Electric Railway Bylaw Passes.

The City Protected at Every Point.

DOOD WORK DONE BY TEN OF THE ALDERMEN-THEY SIT TWO EVENINGS UNTIL AFTER MIDNIGHT.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the electric railway by-law in full as Planet appears to be in keeping with inally adopted for the submission to the ratepayers by city council at at, and if carried will make the thing a midnight last night. The midnight last night. The consensus of opinion among the aldermen apparentry was that the city had been pretty well protected. Splendid work was done on this measure by Ald. Sulman, Carpenter, Arnold and Mc-Phee, and they saw that the corpora-tion got the best of it, or at the least all that could be reasonably asked at every turn. At one time last night

Mr. Rankin lost patience.

"Gentlemen," he declared, "you must leave the company something to say in the management of their own road."

The council thereupon relented in the matter at issue. Instead of insisting that only 40 pounds of butter, eggs, poultry produce or anything else should be carried with each passenger free, adult or child, it reduced the amount to 20 and left the company the privilege of saying how much more they were willing to transport.

When all was over both Ald. McPhee and Ald. Arnold said they thought the by law was in good shape. If it passes on May 20 and is adopted on May 25 by the council the company are given three weeks to file their securities and com-mence business. The reason of this depatch is that the majority of the aldermen appeared, in case the project falls through, to favor the city going ahead at once and building its own electric plant. The discussion last night seemed to indicate that they regarded this as a question between the present pro-ject going anead and the city issuing ebentures and putting in its own

DOWN TO WORK. When the council reassembled last might finish their consideration of the by-law, there were present Ald. Carpenter (in the chair) Blight, Weaver, Wanless, Mounteer, McPhee, Arnold, Liddy, Sulman and Smith, exactly the same ten who put in all the work the previous night.

Aid. Sulman, us a matter of form, presented a penation from a major-ty of the council asking for the submission of the by-law to the ratepaymission of time by-new to the ratepay-ens. The petition was received. The council then went into com-mittee of the whole on the terms and conditions, with Ald. Smith in the clause by clause and minor changes made here and there. It was midnight when the by-law was finally completed. One of the longest discussions was over the rate to be charged for incan-descent highling. Ald. McPhee sug-gested that the maximum charge for private houses should be 3-4 of a cent r hour per light. Mr. Rankin was agreeable to this.

Ald Arnold wanted a revision every five years on the average basis of other cities, but Ald. Smith said they had had experience with averages.

It was finally decided that 3-4 of a cent should be the maximum charge for the first five years, that then any each succeeding five years, there should be a revision of prices on the basis of averaging any form cities using

Ald. McPhee—But you must go into Chatham North, or your by-law will be defeated.

The next hitch was on the carriage of passengers and baggage. The by law places the round trip fare to the lake at 25 centa, children 15 cents. Mr. Rankin thought the statute fixing the rate at 2 cents per mile should cov-er this, but the council would not conor produce, and the company provide a proper place to transport it in.

Mr. Rankin rebelled. He said a woman with five children might get on and pay one fare for herself, the children being all free, and the party could by this by-law compel them to carry 200 pounds of baggage.

Alder McPhee wanted bicycles carried free.

Ald. Liddy suggested baby carriages and somebody else invalid chairs.

Mr. Rankin grew wrathy. He wanted to know if they were expected to run freight trains at excursion rates.

After a good deal of argument the limit was fixed at 20 pounds of baggage per adult ticket, and bicycles and baby carriages will have to walk.

This was the last serious hitch and the committee soon rose.

WOODEN WALKS!

The Mayor of Toronto Denounces Them Strongly.

They are Bad, Unsightly and Expensive, He Says-Calls on the Council Not to Lay Another Foot.

The mayor of Toronto brought down a message on sidewalks Tuesday afternoon, which ought to open the eyes of some people in this city who fondly imagine they are saving money by going in for plank walks. Toronto has engineers and street commissioners without end, they have tried almost everything, and the city has paid for their experience. So the city ought to know. "For some time past," said the mayor to the council, "I have been giving consideration to the question of sidewalk pavements for the city, and have come to the conclusion that we have been acting most unwisely in the past in putting down so many miles of wooden walks."

The mayor, in further condemnation of the waste involved by laying wooden sidewalks, produced the following opinion from John Jones, city street

"The average life-time of an ordinary plank walk is four or five years, during which time it will require but little repairing, but after this it requires constant repairing and supervision, so that an additional four or five years' wear may be obtained, and then, adding the cost of repairs to the original cost of construction, you have a figure in exfirst place to have constructed a first class walk of the same dimensions with hard grey sewer brick; and there is the further advantage in favor of brick that it will last in my opinion, at least twenty years with comparatively little repairing.

His worship then goes on to strongly favor Mr. Jones' recommendation for brick.

He says, "Brick makes a first class payement, and can be constructed at a slightly increased cost over wood. Brick is used largely in American cities and in the old country, and even in this city it is beyond the experimental stage, and is demonstrated to be most suitable for sidewalk purposes.

Six different kinds of bricks were put down as a sample. They have all stood well, with the exception of one lot of shale brick, which had not been vitrified. The city's experience with the two pavements above referred to should convince every member of the council and every citizen of Toronto that the time has come when we should discard and absolutely cease laying wooden sidewalks.

"I think that Mr. Jones' estimate of the life-time of a first-class brick sidewalk is very moderate, and I am more disposed to think that a pavement of this kind, properly put down, will last for a great many years longer than the period mentioned by The cost of such a pavement, according to the city engineer's estimate, would be sixty cents per lineal foot for a sex-foot walk, and if the time of payment for such a walk were extended over a term of years, it would only amount to eight cents per foot per annum. This is such a small charge that I think there are few property owners in Toronto who would object to it, as in the long run it would be far cheaper than a wooden sidewalk, and we also save in the neighborhood of $20,000, which amount is annually paid for the purpose of partially keeping wooden sidewalks in repair. The cost of a six foot sidewalk laid with vitrified paving brick, upon concrete foundation, would be about ninety cents per lineal foot.

In view of the facts which I have laid before you as to the cost of brick pavements, in view of the probable lifetime of brick, and in view of the fact that claims for damages will be greatly reduced, the cost of repairs the same, the better appearance that such a pavement will give to the city, and in view of the fact that the wooden sidewalk is unsatisfactory, and only makeshift, that the cost of the same on account of the increase in the price of lumber, is much greater than it was a few years ago, and, lastly, in view of the fact that the money expended for lumber goes largely out of the city, while a brick-paving policy would mean the establishment of industries, the expenditure of money in the city (largely for labor), I think the time has come when the council should lay down the principle that no more wooden sidewalks will be recommended or allowed in the city, as they are not as cheap as brick, nor are they as advantageous to the city, and I heartily recommend you to adopt this course and give the city engineer instructions not to construct any more wooden side

BUNGLING THE FISHERY RE-GULATIONS.

The bass fishing regulations have again been changed. It will be remembered that at the instance of M. K. bered that at the instance of M. K.
Cowan, the young Liberal M. P. for Essex south, a Yankee fishing club at Pelee Island and the natives adjacent to their preserves were granted leave by to their preserves were granted leave by our wise and patriotic government to fish a month longer than the rest of us.

Mr. Cowan ably pointed out that the water in that section was very cold, throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry that the fish spawned much later than related to the later than the results than a neglected cold or cough. For all throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy. It is investigation of the later than the related to the later than the related to the later than the related to the later than the rest of us. that the fish spawned much later than in Lake St. Clair and the neighboring rivers and that consequently the close season should begin later. Well, this GRAND NEWYORKEX URSION VIA widely read and influential family newspaper protested against a few Yankee sportsmen being granted exceptional privileges in Canada.

Instead of cancelling the outrageous license given them the blunderers at Ottawa proceeded, according to Mr. Cowan's arguments, to make things worse by opening up the Lake St. Clair district also. They are trying to put us on a footing with their Yankee friends instead of putting their Yankee friends on a level with us. If the spawning season in the warm water of Lake St. Clair is as much earlier as Mr. Cowan says the permitting of net fishing in its waters until May 15 must inevitably injure the base. And if the blunder is repeated one or two years it will no doubt result in their entire distruction in that lake.

THE NOVA SCOTIA ELECTIONS.

The Liberal Government in Nov. Scotia, according to the Liberal press has scored a brilliant victory. With only some 28 or 30 supporters against 5 or 6 Conservatives it precipitated the elections before the time, caught its opponents napping when it already had its own party primed, invoked the aid of the Dominion Government, got that Government to hold back the tariff bill to aid its chances and then went to the country. Under those circumstances it held its own. Mostly any government ought to.

The tariff tinkers will now proceed to show us what they didn't do in nine long months.

If we do happen to be in class C in insurance that's nothing. We're about in class W for sidewalks, and will get to Z if we have to run the rate up to 25 mills.

How would it do to dedicate the proposed new block pavement on King street to Her Majesty as a Jubilee memorial. The truly great will not despise small things.

London Free Prest The Chatham Planet seems to feel that it has not ived in vain, now that the C. W. A. meet has been secured for the Maple City. It asks the people to surprise their stores and places generally with coats of paint.

The citizen who has honest regard for the prosperity of Chatham will not hamper the electric railway with uncalled-for opposition any more than he will allow the railway to bunco the city n a onesided by-law. Let us have a hir deal, and if with a fair deal we get the railway, so much the better. If we do not get it we are no worse off than before. At least that's the way WHY SUFFER WITH PILES?

Working a Trick Two

Three young men were seated at a table in a Market street restaurant One of them drew from his pocket and laid upon the table a silver dollar. side it he placed a visiting card, with a round hole about a half inch in dia meter pierced through its center. Said he: "See the fat, white dollar? See the little hole in the card? Bet you the cigars I can push the big dollar through the little hole." "I'll go you," said one of his companions; "but, rememyou are to push that dollar through that hole without enlarging the hole?" "That's what," responded the proposer of the feat. Laying the dollar flat on the table, he held the card on edge just behind it.

Then he produced a pencil which he shoved through the hole ir the card until it touched the edge of the coin. "Pushing the dollar—through the hole, see?" "Here comes Jouesey, said the loser." "Lend me your dollar and your funny card and I'll get revenge.

Ottawa, April 20 .- (Special.) -- Mr. Davin was instrumental this afternoon n exploiting what he characterized as he alarming and disgraceful state of hings in Northwest constituencies. er ecially mentioning that of Saskatchewan, in which more than one Minister of the Crown was implicated. In June last Mr. Laurier was elected by a small majority there. There was evidence enough to upset the election, but the Conservatives decided not to disturb him in his seat. When Mr. Laurier decided not to sit for the constituency a fierce fight arose. Mr. Sirton, brother of the Minister of Interior, was sent to act as peacemaker, and did it so well as to make the strife worse than ever. A leading official of the Indian Department was sent up by Mr. Laurier (talk of political partisanship) to induce the Liberals to accept Mr. Newland, but this official so mixed matters up as to make them worse. Then came the split, and the contest between the twe Liberals, resulting in wan, in which more than one Minister

Sir Charles Tupper, speaking to the point of order, ventured to express the hope that Mr. Speaker would not for-mally rule in accordance with his obserto draw attention to any matter affecting the Government or any member of the House. This would allow the Government or the member to make such an explanation perhaps as would settle the whole subject.

Mr. Laurier said that charges were never made against any hon, member of the House except upon the personal responsibility of the member making them who was bound to piedge his honor that he believed them to be true, and ask to have them referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. When Mr. Davin was prepared to take that course the Government would act. that course the Government would act, but it would not act upon references to the mere gossip of scurrilous news papers.

Sir Charles Tupper, resuming the discussion on the franchise bill, said, in view of the announcement made by the Finance Minister that the tariff would be brought down on Thursday, he would not advance any arguments in support of the amendment now before the House. As regards the bill itself, he had still hopes that the Government would not press it this session, but that during recess a serious attempt would be made to devise a

Sir Charles Tupper, continuing, after recess, characterized as extraordinary and undesirable the provision which called upon a judge to decide a question of moral culpability, or whether a certain act affected the result of an election. The whole tendency of the bill was to open the door to irregularity and corruption. The best The Globe itself could say for the new Act was that it would be no more objectionable than the present system. The trend of public opinion was towards manhood suffrage and one-man-one-vote. That was the law in Nova Scotia in 1859. The electorate of Canada was sufficiently intelligent to be entrusted with manhood suffrage. He would recommend some such simple and uniform system. It was base ingratitude of the Liberals to quarrel with the present law. Under the provincial franchise they had been beaten seven times, while out of three elections held under the Dominion franchise they had won one without a policy, without principles, with nothing but the prestige of their leader, although he admitted that was a good deal. HE BEAT THE RAILROADS.

The Southern Pacific train that reached New Orleans a few weeks ago had on it one passenger who had taken his place in railroad history. When the great prize fight was in prospect the railroad advertised a through Pullman car for Carson City. On the starting day only one passenger showed up. He told the agent he would give it up; the railroads couldn't carry one passenger, and so he'd quit. But the agent told him the car would go agent told him the car would go through, if it went empty; and urged him to go. Accordingly he bought his ticket, which included a written-con-tract for a through Pullmant ar from New Orleans to Carson City and re-

But, while the ticket agent was earnest and unanimous, the men who run est and unanamous, the men who run the railroads were not long in discov-ering that it didn't pay to carry a whole tar for one passenger going at excursion rates. Pretty soon the wires were busy with orders on the subject, and, at the first junction point, the traveller received notice that his car traveller received notice that his car was to be dropped and he was to go into the rar ahead. He declined to move. "Why," said the astonished conductor, "It's orders." But the passenger was obdurate and the car went on. At the next station the division superintendent entered and summarily ordered his men'out of the car marily ordered his man'out of the car.

"We can't afford to carry you this way, and we won't," he declared.

"You can't fafford not to," was the reply, "and you will."

"It'll cose us $160 just for the mileage if we do," said the superintendent.

"It'll cost you $10,000 for damages if you don't," said the passenger! 'Here's my written contract, and I'm going to Carson City in this car."

There was a lot of bluffing, but the man was immovable. Conductors showed him telegraph orders directing them to cut off his car and they begged and threatened, but he sat still and he won. The car went through and it came back and this one passenger had it all to himself.

His story spread. The newspapers along the route got hold of it. Hailroad men gossiped to one another, and pretty soon the car became the centre of interest. At way stations outsiders would board it; between stations paswould mard it; between stations pas-sengers would go back to it. Every-body wanged to congratulate the man that could beat the Southern Pacific railroad and Pullman company. One night, when his fame was young, he was awakened by two tall fellows standing in front of the section where he slept. He didn't like it, and thought they might be there to throw him out

they might be there, to throw him out

"To your d—pluck, stranger," was the reply; "shake."

And he made his way home in triumph, just, because he had made a railroad stick by its contract. Several people from the east were on the train and by their accounts the affair was evidently most amusing throughout.—Hartford Courant.

" NOT EXACTLY RIGHT." Thousands of people are in this condition. They are not sick and yet they are by no means well. A single bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla would do them a world of good. It would tone the stomach, create an appetite, purify and enrich the blood and give wonderful vigor and vitality. Now is the time to take it.

BUILDING UP A MISSION

Bishop Selwyn's Methods In Dealing With the Untutored Savage.

The method employed by Bishop Selwyn of New Zealand in dealing with the savages of the islands of the Pacific ocean is described by the Rev. H. R. Haweis in his book, "Travel and Talk." On nearing a new island a boat was lowered and rowed within hailing distance of the shore, which soon became crowded with savages, often flourishing spears and clubs. The bishop then stood up and held out beads, calico and looking glasses, and then jumped into the sea and swam ashore.

Putting his arm on the shoulder of the chief or any other savage he would lean confidingly upon him and mix freely with the thronging and amazed crowd, first having presented the chief with beads and a tomahawk as a sign of good will and peaceful surrender of arms.

The chief with native courtesy could then order the warlike symbol to be taken to the rear in token of friendly acceptance of the overtures. The bishop would then sit down and practice on them all the words he knew. Shortly after this he would embark and revisit next year with more beads and looking glasses, and if possible some boy or native, whom he called his tame elephant, who would explain the greatness and kindness of "biso-pe" to the blacks. At last, having acquired their confidence by trusting himself in their canoes, the great test, or even going to sleep among them, he would prevail on them to part with some of the young boys—adults he refused to take—and sail away with as many as he could capture to Auckland. They were often packed like herrings in his little cutter, and slept feet to feet in a circle.

The bishop's glee in arriving at Auck-land with his first capture of five boys is amusing. They came in on a moonlight night and started off to walk several miles to St. John's college, beautifully situated outside Auckland. They called up Mrs. Selwyn, and there were joy and feasting in the house of Selwyn that night.

In that way the mission was built up. The boys proved very quick and docile, and soon became blindly devoted to "bi-sope" and their teachers. And then he would take them back and decey others, and as time went on they went back no longer as tame elephants, but as native teachers. Sarawid, the first ordained native teacher, is still the life and soul of the Norfolk island settlement, though now his hair is grizzled and his years are num-

A Youth's Reply.

The Union Debating society of Oxford university has disclosed to many a man the possession of that gift which enables thim to think on his feet and to express his thoughts so that those who listen may be impressed. It has trained statesmen, preachers and teachers so to lift up their voices that the world heeded their meswhen the Union began its life, the unilead young men to form premature ideas. Having at first no babitation of its own, it used the rooms of the students. On one occasion, while Samuel Wilberforce, sub sequently the eloquent bishop, was speaking, one of the proctor's assistants—"bulldog" is his college name—put in an ap-pearance and said: "Gentlemen, the procupr desires that you should disperse and retire each to your own college. The chairman, named Patten, rose with dignity, and with the calmness of a speaker of the house of commons said: "Sir, the house has received the proctor's nessage and will send an answer to the summons by an officer of its own."

The chairman's quiet, dignified attitud prevented the Union from ever being trou-ble by the proctor's "bulldog." Doubtless to many of our readers it will recall the attitude of that speaker of the house of commons who, when commanded by Charles I, seeking to arrest the five mem bers, to point them out, replied that "he had neither eyes to see nor tongue to speak, save by command of the house."-Youth' Companion. A Champion Mean Man.

"I think I can locate the meanest man in the country," said a well known lawyer. "He lives in the northern section of the city and is worth probably $10,000. No, he's not a friend of mine, merely an acquaintance. I ran across him yesterday, for the first time in months, on a street car. After exchanging the customary greetings he asked me if I'd paid my fare. I hadn't and told him so. 'Well.' said he 'give me your nickel.' I did so, expecting to see him hand the conductor a dime. To my surprise, he passed up two exchange tickets instead. 'You see,' he said in explanation, 'I always buy an exchange when I pay a fare. As I use the cars a good many times in a day I have quite a few tickets by night. Whenever I can utilize one I am 8 cents in pocket, and in a case like this I am 4 cents ahead. I put this money away, and so far this season have bought myself a suit with the amount saved, and my little girl has nearly $5 in her bank from this source."—Philadelphia

THE INDIAN JUGGLER.

A Trick Tarn That Requires a Pretty Big Pinch of Salt.

A correspondent, writing from India regarding the theory that the jugglers perform their tricks by "will power," says:

"During the course of the Indian mutiny I sende the acquaintance of one of these gentlemen of India, who tried to instruct me how to perform these tricks. He said it was all imaginary on the part of the spectators, as he simply willed that they should see these things. Yet L in common should see these things. should see those things. Yet I, in common with western nations, was too animalized, sensual and materialized by flesh eating and consumption of alcohol to retain or accept any deep spiritual teaching.

'The most exciting performance that he gave for my amusement was the converting of a bamboo stick into a native servant, who waited at table and supplied our wants.

"Afterward-in his absence-I tried it on, and to my surprise the same man was before me asking for instructions. I directed him to fill the chatties in the veranda with water from the well in the compound. This he proceeded to do. When he had filled them all to overflowing, I requested him to stop. He, however, took no notice of me, and went on stolldly bringing in the water, until, in my excited imagination, it seemed that the bungalow would be washed away.

"Finding that I could not arrest or stop his movements, he passing through me ar though I did not exist, I drew my sword and lay in wait for him. Making a slash, I apparently cut him in twain, when, lo! there were two men bringing in the wa-ter, neither of whom could I restrain or

"The more I study into the question of warts," said a well known physician, "the more convinced I am that there is but lit-tle known of them. It is surprising what few references are made to warts by the standard writers. In many of the leading books on surgery there is no mention at all of warts, and as a result physicians are almost as much in the dark about them as others. To tell the truth, I have got more information from old nurses about warts than I ever did from my medical or surgical lectures or from my reading. Hun-dreds and hundreds of times patients have asked me how to get rid of warts, and my answer has generally been to let them alone and that they would go away as mysteriously as they came. Of course I could cut them off or burn them off with caustic or nitric acid, but my experience has been that two or three came back for every one so removed. Some time ago I was visiting the wife of a southern senator, who had two grand-children with her. One of the grandchilfron had a hig wart on the end of the for finger of the right hand, and, of course, hit it every time the child touched any thing. I was asked if I could do anything to remove it, and I replied, as usual, to let it alone and that in a short time it would disappear. This, however, was but little comfort to the lady, who said the child, a little boy of 4 years, was, she thought, in constant pain from it. I then told her that if she wished the wart from the little fel-low and on herself it would likely change places, and that it would be necessary fo her to 'wish very hard' to make a sure transfer. I had forgotten all about it till one day some months after, when I visited the lady again. Strange as it may sound, the wart had left the grandchild's finger and was on her own and giving her a great deal of pain too."—Washington Star.

Castle Used as a School. The Rev. the Marquis of Normandy uses his ancestral mansion as a school. As Lord Mulgrave be evinced great interest in educating and training boys. As a teacher he began with the care of private pupils during his winterings on the Riviera. He continued the work at Mulgrave Cottage, and finally, since succeeding to the mar-quisate in 1890, has carried it on at his ancestral castle. In the spacious courtyard a schoolroom 60 feet long, 30 feet broad and 25 feet high has been built, and be-yond this a chapel. Two old riding schools and other outbuildings have been transformed into a gymnasium, fives court and carpenter's shop, while close at hand are playing fields and bathing ground. These latter are screened from the castle lawns by thick shrubberies, and in the distance are the deer park and endless stretches of grouse moors belonging to the estate. The number of pupils does not exceed the limits of a single house at Eton, and at mealtimes Lord Normandy presides over his young charges and the members of his staff in the old dining hall.—London Correspondent.

ANOTHER POINT

Is an All-the-Year-Round Medicine.

It cures bad blood, regulates the stomach, liver and bowels at any and all seasons of the year. In fact B.B.B. does the work every time-and all the time. Read this grateful letter:

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO., TORONTO, ONT .:

GENTLEMEN,-I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for my little boy, aged 10 years. He was a complete mass of sores and pimples. The doctors said it arose from bad blood. His head and face were one mass of sores as well as his body.

I got a bottle of B.B.B. and before half the bottle was used he began to improve. The improvement was rapid and continuous. At the end of the first bottle he had not a sore or pimple left on him. I used the medicine internally and externally, according to the directions.

Washing his face and body with the B.B.B. diluted with water gave him great relief-He was not able to be dressed for weeks, but is now perfectly restored to health through the use of this remarkable blood purifying medicine. Burdock Blood Bitters did my little boy so much good that I shall always recommend it.

The cure has been permanent up to the present date, and I believe no other medicine could have performed such a miraculous cure in so short a time. It shows me plainly that B B.B. acts on the blood directly, and through it regulates, purifies and restores the entire system.

John A. Murrell, the most famous bandit and murderer ever known in America. has been dead for more than a generation. but his name is still a power in many Years ago I visited a big plantation on the Alabama river, and in the course of my evening talks with my host something was said about Murrell and his gang.

"He was a Napoleonic man," seld the planter, "and iff he had directed his ener-gies and talents and a different channel it is probable than he would have risen to honorable distinction. He was a man of fair education and applied himself so closely in his leisure moments to the study of the best legal textbooks that he made himself a sharp criminal lawyer. This explains his success in evading justice for so many years.

"Murrell operated in this locality, did he not?" I asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "He may not have been here in person, but an overseer on this very plantation used to send ne-groes to lonely places on the river, where they were selzed by members of the gang and carried to Louisiana. They were sold there and the proceeds divided among the

"What was the name of the overseer, and what became of him?' "Oh, he skipped at the right time. I have forgotten his name.

There was a pause of a moment or two, and then my companion resumed. "Murrell," said he, "had several prominent citizens in this region interested in his schemes or so completely under his control that they had to obey his orders." "Is it possible?" 'Yes, sir. When the news came that the bandit was captured, a leading country physician, not 20 miles from here, imme

"Was he one of Murrell's men?" "I am certain of it, but nothing was ever proved against him, and 20 years after-ward one of my neighbors saw him in California. The fellow had turned preach-

A long time after this conversation I visited a small tewn Dear Atlanta, where I examined the court records in order to see if the owner of a certain piece of land had a good title to it. the man in a pleading tone. "My memory was never very good, and I get dates and names so mixed up that I am afraid to I looked at him searchingly and satis-

ded myself that he had told the truth about one thing—he was afraid to talk. A few weeks ago I met a well known Atlanta merchant on the north side and told him some of my difficulties in getting definite facts about Murrell and his gang in the localities where they had some their head men permanently stationed.
"Very natural," said he. "By the way,
did you ever hear of the Pony club?"

I told him that I had beard of it, but did not know its history.

"Well, I belonged to it," he continued, with a smile. "I was forced into it by a lot of wild youngsters when I was 16 years old, but as I had a disabled arm at the time I managed to dodge the active work of the club"

"What did the Pony club do?" "Nothing much," answered the mer-chant, looking keenly at me. "It was just an organization of mischievous boys. But I must be moving. Goodby."

A week later in another county I repeated this conversation to an old resident.
"The Pony club," said he, "was composed of boys and young men who stole ponies from the Indians, who then occupied north Georgia and part of middle Georgia. They turned the ponies over to Murrell's agerts and received a portion of the spoils. If Murrell had not been captured and sent to the Nashville peniten-tiary, many of the Peny club boys would have become full fledged members of his gang."

My Atlanta friend who belonged to the Pony club may rest assured that I will drop the subject right here. He is more likely new to start a Sunday school than te join a pony club, and his long and spot-less business career amply atones for the fellies of his boyhood. The Pony club may go, but I have not given up the hope of getting hold of some new and startling facts connected with the career of Murrell.

THE CANON'S TIP.

Its Awful Use Fairly Took the Good Man's Breath Away.

A high dignitary of the English church connected with St. Paul's cathedral went wish his family to Egypt for a holiday journey. He planned a boating trip up the Nile and hired a dragoman to conduct the party. After their return to Cairo he settled the bill of expenses for the outing, and when everything had been arranged gave the dragoman an unusually large present in money in recognition of his services and good conduct. The Egyptian received the gift with eastern urbanity and with many expressions of gratitude.

Not many hours afterward the good man related his experiences in his boating jour-ney to an English acquaintance, and in reponse to direct questions explained how much the water trip had cost, the tip to the dragoman being included in the esti-mate. The English friend was surprised by the generosity of the final gift.

"It was a small fortune," he said, "to bestow upon a poor Egyptian. You may depend upon it that the dragoman had never received so large a tip before. He must have thought that you were an. American millionaire instead of a working English clergyman."

The canon was somewhat disturbed by this revelation of his ignorance of Nile customs and his apparent recklessness in the use of money. Meeting the dragoman on the following day, he artfully contrived to intimate that in settling the account he had been guilty of the indiscretion of over-payment for services rendered. The dragoman was polite in his replies and profuse in his expressions of gratitude, but gave no indication that he took the view of the transaction that was taken by the canon. Finally, with a gracious smile, the good man said: "I overpaid you grossly, but you gave me faithful service, and I do not regret it. I only hope that you have decided to make a good use of the small for une which you have received.'

"You may be sure that I have done so already," returned the Egyptian. "I have bought another slave wife. This was said with an air of self satisfled virtue which fairly took away the good canon's breath and left him speechless. He had been unconsciously encouraging polygamy-and now does not relish any alon to this experience in his holiday journey .- Youth's Companion.

RESOURCEFUL AT LUNCHES.

The Culinary Triumphs of One New York

There is an excellent lady up town in whose family boards a young man of do-mestic tastes and unassailable appetite. She puts up a lunch for him every day, and he carries it with him to his business. In so far this story does not differ in any wise from the experience of thousands of other young men who board in excellent families and carry their lunches. But this young man claims that for an infinite variety of luncheons that custom cannot stale his landlady has the call.

Now, a luncheon, in the parlance of the life of him who boards, is a sandwich, or several of them. It takes considerable art to conceal the fact that he is eating something that he had yesterday and expects to get again tomorrow. To vary the ration taxes all the resources of the commissary of subsistence, but it can be done. Th young man in question has kept a journal, or commonplace book, in which he jots down, among other things, what he had to eat each day. From these items he has made a partial list of sandwiches, includ-ing those which had the following ingredients: Fig paste, fried egg, grape butter, roast goose, honey, Hoboken rabbit, goose-berry, chicken, jelly, roast beef, lemon marmalade, wienerwurst, sugar, ham, caviare It is always a moment of suspense with him when he sits down before his lunch for he knows not what pleasant surprise it may have in store for him. Just now he is taking a course of preserved ginger sand-wiches with the best of results. The daily meal has its entrees of pie, pudding or fruit, but it is the composition of the material lying between the two lids of the sandwich that most concerns him who dis-

The mother of one of the sentries at Windsor castle was seriously ill-indeed in a dying condition-yet the son was re quired by his superior officer to be on duty as usual. Her majesty knew of the wom-an's illness, as, indeed, she knows about verything relating to the family life of her servants: nothing is too trivial for her notice. Assuming that permission would of course have been given to the young sentry to go to his mother's dying bed, the queen issued no special order to that effect herself. In the afternoon when returning from her usual after luncheon drive sh noticed that the sentry was in his place at the castle entrance.

Instantly her majesty ordered her carriage to be stopped, and, leaning out to where the young fellow stood, she said with terrible emphasis, "What, you here?" The sentry, my informant relates, not understanding the drift of the royal inquiry, was ready to drop with fright and possibly expected to be sent to the Tower straight away. Needless to say, he was too alarmed o speak. Soon, however, he learned that the queen's indignation was not against him, but against those who had kept him at his post when a beloved mother was dying. Her majesty told him to hasten home without delay and afterward caused special inquiries to be made as to whether he was in time to see his mother alive, which happily was the case.—Woman at Home.

Are We Tondies?

There are officers of the Legion of Honor, comrades of the Grand Army, Sons of the Revolution, Knights of Pythias, Daughters of the Revolution, Colonial Dames, societies of the Dutch, societies of New England, the Southern society and how many more I know not. Then each of these has its ribben or its button or its badge, and in no country in Europe do you hear so many titles or see so many in-signia worn. This is all very pretty fooling and harmless enough were it frank and outspoken. But it is not. These and outspoken. But it is not. These same people toady to foreign noblemen as do no other people in the world. Politically they are loud, blatant even, in the reiteration of their republicanism, but socially they are tuft hunters.—"America and Americans From a French Point of View."

Larissa, April 21.—The first seriously planned battle commenced to-day. Early this morning Edhem Pasha's advance guard, under Generals Maviomichali and Macris advanced against the Greeks in force from Reveni, Boughazi and Stellas. The fighting was: greatly extended and the battle raged till late this afternoon with varying fortune. The Greeks were assisted by thousands of irregulars, who haras sed the Turkish outposts and wings, as well as participated in the general engagement. General Notes From Ottawa. Ottawa, April 21 .- (Special.) -- Every one is agog as to what tariff changes the Budget will unfold to-morrow. It is believed that the Minister of Finance, who was supposed to be an out and out Free Trader, has developed into a Protectionist, and crowded Sir Richard aside; and that on the strength of the Nova Scotta local elections, and in return for the assistance given the Liberals by the coal barons of that province, the Minister of Finance will put a duty of 40 or 50 cents a ton on Pennsylvania anthracite coal. DULL DAY IN THE HOUSE.

The Only Fun Was a spat Between Mesar Davin and Oliver.

April 21.-(Special.)-Inexpressibly dull were the proceedings in the House to-day. The only relief to the monotony of the afternoon was a spat between Messrs. Davin and Oliver, which led to the interference of Mr Speaker.

Mr. Davin moved for papers received by the Government with reference to enlarging the powers of the executive of the Northwest Territories and to increase the subsidy to the Territories.

Mr. Davin made an able speech in advocacy of an extension of the powers of the Northwest executive. In place of the present annual subsidy, about haif a million dollars ought to be voted. He claimed the present Government should deal generously with the Northwest.

Mr. Oliver agreed with the contention put forth by Mr. Davin, but spoke in comewhat bitter terms with regard to some of the observations of Mr. Pavin. He resented what he considered a mean insimation by that genilman against representatives of the the stand he (Mr. Davin) had taken. A reference to the "misefable insect spirit" shown by Mr. Oliver brought Mir. Speaker to his feet with the statement that he thought both gentlemen had gone far enough. Both had used language which he hardly thought proper in the House.

Mr. Davin wanted to know if the expression "miserable insect spirit" was unparliamentary. Was that to be the understanding hereafter?

Mr. Speaker said the language which one gentleman would not use to another in private should not be uttered in the House.

Mr. Davin: Shades of Disraelii Stedes of Gladstone! What would these great statesmen have thought if they had sat under a Speaker who they had sat under a Speaker who would set up such a high standard? The rule just laid down would certainly have astonished those gentlemen.

Mr. Speaker said it was not proper for any member to discus his rulling. There was only one alternative if a rember disagreed with him, namely, o appeal to the House.

Mr. Davin said he would loyally ow to the Speaker's ruling and passed on to discuss the question again.

the Postoffice Department without suf-ficient cause.

On the House resuming after dinner W. F. Maclean moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Rail-way Act. He explained that the bill sought to compel all railway companies to keep the upper berths in all sleeping cars closed when not in use. He said this would prove a great boon to the traveling community, and he had received many letters approving f the proposal. It had been tried with rreat success in several States of the Union. The second clause seeks to compel railway companies to furhish to the Government annually a re-turn showing the names of the par-tles to whom free trips had been given during the year, as well as prefe ential rates given to certain classes in the country. Mr. Maclean considered that the three cents a mile rate now levied was too high, and believed that its continuance is due to the excessive number of free passes issued by the railway companies. With this information the Government would be better able to deal with the transportation problem.

The bill was read a second time and referred to the Railway Committee. Mr. Charlton moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Criminal Code for the better protection of young girls, to increase the age of consent from 16 to 18, to make a male respon sible for seduction under promise of marriage of any girl when he is 18 years of age. instead of 21. Mr. Charl-ton dwelt upon the urgency for pro-tection to the young women of the country.

Mr. Craig supported the proposed raising of the age of consent. but could not accept the proposition to reduce the age of responsibility in the duce the age of responsibility in the case of young men from at to 18. Young men needed protection as much as young women.

Mr. Laurier concurred in the observations of Mr. Craig. He thought it would be unwise to reduce the age of responsibility in males. Under the civil law of Quebec no man under 21 could law of Quebec no man under 21 could contract a marriage without the correct of his parents. The enactment of such a clause would not be conductive to morality, but the very reverse. It would lead to blackmail in many cases and to boys being entrapped. If a girl wanted to accept a promise of marriage, she should accept the promise of a man, and not that of a boy.

YUKON CHARTERED COMPANY.

etition to Parliament for Incorporation Some Very Important Britishers Are in the Scheme

Ottawa, April 21.-(Special.)-An important petition was presented to Parament to-day for incorporation of what is to be known as the British Yukon Chartered Company. It is imtant on account of the influenti character of the signatures. Chief among them is his Sevene Highness the Duke of Teck, son-in-law to Her Majesty. The petitioners also include members of the British House of 51 members of the British House of Commons, among whom are: A. Dincher, R. B. Martin, H. S. Samuel, Major Dalbiac, Hon. H. V. Duncombe, H. H. Marks, E. Flower, Major Jones, W. J. Howell, Thomas Richardson, H. C. Richards and others, and many leading bankers and merchants in London. The company is asking the Canadian Government for a guaruntee of 3 per cent interest on a bond issue of a million and a quarter dollars, to enable them to build a railway from emable them to build a railway from the head of the Lynn Canal over the White Mourtain Pass to the head wa-ters of navigation on the Yukon Riv er, thereby tapping 9000 miles of navigable water and enabling the company's proposed fleet of steamers to serve the great gold-bearing districts. The company offer to administer the territory subject to conditions to be prescribed by the Government.

A War of Rates Imminent. A War of Raise Immineral.

Chicago, April 21.—More demoralization has been discovered in connection with the excessive commissions now being paid by the Western roads. The report circulated that the Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific were paying commissions to ticket brokers in Denver, has led the other roads to pay them not only in Denver, but throughout the Western territory. Threats have been renewed that unless the present practice is stopped immediately, open reductions in the tariff will be made to meet the cuts put into effect by the brakers.

GREATEST IN THE WORLD. Loran E. Adams, Deep Brook, N. S., says: "I have taken Norway Pine Syrup with grand tresults. I had a very bad cough for five weeks and could get no relief, but after taking one bottle of Norway Pine Syrup I was entirely cured. It is the greatest cough medicine in the world."

NEW FIRM OF ARCHITECTS Have Just Established Themselves In The

Maple City. A Planet reporter happening to be attracted by its handsome exterior Corswell's new office in the Hadley block, which is beautifully adorned with choice carving in oak and other other natural woods. James Capswell has made quite name for himself by his select designs for bar-room counters, lodge fixings and all kinds of special furniture. He has been a contractor in this section for ten years, and with the S. Hadley Lumber Co., for four years. He also built for the Eric & Huron, the only railroad ceach ever constructed in Chathern. His office is in the west end Chathern. His office is in the west end next the S. Hadley Lumber Company's office, and he has taken into partnership Henry J. Powell, of Stratford, for all business west of London. Recently Mr. Carswell designed the fine residence of T. L. Pardo, M.-P.-P., to cost about $5,000, and Mr. Amyott's dwell-house across the creek. He also drew designst which are now out for tender, for the Nurses' Residence next the General Hospital. He is new busily engaged succeptating the work on engaged superintending the work or McGarvin's large brick sale and feet born on the market square and has a number of other jobs on the board. Mr. Carswell was fortunate in securing Mr. Powell as partner, since the latter is one of the best and most high-ly patronized architects in the the east, and has got about $200,000 worth of work, which he has drafted, and of which he has the entire superintendence. There is no need to take up our space by a long history of Mr. Powel but reference may be made to the fo but reference may be made to the following buildings erected or remodeled by him: Guelph Opera House.; Berlin Evangelical church: public school, Palmerston; R. Is just as easy now as in the dead of winter. In fact, it is easier. That is why our supply of remedies for such ailments is increased at this time of the year. Winter wraps are discarded too soon and then——! Well, try some of our Pike's Catarrh Cure if the cold is in the head, or our Syrup of Spruce Gum if the chest is the seat of the trouble. Both these preparations are sure and quick cures. Nothing else like them.
