TEMPERANCE CAMPAIGN IN ENGLAND

—The temperance campaign makes good progress. Meetings have been held at Wellington, Salop, addressed by Rev. G. A. Parkinson and Mr. T. Cooper, J. P., also assisted and great interest was taken.

At Reading Mr. F. E. Porter and Rev. E. Benson Perkins were the deputation, and dealt ably with the various aspects of the temperance question. Several members of the drink trade were present, and asked questions, which were ably answered by Mr. Perkins.

At Coventry Rev. Henry Carter addressed the members and layman of the Wesleyan circuits and of other churches. He answered many questions, at night his speech captured the audience, and Mr. A. England delivered a capital address on the relation of drink to national and international problems.

On Monday, at Totnes, Mr. Carter had a capital time and provoked many questions. Rev. W. A. Chettle, B.A., ably assisted, as did Mr. Isaac Foot, and the Mayor of Totnes, who is a local preacher, presided.

—The treasurer of the Temperance and Social Welfare Department, at the committee on Friday held at Westminster, was ably to report that 9,000 pounds had been subscribed towards the president's Temperance Campaign Fund.

A great rally to mark the first year of the campaign is to be held at Westminster on May 12, and at High Ashurst a temperance summer school will be held July 4-7. Rev. E. Benson Perkins has accepted an invitation to stay a third year as one of the temperance secretaries.

—Many temperance workers in the Free Churches will regret to hear of the death of Major-General Sir George Evatt, the distinguished Army surgeon, who, since his return from India, has devoted so much of his time to temperance propaganda work in this country. He was an Ulster Protestant and a keen Liberal, but his heart was in the work of advocating temperance principles at every opportunity. On more than one occasion he was the principal speaker at the temperance gathering of the Congregational Union Assembly, and through his long friendship with that fine old temperance veteran, the late Rev. William Mottram, he frequently carried on temperance missions in various parts of the country on behalf of the Congregational Temperance Committee. So ardently was General Evatt devoted to the work that it was sometimes difficult to get him to accept even his travelling expenses for his journeys.—British Weekly.

THE FARMER'S BOY

Traditions to the contrary, the splendidly capable farmer's boy rarely becomes a millionaire in the big city, and seldom more than a moderately prosperous. Then what does he gain, when he enters industrial or commercial life, and allows his father's farm back in the hills to grow barren and unkempt?

The average lad, coming to the city with the inevitable practical training of farm life, often commands from the start a wage which to him looks tremendous. In a week he handles more money than he has ever seen in a month before. His self-respect—sometimes self-importance—grows amazingly.

Then too, he finds himself in a more stirring atmosphere, which may not begin to look tawdry for years. There are theatres, good clothes, conveniences and luxuries the farm has not afforded. Soon he outcities the city man.

But what in the average case is the net result? Though he has had high wages or a fair salary, at the end of ten years—if he lives as most of us do—he has little in the bank and could not raise a decent loan on his property. He has merely gained indulgence in "city life."

But what, also, of his brother, who took over the old farm? It he has worked industriously and intelligently, (for we must not forget that real farming takes brains and hard work), the ten years will have yielded him a comfortable living, will have added to his real property, and very likely will have put much more in the bank than they have for Bill in the city. Meanwhile he has been independent and vastly less hurried and harried.

Formerly the country brother lacked most of the conveniences of city life. If today he goes without any that are really desirable, it's his own fault. Gasoline and electricity have brought the city to the country.—Fredericton Mail.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

An evening coat and white necktie don't of themselves make a man civilized any more than they make him a gentleman. A pair of overalls and a battered hat quite often cover a man while he is doing something for civilization far more important than the average man wearing an evening coat and a white necktie can possible perform in that rig. The young scientist who handles a plow in such a manner that the soil will be just right for a crop of corn greater than the average has no cause to envy gents in fashion plate clothing.

What good is there in any plan that breaks down under the very conditions it was called up to face? In every single phase of life in this living world plans are adopted only for the purpose of making the conditions of the matter at hand better. When they don't they are swiftly thrown into the discard. Lenin, in admitting the utter failure of Communism in Russia, blames the failure on the conditions it had to face. Out of his own mouth, therefore, he admitted that the plan called communism is no good—therefore, a useless, dead one. Shovel in the dirt, men!

"What is human conduct but the daily and hourly sale of our souls for trifles"—the foregoing is published broadcast as an epigram by the "clever" Bernard Shaw. A lie! Human people in the mass do not hourly, or daily, or even weekly, or yet even monthly, sell their souls. Because the human person loves comfort and entertainment and solaces himself sometimes with regrettable little vices and falls into error that flesh is heir to, it does not mean that he sells his soul. The soul is not so easily sold. And mark you, the soul that was made by God is not as easily lost as some people imagine either.

BRITISH TROOPS LEAVING IRELAND

PITIFUL WRECK SAVED FROM EARLY GRAVE

"I couldn't sleep, my nerves were all unstrung, I was steadily losing weight."

"My husband is a mechanic and earns good wages," writes one woman. "We have six children between the ages of seven and fifteen. Both my husband and myself have denied ourselves actual necessities to give our children the best schooling we could afford. I have often stayed up all night making clothes for them or doing mending. Besides this, I have always done the washing and ironing for the sight of us. I also do the scrubbing and the cooking. The outcome of this was that I was doing more than any human being could stand and so broke down. I became a complete nervous wreck. I was reduced to a skeleton. I was in such a nervous, high strung condition that the least excitement would start me on a crying fit which I couldn't control. This breakdown meant keeping my children from school to help in the housework, because I couldn't do anything as the least exertion left me a wreck. I was the finest example of a complete nervous breakdown that you ever saw. Everything was wrong with me—I couldn't eat, I couldn't sleep. I had that dreadful weak feeling which I cannot describe but can only be understood by those who have had it. I was so weak that I was ready to catch anything that was going. I tried several preparations but none of them did me any good. One day my husband came in and said, 'I see a preparation in a drug store called Carnol. No extraordinary claims are made for it and I have an idea it might do you good. Why don't you get a bottle? They say if it doesn't do you any good they will refund your money.' I believe that advice of my husband's saved my life because seven weeks after I started taking Carnol I was doing more work than I had ever done before and was feeling stronger than I ever felt in my life." CANADIAN DOLLAR AT PAR VERY SOON?

New York, Feb. 24—"Further improvement in the Canadian discount rate is that by many bankers to be due principally to the fact that Canada is buying in preparation for the dollar loan of $100,000,000 which has been under discussion for some time," says the Wall Street Journal, this morning.

Some traders predict that the Canadian dollar will reach par within the next few weeks, although few are willing to say that it can maintain that position. Fluctuations in the discount rate are expected in most quarters during the next few months.

TOWN MANAGER

The citizens of the town of Sackville, N. B., which like Wolfville has been considering the proposition of a town manager, had an opportunity of hearing a valuable discussion of the subject last week, when Mr. E. Fraser Armstrong, who has made such a splendid record as town manager at Woodstock, N. B., delivered an address under the auspices of the Commercial Club. The following synopsis of the address taken from the Sackville Tribune will be of interest to Wolfville readers:

The speaker referred first to the need for this new system of civic government. Many of the business men taking part in the civic affairs of the various towns and cities, could not afford to give the necessary time to the carrying out of the details of civic policies. For this reason many good men refused to hold office. Under the town manager system, the Council formed the policies, but the executive work was left in the hands of the Town Manager, by whom all orders were issued. This meant efficiency and economy in having all departments working under one head.

Mr. Armstrong likened the Town Manager System as the nearest approach to ideal business administration. A mayor and councillors are elected, who in turn choose a town manager. The manager is responsible to the council. The speaker compared this to a business organization, the electors correspond to the stockholders, the council to the directors and the town manager to the chief executive officer.

History of the Movement
Tracing the history of the Town Management movement Mr. Armstrong stated that it started in the town of Staunton, Va., where the experiment was tried out after some friction in its council. This was in 1908. The experiment proved successful, and other towns soon followed. The largest city having a town manager is Dayton, Ohio (population 150,000).

Here the town manager has proven a decided success.

Last July 246 cities and towns in the United States had town managers and six in Canada. Since then there has been a number of additions until today there are 270 enjoying this form of municipal government.

The speaker gave as an outstanding example in Canada, the City of Westmount, Que. The service there may be exemplified by the fact that the snow is all ploughed by 8.30 in the morning. Westmount has been under this new system since 1913.

The New System As Applied To The Smaller Towns

Re the Town Manager System as applied to the smaller towns, such as Sackville,—the speaker expressed the opinion that the proposition was a somewhat difficult one; although, if once started the town would not likely want to go back to the old system. The speaker suggested that in the case of Sackville a good business man might be secured who would be able to fill the position satisfactorily.

A Criticism

The system has been criticised as being a one man government and consequently not democratic. Mr. Armstrong said it was more democratic than the present system of government by town council. With a manager a tax payer can get immediate action. Under the old system there is too much red tape. Too much committee work.

Where to Get the Man

Another argument against the new system is, "Where can you get the right kind of men for managers?" If about 270 places have secured managers, and good managers, why cannot others?" argued the speaker. Then there is a school in New York which gives special courses in municipal management.

Requirements of Manager
What are the requirements of a town manager. He must be honest. He must have business experience, being able to organize an office and arrange details. He must have a knowledge of book-keeping. In a small town he should have a training in engineering, and finally he should have patience and tact.

The town manager should act as a purchasing agent. He should look around at all times in his travels and study conditions. When a city wants to make a purchase it frequently sends away a delegation of councillors. The manager should be so versed that he would be able to act as the best purchasing agent. He should furnish the council with all the data and information on the article in question. While the council has the power to award contracts they should have in the town manager a technical adviser. It is not the policy of the town manager to act as slaughter house of city officials. While the town manager has charge of city officials it is his duty to so place them to avoid overlapping and bring about a state of efficiency in the public business.

GOVERNMENT TO RE-PURCHASE ICE-BREAKER SOLD TO RUSSIA

The contract for the construction of an ice-breaker, awarded to Canadian Vickers, Ltd., in November, and signed by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, on December 14, 1921, has been ordered cancelled, and the Government, it is stated by officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department, will thereby save over $1,000,000. Instead of constructing the new vessel, the Government has authorized purchase of the ice-breaker "John D. Hazen" which was sold, in an unfinished condition to the Russian Government, but which got no further on her way to Russia than Cherbourg, France, from where she is to be returned to Canada.

That the Canadian public is well supplied with banking accommodation is to be seen in the fact that Canada has a branch bank for every 1,800 people. The United States is a country in which banking facilities have been greatly multiplied and still it is found that the percentage of banks is much lower, being one for every 2,877.

The first mayor in Canada, was the Hon. Jacques Vicer, elected Mayor of Montreal in 1832.

BANFF WINTER CARNIVAL

(1) Indian Teepees arranged down the Main Street at Banff. (2) The Ski Slide at Banff.

In a setting of snow-capped mountains and sombre pines in the heart of the Rockies, Banff, Alberta, was at its best for the sixth annual winter carnival which opened on January 28th. Under ideal weather conditions the wonderful playground was gay and smiling for the event. Banff avenue, the main street, was typical of the mid-west in the unique arrangement of teepees and pine trees. Each tent was gaily painted. Indian fashion with elk, bear, buffalo head and fantastic designs. Flags fluttered bravely in the breeze on the gay highway leading to the crowning feature, the monster ice-palace. It is built at the entrance to the new bridge across the Bow river, directly in front of the museum. In a setting of snowy pines, the spectacular palace takes the form of an old English gateway, forming a great ice-wall, 60 feet wide, across the street with drives through it wide enough to allow motors to pass. The central tower is 30 feet high, and the side towers are 18 feet high. About 500 blocks of ice each 44 inches by 22 by 28 960 pounds each were taken from the Bow river for the construction of the glistening gateway. Passing through the palace gates, roads lead up Spray avenue to the C. P. R. Chateau, to the Cave and Basin, to Sulphur Mountain and to the Alpine Club of Canada.

That the slogan of the Banff Winter Sports Association, "Let's Go," was hearkened to by people from Vancouver to Montreal was evidenced from the registration at the various hotels. Winter togery was everywhere in evidence in the blanket coats in their brilliant coloring the furs, the moccasined feet, the bright sweaters, sporting toques, toboggan costumes, ski-ing suits. There were Mounted Police in smart uniforms, pioneers in good old buffalo coats, Indians in gorgeously beaded costumes—the north, south, east and west all mingling in a happy companionship in God's great out-of-doors.

Looking up Tunnel mountain it seemed that one of the most exhilarating of winter sports was planned for extra thrills. The slide is constructed on the natural slope of Tunnel mountain and runs directly down Cariboo street, a distance of about half a mile marked all the way by flags fluttering in the breeze, giving a bright note of color to the landscape.

Banff has become one of the most prominent ski-centres on the continent. The spectacular ski-hill on Tunnel mountain was the scene of some important events in which jumpers of international fame took part.

Snow shoe parties were one of the popular forms of sport and hikes to the various favorite spots with bonfire lunches in the mountain cabins were organized by the veteran snow-shoer, Mr. N. H. Sisson. One and all declared that conditions were never better for this form of sport and it gave the visitors exceptional opportunity of enjoying the beauty of the mountains.

Skating Canada's crowning winter sport, formed important events on the large open air rink on the Bow river, with old Mount Rundle frowning down on the merry skaters. Hockey enthusiasts had a week of sport. Teams from Carstairs, Canmore, Banffhead, Calgary and Vancouver took part in the games.

A unique feature was the Packing contest in which several "old-timers" as well as Squaws from the Stoney Indian reserve took part.

Miss Phebe Senkler, of Vancouver, Queen of the Carnival, was a guest of the association and took a prominent part in the festivities.

The variety of attractions kept everyone in the real carnival spirit—the wood chopping contests, the whipper races, the sleigh dog races, the trap shooting, the Indian pow wow when the Indians, old and young, were out in great splendor, kept carnival guests busy. It all led one to declare that in summer or winter robes, Banff, rich in color and conditions, is one of the world's most glorious natural playgrounds.—C. G.

Editorial Notes

The estimates for the current year were not passed at the Council Meeting on Wednesday evening, but will be considered at a special meeting to be called for the purpose. The Council finds the problem of determining on the budget for 1922 a larger one than was anticipated and it is certainly of sufficient importance to merit very careful deliberation. We predict, however, that the city fathers will be able to make due allowance for every civic need and still make a rate that will not bear unduly upon citizens. In last year's estimate provision was made for wiping out half of the debit balance at the end of last year and the remainder will be taken care of in this year's estimates.

The play at the Opera House on Monday evening by the members of the Kentville Dramatic Club recalls that the time was when the young people of Wolfville engaged in theatricals very successfully and put on good histrionic entertainments. The training thus secured was most beneficial and the process would be well worth repeating at the present day. The revival of the singing school, dramatic society and debating club of former days would mean much to the present generations as no other institution of today, contributing as these did to the development and training of youthful minds along these desirable lines.

We commend our offer in another place in this paper to the "boys and girls" of all ages. SOME INFORMATION RE COAL COSTS

The Windsor Tribune says: "Mr. L. Lyman, of Springhill, who has been at his former home, Wolfville, was in Windsor Wednesday, on his return. Mr. Lyman is a miner, and in conversation with the Tribune handed out some of what he professed to be 'inside information' with regard to the cost of mining coal and the cut in the wages of the men that are not generally known and which the men feel justify a strike. He declares that if the consumer got the benefit of the 37 per cent. cut in wages and the cost of living was correspondingly reduced, there would be no objection from the miners and no strike. Another thing he says is the coal is mined by the long ton (2,240 lbs.) and sold short (2,000 lbs.). It cost about $3.50 per long ton to produce, and is sold to the citizens of Springhill for $7.30 a short ton. The miners' wage cut has in some cases amounted to 50 per cent., while the cost of living has only been reduced 20 per cent. Mr. Lyman further contends that if the selling price had been reduced in proportion to the cut in wages that it would materially help to reduce the cost of living."

ELECTORAL LISTS

The revisors of the electoral lists will hold their court for the purpose of considering the applications, made before Feb. 25th, to add or strike from the lists of Voters, on Monday, March 6th. The revisors for District 16 and 16A, which comprise the town of Wolfville, will meet at the Town Hall, at 11 o'clock, where every applicant is required to appear in order that his or her case may be considered. No name will be added to or taken from the preliminary list unless the necessary evidence is furnished.

"THE WOMAN IN HIS HOUSE"

"The Woman in His House," with an all-star cast, which includes Mildred Harris, is coming to the Opera House next Wednesday and Thursday. It is in every sense of the word a screen masterpiece, ranking with the greatest motion pictures ever made. The theme, which presents a striking example of the divine power of motherlove is so thoroughly human that even the most critical audience cannot fail to enjoy it. Age-old and time-worn, it is ever new and really constitutes a bulwark of all social life. In this instance the hand of genius may be seen in the development of the theme and in the rare touching emotions, which have been brought out under the direction of John Stahl.

Mildred Harris has the leading feminine role, and she is seen in a new light. The story concerns four people whose counterpart may be found in any gathering of representative human beings—the materialistic husband, the love-craving wife, the philosophic friend, and the child. Ramsey Wallace appears opposite Miss Harris as the too busy husband, an eminent physician. Engrossed in his work of fighting a terrible epidemic among children, he is unaware that his own baby boy has been stricken by the malady until another doctor is called. He fails to effect a cure and the child is faced with the prospect of going through life a hopeless cripple. But when science fails mother love triumphs and straightens our the twisted limbs and restores vigor to the wasted little body. The acting of little Richard Hedrick as the stricken infant is a revelation, and recalls the marvelous work of the crippled characters in "The Miracle Man." The other players who have helped to make "The Woman in His House" a classic of the screen are Thomas Holding, George Fisher, Gareth Hughes, Winter Hall, Catherine Van Buren and Bob Walker. Irene Reels is the author of this powerful screen story.

SEMINARY NOTES

The invited guests who filled the chapel of the Acadia Ladies Seminary on Saturday evening on the occasion of the recital of "David Copperfield", given by the Junior English Class, were greatly pleased with their privilege. The selections had been appointed with rare judgement, considering how enormously varied the histrionic powers of so many participants. Each of the twenty-three students made a very fair attempt at interpreting the character assigned to her and it was very seldom that the prompter had the chance to put in even a word. But were it a competitive programme the first prize undoubtedly would go by unanimous consent to Miss Larkin, whose presentation of the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Micawber to David Copperfield and the scenes connected with the preparation and the serving of the dinner was a specimen of perfect acting, which caused volleys of laughter and an outburst of applause. There were a number of candidates for the next place, but where all did so well it would be invidious to name the next best of the following: The Misses Belfield, Mary Brady, Sadie Chase, Olga Clarke, Irene Cox, Carrie Courteen, Lois Flower, Orville Gillmore, Helen Harris, Evelyn Hayes, Marion Hamilton, Evanda James, Irene Kennedy, Helen Morrison, Margaret Morash, Blanche Palmer, Esther Power, Ruby Ship, Erma Taylor, Marion Wallace, Muriel Whitman, Ruth Wooster. During an interval Master Gerald Eaton contributed a violin solo, which pleased the audience. Miss Langley was at the piano. The singing of "Oh, Canada" and of "God Save the King" closed a delightful entertainment, for which Miss Archibald is to be congratulated.

CLINIC ITEMS

Child Welfare Clinic, Friday, March 3, at Clinic Rooms, Weaver Block, Kentville, commencing at 2 p.m.

Little children need fourteen or fifteen hours sleep. They should have twelve hours or more up to eight or ten years of age and a good sleep in the afternoon. Eight years old is young enough for school. At twelve years of age they may do with eleven hours but they should not sit up as late as father and mother until they are about eighteen years old. Children who sleep long and well usually have good nerves and good health. They will have some reserve strength and will be equal to the burdens of life when they grow up. (Dr. Helen MacMurchy in the Little Blue Book.)

Mothers' and Babies' Clinic, Friday, March 10.

At birth the baby's stomach holds from one to two tablespoonsful. It soon grows larger but it must never be over-filled. Most babies are encouraged to feed too often and too much, and we cannot expect them to know yet when they have had enough. A baby three days old takes about one ounce at each feeding and six ounces in the whole day. A baby one month old takes four ounces each feeding and about twenty four ounces in the whole day. (Dr. Helen MacMurchy in the Canadian Mothers' Book.)

CARE OF THE TUBERCULOUS

Address by Dr. A. F. Miller before the Kentville Board of Trade

It is a pleasure to me to be present at your meeting tonight, and I am glad to note the interest you business men are taking in the tuberculosis problem. It is a business problem and demands the same foresight and judgement that are supposed to belong to business methods. Saving lives and caring for the sick is not only a philanthropic duty, it is a sound financial investment.

No doubt you are familiar with the tuberculosis mortality rate in Nova Scotia. Each year some 800 to 1,000 people die from tuberculosis alone. When you take into consideration that before death there is a period of partial disability, about 1 1/2 years, then follows a complete loss of earning power for another year, and a half, not to mention the necessary medical and nursing care, the value of each life lost must be considered at a minimum of $2,400.00, not counting the loss to the State in that each life has been shortened at least seventeen years. The total money loss to the Province through the loss of these lives is, roughly $2,500,000 each year. In the County of Kings there were 29 deaths in 1918. This would mean a yearly loss to our county of $72,000. In addition, we must not forget that for every death there are five living cases that should be cared for; that is, there must be in Kings County approximately 145 patients requiring treatment. A very small proportion of these cases are being cared for in sanatoriums or hospitals. Very many more ought to be in sanatoriums, and practically all should be treated, either in or outside their homes, under expert supervision—they and their families.

I know and you know that to wipe out tuberculosis, or even greatly to reduce the death rate, is a far-reaching social problem, including education, housing, food, working conditions, wages, personal character and habits—everything that makes for a high standard of individual and public health. But I am here to discuss especially the medical side of the problem—that is, how we must care for our sick so as to restore to health as many of them as possible, and to prevent the spread of the disease to others.

So far as spreading the disease is concerned, we medical men have a distinct duty to perform in giving the public more accurate information than they have at present regarding the possibilities and probabilities of infection.

There has been a fear of the consumptive, almost amounting to hysteria, on the part of the public—a feeling made evident in social, in business and in personal life—a horror of tuberculosis which has reacted upon the public, in many cases disastrously, causing much of the delay in having the trouble diagnosed and treated, in a disease where early discovery is essential to cure. This phthisiophobia on the part of the public we, as I have said, must combat by more accurate information. I have had to speak so much on the subject in the past few years that it sounds to me, at any rate, like a tiresome old song; but as long as there is any desire, on the part of any person or assemblage of persons to get intelligent hold of the tuberculosis problems, I must go on repeating the fundamental facts upon which practical measures must be founded.

Briefly and broadly speaking, the facts regarding infection are these: In civilized communities tuberculosis infection is practically universal and necessary, adults having an acquired immunity to the disease because of the frequent slight infections received from childhood on. This is unavoidable in the average way of living, exposed to dust of streets, school-houses and public halls. If an infant, before it has acquired immunity, receives a bigger dose of bacilli than its resistance is equal to, it develops generalized tuberculosis, which usually ends fatally in a short time. The same thing occurs in the case of individuals or races which have never been exposed to the gradual, slight infections of civilized communities, and so have not acquired immunity. But when the average individual develops tuberculosis disease, it is not this rapid, generalized form, and it is not due to a lowering of the individual's resistance which permits the development of an old infection or an old healed lesion of childhood, overcome probably at the time without the patient's knowledge. If you ask me to explain immunity and what is the difference between infection and actual disease, I can only say that I am here, I understand to talk about certain practical measures for the care of the sick, and that I am not inflicting a medical lecture upon you, but that I will gladly answer questions at any time.

For the purpose before us it is sufficient to remember three points:

1st. That very young children are more susceptible than older persons. They are brought into closer contact with members of the household and with infected material on floors and streets; that is, they are more likely to receive massive infection. They have less intelligence, less immunity, and are more entirely at the mercy of their elders, more likely to be victims of careless families, than at any other age. Especially infants in their first year need to be protected from every source of infection, including cow's milk.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN

—Knott in the Dallas News.

2nd. As to the danger of tuberculosis for older children and adults, children of school age may safely meet the average infections of a well-ventilated school-room and the ordinary home life, provided their general health and resistance are kept up and cleanly habits observed. And, generally speaking, the dangers of infection grow less and less as they grow older. There is wonderfully little sickness and death from tuberculosis, comparatively speaking, between the ages of 3 and 15 years. From that age on to the thirties most of the tuberculosis disease develops, but this, as I have explained, is not because of recent infection; it is due to the lowering of resistance, the greater strain of living, and the breaking out of the old infection or lesion, which in childhood had set up bodily reactions which kept them immune to further infection. Thus we may state that in adult life the question of keeping free from tuberculosis disease is a question of keeping up the bodily resistance, not a question of preventing infection, for that is impossible as life is lived to-day. And it is a question of frequent examination, of the young especially, to prevent the development of disease.

3rd. There may be danger, even for the adult, in which is called "massive infection". If a person is in close and prolonged contact with an advanced consumptive who does not observe the proper sanitary precautions, in close, unclean rooms, there may be danger of developing the disease, because immunity is only partial and variable.

On these three ideas, namely (1) the protection of very young children, (2) the building up of resistance and keeping a watchful eye for the development of disease rather than the avoidance of infection, for the adult; and (3) the prevention of massive infections, we build all our plans and rules for the care of the tuberculosis. With these three reasons we explain why some patients should be treated outside their homes, why all should have at least a period of training in an institution, and why those taking the cure at home need expert supervision. They explain why the tuberculosis problem can be adequately met only by some thorough-going, comprehensive system as that of the famous Framingham Demonstration, carried out in a town of Massachusetts.

The activities of the Community Health Station in Framingham have included the voluntary expert examination of almost the whole population of the town; a special effort to discover and to place under treatment or observation incipient, advanced or arrested cases of tuberculosis; a sanitary survey, covering infant conditions, schools, factories, food, milk, rural sanitation, vital statistics, etc.; a health census; a tuberculin test of children between the ages of one and seven years; a Health Camp for Children; the working out of tuberculosis standards for diagnosis, classification, and treatment of children and adults; the development of health educational work, etc.

In addition there is community organization, financed almost entirely by the community itself and including a group of neighborhood lay committees for education, sickness-reporting and similar activities; a community-wide civic association functioning along health lines such as recreation, etc., infant welfare clinics, nursing service, full-time medical nursing and clinic service for the public schools and for the larger industries; community houses for social and health work; a medical club conducting a series of post-graduate instruction clinics and lectures on tuberculosis and allied problems.

This demonstration, which, you will note, is thorough going and adequate in scope, is now in its fifth year, and has been eminently successful, both in its working and in its results. It has been a lesson of nation-wide and world-wide importance. But it could not have been so successful, even with the financial backing it had, were it not for the co-operation of all classes of people in the town. Not only the medical men, but employers of labor, schools, societies, churches, individuals and clubs of all sorts pulled together intelligently—and that is what makes any movement successful.

Now we have in Nova Scotia people as intelligent and forward-looking as any in Massachusetts, as capable of co-operation and team work as capable of a wise enthusiasm and surely not so poverty-stricken that they cannot finance an adequate health program. I do not know how many such people there are in Nova Scotia; I do not know how many we have in Kings County; there always have to be a few to lead and inspire the others to follow.

If we cannot at present organize a broad scheme such as the Framingham demonstration what can be done right away as a step towards it? An excellent step was made in Nova Scotia in the starting of the Provincial Sanatorium seventeen years ago; another step was made by the opening of the Red Cross Clinics. A further good and necessary step is the one you are facing toward now—provision for the care of those who cannot afford sanatorium treatment. As you know the Provincial Government pays at least one-half to two-thirds of the cost of every patient's treatment at the Sanatorium (I am not referring to military patients of course). It seems to me that there should be an agreement made by which the Municipality or County would agree to make good the remaining portion in the case of needy patients—that is to supplement whatever the patient himself can afford to pay.

We are quite willing to take into the Sanatorium all classes and all stages of the disease but that will necessitate increased infirmary accommodation. We have pavilion space but what we should then need would be accommodation for bed (Continued on page seven)

Mr. Doane Hatfield was in Bridgetown last Friday and took part in an entertainment given by the Bridgetown Junior Dramatic Club in aid of the Bridgetown Memorial. The Bridgetown Monitor, in mentioning Mr. Hatfield's part in the performance says, "as an elocutionist he is undoubtedly one of the finest ever heard in Bridgetown."

A PLEASANT OUTING

On Friday evening last a party of Wolfville ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a sleigh-drive to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Belcher, at Upper Dyke Village, where a most enjoyable evening was spent. The roads were good and the night not too cold and the drive a jolly one. Arrived at their destination a cordial welcome was accorded the guests, after which card-playing and other social amusements were indulged in followed by a dance by the younger members of the party. Bountiful refreshments were served and done ample justice to and the function—one of the pleasantest of the season—came to an end about midnight, when the visitors took their departure after expressing their hearty appreciation of the good time given them by their host and hostess and other members of the family.

The service at the Baptist church last Sunday evening was conducted by the Acadia Y. M. C. A. Mr. Doyle gave an address on the Y. M. C. A. and what it meant and did for the students, while Mr. McLeod eloquently spoke on prayer as being the communion of man's soul with his God. Miss Evelyn Duncanson and Mr. Parsons rendered solos in their accustomed acceptable manner.

OUT IN FRONT

By the Pioneer Sergeant
IN our younger days
MANY things
PASSED before our SENSIBILITIES.
OF them all
WE think that
HALLY'S comet
WAS the most WONDERFUL.
IT has always BEEN a source of REGRET to us
THAT we will not
BE able to see it
AGAIN;
DUE to our
GREY hairs that SHOULD never be.
THE other evening
WE were travelling
UP town—
GOING west—
WITH head bowed in
A meditative mood
WHEN out of a
CLEAR sky—
APPARENTLY—
A bright light
SHONE above us.
WE were sober, too,
COMPARATIVELY speaking.
NOW—
WE should like
SOME expert opinion,
ASTRONOMICALLY.
WAS it Hally's Comet
OR merely a
STREET light
THAT appeared from
OUT the gloom.
IT hardly seems
POSSIBLE that it
COULD have been a
STREET light;
WE had only
PASSED one a
HUNDRED yards or so
BACK.
WE thank you.

PORT WILLIAMS HAPPENINGS

Mr. Justin Gates is at Westwood Hospital suffering from blood poisoning in the hand. Fortunately he had it attended to in time or the consequences would have been serious.

Mrs. Schaffner, of Lawrencetown, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) O. N. Chipman.

Miss Mabel Regan, who is studying nursing in Halifax, is spending a short vacation at her home.

Mrs. Bedford Chase, who has been very ill, is now well on the road to recovery.

Mr. G. A. Chase has returned from a holiday with relatives in Mass. Combining business with pleasure he spent a few days in Cleveland, Ohio, looking after the Cletrac Tractor business of which he is agent for the Annapolis Valley.

Miss Peg Cameron, of Amherst, is visiting her friend, Miss Hanson.

Capt. Faulkner spent a few days with his family last week, returning to his ship at Halifax on Saturday.

Mrs. F. Vaughan entertained a number of friends "At Home" on Friday last.

The entertainment put on by Institute members last Friday evening in Temperance Hall was a decided success, the neat sum of $62.00 being realized. The play was entirely original, "A Session in an old fashioned (Miscellaneous) School". Whether quite such a medley of dress, music, studies, brains and order ever was found before in one school room can be doubted but the effect was good and the teacher, Mrs. Goe. Starr, had reason to be proud of her school.

WOLFVILLE BOY MARRIES

A pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Brown, at the Woodlawn Methodist church, Dartmouth, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 22nd, the principals being Sadie Florine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eisner, of Woodlawn, and Roy Nathaniel, second son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Evans, of Wolfville. The church of which the bride was organist and a valued member in many ways, was tastefully decorated, the couple standing under an arch of smilax and white bells. The choir was in attendance and the church was crowded by their many friends, who, at the conclusion of the ceremony, came forward and wished them both happiness in their future life, while the organist played the wedding march. The direct relatives of both parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Evans left on the train next morning for a trip to New Brunswick. Upon their return they will reside at the home of the groom's parents, Florville, Wolfville. The many presents received were both beautiful and useful.

Mildred Harris Chaplin in her Greatest Success 'The Woman in His House'

One of the greatest motion pictures of the year is 'The Woman in His House', in which Mildred Harris heads an all-star cast. The production, which was six months in the making, is declared by many who have seen it to be a motion picture masterpiece, ranking with such popular photoplays as 'The Miracle Man', 'Daddy Long Legs' and others. In the cast with Miss Harris are Ramsey Wallace, Thomas Holding, George Fisher, Gareth Hughes, Winter Hall and little Richard Hedrick. The photoplay is founded on an original story by Irene Reels. The age-old theme emphasizing the divine power of mother love is effectively employed in this powerful and moving screen drama. It is the story of a neglected wife, a too busy and ambitious husband, a philosopher friend, and a baby. The work of Richard Hedrick in portraying the role of a youngster who is stricken with infantile paralysis is one of the outstanding points of this compelling photoplay. How mother love triumphs where science fails and straightens out the crooked limbs of the child is revealed in a fascinating story. In this production Mildred Harris has achieved her greatest success. The photography is wonderful; it was done by Pliny Goodfriend. In short, 'The Woman in His House' is one of the most remarkable pictures that is has been the good fortune of the Opera House to offer to its patrons for their entertainment. Nobody should miss this. It's chock full of love, laughter and tears.
