The debate at the Young Peoples League at the Methodist Church on Monday night was well sustained. The arguments against the O. T. CHAPTER XV.—(Cont'd.)

"If you're quite sure it's wise for you to go on—Alice repeated dubiously. "What does the doctor say?"

"I haven't seen him for two days," Hugo replied with a touch of annoyance. "And do I have to ask permission? Or is this an asylum? I thought I was free. Is my door locked? In my hospital we didn't have lady nurses—"

"Oh, please don't think—"

"No, my dear; it's all right. Your poor old father—your poor old Uncle John has had a hard time of it lately. You must forgive him if he's peevish. There was a doctor at That Place—Cross, his name was—decent enough chap. He used to say: 'Now, Smarlie—I should say, 'Now, John Baliss—don't be peevish or there'll be no apple tart for you at dinner.' And then I'd brighten up. Not worth it to lose one's portion of apple tart. So if you notice me behaving grouchy, just give me a nudge and say, 'Uncle John—now then, don't you be peevish!' And I'll straighten up in two ticks. Come on, my dear, I'll be proud to be seen walking out with such a charming daughter."

"Daughter?" Alice exclaimed, half amused, half dismayed.

"Niece, I should say. Dear me, of course—you're my niece, not my daughter. Don't tell your mother I said that. She'd be awful cross. Why, John Baliss never was married. How could he be, poor fellow? He died when he was ten years old. But don't tell your mother I said that either. She's so touchy about little things. I believe we're quite ready. Oh, my hat—yes, here's my hat. Now shall we go down into the town and select a new hat for me? This one's rather old. I've had it for about sixteen years. What do you think of that? The only hat I've got, too." The only hat I've got, too.

"Perhaps it is time to get a new one," Alice agreed.

It was plain enough to her now that poor Uncle John was not quite right in his head. Of course, he'd had an illness and one could see that he was still delicate. She began to feel sorry for him and annoyed with herself for disliking him. Poor, fussy, foolish little man.

He trotted along beside her, grasping at her arm now and again to steady himself, until she took him firmly by the elbow. His movements were as uncertain as those of a mechanical doll.

"We shall have great adventures, you and I," he chattered brightly. "Don't mind if I sometimes call you my daughter, but I'll be very careful not to when your mother's about. I never had a proper daughter. She was another man's child. But hush—don't say a word of that, not a word! . . . Hal I believe I know where your mother's gone. She's gone up to see Hector Gaunt. That's it. A fine fellow, Gaunt—but mad. Mad as a hatter. Always was. What do you think he did once? Married a girl when his own wife was still alive. If that wasn't madness, I don't know what you'd call it. They should have put him in That Place—not me."

"What was the absurd little fellow like?" Alice asked.

"We did a voyage together once. I was always one for adventure. Ask your mother. Romance and adventure. Yes, yes, those were wonderful days. Oh, neither of us knew your mother then. I'd have done anything for good old Gaunt. Indeed, I did do one thing for him that he's not likely to forget—or your mother, either. But you must stop me talking. I talk too much, don't I?"

How to stop him? Alice attached no serious meaning to his babble, but she became more and more uneasy. Her mother's name and Hector Gaunt's constantly recurring gave her an eavesdropping sensation. She had always felt the presence of mystery in her mother's life—in her own life, too—and Uncle John was stirring things up too well.

"Did you ever know my father?" she asked, as they emerged from the lift.

The question had no ulterior motive. It was merely to get him off the subject of her mother and Mr. Gaunt.

Hugo chuckled wisely.

"Know your father?" he repeated.

"Well, well, well! Now that's hard to answer."

"He died so long ago," Alice said wistfully.

"Died? Yes, of course he died. Shortly after I bought this hat I'm wearing. That was when your father died. They buried him alive."

Alice started, her expression horrified.

"Oh, no—no! What am I saying? That wasn't your father. Another fellow altogether. Only a joke, my dear. Take it as a joke."

Alice had been brought up to show respect to her elders, otherwise she might have reminded Uncle John that his joking was in bad taste. But all at once there was a change in his manner and he became studiously quiet. He had been letting himself go under the impression that his audience lacked sufficient mature intelligence to piece together these grim witticisms, but now he pulled himself together with something like a jerk.

Dr. Ardeyne was in the verandah waiting for Alice, and several other people were sitting about.

The doctor hurried forward, and poor Hugo quailed under his quietly surprised glance. Hugo's memory was good enough when he chose it to be so. He knew, for instance, that not in any circumstances was he to give it away that he and Philip Ardeyne had ever met before. With men of Ardeyne's profession he had learned to be very much on his guard. Over such as he men like Ardeyne held a power which was as great as that of life or death. Indeed, Ardeyne—or his kind—could and did sentence one to a living death.

"This is my Uncle John," Alice said. "And this is Philip Ardeyne, Uncle John—the man I'm going to marry."

Hugo solemnly acknowledged the introduction and the two men shook hands.

"I'm sorry to hear you've been ill," Ardeyne said. "Better now, I hope?"

"Oh, yes, thank you. Much better. My niece and I are going down to choose me a new hat."

"May I come along?" the doctor asked.

Alice was surprised at her uncle's sudden primness. His manner could only be likened to that of a rather naughty child confronted by a nursemaid or other guardian whom he both respects and fears. "That would be very kind of you," he murmured in reply to Ardeyne's question.

Alice was on pins and needles, but she worried unnecessarily. Hugo said nothing, did nothing that was in the least out of the way. His silence seemed unnatural. He answered nicely when spoken to, but rarely advanced remarks of his own, and never once did he forget that he was Uncle John Baliss, the brother of Jean Carnay.

Privately, Alice was also worrying a great deal about her mother, but did not like to bring up the subject for fear of starting Uncle John off on his trail of rambling and somewhat scandalous reminiscence. Finally, after the hat was purchased and they had returned to the hotel and found that Mrs. Carnay was not yet back, her anxiety got the better of her.

"I do wish I knew where mother is," she said, trying to speak for Ardeyne's benefit alone.

Hugo dashed a hand at his eyes, glasses and settled them momentarily. "Has your mother gone out somewhere?" the doctor asked. This perhaps explained how Hugo Smarlie happened to be at large.

"Yes, she must have started ever so early—long before I was up."

Hugo was staring vacantly towards the mountains. Perhaps in imagination he was on Monte Nero.

"She's gone to Hector Gaunt," he said slowly. "Like in the old days . . . poor Jean, poor Jean!" Then he pulled himself together smartly. "I beg your pardon, what were we talking about? Let's walk a little way along the Lower Corniche. Perhaps we'll meet her."

CHAPTER XVI.

But before Hugo's suggestion that they should walk towards San Remo in the hope of meeting Mrs. Carnay could be put into action a curious incident happened. It caught Philip Ardeyne and, more particularly, Alice unawares.

Carrie Egan strolled out of the hotel, short-skirted, sleeveless, bare-headed, smoking a cigarette in an absurdly long holder. Her coffee-colored frock, composed chiefly, as it seemed, of tiers of silk fringe, very nearly matched her brown skin. A scarlet ribbon was tied around her head and fastened on the top with an eccentric bow. She looked like a young, plucky, or pseudo-Hawaiian maiden. Ardeyne's heart sank into his boots and he tried to turn Hugo Smarlie's attention from the startling apparition, but it was a little too late. Hugo had seen Mrs. Egan, and he stopped dead in his tracks and stared at her apparently fascinated. He jabbed fiercely at his insecure eye-glasses, and shook off Ardeyne's hand.

Mrs. Egan came on down the steps to the terrace, but midway she halted suddenly, and a queer expression flitted across her face. Was it fear?

"Are we going to meet mummies?" Alice inquired. The sight of Mrs. Egan always filled her with instinctive distrust. She wanted to get away.

"Wait a minute," said Hugo. "I know that lady, unless I'm very much mistaken."

"I don't think so," the doctor put in unthinkingly. "Come, let's go. You mustn't stare like that. It's not nice."

The quietly stern note of authority smote upon Hugo's ears with an unpleasant sense of the familiar. He almost obeyed it. Then he straightened himself up and shook off the hand again.

"Leave me alone," he exclaimed peevishly. "I dare say I may speak to a lady if I have once had the pleasure of her acquaintance. How do you do, Mrs. Egan. Perhaps you don't remember me?"

Nature's Change of Clothes.

There must be many people who have actually seen a toad get out of his skin and, arrayed in a brand-new one, which was ready grown underneath, proceed to swallow his old suit!

This is not romance, but plain fact. All reptiles shed their skin, but not until they have acquired a fresh one underneath; yet not all reptiles follow the toad's habit of swallowing the old one. The reason this change of clothing is not witnessed more often is that reptiles seek privacy for the operation, as whilst it is in progress they are handicapped, and might be at the mercy of an enemy.

Every bird, too, changes its clothing at least once a year. The moulting of the old feathers is done without much fuss, and Nature gives every bird a new rig-out in a very short time.

CAUSE OF BACKACHES

Every muscle in the body needs a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they lack nourishment and rebel. The result is a sensation of pain in these muscles.

Many people are frightened into believing that backaches are due to kidney trouble, but the best medical authorities agree that backache is very seldom due to kidney trouble. In fact not more than one backache in a hundred has anything to do with the kidneys. The whole trouble is due to thin or impure blood, and those who are troubled with pains in the back or loins, either frequent or occasional, should look to the condition of the blood. It will be found in most cases that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood and feeding the starved nerves and muscles will banish the pains and make you feel better in every other way. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for your blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you really suspect your kidneys any doctor can make a test in ten minutes, that will set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst.

All dealers in medicine sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Anticipation

Much of the pleasure in life comes from a forecasting imagination. The satisfactions of vacation travel, to choose but one example, lie as much in prospect as in retrospect. It is fun to read the literature of places we may never see, to discuss and compare alternative routes, to consult the experience of others and "compare notes" with those who went and returned.

Says the cheerless pessimist: "I have learned to expect nothing. Life has taught me that if you expect nothing you will not be disappointed." But the man who has such a gloomy philosophy behind his modus operandi is likely to find the "No Admittance" sign hanging out for him at many a door instead of the proverbial "Welcome" on the mat. People dislike a confirmed grouch, a chronic knocker as an associate in work or play. We do not ask that teammates shall dwell in a fool's paradise of Pollyanna sunshine all the time, but we want those who take the cheerful forward look and have the disposition to make the best of things and, as the Scot says, "Whistle o'er the lave o' it."

Why was hope implanted in the human breast, to spring eternal there, if we were not meant to believe that the best is yet to be, and then to labor with all our might to make that belief come true in fact? As eyes were made for seeing, the heart was meant to hope. The chief incentive to persevere and to make progress is not that which is—a fortune made, an ambition realized, a success attained—but that which may be. A man in business keeps going because he sees far horizons, and his ambition carries even farther than his vista.

So it is in all affairs of life. If only we dare and endure sufficiently, we shall not be disappointed. Deprive a man of expectancy and you shatter the mainspring of the whole machinery of his being. But you cannot deprive him of that central, primal force unless he wills it so.

Painting the Lily.

The color of cut flowers may be altered to almost any desired hue in a remarkably short time by placing them in colored water.

For instance, if a drop or two of red ink is dropped into the water in a vase where white lilies are standing, they will turn red. But, although a white lily, colored pink, blue, or purple, may be an interesting novelty, to the artistic mind it is probably not a particularly attractive one.

Even when grown in soil, some flowers can have their colors changed or modified by the addition of something or other to the plant's diet. A good example of this is the popular hydrangea, the color of which can be changed from pink to blue by adding alum to the soil.

His Hearing Restored.

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York city. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by perforated or wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 437, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York city, will be given a prompt reply.

HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON

Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

The span of life is increasing—we live longer than we used to do, according to figures given by the New York Medical Journal covering the past twenty years.

In 1900 the average expectancy of human life was 49.2 years; in 1910 it was 51.5; and in 1920 it was 54.3, a gain of over five years in twenty. Calculation will show, continues the statistician, that if this rate is maintained unaltered, an average expectancy of seventy years will be attained in 1982, or within two generations as at present estimated.

Commenting editorially on these figures, the Canada Lancet says it is a common remark that our length of days is increasing perceptibly. Middleton recalls that in its youth a man had his walking stick and a woman her cap, and both had their footstool at fifty. Seventy years was treated with veneration, as one who had reached the Beulah Land and lived, listening only for a call from across the river. To-day seventy is in his office doing a full day's work, while she—well, she never even reaches seventy. Eighty years stands to-day where seventy stood a quarter century ago. Now someone wonders whether "the days of our years are three score and ten" was meant to be taken literally or only in a "Pickwickian" sense.

Serious thought, however, paints us a picture—a rosy picture of the future. When child hygiene and the care of mothers is practiced everywhere throughout the country, when physical defects in the young are early righted, when all foci of infection are removed before they damage the system permanently, when communicable diseases are obliterated or controlled, when cancer, tuberculosis and venereal diseases are conquered and arteriosclerosis or when people live in the way they should live as regards diet, exercise and the avoidance of excesses of all kinds, who shall say what the span of life shall really be?

Destinations.

They follow roads who know how dear they are,

Never adventurous trails or cross-ways marks

A turning to the day or to the dark But they must go impatient for a star. They follow wind who know a ship at sea,

A tug is music to them and a smack A thing of glory when a dawn creeps back

Over a curve of harbor to a quay.

So earth and water hold a man in awe, And some must go the wideness of the sky,

And others hasten to where vessels lie.

Each answering to a purpose or a law. You to the mountains I will never know.

I to the sea where salty barges go.

—Harold Vinal.

Why Bread Grows Stale.

Why does bread grow stale? When the dough is put into the oven, the starch in it is turned into jelly by the heat. This jelly holds the moisture in the loaf and distributes it evenly throughout the bread.

As the loaf cools, the starch gives up its moisture, which is drawn from the centre of the bread into the outside crust. Thus the inside, or crumb, becomes hard and dry, while the crust changes from a hard and crisp substance into a soft and "doughy" one.

Cold weather makes bread stale rapidly, and for the same reason stale loaves can be freshened by being placed in an oven for a few minutes.

Scientists have been investigating the staleness of bread, and are now trying to find out why some loaves keep much better than others. At the same time, it is pointed out that stale bread is wholesome and that there is really no need for the waste that goes on at the present time.

We mourn about the decay of penmanship, but a bum old typewriter that will write is better than rusty pens and empty ink-wells.

The Hidden Number

Number thought of 6

6 x 6 = 36

Subtract 1 from number

thought of: 6 - 1 = 5

5 x 5 = 25

36 - 25 = 11

6 + 5 = 11

6 is the number

thought of

Ask a friend to think of a number and warn him, if he is not a skilled mathematician, not to make it too large. Ask him to square the number—that is—multiply it by itself.

Ask him to subtract one from the number he thought of and to square the remainder.

Next he is to subtract the smaller square from the greater and to tell you the remainder.

Immediately you will tell him the number thought of.

It is an excellent number trick because the number he gives you seems to have no easily discoverable relation to the number thought of. The relations is there, however—when you know where to look for it.

To discover the number thought of, divide the remainder into two parts, as nearly equal as possible. The larger part will be the number thought of.

The great steamship Levlath can carry passengers enough to fill a good-sized country town, nearly 5,000 in all. But this number is nothing to her actual carrying capacity, for during the war as a transport she once carried 13,548, crew and soldiers—easily the world's record in ocean travel.

Now You Can Shave in Pitch Darkness

Designed especially for use by traveling men, a self-illuminating safety razor makes it possible to shave in the dark.

In the handle of the razor is a tiny electric bulb, encased in a rubber holder which prevents dampness from rusting it. The lamp is adjusted so that it always throws its light on the spot where the razor is cutting. A clean shave in pitch darkness is said to be possible with this device.

HEALTH EDUCATION

BY DR. J. J. MIDDLETON

Provincial Board of Health, Ontario

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

In making inquiries into the cause of the high rate of child mortality or deaths of young children, there must be several factors taken into account. One of these is carelessness on the part of the parent or guardian. Many deaths of children occur from such a simple reason as the mother carelessly leaving a pail of water on the floor while she answers the telephone. The child may fall in and be suffocated before the mother's return. Others give children easy access to tubs of hot water on wash day and death from scalding results. Mortality of children who take poisons by mistake, or medicine at the wrong time, is also traceable to neglectful parents. It is only a short while ago that a child in Toronto died through eating five or six tablets of A.B.S.&C., the common laxative, which has a small amount of strychnine in every tablet, but when several tablets are swallowed at once, become a dangerous poison.

Children are ever on the alert for some new toy, some strange object to get hold of. Everyone knows how young children tire of their toys and playthings and when not watched will grab anything that is novel or new to them. In this connection the "loose gun around the place," always followed up by the "didn't know it was loaded" plea, is so common an occurrence as to barely warrant mention. Then there is the careless habit of parents leaving the door open and allowing little toddlers to find their way out on to the street, or road. How often we read about accidents to children occurring on the streets when the thoughtless mother, busy with her duties in the house, did not even know the child had left the room, thinking it was busy with its toys or book. These instances may seem commonplace, and the reader may think that any parent at all careful would never let such an accident occur, yet the annual death rate of children, resulting from accidents due to the carelessness or thoughtlessness of parents is an alarming one.

We read the other day of a 10-months' old child becoming suffocated from stearate of zinc. Stearate of zinc makes excellent powder for toilet use and also for dusting furniture, but while no more harmful than other powders it becomes a real menace if it gets within the reach of a youngster's prying fingers.

The simplicity of the cause of accidents is what disarms many people. "Human carelessness" is a poor excuse for a child's death, but if parents would only be more on their guard for possible accidents, less of these dreaded occurrences would take place.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian Spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery, is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or relieving colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ills of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

World's Most Ancient Building.

It was King A-an-ni-pad-da of Ur, in Mesopotamia, who built the oldest building in the world which is still standing.

He reigned about 4,500 years before the birth of Christ, and the building is thus about 6,500 years old. Ur was the native place of Abraham and the city of Nebuchadnezzar.

The King's name and title were learned by the chance discovery of a gold scaraboid bead, on which they were engraved.

Mr. C. Woolley, leader of the joint expedition of the British Museum and the University Museum of Pennsylvania, made the discovery during the excavations, at Ur. The little temple which is the oldest building in the world is at Tel el Obeld, about four miles from Ur.

The Official Baby.

The arrival of a party of Swazi chiefs in England reminds the London Chronicle of the visit of a similar deputation in 1894 and its introduction to Queen Victoria, which shook a little even her experienced equanimity.

"We come, O great mother," translated the interpreter, "to bring to thee our babe. Take him, O mother, to thy knees; fold him to thy breast."

At that stage the queen was becoming alarmed. "But where is the child?" she cried. "I don't see him."

"Here, O Mother," said the Swazi, gravely bringing forward a powerful savage six feet tall and weighing considerably more than two hundred pounds. "Here he is."

No one is so without faults; he is best who is beset by least.

EASY TRICKS

No. 555
 How To Make A Coin Vanish

This stunt is used by many professional magicians when they wish to cause a coin to vanish. It requires a little skill but the amateur will be able to do it well after half an hour's practice. A half dollar is held between the finger tips and thumb of the left hand. The thumb of the right hand is placed under the coin and the fingers closed over it, and the coin apparently carried away in the right hand. When the right hand is opened, the coin has vanished.

If you will try the trick, you will observe that when the fingers close over the coin, the coin can be dropped into the palm of the left hand. The right hand goes through the motion of taking the coin, every effort being made to duplicate the appearance of actually taking the coin. The left hand, in which the coin is "palmed" drops naturally to the side, the trickster having practiced holding it just as if it contained nothing.

The amateur will find some difficulty in palming the coin. In this particular trick it is better to hold the coin between the roots of the fingers and the first joint. The hand will be slightly curved and a natural position of the hand will be obtained very easily. Much of the success of the trick depends upon the manner in which it is acted. Until the moment when the coin is supposed to vanish, the trickster should act just as if the coin were really in the right hand.

Railways now Preparing for Harvest Rush

Interior view of one of the new lunch counter cars operated on Canadian Pacific lines.

A number of steel Colonist cars as the one above forms part of the equipment of most trains.

Harvesters' train leaving Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Interior view of Colonist car used on harvesters' trains.

Cutting of all wheat is expected to begin within about a week, says a report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and as a rule fall wheat is looking very promising. Western reports are also very encouraging, but just what the harvest is expected to be will not be generally known until representatives of the three prairie Provincial Governments and the two railroads meet in Winnipeg to discuss the labor situation and the best means of securing help to harvest whatever crop there is. However, the crop reports issued to date by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway have been very optimistic and this company is already gathering and distributing equipment to various points in anticipation of a heavy movement of harvest workers.

The movement of harvesters has developed into quite a department in railroad transportation offices. As once the movement starts it must be rushed through to completion as speedily and effectively as possible, the attention of a large staff of men is concentrated for nearly a month before, during and for some time after the rush on assembling equipment, distributing it to the various parts of the country from whence the harvesters are drawn, making up the special trains, securing supplies for the lunch cars, and the hundred and one things which have to be looked after in order to ensure smooth running and of which the traveler usually knows nothing and probably cares less.

During the last four years the Canadian Pacific Railway has handled some 85,000 west-bound harvesters. Last year this Company inaugurated the Lunch Counter car which afforded facilities hitherto unknown to excursionists and, although perhaps not as a direct result of this innovation, over 25,000 men travelled in special trains over Canadian Pacific lines.

This year the Company is making practically the same preparation as last. As soon as it is known just how many are required to work in the harvest the excursions will be arranged and trains made up. The excursions originate from as far east as the Maritimes and as far west as the border of Ontario, but all are of the same type as far as rail equipment is concerned.

Colonist cars are used which afford comfortable seating during the day, facilities are afforded those who wish to prepare their own meals in a small kitchen at the end of each car, and at night bunks may be pulled down as an upper berth or the seats extended to afford comfortable sleeping quarters. The lunch counter car in which as many as fifty men can take a meal at the same time is an important section of the train. The traveling harvester is sure of being able to secure a meal to suit his purse and of the food supplied in a sanitary manner. Last year this department on Canadian Pacific lines served over two hundred thousand meals, and the experiment was so much appreciated, and proved such a success that it has now become a regular institution.

Old timers travelling west now-a-days regard the trip as a holiday and the number of women and children who have been seen travelling with the harvesters since the standard of service rendered has been what it now is, has increased to a remarkable degree.

PRICE 25c

Canada's fisheries production during 1923 is estimated to be worth $40,000,000. At the beginning of the year it was not thought that anything like this mark would be reached, for the Fordney tariff had cut deeply into exports to the United States. But as the year wore on the demand, and prices generally improved, thus giving fishermen along the Atlantic coast especially a much better price.

Official figures recently issued show that the Dominion of Canada is the greatest single contributor to the wheat supply of the world. She stands second only to the United States in automobile exports. Her flour exports are far ahead of the palmiest war years and are rapidly gaining in the foreign markets. Canada's mineral, forest, agricultural and fisheries industries are now valued at $2,420,000,000, or $252,000,000 higher than a year ago.

British immigration during the nine months ended December, totalled 64,127, compared with 28,525 in the corresponding period of the previous year, an increase of 125 per cent. Immigration from the United States was 17,282, compared with 14,982, a decrease of nine per cent. Total immigration for the nine-month period of 1923 was 124,480, compared with 60,247 in the same period in the previous year, an increase of 107 per cent.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has received from Boorings, Willis, Faber & Company, 2,152.10 pounds sterling for distribution to the officers and crew of the steamship "Empress of Australia" for saving their ship and for salvaging during the Japanese earthquake. For the purpose of purchasing a memento to be presented to Captain Samuel Robinson, C.B.E., R.N.R., then commander of the "Empress of Australia" and now commander of the "Empress of Canada" on her world cruise, 210 pounds sterling have been retained from the above amount. Plans are being made to honor the captain when the "Empress of Canada" reaches Yokohama next May, the Japanese government participating in the ceremonies.

Buffalo meat from the park at Wainwright has recently been on sale throughout Canada and has been extremely well received. It is described as resembling beef but of a more gamy flavor. Government officials expect that this meat, with hides and other buffalo products, will become a regular source of income to the people of Canada in the future.

Work on the Kenogami dam, in the Province of Quebec, is reported as progressing very well, and the $2,000,000 works located at the upper part of the Saguenay River are expected to be completed within 15 months. As a result of these works, the mills operated by the Price interests will be kept in full activity during the whole year, instead of partly closing down in the winter months, as they have had to do in the past.

More than $12,000,000 worth of equipment was added to the Canadian Pacific Railway's service during 1923. Included were 16 Pacific and 20 Mikado type locomotives, all very powerful and equipped with the most modern devices for power, speed and economical operation. Other items were 15 steel baggage cars, 12 mail and express, 15 first class coaches, 6 cafe-parlor and buffet-parlor cars, 1,000 box cars, 250 freight refrigerator cars, 300 coal cars, 50 oil tank cars, 300 automobile cars, 36 vans for freight conductors and 14 snow-ploughs.

The seventh of Canada's direction-finding stations was recently completed for service by the radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, to assist the boats and ships navigating the Bay of Fundy and the coastal waters extending to Boston. This station tends to make the route favored by the Canadian Pacific steamships in winter, already splendidly equipped with safety devices, still safer. By means of the apparatus, the wireless operator of any ship in distress within 400 miles of the Canadian shore can find his location simply by pressing a spring. These stations have been described as "a Godsend to us mariners."

Running on schedule the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada," Captain A. J. Halley, again demonstrated her right to the claim of "Queen of the Pacific." The Canadian vessel left Vancouver 24 hours after the American liner "President McKinley" and arrived in Yokohama five hours in the lead.

The British Government is completing at Chatham the largest and most wonderful under-water craft in the world. On the surface she will displace 2,780 tons and when submerged 3,600 tons, this displacement being 1,400 tons greater than that of the largest German submarine. With a twelve-inch gun the new submarine will be able to bombard any object and then quickly disappear under the sea.

To add new accounts

Don't overlook the village stores off the line of railways.

A salesman we know began by calling on some of them in a car to make the necessary arrangements. He hasn't seen his new customers since. At an appointed day and hour he regularly calls up each by Long Distance prepared, and gets their orders.

If he is away, someone else carries out the schedule for him.

His customers like to deal with headquarters.

He added over 100 new accounts in a few months—says the business bulks large at the end of the year.
