with frequent raisings of her lorgnettes frequent raisings of her lorgnettes to her near-sighted eyes. She explained to the clerk at the desk that she really couldn't wait, that she'd have to be allowed to go ahead of her turn. But the clerk calmly said that would be impossible.

"I simply can't wait," she repeated, looking appealingly around the room for sympathy. "My theatre tickets. I've ordered them for tonight and they'll only hold them at the box office until 4. I can't wait—and yet"—here she looked with a sigh at her young charge—"Annabelle needs a young charge—"Annabelle needs a bob frightfully." Annabelle apparently was protest-

What do you think protested the very much embarrassed niece; but the aunt did not heed her, and feeling perfect confidence in her new acquaintance, she sailed out of the waiting-room toward the elevator. Annabelle took a seat rather shyly beside her newly-appointed guardian. "Aunt Clarice is very near-sighted," she said "She seemed to think you." A—This trouble is probably due to neuritis. You should have a thorough physical examination to determine what is causing your trouble and have it treated accordingly.

On the way from Stirling's to the work as a large city audit involves. The principle embodied in subsection 2 of 232 is, however, very vital, and is not at all overlooked in the city appointment. No member of a city council can be appointed to audit the accounts of the current year preceding. Coolidge Tom's taxi was caught in a traffic jam, so he and his two charges were ten minutes later than the time mentioned by Mrs. Weston and Tom's sister. But somehow the delay did not seem to rule the spirits of the occu-pants of the taxi. Just to be in a taxi accounts of the current year preceding his appointment. Ashplant did not sit in the council in 1921, anyway, was sufficient novelty for Bobby, who watched the crowding motors eager'y from the window. W. F. Massey Appealing For Indorsation of Electorate for Third Time.

STRUGGLE 3-CORNERED

Hope of Premier Lies in the Divided Character of Opposition.

BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT. Special to The Advertiser.

Auckland, N. Z., Dec. 6 .- New Zea and, like Australia, is at present in the throes of a general election, and W. F. Massey is appealing for the indorsation of the electorate for the third time. Up till 1912, the Liberal party, thanks largely to the leadership of two very able men, Richard Sedden and James Batlance, had held power continuously for 35 years, but rupt and unpopular, and in 1912 Mr Massey led the reform party, which embraced the more Conservative elements, to victory. He sought and secured a fresh mandate in December 1914, but in 1915 the exigencies of the war crisis induced him to form a coalition administration, which Sir Joseph Ward and other Liberal lead-ers joined.

The Coalition ministry carried on with general acceptance till the war ended, and then it was dissolved by mutual consent. Meanwhile an active Labor party had come into existence, and when Mr. Massey went to the country in 1919 he was faced by a double attack. He demanded a clear majority over both the Liberals. clear majority over both the Liberals and Labor and was given it by the

He had originally come into office as the leader of a party pledged to reforms, but he has never indulged in them to any extent, and has preferred to pursue a steady course of humdrum negation. In Imperial af fairs he has been extremely conserva tive, and could never be brought to approve of the Nationalist ideas which Sir Robert Borden and General Smuts cherished. At the 1921 conference he took an opposite view from Mr. Meighen about the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and was willing to advocate its renewal. He has always been quite willing to let Downing street manage all his external af-fairs, and at the last election openly proclaimed his policy to be "The British Empire and no damned fads."

Era of Extravagance. When he carried the country in this city. Presidents of all the trades When he carried the country in 1919, New Zealand was enjoying tremendous prosperity, as the result of a post-war boom. In the years 1919 and 1920 no less a sum than $750,000,000, an enormous sum for distribution among 1,200,000 people came to New Zealand from Britain in payment for food products purchased during the war years.

There are in Montreal between 18,000 and 20,000 members of building trades organized in the various trades unions; but there is a large body of unorganized workers, and the campaign aims at war years.

An era of extravagance began, and many lines of business enjoyed hectic prosperity. At the same time the government came into the real property market to purchase large areas of land for the settlement of veterans. bring these into the unions.

Land values rose as a result, and many farmers sold off their holdings and retired. The boom continued till the beginning of 1921, when the crash Prices of agricultural produce fell to zero, land values collapsed, and the farmers were soon as disgruntled as our own with their plight. Many of the soldier settlers became involved in difficulties, and unemployment de-veloped on a scale which had not been experienced for a generation. Under such circumstances, the Massey gov-ernment speedily lost its popularity and had to face a large share of the It made heroic efforts to cope with the situation. Public works were started to provide employment and retrenchments were carried out in every direction. One notable economic effect was a general reduction of the salaries of legislators and civil ser-vants. Mr. Massey also managed to negotiate a commercial treaty with Australia, which will make for freer school.

The finance committee investigated the bill for the burial of Ross Highway, a baby found by a farmer last July, and decided that the county should pay the expenses. They recommended that no action be taken in connection with the contributions asked by the Northern Fire Relief Association, as many the government is not high, and it is not destined to have the same easy passage as in 1919. Mr. Massey has some capable lieutenants, of whom the best is probably Mr. Downie Stewart, the minister of internal af-

Opposition Is Divided. But his greatest hope of success lies in the divided character of the opposition, for the Liberal and Labor parties have been unable to reach any agreement for co-operative action. The Liberal party had long been led by Sir Joseph Ward, who had served as premier and enjoyed a long experience of public life. long experience of public life.

He was fully cognizant with imperial and international problems, but his real merit was in the realm of finance, and his financial skill could have been invaluable to the country at the present juncture. If he had not decided to retire from public life a feet of the country of the country at the present juncture.

There existed no North American eason why a fellow should not stand there. But here that sort of thing is not done. It is presumptuous to, thrust oneself up. But policemen were there to see that icemen were there to see that ody stood on even the humblest level of the memorial. CLAIM SERUM USEFUL IN ARRESTING GANGRENE

New York, Dec. 6.—Successful use of a serum to arrest the progress of gangrene is claimed with the announcement that Edward Trainer of Ossining was discharged from St. Mark's Hospital here last night.

Trainer, who froze both his feet ten years ago, was admitted to hospital last March after he had lost both legs and several fingers, which had been amputated in an effort to stay the progress of the gangrene. He was cured after thirteen injections of a serum discovered by Dr. Benj. Jablous, who began experiments when attached to the laboratories of the United States expeditionary force in France.

Let me tell you Eber was down to 122 pounds today when I left, and he hadn't started drying out. Road work in heavy wcclens was bringing him down. Why I've seen Eber at 130 pounds two days before a fight and then have watched him step on the scales at 119 pounds at 2 o'clock and fight like a wildcat. I've seen him take off 11 pounds in two days and put on five pounds in five hours. He is just like a sponge. Dry him out and he weighs nothing at all. in the minors.

Last season May was one of the shining lights of the Coast League. The southpaw had a wonderful year, winning 35 and losing 9 games. He was the most-talked-about pitcher on the coast.

May originally cost the St. Louis Cardinals $750. When the Cardinals wanted to make a trade woth Beaumont for Bailey, every National League club waived. Not a club owner or manager believed May would be any help to his club. Bailey, secured in return, had passed out of the majors the year before.

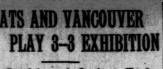

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—One of the chief reasons for the failure of the Washington team to make a better showing in the American League last showing in the American League last season was the failure of Catcher Eddie Gharrity to play his usual brilliant game. An attack of neuritis in the right shoulder caused Gharrity to suffer with a lame arm all summer, which naturally affected his play in other departments aside from mere throwing. Recently he underwent an operation for his tonsils which the doctors claim will eliminate the neuritis and restore the arm to old-time form.

Looks today as if Harry Greb's misfortune is the good fortune of the fans. For when Harry sent word that he was in bed with a bad cold in his eyes, and would not be useful to the Garden promoters on Dec. 29 next, up gets Matchmaker Flourney and makes a bold proposition to Bill Brennan. Not only that, he waved Gene Tunney's acceptance in Leo Flynn's face. Brennan's manager blinked and then expressed a desire to

St. Louis, Dec. 5.-Another veteran of the major league circuit is expected to pass out of the select circle during wear the managerial toga of the minors. Outfielder Burt Shotton, assistant to anager Branch Rickey of the Car dinals, is being groomed to lead a minor league club controlled by the St. Louis owners. It is reported that he is ternational League.

Shotton has served for 15 seasons or the diamond, starting his career with Erie, Pa., in 1908. His great speed first attracted the attention of the major leaguers and he was purchased by the St. Louis Browns in 1909. Playing two years in the American League he was released to Omaha, drifted over to Win for the Cardinals.

Manager Rickey had designs on the National League pennant. He felt that he needed a winning southpaw to turn the trick. The poor showing of May in the early games caused Rickey to lose faith in him.

* *

Rickey had lost confidence in May to such an extent that he was perfectly willing to send May to the Beaumont Club of the Texas League in exchange for Bailey. May met with just so-so success in that organization.

In the fall of 1921, Vernon of the Pacific Coast League made a trade which brought May from the Texas to that league. Vernon needed a southpaw and May looked like the best bet in the minors.

Last season May was one of the Cleveland Indians in 1911, transferred to Columbus and while with Columbus again was purchased by the St. Louis Browns. Shotton remained with the Browns until the close of the 1917 season, when with Johnny Lavan and Derrill Pratt he filed suit against Owner Ball charging the magnate with libel when an interview by Ball charged the three players with "laying down" on Felder Jones as manager.

Shotton was traded to Washington, but when Branch Rickey became president of the Cardinals in 1919 one of his first moves was to purchase Shotton from Washington.

In the last two seasons Shotton has filled in occasionally as substitute with the Cardinals. Wheeling, drafted by the Cleveland Hamilton, Dec. 5.—Coach Art Ross of Hamilton's N. H. L. Club, is considerably worried over the absence of Joe Malone, the veteran centre player. Malone promised to announce definitely on Monday night whether or not he would join the club this season, but nothing has been heard from him.

The rest of the squad have arrived for duty. Ross is giving them physical training and a lot of new conditioning stunts. So far the players have not been allowed to use their sticks. The new coach is strong for condition, and says it will be time enough to practice stick-handling and shooting after the candidates get accustomed to their skates.

Tigers' senior O. H. A. team held its first practice last night. There was only a fair turnout, but by next week the squad should be the largest in the history of hockey in this city.

Tells Germany Allies Must Have Satisfaction

Clemenceau Relates Handing of Peace Conditions To Berlin Plenipotentiaries On May 7, 1919, Fourth Anniversary of Sin king of Lusitnia.

we handed the German plenipotentiaries the peace conditions. In presenting them I said: "This second peace of Versailles, which is about to be the object of our debates, was too dearly bought by the peoples represented here for us not to be unanimously resolved to obtain legitimate satisfaction by all the means in our power."
This satisfaction had been allowed for in the treaty, and Germany had signed it. But whoever could have thought that that would be sufficient? One may insert into a solemn pact of all sorts of clauses duly agreed upon; one cannot insert the will to respect and to execute them. That respect and to execute them. That is partly a question of loyalty, honor and good-will and partly a matter of confidence, guarantees and sanctions.

After the War of 1870 France scrupulously and rapidly fulfilled all her obligations. Pressing deep down in her heart the despair caused by the loss of Alsace and Lorraine. understood that she could only get two rich provinces. All the world knows how she succeeded. Ever since 1878, at the time of the great two rich provinces. All the world knows how she succeeded. Ever since 1878, at the time of the great success of her International Exhibition, she began to enjoy a moral revenge.

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the second treaty of Versailles, and, with the exception of its territorial clauses, the treaty has been outrageously turned and twisted. By a tragic coincidence having nothing whatever to do with chances, the German reaction hits France just where she is most directly threatened. Whereas France requires reparation and security, what one sees across the Rhine is an economic evasion and military reaction. First, the economic evasion and military reaction. First, the leaves of the mark is exactusively due to the obligations imposed upon her late two works and the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end kaken now, to the end the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end the population of the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end the population of the moratorium, may not have to bear the consequences alone, and that she shall obtain proportionate aid from her allies. Such would be but pure justice, since if Germany is to be given breathing space France ought not apply to reparation and security. What one seed across the Rhine is an economic evasion and military reaction. First, the economic evasion and military reaction. First, the economic evasion and military reaction. First, the economic evasion and security, what one seed across the Rhine is an economic evasion and security, what one seed across the Rhine is an economic evasion and military reaction. First, the economic evasion and security, what one seed the provided that the moratorium may not have to bear the consequence.

It will be objected that the moratorium out a puply to reparatorion in the allies. Such would have been the cause of the principles' successi to the obligations imposed upon her by the treaty.

Germany's Methods.

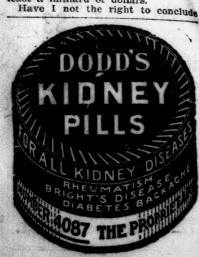

The American public knows that actual gold payments made by Germany to the have only amounted to $375,000,000 and that in the internal budget of he Reich the total sum paid inder the treaty is less than the ligure spent by the German governient in the purchase of raw mater dis and on railways and in the postal dministration. The collapse of the ark was wished for and precipitated ecause it was at one and the same ime a means of eluding the reparaonal payments in rendering the exeution of the treaty more and more difficult, and secondly, it set up com petition with allied industry, many being immensely facilitated by he condition of the exchange.

It must be admitted that there is a certain opposition between the execution by Germany of the repararity of the conquering nations. in effect there exists only two ways of transferring German riches and property: The direct handing over of merchandise or the surrender of bonds, on a gold basis. But how can one procure these bonds in a continumanner unless by a surplus of exportations? At all events, whatever Germany delivers or sells outside ald be so much less to furnish the

"THE GERMAN REVOLT."

On May 7, 1919, fourth anniversary of the torpedoing of the Lusitania, we handed the German plenipoten—is a series written by Georges Clemenceau. The much from an incapacity to pay as from a determination not to pay?

How to make Germany pay? Above everything else it is necessary to remove the pretext beneath which she is escaping her liabilities, namely, the continuous decrease in the value of her money. The mark needs to be stabilized. I do not know if the thing is possible: I shall simply make two is possible; I shall simply make two observations. First, that the Ger-mans have in the end become the victims of the movement which they engineered.

The collapse of the mark has gone The collapse of the mark has gone so far that today they are alarmed at the prospect of forthcoming social consequences. Perhaps now they are disposed to make the effort at recovery that should have been made long ago. Secondly, we cannot afford to lament over those who speculated in the mark. Consideration of their situation should not hold up any decisions that are necessary. In order to facilitate stabilization, experts ask facilitate stabilization, experts ask for a moratorium for Germany. believe this postponement has not yet been officially accorded, but in point of fact Germany has been en-joying it for more than a year.

But, unfortunately this fine program arrives too late, when the ill already done and there is nothing more to control, and when the major portion of Germany's capital has been except the serious symptom in a world which drawed Germany's drawed of justice upon earth and drawed Germany's described their charter. Such solutions seem more hopeful than the scheme for a moratorium, purely a negative measure.

Many, however, look for the cure elsewhere. Only an international loar can regulate the question of reparations, and France is accused of not supporting this loan. In point of fact, no one desires the mobilization of Allied credit more than we, for we supporting this loan. would thus have at our disposal sums which we are at present obliged to borrow from our own people in o advance such sums in turn to our bankrupt debtor. Pursued Own Policy. In reality, on this point, as on many others, there has been too much de-lay. Each nation, after the signing of peace, pursued its own policy. If we had continued in union, the international loan might have been floated in 1920, and the problem of reparations would not have weighed on the Did I not obtain from the British Government in 1919 the promafter the war in the direction financial solidarity. Why was it not followed up? I do not know.

In short, the power of sanctions has been lost and now if we consider the measures which have retained the name of "sanctions." it will be found that we are dealing with the seizure and realization of productive guarantees attributed to creditor nations without restriction or reserve by article 248 of the treaty. If we are driven to such measures we should at least be sure of obtaining something tangible at once, but should we have recourse to this policy?

France does not conceal from herself the gravity of such a decision. She would much prefer not to go to such an extreme, but she cannot agree to her bill being torn up entirely after already having been considerably reduced. It does not depend on her whether the idea of seizure and sanctions shall prevail or not prevail; it is a matter of good will on the side of Lieut.-Col. Graham Declares Nation Must Be Organized to Absorb Immigrants.

Speaking on "Responsibilities of Canadian Citizens at the Present Time" to a largely-attended meeting of the Victoria Nurses' Alumnae Association on Tuesday evening, Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham emphasized especially three points, the supreme need of Canada of larger population in order to cope with her enormous overhead expense, the fact that adequate increase can only be secured by immigration, and the responsibility devolving upon every Canadian citizen to share in dealing in such a way with the newcomers that they may become, from the beginning, worthy citizens. Col. Graham pointed out that the whole future of the Dominion depends upon the manner in which the situation is handled in the present and immediate future.

Dwelling upon the enlarged importance of Canada in the eyes of the world as a result of the part played in the great world struggle, the speaker drew attention to the magnitude of the country and its development, the smallness of the population to carry the burdens. With immigration the one way to solve the problem of population, Canada, he declared must devende a the Pariston need of Canada of larger population

"We must be prepared and organized to receive and take care of the new arrivals in such a way that they will be enabled to become Canadian citizens. If we do not absorb them, they will absorb us," he warned.

Touching upon the type of immigrants that may be expected, the attitude that should meet them: "These people are bigger than many Canadians are perhaps inclined to think," he said. "They have initiative and enterprise, or they wouldn't break enterprise, or they wouldn't break away from their old home ties and "They are expecting to come to a Christian land, hoping to know better conditions than have been their lot in the past. They bring receptive minds and are ready to be taught." In conclusion, Col. Boroughs in England Submit Statement to Committee on Unemployment.

London, Dec. 6 .- (Canadian Press Cable).-A meeting of the members of parliament representing the cities and boroughs of all parts of England where the tax rates are over-burdened in consequence of the unemployment situation was held in the House of Commons today. Various speakers reported that, notwithstanding the relief schemes in operation, the situation had become worse than in the early part of the year.

A statement on behalf of the boroughs was submitted to the cabinet committee on unemployment, declar-ing that the local burden was intol-erable, and submitting that the problem of unemployment had been dealt with nationally instead of leaving an undue proportion of the burden to districts least able to bear it. The statement added that the government relief works barely touch the fringe of the question. The boroughs ask that the government grants be increased, and that capital grants on a preased, and that capital grants on a pasis of 60 per cent of the cost of

Sir Henry Thorton Declares He Will Not Tolerate Political Interference.

SEEKS CO-OPERATION

E. W. Beatty Believes Companies Can Work in Harmony.

Montrea., Dec. 6.-(By Canadian Press.)-"Let it be emphatically understood, now and once for all, that there is to be no political interference, direct or indirect, in the administration and working of the Canadian National Railways." Speaking as the guest of honor at the banquet tendered him by the Montreal Board of Trade here last night, Sir Henry Thornton, newly appointed president of the government-owned railways of made the above emphatic declara-tion, adding that he could not put his position more forcibly without transgressing the rules of polite speech. He stated that Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, had solemnly assured him that there was to be no political interference, and that it was with that accepted the post which the government had offered him.

In regard to sectional differences he said that it would be his conscientious effort to meet the reasonable demands of all sections of ninion and contribute to the utmos to their development. But he pointed out that decisions would have to be made that would be distasteful to certain sections of the Dominion

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Sir Henry's railway rival, proposed the health of the guest of the evening, and said that in the larger problems conerned with the relationship of all companies to the public they served, "I am confident that the officers of the Canadian Pacific and National Railways can work in substantial accord to the mutual advantage of their respective companies and the public."

Sir Joseph Airs Views. Sir Joseph Flavelle, late chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, one of the constituent items of the present national system, referred to the announcement of Hon W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, that the national system should be administered "without fear or favor, without thought of politics, and in the general interests."

Sir Joseph remarked that this was satisfactory, but stated that frankly he had no evidence of its observance. There will be a distinct advantage which can be realized if the govern-ment give their supporters in the House and the public to understand that the board of the railway company is responsible for the admin istration of these properties, and that petitions and delegations relating to railway matters will be referred to oard for action.

Cabinet ministers show a tendency to overlook the essential prerogative. There will be need for robust public opinion which will make itself felt in support of the government in its struggle against designing politicians and against the insistence of sectional demands, and which will equalcondemn the government yields to this pressure, or if it fails courageously to support the adminis-tration of the railways on the floor of the House when it is unfairly at-

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

"Much has been said about the dangers of political interference with our railways, and this is at least one subject upon which I can speak with emphasis and authority. earlier days they were designated as statesmen, just as 15 or 20 years ago anyone who acquired a fortune was considered a captain of industr while today looked down upon as an indication of profiteering. However all this may be, we all recognize that politicians do exist, and presumably because they exist they are essential in our scheme of government. But et it be emphatically understood, now and for once and for all, that there is to be no political interference, direct or indirect, in the administration and working of the Canadian National Railways. I therefore wish it to be understood that I shall always be understood that I shall always be glad to meet the representatives of the press and to take them as fully into my confidence as the welfare of the railways will permit. Stop Drain of Taxes.

"I have said our first and most pressing objective is to stop the drain on the purse of the taxpayer result-ing from the National Railways. We shall do materially better this year than in previous years and will prethan in previous years, and will more than meet operating expenses. than meet operating expenses. Roughly speaking, and without taking into consideration the amounts the government have had amounts ly $40,000,000 net annually to stop any further advances from the government; that is to say, to stop the drain on the taxpayers; and it will be a satisfactory day for you, and a matter of pride to me, when the people of Canada will know that their railways have ceased to be a drain on the public purse. How soon this can be brought about I hesitate to say, but I will go as far as to indicate that it may not be so far distant as most people might imagine. The accomplishment means an increase in gross receipts and reduction in extended to state the section. I am inclined to think that the latter will be more easy of accomplishment than the former, because the former is involved with the whole question of Dominion development, and this brings me to the question of involved with the content of involved the conten "The preparation of the property to "The preparation of the property to meet the development of the country involves wisdom and forethought. Any railway which finds itself unable adequately to meet its traffic responsibilities is hindering the progress of the community which it serves. The relations between the company and its men involve chiefly the handling of labor, and in this respect government-worked railways have always been particularly vulnerable. I believe that every employee of every industry, irrespective of its character, should receive that minimum wage which will enable him to live in decency, in comfort and under proper sanitary conditions, and to educate the second control of the control of on which I should the words.

"Most thoughtful people in Canada, judging from the public expressions I have heard, feel that we have put one problem in Canada, namely, that of increasing the population, and I think this is largely correct. If the Dominion is to develop as it should, and if we are to enjoy all the adand if we are to enjoy all the advantages which follow in the train of development, we in Canada must address ourselves vigorously to the question of immigration. By immigration I do not mean throwing down the bearings and making the barriers and making the barriers and making the barriers. the barriers and making the mis-take which was made in past de-cades in the United States, which reand under proper sanitary conditions, and to educate and bring up his children as self-respecting members of society. Any other policy makes for social unrest, and if carried on long lenough is likely to create political upheavals. The wage I have indicated represents the minimum to be received. How much greater the wage may be depends upon the condition of the industry, the value of the service rendered, and other factors. Labor troubles usually disappear if they are caught when they are young; that is to say, when they are young; that is to say, when they are in a plastic condition. The prompt and just settlement of complaints is an effective guarantee of tranquility. If, on the other hand, attention is not given to such matters until they become festering sores and both sides have delivered ultimatums, the solution becomes correspondingly difficult. It is my desire that all officers of the Canadian National Railways, in their respective capacities, should be easily accessible to their men, and should promptly deal with complaints. I am sure that there already exists a kindly feeling sulted in admitting every immigrant that chose to come to the states; but I think we should adopt a policy that is intensive, but at the same time selective. Other of the British Dominions overseas are up and doing, and we must not fall behind lest some of our sister Dominions secure or our sister Dominions secure the cream. I have read what Lord Shaughnessy has recently said upon this subject and I am heartly in accord with him. Just how the details cord with him. Just how the details should be developed I am certainly not in a position to say tonight, but at any rate the immigration question is sufficiently important to justify the undivided attention and energy of some one capable individual, reinforced with an adequate staff. How soon the Canadian National Railways will become self-supporting turns will become self-supporting turns largely on what is done in the matter

Rambling Discourse.

"In conclusion, I want to thank the board of trade of Montreal for their deal with complaints. I am sure that there already exists a kindly feeling between our officers and their men, and I wish this spirit to be carried through our railway from Halifax to kindness and hospitality on the givng me an opportunity to meet so many representative citizens of the Dominion, and to thank each of you who have patiently listened to what ancouver and that contentment and comfort amongst the men may mani-fest itself in smiles and good-will, and that the Canadian National Rail-I am afraid must of necessity have been a somewhat rambling discourse, full of generalities, and characterized by nothing particularly definite. But, as I have said, had I spoken a year and that the Canadian National Railways shall be known as The Smiling Railway.

"With respect to the public, the same policy will be pursued as with respect to the men. Everything that is asked, of course, cannot be granted, but our most pressing problem to hence I might have gone much more to the point than is possible now. I am not so foolish as to imagine out our most pressing problem is one of development, and every effort difficult railway problems which conwill be made to meet the demands of the public in the promotion of inthe public in the promotion of in-creased traffic. It must, of course, be I so silly as to imagine that if these problems could be solved single-handed, I am the only one who could bundantly evident to all that your railways will be an increasing burden do it. It happens, however, that I have been asked to take the job. I upon your pockets if freight rates are continuously lowered and wages continuously raised; and I take it have gone into it with a full knowledge of the conditions, and I propose that it is the desire of the people of Canada that the Canadian National to see it through. But success will Railways should be put upon a self-supporting basis, and the burden on only be achieved if I succeed in convincing you and the employees of the the purse of the taxpayers stopped as quickly as possible. There should be no fundamental reason why this should not be done in a reasonable Canadian National Railways that you and they are justified in placing your confidence in the officers who administer the property, and myself. It will require a high degree of teamtime without doing the slightest inustice to either the men on the railwork on the part of those employed by the railway, coupled with the support of the public. I ask no favors, way or the traveling public. But this object cannot be achieved if the but simply a clear field and a sporting chance. The success of the ing chance. The success of the Canadian National Railways is sufficiently important to every citizen of the Dominion to justify an app at least fair play. So far as I am concerned, I have undertaken the job convinced that it can be done, and I ask you to give me that degree of confidence and support which you think my efforts justify."

INQUEST IN SARNIA OVER AUTO MISHAP

Police Hold Inquiry Into Death of Mrs. M. McKay Caused by Harry Carr.

Special to The Advertiser. Sarnia, Dec. 5.-An inquest commenced today into the death of Mrs. Margaret McKay, 78, who was knocked down by an automobile and died from injuries a few minutes later after attending an entertainment at the Central Methodist Church, Monday night.

Driven by friends to the corner oposite her home on Cromwell street, Mrs. McKay sought to cross the street when an auto driven by Harry Carr, a resident of this city, came round the corner from the south. Mrs. McKay, in falling, struck her head on the sidewalk, causing injuries which resulted in death shortly

Carr stated that the lighting was bad at the spot where the accident occurred, and although he was driving slowly he did not see Mrs. McKay until the accident occurred. She is survived by one son, Joseph Symons of Sarnia, and one daughter, Mrs. Zeland of Sarnia Township. This is the first fatal automobile accident in Sarnia this year. The police com-plained that the accident was not reported to them until late today.

Italian lire and French francs both went lower, but the decline was too alight to be regarded as anything more than a natural reaction. It could have no real connection with the political dividend later in the day.

A sharp break in Great Northern had an unsettling effect upon the rest of the rails, especially upon the shares of the Northwestern carriers, like St. Paul and Chicago and Northwestern. In the lively speculation of the summer Wall street had reckoned too much upon the favorable prospects for the spring wheat crop and the reviving activity in the lumber trade to swell the earnings of these roads. It had not been able to foresee the losses of the coal and shopmen's strikes.

The declines in the railway shares reached all the way from one to three points, and this was enough to account for the heaviness in the general market. As a rule however, the industrials held up reasonably well. A few specialites broke sharply, and the steels were more steadier by the Kennicott action, which was visible proof of the improvement during the last six months in the copper trade, and the coal shares were firm, under the lead of Pittsburg Coal, in which resumption of dividends at the next meeting of directors was discussed as not improbable.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Largely in response to lower quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market here underwent a moderate setback in price today during the early dealings. An apparent lull in export demand, together with something of a let-up in thedomestic flour trade, acted also as bearish factors. On the other hand, strength in sterling exchange attracted sufficient notice to make wheat sellers cautious, and to encourage scattered buying. Initial prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ½c lower with May at $1 14%

Life and Character Reading. DECEMBER 6. People born on this date and u der this sign are clairvoyant. More der this sign are clairvoyant. More than one thing on their minds at a time distresses them. They are very decided in everything they do. They frequently jump at conclusions before properly weighing by calm reason the full consequences and difficulties, but being very hopeful, they often overcome great obstacles. often overcome great obstacles.

These people cannot bear to see suffering. The first impulse is to resuffering. The first impulse is to re-lieve it, and they spare neither time, money nor strength in this work. This labor is always one of the heart, but strange to say it is usually repaid with ingratitude. choruses, piano solos and duets, by the tiny performers formed quite a delightful program, enjoyable apart from any friendly interest in the youngsters themselves.

Part two of the program reached more pretentious dimensions, and some very skilled and talented pianists, soloists and violinists made their appearance, each from the classes of St. Angela's College.

Music Part of Program.

BATTLING BLACK MAN
MAY RETURN TO JUNGLE

Special to The Advertiser.
Paris, Dec. 6.—Battling Siki, discredited light heavyweight champion of the world, has been advised by Albert Sarraut, minister for the colonies, to return to Senegal.

The big black threw a bombshell into the Parisian boxing world by declaring the fight in which he beat Carpentier and won the title to have been "fixed." Siki claimed he double-crossed the Frenchman, and won.

Irrational statements, confused and confileting, made by the Senegalese of Name Irrational statements, confused and conflicting, made by the Senegalese since that time, however, have led to the belief he is mentally unbalanced or merely wished to harm the boxing commission by his charge. He has been advised, therefore, to go home.

Descamps, manager of Carpentier and Georges himself deny the accusations, and the latter says he is gotting to America shortly to battle Kinney; for vocal, awarded to Kath-leen Byrne; for theory, awarded to Dorothy Hart; introductory silver pin, for piano, awarded to Jean Hutchison: special prizes awarded to Margaret Fallona, Edward Orendorff, Lenore Smoothy, and Audrey Yale.

WILL HONOR CUMMINGS FOR HIS LONG SERVICE

Delegates to the Trades and Labor Council in regular session at the Labor Temple tonight will honor John Cummings, who occupied the post of treasurer for that body for a period of seven years, retiring when the present term opened.

Mr. Cummings will be presented with a handsome illuminated address by John McGuire, president, on behalf of the members.

It is expected that routine business only will claim the attention of the council during the remainder of the avening.

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occaonally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the impression that the dollar is his the back or sick headache, dizziness, favorite standard of measure when your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Some time ago, as the story around the Springwells City Hall goes, Henry gave some thought to John's well-being. He sought him out, and the conversation ran on this wise:

"John," said Henry, "you're working too hard. You ought to take a rest."

"I'm all right, Henry," said John.
"How much of a farm have you got here?"
"One hundred and sixty acres."

"What's it worth an acre?"

"Til tell you what I'll do, John. You go around to the real estate men and the people who want to buy property, and find how much you can get for this farm. Then you come to me, and I'll give you "Tm all right, Henry. I can keep on farming."
"Won't quit, won't you?"
"No."

"Well, then, I'll tell you what I'll do. You ought to have a nice Lincoln coupe. I'll send you up one this afternoon."

But the Ford Motor Company as it stands today is not the product of a single mind—far from it. Into its development has gone the thought of some of the keenest minds in the industrial world. Let it be freely granted that Mr. Ford gave to the organization an inventive genius, an insight into the future of the automobile business, a dominating will and personality, yet it must be remembered that there were many things in the game that he did not understand in the beginning.

It seems incredible that he, the modern wizard of finance, ever could have been so impracticable, so uninformed on things concerning which he seems to be so well informed today, as to urge the building of a vault at the factory in which to deposit the surplus earnings of the company. The Aryan peoples come down from the East Caspian regions into history about the time that Mycenae and Troy and Cnossos are falling to the Greeks. It is difficult to disentangle the different tribes and races that appear under a multitude of names in the records and inscriptions that record their first appearance, but, fortunately, these distinctions are not needed in an elementary outline such as this present his-

In the ninth century B. C., a people to the Persians to the east of them, called the Medes, very closely related appear in the Assyrian inseriptions. Tiglath Pileser III. and Sargon II., names already familiar in this story, profess to have made them pay tribute. They are spoken of in the inscriptions as the "dangerous Medes." They are as yet a tribal people, not united under one king.

About the ninth century B. C., Elam and the Elamites, whose capital was Susa—a people which possessed a tradition and civilization at least as old as the Sumerian—suddenly vanish from history. We do not know what happened. They seem to have been overrun and the population absorbed by the conquerors. Susa is in the hands of the Persians.

DECLARES GERMANS USE LESS ALCOHOL

Strecker of Darmstaad University, Speaks at St. Marys.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Marys, Dec. 6.—A fairly representative audience of the people of St. Marys and district welcome several world delegates who attended the recent world temperance convention in Toronto, in a mass meet ing in the Presbyterian Church, Church street, last night. Mr. F. E. Butcher acted as chairman.

The first speaker on the program was Dr. August Ley, professor in mental diseases, Brussels, Belgium, who reviewed the action of alcoholic liquors on the human system, telling how much better Belgium has been vited the law [1910] since the law of 1919, prohibiting sale of liquor in public places, came into

Mr. Tarina Sinba of Bedares, India, dealt with the opium trade. The three countries producing opium are, he stated, China, India and Persia. Most of the Chinese opium is used in China itself. The world traffic in opium, however, is carried on by India and Persia. The manufacture of opium in India is in charge of the Indian government, "and is, I am ashamed to say," declared the speaker, "a monopoly of the government; it is one of its main departments, as the department of education is of the Ontario government.

"The wheat and opium trades are the strongest competitors in India.

There are two kinds of opium, trade and excise. One thousand two hundred and fifty-seven tons of opium are manufactured yearly. Seven are manufactured yearly. Seven hundred tons are sold in foreign mar rundred tons are sold in foreign markets. Japan increased importation from a half ton of opium in a few years to 62 tons last year.

"The consumption of opium is growing, but this is not due to prohibition. The United States is the largest user of opium. The 1921 statistics show United States as using 25 grains now person. Commence 1929. 36 grains per person, Germany 20, England 1 and France 3. The great increase on this continent is due to the prosperity of the people and the easy methods of smuggling between Canada and United States.

"In Australia they are thinking of government control, but this will not solve the problem, the only cure is absolute prohibition. It is the only way to save the next generation. The old world will follow the lead of Canada and United States. Canada do your duty.'

Rev. Mr. Evans, seconded by Rev Duggan, moved a vote of thanks to the visiting delegates for coming to St. Marys. This was answered by Rev. G. Gordon of Australia.
