BELL SEES POSSIBILITY OF COUNCIL SURPLUS

TREASURER BELIEVES NO DEFICIT TO RESULT

Financial Statement of City For 1923 Is Nearly Ready.

WILL NOT PROPHESY

"Even Break" Would Be Acceptable to Councillors For Past Term.

More cheerful tidings are forthcoming from City Treasurer James Bell, whose financial statement for 1923 will soon be ready for the city council. The treasurer is still quite confident that the council will at least "break even." He anticipates no deficit, as was forecasted from time to time prior to the last municipal election.

"Don't be surprised if there is a surplus," Mr. Bell warned, although he makes it quite clear that he is making no prophecy in this regard. Such a development is possible, but cannot be accepted as a surety at this moment however. A "clean break" would be very acceptable to the mayor and council, however, as well as the citizens at large, more particularly in view of the many unforeseen expenditures after last year's tax rate was struck, and the consistent volley of criticism toward the latter part of the year from those who confidently predicted unofficial deficits running all the way from $10,000 to $50,000.

The treasurer is not of course incorporating in his calculations the annexed tax dispute, still unsettled, which will mean a question of about $15,000.

COMMISSIONERS FACE ONLY ROUTINE MATTERS

Deputations' Appeals Likely To Be Heard Again On Thursday.

Nothing but routine business will occupy the attention of the public utilities commissioners at their next meeting on Thursday, according to General Manager E. V. Buchanan, who stated that so far nothing out of the ordinary had turned up.

At the last meeting two deputations were heard, one requesting a readjustment of rates in the Knollwood Park section and the other seeking water service to the Mahaffy subdivision. It is likely that these matters will again be considered, as it is the intention of the commission to work out an equitable rate for the metered consumers of water.

"JIMMY" BELL A HARD ONE TO STICK FOR AN ANSWER

City Treasurer, "Jimmy" Bell is never stuck for an answer.

"Where is Tudor, Canada?" he was asked this morning. "Out here a few miles," he explained. It developed after an exhaustive probe that Tudor is a prairie stop somewhere west of Winnipeg and east of the Rockies.

A communication reached the city hall addressed to the tax collector of Tudor. The letter has been redirected, but the city treasurer and Tax Collector Turner have demonstrated that "it is still possible to learn something new every day."

GRAND JURY CHOSEN, SPRING ASSIZES OPENS

Only One Criminal Case, Robert Sansone, Charged With Manslaughter.

LENNOX PRESIDES

Ten-Thousand-Dollar Damage Suit Is Being Proceeded With.

The opening of the spring assizes at the court house this afternoon before Mr. Justice Lennox, did not attract the curious crowds that prevailed at the winter sittings last month, when his honor passed death sentences on Murrell, Williams and Topping. At that time there was a double jury panel of 96 members, while this afternoon the customary 48 "good men and true" took their places in court. There were very few spectators in the room.

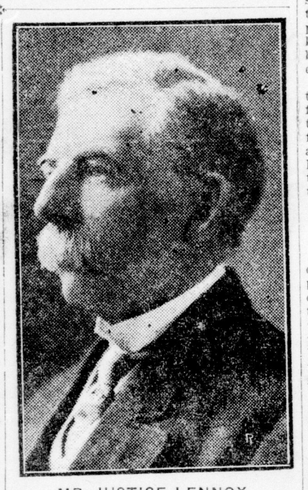

The only criminal case, that of Robert Sansone, was sent to the grand jury for consideration later in the afternoon. Sansone is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Emmeline Lucas, who was run down and fatally injured by a truck driven by Sansone on Jan. 31 last. Crown Attorney A. M. Judd appeared for the crown, and Albert Murphy for Sansone.

Witnesses in the case are nine in number, Mrs. Minnie Bursch, Dr. M. Platt, Philip Lawson, C. W. Matthews, Alex. Judge, Stewart Gallagher, Mrs. George Tune (mother of Mrs. Lucas), and Detectives Thos. Bolton and Elmer Walsh.

The $10,000 damage action of Colin Leitch vs. Robert McKay, over a motor car accident, is being proceeded with.

Thos. Turnbull was chosen foreman of the grand jury, without the jurymen retiring to their room. Mr. Justice Lennox explained the duties of the grand jury in a clear and concise manner.

Following are the names of the grand jury: John Abbott, Lucan, gentleman; W. E. Buttery, Adelaide Township, farmer; A. E. Benham, Parkhill, merchant; Robert N. Campbell, Mosa, farmer; V. J. Dunn, Dorchester, farmer; Geo. W. Edwards, Mosa, farmer; C. D. Kent, Ailsa Craig, banker; George Mahon, Nissouri, farmer; James Peters, Caradoc, farmer; B. O. Parker, Strathroy, merchant; G. E. Thornicroft, Westminster, farmer; Thomas Turnbull, Lobo, gentleman; Austin Winter, London Township, drover.

MR. JUSTICE LENNOX,

who is presiding at the spring assizes, which opened at the court house today. Mr. Justice eLnnox presided also at the winter assizes.

BIGGEST THROUGH TRAIN TAKES AUTOS TO COAST

C. P. R. Officials Here See a Bumper Season For Automotive Industry.

In the opinion of C. P. R. officials here the automotive industry is the first in Canada to show a decided change for the better. As evidence of this they point to the fact that the largest through train of autos to Vancouver passed through the city a few days ago on that road.

The shipment occupied a train of 43 cars, each car containing six autos and all sold to dealers on the coast, and shipped from the Walkerville plant of the Ford Motor Company.

"It is the first through train of merchandise this season to be handled by our road," said W. J. Anderson, district freight agent.

FOURTEEN THOUSAND MAILMEN MAY STRIKE

Postal Carriers Declare They Will Not Accept Cut in Bonus.

EMPLOYEES AROUSED

Claim They Have Waited Long Enough For the Salary Revision.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, March 17.—"If the referendum vote now being taken among the dominion postal employees gives the officers the backing they need, as I have no doubt it will, and the cabinet refuse to consider our request for salary revision there will be no further dilly-dallying. The men will strike. It is a fact there is no doubt about it."

Thus declared Frank Maxwell, secretary of the Toronto branch of the Dominion Postal Clerks' Association to The Advertiser today.

This stand follows a mass meeting attended by 1,200 postal employees in the Labor Temple yesterday, when the cabinet suggestion to cut the bonus now given the men as added salary was under discussion.

When Postmaster Lemon was asked what action he would take to have mail delivered within the city should the strike materialize, and tie the city's business, he smiled and pointed out that in questions of this kind his policy was to accept the biblical advice, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

At least 14,000 men representing the distribution of the country's mail from coast to coast will walk out if the strike materializes. The men affected say they have a real grievance and will tolerate no further delay in salary revision and will fight to the last ditch the proposal to further reduce their earnings.

GUELPH CLERKS PROTEST.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Guelph, March 17.—The postal clerks of Guelph have entered strong protest to the government against the cutting off of the bonus until such time as the salary list has been revised, as had been promised by the premier more than a year ago. The branches of the postal clerks and railway clerks have called a joint session for Tuespday.

"INFORMATION BUREAU" IS PLANNED FOR CITY

Provision in Estimates Calls For Re-establishment of Clerkship.

Provision has been made in the 1924 estimates for the inauguration at the city hall of what will virtually constitute an "information bureau."

When he assumed office, Mayor Wenige abandoned the practice of having a clerk in the mayor's office. After more than a year in service, he has concluded that this office should be restored with enlarged duties and responsibilities.

The clerk will be furnished with much informatioan upon municipal affairs and will be on duty throughout city hall office hours in order to give out information to inquiring rate payers upon subjects involving the city council and several city departments at the city hall.

M'KAY PLANS SAME ACTION IN "U" GRANT

Will Not Support Any Grant to Institution in Excess of $25,000.

As last year, Ald. Frank McKay will not support any grant to the University of Western Ontario, in excess of $25,000.

Ald. McKay insists that the municipal procedure bylaw should be adhered to; that is to say, if that legislation means anything. The bylaw provides that all expenditures in excess of $25,000 must go to a vote of the people, and the Labor councillor feels that the latter action should follow if the bylaw is to remain on the statutes.

It is understood also that Mayor Wenige favors the reduction of the 1923 grant of $55,000 to the university to $30,000, but from present indications it is etxremely unlikely that he could secure a majority of the council in such a venture.

CITIZENS URGED TO PLACE ONE STAMP ON PARCELS

In order to speed up the work and lessen confusion in the despatch of mail, the postoffice department desires the co-operation of the public and asks that whenever possible they make one stamp do the work of two or more.

The less stamps, the better the address stands out, and lessens the possibility of becoming marked by stamp cancelling, is the advice given.

Postage stamps of practically all denominations up to $1 are issued.

MODERN SWITCHBOARD WAS ADVISED 15 YEARS AGO

More than 15 years have elapsed since Fire Chief Aitken first recommended the installation of a modern switchboard at the central fire depot, he related.

"I came into office in 1908, when I first recommended it," he stated. "And it had been recommended for years previous by my predecessors."

DRAKE NOW BELIEVES UNIT SYSTEM BETTER

Reconsiders Opinion That Wing to Central High Would Be Advisable.

Ald. Gordon Drake, ward three, has concluded that it would be inadvisable to add a wing to the central collegiate institute, as he advocated last week.

Having given the question further consideration he insists now that the city council approve of the construction of a branch high school in East London. He has learnt also, he states, that the provincial department of education will not permit the proposed addition to the central school.

"It would cost just as much if not more to have the addition as it would to build a new school in East London," he submits. "I am out now for that. The unit system of high schools is the best, I believe, after further consideration."

WOULD MOTORIZE TRUCK.

Fire Chief Aitken favors the motorization of a service truck in the East London fire hall. This addition to the department would be of valuable assistance, he states, not only throughout Southeast London, but in the downtown sections.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY FINDS DUBLIN DRY

Saloons Are Closed and No Procession or Demonstrations Are Staged.

Associated Press Despatch.

Dublin, March 17.—St. Patrick's Day, a public and bank holiday in the Irish Free State, lacked some of the features of past years. There was no procession or demonstration by the Gaelic League, which formerly was a feature of the day, and there will be no organized display of Irish-made goods in the stores during the week as in former years. This must await the horse show and the Tail Teann games in the summer.

Dublin was to a large extent dry today. The saloons were not all closed, but the Bar Assistants' Association appealed to all its members to refrain from work on the national feast day, so that virtually the only public houses open were those in which the owners, with the assistance of their families carried on the business.

ALD. TOWE WILL OCCUPY MAYOR'S CHAIR THURSDAY

Ald. Allan Towe will be acting mayor Thursday next when Mayor Wenige and several members of the council journey to Toronto upon city business. As chairman of the traffic committee, Ald. Towe naturally specializes in problems attending this phase of city activity. A good slogan for motorists and pedestrians as well, on Thursday would be "tell your troubles to Towe."

WENIGE AND DOUGLASS TO STRIKE RATE MONDAY

Mayor George Wenige and Chairman Douglass of the finance committee propose to strike the tax rate at a special session Monday night next.

Members of the finance committee will assemble, from present arrangements, at 5 p.m. Friday for a final survey of their proposed expenditures (already below last year's), while the members of the board of works are expected to finally dispose of theirs at a special session tomorrow afternoon.

VETERANS PETITION FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Resolution Calling For Action Unanimously Passed by the Association Members.

CITY HEADQUARTERS

Believe Situation Calls For Immediate Step by Government.

Believing that the hospital situation for the treatment of returned soldiers in London has reached such a state that calls for action on the part of the government, the local branch of the G. W. V. A. has drawn up and unanimously passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, the reaction in health of returned soldiers having assumed such proportions that the present system in force for the hospitalization and observation is proving inadequate, to the embarrassment, both of the returned men, patients, and the authorities at Victoria Hospital, whose facilities are taxed to a point dangering the proper handling of patients, and,

"Whereas, London is the headquarters of M. D. No. 1, in which reside many thousand returned men, and that at the present time there are some sixty returned soldier patients crowded in Victoria Hospital,

"Be it resolved, that London Branch of the G. W. V. A., feeling confident that the situation is such, and that the prevailing or worse conditions will continue in effect, particularly as the disabled returned soldiers grow older, hereby respectfully calls the attention of the government to the situation, and petitions that immediate steps be taken to secure land and build, or require a suitable building in which medical and surgical disability cases (apart from those properly to be treated at Westminster or Byron), can be adequately and scientifically cared for, and we urge that immediate steps be taken to remedy the situation as suggested.

(Signed) "GEO. TURNER.

TREASURER PROMISES DRASTIC TAX PLANS

Collecting Branch Out To "Clean Up," James Bell Declares.

Drastic measures will be adopted to collect all taxes throughout the current year, City Treasurer Bell stated. The tax collecting branch of municipal activity is going out to "clean up," and a start will be made with the statute labor delinquents, he stressed.

The city has the authority to furnish each employer with a list of his employees liable under this assessment, and make him directly liable for the collection. This step has never been taken by the city, but the city treasurer contemplates such action if prompt payment is not forthcoming.

Candidates Working Hard On Last Day of Extra Votes

Results of Today's Drive May Decide Winners of Grand Prizes.

RACE STILL UNDECIDED

Final Two Weeks of Big Campaign Will See Hard Fight.

Up until midnight the contest department will be kept busy accepting subscriptions from those who are making a final cleanup for the special $500 cash prize offer which closes today. Many candidates appreciate that what they accomplish today may mean the winning of $2,000 or $1,000.

Several contestants are so close that the results of their efforts up to a late hour tonight will probably decide the four leaders in the last special bonus contest of the campaign. The winners will be announced just as soon as auditors tabulate all the votes.

The final lap of the big drive begins tomorrow and the ultimate winner is as much a matter of speculation as it was at the commencement. What candidates do in the next two weeks will tell the story.

Today is the last of the special 250,000 extra vote offer for every two-yearly subscriptions brought in. Many candidates have asked that it be repeated, but this cannot be done. That is why a vigorous effort to get subscriptions should be made today.

A. J. Swanson, counsel for the condemned man, on Saturday morning.

A copy of the evidence taken at the trial was ordered with the filing of the appeal, and the case will likely come up for review within a week.

"WILLIE" NOW SELLS FARM IMPLEMENTS

Former German Crown Prince Now a Businessman in Potsdam.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 17.—The former German crown prince has set up as a businessman and now is living at the home of his brother, Eitel Frederick, at Potsdam, with his wife and family, according to the Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent.

Moved by Frederick William's plea that his fortune had suffered the same as everybody else's through the fall of the mark, the government gave him permission to go to Berlin and seek remunerative occupation.

At first he tried to conceal his identity from the public, but when he took the princess to the movies last Saturday the pair were recognized and greeted with cheers.

The business to which he is turning his attention is that of selling agricultural machinery, and the correspondent says his prospects of success are very bright, since all the landholders are staunch monarchists and many are personally known to the prince.

FIGHT STARTS TO BOOST CITY OF LONDON BILL

The fight to insure the successful passage of the city of London bill has commenced.

Certain ratepayers, supposedly with influence on the government side of the house are in Toronto at this moment in an endeavor to get the ear of those whose opinions will be listened to with the closest attention in the private bills committee of the legislature Thursday morning next.

DAMAGE SLIGHT IN TWO WEEK-END CHIMNEY FIRES

The second run was to the home of J. L. Wilson, 785 King street, where the fire was extinguished before any damage resulted.

All were extremely popular residents of London, and their tragic end came as a great shock to Londoners.

While no definite funeral arrangements have yet been made, it is understood that there will be a joint funeral tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Mr. Murphy of Wortley Road Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Bowley Green, will officiate. The funeral will be strictly private.

Chairman Douglass of the finance committee announces that the investigation of the city relief department will be held Friday afternoon, providing Relief Inspector W. J. McCallum reaches the city from Ohio, where he has been visiting since his suspension by Mayor Wenige.

"I have notified him," the chairman stated, "and if he is back by Friday we'll have the investigation Friday afternoon at a meeting called already for the final survey of the estimates.

ANOTHER OF "ANNEXED" FIRMS PROTESTS TAX

Complaint Made Against the Increase in School Levy For 1924.

Another of the industries in the "annexed" districts of East London has protested against the increased school tax levied by the city council of 1923, City Commissioner H. J. Bennett announces.

This complaint has nothing to do with that department, as the commissioner points out. The assessors are assessing the property there as in former years, bringing in the two values, the present assessment and the valuation at the time of annexation, 1914.

The industry in question is protesting in order that it may be on record when Mr. Justice Kelly of Toronto, hands down his decision with respect to the McCormick people who appealed the same levy last November.

ALLIANCE CONDEMNS SYSTEM OF LIQUOR CONTROL

LONDON PASTORS PASS RESOLUTION CONDEMNING STEP

See No Chance To Halt Illicit Trade With Government Control.

POINT TO WEST

The London Ministerial Alliance does not share with those who would bring a system of government sale in this province the optimism that it would do away with bootlegging, blind pigs and similar institutions. A resolution unanimously adopted by the body at their meeting this morning points to the conditions in British Columbia as an evidence that these things continue in spite of such enactment, and it was stated by Rev. Dr. Wm. Beattie, who presented the resolution, that they were in a more flourishing condition than while prohibition had been in force.

"I have it on reliable authority," Dr. Beattie said, "that conditions in British Columbia are such at the present time that another year of such will be sufficient to bring about a repeal of the act providing for government control.

"The sentiment is aroused, not only of prohibitionists, but of hard-headed businessmen, who are realizing the great decrease in efficiency, and they are organizing themselves to have government control abandoned."

Approve Resolution.

The resolution approved by the alliance, omitting the address to the premier, the attorney-general and the member for London, reads: "Would express its firm conviction that, notwithstanding manifest difficulties in the enforcement of prohibition in this province, where the manufacture of alcoholic liquors is permitted, the diminution in drunkenness, in crime traceable to drunkenness and in poverty due to the same cause, amply justifies the continuance of the Ontario temperance act; the members of the association are unanimously agreed that every effort should be put forth by those in authority to strengthen the act wherein it may be weak and to insure a more adequate enforcement; that association feels that in a reform involving such a radical but beneficial changes in the habits of the people, stability should characterize the policy of the government and that to this end the present act should be given a considerably longer period of fair trial.

"We are unanimous in our conviction that the present acknowledged evils cannot be cured by any system of government sale. It is a matter of well-attested fact that bootlegging, club-drinking and blind pigs thrive in British Columbia and Quebec under government sale to a greater degree and in a more pernicious form than at any time during prohibition."

Promise Support.

The alliance were approached this morning by a committee of the Welfare Society and promised to lend every support to its budget campaign. City pulpits are to be opened on a special Sunday for a speaker from the committee in charge.

Keen regret was expressed that the alliance is to lose one of its most valued members in the person of Rev. Matthew Kelly, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who leaves at the end of the month for Indiana. The vote of appreciation moved by Dr. McGregor and seconded by Rev. John Hosie, provided that a copy should be sent to Mr. Kelly's new charge, as evidence of the service he has rendered to the community and to his own congregation. Mr. Kelly has been one of the most active workers of the Ministerial Alliance, and has taken a very prominent part in the social service work of the city.

The speaker of the morning was Rev. Professor Anderson of Huron College, whose subject was "The Prevalent Belief in Demons Noticed Among the Early Christian Fathers." It was one of unique interest, in that the question is not one commonly discussed, and it precipitated a great deal of interesting argument.

BROTHERHOOD WILL AID WELFARE FUND WORK

Members of District Federation To Issue Appeal From Churches.

The London District Brotherhood Federation, at their meeting Friday night, received the report of the secretary that permission had been given to hold meetings in the Manor and Highland Park School, and decided to have the first meeting there on Sunday afternoon, March 30.

The request of the Welfare Fund committee for speakers to aid in presenting their appeal in the churches of the city, was granted and Brotherhood men will give short addresses where required on Sunday March 30.

Arrangements for the great men's rally in the auditorium of the Central Collegiate on Sunday, March 23, in the interests of world's peace, were decided upon. Besides the main address by Professor Dorland of the University of Western Ontario, there will be short speeches from representatives of the Roman Catholic, Anglican and other churches, and of the Trades and Labor Council and the various men's clubs of the city.

CITY OF LONDON BILL HEARING IS POSTPONED

City Clerk Sam Baker announced early this afternoon that the government has just set back the hearing of the city of London bill until Tuesday March 25.

Information to that effect reached City Solicitor T. G. Meredith this morning, cancellin gall previous arrangements.

WHAT KIND OF PERSON WOULD YOU MARRY?

Old-Fashioned Girl Claims Powder Injurious—"Education Makes Women High and Mighty," says Scarlet Runner—"Take Advantage of Leap Year," says Rosebud.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—I read with great interest the three letters in Wednesday's edition of The Advertiser on the question of "Do Girls Propose in Leap Year?" I think it's a question that is worth consideration.

Nineteen said she thought A. C. B. was horrid and conceited. To my way of thinking he did the most honorable thing he could have done. I believe, as the U. F. O. party does, equal rights to all and special privileges to none. Now, Nineteen, don't you think A. C. B. would have been a mean cad had he accepted that girl's offer and married her out of pure sympathy, rather than hurt her feelings, and after the din of the wedding bells had died away and they were settled down to common, everyday life, she would have found out what the man already knew in his heart—that he didn't love her? I give him credit for what he did.

Now for a word to Bachelor. He thinks it not the proper thing for a girl to propose. Why, may I ask? No doubt he would say: "Well, it's not the custom." I consulted the dictionary on the meaning of the word custom. It says it's a habit followed by people. I believe it was Shakespeare who said: "Custom was more honored in the breach than in observance."

In these days women are supposed to be half the homemaker. Well, if so, why shouldn't they have as much right to choose their life partner as a man? Does Bachelor expect women to sit on the bank all day like the proverbial frog in hopes that Providence would send them a fly? I give girls credit who ask a fellow to get married. Bachelor thinks very few would have enough nerve. Well, nerve or no nerve, some of the men make a terrible blunder of it. You would think they were saying their A, B, C's in Spanish.

You know, girls, it used to be the custom for only men to have the franchise, but some women got the right to vote. You see the "would-be rulers" of our country clamoring after the women's votes, and very soon you will see the men waiting anxiously to see some fair lady cast a pitying look upon them, and claim them from signing "unclaimed blessing" after their name.

Look out, Bachelor! I know the girls will be after you yet this year; and the first thing we hear is that you are suing them for breach of promise. IRISH COLLEEN.

Chatham, March 16.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—If A. C. B. had been a girl he would have said: "This is so sudden." My hat is off to the maid, for, believe me, she had courage.

I think a girl should propose. Why not? The men, bless their dear hearts, think they pick their wives, but do they? To men, it seems the other way round.

Every women is honored when a man proposes to her, whether it is her first proposal or her sixth. Why isn't A. C. B.?

Do we ever marry our ideals?

JUNE.

P. S.—Isn't Patriot's letter a joke? He wants a machine not a wife.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Editor,—Being much interested in "Should Girls Propose," I can't help but write my opinion on the subject.

I've often heard about girls proposing, but thought it a great joke. I never imagined one could have the nerve. Why blame "A B C" for refusing? Why should a boy accept offer of marriage while we girls have the privilege to refuse? I'm a girl always gay and full of life, but would not dare to nop the question.

The kind of man I would like to marry should be refined and jolly and have a good position. (Leave the rest to me).

"Mr. Bachelor" seems to loathe bobbed hair. Well, "Bachelor," I don't see why bobbed hair girls should be left aside. Just for the sake of having cut a bit of hair, providing the brain remains.

Now "A B C" don't grieve over your refusal (to have gray hair), for I think you did fairly well under the circumstances. I know by experience had I accepted a proposition of marriage I received last summer I would have been more embarrassed than you, (being not inspired by Cupid).

Cheer up, for some day you'll pop the question, then I'd advise you to take your courage, with both hands, for you might be refused at your turn.

Thanking you, Dear Editor, for the trouble to publish this letter. Sincerely yours, "FULL OF LIFE."

Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—Noticing "A C B's" letter in the paper a few days ago I could not resist writing and expressing my opinion. I glory in the courage of the young lady who proposed to "A C B." Men seem to think women haven't any rights at all. Some years ago it seemed the only work for young girls to do was to go to housework (while I don't condemn that, it is something every girl should know how to do), but now the time has come when men are beginning to find out that women are just as clever and capable of doing business transactions as they. During the war women filled men's places in stores, offices, banks, etc., and now women are beginning to have voice in parliament, and in all cases women are just as efficient in the work as men. The trouble is, men do not like to have too much honor placed on the feminine sex. Leap year comes just once in four years, and I think it perfectly right for any girl to pop the question if she finds the man she loves, and wishes to join the matrimonial league.

I do declare it is not fair
That men should all the choosing do,
Why should we girls forbidden be
The privilege of choosing too?

If A. C. B. became embarrassed when the young lady proposed to him how many boys ever think how embarrassed they make a girl feel when they propose?

I think all femininity should take advantage of this leap year. So go to it. ROSEBUD.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—I want a girl just like the girl that married dear old dad; sweet, tender, long-suffering, unselfish; some one void of conceit, not over-educated for this tends to make a woman too high and mighty for an ordinary home. Why ask, should women propose? Most all of them do, but not in the frank, manly way as is expected from the male. Surely this is a proposal. Two young people wishing each good-night. Young man: "Well, dearie, I guess I'd bette: be trotting along." Young lady: "Oh, what's your hurry, you've only been here twice this week." Then raising her arms and holding him tightly, saying: "I want you always with me." Asking a young lady regarding the proposing question, she says it may be all right for a woman to propose, but where would our grounds for breach of promise come in. Your many readers, I am sure, could tell of a hundred ways that a woman has proposed to them.

Yours for frankness,
SCARLET RUNNER.

Tillsonburg, March 16.

Dear Sir,—Having noticed a series of letters in your paper concerning "Should Girls Propose?" I am taking this opportunity of expressing my opinion.

Briefly, I would say girls should not propose, but as the world is changing so fast and seems to be getting worse, that girls who are trying to keep up with the powder and paint rage think they do nothing wrong in proposing.

Having never married, I know it was God's will for me not to marry, or he would have sent the right man along for me, not saying of course, that I have never had a proposal.

When I was young, girls never thought of using paint and powder, and today I notice women, whom I knew in my younger days, and who are now married, with grown-up daughters, have a much better complexion than their daughters, who everlastingly make up.

If girls have any self respect, they need not propose to any man, but someone will propose to her. It seems to me it is just girls who are afraid they will not get a man are the only ones who are brazen enough to propose.

Hoping I have not used too much space in your valuable paper, and thanking you, I am
AN OLD-FASHIONED GIRL.

LIQUOR MARINERS FEAR PHANTOM GRAY SHIP

Cruiser Pounces On Defenceless Traffickers, So Yarn Goes.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, March 17. — Liquor mariners, who were formerly shoremen and wielders of the lobster nets, tell with bated breath the story of a phantom gray cruiser which has haunted the waters off Long Island during the past three weeks, pouncing upon the defenceless rum traffickers as they were bound to "rum row" with cash for new consignments. So effective has been the operations of this nemesis, so their yarn went, that a check has been put on rum-running in that sector.

The pirate is a 54-foot Great Lakes cruiser, with a speed of 55 miles, and is equipped with what is reputed to be two 250-horsepower engines. Twenty-two freebooters comprise the crew, all armed with pistols.

CONDITIONS ARE IMPOSED FOR KING'S ABDICATION

Associated Press Despatch.

Athens, March 17.—A semi-official statement confirms newspaper reports that an agreement has been reached among the political leaders, prescribing the conditions under which King George will be allowed to abdicate voluntarily.

These include the right to retain the title of king for life, power to draw four-fifths of civil list allowance, the right to dispose freely of the crown domains excepting the Tatoi Palace, which the state will buy, and renunciation of the rights of succession by all the members of the dynasty.

The government has transmitted the conditions to the Greek minister at Bucharest, for transmission to George, who is in exile there.

MILITIA OFFICIALS DENY PRIVILEGE OF CHANGING LAW

Mayor Advised Law Concerning Uniform Wearing Must Stand.

RECENT ORDER STRESSED

The Ottawa militia authorities advise that they can do nothing with respect to Mayor Wenige's request to exempt certain returned soldiers from the order, effective March 31, that uniforms must be worn only upon certain occasions, specified by the department.

Mayor Wenige wired Ottawa Saturday, notifying the authorities there that many ex-soldiers were compelled to wear their uniforms or portions thereof by reason of unfortunate circumstances.

The following wire has been received by the mayor from the deputy-minister of the department, which stresses, in effect, the recent order which becomes effective in two weeks.

Mayor Wenige.

"Order regarding the unauthorized wearing of uniforms, intended to draw attention to amendment to the criminal code which was passed four years ago. Department has no power to alter or amend provisions of the criminal code, and persons violating same are liable to prosecution by civil authorities, just as much as they would be if any other offense under the code was committed."

The mayor is seeking further information. He states that he admits that the criminal code forbids the wearing of the uniform except upon formal occasions prescribed by the military authorities but feels that exemptions could be authorized for emergencies.

HYDRO QUESTION TO BE DEBATED

Sir Adam Beck Is Expected To Outline Program in the House Tomorrow.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, March 17.—Hydro matters will be debated in the Ontario Legislature tomorrow, when the estimates for that purpose are considered. Sir Adam Beck will outline the proposed program for the year and report on the work accomplished during the past twelve months. It is unlikely that he will devote much time to the report of the Gregory commission.

Tonight the public accounts committee will meet to hear evidence from the managers of the banks in which Douglas K. Ridout's $100,000 profit on the sale of $10,000,000 treasury bills was credited. There will not be a night session of the house. It is generally believed that the legislature will conclude its session in about three weeks, although the committees have most of their work to do yet. The work of the house proper is ahead of the committees.

EXPERTS WILL TESTIFY FOR DELORME TODAY

Counsel Have Yet To Decide Whether or Not Addresses Will Be Waived.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, March 17.—Indications this morning were that, contrary to expectations, defence expert evidence would occupy a large part of today in the trial of Abbe Delorme for the murder of his half-brother, Raoul. Three experts were to be heard, a bullet photographer, a gunsmith and ex-Capt. W. M. A. Jones of the New York police department, bullet expert.

No decision was reached this morning and no announcement was expected until the completion of evidence as to whether the defence would agree to the suggestion of the crown that addresses of counsel be waived. This decision will affect the prospects of the case going to the jury today.

RUSSIAN PRESS PRAISES SOVIET-CHINESE PACT

Associated Press Despatch.

Moscow, March 17.—The Russian newspapers consider the Russo-Chinese rapprochement a great feat of soviet diplomacy, and as significant of the future liberation of the Chinese from foreign control.

The Workers' Gazette points out that Turkey, after resuming relations with Soviet Russia, developed nationalistically until strong enough to "throw off the foreign yoke," and suggests that the Chinese agreement is equally important.

Izvestia, the official newspaper, says Russia now becomes a serious factor in the future relationships on the Pacific Ocean, which is rapidly becoming an international arena. "Establishment of full relations between New China and the greatest world force—the soviet federation—represents the beginning of a new historical process," it declares.

The relics were brought by Archambault, Napoleon's faithful groom from St. Helena. Archambault, with one or two personal servants, shared his exile. They were carefully kept by Archambault's family, but circumstances now oblige the descendants to dispose of them.

At present the relics are on exhibition in Malmaison, Napoleon's country house near Paris, when he was first consul, now converted into a Napoleonic museum.

The member asked what was the government's intention with regard to the recent communication from the pope appealing to the premier to use his influence with the Soviet to obtain the release of Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, and twelve other church dignitaries.

The note concludes with an expression of thanks to the League of Nations for its help to the mountaineers.

BUSINESSMEN ARE URGED TO HELP IMMIGRATION DEPT.

John Farrell, Local Inspector, Addresses the Rotary Club.

LAND NEEDS WORKERS

When the continental railways of Canada were built, it was by men who were expecting a population of fifty millions, and not one of eight or nine millions, John Farrell, immigration inspector, told to the Rotary Club today, in an address on immigration inspector, told to the oRtary of a greater number of reliable farm laborers. Immigration has been treated from a national and an international aspect by many speakers at the club. Mr. Farrell treated it from a more igtimate standpoint, pointing out the individual responsibility of every business man in the city.

"We are going to make a greater and better London," he said, "by building up the country around here. Why are there thousands and thousands of uncultivated acres outside London. Is it because there are not sufficient men here to work them?"

Immigrants come here pledged to become agriculturists, sometimes merely as a pretence to get into the country. Once here, they strive to get into the cities. Businessmen can co-operate with the immigration department in preventing this. They can demand an official order from every man who applies to them for work. By so doing, no injustice is done to the newcomer, but the immigration department can make sure that for a time at least, he serves that purpose for which he was allowed to come into the country and enjoy its privileges.

"What Canada needs is wealth and the wealth is waiting in the soil. But it can only be reached through labor and that is why our greatest need is for men to work in the fields. We don't need to exaggerate to have investors put their money in our country. The climate and the produce speak for themselves—but we must have men to work the land."

The report of the investigators has been sent to the authorities in Mexico City.

SHAREHOLDERS SEE NO HOPE THROUGH NEWEST CLAIM

U. A. Buchner Discounts the Windsor Man's Chance of Success in Suit.

A CHARTERED BANK

Notwithstanding attempts of John D. Anderson of Windsor to fight the double liability clause in the bank act, local Home Bank shareholders say there is no chance of being relieved of the burden.

"Shareholders have until May 1 to make their returns," U. A. Buchner, Home Bank inspector, who is a shareholder himself, said: "There are not a dozen shareholders in Canada who have claims which can be termed legitimate."

Mr. Buchner added that an understanding of the Home Bank situation will not be broadcasted until next Thursday, when Judge McKeon, who is investigating affairs at Ottawa, makes a preliminary report.

"Mr. Anderson of Windsor claims the Home Bank was not a chartered bank, but his idea, so far as I can see, is all wrong. There was never any question of doubt regarding the transfer of the Home Savings and Loan Company to the Home Bank. The Home Bank is included in the list of this country's chartered banks."

The case of local Catholics and Catholic institutions against the Home Bank will come up shortly. It is claimed that when a substantial deposit of funds made by Bishop Fallon was accepted on the day of the Home Bank's suspension, it was past closing time. On these grounds the bishop is bringing the case to court. The amount involved is said to total as high as $30,000.

Majority of City Officials Will Journey to Toronto on Thursday.

COMBAT HIGH RATES

London is going to be well represented in Toronto next Thursday. More than half of the city council and nearly all of the officials are going down to the capital to present their views in various capacities.

Mayor George Wenige and the six members of the finance committee will meet with representatives of the Fire Underwriters' Association to oppose increased insurance rates in this city.

This group includes Ald. Douglass (chairman), Anderson, Drake, Smith, Walsh and McKay, with Fire Chief John Aitken and City Treasurer James Bell.

Mayor Wenige and a special committee will appear before the private bills committee of the legislature to support the city of London bill. This party includes Ald. Warren, Ald. Bottrill, Ald. Douglass and Ald. Anderson, with City Clerk Sam Baker. It is expected that City Solicitor T. G. Meredith will be in attendance.

City Engineer W. P. Near will be in Toronto at the same time, in the first instance to seek the approval of the department of health for sketches of the proposed sewerage disposal plant on the south branch of the river, and in the second instance to support the city's plea to the government for authorization of $200,000 storm sewer work without a vote of the people. He will be accompanied by Mr. Veitch, one of his assistants.

City Building Inspector A. M. Piper has been authorized to go to Toronto the same day to arrange for the purchase of certain material for the new registry office.

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, has been asked to attend the conference with the fire underwriters to argue the city's side of the issue with the aldermen.

Mayor Wenige has also announced that City Assessment Commissioner H. B. Bennett will be authorized to represent the city in an official protest against the passage of the McBrien bill, which calls for certain income exemptions.

WOOL PRICES REPORTED INCREASING IN PRICE

Wool all over the world is rising in price and the demand is greater than the supply, according to D. H. Ross, the Dominion trade commissioner. In a report to Ottawa he says:

"Despite some recent minor fluctuations in the London sales, there has been no weakening in the values obtained in Australian sales of wool. Practically no types or classes of wool are neglected, and, considering that the principal auction sales close in March, it appears that the continued strong demand emphasizes that more wool is wanted than there is to sell. Generally the advance since the beginning of the season on all wools is about 33 per cent, and it is anticipated that these prices should hold, although all around they constitute records in the Australian sales. As much as 45 pence has been paid for some merino wool in the grease, equivalent to about 76 pence per pound clean, delivered in Canada. Practically everything on the market is absorbed."

DEMAND INCERASES FOR CANADIAN FLAX

G. B. Johnson Explains Dropping Off in Trade With Russia.

That there is a large demand for Canadian flax at around $450 a ton in the British market is the opinion of G. B. Johnson, Canadian trade commissioner to Scotland, who writes to Ottawa:

"The shortage of the cotton supply and consequent high level of prices for cotton goods have given stimulus to the linen industry in Great Britain. In pre-war days, Russia was the main source of supply, but is not expected now to export more than 13 per cent of the pre-war quantity. Disappointment in regard to prices has discouraged Canadian growers during recent years, and the acreage has been far from encouraging. In 1920 Canada's fibre area was 31,300 acres, and that total could be reached again. Last year the area was 4,500 acres, or three and a half times that of 1922, so probably 600 tons may be forthcoming. A good opportunity is now offered Canadian flax growers. Flax at £100 a ton appears to be a remunerative crop, and it is not likely to be cheaper for a few years."

British Press Asks Prince To Refrain From Riding

Points Out That He Is Taking Too Many Chances For One in His Position.

SOME CRITICIZE

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 17.—The Prince of Wales' twelfth riding accident, in which he was thrown while participating in a race at Arborfield Saturday, is made the text of editorial homilies addressed to his royal highness by several of the morning newspapers, which tell him that the people are very much concerned over the manner in which he continues to risk his life.

The writers remind him that he is not a private person but a national asset, and say that although he is duly entitled to recreation, especially in view of the hearty and thorough way in which he performs his public duties, it is time he imposed restraint on his plucky spirits.

All the comments are framed in the kindliest tones, expressing anxiety for his safety, except that of the Laborite newspaper, the Daily Herald, which insinuates that the Prince of Wales spends his days hunting and steeplechasing and his nights dancing. It adds that it is time he took life more seriously and devoted his energies to occupations more worth while.

While some of the writers criticize the prince's horsemanship and suggest his falls are due to lack of skill, others remark that such accidents are common and say in view of the frequency with which the prince rides his crashes are in no wise numerous. The prince could certainly point to the testimony of the newspapers for the frequency of chasing accidents, as pictures appear almost daily giving the idea that a large proportion of the chasers spend their time in falling upon their heads.

LONDONERS TO CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Richardson Recall Memories of Pioneer London.

BOTH BORN IN CITY

Now Reside in Niagara Falls Following Retirement From Business.

On Wednesday a happy golden wedding anniversary will be celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Randall, Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y.

The golden wedding honeymoon will be celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Richardson, and will mark the passage of the many happy years' residence in London, recalling memories of London as it used to be.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were married in Christ Church, Wellington street, London, March 19, 1874, by the Rev. Smythe, assisted by Rev. Bayley. Ernest Skinner was groomsman, and Mrs. J. K. Spry, then Miss Grace Essery, was bridesmaid.

Mr. Richardson was born in London in 1851, and received his education at old St. George School. He was one of the first paid firemen of the London fire department, and at one time served as purser for the old Princess Louise and Forest City Boat Line to Springbank. In 1881 he assisted in the rescue of passengers from the steamer Victoria.

Active in business life, Mr. Richardson operated a confectionery business on Richmond street, opposite the present premises of Robinson & Little. Later he moved to the Richmond street building, now occupied by the Robson book store.

In sport Mr. Richardson will be remembered as a member of the London Lacrosse Club. He served also in the Fenian Raid, 1870, in Shanley's Battery, and received a medal and grant of land.

Mrs. Richardson was born on Dundas street, opposite Market Lane, where her father, the late William Essery, conducted a boot and shoe store. She attended the old Union School, and was a member of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left London to take up their residence at Niagara Falls upon Mr. Richardson's retirement from active business in 1920.

Of their six children, five survive: W. H. Richardson of Port Arthur, Tex.; Harold M., Niagara Falls; Mrs. C. Egelton, Chicago; Mrs. C. L. Randall, Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. Wm. Taylor, Niagara Falls.

The surviving wedding guests are Mr. William Skinner, Mrs. Bessie Noble, Miss W. Skinner, E. T. Essery, Mrs. W. K. Spry, and Ernest Skinner.

MR. AND MRS. O. RICHARDSON.

DOMINION TO PROTECT BEES AGAINST DISEASE

Importation of Bees on Combs To Be Prohibited After March 20.

For the protection of Canadian beekeepers the deputy minister of agriculture has just issued an order to the effect that the importation into Canada of bees on combs or from used or second-hand hives, is prohibited as well as the supplies. It is hoped this action will prevent the further introduction of American diseases which affect bees.

The importation of bees in combless packages is also prohibited, unless such packages are accompanied by a declaration signed by the shipper that the food supplied to the bees and carried in the package is free from disease.

The order goes into effect on and after March 10th, 1924.

AWARDS FOR BRAVERY FOUND AFTER DEATH

E. C. Maples Dies Unknown in New York Y.M.C.A.— Told War Stories.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, March 17.—The body of Edward C. Maples, an Englishman, was found yestreday in the West Side Y. M. C. A., where, to those who lived with him there for many weeks, he had constantly discoursed about the bravery of the men of his regiment during the world war.

Of himself he had told nothing, and no one was inquisitive. Those who had listened to his tales were therefore amazed when, in searching through his effects for the name of a relative, they found four strings of ribbon with medals attached.

Officers of the Y. M. C. A. began an investigation to determine if the decorations were genuine. They purported to be the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order, both British awards, and the Military Medal, and the cross of a chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France.

ONE HUNDRED FAMILIES DRIVEN OUT BY FLAMES

Associated Press Despatch.

CONCERT PLANNED TO AID CHILDREN'S WORK COMMITTEE

Prominent Local Artists Will Appear in St. Andrew's Hall Next Monday.

TO EXPLAIN OBJECTS

"As the twig is bent, so shall the tree grow." In this old adage, or words to its effect, Miss Mayme Young, secretary of the London Children's Work Board, is a firm believer. Excellent work may be done, Miss Young admits, with the boy or girl of the 'teen age, but she is emphatic also in her opinion that the adaptability of the boy or girl of that age is largely determined in the primary or kindergarten days. For this reason, Miss Young and those with whom she works are striving to lay open the childish minds to the more lasting impressions of later years, by means of the three golden keys to childhood, picture, song and story.

The children's work board in London is but a recent venture, and is not yet organized so thoroughly as the work for the 'teen age boys and girls. It is hoped, however, with the growing recognition of the importance of the work with children that more and more attention will be paid to this phase of religious education. To this end, the board is introducing its work to the public next Monday evening in St. Andrew's Hall by means of a concert. Prominent local artists are lending their support and the program is being arranged by Mrs. Grant-Harris. On this occasion, Rev. F. W. K. Harris, director of religious education in St. Andrew's Church, will speak on the work of the Children's Work Board and its aims and objective in the city.

Miss Young is a most enthusiastic worker for her department. She has introduced it into every Sunday school of the city, and 600 teachers of the Sunday classes are working in accordance with her. But even more important than this, for after all the teaching of Sunday school is for less than an hour a week, Miss Young is introducing her work into the home. The board has made almost a science of the ways and means of introducing the work to children, and they planned the most effective ways in which the mother can take from her busy day the hour for the religious training of the child. It has been made a story-telling hour in which the loveliest stories of all are told, and to this end the board has prepared a most interesting array of colored pictures and pamphlets. One very unique scheme, which Miss Young herself has prepared, is a system of story-telling from magazine advertisements.

Among those who will take part in Monday night's concert are: Miss Gibson, Miss Wood-Hayward, Miss Coutts, Miss Gwendolyn Anthistle and Messrs E. Webster, P. King and S. Taylor.

TWO MORE LONDONERS SEEK NATURALIZATION

Gaetono Antonneci and Rachael Cohen File Applications.

Two more Londoners anxious to become citizens of Canada have filed applications for naturalization at the court house. They will be heard before Judge Macbeth on July 7.

Gastano Antonnocci, 31 King street, states in his application he was born in Italy, December 30, 1887, and came to Canada in April, 1912.

Rachael Cohen, 124 Clarence street, is a native of Poland, and arrived in London March 31, 1914. She has been a resident of the city since that time, she declares.

MAGISTRATE HEARS MANY CASES IN PRIVATE OFFICE

Open court has almost become a thing of the past in the dispensing of justice locally. For the last three weeks the majority of police court cases have been heard in the privacy of Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon's office.

This morning there were five cases on the blotter, but not one was heard before the public. The court room was crowded and spectators waited more than half an hour in the expectation of hearing them. All evidence was given, however, in the magistrate's office.

YEAR OF PROGRESS SEEN IN CANADA

Conditions at End of '23 Good Forecast, Says Greenshields' Review.

A year of progress in the business of the dominion is forecasted in Greenshields Review for March. A summary of the views of the editors on this question is as follows:

On the basis of financial and commercial conditions that existed at the turn of the year, it should not be excessive optimism to expect better business throughout 1924. The large carry-over of wheat, amounting to approximately one-third of the crop, although temporarily a retarding influence, will result in a heavy outward movement as soon as navigation opens, a corresponding influx of new money and a general stimualtion of trade activities. Wheat prices are acting relatively well, May and July options selling at their highest for the crop in the early part of February.

Foreign demand for forest products, including pulp and paper, should, as a result of existing conditions in the United States, at least be maintained at the level of last year. New construction in each of the past two years has contributed over $300,000,000 to the volume of purely domestic business and there is nothing to indicate that the volume will be less this year. Immigration, after a ten-year lag, promises to approach its pre-war volume and there has been no year of heavy immigration into the dominoin without a quickening of business activities.

POSTPONE COUNCIL CAUCUS DUE TO PRO HOCKEY GAME

An important hockey game here is interfering with a special caucus of the city council, called for Tuesday night to give a final consideration to the estimates from all spending boards, Mayor Wenige announced.

"We have cancelled that meeting," he stated. "There is a big hockey game in town and as several of the aldermen have stated that they were going to attend it, it would seem that we would be unable to have a quorum."

EAST MIDDLESEX TORY SUPPORTERS HONOR S. F. GLASS

Convey Appreciation to Veteran Campaigner For Services to Party.

OFFICERS ELECTED

More than 40 years in the service of his party including several notable years in the House of Commons as the representative of his riding, S. Frank Glass, ex-M.P., was highly honored at the annual session of the East Middlesex Conservative Association here Saturday afternoon.

Following the business session of the afternoon a special committee was detailed to convey to the veteran Tory campaigner the members' resolution of the high esteem in which he is still held among them and throughout the riding generally. Still recuperating from a recent illness, Mr. Glass was unable to be in attendance. Through a communication to the secretary, however, he conveyed his deep appreciation of their mark of tribute.

All officers were re-elected without opposition, J. L. Robson of London Township retaining the presidency for another term while Homer B. Neeley was again elected to the post of secretary.

The event was an echo of recent Meighen and other Tory conclaves. It was a characteristic Tory gathering as would be anticipated. The 'hewers of wood' and 'drawers of water' hearkened patiently to the voice of their leaders who vouchsafed the general intelligence that the people of this country were merely waiting for the coming of the Conservatives to Ottawa." There were no dissenting voices in this regard. From the remarks of E. R. Dennis and Donald Sutherland, M.P., it seems that there is nothing more to do but go to the polls.

Adds a Bit More.

Donald Sutherland was imported all the way from the south riding of Oxford to engender additional "pep" into the gathering. As one of the speakers of the afternoon he picked up where "Chief" Dennis left off, and concurred generally with everything that had been said before and added a measure for good luck. The time of deliverance is at hand and it's going to be rough sledding for the poor old Liberals at Ottawa when the "Blue Boys" go into action again; that is, according to Donald Sutherland and "Chief" Dennis.

Several weeks ago it was noised abroad that the supporters of the president of the Western Ontario Conservative Association (E. R. Dennis) were loud and insistent in their reasoning that he was the logical selection for the East Middlesex Association at the next campaign.

That might easily account for "Ernie's" prominence at the gathering and his customary "peppy" offering in the way of a Tory address. He did make it quite clear, however, that his participation was not to be accepted as a selfish move but strictly as the head of the association of Western Ontario. "I am not aspiring for any higher honor than the presidency of that organization," he announced by way of a preliminary.

At his instigation and with the assistance of Donald Sutherland, the members concluded, however, before they left for home, that but one party could be safely entrusted with the political destinies of this country—just one party, the Liberal-Conservative Party, with Hon. Arthur Meighen in the lead.

Donald Sutherland flayed the present government at Ottawa in a promiscuous manner, but incidentally paid a high tribute to the services and ability of Frank Glass during his term of office as a member of the Union government under the leadership of Hon. R. L. Borden.

"Happier" Days.

The officers were elected unanimously. Township officers, who will form the executive, will be elected at the various municipality sessions. All speakers recalled dolefully the lack of organization in recent years, but expected better things in the near future. "Happier days," was the way Chief Dennis put it. The latter asked for a more thorough understanding between the inhabitants of the towns and cities and the people of the rural districts. They should get together more frequently, he advised, when they might devise ways and means of ousting a few of the middlemen.

The 1924 officers are: J. L. Robson, president, R. R. No. 2, London Township; W. J. Fuller, ex-reeve, London Township, first vice-president; Miss Ethel Robson, London Township, second vice-president; Homer B. Neeley, secretary; Mrs. John Cunliffe, London East, assistant secretary; R. F. O'Neil, Dorchester, treasurer; R. H. Harding, Thorndale, and Mrs. Frank Tanton, auditors; J. L. Robson and Miss Ethel Robson, delegates to the Western Ontario Association.

The resolution of appreciation of the services of Frank Glass was moved and seconded by Messrs. Hodgins and White, the latter a representative from the annexed district of the city.

The meeting was quite well attended.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards and Mrs. H. E. Edwards, both of London, also spoke during the afternoon. Among the veterans present were Harry Tozer and Squire Chittick.

JOHN DONAGHY.

FOUR EX-LONDONERS DIE IN DETROIT AUTO SMASH

Meet Instant Death When the Machine Is Struck by Interurban.

SUNDAY TRAGEDY

Automobile Hurled With Terrific Force Against Telegraph Pole.

THE DEAD.
Harry B. Moulton.
Mrs. H. B. Moulton.
W. Adair Mills.
Mrs. W. A. Mills.

Detroit, March 16.—In a dimly-lighted little room of an undertaking shop in Dearborn lie tonight the bodies of two women and two men, all former residents of London, Ontario, and whose lives were sacrificed yesterday when the automobile, in which they were riding, was struck by a speeding interurban car and hurled with terrific force against a telegraph pole, a mass of twisted wood and metal.

The victims are: Harry B. Moulton, 54, 5015 Spokane avenue, sales department, Parker, Webb and Company, crushed to death; Mrs. Harry B. Moulton, his wife, 50, neck broken; W. Adair Mills, 35, 1013 Maretette Ave. Windsor, mechanical draughtsman, Detroit City Gas Company, impaled on shaft of steering wheel; Mrs. W. Adair Mills, his wife, neck broken.

Tragedy Occurs.

The tragedy occurred shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Michigan avenue, 1 mile east of Dearborn and at the intersection of what is known as Telegraph road. The automobile, a new one, recently purchased by Mills, and with Moulton and his wife as passengers, was speeding along the concrete highway. Behind it less than a hundred yards distant and going in the same direction, was a big Detroit United interurban loaded with Saturday "commuters" on their way to Ann Arbor and intermediate points.

As it approached the intersection the motorman of the interurban blew his whistle as usual, but Mills evidently could not hear it above the noise of his motor. A moment later, with the intention of turning into the crossroad, Mills swerved his car sharply across the railway tracks. The forward part of the automobile crossed in safety, but the tonneau was struck. The impact hurled the automobile and its four occupants into the air, a second later it crashed against a telegraph pole and dropped into a ditch beside the right of way.

The two women occupying the rear seat were instantly killed. Their necks were broken the doctors say. Mills, at the wheel of his car, died almost as quickly. The steering shaft pierced his body through. Moulton, who sat with his friend, was crushed to death.

Car Is Stopped.

Horrorstruck, the motorman of the interurban in relating the story of the accident, said he averted his eyes at the instant of the crash. He was able, however, to bring his car to a stop within a hundred yards. Relief was hurried to the scene from Dearborn, but there was no work for the physicians to do, and the bodies were extricated from the wreckage and conveyed to the undertaking rooms of Lewis Howe and Sons at Dearborn.

Saturday afternoon Mills and his wife with their recently purchased automobile crossed from Windsor to Detroit, where they met Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, and it was decided to drive out to Dearborn, where Moulton had planned to purchase a home site. Before leaving Mrs. Moulton told her 16-year-old daughter, Winifred, to expect her home about supper time. The child waited the long hours through and while kindly neighbors endeavored to soothe her anxiety last night, her parents' bodies lay cold in death.

Relatives Arrive.

Telephone messages to London to relatives of the Mills and Moultons brought Benjamin Moulton of Tillsonburg, a brother of the dead man, and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, parents of Mrs. Mills, to the Moulton home early this morning. Shortly afterwards, A. C. Mills of London, father of W. Adair Mills, arrived. Arrangements were hurriedly made and it was decided to take all four bodies to London on Monday.

The Mills leave no family. He was a world war veteran. Mr. and Mrs. Moulton are survived by one daughter, Winifred.

The Moultons had been in Detroit about two months and the Mills had lived in Windsor a month longer.

The four victims were well known in this city, Mr. and Mrs. Mills having resided on Orchard street for some time before moving to Windsor about a year ago, while Mr. and Mrs. Moulton lived at 16 Carfrae Crescent up until the middle of last January, when the family moved to Detroit.

Mr. Mills was 32 years of age, and three years ago married Miss Leeta Brown, twin sister of Mrs. J. F. Calvert, 461 Tecumseh avenue. He served overseas as a sapper with the 256th Battalion, C. E. F., which left Toronto on March 22, 1917. Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Brown, parents of the dead woman, reside at 48 Tecumseh avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mills, father and mother of Mr. Mills, had intended joining their son and his wife in Windsor in the near future. Mr. Mills, senior, is well known in London, having been in the retail grocery business for a number of years.

Mr. Moulton was a commercial traveller, and while living here was connected with a Kitchener Packing Company. Mr. and Mrs. Moulton is survived by one daughter, Queenie Winnifred

INCOME TAX CUT NOW EXPECTED IN GOVT. CIRCLES

Belief Is General Government Will Provide in Budget For Cut.

WEDNESDAY TO TELL

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, March 16.—Debate on the address in the House opens tomorrow on its last phase.

From time to time there has been talk of further Conservative amendments, but it is now expected that the end of the debate will come on Tuesday night. Unless there be unforseen developments, Liberals and progressives will unite to vote down the Conservative amendment in adopting the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

With the end of the debate on the address, estimates will be brought down and the House tackle the serious business of the session. From indications in the speech from the throne and elsewhere, the estimates are likely to show some sweeping reductions of expenditures for the fiscal year. Departments, it is stated, have been notified to prune down as much as possible. In addition, for several weeks before the opening of the session, the estimates were before meeting after meeting of the cabinet council in an endeavor to prune still further. The estimates are now ready for submission to the House, it is intimated, and will probably be brought down on Wednesday afternoon.

MINISTRY OF VICTORIA RELINQUISHES POWER

Resignation of State Government Expected To React On Federal Ministry.

Associated Press Despatch.

Melbourne, Australia, March 16.—Hon. H. S. Lawson, premier of Victoria and the members of his ministry have resigned owing to the decision of the Farmer's Party to retain the right to contest any state seat. Their action has rendered the continuance of the composite ministry of members of the Farmers' and country parties impossible, but Mr. Lawson hopes to form a new government.

The downfall is likely to react on the federal ministry in view of the fact that the Bruce government is very insecure. It is held that a shakeup in the federal government is inevitable for the same reason that led to the crisis in Victoria.

Pope Pius Familiar With Situation and Appointment Is Expected Soon.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, March 16.—While no official announcement has been made regarding Bishop Thomas O'Donnell's successor as president of the Catholic Church Extension Society, it is understood in well-informed Catholic circles that Rev. Mgr. J. A. O'Sullivan of Hamilton diocese is recommended for the office.

According to one authority the names of three clergymen were forwarded to Rome for consideration. It is said these names were returned to the papal ablegate at Ottawa with the intimation that as he is familiar with the situation the appointment would be left in his excellency's hands.

Paris, March 16.—Three hundred and fifty girls and women, brought from the French West Indies to help solve the housemaid problem in France, are sorry they came. French life is far different from their lives at home, and they claim they are unable to stand the strain and wish to return to their homes.

EXPERTS' BOARD WOULD FREE ALL LANDS IN RUHR

Declares Germany Must Control Resources Without Interference From Outside.

ASK INTERNATIONAL BANK

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, March 16.—The report of the first committee of experts under Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes, which is practically agreed upon by the experts, though the working out of some details and the drawing up of the text may require another week, is based on these fundamental findings:

The German people must pay as much in taxes as any of the people of the allied countries. Germany must pay the maximum of her capacity in reparations. The German economic machine must be free to function under German control, unhindered by any interference from the outside.

Minimum sums must be paid at once, or in the immediate future on reparations, these to be increased in proportion to the revival of Germany's prosperity and according to her economic condition.

In order to put Germany in a position to carry out her part of the program, which the report will suggest to the reparation commission on the basis of these general principles, the experts proposed to set up an international bank, to have exclusive right to the issue of German currency on a gold basis. The bank plan provides for the co-operation of the allies and neutral nations with the Germans in supplying capital and in the management of the institution, which is to be located in some country neutral in the late war.

PACIFISTS ASK ARMY BE REDUCED TO 150,000

Uncomfortable Moments in British Commons Foreseen Over Imperial Defense.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 16. — Imperial defence in its various aspects may give the government some uncomfortable moments this week. The House tomorrow will have before it a demonstration by the pacifists for a reduction of the army to 150,000.

When the naval estimates are taken up on Tuesday there will probably be some strong speaking from certain Conservatives regarding the government's resolve to abandon the Singapore naval base scheme. A motion is also coming forward expressing the view that the building of five new cruisers is unjustified either as a means of relieving unemployment or for the naval needs of the empire, but as this motion will not receive the support of the Conservative Party it is hardly likely to be carried.

MORE FACTS
REGARDING FARM IMPLEMENTS
No. 2 of a Series

Factors That Control Implement Prices

THE four principal factors determining the ultimate price of farm implements are, Raw Materials, Labor, Transportation, and Volume of Production.

Over none of these has the manufacturer any actual control.

In 1913 the farm implement industry after three-quarters of a century of progress and development, due to improved methods of production, had become established on a sound basis. Every superfluous item of cost had been extracted, and machines were being turned out in mass production at minimum prices.

Then came the war. Everything began to increase in cost until, by 1921 unprecedented levels were reached. The manufacturer's raw materials increased 175%, labor 153%, and transportation 44% to 100%, while production decreased about 50%. Implements, however, only advanced 103%, whereas wheat, the principal farm product had reached its peak of 263% two years earlier in 1919.

Materials

Consider now the advance made by some of the most important materials used in implement manufacture. Malleable iron castings cost 100% more than in 1914, steel 128%, cotton duck 169%, coke 125% and lumber from 113% to 248%. Yet implements are only 80.4% higher than before the war.

Labor

The farmer knows the effect that the high cost of labor has on his production cost and can appreciate how it likewise affects the implement maker. Approximately 80% of all money received by the manufacturer from the farmer for machines is paid for labor — not to workers in the implement factories alone, but in the steel mills, the mines, the forests and the railroads. Labor at present is 113% greater than before the war.

Transportation

Increased freight on incoming materials increased 90% since 1914. In addition freight is prepaid on implements to the customer's station, a fact not always taken into consideration in price comparison. These charges on the out-going product have increased from 44 to 100%. It costs $33.45 to ship an 8-foot Binder from the factory to Calgary, 2,065 miles, while to London, England, the charge on the same implement is only $19.72, although the distance is 3,810 miles. To Havre, France, 3,671 miles distance, the cost is only $17.82, and to Melbourne, Australia, about 11,000 miles from Toronto, the charge is $23.52.

Volume of Production

Volume of production depends upon demand and volume is the key to lower costs and lower prices. When production rises by leaps and bounds, (as, for instance, in the automobile industry), the costs come down. When demand and production fall (as in the farm implement industry), costs go up. The following figures taken for the U. S., but which are relatively applicable to Canada as well, will explain this more clearly.

Automobile Production		Implement Production
1914	543,679 cars	4,119,537 machines
1922	2,406,396 "	1,206,059 "
Inc.	1,862,717 or 343%	Dec. 2,913,478 or 71%

The difficult position of the Implement industry will be readily understood. It has been caught between two forces—rising costs and decreased production—and has been dealt a serious blow. Yet—

SHAMROCK COMES INTO ITS OWN AS IRISHMEN TODAY PAY TRIBUTE TO THE GREAT WORK OF ST. PATRICK

Descendants of Sturdy Pioneers in London and District Make Merry.

GLORIES OF PAST

Good Old Irish Names Reveal Great Work in Building Up City.

By JAMES P. DUNN.

Today the Shamrock comes into its own, and rides breast high over the far-flung ranks of Irishmen the world over. Today the three-leaved clover flies mast high, ruffing the Empire of the Emerald Islanders, and the death of St. Patrick, the patron saint, is honored. Though the gay bright sign is not so common as it was some years ago, the spirit of the day is still as dear to memory, especially to the older generation.

It is the older people who either came from Ireland themselves or whose parents came over who give most thought to St. Patrick's Day. Gala meetings, in every Irish village, dances and magnificent dinners in the larger centers, and particularly in Dublin and the military headquarters, were the usual festivities of the day in Ireland.

London is not commemorating the day except that the Catholic League will give an Irish concert on the evening of St. Patrick's Day to the two hundred and thirty-five old people in the House of Providence on Richmond street. They will also distribute little gifts in the way of tobacco, fruit, and so on. At this concert will be an exhibition of Irish dancing, and most of the popular and well remembered Irish songs will find a place on the program.

The reason of the wearing of the Shamrock on the anniversary of the death of St. Patrick is as follows: "When the saint preached the gospel to the pagan Irish, he illustrated the doctrine of the trinity by showing them a trefoil or three-leaved clover, which, satisfying their understanding, was afterwards worn to commemorate the event.

An old quatrain of 1613 starts:

"And for my cloathing, in a mantle goe,
And feed on shamroots as the Irish doe."

Which backs up the statement of Spenser, in "The State of Ireland," in 1596, that "The inhabitants were reduced to such straits that if they found a plot of watercresses or shamrocks they flocked as to a feast and ate it."

Born in Scotland.

It may be a bit of a shock to all the good Irishmen in London to know that the saint was a Scot, and that his first introduction to Ireland was as a prisoner in the hands of marauders.

According to many responsible historians, Kilpatrick in Dumbartonshire in the south of Scotland was the place of the saint's birth. His father is given as one Calpurnius and his mother was Conchessa. There are to this day several relics in the little village of St. Patrick and his early days. Other authorities give Glamorganshire as his birthplace. In any case no reputable authority calls him an Irishman or suggests that he was born in Ireland.

At sixteen years of age he was captured by Irish marauders and taken to Ireland, where he remained at a place "Croag Patrick" in Connaught for six years tending the herds of sheep. A most sensitive, refined boy, the rough customs and manners of his captors resulted in his running away to sea. He got as far as France and spent the next few years in the monastery of Lerins. Here he developed the latent spiritual force that was to make him the conqueror of Paganism in Ireland when he was called to take up the duties of the church in that country. All his life he fought the powers of the Pagan rulers of the land, and is held in reverence by Irishmen as the author of a host of miracles and healings, amongst which is the ridding of the country of snakes, probably the most popular of all legends concerning the saint.

It is a popular tradition in some parts of Ireland that St. Patrick, dying, requested his weeping friends to forego their grief and lamentations and rather to rejoice at his comfortable exit. To further which he advised each one to take a drop of something to drink, and that this last request, in reverence to his character, was complied with. However this may be, it is customary on his anniversary to observe this practice to superogation, for the greater number of his present followers still take a little drop of the "cratur" to dissipate their woeful reminiscences.

Welcome the Feast.

Not so many years ago in Ould Ireland it was the universal custom in the smaller hamlets and villages to welcome the feast with every sign of gladness and hilarity in the inn or the largest house of the town. If an inn, it was thrown open to all, and each newcomer was entitled to his snare of "St. Patrick pot," which was then beer, but later became whiskey. With this went a serving of oaten bread and fish. Those gathered together in this way tarried into the small hours of the morning indulging in reminiscence, conversation and music. In Dublin, of course, St. Patrick's Day is one of the events of the year. There is an annual ball and supper at the lord lieutenant's residence, and there are private convivial gatherings throughout the city. Bunches of shamrock are worn in hats and as decorations by all worthy citizens and, sad as it may be, the day usually begins with a "tasting" just to get the right spirit of the occasion.

Children pin St. Patrick's crosses on their sleeves, and pipers parade the streets with sprigs of shamrocks tied to their pipes. By reason of these jollities, the following verses, well known as they are, may be quoted again. They are sung—or, rather, were in pre-war days—with the rollicking laughter that was a characteristic of old Ireland in happier times.

"St. Patrick was a gentleman, and he came from decent people;
In Dublin Town he built a church and on it built a steeple.
His father was a Wollagan, his mother an O'Grady,
His aunt she was a Kinnegan, and his wife a widow Brady.

"Och, Antrim hills are mighty high,
and so's the hill of Howth, too;
But we all do know a mountain hat is higher than them both, too.
'Twas on the top of that high mount,
St. Patrick preach'd a sermon;
He drove the frogs into the bogs, and banished all the vermin.

"No wonder that we Irish lads, then,
are so blythe and frisky;
St. Patrick was the very man that taught us to drink whiskey.
Och, to be sure he had the knack and understood distilling,
For his mother kept a shebeen shop,
near the town of Inniskilling."

Regular Attendant.

The shillelagh was the regular attendant of every St. Patrick's Day. No Irishman would have thought of going to any fair without this little bit of blackthorn. Bruised heads and black eyes were always in evidence in the older times on "Sheelah's Day," which was the day following the feast of the patron saint. How this curious title originated is uncertain. Sheelah is an Irish term denoting a slovenly or untidy woman, more particularly if she be an elderly woman. It is suggested that though St. Patrick was not married the name may have originated out of a burlesque remark by females of the poorer class in Ireland to retaliate on their husbands for their excesses on the seventeenth. The shamrock was "flooded," as the old phrase has it on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, and probably the good wives had some justification for their criticism. An early historian says: "The saint himself is generally regarded as a kind of Christian Bacchus and the Sheelah is deemed his consort."

Of Irishmen in the County of Middlesex, Nicholas Flood Davin, in his most interesting book, "Irishmen in Canada," published in 1877, says: "In writing of the Talbot settlement, one finds all through the history of the city of London and district such names as Hodgins, O'Neal, Deacon, Shoebottom, Talbot, Walden, Fitzgerald, Langford Gowen and Stanley. In the matter of roads alone, Freeman Talbot has done more for this part of the country than any other man. Then there are also Eadys, Jermyns, Weirs, Westmans, Ardills, Guests and Hobbs. The Irish are here, preeminent as preachers, lawyers, teachers and merchants. I might as well mention the Willises, Dickensons, Densmores, Ryans and Dickeys. The Fergusons settled in London about 1827. They came from County Cavan. Judge Daniels, formerly of London, came from County Monohan. He was fourteen years in the London council. His father used to keep an inn at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets in Toronto. He was a little man about four feet high and weighed almost four hundred pounds. William Ralph Meredith, the member for the city, is the son of John Cook Meredith, a native of Dublin."

First Representative.

Nathaniel Currie was the first representative of West Middlesex in the local house. He was one of the early Irish settlers. The Hon. Marcus Talbot, one time M. P. for East Middlesex, was lost in the Hungarian. Strathroy was founded by an Irishman, Mr. Buchanan, son of the English consul at New York. He called the place after his father's farm in Tyrone, where there is now a post-office of the same name. The city of Guelph owes its origin to an Irishman, one Timothy O'Connor, who settled on farm in the Township of Eramosa. Amongst the early settlers in this town were the Mitchells, Heffernans, Chadwicks, Carrolls, Higginbothams and Hazeltons. There were seven brothers of the Carrolls, all fine men and all over six feet.

Amongst the places in which Irishmen were influential in building Davin lists Montreal, Kingston, Belleville, Percy, Sandwich, Dundas, Hamilton, Peterborough, and the counties of Oxford, Halton, Welland, Victoria, Middlesex and Wellington. Of the fortunes in Canada of the Irish Blakes, one of the most remarkable family histories on record, the historian says: "In 1832, Edward and Dominick Blake left Castlegrove, in County Galway, for a colder climate and a freer life in a new country. Dominick Edward was a Church of England clergyman. He had two sons, Edward and William Hume, who accompanied him on the voyage. There were also on the ship Archdeacon Brough, Justice Connor, Dr. Robinson, and his son Charles, who became judge of the county of Lambton; Rev. Benjamin Cronyn, later bishop of Huron. They chartered a vessel, the "Ann of Halifax,' and set sail.

Visited by Plague.

"Plague visited them on the third day out, and they thought of returning to Ireland. Eventually they arrived, and after a period of quarantine settled in Adelaide Township, of which D. E. Blake had been appointed rector by Sir John Colborne, then governor of the province. W. H. Blake bought a farm at Bear Creek, near where the town of Strathroy now stands. Their belongings had to be dragged from Port Stanley by oxen through the quagmires and streams to Adelaide Township. This was the hardy stock from which came Hon. Edward Blake and Hon. Vice-Chancellor Blake, two of Canada's outstanding sons.

"The post-rebellion immigration of Irishmen beginning in 1837 included such men as Right Reverend John Travers Lewis, bishop of Ontario; Rev. William McMurray, archdeacon of Niagara; John Strutt Lauder, archdeacon of Ottawa; Very Rev. Michael Boomer, dean of Huron; Rev. E. H. Dewart of Elm Street Methodist Church, Toronto, and a journalist of great ability; Rev. John Potts, first pastor of the Hamilton Centenary Methodist Church; Rev. James Harris of Toronto, the first Presbyterian minister in the city; Dr. John Gardiner Robb, Rev. Thomas McPherson and Rev. William Moore of Ottawa. All these were North of Ireland men. As far as the Catholic Church is concerned practically the whole energy of the church in Upper Canada has come from Irishmen. Archbishop Lynch of Ontario, Archbishop Connolly of Halifax, Archbishop Hannan, his successor; John Walsh, bishop of Sandwich; Bishop Crinnan of Hamilton, and a score of other famous churchmen came from Ireland during this period.

"In law, in education, and particularly in journalism, have Irishmen distinguished themselves in the Dominion. In politics they have been as prominent here as in the United States and in Australia." Davin concludes his story of the Irish in Canada with these words: 'Here all his fathers fought for he has. He is a controlling part of the present, and one of the architects of the future.'"

Opened An Inn.

Peter McGregor, a Scot, was the first man to settle in London and run an inn, or at least a shanty, where bed and lodging could be secured. The largest part of his business seems to have been in spirits in any case. This was in 1825. He, however, was followed immediately by men with such Irish names as James and John O'Neil, Dennis O'Brien, Patrick McMamus and Andrew McCormick, all of whom were merchants. Kissock and O'Neil were the first tailors in London. John Jennings, hailing from County Tipperary, was one of the original peddlars. On one occasion, he was fined one shilling for assaulting one, Tiller Hubbard, which also has a smack of the Emerald Isle about it.

At this time there were 33 families in the town, so the "Irishers," as Potash and Pearlmutter call them, were making a fairly good showing. Then there was a certain Benjamin Higgins from Galway, who ran a stage and freight service between Hamilton and Port Stanley. He kept an hotel in the town for 25 years and paid $80 for the lot on which it stood.

About this time the McCann family arrived. Dr. Donnelly, who was one of the staff of the city hospital, which had beds for forty patients, came from Ireland. Then there were a great many Irish-born men who came to the town on the Thames and took a large part in the progress and development of the community. Those actually born in Ireland can readily be named, but on looking through the old records of the city one comes across "of Irish descent" so often that it seems as if London was merely an offshoot from the land of the shamrock.

Here are a few of the men born in Ireland who were prominent either in the town or in the county and district in the early years: Alexander Abbott, Galway, city clerk in 1856; W. H. Armstrong, Ireland, collector of inland revenue in 1825 and owner of 250 acres near Strathroy; William Ashbury, Tipperary, termed "capitalist"; Maurice Baldwin, a dealer in coal and wood, Queen's County, Ireland, member of the East London Council in 1844; Robert Bodkin, Tyrone, merchant in Delaware, and township clerk in 1873; John Boyd, King's County, Ireland, a merchant tailor and member of the council in 1876; P. F. Boyle, King's County, Ireland, secretary of the Ontario Mutual Fire Insurance Company; Samuel Brown, Kilkenny, an old army officer who in 1888 was principal of the Catholic Separate School of London; William F. Bullen, manager of the Ontario Loan and Debenture Company; Patrick J. Burke, secretary of the London Waterworks; Thomas Coffey, Limerick, later Senator Coffey; John Coate, Tyrone, who owned livery stables at London, Port Stanley, Brantford and Woodstock; John M. Corneil, Limerick, a justice of the peace for the county of Middlesex.

Then there were John T. Coughlin, a prominent farmer in the township, Robert Creamer, who was the proprietor of the Creamer House in Belmont; Right Rev. Benjamin Cronyn, Kilkenny, Bishop of Huron; J. B. Crozier, proprietor of the American Hotel in Mount Brydges; R. J. C. Dawson, postmaster in London; Thomas Cuddy, Tyrone, who farmed 350 acres in Adelaide Township, and J. S. Deason, who ran the Fraser House in London.

Reeve of Township.

There was Robert Dreaney, Armagh, reeve of London Township in 1883; Captain Henry Dreaney, also from Armagh, who was warden of Middlesex in 1867; Col. John English, Fermanagh, a grain merchant in Strathroy, and for fifteen years chairman of the West Middlesex Conservative Association; John W. Fetherston, Longford, Ireland, organist at Queen's Avenue Methodist Church; Edward Fitzgerald, Tipperary, farmer in London Township, whose son was William Weir, the barrister; William Glass, Armagh, sheriff of Middlesex in 1858; Stephen Grant, King's county assessment commissioner for London; Steward Harris, Cavan, a well-known merchant; Pat Kelly, Dublin, turnkey at the jail in 1883; Thomas F. Kingsmill, Tipperary, drygoods merchant; Jeremiah Loughlin, Tipperary, in 1874, foreman of the Great Western Car Works in London.

A. M. McEvoy, county Down, treasurer of Middlesex; James Monoghan, Leitrim, one of the earliest settlers in 1819; William Moore, Sligo, in the inland revenue department in 1868; Thomas Morkin, Tipperary, proprietor of the Morkin House; Michael F. O'Mara, a pork and provision merchant; Stephen O'Meara, an alderman of London; E. Jones Parke, Q.C., Wicklow, editor of the Canadian Enquirer, and member of the Upper Canada House for Middlesex, and also in the Union House; William Porte, King's county, postmaster of Lucan; John Scandrett, county Down, a grocer; John Dennie Sharman, Kildare, assistant postmaster of London; James C. Shoebottom, Tipperary, a settler in the township in 1830, and William Simpson, Fermanagh, a retired army officer, who became a farmer in near Glencoe in 1836.

Samuel P. Stringer, Wexford, was chief engineer of the London pumping works; William Walker, Antrim, a merchant in London; Nicholas Wilson, Wicklow, the famous schoolmaster; Thomas Woodburne, Wicklow, principal of the Princess avenue school in 1880; Samuel Woods, Tyrone, principal of the Collegiate Institute and a senator of Toronto University; Richard Wright, Tipperary, in charge of all the insurance companies of the province and one time in the postoffice; Philip Cook, county Cavan, a shoemaker; Benjamin Greer, Galway, a carriagemaker, a partner in the firm of Noble & Greer; George G. Magee, Tyrone, an alderman of London in 1856.

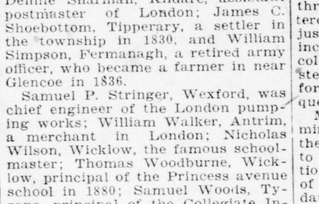

Well Known In History.

In addition to these men, who are all well known in the history of Western Ontario, are the following with Irish names and birth, who followed their respective occupations in the early eighties: Francis McGill, drygoods; Pat McKittrick, tailor; George Magee, drygoods; Matt Magill, drygoods; William Moore, distiller; Dr. William Moore; Mountjoy & Sons, cabinet makers; D. Murphy, grocer; Joseph Gibbins and Robert Fennelly, saddlers; John Dimond, brewer; Henry Dalton, tallow chandler; Matt Colvin, drygoods; W. T. Reilly, liveryman, and Thomas Scanlon, who was a tallow chandler. These men were all in business in London in 1849.

There are still a good many Irish names in the city directory today. The Hodgins are in the lead with 76 representatives, and the other names and the number of adherents in each clan are as follows: O'Brien 22, O'Bryan 1, O'Byrne 3, O'Connell 9, O'Connor 6, O'Dell 5, O'Donnell 12, O'Donough 1, O'Drowsky (is this Irish?) 1, O'Farrell 4, O'Flaherty 4, O'Grady 1, O'Hagan 1, O'Hara 7, O'Hearn 6, O'Leary 3, O'Malley 1, O'Mara 4, O'Meare 21, O'Neil 22, O'Reilly 2, O'Rourke 12, O'Toole 1. So far as the O's are concerned, the O'Neils have it by one vote, begorra.

Other names with the glint of the "dear little shamrock" on them are: Flanagan 20, their half-cousins the Flanigans 12, Flaherty 4. Now for the Fitz chaps. Here we have Fitzgibbon 4, Fitzgerald 37, and Fitzpatrick 11.

Meredith has four representatives, Kelly 43, Kelleher 4, Kelley 15, Murphy 39, Hodgins 76, Mawhinney 5, Mara 4, Blake 24, and so on. There are dozens more. The Irish who first came here seem to have taken the best care of themselves.

By ANDY McGUIRE.

St. Patrick's Day has come again to cheer the souls of Irish men
And women in this earthly sphere who hold the land of shamrocks dear.

Today the sprigs of deep green show the hope in hearts all still aglow
To see their Ireland rise once more unto the heights she knew before

When leaders of the classic thought in Irish halls their wisdom taught,
Enlightening all who came to see and stayed to hear in rhapsody

The solid worth of higher things that soar from earth on golden wings,
And give to feeble men below the strength their God to better know.

The dawn is here, the dark has fled, and with the new day, glowing red,
Old Erin lives for future years that promise joy instead of tears.

Forgotten now are storm and strife; come visions of a happier life;
And with the thought of better things today the heart of Ireland sings.

Britain Worries As Prince Is Again Injured in Chase

Prince of Wales Suffers Slight Concussion When Thrown From Horse.

AGITATION RENEWED

Britons Would Place Check Upon Activities of Heir To Throne.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 16.—National concern for the life of the heir to the throne received another shock yesterday when the Prince of Wales, only just recovered from a serious riding incident involving the fracture of a collarbone, again indulged his love of steeplechasing and got a nasty spill, fortunately without serious consequences.

Much as the public loves and admires the spirit and high courage of the prince, this incident is certain to revive in intensified form the national agitation in favor of some sort of check being put upon this undaunted spirit which places a heavy risk upon the succession to the throne. Precisely how the necessary pressure could be efficiently applied is hard to imagine, for, added to a daring spirit, the prince has a strong will.

The event in which the prince met with disaster was a steplechase in the army point-to-point meeting at Arborfield, near Workingham. He was entered in two events and met with mishaps in both. Prince Henry also came a cropper, but escaped with little damage. Both princes were unseated early in the afternoon, but were merely shaken up. The Prince of Wales was one of the eight starters in the last event of the day. He got away well, but at the first fence his horse stumbled and fell, throwing the rider heavily on his head and hands. An ambulance wa quickly on the spot, and, bleeding profusely from the nose, Wales was placed on a stretcher and taken to a nearby farmhouse, where it was found his injuries were not of a serious character.

The prince tried to get up, protesting to the stretcher-bearers that he was quite able to walk, but pressure was applied to keep him on the stretcher until the farmhouse was reached. His injuries having been attended to by physicians, the prince later in the evening was sufficiently recovered to return to Aldershot by motor car, and it was then officially ascertained that he was suffering from a slight concussion.

A statement issued officially at St. James' Palace tonight said that the prince had passed a good night and spent a quiet day in bed, and that he was progressing satisfactorily. It added, however, that he would be unable to fill any public engagements during the coming week.

WELFARE DRIVE TO GREATLY AID CITY'S ORPHANS

Hundreds of Helpless and Homeless Children Are Cared For in London.

FOURTEEN HOMES

Among the agencies affiliated in the London United Welfare Fund there are several which care for children. No human heart can become so hardened that it does not go out to a helpless and winsome child.

Typical of these agencies in London is the Ronald Roy Gray Memorial Home, where there are now 37 children cared for, the winter-time capacity of the home. Facts about these and the institution which tenderly cares for them, and through loving and scientific service turns underprivileged boys and girls into happy and useful citizens, are of outstanding interest.

Of the 37, the fathers of eight are dead; the mothers of 12 others are dead; both parents of one is dead; the mother has deserted one; the father has deserted five; the mother of one is now in hospital, and nine others were born out of wedlock. Fourteen are the children of former soldiers of the world war.

The average income from each through relatives is $1.95 per week. The average cost of maintenance, including food and supplies, and support of the staff, but not including overhead of the plant funding or maintenance is $4 per week. Here is a gap which your contribution to the United Welfare Fund helps to make up.

When you think of these at the Ronald Roy Gray Memorial, think also of the children otherwise provided for under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society, the Day Nursery, the London Child Welfare Association, the Protestant Orphans' Home, the House of Providence and Mount St. Joseph Orphanage, with incidental work for children through still other agencies, included among the fourteen affiliated in the Welfare Fund.

NO REASON WHY MOTHER MAY NOT TAKE OUTSIDE JOB

Proper Organization of Household Will Leave Time For Wife To Earn Something To Augment Her Husband's Salary and Help Educate Children.

DAY NURSERIES A GREAT BOON TO MOTHERS

By JULIA HOYT.

I have received many letters from wives and mothers asking me to suggest work which they could do which would not interfere with their households.

It is a difficult question to answer without knowing the size of the house and the family, and the qualifications or capabilities of the questioner and her general mode of life. Of course, to run a house and hold an outside job as well means that efficient organization of one's household is necessary. One must arrange one's time so as to make use of every hour in the day. It undoubtedly means hard work.

Let us take, for example, a mother who is qualified to do secretarial work and whose children are old enough to go to school. She can go to a bureau for part-time employment and get an engagement as secretary for mornings—from nine until one, for instance. There are many charitable organizations, etc., which need a secretary only for mornings. Her husband probably must be at his office by nine, and the children must be at school at the same hour. She can either prepare the lunch the night before, or get up a little earlier and do it in the morning. This will leave nothing to do but heat it or do some quick cooking on her return from work. Any necessary ordering for the afternoon meal can quite easily be done before she leaves for the office, or she can buy what she wants that afternoon.

A mother situated in the same way and qualified as an accompanist can always find employment in a studio.

Demand for Maids.

For those who have no talent, or are not qualified to be secretaries, there is quite a demand for seamstresses and maids for half days. In fact, if one did not wish to go out every day, she could very easily find employment in this manner two or three times a week. It is also possible to do dressmaking at home, if she is not able to leave for any reason.

For the woman who is forced to take more than just part-time work, there is a way for her to be carefree and happy about her child. Day nurseries are splendid institutions and if you have not enough of them in your city, I should advise you to help find some more. A mother can leave her baby in the morning on her way to work—confident it will be well taken care of—and call for it on her way home in the evening. It does not seem to me that she need feel in any way that she is slighting or neglecting her child, as the child will be at least as well cared for as at home. It is too young as yet to appreciate the company of its mother, and the mother is earning necessary money for the child's future.

I come into contact with many people who profess to wish to do something but who devise reasons why whatever is suggested is impossible for them to do. As a matter of fact, provided we have the desire and the willingness to sacrifice our leisure and take the trouble to organize our days intelligently we all of us can find something to do.

Undoubtedly the woman who has had the good fortune to receive some training in her youth will find the question much easier to solve, and in this day of high prices there are many families which I feel quite sure would be happier and more peaceful if the wife were earning a little money.

Not a Disgrace.

There are husbands who still cling to the old idea that it would be a disgrace for their wives to go out and earn money. It seems to me that this is very short-sighted, both for their wives as well as their children's sakes, and is really merely a matter of false pride on the man's part. Is it not better for his wife and children to have more money to live on and to take care of their future even though it is partly earned by the wife than for her to scheme and worry in order that he shall have the satisfaction of saying "I am supporting them"?

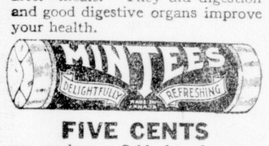

We have surely gone beyond that in this day of action on the part of women, and who is there that can honestly say there is anything to be ashamed of in a young man's not being able to earn sufficient money to keep his wife and two or three children comfortably, with rents, food and clothes what they are. The wife and husband are supposed to be helpmates. He does not feel ashamed of her cooking, washing and caring for the children, which is in itself an earning power. Why then should he feel ashamed at her using outside of the home other earning power she may possess?

If she has a young baby to take care of, which prevents her leaving her home at all during the day, she can sew or embroider, make garments or accessories which are salable. Undoubtedly she will need a little initiative and patience to get started in such a business, but these qualities are needed in anything she may undertake.

Danny and Nanny Build a New Home To Escape Dangers of Fame

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Of course in no time at all everybody in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows had heard the wonderful story of how Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had been carried to the Sunny South in the great man-bird, spent the winter there, and had been brought back. Of course at first no one believed it. But when Jenny Wren and Mr. Wren and Winsome Bluebird and Mr. Mocker the Mockingbird and Hummer the Hummingbird told of having seen Danny and Nanny in the Sunny South, there was nothing to do but to believe the wonderful story.

Of course everyone wanted to hear that story from Danny and Nanny themselves, and so just as soon as it was known where Danny and Nanny were living there was a constant stream of visitors to the pile of cornstalks in the corner of Farmer Brown's cornfield. At first Danny and Nanny had felt very much set up, as the saying is. They had become famous. For the first time in their lives they had become important. They were treated with the greatest respect. It was very flattering, and they enjoyed it.

But soon they began to grow tired of it. Also so much attention began to worry them. They couldn't so much as poke their heads outside without finding someone waiting for them. This would have been bad enough had it been only friends. But certain hungry enemies were always hanging about. Reddy and Mrs. Fox were apt to appear at any time. Redtail the Hawk had formed the habit of spending much of his time watching that pile of old cornstalks. It wasn't just in the hope of catching Danny or Nanny. There was always the chance of catching one of the visitors there.

"I can't stand this any longer," declared Nanny at last. "It is a wonder that one of our children hasn't been caught. They haven't yet learned the ways of the Great World, and it worries me to death to have so many people about."

"I agree with you, my dear," replied Danny. "It is a fine thing to be looked up to by all your neighbors and to be admired. It is a fine thing. But there is such a thing as being too famous. I am beginning to wish that we had kept our tongues still and not told where we spent the winter. The thing for us to do is to steal away from here and find a new home as soon as we can, and then not let anybody know where it is."

"I agree with you, my dear," replied Danny.

"That's the most sensible thing I've heard you say for a long time," declared Nanny. "I want quiet and peace, and we'll never get it here.

So it came about that the very next day the visitors to the pile of cornstalks called and called in vain. No one came out. It was the same on the next day and the day after. Danny and Nanny had moved, and where they had moved to no one knew. Of course they had taken their family with them. It was a long time before their new home was discovered, and by that time all their neighbors were so busy with their own family affairs that they no longer gave a thought to Danny and Nanny and their wonderful story.

$291 ALREADY GIVEN TO 'SAVE THE CHILDREN'

New Appeal Comes to Local Committee—Want Funds For Quinine.

The local committee of the Save the Children Fund, headed by Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. B. C. McCann and Mrs. F. P. Betts, has received another cable from Athens, through Leonard Leese of Toronto, chief Canadian organizer, which points to the great necessity for immediate funds. The objective of the local committee is $500, $291.45, of which has already been contributed through E. Manning, manager of the Dominion Bank, corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, who is receiving contributions for the fund.

The need is very great in Greece, and so much can be accomplished with small sums. Twenty-five cents will feed a child for a week, $1 for a month, and $12 for a year. Mrs. George Ellis, secretary of the local committee, has received the following communication from Dr. W. A. Kennedy, the Canadian in charge of the fund's relief work among the refugees in Greece:

"Two parties of 2,000 additional refugees landed at Salonika this week, and 75,000 more are awaiting transport at the Black Sea ports of Asia Minor. All our kitchens, feeding over 42,000, are working to the limit of our resources, but there are very many more in dire need of help. Conditions in central Greece are slowly beginning to improve, but in Salonika and Macedonia the weather is still cold and wintry, thus inflicting great suffering on countless thousands of homeless, starving women and children. Malaria is taking a terrible toll of the enfeebled refugees, and quinine is as urgently needed as foodstuffs. Can you make a special appeal for funds to buy quinine?"

MAH JONG DRESS APPEARS AT PARISIAN RACE TRACK

Consists of Three Distinct Frocks Worn Over Each Other to Give Rainbow Effect—Tailor-Made Costumes Reign Supreme at Auteuil.

HEELS SHOW A TENDENCY TO BE LOWER

Special to The Advertiser.

Paris, March 16.—The Mah Jong dress made its initial bow to the Parisian public at the Auteuil race track today on the occasion of the 27th annual running of the Grand Prix de Printemps, which coincided with the first real breath of spring.

It was the first outdoor display of the styles and creations of the 1924 season, which, heretofore, owing to the chill weather and tardy spring, were visible only behind the dressmakers' shop windows. But beautiful sunshine has ushered in the season at least two weeks earlier than usual.

The mah jong dress consists of three distinct frocks, entirely independent one from another, but worn all at the same time and presenting a delightful "fused color effect." Over the inner dress of yellow crepe is placed a similar dress of gray and over that one of black. Other colors blend with less success; some seen today presented a rather rainbow effect. The three dresses can be worn singly, separately or jointly and severally.

Foreigners who formed a large percentage of the 50,000 in attendance —the largest in the history of French racing this early in the year—predicted that the dress worn three following would be very popular upon approaching seaports, in view of the customs regulations.

Furs have disappeared. Even when the sun sank behind the magnificent Auteuil grandstands, leaving a chill in its wake, only a few neckpieces of silver and black fox were visible. Tailor-made costumes ruled supreme, embroidered with great masses of buttons, Toques, no longer than some of the jockeys caps and as varied in their colors, lined the track in front of the stands; picture hats were absent.

Heels show a tendency to be lower; they are not yet flat enough to recommend for wear to athletic girls on track or field, but they now permit women to stand without the heel being at an angle of 45 degrees' to the tip of the toes.

Marcellus, a black four-year-old, owned by Antonio Gosset, and ridden by Jockey Salmon—who once upon a time was a featherweight pugilist and knocked out Georges Carpentier in the distant past—won the first big race of the year. His victory caused the public a blue feeling as he was neglected in the betting at 15 to 1, and defeated the odds on favorite.

Marcellus trailed the field of fifteen starters for 2,000 metres; he then began moving up, and passed one horse after another, finishing in a canter. The distance was 3,800 metres, with eleven obstacles, and the stakes were 30,000 francs to the winner.

To Love Or To Be Loved? Dorothy Dix Says "It's More Blessed To Give Than To Receive."

Love for Her Husband Is the Only Thing That Makes the Sacrifices of Marriage Worth While to the Average Woman—So She Who Marries Man She Loves Is Happiest of Wives.

A correspondent asks this question:

"Is it better for a woman to marry the man she loves or the man who loves her?"

Of course, the proper answer to this query is neither, or both. Do not marry until you find a man who loves you and whom you love. But in a case where a choice has to be made between the two, I should unhesitatingly say that it is better for the woman to marry the man she loves, than it is for her to marry the man who loves her.

At first blush, not many women will agree to this proposition. They will say that a woman's greatest need is the need of love. That without love she hungers, and thirsts, and perishes no matter what else gives her.

Furthermore, that it is a woman's prerogative to be adored and have incense burnt before her, and that ever since the cave man wooed his lady love with a club and dragged her to his home by her lovely red hair men have been the lovers and have done the courting.

Therefore they hold that if, in marriage, "one kisses and the other submits to being kissed," as the French say the man should be the kisser and the woman the kissed.

They believe that where a woman has to content herself with a half loaf, she best secures her happiness by taking a husband who is perfectly crazy about her; who is in a perpetual state of blessing Lady Luck for having given him his heart's desire in a wife, and who is content to eat out of her hand such scraps of affection as she condescends to feed him.

I disagree with this theory. It is just because love is the most important thing in a woman's life that it is absolutely necessary for her to have an overwhelming passion for the man she marries, if she is to find happiness and contentment.

A man who has a vital interest in his career, the excitement for the struggle for power and money, the thousand distractions of the great world to take his mind off his domestic affairs, can get along with a wife whom he respects and who makes him comfortable, but for whom he entertains only a lukewarm regard.

But a woman cannot meet a situation like that philosophically. Her emotions make her life. What she feels is of more interest to her than what she does. She cannot substitute liking for loving any more than she can water for wine. And no matter how much she admires the man to whom she is married, no matter how grateful she is to him for his kindness to her, unless he can raise a thrill in her breast everything is cinders ashes and dust to her.

She feels that she has missed the best thing in life, the thing she most wanted; and she is restless and dissatisfied, and is forever on a still hunt to find her real soul mate.

To the average woman, marriage is a state of perpetual sacrifice. She must go through the agony of bearing children, and the long, weary years of ceaseless care and anxiety in rearing them. She must work harder than any hireling at the dull and monotonous task of cooking and cleaning and scrubbing and sewing and mending that it takes to make a comfortable home.

And the only thing on earth that can make all of this worth while is love for her husband. That sets a star in her sky. That gilds the humblest task. The woman who stands over a stove cooking a dinner for the husband to whom she is utterly indifferent is a slave driven to her appointed task by her sense of duty. The woman who stands over a stove cooking dinner for a husband she adores is a priestess making a burnt offering of herself on the altar of her god.

The woman who marries the man she loves is never bored, and boredom is the particular curse of the feminine sex. She throws herself heart and soul into her husband's interests, and is more eager for his success than he is himself. She is never dull, because the smallest thing that concerns him is of more import to her than the events that shake the great outer world. She can find food for thought and scope for her activities in the fact that her husband likes onions with his beefsteak or prefers mushrooms. Her days are filled with pleasurable excitement in preparing for his homecoming of an evening, and when she hears his key in the latch her heart strikes up "Hail to the King."

The woman who marries the man she loves is never dissatisfied, never disgruntled. He may be a poor thing, but he is her own, the one she cut out of the bunch and which she marked with her own brand. Having got the one thing she wanted most, she can well afford to pity her poor sisters who have only limousines and pearls and the merely tolerated husbands who are the purveyors thereof.

Of course the woman who loves her husband better than he does her has her moments of acute jealousy, but even these are thrilled with pep and are better than the dull stagnation of having a man that you don't take the trouble to lock up at night because you know you can't lose him.

Truly, it is more blessed to give than to receive, and it is better for a woman to love than to be loved. DOROTHY DIX.

NOTED MUSICIAN GUEST IN LONDON

Paul Von Markey, Concert Artist, Is Resting at Home of Louis Belagh.

Pianists of the really first rank who come to London are few and far between. Thus it is something of a surprise to learn that one of the most eminent of the present-day European concert artists has been living quietly in the city for several weeks. Only a fortunate few here have heard him play, and these are warm in the demand that the price at least of such genius must be a recital before the artist leaves the city.

Paul von Markey, formerly of Budapest, and teacher in the musical academy there, is a guest with Mr. Louis Belagh, of 502 Richmond street, well-known London musician and the organist at St. Peter's Cathedral. He is one of the many who find Europe in chaos, a most suitable background for their art. A country run riot with economical and industrial disturbance is not in the mood for the reflective genius of great masters. And so many of the master musicians of Europe, men who have inherited the genius of Liszt, Mozart, Beethoven, and others, are bringing their art to a new world, to plant artistic seed in a new and fertile soil.

Mr. von Markey is in London solely for a rest, but he does hope to make his home on this continent. He is still in the early twenties, but it does not need a musician to find that his playing ranks with that of any of the great artists who have come to this country. The fact that he has mastered 200 works of the great masters speaks for itself. He came to Canada on the completion of a sixteen weeks' tour of Central Europe, but will be no more before the public until the fall of the year, when arrangements for his tours have been made by one of the large American bureaus. That is, he will play no more in public, unless he can be persuaded to give a recital in London before leaving here. And his, of course, is what many people hope and expect. The English is still a strange tongue to Mr. von Markety. Belagh acts as interpreter for his friend. There is no doubt, however, that his summer's stay in Canada will make him more at home in a strange tongue, as well as in a strange country, and that he will be able possibly to tell of his opinions as a European, and more particularly as a European of Budapest, that city which has since the war become the very vortex of European gaiety and excitement.

Mr. von Markey has a pronounced opinion on one American institution, that of "jazz." He is not in the least alarmed about it, any more than a temporary craze. His faith in the musical expression of those who are now known as the old masters is such that it is not shaken by the present tendency to neglect them, and he has supreme confidence in their power to emerge superior when the outbreak of jazz has died down.

LONDONERS FORM CLUB IN SOUTH CALIFORNIA

Raiph Slater Elected President at Social Gathering in Los Angeles.

An interesting gathering of ex-Londoners took place at Griffith Park, Los Angeles, Cal., on Sunday, March 9, when it was decided to organize a London Club. Over fifty were present at the gathering, some of whom were but winter visitors, but many others who have taken up their permanent residence in Southern California. Lunch was served under the spreading sycamore trees, after which the decision was made to organize a London Club, the object of which will be to help newcomers meet the people from the old home town.

Ralph Slater was elected president of the club, with Mrs. Frank Webber as secretary. The following form the executive committee: Mrs. Bert Weir, Mrs. A. L. Eacrett, L. H. Haskett, Bert Weir and George Swallwell. These Londoners in far-away California send word that they are daily readers of The London Advertiser, from which they receive all the news from home.

RUMANIAN MONARCHS WILL CANCEL ROME VISIT

Associated Press Despatch.

Bucharest, Rumania, March 17.—King Ferdinand and Queen Marie have dropped Rome from the list of Western European capitals which they intend visiting officially next month. This is attributed to the sending of a note by the Italian premier, Mussolini, concerning the payment of the Rumanian debt, which was regarded as sharp in tone.

HOW TO SERVE A DINNER WITHOUT A MAID TO HELP

Have As Much Ready Beforehand As Possible, Then Take Your Guests Into the Secret Frankly and Get Them To Help You.

COURSES SHOULD BE FEW AND SIMPLE

At the request of one of my readers I am writing some advice on serving a dinner without a maid to help one. The question of the best method of doing this is necessarily up to the individual to a certain extent, and after she has done it once or twice she will discover what may be to her the easiest way of accomplishing it. Consequently, whatever I say is based on my ideas of what would prove the easiest way to the greatest number of people.

YOUR GUESTS WILL BE DELIGHTED TO HELP.

In the first place, it is best to have most of the dishes ones that can be prepared some time before the dinner hour. In other words, if one desires to have fish as part of the dinner, rather than have a hot dish, for your first course a fish cocktail which is cold and can be prepared early in the day—only leaving the dressing to be put on a minute or two before the guests arrive.

Before I proceed, however, to the actual menus which would be good for a hostess and maid in one, I would like to say a little about the matter of attitude of mind. It is a mistake, as, in fact it is always, to attempt an effect which is impossible and will only make for discomfort. In other words, if you have no maid don't attempt to serve a dinner as if you had one. If you take your guests into the secret quite frankly and even get them to help you, you will find that they enjoy it and the whole dinner will be much more successful.

Set Table Early.

Set your table early in the afternoon so that that is off your mind; also tidy up your sitting-room so that you are free to devote all your time to preparing the dinner.

Let us take as an example the following dinner, and as I think up each dish I will explain why, in my opinion, it is a good dish to have.

Fruit or fish cocktail, soup and roast, one green vegetable, hashed and creamed potatoes or mashed potatoes, any kind of salad, and some form of cold desert; or, if such a long menu is not desired, you can omit either the salad 6r the dessert. If the dessert is omitted, it is rather nice to serve some cheese and crackers with the salad. As I have already said, the fish cocktail is a good dish, as it eliminates the necessity of hot fish. The soup can be prepared early in the day and heated a few minutes before the arrival of the guests.

A roast is the best kind of meat, as it can be cooked and then placed in the oven with the gas turned low, where it will keep perfectly hot, and yet, if the guests are reasonably prompt, will not be too dry. I speak of hashed and creamed potatoes, or mashed, because they are the only kinds which are not absolutely ruined if they have to stand a while and be re-heated. The cream for the creamed potatoes should not be put on until just as the potatoes are to be heated. Of course the salad and the dessert, being cold, can be fixed at any time and put to one side. The salad dressing(however, should not be put on until just before serving.

If you have a sideboard in the dining-room, place the number of dishes necessary for the meal in separate piles. In this way you can quickly change the plates. It is perfectly permissible to ask the men at the table to help you in doing this; also, if your sideboard is large enough, you can place the salad and the dessert on it beforehand. Naturally, you will have to leave the table for a few minutes in order to heat the soup, and again to heat your vegetables and potatoes. If you have in your kitchen a large cooking apron, you can quickly slip it on and off, and in that way not have to worry about your dress.

The Housewives Column

I overheard a woman on the street car She was saying—"Oh, I am so tired of meat and potatoes,—I wish I could think of something different!"

How I would have liked to have asked her to come up to my office sometime where I have any number of lovely menus and recipes. But I didn't—so I am writing this in the hope she will read it as well as all other women who wish something different.

Meat and potatoes, of course, are staples. But it is so easy to vary the menu that one seldom tires of them.

I do not pose as an expert, please do not think of me as that, but in the years (I won't tell you how many) of my household experience I have met and, I think, solved many of these problems.

I do know that on the shelves and counters of our Dominion Stores is a wealth of suggestions for every meal of the day and every day of the year. If one needs inspiration surely it can be found in our stores— dainty breakfasts, charming lunches and satisfying dinners, all await the deft and thrifty housewife.

And, perhaps, I might be able to help you, too. Several women have asked me to suggest a menu for a different meal—"something for a change." My suggestions are not revolutionary nor do I attempt to give more than one or two menus for good sound healthful meals. But I am willing to help—if you want me to.

Paris, March 15.—There is something very gallant and sixteenth century about the little hats worn by the small demoiselle. One type, for a 6-year-old is a velvet cap, soft and crushy, such as a mediæval page might have worn. On one side is a curled ostrich plume.

Almost a Cape.

THE EDINBURGH CAMP MARKS FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Lady Members of Sons of Scotland Spend Merry Evening at De Luxe Cafe.

One hundred members and guests sat down to a truly Scottish banquet on Saturday night, when Edinburgh Castle Camp No. 109 lady members of the Sons of Scotland celebrated the fifth birthday anniversary of the lodge by dining at the De Luxe Cafe. A silk flag of Old Scotia design marked each place. Rose favors were also found on the table, while rose-shaded candles and vases of rose carnations proved attractive center pieces. Special guests of the occasion were Mayor George Wenige and Mrs. Wenige, Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae and Mrs. McCrae, Dr. and Mrs. Cameron Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Watt, P. J. Watt, James Hamilton, president of the Sons of Scotland, and Mrs. Hamilton and George Tagg, secretary of the Sons of Scotland.

An interesting program included a number of toasts, among them a toast to "Our Chief," offered by Mrs. Fred Tullett, a past chief, and graciously responded to by Mrs. May Haldane. Mrs. James Hendry, also a past chief, proposed a toast to "Guests and Members," to which Mayor Wenige and Mrs. A. Webb replied. Other speakers of the evening were: Mayor Wenige, P. J. Watt, who spoke about the work of the Daughters of Scotland, George Tagg and James Hamilton. The program also included vocal solos by Miss Margaret [illegible] and Lloyd Bullen, readings by Jack Kelman and Miss Nan Kelman, and a vocal solo by Miss Stella Yake, Stan Carter acting as accompanist.

Following the banquet the guests spent an hour dancing, many of the old Scotch dances taking precedence over the modern steps.

THIS LADY SAYS

There's Nothing to Equal Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup For Coughs and Colds.

Mrs. David Thompson, West River street, Paris, Ont., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

"For myself and children I use nothing else.

"My little girl, 5 years old, has had bronchial trouble ever since she had the "flu" a few years ago, and now whenever she gets a slight cold she develops a very nasty cough, but all I have to do is give her a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

"Also for myself and the other children I can find nothing to equal it. In fact, it was only a short time ago that I gave it to my 10-months-old baby, and could immediately see the difference it made in her. Now, I always keep Norway Pine Syrup in the house, as I feel there is nothing to equal it."

MONDAY, MARCH 17, 1924.

Sir Henry Salesman.

Sir Henry Thornton is doing very well during his residence in this country. When he passed through Palmerston many people were at the station to see him—and they saw him.

He didn't stay long, but it was good business.

Not so very long ago his critics were busy telling Sir Henry that he ought to cease attending banquets, and stay in the office where they imagined he belonged.

It so happened that the president of the Canadian Nationals knew what the system needed, and from that day the real head office of the publicly-owned road became any place on the system where he happened to be.

Sir Henry never said so, but to judge by his untiring travelling ever since, his idea was that his biggest job was selling the proposition to the Canadian people, and he has done it as probably no other man could have done.

When he got out of his car—his office—at Palmerston, even for a few minutes, he was carrying out that same plan, selling the idea of the Canadian Nationals to the Canadian people.

Building a Speech.

A man needs to be well fortified with study and observation to make a good speech. Alfred Speakman, Progressive member from Red Deer, while not equal in debate to his predecessor from that riding, Dr. Michael Clark, is nevertheless a good exponent of the views he holds. It is not even necessary to agree with him to appreciate what he says. There are few speakers who hold more tenaciously to the path they start out to take than the westerner, Speakman. He is 43 years of age, had a high school education in Scotland although his parents were English. He is a farmer by occupation, but, like many others of his calling, he has been a student of history and economics.

He took a wide view of conditions in his address in the Commons; he does not see the western farmer as a man who is interested only in 160 acres, nor does he hold it to be possible or desirable for him to attempt to isolate his viewpoint within the confines set for him by the surveyor who drove the stakes for his quarter section. He sees the farmer touched by conditions as they exist in the four corners of the world; as a man hurt by depression of trade and assisted by buoyancy of trade. From the other angle, he sees the prosperity or non-prosperity of the farmer finding its reflection in the state of industry in the cities of Canada and of the rest of the world.

From there he proceeds with the argument that industries, if they are to prove real assets to the nation, must within a reasonable time reach a degree of efficiency where they can compete with other industries in other countries. He reviews all the arguments of depreciated currency and shows himself well versed with conditions in Germany, France, Britain and United States.

From there he goes to Britain at the time of Cobden, when farming was the most highly protected of all industries; he traces the movement that took the tax off the food of the people; touches upon the way in which Joseph Chamberlain spent some of his best years in trying to educate Britain on the need for protection, and finds a sequel in the defeat of Stanley Baldwin and the wreck of the Conservative party at the last general election.

Coming back to the Canadian west, he dealt with transportation costs, with a view to showing the advantage of a cheaper rate to allow the west to get its produce on the boats at Vancouver; here his statement was fortified by facts and figures. Concluding, he made a plain, honest plea for national unity, where the good of all the people must find greater consideration than the advantage of any one district or any one occupation.

He made the whole speech in one hour, or even a few minutes less. It showed thought, well-connected reasoning, and demonstrated study of world conditions and an appreciation of their bearing on our own problems. In many ways it was a model speech, and as such could be enjoyed, even by those who did not agree with his conclusions.

No End to the War.

"The war's been over five years, and it's time to get back to pre-war ideas."

Quite right in many things, and quite impossible in others.

The speaker who used the above quotation was speaking in terms of finance and expense.

He was not speaking in terms of men for whom the war is over, because there are so many of them for whom the war will never be over.

In the current issue of "The Sailor" is the picture in five different periods of a man who was badly injured in the face in the recent war. Part of his cheek and mouth were shot away, and five times have surgeons operated on him to produce even the faulty semblance of his former self that his picture shows him to be today.

He must go through life largely as a man apart. His injuries were cruel, painfully apparent—the price he paid for his willingness to answer the call of his country.

If a man were so handicapped by disfigurement as the result of an accident in industrial life he could bring suit, and the chances are he would get a verdict for a sum many times in excess of what he has received or ever will receive from any government.

And he is only one of scores, of hundreds, and of thousands, for whom the war will never be over. We speak almost glibly of them bearing their honorable wounds, but is it not a fact that in too many cases we let them bear them alone?

Canada's Public Men.

The amount of wealth secured by Attorney-General Daugherty since he entered the U. S. cabinet is to come under investigation. He is reported to have gone from the $100,000 class into the millionaire rating, although "lucky trading" on the stock markets is credited with much of his financial advancement.

It is a fact that very few public men in Canada have made money out of politics. There is, at times, a lot of loose talk about graft, but it has not the backing of fact, nor is it revealed in the estates left by most of our public men.

Canada has a fairly clean bill of health in this regard, and it is a credit and a sweet remembrance of the class of men whom this country has called for public service.

Cause For Thought.

Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, appeared before the U. S. senate investigating commission at Washington. His story was that of a man who had played his part as a collector of funds from certain sources for the stoppage of prosecutions that, in the interests of the public, should have been continued.

His evidence went on to show that he had on various occasions been requested to "investigate" certain men high in the affairs of the state.

A great deal of what he said can be discounted, and still leave evidence of a very undesirable state of affairs.

That it should be necessary to have a secret service man, or perhaps many of them, scouting around to check up the reputations of men to whom had been entrusted high office, means that there is a need for the school of old-fashioned honesty and public honor to start to function again.

The Position of Mr. Joynt.

John Joynt, M.P.P. for North Huron, was the speaker at a London church on Sunday evening. He stated his position in no uncertain way on the matter of temperance, and there is no reason to doubt at all his feelings on the issue.

Mr. Joynt explained why he cast his vote for the enabling bill brought in by the government. His one reason for supporting a measure that he was not previously in favor of was because the attorney-general was in favor of it.

Mr. Joynt by his vote placed in the hands of the government the right to bring on a vote to challenge the further existence of the O. T. A., to name the questions that will be asked, to say to what extent polling places in rural districts shall be open, and to name the date when such a vote shall be called.

In his address he did not state where the pressure was coming from for a new vote. He was prepared to take the word of the attorney-general for the whole thing.

There can be no discounting the worth or standing of John Joynt in Huron or any place else; when the vote comes there is no question as to where he will stand, but he had a good opportunity to assert his independence and freedom of action right at the outset. He would have strengthened his position by voting against the government.

Note and Comment.

Harvesters stranded in Toronto have started to walk the 300 miles to Ottawa where they will place their case before the government. Previous deputations on similar missions have not had much result. It would be advisable to keep a sharp lookout for positions on farms between Ottawa and Toronto.

Tavish Mactavish

ROAD hogs are at last meeting with something of their just deserts in Montreal. One of them, a certain Napoleon Descourcelles, has just been ordered to part with $25 to the funds of the court by Recorder Geoffrion, for refusing to get out of the way of a street car. The motorman said in evidence that he had danced a hornpipe on the bell for the best part of half an hour, and that Descourcelles had refused to get off the track. The recorder remarked that no doubt many people had been late for business on this account and inflicted the fine quoted.

This is a very decent beginning in the way of handling these kings of gas and four-wheeled emperors of pride. Speed has become such a god on this continent in the last few years that any slower form of progression than on wheels is looked on with contempt and the progressor as a transgressor. I think the ideal punishment for these chaps would be to make them drive their cars for a week behind some old peddlar with a broken-winded horse. Public notice should be given in the press, and the line of route marked out. Imagine a chap with a limousine in this humiliating position! I am sure it would bring results.

SUN TEMPLES.

WHAT an industry and perseverance the race shows in looking backward. Scientists especially are guilty in this way though they justify themselves by claiming that only by looking intelligently backward can one see clearly forward. In any case they have discovered in Bogota, Columbia, the "Temple of the Sun" of the Chibohas Indians. They have also unearthed a number of idols of gold, with precious gems as eyes and general decorations. The temple, according to old manuscripts of the Conquistadores, was sacked in 1537, following a battle between the Indians and the invaders. I rather doubt this as the Spaniards were above all things thieves and marauders, and were not at all likely to leave precious gems behind them on their travels.

But what interests me is the fact that so many clever brains and so much money can always be found to go back and look for such things as "Temples of the Sun" when not one person in a hundred bothers about the modern temples of the sun. Every field on every farm in Ontario will be a fitting place to worship dear old Sol in another month; every lake in Muskoka, and every foot of the great northern bush, is a natural temple of nature worship, of which the sun is a part, made and built by the Creator. It's just a matter of choice and perhaps of money. Which is the most attractive, the warm joy of the sun now at our back door, or the dead wooden and stone idols of a lost race who are impervious to heat or cold?

A DOLLAR A SEAT.

DOWN in Homestead, Pa., famous in American history as the location of the infamous Homestead riots in the days when Andrew Carnegie ruled the steel world has an innovation in police methods. Never having had a real-dyed-in-the-wool patrol wagon, they dropped into the vulgar and most unprofessional habit of using taxi cabs to take their captures to jail. Now they have bought a patrol wagon, but the canny borough council only agreed to defray the cost on the condition that all passengers in future be assessed a haulage charge of $1. They do, however, make this concession to the facts of the case, and the entirely involuntary position taken by the passenger. They make the charge exactly the same, no matter whether it be one mile or ten. Chaps in Homestead with a cynical outlook, may be inclined to have all their rows and sprees on the outskirts of the city and get their dollar's worth. I wonder whether there is a rebate for any fellow who offers to "come along quietly and walk it."

Takin' Sulphur

THE folks what have some pills for sale will use two columns up in space, a-tellin' of the things these pills will do unto the human race.

And here's some liniment and salve, some ointment from a grizzled bear, to chase the bunions from your feet and lift the dandruff from the hair.

And so I read about these things and think about the years gone by, before they had so many things to offer unto you and I.

It used to be a simple art when March and April came along, and they had reckoned how our hearts weren't pumpin' out so very strong—they used to take us by the ear, or else with grasp upon the neck, and sulphur and molasses then went slowly down inside our neck.

Just how they knew that it was right to pump that stuff into my crate, I never had the nerve to ask, nor dad the willingness to state.

Then to the bush my dad went forth and whacked an iron tree branch in two, and on the kitchen stove at home they parked the mixture for to stew.

And so with humble things like these they reared up folks like me and you. We never had a patent pill, with label printed green and blue, and sulphur and molasses gulps they saturated you and me, spring tonic, too, that had its birth in slivers from an iron-wood tree.

Ah, well I mind when spring comes round how dad would beckon unto me, and jazz my innards with the juice they got from out that iron-wood tree.

And sulphur was supposed to clean our carcasse out from stem to roots. We gobbed that there gritty mess until it rattled in our boots. Them was the signs, unfailin' too, on which our simple days was hung, the sulphur and the iron-tree juice they yelled at us that spring has come.—ARK.

RIFLE PRACTICE A "FRILL."

Another matter which was brought up for consideration at last night's meeting was the question of rifle practice in the public schools, one trustee branding it as a "lot of tomfoolery." Practice is suspended in the meantime, until the report of the cadet and athletic committee is received. Parents should certainly be given the chance of deciding whether or not they want this subject continued. It cannot be regarded as a necessary accomplishment, and undoubtedly comes within the category of so-called "frills."—Hamilton Spectator.

Dr. Frank Crane

Who Are the Great Among Us?

WHO knows the names of the millionaires of the time of Socrates?

Where now are the names and fames of the Magnificent Ones who patronized William Shakespeare, primping princesses that kept Mozart waiting in the anteroom, the solemn asses who fingered their beards and criticized the work of Michael Angelo, the pompous seniors of the podesta who drove Dante from Florence, the luxurious lords of Rome that tasted the Falernian wine and pecked at pheasants' breasts and listened bored to the news of a Jew named Paul thrown into prison for disturbing the peace?

The day will come, said Victor Hugo, when Napoleon will be known as a contemporary of Goethe.

Those excellent rascals, Villon, Rabelais and Francis Thompson, their figures are starred forever among the constellations of fame, but who shall find in the murk of oblivion the Rothschilds, Morgans and Carnegies of their day?

THE Villa of Hadrian has long been a field of grass-grown stones, and the Forum of the Caesars a ghastly hole, while schoolboys all over Christendom read the tale of Virgil and memorize the songs of Horace.

The builders of the Pyramids and Sphinxes are to us but barbarous names, the spirit of the expelled Hebrew who gave the Ten Commandments lives on, "its eye not dimmed nor its natural force abated."

What lives? Mind, and its children, Dreams.

What passes? Mud, and its children, they that swathe their limbs in silkworms' guts, and bloom as gorgeous flowers upon the heaps of despair.

NEW YORK is thumping. But its big men, they whose monuments shall be more lasting than brass, are the few Creative Minds. All these kings of finance, freak society leaders, lords and powers, who make the commons gape, are but the carcasses that shall manure the tree of the future. They shall lie in forgotten graves. Their names are writ in water.

But he who has a thought and can dream a dream, he who can "give to airy nothings a local habitation and a name," he who can utter the dumb purpose of the multitude and syllable the spirit of his age, he who can sense the infinite and bring it down as usable food for the little ones, his personality shall flourish through the ages, "his leaf also shall not wither," the dust of rotting millionaires shall feed his roots.

Limiteds and Lusitanias are amazing, and aeroplane limousines, but what particular use is there in transporting human bodies across the water, over the earth or through the air ten times as fast as they did in the day of Pericles, if the souls in those bodies are no wiser, happier or nobler?

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I wonder if "Citizen" is sitting back these days in full enjoyment of all the letters appearing in The Advertiser on the subject of birds and squirrels. I wonder, too, if "Citizen really meant what he said in regard to this subject, or did he just want to stir up a little controversy on the pests that exist in his city of London.

We all (may I include "Citizen") love the birds, squirrels and much of all other so-called wild life; personally they are a delight to me. We encourage all the birds, squirrels, etc., that care to visit our home, and they are many. We feed our sparrows every day during the winter months, also we provide nuts for the squirrels in the late autumn. Squirrels appear to be increasing; the more there are the better we will enjoy their presence. We also have a colony of owls in our trees that call to us out of the dark these nights, and in summer join their voices with the call of the mourning doves to awaken us in the early morning.

Speaking of mourning doves, they are among the most beautiful of all Canadian birds; their peculiar four-note call is somewhat deceiving as to distance, the birds may be quite close yet their call sounds as if coming from a considerable distance. The first note is given by a pressure of the bill on the breast inhaling, the last three notes by expelling the breath. Their walk is a strut, resembling that of the pigeon. I have frequently been within a few feet of those birds in our garden where they come to feed in the early fall prior to their long flight south. Like many other of our birds, they flock at migration.

And Wrens, Too.

Wrens, yes we have those birds every season. We have houses for them to build in. Also many robins. Last nesting season we counted as many as six nests from our back porch. We are sometimes forced to remove nests from window sills or other unsafe places. Last season a pair of robins started building operations in the transom over our front door. We removed their unfinished work no less than six times. The last time I destroyed their work, as I was determined to force them to seek some other less objectionable building site. So I placed an empty flower pot on the spot where they insisted on building. They were not to be denied, however, so built their nest in the pot and raised their offspring in this somewhat novel place, and I am sure nothing more interesting ever peeped over the rim of a flower pot than those bright-eyed young robins. I am sure "Citizen" would have enjoyed the sight.

The robins certainly go after our raspberries and strawberries, but we always have more berries than we can use, although we have but a small patch of each. In order to protect our strawberries we set our plants out in a chicken run, protected on all sides and on top with chicken wire, but the mesh being large enough for a robin to get through. Like the Canadian protective tariff, the foreigners succeed in passing and carrying off some of our wealth.

No Price Charged.

I wonder if "Citizen" ever saw about a score of sparrows after a red squirrel. It is certainly an amusing sight, the angry scolding birds attempting to drive out the enemy. The squirrel seems to have all the fun. This is one of nature's scenarios worth seeing, and no ticket or war tax required to enter this, the largest of all theatres.

Granting "Citizen" is in earnest in what he says, I do not blame him. We are not all constituted alike. I am sure the great majority is not in sympathy with his expressed thoughts in regard to birds and squirrels. Nature is the greatest of all studies.

Lovers of the woodland dales
Know ye aught of life.
Such as displayed on leafless trees
Or as read in withered grass?
Purling brooks give many lessons,
Stagnant pools in sober mood
Offer with faces frank
Knowledge that would volumes fill.

Oh, for power to read those lessons
And strength to wield a pen
That could picture all the truths
And lay them bare to men.
Smiling nature, who doth know thee?
Not of flesh, not of men.
God alone knows thy secrets
And wisely he revealeth them.

Military Coats

Raleigh Farmer Wants To Know What To Do About Garment In His Possession.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Some time ago we, as farmers, bought some of the military coats, which we have to give up wearing the 31st of March, if I rightly understand it.

If we take the buttons off will we be allowed to wear the coats?

If not, we have paid $10 for them at an auction sale, and will be deprived of a chance to wear them, and we lose the money.

RALEIGH FARMER.

Answer—Inquiry was made at military headquarters here about this matter, and the answer was that they had no knowledge of any auction sale where military coats had been sold. If you are in possession of such a coat, and secured same at a sale, the best way would be to dye it and change the buttons, and there would probably be no trouble made.

Lucknow Resident Wires the Prime Minister, Giving Outline of His Views.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I have sent the following night letter to Premier Ferguson, but in case it is overlooked in the midst of multitudinous affairs, may I ask that you give this letter space in your columns, as it concerns so many. Here is a copy of what I sent:

If you are going to give the people a chance to express themselves on the O. T. A., permit me to suggest that the questionnaire be under four heads: Incrimination, penalty, means, methods.

Suggested questionnaire:

Do you want the law to condemn liquor traffic more, or less, than it does now?

Do you want the penalties to be greater, or less, than they are now?

Do you want to increase, or decrease, our machinery for enforcing the liquor laws?

Do you want to employ more, or less, violence than is employed now in bringing men to judgment for offenses?

London Husband Graps the Pen and Tells the Glories of the New Spring Hat.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—I have noticed in some of the papers that come to our home the usual number of jokes about the new spring hats, and due stress has been placed on the amount of money that will have to be paid for them. I like a joke as well as the rest of the people, but don't you think this spring hat stuff is rather worn out? Year after year we get much the same kind of comment from all sources.

I don't think there is a man worthy of the name who is not just tickled pink when the spring comes and his wife goes out and get a bang-up new hat, chuck full of flowers and ribbons, and all kinds of new fussed-up things.

It's the one blow-out a woman looks forward to more than any other. The new spring hat, why bless my soul, if it were not for the annual spring rush for the new bonnet half of the fun of the thing would be gone.

The wife has been pegging away all winter, patching up the youngsters' stockings, making over old trousers for the boys and keeping the works going on half what she should spend on it, and then comes spring. She should be told to get out and not come back until she has decorated herself with the dandiest new spring creation she can get.

So my advice to the jokers in the newspapers and magazines is to lay off the spring hat. Let them come forth gay and glorious, with all good husbands standing in the side lines and cheering on the worthiest procession of the whole season.

Give Prisoners Chance.

Writer Claims That Term of Confinement Should Be Made of Some Use to the Prisoners.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—One may hope for the good name of trades and labor organizations that the reported protest to the provincial secretary at Guelph against prisoners being taught trades at the Ontario reformatory was incorrect, and does not represent the minds of labor unions. It would be difficult to conceive an attitude more narrow and calculated to thwart enlightened efforts towards improvement in prison management.

These institutions exist for the protection of society tomorrow as well as today. They are not just for the confinement of animals, but the detention of human beings, many of whom, to some degree, are victims of circumstances. Being punished by the imprisonment, such methods ought surely to be pursued in the interests of society, and those confined as well as will release them in a state of mind and with a fair redemptive start to make good in an upright and useful way. This preventing repetition of offences, close confinement, harsh treatment and lack of some productive occupation tend to embitter and harden. If they have never had the advantage of being schooled in an honest pursuit or trade, why not in the name of common sense and humanity encourage them to do so during their term?

Hon. Mr. Goldie, the provincial secretary, reminded the delegation of the necessity of keeping reformatory inmates employed and of teaching them trades, so that subsequently they would be in a position to work and become law-abiding citizens.

In between old time severity and mawkish sentimentality, there is another course, especially for first termers, that might be called educational, in which they are trained for honest labor and with a view to decent citizenship. An ex-warden of Sing Sing prison and a foremost American authority on prison reform, advises the payment of prisoners full wages for what they produce, amounts earned to be turned over wholly as in part, if they have dependent families, or be credited against their "board and lodgings," instead of keeping them in pauperized and vice-breeding idleness.

The output of prisoners is not to be pitchforked to political contractors or favorites to dump at slaughter prices, instead of being handled upon a business basis. Let inmates have a real chance to efface as far as possible the prison stigma, which has driven thousands almost hopelessly into the mire and misery of criminality. Like other people, they have preferences and capabilities, and these should be considered as well as the period of detention, dependent upon their real character and criminal exploits. Enlightened free labor is not going to suffer by extending a helping hand in a policy of social betterment.

St. Pats-Tigers Clash Tomorrow Marks Pro Game's Debut in London

Goldie Puts Finishing Touch To One of Best Seasons in Career As Hockey Star by Playing Before Home Folks.

WINNER GETS BIGGER PURSE

Prodger	Defence	Corbeau

Burch	Center	Adams
"Shorty" Green	R. Wing	Dye
"Red" Green	L. Wing	Jackson
Roach	Subs.	Hollway
Bouchard	"	Noble

Toronto St. Pats. and Hamilton-Tigers in their clash here tomorrow night at the Arena mark the first appearance of professional hockey clubs in this city since it first became a thriving hockey center. To fandom in general it will be the first peek at the professional brand of hockey, and tomorrow night's game therefore marks a new step in local sport.

The fact that Goldie Prodger is a member of the Hamilton Tigers, also adds a big splotch of color to tomorrow night's game. Fans of London have been proud of Prodger's outstanding achievements in professional ranks for the last fifteen years, but despite his long stay in the major league of the winter pastime it is surprising how few of the fans, with whom he was a prime favorite in his amateur days, have seen the big red head perform in the N. H. L.

Closes Best Year.

Prodger, despite the fact that he is listed among the veterans in experience and number of playing years, is just closing one of the best seasons he has ever had. This year his work was more outstanding than it has been before he gave up hockey to get into the bigger game in France. His work had a good deal to do with keeping the Hams in the race right up to the last moment after a particularly discouraging start. It was Prodger's steadiness which saved the start from being more discouraging than it was, and the Hams had need of his experience and versatility on either defence or attack at many other times during the season when injuries and casualties left breaches which had to be filled.

Anybody that thinks tomorrow night's clash will be purely exhibition had better derail off that line and give new wrinkles a chance to form. For one thing, nobody ever accused the professionals of disdaining the filthy lucre so that the percentage was split in such a way that the winner of tomorrow night's game slips out of town with quite a lot more coin of His Majesty's realm than the others.

Again it's been proved that the pros, wily and experienced as they are, can't play up to an exhibition role in hockey any better than the amateur teams. The game is too fast for one thing for players to coolly work, according to plan, and Tigers and St. Pats simply can't agree when they once get on ice. They're short on collaboration and long on memory of serious battles staged not so long ago.

Forgot Charity.

Even in the Johnny Brackenborough game the two teams staged—an intended burlesque—four or five of the players took the game seriously, and there were clashes that were not down on the program. They forgot charity and remembered ancient wrongs and wrongs of the moment.

The first period may be exhibition. Even that period will be something new for London fans because they'll see hockey at its highest development.

But, like other exhibitions the fans have seen here, there'll be plenty of action—and seriously meant, too—long before the crowd has to look for the exits.

The demand for tickets is extremely heavy, and all fans are urged to purchase their pasteboards as early as possible, not only for their own benefit, but also to avoid confusion near game time.

The seats will go on sale this morning at Strong's drug store and Brisco's sporting goods store, and no tickets will be on sale at the Arena until Tuesday at 10 a.m., owing to the fact that the rank business office will be busily engaged handling the sale for the Woodstock-Listowel Northern League fixture being staged tonight.

They will, however, make any reservations for out-of-town fans who communicate with the Arena box-office today.

The same prices as charged for the O. H. A. semi-finals will prevail, owing to the big guarantee made and the great expense entailed generally in securing this super attraction.

For the same reasons, and in view of the fact that the Arena company are in no way interested, the regular privileges granted box-holders have to be waived, and the usual prices will be charged for box-seats. Their tickets, however, will be on sale Tuesday at the Arena at 10 a.m., and will be held until 4 p.m. for their convenience.

FIRST SEMI-FINAL WON BY ST. THOMAS

Flower City Collegiate Gains Edge On Comex by 19--13 Win.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, March 16.—The Comex team of London met a 19—13 defeat at the hands of the S.T.C.I. juveniles in the first round of the home-and-home games in the O.A.B.A. semi-finals here Saturday.

The game started off with a rush by the Flower City quintet, and Udell, the speedy center, spun the ball into the cage several times with easy grace. The fast pace the local boys had set was not without its penalties, but the Forest City shots were all blind-folded. At half time the score stood 15 to 2 for the S. T. C. I.

In the second half the Comex team stepped out and, led by Logan, the big center, bored in on the St. Thomas defence and scored a goal. Logan then changed his tactics and started shooting goal from center. The scoring went merrily on for the visitors, while the thermometer sank little by little for the saints. However, the bell saved them.

S.T.C.I.—Udell, Matthews, Fenwick, Farley, Small, D. Lang.

Comex—Murray, Ashton, Logan, Brown, Allan, Henderson.

Referee—Lightfoot, London. Umpire—Searles.

STRATFORD MOGULS GAIN LEAD OF THIRTEEN POINTS

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, March 16.—In one of the roughest games of the season the C. N. R. Moguls last night defeated the Mohawks of Windsor here by a score of 34 to 21. This gives Stratford a 13-point lead for the return O. A. B. A. semi-final at Windsor next Saturday. Referee B. T. Taylor of London handed out no less than 28 penalties for fouling. Murray scored 19 of Stratford's points.

TIGERS SHARPEN CLAWS ON SAULT GREYHOUNDS

Seven Thousand People See Hamilton Take First Senior Clash 3 to 1—Injuries of Brown and Donnelly Quite Apparent.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, March 16. — Hamilton Tigers, senior champions of the O. H. A., defeated Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds here last night, 3 to 1, in the first of the two-game series to decide who will defend the Allan Cup. The next game will be played here Tuesday. The arena was packed with about 7,000 people.

There was no fluke about the victory. Tigers won strictly on their merits, and on the play deserved a few more goals. It was the best showing they have made since the loss of Johnny Brackenborough, and the experts are unanimous in declaring that the Greyhounds will not be able to overcome the lead.

Three times in quick succession and on the same play the Northerners missed the net when Stewart was at their mercy.

Weak on Defence.

The Soo fell down where Tigers were very strong—on the defence. The Greyhound forwards, who have all kinds of speed, failed to get back with the Tiger attackers, and, to add to the Soo worries, Stan Brown, not fully recovered from his injury, and "Babe" Donnelly, who has starred all season, fell down. They were easily drawn out of their positions, and only extraordinary goal-keeping on the part of "Flat" Walsh saved the Greyhounds from a bad drubbing. Walsh picked them off from all angles, and was one of the stars of the game.

To Herb Mitchell, "Happy" Day and Charlie Stewart goes most of the credit for the victory. Mitchell's bullet-like shots were working overtime, and he scored every goal for the yellow and black.

Both goal guardians come from Kingston, and they engaged in a great duel. While Stewart is more finished, Walsh proved just as effective.

The only other duel that developed was in center ice, where Mitchell and Phillips thrilled the fans with their clever all-around display.

Phillips Hits Stride.

For the first time since the series against Granites last winter the Soo center man struck his stride, and he gave a great exhibition of checking, puck-carrying and courage. In vain did Phillips try to rally his partly disorganized teammates. He was pleading with his wing players all evening to came back with the Tiger rushes, but Stanley and Cooper just about dominated the situation on the rails, and Woodruff, Cook and Lessard could make no headway.

The line-ups:

Tigers—Goal, Stewart; defence, Day, Redding; wings, Stanley, Cooper; center, Mitchell; subs, Nelson, Farrell.

Soo—Goal, Walsh; defence, Brown, Donnelly; center, Phillips; wings, Lessard, Woodruff; subs, Campbell, Cook.

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

The summary:

First period—1, Soo, Lessard, 3:30; 2, Tigers, Mitchell, :10.

Second period—3, Tigers, Mitchell, 4:00; 4, Tigers, Mitchell, 11:00.

Third period—No score.

COLD WEATHER DELAYS PRACTICE

Detroit Tygers Are Compelled to Take Enforced Vacations.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, March 15.—The first cut of a big league baseball squad came today when Manager McGraw shipped Bernie Wefers, outfielder and amateur sprinter; Harry Aurisy, infielder; David Thompson and William McAuliffe, pitchers, back to New York from their camp at Sarasota, Fla. Bob Shawkey signed a Yankee contract yesterday and the organization of the world's champions is now complete with the exception of Bob Meusel, who is expected to arrive today.

Washington, representing the American League, triumphed over the Brooklyn Nationals, 9—4 yesterday at Clearwater, Fla., the Robins' camp.

The Yankees spent a quiet day preparing for today's exhibition game with New Orleans, where they are training. Earl Combs will be in centerfield if Huggins thinks he is ready to take part in a game. Babe Ruth was back in uniform yesterday.

Cold weather which has so far prevented the Detroit Americans from having three successive days of practice, caused another enforced vacation at their August, Ga., camp yesterday. Snow fell on the previous night and the wind was cold.

FOREST FANS RESENT ATTITUDE OF PETROLIA

Special to The Advertiser.

Forest, March 16.—In regard to the Petolea report of the game played in Petrolia Monday and the item following it, local fans offer the following explanation: The game was hurriedly arranged, final arrangements not being completed till Sunday. When the management attempted to gather the team Monday it was found three regulars were unable to play. Rather than disappoint Petrolia, the locals carried an ineligible player, Todd agreeing before the match that the game would go to Petrolia in any event.

After the game Petrolia agreed to play the return game in Forest on Thursday, or inform the locals otherwise on Thursday. However, without informing Forest, they entered a plea that Forest be disqualified. Watford immediately took the side of Petrolia, although no decision has been received yet. Petrolia's refusal to play here according to arrangements has been a great disappointment to local fans, and is regarded as an unsportsmanlike action.

PILOT OF TECUMSEHS HAS FAITH IN LONDON

Indications Point To Real Success For Stock Subscription Campaign.

THREE REGULARS STAY

Twenty-Five Players Signed To Don London Uniforms April 7.

By FORD RUTHER.

Today members of the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other clubs start out on their stock subscription campaign to keep organized baseball in London, and present indications are that they will meet with whole-hearted support.

Manager Jack Beatty has a great deal of faith in London as a ball town, and he is so confident that this campaign is going over big that he has been working overtime lately completing arrangements for the season. He now has the signed contracts of 25 players, and has one or two more irons in the fire. The players whose contracts have already been received are as follows:

Catchers—Paul Eiffert from Nashville, Tenn., a class "A" organization, received in trade for Mackey; Jack Delaney and Roy Ryckman, a former London boy.

Pitchers—Joe Delman, the only 1923 hurler to remain; Stanley Achenbach, James Harris, Conrad Fields, the latter two also from Nashville; C. T. Pendergast, a Canadian from Ottawa, now residing in Detroit; Leo Lowray, John McGibney, Nick Nerhab, Roy Lacroix and Norman Luther.

Infielders — Chick Gaines, Wm. Demlow, R. T. Schlafly, Walter Sandquist, W. Barbelon, John Destefano, Chick Naleway, who is at present in the south with the Detroit Tygers, and who is being sent to Beatty for another year. Naleway is a shotstop. Joe Raune has also signed, but will not report until June. He will, however, be in good condition then, as he will have the advantage of playing with a semi-pro team near the college he is attending.

Outfielders—Earl Stimpson, Lyman Nason, Coney Aichele and Lloyd German.

But Three Returning.

From the above list it will be seen that besides Beatty himself, there will be but three of last year's team return, providing, of course, they are not ousted by recruits. They are Delman, Barbelon and Stimpson.

Perhaps the most important announcement Beatty has to make at present is that he has practically completed arrangements to carry out spring training at Three Rivers, Mich., although enticing offers were received from numerous other places also, including Quincy and Bloomington, Ill. One of the big features in favor of Three Rivers is that it is a very central point to assemble the majority of the ball players who have been signed up, thus considerably reducing expenses in the way of transportation that would be necessary were a training camp selected further south.

Order Held up.

Beatty is at present awaiting orders from club headquarters to close the deal for the Three Rivers camp, and he is also very anxious to get out word to his players to report there on Monday, April 7, to commence training, the season officially opening April 30, with London at Saginaw.

The necessary orders to go ahead are, however, being held in abeyance for a day or so, pending definite approval from the citizens of London that they want baseball here this year, and they are being given their opportunity of voicing their approval through the subscription campaign being carried out for the next few days. Do your share now to keep baseball in London, and allow Beatty to get a good early start in carrying out plans which is confident will bring London to the top of the heap this summer.

N.H.L. Officials Play For Charity

Children's Hospital Benefits by Game in Montreal.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, March 16.—A crowd of 4,000 fans contributed voluntarily to the Children's Memorial Hospital when they witnessed the annual game between the N. H. L. officials and the Old Wanderers here Saturday night. The funds were swelled by auctioning a goal stick, upon which all the N. H. L. players had affixed their signatures. The two pucks which Canadiens and Ottawa used in the playoff games this year, were also auctioned off.

The game itself was won by the officials after a thrilling overtime battle by the score of 11 to 10. The winning goal was counted by the champion amateur golfer of Canada, Red MacKenzie, who sent in one of his bullet-like drives to beat Dooner after twenty seconds of extra time.

NIAGARA FALLS GIRLS LOSE FIRST FINAL GAME

Toronto Ladies' Quintet Takes Initial Tilt of Series 22 to 20.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, March 16. — Displaying their poorest exhibition of the season on their home floor, the Toronto Ladies basketball team secured only a two-point margin over the Niagara Falls girls in the first game of the final round for the L. O. B. A. championship here last night, the final score being 22 to 20. To win the title, the local girls will have to show a lot more next Saturday than they did yesterday.

The Niagara Falls team is the smallest and lightest aggregation that has played here this year, but what they lacked in these respects was more than made up in their speed and combination, which prevented the locals from ever settling down. Most of their plays ended with Miss Ballard, and she scored 18 of the 20 points, her shooting being sensational. Hazel Conacher was the best for the locals. The teams:

Toronto—J. Allan (4), A. Wesley (2), G. Conacher (4), H. Conacher (6), R. Grosse (2), C. Hennessy (1), P. Pitkethly (2), A. Ginn (1).

Niagara Falls—G. Fraser, S. Ballard (18), L. Spehens, A. Townsend, J. Wilson, R. Doan (2), G. Haslam, C. Weaver.

Referee—Jack Tait.

ENGLISH RUGBY TEAM MAKES CLEAN SWEEP

Defeats Scotland by 19 Points to 0 in Game at Twickenham On Saturday.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 15.—England made a clean sweep of the series of international rugby games by defeating Scotland at Twickenham this afternoon by 19 points to 0. In previous matches this season the Englishmen have vanquished Wales, Ireland and France. Today's struggle took place before 40,000 people, King George being an interested spectator. The first portion of the opening half was a grim tussle with England making frequent dashes into Scotland's 20-5, but they were unable to penetrate the Scottish defence. Shortly before half-time Wakefield scored, the try being converted.

Early in the second Molety MacPherson for Scotland tried to drop a goal, but failed and shortly afterwards Myers was successful with a similar kick giving his side a nine point margin. In the closing stages Myers and Catheside scored tries for England, the former zig-zagging his way through the Scottish defence. Conway converted both tries.

L.A.A.A. GIRLS' QUINTET LOSES TO WARREN ELKS

Lighter Local Team Forces Visitors To Limit To Win 14--10.

SPEED BEWILDERING

Y. M. C. A. Tigers Trounce South C. I. Squad in Preliminary Mingle.

The famed Warren Elks defeated the L. A. A. A. girls' team 14 to 10 before one of the season's biggest basketball crowds at the armories Saturday night. The game outthrilled any of the other international exhibitions staged here this season. The Elks proved to be of Junoesque proportions, the shortest of the invaders towering above the local Lilliputians, but the latter playing superb basketball in spots and showing exceptional courage, almost evened up the discrepancies in weight and size, and while losing a close game, won the admiration of every Londoner who witnessed the contest.

Elks showed everything their advance notices claimed. Critics of girls' basketball teams had no hesitation in calling the Elks the best girls' quintet seen here since the first appearance of the Cleveland Favorite Knits last season. Their claim to the U. S. title was more than substantiated in the opinion of local fans, for after seeing them in action, their victories over the Youngstown Aces and Warren National Lamps, both of which will be seen in action here during the next two weeks, was readily understandable. They are going to meet Edmonton, and their weight and team-work gives them the best chance of any team to bring back the title.

Despite their Amazonian proportions, they worked with bewildering speed, especially on their combination plays when on the offensive. They tripped around the court like oversized Diannas, in tricky complicated plays. They had a good defensive system, cool collected guards who figured out the opposing play and how to meet it in a flash.

Fought Hard.

Despite all this the diminutive L. A. A. A. team extended the big invaders to the limit for their four-point win. In the last period when the local girls were beginning to show their best, Rena Curnoe, scoring act, was banished for four personals, and as if that were not enough to add to the handicaps already faced by the L. A. A. A., Frances Talbot shortly afterwards was knocked out when she tried to stop Jennie Allsop, giantess and guard of the Warren team, from scoring.

In shooting, the big Elk girl lifted her right knee, jumped and accidentally hit Frances on the left eye and cheek. The plucky little defence star had to be carried off the court and a doctor was called. A little later she came back smiling as much as her badly swollen face would permit, and asked to go back in the game, but she was kept on the sidelines as a spectator.

A titter went up from the crowd as the two teams took up their positions on the floor. The contast in size and weight seemed so ludicrous to the crowd that the Warren captain switched her team around slightly to partially cover it up. It couldn't be done, however, and it looked as if cricks might develop in the local girls' necks and put them off form as they looked the skyscraper editions over.

Begin To Mix It.

Marg. Williams started the fireworks, getting the first Elk counter on a pass from Connie Bean. Both teams began to mix it, with the ball mostly in center floor. Elks were intercepting the L. A. A. A. passes with well-timed precision. Marg. Williams got away again for the second score of the game on a neat combination. Bessie Graves tallied London's first, getting the ball from the rebound from Rena Curnoe's try. Warren was beating the locals with a rushing combination, but their shots went wide. Jennie Allsop registered the next Elk basket on a pass from Hazel Bonca. Quarter time: Warren 6, L. A. A. A. 2.

The light L. A. A. A. team was having a hard job of it with the weighty Warrens. The Elks big defence pair forced the locals to do their shooting from outside. Bessie Graves was bumped badly by Jennie Allsop, the Warren wrecker. Time off. Frances Talbot was playing a great game, checking the American tries to a standstill. Rena Curnoe got a point on a free shot when Gertrude Bohl held in saving. Bessie Graves kept up her good work, adding two more points to the L. A. A. A. score on a long shot from just inside center floor. Warren called time. Gertrude Bohl got away immediately after the throw-up, getting the ball from Marg. Williams, who followed in the next few passes. Jessie Rose went on for Frances Talbot. Ann Hazelgrove missed an easy one on a long pass from Bessie Graves, to end the period. Warren Elks 10, L. A. A. A. 5.

Rena Curnoe opened the scoring in the last half, getting a point for a foul. Rena Curnoe scored on a pass from Bessie Graves, who dribbled through the whole Warren defence. Third quarter: Warren 10, L. A. A. A. 8.

Weight Counts.

L. A. A. A. combination began to break away time and time again only to be broken up by the weighty Warren guards. Marg. Williams got through the local defence on a pass from Connie Bean to score. Both sides began shooting from outside. Lucy Milne dribbled through the whole Warren team and passed to Ann Hazelgrove for another L. A. A. A. tally. Marg. Williams notched the last counter of the game on a pass from Gertrude Bohl.

In the preliminary "Y." Tigers romped away from South C. I. 23 to 13. Lawrence and Barbour were the best for the "Y.," while Hadfield and Vollick did most of the work for the collegiate.

The line-ups:

South C. I.—Defence, Hadfield, Chapman; center, Vollick; forwards, R. Ferguson, J. Gordon; spares, Hair, Westland, J. Ferguson.

"Y." Tigers—Defence, C. B. Chapman, Cummings; center, Barbour; forwards, Lawrence, Casselman; spares, Anderson, Upthegrove.

WESTERN "U" LOSES ON ROUND TO DODGES

Windsor Five Overcomes Lead and Wins Round by One Point.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, March 16.—Overcoming the six-point lead gained by Western University at London, the Windsor Dodges basketball team at the C. I. gym Saturday won the series by one point, the score being 27 to 20 in their favor. The winning point was scored by Perry just before Referee Murphy blew the final whistle.

Whether the game will be considered in the championship depends upon an offer made to the Toronto Y. M. C. A. by Manager Bob Sherlock of the Dodges. He has offered to pay $50 in settlement of the differences which arose out of last year's games. The Toronto team has informed the O. A. B. A. executive that it will not accept less than $100, the amount of the expenses of the game at which the Windsor team did not appear.

MAKING A GOLF CHAMPION
—By WALTER HAGEN—

Crossing the Delaware Repeated With Golfball

Walter Hagen Recalls Many Freak Events Seen in Career On Links.

HOLED OUT IN 166

CHAPTER 8.
Freak Shots—A Hole In 166.

There have been many stories of freak shots in golf. Players are always trying new stunts, and I attempted a few myself in 1916. I forgot to mention, in my last chapter, that in addition to winning the western and metropolitan open, I also took the Shawnee open the same year. This event used to be called the eastern open, and generally brought out a good field of talent. It was in that that I succeeded in pulling off one of the weirdest shots in my career.

The Shawnee - on - the - Delaware links is, as the name implies, directly on the Delaware river, which runs close along the side of one of the holes. I had finished playing the hole nearest the river, and stood on the eleventh tee close by. It occurred to me that the Delaware itself would make a good hazard if anyone could carry it, which was extremely doubtful. The river at that point is over 250 yards wide, and I had heard that golfers had often attempted to drive across it, but had failed.

Just for fun I teed up a ball and, putting everything I had into the shot, let her go. The ball started on a straight line—and I never remember hitting one just like it before, or since—sailed out with a wave-like, rising motion right across the river and into the woods on the other side. I often wish I had taken the trouble to measure the exact length of that drive. It was one of those rare occasions when swing, power and contact were in perfect harmony—a most unusual piece of luck.

It is not a bad idea now and then to practice these freak shots, such as driving at marks, lifting the ball cutting, slicing, or trying for distance—particularly over hazards—for these lucky breaks give a man an indication of the limits of his game, which he could not discovered in ordinary play. In a subsequent chapter I will tell how one of these circus tricks, which I learned from Joe Kirkwood, pulled me out of a tight hole.

Water hazards are always bugbears to the average golfer, and some strange things have transpired where water happens to be between the tee and the hole. One of the most difficult water hazards I know of is at the Little Binnacle at Shawnee, a large creek or tributary of the Delaware, which is one of the main hazards on the course. It changes to be the sixteenth hole and on account of the carry over the creek is a most important point. Many good scorers have been wrecked here. When tournaments are being played at Shawnee his is the favorite place for the gallery to gather.

A few years ago a woman's tournament was in progress at Shawnee with just enough entries to make a sixteen. There was no chance for anyone to fail, but it was necessary to play the qualifying round as a handsome prize awaited the winner. One of the contestants had been playing pretty good golf up to this hole, and felt certain of a high score. Some women players use a wooden club to make the carry, but the majority of golfers use a midiron, and the pros and star amateurs take it

The player in question took her wooden club for the shot, but the sight of the creek was too much of a mental hazard for her. Instead of playing with determination and ease, she unconsciously stiffened up her stroke, with the result that the ball dropped into the creek, having failed to carry by several yards. Instead of dropping another, she decided to wade in and play it out. The attempt was unsuccessful, and the ball started to float down the river. Her husband, much amused at the incident, insisted that she keep on, as she must turn in some sort of report from the hole in order to qualify.

He secured a boat and rowed his better half out to where the ball was floating. She was not an expert at playing from the water, and shot after shot followed—each with an accompanying shower bath for her husband—until finally she landed the elusive sphere a half-mile down stream. She then played it back across country to the green and holed out after 166 shots had been made—as far as I know, a record for one hole of tournament play. The club presented her with a special prize for her persistence.

350 Yards With a Bounce.

Speaking of records reminds me that I have often been asked what was the longest shot I ever saw made. It is difficult to say. I recall seeing an amateur, in practice play, drive a ball two hundred and fifty yards. This would not be an unusual feat were it not for the fact that the ball, instead of coming to a stop, struck the flat surface of a rock, bounced high in the air again, and finally came to rest over 350 yards from the tee. I think this must be close to a record.

One of the shortest drives I remember seeing was made by no less a celebrity than Tommy McNamara, who hit a ball in such a way that it scooted at right angles between his legs into the rough behind him.

Harry Vardon, while playing an exhibition match at Troon, managed to catch a ball with the toe of his club so that it flew off at a tangent into the river.

And I remember seeing a player slash a furious drive against a tree, which caused it to bounce back forty yards from its starting point.

During the summer of 1916, I practiced a lot of these trick shots, as I said before, found that this sort of stunt playing gave me a fairly good idea of my powers and limitations. On the basis of what I learned I began a reconstruction of my game. I had lost the open event that year, but was determined to win it the next time at all costs, and I set about making careful preparation.

I went south that winter, played in all the open events, and toward spring found my game working to my satisfaction. In April, however, the entry of America into the world war put an end to all thought of championships. I found myself selected, with other pros and amateurs, to play Red Cross matches in the East and Middle West.

Expect Hard Battle in Game To Decide N. H. L. Semi-Final Round.

BOTH CREWS COLORFUL

London Will See "Cully" Rocker, Boy Wonder, Perform On Local Ice.

Listowel and Woodstock, late of the O. H. A., and now battling for the right to meet New Hamburg team in the senior Northern League series, meet here tonight in the third game in an effort to unknot the 15—15 tangle they've tied themselves into in two previous home-and-home semi-final N. H. L. senior affairs.

Both teams have lots of color and should be a big attraction to local fans. Each will bring a big contingent of fans with them, the fact of the two tie games they played, 10—10 at Listowel and 5—5 at Woodstock, having stirred up the natives of each community involved to a high pitch of late-season enthusiasm.

Listowel having won the Arctic group after a hard campaign, were highly touted as an obstacle to the O. H. A. teams aspiring to the intermediate title.

New Hamburg caught them still all fevered up over their group win and moved them aside as far as the O. H. A. race was concerned.

Woodstock were also expected to provide a stumbling block to intermediate O. H. A. ambitions. They were even conceded a chance at one time of getting into the finals. Brantford, however, early crossed their path and Woodstock slipped from view. However, on the series, there was some doubt as to whether the better team won. Woodstock had an off night the first game at home, but they went back into the Telephone City and threw quite a large-sized scare into the fans of that neighborhood.

Listowel has one colorful player. Cully Rocker is the phenom's name. He was discovered playing pond hockey one day just before the season opened, and Listowel fans immediately dubbed him the "boy wonder." He has been similarly and perennially "discovered" for the last 20 or 30 years, somewhere. He once played in London, even.

Several of the oldest inhabitants were interviewed on this, but none could definitely place the time and date, except that it was somewhere between 1880 and 1910. Cully still does a mean stroke, and though not so frisksome as he once was, has still the same set of brains which made him an outstanding intermediate player some years ago.

W. J. R. C. NEWS LAUDS LONDON MAN'S WORK

E. E. Murtagh Said To Have Developed Excellent Shots at Y.M.C.A.

In the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps News an interesting article of interest to all members of the Y. M. C. A. is carried, which pays a glowing tribute to the marksmanship of E. E. Murtagh, chief instructor, of this city, who retained the title among the instructors at a match held for them. Mr. Murtagh is the rifle instructor at the Y. M. C. A., and under his careful training some excellent shots have been developed, who have carried the name of London to fame in competitions of this nature.

The article only goes further to strengthen the opinion held by Y. M. C. A. officials that Mr. Murtagh is the best that can be procured. Since Mr. Murtagh has been giving lessons on the art of shooting at the "Y" the number of boys entering this line of sport has almost doubled.

Although instructors from the foremost military colleges in the States were present they failed to beat Mr. Murtagh.

ATTACK OF BEARS STIMULATES TRADE

Selling Pressure Is Particularly Effective Against Oils and Motors.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, March 17.—Isolated points of strength cropped out in the early afternoon, National Lead rising 4¾ and Wilson & Co., preferred, three points, but the general market was under the spell of the increasing liquidation in the tobacco, motor and accessory shares. Over a score of stocks established minimum prices for the year, including Studebaker, which sold at 98⅝.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, March 17—Wall Street, noon.—In fluenced by the decision of the house ways and means committee to report a $2,000,000,000 bonus bill, and the reduction in the Pan-American dividends, bear traders launched a series of attacks against the general list, the volume o ftrading during the morning being the largest for weeks. Selling pressure was particularly effective against the oils, motors, rubbers and tobaccos. Fisher Body and Stewart-Warner Speedometer each broke 5 points, Tidewater 5½, and U. S. Realty, American Tobacco, South Porto Rica and Houston Oil sold 2 or more points below Saturday's closing figure. Rails held firm with few issues, such as New Orleans, Texash and Mexican, which advanced 2¼ to 107⅝, Erie first preferred up 1½, and Lehigh Valley and Chesapeake and Ohio each up 1, showing independent strength. Money continued easy, call funds renewing at 4 per cent.

Financial Review

Pan-American officials figure that the company earned just about their eight dollar dividend it paid last year. It is expected, however, that earnings this year will be more than $8 per share and that the cut in the company's dividend will only be temporary.

Stocks, with the exception of the banking demand for Erie and Wabash, were under pressure this morning.

General Motors stockholders totalled 70,099 March 1, against 68,053 in the last quarter of 1923.

Norfolk & Western, 1923, net earnings, $18,788,000, or $13.85 per share on the common, against $14,554,000, or $10.66 a share in 1922.

Wilson & Co. profit, after depreciation, 1923, $2,450,000, or $8.60 a common share, against $1,122,000, or $1.98 in 1922.

Hudson & Manhatton Company, 1923 surplus, $1,356 after tax and bond interest against $835 in 1922.

In relation to Tough Oaks Burnside the "Mining Journal" says as follows: Tough Oaks Burnside work has produced splendid results and if they keep on blocking out and mining ore at the present ate it will be advisable to start the mill before the set date in June. It is not economical to stockpile ore o nthe surface where it requires a second handling and it might be found cheaper to run the mill even if only on a small scale to start with. It is not often people are embarrassed with too much riches but that has been the situation in Tough Oaks Burnside for some weeks. When the present management took hold of this property it looked as though they were taking a very long chance. But they went down deep, tackled the explorataion on a broadgage geological lines and have won a rich reward.

Westinghouse Electric sold ex-dividend and ex-rights this morning on the New York exchange.

Post & Flagg say: We see no reason for an increase in pessimism.

Woolman & Co. say: The rail group is apt to hold steady and then go stronger.

Laidlaw: The trade awaits the report of the Dawes committee.

Jones Easton McCallum: We continue of the opinion that stocks should be sold on the bulges.

LINER DELAYED BY HURRICANE

Steamer Teviot Buffeted For Seven Days on Coast Trip.

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. John, N. B., March 17.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet passenger liner Teviot is in port from Bermuda after a voyage of seven days and eight hours, a trip which ordinarily takes less than three days. Soon after leaving Bermuda the Tevoit ran into a hurricane with a 75-mile an hour wind, accompanied by mountainous seas.

It was found necessary to unshackle the anchor and let out 105 fathoms of chain to act as a drag, while sails were set on the afterpart of the ship to help keep her bow to the seas, which were continually breaking over the liner. Oil was also poured on the water. In this manner the Teviot was hove to for nearly three days, and even with full speed of her engines she could make only about two knots an hour. The heavy weather continued until last Friday. The ship suffered no damage.

WESTERN MINERS' PARLEY HAS FAILED

Delegates Leave Calgary to Prepare For Strike On April 1.

Associated Press Despatch.

Calgary, Alberta, March 17.—Negotiations between officials of District 18, of the United Mine Workers' of America, and the Western Canadian Operators' Association, going on since February 25, were definitely broken off on Saturday, the sub-committees formed, at suggestion of the miners, being unable to come to an agreement for a new contract.

The miners' delegates left Calgary last night to report to their respective locals and to prepare for a strike on April 1.

William Sherman, president of District No. 18, when interviewed after the adjournment, would make no statement other than that the miners had failed to make a contract on the basis of that made at the international convention and would strike on April 1.

P. M. Young, commissioner of the Operators' Association, stated that the operators had put forth all arguments that they possibly could to try and convince the miners it would be to their advantage to meet them in an agreement, but that the miners had made up their minds that they would have a three-year agreement at the present rate of wages or nothing.

SAY STEEDS OF PRINCE ARE "TOO BIG FOR HIM"

English Newspapers Remind That Edward VII. Used More Discretion.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 17.—Amidst wholehearted expressions of sympathy and concern over the latest accident to the Prince of Wales, although it was not serious, some of the newspapers venture on a little candid comment with regard to the numerous accidents that have happened to the heir apparent while engaging in his favorite pastime of steeplechasing.

One criticism, in so many words, is that His Royal Highness has not as safe a seat in the saddle as he imagines, and rides horses that are too big for him. The prince is reminded that while his grandfather, Edward VII, hunted for twelve years with the West Norfolk hounds, he always showed wise discretion in the field and a sound example, which his grandson, the Prince of Wales, might well follow.

BRITISHERS ARE WARNED AGAINST LAND FRAUDS

Overseas Settlement Department Advises Prospective Buyers To Investigate Carefully.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, March 17.—Under the heading "Land Overseas, Official Warning," an advertisement has been given prominent space in the newspapers here, stating that the attention of the overseas' settlement department of the British colonial office has been drawn to alluring advertisements by companies or individuals interested in the sale of lands in the dominions, colonies, and foreign countries.

It is stated by the overseas settlement department that experience shows that those persons who are persuaded to buy land through such advertisements expose themselves to grave risks. Local Market

The dozen loads of hay brought in this morning satisfied the week-end demand, and with more than sixty loads brought to the city last week the market is expected to be rather quiet for the next few days. Prices have a downward tendency and this morning ranged between $13 and $15 a ton. One small load brought $15.50.

A few loads of oats found a good market. From $1.60 to $1.65 is being asked.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, March 15.—There was a decidedly better tone to the wheat market today, and, after opening above the dollar mark for May, strength was maintained throughout the session. There was a good class of buying by exporters, and a moderate amount of trade was worked, although offerings came out freely on every fractional advance, but these were pretty well absorbed by seaboard demand and by millers and shippers. At the close futures showed a gain of ⅞c.

There was little feature to the future coarse grain markets, which were showing a slightly improved tone on an increasing trade.

Trading in cash wheat continued dull today. No. 2 and No. 3 northern continued at a full carrying charge under May, with a little better tone to No. 3 and lower grades, which were showing spreads about ½c better.

A fair demand came out for cash oats and rye, but the offerings continue light. Barley was dull, with flax about unchanged on light offerings and demand.

MARKET SIDELIGHTS

WALL STREET PLEASED.

Wall Street considers the loan of J. P. Morgan and other bankers to France as pointing to the beginning of what Reginald McKenna, the British ex-chancellor, termed a solution to Europe's difficulties.

The importance of the loan does not lie in the amount, or even in the stabilization of the franc, so much as in the fact that France is understood to have given assurance of a favorable and tolerant hearing to the fothcoming proposals of the Dawes international commission. If this is true, it is one of the most important strokes made since peace was declared, from the standpoint of world's trade.

DOME'S GEOLOGY.

In view of the report of Dome getting into basalt formation this week, which put a new complexion on the property, the following word of explanation as to the geology of this basalt may prove of interest. We give it as it was explained to us by a Northern Ontarian who knows more about rocks than we do.

"Once upon a time sediments covered all the Porcupine country, including the Hollinger and McIntyre. The glacial period eroded most of them away, but left a valley full of them at the Dome. The Dome is now getting down to the level where McIntyre and Hollinger started mining from surface. In other words, Dome has perhaps 1,500 to 2,000 feet of gold-bearing rock which was eroded away by glaciers at Hollinger and McIntyre. This is pretty rough geology, but crudely expresses the idea. The sediments are several million years old. They were formed just as ocean sands are formed today. The gold broke through later. The glaciers are supposed to have come quite recently, from 100,000 to 30,000 years ago, probably."

MINING BROKERS' DOINGS.

F. M. Macdonald, who has for some time been connected with the National City Company, has been elected a member of the Standard stock exchange. He will shortly open offices in partnership with another Scotchman, named McPherson, the firm being known as Macdonald, McPherson & Co.

Another new firm of mining brokers appearing on the street is Alexander Gordon & Co., who will specialize in Northern Ontario properties.

Past President Advises Replaying L.O.B.A. Game

John De Gruchy Favors Toronto Ladies Waiving Everything and Taking On Shamrocks At Once.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, March 16.—When the London Shamrock team defaulted their game with the Toronto Ladies on Thursday, March 6, there were three interested gentlemen seated in the large audience. These gentlemen were John DeGruchy, past president of the A. A. U. of C., Ontario branch; Mr. Johnson, president, and A. W. Steele, secretary of that organization. After the game had failed to be held, they met in close conference. All that was announced after that meeting was that the A. A. U. of C. would "look into the matter further."

Last Wednesday morning a telegram arrived at the office of the A. A. U. of C., stating that Dr. Smith, coach of the London Shamrock team, was on his way to Toronto. It was requested that a meeting be called at which Dr. Smith might be present.

Up to the present no details of this meeting have been published. Saturday morning, when interviewed, Mr. DeGruchy announced that it had been left to him and Mrs. Smallman to settle the matter.

Decision Would Be to Play.

"I would much prefer that the Toronto Ladies waive everything and say we will take them right on," he said. "This would be our official decision, so it would be wiser not to let it get that far. I wrote Thursday evening to Mrs. Smallman.

Mr. DeGruchy showed a copy of the letter which he had sent to Mrs. Smallman on March 12. It stated that the protests had been taken up at a meeting of the registration committee held upon that day. The following quotations are significant:

"After fully discussing the matter from every angle we unanimously decided that in the best interests of the game it would be advisable that the Shamrocks be allowed to play off the defaulted game of March 6th."

"We came to this decision because of certain points somewhat vague in the L. O. B. A. rules, which under the constitution did not provide for other than the Spaulding or men's rules.

"We wish it clearly understood that this decision does not in any way question your judgment in the matter, or ruling concerning same.

"Our position is purely and simply that of an arbiter, as such to consider every phase and thus arrive at an equitable and fair solution and to endeavor as far as possible to legislate for that which is best in promotion of wholesome amateur sport.

"I am writing you in a personal manner rather than as an official of the union, although conveying the viewpoint as decided at our meeting, and would urge, as I feel it will do good, that the L. O. B. A. order a replay, say a week from tonight, in Toronto, giving as a reason for your action the advice of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Clean Sports.

"The Toronto girls have shown themselves very clean sports in every way.

"On Wednesday at noon we had a meeting, at which Dr. Smith was present, but only by courtesy, not as a matter of any right, but because both teams had entered a protest to the Ladies' Basketball Association we as an independent body had taken the matter of the protests up and the question that had arisen over the voting which had taken place in the matter of the Toronto protest. He had no rights in the matter, and the only argument he raised was they had no right to settle the protest without both sides being heard from. Further, that Guelph had not given an answer as suggested by Mrs. Smallman. Unfortunately, I had in my possession a letter from the lady in charge of the Guelph team in reference to this question. After having had a conversation with someone in London, and considering the matter further, they (Guelph) were still of the same opinion as the rest of the league.

"Another point Mr. Smith raised was that in any case London had won, because, under the rule, they had a four-point lead, and the winning of the game on Thursday night only gave two points to the Toronto team. Technically speaking, they were within their rights in that. Both sides entered a protest from different angles. London were right according to the Spalding rules about the basket—that is, technically. Last year's rules called 'for cord or other suitable material.' Under the new Spalding rules it distinctly calls for 'white cord baskets.' This is highly technical. It struck me a wise stand would be to have the game replayed. Smith answered, 'No; not fair to London; but play two games, one in London and one in Toronto.'

"In this way they might run up a big score in London and come down here with a good deal of feeling prevailing.

"I would not consent to this, but suggested that the game be replayed next week in Toronto on the West End 'Y' floor and leave the first game in London as it stood, eliminating the second and third game. They have won two games, and in all fairness, when they have won two games they are entitled to this consideration. London are asking for a meeting this afternoon of the executive of the L. O. B. A., to be held in Hamilton, which the executive are not in a position to finance.

Technically L.O.B.A. Wins.

"If it comes down to a legal question, the T.O.B.A. would automatically win.

"If the technicalities are in order, and as both teams have already questioned on technical points the protests by the two teams should be considered. No matter what we think personally we are entitled to consider all things from every angle, and the stand taken by Dr. Smith re the cord baskets would justify the London stand. We are not overriding the judgment or wisdom of the L.O.B.A., but are only suggesting. I am sure the Toronto team want to win the game on the floor itself and do not want to take it as it stands.

"The question of registration of players, brought up by Dr. Smith, does not enter into the question at all. If this were so the Toronto team could secure ringers from other teams in the city and meet the London team with a very formidable array of players. If London were allowed to register players for any game, the Toronto team also should be allowed this privilege, and I believe the team which has played all season is the one which should compete when it comes to the finals for the championships.

"For the good of the game itself I would like to see the game replayed on the Toronto floor.

"In so far as the game of Saturday night is concerned (Toronto v. Niagara), if the Toronto team wins out on the round it could stand as the first of the finals, but if London wins they will play Niagara for the finals," Mr. DeGruchy said.

KITCHENER KNIGHTS CAPTURE LANG CUP

St. Jerome's College Sextet Puts Up Game Fight Against Heavier Team.

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, March 16.—The hockey championship of the Twin City and the Lang Cup, emblematic of that achievement, were won Saturday here by the Knights of Columbus, when they defeated St. Jerome's College, 5 to 3, in a fast game of hockey. The Knights were the winners of the senior division of the City League, while St. Jeromes won the junior championship.

The losers, though all under nineteen, put up a strong battle against their heavier and more experienced opponents, and their goalie, Oberle, saved the situation many times. In the first period no score was registered, but in the second St. Jeromes opened on a lone rush by Regan. The Knights replied with two counters before the period closed. In the final canto the Knights counted three and the Collegians two.

George Hainsworth, former Kitchener senior goalie, who tended the nets for the Saskatoon Crescents this year, who returned from the West last week, refereed.

The teams:

Knights of Columbus—Goal, McCarthy; defence, Krug and Hearn; center, Schumaker; wings, A. Hannenberg and Frank; subs, Hummell, Corrigan and Young.

St. Jerome—Goal, Oberle; defence, Regan and Culleton; center, Lobsinger; wings, Dentinger and O. Hannenberg; subs, Devine, Lippert and McDonald.

Referee—George Hainsworth.

JOYNT DECLARES O.T.A. IS GREATEST ACT INTRODUCED

North Huron Member Addresses Congregation at Hyatt Avenue Church.

PERSONAL VIEWS

John Joynt, M.L.A., for North Huron, was the speaker at Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church on Sunday evening, taking for his subject the temperance situtaion in Ontario.

Rev. M. McCormick, pastor of the church, in a short address, stated his own position in regard to the O.T.A. "I like whiskey as I like paris green. There are some who claim that the O. T. A. is on too high a plane and that it cannot be enforced. We might as well say the same thing about the ten commandments. There is need for a deepening of public interest in the worth-while things of the country. There were 10,000 people saw a silk stocking revue in a local opera house in the performance of three days, and that is more than attend prayer meetings in this city in six months. I am in sympathy with the O. T. A., and I think we should keep it where it is, and I am in sympathy with every move to preserve it."

Mr. Joynt started in right at the outset to flay the liquor traffic. "I have not one good word to say for the liquor traffic," he stated, "it has not one redeeming feature about it. The liquor traffic owes the people of Canada a great deal. Show me the money that has been made through the operation of the traffic, and I will show you the sorrows and the heart-breaks of a nation. There is not one good word that I can say for it.

Greatest Act.

"The government at Toronto knows where Joynt stands on the question. I think the O. T. A. is the gratest act we ever had. I know there are cases where it is hard to enforce, but so is the law against robbery or anything else. It has done good and the result can be seen right in Toronto. I have been in Toronto since February 6 of this year, and I have seen only one drunken man on the streets. Years ago I would have seen a dozen or more of them every day. In my own village of Lucknow I have not seen a drunken man in two years, although if that time we have had a number of very large gatherings there. Yet there is a society of wet men who say, who have the audacity to say, that there is as much drinking going on as ever."

Mr. Joynt then touched on the question of revenue, referring to the plea that if we had government control we would have lots of revenue from it in Ontario. "I notice that in Quebec, where they calim to have this revenue, that they have found it necessary to put on a tax of two cents per gallon to pay for roads.

"A man came into my office a few days ago and he wanted to pay $300 on the mortgage on his farm. I asked him how he was getting along, because I knew him in the days before the O. T. A. when everything he had went for drink. He has paid off $800 on a mortgage for a better farm, and is doing well.

Personal View.

Coming to the government stand on the O. T. A., Mr. Joynt made it clear that he was not speaking for the government, but as a private member of it. "I have personally advised the government to leave the O. T. A. alone, and I am as confident as I am that I am standing here tonight that the people will sustain by their votes that measure as they did in 1919. Before I came here I had to square myself with my own pastor in Lucknow, for he had written me a very strong letter because I voted for the enabling legislation that the government brought in. I did so because I have such respect for the attorney-general, whom I consider the most independent man in the house. We don't know what's going to take place; the government gave me no commission to bring a message to you, but as in the days when Nelson found himself in between the fleets of France and Spain, we must send out the clarion call that every man must do his duty."

Mrs. Paddell, president of the W. C. T. U., was one of the speakers of the evening. "I come to you as the representative of the largest women's organization in the world, the W. C. T. U. We have been called fanatics and cranks, but it is a fact that even yet the old crank is sometimes of more use than the present-day starter."

Mrs. W. A. Tanner, president of the Union Mothers' Club, gave assurance that the mothers represented in the organizations in the city would be a force contending for the maintenance of the O. T. A.

Mrs. Rose, president of the Local Council of Women, did not speak with the idea of committing the various organizations centered in the one she represented to any particular view. "As a mother and a citizen, though, I cannot refuse my personal influence in this matter. I feel very strongly that the O. T. A. should have a longer trial, and I am convinced that it should remain in force. There are very few mothers or parents who would not view with alarm any move to tear down the enactment now on the books."

By No Means Allow Your Bowels To Get Constipated.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, sallow complexion, specks floating before the eyes, whites of the eyes dull and yellow, heartburn, water brash, etc.

Keep your bowels regular by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, as by doing so you will be able to keep well and have no more trouble with your liver.

Mrs. I. Rubin, Halbrite, Sask., writes: "I was very badly troubled with constipation, often had bad headaches, my tongue was coated, and I felt anything but well.

"After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills I have felt much better, as they certainly did me a lot of good."

HUNDREDS HERE SLOWLY POISONED!

Neglect Causes Silk Headaches, Nausea, Bad Digestion, Weak Stomach and Nervous, Run-Down Condition.

Neglect of the liver results in self poisoning! Not as quickly, perhaps, but just as surely as if you drank poison out of a bottle. Cleanse and tone your liver! Put your system in condition so you feel your very best again! Try just a spoonful of Dr. H. S. Thacher's excellent Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise, there will be no cost.

LAD IN CAR THEFTS BAILED FOR MONTH

Magistrate Gives Decision When W. Haskette Appears in Court Today.

Wellington Haskette, one of the boys accused of theft of an automobile last month, did not have to join his companion, Norman Tucker, in the Reformatory as a result of Magistrate Graydon's decision in police court this morning. Tucker, the ringleader of the youthful gang responsible for a series of petty thefts, was sentenced last week to two years but Haskette was let out on bail for a month.

Haskette was ill at the time his friend was sent down. When he came up this morning the court asked him if there was any reason why he should not be dealt with in the same manner as Tucker. Haskette made no reply.

His parents being in court the magistrate decided to give the case a private hearing.

St. Patrick's Life History One of Hard Experiences

Story of Ireland's Saint Told in Sermonette by Dr. William Beattie.

CAPTURED BY BANDITS

Educated in Roman Monastery —Lived in Gaul For Fourteen Years.

REV. WILLIAM WALLACE, for the past three years rector of Dutton Anglican Church, who has accepted a call to Ridgetown and Highgate.

Dr. William Beattie at his evening service at the First Presbyterian Church outlined the life of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, in his five-minute sermonette. Dr. Beattie pointed out that the earliest days of the saint are veiled in obscurity, and that all details remaining to us by the virtue of various historians are more or less hazy.

The saint, said Dr. Beattie, was born somewhere about 389 and the place of his birth is given as Bannanuta, a town in what is now the county of Glamorganshire in Wales, though there is no such place in Great Britain today. Other authorities give Kilpatrick near Dumbarton in Scotland as the town of his birth. Bury in the Encyclopoedia Brittanica says the father of St. Patrick was a middle-class landed proprietor.

The name given to the future preacher in Ireland in Celtic is "Sucat," which means warlike or fighter. He probably received a Christian education. When he was but sixteen years old he was captured by roving bandits and taken to Ireland. Like David of old he spent many years, caring for the herds, and it was during these years that he began to experience his first great overwhelming religious emotions. He saw visions and dreamed dreams, which finally resulted in his running away to sea and getting as far as Gaul. Here he journeyed inland for twenty-eight days with the ship's crew in their business of selling the cargo.

He left the fishermen, and travelling to the monastery of Lerins spent the next few years where he became enamoured of Rome. He returned to Britain, and it seems that at this period he first thought of missionary work in Ireland. It was in these days he imagined he heard the voice of the people of Ireland, the people whom he had known on his early visit, calling him, "We entreat thee, holy youth, to come and dwell amongst us." St. Patrick went back to Gaul, where he spent about fourteen years, eventually going to Ireland and carrying out his teaching work there.

He was of an exceedingly spiritual nature, enthusiastic to a high degree, and a man of action. His real importance to the Irish church is that he brought it into close contact with Western Europe and with Rome. He preached the gospel in the western part of Connaught, where it had never been preached before, and in many parts of Ireland, where it was a complete stranger. Many mythical stories and legends are associated with the name of the saint to which, however, no credence is attached.

POPULAR PASTOR RESIGNS POSITION

Rev. R. J. Murphy Tenders Resignation To Deacons of Wortley Rd. Baptist Church.

The Rev. R. J. Murphy, pastor of Wortley Road Baptist Church for the past two years, tendered his resignation, to take effect the last Sunday in April, to the church deacons yesterday morning. The only reason he gives for his action is that he has been in ill-health for some time, and by means of a complete rest he hopes to recover. He is planning for a prolonged visit to the British Isles. He regrets deeply his contemplated retirement, and states he will not assume a new charge until he has sufficiently recovered his health.

The church board has laid the matter over for a week, and sincerely hopes that in the meantime Mr. Murphy will be able to find some means whereby he can withdraw his resignation.

STREET CAR MEN SEEK 8-HR. DAY AFTER MAY 1

When Agreement Reopened With Company, This Will Be a Demand.

As announced two weeks ago the employees of the street railway company will demand the eight-hour-day when they re-open their agreement with the company May 1.

John Colbert, president, stated now, as then, that the question of wages had not been considered, but the inauguration of an eight-hour-day would naturally necessitate a re-adjustment of the wage schedule. The men work nine hours under the present agreement.

The executive committee will not meet for a week or more, the president reported.

CITY TRAVELLERS TO LEND THEIR AID FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Members of O. C. T. A. Will Canvass City To Secure Funds For Welfare Drive.

COMMENCE SUNDAY

Enthusiasm, that spirit for which commercial men are noted, was more than evidenced at their "welfare" meeting on Saturday afternoon at the offices of the Commercial Travellers' Association in the Dominion Savings Building.

The meeting was given over to welfare work, summing up the labors of the past, and planning efficient action for the immediate future.

The Commercial Travellers have been called the "clean up boys." To them falls the task of working during the last hours of the welfare campaign, to gather in from nooks and corners those donations that have in some unknown way been missed by the many organizations that work throughout the week.

This year 240 expert salesmen divided into 24 teams of 10 workers, captained by zealous leaders, will each cover an allotted district in London, Saturday afternoon, April 5, they will leave an envelope at each house, and immediately after dinner Sunday afternoon they will make their rounds. In this way they hope to gather up the loose ends of the drive.

The chairman is A. E. Cowley, first vice-president of the Commercial Travellers' Association. T. Hair is secretary. The team captains are: J. Harold Thompson, A. A. Morrison, Gordon M. Reid, E. M. Russell, Archie E. Heaslip, Bert Farrow, G. Morley Adams, A. J. Smith, J. A. Murray, A. W. Howe, Charles Legg, W. N. Manning, Fred Neil and Joseph A. Frezell, J. W. Kingswood, W. G. Watson, J. A. Jones, William Moore, F. W. St. Lawrence, E. N. Hanna, W. R. Keys, D. S. McGugan, Fred Andrews and Percy G. Yale.

Behind the manoeuvres of El Aguila, according to the chief executive, are hidden high personages.

FLEUR DE LIS IRISH LINEN DAMASKS

New spring shipments just arrived offer a wide variety of designs and qualities. Particularly would we emphasize the finer handloom Fleur de Lis Damasks in their wonderful texture and delightful finish, in such exquisite designs as are represented in our stock. "FIRST NIGHTS" OVER FOR PARISIAN CRITICS

Manager To Give General Public First Taste of Theatrical Productions.

Paris, March 16.—French theatre managers want to give the general public the first taste of theatrical productions, and hereafter will allow critics to have their say only after theatre patrons have manifested their sentiment. Instead of inviting the critics to the first night's performance invitation to the critics will be for the third or fourth performance.

Appeal has been made to the Paris Press Association to back the critics in their resistance of such a measure, which the writers say robs them of their occupation—informing the public concerning new productions.

DO NEXT BEST THING.

Camden Town, Eng., March 16.—Although they wrenched the handle from the door of a safe containing £200 and drilled holes in the metal, thieves who entered a Lipton's provision shop in High street, failed to get at the money.
